TOWN'S RAPID GROWTH

Population of Westfield Fairly Estimated at 7,900, an Increase of Nearly 50 Per Cent.

POPULATION IN 1905 WAS 5,205

The Growth of Town During 1905-1909 Was But 575, or an Increase of About 20 Per Cent.

The guesses submitted in the STANDARD'S census contest, which closed May 1, show there is a wide difference of opinion as to the present population of Westfield. Some of the guesses were fantastic, one being over the 10,000 mark; several were over 9,000; some few were no conservative as to guess the population would not run over 6,000.

It is pretty certain, however, that the boy and girl whose guess was between 7,500 and 8,000, stand a good chance of winning the STANDARD prizes. Among the young people, (and a few grow-ups, Federation of Men's Church Clubs Preparing Interesting Program.

The first open air meeting under the auspices of the Federation of Men's Clubs, will be held on the Presbyterian Church lawn, Sunday afternoon, at four o'clock. Mr. William B. Patterson, the noted speaker, of New York City, will speak on "Significance of the Men's Movement." This is the first of a series of meetings to be given by the League. The details for the August meeting will soon be arranged. Rev. Dr. Samuel G. Snowden, pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, of Elizabeth, will speak September 11, at the meeting to be held on the lawn of the Congregational Church. Rev. William Wilkinson, of New York, will make an address at the QUESTION OF PLAN.

Mr. Merrill Suggests Washington Site and an Eight-Room Addition to Building.

NO NEED OF SPECIAL ELECTION.

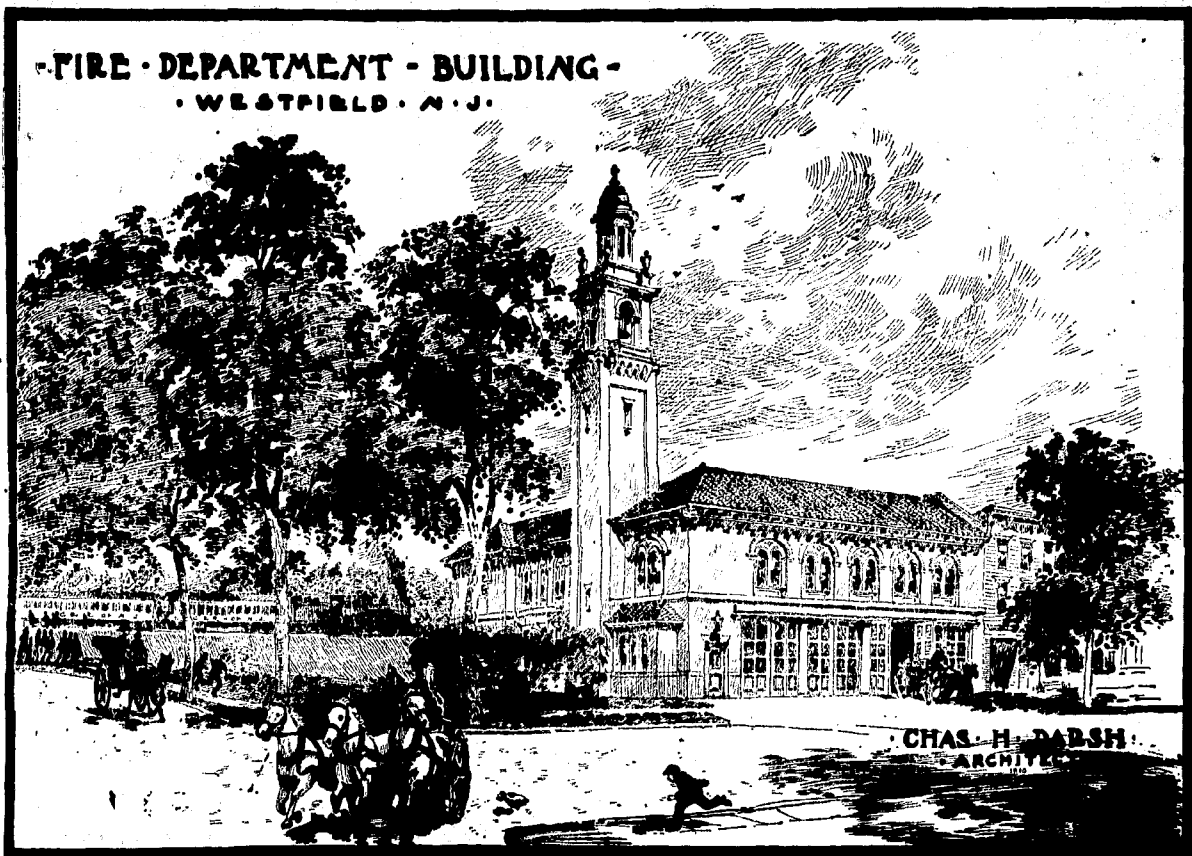

Recent Election Empowered Board to Use Its Judgment in Carrying Out Wishes of Voters.

