THAT FAST THEATRE TRAIN.

The Water Man Is Jealous of Sister Plainfield Whenever He Visits the White Way.

WARNING TO AUTO SPEEDERS.

We Opine That Signs Should Rim the Leading Avenues to Our Town—Anent R. R. Terminal Building, Etc.

While touring through the nearby country I noticed that many of our sister communities advertise themselves and caution automobilists of existing speed laws by large sign boards at the principal entrances and ; traveled highways by large signs bearing the information

CITY OF PERTH ABLBOY

Limit of Speed

6 Miles Per Hour.

Laws Strictly Enforced.

I wonder if that isn't a good idea for our Highway Board to emulate!

I note by the Spring change of time in the New Jersey Central time table that the Philadelphia train that formerly left New York at 12:15 a.m. now leaves at 12:30 and makes the run to Plainfield in 50 minutes from New York where it took an hour under the old schedule. The net gain to Plainfield is 25 minutes with a proportionate gain to Elizabeth.

I mention this because of the coyness this train inspires in a Westfielder. It don't stop here. Aye there's the rub!

Our theatre train leaves at 12:01 a.m. and the average New York show is over at any where from 10:45 to 11:30. The roof attractions last till nearer midnight.

When we join in theatre parties with our city cousins, we have to bid them good by with the fall of the curtain—and then we hear the remarks about "farmers" and similar good natured jests. "We have to forego the "Snake" or lunch that "tops off" an evening of the theatre in order to reach Liberty street in time for the 12:01 a.m., the other alternative is to take the train leaving at 1 a.m., which is altogether too much of an accommodation for people who have to be up early next morning.

Enjoying, as we do, such a splendid service it seems unbecomingly to ask for more, but that 12:30 is a "tempter"!

The foot-bridge over West Street approaches completion and soon the Jersey Central's great terminal will be complete in every sense of the word. I understand that there is to be no formal "opening," as we have been enjoying the conveniences of the Station little by little as the work advanced.

Looking backyard one will always remember that the old Station was demolished, a temporary one built and then the new one completed without so much as delaying a single trip of a ferry-boat or inconveniencing a passenger. This is in itself a tribute to the architects, engineers and builders—and the company.

The last piles of the temporary slip that extended far out into the river are being taken out, and when all else is forgotten, we will remember the long pier that caused our city friends to "inquire if we were "walking to Jersey City" and similar remarks. If I had a burden in the shape of a heavy package to take out or bring in, if unusually tired, or if it was very hot or very cold we were sure to land at the long pier. At least it always seemed that way to me.

BOYS' BRIGADE DISBAND WITH DRILL FOR SUMMER MONTHS.

In Full Military Regalia They Pay Tribute to Colonel Stryker.

Tuesday night the Boys Brigade of the Presbyterian Church disbanded for the summer season. As this was the last drill night, all their friends were invited and any one else who wanted to come to watch them. The boys were dressed in full military regalia and made a fine appearance.

Formation was made by Sergeant Williams and turned over to Colonel Stryker, who took them through all the drills. The method of signaling was shown also. Sergeant Wittke took the command of the signaling and the signallers made a good impression.

Dr. Stearns complimented the boys on their good behavior at all times, but especially for their behavior on Decoration Day, when they preceded the G. A. R. veterans without their commandant with them. Hethen offered a closing prayer. Colonel Stryker was just going to have the boys dismissed when drum major Brush, at the bass drum, assisted by Mr. Fowler at the snare drum, said that Lieutenant Brush had something to say. Sergeant Wittke was dismissed and Lieutenant Brush told the Colonel that on behalf of the Brigade, he was glad to present to him a token of their esteem for coming down every Monday night to drill them. Then a side door opened and Sergeant Wittke entered with a large flag and pole which he presented to the Colonel, which he accepted amid the shouts and applause of the audience.

Sergeant Wittke then dismissed the Brigade which afterwards formed outside and escorted the Colonel to his home with the two drums playing and carrying the flag ahead of them. After a short talk at the home of Colonel Stryker the boys went home.

MODERN SLAVE PROBLEM.

Dr. Loomis Says Factory Slave Is Great Evil of Today.

There was a union service of all the protestant churches of Westfield in the First M. E. Church last Sunday evening. The pastors of all the denominations were present, Rev. O. J. Greenwood, Rev. Dr. W. I. Stearns, Rev. Sydney Cross, Rev. Dr. S. L. Loomis, and Rev. Dr. Addison W. Hayes, and all took part in the services.

