TELEPHONING TO THE COUNTRY

THE City and the Country are bound together by the telephone line.

For the suburban and country resident, the telephone puts the city's friends and business houses at his call.

City people also find the rural telephone of great advantage. A traveler, from his room in the hotel, talks with the farm folk miles away. Unless they have a telephone he cannot reach them.

The farmer himself may travel far and still talk home over the Long Distance Lines of the Bell System.

Regular Meeting of Public School Faculty Evolves Some Interesting Subjects.

TEACHING READING AS A SCIENCE.

Best Curriculum For High Schools—No Clue to the Author of "The Proper Study of Mankind is Man."

A reporter of the STANDARD attended the regular weekly teachers' meeting at the Washington High School, last Tuesday afternoon and found it very interesting. About thirty teachers were present, with Dr. Savitz in the chair. All the questions were discussed intelligently, though informally, and seemed to have received much attention and thought from those who took part. The first subject brought up under the general head of "Reading," was the "word drill," and this subject was divided into two parts, namely, pronunciation and meaning. It seemed to be generally agreed, that the most important thing was to get the pupil to understand what he read, and to become interested in it; children should forget themselves in this lesson. Teachers should ask the children if they understood what they read, and act it out and dramatize it, as much as possible for them. After the pupil has read his lesson, she should have him repeat it orally, to discover whether he has fully imbibed the ideas conveyed. All thought it best to have easy lessons for supplementary work. Dr. Savitz expressed himself as delighted with the reading work in most of the classes.

The meeting then proceeded to a review of Dr. Lough's lecture on Educational Psychology at Roselle. Dr. Savitz related the story of a superintendent who as an experiment admitted pupils to the High School, if they were old enough and big enough, but he did not go on and say how the experiment turned out. He said he knew of one superintendent who promoted on the same grounds. The objection to such a test was that those admitted were not familiar with the working tools. There is much difference of opinion as to what constitutes a proper curriculum, and there are objections to some subjects admitted, but all of them have come in from a practical demand. Manual training and special training were next considered. Manual training is designed to aid the pupil later in life, to fit him to have a particular trade, and to make the physical man familiar with agriculture or artizanship. It gives the experience in a sort of short hand, which he would have to gain at a great expense of time in actual life. The school was a sort of furnishing agent and should be run with judgment; some material should be furnished in detail, and some should not.

The subject of what should be included in the curriculum, was then taken up and the fact emphasized that life is so varied and complex nowadays, and the demands on the individual are so far-reaching and unusual, that an extended curriculum is absolutely necessary. The subjects in the curriculum may be grouped under three heads, viz.: Humanistic, Scientific and Economic. A well rounded curriculum, will make provision for all these subjects. Lately in the effort to make the curriculum more practical the humanistic studies have been crowded out by the scientific and economic. Recently however this tendency has changed through a realization of the fact, that no broad training is possible without at least some of the humanistic studies as a basis, such as literature, history, etc. The fact was brought out that there

The committee in charge of this work is composed of the following: A. L. Russell, chairman; F. H. Schaefer, H. G. Mooney, A. N. Pierson, G. W. Frutchey.

LEASES WOHLFERT BUILDING

Telephone Company Will Occupy the Whole of Second Floor.

The New York Telephone Company has rented the entire second floor of the Wohlfert building, at the corner of Broad and Elm streets. The contract was signed up by Mr. Wohlfert and the officials of the company this week; the lease is for ten years. Because of the rapid growth of local business, the company has decided to greatly extend its local central office and all the modern improvements will be installed in the new headquarters. It is thought that the system will be in operation early in the spring.

LIVELY FRAGAS IN BIG WOODS SECTION, SATURDAY NIGHT.

Lee Young Atrociously Assaulted by Gang of Six.

Lee Young, who lives in a shanty in the "Big Woods" section, was assaulted shortly after midnight last Sunday morning. Lee left a warm comfortable bed to answer a knock at the door, and was surprised when he opened it to find there a party of six, who announced their intention of "doing him up," which they immediately proceeded to do, in the most approved and scientific manner. Lee had his eyes blackened, his nose and lips bruised, and the apparent strength of his right jaw much increased, by a large and assertive contusion; the rest of his body was also pretty well "done up." It is thought that revenge was the motive. One thing is certain, and that is, Lee didn't have a "square deal." Six to one odds are too great to play at any time, and besides this he was not properly clothed for such an encounter. Chief O'Neill got two of the offenders, William Perrine and Theodore Wilson, alias Duck Wilson, Sunday afternoon, about 2 o'clock and Monday took them to Elizabeth. Wilson has a bad record and has spent six years of his life in jail. They were held in $500 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury next May.

Robert Perrine of Plainfield and William Sanford Moffett of Westfield were also nabbed Wednesday, and taken to Elizabeth as accomplices, Thursday morning.

The next time you want to treat a friend to a smoke don't think you have to pay 10c. or a quarter for a cigar that is good enough for him. You can now get the same quality formerly sold in 10c. straight cigars for 5c. The reason for this is the National Cigar Stand in Frutchey's Drug Store is one of three thousand stands owned and operated by the three thousand druggists in the United States who buy their cigars as one organization. The Cuba-Roma is one of these National brands—that's why you only pay 5c. for it.

THE TOWN BUDGET.

The Council Passes One on First Reading Which is About the Same as Last Year.

DISCUSS MATTER OF PARK SITES.

Soon to Be Determined Whether Property is to be Bought—A Short Session, and a Long "30 Minute" Recess.

