SPIRIT OF '76 TO BE IN EVIDENCE JULY 4TH

Band Concert and Community Singing, With Patriotic Ceremonies

ITALIANS TO PARTICIPATE

A simple yet impressive program has been arranged for the observance of Fourth of July by the special committee of the Sons of the American Revolution working in conjunction with the D. A. R. The exercises will start at 10 a. m. by the raising of the flag in Mindowaskin Park, after which will be the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner." Then will follow the reading of the Declaration of Independence and the recitation of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," which is understood to be even more effective when recited than when sung. Immediately following will be the singing of patriotic songs and general community chorus singing. There will be a band concert by the Westfield Band from 10 to 12.

A number of distinctive features will mark this year's Fourth of July celebration—the chief one being the Italian celebration of the American Independence Day and the active participation of the Italians as a body with the town's observance in Mindowaskin Park. It has been arranged for the Italian parade to reach the Park in time to participate in the raising of the flag and the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

"Westfield should arouse itself," said one member of the General Fourth of July Committee, "to an appreciation of the full significance of the people of another nationality celebrating in a distinctive group of their own, our great national holiday. It is a tribute to our principles, our institutions and our great country which should not be passed unnoticed."

When our forefathers 145 years ago placed their signatures to the Declaration of Independence, they gave birth to a nation which should be bound together by a unity of purpose and ideals rather than of blood or language or by geographical lines. That purpose and those ideas were to give opportunity to everyone to secure happiness and the fullest development of his life. We ask no one to come to us who does not wish to do so, or who differs from us and we welcome all who believe as we do. An American is an American when he believes in American principles whether he be born in the U. S. A. or on foreign soil and he is an alien unless he believes in them even though his ancestors came over in the Mayflower.

America will be great and will prosper—not necessarily as our numbers grow but as we increase in the force and extent of our belief in the principles upon which it was founded.

Let us mobilize the Spirit of '76. It can bring order out of confusion and stabilize a world harassed with turmoil as certainly as it can turn back an army. It is this thought we wish to manifest itself on this Fourth of July and it is this thought which should cause us to give the fullest encouragement to the Italian Fourth of July celebration.

A dance for the benefit of the Italian Fourth of July celebration in North street, will be held next Saturday evening in the Westfield Theatre, which Manager Flagg has donated for the purpose. Music will be furnished by the Bellino Italian Band conducted by Professor Mannino.

NEW THEATRE COMPANY IS NOW ORGANIZED

Manager Flagg and Associates Incorporate—To Proceed at Once With Theatre

CAPITALIZED AT $200,000

The Westfield Amusement Company has been incorporated at Trenton, N. J., with a capitalization of $200,000, made up of shares of $100 each. Arthur S. Flagg is the resident agent, others interested in the company are C. M. Smith and Leonard Appley.

A great portion of the stock is to be subscribed and it is the desire of the company that many small applications for stock will be made, as the theatre will be for the good of the town at large. The theatre will be built suitable for the entire production of plays, operas, vaudeville and showing of films.

The surveying was completed yesterday and work has been commenced and application has been made to the Building Department of the town for a building permit. The contract for the work has been awarded to Isaac Hopper & Sons, one of the oldest, largest and best building firms in New York City. Reilly & Hall have revised the plans which are now complete and which embrace the additional land purchased from Harry Russell, which increases the size of the stage, and gives the theatre a seating capacity of 1,500.

Regarding the new proposed building of a theatre at the corner of Central avenue and Broad street, a letter received from the manager of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, dated June 17, 1921, says in part:

"Kindly be advised that the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation (Paramount Co.) or any of its subsidiaries, are not interested in any way whatsoever in any undertakings of Putnam & Jacobs. To be more explicit, our corporation knows nothing at all about any building to be done in Westfield, other than the one undertaken by Arthur S. Flagg and the company which he heads."

PHILADELPHIA POLICEMEN ARRESTED BY OFFICER

Efficient Officer Takes Five Colored Men and Auto to Headquarters

Policeman Brady, stopped a touring car in which were five colored men, in Broad street yesterday and took the outfit to police headquarters. Examination proved that four of the men were colored policemen from Philadelphia and each had his shield of office. The fifth was chauffeur for one of the policemen who owned the car and this man informed Chief of Police Rosecrans that he forgot to bring his car registration license with him. Chief Rosecrans decided that the colored men were all well meaning policemen on official duty and he allowed them to continue on their way home from a trip to New York.

