WESTFIELD MAN STRUCKEN WHILE EATING DINNER AND SUCCUMBING.

Albert Howard Livers 715 Central Avenue, Dies Suddenly.

Albert Howard Livers, of 715 Central Avenue, was seized with an acute attack of heart failure, while eating his dinner at home Saturday night, and died before medical aid could reach him.

Mr. Livers was a former resident of Plainfield and at one time a member of the Common Council there. He has been troubled recently with a weak heart, but was not believed to be in immediate danger. When he was stricken the members of the family believed he had only swooned. Hasty efforts to revive him failed and Dr. F. W. Westcott, of Fairwood, was summoned. Before he arrived Mr. Livers was dead. Since being a resident of Westfield he has been employed by the C. & C. Works at Garwood. He is survived by his wife and three sons, Frank L., George Howard and Henry.

The managers of the Children's Country Home gratefully acknowledge all contributions that have been received during the summer, and would kindly ask the friends who wish to contribute to do so as soon as possible in order to successfully wind up the season's work. Donations may be handed to any of the managers or sent to the Treasurer, Mrs. J. S. Ferris, Babcoo Crescent.

MAY DROP CONTEST.

Mr. Boden Declares Certiorari Proceedings are Delayed Because of the School Situation.

NO WISH TO EMBARRASS BOARD.

Opponents Feel that Cause of Education Ought to Have First Consideration—Their Object Misunderstood.

According to the recent turn in the school controversy, it is probable that the contemplated certiorari proceedings which it was emphatically declared would be instituted to determine the legality of the recent election, will be dropped. Mr. Benjamin Boden, who was a leader in the opposition to the action of the East Broad street site, told a STANDARD representative Wednesday night, that those who were interested in the prosecution of the case against the Board of Education had not yet definitely determined what they would do. Mr. Boden said:

"It is not the wish of the opponents of the East Broad street site, needlessly to embarrass the Board of Education. We have been fighting this thing on principle. When the petition for the school in the East Broad street section was circulated, many of us to whom the matter was of vital concern, were not consulted. If we had known the full intent of those interested in the receding action, it is probable that many misunderstandings would have been cleared up. But we have been misunderstood."

"It is not our object to harm the cause of local education in the least. We want justice done to all. If the certiorari proceedings threaten to tie up the local schools, we shall be loath to proceed along these lines. I understand that a new school is badly needed; that the schools are now overcrowded. If this is so, it is possible that delay in building the new school will seriously impair the efficiency of the schools."

"We fought against building the school in East Broad street, because when we bought property here, we were told that this would be purely a residential section. We did not think, either, that the lot selected was centrally located. We desired that the school be built on the lot adjoining St. Paul's Episcopal Church. No explanation has been forthcoming that would cause us to alter our opinion. We also were advised that an action to rescind was illegal, and we have certainly regarded it as a dangerous precedent."

"However, it is for us to consider the needs of the local schools, and if we are convinced that the certiorari proceedings will do more harm than good to the cause of education, we shall allow the matter to rest where it is, and hope it is all for the best."

Roof of Titus Barn on Fire.

The fire department was called out yesterday afternoon, between 12 and 1 o'clock to put out a fire on the roof of the Titus barn back of the North Avenue Hotel. Fortunately the fire was discovered before it had gained any headway and was quickly put out. The damage done was very slight. The hose wagon and chemical engine responded to the call and the hose was laid in case it was needed. It is supposed that the fire was caused from sparks from a passing engine. There are a great many wooden buildings near the barn and if the fire had occurred at night a conflagration might have resulted.

Mr. and Mrs. Wittke Entertain.

A special meeting of the Men's Club of the Methodist Church was held at the residence of J. S. A. Wittke on Hillside Avenue last evening. People came in automobiles and carriages and assembled in the large music room; one hundred and one persons were present. A delightful program, in charge of Mr. Thomas Murray, was rendered; Miss Woodring gave two piano selections, Mr. Murray sang a solo and also gave a recitation and Mr. Orr gave two baritone solos. A short address was given by the pastor, Dr. A. W. Hayes, expressing the appreciation of the Men's Club to Mr. and Mrs. Wittke for the open house, to which Mr. Wittke replied in a very happy vein.

Mary Ferris Hurt.

Mrs. Mary Ferris Hurt died Thursday night, October 6th, at the residence of her son William S. Hurt, 625 Boulevard, Westfield, N. J. Mrs. Hurt was in her 85th year and was ill for about one week, and is survived by a daughter, Mrs. F. M. Teed, and three sons, William S., Frank E. and Frederick S. Hurt, three grand children and a great grand son. Also her two sisters, Angeline E. Brown and Ellen Curry. Funeral services will be held at her late residence Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, Rev. Dr. Hayes and Rev. Dr. Anderson officiating. Interment at Greenwood on Monday.

Mrs. Hurt was affectionately called "Aunt Mary." She was a sweet and lovable woman, and had a host of friends who mourn her loss.

CONTRACTOR BLAMED.

Any Accidents on Roads Resulting From Carelessness Are Put Up to Them by Council.

A. C. WILCOX ON THE COUNCIL.

To Serve Until End of Year—Petitions For House Lighting Granted to P. S. C.—Peoples Bank Gets Park Bonds.

Among the important questions which came up for consideration before the Council at its meeting Monday night was one of fixing the responsibility for accidents resulting from carelessness in not having lights where there were excavations and obstructions in the streets where road work was being done. Town Engineer Vars declared that, according to the form of contract made by the Town, the responsibility for any carelessness rested entirely upon the contractor. Mayor Alpers and members of Council spoke emphatically against the carelessness of some contractors in this respect, and Mr. Vars was authorized to warn contractors against any breach of contract.

In this connection, Mr. Affleck, chairman of the road committee, reported that contractors sometimes worked under difficulties, as, for his personal knowledge, 20 lights had been stolen while the road building was being done on Prospect street. He also reported that some boys or some malicious mischief-maker had walked through a concrete sidewalk in that section before it was dry, so tracking it that the work had to be done over again.

