Memories in Motion

Here's your yearbook. Now you can find unflattering pictures of yourself and force your friends to sign it. Get it out again next year to figure out the name of that cute someone sitting across from you in class, or in ten years to prove that her nose looked different way back when.

Way back when what? When everything was so much simpler, so much easier, so much more (dare I say it?) rock & roll. Even though we all want to graduate already, these four years might look pretty perfect when we look back through the rose-tinted reading glasses of old age.

Or these hairstyles will be embarrassing and our grandchildren will make fun of us. These most likely won't be the days of our lives. That makes sense: time doesn't end just because high school does. Really, it's silly that we spent so much time and energy trying to preserve the past 180 days. Fashions, friendships and futures change in ways we could never foresee.

The best we can do, then, is create a glimpse of what happened in Westfield High School for a fleeting second sometime between September and June.

Here's what happened: this year rocked out loud. Yes, we woke up early and stayed up late doing unnecessary amounts of homework. We also learned and laughed and made the best friends imaginable. So look through this yearbook and relive the memories of a few months ago (we were so young!). Try not to say, "Stop the clock! It went too fast."

Katherine Roberts
Class of 2008

SENIORS

High school is a time for discovering who we are, what we believe in, and what we hope for. It is about learning, developing friendships, and having fun. With each year of high school comes new expectations, new goals, and memories. The class of 2008 is unique; memories have been created and will never be forgotten. Our class wins powder puff every chance we get, we have ridiculously good athletes, and we have brains. Bottom line - we rule the school. As timid freshman we tried to find our way around and make new friends. We became forgotten sophomores, a little more knowledgeable, but far from the top. Then we were the stressed out juniors, doing everything in our power to earn those "A's" and finish the JRP. Now it is our final year of high school and we are one united class. We know how to have fun and keep our academics on top. Graduation will be here before we know it, but for now we must reflect upon the memories we have created throughout our four years of high school. I want to say thanks to the class of 2008 for making these four years such a fun and memorable experience. As we continue on the path of life these four years will remain a part of who I am.

Memories In Motion...

JUNIORS

Congratulations! If you are reading this, you have made it through the trials and tribulations of the dreaded junior year. For the past ten months, we have worked through mountains of JRP note cards, tedious AP US history outlines, and the worst capital letter combination of all, the SATs. But that doesn't mean that the past year has been all work and no play! We have all the benefits of being the upperclassmen without the added stress of having to rule the school. We made sure to always set time aside from our overbooked schedules to have some fun. As this year comes to an end, we are prepared to deal with anything that comes our way in the future. And for that, you can actually thank the JRP.

SOPHOMORES

With friends already established and plans sorted out in our minds, sophomore year is a steadfast one. We are free to explore interests and chase dreams without the ever-watchful eyes of college admission boards peering into our lives. Although we are still working diligently on our never-ceasing studies, we have the confidence of knowing who we are. All those oh-so-exciting fire drills, crowded lunch tables and long-awaited final exams have transformed us into sophomores. Our sails are unfurled and we are navigating our way through what will be a successful career at Westfield High School. In the great words of our childhood friend Peter Pan, "I'll teach you to ride on the wind's back, and away we go!"

FRESHMEN

Some were timid; others, confident and well adjusted. Some were lost, some were outspoken. However, this September, we all had one thing in common: we were new to the wide halls that welcomed us, freshmen in the truest sense of the word. Preconceived notions of the highly anticipated first year of high school flooded our minds as we tried to remember our schedules and the intimidating school floor plan. Having survived those dreaded first days, the routine of school came back. We made it. Not only did we stop asking for directions, we are now able to give them. The new people and school gave us a chance to start over, not only academically but personally, searching for our place. And everything fell into place. We made it!

ACADEMICS

Beyond the usual concept of school, which is the memorization and understanding of everything we capture in our minds, education is a door that we open daily in order to learn. We study, not only arduous formulas and analytical ideas, but ourselves. By developing our identities as students, we also develop our knowledge of who we are going to be in the future. Despite the challenges we face and the bumpy roads we cross, we will always have a future ahead of us.

Bessie Roca

Project

Keep Striving

Mr. Horn initiates the discussion in English 3.

Jocelyn Tiller ponders what her teacher wrote on the board.