WESTFIELD TREES AFFECTED BY SCALE

Control of the Cottony Maple Scale May Be Had by Syringing

The town forester, Overseer of the Parks Ewan, reports that a good many of the soft maple trees in Westfield and vicinity are affected by the cottony maple scale (Pulvinaria Innumerabilis). This scale is about one-quarter of an inch long, is of an oval shape and looks like cotton. Close examination will show what looks to be a bug at one end about the size of a bed-bug. If anybody notices this scale on their trees will syringe them with as strong a water pressure as possible, it will be found that a good many of them will be washed off and killer. Repeat this until trees are clean.

SILHOUETTE CONTEST WON BY MISS WILCOX

One hundred and fifty-two correct answers were handed in and several others guessed the silhouette to be that of Dr. R. R. Sinclair, Dr. J. B. Harrison and Walter J. Lee. The winner of the prize was Miss Lois Wilcox, of 424 Tremont avenue.

Graduation Class Motto

Every graduating class has its motto. Just a few words 'tis true, but these parting words burn into the heart of the graduate as the parting words of a fond mother burn into the heart of her boy as the home moorings are cut and he paddles his canoe out into the sea of life.

The class motto of 1921 was "AIM TO EXCEL." When we entered business this motto was nailed over our office door, where it is today. It has urged us to do today's job better than yesterday's. That is why it has been possible for us to place during the past 16 years on an average of nearly $300,000 in new insurance risks every year; that is why on an average of every three months for many years we drove a pick into the ground to give Westfield another new home; that is why we have transferred hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of real estate; that is why during the past 2 years this office has sold over 1/4 of a million of Westfield property.

THEATRE NOTES

Another play with an all-colored cast has moved onto Broadway at the Bijou Theatre. It is called "Goat Alley" and is a serious sociological study of the life and problems of the negro. It was written by Ernest Howard Culbertson and is being produced by the Sociological Bureau of the Medical Review of Reviews, which was responsible for "Damaged Goods," when it was given here. "Goat Alley" is the name given to the negro quarter and falls into the "problem play" category.

Belmont—"John Ferguson"
 "John Ferguson," the powerful domestic drama of St. John Ervine, who wrote "Jane Clegg" and "Mixed Marriages," has been revived at the Belmont Theatre on 48th street, near Broadway, by the Repertory Theatre, Incorporated, the first notable co-operative producing company formed by a group of well known players who have undertaken to conduct, as nearly as possible, a players playhouse, selecting this as their first effort.

One of the interesting features of this revival by the Repertory Theatre is the engagement of J. M. Kerrigan to play the role of James Cnesar, the physical coward. Mr. Kerrigan had the good fortune to play this role on the occasion of the first performance of this play at the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, where the author himself directed it. It was the first time it had ever been performed, and this will be the first time Mr. Kerrigan has played it in this country. Augustin Duncan, who created the title role in this country still plays John Ferguson, and Mary Hampton is the wife. Others are Harry MacCollum, Brandon Peters, Warner Richmond, Angela McCallill and others of the cast which has made this one of the artistic triumphs and treats of the season.

Geo. M. Cohan—"Two Little Girls in Blue"

"Two Little Girls in Blue" is an ideal summer show for it has most delightfully catchy music, an interesting sketchy plot and above all, the very enticing Fairbanks twins. Moreover, there is Olin Howland whose fun is always up to standard and Evelyn Law who dances particularly well and gracefully without any freak tricks to make her popular. And there is the chorus—that gold mass by which a musical show may stand or fall. In this case it stands very safely and solidly upon a foundation of especially pretty and attractive girls. The plot is a series of mix-ups—twins travelling as one passenger to save steamer fare. The resulting situation can be easily imagined and make all the fun. As the twins, the Fairbanks are pretty, bewitching, bewilderingly alike and all amusing.

Globe—"Ziegfeld Follies of 1921"

Departing from a time-honored custom (due to the exceeding popularity of the vivacious "Sally"), the Ziegfeld Follies of 1921 made their bow last night at the Globe Theatre. As usual the same expectancy and rushing for tickets weeks ahead marked the annual arrival. And many disappointed "first-nighters" were turned away. A great many old favorites reappear. The scenery as usual is the work of Joseph Urban. There is a Ben All Hazen tableau (as a matter of course) and a huge cast too numerous to mention fully but including Raymond Hitchcock as chief funmaker; Vera McHolena, Ray Dooley, Florence O'Donovan, Mary McBurn, Mary Eaton, Mary Lewis, Marie Astorva, Fanny Brice, the Darling twins, Germaine Abity and M. Tilio (newly imported and very wonderful dancers from Paris), and many, many others. There is the usual large corps of song writers and lyric makers who turn out "snappy" verses and tunes.

