Throwing Your Money Away

That is exactly what you are doing Mr. Rent-payer. Have you ever figured up how many houses you have paid for and given to your land lords? Has it ever occurred to you that you have been and now are paying a pretty high price for the mere privilege of living in the house you occupy? Think absolutely all the tangible interest you have there is in the contents?

When will you decide that there is little in it for you to be forever paying for that other man's property? Has it not many times seemed to you that rent-day comes around about three times a month? Do you not believe that where rent-day now irritates you, saving-day (if you are paying Building and Loan assessments instead of rent) would cause correspondingly as great gratification?

We feel certain that we are offering the very best of advice when we say

Stop Paying Rent—Own Your Own Home.

Don't wait any longer but cast up accounts and see just where you stand. It will be easier than you will at first believe, to reconstruct your expense account so as to secure a home site. We shall gladly meet you half way on the part-payment question—that is if you like our none-better-in-all-Westfield home sites with title guaranteed, all improvements in, ample restrictions to make the future safe.

Every month you pay rent means just that much more money lost. We would like to talk it all over with you.

POT LUCK ENTERTAINS 'EM.

Gives New York "Hurry Up" Boys a Merry Picnic Under Auspices of Pearsall Company.

EAT EVERYTHING IN SIGHT.

But One of 'Em Gets the Colic—Take Baskets Full of Good Things Home, and Narrowly Escape a Smash-Up.

Pearsall's News Bureau, a New York enterprise of the Pearsall Company, gave an outing to its messenger force Saturday afternoon, up at Potluck, where lives in ease and contentment, the founder of the Pearsall outfit.

The guests were the "Pearsall Copy Boys," known to every Metropolitan newspaper office in the big city, and more familiar with the inside of the Sky-scraper region than with the outside of God's own country.

They were all city youngsters, unhappily reared all too soon to the ceaseless rush and roar of newspaperdom.

John Shinsabugh, the desk man, came with the boys; and so did Mrs. Jeanne Wickham and Miss Agnes McLean, both of them star typewriters, who "eat up" dictations direct, with no time for stenography; punctuating with marvellous judgment from the inflections of the voice of the party dictating; an accomplishment acquired only after large experience and calling for a thorough knowledge of "Our language as she's spoken;" and for physical strength, as well; since each "book" is made up of eighteen tissue sheets, and the "copy" must all be legible.

The boys, it transpired as they tumbled into Willoughby's big stage at the station, "had it in" for the Bosses, whom they had challenged for a ball game—they meant to take "a fall" out of the men who had for months been trying them down. Here they were, the "copy" boys, and the "Bosses" were the "Harvest" apples and blackberries, and buttermilk, and ice cream, and baked beans and layer cake—"Hully gee three kinds!"—and bananas and pickles, and sundry kinds of sandwiches, and coffee, all of which were "hid in," without regard to rotation!

Strange to say, only one of all the party got tangled up with colic! Every boy took home a bag of apples and a pail of blackberries.

The office nine consisted of Joseph Lopp, Valentine Mulkrantz, Harry Clancy, Walter Reisenweber, Frank Flynn, George Deegan, William Ellis, William Steibero, Andrew Sluggovitch and Daniel Daly.

On the return home the Willoughby stage was nearly wrecked by a speeding auto at the crossing of Lenape Road and Springfield avenue where hedges shut out a view of approaching vehicles—an obstruction that could be removed for a song of expense to the Borough.

Until it is done a fearful responsibility awaits the Council which is fully aware that the death trap exists for the want of a little enterprise and an insignificant outlay!

MRS. BUCKLEY ENTERTAINS.

Gives Card Party in Honor of Miss Axmacher, of New York.

Mrs. F. F. Buckley gave a card party in honor of Miss Axmacher, of New York City, last Monday evening at her home on Dudley avenue. Twenty-six guests enjoyed a good game of hearts after which refreshments were served. Dancing concluded the evening's enjoyment.

Those present were: Miss Axmacher, of New York City; Miss Smith, of Warrensville; Miss Marion Demman, Miss Elizabeth Ames, Miss Marion Koeler, Misses Anna and Ethel Irving, the Misses Harrison, the Misses Jimeron and Mrs. F. F. Buckley.

Messrs. Takanami and Ohki, of Japan; G. Axmacher, of New York City; Stanley Keellogg, of Milwaukee; Harris Hopwood, George Taylor, Harold Irving, Clifford Brown, Howard Hastings, Elmer Saunders, Alan Martell, Donald Taggart, Spencer Embree, Chaucey Buckley and E. George, of Chicago, and the mystery is: Where was Mr. George when the light went out?

THEY GO A-FISHING.

Local Anglers Pay a Semi-Official Visit to Boynton Beach.

'Twas a jolly bunch that started at seven o'clock, last Wednesday morning, for Boynton Beach in carriages and an automobile. They went fishing, and, honestly, they did bring home about six weakfish and one squirming eel! With A. H. Meyer, Henry Harris, H. C. Piker, A. D. Tuttle, Herbert A. Love, and Donald Felle in carriages, and Connelmen Wilson and Hohenstein, and J. H. Willet and W. H. Quackenbush in an automobile they arrived at Boynton Beach. They say a motor boat (2) took them to the place where the fish were so thick that you could not see through the water.

A. H. Meyer was the first man on the job. With patience he hauled in the first and largest catch of the expedition. At noon they landed at Seawaren to eat their lunch. A. H. Meyer was again on the job. He suddenly "got a peachy bite" and he again started in "a-pullin' away." After a tough struggle, a lot of noise, and a broken pole, Mr. Meyer succeeded in landing an "eel." It was an eel; it was over twelve inches long, too. After spending a long time in untangling and casting his line again, he had to pull in and get ready to carry the big catch home.

PRESBYTERIANS WIN AGAIN.

Have a Harder Time With Congregationalists Who Played Earnestly.

The second game of the series between the Men's Clubs teams of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches, resulted in a score of 16-8 in favor of the Presbyterians.

The game, which was played at Recreation Park, last Saturday afternoon, was very good up to the fifth inning, after which lack of practice and endurance began to show. The game was a much better one than the previous game, however, and tomorrow's will be a "ball game" if the improvement is equal. As the weather was in good spirits, a large crowd attended the game; but the crowd showed their ignorance when they joked and laughed at umpire McDonald's manner of announcing from the pitcher's box. Those who attend the National League games, know that McDonald's umpiring was correct.

