Another "Where The Business Is" Site Gone.

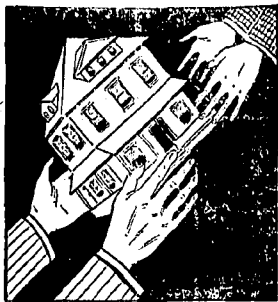

The Pearsall Company has sold one of the most valuable business sites in Westfield to Lloyd Thompson. It is the lot on Broad Street, adjoining the M. E. Church property. Mr. Thompson has been a close observer of real estate values in Westfield, particularly along Broad Street "WHERE THE BUSINESS IS" and where THE business always will be. He decided to purchase this site NOW before values got beyond his reach. Mr. Thompson is planning the erection of what will be, probably, the most modern office building in town.

If you, Mr. Business Man, want a Broad Street home for your business, right in the heart of Westfield, with the trolley bringing customers right to YOUR door, consult The Pearsall Company. Watch improvements on the Pearsall Block.

The Pearsall Company announce the closing of the American Home Drawing Contest and the judges will be asked to meet as soon as possible, go over the plans submitted, and award the prizes of $50. in gold. Further announcement will be made in a later edition of the Standard.

QUIET ON PRIMARY DAY.

But One Contest, in Fourth Ward, Resulted in a Victory for Charles E. Cox.

THOMPSON POLLS GOOD VOTE.

Local Assembly Candidate Needs Ticket for Nominations. Results in Other Wards by Table.

There was little excitement in Westfield on Primary Day. To be sure the Republicans in the Fourth Ward had it out as usual, and this contest somewhat incensed the local party vote. Considering that there were no important contests within the parties for place, and that almost everybody wanted to see the land parade of the Hudson-Fulton celebration, the local vote was fairly good, nearly half of the registered republican voters balloting for their favorite candidates.

In the Fourth Ward where the Cox and Winter-Gabler factions were after first honors, more votes were polled than in any other ward, a total of 172, as against 98 in the first, 61 in the second, and 66 in the third.

The Cox faction had little difficulty in defeating the opposition. Wm. H. Miller defeated Geo. H. Gabler for the Connellman nomination by 69 votes, and Charles Cox defeated Edward C. Winter for place on the County Executive Committee by 82 votes.

The contest in this ward was bitter and resulted because of a change in the make-up of the slate at the last hour. C. E. Cox, the leader of the ward, says that he was not opposed to Gabler's nomination, and had agreed to support and would have supported him, if his opponents in the ward had not at the last moment put Winter in the field against him for place on the County Committee. Lender Cox declares that the effort of Gabler's friends to defeat him (Cox) through Winter, was to his mind a challenge, and he at once put Miller in the field against Gabler.

Lloyd Thompson ran way ahead of the other candidates for the Assembly in his home town. His total vote was 346, Pierce received 332, Schwartz, 298, Depew, 25, and Cady, 440.

Frank H. Smith and James C. Calvert polled the full republican vote here. The former receiving 391, and the latter 359.

THE LAUGH IS ON THE DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CHAIRMAN.

By Inadvertence He is Beaten for Place on Committee.

The laugh is on King Tuttle, the Chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee, and his friends know it and are making much of the opportunity to "rub it in." It really is a laughable situation, and even the victim laughs heartily about it.

It was an inadvertence, to be sure. Nobody had dreamed of snatching the laurels from the Union County Leader. If there had really been a contest, no doubt the result would have established King Tuttle the more firmly in the councils of his party; but, because no one cared, not even the King, there was a very light fall of ballots in his balloting, the Third Ward. Result, Tuttle 2, and Scudder 3 votes for member of the Democratic County Committee. By this verdict, Mr. Tuttle is defeated for place in the party councils, and Mr. Scudder is elected to succeed him.

But it will all be made right. Mr. Scudder has told his friends that he does not want the honor, and that he will immediately decline election. Mr. Tuttle will, therefore, be the only claimant for place, and will be declared elected.

There has been a lot of good fun over the situation. The King laughs as hard as his friends. He is very much amused over the following telegram of condolence sent to him by a Republican leader:—"Cheer up, Bill, the worst is yet to come."

Men's Club Dinner.

The Men's Club of the Presbyterian Church will hold its banquet in the Parish House of the church on Friday evening, October 8th, at seven o'clock. Rev. W. Y. Chapman, of Newark and Judge Robert Carey, of Jersey City, will be the speakers. Messrs. Albert E. and Frank Angus will sing and the instrumental music will be furnished by Professor Harry Wetton. A fine dinner is assured. Do not miss this opportunity to spend an enjoyable and profitable evening.

CASEY REPLACES MILLER.

Local Druggist Will Be Councilmanic Nominee From The Fourth Ward.

MR. MILLER MUCH BETTER.

Overcome by Over-Work at Primaries,
He Was For a Time in a Serious Condition.

Because of serious illness, resulting from over-enthusiasm in the primary election fight, William H. Miller has decided not to accept the nomination for councilman from the Fourth ward, and has tendered his declination to Town Clerk Thompson. James G. Casey has been chosen to fill the vacancy by selection of the Republican Committee of the ward.