Sam H. Harris—"Sun-Kist"

"Sun-Kist," the bright little musical show from California, has been moved from the Globe to make room for the "Ziegfeld Follies of 1921" and has taken its place at the Sam H. Harris.

Hippodrome—"Twice Born Woman"

The gigantic Hippodrome has now been turned into what can probably truly be called "the largest picture palace in the world" or some other record-breaking title at any rate, when "Good Times" moved out of the "movies" moved in and will be ready for action tonight with a photoplay called "The Twice Born Woman." It is the love story of Mary Magdalen, produced by Malcolm Straus and starring Deyha Lott as the beautifully sinning Mary.

Kujekherbocker—"June Love"

"June Love" is another interesting summer show and a complete roller from the heavier more thoughtful offerings for which we look in winter. It has a freshness and brightness in its conversations and jokes that are most unexpected and novel in the typical musical comedy. The Rudolf Friml music is thoroughly delightful as is to be expected and Elsie Alder can most assuredly sing. She does it, too most simply and beautifully without any prima donna mannerisms or "give-me-the-center-of-the-stage" airs. She sings as if she loved it and therefore we love her in return. Next in our affections comes the whimsically gawky and funny Johnny Dookey who can go more trick dancing in ten minutes than most people do in an hour. And there are other attractions: very dainty and Irish Lois Josephine, vampish Berice Beaumont and W. B. Davidson with a very good voice which he uses effectively.

Lyric—"Queen of Sheba"

The great Fox feature film "The Queen of Sheba" will remain at the Lyric for almost another month, really (it) August 18, when it will be sent on its triumphant way to Chicago, Boston and other outlying cities.

Palace—Vaudeville

At the Palace John Steel, who first made a name for himself by sinking very well in the Ziegfeld Follies, is the headliner at the Palace. The two Dookeys (Wm. and Gordon) are with the Morin Sisters, Margaret Young as an added feature. Mr. Hymack, Signor Fykes, Mel Kloe, Adelaide Bell, Barram and Saxton and a return engagement of Harland Dixon and the London Palace Girls complete the program.

Strand Theatre, Plainfield.

There will be an unusual array of photoplays at the Strand this week. Today and tomorrow a big double feature program, Max Linder, one of the world's greatest comedians, will be seen in his latest fun riot, "Seven Years Bad Luck," and on the same bill Alice Lake in "Uncharted Seas." A big dramatic production full of heart throbs and suspense. Friday and Saturday, "Tom Mix, the dare-devil of the screen, in his latest and most thrilling picture, "A Riding Romeo," and Buster Keaton in "Convict 13." Monday and Tuesday, Douglas Fairbanks in "The Nut," has broken away from the traditional screen stories and has produced a roaring comedy which is entirely different, full of action, rich with surprises that pack a tremendous wallop, wholesome, delightful, extraordinary amusement. In addition there will be a two-part western drama, featuring Tom Santchi entitled "The Imposter," also the Strand Topical Review and a Bruce scenic completes the program. Our perfect typhoon system makes this theatre the coolest and best ventilated theatre in the city.

Strand Theatre, New York

"Sowing the Wind," which is the attraction at the Strand this week, and in which Anita Stewart emulates her recent marked disposition to step forward rapidly in the realm of the photoplay by departing from beaten paths. "Sowing the Wind" is an adaptation of Sydney Grundy's stage play of the same name. "The Skipper's Narrow Escape," a new "Tomerville Trolley" comedy, "Slipping the Pen," an interesting cartoon and the Strand Topical Review are other films which are being shown. The premiere of "Andromeda and the Storm King," an overture especially arranged and orchestrated for the Strand Symphony Orchestra is the musical treat of the week.

