WHY

Homes occupied and unoccupied, to the value of over $75,000, without light service. We are told that Vice Chancellor Emory has informed the Council that the granting of permits for the placing of new poles to furnish this much needed lighting service, will in no way compromise the Council in their present action against the Public Service. Why are not these permits granted? Come, gentlemen of the Council, have this matter settled now. It has been in the courts over a year. Are you pushing Westfield's side of the case?

William Sutton Badly Injured.

While working in the Acolian factory at Garwood, Wednesday afternoon, William Sutton, who lives on Downer street, this place, met with a serious accident. He was employed in the mill room and was working at a planer with a quarter inch board when his left hand, which was on the board, slipped and before he could draw it away was caught by the planer and three of his fingers were completely severed from the hand. He was immediately taken to the hospital in the factory and Mrs. Sinclair and Decker summoned, after they had dressed the hand Mr. Sutton was brought to his home. This is the second time the planer has caught Mr. Sutton's hand, the first time being about three weeks ago, at this time the fingers were only nipped. Mr. Sutton has been employed in the factory about two months.

Closing Exercises of the Netherwood Summer Home.

The closing exercises of the Netherwood Summer Home will be held on Sunday, September 4th at 2:30 p. m. Friends of the work are cordially invited to attend.

This has been Miss Curry's most successful summer, caring for over 4,000 from 3 weeks old up to 90 years.

SCHOOL QUESTION TO BE SETTLED AT BOARD MEETING, TUESDAY.

Call for Special Election Will Soon Be Issued.

The call for the special school election to determine where the new school will be built, will probably be made in the near future. The Board of Education will meet in the Washington school Tuesday night, at which time, it is thought action will be taken. The Board is anxious to get the matter out of the way and to have the school built as quickly as possible. School accommodations are not adequate to needs at this time. The delay in calling the election has been due to the desire of the Board to wait the return of the people from their summer vacations so that a full expression of opinion can be obtained.

Two propositions will be offered; one for the building of an addition to the Washington school at a cost of $65,000. This proposition was carried at the last school election, but was held in abeyance because of the unsettled state of public opinion as to the practicability and popularity of the plan.

The other proposition is to buy land opposite Stanley Quay in the East Broad street section and to erect thereon an eight-room school. This proposition carries with it an appropriation of $60,000.

FOUND DEAD IN BED WITH THE GAS TURNED ON.

Giuseppe Dughi Thought to Have Committed Suicide.

Giuseppe Dughi, age sixty-nine years, was found dead in his bed at the home of his daughter, over McMahon's grocery store, yesterday morning at 8 o'clock. Death was due to asphyxiation. It is not known whether Dughi committed suicide or blew out the gas, but the circumstances point to his having taken his own life.

His home was in Commerce street, Newark, and he was in Westfield on a visit. He has been in poor health for some time and but recently had a severe attack of nervous prostration. He retired early last night, and when he did not arise at his accustomed hour yesterday morning one of the family went to call him. When she opened the door of his room she had difficulty in entering because of the flood of gas. Mr. Dughi had then been dead for several hours.

County Physician Westcott was called in, and after an examination, he granted permit to remove the body to Newark for burial. Undertaker Lambert is in charge.

Mr. Dughi is survived by four children, only one of whom, Mrs. Rocco Dughi, the oldest child, is married. There are two sons and two daughters. The burial took place this morning at the Holy Scepter Cemetery, Newark.

BOYS STEAL BICYCLES.

Wheels Belonging to Westfielders Recovered in Plainfield.

L. E. Hart and John Long are grieving over the loss of their bicycles which were taken from the side of the fence on Northavenue, Wednesday afternoon, while the men were inside the Hart flats doing some work. When they came out to go down town they found that their wheels were gone. They at once notified the police and the chief and his men started out on a still hunt after the thieves. Two colored boys were seen in the neighborhood and were arrested on suspicion but were afterward let go as they proved they had not stolen the wheels.

It was afterwards learned that the wheels were stolen by John Harris, colored, and Arthur Saydam, white, of Plainfield. Through the efforts of Chief O'Neil, the wheels were recovered; one was found at Dog Corners and the other on Front street, Plainfield. The two boys were arrested and will be arraigned before Judge Toucey to-day. As both are minors, Major Irwin, the probation officer of the Juvenile Court, has been called into the case by Chief O'Neil.

Labor Day in the Churches.

There will be special emphasis laid upon Labor Day in the services in many churches throughout the State next Sunday. Organized labor is showing a particular interest this year in these services and the American Federation of Labor has urged its members to attend when it is possible for them to do so.

At the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Westfield there is to be a special service under the auspices of the Men's League at 7:45 p. m. Dr. A. W. Hayes is to speak on "The Dignity, Duty and Drift of American Labor."

TWO JANITORS NOW. THE SLATE COMPLETE.

JUDGE NEWCORN IS HIS COUNSEL.

Lively Doings Promised at Meeting Tuesday Night—Councilman Says Colleagues Will Support Him.

From the present outlook there will be some lively doings at the meeting of the common council to be held next Tuesday evening. Councilman Casey in an interview with a "Standard" representative yesterday afternoon said that he would challenge the mayor's right to appoint some one over his head as chairman of the property committee and that he would be represented by Judge William Newcorn, of Plainfield. Mr. Casey also said that he was still chairman of the committee notwithstanding the mayor had given orders to the new chairman which he had appointed to do the work.

Acting under the order from the Mayor, Councilman Smith has put in Charles Lance as janitor while Councilman Casey is still continuing Thomas Jones on the job, contending that he has not resigned. It is said that both men are now doing the work at the town rooms and both claim that they are entitled to the job.

Councilman Casey says he will have a majority of the members of the council on his side Tuesday night and has no fear of the result. He says he has done his duty at all times since he became councilman and says that a good deal of the neglected work is up to the Mayor and not up to him.