Mr. Casey when urged to accept the nomination said he would do so provided all factions in the Republican ranks of the ward wanted him and would support him for election. Having obtained the assurances of all, Mr. Casey has accepted, and the necessary documents will be signed and filed with the clerk.

Mr. Casey is popular in his ward, and as a local business man, he has the confidence of the people of Westfield. He is well fitted to serve in the council.

The condition of Mr. Miller is reported to be very much improved. He was stricken with nervous prostration on the night of the primaries, and for a time, was in a critical condition. Medical attention, and the assistance of friends, have brought about an improvement, and his entire recovery is expected. He has thought it best to retire from public life because the doctor advises that he is not strong enough to undertake the extra work. Mr. Miller is a mason, and is in the employ of Builder Henry C. Pikor. He is a sober and industrious man, and his unexpected break-down is deeply regretted.

WILLARD H. TREAT.

Willard Horace Treat, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Treat, died at his home on Broad street, at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning. He was in his thirty-second year. Death was due to paralysis, superinduced by heart trouble. He had been a patient sufferer for many years. He is survived by a wife, Maud Trenchard Treat, and daughter, three years old, and his parents. The funeral services, conducted by Dr. Hayes, were held at his late home last night. The burial was at Riverside Cemetery, Clinton, this morning. Dr. Rowland, pastor of the Clinton Presbyterian Church, conducted the services at the grave. Mr. Treat was a young man of ambitious and ability. He was a native of Warren County, but for many years had lived in Westfield, having married a Westfield girl. His disease was organic, and kept him from active business affairs. His malady increased with age, and for some years he has been suffering intensely. He however made a noble fight for life, and exhibited a grit, which his doctors declared alone kept him alive. The wonder was that he lived as long as he did. The sympathies of his many friends and well wishers are extended to his wife and family in their hour of affliction.

FOUND DEAD IN BARN.

Donald McDiarmid of North Avenue, the Victim of Fall
Through 16 Foot Shaft.

MISSING SINCE LAST MONDAY.

Farm at Mountinside—Discovery
This Morning.

The body of Donald McDiarmid was found in the barn on the J. Wilbur Cory farm at Mountinside early this morning by Walter Smeadowski, Mr. Cory's son-in-law, who lives on the farm.

McDiarmid left his home on North avenue near Euclid last Monday morning for work on the Cory farm and up to the time of the finding of his body he had not been seen. It is supposed that he met his death by a fall from a shaft in the barn of some sixteen feet. When the body was found, he still had his lunch basket in his hand.

McDiarmid was about 46 years old and lived with his mother, Mrs. McDiarmid. He had been employed as a farm hand for many years and was a good faithful worker. He worked on the Corey farm all last Saturday and was to have continued throughout this week. He was in perfectly good health when he started from home Monday morning and considerable mystery surrounded his disappearance. It is now pretty well established that McDiarmid went directly to the barn where he was engaged in putting ensilage into silo. In order to get to his place of work he had to walk across a narrow board and it is thought that his foot slipped and he fell to the bottom of a distance of some sixteen feet. Death was probably immediate for his neck was broken.

County Physician Wescott was summoned soon after the finding of the body this morning and he declared that in his opinion death was due to a fall; the body was removed to Undertaker Brown's establishment on Elm street.

Mr. McDiarmid was not married and is survived by a mother and sister. The sympathy of the people of Westfield is extended to them in their bereavement.

LOCAL HOSPITAL DAY FUND

HAS PASSED $800 MARK.

Returns Not All in, But Record is Above the Average.

Despite the fact that Saturday was a day of gala celebration in New York City, Westfield people stood by the cause of hospital charity, and the local record is good enough for other towns along the line to emulate on similar occasions.

Hospital Day was not the complete success generally as was expected. Westfield's contribution to the Elizabeth institutions was way above that of the big city itself, reckoned on a basis of average. And the fund is still growing. At last report it was $821.34. It is estimated that the total fund will be about $10,000 when all the money is turned in. The general committee had hoped for at least $25,000.

NEWS OF THE THEATRES.

The Plainfield Theatre.

Matinee and night, October 2. Unfortunately for the one night stands Paul Armstrong's western play "Salome Jane" requires for its presentation a large company and an exceedingly heavy scenic production, consequently the play has been seen in very few of them. However, Messrs. A. G. Delamater and William Norris who are sending the company to the Pacific Coast by way of the South have decided to play a very few of the smaller cities en route.

Proctor's Plainfield Theatre.

The vaudeville acts and films d'art offered at Proctor's Plainfield Theatre this coming week are exceptionally good. A good clean show for a minimum admission fee, which the patrons are not slow in appreciating either. The vaudeville acts include Rosa Maynortropical birds, a great spectacular act; Fish and McDougall, in a big laughing act; Curtis and Connolly, impersonation and comedy; Joe Edmunds, a Royal comedian.

Remember the films d'art are changed daily, the vaudeville acts twice a week.

SLIM HUNT'S COLUMN.

The End of the World.

(BY SPECIAL WRITER—AL. HUNTS MIRROR.)

I believe that it has not been mentioned before—but no matter. The discovery was made and being possessed of a fortune I had no desire then or have I now to achieve fame and fortune by exploiting it. But the truth will out someday, and fearing that the African who accompanied me on the expedition may forget to bring back my proofs and instruments, I am compelled, for the good of humanity, to make known my wonderful find before my death. I never had intended that the world should know of it until 1932, so that it should give color to the celebration of the 500 hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus.

