Notes:—The usual hours of services in the several churches will be found in the Church Directory in another column.

Congregational Church.

The Rev. Henry Handley Guernsey, pastor, will preach in the Congregational Church Sunday morning on "Laying Aside Every Weight," and in the evening on "The Honor of Vex."

The young people will meet in the church parlors this evening with the pastor to talk over winter plans and spend a social hour.

The annual meeting of the Society will be held next Wednesday evening.

Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Dr. W. I. Stearns, pastor, will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning and evening on "The Honor of Vex." The evening sermon will be especially addressed to Fireside Council, R. A., who will attend in a body.

Fireside Council has accepted an invitation from Rev. W. I. Stearns, pastor of the Presbyterian church, to attend evening service Sunday, Dec. 2. Members, past members, and all Americans in Westfield are cordially invited to meet in the Council room Sunday evening, December 2, promptly at half-past seven o'clock and march in a body to the church.

St. Paul's Church.

The usual services will be held on Sunday. The Rector will preach at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Attention is again called to the change of hour of the evening service; it has already resulted in a largely increased attendance.

Excavation for the new Parish House building was begun on Monday. The dirt taken out is being placed on the ground around the Church, to enlarge the slopes and to give them a better grading.

Methodist Church.

Communion service will be observed at the Methodist Church on Sunday morning, when new members will be received. Dr. Wright will preach both morning and evening. There will be special music in the evening.

Regular Epworth League service Sunday evening at seven o'clock. Topic: "Temptations and How to Meet Them." References 1 John 2:15-16 and James 1:13-15. Leader Warren W. Woodruff.

The social held by the League at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pearsall last Thursday evening was well attended and enjoyed by all. There were readings by Miss Natalie Brainard and Mrs. Ralph Pearsall which helped to make the evening pleasant.

A NEWSPAPER OF 1783.

On the Eve of Evacuation Day.

For one hundred and twenty-three years a little New York newspaper has been tucked away with some other headed papers and documents, in one of the numerous drawers of a gentleman's study, that has been handed down from father to son into the fourth generation. With the Highboy, it travelled in 1805 to Albany, thence to Newburgh, to Warwick, N. Y., and then, about thirty years ago, back to New York, its native city, where, yolked with age, but perfectly legible, it tells the tale of 1783.

It was published every Tuesday and Friday, at "No. 7 Water street, between the Coffee House and Old Slip." The front page of a 1906 daily, folded in half, would give its size, about 11x16, four pages, four columns to a page. This is an historical issue, dated November 7, 1783, when peace had been declared, and the loyalists were on the eve of departure. There seemed to be a question on the part of some loyalists, whether it were better to depart in peace, or bear the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune, and stay. On the second page a parody on Hamlet's famous soliloquy, argues the matter in full—a few lines will show its trend:

"The Tory's Soliloquy."

"To go, or not to go, is that the question?"

Whether 'tis best to trust the inclement sky,

That scowls indignant o'er the dreary Bay;

Or, fondly, and Cape Sable's rock and shoals,

And seek our new domains in Scotia's wilds.

Barren and bare; or stay among the rebels,

And, by our stay, rouse up their keener rage,

That, bursting o'er our now defenceless heads,

Will crush us for the countless wrongs we've done them.

Will whips forget we long have been their foes,

And guide their verdict by a lawyer's tongue,

Perish the hope *****

Then let us fly—nor trust a war of woe's!

Where British arms and Tory arts have fail'd

To effect our purpose—on bleak Roseway's shores

Let's lose our fears—for no bold whig will dare

With sword or law to persecute us there."

The first page is partly filled with order and proclamations "by their excellencies Sir Guy Carleton, K. B., General and Commander in Chief of all his majesty's forces within the colonies, lying on the Atlantic Ocean from Nova Scotia to West Florida, inclusive, and Robert Digby, Esq., rear admiral of the Red, and commander in chief of all his majesty's ships and vessels in North America," and also by the Adj. Gen. O. DeLancey. One order, which sounds honorable, is as follows: "The officers commanding regiments which are embarked, will take care that no officer under their command is permitted to sail who has not satisfied his creditors."

Another is a "Notice to Loyalists," and speeds the parting guests in these words: "All those loyalists, who intend to settle at the island of Abbece, are requested to attend the board appointed by his excellency, the commander in chief, at the city hall this morning, from eleven to two o'clock, November 7, 1783."

Crown street, near the Broad Way.

Queen street, nearly opposite Backman Slip, Water, Wall, Little Dock street, near Counties Slip, Burlington's Slip and Hanover Square are among streets mentioned, some of which have a familiar sound.

"$1 reward" is offered for a runaway indentured servant man, a taylor by trade. He was a little peck-pitted, and had on when he went away "a short cutting coat, of a light mix color, a light drab colored vest and breeches, a pair black breeches, mottled brown and white worsted stockings, a fine white shirt marked D. B. (which he had evidently pilfered from his master whose name was David de Hartholt), and a round impetated hat." His name was Patrick Gelson, were the Gelsons in the N. Y. directory descendants of his?