There seems to be a difference of opinion as to whether Mayor Alpers had a right to appoint another over Councilman Casey's head and depose him from the chairmanship of the committee. This opinion is evenly divided and the next meeting is awaited with not a little curiosity. Some citizens contend that after the mayor appoints his committees at the beginning of the year he has no right to change them during the term. Mr. Casey claims that the term "mayor" is a misnomer and that Mr. Mayor Alpers is actually only a councilman-at-large with no further power than that given him by the entire council.

Mayor Alpers has been away on his vacation this week. He was in town last night, but an effort to reach him was unsuccessful. It is said that he has nothing whatever to add to his previous declaration that Mr. Casey was not doing his work properly and that he, the appointive officer, had the power to change his chairman of committees at any time.

CARRIES CENT IN HIS THROAT FOR FIVE DAYS.

X-Ray Examination and Physician's Care Spare Everett Smith to Parents.

Everett Smith, three years old, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Smith, of the Boulevard, half-swallowed a cent on Tuesday of last week, at Asbury Park, where the Smiths were enjoying a vacation. Efforts on the part of the parents to help the little sufferer were unsuccessful, and he was brought to Westfield. Dr. J. B. Harrison, the family physician was consulted and he advised an X-ray examination. Young Everett was taken to a New York hospital on Saturday and the examination disclosed the penny lodged in the throat. The cent was removed without surgical operation. Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Smith are offering their congratulations upon the certain recovery of Master Everett.

M. B. Snavely Wins Golf Trophy.

M. B. Snavely won the handsome silver prize cup of the midsummer competition at the Westfield Golf Club which closed on Saturday. Snavely won the competition by defeating Fred Hegeman by a score of six up and four to play. The events of this club for Labor Day will be a four-ball mixed foursome and a mixed foursome. Both will be handicapped events for cups for the best net and gross scores.

His First Visit to New York at 50.

Henry Hamilton, of Woodland avenue, visited New York for the first time in his life, Saturday. He is 50 years old, and has lived in Westfield all his life.

The issues will be decided, of course, when both parties have selected their candidates and the fall campaign begins. Some interesting times are promised if all reports are true: the object being to contribute to the safety of nations.

The delegates to the Congressional convention with one exception are said to be in favor of Congressman Fowler, for renomination, thus accounting for the absence of a contesting delegation at the primaries.

MEET AT FAIR ACRES TRACK ON LABOR DAY A DRAWING CARD.

Over $1,000 in Prizes, and Some Special Features.

Everything is now in readiness for the big Labor Day meet of the Westfield Driving and Riding Club, to be held at Fair Acres track. The racing committee, under the direction of John G. Ten Eyck, has spared no pains to make this the event of the year, and it is expected that if the weather is favorable there will be the largest and most enthusiastic gathering of horse lovers ever seen at this popular track. There are five events scheduled for which over forty horses have been entered and prizes of $1025 in gold will be distributed among the winners of these. The events include a free-for-all, $300; 2:20 trot and pace, $300; 2:30 trot and pace, $300; one mile running race, $125.

The entry list shows some "classy" horses, and it is expected that there will be some surprises. All roads will lead to Fair Acres on that day. The racing begins at 1:30 sharp. Stages will run from Broad and Elm streets to the track during the afternoon. ### Cubs Play Fast Ball But Loss.

The Westfield Cubs lost their second game of the series to the Maplewood Field Club, at Maplewood, N. J., last Saturday. The game was fastly played for the first five innings, the Cubs playing rings around Maplewood. In the fifth Hughes, Maplewood's star pitcher, had enough and stopped in favor of Trotter, who is a fair pitcher. The Cubs did little with him while Maplewood was handed hits, bases and balls, and a number of errors, with them scoring six runs, not one of the runs being earned.

In the first inning Westfield scored as follows: Quigley was thrown out by pitcher, Maxwell fanned, Hines hit safe, Lawrence followed suit, and Hunt clears house with a three base hit. In their half Green struck out Maplewood's center fielder with two down and three on bases. The Cubs came back again in the second as follows: The pitcher threw Douglas out, Devitalize hit safe, and Green, the Cubs noble pitcher, sent him home with a two bagger and the next two men went out on strikes. In the third, a two base hit by Hunt, a single by Colagan and a clean up two bagger by Devitalize scored two more.

Green pitched a good game and a hard one to lose and went the full game, while Maplewood used two pitchers.

Beauty That Attracts.

Beauty of achievement, whether in overcoming a hasty temper, a habit of exaggeration, in exploring a continent with Stanley, or guiding well the ship of state with Gladstone, is always fascinating, and, whether known in a circle large as the equator or only in the family circle at home, those who are in this fashion beautiful are never desolate, and some one always loves them.—Frances E. Willard.

A City Boy and a Cow.

Young Robert was much interested in looking over the pictures in his first primer. He lives not so far from the stock yards in West Philadelphia, and has been told that the animals are slaughtered. He became highly excited over the picture of a cow. "Mamma, mamma," he cried, "I once saw a cow in the street and a man was going to kill her for her milk."—Philadelphia Times.

An Adherent.

By mistake a farmer had got aboard a car reserved for a party of college graduates who were returning to their alma mater for some special event. There was a large quantity of refreshments on the car, and the farmer was allowed to join the others. Finally some one asked him: "Are you an alumnus?" "No," said the farmer earnestly; "but I believe in it."—Lippincott's.

WESTFIELD WINS FINALS.

Local Tennis Sharps Defeat Fanwood on the Golf Club Courts.

Each team having won a match, the deciding tennis match was played on the golf club courts last Saturday afternoon, between Westfield and Fanwood tennis teams. The result was a substantial victory for Westfield.

The visitors put up a strong contest and only allowed Westfield to win three out of five matches, one single and two doubles being the events that spelled victory for Westfield.