The town budget for 1910 was fixed and passed on first reading last Tuesday evening, at the adjourned meeting of the Westfield Common Council in the town rooms, on Elm street. Mayor Alpers was at his desk, and Councilmen Affleck, Hohenstein, Schmitt, Wilson, Middleditch, Davis and Casey were present. The budget is very nearly the same as that of last year and reads:

Appropriation
Lighting	$7,500
Police Department	7,500
Fire Department	5,500
Roads	9,000
Poor	4,200
Water	10,800
Interest	2,400
Board of Health	1,000
Library Board	2,100
Sinking Fund	8,800
Park Commission	1,000
Town Expenses	13,000

The subject of parks was again brought up by Councilman Wilson. He wanted to know what had been done in this respect, and thought the matter ought to be settled soon. He said if the properties chosen for parks by the Park Commission last year are left any longer, they will be harder to acquire. For example, the lease on the Burtis property, on North Lenox and Central avenues, will expire in March, and if the lease is renewed, and the town decides to buy the land, they will have to buy the lease, too.

Councilman Middleditch, chairman of the Committee on Parks, answered with Mr. Wilson, saying the matter of parks had been tentatively dropped, as they did not wish to bring up the subject while the tax fight was on. He asked Councilman Wilson what the Committee on Taxes had done in reference to the matter, as many citizens had asked him when action would be taken on the taxes.

Councilman Wilson answered Mr. Middleditch by saying that he still had the papers, but had been unable to get his committee together, particularly on account of the absence of Mr. Floyd.

Mr. Schmitt, chairman of the Town Water and Light Plant Committee, said that he needed two more men on his committee. He said he would like to have Councilman Davis, chairman of the Lighting Committee, and Councilman Affleck, chairman of the Roads, Sewer, and Water Committee. Mayor Alpers appointed these men to act on the committee.

Bids for the printing of the town reports and ordinances were received from The Westfield Leader, THE UNION COUNTY STANDARD, Harold Francis and A. L. Russell. Mr. Russell was given the contract, his bid being the lowest.

Mr. W. G. Peckham made a proposition to the town to fix the roadbed of Hillside avenue at one dollar a year, provided the offer is accepted within twenty days, and the town give him nine months to do the work.

The clerk read eighteen letters from neighboring towns, which gave the salaries of the policemen, the chiefs and sergeants. The salaries of the regular police ranged from $20 to $30 per month, and those of the chiefs from $45 to $100 per month. From these, the Council

CARE OF THE INSANE.

Proper state care of the mentally defective has always been a difficult problem to solve. Sad and unnatural as it may seem the average civilized man has less consideration and pity for those whose intellects are crippled than he has for those in full mental vigor. We say civilized man, because the untutored savage venerates the insane and considers him the especial favorite of the Almighty. This neglect has found its root in lack of thought and knowledge, rather than in wanton and premeditated cruelty of heart. Wherever the public has become enlightened and warmed to the subject, reforms have been accomplished and evils mitigated; for no one with the most elementary sentiment of compassion can consider unmoved the sufferings of a fellow man, who is so terribly handicapped in the world's fight as to have a defective mental organization.

In the State of New Jersey we have two institutions for the feeble-minded, situated at Vineland. These are crowded to overflowing and have a long waiting list.

This condition of affairs should be remedied at once, and the remedy lies with the Legislature—the only question is, will they apply it? The State Home for Women at Vineland and the State Village for Epileptics at Skillman could be utilized under the law to take a large enough number of the inmates from the various asylums mentioned above, to easily accommodate the waiting list. The above plan has been suggested in various quarters and it is to be hoped that the Legislature will rise to the highest standard of American citizenship and act on it.

INSURANCE COMPANIES FOR THE INSURED.

We should be remiss indeed if we did not say a word to allay the common suspicion that all insurance companies are in business to take advantage of the insured in the adjustment of losses by fire. We can say a good word for the insurance companies with whom we did business during our recent fire, and we do so gladly. The Norwich Union and the Continental Fire Insurance Companies, with whom we were insured through the office of H. L. Abrams, met every demand that we made; showed no disposition to quibble in the adjustment of a loss, to determine the actual amount of which was a rather difficult problem, particularly as it involved the salvage in type and presses. Within forty-eight hours after the adjusters received our report, however, we received the drafts covering our losses. We believe that we were treated with absolute fairness by the insurance companies.

AN A I LICENSE TOWN.

Westfield is in the front rank of Towns in the State in Excise regulation. She stands first in high license in proportion to population and second irrespective of population. The city of Plainfield has the highest license, charging $1000 per year. Westfield's license fee of $500 per year, is higher than that of Elizabeth, Newark, Jersey City or Paterson—yes, even Trenton.

Thank you, Messrs. Pursell & Co., of Florida and New York—those oranges and grape fruit were simply delicious.

We understand that Western here are beginning to lay—for the cold storage trust.

Death of Ex-Assemblyman Hall.

The death is announced of William E. Hall, at his home in Cranford last Sunday afternoon of Bright's disease. Mr. Hall had been ill for several weeks. He had been prominent in county politics since serving his two terms in the New Jersey Assembly in 1901 and 1902. He was once a candidate for sheriff against W. H. Lawrence but was defeated. At the time of his death he was a member of the Cranford Republican Executive Committee and of the County Executive Committee. He was forty-three years old. The funeral was at his home late Tuesday evening, the Rev. John Edgcomb officiating.

OBITUARY.

Benjamin J. Crosby.