At the close of the first inning the score was a tie; but in the second inning the Morgan team cheered up and made the score 3-4 in their favor.

In the third, tables were turned and made the score in favor of the Clark team, 6-5. This inning saw Hegeman retire, not being in condition.

The Presbyterians scored in every inning except the sixth and made six runs in the eighth.

There were noteworthy features to the game.

Green's three lagger was certainly a "peach"; Meyer did fine field work; Hanford and Hall made a name by getting 21 of the 23 outs.

Did you notice Clark's running catch off Oelschleiger?

Wild pitches and passed balls gave the winners six runs.

Honestly, there will be a good game next week. They're practicing "awfully" hard.

FOR ELIZABETH HOSPITALS.

Half-a-Day's Pay Plan Received Favorably All Over the Country.

LOCAL COMMITTEE MET LAST NIGHT.

C. H. K. Halsey Explained Nature and Objects of Work.—Town to be Divided Into Districts.

Plans for "Hospital Half-Pay Day" have reached a point where every indication points to the event being probably the greatest and most universal charity affair ever attempted. Frequent meetings of the general and auxiliary committee are being held and a healthy interest in the enterprise is being shown throughout the county in all classes. The workers are much encouraged by the co-operation of the citizens and residents at large, and in the remaining weeks before the day set for the collection of funds in aid of Elizabeth's three great institutions the arrangements will have been so systematized as to make the work comparatively simple.

In all the surrounding towns and suburbs benefitting by the hospitals of Elizabeth, the movement, while still in its infancy, is steadily gaining strength, and there is every indication that the collection will be quite as much of a county event as a purely Elizabeth affair.

While the movement bears the name "Half-a-Day's Pay," there is no compulsion regarding the contributions; neither is there any restriction as to the amount Wago-earners may contribute whatever they may please. It is the hope of the committee, however, that each person will contribute at least one-half of his or her day's earning.

The proceeds of the project will be divided equally between the three hospitals of Elizabeth: The Elizabeth General, the Alexian Brothers and the St. Elizabeth Hospitals.

The movement not only covers Elizabeth, but also the adjacent municipalities receiving service from the Elizabeth institutions as follows: Rahway, Westfield, Cranford, Roselle Park, Roselle Borough, Garwood, Linden, Kenilworth, Lyons Farms and Union and Clark townships.

At the meeting of the local committee last night, at which Mayor Alpers presided, Mr. C. H. K. Halsey, of Elizabeth, outlined the plan of work there. He emphasized the fact that Westfielders were directly benefitted by the Elizabeth Hospitals, and that many of Westfield's sick poor had been cured for free of charge. Local patients, he said, always had access to the hospitals.

Mr. Halsey told of the Half-Pay Scheme in detail, showing the success which had resulted from a similar enterprise in Bayonne, when out of a population of 40,000, $23,000 had been raised for the hospitals of that city.

In Elizabeth, he said, the city was to be districted, and each district was to be given over to a captain who was to appoint lieutenants to visit all the houses and leave envelopes for every wage earner. All collections must be made on one day, September 25. Any and everyone was free to give little or much—not necessarily a half-a-day's pay.

The hospitals of Elizabeth are maintained by charity, the state and city appropriating a share of the expense. It costs approximately $75,000 per year to maintain the three Elizabeth hospitals: The Elizabeth General, St. Elizabeth, and the Alexian. It is hoped by the Half-a-Day's Pay scheme to realize a sufficient sum to maintain the hospitals without frequently appealing to the chief benefactors for funds.

The Westfield end of the enterprise is being taken up enthusiastically. A good attendance marked the meeting last night. It is tentatively planned to divide each of the wards into three districts with a captain in charge of each. The local committee will meet again next Thursday night when the captains will be appointed.

"LADY SIDNUT" TO RESCUE.

Clarie Smith's Fast Mare Wins Three Straight Heats in the 2:30 Trot.

"FRED V." DISAPPOINTS ADMIRERS.

Frank Irving's Favorite Loses to Giles "The Minister"—Good Racing and a Good Crowd at Meet.

The Matinee Meet for Cups, given under the auspices of the Westfield Driving and Riding Club, at Fair Acres track, last Saturday afternoon, furnished some interesting sport to a large crowd of lovers of good horse flesh, as well as some interesting surprises.

Frank Irving's "Fred V." regarded as a sure winner of the 2:25 trot, disappointed his admirers by losing three straight heats to "The Minister," owned by N. M. Giles, of Lincoln. Something must have been the matter, for "Fred V." never pressed the winner at all.

But "Fred V.'s" poor showing was off-set by the fast work of Clarence Smith's "Lady Sidnut." The local mare captured the 2:30 trot in three straight heats. Two other local trotters figured in this event. R. W. French's "Queen" captured second place, and Clarie Smith's "Ithyn" third place.

The track was not as fast as on the previous meet. The heavy rains of Friday made good going out of the question. The track was slippery, and at times the horses had difficulty in getting a good foot-hold. In consequence there was a difference of about six seconds in the time of the winners. However, the racing was uniformly good, and the crowd was larger than had been expected—conditions which gave encouragement to the promoters of the sport.

In the Free-for-All, "Powder Boy" made a good showing, but his irregular running lost his owner first honors, which went to A. C. Blair's "Aaron B." These two horses, it will be remembered, ran a dead heat in this class at the matinee meet on July 27th. The "Three Minute Class," for local horses only, furnished some amusement. Two heats were run, C. W. Sortor's "Prince Virginia" taking both handily, and within the limit of time.

Cranford Wins at Tennis.

Several members of the Golf Club went to Cranford last Saturday and played an invitation tennis match with representatives of Cranford Golf Club. The Cranford players displayed both confidence and skill and proved too strong for the local men, who almost without exception lacked aggressiveness. The singles match between Smith of Westfield and Marston of Cranford showed some very good tennis with many exciting rallies. Marston had to extend himself to win the match 6-2; 4-6; 7-5. The Wren Bros. and Mr. Bates and partner won their doubles matches for Cranford 6-1; 7-5 and 6-1; 6-3 respectively, the Westfield players being Gould, Snitley, Sauborn and Outler. A return match will be played in August.

