Effective Lessons.
Foreign languages are now taught with the aid of the phonograph in some schools. The machine reads off oratory, poetry and songs, while the children listen and note the accent and pronunciation.

Not Downed.
Pessimist—So all of your ideals are not smashed yet?
Optimist—No, indeed. I still believe in myself.—Detroit Free Press.

Best Flower Market.
Flower growers in the south of France and other favored climes find it profitable to send the products of their skill to British markets.

Physical Effect.
"It broadens one's horizon, so to speak, does it not," inquired the man who was studying municipal conditions, "to serve the city in the capacity of alderman?"
"I don't know about that," answered the other man; "but I have noticed that it generally broadens his equator."
—Chicago Tribune.

Ineffective Serum.
At the annual meeting of the Cancer hospital, London, the chairman of the medical committee stated that as a result of a visit to Paris by members of the surgical and pathological staffs, on invitation of Dr. Doyon, it could be stated that his serum was ineffective for the cure of cancer.

Londoners Getting Stately.
The social trend of the times in London is toward a return to old-fashioned stateliness. During last year girls were given the same good time that they had in the '60's and '70's, smart women no longer rule the world and "new rich" entertainers have given place to hostesses of the aristocracy. The return of the chaperone means the disappearance of "hooligan" girls. There has been a falling off in the matter of private parties and the craze for fancy balls seems to be a thing of the past.

Holy Name Society.
The letters of H. N. S. stand for Holy Name Society, an organization in the Roman Catholic church, the purpose of which is to teach reverence for the name of God. In several eastern cities these societies have been holding large parades to protest against blasphemy. In some parades as many as 30,000 men marched.

Burden Bearers.
Women and young girls do all the work of barters in Java. They carry heavy loads on their heads, balancing them with great skill. From the time a Javanese girl is able to walk she is taught the art of carrying things on her head.

A CHAFING DISH PARTY

Another pleasure that comes to the home lighted by Electricity is the use of an Electric chafing dish. As a means of amusement, the chafing-dish has more delights stored away for its possessor than almost any other article in the home. Moreover, it is useful. A dainty luncheon or after the theatre party, in fact most of the informal affairs at home are enhanced by its use. It can be attached to any electric light socket.

THE WESTFIELD LIBRARY

NEW BUILDING TO BE A REAL WORK OF ART.

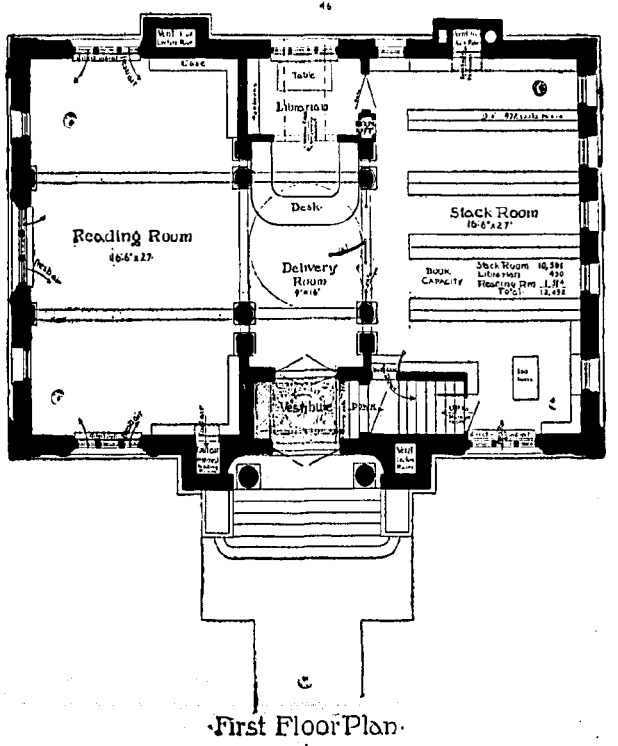

Excavation Begun, and Work to Be Pushed Quickly—Only Carnegie Library in Union County.

The Westfield Public Library, as shown by the accompanying picture, will be an unusually attractive as well as highly artistic structure. The building will occupy the choice site purchased especially for the purpose at the southwest corner of Broad and Elmer streets, directly opposite the grounds of the old, historic First Presbyterian Church.

This library will be the first to be erected in Union county under a Carnegie donation of $10,000. The town has agreed to support the institution by an appropriation of $1,000 yearly. The trustees are Salter S. Clark, president; William P. Tuttle, Jr., secretary; James O. Clark, Arthur N. Pierson, Hon. Randolph Perkins, George W. Cox and William E. Tuttle, Jr.

Thirteen designs were submitted in competition by architects, the award being made to W. Frank Bower, of Orange. The estimates come under the appropriation, allowing a few things to be added to the building to bring it up to the amount at the disposal of the trustees. Directly in front of the entrance is the delivery desk, back of which is the librarian's room, connecting through a gate with the stack room. On the left of the entrance is the stack room, and on the right the reading room, 16½x27 feet in size. Both of the these rooms are divided from the delivery room by Ionic columns and entablature. From the vestibule a staircase leads to the basement, and this staircase has a private entrance from the stack room, for the librarian's use. The entire trim of the main floor will be chestnut, stained to bring out the grain of the wood. At the end of the reading room will be a stone mantel of classic design. Back of the librarian's room will be a stained glass window, which will be in full view of the entrance. The reading room will be wainscoted and have a heavy beam ceiling. The top of the delivery room will be formed of the dome, which will be thirty feet from the floor, with stained glass ceiling light.

The basement contains a kitchen, toilet rooms, heater room, and a lecture room seating about two hundred. This lecture room will have an exit to Elmer street, as well as to the stairs to the main entrance, thus affording ample exit. The lot is about 60x200 feet, front-

Menelik's Empress.
Emperor Menelik of Abyssinia is the empress' fifth husband. No. 1 was a general under King Theodore, who put him in prison, where he disappeared; No. 2 got a divorce; No. 3 was also imprisoned by Menelik's predecessor; No. 4 was in possession when the lady took Menelik's fancy, but when "all obstacles had been removed," Menelik married her.

Athletics in China.
The other day China had its first great athletic meeting, when 3,000 students, from 47 schools, competed in various kinds of races and sports at Canton. In a booth on the ground was a hospital corps composed of 17 young Chinese doctors, each with the Geneva cross on his arms. So strenuous were the competitors that there were many cases to attend to.

OVER A MILLION DOLLARS TO JERSEYMEN!

THE PRUDENTIAL has paid in Industrial Cash Dividends to New Jersey People in the nine years from 1897 to 1906, the sum of $1,039,558. This money was paid in excess of the amounts called for in policies and illustrates how New Jersey People Benefit Through the Success of The Prudential.

Left-Handed Welcome.

The Bulletin is in receipt of a copy of the Pay Observer. Notwithstanding the fact that it has the appearance of being printed on a elder mill with three-penny nails for type, it is a credit to the town.—Geary (Okla.) Bulletin.

Cheap Specimens in Town.

Esau traded his birthright for a mess of pottage and got scooped. We know some fellows who could trade their birthright for a kettle of bean soup and make a crackled good bargain.—St. Mary's (Kan.) Eagle.

Mail by Rocket.

The mails are delivered in a unique way on one of the islands of the Tonga group in the Pacific, where the danger of approaching inshore renders it necessary for the steamer to use a skyrocket as a postman.

Simple Ceremony.

The Cherokee form of marriage is simplicity itself. The bride and groom merely clasp hands over running water, and this is emblematic of their future flowing on freely and happily.

Jolt for Idlers.

"You can keep the sun off with an umbrella," says the Billville Banner, "but you can't make a living by holding it in one hand and working with the other."—Atlanta Constitution.

Not Meet of Him.

Griggs—"Twas rush of Shakespeare not to sign those moot plays if he wrote them."
Briggs—"Twas rasher of Bacon."—Boston Transcript.

Counter Bore.

The worst bore in the world is the man who interrupts your story about the bright sayings of your children to tell about the bright saying of his children.

Having Our Own Way.

Some of the greatest sorrows in life have been the result of getting just what we sought after so diligently.

Poor Standby.

Luck is a good thing to trust to after you've done everything else to invite success.

Proving His Proverb.