Dr. Loomis preached the sermon. The signal corps of the W. B. E. A. attended in a body, while the veterans and Grand Army of the Republic officers of Westfield were present and occupied the front pews.

Dr. Loomis delivered a suitable and excellent sermon, his theme being, "The Old Slavery in the New Day." He spoke on slavery its origin, development and its downfall. He spoke of the factory slavery of the present day, the long hours of the factory employees, saying that the satisfactory solution of the modern problem was equally as great if not more so than that of slavery. He said that these deep problems must be solved in the days to come and he urged the enactment of laws against child labor.

The offerings of the very large congregation were devoted to orphans.

Jupiter Pluvius vs. Oil of Tarvia.

The car load of tarvia to be used in sprinkling the roads of Westfield arrived Tuesday morning, and the work would have been undertaken the following day, but for the bad weather. It is necessary that the roads be perfectly dry before the sprinkling is attempted. The contractors had swept Mountain avenue and Euclid avenue, and were prepared to begin the work when Jupiter Pluvius started his sprinkling cart in opposition. As soon as Old Jupiter ceases to be facetious Westfield citizens may expect to see the tarvia quickly and thoroughly applied to the roads.

DR. S. L. LOOMIS ACCEPTS.

Well Known Boston Olive To Become Pastor of First Congregational Church of Christ.

THE MISSION OF HIS WORK HERE.

Confidently Expects That a Stately Edifice Shall Soon Take The Place of Present Church—Pledges Members to Cause.

Dr. Samuel Lane Loomis, who has been the netting pastor of the Congregational Church of Christ, Westfield, for the past few months, and who was extended a unanimous call to the active pastorate by the church and the society, last Wednesday night, has accepted, and the pastoral relationship will soon be consummated. At the regular morning service, last Sunday, Mr. William J. Alpers, chairman of the special committee appointed to secure a pastor, read Dr. Loomis letter of acceptance.

Dr. Loomis is widely known throughout New England as an able administrator, pastor and preacher. He has served successfully in pastorates at Newport, Ky., Brooklyn, where he was assistant to Dr. Meredith, Bellevue Avenue Congregational Church, Newark, and the Union Church, Boston. In the latter charge he was eminently successful in uniting two large churches in the lower part of the city.

Dr. Loomis's letter of acceptance is as follows:—

Messrs. William J. Alpers, A. L. Russell, W. Edgar Reeve, William Morgan, Jr. and Frederick S. Taggart.

Dear Friends:—
The proposal you have brought on behalf of the members of the Congregational Church of Christ in Westfield, and the Congregational Society, is one that, in a shape less formal, has, for several weeks been before me and has been the subject of deliberate, serious and prayerful consideration. The natural beauty of this town pleases us, the people charm us, the cordiality, unanimity and evident sincerity of their invitation moves us deeply. We find you quite irresistible. But what appeals to us most of all is the opportunity for service, afforded by this field. We believe in its future. We see no reason why you may not confidently expect, in due time, to build up here a great, a spiritual and a fruitful church. Worshiping God in an edifice stately, noble and worthy of its place and purpose. In that large enterprise we should like to have a hand with you.

Therefore, convinced that it is the Master's wish that we serve him here, I accept, with all gladness this call to become your pastor and teacher.

By this call, I take it, that you signify your purpose to receive the message with which I am sent to you and that you pledge your hearty and faithful co-operation in the work to which we this day put our hand, even as we pledge ours. Confident of the blessing of Him, whose we are and whom we serve, I am sincerely and affectionately your minister.

At the time she began using them, she was suffering from pains through her back and was also annoyed by headaches and dizzy spells. Her condition became serious and dropsical swellings appeared in her ankles. I had used Doan's Kidney Pills myself, and they had proven so satisfactory that I advised her to try them. MEMORIAL DAY.

The significance of Memorial Day as a day of national mourning has lost color with the American people. The healthful mind has buried its dead, and lives in the vital, all important present, which teems with hope and promise. Memorial Day is a day of resolve, of consecration.

Rudyard Kipling in his poem "The Islanders" scores his native country in a manner which makes every Englishman feel sore whenever he reads it. Perforce, Kipling is more right than wrong when he refers to the Englishman of today as "Idle, openly idle, in the lee of the forespent line." Indolence and indifference to inherited responsibility have done much to undermine the national character and greatness of Great Britain. America may feel compelled to consider also.