Westfield, N. J., July 14, 1910.

EDITOR STANDARD.

Westfield, N. J.

Sir: The division in public opinion upon the school question is clearly shown by the organized movement to annul the action of the District at the recent school meeting through a petition to the Board to submit to the voters a plan which, after several months of careful study and deliberation, the Board, with practical unanimity, decided was not justified by the number of pupils in the section affected, by its relation to the needs of the school system, or by considerations of economy in the expenditure of school money. Assuming the legality of the proposed

The architecture of a municipal or civic building, especially if it is in a town of considerable population, tends toward formality rather than picturesqueness in its character. Economy of space, ease of circulation, simplicity of arrangement, are all essential and produce symmetry of plan, uniformity of treatment, and directness of expression—all of which are factors in monumental design.

Westfield Fire Department Building. Building—Dimensions, 34 feet high, 34 ft. 4 in. x 75 ft. Tower, 9 ft. 4 in. square x 75 ft. high. Four large double apparatus doors and one membership entrance door. Front, park elevation and rear to be pressed brick and Spanish red tile roof. Cellular containing heating plant. First floor provides for seven horse stalls and large stable room. Apparatus room 45x50 in size without any column obstructions to interfere with maneuvering apparatus on the floor.

Alcove-bay 8 ft. x 11 ft. 6 in. with windows opening on park provided with recording desk and fire alarm recording instruments.

Stairs are spacious and landing provides for visitors inspection of hitching of apparatus from platform over entire apparatus room.

Second floor provides for a general firemen's meeting room 31x38 connecting with dormitory and locker room with patent accordion sliding and folding doors. Locker room 18x28 and each room provided with latest approved sliding brass poles to front of apparatus room.

Exempt Firemen's room 22x27.

Company's reading room 15 ft. 6 in. x 27 ft.

Battery and store room 14 ft. x 17 ft. 6 in. for fire alarm battery apparatus. Toilets and shower bath rooms fitted up with latest approved sanitary fixtures.

Heating and lighting of the most approved fixtures for fire house convenience.

The brook in rear of property will be covered and yard to be beautified in similar manner as C. R. R. park adjoining.

The above work has been obtained by the Mayor and Council, and the Chairman of the Fire Committee, Mr. Robert F. Hohenstein, who together with Fire Chief Frederick Decker and Charles H. Darsh, architect, who had visited together all the most approved fire houses in this State and New York of this similar size. The Vice President and General Manager W. G. Bosler of the Central railroad of New Jersey in consideration of the improvement to the approaches to the railroad station very generously granted to the town of Westfield as long as used for town purposes a very liberal portion of their park thus aiding to beautify Westfield from the station view and town approaches. Mr. Bosler commended the committee highly and remarked that when above improvement is completed the architectural proportions of the building in their park would give the town of Westfield the finest approach along the line of their railroad.

too,) there were good guessers. To be sure, those in charge of the local enumeration, will not give out any information. The result of the census enumeration of 1910 will come direct from Washington. However, it is known that Westfield's growth during the past five years has been almost unparalleled in the history of any suburban town in the State. Statisticians are free to admit that the town has grown more proportionately since the enumeration of 1905 than any town or city in the State.

On the basis of proportionate growth, it is estimated that the population the town to-day is somewhere in the neighborhood of 7,900. It is said that it may top the 8,000 mark, but this is only a shrewd guess.

The population of Westfield in 1905 was 5,205. If, as it is claimed, the present population is 7,900, the town has added 2,695 to its population in five years, an increase of approximately 50 per cent. Contrast this gain with the growth of the town between the years 1900 and 1905. In 1900 the population of Westfield, according to the census enumeration was 4,400. In 1905 it was 5,205, an increase of 805, or about 20

GRAVES OF REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIERS TO BE MARKED.

General Drake Examines Stones in Presbyterian Church Yard.

General J. Madison Drake of Elizabeth, visited the Presbyterian Cemetery here last week, and is examining the gravestones, many of which are illegible, owing to the ravages of the climate and Father Time, discovered the resting places of forty-two revolutionary soldiers and seven who served in the war of 1812. The Sons of the Revolution have placed markers upon but four graves of our men of 1776, while none of the graves of the warriors of our second war with Great Britain have been marked. General Drake has been engaged in this patriotic work for several months by direction of the Board of Chosen Presbyterians, and on the completion of his herculean task, he will make reputation upon the government for while marble stones which he will cause to be erected upon the resting-places of our dead heroes. His report, which will be voluminous, and very interesting to those who have any interest in knowing about the burial places of our revolutionary men, should be invaluable.

LOCAL YOUNG MAN A HERO.

Raymond Smith Risked Life to Rescue Man From Drowning.