"He makes me so angry," remarked Miss Butte; "he's forever remarking to me that 'beauty is only skin deep.'"
"And when you get angry," remarked Miss Chellus, "it just shows him how thin-skinned you are!"—Stray Stories.

Hurts Flour Trade.

The Chinese boycott is being felt by the flour men of California. Two years ago the Stockton mills were shipping 10,000 barrels a year to China. Now they are shipping only 4,000.

French Losing Politeness.

Paris dancing masters are lamenting the decline of French elegance in the art. They assert that the French are losing their old habits of politeness and as a dancing nation are declining.

Few Exceptions.

"Most every man has a rival in his wife's affections," remarked the sage of Philosopherville. "If it hadn't a poodle, it's a rubber plant."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Energetic Monarch.

The king of Italy is one of the most energetic of monarchs; he was taught by his tutor never to be idle for a moment, and was always punished if caught doing nothing.

Street-Car Air.

Tests made in Detroit street cars have shown that when the open air of the streets contained about one-third of 1 per cent. of carbon dioxide the air in the cars carried from 1.6 per cent. to 5 per cent. The average was less than 2 per cent. In other terms, the proportion of the chemical products of burning the oxygen of the air in human lungs was about six times as great as the normal figures, but still by no means dangerous.

Paired Names.

A Washingtonian whose wife presented him with twin daughters decided to name them Kate and Duplicate. Several years later twins were again born into the family—this time boys, who were duly named Peter and Repeater. A third time this strenuous opponent of race suicide was blessed with children twain, and this time he firmly named the wee lads Max and Climax.

Declined Title.

When J. Henniker Heaton, M. P., declined to accept the honor of knighthood the other day, on the retirement of the Balfour cabinet, he declined for the third time. The title was offered him in recognition of his services in carrying the imperial penny postage scheme in 1893 and introducing telegraphic money orders in the United Kingdom and the parcel post in France.

Signal Failure.

Mr. William Pattison, who was appointed chief constable of Scarborough, England, in 1865, and whose death was lately announced, declared, on taking up his duties, that he would make the town so clear of crime that he could hang up his watch on a lamp-post and it would not be molested. The night after this boast some one stole the post office clock.

Died in a Blizzard.

William Alexander, of Montrose, Col., disappeared 15 years ago. He was a large land owner, and after his death a lake was named after him. The other day his skeleton was found near the lake, with the skull of his dog lying on his breast bone. They had died together in a blizzard.

Starving Students.

Many of the 1,500 Russian students in Paris are said to be starving owing to the stoppage of the remittances which they have been accustomed to receive from their relatives at home. Most of them have been receiving $15 a month, but many have lived on as little as $10.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

"Jesus the Sinner's Friend"—International Sunday School Lesson for April 20.

LESSON TEXT—Luke 7:36-50. Memory verse, 47.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Thy faith hath saved thee, go in peace."—Luke 7:50.
Industry as that of last lesson, in middle of second year.

PLACES—In some towns in Galilee, perhaps in Capernaum.
SCRIPTURAL REFERENCES—Jesus' relations to sinners.—Matt. 1:21; 15:21; 18:12; Luke 5:31, 32; 9:59; 19:10; John 3:16, 17; 4:14, 42; 6:59. Jesus' relations to Pharisees.—Matt. 6:29; 9:11-14, 34; 12:1-7, 14, 28, 29; 15:1-29; 16:1-12; 19:3; 21:43-45; 23:13-23; 24:3-33; Luke 11:37-54; 14:1; John 3:1.

Comment and Suggestive Thought.
V. 36. "And one of the Pharisees." Simon by name (v. 40). "The Pharisee was not a convert to Christ's doctrine."

V. 37. "Behold!" The opening words imply that her presence created surprise.—Int. Crit. Com. "A woman in the city." Probably Capernaum; perhaps Nain or Magdala. "Which was a sinner." A notorious character, as the Greek implies. "When she knew that Jesus sat at meat: 'Her presence there is explained by the oriental custom of strangers passing in and out of a house during a meal to see and converse with the guests.'"

V. 37. "Brought an alabaster box." Flask. "Literally, an alabaster. Just as we call a drinking vessel made of glass a glass. Pity compares these vessels to a closed rosebud."

V. 38. "And stood (was standing) at His feet." "Thanks to thee, most blessed sinner: thou hast shown the world a safe enough place for sinners—the feet of Jesus, which spurn none, reject none, repel none, and receive and admit all."—Bernard.

"And did wipe them with the hairs of her head." "With a touch, she looses the hair, which it was shameful to let down in public, and, with the ingenuity and abatement of love, makes it a towel."—Alexander MacLaren. "And kissed His feet." The verb is a compound one, expressing tenderness of regard. "And anointed them with the ointment." This was the one act she had come of set purpose to do.

V. 44. "I entered into thine house." As an invited guest, to whom the host should have shown at least the common courtesies.

V. 45. "Thou gavest me no kiss." "To receive a guest at the present day without kissing him on either cheek as he enters, is a marked sign of contempt, or at least a claim to a much higher social position."—Tristram.

V. 46. "My head with oil thou didst not anoint." This also was an ordinary token of respect.
V. 49. "The Pharisee... spake within himself." Not daring to utter his thought aloud, but very likely proclaiming it in his sneering countenance. "This man, if he were a prophet: 'Not the worst thing he could have thought.'—Expos. Greek Test.

V. 40. "Jesus answering," the unspoken thought, and so proving His prophetic insight. "We almost see the half-sad smile flickering on the Teacher's lips."—Pulpit Commentary.

V. 41. "There was a certain creditor." Rather, money-lender. See it. V. "Which had two debtors." "The creditor is Christ, the two debtors are Simon and the woman."—W. M. Taylor, D. D.

V. 42. "And when they had nothing to pay." And told the creditor so, is implied. That is the plight of every sinner: "Nothing in my hand I bring." "He frankly." Freely; omitted in the R. V. "Forgave them both." As readily the large debt as the small; thus the ocean of God's love covers a mountain as easily as a molehill. "Which of them will love Him most?" Not of necessity, but probably.

V. 43. "I suppose." "The air of languid indifference with which Simon gave his judgment, as if the case supposed were too insignificant to awaken any interest in his mind, shows that he had no thought of its having a reference to himself."

V. 47. "Wherefore?" Because her actions prove her true repentance. "Her sins, which are many, are forgiven:" as you may see from the evident fact that "she loved much:" and has been proving this love by the deeds you have witnessed; while you, Simon, "to whom little is forgiven" (in your own self-satisfied thought), show this by loving and honoring Me little. This passage does not teach that love is the ground of forgiveness, but its result.

V. 48. "Thy sins are forgiven." Christ has been talking with Simon, and in large, philosophic terms which the woman might not understand. He would send her away with the comfort of this plain, direct assurance.

V. 49. "Who is this that (even) forgiveth sins?" Notice that Christ, so quick to answer Simon's evil thought of the woman, pays no attention to this evil thought of Himself, as if He were a blasphemer.

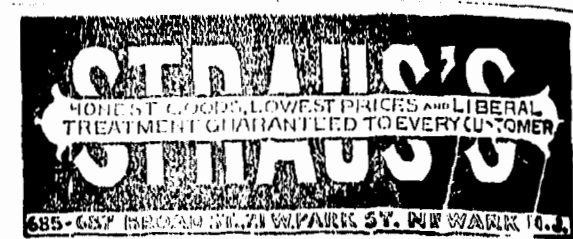

V. 50. "Thy faith hath saved thee." This saying is an indirect answer to the cavil of v. 49: "No word of mine, but thy faith, hath saved thee."

The Heart of the Lesson.
The condemnation of sinners carries with it the condemnation of ourselves.

Christ has forgiveness ready for all kinds of sinners. He was as willing to forgive the Pharisee his pride as the woman her impurity. A little child asked his mother if he could say what he liked to God. "Yes," said she. Then he prayed: "Dear God, love me when I'm naughty."

Christ wants us to show our love to Him. There is no better way of showing it than to tell others about Christ and His love for them.

Newark's Store Beautiful.

Gowns Full of Beauty.

MORE lavish praise has never been bestowed upon any showing of costumes than has been given our exhibits this season. Not only has the beauty of our higher grade gowns been extolled, but the charm of the moderately priced suits and dresses has been much commented on by visitors to the store.