High Ideals Should Be Guide.
In the adoption of a profession or trade another important fact not to be overlooked is the end to which your selection will lead. Let high ideals be your guide, lofty motives your ambition. A man may profitably work for money, but money and social position are the lowest imaginable ideals. When you have fixed upon your purpose go fearlessly onward. Don't mind sneers and taunts and calumnies. Weave your crown with the garlands of obstacles conquered and difficulties overcome.

Barberous.
One of the most unfortunate things of life is that men get into wrong places. Sometimes the fault is not their own. Possibly their attention has not been called to the fact by wiser men that they might be more successful at something else. For instance, a man who is a poor barber might be a good fish scaler.—Boston Herald.

Bad Outlook for Boy.
NURSE—Wanted, a robust, God-fearing Scotch nurse who can teach the shorter catechism, and has a working knowledge of the business side of a slipper, to take charge of a four-year-old boy who has a double dose of original sin. Apply, stating wages required to X Y Z, care of Clarke & Son, stationers, Guilford.—From an English Exchange.

Trouble for Midnight Sons.
"Now that the doctors are locating lies by means of X-rays," said the little grass widow, "I don't know what's to become of the men. It'll be worse than having a wife who sees what they are doing in a sort of psychic trance and tell them all about it when they get home in the wee hours of the morning."

Pays to Use Preservatives.
It is estimated that a fence post, which under ordinary circumstances will last for perhaps two years, will, if given preservative treatment costing about ten cents, last 18 years. The service of other timbers, such as railroad ties and telephone poles, can be doubled and often trebled by inexpensive preservative treatment.

Fly Remarks.
"When the angler stands knee deep in a mad brook, waiting for a trout to switch his fly under," asks a true Waltonian, "do his thoughts run in dactyls or spondee?" Never thought of it in that light, but have heard fishermen saying words like those.—N. Y. Herald.

Divided the Wedding Presents.
The following advertisement appears in a Hungarian journal: "Ilma Rok and Franz Stoll have great pleasure in informing their friends that their engagement is broken off, and that they have amicably agreed to divide the wedding presents received instead of returning them to the donor."

The Journal of a Neglected Baby

By Barbara Bliss

I do like bashful young men. They are no end of fun. Sometimes I help my mother receive, and to-day when I went in the drawing room I saw one of them standing in the middle of the room. Any intelligent infant can pick out a bashful man from a roomful of people without the slightest hesitation, though no one else may have discovered that he is.

There is something in his eye as soon as he sees us that gives him away at once. This one was such a funny man. I just howled.

He had nice, fat pink cheeks and baby blue eyes and pretty yellow hair plastered down smooth over his head. He had a mouth just like mine, and the same guileless expression.

It was really very amusing when he frowned, which he did as soon as he saw me. When he frowned he looked just as I look when I frown and the women say:

"O, see the cunning little frown? Does it think it's cross?"

He was the first person I noticed when I went in, and as soon as I saw that frown I chuckled to myself.

Then I cooed softly and held out my arms to him pleasantly. So nurse took me over to him at once.

"Confound it!" I heard him mutter. "What do they want to bring that young one in here for?"

Nurse stopped in front of him. "She noticed you as soon as we came in, sir."

Nurse said this as if she expected him to be proud of it, but he only backed still further away.

"Goo, goo, goo," I cried genially. A few women turned and stared at us.

"Why, the little darling!" cried one. "She wants to come to you, Mr. Jones. Do take her."

Mr. Jones' face grew very red. He backed into a tea table and eyed me anxiously.

Nurse held me out to him. "She wants you to take her, sir," said nurse, beaming upon him. "I am sure, sir, I never saw her take so to no gentleman before."

I smiled at him sweetly. I could see now that his knees were trembling, and funny little bits of perspiration were standing out all over his face.

"O, do take her, Mr. Jones," cried a very pretty girl. "Watch her hold out her cunning little hands to you! Don't you just love her?"

"Yes, yes," he murmured, weakly. "Very nice child. Remarkable infant. Most—er—precious. Just—just take it away, my good woman."

I screwed my face up at once. Nurse looked doubtful.

"She is going to cry, sir. Would you mind just taking her for a minute, sir?"

Sometimes I suspect that nurse has a sense of humor.

Mr. Jones did mind. I could see that he minded very much.

I gave a pathetic little wail, just a foretaste of what I could do in that line, and held out my arms to him appealingly.

"O, isn't it too sweet?" cried another girl. "Now, Mr. Jones, you simply must take the little dear."

Here I regret to say Mr. Jones lost his temper.

"I'll be—dabbed—dabbed—if I do," he cried furiously.

No self-respecting infant could ignore such treatment.

I promptly doubled up both fists and let out the full volume of my voice. This attracted general attention to

Mr. Jones. Everybody in the room turned and stared at us.

"If I might be so bold," sir," said nurse, "I think you had better take her, sir, for a minute."

Mr. Jones grew very pale. Then he took me from nurse and, grabbing me wildly about the middle, held me gingerly at arm's length, while he looked helplessly at nurse, as if asking her to tell him what to do next.

He amused me so that I doubled right up. I simply roared. Everybody thought I was crying, but I was really convulsed with laughter.

Then, recovering myself, I plunged one hand deep in his hair, pulling with all my strength, while I kicked him violently under my long clothes; at the same time turning to my mother's guests and smiling upon them serenely.

"What a heavenly smile!" cried one woman. "That child is too good to live."

The Appreciation of Art.
A picture presents an idea of beauty to the observer, and besides this quality it compels the mind to conjure into existence a microcosm of beautiful thought. While it may be stated that the quality which enables us to appreciate art is more psychological than intellectual, it is necessary in considering it in a critical sense to admit that it has two sides, classical and romantic, otherwise intellectual and emotional.—From "What is a Picture?"

Go from Home to Hear News.
A rug said to be worth more than $2,000 and the finest in the world has been presented to the White House at Washington by a wealthy Armenian merchant of New York. This precious rug is imperial silk, heavily jeweled with rich pearls, turquoises, rubies, and other precious stones. It has been framed as a screen for the adornment of the president's parlor.—London Tit-Bits.