But I must do it. And now! A life-long hope for secret success has been blighted, crushed. And all because my African companion has gone crazy, and is likely in his delirium to say things that will do the fair fame of my unprecedented exploit a rank injustice.

I HAVE DISCOVERED THE END OF THE WORLD.

A startling bit of information to let loose on an unsuspecting populace! But it is a fact. Skeptics may doubt my assertion, but they will know the whole truth soon. All my precious data, and my instruments will be found in longitude 782, where they were deposited by myself and a trusted African thirteen months ago. Nothing can harm them, and they are saved to humanity. I first intended to bring them with me, but my African was stricken with locomotor ataxia, and brain-storms on the eve of our departure for civilization, and I, having no mother to guide, and nothing to eat but food, was compelled to abandon my original plan, and leave my impedimenta behind. But I was cautious, however, having learned from bitter experience that it is always safe to be on the safe side. Hence I took my precious data, wrapped it tenderly in a pasteboard box, and by means of a shoe string and an icicle I dropped it into the sea. It now lies in 2000 fathoms of water in the longitude aforesaid.

As soon as the weather permits, I will buy a derrick and go after it. I know I shall have no difficulty in locating it, as I have a map of the surrounding water and ice, and will guarantee that I can prove the validity of my claim to any aquarian expert. I have a duplicate of the original with me.

I would say more about my expedition, but I hesitate to give more than a mere outline of my wanderings over frozen snows, and icebergs, with the thermometer below freezing on the front veranda. The world is so full of sufferings, that it seems brutal for me to recount my own. I am now in a position to live, and to enjoy the fruits of my endeavor, which however dearly acquired, is at least worthy of the effort.

I will tell all that I know in my new book which is soon to be published by Fakim, Bluffin & Co., who are my legalized backers, and who have authorized me to say nothing more until my book is off the press. Until then I shall be busy on the lecture platform. All my nights will be employed in giving a generous public an opportunity to hear me talk at $100,000 a talk, and all my days in writing my book, the title of which will be, "How I Reached the Jumping Off Place, The End of The World."

SLIM HUNT.

Owl Robs Girl of Her Hat.

There is a big owl which has headquarters in the park on the Herbert Hudley estate, between here and West Orange, that does not like the headgear now worn by women. It attacked Teresa Munn of West Orange recently, made repeated dashes at her hat, and finally tore it off and flew away with it.—Montclair (N. J.)
Special to New York Press.

Unfortunately Coupled.

Alison tells how during Napoleon's Egyptian campaign no sooner were the Mamelukes observed at a distance than the word was given:
"From square; artillery to the angles; asses and savans to the center."
The command afforded no little merriment to the soldiers even at such an exciting moment, and made them call the asses demi-savans.

Puzzled the Oriental.

Although the young Oriental understood ordinary methods and occurrences very well in his new California abiding place, he occasionally found a a merry mood when he chanced to see something on a board fixed to a lamp post, so he climbed up to read it. When he climbed down again he remarked to himself: "Wet paint!

What a lucky thing I saw that!"

THE PRIMARY ELECTIONS.

The Primary Elections in town, county and state did not attract a majority of the voters of either party. Even in localities where the contest for place was most bitter the vote fell far below that of former years. The reason is that a great metropolis is extending itself to honor Hudson and Felton, a novelty which evidently is more alluring to the Jersey patriot than balloting for a favorite candidate.

At home where there was no contest the vote was better than was expected. Nearly half the registered voters cast their ballot for the local assembly candidate. The Fourth Ward fight helped to swell the total considerably—the result is gratifying, although the inter-party quarrel is to be regretted.

Mr. Thompson's home town gave him a good send-off. The local candidate ran way ahead of the other assembly aspirants here, and his vote throughout the county was gratifying. At home the primary contest was tame, except in the Fourth Ward. All the candidates having been chosen, and there being no democratic opposition, we will allow this popular tribute to and for our appreciation of past and present performances, and look hopefully and confidently to the future. May the best come out of it last!

THE DREAMS OF MATURITY.

Rev. Thomas Simms, a former Westfield boy, and now the pastor of a large Congregational church at Braintree, Mass., has contributed an interesting article to "The Congregationalist" and "Christian World" on the subject "If I were to go to College again."

Mr. Simms treats of college life as one who has learned much by after-experience. He sees with the eye of the practitioner rather than the academic theorist, and his article is refreshing and instructive. He would, if he were again to renew his youth and college days follow a well-defined line of action so as to be graduated having "a sound and strong body, a trained and sane mind, a sweet companionable spirit and a deep-rooted belief in righteousness and God."

Yet, as Mr. Simms points out, these are the desires of maturity, "some of the things which I dream of doing were I again back to college, but alas I were I, an youth, again there I should probably very foolishly slay the faculty be indifferent to ideals, grow hypercritical, catch the extreme fraternity fever, regard the four years as a prolonged picnic, declare athletics to be the chief end of man—and years later lament with Cuck, "What fools we mortals be!"

THE FRAME OF MIND.