True, the styles could not be much prettier than they are this season—the graceful Princess effects and the jaunty Etons showing the figure off to the very best advantage. Nevertheless careful selection from the great mass produced is necessary in order to place before you the best things the makers have created.

We believe that we present the most comprehensive collection of beautiful gowns to be seen in any store that you know of. The variety shown is not excelled anywhere, and you will find that the choosing here is much easier than in most of the big New York establishments.

Journey Round the Earth.

The time required for a journey round the earth by a man walking day and night, without resting, would be 428 days; an express train, 40 days; sound, at a medium temperature, 32½ hours; a cannon ball, 21½ hours; light, a little over one-tenth of a second; and electricity, passing over a copper wire, a little under one-tenth of a second.

High Liver.

Orin Steinberger, a well-known artist of Urbana, O., has lived all winter in the top of a majestic oak tree for his health.

Eyes on Boats.

The Chinese always paint an eye on either side of their junk's bows, so that the boats can see their way.

Poisonous Posies.

Cuba is a land of perpetual summer and of unending bloom, a fact which makes the island attractive to visitors from a colder region. But Cuba has its drawbacks, as some of the party of Americans who went there to place markers on the battlefields have discovered. A number of the party, including the wife of Rear Admiral Clark, were severely poisoned by flowers picked at Santiago. Many rarely beautiful "posies" grow in tropical regions, but it is not always safe to gather them.

Land of Sun.

Honolulu's floral parade on Washington's birthday serves to recall to Americans of leisure and wealth the fact that Hawaii also is a land of sun and admirably situated for a winter resort for those who do not care to endure the rigors of that season in this climate. Were all our winters like the one now closing, however, there would be little reason for any one seeking a milder climate.

In a Manila Hospital.

Patient to Pretty Nurse—Will you be my wife when I recover?

Pretty Nurse—Certainly.

"Then you love me?"

"Oh, no; that's merely a part of the treatment. I must keep my patients cheerful. I promised this morning to run away with a married man who had lost both his legs."—Manila American.

Cleans the Complexion.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup stimulates the liver and thoroughly cleanses the system and clears the complexion of pimples and blotches. It is the best laxative for women and children as it is mild and pleasant, and does not gripe or sicken. Orino is much superior to pills, aperient waters and all ordinary cathartics as it does not irritate the stomach and bowels. Sold by Frutchey & Hathaway.

THE SECRET OF LONG LIFE.

BY KENNETH HARRIS.

"Uncle Jake" Somerby pulled a thick twist of natural hair from his own curling from his pocket and crumbled off a pinpoint, observing, as he declined the sick Marylin Parsons offered him, that "these yer minnyface" tormentors weren't fit for a hawg to smoke." Parsons reddened from the obvious rebuff, but he caught Washington Hancock's eye and grinned.

"If I'd smoked the stuff you boys do I'd be dead long ago," continued the old man, picking up his mittens and pulling the lops of his cap over his ears. "You'll learn a right smart afore you're old as I am, an' the first thing you want to learn an' the last you're likely to is not to take anythin' into your insides which you don't know what it's made of. That's the secret o' keepin' peart an' hearty."

"We've all of us got that," said Hancock, reflectively, as the wheels of the Somerby wagon creaked slowly away. "What keeps Doc Simpson away from me is eatin' three meals a day an' between times whenever I get right hungry. That an' sleepin' nine hours keeps the bloom o' health on my cheek."

"Uncle Jake reminds me some o' ol' Cal Westerley over at Gouseneck," resumed Hancock, after a pause. "Cal's elost on to 90 now an' up to three or four years ago he done us good a day's work as any of the men he's hired. He'd get up on a wagon an' keep two of 'em pitchin' whilst he loaded and he'd be as dry as a chip an' breathin' easy an' them sweatin' like a sheriff at 'lection to kiver him up. He'd stand there ketchin' the hay right off their forks as it come an' scatterin' it with a shake an' a flip of his wrist right where it done the most good, an' a banterin' 'em."

"He's got it framed up that he's lived as long as he has because he allus worked hard right out in the field all his life an' never et as much as he wanted to an' never took a drink o' licker or smoked or chewed tobacco. I nester visit around in Gouseneck a right smart about ten or twelve years ago an' ol' Cal was never so happy as when he got me penned up where he could brag about how old he was an' tell me the way he done it, an' I'd listen awhile an' then I'd say, 'That's all right, Cal, but how about Mose Grigsby?'"

"He didn't smoke ner chew ner drink whisky, but he never got to be the age he was by not eussin' when I'd talk about Mose."

"Mose lived two mile east of him on the Tariko road an' he was a year older than what Cal was. Derndest ol' feller you ever seen—ornery as a mule, an' I reckon he never done nothin' in his life but drink an' smoke an' chew, 'ceptin' he was in the army a spell, an' that give him a pension of $18 a month, which he lavished on red licker. He'd eat like his legs was holler an' he never done a lick o' work an' the most of his time when he wasn't off on a spree he was settin' in a rockin' chair with his feet in the oven. He had two boys an' they run the farm between 'em an' Mose bossed the whole outfit. He'd got the rheumatiz so's he couldn't walk more'n to jest hobble, but he could ride, an' he'd make one of the boys saddle up a boss pension days an' off he'd go to town a-killin'. He'd come back the same way, only a-whoopin' an' hollerin' all times o' night."

"'Wash,' he'd say to me, 'If you want to live to be as old as I am drink all the licker you can hold when you start in. I'll right up. Don't never quit so long as you can steer the neck of a bottle to your mouth—an' don't strain yourself workin'.'"

"I'd mention ol' Cal, an' he'd say, 'Shucks! Cal Westerby's a kid to me. An' if he fought, blud an' died for his country the way I've done, where do you reckon he'd be by this time? An' Cal hadn't lived, nuther. He's jest be'n vegetatin'.'"

"I'd tell ol' Cal about that an' he'd 'low all the blidin' an' dyin' Mose ever done in the war never hurt him, an' he'd read pieces he'd cut out o' the papers about how whisky encouraged the rheumatiz. An' then he'd begin to tell about the time Mose was indicted fer boss stealin' an' hint that he hadn't got the papers to show for the nge he claimed."

"But an'ly Mose took sick after one of his sprees an' died. I seen him while he was sick one day an' he says to me, 'Wash,' he says, 'blame my cats if I don't think Cal Westerby hain't got the right end o' the stick. If I git out o' this, doggone my hide if I don't b'lieve I'll swear off drinkin' an' smokin'.'"

"I was by ag'in the day he died. One of the boys come out an' told me. 'I passed on an' went to ol' Cal's. 'Cal,' I says, 'Mose Grigsby died this mornin'.'"

"He looked at me a minit, an' then he says: 'The plague-taked o' scale-wag! I'm glad of it. I don't mean no harm to Mose,' he says, 'but, Wash, I've been a-studyin' intely an' I was thinkin' that Mose had lots o' fun anyway; an'—I was a-wonderin' if it 'ud hurt if I indulged a little once in awhile. He seemed to enjoy it. But I guess maybe I was right after all. What do you think, Wash?'"

"He looked at me kinder dubiousome. 'Ain't he dead?' I says. 'An' ain't you alive an' kidein'?"

"'Ya-as,' he says, 'but, Hash—I ain't reely as old as I make out—not quite. I aidget up four years on my age when Mose began makin' his brags, so there was reely five years between us.'"

HAWAIIAN OUTDOOR LIFE.

Conditions Nearly Always Favorable for Open Air Recreation.

Hawaii is an ideal place for outdoor life. Conditions for all sorts of recreation are most inviting. Good roads encircle the island of Oahu, with branches diverging to all points of interest. They are smooth and hard and broad and the grades are easy. Automobiles have become almost as popular as horseback riding, and that is saying a great deal for Hawaiians are very fond of horses.

The native horses are undersized, roly-poly animals, but wiry and possessed of good staying qualities. They can stand a lively gait over the hard roads as long as their riders care to keep it up. Many of the native women still cling to the old-fashioned riding habit, the Pa-u. This consists merely of several yards of cloth of some brilliant color wound around the body so as to form a short skirt with two ends covering the legs and extending to the ground. When riding at a gallop these loose ends stream out behind like wings, giving a picturesque effect. The natives are extremely fond of horse racing. The Hawaiian Jockey club has been a success since it was organized, in 1884.