Councilman Wilson drew attention to the fact that contractors were responsible to the full extent of the law; that if there was any danger of lights being stolen or walks being damaged, the contractor was supposed to hire a man to watch the work by night. Mr. Vars declared that Mr. McNabb was very careful and had usually complied with the law. Mr. Wilson rejoined that carelessness had recently been shown in the road work done on Mountain Avenue, the lower section of that thoroughfare opposite the Cory farm not having been lighted, and persons passing that road in an automobile having difficulty in getting through. The section lighted by lamps, he said was not reached until the intersection of Chestnut street. He pointed out that this was Mr. McNabb's work. It was finally determined that contractors should be warned not only to see that the lights were placed where needed in the public highways but that a man be engaged to see that the lights were not tampered with.

Mr. Affleck announced that the improvements on Clark street had been completed and that this thoroughfare was now open to the public. The Peoples National Bank was the highest bidder for the Park Fund bonds.

Eight Year Old Boy Hangs Alarm.

Walter Pickle, eight years old, who lives near the sewer farm at Picton, will appear before Judge Toney, tomorrow, to explain why he tampered with the fire alarm. Twice this week the department has been called out for no reason other than to amuse young Walter. His tender years make severe punishment impossible, but Chief O'Neil has evidence to prove that the lad is guilty, and the court will have to decide. Walter's grandfather will appear with him.

BEEES LOOSED FROM BONDAGE, MAKE MERRY AT THE WESTFIELD DEPOT.

Bret Hart once wrote a poem which begins, "Little Ah Eed was a Chinese Kid," and ends with a peculiar smart in that region of the trousers where buttons, slippers and horns are sometimes wont to land. Bret Hart's poem is a western classic, which some would rob of its setting, so to speak; but if the poet were living in this day and had come to Westfield Tuesday afternoon, he might have seen a spectacle calculated to inspire the lines to "rapturous lays."

Some bees, a hive or two of them, were consigned for shipment by express to South Orange. By their accident, the bottom of the crate which contained these lively creatures dropped out as it was being lifted aboard the 5 o'clock train. The Queen Bee was the first to escape confinement, and her large and active family welcomed freedom as

BOARD SHUTS OUT THE COMPETITION.

By Vote of 4 to 3 Previous Resolution Is Rescinded and Wilson Potter is Chosen Architect

ACTION CAME AS A SURPRISE.

Mr. Davis Inspired It, and Says it Will Prevent Complications—Edward R. Perkins Elected to Board.

By a vote of four to three, the Board of Education at a meeting Tuesday night, rescinded a resolution passed at an adjourned meeting and which declared for the selection of an architect to build the new school house by competition, and selected Mr. Wilson Potter, of New York, who planned the Washington and McKinley school buildings. It was specified in the resolution that his compensation should be five per cent of the total cost. Messrs. Davis, Dempsey, Grape and Loose, voted for the action to rescind, and Messrs. Low, Egel and Dennis against. An effort to make the action unanimous was not countenanced by the opposition or by President Stern.

The action came rather as a surprise and was the climax of a debate in which Mr. Davis played a leading part. When the building committee composed of Messrs. Davis, Dennis and Dempsey, submitted their report as pre-instructions at the adjourned meeting, there was a controversy as to the specifications from which the architect should draw up plans. Mr. Dennis reported that of the five architects, Messrs. Tubby, Darsh, Teal and Potter had agreed to draw up plans without compensation, but that Mr. Marsh, of Plainfield, had refused to do so without a compensation of $100. Mr. Marsh was therefore stricken off the list. But there arose at once a question of how the instructions by the Board for the competition should be made uniform. Mr. Dennis presented a rough draft drawn up by Mr. Tubby, showing the tentative specifications as to how the competition was to be carried out. It was in this connection that Mr. Davis declared that competition was a bad thing in this case. The McKinley school, he said, was a model by which to build the new school. He said that the McKinley school was regarded as one of the best of its kind in the State of New Jersey by competent authorities. He thought that to put the matter on a competitive basis would lead to all kinds of embarrassing complications and a great deal of time would be uselessly spent. Dr. Egel called attention to the fact that all bids must be in by November 8th, so that the work would not be delayed.

Mr. Davis did not think this arrangement satisfactory and he therefore moved that the previous resolution be rescinded and that Mr. Potter, because of his experience in this work and the satisfactory way in which he had built the other schools in Westfield, be selected as the architect.

Messrs. Dennis, Low and Egel protested against this action, but it was carried by a vote of four to three; Messrs. Davis, Dempsey, Grape and Loose voting for the President, Mr. Stern, not voting, and Mr. Perkins, the new member of the Board, declining to vote because he was not familiar with the circumstances. After the vote, Mr. Dennis said that the action would again make a split in the Board. "Very well, then," said Mr. Davis, "let us have a split."

Much as she. The swarm was in no amiable frame of mind. It had a notion to sting any one about, and for one-half hour it engaged in the stinging business and held the Westfield depot against all comers. It was after dark before the Queen Bee was corralled again, and with her attendants held court in the crate. Several of them were all out of stinging ammunition and were glad for the opportunity to re-arm against another day of adventure.

But the bees were in no way embarrassed. Some humans were, for their feelings were hurt and the dancing which they did was calculated to make a dog laugh—except the dog owned by a local liverman—and it got along.

For further particulars consult James McNamara, who helped to lift the crate of bees on the truck.

and the contract was awarded to the local institution. There were two other bidders, the Westfield Trust Co. and J. D. Everett Co. The bids were as follows: Peoples National Bank, 100.362; Westfield Trust Co. 100.4; and J. D. Everett Co. 100.04.

A. C. Wilcox was appointed member of the Council from the second ward to fill out the unexpired term of Clarence B. Smith who recently resigned. Mr. Wilcox will serve until January 1st. Mayor Alpers appointed him chairman of the sidewalk committee, member of police, town property and street lighting, finance, road and sewer committees. Mayor Alpers also appointed him a member of the Park Commissioners, which appointment was unanimously confirmed by Council.