There is a vital energy in past deeds which extends itself into all time. The war of the Rebellion is not so much in retrospect as in prospect a vital truth. It brought to the front a great statesman—probably the greatest this nation has ever produced; it produced a bulldog general, a man with a genius for hounding the enemy, for winning his battles; it clearly demonstrated the natural bravery of Americans be they of the North or South, and it bound together a people for a common purpose and under one flag and one government.

The conflict of arms brought death and devastation, which need not be over emphasized. We assume as good philosophers that the conflict was inevitable, that its results were beneficial. We are obliged to concern ourselves with the sterner realities of a present day conflict, and let the dead past bury its dead.

Not to be indifferent of our responsibilities as citizens, not to be "idle openly idle in the lee of the forespent line," not to think so lightly of our courageous forebears that we forget the inheritance which they bequeathed to us, but to give to every act, public or private, whether it be recreative or a serious business, professional or religious obligation—to give to each and all that final and deliberate approval of heart and conscience, which shall reflect in us the spirit, the daring and the character of our honored dead. To such an attitude of mind must we be lead by consideration of the significance of Memorial Day.

Miss Bertie Willet, of North avenue, is rapidly recovering from the two operations, by Dr. Zoglio at the Milenbergs Hospital at Plainfield. She is again at her home and is exhibiting some of her oldtime vivacity. Her many friends will hail with delight her complete recovery.

Mrs. H. B. Tremaine and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison W. Gladwin have been motoring in Connecticut. On their tour, which took them five days, starting last Thursday, they visited the Milenbergs School New Milford, Conn., where Miss Dorothy Tremaine studies. They also visited Gannery School, Washington, Conn. where Clarence Tremaine is enrolled as a student.

STRONGER THAN HATE

By FRANK H. SWEET

"Halt!" The command rang out sharply and the figure skulking through the rice field hesitated. It was clad in the uniform of a common soldier. The man was taken directly to the tent of the commanding officer.

"A deserter, your distinguished highness."

The officer looked up from a chess-board. He was a strong, handsome fellow, but with a hard face. "You, Kurino?" he exclaimed. The prisoner smiled sarcastically. "Even I, Shithiro," he answered.

The other waved his hand impatiently. "You may go," he said to the sergeant, "I wish to speak with the prisoner alone a few minutes." Then, as the sergeant withdrew: "You understand what this involves? I will see that the penalty is paid to-morrow morning at sunrise. But, greater than death, you have the disgrace of deserting."

Kurino threw back his head scornfully, his eyes flashing. "That is a lie, Shithiro," he said, "and you know it. I am not a deserter. I am a Korean, and was seized and forced into your company unlawfully."

Shithiro's face did not change. "You were seized on Japanese soil. Your name is on the roll, and you have tried to desert. That is enough."

"So it seems, but you know why I was on Japanese soil."

"To see the daughter of Lalo," slipped involuntarily from the officer. He bit his lips.

"Yes," boldly, "to see Nuyama, the daughter of Lalo, the great merchant of Myoz. It was with her father's consent, and we were to be married in a month. It lacks but four days now. That is why I tried to get away, for you have prevented me sending any word." He was silent a moment, then went on, contemptuously: "You could not harm me in my own country, Shithiro, for I am more powerful there than you here. So you took this way. You thought I could be removed from your path in battle, or perhaps in some other manner. I know Lalo and I know Nuyama, and they will not change. Nuyama has said she loves me, and she will continue to love me in spite of all that you and the world may do."

Shithiro's hand trembled visibly as he raised it to his eyes.

"You are mistaken, Kurino," he said at length, in a low voice. "I did not even know you were in my company until a few days ago. But in this case," frankly, "I am glad, though," a note of doubt coming into his voice, "perhaps I shall not speak of your disgrace to Nuyama and her father. I may concede you that mercy."

Kurino smiled understandingly. Shithiro saw the smile, and his face darkened.

In the guardhouse, with curious, unfriendly eyes no longer watching him, Kurino's scornful composure vanished. This, then, was to be the end, not only of his political advancement in Korea, but of that sweeter possibility which he had won and must now lose.

The hours went by until from the shifting light he knew that it was after midnight. Then the door opened and some one came in.