Project '79 is an alternative education program that provides a holistic learning environment so students and their parents can reconnect with the school. Teaching the same material as mainstream WHS, Project '79 also provides a safe, comfortable place where students support one another in all aspects of learning, including field trips, simulations, weekend retreats, and musical or poetic performances at the Project '79 Coffeehouse. Being the excellent academic program that it is, Project '79 allows students to work closely with teachers, ensuring they become active learners as well as outgoing citizens.

Erin Gillespie answers Mr. Maruschak's question while Tom Sweeney looks on.

Alex Schaefer relaxes in the Project Office between classes.

Kate O'Connor listens to the next part of the lecture in Constitutional Law.

Right: Darren Tighe prepares to answer a question in Chemistry.

Ms. Muir makes a geometric point to Alia Lundy while Latima Ellerbe, Wayne Wojcik, and Tori Markowski work on their projects.

Danny Nash analyzes the themes in Beowulf.

Left: Ryan Scrudato, Steph Rego, Virginia Spinelli, and Arielle Silverman read the next chapter of their books.

Billy Sickles prepares to get to work on the latest essay.

Ms. DiBattista and Matt MacVicar share a laugh while revising Matt's literary analysis.

Evan Heroux finds a humorous line in Othello.

Zach Zagorski and Sam Tooley react to a joke told by their English teacher.

Two things unite humans: language, and the ability to express feelings in them. From stories to plays to poetry, English classes explore the feelings captured in events, opinions or metaphoric tales. They study works across centuries to gain the ability to understand the complexities of human emotions, and the events and experiences that shape people all around us. A study of literature results in the comprehension of the experiences and lives of others, fictional and real, achieving social commentaries and a greater understanding of human complexity. Joined with grammar, style and the ability to communicate ideas in different forms, this enables students to express themselves in a mature way, and allows them to communicate better with others.

Andrew Realmuto checks his notes as discussion begins.

Emma Partridge is eager to inject her opinion into the class.

Kevin Morris gets into the latest English novel.

Science Keep Investigating

Kim Morawski and her lab partners answer the questions on their lab reports.

Dan Morse and Ross Tucker take a moment out of their lab period to smile for the camera.

From the problem-solving ways of chemistry to the facts of life that biology has to offer to the physics of our school building, science is an intriguing but very complex subject that surrounds our world. As it has evolved, it has opened new doors to find information that has developed our minds to understand the complicated but frivolous puzzles that science exposes. As it is taught in the classrooms of WHS, science describes the nature of the earth that we live in. It expands our knowledge of who we are as well as what we are. Everything is science!

Sam Murphy is shocked to learn another fun science fact!

Katie Millen checks to make sure her solution is ready.

Right: Brittany Van Sickle and Paige Roudebush collect measurements.

Connor Shields tries to pin the tail on the mole for Mole Day.

Charlie Read and Danielle Infantino await their turn to get materials for their latest physics investigation.

Mark Fischetti dilligently writes up his lab report.

Marisa DiFabio and Jessie Gregory await their team's turn in an algebra review game.

Ms. Bilyk helps Abigail Flaherty complete the problem.

Chris Mench, Chris Morrissey, and Matt McEvoy work together to practice geometry concepts.

Stephanie Korunow and Alex Greenspan check their homework answers.

Mr. Jacobsen explains what a piecewise function is to the class.

The world of math contains much more than just numbers huddled together waiting to be solved. Numbers surround our world, day in and day out. They determine how much we pay for our meals in the cafeteria or for concert tickets. Math is an integral part of every little thing you do: you can find proof in the Pythagorean theorem of an ice cream cone or the radius of the wheels of your car. Beyond the hallways of WHS, we may think or hope that we're done with math, but really we're just entering another dimension of numerical values. Math is the limitless essence of the real world.

David Athenson double-checks his arithmetic to ensure his answer is accurate.

Matt Cifelli, Matt Adams, and Nick Roth work on the warm-up to start the period.

Mrs. Malvasio points out the importance of using a pencil in math class.

Ege Tuncel and Matt Buccino relax in class.

Caitlin Coleman takes notes in Global Perspectives.

A comprehensive understanding of the past, and all of its implications, intricacies and effects, is imperative to an appreciation of the present, and an ability to make the future a better place. All of this can be achieved by learning history and social issues, both old and new, and ensures the development of some future political leaders amongst the students. From communism to economics to the Constitution and democracy, we gain an understanding of the events that shaped the world as it is today, and those that will shape the world of tomorrow. And with this knowledge comes the ability to change the world, and make it a better place in the future.