Enterprise was as keen then as to-day, for fully half the paper is given up to advertising space. Wares are set forth in alluring terms. One advertiser "intends his friends not to miss the present opportunity of supplying themselves" and adds that if these goods are not disposed of by a certain date those "goods which are being sold amazingly low will positively be packed up and sent to Halifax,"—which goes to prove that the child of advertising is father to the man, and hints at the origin of the phrase—"Go to Halifax!"

Among itemized advertisements we find: "Shabbos and Allies for young Gentlemen Brass and Copper Warming Pans, Mortars and Pestles, Paper Snuff Boxes, Glasgow plain Snuff, Mould Candles, Snuffers, Ready-made Pens, Quills and Sealing Wax, things not generally found in 'ads' nowadays. In a book-seller's advertisement are: The Vocal Enchantment, Ward's Algebra, Euclid, and Maps of Nova Scotia, while among the new plays are: "Mysterious Husband," "Which is the Man," "Fatal Curiosity," "The Adventures of a Night," and "Too Civil by Half." These titles smack of a continuous performance, were they Dime Novels or Penny Dreadfuls?

Inducements to women shoppers and bargain hunters included: "A few dozen Patent Silk Hose Women's best Callimanco Pumps, fashionable heels; Silk, Satin, Morocco and Stuff Women's Shoes; Millinery and Perfumery." Vanity is appealed to in: "Very fine and fresh French and English hard and soft Pomatum; Elegant Shoe and Knee Buckles; Fine plated and high finished steel Spurs; Hair Powder; Fresh Rose and Orange Flower Water and Jewellery."

That human flesh was subject to the ills of to-day is shown in: "A Fresh Assortment of Patent Medicines warranted genuine, Stoughton's Bitters; Lancets and Syringes; Essence of Pearl and Pearl Dentifrice and Kennedy's Corn Plasters."

"Staunt Dice; Playing Cards; Very elegant solid Silver, Plated and Ebony Crested Stands with four, five and eight Glasses; Rum; high proof Brandy; Gin in Cases; Holland, Geneva and many sorts of foreign and English Liqueurs and 'The Convivial Songster,' exploit the social and sporting tendencies of the times.

The book-borrower was abroad then, as to-day for a firm of lawyers, advertise that they intend to leave the city and will transact such business in London, as may be committed to their management, with fidelity and dispatch; expiring the climax with the following: "Mr. R. requests his friends, who have been obliged with the loan of books, to return them immediately, as he will sail for England in about a fortnight."

Nothing in the paper is of greater interest than "General Washington's Farewell Orders to the Armies of the United States," given in full, and evidently published for the first time, for it is preceded by this foreword: "The following piece was handed to us by a Gentleman from Newburgh, who assured us of its genuineness. The Urbanity and noble Sentiments contained in it, bear evident marks of the feeling heart of the amiable author, the worthy and much esteemed American Patriot."

This farewell address was issued November 2, 1783, and a few extracts will show how the Father of his Country "loved his fellow men."

"The United States in Congress assembled, after giving the most honorable testimony to the merits of the federal armies, and presenting them with the thanks of their country for their long, eminent and faithful services, having thought proper, by their proclamation bearing date the 18th day of October last, to discharge such part of the troops that were engaged for the war, and to permit the officers on furlough to retire from service from and after to-morrow, which proclamation having been communicated in the public papers for the information and government of all concerned, it only remaining for the commander in chief to address himself once more, and that for the last time, to the armies of the United States (however widely dispersed the individuals who

Your Overcoat and Suit.

Where to Buy It.

The nearness of the holidays suggests that you must quickly decide where you're going to buy that overcoat, suit and fur garment you've been thinking of. The M. & B. Store makes it extremely easy for every man to decide.

Lots of stores satisfy the man who only wants a garment to keep him warm. But there are mighty few Manufacturing Clothiers who can or even attempt to please both the conservative man who wants exceptional quality and appearance in his clothing, and the young man who insists on ready-to-wear of pronounced individuality, as well as excellence—apparel with the earmarks of exclusive custom tailors without the high prices.

There's no question about the popularity of the M. & B. Store with fashionable young men, nor the prestige we enjoy among conservative dressers.

GOOD PAINT AS AN ASSET.

Farm Buildings Should Be Kept Well Protected to Prevent Loss.

Among all the routine expenses of the property owner there is none that yields more satisfactory returns than good paint. In this respect it is like fire insurance, but with a difference. Fire is accidental and when an insured building burns, the insurance company pays a good proportion of the cost of rebuilding. But when a building suffers for the lack of paint—as it must suffer if painting is neglected—the owner bears the entire loss. It is the height of improvidence, therefore, to allow a property to deteriorate for the lack of a coat of good paint in season; for paint is not only a form of insurance that pays its own premiums, but in the selling value it adds to a building, it is an actual cash asset.