Petition was received from Wellington Morchouse and other residents of Embree Crescent complaining against the condition of that thoroughfare and urging the necessity of immediate repair. This matter was referred to the road committee. William E. Tucker and others petitioned Council for re-naming of the street now known as Harrison avenue which runs between Mountain avenue and Parkway avenue. This street is practically an extension of Dudley avenue and the petitioners requested that it be given that name. The matter was referred to the committee on roads for investigation.

On recommendation of Councilman Floyd, chairman of the police committee, A. J. Carney, the health officer was appointed a special officer on the local force. This appointment was made by request of the Board of Health in order that Mr. Carney might be better able to continue his investigations looking to the betterment of local sanitation.

The Council unanimously authorized that the money paid by the First Methodist Church for a building permit to erect their new church on Broad street be refunded to the trustees. It was felt by the Council that the new church building will be a permanent benefit to the town at large. It is said that the money refunded will go into the church building fund.

Edwin G. Tuttle submitted his check and petitioned Council that he be allowed to build a sewer to connect with his property on the southwest side of Boynton avenue, and after the matter had been referred to the committee on roads, the Council authorized Mr. Tuttle to proceed with the work with the understanding that it should be done under the direction of the Town Engineer.

Mark A. Webster and Everett E. Thompson, both appealed to the Council for house lighting service; when these letters were read, considerable discussion followed as to whether the pole in front of Mr. Webster's house could be used by the Public Service Corporation to strung a pole is understood that the next pole is 500 feet away.

This matter was further discussed in executive session with the result that the Public Service was granted permission to erect eighteen 35 foot poles in sections of the town where house lighting service was needed. A resolution was offered by Mr. Davis and unanimously passed by Council which authorized the changing of certain street lights. Mr. Wilson said in this connection that several members of the Council with the Mayor had recently made a tour of the town and had found it necessary to alter the position of some of the street lights, as they were not now placed to give the best lighting facilities.

An ordinance to improve Summit avenue was passed on second and final readings as was also an ordinance to construct a sidewalk on the southwest side of Prospect street, from Dudley avenue to Newton Place. The town clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for street improvements; these bids will be returnable November 7th. On motion of Councilman Casey a committee of two was appointed to draft a set of suitable resolutions of sympathy upon the death of Mr. Henry C. Piker, a member of the Board of Tax Assessors. Messrs. Middleditch and Casey were appointed on this committee. The contract for printing the Park bonds was awarded to the Columbia Trust Company.

HIS SNOOZE DISTURBED.

Lady of House Mistakes Sleeping Milkman for a "Weary Waggles."

The milkman has troubles of his own; and if his vocation is such as to compel him to arise shortly after midnight, who will deny him that respite which comes from a snooze when his last order has been delivered and his day's work is done? One local milkman feels that he has a grievance because the lady of the house, mistaking him for a "weary waggles," notified a policeman who hit him with characteristic vim across his shoe leathers as he sat snoring in the swing on the premises of a Central avenue resident.

We shall not say who the milkman is for that would not be fair; but he is one of the old residents of Westfield and he has driven a milk wagon through this town for many, many years. One day this week having finished his route by stopping at a Central avenue home, he placed the can upon the doorstep and then viewed the swing. He was tempted, sat down, he rocked it just a trifle, then he snoozed just a trifle; his snores grew louder and the lady of the house became alarmed; a policeman was in; the sleeper was disturbed; the policeman and the lady of the house surprised and the milkman was away with a hurt feeling that was altogether confined to the milk shoes.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1910.

A Reversal of Form.

The action of the Board of Education in rescinding a resolution passed less than a week ago and thereby shutting out competition for the selection of an architect will scarcely be received with applause by the voters of this district. That Mr. Wilson Potter is fully qualified to do the work to which he has been assigned is not to be disputed, but that the Board should so suddenly reverse its previous attitude shows a certain lack of decision which is far from helpful to the cause of harmony in our educational affairs.

The Board went on record, last Friday night, as favoring the selection of an architect by competition. Thus declaring its attitude in the matter, a committee was appointed to consult with five architects mentioned as eligible to compete. They were seen, and while no binding agreement with them was made, four of them agreed to submit a set of preliminary sketches or drawings of the proposed new school without cost to the district. In spite of this implied contract, the Board by a vote of four to three, on Wednesday night, decided against competition and selected Mr. Potter "in order to avoid complications." If this argument had been brought to the fore and urged effectively at the previous meeting, if at that time the Board had declared itself against competition and for the selection of Mr. Potter, it could not have been severely criticised, for its action would have been consistent with sound business judgment, as opposed to purely local prejudice. But why the Board should declare first for one thing and then for another is a problem in higher mathematics which our educational fathers will have to figure out at their leisure and in their own peculiar way. In the meantime we shall anticipate a continuation of those factional conflicts which lead the public far astray from the regions of "sweetness and light."

Henry C. Piker.

Henry C. Piker was a useful citizen. He began by doing the small thing in the small way and by slow and effective methods showing a capacity to do the large thing with the skill of an experienced practitioner. Mr. Piker vitalized his work and he inspired the confidence of others with whom and for whom he worked.

It was but last winter that an unkind fate drove us into temporary quarters, and the exigencies of the situation demanded the immediate working out of a plan whereby we should be permanently housed in a short time. Mr. Piker was intrusted with the task, and under difficulties he built the present STANDARD building within six weeks after the contract was signed. Notwithstanding the rush of the work, no single detail was neglected and the interests of the concern were conserved by him as though he were the owner and paying the bills.

It is with a feeling of regret at his loss by death, and certainly with a feeling of gratitude for his services

In an hour of need, that the STANDARD pays this tribute to the memory of the late Mr. Piker. He will be missed in his home, in his club, in the business world and in public life; for his candle flickered and went out when he was young and able to enjoy, when he was just beginning to realize the "dream of youth," but his worth will not be measured by the length of his days, but by the character of the work which he did. So measured it is destined to survive.

An Antidote for Blues.

It is said that life offers satisfaction only to the individual with the philosophic turn of mind—to the man who smiles and keeps on plugging away no matter what the weather forecast for to-morrow may be.