Chance for a Bet.
Athlone people seem determined to force a certain bachelor to marry. For 20 years they have been "talking" about him, and wondering if he is going to marry this one or that one. "Why can't people let the poor man alone? If he wants to be a bachelor, whose business is it? Every time he goes" with a new girl, Athlone people begin betting on the result. (And incidentally we will bet five to one that his present steady doesn't land him.)—Athlone Globe.

Bagged a White Tigress.
From India comes a story of an Albinotiger. A white tigress, eight feet eight inches in length, has been shot at Dhenkana state, Orissa. The ground color was pure white and the stripes were of a deep reddish black. The skin has been presented to the rajah of Dhenkana, who has had it mounted and placed in his palace. The hunters of that country say that it is the only white tiger they have seen.

Of course, not all of our furniture is reduced in price. The great regular stocks of furniture, exceeding a million dollars in our New York and Philadelphia stores are only partially reduced, as they must be ready for our September business, as they were ready for our July business. But we have provided more largely than in most previous years, for this August occasion, by extensive purchases, as well as radical reductions from our own stock, presenting a collection of under-priced furniture, which housekeepers will find is so broad in variety and price ranges that their desired requirements will be abundantly met.

There are large collections of inexpensive, but thoroughly artistic and well-made furniture, as well as the more ornate kinds, up to an under-price assemblage of the very finest reproductions of classic and old-time Forefathers' Furniture, of which there is shown at Wanamaker's the largest collection to be found on exhibition in the United States.

Every variety of parlor, library, bedroom and dining-room furniture, as well a splendid collection of metal bedsteads in enameled iron and the various finishes in brass, all of the best construction known to the craft.

Three Galleries of Our Fine New Building Are Devoted to This Great August Sale

Every piece on the three great floors is of the standard Wanamaker quality, style and finish, and every purchaser is protected by the broad Wanamaker guarantee of satisfaction.

Our August Furniture Sale meets the same quality standards as our all-year-round furniture, the character and moderate prices of which, have built this up to be THE LARGEST FURNITURE BUSINESS ON THIS CONTINENT.

Any housekeeper will be well repaid, for even a long railway journey, to come to Wanamaker's and take advantage of this August opportunity. The Sale will last during the entire month, as ample quantities have been provided in the various offerings; but there is always a definite advantage in being present on the first day of the sale, or during the first week, as many special lots are then presented, which, of course, are quickly sold and cannot be duplicated.

THE AVERAGE SAVING IS ABOUT ONE-THIRD OF THE USUAL RETAIL PRICE. But some reductions are still greater and others not so large.

The New York City newspapers of Monday, August 2nd, will give a comprehensive list of the offerings in detail. Those who arrange for a visit to New York on that day will be well rewarded for the journey.

ADVERTISING AS AN ART.

The value of advertising to the pushful business man is being more and more emphasized. In a large business enterprise, this field is covered by a separate department, and a certain percentage of the year's profit is for its exclusive use. The more business a man does, the more he advertises.

A certain large wholesale house determined a few years ago, to drop advertising for one year, and watch results. This concern had spent upwards of $100,000 in exploiting its business. During the year of no advertising, the business fell off nearly $200,000, and, in the succeeding year, the advertising appropriation was doubled with an effort to recoup. The agent of the company recently informed the writer that his concern had not yet recovered the losses sustained in the year when no advertising was done.

We have but to turn our eyes to the public prints to discover the reason. Advertising is today the only medium through which the consumer is reached. It tells the story of a man's business; what he sells, how he sells it, and why it is of advantage to buy of him. All the powers of commercial art are brought into play through the art of advertising. A novel phrase, a catchy line of verse, a two-colored sketch, illustrative of the particular trade or industry, are employed to catch the eye of the reader; to use the language of the journalist to "make talk," earn publicity for the advertiser, and therein lies the secret of his success. We feel quite on speaking terms with Phoebe Snow and the Gold Dust Twins, and we know with what enterprises they are associated.

Thoreau said that he would rather read the advertisements in a newspaper than the news; there was more individuality, more life in what a man did, than in what other people said. We wonder what the author of "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack," would have to say upon the question now, if he were alive to note the modern method of advertising—a method far in advance of anything he ever saw, or dreamed of.

Advertising is a fine art, and only artists are desired to develop it. Albert Hubbard thinks that journalism is side-stepping to make room for a kindred and more individual art. Possibly so. Certainly the leading artists of the day are in the employ of business houses that advertise extensively, and journalists, free-lance writers and the like, find the "ad-writing" business more profitable and every whit as interesting as "the evolution of a short story."

We confidently look for big things in advertising. There is no reason why it should not serve as lofty purposes as any other field of human endeavor. And certainly the whole effect will be educational, in this way, business may serve a double purpose—that's better than serving one, and, too often, none at all.

THE "PARANOIAC STATE"

Evidently there are varieties of this Paranoiac disease. There is pure paranoia, which is incurable, and a Paranoiac State, which is only temporary. According to Dr. Britton D. Evans, the alienist, "there is no more similarity between these two phases of mental trouble than there is between persimmons and pumpkins. A Paranoiac State can befall anybody, and yet be subject to curative measures."

Fine, indeed. We know the cause now for this insistence upon justice in the handling of subjects once afflicted with this Paranoiac State. If he kill a man, if anybody kill a man, shut him (the live man!) up in a sanatorium for a season, feed him on philosophy and baked beans, let him have the benefits of expert legal advice, which it may be his good fortune to enjoy—these are all curative measures—and in time nature will right itself. He was only the temporary victim of a fatal malady; that is, a malady fatal to somebody else. Absurd to say that the poor, unfortunate victim (of the malady) is a murderer. Paranoiac State did it.

Almost anybody can, to be sure, get the Paranoiac State; but it behooves few of us to be so afflicted. The correct curative measures cannot be applied without the aid of a large and handy bank account. The Poor Devil who is waked up out of a sound sleep, and is suddenly thrown into a Paranoiac State by the piercing and maddening screeches of an irresponsible and irrepressible cat, may be guilty of homicide or infanticide, or something quite as deplorable. The Poor Devil is the victim of a malady which may yet "be subject to curative measures." Yes? Well, he gets them before he knows what ails him, a fact which any hangman or jail warden will not attempt to disprove.

July Coal Costs $6.30 Per Ton.