"Kurino," some one called.

Kurino sprang to his feet.

"Shithiro!" he exclaimed.

"Yes, I—I have been thinking it over, and it is as you say. Nuyama would hate me. Here," thrusting a paper in Kurino's hand, "it is an honorable discharge from the army. It will pass you through the lines. Now go!"

"What," incredulously, "You would let me go free?"

"Yes, yes," more harshly, "but it is not for you. It is for Nuyama. I—I love her, too. I would rather die than for her to think ill of me. Now go!"

At the door Kurino looked back, involuntarily. Shithiro was squatting upon the earthen floor, gazing hopelessly at a little square hole through which the light dropped.

Heard at Breakfast.

"I used to be a weather prophet in my home town," confided the new boarder as he speared a potato with his fork.

"So?" commented the comedian boarder, laconically.

"Yes, and every time I look at that steak it reminds me of a winter's day."

"How so?"

"Cold and raw."

"Quite clever. How does the coffee strike you?"

"That reminds me of a November day—cloudy and unsettled."

"Good. And do you notice that the landlady is watching us?"

"Yes, and she reminds me of a March day."

"Tell us why."

"Because she is cold and stormy."

And the look that the landlady passed down to that end of the table would have congealed a red-hot stove.

Jarred Him.

A burglar broke into a Brooklyn residence and got away with a 50-cent stickpin, a $15 watch and a purse containing three or four dollars in small change, completely overlooking a $100 roll of banknotes in a jar right alongside of the articles stolen.

When he read an account of the burglary in the next day's paper and learned what he had missed he sighed and sadly remarked:

"Now wouldn't that jar you?"

Editor Standard:—An Associated Press dispatch from Cincinnati says: "The appearance of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and a number of directors of the Standard Oil Company in this city on a quiet visit Wednesday has just leaked out, and it is rumored that a deal is on whereby a local gas company and the Standard will form an alliance and control all the natural gas output in Ohio and West Virginia. This would mean the combine would control all the piping of natural gas to the city of Cincinnati and other towns and cities in the two states mentioned."

Oil, food, drugs, gas! If the octopus can corner the Plinian vapors, the dirigibles will have to fly high to escape in the other direction. I am John Rockefeller's slave. Whose slave are you? A BONDSTAN.

—Miss May Titus gave a straw ride to a party of friends Wednesday evening. The trip included a tour of Plainfield and environs. Those attending were: Misses Marion Robinson, of New York; Grace Ensign, of New Rochelle; Oriola Davidson, and Mazie Collins, of Westfield; Messrs. Walter Saunders, Alden Saunders, Harold Edwards, Wesley Collins, Ralph Titus. Mrs. G. E. Collins chaperoned the party.

Extreme Carefulness.

"Ribbon is the most careful man I ever met." "Indeed!" "Yes, the evening he was married he requested his best man to carry the ring, and then asked him for a receipt for it."

Jimmy's Grievance.

After Jimmy had attended school a few days he begged to stay at home. "Because," said he, "teacher says we mustn't talk and I'm so tired of whispering!"

Mixed Population.

The most mixed population in the world is probably that of British Guiana. There is admixture of French, Dutch, Spanish, British, coolie and Indian blood.

A Cause for Thanksgiving.

"What are you crying about?" "My husband beat me." "Who is he?" "A gypsy fiddler. He beat me with the fiddle bow." "Then you ought to be thankful he doesn't play a bass viol." —Fliegende Blätter.

Gives Strength to Character.

Poverty is uncomfortable, as I can testify; but nine times out of ten the best thing that can happen to a young man is to be tossed overboard and compelled to sink or swim for himself. —James A. Garfield.

Ocean Waters.

A ton of water from the Atlantic ocean, when evaporated, will yield eight pounds of salt; a ton from the Pacific, 79 pounds; and a ton from the Dead sea, 187 pounds.

Facts About Westfield.

Fifteen thousand population for Westfield can easily be secured if all residents will take interest. Walter J. Lee our genial and busy real estate man of the "Flatiron Building" reports that in his many sales and rentals since March 1 eighteen of these were residences, all of which are or will be soon occupied by former residents of New York, Brooklyn and Flatbush, which by actual count have added to Westfield's population eighty-two men, women and children. If this proportion had been done by our other agents, and the same ratio kept up for a year "Why Not 16,000 population for the City of Westfield?" It is coming, let us all get busy and interest our friends in the beauties of Westfield for a home.