Pity it is, indeed, that we must be afflicted with these spells of peevishness, when folks in general seem to have some peculiar grievance. Things just seem to be topsy-turvy; nobody is satisfied and the philosophers seem all to have taken to the woods. We are thankful in the circumstances, that Bill Peasley is with us. Bill evidently has not fallen a victim to the hysteria epidemic. He gives us a column of his happy reflections every week. His harking back to bygone days, too, is an antidote for the blues. Anything that Bill writes is worth reading, for in these days of bombast and grouching, a laughing tablet is an aid to digestion.

If you have any troubles in your ward, tell them to Peasley.

The Vintage of 1893.

At the request of a number of admirers of Uncle Bill Peasley in irradiating the columns of the STANDARD we publish in this issue the first installment of humor of the vintage of 1893 from the same pen.

These stories will be a feature of the STANDARD, and while they will be recalled by the older residents of the town their repetition is intended for their re-education as well as a source of enjoyment and pleasurable light reading for the new comers to the town and the increasing constituency of the STANDARD.

A few weeks ago we stated that the "unexpected is the expected at least so far as life insurance is concerned."

When a man realizes the truth of this statement, he will not put off further the securing of adequate protection for those who are dependent on his earnings for their support. He may at times fail to act for his own interests but he should not be blind to the interests of those who are dearer to him than himself. Procrastination in the taking of life insurance is most unfair to those you are pledged to protect.

The New Bank's
First Word to the People.

The organizers of this bank, and those who have already subscribed for stock, believe that a popular National bank is needed here; one that is available to the small business and professional man and to the housewife, as well as those of larger interests; one that will enter to their needs and in which they can come close in touch with the actual heads of the institution.

This view has met with hearty support in subscriptions already received and deposits pledged, and immediate success is assured.

It is the desire of the organizers to place the stock in as many hands as possible, thus insuring the popularity of the bank and precluding control by any "interests". A small amount of stock is still available and this advertisement is made in order that YOU may have an interest in this enterprise.

The capital stock will be $100,000 and the paid in surplus $25,000. Stock is thus $125 a share and payments are arranged as follows: One half upon organization and the balance at the rate of 10 per cent. a month.

Subscriptions will be received by any of the organization board, or if more convenient, may be left with Frederick S. Taggart, Trust Company Building, who will receive the same for the board.

Do you know that it really costs less to build a new house than it does entirely to rebuild and old one?

If you have dreamed of the home you would like to have, would it not be wiser to get estimates on its probable cost, rather than have all the worry attending the alteration of the old house?

Then, too, has not the neighborhood changed where you are now living? Would not the young people like to go to a newer section of the town.

Think this over, then let us show you lots in the beautiful Terrace Park section, where you may have trees or no shade; even grade or high terrace, and all within ten minutes walk to station.

BOARD TAKES UP WORK OF BUILDING THE NEW SCHOOL.

Architects to Be Chosen by Competition —Committees Appointed.

Action looking to the erection of a school in the East Broad street section, in compliance with the wishes of the voters as expressed at the special election last Thursday, was taken at an adjourned meeting of the Board of Education, Friday night when it was voted to proceed with the work as quickly as the circumstances would permit.

Benjamin F. Boden, of Lenox avenue, was present at the meeting and declared that certiorari proceedings would be undertaken to test the legality of the election.

The Board passed a resolution declaring for the selection of an architect by competition, and it was decided that architects Charles Darsh and J. T. Tabby of Westfield; Wilson Potter, of New York, and Oscar S. Teal and Mr. Marsh of Plainfield, be invited to compete. Their plans must be submitted not later than November 6. Messrs. Davis, Dennis and Dempsey were appointed a building committee to have charge of the work, and to make arrangements with the competing architects. Messrs. Loece, Dennis and Egel were appointed a committee to confer with the representatives of the Westfield Securities Company with reference to the purchase of the property in the East Broad street section and to report at the next meeting of the Board.

The Board decided that $80,000 in bonds be issued for the new school project, bearing 4½% interest, payable at the Westfield Trust Co. Bids will be received on November 8.

A communication was received from J. H. Middleditch, tendering his regrets that he could not accept the position of trustee. President Stern suggested that the trustees consider someone to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Merrill's resignation and present names at the next regular meeting. The Board received the resignation of Dr. Wright as school physician. The appointment of Dr. Wright's successor was left to the medical inspection committee.

President Stern presided over the meeting. Trustees Dempsey, Low, Davis, Dennis, Grape, Egel and Loece and Clerk Webster were present.

The question of the circulation through the mails of the ballots for the school election was discussed at length, but no action was taken. It is understood that the objections raised to this proceedings have been removed by convincing explanation.

The Plainfield Theatre.

Theatre patrons will be interested in the announcement that the Plainfield permanent stock company will produce that great comedy play "Are You a Mason?" at the Plainfield Theatre on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons and evenings of this week. The play is one big laugh from start to finish and the parts will give the members of the cast abundant opportunity to display their talent.

Maudie Adams is certain to receive a warm welcome from an audience as large as the Plainfield Theatre will hold Saturday evening, October 8, when she steps forward in Barrie's latest play, "What Every Woman Knows." The little actress is frequently spoken of as the most agreeable personality on the American stage and her popularity with all classes of theatregoers is of dimensions that can hardly be measured. Those who keep in touch with things in the theatrical world know of Barrie's play and of its success.

TO OPEN SEASON.

Woman's Club to Begin the Year's Work, Monday Afternoon.

The Woman's Club will open the season 1910-1911 next Monday afternoon at three o'clock when the first meeting of the year will be held in the Presbyterian Parish House. The program committee has arranged an interesting and instructive entertainment for the afternoon. The general subject for the year is "The Year in Elizabethan Literature." Prepared by the members of the club will be read at the different meetings and there will be lectures and a special program of music. Prof. A. R. William Jackson of Columbia University will be the lecturer and his subjects will be "The Early Prose Writers" and "The Arcadia and the Art of Prose." Friday, October 28th, will be red letter day for the local club; the occasion will be the entertaining of the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Traction Engine Does Stunts.