Through an inadvertence in the setting up of the advertisement of Tuttle Bros. on the first page of last week's issue, it was stated that the price of coal was 6.20 the ton for the month of July. The price of coal increases at the rate of ten cents a month throughout the summer and early fall. The advertisement should have read, "Price, $6.30 for the month of July." The error was clearly an oversight and is not to be construed as an attempt on the part of Tuttle Bros. to cut prices. The schedule is strictly maintained by that concern.

An example of Edward Everett Hale's light-heartedness is told in WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION for August. One day when he was about eighty years old he and I boarded a surface-car in New York. The car was crowded but a lad promptly arose and gave him his seat. "Thank you, my boy," said Hale with great heartiness. "I'll do as much for you some day when you are eighty—if I'm around then."

Walker J. Lee has rented to the Rev. S. L. Loomis, pastor of the Congregational Church, Miss Bridges house Mountain and Kimball avenues, and to W. B. Gibby of Pocono Pa., W. B. Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County. [OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, July 1, 1909, at 8:30 p.m. Roll call showed the following members present:

Director King, Freeholders Adams, Cady, Chasick, Darby, Doane, Garrison, Haviland, Jensen, Jones, Krouse, Martin, Melch, Perry, Robison, Smith, Stephan, Swain and Wilbur—10.

Absent—Freeholder Crane—1.
Owing to the absence of the clerk, N. H. Leavitt was designated and appointed to act as clerk pro tem.

On motion of Freeholder Cady it was ordered that the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting be dispensed with, and that the same be approved as per printed copies on the members' desks.

From the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey.

June 28, 1909.

Mr. Phil, Overseer of Roads, Westfield, N. J.

Dear Sir—To confirm my statement to you personally this morning will say that in the press of work the request for permits to open the street in Springfield, namely, Morris avenue, entirely escaped my attention. As we have never refused to conform to this rule I beg the neglect on my part be overlooked and will see that it does not occur again. The man that did the work was a new one in that territory and did not understand the rule of tunneling under the macadam. That you may have a record of the opening I now make application for the three houses opposite Satter street, Morris avenue, Springfield, belonging to Mr. Paynter.

Very truly yours,

M. S. SHERWOOD, Agent.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse received and referred to the County Road Committee and County Road Inspector Phil.

From George B. Wright, as follows:

Trenton, N. J., June 10, 1909.

Honorable Board of Freeholders of Union County, Elizabeth, N. J.

Gentlemen—Permit me to call your attention to the statement freely made in this State that there are a large number of defects in State institutions classed as intelligent and supported by the State and county, when persons who legally are liable for their maintenance have ample means for their support.

I am satisfied that there is some reason for this statement, but just how much I am unable to say, but I think if the statement is true it ought to be known and the remedy applied, and if untrue the public mind should be satisfied by an official statement to that effect.

Union county some years ago made an investigation and recovered considerable money; Morris county has recently done something in this direction to its advantage. If the Board of Freeholders could make an examination into the records of the clerk's office the facts as to property could be determined. A large majority of these indigent cases are so palpably without means that it would be a waste of time to consider them, but I respectfully suggest that your honorable board employ a suitable person to make investigations into cases about which there is any doubt. It would be a great benefit to your county and to the State if we could prevent imposition along this line.

In this inquiry, however, I suggest that there be a liberal consideration as to the financial ability of the parties concerned. If a man is receiving but a moderate salary or if he is securing a home for himself, he ought not be unduly burdened with the care of a defective son or daughter.

Very truly yours,

GEORGE B. WRIGHT,

Com. Charities and Corrections, per S.

On motion of Freeholder Stephan received and referred to Lunacy Committee.

From Alfred O. Banta, as follows:

Henry Krouse, Member of Board of Chosen Freeholders.

Dear Sir—Being a resident of the district you represent I would like to call your attention to the bridge or culvert on St. George avenue, between Wood avenue and the Wheatland Hotel, and ask if something can not be done about having same replaced with a new modern open-span bridge about twelve or fourteen feet wide.

The one now there is an old style brick bridge with three small arches and during the past three and a half years that I have lived on the adjoining farm every time we have a little rain it is held back by the bridge, so that it floods several acres of our land and more than half of my neighbor's, Mr. Ritz, and every time it rises over two feet it backs up in my cellar and has done considerable damage to potatoes, etc. Last year I had my incubator in the cellar, and the water rose so high that it put the light out, at that time the arches could not be seen and the water ran over top of the road into Mr. Lutgens's park. The old bridge is about twenty-six feet wide by about seventy across and, as stated above, a twelve-foot open span bridge would have a greater clearance than the present three arches.

Trusting you will give the matter due consideration and please come before board at its next meeting, I remain

Yours very truly,

ALFRED O. BANTA,

St. George Farm.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse it was ordered that the matter be referred to a special committee of three, and the Director appointed as said committee Freeholders Krouse, Wilbur and Chasick.

GEORGE B. GLADER,
HENRY KROUSE,
Committee.

Freeholder Chasick moved that the report be received and the resolution adopted which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the County Road Committee.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

Gentlemen—Your committee would report having received bids for the macadamizing with a top course of amesite, of Jefferson avenue, the dividing line between the county of Union and the county of Middlesex, in conjunction with the Board of Freeholders of Middlesex County, and have awarded the contract, subject to your approval, to Warren Tivell, of Plainfield, at his bid of $4,942, that being the lowest figure received for this work, and we recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the contract for the improvement of Jefferson avenue by macadamizing with the top course of amesite be awarded to Warren Tivell, of Plainfield, N. J., at his bid of $4,942.

The share of this work chargeable to Union county will amount to $1,047.33 after deducting the amount to be received from the State fund.

Bids were also received for the macadamizing of Terrill road with asphalt oil binder but, in view of recent improvement of road construction your committee felt it incumbent on them to investigate still further the amesite construction, and after visiting Camden county and observing this material in the course of construction and also going over a section that had been down nearly a year, we decided that this material would, in our opinion, make a better road than anything now on the market. We therefore rejected all bids on Terrill road and we road verified this work to be constructed with amesite, said bids to be received July 9, 1909.

Respectfully submitted,

E. K. ADAMS,
S. P. T. WILSON,
HENRY KROUSE,
GEORGE B. GLADER,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Wilbur it was ordered that the report of the committee be received and its action confirmed. By the Committee on County Roads.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

Gentlemen—Your Committee on County Roads would respectfully report that bids were received on June 10, 1909, for the improvement work on the two sections of the Edgar road, from Elizabeth to Rahway, and on Walnut and Central avenues, Cranford and Clark townships.

