DR. SAVITZ ON SPELLING.

Emphasizes the Importance of Correct Methods in Teaching.

Dr. J. J. Savitz, County Superintendent of Schools, gave an interesting talk on spelling and how it should be taught, at a meeting of the County Principals' Association held at Roselle on the evening of the 14th. Doctor Savitz, among other things, said teachers should keep two objects in view in teaching spelling:

First, that the pupil should become able to spell correctly all words in his working vocabulary, and

Second, that he shall have a disposition when he leaves school, to master new words as they are presented to him from time to time.

The teacher should be sure to appeal to all the avenues of information viz: the eye and ear, the vocal chords and muscles; in the past these means have been quite overlooked in the schools. The Doctor also extended an invitation to the Association to visit the Westfield schools in January on their regular meeting day.

Before adjournment the problem of medical inspection as now required by law, was discussed.

SEVENTY NIGHT SCHOOL STUDENTS

Good Showing Made at Opening—K. e. h. a. n. i. l Drawing Added.

A splendid showing has thus far been made in the attendance at the night school being conducted at the Washington School building for the benefit of those who are employed and have not had the opportunity to complete their high school education. Seventy have already enrolled.

Of particular interest to apprentices in the plumber, carpenter and mason trades is the course in mechanical drawing which has just been added. This course will give young men a good practical knowledge of draftsmanship. Employers are greatly pleased at the addition of the course, because they have found it difficult to secure young men whose workmanship was good and who understood the nature of a set of plans.

Through a misunderstanding many who would have enrolled last week, failed to do so. For the benefit of these Dr. Savitz will be in his office next Monday evening and place their names on the books. It is thought that the registration will soon pass the 100 mark.

I. O. S. TO CELEBRATE.

Annual Halloween Party to Be Held at President Crutenden's.

The I. O. S. of Westfield will enjoy its annual Halloween Party, at the home of President and Mrs. George T. Crutenden next Saturday evening. The old guard, with the I. O. S. girls will be on hand to celebrate. Bill Bogert and De Armond Tuttle are expected home from the Maine woods in time to help make merry with yams of the game they caught, etc. The President has a few surprises in store.

DR. LOOMIS ON CITIZENSHIP.

Tell Congregational Men's Club There Is Need for More Activity in Local Affairs.

"SUBURBANITY" OF THE SUBURBANITE.

Regards Home as a Place of Rest Only—A Jolly Time at Fall Banquet—Persiflage, Music, and Good Food.

The Men's Club of the Congregational Church played the part of host to a jolly assemblage of churchmen, Tuesday night, when the annual fall dinner was held in the church parlors. About sixty members and guests enjoyed a good spread, good speeches, and good music, including piano selections by Mrs. Hegeman, solos by Mr. George Taylor, and songs one topical, and the work of Director Lawrence Bogert—by the quartette of the club—and selections on the piano by Mr. Edward Prouditt.

Dr. S. L. Loomis, pastor of the church, was the chief speaker of the evening. He spoke happily of the work of Men's Clubs, and then, in a more serious vein, on the need of more earnest participation in civic affairs by citizens of Westfield. He referred to the urbanity of the citizen of the city, and to what an Englishman had termed the "suburbanity" of the country resident. Dr. Loomis said that it was not always an easy matter to convince the suburbanite that it was his duty to be interested in local affairs. Many local citizens were indifferent; they regarded their home town as a place of rest, and failed to perform their duty of citizenship therefore. Dr. Loomis referred to the campaign in New York against the corrupt machine of Tammany, as a splendid example of what an active citizenship might do in the interests of good government. Dr. Loomis made an earnest plea for increased effort on the part of the men that citizenship might be raised to a higher plane, and that men should regard public life as a bore, but a pleasant duty. He considered that the Federated Men's Clubs of Westfield had an important work to do along the lines of stimulating interest in local affairs, and he urged all to cooperate.

He spoke a good word for his home club, and told the guests of the evening, that it would not be long before they should be invited to dine in a new building. "A new church is needed, a new Sunday school also. These are necessities which we all want, and shall soon possess."

Mr. Morris A. Hulet, the president of the Men's Club, was toastmaster. He introduced the speakers, and in his opening remarks outlined the program of the year's work. A. H. Laek, president of the Presbyterian club, proved himself a wit in his few words of congratulation and good cheer, and President Hankraider of the Methodist League, spoke earnestly of the work of the Men's Federation.

Mr. Salter Storrs Clark's remarks were directed toward the clergy, "a word of advice from the par to the pulpit." The ministers present, enjoyed Mr. Clark's persiflage quite as much as the laymen.

The club quartette is Lawrence Bogert, George Taylor, Robert Perry and Howard G. Boardman. Two stanzas of the topical song read as follows:

Now the Baptists have a club
And the Presbyterians too,
Which makes three all in a row.
But the Congregationalists
Have the finest in that line,
And they are always in the swim
And its members always shine!
There's our Dominie so fine
And his sermons grandly deep,
Your attention he will hold
And he won't put you to sleep!
By his benediction loved
For his earnest words and true;
Good Brother Loomis is a friend
Praise is his honest due.

Genial Gene Hanford, James O. Clark, and William G. Peckham are also extolled, the latter for being "on top in a lawyer's busy way."

Baptists Organize Men's Club.

The men of the Baptist Church met in the church parlors on Thursday night and organized, adopting a constitution and appointing a nominating committee, which is to report Thursday night, October 28. Dr. Hayes, pastor of the Methodist Church, gave a helpful and inspiring address, and was tendered a hearty vote of thanks by the club. Mr. Webb added a few enthusiastic words of encouragement, also receiving a vote of thanks. The Club started off under the most auspicious circumstances, with a charter membership of 20. The Baptists are now in line with the other churches in the men's movement and will probably join in the federation.

COUNTRY HOME'S PROGRESS

Reports Submitted at Annual Meeting Show Increased Gains Along all Lines of Work.

MISS FAIRBAIRN A SPEAKER.

Tells of Work Being Done in Whittier Home—Directors and Advisory Board Re-elected For Coming Year.

An interesting meeting of the Children's Country Home Association was held in the Presbyterian parish house Monday afternoon. This was the eighteenth yearly meeting. Among the speakers was Miss Katharine Fairbairn of the Whittier Home, Jersey City, who told of the work being done there.

Miss Fairbairn is a sister of Mrs. W. J. Alpers and Robert A. Fairbairn and a daughter of Judge Joseph A. Fairbairn.

All the directors were re-elected to succeed themselves, viz: Mrs. David Collins, Miss Annie M. Clark, Mrs. J. B. Harrison, Miss Emma L. Bridges, Mrs. Martin Snyder, Mrs. Harry E. Knight, Mrs. H. C. Piker and Miss Emma Halstead. The advisory board will also remain the same as before, consisting of the following: James O. Clark, Dr. J. J. Savitz, E. A. Merrill, H. E. Knight, H. J. White and John Platt.