Benjamin J. Crosby died at his home on Westfield avenue, last Friday week, aged 68 years. He had been in ill health for a long time prior to his death. Mr. Crosby had been a resident of Westfield for over forty years. At one time he was paying teller of the Mercantile Trust Company of New York City, but his health gave out and he was compelled to resign his position. He had also been treasurer of the Westfield Building and Loan Association. He was a member of Fireside Council, R. A., a charter member of Westfield Lodge of Odd Fellows, a member of Noah's Dove Encampment of Plainfield, and a trustee of Fairview Cemetery. He was active in church work, being a member of the First Methodist Church here, and was on the official board for a number of years. He is survived by a wife, one son and three daughters, Mrs. M. T. Townley and Miss Alice Crosby, of Westfield, and a Mrs. Bailey, of Toronto.

Funeral services were held at the house Monday afternoon, the Rev. A. W. Hayes, assisted by the Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of Plainfield, officiating.

[The STANDARD regrets that the above notice was not published last week. The confusion consequent to the fire, was responsible for the oversight.]

Modern Business Manners.

In Jewish houses of worship persons who are in mourning arise at a certain time during the service and repeat the Kaddish. According to the Hebrew Standard, there are tradespeople for whom the mourners' prayer is no bar to business. In a recent issue that paper says: "The trustees of Temple Israel of Harlem, should suppress the individual who on Sabbath mornings distributes pamphlets to those saying Kaddish, advertising the wares of a monument dealer."

Make Home Happy.

Make the home life as happy as you can for the children. Many a boy goes astray, not through lack of care and training, but because home life is not made as happy as it might be. Children, while they are young and impressionable, should be surrounded with happiness. It is as essential to their well being as sunshine is to flowers. If, as they grow up, they find that happiness is not to be had at home they soon learn to look for it elsewhere.—Home Chat.

Walking in the Dark.

It is curious how many people acquire black eyes by walking carelessly around in the dark. Since bruised eyes may cause serious trouble, some precaution such as the following would be quite worth while: When walking in the dark in unaccustomed places always raise the arm to about the level of the nose and keep it bent there to protect the face and chest.

"Don't you think, Mary, you are too old to play with the boys?" "No, mamma; the older I get the better I like them."—Judge.

Useless Vanity.

Of course there is no sense in a lady putting on her hat before the performance is over if she is sitting in the last row.

Virtue and Cash.

Most women think they would rather have good husbands than rich ones, but few of them turn down chances to get the money.

Don't Use It.

Every knock is a boost, but that's no reason why you should use that method to boost a man.

Importance of Starting Right.

Clark: Let us watch all our beginnings and results will manage themselves.

Frequently.

Fools rush in where angels know enough to be a bit cautious.

Take No Chances.

Albeit the burnt child dreads the fire, keep the matches away from him.

All Golden.

Every opportunity that is missed is supposed to be golden.

Westfield Building and Loan Association.

Incorporated Dec. 4, 1888.

FROM time to time in the regular course of business, the Westfield Building and Loan Association becomes the owner of its own stock which has been held by some member who retires from the Association.

This stock, which varies in age from one to ten years and in quantity from 1 share to 50 shares, was formerly cancelled, but now is placed on sale at a price which makes it a very attractive investment. The regulations governing the sale of this "Re-issued Stock" are such that it is only at certain times that it can be sold.

The demand for money is so great that the Association has been obliged to turn away applications for good loans, so that now is the best time to purchase some of this stock for investment.

The list of shares on hand is too large to be given in full, but they range in price from $10 up, and if application is made to the Secretary stating the amount to be invested, full information will be given in the matter.

Do not delay for now is the time. Every day that is allowed to pass represents a lost opportunity.

Annually we are asked by the landlord or his agent, if we are going to remain another year? And after weeks of deliberation, we find we are compelled to, as it is impossible to rent another place, and we file away another "bunch of rent receipts," for money which might have been paid off for a home.

It is a curious fact that no Japanese ever sleeps with his head to the north. The reason is that the dead in Japan are always buried with their heads in that direction. SPEAKING OF HATS

"Most persons," said the peevish girl, "can remember the time when a hat was merely a hat. Since it was just a covering for the head nobody paid much attention to it and the head itself was the main thing. That time has gone—gone forever, I fear."

"Nowadays—well, no one has time nowadays to stop to consider anything because if one does not have to rush to catch a train one has to hurry to escape being late for a dinner party or to keep one's appointment at the dressmaker's. Still, if a person were laid up with a broken leg, say, or something calming of that sort and really dwelt upon the subject it readily could be realized that hats have become a far different matter."

"I know a tiny hat store that is about as big as a minute," went on the peevish girl. "It looks entirely harmless and subdued. It is exclusive, certainly. Nobody wants to buy a hat anywhere but at an exclusive place. While on an exploring trip recently I found my way into this little hat shop. I had a defiant expression in my eye because I had resolved that if the usual languid and gorgeous person in black floated up and asked the usual $40 or $50 for a head covering worth almost $10 I should feignly refuse to be robbed and walk out. Still, I wanted to see what there was in the shop."

"I saw before me a small, three-cornered hat of black velvet, utterly unadorned save for a bunch of feathery aigrettes on one side. I glanced inquiringly at the gorgeous person who was surveying me as though at last she was gazing upon the murderer of her beloved grandmother."

"That," echoed the gorgeous person. "That little chapeau is—let me see—it is $115." She brushed a speck of dust from her shoulder as she finished.

"But why?" I asked her when the room had stopped whirling around. I had not meant to betray surprise at anything in the hat shop, but human flesh and blood could not stand this sledge-hammer blow.

"The gorgeous person regarded me with extreme dislike. 'Those are aigrettes on it,' she murmured, indifferently."