The best time to paint is in the spring or the fall, when the weather is settled, and paint applied at the proper time will wear better and protect better than if applied at an unfavorable season.

For ordinary use there is nothing superior to the better grades of ready-mixed paints put on the market by responsible manufacturers. They can be bought anywhere in convenient quantities, and of any desired tint or shade, from local dealers. A little inquiry regarding the local record of any such paint offered for sale will usually enable the consumer to judge of its quality.

So much for the selection of the paint; its application should be left to a good painter, who will get better results, with less material, from any form of paint than the unskilled novice can obtain.

WITCH-HAZEL.

A Description of This Valuable Medicinal Shrub.

The witch-hazel, Hamamelis Virginiana, is a shrub or small tree with a maximum height of 25 feet, usually sending up from the ground numerous diverging stems. The bark is light brown, broken into small thin scales and covers a hard, close-grained wood, light brown in color, slightly tinged with red.

Later in the autumn as the leaves are falling clusters of bright yellow flowers appear upon the sides of the branches. They each have four long slender petals, four short stamens and a two-celled ovary. The fruit is a woody capsule, containing a single hard seed in each of its two cells. The seed ripens in the fall, following the flowering and when the capsule bursts it is hurled a considerable distance.

The witch-hazel is found in low woods from Nova Scotia to Manitoba, extending its range as far south as Florida and Texas. Many superstitions are connected with it. By its help hidden springs of water, concealed treasure and rich ores are said to have been discovered. Its magic power is doubtless imaginary, but from its bark and leaves distilled in alcohol a thick extract is made with remarkable soothing and healing properties.

BACK TALK.

Mrs. Nagget—Oh! you make me tired! oYou're forever trying to give the impression that you're a martyr. I suppose you want everybody to think that you suffer in silence because—

Mr. Nagget—No, I suffer in the perpetual absence of silence. A little silence occasionally would be a positive pleasure to me.

Feline.

"Glaucous!" exclaimed Mrs. Passay; "I know I must look a perfect fright. I simply can't do anything with my hair."

"Indeed?" replied Miss Knox. "Why don't you take it back, then, and get it exchanged?"

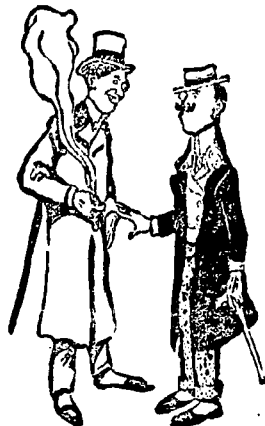

Misconstrued.

"What do you think of these fall shades, old man?"

"Swell! I just saw a girl go by with a —"

"There you go again. I was only referring to hats."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

SAVING MONEY.

"How did you make your wife's acquaintance?"

"I ran over her with my automobile. The court decreed that I should pay her $3,000 damages, and I thought it was better to marry her!"—Pilegende Blaetter.

His Dimensions.

"What is the Hon. Thomas Rott so angry about?"

"Why, the Weekly Palladium and Farmer's Vindicator published a one-column cut of him and referred to it as a 'life-size' portrait."—Puck.

Appreciative.

"Do you read the fashion magazines?" asked the visitor.

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "They often give such valuable hints on what not to wear."—Washington Star.

His Greatest Fault.

"Sturgt says he spends every cent of his income."

"That isn't the worse of it; he spends every cent of everybody else's income that he can get hold of."—Detroit Free Press.

Coming to Him.

"Gayboy is the most cheerful man with a headache I ever saw."

"Well, he's a grateful sort of chap; he remembers the time he had the night before."—Detroit Free Press.

NOTES.

Keep a keen eye on your hard-earned cash.

Ever hear of a harness thief leaving a trace behind him?

The man who wants to find fault needn't, as a rule, climb over his own fence.

"Turn to the right" is the rule of the road, and it is also the only safe rule of life.

One ear of good, selected seed corn, hanging by the husks in a cool, airy place, protected from mice and sparrows, is worth nine in the shock.—Farm Journal.

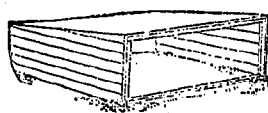

Make your poultry run the gauntlet at once. Do not let any fowl into the hen house this winter unless it gives promise of immediate or future profit.

SLEEPING SHED FOR SWINE.

Should be Large Enough to Accommodate the Hogs, Etc., Comfortably.

To keep a large number of hogs in close quarters is very poor policy. Pigs should not be fed in the same place in which they are bedded for any considerable length of time. Through the summer they should certainly have separate sleeping apartments, and where they are pastured a movable shanty, like that shown in the cut, not larger than 8 or 10 feet square, and without a floor, is an excellent thing to provide.