The lowest bidder on the east section of Edgar road was the firm of F. C. Humphrey & Company, and the work was awarded to them at a meeting held on June 17 at the price named in their bid, $18,949.50.

The lowest bidder on the west section of Edgar road was Clarence H. Winans, of Linden, and the work was awarded to him at the price named in his bid, $48,309.64.

The lowest bidder for the amesite work on Walnut and Central avenues was the firm of B. C. Humphrey & Company, and the work was awarded to them on June 17 at the price named in the bid, $16,458.

Contracts have been signed with these contractors for the work above mentioned and the bonds of the contractors have been submitted to the committee and accepted by the committee.

E. K. ADAMS,
GEORGE B. GLADER,
S. P. T. WILSON,
HENRY KROUSE,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse it was ordered that the report be received, accepted and placed on file.

By the Committee on North Avenue Bridge, Cranford, N. J.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders.

Gentlemen—Your Committee on North Avenue Bridge would respectfully report that they have examined the bridge, meeting on the ground with the county engineers.

The bridge spans the Rahway River, at North Avenue. It is a bowstring truss bridge, very lightly built. It is thirty-six feet wide by sixty feet span, there being a twenty-foot roadway and two eight-foot wide sidewalks. The bridge was built in the year 1877 and was an extremely light structure to place at this road, and the wear and tear during the thirty-two years of its life has weakened it, unquestionably.

The bridge has had considerable attention, being strengthened at various times as far as possible.

Under ordinary road traffic, as automobiles, etc., the sway and the deflection and the trembling are very noticeable, and the opinion of the committee and of the engineers is that a new bridge should be built at this place.

DR. MORGAN WRITES HIS AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

But there is one thing about the battle of Gettysburg that is absolutely and entirely unique: It is the only battle that ever got into the Courts. Visitors will remember that at the Bloody Angle stands a granite monument superimposed upon which is a bronze of a young soldier in Zouave uniform brandishing a "clubbed" that is, a reversed musket! (I stood at its dedication while the band played "Comrades" and "Never My God to Thee," and when, (July 4th, 1894,) at my elbow, stood two gentlemen wearing a badge "Survivors of Cushing's Battery" (that battery which when their guns, being all dismounted and no recall sounded, had only, by the rules of war, to fold their arms and await death, and that is just what they did. It happened however that the seventy-second Pennsylvania regiment which supported that Battery had been hurried by raised at the Gettysburg alarm, and was composed of young boys, on vacation from school or college. They had gone out on a sort of "lark," and had chosen the picturesque uniform of the Zouave! When they saw the charge of Pickett's veterans approaching them, their officers could not hold them by orders not to fire until the word was given. But they rushed ahead and after firing away their charges, actually clubbed their muskets and grappled with the old war scarred veterans of the Confederacy? Two hundred and seventy-five feet (to be exact) in front of the position they had been lined up to hold! When this 72nd regiment desired to place its monument on the field the association chartered to maintain the battlefield as a public memorial ground. The Gettysburg Monument Association, anxious of course to uphold the firing line as planted by General Meade assigned to this Seventy-second regiment their proper place. But the survivors wanted to place their monument on the exact ground where their comrades grappled with Pickett's veterans. The matter reached the court which held in favor of the seventy-second regiment. The Association appealed and the Supreme Court sustained the court below. The Appellate Court said (Bruce vs. Gettysburg Battlefield Association, 94th, Pennsylvania 432). "The thirteenth paragraph of the bill avers that a struggle between the Seventy-second Regiment and the enemy occurred in the angle; that the struggle and triumph there of the Seventy-second was a signal event in the history of the battle, which the members of the regiment and their friends and fellow-citizens regard with just pride and gratification; that the spot near the stone fence, so selected by the Plaintiffs and commissioners for the erection of the monument; is a spot upon and around and over which the said struggle took place. This is most cogently proved by (together with other testimony) a few words taken from the evidence offered by the defendants themselves, in the account given by Col. Baues in his History of the Philadelphia Brigade, published in 1876, on page

325: 'General Armistead, who was in the Confederate front, fell mortally wounded close to the colors of the Seventy-second.' The thirteenth paragraph of the bill proceeds "that the said spot or position is one of special interest to commemorate the eventful struggle that there took place, at the critical period of actual combat. Must not something be pardoned to the desire of the men of the Seventy-second to have their participation in this final struggle marked where it took place? Surely they deserve it. To refuse it would be doing them painful injustice. This spot is where they were engaged. The spot where the battlefield association persists in regulating them to in where they were inactive before the final conflict, in which they took a part so worthy of perpetuation. What if this was a melee? It was there the men of the Seventy-second did their duty faithfully and bravely, and it is that position they have a clear right to have marked by their suitable memorial. Their Brigade commander, in writing to his wife three days after the battle, described the advance of the enemy 'right on top of the fence,' where they 'shot my men when their muskets touched their breasts.' 'I saw many of them myself with their clothes scorched.' To think that the brave men who won Gettysburg and Vicksburg had still to die on two more years full of bloody fields before there could be peace! I hope the present generation and all to come after them, to the end of time, will remember what their country has cost!

I suppose it will be said, however, that the War presented only two prose classics to Literature, Lincoln's Gettysburg address, and Dr. Hale's "Man Without a Country." The latter is exceptionally interesting to me because the Gen. Morgan who pronounced the unique sentence was my father's cousin, Gen. David Banister Morgan, of Springfield, Massachusetts, of whom I have a splendid portrait done for me by Julian Scott. He was second to Jackson in command at New Orleans and the histories say that the British drove him from his position across the river "which was the only success they gained that day." As a matter of fact, Gen. Morgan retired when his purpose was accomplished. He was placed by Jackson in the only spot from which the British could have shelled Jackson's breastworks and destroyed him without the frontal attack that destroyed them and he held it with three hundred Kentuckians just as long as was necessary to Jackson's overwhelming victory.

Letting Them Alone

Things were as dull as they usually are at the small resort hotel where a few early comers have preceded the regular season. Therefore the arrival of the ridiculously young looking couple was a cause for the awakening of interest and speculation on the part of the small rocking-chair brigade.