Mrs. Ferris as treasurer announced that the receipts during the year amount to $2,150.61 of which $1985.41 had been expended. Private subscriptions amount to $87.52. A balance of $55 interest from the Dr. Coles fund was also reported.

Mrs. Shield recording secretary reported six meetings of the directors during the past year, hardwood floors had been placed in the building, and numerous other improvements. The Association owes the hardwood floors to the efforts of the Young Woman's Auxiliary which under the able leadership of Miss Keeler raised the necessary funds. Much religious work had been carried on at the home under the direction of Miss Mooney and services held there each Sunday during the season. The May festival, the fair and tag day had all helped the home and the institution had been greatly benefited by a large number of private donations. It was hoped to increase the Coles endowment fund of $5000. Mrs. J. B. Keeler had removed from town and her resignation was received with regret.

Mrs. Alice F. Cooley in her report as corresponding secretary, told of Dr. Twiack's and Miss Fairbairn's appreciation of the care given the children from Newark and the Whittier home, by the Association. It was mentioned that A. E. Pearsall had donated a lot on Grove street. Charlotte Boehm the cripple, had died at Lake Hopatcong during the summer. Charlotte was the little girl who created such interest in her art work at the fair. There were many interesting letters from children showing their appreciation of their visit to the home and their love for Mrs. Schwartz who has been so faithful for eleven years.

Acknowledgment was made of the generous services of the doctors, of the needleworkers, the press and other helpers of the institution.

Miss Jeannette Perkins made her report of the Young Woman's Auxiliary and Miss Cowperthwaite read the report of Miss Edith L. Mooney on religious work. This told how the work was divided among the churches and how interested the children were in it. Miss Perkins told about the good results attained on tag day and that it was proposed to have a card party next month, in aid of the home.

Firemen Regale at Mooney's Hotel.

Members of Hose Company No. 1 of the local fire department enjoyed a good spread and a good time last night when Proprietor Walter Mooney served 'em up to the Queen's taste at his hotel on North avenue. The members regaled in the large dining hall, where an excellent dinner was enjoyed. Later they adjourned to the parlors where entertainment was furnished by Prof. Louis Schmeibel, the blind musician. Everybody present says that it was the best spread in the company's history.

Musical Evening at Advance Club.

A delightful evening was had at the Advance Club last Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Taylor acting as host and hostess. Music and a paper by Miss Harriet Williams were much enjoyed. Miss Ida Kerr of New York soprano, rendered a number of selections most charmingly. Local talent was well represented. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Pitcher.

FOR SHADE COMMISSION.

Board of Trade Approves Proposed Plan of Common Council and Urges Immediate Action.

AN ADVISORY COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

Tree Question Fully Discussed—White Way Scheme Approved—Complaints Against Local Lighting Facilities.

The Board of Trade meeting last night was not well attended, but the quorum present made the meeting lively by a full and free discussion of the lively topics of the day. Among these was the proposed appointment by council of a Shade Tree Commission, to which the members lent their earnest support. A motion was passed approving of the appointment of a commission, and urging council to take immediate action.

A discussion of the powers of a commission followed, and it was pointed out that council could not appoint a tree commission until the Town Attorney had examined the law and discovered if such bodies were permissible under a town government. It was thought, however, that should a Shade Tree Commission be out of the question, unless the present Board of Park Commissioners is abolished, the council could speedily appoint a special committee which would have similar powers to that of a commission. Town Attorney Oliver's report will be submitted at the next meeting of the council. The Board appointed a standing committee, which will represent the Board in matters concerning the care of trees. This committee will be advisory. It is as follows: Robert A. Fairbairn, chairman; William Edgar Reeve and Robert V. Hoffman.

In the absence of President Tuttle, Arthur N. Pierson was chairman; Frederick S. Taggart, the secretary, was present, and read the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved.

The Board also approved of the action of the Merchant's Association in appointing a committee to consider the advisability of having a "White Triangle" in the business section. President Tuttle was authorized to appoint a committee from the Board to confer with the committee from the Merchants Association.

The general question of lighting was discussed, and in view of the many complaints against poor service in the houses, the secretary was instructed to write to the Public Service Committee, and request that an effort be made to better local facilities.

A letter from Lawyer W. G. Peckham, complaining against the methods of local assessments for local improvements was referred to the Common Council.

Mr. Black Man Eats Meals off the Mantle-Piece.

The Pearsall Company have posted their Brightwood Forest property warning against trespassers and hunters. They also, have published similar announcements in the local press. Notwithstanding all this on Saturday a colored man trespassed on the property with his gun and dog. He was bent on bagging a squirrel or two. The colored man was ordered off the property by the caretaker but paid, apparently, no attention to the request. The caretaker stepped into his little bungalow and soon appeared carrying his old muzzle loader. By this time Mr. Black Man was busy trying to smoke a squirrel out of its nest in a tree. He was bending low trying with his hot to fan the smoke of his fire into the hole at the base of the old chestnut tree, when "bang" went the caretaker's old muzzle loader and about two ounces of fine bird shot hit the mark and the last seen of Mr. Black Man were his cont tails flying in the breeze as he made a mile sprint in the direction of the back Springfield road.

When questioned by a STANDARD reporter, the caretaker of Brightwood Forest informed him that he still had a goodly supply of powder and shot in his bungalow.

It is reported that Mr. Black Man is now eating his meals from off the mantle-piece.

Cecil James Dead.

Cecil Jones, the noted tenor soloist, who was heard in concert recital in the Congregational Church last year, died Tuesday of this week. James was stricken with appendicitis Sunday morning, and was taken to a New York hospital where he died Tuesday morning while the operation was going on. He was but 32 years old.

Burnt Noses

They Play a Conspicuous Part in the Game of Love.

"Your nose looks like a bologna sausage," she said with the cruel frankness of a close friend.

"Why shouldn't it?" he answered defiantly. "I've been on the links all day."

Then she laughed, leaving him uncertain whether she was laughing at his nose or his joke.

Uncertainty is a painful emotion, especially when it is a question why one is being laughed at. He felt depressed, melancholy. He had meant to boast of having made the 18 holes in 75. He had expected to be congratulated and admired, to have his masculine vanity flattered. And she had gone away after laughing at his nose without giving him a chance to tell of his prowess.

"But I will win her yet," he said to himself. "The next time I play golf I will wear a sun mask."

And the next day it rained.

Being unable to stay in the house and commune with his thoughts, he went outdoors and communed with them. The sobbing wind drove the rain under his umbrella. His soul was on fire, but that did not keep his clothes dry. And just as the sun had begun to shine again and the fit of blues was being evaporated into the blue of the atmosphere he met her once more and again she laughed.

"Are you trying to wash your nose down to its proper size and color?" she asked.