WESTFIELD "CUBS"

RETURN TO LIFE

The Westfield "Cubs" known to the baseball fans of 1910-1915, have been given a date on the schedule of the Wallberg Post, American Legion baseball team, the game will be played August 13th or 20th, and the following men are asked to get in readiness: Green, Douglas, Austin, Geo. Young, Washburn, Lambertson, Ortleib, Quilpp, Walsh, Pearsall, Himmelberger, Wahl, Hunt, Worth and Cruttenden.

TOO MANY SOMEBODYS

Mr. Hoover says that 4,300,000 workers are idle in Europe. In this country an even greater number are idle. Europe was prostrated by the great war, wrecked in body, soul and finances. America was financially benefited.

Why are so many people idle in this country when every man should be producing something? There is some excuse for idleness in Europe. There is no excuse here. The comparison is not flattering to our intelligence, but looking the truth in the face may do some good. Some one is gumming the works and throwing monkey wrenches into the machinery.

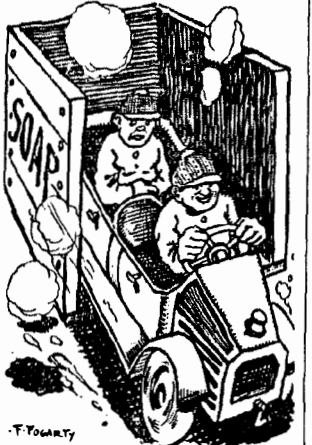

Too many somebodies, we fear.

LEGION COMES FROM BEHIND AND WINS

Local Post, With Pitcher Out for First Time, Nearly Lose by Wild Pitching

With a lead of four runs in the sixth inning the Johnston Post, 219, of Plainfield, went up in the air and lost a hard fought game to the Martin Wallberg Post, 3, by the score of 9-8. Both teams played hard ball and fought it out until the last man was retired. Cruttenden starting in the box for the Legion for his first game of the season, was wild and could not find the plate, with the result that he was in a hole at the very start of the game. He walked the first two men and then fanned one. Rocky's error of a fast drive allowed the first run to come over.

The Pitcher Was Driven From the Box.

Crutty then walked another visitor and filled the bases. Another run came over while Clark retired Burton, and when Opdyke muffed an easy fly in right, two more runs were chalked up. The visitors recorded one run in the third, fourth and fifth inning and were playing good ball. Crutty was relieved in the sixth by Capt. Van Doren, who held the visitors to five hits and one run. The Legion scored two runs in the fourth. Clark hit safely to center and was forced at second by Rocky. Keppler walked and Van Doren reached first when the catcher dropped the third strike.

Lounsberry, a new shortstop, then came through with a beautiful drive to center and Rocky and Keppler scored. Evans drove a high fly to center who made a beautiful throw home and retired Van Doren who tried to score after the catch. In the fifth two hits and a walk filled the bases for the Legion, but they could not score. The fireworks broke out in full display in the sixth and drove Clay, the opposing pitcher, from the box. Kep was out to short, Van Doren walked, stole second, Lounsberry was out to second, Nelson reached first and Van Doren third on an error. Crutty then drove a hot single to center and two runs came over. Opyke and Ehmling both hit and an error by Hurton allowed two more men to tumble over. Rocky grounded out to third. In the seventh the heavy barrage continued after Keppler struck out, Van Doren hit safely and rode home on a triple by Lounsberry. Crutty fanned but Nelson came through with a hit over short and Lounsberry counted. Nelson scored on two passed balls by Brown, ending the scoring of the day.

Next Saturday afternoon the Legion will play the Continentals, of Newark, at Recreation Park, at 3:30 o'clock sharp.

 Another victory hung up by the Legion boys. Standing of team to date: Won 5, lost 2, tied 1, percentage .714.

The visitors brought a lot of loyal rooters who kept up a lively chatter until the sixth inning, after that you couldn't make them talk. At the bat for the first time this year, Crutty lined the first ball pitched to him for a double. Crutty can still swing a mean stick.

Lounsberry, a new shortstop that the manager located, put up a beautiful game in short and did some great hitting. His triple in the seventh was a terrific drive and tied the score.

Mr. C. H. Van Doren has offered a ten dollar gold piece to the player who scores the most runs this season.

NO ILLUSIONS HERE

Admiral von Tirpitz, former head of the German navy, says that "Europe brought culture to American countries five hundred years ago, and it should now be a very proud task for America today to save European culture from inevitable destruction."

The admiral then naively adds: "It is only by pursuing such a course that she (America) can hope to have with her the sympathies of the world in the inevitable competition with the Japanese."