Let the Board of Trade exploit our excellent train service, grand roads, pretty drives, shaded streets, fine schools, churches, clubs, stores, good goods at reasonable prices, and all the city comforts enjoyed by us living in the country.

EVERY MARRIED MAN

should make a vigorous effort to own a home. As soon as he has accumulated sufficient money, he should invest in a home, where his family may live permanently. A home owned is more than mere property; it speaks to the heart, enlists the sentiments and ennobles the possessor. Viewed as a matter of economy, a man can occupy a home of his own at less expense than he can pay rent; and avoid the inconvenience and expense of frequent removals. In addition, if he buys right, he may have the satisfaction of knowing that his property is steadily increasing in value while he occupies it.

In Westfield Highlands and Manor Park we have house that can be purchased very reasonably with a small cash payment and monthly what your rent would cost.

HIAWATHA ABLY PORTRAYED BY BOYS' BRIGADE AND GIRL FRIENDS.

Large Audience Pleased by Artistic Work of Westfield Young Folks.

A large and appreciative audience enjoyed the unique entertainment given by the Boys' Brigade at the Onalco last Friday evening. The presentation of "The Song of Hiawatha" was successful from every viewpoint and reflected great credit upon the director, Mr. Glenn Clark, who instructed the young people in their pleasing characterizations.

Miss Helen Collins won frequent applause in her role of the grandmotherly Nokomis, while Miss Florence Brush as Minnehaha was as charming as the poet's description of her. Miss Dorothy Jacobs was a genuine Morning Star and made a beautiful picture in her scene with the East Wind represented by Master Sydney Schaefer. The character of Hiawatha was ably portrayed by Master John Ludlow who graciously allowed the more youthful Kenneth Miller to present his childhood experiences which he delightfully illustrated. Edward Witke was a very busy Arrow Maker and handled the character to perfection while Raymond Miller as Chibabos, the sweet singer, won the hearts of the audience.

The other Indian maidens whose smiling features and bright costumes pictured this Story of Hiawatha were the Misses Dorothy Brush, Rachel Jackson, Lulu Taylor, Flora Witke, Vera Ferris, Marion Irving, Inez Fink and Estella Sexton.

The Indian warriors who supported Hiawatha in real Indian fashion were Hiram Fink, Clifford Irving, Russell Styles, Walter Reese, Charles Siserson, Elmer Archibald and Lewis Catto.

The musical part of the program, which served to enhance the artistic quality of the production, was splendidly executed by Miss Gertrude Lack with the assistance of Miss Nina Irving.

Mr. Glenn Clark read and recited the poem of Hiawatha as the children noted. His reciting was clear and distinct, with great expression. Mr. Clark is to be complimented upon his splendid success.

Theatrical News.
There is no let-up to the success of "A Gentleman from Mississippi," which continues crowded in the Bijou Theatre, where it has been running since last September. No better comedy entertainment has ever been offered than this tremendous footlighting of a phase of Washington life that seems to appeal to all classes. Just as Washington is the centre of pure national activities and the seat of the Federal Government, just so it must be the centre of popular interest for all through whose veins courses real American blood. And his shrewd staging of the man of official activity and the woman who make Washington the social Mecca which it must necessarily make a direct appeal, especially as it is made the thread upon which is strung one of the strongest and most human plays of modern times.

Two Great Buildings United in One by the Wanamaker "Bridge of Progress"

Combining the Completest Stores of Apparel for Men, Women and Children with the Most Exhaustive Assemblage of Furnishings for the Home

Each new season finds WANAMAKER'S more broadly helpful to the Public. Aggressive BETTERMENT of Merchandise and Service is the distinctive Wanamaker policy.

Today the old "White Palace of Merchandise," built by A. T. Stewart, a generation ago, is MADE ONE with the New Wanamaker Galleries of Furnishing and Decoration, by the broad, spacious, artistic, double-decked "Bridge of Progress," which connects the second and third floors of the two buildings.

The Wanamaker Store today represents THE MOST EFFICIENT PUBLIC SERVICE THAT EXISTS, in all matters of Personal Apparel, and the Furnishing and Decoration of the Home.