A man once jumped off the Brooklyn Bridge in order to prove to the world that it was possible to accomplish the seemingly impossible. The man succeeded when a score of others, quite as desperately poor, had failed, and thereupon the stock of Mr. Steve Brodie jumped to above par, and in a short time he became a rich man.

Steve Brodie is one of the few fortunate unfortunates. Most men in his deperate straits would have jumped off the bridge with the avowed intention of putting an end to their worldly hopes and fears, but Brodie, being a bit of a philosopher, leaped into notoriety instead of oblivion. He was lucky; but never mind. He was not the first, and will not be the last man to be saved by a desperate hope. Admitting that the chances were all against Brodie, it is still not to be gainsaid that his attitude of mind, his sheer determination not to drown, but to recoup his lost chances by a hazardous, fool-hardy undertaking, spared him from being food for the big and little fishes.

We say this much not to encourage those who, feeling that they have nothing to live for, would follow Brodie's example and fling themselves over the bridge; for we are certain that, even if they should succeed, they would not make a fortune out of the exploit. Brodie was the pioneer, and he cornered the market. Other successful attempts at bridge jumping have left the adventurer with his pockets filled with nothing but water, and in need of a stimulant. Air-ships, North Pole discoveries and other etherial exploits of the hair-raising variety were in the experimental stage when Brodie leaped into the lime-light.

It is only necessary to make the point clear, Brodie's example is not to be emulated, and the use that he made of his success is to be condoned. We merely want to point out that there is always hope for the man who holds desperately to the conviction that fate cannot and will not always be against him. Plug away, no matter what your present state of servitude, live on and hope on, fight for the main chance, keep two feet on the ground and look to the stars for inspiration, and you'll succeed—and to better purpose than the pride of the lender-loin, Steve Brodie, Esq.

Other Uses of Cloves.
Sprinkled among furs and woollens, and under carpets and rugs, cloves will be found as effective, if not superior, to the ill-smelling moth preparations. And if the housekeeper who superintends the canning of her fruit will put a quarter teaspoonful of whole cloves on top of the thin cloth which many wisely place over the hot fruit before putting on the lid, she will not be annoyed with the molding of her fruit.—National Magazine.

The Home.
Home and home life must never become commonplace. The little surprises, the remembrance of the birthday, the unexpected treat, the pleasure earned for one by the sacrifice of another—all these belong under our head of spiritual exercises. Nor is there any scene of our life which so demands such exercise as this familiar scene of home, which has to be reset every day.—Edward Everett Hale.

A Difference.

Don't Gush.
There is no trait in a woman more objectionable to the sensible-minded than gushing. A little flattery now and then is most certainly relished by all of us, and tickles our vanity immensely. To be effective, it must be administered in small doses and at well selected moments. The woman who gushes not only sacrifices the respect of others but self-respect, too; for in time she comes to live up to the reputation she has gained for herself of being insincere.

Ring Information.
"Rings should be chosen with discretion," says a woman who has made a study of the subject. "Few women, for instance, can wear a large solitaire diamond ring, which requires as a background the whitest of dimpled hands. The antique, old Venetian and marquise rings look best on thin hands with bony fingers, the sunken places below the enlarged knuckles requiring to be filled out with rings of a showy type."

Yates—Valentine.

The wedding of Miss Marguerite Storrs Valentine, of Brooklyn, to Mr. James William Yates, of Markham, Va., took place in the Colonial Presbyterian Church here, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and was the event of the fall social season. The Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of the Plymouth church, Brooklyn, performed the ceremony in the presence of 200 guests, including many friends and relatives from Brooklyn, New York, Connecticut and Virginia.

Miss Elizabeth Valentine, of London, England, a sister of the bride was maid of honor, and the Misses Frances Sutton, of Bridgeport, Conn., and Nanette Dreier, of Brooklyn, a niece of the bride, were flower girls. Masters Theodore Dreier, of Brooklyn, and Dana Lamb, of Westfield, nephews of the bride were pages. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. George Bigelow Bartlett Lamb, of Westfield. She wore her mother's bridal gown of white satin trimmed with old point lace and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Valentine wore mauve colored satin, hand embroidered, and trimmed with old lace. The flower girls were dressed in white, with yellow sashes, and carried baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums. The pages wore white frocks.

W. E. MacOlymont, organist of the Episcopal church, Plainfield, played the wedding marches from Lohengrin and Tannhauser. The church decorations were yellow chrysanthemums and palms.

Following the wedding ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Yates were given a reception at the Lamb home in Stoneleigh Park.

They will spend their honeymoon in South America, and on their return will probably reside in Brooklyn.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. H. Edward Dreier of 37 Remson street, Brooklyn and Mrs. G. B. B. Lamb, of Westfield. The bridegroom is connected with the U. S. Department of Immigration at Ellis Island.

The North Pole Discovery

At last Peary tells us that he has discovered the North Pole and he had a colored man along to prove it. Just think of it Peary has given thirty years of his life, spent thousands of dollars and traveled countless numbers of miles to find nothing but a desolate spot. Of what practical value is it to the world, it won't make your ice bill any less or it won't make your balance in the bank any larger.

A Westfield Discovery

Last spring the H. C. Lockwood Co. while searching through northern New Jersey for the pole centre of future real estate value discovered that beautiful property now known as Manor Park, Westfield. You can prove this to your own satisfaction. The home sights here are high, large plots, the mountain view is grand. Of what practical value is it to you, of course it won't lessen your ice bill any more than the discovery of the North Pole, but a home built here will cut your rent bill and give your bank account a chance to grow.