Reading between the lines, this would seem to be a sort of veiled threat that if the American people do not dig down into their money bags and hand over the yellow metal European countries will all go to the dogs and then sit idly by and watch the Japanese devour us at their leisure.

Von Tirpitz and other sophisticated gentlemen on the other side of the Atlantic should lose no sleep regarding our status in a possible war with Japan.

We have no illusions over here. If we are forced to defend ourselves against Japanese aggression we will have to fight alone. And we can do it, even if we are a peace loving nation.

Fear of Japanese reprisals would prevent aid from any country to the south of us, even if they were in a position to render such aid, which they are not.

Jealousy and a secret desire to see the great American giant crippled commercially would probably prevent any European country from raising a hand in our behalf.

As to the sympathy of the rest of the world, that is a matter that will neither concern us greatly or deter us a particle when the army of an invader approaches our shores—if one ever does.

Admiral von Tirpitz does not understand us any better today than he did in the days just preceding our entry into the late war.

In the matter of age we are an infant among the nations of the earth, but we are at least able to toddle alone and retain a firm grip upon our self respect.

We do not buy European sympathy with American gold.

Be Boss of Your Heater

You control a Boynton Square Pot Boiler or Furnace. You needn't coax it, for Square Pots are never balky.

A few minutes in morning and again at night does the trick, unless the cold is unusually severe. Then give one extra stoking.

The square firepot—a patented feature—is built like a locomotive firebox. Your fire is all live coal, without ash or clinker. Gratebars operate with an even motion under the whole firebed.

Temperature is steady, neither too low nor unbearably hot. Anytime you need more heat quickly, you have a clean bed of coals and perfect draft.

Any dealer will tell you the whole story. Or write us today.

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

8 Graduates Receive Diplomas—
Tablet to School Heroes of World War Presented

PRIZES FOR HONOR PUPILS

A large audience was present at the Commencement Exercises of the Class of 1921 at the High School last Thursday evening. The auditorium was beautifully decorated with flowers, and the thirty-eight graduates sat on the platform.

A very interesting program was offered, including an original essay by Miss Anna Crehore, a carefully thought out and well delivered speech by Miss Viola Becker, a pleasing piano solo by Miss Estelle Wilson and a double quartet accompanied by the High School Orchestra. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Chapin, of the Montclair Normal School, who gave a most interesting and up-to-date talk which held the attention of his hearers throughout.

The greatest and most impressive feature of the evening was the unveiling of the tablet containing the Honor Roll of those who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War. An impressive presentation speech was made by Commander Bruce Conroy, of the American Legion, while the court of service men stood at attention. The tablet was unveiled by Miss Margaret Wallberg, sister of Martin Wallberg, and Mrs. Stewart Pasch, a sister of Raymond Tice, both of whose brothers' names appear on the tablet. The tablet was accepted for the school by President Coulter, of the Board of Education. The Legion also presented five flags which are to cover the schools of the town next year and at the end of the year are to be presented to the first honor pupil of each school.

The prize offered by the Westfield Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution for the best historical essay on the subject "Reasons for the American Revolution," was awarded to J. Tennent Taylor, of the Junior Class. The prize in the William H. Orr Public Speaking Contest was awarded to Ann Revere, her subject being "Socialism an American Doctrine." The scholarship offered by the College Woman's Club was awarded to Helen Grace Schaefer. The flag which was presented to the school by the National Security League with the understanding that at the end of the school year was to be given to the first honor pupil was awarded to Miss Viola Becker. Mr. Wick, who presented the prize in giving the flag to Miss Becker said that this would be the first flag that the Security League could give but that the Daughters of the American Revolution had decided to take it up and continue the custom.

"ACTI LABORES INCUNDI"
To you, the Class of 1921, we, the teachers would speak. Whatever we say may seem to be but a repetition of what has already been said. Nevertheless we are no less sincere in our wishing you happiness and success, than are those who have spoken before, nor do we regret less the fact that you have left us.

THE JUNIOR HOP

Last Friday night the Juniors held their reception to the Seniors in the Washington School auditorium. The hall was well filled, almost half those attending being guests of the members of the Junior and Senior classes. The music, which was supplied by an orchestra from New York was lively and full of pep. Ice cream, cake and punch were served to the dancers.