By rescuing a man from drowning, at the peril of his own life, Raymond Smith, son of Mrs. H. M. Smith, of Clark St., proved himself a hero at Long Branch, last week. A young man who was not a good swimmer, had ventured out beyond his depth and the waves got the better of him. Many bystanders were present, but Smith was the only one to volunteer his services. He jumped in the sea, and by swimming, part of the journey of which was a tangled mass of sea weed, Smith threw a rope and life buoy to the imperiled young man, who was then dragged to safety. Young Smith is a fearless and able swimmer. Although the hero of the hour at Long Branch, Smith is very modest and is very reticent about his exploit.

repeal and that the petition makes it mandatory upon the Board to resubmit the question—even if legal, it can be construed as mandatory only by an obviously strained construction of the school law—there are two courses open if the former vote is rescinded: first, to resubmit the question of a combined high and grade school on an acceptable lot in order to determine positively whether the former proposition was lost on account of the site, or on account of the cost and a general objection to the plan; and, second, to submit a proposition for a grade school in the East Broad street section along the lines of the petition presented to the Board at its last meeting.

Without resubmission there is the further alternative of frankly abandoning the impracticable plan for two 6-room wings, and returning to the plan so carefully worked out two years ago for a single, 8-room wing. This is practical and economical, and does not require a new vote by the District; the cost will be considerably less than the sum voted, and the balance can be returned to the District; the plans have already been worked out in detail; and, whereas neither the proposition of the town nor the distribution of people justify, or will justify for a good many years, twelve additional rooms on the Washington grounds, an eight-room addition can be utilized very efficiently. The objections to this plan are few, and are serious—while it takes care of the Foxy Todd, owned by W. H. Hutchings, has rounded into shape and is prepared to give Lady Onward and Red Flower the race of their lives in the 2:21 trot and 2:34 pace.

"Jack" Ten Eyck has an importation from Saginaw, Mich., in the shape of "Sister Mary" who will start in the 2:38 trot and 2:29 pace. "Clarry" Smith also has a new fast going bay "Brother Prince." There is an air of mystery about both horses. The rivalry between the owners as to which is the better horse will be settled to-morrow. Trumway has been stepping some fast miles and is expected to make a fine showing in this race.

The six entries in the 2:35 trot and 2:38 pace will make this one of the best and most evenly contested races of the afternoon. The officers of the club are: J. S. Irving, president; C. B. Smith, treasurer; E. R. Edwards, secretary. The judges are: Dr. Egel, J. S. Irving and James W. Arkell. Mr. Arkell is a well known local horseman and his friends will welcome his return into racing circles. The timers are: Hugh Talbot, R. I. Richardson and E. D. Floyd. The starter will be E. R. Edwards, who has recently been licensed as a professional starter by the National Trotting Association.

Admission to the grounds will be 25 cents, admission to grand stand free. Stages will leave the corner of Broad and Elm streets every twenty minutes. Fare each way ten cents. Races begin at two o'clock sharp.

The tennis players of the local golf club took the Danford tennis club into camp by winning eight out of fourteen sets, at Jersey City, Saturday. Gould and Delts defeated Brainard and Rockwell, 1-6, 7-8, 6-3. Smith and Newman defeated McAnemy and Burns, 6-1, 6-4. In the singles Brainard defeated Tehaki, 6-1, 6-3. In the contests of July 4 and 9, Westfield won 8 sets and 70 games against 6 sets and 62 games for Danford. Both Westfield and Danford showed good sportsmanship and because of this each club has only admiration for its rival.

The Westfield Cubs will play Metuchen A. C., at Metuchen, to-morrow afternoon.

The snake crop in Cabell county is said to be unusually good this year, and farmers report it is no unusual thing to kill nine or ten in the course of ploughing a field. FRIDAY, JULY 15, 1910.

An Announcement.

During the absence of the editor, who left yesterday for a vacation trip, this newspaper will be in charge of Mr. Bennet S. Rundle. All letters or news items intended for publication in the STANDARD should be sent to him care of this office. All communications for Mr. Hoffman will be forwarded to him, but such communications should be marked "personal." The job department of the STANDARD is conducted by Mr. Bell, the manager, who will give prompt and careful attention to the orders of customers.

Local Prosperity.

"The boom is over." "Never again will our town see such prosperity." "Westfield has seen its best days." "We had better trim our sails, take the slack out of our lines and keep them taut." "Better go slow," and so ad infinitum. Such expressions as these are becoming a part of our local parlance at the present stage of our development. Now, too much cannot be said in favor of judicious conservatism, but dry rot is even worse.

Possibly we may never again have the real estate boom of the past few years. However, in its place, we have something just as good, or even better, everything considered. That is a healthy, steady, certain advance, which means continued prosperity for our town. We are steadily forging ahead in spite of the pessimists. Westfield may be progressing more slowly, but she is not looking backwards. We are enjoying the kind of prosperity that will last from year to year, and will not waver.