Vacations prevented both clubs from having complete teams to choose players from. Nevertheless the play was well worth seeing and many "ralties" and good strokes were applauded by a large gathering which lined the west side of the courts. The following summary shows that Westfield won 8 out of 12 sets and 58 out of 110 games:

Singles—Takaki, W. G. C., beat J. Kyte, F. T. C., 6:3, 6:4. Beeken, F. T. C., beat L. G. Newman, W. G. C., 4:0, 6:2, 6:4.

Doubles—Gould and Dietz, W. G. C., beat McAneny and Jadwin, F. T. C., 6:3, 6:4. Dietz and Takaki, W. G. C., beat J. Kyte and H. Todd, F. T. C., 6:3, 6:4. Gardner and Beeken, F. T. C., beat Gould and Newman, W. G. C. 6:1, 3:0, 6:3.

Habit of Loon.

As a diver the loon excels and naturally, for it is his sole means of livelihood. Not only is he marvelously quick, but he can remain under water for a seemingly endless time. In swimming under water he uses both wings and feet and can go for several hundred yards in the fashion. The loon, like many other water fowls, sleeps on the water with his head tucked under his wing.—St. Nicholas.

Nauseous Physic.

Tar water was a cure-all in the eighteenth century. It was prepared by pouring a gallon of water on a quart of tar, and the dose was half a pint in the morning and a second glass in the afternoon. Its use became so fashionable that a contemporary noted: "It's as common to call for a glass of tar water in a coffee house as a dish of tea or coffee."

Finding of Fresh-Water Eel.

The straits of Messina are channels of immense depth, through which a wild form of whirling eddies have the effect of bringing up from the depths below many marine creatures which are rarely seen except in the deep sea trawls. It was here that the fresh-water eel was first discovered, an incident which threw a blaze of light on the life history of a very mysterious fish.—London Daily Telegraph.

Geese That Cannot Swim.

Ducks swim the world over, but geese do not. In South America a domestic species is found that cannot excel an ordinary hen in aquatic accomplishments. It has lived so long in a country where water is only found in wells, that it has lost its aquatic tastes and abilities entirely.

The Saloon Problem.

To the Editor of the STANDARD:
 Dear Sir—I have attempted in the preceding letters to point out that the matter of the legalized sale of intoxicants, which has engaged the attention of some of our citizens during the current year and will probably have some further attention at the coming primaries, is one that is occupying the serious thoughts of men and women from coast to coast; that it first claimed consideration many years ago, since which it has taken deeper root in the consciousness of our people. I have tried to show that it is now leaving its impress upon thousands where it then interested hundreds and that it is claiming the consideration of physicians, educators and publicists as well as the attention of the educated of every class. That all this has been through an awakening sense of the evil wrought by the liquor traffic, acquired in a deeper and more scientific study of the problem. I have argued that it is the duty of the citizens of this town to approach the question from the same point of view and believe if they do so there will be found cogent reasons for a change of public policy in dealing with the subject.

In examining the matter from a sociological standpoint there are three aspects of it that claim attention; first, the biological, or that which deals with the direct influence of alcohol upon life and health; second, the economical, which deals with its influence upon crime and public safety; and third, the ethical, which deals with the obligations of society growing out of the other two.

As knowledge of disease and its channels of growth have opened up to professional investigation there has been a comparatively quick response in the public conscience to the corresponding demands for restrictive action. Propositions for the quarantining or isolating of patients; for the inoculation of those free from infection and for the disinfecting by public authorities of premises where disease has prevailed, all for the conservation of public health, these propositions, I say, are readily adopted, and whatever individual hardships or inconveniences may be suffered, or whatever personal sentiments may be wounded are considered negligible beside the public welfare. The sale of certain poisonous drugs is prohibited, except upon a physician's prescription, with a view of preventing a wilful and voluntary destruction of life. All these things have been done for so long that our minds accept them without a thought of the sacrifice of individual freedom or without a doubt of the wisdom behind them; yet if the suggestion be made that possibly the community might be benefited by stopping the sale of liquor, a hue and cry of tyranny is raised. Let us see if that is a fair or a logical conclusion from present-day knowledge.

The destruction of life by tuberculosis is a problem now occupying some of the ablest brains of both hemispheres. The ravages of this disease are so great that it is called the "white plague." Twenty-five or thirty years ago the prescription of alcoholic stimulants for tuberculosis patients was a common thing; to-day the medical profession are taking a very different stand in the matter. Hark what one of our specialists says about it: "The study of the influence of alcoholism on pulmonary tuberculosis affirms that former theories which regarded alcohol as a specific remedy in consumption were false; that both directly and indirectly alcohol increases the fatality and diminishes the power of resistance." The President of the Illinois State Board of Health gives it as his opinion that he regards the alcoholic problem more important than tuberculosis since it costs more lives. He claims that it is responsible, directly or indirectly, for 10% of all the deaths in the United States; that it predisposes to infection, destroys acquired immunity, prevents the occurrence of artificial immunity, lowers vitality and increases mortality in both diseases and surgical operations; that it is a public health and sanitary question and not a moral one and should be treated the same as fevers, small pox and malaria and by scientific men alone.

The International Congress of Tuberculosis a few years ago expressed itself as of the opinion that the connection between alcohol and tuberculosis was so close that the fight against the latter should be combined with the struggle against the former.

There is another avenue through which alcohol is exerting a very destructive agency against health, and that is its influence upon mental disease. There is apparently a peculiar susceptibility in the brain tissue to the attack of this poison which attacks, unfortunately, do not alone leave their marks upon the victim attacked but frequently place their stamp upon his offspring in the form of diseased and imbecile brains.