WELLESLEY ALUMNAE REACH GOAL IN FUND

Mme. Curie, Famous French Scientist, Receives Scholastic Honors

For the first time in its history Wellesley College conferred an honorary degree at its forty-sixth Commencement on Monday, June 20. Mme. Curie, the distinguished French scientist, added another to her already long list of scholastic honors when she received in person at the hands of President Ellen Fitz Pendleton, the degree of Doctor of Science in the presence of a record-breaking audience of returning Alumnae, the graduating class and many visitors.

Gutzon Borglum, of New York, the famous sculptor, was the orator of the day, and took for his subject, "Self-mastery the Key to Service."

Three hundred and thirty-five girls received degrees, including 8 from Wellesley's Graduate School of Hygiene, and 12 candidates for the Master's degree.

The Commencement marked the date set for the completion of Wellesley's "Emergency Collection" of $2,700,000, for the increasing of professors' salaries.

Among those receiving degrees were 32 New Jersey girls, including Frieda Halstead, of Westfield.

MUSICAL ENJOYED

A very pleasing musical was given last week by the piano pupils of Miss Matilday G. High and the violin pupils of Miss Norma S. Lewis, assisted by Miss Helen Glaubis. A delightful feature was a piano quartette played by the Misses Florence Mundy, Mildred Bartleman, Doris Cole and Doris King. Those who took part in the recital were Dorothy Finken, Donald High, Cary Davis, Houghton Birdsall, Helen I. Whitcomb, Catharine Mundy, Elizabeth Gerhart, Betty Siebenmorgen, Gordon C. Griswold, Elizabeth M. Rule, Betty G. Thayer, George H. Thayer, Mary W. Rule, Allen G. Griswold, Karin Gerletson, Edith Gearle, Ruth Duffy, Arnold Cruttenben, Marjion Anthony, Marion Thompson, Eugene Gerhart, Marguerite Anthony, Junior Welch, Jack Rineckhoff and Sarah Meyers.

FATHERS' AUXILIARY ENTERTAIN POST

J. T. Brady, With His Card Tricks, the Feature of the Evening

A very enjoyable evening was witnessed by many of the members of Martin Wallberg Post, American Legion, Thursday evening at the Legion rooms. The Fathers' Auxiliary had prepared an interesting and enjoyable program, consisting of sleight-of-hand tricks by J. T. Brady, who sprung several new ones in cards, on the boys in his inimitable and wonderful way, mystifying the old fellows who in the past had seen many prestidigitators, but none to equal his performance in this line. Fred Doerrrer gave a recitation, followed by a song. The poem being one that Mr. Doerrrer had composed while returning home from France; piano and violin selections by Mr. Smith and Mr. Sell, and baritone solos by Mr. Cooper. The Post Jazz orchestra furnished music. Plenty of eats and smokes were enjoyed by all.

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS

Thursday night a regular meeting of Clark-Hyall Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was held, at which four delegates, William Wallace, George Keppler, Cyrus Moffet and Amos Allen, were chosen to represent the local post at the State Convention, to be held in Jersey City Saturday. The next meeting will be an entertainment, with music and refreshments. There are nearly eighty members now and the post is continually growing.

SECRETS WILL OUT

A new use has been found for ether, and the criminal element of our population is not pleased. In time their uneasiness may develop into a panic.

It has been demonstrated by practical experiment that a small amount of ether administered to a person—an amount sufficient to place him under its influence and yet leaving him unconscious—will cause that person to respond readily to any question, to babble his inmost secrets.

Just what effect information secured in this manner will have in law is unknown, as its admissibility is yet to be ascertained. But the fact remains that this opens up a possible way of detecting crime and of solving many of the mysteries that now baffle the police of the country.

Then, too, if employed in ferretting out violations of the prohibition law there is no limit to the consternation it may create. It may even cause half of the population of the United States to decamp for parts unknown.

Mrs. A. B. Rowland favored with several vocal solos and Albert McEwen rendered several violin solos, with Miss Jeannette Perkins as accompanist.

A GREAT LOSS TO MOUNTAINSIDE

When A. G. Batchelder, Executive Chairman of the American Automobile Association, fell to his death in the tragic airplane accident recently, he left behind him, as his last work for better highways, a letter addressed to all motor club officials telling them that national highway legislation was in its final stage in Congress and asking them to give their support to the Townsend measure as the one containing all of the principles so long fought for by the A. A. A.