Football, baseball, tennis, polo, cricket and golf are all popular. Nearly every one makes a fad of at least one of these games.

For aquatic sports Hawaii has been peculiarly favored. The steady trade winds enable sailing craft to make fast and certain voyages, which are never hindered by dangerous fogs or storms. For 20 years Honolulu has had an annual regatta. Swimming and diving contests and Japanese sunpan races are features of these regattas. Surf riding in native canoes and upon surf boards in ancient Hawaiian style is practiced all the year round at Waikiki, the great swimming beach of Honolulu.

The canoes are manned by expert natives, and the sport is most exhilarating to the passenger. Bathing is the surf boards for themselves. To ride to shore from the edge of the reef several hundred yards out upon the swirling summit of a great comb is a thrilling experience.

Fuel from Fallen Leaves.

In Paris a company has contracted with the municipal authorities for all the foliage to be derived from the trees of the public squares, gardens, streets and woods within the limits of the city. These leaves are to be compressed under high pressure, and will then be converted in a fuel which, it is claimed, will have a far greater calorific capacity than coal or any other fuel known.

Traveling Birds.

Sparrows, as a rule, nest anywhere, but the following two cases are perhaps as remarkable as any that can be found. A pair of sparrows actually built a nest in the rack of a train which performed a trip of 200 or 300 miles daily; while another pair attached their home to a busy ferry boat. In both instances a brood was successfully reared.

American Student Life.

Prof. William Ostwald, of the University of Leipzig, who has been lecturing in this country, gives his impression of American student life as follows: "The personal interest of the students, next to their studies, is concentrated alone on sport, which draws their attention altogether from intellectual or aesthetic pursuits."

Hard Treatment.

"God will not look for medals and degrees, but for deeds."—Robert Hall-ward.

Benjamin Franklin's memory is being honored to-day by appropriate exercises in both America and France. His rare genius and versatility were an exception to the general rule that one can not do many things well. His final triumphs over his earlier moral disabilities are an encouragement to all penitent sinners. His life is an illuminating example of the power of will over tendency, and therefore of the personal responsibility of the individual for his conduct in life.

Maxim Gorky ran against some maxims American that will prove a bit of a set back for his great work in behalf of the Russian people. Yet his personal indiscretions should not seriously injure the cause he advocates here. They may impair confidence in him as a leader, but ought not to be laid upon the people he seeks to help.

The warm weather has brought on a little exchange of courtesies between The Westfield Leader and The Cranford Chronicle. Editor Hankinson's parting shot at Editor Potter is this:

"As the editor of the Chronicle is invited to the five-dollar dinner, or at any rate has a ticket, we beg pardon for using the term 'eater' in speaking of the banquet."

This is Arbor Day, and by proclamation of the Governor should be dedicated to the planting of trees and flowers.

The Chandler Lecture.

Walter M. Chandler lectured on "The Trial of Jesus from a Lawyer's Standpoint" at the Presbyterian Church last Friday night before a good sized and interested audience. Candid criticism of the lecture compels the admission that the general treatment and manner of delivery were rather coarse, lacking the completely reverential attitude the subject demands, and which the speaker professed but did not entirely evidence. Mr. Chandler was instructive in his presentation of the facts, which were mainly a reproduction of other men's lectures on the topic. But his indulgence in certain flippant witticisms which he promised at the outset to avoid served to detract from the good effect of the presentation, as did also the conscious efforts to impress the audience with the extent of his own education and learning. The theme should suggest a modulated voice, an easy delivery, and a modest bearing. Instead Mr. Chandler used a highly pitched voice most of the time and indulged in mannerisms that were almost theatrical. The general result was harsh, and therefore disappointing to those to whom the subject is one of deep and reverential thought.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN RESIGNS.

NEW CH. SUPERINTENDENT SUB-PRIZES COUNCIL.

Council Will Try To Have Him Reconsidered. Park Commissioners Reappointed. That Ordinance Amended As To Fares.

The Town Council held a regular meeting last night and reappointed Hiram L. Fink and W. Edgar Reece Park Commissioners on account of their having failed to qualify under their first appointment. The Council received bids for the construction of the Mountain Avenue sewer extension and awarded the contract to James Caldwell Park of Cranford as the lowest bidder.

Quite a surprise was sprung on the Council by the presentation of the resignation of E. W. Chamberlain as Superintendent of Sewers. The Council did not seem to know anything about the reason for the resignation and voted today to table until next Friday night when they will meet to consider it. It is understood that efforts will be made to have Mr. Chamberlain withdraw his resignation, as he is considered to be a very competent man for the place.

Samuel Wright appeared on behalf of the hackmen of Westfield and requested that the proposed hack ordinance be amended so as to permit the hackmen to charge 25 cents a piece for passengers instead of only fifteen cents for additional passengers to the same destination. Wright said that the people did not object to paying the extra fare. The Council amended the ordinance accordingly.

A letter from Stratton Halsted, complaining of the dumping of garbage on Middlesex Street was received and referred to the Board of Health.

W. G. Peckham wrote the Council asking permission to tear down the building next to the Westfield Hotel and to construct an addition to the barn in the rear of the hotel and to drive over the sidewalk while constructing the new building. The Clerk was instructed to inform Mr. Peckham that no permission was needed to tear down the building owned by him and that permission to drive over the sidewalk could be obtained from the Town Clerk under the ordinance. The matter of constructing an addition to the barn was referred to the Fire Department Committee.

H. L. Abram's application for permission to erect a sign over the sidewalk in front of his office at the Standard Building was laid over until the sketch could be supplied.

The Westfield Real Estate Company requested that the Council take measures to re-adjust the drainage system on Broad Street between Harrison Avenue and Chestnut Street so as to stop the unlawful and damaging diversion of waters to their property on the south side of the street.

An ordinance to pave the southwesterly side of Lawrence Avenue was passed on first reading and May 21st was fixed as the date for a hearing on the application for a sidewalk on the southwesterly side of Summit Avenue from Park Street to Grove Street.

The Council will meet again next Friday night.

To Debate Public Utilities.

The next meeting of the Men's Club of the Congregational Church will be held in the church parlors, next Tuesday evening, when the following question will be debated: "Resolved, That it would be for the best interests of municipalities to own and operate their public utilities."

Affirmative, F. S. Taggart, W. E. Tuttle, Jr.; negative, R. V. Hoffman, A. L. Russell. An interesting debate is assured.

Preceding the debate proposed amendments to the Constitution will be taken up; the principal questions to be decided are as follows: Shall the organization be called "The Men's Club" or the "Men's League"? Shall we have a "Secretary-Treasurer" or a "Secretary" and a "Treasurer"? Shall the officers be elected at the May meetings? Shall the first meeting of the year be held in September or October? Shall the annual dues be continued at one dollar?

Following the debate a social half hour and light refreshments.

Second Regiment Plans.

The Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., has native work before it. On May 10 it will participate in the exercises attending the unveiling of a Soldier's Monument at Philippsburg and it is understood that the regiment will be ordered to Red Bank, Gloucester County, on June 28, to take part in the exercises in commemoration of the battle of Red Bank fought in the Revolution when the Continental troops defeated the British soldiers and drove them out of that section of New Jersey. On July 1st the regiment will go to Elizabeth to assist in the celebration at the unveiling of a Soldier's and Sailor's Monument. Two regimental drills will be held in the Trenton Armory and the regiment will go into camp at Sea Girt for one week beginning July 7th.

OBITUARY.

Little Elizabeth, the ten-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Floyd, died on Sunday morning after a short illness. The services and interment took place from the house on Elm street Tuesday morning.

Needlework Guild Exhibit.

The fifth annual meeting of the Westfield Branch of the Needlework Guild of America was held Monday afternoon in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, for the exhibit and distribution of garments to charities.

Mrs. James D. Clark, president of the guild, presided, one thousand nine hundred and ninety garments were distributed to the following institutions: Children's Country Home, Westfield; New York City Mission, New York; Dr. Danah's Hospital for women and children, New York; Dr. Twine's Hospital for Crippled Children, Newark; Newark Orphan Asylum Home, Newark; Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield; Elizabeth General Hospital, Elizabeth; and Miss Curry's Day Nursery, New York. About 150 garments were held as a reserve fund.