Comfortable Swiss-Ribbed Underwear for Women

There are many quality-advantages as well as style-advantages in the Wanamaker stocks of Women's Underwear. This is because we directly import these garments from the manufacturers abroad, thus we are able to have them made finer at each price, and have them made after improved ideas exclusively our own. For instance, a great many women have formed a liking for our 50c Ribbed Lisle Thread Vests, made with round neck—an attractive style found only in the Wanamaker vests. They are low neck and sleeveless.

The same style is made in extra sizes for 75c.

Another style at 75c has low neck and short sleeves, and high neck and short or long sleeves.

Silk-and-merino Swiss Ribbed Vests, in white, light weight, with low neck, sleeveless or with short sleeves, at $1 each.

Also Silk-and-lisle thread Vests, high neck and short sleeves, at $1. Finer grades at $1.25 and $1.50 each. Main floor, Old Bldg.

Women's Summer Stockings A Symphony in Silk

Never was there a time, when the woman who invested in Silk Stockings could be less fairly criticized for extravagance than now.

For one thing, the prevailing styles of low shoes make silk hosiery almost imperative, to achieve the best effect. For another, one can get excellent Silk Stockings for very little money.

Wanamaker Silk Stockings are all specially selected grades. Price for price, we put in more quality than you'll be apt to find elsewhere. And we add as much service to them as we can—Cotton soles, for example, reinforced heels and toes, cotton garter tops—strength at precisely the points of greatest wear and strain. These we are especially proud of:

Black Silk Stockings at $1.15, $1.50 and $2 a pair.—Pure silk, with all-silk feet or cotton soles. The best qualities to be had at their various prices.

The Wanamaker Star Brand at $1.50 a pair.—Black pure silk Stockings, with 5-inch cotton-top, and with cotton soles, heels and toes.

Embroidered Silk Stockings at $2 and $2.50 a pair.—Of black fine silk, with fronts prettily embroidered, in various designs and combinations. And at $5 and $6 a pair.—We have some pretty French-fine silk Stockings, in handsome colorings with embroidered fronts.

Main floor, Old Building.

The "Housekeeper's Comfort" and the "Housework" do more than give women trim, shapely, stylish figures. They are so admirably modeled; so well built, so easy, so comfortable, that they are a supreme factor in keeping the temper sweet under the thousand and one frets of household work.

Aren't both considerations worth while?

The house cleaning upheavals, due now, will be worlds easier, and you will come out of them freer from wrinkles and looking years younger, if you wear one of these well-designed corsets.

The "Housework" is cut low in the bust and very low under the arms, is unusually heavily and well boned, and cost $1.50.

The "Housekeeper's Comfort" is a still stronger model, with long, really beautiful lines over back and hips and a special clasp. This costs $3, and is used by a great many women as their very best corset.

MEMORIAL DAY IN SCHOOLS.

G. A. R. Veterans Talk to Pupils on Civil War.

The exercises of Memorial Day were held last Friday morning in the chapel of the Washington school. The school sang many of the national and patriotic songs while three members of the Grand Army of the Republic spoke to the students. Mr. S. W. Reese, the head of the delegation of the G. A. R. spoke to the pupils on the celebration of Memorial Day and "for a change," as he said he read the records of one of the battles in which he took part. He also read a list of the battles and skirmishes engaged in by his division of the Pennsylvania Reserves.

Mr. C. W. Harden, also of the G. A. R., spoke on the importance of Memorial Day and also urged and pointed out that the pupils, the coming generation, would be the ones who would have to perform the ceremonies of the day in years to come. He expressed his hope that they would do this willingly and properly.

Mr. Towle told the pupils of the punishments of soldiers when they disobeyed—a lesson which was taken to heart by every pupil.

CHECKERS.

The Memorial Day match between New York and Westfield put the editor of this column up against a pretty stiff proposition in the person of one of New York's best players. The best we could do was to get three draws out of the six games, and were pleased to be able to get even so much. Our readers will be interested in studying the score of one or two of these games.

GREAT CHECKER MATCH.

Westfield Ties New York.

On Memorial Day six experts of the New York Checker Club learned something of the beauties of this suburb, and incidentally carried home with them a big surprise. Their club sent out a strong team, their Captain (Bradford) being a professional, with the avowed intention of not giving Westfield "even a smell of a game," as one expressed it. Imagine their surprise when at the close of the afternoon session little Westfield led the score by one game.

During the recess, in which a good dinner was enjoyed, Mr. Bradford hunted out some talk to his players, which resulted in their recovering the afternoon's loss, so that the contest ended a tie.