Mr. Batchelder did not live to sign the letter, but when acting President David Jameson read it, he sent it to all clubs.

"No one man did as much for better highways in this country as Mr. Batchelder," said the new President of the A. A. A. "There is nothing we could do which would build a greater monument to his memory than to urge the creation of a Federal highway commission and the concentration of Federal funds first on primary interstate highways. As a matter of sound economics and as a safeguard for the transportation of the future, the nation needs such a highway policy as that which Senator Townsend has placed before Congress."

The "New York Times" writes as above. In Mountainside, Mr. Batchelder had planned a road across the mountain to connect Westfield with Summit. Near Peckham's tower he had constructed two very handsome houses. He was planning to bring in telephones and electric lights and to have his friends build handsome homes.

SEWING CIRCLE

ELECTS OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the Willow Grove Sewing Circle last week the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. W. W. Slasserson; vice-president, Mrs. Evans; secretary, Miss Anna Scudder; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Currin; chairman of directors, Mrs. James S. Purdy. The Circle has a membership of fifty-one. As it was the birthday of the president, Mrs. Slasserson, she was presented with a handsome silk umbrella and a bouquet of roses.

PLAINFIELD FURRIER HAS

COLD STORAGE PLANT

Plainfield is constantly stepping forward in the progress of its business interests. Charles Kurtzman, the furrier, of 146 East Front street, has installed a cold storage refrigerator plant in his rapidly growing establishment that is the only fur storing plant of its kind with the exception of one other in the state.

Mr. Kurtzman found the necessity of adding this feature to his business, because of the fast growing demand for the service from his established trade. It is already well patronized by Mr. Kurtzman's regular customers and so many show great gratitude in having such wonderful facilities for the storage of furs so convenient. A special invitation is extended Mr. Kurtzman's Westfield patrons to visit this interesting feature of his institution, where in addition, repairing is done while the furs are not in use on the premises.

LAST YEAR'S CHAMPIONS REPEAT

H. C. Tremaine and Helen McAuslan Triumph in Tennis Club Singles

Ideal weather over the week-end greeted the semi-finalists and finalists in the men's and women's club championship singles of the Westfield Tennis Club.

In the semi-finals of the women's matches, Miss Hazel Gardner defeated Mrs. McAneay, last year's runner up, in straight sets, 6-2, 7-5; while Miss Helen McAuslan, club champion in 1920, won from Miss Estelle Sexton, also in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1.

In the men's semi-finals H. C. Tremaine, present holder of the championship, triumphed over G. L. Delatour, Jr., by the score of 6-2, 6-4; and Donald Pearsall, last year's runner up, in two hard-fought sets replete with many a brilliant rally, eliminated Frank Embleton, 6-4, 6-3.

The finals, therefore, brought together Miss Gardner and Miss McAuslan for the women, and H. C. Tremaine and D. Pearsall for the men.

The result of these matches returned the two present champions as winners for 1921, Miss McAuslan winning from Miss Gardner, 6-0, 6-2. Miss McAuslan played a very brilliant game while the playing of her opponent, Miss Gardner, was not as steady or forcible as is usually the case.

H. C. Tremaine was generally favored to defeat D. Pearsall and this match ran true to form, Tremaine winning in straight sets, 6-2, 6-0, 7-5. This match was an exhibition of fast tennis and the struggle was much closer than the score indicates. Silver cups were presented to both the winners and runners up, and H. C. Tremaine also received the Club Championship Cup, which he has now won twice—another victory and it will become his permanent property.

The club now numbers close to 175. With this as a nucleus, and the club house rapidly nearing completion, Westfield will shortly be represented by a tennis club equipped to offer as attractive facilities to prominent out of town players as any club in New Jersey.

WESTFIELD RUNNER TO COMPLETE IN NATIONAL

Captain-elect Harold Ray, of town and Herbert Meyer, Rutgers College star sprinter and hurdler, left on Sunday as members of the New York Athletic Club team to compete in the National track and field championships to be held at Paddock Field, Pasadena, Cal., July 2, 4 and 5.

Ray will start in the 440-yard dash, along with Stevenson, of Princeton, who will be the other winged-foot representative. The Scarlet runner is the best quarter-miler that Rutgers has ever turned out. He holds the college record of 49 4-5 seconds, but he has been clocked at better time in practice.

Meyer will run his specialty, the 220-yard low hurdles, in the championships, but in several of the dual meets he will probably also start in the high hurdles.