After she was gone it occurred to him that he should have said something to the effect that it was cruel for young women to inflict blows on other people's noses, but he did not think of that in time.

In a state of desperation he determined to invite her to go rowing with him and see if the effect of the sun on her own nose did not make her a bit sympathetic.

"Like takes to like," he reasoned, "and when noses develop an affinity for one another it may happen that hearts also will beat in unison."

But she prudently sheltered her face with a parasol and mischievously asked him whether, if his arms should give out, he could not row the boat home, with his splendidly developed nose.

He rubbed vaseline on his nose that night, but it did not soothe his heart.

He wished she would do something to imperil her life, so he might rescue her and make himself a hero, but she was as careful of her life as she was of her complexion.

"Don't you ever go automobilizing?" he asked.

"Not unless I'm sure the driver can see the end of his nose, at least," she answered.

While this was plainly a hint for an invitation, he felt that he could not endure more bumps on such a sore point as his nose.

But there must be an end to all things, even to raw noses, and no sensible girl ever will lose a good beau for the fun of teasing him about his personal misfortunes. After he had been gnawing at his heart till it was almost as sore as his nose, only he did not wear it on his sleeve, so it could not be seen, he surprised her one day humming a little air with the refrain: "He should propose despite his nose."

At least she made him think he had surprised her. Whether she really knew he was within hearing or not the historian will not attempt to say, but the aforesaid historian has his suspicions. At all events he took the hint and proposed—a game of golf. He persuaded himself that the links would be the best place to suggest to her the delight of linking her life to his.

"I don't know how to play," she protested.

"You begin by making a tee," he explained.

"Yes," she said, "and how much does that count?"

"It does not count anything."

"Then what's the use of doing it?"

"Why, the tee is what you drive from."

"Well, why can't we have the tea here at home and you take me for a drive in the automobile?"

"That wouldn't be golf."

"But don't you think it would be lovely?"

So they had tea and the automobile drive and she never said a word about his nose. It was getting nearly well anyway. However, he did not propose. He was afraid she might refuse him and then the whole delightful courtship would come to an end.

Imagine his consternation when the next day he saw her on the links learning golf under the guidance of another fellow. His heart raged with jealousy.

Competition is the life of courtship. He called on her boldly that evening and began the conversation thus:

"Did you come out of the game with a free heart and a whole nose?"

Blushing she rubbed off a fleck or two of white powder, which had been applied a little too freely in an effort to hide the sunburn.

"I don't mind burnt noses," she said.

"It's much more painful to have one's nose broken," he replied.

"Have you had that experience, too?"

"I don't know. I want you to tell me that."

"I'm sure it looks all right to me."

And with that the two powdered noses got into such close proximity to one another that the historian delicately withdrew.

One Thing to His Credit.

Ladies' World.

The Ladies' World for November is notable for the beginning of a novelette by Charles (C. D.) Roberts, whose work appears all too seldom. It is described as a story of love and adventure, and, judging by the first installment, it should satisfy every reader who likes quick action with fine character drawing. There is besides some exceedingly good short fiction by Kenne Abbott and others. In a Bronx Upbringing, Mr. Abbott tells pathetically how love for his son and grandson led an old child to the schoolroom. Edith Barnard Delano has a charming story called Day by Day, wherein a girl decides that life's duties, with the accompaniment of love, is better than a career. Substance and Shadow is another boyish love story, by Elizabeth Maithe Boykin, delightfully satisfying; and there is the ending of The Fairy's Janet. In special articles John Beecher has a fine subject in Henry Ward Beecher's early life; Louise D. Mitchell has another thoughtful paper on Married Life's problems; and Laura A. Smith writes of Millinery as an occupation. The household department has contributions by Marion H. Neill (Remedies for Cookery Errors and new ways to Serve Oysters), and Ann W. Morrison (Dried Fruits in the kitchen). There are also Household Information and Economics, Household Science, and Family Problems. Several pages of the latest Autumn and Winter fashions are shown, and there are articles on dressmaking, Economical Dressing and the New Fabrics. These with many subjects, make up a very handsome number. (New York; fifty Cents a year.)

Explorer's Temper Ruffled by a Bit of Chocolate.

Lieut. Shackleton, in writing in the November McClure's of his South Pole expedition, says that the party was on the verge of starvation on its return march. They had almost given up hope when they came to the recently abandoned camp of the relief party. Quoting from his diary, he continues: "We found three little bits of chocolate and a little bit of biscuit at the camp, after carefully searching the ground for such unconsidered trifles, and we 'turned backs' for them. I was unlucky enough to get the bit of biscuit, and a curious unreasoning anger took possession of me for a moment at my bad luck. It shows how primitive we have become, and how much the question of even a morsel of food affects our judgment. We are near the end of our food, but as we have staked everything on the bluff depot, we had a good feed to-night. If we do not pick up the depot there will be absolutely no hope for us."

The Wonderful Amazon.

Although not the largest or longest river, the Amazon is the most wonderful river in the world, with a mouth 150 miles in width, and with a force of water that repels, or at least over-comes, the ocean to a distance of more than fifty leagues. Yet, in spite of the weight of the river, the tide makes its influence felt for 500 miles from the coast. The easterly trade winds blow almost invariably upward, so as to be ready to help the vessel against the adverse currents.

Functions of the Happy.

A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five-pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of goodwill; and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted. We need not care whether they could prove the forty-seventh proposition; they do a better thing than that, they practically demonstrate the great theorem of the livableness of life.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Bottle Suicide.

Drunkennes for deepest troubles is often a preventive or a substitute for suicide, a "temporary suicide" as it were. Many men too cowardly to pull the trigger or take gas, deliberately and viciously commit suicide by the slow alcoholic route, and even say it is an easy way to die. And for this alcohol gets the blame.—Exchange.

Faith and Hope.

Doubts may flit around me, or seem to close their evil wings, and settle down; but, so long as I imagine that the earth is hallowed, and the light of heaven retains its sanctity on the Sabbath—while the blessed sunshine lives within me—never can my soul have lost the instinct of its faith.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Necessity of Beauty.

Schiller in his ethical and philosophical essays wrote that "Beauty alone confers happiness on all," that under its influence men forget their limitations. Happiness is our being's end and aim. And without beauty even happiness in its perfect flowering is impossible.

Accustomed to It.

"Yes," said Rivetta, "I went to a five-o'clock tea with my wife yesterday." "Gracious!" exclaimed Chumley, "didn't it nearly drive you crazy?" "Oh, no, I didn't mind it. I own a better shop, you know."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Time.

"It's a sort o' curious," said Uncle Jerry Peebles; "but when a man is workin' for another man he's always a wantin' to go and see the ball game. When he's workin' on his own time he gets stingy with it and can't spare it."

Meaning of "Caesar."