Mason Stiles has been building a county culvert across a little stream that crosses Prospect street west of Dudley avenue and was congratulating himself Monday morning that the job was about completed and that he could put in his bill to the county and draw his money, when along comes John Hatfield's big traction engine dragging six loaded wagons of crushed stone and down goes Stiles' bridge. Mason Stiles made a few kind remarks to the engineer of the traction machine and to a few others on the scene of disaster, then climbed into his wagon and on down to Frutchey's soda parlor where, it is said, he imbibed in various sodas and drinks with a drop of nerve reviver. The poor traction engineer felt awfully sorry, of course, that his cumbersome engine went through the bridge but he put on a few extra pounds of steam, climbed the bank and went on delivering stone for John Hatfield.

Federated Men's Club Meeting.

The semi-annual meeting meeting of the Federation of Men's Clubs of Westfield will be held at the residence of the Secretary 500 East Broad street, on Monday, October 10, 1910.

An amendment to the constitution will be proposed and other important business will be brought before the meeting.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rambling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

BOARD SHUTS OUT THE COMPETITION.

"make the action unanimous." "No," said Mr. Dennis, "and I desire at once to resign from the building committee."

President Stern requested Mr. Dennis to defer resignation for the time at least, and he consented.

Mr. Edward H. Perkins was unanimously elected a member of the Board to succeed Mr. Earle A. Merrill, resigned. Mr. Perkins took part in the deliberations of the Board at its meeting Tuesday night. Mr. Perkins' election was received with approval; he is active in local affairs and familiar with local conditions. He was cordially received by his colleagues when formally introduced to the Board members by Mr. Low.

Hon. Lloyd Thompson was present at the meeting of the Board of Education to confer with the Board in regard to the price of the property in the East Broad street section owned by the Westfield Securities Company, the purchase of which was authorized by the voters of the district at a cost not to exceed $13,000. Messrs. Loece, Dennis and Egel reported that they had conferred with Mr. Thompson and submitted a letter from him in which he specified that the purchase price of the property was $13,000, which carried with it all the necessary improvements on the adjoining streets. The committee recommended that the property be purchased at that price and a motion to that effect was carried. Mr. Thompson explained that the lots had recently been sold in that neighborhood for more than $80 per foot on Broad street.

Officer Caulfield was present with his son, Bernard Caulfield, he being the one who entered the McKinley school and cut the rope from the halyard of the flag pole last week. When the local police were notified Chief O'Neil deputized Officer Caulfield to investigate and he discovered that his own son had done the mischief and so reported to the Board. Bernard said that he had been to the moving picture show and he wanted to learn how to lasso and he found that the rope on the flag pole was the only one available and he had taken it in order to practice.

Bernard's father agreed to stand the cost of trying a new rope and putting it in place, but, in the judgment of the Board members, this was not what Bernard needed. Bernard was told that he should call and see Dr. Egel, chairman of the grounds committee, Saturday and take his punishment by doing some extra work around the school. Bernard was further recommended to the tender mercies of the paternal alipper.

Mr. Dempsey reported that he had taken up the question of securing a medical inspector to succeed Dr. Joseph Wright, who had resigned because of his being out of town a great part of his time, and had secured Dr. Robert R. Sinclair to fill the vacancy. Dr. Sinclair's acceptance was a happy surprise to the Board and they unanimously voted his appointment. As one of Westfield's leading medical practitioners, Dr. Sinclair will doubtless make himself indispensable to the Board in connection with the work of maintaining a high standard of health among the schoolchildren. Mr. Dempsey also recommended the appointment of Mary E. Powick as teacher of a primary class. Miss Powick is a graduate of the Winchester Normal

School and has taught in Palmer, Mass. E. Robinson was appointed teacher of Prospect street school; she has taught in Orange, New Jersey, and is a graduate of Normal School. The appointment of Miss Dickinson as drawing teacher three days each week was also confirmed. Dr. Savits reported that the present enrollment of the schools was 1,800 to September 1st, since then it had increased to 1,812, and, in his judgment, the registration would increase considerably during October.

A communication was read from Henderson, District Clerk of the Greenwood Borough, requesting that children who live just a short distance from the Garwood school but just outside the line in Westfield, be allowed to attend the Garwood school at the expense of this district. The request was approved by the Board. It was stated in connection that there are several children in Garwood who are attending the local schools, and the cost of sending the two children to Garwood would be more than offset by those attending school here who live in Garwood.

There was some discussion as to better lighting around McKinley school. Mr. Davis, who is chairman of the lighting committee of the Council, declared that he would take the matter up and see if something could not be done to better conditions. District Clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for the removal of stumps from the local schools, in the local newspapers.

Benjamin Lee was appointed janitor of the schools at a salary of $60 per month. Wm. Edgar, whose old age and impaired health make it impossible for him to take charge of this work, was appointed assistant janitor at a salary of $25 per month. Edgar has been janitor in the schools for twenty years.

FOOTBALL TOMORROW.

Local High School Team to Line Up Against Knickerbockers.

The High School football team plays its second game of the season when it lines up against the local Knickerbocker A. C. at Recreation Park Saturday afternoon. The teams seem evenly matched and a good game is expected.

Did you see the game last Saturday? If you didn't you missed something great. The game that our local High School put up against Holy Cross would have done credit to either Princeton or Yale. Then why go away and see some college game when we have such a good team right here in our own town. We need your support; so come out and cheer for the boys in the blue and white jerseys.

The probable line up of the High School for Saturday's game will be as follows:

Elliott, Marsh, Buckley, ends; Savits, Day, tackles; Loece, Roll, guards; Cherry, center; Mueser, quarterback; Keyes, Smith, half back; Reese, full back.

BIG and LITTLE PROBLEMS

A business man, who was made executor of a large estate, upon the death of a near relative, tells us that he never realized how arduous a task it was, nor how many problems, big and little were constantly arising. Many of these difficulties, which loom up for the individual, are more easily disposed of when an institution like has charge of affairs.

Fidelity Trust Co.

NEWARK, N. J.

Experience and organization, combined with great resources, make the Trust Company the ideal executor.

SETTING A TRAP

"You," repeated Mrs. Phelps, casually, from her wicker porch chair. She shot a fleeting glance at the spoke at Miss McHammond, who was visiting her and who had just disposed herself in all her costly sumptuous lace frills in another chair, where the light fell most becomingly upon her. Miss McHammond did those things unconsciously, but one would have forgiven her anyhow, she was so pretty. "Yes, he's a woman hater."