Existing streets, curbs and walks are constantly being improved, and new ones added every month. Scarcely a meeting of the Council but that several petitions for improvements come before this body. Our Board of Health is active in looking after the health of our people. The Board of Trade is ever alert to urge a needed improvement, as will be evidenced at the next regular meeting, July 21. Our Board of Education is making an honest effort to solve an admittedly difficult problem. Our local Solons are giving us good service, even the "recesses" being productive of some good.

We have many hard working business men, merchants and dealers who are giving up their time and thoughts to advancing the interests of the town, for they realize that prosperity for Westfield means prosperity for them. Our professional men are able and ever ready to protect our interests. Our real estate men are aggressive and are making Westfield more attractive and comfortable for prospective new comers, both little and big. The newspapers are ever ready to champion a good cause, and never knowingly espouse a bad measure. Present business conditions do not call for either panegyrics or jeremiads, but do call for united effort in order to maintain the prestige we have already won.

Horse Racing.

Horse racing is not only the sport of kings and the king of sports, but, to-day, is within the reach of all who enjoy exciting, clean amusement. With those who do not enjoy racing there is no dispute. But, horse racing, especially in the form of harness racing, as it is conducted to-day on the local and neighboring tracks, is an honest, clean sport. Good clean amusements and recreations are an asset to any town, for they counteract bad local influences and keep money in the home town.

At the Fair Acres track, in the opinion of competent horsemen, we have one of the best half mile tracks in New Jersey. The track is fast, not overtrying on a horse's feet; while the grand stand and grounds furnish comfortable accommodations for all who wish to see the races. There is no attendant evil of pool selling or gambling, and the sale of intoxicating drinks is not permitted.

The officers and managers of the Fair Acres track are well known local business and professional men who are trying to advance the best interests of our town. They are providing Saturday afternoon matinees of a high order, with exciting contests between well known horses. The management does not make a cent out of these races, for all the gate receipts and more besides, are needed for the up-keep of the track and buildings. The efforts to give Westfield a clean attractive sport should meet with a liberal response.

Speaking of Cruelty, Etc.

There seems to be some confusion as to the proper steps to be taken in making a complaint in a case of cruelty to animals. It is not necessary to lodge such complaint with an officer of the S. P. C. A. Complaint may be made to a police officer, or, the complainant may go before a Justice of the Peace and swear out a warrant for the arrest of the offender. The law of 1898, chapter 235, section 155, reads as follows: "Any person who shall cruelly beat or torture any horse, mule, ox, cow, or other animal, whether belonging to himself or to another, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

The official barometer registers the temperature at an altitude not convincing to pedestrians, but the papers must be accurate, don't you know.

It is an incentive to profanity to remark upon the heat. Yet almost every veranda in town shelters a coterie of warm weather bromides these days.

Black is a fast color in more ways than one, but it sometimes imparts its own luster to the physiognomy of another of opposite complexion.

These warm weather news yarns as to alleged candidates strike us as being extremely funny.

An excursion poster reads: "Come with us and we will do you good." Ocean Grove, eh?

Pardon the intrusion, Bill.

A Checking Account for Household Expenses?

Every woman ought to have a general knowledge of business methods—especially in the matter of handling money.

Aside from its advantages in the way of safety and convenience there is probably no better method of getting valuable experience than through the practical, every day use of checks in the settlement of household expenses.

We make a specialty of Household Accounts, and have fitted up a room with desks, chairs, writing material, telephone, and separate window especially for the convenience of the ladies.

Would you not like to call and allow us to explain more fully? The account would be appreciated, whether large or small.

Olympic Park, Newark.

Another offering new to the repertoire of the Aborn Comic Opera Company, and new to the Olympic scale of summer prices, the comic opera success, "Sergeant Kitty," will be given next week as the seventh offering of the season at Olympic Park. This dainty and delightful piece had a long and prosperous run at Daly's Theatre, New York, a few years ago, with Virginia Earle as the star, and has been seen by Newark theatregoers only at the higher schedule of prices.

The school children's free outings to Olympic Park have been the means of solving to some extent at least, the problems of the hot weather period. The little ones are admitted to the park free of charge, and are allowed to hear the performances of the Aborn Opera Company every Wednesday afternoon free.

For the great outdoor program next week, Olympic Park will have an exhibition of trained wild animals. Other features of the vaudeville program include May and Edith Raymond, comedians and comedy boxers, and the Balloir Trio, high wire and trapeze artists.

The dancing pavilion and the restaurant are thriving, and the park is doing almost capacity business these hot days.

FAIRVIEW CEMETERY BONDS.