"Caesar" is said to be a Punle word meaning "an elephant." There are old coins stamped on the one side with Divus Julius, the reverse having S. P. Q. R., with an elephant, in allusion to the African original.

Inexhaustible Asphalt Supply.

In the island of Trinidad there is a lake 115 acres in extent, which, instead of containing water, contains asphalt in almost inexhaustible quantities, for nature fills it up as its contents are abstracted.

Both Boys Saved.

Louis Boon, a leading merchant of Norway, Mich., writes: "Three bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar absolutely cured my boy of a severe cough, and a neighbor's boy, who was so ill with a cold that the doctors gave him up, was cured by taking Foley's Honey and Tar." Nothing else is as safe and certain in results. Gale's Pharmacy.

Communications

Roselle Park, Aug. 10, 1909.

Board of Chosen Freeholders: Gentlemen—I have been instructed by the Street Committee of the Borough of Roselle Park to communicate with you and to fix a date to meet said committee to arrange to improve the approach to Walnut street on Westfield avenue, at an early date as possible.

Yours respectfully,
A. M. Woodruff,
Borough Clerk.

Received and referred to the County Road Committee.

August 11, 1909.

To the Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—During the many years the Central Railroad of New Jersey operated a safe and convenient line of staunch steamboats between Elizabethport and New York, touching at Mariner's Harbor and Bergen Point, there was a good deal of talk heard with regard to a bridge between this county and Staten Island.

But when in the year 1890 the boats were abandoned, there were promises made that the proposed Baltimore and Ohio R. R. bridge at Elizabeth, would in time provide some adequate accommodation for the people desirous of crossing to the ocean front.

The present ferry lines are dangerous, as no doubt you are perfectly aware. The last time I happened to cross the boat was down to its guard in the water, and badly listed to port. I have had many years of practical experience in bridge and dock construction on Staten Island Sound and neighboring waters, and whilst there are many others of even greater knowledge from a theoretical standpoint, I know the conditions thoroughly.

My plan when writing to your honorable body a few days ago was entirely practicable, but I have since thought out a better one because it will not only be cheaper but also more prompt in getting safe and reliable results. I propose with your co-operation to hire a few car floats or scows; to firmly secure one of them near the mouth of Morse Creek and the other diagonally across at the mouth of Old Place Creek; to have two or three others firmly connected together and then operated by some suitable mechanism as a floating draw bridge between those fixed points.

There are good roads leading to both places. I believe the War Department would not have the least objection to a plan of this kind, for the reason, it will not constitute a permanent obstruction to navigation, although it will provide a free right of way to the thousands of people of this county and Staten Island who may wish to cross these waters for pleasure or business.

If your honorable body could find it within your power to appropriate a small sum of money and entrust this work to me, I will undertake the solution of this problem on very short notice, and also agree to supervise the construction of this temporary bridge in a manner which I am confident will be most effective and satisfactory in every way.

Yours very truly,
WILLIAM H. HOOVER, JR.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union: Gentlemen—Your committee to settle with the County Collector would respectfully report that they have examined his books, showing his receipts and disbursements, together with his vouchers, bonds and coupons paid, and bank books, and they find the same agree and are correct in every particular.

His total receipts from January 1, 1909, to August 7, 1909, are $929,923.42

Total Disbursements.... 909,724.49

Leaving a balance in bank of $21,198.93

S. P. T. WILBUR,

By Committee on Surrogate's Accounts:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—Your Committee on Surrogate's Accounts respectfully reports, we have examined the books and vouchers of the Surrogate for the month of August, 1909, and find them correct, and the net receipts are $207.85, which amount has been turned over to the County Collector. Dated September 1, 1909.

CHARLES A. SMITH,
BRADFORD JONES,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Cady, received and placed on file.

By the Jail Committee:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—Your Committee on Jail Inspection would respectfully report that it has visited the jail and inspected the books of the warden.

Number of prisoners in jail August 1..... 60

Number received during August..... 78

Number discharged..... 75

Number in jail September 1..... 63

Number days' board..... 1,750

Cost per day per prisoner..... $3.431

Cost of maintenance of jail for month of August:

Salaries..... $233.00

Provisions, clothing, drugs, etc..... 378.52

Total..... $611.52

That the system now in force whereby the freeholders purchase the provisions for feeding the prisoners will prove successful is evidenced by the fact that, although the salaries have been increased and the prices of provisions advanced, the books show a gain over the old system from November 11, 1908, to July 31, 1909, of $426.09.

Respectfully submitted,
JOSEPH PERRY,
J. HERVEY DOANE,
JOHN H. STEPHAN,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse received and placed on file.

By Committee on Soldiers' Monuments:

August 31, 1909.

Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Applications for monuments to mark the graves of the following named soldiers in Union county having been regularly made and approved by the supervisor, your Committee on Soldiers' Monuments recommends that the requests be granted:

William H. Meeker, captain, Company B, Eleventh N. J. Volunteers, Evergreen Cemetery, Elizabeth, N. J., 1843-1909.

Harvey F. Doyle, Company F, 144th N. Y. Volunteers, Rosedale Cemetery, Linden, N. J., 1846-1904.

Henry Wood, Company C, Twenty-ninth Connecticut Volunteers, C. P. Rosehill Cemetery, Linden, N. J., 1839-1909.

Thomas H. Seymour, first lieutenant, Company E, Eighty-seventh N. Y. Volunteers, Evergreen Cemetery, Elizabeth, N. J.

Respectfully submitted,
JOHN H. STEPHAN,
JOHN N. CADY,
CHARLES J. JENSEN,
JOSEPH PERRY,
J. HERVEY DOANE,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Doane received and recommendations adopted.

By Committee on Bridges in Westfield:

To the Board of Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your committee appointed to investigate and report as to the need of new bridges on Bradford and Cedar avenues, Westfield, N. J., would respectfully report that it has examined the situation and finds that these two streets are part of a new subdivision of the town, and are graded and have been accepted by the town of Westfield. The town is about to lay sewers in them, and the owners contemplate extensive improvements, as concrete curbs and sidewalks, macadam roads, etc., when the sewer work has been done.

Your committee is of the opinion that both of these bridges are necessary, but owing to the shortage in the bridge funds your committee would recommend that but one of these bridges, that on Bradford avenue, be built at this time. This bridge will be 66 feet long, and about two feet by three feet in size, and will cost not more than $250. Your committee would therefore recommend that this bridge be constructed the cost to be not more than $250.

Respectfully submitted,
JOSEPH PERRY,
AARON D. CRANE,
GEORGE B. CLADEK,
Committee.

On motion it was ordered on roll call that the report be received and recommendation adopted.

By Committee on Fairview avenue bridge, Westfield:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your committee would respectfully report that it has examined the site of the proposed bridge and find that the street is newly graded and has been macadamized; it has also been accepted by the town. The stream runs across the street diagonally, and the bridge will probably have to be 100 feet in length, although the street is only 66 feet wide.