Mrs. C. M. Tremaine, Mrs. Stratton Halsted, Mrs. A. L. Russell and Mr. A. H. Still were elected as new directors. During the afternoon the guild was addressed by Mrs. M. A. Merritt, a trustee of the Newark Orphan Asylum Home; Mrs. A. Edward Baker, president of the Railway Guild, and Mrs. V. O. Davis, of the Children's Country Home. Mrs. Hurd, former president of the Nyack, N. Y., guild, was present.

Pretty Home Wedding.

A very pretty home wedding occurred last evening at the residence of Col. and Mrs. William S. Morrow on Elmer street, when their daughter, Isabella Bloom Morrow, became the bride of William Ridgeway Lynde. Dr. W. I. Stearns, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, of which both the bride and groom are members, performed the ceremony. The general color scheme was green and white. Promptly at 8 o'clock the Lutheran wedding march was begun by Miss Helen Baldwin at the piano, and the bridal procession entered the rooms. The bride's maids were Miss Jean Starr and Miss Edith V. Gilbert. Miss Starr wore white and pink mouseline de soie. Miss Gilbert's gown was white with shadow embroidery over pink silk. Miss Jane Morrow, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor, wearing Roseda green crepe de chine and lace and carrying white sweet peas. The matron of honor, Mrs. John Craig Morrow wore white net over green silk and carried pink sweet peas. Mr. John Craig Morrow was usher and Mr. Lawrence A. Clark, best man.

The bride's maids proceeded to the green and white embroidered bower, under which the ceremony was to be performed and carried back ropes of snailax on either side, making an aisle through which the bridal party proceeded, the bride leaning on the arm of the bridegroom, wearing a gown of white crepe de chine and lace, veil and orange blossoms, and carrying bride's roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held, when all present took advantage of the opportunity to congratulate the happy couple. Mr. and Mrs. Lynde left later for wedding trip to Boston. On their return they will reside at the home of Mrs. Lynde's parents on Elmer street.

Literary Circle Meets.

The meeting of the Literary and Social Circle held at Mrs. Hugh Maxwell's on Wednesday afternoon was especially enjoyable.

The paper on the Religions of Japan, written by Miss Elizabeth Briggs and read by Miss Ella Ferris, was very instructive and deserved the attention and applause it received.

The paper on Christianizing Japan, by Mrs. Elmer Atleek evidenced the spirit of devotion and enthusiasm shown by the native Japanese Christians in their efforts to win their friends and neighbors for Christ.

Miss Natalie Brainard rendered a piano solo with her usual charm and grace. The social feature of these meetings, which is always an attraction, was made especially interesting owing to the delicious wafers made by Mrs. Maxwell's mother, Mrs. Brainard, who is nearing her 80th birthday.

The next meeting is to be held on May 15th at the home of Mrs. George H. Byrd, 147 Kimball avenue, and promises to be one of special interest, and we hope that this date will be kept open by all the friends of the Literary Circle.

Guernsey-Burston Wedding.

At seven o'clock last Tuesday evening the marriage of Mary Mason Burston, daughter of Mrs. Amos C. Burston, to the Reverend Henry Hoadly Guernsey, the pastor of the Congregational Church here, was solemnized at the residence of Mrs. Burston, 224 Angell street, Providence, Rhode Island.

Reverend Edward Caldwell Moore, of Harvard University, a former pastor of the bride at the Central Congregational Church, Providence, officiated, assisted by Dr. James G. Vose, pastor emeritus of the Beneficent Congregational Church, J. Palmer Burston, the brother of the bride, gave her away.

Miss Burston's maids-of-honor were Miss Grace E. Burston, her sister, and Miss Alison N. Locke, of Jacksonville, Florida, her room-mate at Smith College, of which Miss Burston is a graduate.

Miss Louise Fiske, of Brooklyn, a cousin of the bride, and little Miss Mabel Porter and Miss Marion Harris, of Providence, were flower girls.

The best man was Burton J. Baldwin, a class-mate of Mr. Guernsey at Yale. The ushers were Rev. Albert E. Romback, assistant pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Providence, and Herman F. Bell of Bristol, R. I., chess-mates, Arthur A. Thomas, of Providence, a cousin of the bride, and Frederick S. Taggart, of Westfield.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white satin crepe, cut a la Princess, and trimmed with duchess lace. A bridal veil, held in place with orange blossoms, completed her costume. She wore a gold locket studded with diamonds, the gift of the groom, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses, lilies of the valley and spirea.

The gowns worn by the maids of honor or were of white mouseline showered with pink roses. They carried shower bouquets of pink roses.

The flower girls wore white embroidered tulle with pink ribbons and pink shoes and stockings. They carried baskets of pink roses which they scattered in the path of the bride.

Only the family and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony. Following the ceremony a reception was held, at which about two hundred guests were present.

Handsome gold cuff buttons were the gift of the groom to his ushers, and delicately wrought gold clasp pins the gift of the bride to the maids of honor and the flower girls.

After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Guernsey will return to Westfield and occupy Dr. Danforth's house on Kimball avenue.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF
St. Paul's P. E. Church,
First M. E. Church.

Gentlemen:—

It's sound sense that we tell you. It will cost less dollars to paint your church with L. & M. Paint, because more painting is done with one gallon L. & M. than with two gallons of other paints, and the L. & M. Zinc hardens the L. & M. White Lead and makes the L. & M. Paint wear like iron.

Any church will be given a liberal quantity free whenever they paint.

4 gallons L. & M. mixed with 2 gallons Linseed Oil will paint a moderate sized house.

Actual cost L. & M. about $1.20 per gallon.

J. E. Webb, Painter, Hickory, N. C., writes, "Houses painted with L. & M. 15 years ago have not needed painting since."

AN AMAZING ART-LIKE ACT.

A Whole Menagerie in One Prodigious Performance.

In The Frank A. Robbins & Co. All New Great Feature Shows, announced to visit Westfield on Wednesday, May 2nd., there is one act in the genre of spirited and varied programme that appears to fully justify the time-honored expression, "Alone worth the price of admission," and that is the one exploited as "The Trainers' Millenium Masterpiece." It embodies and successfully carries to a stupendous and wonderful climax a conception originating in the managerial brain of Mr. Robbins, and involving a greater expense and the prolonged exercise of more patience, courage and skill than any other arena exhibit has ever compassed or required. It introduces simultaneously in one arena some twenty different species of wild and domesticated beasts, including elephants, zebras, camels, water buffalo, llamas, dogs, goats, horses, ponies, bulldozers, donkeys, mules, monkeys, bears and sacred cattle, in rival illustrations of educated signification, from mastodon manoeuvres and mountainous merriment to uniquely quaint, cute and uproariously funny stunts. It suggests the living contents of Noah's ark including in a record-breaking gymnastic holiday.

WORK ON PANAMA CANAL.

What Has Been Accomplished in the Big Cut Up to the Present Time.

One would think from what has been written and said about the Panama "ditch" that little or nothing was being done to "make the dirt fly," that all effort was being concentrated on adding the isthmus of the yellow fever mosquito, getting forces of men, etc. But photographs taken in the latter part of January show that actual excavation work is being done, too. They indicate, says the New York Tribune, that a beginning has been made, that American steam shovels have replaced the antiquated and uneconomical French machines and with relentless energy are daily chewing their way further and further into the sides of the Culebra cut. The great of the giant shovel, the sharp tip, tap, of the power drill, the rumble of underground explosions, are not unfamiliar sounds along the canal route. Upward of 3,000 men are employed on the excavation work.

At the present time, between Olds and San Pedro Miguel, which means the Culebra section, 17 steam shovels are at work. They are taking out 5,000 cubic yards a day. Last year over a million cubic yards were removed by eleven machines. It is expected that eventually 100 of these shovels will be tearing out the roots of the jungle growth which has covered the workings of the French company, and burrowing down to the level which is to be the bottom of the canal.

Before the decision was made as to the kind of canal to be built, the work of the shovels was confined to the cutting of levels, so that a large number of the great diggers could be set at work, and for the tracks for moving the rock and earth. This work has to be done carefully, for carelessness in the location of grades and tracks and shovels would leave a gap for the swallowing up of a few millions of money that might be saved, and the waste of time as well. By arranging the tracks so that the cars will all run down grade when loaded much can be saved. In order to efficiently handle the material, it is necessary to lay tracks along the bottom of the cut for its entire length, for otherwise the time would come when it would be necessary to elevate the earth from 50 to 500 feet at the sides in order to get it out.