"Not that any one has blighted his young life," she went on, "but, you see, Dr. Harper is so devoted to his work that he has had no time for frivolities. He thinks women merely accessories, nuisances and obstructions on the pathway to the serious things that really count. I suppose that's why he's had time to achieve so much. He just runs from women—politely, of course. He doesn't understand them and is absolutely proof against their fascinations! It's too bad he should be coming today. I wish it were some one who would be congenial to you!"

"Oh!" said Miss McHammond in a careful tone. She readjusted a lock of her hair and looked absently at the climbing roses. There was a faint smile on her lips. "How odd! I don't think I ever met any one quite like that!"

"And you've met a plenty!" said her hostess, severely. "Why on earth you don't pick one out and marry him—"

"I get tired of 'em!" confessed Miss McHammond, frankly.

As the Phelps machine turned into the drive Tom Phelps was explaining to the guest he had met at the station. "His interest in Her Was Purely Scientific."

"Nice girl, Elsie," he said. "And pretty. But don't waste any time on her, because—well, she's not a man hater, but she doesn't care about them. She's got so used to refusing proposals that I believe she's going to get a printed rejection slip to facilitate these little matters!"

"Tommyrot!" said Dr. Harper, cheerfully. "It's merely feminine capriciousness, not lack of interest!"

"Take care that she doesn't hand you one!" grinned his host.

The two guests thus fortified against each other murmured their acknowledgments of the introduction and then took stock of each other somewhat hostilely.

Any woman recounts an attitude of indifference, and this tall, grave man, whom Elsie tried at first dutifully to put at ease only to discover that he had not been anything else but at ease, because he was totally callous to her compelling charm of manner. Irritated Miss McHammond. As for Dr. Harper, his instant recognition that Tom had told the truth about her attractiveness alarmed him into an added brusqueness. Had he not seen pretty women before? Well, then, this was merely another!

Pride forbade his avoiding her. Indignation prevented her from doing otherwise than trying to make him see the folly of his high-and-mightiness. But beneath his unfeeling courtesy she felt that she did not disturb, attract or annoy him in the least.

Dr. Harper, who disapproved of Miss McHammond on general principles, did not avoid her. Rather, he sought her society. He was merely seeking, he told himself, to find other disagreeable traits besides conceit and frivolity. His interest in her was purely scientific.

So it came to be the night before she was to leave for home. Indoors Mrs. Phelps and Tom were happily rummaging about getting up a late supper. Out on the dim vine-shaded porch the other two sat silent, watching the flickering leaves in the moonlight. There was a little bitter curve on the girl's lips as she acknowledged that she would be glad to get away the next day, glad to escape from this disagreeable man who was so maddeningly courteous.

Beside her he sat silent, smoking. "Thinking of going?" she told herself. "And on a night like this!"

Then his hand moved over hers on the chair arm, and he spoke humbly. "I can't help it," he said. "I—I've got to tell you how much I care for you!" Her fingers closed over his involuntarily.

Just then Rose Phelps from the doorway called "supper!"

"You and Tom go and eat your old supper!" commanded Dr. Harper. His voice had a new, riotous ring to it. "We've got too many things to talk about here!"

Mrs. Phelps nearly strangled her husband, who was just helping himself a hard-boiled egg, as she rushed madly in and snatched herself on his neck. "We did it!" she gasped. "I know if we told them to prepare to hate each other they'd fall in love!"

"Serves 'em both right!" mumbled Phelps, with his mouth full of hard-boiled egg.

MR. HUYLER'S FUNERAL.Thousands Pay Tribute to Memory of Great and Good Man.

Over two thousand persons attended the funeral services of Mr. John B. Huyler Tuesday afternoon at Calvary M. E. Church, 180th street and Seventh avenue, New York. The body was brought from the Huyler summer home at Rye, and laid in state in the church chancel from 11 a. m. until 2, and was viewed by thousands, from the loftiest magnate to the lowliest among men. The services were conducted by the Rev. C. L. Goodell, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. James R. Day, Chancellor of Syracuse University. Rev. Frank M. North, of the Church Extension Society, and Rev. Elias Osborn, each of whom made short addresses as to the character of the man, his benevolences and of his great good to the church and his fellow man.

The interment was at Woodlawn and was attended by his immediate family, the clergymen and the honorary pall bearers, who were made up of his business associates or closest friends, and were Messrs. B. F. DeKlyn, Louis M. Fulton, Walter E. Comfort, Thomas J. Galuso, Walter J. Lee, Julius Schullinger, John A. Eagleston, George H. Jenkins, William Abbot, John H. CLOSING RACE MEET OF SEASON,
OCTOBER 15, TO BE A CLASSIC.Fast Horses From All Over County to Compete for Prizes.

One week from to-morrow afternoon, the Westfield Driving and Riding Club will close the most successful season in its history with a special race meet at the Westfield track, beginning promptly at 1:30.

There will be three big events: Free-for-All, 2:30 trot and pace and 3:25 trot and pace. The most expensive prizes and ribbons ever offered by the local club will be awarded to the winners of the events.

Many of the horses are new to the local track but have a reputation all over the State. Among them are, Edward T. and Arrow who holds the record on the Jersey City track. These two horses will race against Aron B. Strongheart and Lady May.

Collin, the horse which has made a sensation as a money winner in half mile events on the track this season, will make an effort to break the record on a trot.

Prince Maston, known to the turf of Indiana will appear in the 3:30 trot and pace against Beale Barnes, Little Bell and Ravenwood, our own Foxey Todd and Lady Bonanza. The first three horses in this class will be seen for the first time on the local track.

The 3:25 trot and pace will be a classic, for horses from all over the State are coming here direct from the recent meets held on other New Jersey tracks to compete in this event.

A laundry is a place where they put our duds in suds.

A monopolist is a woman who has complete and perfect confidence in her husband.

A woman we know is so fat of face that every time she laughs she can see her cheeks.