Bonds of Fairview Cemetery paying 5% interest may be had by those desiring a safe investment upon application to Lloyd Thompson, Treasurer of Fairview Cemetery. The bonds are issued to take up note indebtedness of the Cemetery for improvements to the grounds. A sinking fund, into which a proportionate part of the money received from the sales of lots is paid, has been established for the purpose of paying the bonds when due. The bonds are further secured by the assets of Fairview Cemetery, consisting principally of its extensive cemetery grounds and its large number of available cemetery lots. Fairview Cemetery is not a stock corporation, but is an association composed of the lot owners, and all profits are paid into the treasury of Fairview Cemetery for the improvement and perpetual care of the grounds. The splendid financial standing of the corporation makes these bonds a safe and attractive investment. Interest is paid semi-annually.—Adv.

In the House of Mystery

By FRANK L. GOLDEN

As young Tom Henderson was passing the house a knock fell from the chimney and at the same time a light came from the door. After that he would remember nothing for some time.

When he came to his home he found himself in a strange bed with a man in a dark suit sitting beside him. His hand pulled him, drawing him up and he saw that it was Henderson.

"Where am I?" he whispered, weakly.

The man in the dark suit made no reply. Henderson's chamber was disturbed by lifeless dreams. It seemed to him that he had not yet to sleep until after taking the medicine, but merely simulated slumber. He peered at the man and about to impale him upon a terrible three-pronged fork. He started and closed his hurried eyes, opening them later to find the most striking scene and in its place the familiar figure of the girl.

Tom Henderson looked slightly. So he was really in the house of mystery at last and with—last!

For months the young man had served unnecessarily for him very and now there was more than a triumphant light in his handsome black eyes as he glanced toward the maid. She turned quickly and read the message in them.

"I hope," she began, cautiously—and Henderson's susceptible heart near fluttered away at the soft depths of her voice. "I hope that you are satisfied now, Mr. Henderson. You have at last obtained entrance to our house."

"I—I—" stammered the dazed and embarrassed youth.

"Oh, don't attempt any explanation," interrupted the girl. "For months we have watched you—even as you have watched us. You are handicapped by an insensible curiosity, my friend; you should learn to curb it."

"But how did I come here?" demanded Henderson.

"Always curious," sighed the maid, and Henderson had the grace to blush a deeper red as she continued.

"While you were—snooping about the house a brick fell from the chimney and knocked you senseless. Now, thanks to you and others in this small town who are not content to mind their own small affairs and allow others to attend to theirs, it would be unsafe for us to allow you to lie in front of our house, seemingly struck down by some weapon in the hands of a dangerous person."

"This would have given your women people the excuse they have long sought. Our home would have been terribly entered and—certain things discovered that we wish, for purely personal but honest reasons, to remain our secret."

Years before, the house had been a factor in the intrigue of a war; later it had furnished its quota of tragedy with the murder of a bride by a jealous husband behind its walls.

One morning the residents of the little burg awoke to find the house undergoing repairs. It had been sold.

One week later the new owner moved in. Months went by. Occasionally a strikingly handsome girl came from the place, bought necessary supplies and returned.

And now Tom Henderson found himself installed in the house of mystery. Henderson, although he was of the town, and lived in it for a part of the time, was a youth without relatives and his comings and goings were matters of no comment at the hotel where he made his headquarters.

After several days Henderson and his nurse became better acquainted. The maid seemed acutely conscious of the youth's unspoken devotion. Nor did she take it—if bluntness and downcast eyes are true criteria—at all amiss.

One day Henderson told his love, his own hands holding fast to the girl's little one.

"Oh no," she gasped, frightened, her fluttering fingers striving in vain to release themselves. "Why—why, you don't even know who I am. You—"

"I know that you are the one woman in all the world for me," answered the youth. "I don't care who you are."

"But—I—I may be queen of counterfeits," suggested the girl, covertly watching him.

"Don't," Henderson expostulated. "You know you love me, dear. I can see it in your eyes. Will you marry me? There is no reason why you cannot—I know it!"

"No reason," she echoed, in the voice of the woman who loves, "no reason at all, sweetheart. All this mystery in which the town has shrouded us amounts, in reality, to nothing."

"Father is an inventor of reputa. We have reason to be afraid of spies and came here to be free while he perfects a submarine boat of which he expects great things."

"Naturally, he was suspicious of you. Your interest in our affairs bothered him. He thought perhaps you were trying to steal his idea. This was why he appeared to you in a diving suit. If you did not already know him, he did not wish that you should."

The girl bent and kissed Henderson.

"And to think," she said, "even yet you do not know my name."

A Cure for Nerves.

The "Nervy" girl will find that an hour's driving is a wonderful nerve tonic. She can see in all her little misadventures, her flustered inquiries and generally nervous behavior, and again when she has finished a long session. One of the most nervous and irritable women, the famous George Smith, wrote in praise of the soothing powers of needlework, and every girl who tries this simple remedy for nerves will doubtless confirm her testimony.—Home Notes.

Progress.