My attention has been attracted by a recent article on insanity in the "Medical Record," in which I find the following remarks:

We find the statement so far uncontroverted that 50% of the inmates of all the insane hospitals in the United States are descended from alcoholic parents. Out of 320 males admitted to the Norristown State Hospital for the Insane, 46% were due to alcohol alone or in combination, 18% were classed as alcoholic psychosis. In 41% of the imbeciles and 84% of the epileptics alcohol was responsible for the commitments. Of 981 cases of insanity in the Manhattan State Hospital, New York, in which the causation was accurately determined, alcohol was the cause in over 40% of the men and more than 25% of the women. In the report of the Connecticut Hospital for the Insane, Intemperance is given as the cause for more than twice the number due to any other two known causes.

Professor Ziehen, of the University of Berlin and Director of the Clinic for Mental and Nervous Diseases, claims that drink is responsible, either directly or indirectly, or through inherited effects, for every fifth case of mental disease in Germany.

In a certain private institution for idiotic children in one of our western cities, the Superintendent gave it as a fact that in almost every case the father was due to the drink habit of the father or mother.

It is sometimes stated that practically all the evil from drinking comes from the use of hard liquors, rather than from the use of beer. If the bad effects of alcohol are to be admitted only as they are manifested through out and not indirectly there is probably some truth in the statement, but the fact of the matter is that the medical opinion both in Germany (a great beer drinking country) and in the United States is recognizing that systematic beer drinking is as dangerous as any other. It is held to be the direct cause of diseases of the kidneys and liver, and renders the wounds of surgical operations particularly difficult of healing; this is to say nothing of its stupefying effects upon mental energy. Very recently the German Emperor issued a manifesto to German students warning them against evils of beer drinking and the disastrous effects it was exerting on the intellectual life of the Empire.

The argument is used that beer is harmless because of the smaller percentage of alcohol in it. Admit if you will, that it contains say but one-tenth of the alcohol in whiskey, does the average man stop to think that whereas he may drink but one ounce of whiskey at a time, his glass of beer contains eight or ten ounces and hence he consumes about the same quantity of alcohol.

If there were no other argument upon which to rely it would seem from such testimony as I have quoted that a community would not only be justified but actually compelled in the sheer interests of self protection, to take hold of the saloon problem in no uncertain way.

Mr. Whitehead on Water Question.

EDITOR STANDARD:

That was a labored effort of seven columns, in your issue of the 19th, on "The Economic Side of the Water Question," all to prove the incapacity of our people for self government; for that seems to have been the gist of the article. Rather queer, isn't it, that we can create corporations to do what we, the creators, cannot do.

All of that article was just as strong an argument for giving the town government over to a corporation as it was for giving them control over our water supply. If a corporation can control our water better than we, why not our roads, sewers, etc.

It would be some satisfaction if you would explain why you are so strenuous in advocating corporation control of water and lights in which there is a profit, and all other necessities in which there is no profit to be carried on by the town. What would be your opinion of a merchant who would eliminate from his business every article on which he could make a profit and continue the sale of articles on which there was no profit?

The reason of non-interest of our fellow citizens in the affairs of our town—especially the New York business man who makes his home here, is a direct insult to scores of them who have neglected their own business because they felt a duty to the public in the last twenty years. Take our school board for an example. The personal business of any man in town has not had more conscientious attention than has been given it.

Men interest themselves just in proportion as they have a chance. But how could they on the water question, which was clandestinely taken from them years ago?

So the Union Water Company will be a competitor in Westfield or in any other town on the line of this road provided they decide to put in a town plant, and this competition endures is always to be raised against the people, exercising their right is it? No matter what restrictions they place on us, what price they charge or what quality of water they give us, we must be forced in submission by "competition."

Look at the files of the STANDARD of sixteen years ago and more, and you will find that the STANDARD is now making history that the STANDARD then predicted. In sixteen years more they will have us tied hand and foot if we enter any combination on a High Bridge project.

Let a determined declaration be made by the people of Westfield that we will have a water plant of our own and the stockholders of the Union Water Company would fall over each other in their effort to unload on us a half worn out plant at the full value of a new plant.

Put it up to a business man as to whether he would sell a half worn out article for a full price or suffer competition from a new article, and in the end there is no question as to which he will do.

A refusal to sell is a sort of cudgel for the apologist of the Water Company, but not for patriotic thinkers.

Yours,

E. J. WHITEHEAD.

COURSE OF STUDY AND STATUS OF THE WESTFIELD HIGH SCHOOL.

Dr. Savitz Urges Parental Co-operation in a Letter.

The following letter to the patrons of the High School, is of general interest and informing:

Westfield, N. J., Sept. 1, 1910.

To the Patrons of the Westfield High School:

In order that pupils may derive the greatest possible benefit from their High School course, it is desirable that a wise selection of courses should be made. This can only be done by consulting the wishes of parents or guardians, by considering the inclination and disposition of pupils, and through the judgment of teachers concerning the interests and capacities of students.

The High School courses are arranged to give the greatest opportunity to secure a liberal education and to prepare for college and business, English, History and Mathematics are required in each course. These subjects can be supplemented through a proper selection of courses by the Classics, Modern Languages, Natural Sciences, or Economic subjects.

The Classical and Modern Language Courses provide a liberal education and at the same time prepare students for college. Our students are admitted to all colleges and normal schools that accept certificates in lieu of examination, and they have passed the examinations for entrance to Princeton, Yale, Harvard, Stevens, Columbia and Barnard. Our graduates as a whole have an unusually good record at college. Our High School has been approved and regularly inspected by the State Inspector of High Schools.

The English Course provides for a liberal education. Students graduating from this course can enter the Trenton and Montclair Normal Schools.

The Commercial Course prepares for business and gives an insight into laws and principles which govern the industries, trade and commerce. The principal has so many applications for well qualified young men and women that more than double the number of our graduates could be placed in promising positions. A special booklet describing this course in detail can be obtained at the office.