Each side scored 9 wins, 0 losses and 15 draws.

Unfortunately for Westfield Ball and Kimball were not present in the afternoon. Had they been, Westfield would have won the match, judging from their evening scores. In their absence New York generously gave Westfield one of their players—Mr. Compton for the afternoon session.

The individual scores were as follows:

	WIN.	LOSS.	DRAW.
Table No. 1. Bradford	3	0	3
" 2. Oliver	1	2	3
" 3. Gotham	1	2	3

Westfield certainly deserves great credit for this splendid showing, against the strongest checker club in the country.

Resolutions by W. C. T. U.

At the meeting the W. C. T. U. held on Tuesday, June 1st, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union represents the highest interests of the home and the community, moral and religious, and believing that each man's life should be an example safe and beneficent for every other man to follow.

Resolved, That we deeply regret that the Board of Trade, representing the commercial interests of the community, and composed largely of men identified with the church of Jesus Christ, should have deemed it expedient to serve wine at their late banquet, where the Governor of the State was the guest of honor, and we commend the example of President Taft, at whose request no wine was served at the Inaugural Ball.

Men Past Fifty in Danger.

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. B. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." Sold at Gale's Pharmacy.

O. O. Brown, of Chestertown, Md., tried for 14 years to raise ducks, but they always died at the "feathering age." Last year he used Fairchild's Blood Tonic for Poultry Only and raised every duck but one that hatched out. Any poultry raiser will secure equally as good results. You Face an Ice Famine, Mr. Consumer

It has been said: "It will pay every butcher in Westfield to close his shop for the Summer. The price of ice is so high, the corresponding increase in the cost of meats so large, that he will be scarcely able to run his business without a loss."

This statement may be generally true. We do not know to what extent local merchants have prepared themselves to meet the emergency of an ice famine. That one is upon us there is no doubt. The price of ice is soaring higher and higher; the demand is large and will steadily increase as hot weather comes on; there is not enough ice on hand, nor will there be enough manufactured to supply the demand.

But Windfeldt is prepared to meet every emergency

He has installed in his store a large refrigerating plant, and will use no ice at all this Summer. His refrigerators are large enough to accommodate his supplies of meats and vegetables, and are so constructed as to keep perfectly cool all that they carry. By the pure cold air process, meats and vegetables can be kept much fresher and cleaner than by ice refrigeration. Ice makes dampness and a musty smell in the box which is entirely absent in cold air refrigerators. Moreover, Mr. Windfeldt has always felt it to be a part of business obligation to accommodate his many customers. He has a large and growing business; those who patronize him, never desert him. They are satisfied. In consideration of the show of satisfaction, Mr. Windfeldt will this Summer carry out his policy of obliging his customers with meats at a very low cost, even if he be the loser in profits thereby. To this end, he is prepared to sell, during the Summer months, meats below the regular market price.

Mr. Windfeldt feels that he can afford to lose for a few months in the Summer in order to help his customers in what must be to all a very trying period.

Besides the regular meat department, Windfeldt's grocery department is prepared to meet the demands of all customers. Remember that you can get anything that you want in the meat, grocery and vegetable line at Windfeldt's, and all your wants will be supplied by one delivery. There is also a pie, pastry, bread and fancy cakes department, and you can purchase any delicacy in this line that you may desire at Windfeldt's combination store.

HO! HO! FOR PORTAUPECK.

The Westfielder with children needs for himself and them, the decided change of air that is so necessary to their health's welfare, and that only can be procured by life at the seashore. Walter J. Lee our enterprising real estate agent of the Flatiron Building realizing this, has taken the agency for Portaupeck Bungalow sites. The ideal Bungalow Colony sitsuate on the beautiful Shrewsbury and only ten minutes by trolley to Long Branch.

See Portaupeck. Rest your eyes on its beautiful surroundings; note the vast estates and sumptuous villas of men of prominence and wealth on all sides, who long ago realized the value of this location as a health resort; think of its four miles of water front; its sandy beach, clear, clean water, the excellence of its fishing, crabbing and boating, its club house for residents, the famous old Portaupeck Inn on the property; the graveled boulevards, water mains and electrical lighting; its air of comfort and quiet; and you will agree that there is an unsurpassed combination of city, country and seashore. And not the least among the many advantages of Portaupeck is the character of its residents, this high standard will be rigidly upheld.