Two hundred feet or a little more of lumber will build it, says Farm and Home, and it is commodious enough to accommodate easily from six to eight hogs. The structure should be 5 feet high in front and slope to 3½ feet at the rear. To give its lodgers a frequent change of bed, all that is necessary is to remove it occasionally to other ground; a thing which can be readily done by loading it, bottom side up, on to a stone boat.

WHO SHOULD RAISE HORSES.

Prof. Thomas Shaw Says It Depends on the Man.

In growing horses, as in growing other kinds of live stock, the most potent factor is the man. Some men should grow draft horses only. Some should grow only trotters. The many should raise the former, as they are so much more easily grown. The few should grow the latter. The men who can grow good trotting horses, that is, trotting horses of really superior merit, are few and far between while those who can also develop them are fewer still. Some men should not grow any kind of horses, as they will not make a success of it. They will not make a success of it because they do not understand it or because they do not like it, or for both reasons.

No one should engage in growing horses who does not take kindly to the work. And no one should engage in growing any particular kind of horses or any class of the same unless his tastes run in that line. However, if one understands his business and grows that class of horses in which he is most interested, there is but little doubt that he will succeed in the work.

Feeding Oil Meal to Cattle.

The longer you feed oil meal the higher the finish, but you can see the effects of it in 60 days. The question was raised whether if oil meal is to be fed first 60 days it should be fed the first 60 days or the last 60 days of the feeding period. H. W. Mumford says: "I don't know." He said that most persons would answer the last 60 days, that being the common practice. But he has seen such a difference in the way cattle start on feed. It takes a great deal longer to get cattle started to gain on corn and clover hay than where oil meal is fed at first; with oil meal they start right off. The corn and clover cattle make their large gains along toward the last. He would like to see the matter tested scientifically. The oil meal will show in the finish of the cattle if it is fed at the beginning and not at the close of the feeding period.

Expansion.

He—They say travel broadens a person.

She—Surely. The moment a man enters a car he spreads out over half a dozen seats.—Judge.

LOYD THOMPSON, Editor.

Friday, November 30, 1906.

It looks very much as if THE STANDARD's prediction, made last summer, that Governor Stokes would be the next United States Senator, is to be verified. The supposed Constitutional bar to his election seems to have been effectually dismissed by legal authorities. The Governor himself has declared his belief in his own eligibility. His friends and political associates are making most astute moves in the direction of landing their choice for the Senatorship. Governor Stokes is an accomplished politician of the higher type. He never provokes a fight. He never enters one until it is absolutely necessary. Personally he is keeping well without the contest while his friends are busy in his interest. If the Governor can win without the bitterness of a personal conflict with Senator Dryden and his forces he is going to do it. That he can be elected appears to be certain, and it is but a matter of time when other aspirants will withdraw. There is little reason why the Governor should seek the office, when the office seems to be persistently seeking him. Union County is for him, and Union County happens to be an important element of the legislative influence in the northern part of the State. The southern part of the State has long been for him, and once came within one vote of having him named as United States Senator. Hudson and Essex Counties having gone democratic in the recent elections, Union County looms up large as a Republican influence in this section.

Miss Morosini has got all the notoriety she probably sought when she boasted of spending two hundred thousand dollars a year on her gowns. In spite of the expenditure she is not yet clothed in her right mind.

Perkins Still Against Dryden.

In expressing his opposition to Senator John F. Dryden for reelection to the United States Senate, Assemblyman Randolph Perkins has been as strong as ever. Mr. Perkins states that the opposition to Senator Dryden is practically unanimous in Union county, and that the voice of the people is so strong that it behooves the members of the Legislature to heed it. He says that the drift toward the Democrats at the last election has sounded a warning, and that there are many who predict Republican failure next year if Senator Dryden is again chosen.

Assemblyman Perkins' statement is as follows:

"The opposition to Mr. Dryden among the members of the Legislature is in no sense personal. It is political and is based on an overwhelming public sentiment against his reelection to the United States Senate. This sentiment is so strong in Union county as to be almost unanimous.

"Since my attitude on the subject has been mentioned in the newspapers, I have received many letters, and have been spoken to by hundreds of persons on the subject and excepting some of the so-called party leaders, there is not one person among those who have communicated with me who favor the reelection of Mr. Dryden. The voice of the people in this matter is so strong that it behooves the members of the Legislature to heed it. In electing a United States Senator they must remember that they are exercising a function delegated to them by the people, and that they are responsible directly to the people for the manner in which they discharge their obligation. We are to elect a Senator to represent, not the New Jersey Legislature, but to represent the people of the State of New Jersey.

"If, in spite of the demand for the election of a man truly representative, the Republican caucus forces the return of Mr. Dryden to the Senate, it will, in the judgment of many, lend plausibility to the charges made against the party that it is controlled in favor of corporate and special interests and has ceased to become the party of the people.

"The general recession at the last election toward the Democratic party has sounded a note of warning which must be listened to if the Republican party is to elect a Governor one year hence, and there are many who predict that the reelection of Mr. Dryden will be a factor of such determining influence in the next election as to defeat the party.