Let us show you the property, the new streets, cement sidewalks, the number of lots already sold will surprise you.

Aeroplane Exhibition.

All Newark is talking about the Curtiss Aeroplane exhibition on our 5th floor. Thousands of people are flocking to this show every day. Have you seen it? The aeroplane now on exhibition is a full size model—similar to the one in which the "King of the Air," Glenn H. Curtiss, made his phenomenal flight at Rheims, France; a machine capable of flying at the rate of nearly a mile a minute! The aeroplane has been brought to Newark at great expense, together with the services of an expert lecturer who will give explanatory talks every fifteen minutes. It is free to all, and we extend a cordial invitation to both men and women to come and see the first real aeroplane ever exhibited in Newark. Think of being able to tell your children in years to come, when the heavens will be filled with aircraft, that you saw the first aeroplane ever brought to Newark.

The Brilliant Autumn Exhibitions Are Ready This Week At WANAMAKER'S

The wonderful Exhibition of Paris Costumes is delighting and amazing the fashionable women of New York City, as you read, and thousands of our out-of-the-city friends are timing their visits to New York to be present when these exquisite foreign gowns are exhibited—this week and next.

The Paris Millinery is exhibited—the most elaborate, the most beautiful assemblage we have ever brought over the ocean. And the Wanamaker Hats express the most pleasing effects conceived here and abroad.

The Autumn Exhibition of Dress Stuffs is the talk of dressmakers and other merchants all over the country. The rich deep colorings were never before so perfect. The weaves were never so effective and varied—rough, semi-rough and shiny stuffs present most delightful possibilities for gowns of every sort.

The Silks, the Dress Trimmings, the Tailored Suits and Women's Costumes and Wraps, the Veilings, the Gloves, the Neckwear—all combine a showing that will well repay the journey to New York just now when everything at Wanamaker's is at its brightest and best.

A cordial welcome to visitors, and the completest facilities that exist anywhere to meet their comfort, convenience and service.

The Ladies' World.

The October number of The Ladies' World is by far the largest and handsomest issue of that publication we have yet seen. Dr. William H. Maxwell, Superintendent of the New York Public Schools, contributes a most interesting article on the Modern Spirit of the Schools, and shows what is being done, outside the regular educational lines, toward making the scholars good citizens. It is a most inspiring paper. Another contribution of the uplift kind is the story of Phillips Brooks, the famous Massachusetts divine, which is more fascinating than fiction. The stories as usual are above the average, among the authors being Florence Morse Kingsley, Annie Hamilton Donnell, Cornelia A. P. Comer, Ada Tate Drake, Winifred Kirkland and Livingston B. Morse. Among the departments there is a new one devoted to the physical care of children, which will appeal to all mothers, and in the housekeeping, needlework, fashions, dressmaking and other sections, there are articles that appeal to the reader as very good and very practical. (New York: Fifty Cents a Year.)

Comes when you catch a cold. Or when you strain the back. Many complications follow. Urinary disorders, diabetes, Bright's disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure backache. Cures every form of kidney ills. Mrs. W. J. Smith, 30 Cumberland St., Westfield, N. J., says: "I had heard of the wonderful cures Doan's Kidney Pills had made and decided to give them to my little girl whose back was very painful and weak. She caught cold easily and it always seemed to settle in her kidneys. She also had headaches and dizzy spells and felt generally miserable. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Frutcher's drug store and they gave her relief at once. The pain and weakness left her back and the headaches and dizziness spells disappeared. I shall always speak highly of this valuable remedy."

Her Remarkable Escape.

A young woman was recently caught in a cave-in in a railway tunnel near St. Gall, Switzerland, and after remaining without food for ten days was finally rescued. She suffered agonies of cold and hunger during this period, but managed to sustain life by sucking moisture from her clothing, on which water occasionally trickled. She continued calling for help until she finally was heard and rescued.

Health of Mind and Body.

To constantly live in that attitude where you positively expect better and better health, is to train all the elements of your system to produce better health. And, in addition, this attitude is conducive to normal and wholesome conditions, both in mind and body.—Scrap Book.

"I would lay awake for hours without any apparent cause, or dream terrible dreams which would bring on extreme spells of nervousness. After taking Dr. Miles' Nervine and Tonic for awhile I could sleep well, and the nervous spells have left me." MISS ALMA HUG, R. R. No. 4, Canal Dover, Ohio.

Without sleep the nervous system soon becomes a wreck, and the healthful activity of all the organs obstructed. Restful, body-building sleep accompanies the use of Dr. Miles' Nervine because it soothes the irritable nerves, and restores nervous energy. FRANCES E. WILLARD'S PICTURE PLACED IN ALL THE SCHOOLS.

Appropriate Exercises Mark the Presentation on Tuesday.

The purpose of Willard Woman's Christian Temperance Union, to place a picture of Frances E. Willard, late president of the national organization in each of the public school buildings of Westfield, was accomplished on Tuesday, September 28th, this date being chosen because it is the birthday of this illustrious woman.