Extensive investigation by the New Jersey State Committee on Industrial Education as well as other official and semi-official bodies with special facilities for thorough work, have clearly demonstrated that earning power and the number of years an individual attends school are in the same ratio, not only in this country but in other countries as well. In other words, an individual who attends school six years has practically just twice the earning power of a student who attends three years. These investigations have also shown that High School graduates advance more rapidly and continue to advance to a much later age than grammar graduates.

Bearing in mind then that a pupil can graduate from our High School at eighteen, that before this age the time given to industrial and commercial pursuits does not bring large financial returns, and that the advancement of a High School graduate is more rapid and continues for a longer period. Should not our boys and girls have an equal chance with the other young men and women of the state? Is not the fact that many of our small high schools in New Jersey have more than doubled their enrollment in the last few years significant?

Kindly assist your son or daughter to arrange a schedule. The principal and teachers will be pleased to confer with you about this matter and will be glad to co-operate with you in any way to advance the interests of the pupils.

J. J. SAVITZ, Principal.

When Fish Was a Luxury.

Men of former ages, unless they lived near the sea or a river, had great difficulty in gratifying their taste for fish. The great houses had their fish ponds or stews, but sea fish, such as cod, bream, sturgeon, herring and sprats, were salted, and the excessive consumption of highly salted fish in the middle ages is said to have produced leprosy. Fish was also baked in pies to enable it to be carried for great distances.

Men and Boys in Household Work.

The increasing employment of men and boys for domestic work is pointed to by some people as a significant sign of the times. In London, the papers of that town state, lads are being trained with conspicuous success to do daily work in houses and both as cooks and "housemaids" they leave the weaker sex far behind. Such, at least, is the testimony of the grateful housekeepers who employ them.

To the Voters of the Second Ward.

There is a man in your voting district who is running for the nomination to Council on the Democratic ticket, who once ran a saloon about which so much was said by this newspaper and by commuters that the proprietor withdrew his application for renewal of a retail license after it had been presented and considered by the Excise Committee of Council.

"That man is Charles E. Burtis, and a glimpse into his past interest in 'an economical administration of the business of the people in the city,' may be had by an examination of the files of this newspaper.

This man is using a local newspaper, which has been shouting its political independence from the house top, to advertise his candidacy for the nomination. It is up to the public spirited Democrats of the Second Ward to defeat him on Primary Day. If they are unable to do so, then it is up to them to unite with the Republicans and defeat him at the polls on Election Day.

What Encouragement Will Do.

The genuine enthusiasm displayed by the voters of this town when the Common Council passed unanimously the ordinance to purchase the Peckham property for park purposes on first reading, is a convincing demonstration of what united effort can do in the accomplishment of a public good. It is indeed a trying task to discover the real sentiment of this community on matters of moment. No wonder the Council hesitates to act. But when full and convincing evidence is presented to show that action will meet with public approval, the Council rejoices to do that which then becomes its unquestioned duty.

One member of Council declared after the meeting that it was the first time since he had held office that an act of the body had been greeted with applause. He said further that it served as a salve to the sting of adverse criticism which he had been accustomed to receiving from his constituents.

Two weeks ago we had an inquiry from a correspondent asking if there was any known cure for snoring. We referred the query to Citizen Fixit, our trouble expert, and his findings follow:

"Snoring is a born instinct and not a habit as some people suppose. Snores come in assorted sizes, and the tone affects run the gamut from a guffaw to a groan. There is positively no cure for their action, but the effect may be somewhat subdued by training them to a suitable smoothness. I have trained mine so they sound like the whistle on a peanut roaster."

Soon, pretty summer girls, you will have to return to school, and

The house owned by William Brown, at Dudley and Lawrence avenues, was sold at Master's sale, Elizabeth Court House, Wednesday, to the estate of Sumner R. Stone, the mortgagee for $8,775. There were local bidders at the sale, J. N. Worl, Welsh & Son, and John F. Dorrall. The house was originally bought by Mr. Brown for $11,750.

The other house owned by Mr. Brown at the corner of Park street and New York avenue, was bought by the present tenant, for $4,150. There were only two bidders for the place, the buyer and Welsh & Son.

Why Trees Grow Large.

Washington and Oregon have some of the largest trees in the world and the climatic conditions of that section are responsible for this fact. In the Puget sound country the rainfall is about 53 inches, while up in the higher Cascades, near Seattle, it is 100 inches, and sometimes reaches the 150-inch point. Under such climatic conditions the seeds of the trees germinate readily and all the trees continue to make a vigorous growth.

OBITUARY.

Rice, a former resident of Westfield, who at one time took a prominent part in local affairs; he was a guiding spirit in the local Board of Education and deeply interested in the town's welfare. Both Dr. and Mrs. Rice are deeply loved by all who knew them here, and much sympathy is expressed for them in their hour of bereavement. Rev. Dr. Rice is secretary of the Ministerial Relief Fund of the Congregational Church.

Pine Stronger Than Steel.

Calculation confirmed by experiment has shown that, weight for weight, pine wood is stronger than steel in both transverse and tensile strength. It is regarded as doubtful if any metal could be made into a hollow rod equaling a bamboo rod in stiffness without exceeding it in weight. In structures of wood the weak points are always at the joints.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Hint to Amateur Carpenters.

A nail driven into oak or other timber oftentimes bends or breaks. To avoid this all is needed is a little wax or soap. The nail, if greased with either of these will go straight into the board. Carpenters who do finishing work bore a small hole in the handle of their hammers and then fill it with either wax or soap, running the nails into it as they use them.

New Books for Library.

Announcement is made that through the courtesy of Mr. John Cotton Dana, librarian of the Newark Library, there has just been received at the Free Public Library of Westfield about twenty volumes—books bearing on the study of next year's work in the Woman's Club. As it is only a "loan collection" it is suggested to all interested that it would be well while the opportunity affords to consult them. A similar one is promised by the Trenton library.

The Ladies' World.