WATERS PIANOS.

Have Maintained Foremost Rank for Sixty Years—Purchasers Offered Easy Terms.

The Waters Pianos have been well and favorably known for sixty years, and have steadily maintained their position in the foremost rank of high-grade pianos. They are unsurpassed for beauty of finish and solidity of construction, but especially excel in sweetness and power of tone—a tone which is rich and deep, with a fine singing quality. Although the "Waters" are high-grade pianos they are not fancy priced. No other pianos of equal high standing are offered at such low prices and on such easy terms. By a new three-year system purchasers obtain pianos on three years' time without interest. There are three Waters piano warehouses in Manhattan: No. 134 Fifth avenue, near 18th st.; No. 27 West 42nd st., near Broadway, and No. 251 West 125th st., near 8th avenue, New York. All three warehouses will be open evenings until January 1.

Screen Will Filter Air.

Many people cannot sleep with the windows open at night in damp weather. A screen which will admit pure air and yet keep out the dampness can easily be made. Take thin Angora flannel and fasten to a screen frame. Place this in the window at night when the sash is raised. In the morning the inside of the screen will be found dry, while the outside is wet, the air having filtered through.

To Send Flowers by Mail.

Take a long potato and bore a hole through it lengthwise for a holder, and shave the outside down with a sharp knife until it can be easily handled. When ready to send the flowers, place around this a piece of wet sheet cotton. Over this wrap a sheet of tinfoil, carefully covering every part of the holder. The moisture cannot penetrate the paper and will be retained for a long time.—Suburban Life.

Fellow Passengers.

"Pardon me, your necktie has been sticking out for some time. I refrained from telling you sooner because those young ladies seemed so much amused." Farmer—"Thank you, an' the oil from that lamp has been dropping on that light overcoat o' yours for the last ten minutes, but every one seemed so tickled that I hated to spoil the fun."—London Mirror.

A Daily Thought.

To be yourself, to have measureless trust, to enjoy all, to possess nothing. To walk along the path, which has equal good on either hand, to give the sign of equality. To entertain no possible fear or doubt about the upshot of things, to be yourself, to have measureless trust—perhaps that is the best.—Anonymous

Woman's Club Meeting.

The Woman's Club met Monday afternoon at the usual time and place, Mrs. E. S. Robinson presiding in the absence of the president. The name of Miss Elizabeth French was proposed for membership. Mr. Barr gave a most interesting account of the October meeting of the State Federation of Woman's Clubs, held in Ashbury Park. She also announced the election of Mrs. E. S. Robinson as General Federation Secretary. The club women present were much pleased at the honor shown their club and ex-president.

Two very fine papers were read. The Coming of the White Man, Quakers and Dutch, by Miss Lathrop, and English and Swedes by Mrs. Condit. Mrs. Harden sang twice and was heartily applauded and cheered.

Miss Edwards Married.

The marriage of Miss Madeleine Edwards, of New York, to Mr. David A. MacGregor, of Philadelphia, was celebrated at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore D. Bance, 21 Walnut street, on Wednesday afternoon, at four o'clock.

About one hundred guests were present, most of whom were relatives and near friends from New York and Philadelphia. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Robert Willett Edwards, of New York. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Melville B. Chapman, of Flushing, Long Island, an old family friend. Miss Mildred Bance was maid of honor, and the groom's youngest son, Mr. Norman MacGregor, was best man.

The wedding march was played on the organ by Miss Madeleine Gillan, of New York, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Marshall de Long, of Philadelphia, with the violin. A very pretty feature of the wedding was the singing of old Scotch songs during the afternoon by Mrs. L. V. Hedden, of Orange, all present joining in the choruses. The bride and groom drove away amid the strains of the "Campanella" followed by the MacGregor war cry by a number of the clan.

It is somewhat unusual in these days to see two such large families as those represented at this wedding. The bride's father was present with his five sons, three daughters and seven grandchildren, and the MacGregor family was a host in itself.

Mr. and Mrs. MacGregor will reside in Lansdowne, Pennsylvania, a beautiful suburb of Philadelphia.

Bush Children's String Quartette to Appear in Westfield.

The Caldwell News says: "The concert given in the West Caldwell Chapel Saturday night by the Bush Children's String Quartette was a very successful affair. The juvenile performers interpreted the numbers upon their program with a musical understanding that would have done credit to exponents of greater experience. They played with a rhythmic swing and an ensemble that were indeed surprising to their auditors. Miss Mary Bush's cello solos disclosed a fine musical temperament. Her intonation and tone were exceptional for a girl of fifteen. Melvin Jr., rendered violin solos in a satisfactory manner and Master Dudley as a humorist proved to be a prodigy."

These juvenile performers will appear Thursday evening, December 21 before members and guests of Union Council No. 5 Loyal Association, in Arcadium Hall at 8.30 o'clock. It will be the occasion of Union Council's annual "Sing." The business meeting of the Council will be held promptly at 7.30 o'clock and business rushed through in quick order that members and guests may be entertained at 8.30.