"Oh, yes—aigrettes," I repeated. "To be sure. But excuse me—do you mean to say there are women in the world who actually hand over $100 or so for a thing that hasn't any more to show for it than that?"

"Then while the gorgeous person showed signs of apoplexy I made my escape. On the street I watched the hats. If I saw a particularly plain, unnoticeable one I knew it had cost enough to support a family for a month. All the faces beneath the hats were harassed and tense as the owners flew along. The owners either were on their way to buy more hats or had just escaped from the clutches of gorgeous persons in hat shops."

"You know," explained the peevish girl, "you are always buying hats nowadays because one for best and one for every day simply will not do at all. Neither ever is just the thing for the gown you want to wear and you end by buying a hat when you buy dress goods just as much as you order the hooks and eyes and trimmings."

"As for plumes—all the ostriches on earth must be going around these days in a terrifically décolleté state, for there are enough feathers at large in Chicago alone at the present moment to clothe decently all the ostriches that were ever created. To see them in their full and impudent glory step into any fashionable cafe after the theater."

"No, I'm not ill or anything," I said to my escort the other night, "but I haven't time to eat. I'm counting. Why, willow plumes, of course. There's a gray one back of you a yard long that never cost a cent under $75. And look at that white hat with three plumes—I suppose there is a girl concealed under it somewhere—and over there see those heliotrope ones. That heliotrope hat certainly set back father's bank account $150 at least. And there are bushels of black feathers $50 apiece. Why, I can't see anything but a sea of willow plumes! It isn't a cafe—it's just a forest of hats with people lost in the shadows underneath paying checks for food they haven't time to eat because every living girl is looking to see if anyone has a willow plume handiwork than hers!"

"The reason the milliners ask and get about 500 per cent. on their investment is perfectly plain," declared the peevish girl. "It is all the fault of feminine creatures like me. I saw in a store not long ago. While wandering around in the millinery department this woman pounced with a little cry of joy upon a hat in a case. She put it on and positively cooed with rapture."

"Why," she told the attending clerk, "if I had looked for a week I never could have found anything so precisely what I wanted. It's exactly what I had in mind! It just finishes off my suit. Look how well they go together. How much is it?"

"The jubilant customer stared. 'Take it away!' she cried. 'Only $12! There must be something wrong with it! Everybody I know would say I was wearing a cheap hat! No, I don't want it! There's nothing here that will suit me!'"

"If one could catch and suppress all the women like that maybe one could ask the price of a hat nowadays without clutching a bottle of smelling salts firmly in one's hand!" ended the

are at least, three types of students, the intellectual, the manual and executive type. For the full development of these a varied curriculum is necessary.

The reporter was much surprised that none of the young ladies, answered Dr. Savitz when he asked who wrote the lines. "The proper study of mankind is man." Do they think the proper study of "mankind" is, woman? Or has religious intolerance and bigotry caused them to decide never to consider anything written by A. Pope?

Woman's Home Companion for February.

The February number has some striking features. Dr. William Osler, the famous physician, contributes a splendid article on tuberculosis, which is the first of an important editorial series. Omaha, seen through the same eyes that criticized Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, comes in for a stirring article which is bound to make a sensation.

The February number is in the main a love story number, leading off with the first part of "The House of Healing," by Juliet Wilbur Tompkins, a delightful and natural serial story. Shorter fiction comes from the pens of Anne Warner, Zona Gale, Fannie Henslip, Lex Owen Oliver and others, and their charming romances are enriched by illustrations from well-known artists such as Arthur I. Keller, James Montgomery Flagg, Florence Seovel Shinn, A. S. Potter, George Gibbs, etc.

Delightful pages are given over to two songs by Ward Stephens, and the most unique ideas for St. Valentine's Day.

"China-Painting for Beginners," by Elizabeth Mackenzie, and "Pallet Rags," by Mabel Take Priestman, are both practical articles on two subjects of interest to women who like to have their own handiwork around the house.

The usual well-stocked departments are more than ordinarily filled with ideas fitted to winter housekeeping and winter play and winter lines of thought.

The cover, by Harrison Fisher, is a pleasure in itself and deserves a word of praise.

VICTOR'S BAND.

Will Play for Five Weeks at Hahne
& Co's Store.

Those who go to Newark often will be delighted to know of the return of Victor's Royal Venetian Band to Hahne & Co.'s this week. This band has been playing engagements annually at the big Broad street store to the great pleasure of thousands. This year's band is fresh from a tour which covered the Southern States, the Middle West and West as far as Kansas City, embracing many of the larger cities, and is better equipped than ever before to render the productions of the masters pleasingly and effectively.

Signor Calefatty Victor will direct the band, as usual. In addition to the usual instrumentation there will be, this year, a saxophone quartet and a set of chime bells, both of which are used for solo purposes.

During the engagement, which will last about five weeks, there will be vocal, violin and piano solos to vary the program. Seats are free, and hundreds can be accommodated at each concert.

Not Really "Wild Apples."

Researches by a horticultural expert show that the so-called "wild apples," or "wild crab," from which many of the present standard commercial varieties have sprung, were wayward descendants of trees originally imported from England and other foreign countries in the eighteenth century.

Peculiar Whim of Mad King.

The late king of Bavaria always had a bust of Marie Antoinette by his side when he sat down to dinner. He regarded the stone image absolutely the same as if it were the queen herself, placing the most costly vases for its consumption and speaking to it in tender tones.

A Student of Human Nature.

"That was a pretty harsh note Mr. Clincher sent you." "Yes," answered the debonnaire debtor. "But he didn't mean most of it. He has just employed a new stenographer. When he dictated that letter he was showing off."