Take a walk around the hallways of WHS, and an onslaught of chatter will reach your ears, some of it in a language you may not even understand. While English may be the main language of the school, various languages, both alive and dead, are studied with dedication and enthusiasm. Students gain an appreciation of both the culture and the language of another people. They become able to express themselves in a language not native to them, which enables them to travel the world and experience new cultures. As we live in a diverse society, learning a new language enriches students and allows them to appreciate the many other cultures which together they can call their own.

Meanwhile, in health, we learn how to be cautious, respect ourselves and others, and prevent future consequences. We are always sweating and working hard, either to kick our way to the goal or to think first before acting.

Secret talents not normally displayed throughout the school day find form and expression in art and drama, two talents that encourage self-expression through physical or spoken form. Both of these arts are found in practice throughout the school, from the fall performance of The Crucible to the art projects on display in the halls and classrooms. Students can be found with their heads buried in monologues, dedicating hours and hours of practice after school to hone their craft, as well as splattered in paint or with hands covered in pencil. Both talents are further improved by the hours of dedication spent practicing. Art defines eras and cultures, and students being encouraged to express themselves through art only further enriches our own.

Walk through the halls between classes on the final Friday of every month, and over the loudspeakers you will hear music being piped into the halls, providing a soundtrack to the day, almost as though the students were in a movie. Music provides a backing track to lives and enriches our experiences. A comprehensive knowledge of music is achieved through the music programs at WHS. Students find themselves practicing intensely for performances within the many choirs or bands at the school. They also learn the theory behind music and how to compose and create their own music for the world to hear. Both the concerts and the spring musical are the culmination of hours of hard work to provide the student body with one of the most beautiful things: music.

With the range of courses available, students enrolled in a computers class can learn basic computer applications as well as programming in Visual Basic and JAVA. Learn to create your own computer programs or just get really good with a spreadsheet. Either way, there's a computers course for you.

Students in television class study a wide variety of films, create their own projects and film various school events such as sports games and student performances. With so many opportunities to both document WHS activities and express one's own creative impulses, it's no wonder so many students have become faithful participants in the WHS television department.

So tie on your apron, get out your mixing bowl and carefully laminated recipe, and prepare to get your hands dirty with your next delicious creation. Whether it's building a complex, architecturally-sound gingerbread house or perfecting your ability to boil water, there is something in Foods for every student.

Then, with well thought-out plans in hand, they tackle the job of bringing their blueprints to life. Another example of the creativity and skill of the WHS student population, woods class is another fine medium for students to express themselves in a way that is both artistic and functional.

While to the untrained eye the Hi's Eye seems to magically appear in homerooms on Fridays, hours of work are put in behind the scenes to ensure that each week's issue is an informative and entertaining extension of the school. Journalism students brainstorm article topics, write and edit their work, lay out pages, further the cause of free speech and eventually create the school paper WHS has known and loved since 1933.

SPORTS

While a WHS student is no stranger to hard work in the classroom, the Blue Devil is just as determined to succeed on the sports field. WHS has a long tradition of athletic excellence and sportsmanship, and WHS athletes take pride in representing our dear colors.

Sports provide us not only with an outlet for competitive energy, but a source of lasting friendships and memories. While the glory of victory fades, the Blue Devil spirit stays with us even after the final whistle.

Girls Soccer

Keep Kicking

The 2007 girls varsity soccer team had a successful winning season led by six starting seniors. Though we ended strong with a record of 15-6-1, our season got off to a slow start due to tough competition and key injuries. With the help of determination and a close-knit bond, we were able to come back and earn key victories over a state-ranked Kearny and an undefeated Union Catholic team. We were also able to regain our spots in both the Union County Tournament Finals and the State Sectional Semifinals. The girls attribute their success in continuing the program's winning tradition to perseverance and teamwork.

Keep Scoring

Members of the soccer team huddle after the game to celebrate a big win.