We would recommend that a new bridge be built across the avenue, at this point, to be about two feet by three feet in size, and to cost no more than $350.

Respectfully submitted,
JOSEPH PERRY,
JOHN H. STEPHAN,
CHARLES J. JENSEN,
Committee.

Freeholder Jones moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

THE LIBRARY.

What Shall We Read Next Winter?

As it is principally during the long nights of the cold winter months that one turns to the reading of serious literature, at the first signs of autumn the question naturally arises, "What shall we read?" Whether Carlyle was right or not when he said that "the true university of these days is a library of printed books," it is certain that by systematic reading one may build up a liberal education. For the guidance of readers towards this desirable end many books have been issued at various times. Robertson's "Course of Study" was issued in order "to assist the ordinary unlearned man to avail himself of the stores of knowledge which he around him in books." Other books of this class are Sargent and Whishaw's "Guide Book to Books," Acland's "Guide to the Choice of Books," Souders' "The Best Books," the same editor's "Reader's Guide to Contemporary Literature" and Baldwin's "The Book Lover." With these every man who values the companionship of books and would choose his companions wisely would do well to make acquaintance. Should any of our readers desire to undertake any special course of reading, the Library will endeavor to direct him or her to the best available literature on the subject, and to render any possible assistance.—Reprinted from the bulletin of the Croyden Libraries.

American Music Hall, Newark.

Next week at the American Music Hall (formerly Lyric Theatre) there will be an all star aggregation of vaudeville talent which is sure to attract crowded houses. The headliner is none other than George Fuller Golden, America's Foremost Humorist, and those who hear this inimitable monologist, whose personal magnetism and brilliant wit have put him in a class by himself, will unanimously concur in the opinion that he is worthy of this flattering title. Daphne Pollard, who hails from Far-away Australia, has pleased audiences from one end of the country to the other with her sweet winsomeness, youth and vivacity. Miss Pollard is barely out of her teens, and with her diminutive figure is especially suited to "child songs," which she sings in a way all her own.

Sent to Jail for Stealing Tools.

Harry Layton, of Red Bank, broke into a tool house in front of one of the McVoy houses on Union avenue last Saturday and stole about $20 worth of tools. The tool house belongs to Contractor Bolan of Plainfield.

The police nabbed Layton and in default of bail, he was held to await the action of the Grand Jury. Afterward he was sent to Elizabeth.

BONDSMAN TUTTLE SURRENDERS REV FRANCIS TO THE COURT.

Bail Supplied by John Z. Hatfield Pending Decision on Capitella Case.

William E. Tuttle, Jr., of Westfield, who went bail for the Rev. George R. Francis, charged with obtaining money under false pretences from an Italian named Jack Capitella of Westfield, surrendered him into custody Saturday afternoon. John Z. Hatfield of Fairwood, Francis' brother-in-law, furnished bail for $2000, and he was out again in a few hours.

The reverend gentleman was charged by Jack Capitella an Italian of this town, with having unlawfully sold real estate belonging to him, under power of attorney given for another purpose, and of appropriating the proceeds of the sale. Capitella first became aware of the state of the case, when he was ordered off of what he supposed to be his own property.

In defense, Francis said he was the authorized agent of the Central Real Estate Company of Westfield and had the right to sell the property; which he did for $4100 in May 1907, and that Capitella had received all the money and was coming to him.

An indictment was found and judgment rendered against Francis in the court of Quarter Sessions. On appeal to the Supreme Court Judge Whittemore of the local District Court, was appointed to hold further hearings, which was one early last summer. All evidence now in the Judge's hands for examination and decision.

Mrs. Sisserson and Mrs. Collins were the patronesses.

REAPING BENEFIT.

From the Experience of Westfield People. We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Westfield residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. 'Tis emphatic and convincing. No better proof can be had.

Samuel K. Weller, 53 Rahway Ave., Westfield, N. J., says: "Mrs. Weller has great confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills. At the time she began using them, she was suffering from pain through her back and was also annoyed by headaches and dizzy spells. Her condition became serious and dropsical swellings appeared in her ankles. I had used Doan's Kidney Pills myself, and they had proven so satisfactory that I advised her to try them. She procured a box at Fratchey's Pharmacy and has not suffered from kidney trouble since. We both take great pleasure in giving Doan's Kidney Pills our highest endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

and especially so when it comes to clothing. A suit of clothes, like a house has to have the proper lining, stiffening and inside material to retain its shape and symmetry. A ready-to-wear suit gives a day or two's satisfaction and then loses its contour.

We could make you a suit, overcoat or trousers in the same way store clothes are made and realize a better profit—but only once. You would lose faith in us, no matter how fine the material we might use.

The Right Kind of Overcoat at
The Time It Is Most Needed

HERE IS A STORM COAT—

A big, rough fellow that defies the weather, and enables one to enjoy the outdoor air, when otherwise he might be inclined to linger under cover.

The feature of a real Storm Coat is the collar. They build them mighty clever nowadays, with collars adjustable four or five ways, so that a Storm Coat may still be a Storm Coat and yet not altogether impossible for general wear.

The best of these patented collars are shown here on Coats made the Wanamaker-Way—of all-wool cloths, of course. They are made by men who appreciate what a Storm Coat is and know how to produce just the right effect.

A Record-Breaker "Xtralite" Derby

Sensible men have settled to their satisfaction that there is "nothing in" wearing a heavy hat except perhaps a headache.

We have brought our $5, $3.50 and $3 Derbies down to the comfortable weight; and now introduce a lower-priced hat that will provide maximum comfort, and good service, too.

To start the "XTRALITE" with a hurrah we have priced it at $1.75. And we ask men to try and match it at $2.

And these are only two items from the Wanamaker Men's Store—the store where a man can get anything he needs to wear or to play with.

Peculiar Chinese Taste.

Chinamen have a preference for the eggs of the goose or duck. These they place with aromatic herbs in white rice for a period of some weeks. Under the influence of time the yolks become green and take a dark green color. The white coagulates and becomes green. The product of the eggs, which is a strong odor, the Chinese eat as a side dish and it is said to have the taste of lobster.

American Grace Lines.

Aristotle says: "A land that spontaneously produces beauty in fruit, flowers and women must also produce a glorious heritage of intellect in man." The Greek grace lines of the Venus of Phidias almost exactly conform to the lines of American domestic and national, and these are preserved longer and more gracefully than in any other people—ancient or modern.

The Wickedest People.

I think the wickedest people on earth are those who use a force of genius to make themselves selfish in the noblest things; keeping themselves aloof from the vulgar, the ignorant and the unknown; rising higher and higher in taste, till they sit, ice upon ice, on the mountain top of eternal congelation.—Henry Ward Beecher.

The Bright Side.