The Ladies' World for September has an unusual number of good stories and interesting special articles, and its departments are filled with just such matter as the housekeeper wants. Mrs. Robert B. Mantell (Marie-Booth Russell) tells very charmingly how she and her husband have converted an old farm which they bought near New York into a paying property. Conserving the Child Crop is the subject of a very timely paper by Mary Hamilton Talbot, and Laura A. Smith writes of The Woman Agent and How She Succeeds.

The fiction is, as always, excellent; the chief stories being The Professor's Holiday, by Imogen Clark; the Bangalow at Cheever's, by C. A. P. Comer; The Boy Who Was Wanted, by Annie Hamilton Donnell; A Privileged Character by Beale Bonchelle Wright; and A Hollow Tree Picnic, by Albert Bigelow Paine. Even the experienced housekeeper can learn something from the household department of this magazine, which is always practical. The first of the Autumn Fashions are shown, and there are the regular contributions on Good Health, the Care of Children, the Ways of Society, Artistic Needlework, etc. In short, it is a wonderfully good publication. [New York; Fifty Cents a Year.]

Best Vegetable Fishing Industry.

The "Kitties" Are Coming.

The Fifty-fourth Annual Scottish Games of the New York Chalmers Club, on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 6th, at Washington Park and Casino, Grand Street, Manthrop, L. I., will be a banner day in the annals of the club on account of the large number of visiting organizations that have signified their intention of being present to take part in the parade and games, as well as the very large number of entries that have been received from prominent athletes in all parts of the country (including Canada) for the different games and competitions. The members of the club will be accompanied in the parade by delegations from the following organizations in full Highland Dress: Highland Guard N. Y. C. C., Capt. Wm. G. Reid; Chalmers Club of Boston, Mass., Philadelphia, Pa., Newark, Paterson, Trenton and Jersey City, N. J., Kings and Queens Counties, Albany and Yonkers, N. Y., Providence, R. I., New Haven, Conn., Scranton, Phila., Wilkesbarre, Pa., and the N. Y. Scottish Highlanders. The club and its guests will assemble at the clubhouse, Seventh Avenue near Fifty-fourth St., at 9:30 a. m. sharp, and march through Fifty-fourth St. to Eighth Avenue, to Thirty-fourth St., to L. I. R. R. Ferry. Trolley cars will be taken at Long Island City to Grand St., Manthrop. Chief Morrison expects to have over two hundred Highlanders in the parade.

Olympic Park, Newark.

Notwithstanding the fact that a number of Newark theatres are now open for the regular winter season, the Alhambra Opera Company, at Olympic Park, continues merrily on, with a new and novel attraction each week. From present announcements it would seem that this popular resort will be attracting music lovers for many weeks to come, as productions have been arranged for the early weeks in September. "The Bohemian Girl" for the first week and "The Kiss of the Rose" for the second week of September.

In reviving "The Bohemian Girl," the Alhambra are following an annual custom, it having been a regular feature of each opera season for the past seven years, always attracting large crowds. The wonderful popularity of "The Bohemian Girl" has prompted the Alhambra to give it an elaborate production late in September at the new famous Boston Opera House, with the largest organization ever assembled under this management.

To Exhibit at Fair.

Price poultry of Westfield will be well represented at the Interboro Fair, Staten Island, next week. J. H. Kimball, the Orington specialist, will send a full team of single comb huffs, and from the fair at Dongan Hills, they will go to Allentown Fair and back to Trenton.

Burden on School Teachers.

Read what a grateful citizen says: Miss Katie Brady, 91 Downer St., Westfield, N. J., says: "Headaches and backaches troubled me for so long a time that I really thought there was no hope for me. The kidney secretions also passed too frequently and caused me much annoyance. I consulted physicians but received no relief. Finally learning of Don's Kidney Pills, I began their use. They gave me prompt relief, strengthening my back and dispelling the headaches and dizziness. Don's Kidney Pills proved satisfactory in every respect and I therefore take pleasure in recommending them."

What's in McClure's.

Foremost among the articles in the September McClure's is the first installment of the Reminiscences of Goldwin Smith, one of the greatest scholars and critics of public affairs of his time. This installment deals with the American Civil War and with the important men of that period such as Lincoln, Grant, Emerson, Ben Butler and Charles Eliot Norton.

Barton J. Hendrick, in his article on the Albany Gang, tells the story of Governor Hughes' struggle with the strongest and most highly organized political ring in any of our state governments.

AN UNUSUAL MAN

He paced nervously up and down before the display window of a large millinery establishment for some time before he finally entered. Then he walked straight up to the saleswoman with the air of a man who had made up his mind.

"I want a hat," he said.

The saleswoman looked at him doubtfully.

"We—er—keep only women's hats here," she said, finally.

"Well, that's the kind I want," he replied.

The saleswoman gazed at him helplessly. Two or three customers turned around and looked at him, too. The girls on the trimming counter giggled loudly.

The man was evidently painfully aware of these attentions, but he "pulled himself together" and said carelessly:

"Step this way, please," said the saleswoman, leading him out of range of the too curious onlookers. "What else hat would you like to see?"

"Q. about 6-7-8, I guess," he said.

"No, no, you want a big hat with considerable trimming or a small, plain one—you see, it depends a good deal on the woman who is going to wear it. Now, if you—bring her in—"

"Say," he interrupted, "this is a surprise party I'm pulling off today and I'm going to engineer the deal myself. I don't see anything difficult about buying a hat. You just put me wise to the 1910 rules and I'll place my money. Anybody that would fool away more than three minutes buying a hat hasn't got head enough to wear one himself. Now, this one looks like a winner, with the plumes on. Is the shape wise?"

"That is one of the sweetest things in the store," said the saleswoman, lifting the hat tenderly. "It is in the extreme of fashion. It is, of course, a big hat. Is your—the lady—or—is she tall or—er—short?"

"Well, I guess she's up to the weight, all right," returned the purchaser, holding the hat out at arm's length and balancing it critically. "I believe she can carry it. Are all these colors according to the revised rules?"