Coming into this season, you could definitely say we were the underdogs. Losing 16 seniors, many of whom were starters, every team expected us to be weak. Comprised of almost all juniors, our team did much more than just hold our own. We ended up being one of the best teams in New Jersey. Ranked in the top 20 for the majority of the season, and finishing with a 13-5-3 record, we gained a lot of respect in the soccer world. We won the Watchung Conference for the first time in 12 years, and reached the county semi-finals and the Sectional Finals. You also cannot forget that we beat Scotch Plains in both regular season games, which has not been accomplished in some decades. This remarkable season contributed greatly to the rise of Westfield as a powerhouse team, and we hope that the name we have built for Westfield can sustain itself for years to come.

Girls Tennis

Keep Serving

"That almost looked like tennis." Of course it did, Mr. Tirone! We beat the odds with our circle of team spirit at the Union County Tournament as we defeated Kent Place to bring home our third consecutive Union County Championship. Adding to that, we were All Conference Champions after defeating SPF easily, in remembrance of our first meeting with them this year.

It has been an amazing year for all 18 of us. With the largest varsity tennis team that Westfield has seen in a while, the stakes were high and the competition higher. We pushed each other to improve, knowing that this would be one of the best teams that has ever come out of WHS. With the most team spirit that the girls' team has seen in a long time, we had a lot of fun this year. As sad as it is that it's the last year for many of us, as well as the last year for Mr. Tirone, our fantastic coach, next year, with a little hard work and the great new captains, the girls will have many more stories and wins of which to be proud.

This football season was an exciting and memorable year for all of us. We started our season off with a big win against Linden. Our season had more highs and lows as we beat Elizabeth for the first time in 24 years. The Blue Devils made it to the State Playoffs for the first time since 2003. We had our first home playoff game since 1998 against Bayonne, which we won. We ended our season with a 28-27 victory over Plainfield in front of 5000 people at home on Thanksgiving Day. Despite the loss of 19 seniors, key underclassmen should rise to the occasion next year.

The Westfield High School Marching Band had an amazing season, both on the football field and at competitions. This year's show consisted of music by a variety of Russian composers. The band participated in the USSBA Group 4 Division with over 80 dedicated members. The captains for the 2007 season believe this year was one of our best. From the time we were freshman until now, our hard work and dedication has led the team to its greatest success and each year the team will always strive to be better. We are proud to say that looking back at our team of girls, each one brought such positive traits to the table, enabling this squad to be nothing less than amazing. There is no doubt that a legacy of hard workers, positive attitudes, and outstanding accomplishments will live on with the passing years. From gaining better respect from our peers to finally receiving gym exemptions, the squad has accomplished such a positive reputation. The steps we've taken within the past years will always be remembered as the age that the cheerleaders rose up and reached tremendous goals.

Cross

Country

WHS Cross Country is a program rooted deeply in a tradition of excellence. This year was no exception, as both teams posted undefeated dual meet records, with the boys taking the conference and county titles. One of the largest programs in the state, WHS Cross Country prides itself on giving every runner a chance, and for that, there was a sea of blue across a field of green. Over the course of the season, the girls stayed classy while the boys "[ran] like hell." In short, friends were made, races were run, and good times were had by all.

Although this season was not a victorious one, we learned the true meaning of what it takes to be a team. We came into this season as the underdogs, losing both varsity coaches and gaining a whole new coaching staff. While we didn't end with a winning record, we came out of this season with many of personal accomplishments. We grew both on and off the field as a team and really learned how to communicate with one another. Some of the most unforgettable moments were not the wins, but the heart and aggression we put into every game and practice. This season was full of pride, hardships, victory, disappointments, but most of all laughter. Good luck next year, we will miss you all!

Volleyball

Keep Spiking

After a monumental 2006 season, the WHS volleyball team entered this year at a disadvantage. Losing five out of our six starters due to graduation, the expectations of our team were not as high as they had been in previous years. This drawback, though, proved to be minute, as we continuously played together like a team with years of experience. Against all odds, we found ourselves in the same position as last year: fighting hard to make it to the Union County Tournament Finals. Although as the underdogs we were not able to defeat No. 1 seeded Cranford, the multiple upset victories we won to get to that point contributed to our "Cinderella Story" of a season. The volleyball team's achievements this year prove that with the right attitude and drive for success, anything is possible, no matter what barriers may stand in the way.

This year the 2007 Gymnastics team was bigger and better than ever! We were assisted this year by Tamara Yellen, an Edison Intermediate School science teacher. Not only did we win the Cougar and County Championship, but we placed 2nd at Sectionals and 9th in the state. And if this was not icing on the cake, we also broke the long-standing school team score record of 109.25 with a 110.675. This season was not all rainbows and sunshine though due to the brief absence of our beloved coach, Melissa, at a pivotal point in the season. All in all, the team is doing nothing but improving and next year promises to be even better.