A certain lady prides herself upon always looking at the bright side of things. "My dear," moaned her husband one day recently, as he tossed restlessly on his bed, "it's the doctor I'm thinking of. What a bill he will be!" "Never mind, Joseph," said his wife. "You know there's the insurance money."—Bellman.

Duchess Can Be Shabby.

A duchess may be as shabby as she pleases, and, in spite of socialism and a badly hanging skirt, she will remain a power in the land, but the suburban lady does not care to be seen with her best friend if the latter be wearing an old-fashioned frock.—Black and White.

Food Scarce.

"This circular describing the Mounting says you can sit at the dinner table and see the beautiful mountain peaks," said the man who contemplated going. "That is true," replied the one who had been; "and that's just about all you can see."

Immediate Need.

Kind Friend—"Henpeck, let me introduce you to Prof. Glass, the great hypnotist, who can put anyone to sleep within two minutes after starting." Henpeck—"Glad to meet you, Professor. Come, let me introduce you to my wife."

His Reason.

A man applied at the factory for a job. Among other questions the foreman asked him why he had left his last place. "Well," he replied, "they asked me to please leave, and I didn't like to refuse them."—Housekeeper.

Right in His Line.

"I'm surprised that you should be so interested in watching those silly dudes." "Force of habit, I guess. I'm president of a real estate improvement company." "Well?" "Well, they're a vacant lot."

Where Dullness Leads.

Always to be right, always to trample forward, and never to doubt, are not these the great qualities with which dullness takes the lead in the world?—Thackeray, "Vanity Fair."

High Honors.

"Did your daughter graduate with high honors?" "I should say she did. Her dress cost six dollars more than any other girl's in the class."—Detroit Free Press.

And the Dishes.

Baron—"Were you ever in a collision at sea?" Egbert—"Yes; I had a cross-eyed waiter run into me in the companion-way."—Yonkers Statesman.

Where Suggestion Hurts.

Many diseases are cured by medicine and medicine alone, and in these any form of suggestion whatsoever may be misleading or harmful.

Her Guess.

The Fat One—"Don't you think travel broadens one?" The Thin One—"Oh, yes. You've been on a long journey, haven't you?"

National Traits.

It takes one hour to know a Frenchman, one month to know a German, almost a lifetime to know an Englishman.—well.

Foley's Honey and Tar clears the air passages, stops the irritation in the throat, soothes the inflamed membranes, and the most obstinate cough disappears. Sore and inflamed lungs are healed and strengthened, and the cold is expelled from the system. Refuse any but the genuine in the yellow package. Gale's Pharmacy.

"Lung Fever," the Veterinary said. A Post Mortem proved it to be Worms. This happens in thousands of cases every year, all over the country. But horses that are regularly fed Fairfield's Blood Tonic for Horses Only, never have Worms and never get Lung Fever. Sold under written guarantee by Patrick Traynor.

From a Burglar's Note Book

I had retired—as I thought, permanently—but the old yearning for gain and adventure had swept me from my moorings, and I was once more on the road making a little professional tour and meeting with the usual nocturnal adventures and varying degrees of success, when, one gloomy night, I inadvertently committed the fatal mistake which brought to a sudden termination—

But I will not anticipate. It will be better to relate the happenings of that ill-starred night in their proper sequence.

Standing well back from the highway, on a slightly eminence, in the outskirts of a thriving village, I had noticed a large mansion, with well-kept lawns, extensive grounds, and other external evidences (as viewed from a distance), of being the abode of wealth and luxury.

I naturally supposed it to be the country residence of some millionaire, and although the owner doubtless was not expecting a call from me, I resolved to extend to myself the freedom of his luxurious abode at the earliest opportunity and carry off, if luck permitted, a few specimens of plate and other souvenirs of the occasion.

So the first dark night, armed with the necessary tools and my trusty revolver, I strolled out to the neighborhood of the imposing mansion along about midnight, and greatly to my surprise found no trouble whatever in making my way into the grounds. There was a large iron gate at the entrance, but it was not locked, nor was there any watch dog on guard.

When I reached the house I saw what I had not before noticed, that there were heavy bars to all the windows. This struck me as strange, but some wealthy householders have peculiar notions, and I chuckled to myself at the idea which the owner of this place evidently entertained that the window bars furnished an added security to his valuables. Just as though a genuine housebreaker minded such a trifle as a half-inch wrought iron bar!

Selecting a convenient window I produced a chilled steel saw from my kit of tools and made short work of the bars. Then prying open the window catch with a thin knife blade, designed for that purpose, I cautiously raised the sash and crawled inside.

I found myself in a long and comparatively narrow hallway, at the further end of which a door stood ajar; and I confess that it gave me something of a start to notice that a lamp was still burning in the room into which this door opened. Could it be that the inmates of the house had not yet retired? I listened intently, but could hear no one talking or stirring. All was silent as the tomb.

The only sound that I could hear as I stood there was the beating of my own heart. Evidently no one was awake. The light doubtless was from a solitary gas jet or night lamp which had been left burning, and instead of a hindrance would be a help to me in my self-appointed mission.

I determined to explore the apartment containing the light first. Noiselessly tiptoeing my way along the hall, I reached the door, gently pushed it open, and stepped inside. The moment I had crossed the threshold I saw that I had been entirely too precipitate and unguarded in my actions.

But it was too late to retrieve my error or retreat. A thick-set, dark-complexioned man, who had been seated at a desk in the corner of the room (which appeared to be some sort of an office) sprang to his feet and came quickly forward, before I had a chance to draw my weapon or make my escape from the room, and, seizing both my hands in his powerful grasp, cordially remarked:

"Ah! glad to meet you! I've been expecting you for some time."

"Why?" I stammered, vainly endeavoring to wrench my hands loose, "whom do you take me for?"

"Why, you are the noted author and housebreaker who has been writing the 'Reminiscences of a Busy Life by a Retired Burglar' for the Daily Comet and other periodicals, of course. As I say, I have noticed your work and I have been on the lookout for you for some time."

"And—and who are you, pray?"

"I? Why, I am Dr. Straitjacket, the head of this restraining institution into which you have so thoughtfully made your way, thereby saving your friends the trouble of bringing you here, and—"

Suddenly I realized the terrible mistake that I had made, and struggled no longer. My long and busy, as well as variegated, career as a housebreaker and author was ended. I had broken into the Home for Incurables, at last!

Swiss Society of Waiters.

Geneva, Switzerland, which has just been celebrating in honor of John Calvin, has the distinction of lending its name to the great international society of waiters known as the "Geneva Union." The headquarters of the society are in Dresden, but branches flourish in all the big hotel cities of the civilized world. The aim of the Geneva Union is to organize all classes of waiters with a view to making their lot as happy as possible. It opens up to members special facilities for traveling, for learning languages, for gaining a knowledge of their duties, and generally looks after their interests.