"Perfectly. Colors, of course, are always a matter of taste and harmony. Is your—the lady—a blonde or a brunette?"

The prospective purchaser appeared a little embarrassed for a moment, and then said frankly:

"Say, it's this way. I haven't just made up my mind which one—that is, I'm not sure just who I'll send it to yet. You see, I thought I'd buy a hat for one and a fur muff, maybe, or something like that, for the other. That is, you see, there are two I want to buy presents for, and—O, well, which would this hat go the best with, Amber Top or Raven Wing?"

"Why, I think, perhaps, a blonde could wear it to the best advantage," answered the saleswoman, looking knowing.

"All right, it's the hat for little Sunflower. How about the size of the hole in it—don't look to me like she could get her head and all her hair in that opening."

"O, her hair don't all go in there, you know," said the saleswoman reassuringly.

"Well, where does it go, then?" he demanded, looking suspiciously at the small opening in the center of the immense brim.

"Why, it puffs up under the brim, you know. The more hair the better for a hat like this."

"Cradle it up, I'll take it. I'll have an express wagon come round and get it. What's the finer?"

"Five minutes before lunch time—just time enough to go across the street and buy that muff. Good day," and he hurried away.

Killed by a Swan.

The swans which gracefully glide over the many picturesque river stretches and artificial lakes in England are commonly regarded as harmless birds, much beloved by young and old, and fed and fondled as things embodying the poetic spirit of snow-white grace and beauty. A different story was told at Nottingham recently, where at an inquest it was stated that Cecil Barratt, five years old, was pulled into the river by a swan, who attacked him so savagely that he was drowned.

The boy was the son of the caretaker of the Nottingham Rowing club, and was playing on the landing stage when the swan attacked him. The lad's father ran to the scene of the accident, dived several times, but failed to find the boy, and was also attacked by the bird before he got ashore.

Napoleon's Elba Flag.

Lord Archibald Campbell has presented to the army museum in Paris a curious relic of Napoleon. This is the flag which the latter flew in the hole of Elba during his captivity there. The flag is square, white and fringed with gold, bearing three gold bees and a diagonal scarlet stripe. The staff carries a white and scarlet scarf, having also three gold bees. Napoleon does not seem to have used the flag he invented elsewhere than in the hole of Elba, where he was a dejected and captive monarch. In France, although bees were always his emblem, they were embroidered on his state robes, his standard was the tricolor.

Getting Consolation

"I used to think, before I married Fred," said the agitated young woman, "that I wanted a musician." She shook her head and gazed around the small circle dramatically.

"And now," said the unmarried girl, "I suppose you're so supremely satisfied that you don't notice any lack?"

"Indeed!" they remarked, collectively.

"But—but—" stammered the unmarried girl. "I thought you were all happily wedded?"

"So we are!" they chimed, indignantly.

"Then why—" began the unmarried girl, in perplexity.

The girl who had married Fred waved the others to silence.

"She doesn't understand, that's all," she explained. "Why should she? Let me tell you about some of my domestic troubles."

"If I had actually married a professional musician, such as I dreamed about at matinee recitals at the age of 17," explained the girl who had married Fred, "he'd be a lamenting widower by this time, that's certain—lyrically, of course. At least, I hope he'd lament. If the professional ones are as much more 'temperamental' than the amateurs—well, pity their families, my dear!"

"Has Fred turned musical?" ventured the timid young matron in mauve broadcloth.

"Has he?" echoed Fred's bride. "I should say he has! Pardon me for repeating your question, but I'm rather agitated to-day. Fred thinks he's developing a tenor voice, and nothing damping that I can say seems to have any weight against the advice of the curious friends he's acquired lately."

"Tenors are always the worst," murmured the unmarried girl, resentfully.

The girl who had married Fred pronounced upon her eagerly. "Have you suffered from it, too?" she cried.

The unmarried girl nodded. "My brother," she explained. "But he's over it now."

"I think so, judging from their looks," said the girl who had married Fred. "My dear girl, I wish you could have seen the specimen Fred brought home to dinner last night. Perfectly impossible! We happened to have a particularly good dinner, and, of course, I was glad of that, but when I saw him I decided it was quite unnecessary to hurry out and put on my best bouillon cups—that's always my first instinct when I have unexpected company."

"Of course," conceded the girl who had married Fred, "Fred has to have somebody to play accompaniments for him, I suppose, and I don't know a sharp from a flat myself. Anyway, he was wild about this creature."

"Isn't he magnificent?" Fred said to me, after the person had gone—he left an umbrella and a pair of over-shoes, by the way, so I expect he'll come again. Isn't he a genius? Fred asked me. 'Did you notice how he subordinated himself?'"

"I did not," I replied. "He is as big as a house, and he lounged over the whole room, and he had on a green and purple necktie."

"But I was speaking of his accompaniment," explained Fred. "His technique is superb. He fairly makes a fellow do his best."

"Well," breathed the circle, sympathetically, "do you have much of that sort of thing?"

The girl who had married Fred nodded, gloomily. Then she brightened. "Every cloud has a silver lining," she remarked. "I tell Fred that I'm glad to have some balm for my wounded feelings. He applied for active membership in the Beethoven Choral club."

"And they took him?" cried the timid matron in mauve broadcloth.

"Oh, no," said the girl who had married Fred, smiling happily. "They rejected him with considerable emphasis, and he had to console himself by taking out an associate life membership instead. I like the Beethoven Choral club myself to the extent of having four seats for every concert. We'll take you all," she ended, generously. "I'll make up a party of strictly ignorant people—and we'll have supper afterward."

Phosphorescent Photographs.