At the McKinley School, the pupils were assembled in the chapel at nine o'clock, when after the opening exercises, the presentation was made by Rev. Dr. Loomis of the Congregational Church, who in a few happy remarks urged the children to imitate the example of the woman, whose beautiful face was largely the reflection of the beautiful spirit which had animated all her life. Mr. McLaughlin accepted the picture on behalf of the school.

Rev. Dr. Hayes, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, presented the picture at the Lincoln School, and it was received by Miss Snyder. Dr. Hayes referred to the little house in Churchville, N. Y. where Miss Willard was born, and which he has seen, and to her childhood days. At one time standing in the barn door, on the western farm, she exclaimed, "I wonder if we shall ever know anything, see anybody, or go anywhere." He spoke also of her life as a teacher, when from the little red school, she rose to the position of Dean of a Western university. Dr. Hayes left as a final thought for the children, the five words, which the great woman esteemed the greatest, "God, duty, love, humanity, immortality."

At the Washington School, the pupils here assembled in the chapel at 10:30. Rev. Dr. Stearns, of the Presbyterian Church, made the presentation address, with earnest words regarding the heroic life of the great reformer, in her work for the protection of the home, and the uplifting of humanity, emphasizing the fact that "she lived to serve." Prof. J. J. Savitz accepted in the name of the school.

At the Prospect Street School, Miss Emma Starr presented the picture, in place of Rev. C. J. Greenwood of the Baptist Church, who was unavoidably absent. Mr. Starr received for the school.

The hope of all, that the pictured face may be an inspiration to the pupils, to noble living, will surely be realized.

Wise Limitation on Growth.

If a human being continued to grow at the same rate as he does in his first year he would be 68 feet tall at the aged of 10.

The New Idea.

"He hasn't much sense," said the health fad enthusiast, disgustedly. "Why, he hasn't enough sense to go out into the wet."

America's Most Powerful Citizen.

(B. J. Hendrick in the October McClure's.)

E. H. Harriman is unquestionably the most powerful man in America, if we understand by the greatest power the ability to affect, for good or ill, the every-day lives of the largest number of men and women. The entire development of the nation finds its basic foundation in the railroad. Whole sections of the country are absolutely dependent upon it for their food supply, and a large part of the cost of our daily living represents the prices paid for transportation. When it is said that Harriman, more than other man, influences our welfare, it is meant that he has the most powerful voice in determining the price of the food we eat, the clothes we wear, the coal that warms us, and the wood with which we build our homes. Upon the management of the properties that he dominates or in which he exercises a powerful influence the physical health of the nation depends as much as the health of the body depends upon a normal and vigorous blood supply. He wields a taxing power almost as great as that controlled by any parliament, and certainly greater than that possessed by any other one man.

Don't blame the hen when she doesn't lay. She can't manufacture eggs unless you supply her with the material. Got busy now and begin feeding her Fisk's Egg Producer regularly and see how quickly she gets down to business. Sold underwritten guarantee by Patrick Traynor.

If people with symptoms of kidney or bladder trouble could realize their danger they would without loss of time commence taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. This great remedy stops the pain and the irregularities, strengthens and builds up these organs and there is no danger of Bright's disease or other serious disorder. Do not disregard the early symptoms. Gale's Pharmacy.

THE LIBRARY.

Like one beautiful afternoon, in a charming villa near Tibur, now Tivoli, a party of distinguished literary men of Rome, sat at lunch. It may have been the same villa in which Gollins wrote his "Norton Allen," but history does not say. At any rate, the great historian was present, for he, himself, tells us that a discussion arose as to whether or not ice-water in warm weather was injurious to the health. One of the gentlemen present condemned most decidedly the practice, quoting as his authority the opinions of celebrated physicians. As many of his hearers were, however, unconvinced, Gollins tells us that one of the party ran to the public library of Tibur, borrowed a volume of Aristotle, and read therefrom a passage in which the use of ice-water was strongly denounced as harmful and even dangerous; and the historian adds that such was the impression created on the assembly by the words of Aristotle that they all decided at once to give up forever the use of water mixed with ice or snow.

At first thought, it seems a very trivial incident for the great historian to take the trouble to chronicle, but we are all glad that he did record the incident, for it shows us that eighteen centuries ago the library was looked upon as the proper place from which to secure information of any sort—that to the library naturally must all seekers of wisdom repair.

The great celebration this month will send many inquiries to the library; the floats and pageants, songs and addresses, will bring back the New York of long ago. The educational value of these anniversary celebrations lies in the fact that they keep alive the old traditions and kindle new interest in our history. No one will come to the library to find what Aristotle said about ice-water, but many may come to find out what George III did, when our enthusiastic ancestors dragged his equestrian statue from its pedestal in Bowling Green, and knocked off all the iron heads from the fence posts, because they were cast to represent heads of different members of the royal family. This Hudson-Fulton celebration will naturally renew interest in the River, in the little ship which sailed in 1609 in search of a shorter course to the East Indies, in the Clermont, or Fulton's Folly, which looked "like a back-woods saw-mill mounted on a scow and set on fire," and especially in the life of Robert, Fulton, the inventor who made that memorable trip one fine August day in 1807. But more than this, the library will be called upon for information about the people of the time, their customs, the boundaries of the city, the buildings then in existence, and the history of the various movements, the influence of which has extended even to the present time. From the Book Buyer.