Like Flint and Steel.

An alloy of iron and thorium, when lightly struck like a flint, gives off very bright sparks which set shavings afire.

Pursed Up Lips.

"Why do you pout, girl?" "He went away without kissing me." "Better pout while the young man is around. He might take the hint."

Some Men.

Some men are naturally so dishonest that they regard it as a triumph when they cheat themselves.

Impressing Mrs. Simpson

"I'm glad I got ahead of Mrs. Simpson for once," remarked Mrs. Benson at the breakfast table. "She was down town all day yesterday doing her Christmas shopping. She looked ten years older when she came home. Last year she said—"

"George, you are not paying the slightest attention to what I say. Put down that paper and listen."

"Go on, my dear. I just want to look at the headlines while you talk."

"Well, last year when I came home from battling with the crowds the day before Christmas she said she couldn't see how a woman of intelligence could leave her presents till the last moment. I suppose she meant it for a compliment, but it sounded—George!"

"Yes, my dear."

"You haven't heard a word I said."

"You misjudge me. I heard distinctly."

"What did I say?"

"Um. You said Mrs. Simpson was a woman of intelligence and did her shopping the day before Christmas."

"I did not."

Benson put the paper aside. He recognized the danger signal—moisture in his wife's eyes.

"Now tell me about it," he said. "Talk fast, so I won't miss my train."

"I just can't bear people who always do the right thing and make out that everybody else is wrong, can you?" began his wife.

"Meaning Mrs. Simpson? Go on."

"She thinks it is smart to do everything ahead of time and then sit back and criticize others. It will make her less conceited when she learns that my Christmas shopping was all done last summer in Europe. I've just been crazy to show her the things I got—but I didn't. She'll be green with envy, for they are so different from what she can get here. She acted last year as if I tried to copy her things. Aren't you glad, dear, that you won't have any Christmas bills to pay?"

"Yes, my dear, for I resigned myself to my fate last summer and what you did in the present-buying line was a deep and abiding sufficiency."

"You know I saved a lot of money by getting the things over there?"

"You forgot to count the duty and the shipping expenses."

"Even counting them the things were cheap. Isn't it lovely to have presents different from the common run? Those beads I got in Rome are gems. And the lace! To say nothing of the French embroidered—"

"Those shops took a lot of our time when we might have been seeing—"

"If that isn't like a man! Wasn't it better to save money than to look at foolish statues with their arms and heads knocked off? Or galleries of St. Sebastians stuck full of arrows? Wasn't it more interesting to look at the beautiful French lingerie? You know it was, George. The things I got will make a great impression on Mrs. Simpson, I know. Must you go? Don't be late for dinner, for I am going to have one of your favorite puddings."

"What's the matter?" asked Benson as he came in to dinner. "You look as if you'd been crying. There, there, don't start it again—it's all right dear. I'm not late, am I? I'm sure the dinner is the finest I ever—"

"It isn't you—or the dinner—"

"Then it can't amount to much. You're going to surprise me with one of those great puddings! There isn't any one in the block who can touch you when it comes to making—"

"It's that horrid Simpson woman. She's the meanest thing—"

"Of course she is. Every one knows it but her idiot husband! And when it comes to looks, she can't touch a little woman I know. Now, what is her latest crime?"

"I went over to see the things she bought downtown yesterday and—then I was going to show her mine that I got abroad and—"

"Just like her not to be impressed by the bargains of art you bought. She probably couldn't appreciate—"

"I didn't show them to her. The mean thing has bought some of the same things I have—got them yesterday in the—bargain basements. Her string of Venetian beads is identical with mine and—her lace—oh, George, her lace is a better bargain! I was so mad I wouldn't show her a thing I had."

Domiknows.

If you wish completely to mystify a friend and convince him that you are possessed of strange occult powers, just learn this formula concerning the good old game of dominoes and you will always be able to tell the markings of any domino that, unseen by you, he may select at random from a pile. Tell him to multiply either of the numbers of spots by five, add seven, double the result and finally add the second number of spot and then inform you what the sum is. You now subtract 14 and the remaining digits are the number of spots on his domino. Suppose he selects the domino marked 3 and 6. Following your directions, he multiplies the 3 by 5 (15), adds 7 (22), doubles (44), adds the other number, 6 and tells you that the sum is 50. You now subtract 14 from 50, leaving 36. And the two digits, 3 and 6, are the number of spots his domino is marked with.

Subsequent events frequently demonstrate that the bride was the best man at the wedding.

The Ladies' World.

From the comical "Dutch Kid" cover to the end of the book the February issue of The Ladies' World is not a dull page. It is called the Winter Fiction Number, and sustains its claim by publishing an unusual collection of most excellent stories among them being The Neighborly Man, by Temple Bailey; The Unfinished Story, by Shirley Carson; Her Daughter-in-Love, by Gertrude Brooke Hamilton; Jacob Bleibenstein and Teeny, by C. A. P. Comer; Rosalind's Story, by Gustav Kolbe; Ruth and Naomi, by Clara Morris, beside the conclusion of Charles G. D. Roberts' serial, Behind the Rainbow, and Albert Bigelow Paine's delightful adventures of the Possum Family. All are beautifully illustrated. A special article on William Channing, the inspired Unitarian, is interesting reading, as is also the contribution on the problems of marriage. Sensible advice is given to those who are, or wish to be, telephone operators, and there is a valuable lesson in dressmaking, beside the usual departments of Health, Good Looks, Etiquette, Our Children, Puzzles and The Household, and several pages of excellent fashions.—[New York: Fifty Cent Year.]