Bowling

Keep Striking

Although having lost three senior varsity starters from the previous season, our spirit was not weakened. This year, we knew that the team had the potential to be just as good, if not better, than last year's talent. The team had so much talent that Coach Tirone had to experiment with a few different varsity line ups before finding the most effective one. This proved to be true during the remainder of the season through our performance during tournament play and our first place finish in the Watchung Conference. Our greatest achievement, though, was winning our Group IV State Championship title which resulted in Westfield shattering two long standing records in the State Tournament including highest team game and highest team average. The being said, contributing to the Westfield High School Bowling team has been a fun, exciting, unforgettable, and rewarding experience. The departing seniors would like to wish next year's team the best of luck.

Keep Freestyling

The girls' swim team gathers around their coach to listen to what Ms. Smith has to say to them after winning at the latest competition.

The 2007-2008 season, led by new coach and former WHS swimmer, Brooke Smith, was the best ever. Despite losing a strong senior class, the team's determination to win another State Championship showed everyday both in and out of the pool. This season's success was defined by numerous outstanding performances, including breaking eight school records, defeating long time rival Mount St. Mary's Academy and ending their 61-meet winning streak. We also won our 16th straight county championship, another sectional championship, and concluded the season with winning our 2nd straight State Championship. The teams unity and determination this season allowed us to transcend any doubts that this would be a rebuilding year.

Boys Swimming

Keep Diving

The 2007-2008 swim season was certainly one to be remembered. After a stunning victory over rival Bridgewater-Raritan early in the season, it was apparent that tremendous things were to follow. Going into the state tournament, the team was 9-2 with major victories over Bridgewater, Hillsborough, and Scotch Plains. The team went on to win its 54th county title in the meet's 57-year history. From there, momentum built as the Blue Devils progressed through the state tournament. They team crushed Bridgewater-Raritan 109-61 to win its second straight sectional title. Arriving at the state finals, Westfield was a heavy underdog to defending State Champion Cherry Hill West. The team pulled together, however, and power pointed the highest total in team history to win 91-79; Westfield received its 21st state championship. The team finished with a record of 14-2, earning county, sectional, and state titles. This was truly a special season that will be remembered as one of the greatest in Westfield High School history.

The Westfield Girls Basketball team made history this season. Many successful wins and hardworking practices earned us the second seed in our Union County Tournament. After defeating our number one rival, Scotch Plains, in the semi-finals of the tournament, we battled against Elizabeth for the number one spot. Coming out victorious, it was not only an incredible accomplishment but the first time in school history we won a county championship. As Coach Joe Marino would say, "We've reached the top of the mountain, and now we can enjoy the view." Following the Union County Finals, we were seeded sixth in the NJSIAA Group 4 tournament but lost in a battle against Watchung Hills. Overall, it was great to have a steady diet of competitive teams in our bracket because it only made us stronger. We finished with a respectful record of 17-7.

Boys Basketball

Keep Scoring

The varsity boys basketball team's season started with a great sense of optimism and new life. With the graduation of four key seniors last year, this year's team was full of new faces and talents. In a whirlwind of a season, the team tasted both the sweet sense of victory and the bitter bite of defeat. No matter what the result was, each player always played with tremendous heart and passion. The season was one to remember and the lessons learned will benefit the team in the future. Luckily, the team will be returning all but one player for a successful season next year.

Coach Kurz and members of the team celebrate one of their wrestlers' achieving a victory via pinfall.

The theme of this year's season was "build." Our goal entering the year was to build off of last year's success, so that we could be competitors this year. Our practice style was built around great off-season conditioning, excellent coaching and a will to win. Our hard work paid off with big wins over Cranford, Union, and Irvington. This year we found our strength in the underclassmen and hope that this year allowed time to create chemistry needed to build a stronger team next year. Next year's success will be determined by how hard we work in the weight room, our mind-set going into next season, and the will to never give up.

Winter Track

Keep Sprinting

As the postal workers of track and field, we were ready to rage war on winter. Some may think it's crazy to voluntarily go out for this team in the brutal ice cold weather, but it was all worth it.