It was given out as authentic by a chatty member of the brigade that the young couple were bride and groom, who had come to that quiet little spot in the Wisconsin woods to pass their honeymoon.

By a sort of tacit understanding no one tried to inflict his or her company or friendship upon the youthful couple. For the first few days no one even stared at them, except very circumpectly.

But then a practical joker appeared on the scene. Immediately the young things were pointed out to his observation.

"Does no one know them yet?" he inquired. "Strikes me that you are unsuitable."

The romantic spinster dropped her drawn work disapprovingly. "Dear me! How can you be so lacking in sentiment?" she asked. "Why, they don't even see us. There doesn't exist any one else in the world for them just now—the dears!" And the spinster sighed.

The practical joker laughed. "Well, I think they look kind of lonesome," he said. "Didn't any one show them the Twin Springs and the Indian Trail? Oh, I say! I think that is a snobbish way to treat newcomers. I must stir things up."

"Don't look, don't look," murmured the spinster, excitedly. "Here they come now." She hurriedly dropped her eyes on her drawn work.

The young couple came slowly down the veranda, looked timidly at the romantic spinster and the practical joker, and then sauntered away to the lawn, where they started to play a game of croquet. The practical joker walked nonchalantly over to the croquet field. Soon peals of laughter came to the ears of the spinster where she sat on the porch with a number of others. Later on when dinner was well under way the bride and groom entered demurely.

An air of excitement and expectancy pervaded the dining room and no one seemed to have started eating. There was a murmur of subdued laughter as the young couple reached their chairs.

"They Look Kind of Lonesome."

and found them tied together with huge bows of white ribbon and decorated with green boughs and white blossoms. The laughter broke out in a storm when a peal of bells came from somewhere near the couple. Across from them the practical joker was working his arm back and forth suspiciously. Then the bride caught her foot in the string and the cowbells and sleighbells were discovered attached underneath her chair.

The bride laughed and blushed as a bride is expected to do and the groom grinned as idiotically as the occasion demanded. But the romantic spinster at the other end of the table had a shocked, hurt expression on her face.

Somehow, after all his trouble, the practical joker seemed to be the only one who would venture to intrude into Arcadia.

"Well, who told you they were bride and groom, anyway?" demanded the practical joker later, after he had listened with apparently good grace to the reproving lecture of the romantic spinster and the echoes of her words from the others.

"Any one with any sense would have known it," said the spinster sharply. "And only a person of no sentiment would have forced his society upon them and made the poor dears so uncomfortable."

"Yes," drawled the practical joker. "Then what am I, anyway? The fact is that they've been married five years—eloped when she was 16 and he 20. They think it's a great joke that you people think they're just married. They helped me to fix up the dining room scene. They asked me to extend their apologies to you all for fooling you, for they are going home to the children to-morrow."

Without a word, in solemn dignity, the romantic spinster rose and left the porch, forgetting her beloved drawn-work, which later blew into the river. —Chicago Daily News.

THEY RANG UP FARES.

Epworth Leaguers Played Conductors on Trolley Ride to Boynton Beach.

The trolley ride to Boynton Beach under direction of the Men's League of the First M. E. Church last night was a splendid success. Three trolley cars filled with a jolly bunch of adults and young people, started at half past seven and arrived at Boynton Beach a little before nine o'clock without any mishaps. After an hour's stay at the Beach, the return to Westfield was made.

Just before the start was made some of the company rang up fares on the register. This caused a howl among the railway employees. Seventeen fares were registered in one car and four in another. The superintendent first claimed that the fares registered would have to be paid either by those who rang them up, or by the Men's League. After consideration the matter was dropped. All landed home safely.

A Sensible Breakfast.

The staple, or what the French call the piece de resistance, of a breakfast should consist of some form of meat, fish, egg or milk, or its equivalent in starch or sugar, like bread, toast or cakes, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Woman's Home Companion for August. These may be supplemented by hot breads, gems or biscuits, with the proper medium of fat in the shape of two or three pats of butter, sugar and the all-time salts in the shape of some fruit or preserves or syrup upon cakes, and an necessary or appetizer in the form of tea, coffee or cocoa.

The so-called cereals and breakfast foods ought not to be made the mainstay of the breakfast. As necessities or after, they are admissible and useful, but they lack seriously in stimulating power, in proportion to their weight, bulk and power of satisfying the appetite.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Westfield women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Westfield woman's words:

Mrs. C. E. Simpson, 59 Elmer street, Westfield, N. J. says: "For a long time I had such acute pains in the small of my back that I could hardly get around. Dull headaches and dizzy spells also bothered me. Upon arising in the morning I felt just as tired as when I went to bed and my whole system seemed to be run down. A physician whom I consulted told me that my kidneys were disordered but his medicine did not help me in the least. I at length learned of Doan's Kidney Pills through a friend who spoke highly of them and I decided to try them. The first box brought me great relief and when I had used several more, there was not the slightest symptom of kidney trouble remaining."

True Love.

There is but one mate for each man and woman in the world and until they recognize the fact and learn with patience to await the note of absolute conviction which is the one infallible guide to happiness, marriages will fail as they fall now and the church will give its empty blessing to those ill-assorted pairs whom God forever leaves unblessed. —Exchange.

Food for Pet Owls.

Young owls are easily raised on fresh meat. Up to the age of four or five weeks, beef and mutton finely chopped make a good food. After that, mice, rats and English sparrows, served whole, are in great demand and come nearest their natural food. These, if not too large, they will swallow whole. —St. Nicholas.

W. C. T. U. COLUMN.

The Northwestern Christian Advocate discussing the "United Action Problem," says: "There is no doubt that the united church of Christ could banish the saloon from our land. Most of us believe it, and the plausible thing is, that the possible has not long since been realized. When we seek for excuses of the failure, we are at the very outset, brought face to face with the lamentable lack of union in the forces of righteousness. The conflict is tremendous in the financial interests involved, in the moral issues at stake, and in the magnitude of the forces arrayed on the opposing sides. But the outcome is a question neither of right or of might—these are admittedly all on one side—but of alertness and aggressiveness. If the church of Christ should use its strength and live up to its opportunities it could drive the curse from the land."