Three of the 17 shovels are engaged in the essential task of making cuts for double tracking the Panama railroad. This work is necessary, for the debris from the cut and the supplies must be moved quickly. The double track for the rapid movement of trains is as important to the life of the work as blood vessels are to the human body. Without a good railroad, the work would have to cease, as it would be squandering money simply to deposit the earth so near that it might have to be moved again. The lack of a double track has greatly hampered the work. As soon as the trackage facilities are sufficient to handle a larger amount of material than at present, many more steam shovels will be set up and put at work.

Married in Handcuffs.
The unusual spectacle of a bridegroom appearing at the altar handcuffed has been seen, according to a contemporary at Monterey, an Italian village. The bridegroom, an Italian, was undergoing a long sentence for burglary, and recently prevailed upon the governor of the prison, to whom he stated he had committed the crime for the sake of his fiancée, to allow him to marry. Two gendarmes in uniform acted as witnesses, and guardians at the same time. At the church door the young bride and bridegroom parted with heavy hearts.

Chronic Bronchitis Cured.
"For ten years I had chronic bronchitis so bad that at times I could not speak above a whisper," writes Mr. Joseph Coffman, of Montmorency, Ind. "I tried all remedies available, but with no success. Fortunately my employer suggested that I try Foley's Honey and Tar. Its effect was almost instantaneous, and I am now cured of the disease. On my recommendation many people have used Foley's Honey and Tar, and always with satisfaction." Sold by Frutchey & Hathaway.

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, April 19, 1906, at 2:30 p. m.

The meeting was called to order by the clerk, and roll call showed all members present except Director King and Freeholders Connolly, Kline and Melsel. Owing to the absence of the director, the clerk called for nominations for director pro tem, and Freeholder Krouse nominated Freeholder Cady. There were no other nominations, and Freeholder Cady was unanimously elected as director pro tem.

The minutes of the previous meeting reading of bills being omitted were on motion approved as read.

Union County, New Jersey, Elizabeth, N. J.

We, the undersigned, respectfully petition your honorable body to build a large culvert or bridge on Leland Avenue where it drains what is known as the Cole property, between East Second Street and Midway Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The present culvert is much too small, and during heavy rains the water is backed up over a large area of ground which is now being developed into building lots, and a number of dwellings are to be erected this spring on this property.

Trusting you will have the culvert inspected, and that you will comply with this request, we are

Very respectfully yours, Elston M. French, Highland Park Realty Co., John I. Brower and eighteen (18) others.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse, received and placed on file.

The following communication was presented and read:

Short Hills, N. J., April 3, 1906.

To the Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J.: Gentlemen—Under instructions of the Township Committee of Springfield, N. J., we wish to install a fire hydrant on Westfield Avenue, at the corner of Brook Street. This will make it necessary for us to extend our main 100 feet southward along Westfield Avenue, and we respectfully make application for your permission to do this work.

We are ready to comply with whatever rules govern such work, and would appreciate a permit at an early date.

Respectfully,
(Signed) Stewart Hantshorn, proprietor Short Hills Water Works, per E. G. Laveng, Supt.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse, received and referred to County Road Inspector, with power.

Elizabeth, N. J., April 5, 1906.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J.: Gentlemen—Your committee appointed to examine the condition of the bridge over the raceway on Madison Avenue in Rahway, would respectfully report that they duly and carefully examined the said bridge, and found it in very bad condition.

Your committee would therefore recommend the construction of a new concrete arch bridge at said point, with a 70-foot span 75 feet long, at a cost not to exceed $100.

Adolph H. Gruener, S. P. T. Wilbur, Committee.

Freeholder Wahl moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

(Signed) John F. Wahl, W. H. Swain, Committee.

Freeholder Darby moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

(Signed) Chas. J. Jensen, W. A. Westphal, Dennis S. Murphy, Committee.

Freeholder Gruener moved the adoption of the foregoing resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

NEW BUSINESS.
By Freeholder Cady: Resolved, That a committee of three (3) be appointed to confer with a like committee of Morris County in regard to the advisability of building a new bridge over the Passaic River at Elkhwood, the committee to report at our next meeting.

Attached to the foregoing resolution was a letter from W. T. Kirk, attested by St. John Clark, consulting engineer, stating that the present bridge was an excellent one of its kind (wooden), but did not meet present requirements, and probably would not last much longer; also advising "that a new bridge be built according to modern standards" as soon as practicable.

On motion of Freeholder Swain, the resolution was adopted without dissent, and Director pro tem. Cady appointed the following committee, viz.: Freeholders Swain, Wahl and Melsel.

By Freeholder Gruener: Resolved, That the Committee on Rahway Drawbridge be authorized to make a contract with George Ball, as bridge-tender of the Milton Avenue drawbridge in Rahway, for the term of one year from April 1, 1906, at a salary of $200 per annum.

QUININE AS A CIVILIZER.
Valuable Aid to the First American Troops in the Philippines Islands.

In the outset of trying to establish friendly relations, ill luck befell. Simultaneously with the Americans there appeared amongst the Moros the most fearful of all diseases, the Asiatic cholera, and straightway it was charged upon us, writes R. L. Bullard, in Atlantic. The white men were in league with the Cholera Man, and had brought his devils to destroy the Moros. My few friends dropped away out of sight, whence they had come. Prowling bands, even lone Moros, beset the trails and camp, lying in wait and attacking with fury and bitterness lone sentinels and small parties. A single old datto, Akomang, stayed. From his seacoast village he had looked wider upon the world, and was wiser than his fellows. I did not need to tell him, for he easily saw for himself, our mortal terror of the cholera whose cause we called germs, he devils. He did not, however, understand why we were not dying like the Moros. I showed him the soldiers boiling their water, and told him that before drinking we thus drove the cholera forth from the water in which it lived. To my surprise he never flinched at the statement, he swallowed it whole; this truth so hard of acceptance among wiser men found ready belief with this savage. Long afterward I knew why. It agreed with the Moro religious theory that all diseases are but devils that have slipped from the outside into the body. Our theory and theirs, so different, yet the same, proved a first bond, something common between white man and brown. Akomang told the other Moros what just theory the Americans had of the cholera, and how the awful disease had killed but few Americans. In a short time my friends began to come back with him, bringing all the ill of human flesh for cure by the advice of the white man. In whose medical theories they had quickly acquired confidence. Thenceforward medicine, and especially quinine, became my ally, esteemed above right, reason, principle, and, upon occasions, even above force.

MOTHERS OF WESTFIELD Are Your Children Thin, Puny and Ailing? If So Read This.

"Vinol will make children strong, robust and rosy or we return your money. Is there a mother in Westfield who will ignore such a generous offer as this? You risk not one cent. We pay for all the Vinol the child takes if it does no good."

There are plenty of children all around us who are thin, puny, ailing and tired all the time. Don't want to do this, and don't want to do that. Do not blame the children; they have no strength, no blood, no vitality; rapid growth takes all their strength.

Vinol is just what your child needs. It is a delicious cod liver oil preparation, and children love it. It creates strength, makes rich, red blood and vitality as nothing else can, and after a severe illness there is nothing that will build your child up like Vinol.

The following letter is only one of hundreds which we have received from mothers telling what Vinol has done for their children.

Mrs. E. M. Oswalt, of Mansfield, Ohio, writes: "My little daughter became so poorly that I was obliged to take her from school. She was thin, no appetite, tired all the time and weak. We had tried several medicines without benefit. Since taking Vinol, however, she is as well as ever; she has gained in flesh, has rosy cheeks and good appetite and is going to school every day."

We want to say to every mother in Westfield that Vinol will build your little ones up into strong, robust, healthy children. We have never sold anything equal to it in our store for this purpose, and we will return your money if it fails." Frutchey & Hathaway, Drug-ists.

SHE GOT HAIL COLUMBIA.

American Girl Was the Cause of a Ship Being Quarantined in Manila Bay.