Lots of talent was brought to this season. We all worked extremely hard as a team and it definitely paid off and showed. A couple of school records were broken and we improved overall in everything, such as counties. We could not be prouder of our enthusiastic teammates with whom we will miss listening to the "Wu Fang Clan."

The 2007-2008 ice hockey season was a year of milestones for Westfield High School. First and foremost, the team posted an impressive 14-12-2 record and advanced to the second round of the Public A State Tournament after their defeat of South Brunswick in the first round by a score of 4-1. This marked one of the best years in the teams history. Both Jimmy Bender and Craig Esposito topped the one-hundred career points plateau during the season. The Blue Devils also made it to the championship of the Cron Tournament for the first time in school history. For the nine seniors, including four-year team manager Ariel Mone, the times spent both on and off the ice as a part of the Westfield High School Ice Hockey Team will be memories that will never be forgotten.

Girls Lacrosse

Keep Scooping

The 2008 lacrosse season was a great success. Despite losing 8 seniors to graduation, the girls really stepped it up and worked well together as a team. Westfield's schedule required a committed effort. The girls pushed themselves and worked their hardest throughout the practices, carrying the momentum over to the games. Our program will continue to excel in years to come.

Softball Keep Batting

Softball has taught us what it means to be team players who give all that they have in order to achieve a common goal. Through hard work, dedication, and determination we have not only defeated our competitors but overcome our personal weaknesses. Softball has made us better athletes as well as stronger individuals. Bruised knees, unpredictable weather, long bus rides and equipment closet mishaps have created memories that will stay with us forever. These memories, which we share with our teammates, have intensified our love of the game. We will always remember our teammates for they are softball.

Two years ago, the Westfield Varsity Baseball team dominated the county, taking home the county championship. The team graduated a roster full of seniors and no one really knew what to expect of the years to follow. Despite lower expectations and younger talent, the baseball team went 16-10 making it to the State Sectional Finals where the run was cut short by Edison. This year, Westfield returns a roster stacked with seniors accompanied by great underclassmen talent. There is no doubt they are eager to get back to the state finals, and also make up for last year by coming out as state champs.

Spring Track

Keep Hurdling

Calling 100 other girls your teammates after a few short months is a hard task. But even harder is forming one solid unit to cover an array of events. It is a task the girls spring track & field team faces and accomplishes each year. A rich tradition of runners, throwers, and jumpers make up one team, which becomes one of the top teams in Union County each year. This competitive excellence and drive brings girls back each year ready to run fast, throw far, and jump to new heights! We're looking forward to an incredible season this year. The 2007 Varsity Boys tennis team had an unprecedented season. The team finished the season with 30 wins and 0 losses, a record never seen in WHS history. Also, the team captured the Westfield Invitational, the Watchung Conference Championships, the County Title, the Delbarton Tournament, the Newark Academy Tournament, the Sectional tournament, Group IV State Tournament, and Tournament of Champions. This was only the fourth time that WHS tennis seized a state title. Also, it was the first time the team has ever won the Newark Academy Invitational. EXTRACURRICULAR

Socializing and friendships are more important to the high school experience than all the tests, quizzes, papers, and homework. We need to have the time and the ability to explore our passions and hobbies outside of school, a chance to develop skills outside of academic boundaries. Through clubs, students with a variety of interests find themselves drawn together outside of the school environment to explore and pursue interests, and create friendships. During four years that grow increasingly difficult and important in workload, the escape of extracurriculars allows us to remember, if just for a little while, that we're still growing up, and that we're never too old or too serious to still have some fun.

At the Hershey Conference Center in Hershey, PA, the smell of chocolate filled the air, and the brightly colored roller coasters of Hershey Park were a tempting distraction for the 119 WHS students debating for three days straight. The WHS delegation left with 15 awards, 6 representatives to the Conference of National Affairs, 1 Superior Country and 17 of 45 Officer positions for next year's conference. Our own Daniel Morse was even elected as Secretary General, the student leader of the entire conference for next year. The WHS MUN program just keeps getting better; we'll just have to see what's in store for next year.

The transition from big eighth grader to being the lowly ninth grader is not an easy one. The freshmen enter the unknown world of WHS with fear and uncertainty. The main goal of the Transition Project is to alleviate the stress of coming to WHS and encourage group members to bond through a myriad of activities. The upperclassmen mentors lead discussions on topics like body image and bullying, encouraging active group participation. By the time the transition project is over, freshmen are completely ready to face their next three years of high school. Who knows, maybe they will be transition leaders themselves one year.