Phosphorescent photographs have an image consisting of white calcium sulphide, which shines in the dark after being exposed to luminous rays. The process requires care, but a French authority states that there is no real difficulty. Into a moderately warm solution of one ounce of gelatine in ten ounces of water, 50 grains of potassium bichromate and 300 grains of phosphorescent calcium sulphide are stirred. This solution is used to coat a film of plain celluloid, and after drying the plate thus prepared is exposed under a positive for about the time needed for a carbon print. Warm water is the developer.

Wants Information.

"Why are you offering such high wages to that maid if she is incompetent?"

"But, my dear, she has been employed in nearly all the families in our set."

Some years ago a Republican town candidate for freeholder, was defeated solely by a wily trick in this line: less than a dozen ballots, cast by people who had them arranged by a scheming worker at the polls, bore an intentional aniline pencil marking which made them useless at the count, and were just enough to squeeze the Democratic opponent in. A similar style of trick was when a man made a small wager that he would vote for a certain candidate and to prove it, at the request of the party he had wagered with, wrote his name on the back of the ballot. ## "The Social Teachings of Jesus"

Increasing wealth, which is now an increasing peril, would then become not the means of luxury, but the instrument of service, thus saving the rich from the corruption of wealth and the poor from the envy of it.

The acceptance of these social laws would solve the municipal problem by substituting the official possessed by the spirit of service and intelligence to serve for the boss who, to use the brutally frank confession of one of the class, "is in politics to fill his own pocket every time."

It would transform the duel between capital and labor into a duel, and organize them together for the service of society.

The world industry which is rapidly being organized, is creating a new world life, and a new world consciousness, and a new world conscience to which the accepted social teachings of Jesus would give new world-ethics and a new world diplomacy, which would substitute the golden rule for that of Machiavelli—"Not to depart from good if the ruler can help it, but to know how to do evil if he must."

We are in an age of transition. The coincidence of the application of the scientific method to the investigation of truth and of the application of steam and electricity of the physical world has precipitated a double disturbance, which has not only unsettled old beliefs, but has revolutionized the conditions of life and transformed civilization.

There has arisen the necessity of reconstruction, not only in religion and ethics and philosophy, but also in industry, in politics and in society. In each of these great divisions of thought and life more or less reconstruction has already taken place, and enough progress has been made to reveal a tendency toward larger generalization—a feeling after some synthesis vast enough to co-ordinate all into one comprehending whole. That something after which many are groping to-day is the kingdom of heaven, the

"...one far-off, divine event
To which the whole creation moves."
And its final consummation will be the new heavens and the new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness.

Biggest Lie of All.
The biggest liar of all is the tramp beggar and petty thief. This Munchausen of the highways lives by lying of a weak, silly, romantic sort and by petty swindling. Charley can stretch a long way with such petty pretenses, for they often go into pronounced incurable dementia, the worst form of bughouse. All habitual liars are, of course, in some way or another, moral idiots—except the Japs, who lie for politeness, well knowing that truth makes trouble.

Animal Early Losses Marking.
At what age does the little tapir lose his markings? A tapir born four months ago in the London zoo is a plump little animal, exactly like his parents, except it is strongly barred with white horizontal stripes, while, as everybody knows, old tapirs are plain, dark slate color. But now, after four months, the stripes are disappearing, those at the head being the first to go. Time has solved the problem.—New York Press.

The Grouch.
Revile not the grouch. Incurable optimists to the contrary notwithstanding, grouches have played their part in the world. Carlyle's lifelong grouch gave us "Sartor Resartus" and the best passages in his "French Revolution." The Iron Duke's grouch against Napoleon made him stick to his work at Waterloo when the field seemed lost. And the royal grouch of the Third George precipitated the Declaration of Independence.—New York Press.

Prevention of Cruelty to Man.
The dinner test in Siberia is a good custom. A bride, on coming to her husband's house, gives a dinner prepared with her own hands as a test of the education she has received. If she succeeds in gratifying her guests, it is taken as a proof not only of the young woman's own excellence, but also as a recommendation of her whole family by whom she was instructed.

Price of Pineapples Doubled.
In 1880 one could buy in the Philippines 32 pineapples for 20 cents. The price has since doubled.

Where They Surpass All Others.
The only records some people ever succeed in breaking are in going from bad to worse.

Learn to Accept Afflictions.
The afflictions to which we are accustomed do not disturb us.—Juvenal.

Enlightening Statistics.
Fifty-seven unmarried people commit suicide to only 43 married.

SEEING CONEY ISLAND.

Merchants Have a Jolly Time, Despite the Glum Weather.

The merchants of Westfield had a jolly time at Coney Island yesterday afternoon; and the weather though not propitious for such an outing, did not phase them a bit.

The party, twenty-five strong left on the 1:37 train and arrived at the Island shortly after three o'clock. After a fine shore dinner at Feltman's, the boys held together and took in all the big shows of Dreamland and Luna Park. Nothing of importance was missed in the sight-seeing expedition. Fred Decker won a near-gold handled walking stick, hitting the African in the head four out of five times. Warren Woodruff nosed in ahead of A. J. Hutchinson in the big steple chase for all. Others achieved honors in bumps and on "The Rocky Road to Dublin," and the Toboggan. The boys are so well pleased that they say they will try it again soon.

Russia's People.

The population of Russia is actually growing at a rate of one and one-half per cent a year, not equalled by any important country on the globe, not even in France does so large a proportion of the population belong to the land-owning class, providing a necessary condition for the agricultural prosperity of the coming generation. Since 1877 the amount of arable land held by the nobility has diminished by a third; yet the price of land has risen in every part of the empire.—View of Reviews.

Strenuous Church Worker.

Whitefield, one of the founders of Methodism, who died in 1770, was a strenuous preacher. His usual program was 40 hours' solid speaking each week, and this to congregations measured in thousands, but he often spoke for six hours. This was not for "after his labor," instead of taking a rest, he was engaged in offering up prayers and intercessions or singing hymns, as his manner was, in every house to which he was invited.