Did you ever hear how a ship of an army girl held up a ship for ten days in Manila? Well, she tells it herself. It seems that her father was commanding a regiment in the Philippines and her mother was in Manila. This girl went over to Hong-Kong on a trip, and a very enjoyable one it was. While there she received a cable from Mrs. Taft which said: "Bring me an 'amah.' " Now, an "amah" is a Chinese nurse girl. "This young lady went out and engaged nine to meet her at the dock the day the ship sailed. She was a very wise young woman and guessed that most of them would not show up.

Perhaps she had lived in Washington and learned how the faithful (?) colored servant promises five times over to come the next day at nine o'clock and is never heard of again. When the ship sailed there was one Chinese woman out of the nine on hand and our heroine took her aboard as a maid, scented quarters for her and all was lovely until the ship steamed into Manila bay. Then it was found that Chinese exclusion laws prevailed and the amah could not land. Moreover, Chinese cholera was suspected to be concealed about the amah and no one else could land.

"There we were," said the young lady, "out there in Manila bay and the whole ship load of people giving me and the amah 'hail Columbia.' I begged and pleaded with the officers to let me get off because I was missing several parties. I told them I had brought the amah for Mrs. Taft, but they said it didn't make any difference—the governor of the islands could not evade the laws. Well, they fixed it up some way. I think she came in as my personal servant or something. Anyway, after being held up ten days we were allowed to go ashore and the amah went to Mrs. Taft. But I tell you I was the most unpopular person in the orient for that ten days."

Panama Death Rate.

In 1882, the second year of the French occupancy of Panama, says Country Life in America for March, the death rate was 112 per 1,000, and the French had a force of only 1,900 men. In August, 1905, the second year of our occupancy, in a force of 12,000 men there were eight deaths, or two-thirds of a man to every 1,000. We have sent the death rate down from 112 to eight by vigilant sanitary precautions.

Municipal Bake-Off. Of every $100 that a New Yorker pays in rent, it is estimated that $12.25 goes into the pockets of man-made "servants."

SHELLS FROM HONOLULU.

New Fashion in Necklaces Invented by Women of Hawaiian Islands.

What do you think the girls are wearing now? Necklaces of shells, says the New York Sun.

They come from Honolulu and are as beautiful as they are cheap, which is saying a great deal in this era of exorbitant prices, for they cost only $1.50 each. Nothing could be more beautiful in color than these island chains, and they measure about two yards in length, making it possible to wind them three times about the neck.

Every pastel shade is represented and the combination of wonderful blues and greens, purples, pale yellows and luscious rose tints are calculated to put a Queen Trigger fish to shame. These necklaces look particularly well on white gowns and blouses, and are daintily exquisite.

"The shells are so small and so wonderfully alive with color that the casual observer wonders what on earth they are. They are still uncommon enough to attract much attention, for they are obtainable only through a special agent. They make especially pretty fan or brooch chains and are most durable.

Insular Loyalty.

The returns coming in go to show that the memory of the Father of his Country is revered in a widening circle. Washington's birthday was celebrated quite as fervently and elaborately in Hawaii and the Philippines as anywhere in the United States of America.

Philippine City Destroyed.

Tacloban, capital of the Island of Leyte, has been destroyed by fire. The (flamela) loss is reported to be $600,000. Tacloban was the fifth city of the Island. Government assistance will be rushed.

Wheeler in Blue.

When the late Gen. Wheeler was visiting in Montgomery an old Confederate cavalryman, who fought under him in the civil war, met him. He looked Gen. Wheeler over for a few moments, feasting his eyes on the general's new uniform. At last, scratching his head, he said slowly: "Gen. Wheeler, what in h—l do you think Jubal Early will say when he sees you walking into heaven in a blue uniform?"

ELIZA AND HER HUSBAND.

BY BARRY PAINE.

"Eliza," I said, "I am going to but to you rather a curious question. What would you do if I fell overboard, or if I fell in love with another woman?"

"That's a nice sort of a question to ask," said Eliza. "Sunday afternoon, too. What next? I wish you'd get on with your tea, for the girl's waiting to eat and can't do so till she's done it."

"And I am to choke myself to oblige my own servant. Very well, I require nothing more, and if I did I should certainly refuse to take it. Perhaps you would wish me to black her boots also."

"Don't be so silly. I promised her she should go to her married sister's this afternoon. When you're asked to do anything why can't you give a civil answer?" At this moment the girl came in. When she had retired with the tea things I turned to Eliza.

"You say that I cannot give a civil answer. I will not go into that, but I should like to remind you that a few moments ago I put a question to you and could get no answer whatever."

"Oh! what was that?"

"I asked you what you would do in the event of my falling overboard, or in love with another woman."

"That nonsense? There was nothing to answer."

"It is true that my principles are strict. Perhaps I might also lay claim to a strong will. But I should hesitate to say that such a thing couldn't happen. There are storms that sweep away all—everything, in fact."

"I daresay. But you're not the stormy sort, you know."

"What right have you to say that?"

"I've been married to you long enough to have found out if you had been. You're the quiet and respectable kind."

"Under a quiet and respectable exterior there may be a good deal hidden. At the office, for instance, I am supposed to have rather a remarkable control over my temper."

"Ah!" interrupted Eliza. "They should have heard you at dinner, today."

"If you mean what I said about the way in which the sprouts were cooked or, to be more accurate, ruined—there are times when a man must speak out if he calls himself a man at all."

"Yes, but he needn't go slopping the gravy all over the—"

"Stick to the point, Eliza. Try to stick to the point. Just as I can and do break out in other ways. I am only human. I have never pretended to be more than that. It is quite possible that I might form some mad and overpowering passion for another woman."

Eliza seemed to think it over. And then, greatly to my surprise and annoyance, she smiled.

"All right," she said. "You tell me when that happens. If ever I did die of laughing it would be then; I'd have a few friends in to see it."

"I fail to see," I replied rather sternly, "that the wreck of three lives is any matter for amusement."

"Wreck of your grandmother's ducks," exclaimed Eliza. "Why, think what you are. Think what your age is. Why, look at yourself in the glass and don't talk such silliness."

Why, think what you are. Think what your age is. Why, look at yourself in the glass and don't talk such silliness."

"That will do, Eliza, you have said quite enough. Possibly, when you are quieter, even you will think that you have said a little too much. And this," I continued in a bitter way, but quite patient, "this is Sunday! The day of rest. Ha! And peace. Oh, ha, ha! I come home after a hard week's work. My favorite dish of vegetables is ruined by what I call criminal carelessness, but I am not even allowed to make a few remarks about it. My tea is out to suit the convenience of a mere domestic servant. That's all right. The master of the house is of no importance, of course. Keeping my temper, I try to start an interesting subject of conversation. What is my reward? I get a string of insults, ending with a rude and offensive insinuation as to my personal appearance. And I am supposed to stand it." (Here, I will admit, I grew rather warmer.) "I am expected to put up with it. There you're mistaken. I am hanged if I—"

"Hold on," said Eliza, picking up the book she had been reading, "you can finish that to yourself. I am not going to stop in the room to be sworn at."

"Mistaken again," I said, getting a little quieter. "I never said that you were, I said that I—"

She went into the bedroom, shut the door and locked it.

"Eliza," I said, through the key-hole, "I must ask you to control your temper and—"

At this moment the front door bell rang and Eliza immediately opened the bedroom door again.

"That's Miss Sakers," she said, "and the girl's gone to her married sister's. What are we going to do. Are you going to open the door to her or am I?"

"Neither," I said. "I am going out for a short walk. Naturally, if I find Miss Sakers on the doorstep I shall ask her in and escort her to the drawing-room."

Having said that I was going out for a walk, I had, naturally, to be as good as my word. Although I was back ten minutes before church time they had already left. This annoyed me so much that I went straight to bed.

It was one of those gloomy, trying days that you get sometimes.

A RUNAWAY GIRL.

BY V. LYMAN.

Tom and Della were not old enough to marry, anyway. She was only 16 and Tom 18—just a pair of foolish little snips who should have been in school.

But they loved—oh, how they loved! Their passion was like a fire kindled with gasoline, but I do hope it lasted a little longer.

Tom's rather than the stumbling block. Somehow, he couldn't be satisfied that the affection existing between these two sweet young things was anything more serious than "puppy love," as he called it. (It is needless to remark that he was an old dog who had not forgotten his puppy days.)