A half-day of school put everyone in a good mood and created a great atmosphere for a busy day. Beginning in the center of town, the WHS Marching Band led a colorful parade to Kehler Stadium. Once at the stadium, class spirit was at an all-time high with the Powder Puff football game. Seniors vs. juniors: would the class of 2009 upset the class of 2008 as the current seniors had the year before? The senior class of 2008 won, the first class since 2003 to leave WHS with a 2-0 record. Later that evening, hundreds of students gathered behind Edison Intermediate School for a huge bonfire. Tessa Schaaf and Jon Holt, a well-known senior couple, were crowned Homecoming King and Queen. The night ended on a high note, spent keeping warm and making memories to last.

Nothing to do on a Friday night? Craving some culture? Luckily, the students of WHS need look no further than the spacious confines of our very own Cafeteria B for the cultural extravaganza that is Folio Coffeehouse. In addition to the coveted free coffee, the monthly Folio Coffeehouses offer musical performances, poetry readings, skits and even the appearance of an occasional teacher act. Proceeds from each coffeehouse help fund the Folio Literary Magazine, published at the end of each school year. The magazine, which is edited and compiled by the Folio Club staff, features short stories, poems, essays and photography, all created by WHS students. Folio continues to support and promote the creative endeavors of all WHS students, no matter the medium.

The Crucible

"I say - I say - God is dead!" A town filled with hysteria shrieks as John Proctor cries out for justice and loses his faith all in one breath. Arthur Miller's words take us into a world of intolerance for your fellow man, where state and church are one and the same. Righteousness is struck down by the manipulation of religion and one point of your neighbor's finger can lead you to the noose. This is not a ghost story: this play embodies historical events in both a factual and an allegorical sense. The Crucible is much more than a metaphor for the McCarthy trials. It is a play that makes the audience stand back, look at themselves and others, and realize, "Cleave to no faith when faith brings blood."

Counter-clockwise from above: The Jazz Band in its entirety; clarinet players Miles Hsu, Christine Clark, and Sue Xiao from Wind Ensemble perform a piece; the Concert and Symphonic Bands play together; the concert choir performs, singing music that brings spirit to the holiday season.

Winter Concert

Below: Chris Salemme concentrates on playing the violin as he pays attention to the conductor.

"The best nourishment for your ripe musical mind," according to Beethoven, is Handel's renowned music, especially his famous piece "Judas Maccabeus." The music from this oratorio was performed beautifully by both the Concert Choir and the Chamber Orchestra. To complete the wonderful performance, the choir also sang traditional Christmas and Hanukkah music in five different languages: English, Spanish, German, Hebrew and Latin. This year, our music students worked really hard in preparation for the holiday concerts and in the end all their hard work paid off, for they performed eye-catching, magnificent performances.

Clockwise from right: Peter Surace (Crocker) and Rachel Friedman get ready; Emma Smelkinson and Adam Ziering are welcomed aboard!; Aye aye! Bobby O'Rourke and Mike Tannenbaum set sail as the ship's Captain and Purser.

Anything Goes

This spring, the talented students of the WHS drama department performed the 1930s musical comedy Anything Goes by Cole Porter. Set aboard an ocean liner traveling from New York to London, Anything Goes is the story of Billy Crocker, who stows away on the S.S. American in the hopes of winning over Hope Harcourt, the American debutante with whom he's in love...and who is engaged to a wealthy Englishman. Also onboard are a nightclub singer, Billy's boss, a second-rate gangster and his floozy sidekick. With all these characters on board a single ship, hilarity is inevitable.

Overflowing with spontaneous musical numbers, endless jokes and show-stopping dance routines, Anything Goes stands as a perfect representation of the great and varied talents of the WHS student body.

Art Show

In the spring, as the school year begins to wind down and smoothies from the cafeteria pop up like crocuses and daffodils, the gym becomes transformed from a haven for badminton enthusiasts to WHS' own art gallery. The art show, featuring work from throughout the school district, is the culmination of a year of artistic fervor in the second-floor classrooms that smell of paint and play music on the stereo. In this comfortable atmosphere, students paint, papier-mâché, photograph, and even create art through verbs that don't start with the letter "P": they sculpt, draw and use computer programs. And the end results are always beautiful and creative.