"In learning the lesson of united effort we need do little more than study the tactics of the opposing side, who, dropping all differences, and putting aside all other questions, advance unitedly to meet the situation."

To which "The National Prohibitionist," replies: "This is one of the sore places in the discussion of the Prohibition question. Forty years ago the men who founded the Prohibition party said to the churches 'unite with us and let the men who believe the saloon wrong, quit voting with the men who believe it right.' The churches almost unanimously in their official utterances declared that this course was the only course which Christian men could consistently take, but the Christian people of the churches refused to take this course, and for forty years, whatever they have been doing as individuals in an extra-political way, politically have stood almost as a unit in support of the two political parties that have constantly lent all their power to the repression of the people's indignation and the continuance of the saloon curse. If the liquor men were to employ the same methods we should see them forming pro-saloon leagues to talk in, and voting the ticket of the Prohibition party. But, the liquor men are more wise. They both talk and vote for their interests. The lesson is plain."

"To the Liquor Dealers of this Country—Greeting! We hate your trade with a perfect hatred, and we are the best friends you have! You waste our wealth. You cripple our trade. You poison the life of the nation. You debauch our manhood, cast our women beneath the trampling foot, and eat up our children as though they were bread. And the worst wish we have for you, is that we may see you happy and prosperous in a healthier and more honest trade. 'Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink; that addest thy venom thereto, and makest him drunk also. Thine art filled with shame and not glory. The cup of vengeance shall come round to thee and foul shame shall rest upon thee.' To the Prohibitionists of this free land—Greeting! You are at war with the gin-mill and saloon; the crowning curse of our civilization. Your's is the flaming purpose of right. In your souls burn the cleansing fires that made your fathers great. The strength of the weakest one among you is as the strength of ten because your heart is pure. 'The kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdoms of our God and of His Christ.' —Rev. Charles F. Aked.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

The present abatement walls are in very fair condition, and could be used for the new bridge.

Your committee is of the opinion that a new bridge, if built, should be built to a width of not less than sixty feet, the width of the entire street there being sixty-six feet.

Using the old abatement walls, there would have to be extensions built from them in both directions out to the new lines of the proposed bridge.

Your committee would recommend that a new bridge be built at this place of the same span as the present bridge, but of a width not less than sixty feet, the type to be either a heavy-truss bridge, or a plate girder bridge, of heavy design.

Your committee would recommend that plans and specifications be authorized for this new bridge on both of the above named types of construction, and that bids be received by your committee, and that such bids be reported to this board at its next meeting, for such action by this board as may be deemed desirable.

Respectfully submitted,

E. K. ADAMS,
CHARLES A. SMITH,
GEORGE H. CHADWICK,
W. H. GARRISON,

Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Adams it was ordered that the report be received and recommendations adopted.

By the Committee on the Hefield Road Bridge, Plainfield.

Gentlemen—Your committee to whom was referred for inspection and report the condition of the bridge on Hefield road, Plainfield, would report having examined the present structure, and find that it is unsafe for travel; one of the abutment walls having fallen away for a considerable section and the rest of the walls being badly bulged, and we therefore recommend that a new "I" beam bridge with permanent top be constructed at or near the location of the present bridge, at a cost not to exceed $1,300.

JOHN ROBINSON,
JOSHUA PERCY,
JACOB MARTIN,

Committee.

Freeholder Perry moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Gady: Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to consider the request of the Summit Common Council—that the sidewalks and grade of the Pine Grove avenue bridge be raised, in order to allow the laying of the city sewer pipe over the said bridge.

Freeholder Cladek moved the adoption of the resolution, which was so ordered without dissent, and the Director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Gady Smith and Swain.

By Freeholder Gady: Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to confer with a committee of Morris County Board of Freeholders on the condition of the line bridge at Morris turnpike over the Passaic River; and to consider the advisability of building a new bridge. The old bridge has been found upon examination of the County Engineer to be in an unsafe condition. It has been temporarily propped but requires immediate action on the part of the Freeholders.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse the resolution was adopted without dissent and the Director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Gady, Meisel and Garrison.

By the committee on Linden Bridges: To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your committee on the two proposed bridges at Henry street and at Elm street, Linden, N. J., would respectfully report that they have examined these two sites, and find that two temporary log bridges have been built, and are in use on both streets over the stream, West Brook.

These two streets have been recently opened, and one of them is now macadamized and graded, and the other street, Elm street, is all properly graded, and is now being macadamized. Many new houses have been built in the section served by these streets, and many other streets have been graded, macadamized and furnished with concrete sidewalks near the two streets. It is the opinion of your committee that new bridges should be built at each of these streets, and the committee would recommend such action. The new bridges should be of the steel beam deck type, 22 to 24 feet span, and should be built not less than 55 feet in width. Your committee would recommend that these two bridges be constructed at a cost not to exceed $5,200.

Respectfully submitted,

HENRY KROUSE,
S. P. T. WILSON,
CHARLES J. JENSEN,

Committee.

Freeholder Wilbur moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By Freeholder Wilbur: Resolved, That hereafter, whenever in the opinion of this board the building of any new bridge or culvert shall be necessary, the cost of which shall exceed $300, or whenever repairs to any culvert or bridge shall, in the opinion of this board, be necessary, the cost whereof shall exceed the said amount of $300, that before the letting of said work, or said building of said bridge or culvert, or the repairs thereof, advertisement for bids for the same shall be made in at least two newspapers, one circulating in the neighborhood where said work is required to be done, for a period of at least two weeks; two insertions each week. And be it further

Resolved, That the provisions of this resolution shall not apply in cases of emergency.

Freeholder Wilbur moved the adoption of the resolution, which was so ordered, receiving 14 yeas, 4 nays, 1 not voting and 1 absent.

By Freeholder Gady: Resolved, That the County Collector be and he hereby is authorized to pay the money appropriated to hospitals as follows: Elizabeth General Hospital eight thousand dollars [$8,000].

Alexander Bros. Hospital three thousand dollars [$3,000].

St. Elizabeth Hospital thirty seven hundred and fifty dollars [$3,750].

Mulheberg Hospital of Plainfield fifty two hundred and fifty dollars [$525].

Summit Hospital two thousand dollars [$2,000].

Be it further Resolved, That aforesaid amounts shall be payable in January, 1910. Freeholder Krouse moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.