A discovery results in an art; an art produces a comfort; a comfort makes a happy accessible adds family to family in the population; and a family is a new creation of thinking, reasoning, inventing, and discovering beings. Thus, instead of arriving at the end, we are at the beginning of the series, and ready to start with renewed numbers on the great and beautiful journey of useful knowledge.—Edward Everett.

Uncomplimentary.

It was three o'clock in the morning as Mr. Tompkins crept softly up the stairs. Opening the door to his room noiselessly, he stepped upon the tail of the family cat. Naturally a peevish yowl resounded through the night. "John," said his wife, awakened, "don't you think it's rather late to be sleeping; the neighbors might complain."

Town "Made" by Novel.

Works of fiction have exercised a wonderful influence in the popularization of certain localities. A typical example is "Westward Ho!" named after a sleepy village in Devon, England. The success of the novel sent thousands of people flocking to the town and its prosperity was from that time assured.

How to Give Advice.

A man takes contradiction and advice much more easily than people think. Only he will not bear it when violently given, even though it be well founded. Hearts are flowers; they remain open to the softly falling dew, but shut up in the violent downpour of rain.—J. P. Richter.

Studies in Gratitude.

"All I got for my trouble was a 'thank you,'" said the man who begrudges friendly effort. "You're lucky," replied the billionaire philanthropist. "I'm expected to say 'thank you' to people who find me a suitable method of giving my money away."

Hopeless.

We don't suppose a Scotchman and an Irishman will ever be able to peacefully settle an argument, because the madder a Scotchman gets the slower he talks, and the slower he talks the hotter the Irishman feels.—Puck.

Bound to Slide.

Mrs. Nibs—"Oh, Benjamin, as you pass the store will you order me two pounds of butter, one pound of sausage and a gallon of kerosene." Mr. Nibs—"All those greasy things are bound to slip my memory."

A Telephone Monopoly.

"Who is the party who gets so angry when you tell her the line's busy?" said one operator. "I think it's the same one who never talks for less than an hour and a half when she gets on the wire."

Could Not Foresee Anesthetics.

In 1839 Velveau, one of the greatest surgeons of his time, wrote as follows: "The escape from pain in surgical operations is a chimera which it is idle to follow up today."

Especially in the Subway.

"There ain't but one trouble with this here city air," said Uncle Rufe, sniffing the atmosphere speculatively; "it do need ventilatin'!"—Holland's Magazine.

The Winner.

It is not the man who reaches the corner first who wins, but the man who knows exactly what he is going to do when he reaches the corner.

Sea Field's Rich Harvest.

The great North Sea fishing ground known as the Dogger bank is estimated to yield an annual income of $3,000 a square mile.

City Farthest From London.

Of cities of importance Sydney, New South Wales, is farthest in an air line distance from London, 10,120 miles.

Large Exports of Ostrich Feathers.

Ostrich feathers to the value of $1,738,289 have been exported from the Cape of Good Hope in one year.

World's Domestic Animals.

The total number of useful domestic animals on the globe is believed to be about 1,500,000,000.

Harsh Condemnation.

Nothing is more contemptible than a bald man who pretends to have hair.—Martini.

Good in Directness.

It is easier to give a direct negative answer than a plausible evasive one.

Lake Superior stretches far. Lake Superior is 390 miles long, the longest of the great lakes.

Fairview Cemetery Trustees Suggestion to People of Westfield.

Assembling the inevitable human race out life insurance and will. We then forget the whole thing and concentrate our thoughts on life. That is right. One thing is sure, and suggests itself as a good thing. Where to lay the remains of good ones is a question where no later must be met by who arrives. In deciding the place there are several things to be considered, the cost, size and location. In life and health there is a tendency to consider these things in the hour of death, when the friends are stricken with grief, most difficult and sometimes dangerous to make the necessary arrangements for burial. Possible inability to promptly for a plot, and also necessarily hurried selection of circumstances against which family should be protected. The town of Fairview Cemetery feels that to your own interest entirely call your attention to these facts, the suggestion they offer to all persons.

Fairview Cemetery is in a money-making concern. It is profits that do not accrue to the lot-owners alone. It pays dividends, and is by law enabled to itself against speculation in land. It was organized and is conducted on one aim of providing a beautiful and conveniently located, where the town of Westfield and vicinity may deal.

The recent enlargement and laying of the grounds has made it an attractive one of the best of burial grounds within a hundred of the metropolis. The improvement have been in progress ever since purchase of the newer portion cemetery several years ago.

Any of the Trustees, or the president, will be glad to talk matter up with you at any time your beautiful site of the cemetery with its commanding view of hills and the more retired and secluded plots on the slope, and you the system under which it is made for perpetual care, and you familiar with the modern and most convenient terms of payment at the present time.

Consider carefully whether the ground which is to be a resting place for you and your not to be laid away together will and insurance policy.—Adv.

Surprised on Her Birthday.