COWPEAS FOR LAWNS.

Grown and Plowed Under They Help Get Good Stand of Grass.

The great value of cowpeas as a nitrogen gatherer and natural fertilizer has long been known. Their importance in making lawns should be better understood. Under the most favorable conditions it is quite a serious task to get a lawn well started. The usual result of digging the cellar and grading the lawn is that the good soil is removed or covered with subsoil. Cowpeas will mellow such soil and put fertility into it sooner and more effectively than any other plant. In the South cowpeas are extensively used for this purpose. In the villages and small cities one sees a crop of cowpeas in front of the new houses everywhere. Usually one crop is enough to prepare the soil for lawn grasses, but on very poor soil two crops may be required. The soil is thereby put into the right physical condition, nitrogen and humus are added and weeds are choked out completely.

"Pardon me, old chap, but I don't believe I ever met your wife."

Reason Enough.

Realism.

"Do you believe that realism is a benefit to the drama?"
"Decidedly," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes. "I cannot express myself too strongly in favor of the practice which has grown up in recent years of paying actors with real money."—Washington Star.

Mailing Flowers.

It is a mistake to use cardboard boxes in packing flowers to be sent by mail. Always use a tin box, lining it with a sheet of damp moss and above this a sheet of florist's paper, or tissue paper if the other is not at hand, taking care that it fits into the corners and around the sides. The flowers should be placed in, row after row, until there is a layer of flowers fitting on into the other all over the bottom of the box. Never crowd nor put one layer on the top of another. The rows must be as close together as possible; the flower heads of each row should be on the stems of the row immediately preceding it, so that when the box is finished only flowers are to be seen on the stems.

Valuable Information for All.

The Westfield Building and Loan Association, which is just closing its eighteenth fiscal year, offers to any who wish to begin a systematic investment of any sum from one to fifty dollars each month, the best proposition that can be made today. The applications for mortgage loans that have already been granted will use all of the receipts for the next four months and all of the money that the association may borrow, and there are many borrowers yet to be accommodated.

The twenty-first series of stock is now open for subscription and no one should lose this opportunity to begin investing a sum of money each month that will net them as large a rate as any first class investment on the market today and requires no large capital to start with.

All members share alike in the profits of the association and the payment of $10 each month earns no more in proportion than the $1 payment, so that no one need stay away on account of the size of the sum available each month.

In order to meet the demand for money there must be a large subscription to this new series at once, otherwise it will be necessary to allow good loans to go to associations out of town and outsiders will reap the benefit of the interests that should go to the people of Westfield.

Do not delay but phone the secretary this evening or any evening at 6:30 at No. 161 R., or if you can not do that write him at once at No. 234 North Avenue and he will give you any further information that you may desire and make your subscription for stock very easy.

WHAT EXPERIMENTS PROVED.

As to Balanced and Unbalanced Rations for Cattle.

Howard R. Smith, professor of animal husbandry, University of Nebraska, in his book on "Profitable Stock Feeding," says:

"Our stable experiment stations have conducted numerous feeding experiments with animals, in which balanced and unbalanced rations have been compared. At the Kansas experiment station, corn, alfalfa hay and corn silage, a combination having a nutritive ration of 1:11, was fed to steers in contrast with a balanced ration having a nutritive ration of 1:6.5. The average of three trials showed that 28 per cent. less feed was required for a given increase in weight with the balanced ration.

"In an experiment at the Nebraska experiment station, with yearling steers, it was found that, to make the same gain, 29 per cent. less food was required with corn and alfalfa than with corn and prairie hay, and the alfalfa was no more expensive.

"In another lot where old meal, a rich protein food, was added to corn and prairie hay, 25 per cent. total food was required for a given gain.

"The experiment stations of Illinois and Missouri have recently shown the advantage of corn and clover over corn and timothy in as striking contrast.

"Nor have the tests been confined to fattening cattle alone. Experiments with sheep, swine and dairy cows show that much larger returns are made when the rations are compounded in a way that will furnish the nutrients in a proportion somewhat near the requirements as determined by scientific methods."

Not a Cigarette Smoker.

A good old gentleman, who was strongly opposed to tobacco smoking and alcoholic liquor drinking, met a lady friend in a street car recently, and their conversation was as follows:

"Have you any children, madam?"

"Yes, sir, a son."

"Ah, indeed! Does he smoke?"

"No, sir; he has never so much as touched a cigarette."

"So much the better, madam; the use of tobacco is a poisonous habit. Does he frequent the clubs?"

"He has never put his foot in one."

"Allow me to congratulate you. Does he come home late?"

"Never. He goes to bed directly after dinner."

"A model young man, madam—a model young man. How old is he?"

"Two months!"

The good old gentleman bade the lady good morning and left the car without a smile.

Modern Treasure Ships.