According to the latest returns from Boston, John F. Fitzgerald was chosen Mayor by a comfortable margin in a four-cornered election held on Tuesday January 11th. The correct returns are as follows: Total 95,353; Fitzgerald 47,172; Storrow, 45,757; George Hibbard, 1,816; Nathaniel F. Taylor 618; Fitzgerald's plurality, 1,415. The city went for license by a majority of 27,122, the vote being: "Yes" 54,094; "No," 26,972. Last year's majority was 11,988. Fitzgerald, newly-elected Mayor, had a plurality 1415, but the city went for license by majority of over 27,000.

will be better able to regulate the affairs of the local police.

The town steam roller was rented the Welden Contracting Company the rate of $4 a day while in use, a minimum of $300 for the year.

The auditing of the town accounts 1910 was given to Sufferin & Sons, being the lowest bidders. The A. Company, of New York, which did work for the town last year, was only other bidder.

Councilman Schmitt thought that $1,000 mortgage of the Exempt men on the fire house should be paid off by the town instead of paying interest as the town has done for the twenty years. The matter was referred to the Law Committee.

The Council then adjourned at 10 o'clock, after having a secret session of two hours. The Mayor declared a cess of a half hour, at ten minutes, and the Council was called together at ten minutes of eleven.

Cured of severe compound cold and cough by,

Vinol

"From Dec. 26, '08, to March 1, '09, I had three bad colds, one on top of the other. I got so weak I could hardly get around. Nothing seemed to help me until I began to take Vinol. The change was magic. Three bottles completely cured my compound cold and stopped the terrible cough—and what surprised me most, at the same time it cured me of a severe stomach trouble that has bothered me for 20 years. Vinol is certainly a wonderful medicine."

Mr. Toppan is one of Lynn's most prominent and highly respected merchants, whose word is as good as his bond.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal, strengthening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron.

Living Up to an Ideal

"There were three teachers in the building," remarked the eighth-grade teacher to the sympathetic friend, "whose interest in the new principal last year was purely professional."

"The first of the three was Miss Smiley, who recently had become engaged to what she called 'the best and dearest man in the whole wide world'; the second was Mrs. Allen, who had a worthless husband to support, and the third was Miss Ball, who is now instructing the children of the boys and girls to whom she taught the alphabet at the beginning of her career."

"The rest of us," however, being young and free from serious engagements, couldn't be expected to ignore the fact that the new principal was handsome and under 30, now, could we?"

"Of course not," murmured the sympathetic friend.

"But isn't it astonishing," continued the young woman who presides over the eighth grade, "how easily some girls can modify their tastes and opinions to accord with those of a more or less attractive member of the opposite sex?"

"It is," agreed the friend, "until we remember that it is one of the surest ways of arousing the interest of the average man."

"That accounts for it, of course," said the eighth-grade teacher.

"At any rate," she went on, "no one had any trouble in discovering just what this particular young man did and didn't admire. He was just out of college and stood ready to deliver a well-formed opinion upon any subject you could mention, from vanity bags to vivisection."

"The very first week of school he proclaimed himself an ardent admirer of Wagner; whereupon, Miss Flicker-sham, who had been in the habit of dismissing Wagner's music with the remark, 'Difficult, yes, but why should one want to do it?'—forsook Italian opera on the spot and declared that it would be a good thing for real music if Caruso should lose his voice permanently! Some women, positively, have no opinions that an attractive man couldn't undermine in five minutes! But of course the young man was pleased; they used to discuss Wagner by the hour!"

"A few days later, the first primary teacher, who had passed her entire vacation on the links, heard him say that he didn't approve of athletic women, so she promptly concealed her golf clubs, reformed her swinging stride and began to apply to her nut-brown face and hands every bleach, cream and lotion known to the beauty columns."

"Then Miss Smith happened to see two or three reproductions of Paul Hellen's pictures in the principal's office and, as somebody once had told her that she was the perfect image of the 'Hellen girl,' she concluded that all she had to do was simply to exist—but she's that kind of girl anyway."

"The girl in the room next to mine actually bought $28 worth of false braids and puffs, just because she made a remark about abundant tresses being a woman's crowning glory."

"How absurd," murmured the sympathetic friend, "continued the other, 'that he talked very interestingly on some subjects and one is always glad to be set right. Of course, I wasn't a suffragette, but I did think that women ought to vote until I heard him talk about woman's true sphere, and how much more influence she might wield through—well, in other words, and then I saw that I had really been open to conviction. I think, it's important to keep one's mind in a receptive state.'"

"Oh, very important," declared her friend. "Well," she added, expectantly.

"Oh," replied the eighth-grade teacher, "he was perfectly lovely, to all of us—even to old Miss Ball—but he was married at the end of the summer vacation to a girl he'd known since they were children."

"Have you called on the bride?" asked the friend, after a brief silence. "After a proper interval," was the reply, "I didn't go too soon, because that would look as though I was trying to pry that I didn't care, and"

didn't wait too long, because that would look as though I did care." "I suppose you were curious?" "Not in the least. You see, we all knew exactly what his ideal was—slender, with a mass of dusky hair and very feminine and devoted, to Wagner."

"And is she—?" "No! She's short, with a tight little wad of lightish hair and she doesn't know the first thing about music, and she's crazy about every sort of outdoor game—the house is so full of cups that she's won that they use them for sugar bowls and ash receivers. And what do you think was the first thing I saw when I entered the reception room? A motto—'Votes for Women!'"

French Capital for Argentina.