Mrs. George Davis, of Plainfield, was given a surprise on her last Friday evening, when her friends assembled at her home. Master William Blackburn, of Westfield, gave several excellent solos. Among those present were Thomas Wilkins and son, of City, and Miss Stewart of New York.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEY

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Trouble.

Many people never suspect the kidneys. If suffering from a back or aching back they think that a muscular weakness; when the trouble sets in they think it is correct itself. And so it is with other symptoms of kidney trouble. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles, may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Dr. Foster's Kidney Pills. It cures all the ailments caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Residents of this vicinity are testifying to permanent cures. Albert Naylor, 510 E. Street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was afflicted with a ailment of the small of my back and was dazed through time when I was lifted. I was finally told that Dr. Foster's Kidney Pills were a sure cure for troubles and procuring a supply and taking them. The contents of this remedy did not go to good shape. I have often heard of Don's Kidney Pills to others suffering as I did."

Another Plan for the Dumb.

EDITOR OF THE STANDARD:

Dear Sir—Will you permit me, through the STANDARD, to add my voice to those who are making a plea for better treatment of our town horses. The majority of our merchants wagons are driven by boys who seem to delight in the constant use of the whip. Our B. P. C. A. agents should be out of town men or else those who will do their duty whether the offender be friend or stranger. An officer stationed at the corner of Broad street and South avenue could be kept busy arresting the drivers of ill used horses, and I presume there are other points equally as bad. I hope to see the day when we can point with pride to our horses as we do to-day to our town.

Yours truly,

Mrs. C. D. LOSEE.

Court News.

Although the Fourth is over the breakers from this glorious day are rolling our way, so that Recorder Toucey is kept busy these days taking care of derelicts.

On complaint of his wife, for being drunk and disorderly, John McCline was arrested and brought before Recorder Toucey, Tuesday, who gave him a vacation of thirty days in the County jail.

Albert Price, colored, claimed that William Kelly, Sr., abstracted ten dollars from Price's pocket. It seems that the two men got into a dispute over the Reno scrap last week at the Grove Street Hotel. They came before Recorder Toucey, Wednesday night, armed with witnesses. None of the witnesses seemed to have a clear recollection of the night in question, so that the Recorder discharged Kelly for lack of evidence.

Milk Advanced in Price.

The local milk dealers have announced an advance in the price of milk. Hereafter milk will be nine cents per quart and five cents per single pint, cream will be thirteen cents per one-half pint. The milkmen claim the scarcity of milk is responsible for the advance.

In Critical Condition.

Mr. H. R. Lynde, of Mountain avenue, who fell from a tree some time ago, was taken to the Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, Monday. Serious complications have arisen, and Mr. Lynde's condition is so serious that the members of his family have been summoned.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY.

Great Progress of Windfeldt Stores Illustrated by Booklet.

Early next week the Windfeldt stores will distribute an artistic booklet with illustrations and printed matter chronicling the history of this important local enterprise. The booklet which is the work of the STANDARD Press is printed in black and red on green wood cut paper with an olive green cover. There are fine cuts of the interior of the Windfeldt stores with views of important streets and buildings of our town.

The Windfeldt stores have kept pace with the growth of Westfield. Ten years ago the Windfeldt store was started as a vegetable and fish market. The store survived the knocker and the pessimist. In the first year the business doubled, in the second year it trebled, and during the next two years it doubled again. To-day the business of the Windfeldt stores is ten times greater than in 1905. They now have vegetable, fish, grocery, meat, fruit, bakery and dairy departments. The store employs sixteen experienced helpers, and four regular deliveries in addition to special deliveries are made every day. To-day the Windfeldt store is the largest enterprise of its kind in Westfield and Union county.

Celebrated Fifth Birthday.

The playmates of Herbert Lord, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lord, of Lenox avenue, gathered to celebrate his fifth birthday, Saturday afternoon. Games were played on the lawn and all the little guests thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Miss Anna L. Williams, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Lord, helped to entertain the children. Francis Smitley, Marcia Wilcox, Willard Kerlinger, Louise Haber, Muriel Lee, Lorraine Boyer, Walter Lee, Jr., Katherine Kirby, Myriam Haber, Marion Gould, Alice Philipson, Kathryn Brower.

Simonson-Ketcham.

Miss Mary S. Ketcham, of Brooklyn, a sister of Mr. J. C. Ketcham, of 307 Prospect street, and Mr. William H. Simonson, of Woodhaven, L. I., were united in marriage at Mr. J. C. Ketcham's residence, Tuesday evening. Rev. Dr. W. I. Stearns performed the ceremony. The bride wore a handsome gown of gray embroidered crepe meteor which was trimmed with Irish point lace. She carried a bouquet of sweet peas. After a wedding trip the couple will reside in Woodhaven, L. I.

Lawyer Peckham, Art Collector.