THE NEW JERSEY FAIR.

Indications are that the opening day of the New Jersey Fair, which is to be held at Olympic Park October 9 to 17, inclusive, will bring together as big and jolly crowd of children as ever gathered at one time to enjoy the attractions of any fair in this part of the country. In their honor the day has been designated as "Children's Day," and to insure their presence in large numbers the management has extended a general invitation to all school children from near and far to enter the gates free of charge from early morning until the close of the park late at night, and indulge to their hearts content in all the various amusements that will be provided for their delight.

Special efforts will be put forth this year to have all the exhibits in place on the opening day and also to make the day just as successful and enjoyable as any of the others during the whole of the fair. For this purpose special features are being provided for the opening, including a flower show, at which dahlias are to be a specialty.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Mr. F. G. Fritz, Oneonta, N. Y., writes: "My little girl was greatly benefited by taking Foley's Urino-Laxative, and I think it is the best remedy for constipation and liver trouble." Foley's Urino-Laxative is mild, pleasant and effective, and cures habitual constipation. Gale's Pharmacy.

Gather About The Open Fire.

In cleaning up our Birchwood Forest property we find ourselves in possession of about 80 great big wagon loads of wood—just the kind of wood to make the open fire crackle and snap or a quick fire for the kitchen range. This wood is in all lengths and thickness.

Here Is An Opportunity

To fill your cellar with good, burnable wood for very little money. A great big two horse wagon load of this wood will give you and your family many pleasant evenings before the open fire. Thirty loads, and that's about all we have, won't be enough to go round. Better get YOUR order in now. Talk to us about it.

THE DEFECT IN COURSES.

It is one of Quantity and Not of Quality in the Local High School.

THERE MUST BE MORE SCOPE.
Changes made this year Mainly an extension of the Business Course—Manual Training.

The defect in our high school course is not one of quality, but of quantity. The subjects taught are mainly those required by colleges whose courses give that general culture which is the basis of the liberal professions, and are not sufficiently diverse to adequately meet modern technical, industrial and commercial demands.

The boy who attempts to learn farming on the farm, the mechanic trades in the shop, or business methods behind the counter, is almost hopelessly handicapped, and unless we replace the rapidly disappearing apprenticeship system by organized instruction at public expense, the possibilities of advancement will be limited generally to those so fortunate as to have the means for private instruction. But such a limitation would be socially unjust and economically unwise seems too evident to require discussion.

From the statement that it is becoming increasingly necessary to give instruction at the public expense in the fundamentals of business and the trades, it is not to be inferred that such instruction must be exclusively given in our present public schools; on the contrary, it will generally be found preferable to conduct industrial, trade, and other specialized schools as separate units correlated with the public school system; this is a matter of policy and expediency which must be decided by each community in accordance with its specific needs and abilities.

The changes to be introduced this year will be mainly an extension of the business course, which now includes only bookkeeping, stenography, and typewriting, in addition to the English, mechanical drawing, physics, and chemistry of the regular college-preparatory course. The studies to be added are Business Practice and Methods, History of Industry, Transportation, Banking and Finance, and Commercial Law; the courses in English and Civics will be strengthened, and greater emphasis will be laid on the commercial side of Arithmetic and Geography.

Manual Training.
The value of manual training is so well established that for the educator, it requires neither defense nor explanation; but there doubtless are many, not familiar with its purpose and results, by whom a brief statement of the reasons for its growing importance would be appreciated. Manual training is not merely, or even fundamentally, a training of the hands, but rather a development of the mental powers through the association of the faculties which think with the faculties which express thought in terms of action.

To get knowledge from books is a wholly artificial, and comparatively modern, accomplishment; in the beginning knowledge was a matter of experience and came through the medium of the senses—sight, hearing, smell, taste, and touch, and the most valuable part of our knowledge still comes in that way; the correlated development of the reasoning faculties and the brain centers controlling muscular action has made their relationships so mutually dependent that a balanced development of the mind is impossible with either element lacking; one who works without thinking is an unintelligent automaton, while one who thinks without working is an impractical visionary.

In the days when boys and girls had more or less definite and exacting household duties, these activities gave the necessary stimulus for a healthy mental growth, but in many of our towns and cities of today this is now almost entirely lacking, and a substitute must be provided. In so far as a merely physical stimulus is required any form of directed physical activity is sufficient, and herein lies much of the value of games; but games, though valuable, are deficient in their appeal to the moral side, and have too little sustained and sober purpose to efficiently build up the will power; for this something is required which is related to the serious side of life, and we find it in those occupations with which life is intimately associated—some form of work with tools for the boys, and domestic science for the girls.

The strongest and best mental development is secured through a judicious mixture of organized and directed work, play, and study; the home co-operates with the school in providing opportunity for play, but no longer imposes the necessity of work; therefore, the school must. Furthermore, the importance of the mechanic arts as an agent for the discovery and correction of mental defects is so thoroughly established that this one aspect would justify, and even require, their inclusion in the course at the lowest grade practicable.