Mr. Lee's arrangement is such, that he can sell you a handsome lot 50x150 from $500 up or a complete bungalow ready to move into now from $3000, and can make the easiest kind of terms with small payment down and smaller payments monthly. Call at his busy corner and get a booklet. Mr. Lee will "auto" the really interested prospective buyer to inspect the property.

DR. MORGAN WRITES HIS AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

His Boyhood Impressions of New York During the First Years of the War of the Rebellion.

Opposite the rough board fence, the other side of the street was lined with the lowest class of "ghin mills." Watching their opportunity, a dozen of Col. Billy's soldiers would scale the fence and go into these ghin mills and "load up." Then another dozen would report to the officer of the day, and they or another squad would be sent to arrest the deserters! This squad too would proceed to "load up," and the same process would be repeated until about two hundred soldiers, in all would by this process be filled and sent to the Guard house to sleep off their drunks!

Well, we can't make silk purses out of sow's ears. These men were mustered out at the end of three months, but almost all of them re-enlisted, and, not as food for powder but as brave soldiers, and most of them sleep their last sleep in the National Cemeteries at Seven Pines, at Fredericksburg and at Gettysburg!

When the Billy Wilson regiment was finally ordered to embark for the Dry Tortugas, the Vanderbilt, (the steamer presented to the Government by Commodore Vanderbilt) was hauled up to receive them. But Col. Billy would not take ship until he had shown off his soldiers who had now received their uniform and equipments. "I will show New York that my soldiers are as good as the best," he said. So he somehow got the regiment up to Central Park and on the morning of the day they were to embark the regiment paraded with a fine band at their head down Fifth avenue to the wharf. Col. Billy on horseback was supported by two aids (and had had a better grade of whiskey perhaps than the Staten Island gin mills afforded!) Among other equipments, the regiment had been supplied with "havelocks" (linen or white cloth coverings for the cap with an apron hanging down to protect the back of the neck from the sun.) These "havelocks" by being easily made, were very popular things for patriotic New York ladies to make in their sewing circles. As the regiment passed Tenth street I stood at the door of the Rectory of the Church of the Ascension (of which my Uncle Rev. John Cotton Smith was the Rector) with my aunt Mrs. Smith and several ladies. Noticing that one soldier had no havelock, one of a bunch the Ascension ladies had been making was given to me and I was sent to present it to that soldier! The havelocks the regiment had were of coarse brownish linen or something. Those that the Ascension ladies had made were of some soft white woolen fabric with a piece for the visor of the cap, lined with green silk! On my presenting the one of these I carried to my soldier, every soldier in the line lastly pulled off his coarse havelock and looked appealingly at our group of ladies. It was a good scheme, as James Lewis used to say, "but it didn't work." We scattered no more havelocks in that regiment. The sequel was that when Col. Billy embarked on the Vanderbilt he promptly tumbled down an open hatchway. The regiment refused to embark until he was all right again. The Provost marshal of the District found most of the regiment next morning by corralling the station houses. But the entire regiment was finally sent into duty. At about the same time I saw the famous Sickles brigade five thousand strong under a circus tent in the interior of Staten Island. And I remember the soldier like form and piercing eye of that splendid soldier, Gen. Sickles. I thought him the handsomest man I had ever seen, handsome as a Greek god. Later on, when he had let a leg on the field at Gettysburg, I was to meet him in Erie Railway matters as counsel for the bondholders in the legal fight to oust Fisk and Gould.

Let me relate out of its order here what is, I think, a good story. On the day that Lincoln was first nominated for President at Chicago a certain New York city evening paper had been getting out hourly editions. The Editorial staff had gone home tired out, the forms had all been made up for a last page of a last edition except five lines; and, up stairs, in the den of the night editor, sat the youngest man on the staff with a bit of copy before him to take up these five lines! It read "Mr. Seward nominated on the —th ballot!" The young man was fast asleep. Suddenly there came a howl up the old-fashioned tin speaking tube, at the young fellow's ear! He woke up and got the message "Lincoln is nominated." "What the — did you say that name was?" he shouted back! "Lincoln!" "Spell it!" roared the young sub-managing editor! And so, through that old-fashioned tin-tube in the midnight of that weary day, a sub-telegraph operator spelled up the tube, the name that was, like that Lexington cannon ball, to echo round the world!