It is reliably reported that a French company is being formed with a capital of $20,000,000 under the auspices of the owners of the French railway in the province of Santa Fe for the construction of important railway lines in Argentina. There are fully 100,000 Frenchmen in the Argentine Republic, many of whom are extremely wealthy and are endeavoring to induce their countrymen to invest money there.

Real "Low Down."

"How much do you think a house such as you have planned for us will cost?" asked the prospective builder. "As you will see by examining the estimate I have furnished," replied the architect, "the amount is placed at $11,500." "Yes, I know that in your estimate, but what is your private opinion?"

Just a Suggestion.

In Shakespearean days they used to label the scenery. They hung out placards stating that "This is a wood" or "This is a castle." We don't need to do that now. Still, we might use the scheme to advantage. It would help sometimes to see an alleged Thespian bearing the legend: "This is an actor."

Small insects such as flies and mosquitoes play an important part in the dissemination of disease, and where the beasts of prey, for all their ill-repute, kill their units, flies and mosquitoes destroy millions of human lives.

Over-Modest Lover.

"Yes," admitted the modest young man, "I have broken off the engagement. I have been thinking it over for a long time, and I've come to the conclusion that a girl who can love an idiot like me must be wanting in both taste and intelligence."

Observation.

The majority of men go through the world without cultivating the faculty of observation. How many of them, for instance, have ever taken the trouble to find out the number of buttons there are on the backs of their waists worn by their wives?

PRINCIPAL AND COMMANDANT OF HAMPTON GIVES TALK

At Presbyterian Church—Music by Quartet.

A good sized audience listened to an address by the Rev. Hollis Fussell, principal of the Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute, at the Presbyterian Church, on the evening of the 13th. The address, in which he told of the work done at Hampton in the past, and of its standing at the present time, was illustrated. He said that there were about 1,300 students of both sexes and of the Indian and Negro races. Pictures showing students at work, etc., were thrown on the screen. He paid a high tribute to the work of a Westfield woman, Miss Johnson, who has instructed at Hampton for many years.

The speech of Commandant Robert R. Morton was especially enjoyed and showed what a negro under exceptional environment may become. Perhaps the most enjoyable part of the evening came when the Hampton Quartet sang, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," an old favorite, was exquisitely given and quite captivated the audience.

An offering was taken at the close of the meeting. Dr. Steins presided.

Composition Extraordinary.

In E. V. Lucas' volume on letter writing an Indian babe is quoted to this effect: "Honourable Sir: Kindly excuse this poor thy servant from attending on your Honour's office this day, as I am suffering from the well-known disease commonly called ache of the interior economy, and I shall ever pray. Your ever painful, Itam Chunder. P. S.—Oh death, where is thy sting?"

City Population.

In 1780 only one-thirtieth of the people of the United States lived in cities of 8,000 inhabitants and over; in 1800, one-twenty-fifth; in 1830, one-sixteenth; in 1840, one-twelfth; in 1850, one-eighth; in 1860, one-sixth; in 1870, one-fifth; in 1880, one-fourth. It is safe to say that to-day more than one-third of the people of the nation live in cities and towns, with the tendency steadily growing.

A Good Law.

Under the law of Germany any person killing a song bird of any species can be fined as high as $5 and sent to jail for as long as two months. No person is permitted to cage a song bird other than a canary. Any boy throwing missiles at a bird or taking away its eggs or nest can be severely punished. Such a law is needed in America.

I. O. S. MEMBERS CELEBRATE; RE-ELECT G. T. CRUTTENDEN.

Annual Meeting and Dinner in Healey's Log Cabin, New York.

Nearly every active member of the I. O. S. of Westfield participated in the annual meeting and dinner in the Log Cabin room of Healey's restaurant, Columbus Circle, N. Y., last Saturday night. As might have been expected, the business of electing officers was merely a formality. The members were so well satisfied with the staff, that they would re-elect them, despite the efforts of President Cruttenden to withdraw for at least one year. After the nominating committee had submitted its report, which was favorable to the re-election of the present officers, the ticket was unanimously chosen, as follows: President, George T. Cruttenden; secretary-treasurer, John McCormick; auditor, Robert W. Harden.

There was a lively discussion as to the nature of the anniversary celebration, to be held this Spring, some favoring a return to the old custom of a dance at the Casino; others the continuance of the plan adopted last year of holding a dinner and dance in New York city, to which only members of the club and one lady guest should be invited. When the question was brought to a vote, it was found that a large majority of the members favored the dinner and dance in New York, and this form of celebration was adopted.

The meeting over, the members gathered 'round the board, and celebrated in the old time way. The dinner was uniformly good and everybody enjoyed it. This is what they ate:

Celery.	Olives.
Chicken Okra Soup.
Filet of Sole.	Tartar Sauce.
Filet Mignon Jardiniere.
Roman Punch.
Roast Squab.	Julienne Potatoes.
Roumaine Salad.
Pancy Forms.	Assorted Cakes.
Roquefort Cheese.	Toasted Crackers.
Cafe Noir.

Those present were: George T. Cruttenden, John McCormick, Robert W. Harden, William J. Bogert, Jr., Theodore P. Bushnell, Fred B. Condit, Seymour Ferris, Eugene Jones, Charles E. Kimball, Thomas LeClear, Aubrey B. Smith, Harold Thompson, Lloyd Thompson, Arthur D. Tuttle, Arthur H. H. Moody and Frederick Ungerer.

The souvenirs were miniature suit cases, tagged with the name of the member. Inside were cigarettes, and a small card on which was printed the menu.

To Be Held in the Presbyterian Chapel On Evening of February 4th.