TAKING HIS TIME

BOBBY knew he would marry Beth eventually. He had known it for a year—over since that night Beth unexpectedly passed through the doorway where he was lazily leaning, waiting for something interesting to happen.

"Who is she?" asked Bobby, suddenly alert.

"My cousin Beth," said the hostess.

"Introduce me at once," said Bobby. "I want to ask her to marry me."

The hostess laughed. She was used to Bobby's extravagances.

Bobby met Beth later in the evening. Her eyes shone on him mischievously and her mouth curved as if she expected to laugh at any moment.

"Are you going to ask me to marry you at once?" she inquired of him sweetly.

Bobby smiled. "I am glad you overheard what I said to your cousin," he replied. "Now you are prepared for the inevitable."

That was a year ago, and the inevitable, in the shape of a proposal of marriage from Bobby had not come. He knew he would become engaged to her eventually, but for the time being things were very comfortable just as they were.

He monopolized Beth's evenings when she stayed at home. He was her constant escort when she went out. He felt all the satisfaction of proprietorship. Still he was not bound. He could come and go as he pleased. He took time for his club. He could pass an occasional leisurely evening at home with his pipe.

One night, however, he met with reverses. Beth wore a cream lace gown that night and was ravishing. They had been invited to meet an eastern man who was being introduced to a good many persons. That is to say, he was introduced until he met the cream lace gown containing Beth. Then he courteously declined to be introduced any further. He remained beside the cream lace gown for the rest of the evening.

"You had every appearance of liking it," said Bobby in a rage as he was talking Beth home.

"I did like it," she replied. "I liked it very much. I have asked him to come to see me."

For some time after that Bobby's club knew him not. Until the eastern man departed he passed no leisurely evenings at home with his pipe. In fact, the eastern man gave Bobby what is sometimes called a run for his money.

"I am glad he's gone," acknowledged Bobby, one evening about a week after the eastern man had departed.

"Are you?" said Beth softly. "Then I am glad too."

But Bobby did not take warning from the eastern man. When Beth said that soft little: "Then I am glad, too," he did not ask her to marry him and save him further alarms. He only relaxed, with great tranquillity of soul, and continued to monopolize her evenings when she stayed at home, to be her constant escort when she went out, to give the world to understand that she was his property—to be very comfortable, in a word with the idea of eventually asking her to marry him.

Bobby took a fishing trip. For six weeks he fished. He did not write to Beth very often; it was too hard to write often when one was roughing it. "I should have to write her every day if we were engaged," thought Bobby.

He sent her his biggest catch, however, and felt considerable surprise and some resentment when she did not write enthusiastically to thank him.

At eight o'clock the first night after Bobby's return he rushed up Beth's front steps. He wanted to see her very badly. He had been gone for six weeks.

Beth's mother was sitting alone on the porch.

"How is Beth?" eagerly asked Bobby. "And where is she?"

"She was married last night," said Beth's mother, quietly. "They left on a late train. They are going abroad for their honeymoon."

"Married!" exclaimed Bobby, dully.

"Married!"

"It was all very sudden. Beth met him the week you left. He was exceedingly eager. Think of it! Married six weeks after they first saw each other!"

Tears stood in Beth's mother's eyes. She was not thinking of Bobby. She was wishing that daughters did not have to grow up and get married.

Alone in his room that night Bobby smoked long and hard. He thought of many things. When he finally shook the last ashes out of his pipe he said one word to himself.

"Fool!" said Bobby.

He was feeling very wretched.—Chicago Daily News.

Lower Eight

By Caroline Lockhart

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

The Pullman car porter had settled himself for a comfortable nap, having snugly tucked away the last of his charges, including the fat man in "Lower Eight" and the timid young thing who had boarded the train at Norfolk. The porter stirred uneasily in his berth, for the snoring that was arising from "Lower Eight" drowned the roar of the train. The snoring came in surges, mounds and whistling, the like of which had never been heard in heaven above or on the earth beneath. The curtains of "Lower Eight" had swung slightly open with the lurch of the train, and the fat man could be seen lying on his broad back, with his mouth gaping wide.

As his slumber deepened, he was apparently in the last throes of choking when a neatly rolled umbrella, held in a slender white hand, crept out from "Lower Seven," where the timid young thing was shrinking, and made a vicious jab between the curtains of "Lower Eight."

"Porter! Porter!" came a whoop from "Lower Eight," and the bell trilled wildly.

"What is it, sah?" cried the startled porter as he bounded down the aisle.

"Did you stab me in the side?" demanded the fat man in dire wrath.

"Oh, no, sah!" replied the porter.

"I never done no thing like that! You must have been dreaming, sah."

"Confound you! I'm not dreaming!" growled "Lower Eight."

"Well, sah," argued the porter, his black hand concealing his gleaming ivory teeth, "you know that when you turned in you had took a little noah than was jess good fo' any gemman."

"It's mighty funny," muttered "Lower Eight," but he was not in a position to contradict this statement, so he subsided. The porter returned to the smoking room, ruminating on the strange hallucinations produced by too long a dallying in the dining car.

The snores began again in rising crescendo. Just as the teeth of nervous passengers were well set, the umbrella stole again from "Lower Seven," and another vicious lunge made the snore change to a howl of rage.

"Porter!" yelled "Lower Eight," "I tell you some one is stabbing me!"

"Kain't be nuffin' like that, sah," replied the porter, coming up soothingly.

"I ain't slept a wink, and nobody's been movin' in this car, or I'd a-seen them. You're jess havin' a bad dream."

"It's no dream!" shouted the fat man. "Why, my side is sore. Feels like there's a hole there you could stick your fist in."

"Now you go to sleep again, sah," coaxed the porter, "and I'll watch that you ain't tetched."

The rumble of the train was once more lost in the vocal exercises from "Lower Eight," and the porter, pulling his cap over his eyes, napped in the smoking compartment.

"Auch! Ouch! Help! Help!" and a red face shot out of "Lower Eight."

The porter slouched up the aisle, disgust written on his countenance.

"Gawd, porter," growled the fat man, "is there a doctor on board?"

"I'm horribly punctured! Did you see the villain when he stabbed me?"

"Kain't nobody stab you, sah," remonstrated the porter sternly.

"Nobody ain't moved in this car. You've got the dederlam trimmings, that's what's the matter with you. If you don't lie still and stop your hollerin', me and the conductor is goin' to strap you down."

"I don't see what they mean by putting drunken brutes in the car with ladies," exclaimed an acid voice from "Upper Ten."

"Put him off at the next station. This is supposed to be a sleeping-car," growled "Lower Four."

"He hasn't done a thing but keep everybody awake with his infernal grunting since he turned in."

From all along the line of curtains came uncomplimentary comments, but there was silence in "Lower Seven," where lay the timid young thing who had got on at Norfolk.