The famed treasure ships of the Indies, in the days when pirates swooped down on heavy vessels lumbering homeward with gold and silver, beside less precious freight, were never worth as much as the billion occasionally carried across the Atlantic, as a part of the express business of ocean liners. Within a few weeks one steamer landed over $10,000,000 at New York. No buccaniers of the Spanish main ever had such a prize to chase.

Wanted Him to Make Good. "Do you know," he said, "I believe I should like to kiss you."

"Well, haven't you the courage of your convictions?"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

JUST AS A TEST.

"I couldn't feel sure," said he to his chum, "that she really cared for me, so I wrote myself this telegram: 'Will you go as accountant for tea firm in China at salary of £10 per week? Start Thursday. Answer at once.' I signed the name of a fictitious firm, and showed her the telegram as soon as I got to her house that night.

"What do you think about it?" she asked.

"I don't know what to think," said I.

"She mused a little while.

"Do you want to go?" she asked me.

"If it wasn't for you I'd want to go."

"Then she said, in a faint voice:

"Do whatever you think best."

"I'd go if it wasn't for you," I replied.

"She sat very still, looking at the fire. Then of a sudden she began to cry.

"Oh, don't go! don't go!" she wailed. 'Don't go and leave me all alone. What would I do—what would I do without you?'

"So I told her I wouldn't go. It is a grand thing to have a girl care for you so much as that. I know that this girl loves me truly."

"If I had been the girl," said the young man's listener, "I should have said: 'Accept the offer, and we'll be married at once and start for China together.'"

"The young man grinned. "By Jove,
I hadn't thought of that," he admitted.
"Wouldn't I have been in a fix, though,
if she had said that?"

THE CASH BOY TALKS.

His Father's Idea of the Delights of Municipal Ownership.

"Say, boss," remarked our cash boy this morning, "my paw is real hot for municipal ownership. I don't know what that is, but paw says everybody is going to own everything and divide up the profits. He was telling me about it last night.

"Ma asked him where the people would get the money to buy those things, as they would cost millions of dollars.

"Paw said, 'Issue bonds.'

"Yes," said ma, "but how will you pay the bonds when they are due?"

"Issue more bonds," said paw.

"But how about the interest?" said
ma. "Won't you have to tax the people for that?"

"Why, no," said paw. "Pay the interest with bonds."

"I don't see how you could do that,"
said ma.

"You don't, eh?" replied paw. "Now, when we went to housekeeping, didn't I buy for all our furniture by giving a note, and when it came due didn't I give the man another note? You wonder know nothing about finance. You wait until the municipal ownership gets in power, we will divide the profits among the people, and no one will have to work. We will all be Vanderbilts.

Won't you be proud of your hubby when he becomes part owner of all public utilities? You see, madam, there are some things you don't know."

"And then paw looked wise. Ma stood and gazed at him for some time and then said:

"Yes, there are some things I don't know, and one of those things is this:
If there is a man more fit for the lunatic asylum than you, I don't know him."

"Then I commenced to whistle 'Everybody Works but Daddy.' Say, boss, you see that lump on the back of my head? Paw has had that time poked at him before, and I wasn't looking when his old shoe came flying my way."—Yonkers Statesman.

LONG LIVE THE BOSS!

Municipal Ownership Would Make His Position Impregnable.

Referring to the recent announcement that 51,146 persons are on the payroll of New York city, the Newark Advertiser declares that in the event of municipal ownership of street railways, electric light and gas plants, ferries and other public utilities the city employees would constitute a political army that would make a change of administration impossible.

It recalls the fact that 25,000 city employees in Philadelphia kept Philadelphia in the hands of the corrupt Durham machine for years, and only a great popular uprising overthrew the graffers.

"If Durham had had control of the street railroads and other public utilities in Philadelphia through municipal ownership," it observes, "he could have laughed at popular uprisings. He would have been as absolute in his authority as the czar."

The point is well taken.

In other cities the political situation under public ownership would be as it would in Philadelphia and New York.

Bosses may be overthrown and graffers turned out whenever the public will it at present. Public ownership of all public utilities would end this.

It would bind the people hand and foot and deliver them into the hands of political grafters.—Long Branch Record.

HOW CITIES LOSE MONEY.

Municipal Plants Pay No Taxes and Reduce Tax Receipts.

The subject of lost taxes is one that deserves far more attention than it usually receives from advocates of municipal ownership. There is scarcely a municipal plant in this country which mentions this item in its reports, although it is just as much an element in cost of production as coal and wages. The omission is readily overlooked, because it is a negative expense involving no direct payment, but only a loss of income to the city.

If you own a store for which you are receiving a good rental and dispossess your tenant in order to occupy it yourself the rental value of the store becomes a charge against your business, just as it was previously a charge against your tenant's business, and you are out of pocket unless your profits exceed the rent you formerly received. Similarly if a city buys out or otherwise dispossesses a public service corporation the real, personal and franchise taxes formerly paid by the corporation become a charge against the operation of the municipal plant that succeeds the corporation, and the city is out of pocket unless the profits of its plant exceed the taxes lost.