The crisis came when Tom's father peremptorily forbade him to talk of marriage for three years. "You'll be 21 then and may be able to support a wife and family."

Tom's heart rose in wrath, but he knew it was useless to argue the case. That very day he hitched up the extra team and drove to town to tell Della the worst. And Della's heart went up in wrath—just to be with Tom's.

"I tell you, sweet one, we'll not stand for such treatment. Three whole years! Just think of it!"

"Yes, and you might marry some one else in that time, my own dear boy," Della was crying softly.

"Darling, don't cry. If you'll come with me to Tinkumville right now we'll show them—we'll—"

"Oh, Tom, I couldn't run away."

"Why not—you would be with your Tommy."

"Oh—oh—because—"

Tom's pleadings prevailed and the afternoon train carried the young lover to Tinkumville. Arrived at the station there, Tom put Della in a bus and directed the driver to let her out at the home of Rev. Job Smith. Then Tom went to the courthouse and asked for a license. As good luck would have it, Tom ran across a friend who was willing to perjure himself for the sake of seeing the fun.

With his license in his coat pocket and his friend at his side, Tom hurried to the minister's house. The preacher opened the door and invited them in. Tom looked anxiously around as he entered the parlor.

"Is—Is Miss Della Wilson here?"

"No; but are you Mr. Carson?"

"Yes, sir."

"I had a telephone call from Brother Jones, the Methodist minister, just now, asking for you. I'll call him up."

Rev. Jones responded promptly and Tom took the receiver. A faint, seared voice came to him over the wire.

"Is that you, Tom?"

"Yes, this is me, dar—yes—"

"Oh, Tom, you must come right over here; hurry, and don't let anybody see you. Come through the alleys—I did; I'll explain when you get here—only hurry."

Tom dropped the receiver on the hook, grabbed his friend by the arm and hurried away, leaving a puzzled and empty-handed preacher staring from the doorway.

In a busy Missouri county seat it is no easy matter to walk live blocks, on a pleasant afternoon and "don't let anybody see you. But few they were who saw Tom and his friends as they scudded through the alleys and crossed the streets where wagons and teams were thickest.

Up the front steps of the parsonage they bounded just as the front door opened. A trembling little girl wrapped her arms about Tom's neck and burst into tears. Tom soothed her, and telling her he had the license and all would be over in a few minutes and she would be his'n and he her'n, led her into the parlor, where Rev. Jones awaited them.

"From what Miss Wilson tells me I think we should be in some haste if we would have no interruptions," the minister said, as he examined the license. A merry twinkle lurked in his eye and throughout the ceremony he seemed on the verge of a risible collapse.

When it was all over Mrs. Jones and a neighbor woman who just dropped in to see the dear young things jump the broomstick, left the room. Tom and his bride sat in the big settee and Della turned a flushed and happy face to her husband.

"Oh, Tom! I had the awfulest time. Just after that 'bus left the depot a big wagon with three or four men in it drove right up beside the 'bus. I looked out and saw a great big sign the whole length of that wagon, and it just said, 'A runaway girl.' Oh, I was so scared! I just jumped out of that 'bus and took down the alley and never stopped till I came out up here at the corner, and I asked a man where the preacher's house was, and he directed me here."

The minister's door opened and a green handbill was thrust into the room. Tom picked it up and read:

A RUNAWAY GIRL.

At the Opera House for Night.

35-STAIRS-35.

But as the first glaring line struck Della's eye she sprang to the door and to the young man who, with a bag of advertising matter under his arm, was going down the steps, she cried:

"You're only wasting your time now, young man; we're done married!"

"I wouldn't care so much," she said as she came back to Tom's side. "If mamma had telephoned and stopped us, but I think it's mean to have to be posted just like a—a—stray—cow."

Tom and Della were living in a couple of rooms at the farmhouse the last I knew of them, and I hope they "lived a happy ever after."—Kansas City Star.

Maple Frosting.

Two cups maple sugar, 2 1/2 cups of maple syrup, one cup of water if the sugar is used, whites of three eggs.
Place the sugar and water in a stew pan and boil until the syrup will fall from the spoon in threads. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth.
Pour the hot syrup into the eggs slowly, beating vigorously. When it becomes too hard for the beater, take a spoon and beat until it is thick enough to spread. Spread between each layer and on top and sides. An excellent chocolate frosting can be made by adding a tablespoonful of best chocolate to this mixture when warm.

New Lounging Robe.

new lounging robes the pretty fashion of indicating a girly by means of tucks, or by shirring, is varied by a thousand treatments. Sometimes the girly outlines boast high points directly in front and in back, given by tucks, these very tucks, perhaps, inset with odd medallions of lace.

The Standard and Watson's.

The leading exponent of Jeffersonian Democracy, edited by Hon. Thos. E.
Watson, of Georgia, the father of rural free delivery; author of "The Story of France," "Life of Napoleon," "Life and Times of Thomas Jefferson," "Bethany" and other books. Mr. Watson was the People's Party nominee for Vice-President in 1896, and for President in 1901. He is to-day heading a middle-class reform movement which is bound to sweep the country in a short time.

Watson's Magazine is not a Socialist publication. It does not stand for collective ownership of all the means of production. Mr. Watson believes in public or government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones; in municipal ownership of street railways, gas, electric lights, water works, etc.; and he believes in private ownership of all industries not natural monopolies.

The middle class—the home owners, farmers, small business men and property owners—won Jefferson's victory in 1800; won Jackson's victory over Nick-Biddle's money power in 1822; won Lincoln's victory in 1860. But each time after the flush of victory had died away, they became careless of their rights and went to sleep. They have slept a good portion of the time since 1860, but—

Watson's Magazine is waking them up. Another great victory is in the air.
Keep in touch with the movement.

FOR THE NEW BABY.

Nowadays All Articles for Layette
May Be Bought Ready-Made and at Reasonable Prices.

"The range between necessities and luxuries for a layette is so wide," says the Lilliputian Daznar, in speaking of the new baby, "that a list of the most necessary articles only can be given, and the mother must decide upon the quality and number of each of the garments. Bands, shirts, pinnies, blankets, flannel wrappers, night dresses,
flannel wrappers, dresses, blankets, socks, nappies, and bibs are the essentials, while there are many other garments and articles of wear that add materially to the comfort of both mother and babe. Upon the quality and quantity of these garments and the additional bits of daintiness which every mother longs to add to her baby's belongings will depend the cost of the outfit. These little garments can now be had ready made, so cheap in price and so daintily fashioned, that in many cases it is unwise for the expectant mother to attempt the fashioning of the tiny garments with her own hands. For both her own and the baby's sake she should carefully avoid all confining occupations and strive to increase, instead of exhausting, her strength by every available means. It is best, too, not to get too many articles of each kind, as baby will grow so fast that others will soon be called for, and it would seem wise to begin with necessities, adding others according to our like, as the darling demands them. Nearly everything, now, can be had ready made, and from the plainest to the finest, at reasonable prices."

Blind People as Gas Consumers.
"When it comes to consuming gas in large quantities blind people take the lead," said an inspector of the gas company. "I know two families where both husband and wife are blind. Every jet is turned on full tilt in these homes at night and is kept going at that rate clear up to 12 o'clock. And that partially for light is not a whim peculiar to these two couples. All blind people feel that way. They demand the light, and in all private homes and institutions where the blind are cared for the gas bills vouch for their strange fancy."

WILLOW GROVE.

At the Sunday School on Sunday afternoon the Rev. Charles Frederick, of Westfield, was present and gave a very pleasing address.

The Easter Sunday evening service, in charge of Dr. Stearns, was very well attended. His subject, "They Were Glad When They Saw the Lord," proved very interesting and most profitable.

The funeral services of Mr. John Lambert were held from the Willow Grove Chapel on Monday afternoon,
April 16, at 2:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Eagles entertained a large party from Newark and New York over Sunday.

Decollete.

"What did she have on at the theater?"

"A huge hat."

"What else?"

"I don't know; I was sitting directly back of her and none of the rest of her costume showed above the chair back."—Houston Post.

Sad Blow.

"Johnny's in love with his teacher, isn't he?"

"Well, he was, but he's feeling somewhat squelched now. He wrote her a love letter and she gave it back to him with all the mistakes in spelling corrected in red ink."—Cleveland Leader.