Manual training does not, nor is it its aim to, teach specific trades; its purpose is general rather than particular; nevertheless, its work is intensely practical and has a distinct commercial value. In this connection the comments of Governor Fort's Commission on Industrial Education are interesting and to the point; the Commission says of its report: "The results of this inquiry doubtless form the most comprehensive collection that has ever been made of authoritative statements as to industrial conditions and needs in New Jersey."

One Reason For Our Low Prices

is that it is not our policy to carry a large stock. We keep in stock only "specials." You can readily figure for yourself that if we carried, say, $100,000 worth of jewelry on hand, we would have to earn $5,000 to $7,000 above our regular margin simply to pay the interest on the investment, without considering depreciation.

As it is, we save this—and so do you. We are located in the heart of the jewelry district, and right in the center of the most convenient downtown section. Within a stone's throw of our offices are the firms from which jewelers buy—millions of dollars' worth of jewelry—and just as convenient as though on our own shelves.

Send for information regarding our Anniversary Record and Reminder Cards.

Bring in your rings, brooches, pendants, or other pieces of jewelry. We will clean them and see that stones are secure, without charge.

Notice of a Lecture.

Mr. Bliss Knapp, C. S. B., member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, is to deliver a lecture on "Christian Science—Its Method of Operation," in the new Cranford Church edifice, Springfield Avenue at Elm Street, on Tuesday evening, October 5, at 8 p. m.

Mr. Knapp is a Harvard graduate and has devoted his life to the elucidation of this subject. He says that "Christian Science does not claim to amend the Bible, but it does emphasize its spiritual meaning and seeks to interpret rather than to proclaim a creed altogether new." Mr. Knapp says that it is a system of spiritual teachings, "which health and morals of humanity, and a system of spiritual teachings," says Mr. Knapp, "that can bring success from pain and sorrow must be truly Christian."

"Tea with Children."

"Tea," says the London Chronicle, "in the garden is one of the best-established of our mid-Victorian institutions. Mr. E. V. Lucas—who is a connoisseur of the caddy—recalls in his essay, 'The Divine Leaf,' a story of the late Arthur Cecil, who once encountered the following inscription in a garden at Kew: 'Tea, plain, 6d.; tea, with shrimps, 9d.; tea, with children, 1s.'"

Thrown Through Glass Screen.

While a Blairgowrie (Scotland) young man was cycling home from the golf course the other evening he came out of a narrow lane on to the main road at a high speed and ran into the front of a motor car that was passing. The cyclist was thrown right through the glass screen of the motor, and landed on the road on the other side, miraculously escaping with comparatively slight injuries.

Time for Change.

In a real-property case before a French judge, at an early period of the revolution, the defendant, whose title was contested, proved that the estate had been in his family for more than 200 years. "Well," said the judge, "it is now full time for another family to have a turn."

Over the Phone.

Host (at his wife's reception)—Ah, my dear Mrs. Brown, aren't you coming? Everybody is expecting you. Oh, never mind about your dressmaker and gown. It's not your clothes we want to see, it's you.—Harvard Lampoon.

A Little Knowledge.

Any knowledge whatsoever is better than none at all; a little knowledge is dangerous because it is almost no knowledge at all. We are rapidly coming to the day of a blessed smattering knowledge of nearly every useful thing.

Damage by Rats.

Two or three rats will eat as much grain as a hen, according to the figures of the department of agriculture. Besides robbing the hen of her rations, rats often steal her eggs and chicks. Fewer rats and more hens would improve the farm income.

On the Safe Side.

"So Mrs. Jenkins is dead." "I hadn't heard of it. How did you know?" "I didn't hear positively, but I overheard Jenkins say in a street car that he intended to dispute her will."

Social Meeting of the W. C. T. U.

Mrs. G. B. Dickerson, of Dandley avenue, entertained the first social meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, at her home, on Wednesday afternoon. The subject, "Our Organization," was opened up by a few thoughts on the several words of our motto, "For God, and Home, and Native Land." Six lectures were read by ladies, on the work of the organization as called for by the words of the motto, showing how the work bears on every side of life, and the necessity for the do-everything policy outlined by the late president of the National organization, Miss Frances Willard. Mrs. Conant gave a most interesting talk on the Curfew, giving an account of the measures taken to secure such a law in Stratford, N. Y. A discussion of the subject followed, which resulted in a unanimous decision in favor of the good influence of such a law. Department work was considered and three ladies volunteered as superintendents. One new member was added to the Union. Esther Lightfoot added greatly to the pleasure of the afternoon with piano selections.

Fish Caught Fisherman.

Catching a monster fish and the line becoming hooked to the boat underneath, where he could not reach it, Felipe Ocampo, a fisherman of Salina Cruz, Mex., was dragged out to sea and was missing two days before he could get back. Friends thought his boat had been swamped.

Daily Thought.

There is something, in fact, a great deal, to be said for the conventional point of view. But if you cannot with perfect sincerity accept it do not attempt odious compromise and outward forms of subservience to laws which you find unjust.—Mrs. Craigie.

Business Is Business.

The judgment of Solomon is out of date. A woman who gave away her child in infancy and desired to get it back is repulsed by the courts, not even getting an offer of half of it. A bargain is a bargain in these material days.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Had Made Fools of Fourteen.

When a young girl entered a pawnbroker's shop with 14 rings she was suspected and detained. Inquiries proved that she was the rightful owner and that the rings were souvenirs of 14 fiancés.