"Never had such bad dreams in my life," said "Lower Eight," addressing the car in general. "Dreamed the same thing three times in succession. I believe it is a warning. If any accident is going to happen to-night, I die with my boots on. I'm going to get up."

A thrashing about told the other passengers that the fat man was as good as his word. A sigh of relief was breathed through the car, as the fat man lumbered by the curtains to the smoking-room, to spend the rest of the night brooding over the mystery.

When the timid young thing crept from her berth the next morning, there was something about the smile which lurked around her mouth that made the porter scratch his head.

Convincing the Jury.

"The recent press reports touching the use of whisky by juries in Tennessee," says a New York lawyer, "reminds me of an amusing incident in connection with a trial I once witnessed in Arkansas."

"The defendant had been accused of selling adulterated liquor, and some whisky was offered in evidence. This was given the jury as evidence to assist in its deliberations."

"When they finally filed into court, his honor asked:

"Has the jury agreed on a verdict?"

"No, your honor," responded the foreman, "and before we do we should like to have some more evidence."—Lippincott's.

SLIM CROWD ATTEND MEET FOR CHARITY AT DRIVING PARK.

Good Racing, in Which Local Horses Show Speed.

Chilly weather last Saturday was responsible for the fact that not over two hundred people attended the meet of the Westfield Driving and Riding Club at Fair Acres; those who did not go missed seeing some of the best and closest racing of the season. It is unfortunate that the attendance was so small, as the proceeds are to be donated to the Children's Country Home.

Miss Syracuse, record 2:00, did not show up; she was expected to beat the track record of 2:15 held by J. W. Arkell's Dan Q. In the free-for-all, this record might have been broken by H. W. Evan's new horse Richard, which did a mile in the second heat in 2:17½, and doubtless would have done even better had the weather been more favorable.

The lateness of the hour precluded completing all the events, as will be seen in the table.

In judging the points; conformation, soundness and manner were 70 points, and outfit 30 points.

The awards were as follows: First class, Bess (S. D. Winter) blue ribbon, Happy (Allen Thompson) red ribbon, Ruddy (Arthur Roy) yellow ribbon and Carol (P. L. Travencon) white ribbon. Second class, Teddy (Helen and Lloyd Gallagher) blue ribbon, Baby (Madeline Roy) red ribbon and Baritone (Charles Sisseron) yellow ribbon. The others got white ribbons.

Meyer—Vandusen

Miss Helen Vandusen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac A. Vandusen, of 124 Bryant street, Rahway, was united in matrimony to Albert H. Meyer, of Westfield at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon, at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. Dr. Cooder, rector of St. Paul's Church, Rahway, officiating.

Miss Effie Vandusen, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Isaac O. Bunn of Rahway, best man. The bride's gown was white satin, with Irish point lace trimmings. She wore a diamond studded amethyst brooch a present from the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a gown of yellow messaline and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyer left in the evening for a short trip to the South.

Walworth—Taylor

Miss Mary Emma Taylor, of Westfield, was married to Harold Edwin Walworth, of Elizabeth, last Tuesday evening. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents, 708 North avenue, by the Rev. Dr. A. W. Hayes, pastor of the Methodist Church, in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives.

The bride was gown in silk batiste with point lace trimmings and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and carnations. The music was rendered by Miss Sara Evans, of Port Richmond, S. I.

After the reception the happy couple left for a short wedding trip. On their return they expect to occupy their new home, now nearly completed at 707 North avenue.

Moral Zealot Nuisance.

The worst man you can have in the community is the zealot, who would regulate your morals and religion by his narrow standard of right and wrong. Orthodoxy is well enough till it goes on the warpath.—Washington Post.

Nothing New About That.

After much experimenting a West Chester scientist has discovered that a fly will withstand a shock which would kill a horse. Any bald-headed man could have told him that.—Philadelphia North American.

Council Grants Transfer of License—Dog Warden Gets Vote of Thanks.

At a meeting of the Town Council Monday night permission was given Mrs. Samuel Goodrich who keeps the City Hotel on Broad street, to transfer her license to Lawrence Powers.

The Recorder reported $80 in fines for the last month. The subject of mill wagons impeding passengers to Central Railroad station in the morning came up before the council. The matter will be referred to the officials for settlement.

AMATEUR NIGHT AT CASINO.

Amateur night at the Westfield Casino proved very successful judging from attendance and applause. The vaudeville part of the program was as strong and attractive as has ever been put on the local stage. The manager must deserve credit for the patronage which has been given.

Chief among the vaudevillians were the Messrs. Jones & Chase two colored entertainers. Mr. Jones displayed a voice of high culture, and would show good judgment if he entered the concert field. Mr. Chase, of Jones & Chase, added much amusement with his grotesque dancing.

Two comedians, Kraemer & Burman, staging themselves as the Freshman & Sophomore contributed a large share to the program, and were very well received by the audience.

Miss Lowrey with her interpretation of a sales-girl in a large department store met with approval.

Miss Belle Morrison, a clever singing comedienne added much interest.

The return engagement of Mr. William Corcoran, who sang the latest popular hits illustrated by lantern slides, was a favorite.

Of the motion pictures enough cannot be said; they were, without exception, the best in the line shown anywhere.

Amateur nights will still continue every Wednesday night. Box office open for advance sale.

The pool and billiard room is gradually getting better and tables are in the best condition.

A Miserable Man Made Happy.

Beau Nash on many occasions showed great kindness of heart, and it is told of him that on one occasion he asked a rich man for a donation of $5. The money was given, and the donor asked the Beau how it had been disposed of. Beau handed him an account signed with the signature of the recipient on which was written: "To making a miserable man happy—$5."—Home Notes.

Hypnotism in Sickness.

One of the greatest surgeons of the last century, an authority who still prevails, says that a large element of suggestion, therefore hypnotism, enters into the mind of every person who realizes or ever strongly believed he is sick, and this realization so acts upon the mind that it becomes open to ordinary suggestion or to the more professional forms of hypnotic suggestion.

The Smoker's Imagination.

In brief, smoking is not a mere matter of drugging the system, nor even of acquiring a certain taste in the mouth; the sense of sight enters into it considerably and imagination most of all. How else shall we account for the fact that no smoker can tell with his eyes shut and his hands tied whether his cigar is alight or not?

The British Crown.

The present crown of Great Britain was constructed in 1808, with jewels taken from old crowns and others furnished by command of the queen. It contains four large pear-shaped pearls, 273 small pearls, 147 table diamonds, 1,273 rose diamonds, 1,303 brilliant diamonds, five rubies, 11 emeralds and 17 sapphires.

Holds the Record.

The Beaumont (Tex.) Enterprise tells of a typist who can take 100 words per minute. We know of a man in Allentown with a hatchet-faced wife who can, and does, take at the rate of about 300 words per minute when she gets worked up.—Allentown Democrat.