Mr. W. G. Peckham made valuable additions to his extensive collection of paintings, during his recent visit to Spain. Among them is a Gainsborough acquired recently because the artist painted a duplicate of it, which was placed in the Paris Salon. In a fit of rage he destroyed it and bought the duplicate because he objected to the painting committee. Mr. Peckham's collection of paintings has become so extensive that he is having a gallery constructed at his home on Highland avenue.

Firemen Planning Clean Up.

The members of Hose Company No. 1 decided to hold a clean up week, starting in August, at a meeting Monday night. The committee consisting of Allen Tompkins, Charles Cox and John Galey are working hard to make the affair a success. Details will be announced later.

Decision for Mrs. Sims.

The suit of Mrs. Myra V. Sims against her father-in-law, Winfield S. Sims, others, for alienating her husband's affections, was sustained by the Supreme Court of Errors and Appeals at Trenton Thursday.

The defendants had entered a demurrer which was sustained by the Supreme Court. Their lawyers contended that a woman had no right to recover for the alienation of her husband's affections under the common law, and that no right of action in behalf of a married woman was created by the act of 1901. The Supreme Court of the State recently adopted this construction, but this decision in favor of Mrs. Sims now overrules this.

Birthday Party.

Warren S. Winter gave a birthday party in honor of his sixth birthday, Sunday afternoon. Twenty-five children were present. The afternoon was spent playing on the lawn. Refreshments were served.

Announce Coming Marriage.

Mr. Arthur N. Cox, of this town, and Miss Florence Welsh, of Newark, will be quietly married at the parsonage of St. Stephen's Church, Newark, July 16. The ceremony will be performed by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. Watson. After the ceremony the couple will take a trip to Boston, Bridgeport and other points in New England. They will reside in Newark and will return home after August 14.

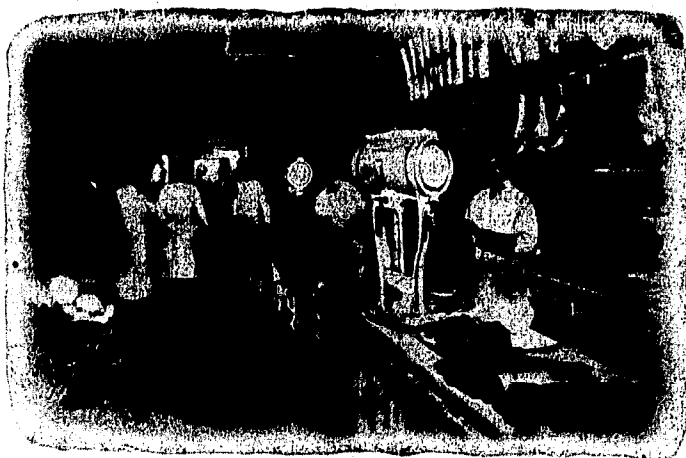

Tenth Anniversary of the Windfeldt Combination Store.

TEN years ago this month the Windfeldt Store was opened—a decade of earnest work, of slow but certain progress. We place emphasis upon the WORK because by it we have established the largest combination meat, grocery and vegetable market in Union county and one of the largest in the state. It has been a work of head and heart; a centralization of effort and a crystallization of ideas in order that the best possible service and the best possible goods might be supplied local patrons at the lowest possible prices. The growth of the Windfeldt Store during the ten years of its history has been the growth of a local enterprise with the growth of an enterprising town. As Westfield has advanced, so has the Windfeldt Store.

History is interesting; it is a chronicle of what has transpired. As our tenth anniversary is the end of an epoch-making period in the history of our store and the history of our town, we have taken occasion to make record of it. This week there comes from the Standard Press, an artistic little booklet, in two colors, which is a brief but accurate story of the development of the Windfeldt store since the day of its organization. It will be sent to all our customers, and others who would like to read it in order that they may know what we are and what we stand for in the business life of this community.

And, as we are what we are by reason of work plus public co-operation, the pamphlet also contains some important facts about Westfield and what it is and stands for.

One branch of our service which we have not mentioned specifically in the book because it is a new feature, is the arrangement we have made with the telephone company so as to make it possible for all our customers to do their marketing by telephone.

Meat Department of the Windfeldt Store.

Marketing by telephone is a wonderful time-and-worry-saver. You can call us up at any hour of the working-day and have your wants supplied. If you once form the habit of marketing in this way you will never return to the old system of marketing when the order-clerk calls and interrupts you in the household work.

It is warm weather, to be sure, and you are going away for a vacation. But your stay will not be long. Have you never bought at the Windfeldt Store? Why not let us take the first order to-day? This is a good season of the year for you to try us. We are ten years old and the benefit of experience and increased patronage is on our side. At this season you can judge by two or three orders whether or not we are able to produce the goods. We have all the facilities and we invite your patronage because we feel confident that having once tried the Windfeldt Combination Plan you will be satisfied with it and will always be a customer of the store. Those who have traded with Windfeldt for ten years past are looking forward to ten years more of increased benefits from the combination plan.