What class are we in anyway when our children commence to correct our grammar?

You can put it down as a fact that the man who sits around in his shirt-sleeves is boss of the house.

It requires some experience as a political leader to know when it is necessary to be judiciously absent.

Father Time is the mean old thing who can't be coaxed from writing a woman's age indelibly on her face.

We know a man with such a growth of natural scowl on his face that even a look of disgust cannot penetrate it.

Public enterprise gets its best boost from the happy medium between the hot headed man and the man with cold feet.

Once in so often we meet the man whose political views lead us to believe that he laces his undershirt with pink ribbon.

There is neither art nor science in religion; it is the homeliness of the correct conception between right and wrong doing.

A friend of ours is at work on an automatic bath tub bottom which will be rough to stand on and smooth for sitting purposes.

Considerable of the cutting up proclivities of the present day youngsters may be attributed to their colored supplement education.

A man who is up against his wife's political advice has trouble enough without being forced to listen to the opposite views of his son.

More of the exclusively for women periodicals would be carried home by men if they could be wrapped so as to look like something else.

A new kind of headache called the diplomatic has been discovered for women's use when they do not wish to see an undesirable caller.

Any old thing a husband is called in the privacy of the home would be preferable to him than suffering the splurge of "dear" in public.

A hypocrite, my son, is the man who will howl himself hoarse on the evils of intemperance and takes a little liquor to relieve the hoarseness.

If the women's winter hats are to be increased in size there is a possibility of the sword coming into style for anchoring the hats to the rats.

Be observant sometime when children look at mirrors and see if it isn't so; a girl will laugh at her reflection and a boy will make faces at his.

Mrs. Anybody, the next time you give your husband a batch of letters to mail include a postal addressed to yourself; when you receive the card you will know he has done his duty.

There is a difference between being bad and being indiscreet; the bad is what is concealed, the indiscreet is something we are not at all particular whether people are aware of it or not as long as we are not concerned about it—and there is the big mistake.

The old time kind of a boy who used to get a nickle from his father for sitting in a corner and keeping still for five minutes at a stretch has made room for the kid who works a tease until his mother gives him a dime so he can go to the moving picture show.

Find the moral in the following: A well appeared young man sat in front of a demure young lady in church. A piece of white raveling protruded from the young man's coat collar and hung defiantly over the pew back. Imbued with a motherly spirit as well as a feeling of contempt for the sisters in the young man's family who would permit such a thing to pass inspection on a Sunday morning, the young lady got busy with her idea of an act of charity. As the congregation arose for the first hymn she pinched the offending raveling between her thumb and finger; a gentle tug lengthened it a couple of inches. As the start was good and the young man was concentrated in his share of the singing she set her teeth and wound the slack around her finger and gave another yank. This time her reward was a yard of thread and the color in her cheeks, as the young man at the last twitch dropped back into his seat leaving the rest of the congregation standing, was warmth that burned. That ravel was not a part of his coat, it belonged to his underwear.

Discriminating Men Wear Furnishings of Standard Makes

They Will Find the Nationally Known Brands at Schaefer's.

The fact that thousands of exacting, discriminating men all over the country are wearing standard makes of furnishings is a mighty strong argument in the favor of these famous brands of Men's wear. What other men of discernment have stamped with the seal of their approval is pretty likely to give you satisfaction.

Sometimes it is hard to obtain goods of this character. Many stores—especially the large stores of the Metropolis, push goods of their own preference upon which profits to the retailer are larger.

At Schaefer's you will find such makes of garments and accessories as the following in comprehensive and complete assortments—priced as low as it is possible to buy them anywhere.

Arrow Brand Collars
Kaiser Barthes Cravattes
Cusett, Sempereil and Charter Shirts
Guyot and President Suspenders,
Interwoven and Holeproof Hose.

Knotair Hose
Meyer's and Adler's Gloves
Allens Cape Gloves, $1.00 to $2.00 per pair
Yund Kennedy and Yund Sweaters 95c each
American Hosiery Sweaters $6.00 each

These are but representative items from our extensive stocks of Men's furnishings which embrace neck-wear of every description—gloves for every requirement of dress and climate including gauntlet gloves for driving and motoring. Men's sweaters in all grades, hosiery undergarments—in fact all the little and big needfuls of a man's wardrobe.

We have been especially successful in our sales of men's gauze hosiery this Fall and have now made extensive preparation to provide with equal satisfaction for the needs of those men who will soon be requiring hosiery of heavier weight. At 10c to $2.00 per pair we are offering best obtainable values in men's hose of all kinds including fine silk hose.

Franz Kallenberg to Play Here.

Mr. Franz Kallenberg who will appear in Westfield October 28 in the first of five concerts under the auspices of the Men's Club of the Presbyterian Church is an artist of more than ordinary merit. His violin solos are played with a charm peculiar to him. He possesses admirable technique and produces a tone of excellent quality. His appearance before an audience is always a perfect treat. The high character of the music rendered by the string quartet also has made their programs much appreciated throughout the country. All Westfield will probably be on hand to greet these musicians.

OBITUARY.

Alice C. Morgan.

Alice C. Morgan died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles F. Brenneholts, 425 Summit avenue, last Friday afternoon, after a lingering illness. The funeral services were held from her sister's home Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. W. I. Stearns, of the First Presbyterian Church. Interment at Fairview.

Mrs. Harriet Louise Stryker.

Mrs. Harriet Louise Stryker died early last Friday morning at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. H. G. Odycke, at Funderne, after a long and serious illness. Mrs. Stryker was over sixty-three years of age and was the widow of James P. Stryker late of Jersey City, where she was born and lived until about five years ago, when, after the death of her husband, she went first to Somerville, and then to Westfield to live with her daughter. She was a sage and charming old lady and will be greatly missed by all who were fortunate enough to know her. She is survived by her two children, Mrs. Henry G. Odycke of Funderne and Mr. Walter Allen Stryker of Westfield.

William M. Stewart.