M. O. in Chicago as Dead as Caesar.

One of the most remarkable reversals of public opinion on record is that which has taken place in Chicago in the past year in the matter of municipal ownership and operation. The municipal ownership theory, which a little more than a year ago flourished here with so much vigor as to attract the attention of the entire civilized world, is now the deadest duck in the pond. Apparently nobody believes in it any longer. Certainly nobody ever talks any more about it.—Chicago Journal.

When Officials Are Efficient.

When the administration of the departments now in charge of our local public officials show better results in economy and efficiency, it will be time, and not until then, to consider an enlargement of their responsibilities.—

 compared them may be said to hold them in affectionate remembrance. In Chief's last letter to his family, he holds most dear the wish to indulge himself in a few moments in calling to mind a slight review of the past, etc. A contemplation of the complete attainment of a period earlier than could have been expected of the object for which we contended, against so formidable a power, cannot but inspire us with astonishment and gratitude. The disadvantages circumstances on our part, under which the war was undertaken can never be forgotten. The singular interpositions of providence in our feeble condition, were such, as could scarcely escape the attention of the most unobserving, while the unparalleled perseverance of the arms of the United States, through almost every possible suffering and discouragement, for the space of eight long years, was little short of a standing miracle.
 To the Commandants of regiments and corps, to the staff, to the Non-commissioned officers and Private Soldiers, to the various branches of the army, the General takes this last and solemn opportunity of expressing his inviolable attachment and friendship. He wishes more than bare professions were in his power; that he was really able to be useful to them in future life; he flatters himself, however, they will do him the justice to believe, that whatever could with propriety be attempted by him, has been done. And being now to conclude these his last public orders, to take his ultimate leave in a short time of the military character, and to bid a final adieu to the armies he has so long had the honor to command—he can only again offer in their behalf, his recommendations to their grateful country, and his prayers to the God of armies.
 Many ample justice be done them here; and may the choicest of Heaven's favours, both here and hereafter, attend those who under the divine auspices, have secured innumerable blessings for others. With these wishes, and this benediction, the Commander in Chief is about to retire from service. The curtain of separation will soon be drawn, and the military scene to him be closed forever."
JULIA SEDGWICK KING.
Clark's Stormy Political Career.
 In view of Senator Clark's reported statement that he will not seek reelection to the Senate, it is interesting to review the stormy political career of the great mining king. He was nominated for territorial delegate in Congress in 1885, but was defeated, largely, it was said, through Daly's influence. In the first Montana election of senators, he was again nominated, and claimed election, but was denied a seat. In the campaign of 1893, implications of bribery were brought against him. He lost the election by a few votes, and the legislature adjourned without electing a senator. In 1899 he was elected, after turbulent scenes in the Montana legislature, but the Committee at Washington, called to investigate the bribery charges against him, reported in favor of a resolution declaring void his title to a seat in the Senate, and Clark, anticipating the Senate's vote on this report, resigned. C. P. Connolly, who, in McClure's Magazine, is giving the absorbing inside history of Montana politics, describes the dramatic scenes at the investigation at Washington, Clark's resignation, and the astonishing rise by which he was appointed to succeed himself.

Ruskin's Opinion of Mrs. Carlyle.
 He spoke with scornful amusement of such mistaken enthusiasts as wished to enroll James Welsh Carlyle among the martyrs on account of her "man's" bad temper. He admitted that Carlyle was frequently grumpy, and habitually melancholy—"but so am I!"—and he was easily irritated. "That clever shrew," his wife, well knew this, and by the very tones of her voice as she "rasped out his name," could set his nerves on edge in a paroxysm of feeble irritation.—Scribner's Magazine.

DR. J. E. ENNIS
 of Atlanta, Ga., Addresses the People of Westfield on a Matter of Health.
 "To whom It May Concern: Of late there has been a good deal of discussion in regard to advertised medicines, their value and power to cure.
 "I want to say to the people of Westfield that I believe the most valuable cod liver oil preparation, the best body-builder, health restorer and strength creator known to medicine to-day is Vinol.
 "While Vinol does not contain the system-clogging oil of old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions, it actually does contain all the curative medicinal principles of the cod's liver in a highly concentrated form, with tonic iron added, and it is delicious to take.
 "I advise Vinol in my practice, and find it has no equal for healing coughs, colds, bronchitis and sore lungs.
 "I have used Vinol in many cases of indigestion, mal-assimilation, and for patients who were anemic and run-down with splendid results. I have also found Vinol to be a boon to the aged.
 "I believe Vinol to be well worthy of any honest physician's endorsement.
 "We sell Vinol to the people of Westfield on an offer to refund money if it fails to benefit. G. W. Frutchoy, Druggist.
 Note—While we are sole agents for Vinol in Westfield, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.