Miss Lilian Bailie will give a pupil's recital in the chapel of the Presbyterian Church on Friday evening Feb. 4th, at 8:15 o'clock, which promises to attract many people of Westfield who are interested in the work of Miss Bailie and her pupils. The musicale is free to all and no invitations will be issued. All those who love music are cordially invited to attend.

It's An Ill Wind Etc.

Charles Clark, the local hatter, says that the best adv. a business man can have is to discover a fire. He knows. Report says that he discovered the fire; some one had the nerve to say that he started it; and further declared that he believed that Charlie could discover the North Pole if Peary or somebody else would bring it to Westfield. But Charlie says that John Campbell was the man who discovered the fire and told him about it; all he did was to telephone the fire department.

But you can't down Charlie. He's on his job all the time; he says there are two sides to a story. This is the way he sums up the situation: "The Standard got the fire, but Clark got the advertising." He invites everybody to visit his emporium at once and get acquainted with the latest styles and lowest prices in haberdashery. adv.

STATE TO CONCUR.

Resolution Introduced to Put Legislature on Record as Endorsing Action of Federal Government.

AS TO INCREASED COST OF FOOD.

Bill Against Preventorium Introduced; Another to Prohibit Formation of Trusts in Restraint of Trade—The Shortest Bill on Record.

TRENTON, January 25.—Captain Walter Edge, the leader of the majority in the House, last night introduced a joint resolution which provides that the New Jersey Legislature put itself on record as heartily endorsing the action of the Federal government in instituting an investigation into the increased cost of food commodities. The resolution said that as the greatly increased cost of living has become a matter of much seriousness to the citizens of the State, the cause would seem to justify an earnest and searching investigation. Assemblyman Meyer, of Sussex County, a Democrat, also presented a resolution dealing with the question of the increased cost of living and he proposed that the Attorney General be directed to institute an investigation into the question of high prices for various kinds of foods. Mr. Edge opposed the adoption of the Meyer resolution, saying that the Federal government should do the investigating. The resolution was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Assemblyman Crosby, of Ocean County, introduced a bill in the House which is the outcome of the fight made by Lakewood against the proposed preventorium at that place for tubercular diseases. The bill provides that it will be unlawful to treat any person for tuberculosis in any hospital, sanatorium or preventorium without the consent of the State Board of Health, except that the law shall not apply to the treatment of afflicted persons by parents or relatives in private houses. The bill makes it necessary for the State Board of Health to conduct a hearing upon any application for a permit to establish an institution for the care of consumptives.

A bill by Assemblyman Moore, of Passaic, requires the payment of 50 cents to members of the National Guard for attendance upon drills. Another bill by Mr. Moore would give half pay to veterans who retire voluntarily from state and municipal work after 25 years service. An anti-treat bill has been introduced by Mr. Heritage, of Gloucester. It provides that any landlord permitting treating on his premises shall forfeit his license. Mr. Edge introduced a bill by which it is proposed to secure for Atlantic City the right to authorize the sale of liquor in that town on Sundays between the hours of 1 p. m. and 12 p. m. The bill takes the form of an amendment to the Atlantic City charter under which hotels will be permitted to serve alcoholic drinks with meals between the hours mentioned on Sundays. The bill does not affect any other city in the State. Mr. Edge is one of the most prominent citizens and business men of Atlantic City.

In the Senate a bill was introduced by Mr. Gebhardt which would prohibit and prevent the formation of any trust or combination in restraint of trade. The measure makes it the duty of the Court of Chancery to dissolve any corporations that may attempt to monopolize or control the production of any article or thing whatever. A violation of this act would be punishable by a fine not exceeding $20,000 or imprisonment at hard labor not exceeding 20 years or both.

Another bill by Mr. Gebhardt would prohibit any child under 16 years of age to be employed more than 10 hours a day or between the hours of 6 in the evening and 6 in the morning. This Senator also tried to have a resolution adopted calling upon the Attorney General to investigate the exorbitant rates charged by the New York Telephone Company in the northern part of the State and the monopoly enjoyed by this company. Senator Ackerman asked to have the resolution referred to the Judiciary Committee and that action was taken.

A bill offered in the House by Mr. Goldingey, of Essex, would prohibit quail hunting for the next three years. Other bills by the same member fix the open season for woodcock from October 1 to December 31, and the open season for grouse, pheasant, prairie chicken, wild turkey, rabbit and squirrels from November 15 to December 31.

Mr. Goldingey offered a measure which would authorize the Governor to create the office of State Fire Marshall at a salary of $3,500 per annum to keep a record of all fires in the State and to recommend to the Legislature laws that will tend to prevent the origin of such fires.

The first joint meeting of the Senate and House will be next Tuesday and the purpose the election of Daniel Voorhees, of Morristown, as State Treasurer. The selection will be for the regular term of three years at a salary of $6,000 per annum. He will receive the unanimous vote of the forty-one Assemblymen and fifteen members of the majority side.

One of the bills already introduced at this session which will cause much discussion and comment is the child labor law proposed by Mr. Otwell of Hudson County. This bill would prohibit night work for children under 16 years of age and it is the sixth time it has appeared in the Legislature. It is aimed in particular at the glass factories of South Jersey which employ boys between the ages of 14 and 16 in their night shifts. The measure is urged by the New Jersey Federation of Labor and the members of the New Jersey Child Labor Committee, which is composed mostly of women.

Probably the shortest bill that has or will be introduced at this session of the Legislature was presented by Senator Gebhardt, of Hunterdon County, and it is the same measure that was presented by him at the session last year. The bill in full reads: "The use of voting machines at elections in this State is hereby abolished."