William M. Stewart died suddenly of apoplexy at his home, 117 North Euclid avenue, Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Stewart had been in poor health for some time and had but recently returned from the mountains where he had spent the past sixteen months in hopes of regaining his usual health. He had been out and only the day he died had been down town and seemed to be as well as usual. Mr. Stewart was born in New York State and was 44 years old. For over twenty years he had been connected with the New York Telephone Company and in point of service was one of their oldest men. He came to Westfield about three years ago from Netherwood and purchased the home on Euclid avenue in which he died. He is survived by a widow and one son, seven years old. The funeral services will be held from his late home to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and the interment will be at Woodlawn on Sunday morning. A number of representatives from the New York Telephone Company will attend the funeral. They will come to Westfield in a special train.

OBITUARY.

Clarence W. Coleman.

Clarence W. Coleman passed away at his home on the Boulevard at 10:30 o'clock on Monday morning from cerebral meningitis, secondary to a growth in the nose.

Mr. Coleman was in his forty-first year, and had been a resident of Westfield for the past twelve years, during which time he has been connected with the Hall Signal Co., at Garwood, as inventor. Mr. Coleman was quiet and unassuming in his manner and of an exceptionally kind nature, and was highly respected and loved by his many associates in business, as well as a large circle of friends.

In the late summer Mr. Coleman and Dr. J. H. Corbin spent a vacation in Virginia, during which time Mr. Coleman purchased a large stock and grain farm and had planned to remove there with his family October 1st, with the hope of being greatly benefited in health; resigning his position with the Hall Signal Co., and which resignation was not accepted, but leave of absence granted instead.

The impressive funeral service was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Methodist Church, Rev. Dr. Addison W. Hayes, pastor of the church was in charge and spoke from the text "Whatever thing is pure, whatever thing is lovely, whatever thing is of good report, think on these things," and beautifully compared the life of Mr. Coleman with the virtues of the text. Rev. Sydney Cross read the New Testament scripture lesson, and Mr. William Hall of the Hall Signal Co., who is an evangelical speaker, read from the Psalms and paid a beautiful tribute to the character and worth of the deceased and the great value his work had been to the Company. The factory at Garwood and the New York office were closed all day yesterday out of respect to Mr. Coleman.

Mr. Thomas Murray sang a very effective solo, "There is a Land," by Johnson. Following the church service the body was taken to E. N. Brown's undertaking parlors, and this morning was taken to Linden for incineration. The ashes will be placed in the vault at Fairview cemetery and later will be removed to the family plot in Chicago. The pall bearers were Mr. Mailleux, Mr. Tom Lee, Mr. Kirby, Mr. William Lane, Mr. G. Kjelmark, all of the Hall Signal Co. and Dr. J. H. Corbin, of Westfield.

Mr. Coleman is survived by a widow and two daughters, Miss Kathryn Coleman, and a sister, Miss Hattie Coleman, of California, and a brother, the Mr. Clyde Coleman, of Chicago.

H. C. PIKER BURIED.

Public Funeral Held at His Late Home, Wednesday Night and Was Largely Attended.

MANY BEAUTIFUL FLORAL TRIBUTES.

Local Officials Pay Last Tribute—

Rev. Newton Cadwell, a Former Pastor Preaches Sermon.

The funeral service of the late Henry Conrad Piker was held from the home on Euclid avenue Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The home was filled with friends, neighbors, employees, town officials, members of the Heptanopsis, Retail Merchants Association, Board of Trade and Suburban Club. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful and included several wreaths, pillows and bouquets. The Rev. W. I. Stearns of the Presbyterian Church opened the service by reading the scripture. Rev. N. W. Cadwell, a former pastor and a close friend of Mr. Piker's preached an eloquent sermon from the text found in 1 Samuel, 20th chapter. Dr. Cadwell paid a high tribute to the deceased saying he had known him for fourteen years and had married him and that Mr. and Mrs. Piker had been at his home about ten days ago and that he little dreamed then he would be called so soon to preach his funeral sermon. He referred to Mr. Piker's business ability, his honesty and uprightness of character.

The interment took place in Fairview cemetery yesterday morning and was private. The bearers were Addison H. Clark, Arthur N. Pierson, Arthur D. Tuttle, and Mr. McCarthy a relative of the deceased.

Henry Conrad Piker was born in Plainfield, New Jersey, on September 14, 1872. He came to Westfield fifteen years ago and established a shoe business in Broad street, which rapidly developed under his management. In 1906, Mr. Piker became interested in the contracting business and gave serious attention to this new work, for which he was peculiarly adapted. Mr. Piker was a man of much energy and he devoted his days and nights to working out problems by which he was able to compete successfully with builders for local and out-of-town work.

Because of ill health and the great volume of work which he was compelled to do, Mr. Piker sold out his shoe business this spring and gave his time entirely to the contracting business. During the past few years, he has built some of the finest business buildings and homes in Westfield, among them being the Pierson building on Elm street and the Standard building on the main thoroughfare. Mr. Piker took a great interest in his work and he won the confidence of his customers by his skill in their behalf. Economy was always a part of his program. Mr. Piker has been in ill health for a number of years but he was temperately united to rest properly and his labors of the past years told upon his weak heart. This spring he was taken seriously ill. He then promised himself a vacation. Sailing, however, to complete the bulk of his work before he left Westfield, Mr. Piker over-exerted himself and in August he was stricken with the attack which resulted in his death. He was at that time was despondent of but he revived and went to Atlantic City for a needed rest. He did not gain in strength however and returned to his home in Westfield in a very critical condition. Death came Monday afternoon at his home 189 Euclid avenue.

Mr. Piker was deeply interested in the welfare of Westfield and he took an active part in the affairs of the town always contributing to any enterprise that, in his judgment, seemed worthy. As a member of the Westfield Board of Tax Assessors, to which place he was appointed by the present Council, Mr. Piker did efficient work. He was a member also of the Westfield Order of the Suburban Club, the Ufa Club and the Board of Trade. Because of his death the Suburban Club has postponed its banquet which was to have been held this week at the North Avenue Hotel. Mr. Piker married in 1906, Miss E. Edna Brainerd, a Westfield girl, who survives him. He was the only son of Henry Piker of Elm street; two daughters, Misses Lizzie and Louise Piker, also of Westfield, mourn his death.