With the artistic geniuses of the school so well-cocooned, however, the rest of the students are not always aware of the brilliance our classmates possess. The art show is an opportunity for the greater Westfield community to observe and appreciate the fine talents of so many students.

Clockwise from above: Mr. Stumbers and his students take a trip down to the art show; Ioanna Protopigiannis and Carolyn Raphael show off the outfit they designed; Mr. Chambers takes in the vast collection of artwork on display.

National Honor Society

National Honor Society Officers Ian Devaney (Secretary), Will Eisenberg (Vice President), Pratik Mehta (President), and Jon Holt (Treasurer) with adviser Mr. Jacobsen.

During the spring of junior and senior years, the students who have exceeded expectations and shone are nominated for membership and recognized for both their services to the school and to the community as a whole in the WHS branch of the National Honor Society, where they are provided with further opportunities to excel and to aid the community. This year, NHS raised money to offset the cost of a serious operation for a WHS alum. Students set up for school events, act as tour guides for incoming freshman, help out in the community as tutors, and further exemplify what makes the WHS student body great.

Student Council

Student Council provides the students with an opportunity to take a hands-on role in how the school is run. An example of democracy at its finest and most true, the Council represents the whole student body and organizes events and fundraisers throughout the whole school year. From giving the morning announcements to playing music in the halls at the end of every month to organizing the Mr. WHS competition, the Council unites all of its fellow students with a sense of school pride and unity. Not only that, but it ensures smoother teacher-student relations and provides fun opportunities for the student body to gather together and raise money for this year's cause, the Valerie Fund. The Council members also enable students to fully take part in the democratic process, running competitive campaigns for election with flyers, Facebook groups and speeches overflowing with promises of jello-wrestling. The Council keeps student activities well-run and organized, and provides training for those who may be the leaders of tomorrow.

Clockwise from above: Craig Dyer hopes his uniform will dazzle the opposition to give his team an advantage; Adam Bergo announces the winners of the latest series of games; the look of intense focus that defines an Indian Pin match; Student Council members soap up a car to get it squeaky clean; Ms. Durante takes in the action during the Volleyball Tournament.

It is so tempting to list inside jokes that nobody else will understand, but there would be too many for this box. But isn't it like that with everything? If you're spending this much time working with a group of people, you're just naturally going to love them, especially when there's food involved. And oh, there was food involved. That's how those of us who spent hours after school sifting through pictures and clicking on boxes stayed energized, of course, while those of us who typed write-ups in the wee hours of the night before deadlines just stayed in the comfort of our own homes. Well, actually there isn't much comfort to be had when you're rushing to meet a deadline. That's why we rely on the incomparable guidance and wisdom of Mr. De Angelo and Mr. McGarrigan, our amazing advisers who didn't even solicit this glowing description, and the combined talents of our star editing duo--Maria for pictures and Katherine for words. Creating the yearbook took a lot of time and a lot of pressure-induced creativity, but it came together, didn't it?

The ones! The onlys! Yearbook advisers Mr. De Angelo and Mr. McGarrigan (respectively) work on the pages, occasionally playing video games instead.

FACULTY

As we live out our days as the students of Westfield High School, there is a force which, more than any other, helps mold us into the mature, responsible citizens we wish to become: the faculty. With their knowledge, their guidance, and their tireless dedication to the jobs they love, they foster the dreams and skills of over 1,800 students. Our teachers, custodians, guidance counselors and administrators create a unique environment in which we can discover who we truly are. Though our time with these venerable people is short, their kindness and their knowledge will stay with us for a lifetime.

CLOSING

We both fight the tide
But deep down inside
I know this won't last forever...

"The Waltz"
The Static Jacks

The closing of a yearbook is a tricky thing. The urge to drown the page in "these were the best days of our lives" sentiments is overwhelming. It'd almost be easiest to wrap up this year in a nice little bow and hand it right back to you.

But this year was whatever you made it. It's up to you, not some schmaltzy section of the yearbook, to figure out what mattered and what didn't, what you'll always remember and what you'll be happy to forget. Just like the rest of your life, this closing is yours: write it yourself.

So there you are, graduates. Go out, kick down the doors, and make the world rue the day it ever questioned your greatness.

Class of 2008, I'll see you at the reunion.

Elizabeth Harbaugh