VETERAN CHURCH MEMBERS AT METHODIST SOCIAL

Two Present Who Joined First Church Over 50 Years Ago

The church reunion and social which was held in the chapel of the First M. E. Church on Friday evening last was notable for the presence of a number of the veteran members or "old timers," who enjoyed the program equally with those who had but recently become members.

There were two women present who had the distinction of having joined the church over 50 years ago and who have held their membership continuously ever since. These were Mrs. Edgar Pearsall, of Ferris place, who joined the church 52 years ago in 1869, and Mrs. Mary I. Welch, of Westfield avenue, who became a member in May, 1871, or a little over 50 years ago. Her husband, William Welch, now dead, joined that same year. Miss Ella Ferris, who was the organist of the church for 25 years, joined 47 years ago. There were a number of others who could lay claim to having been on the church rolls for 25 years or more, and they were present and were given seats of honor with the half century veterans.

All those present received a card which bore stripes indicating the number of years they had been in the church. The oldest in point of membership had in addition a star for each twenty-five years.

George C. Lucas, chairman of the Social Committee, was in charge of the program and Ralph Martin led the singing of some of the old familiar war songs and humorous pieces. Miss May Cover gave a couple of humorous recitations and Mr. Freeman, a new member, sang two pleasing solos.

A feature of the evening which somewhat marred the enjoyment of the occasion was the rather cold reception given to a new family which applied for membership in the church. This family consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McCarren, from the New York Avenue Church, Brooklyn, and a number of little and big McCarrens.

They were very talkative and "bossy" from the moment they entered and when introduced the head of the family and several of the members started in to make a little too critical examination into the benefits of membership in the church and Sunday School and they seemed rather disdainful when the explanations were given. When Miss Ferris, representing the Ladies' Aid Society, told the McCarrens that it was their money the church wanted quite as much as their presence and co-operation, the newcomers seemed quite upset, so much so that there was a sharp exchange of words and finally on motion of a membership of the Official Board, it was voted unanimously to reject the application of the McCarrens and they left the room in high dudgeon. Indeed, Mrs. McCarren, who was heavily veiled throughout the period of their brief but fruitless attempt to break into Westfield church society, is said to have left in a fit of angry weeping. She resides on Kimball avenue, but expects to return to Brooklyn.

Some people in the audience said they believed the McCarrens were members of the church in disguise, but they were such a rough looking set and so impudent that it is scarcely possible that any Westfield church folk would act so unbecomingly as the McCarrens and great satisfaction was expressed over the summary action of the official board in ejecting them. The pastor, Mr. Wright, endorsed the action of the board and hinted that the police ought to have been called in.

Refreshments were served and before going home the entire church company joined hands and sang a verse of "Blessed Be the Tie that Binds."

THE U. S. NAVAL ACADEMY

UNCLE SAM'S great training school for the development of the gent who are to guide the destinies of the American navy was founded in the year 1846. It is located at Annapolis, the quaint little capital city of the state of Maryland, which, to this day, retains a distinctly English flavor—on a tract of land where formerly stood Fort Severn, which connects it with the Chesapeake bay, is both a fitting and an advantageous one.

When the Civil war broke out a change of location was considered advisable and the academy was moved to Newport, R. I. In 1865 it was moved back to Annapolis.

Since 1868 most of the buildings have either been enlarged or reconstructed and many new ones have been built. Today this academy is considered the best-equipped and handsomest naval institution of learning in the entire world.

The present course, much of which is usually spent at sea, requires four years to complete. After graduation a midshipman is commissioned an ensign in the navy and assigned to regular service.

"AMERICA—First, Last and All the Time—A M E R I C A."

No investigation of conditions surrounding any es- Home Building, sential industry has attracted more wide-spread attention for a generation than that which has been delving into the building trades in New York State. Details dealing with every feature of those trades have been presented to the public and legislation that will remedy some of the evils may reasonably be expected to follow.

The inquest has made much progress and while some of the conditions that have been shown to exist in New York State may not be universal it will be interesting and valuable to find out how prevalent they are. Building operations in New Jersey are not extensive enough to meet the demand for homes.

If conditions such as prevail in New York are cramping operations in this State these conditions must be improved. The fault must be located and full responsibility placed wherever it may belong.

Service men throughout the country who have been What About watching the progress of bonus legislation at Washington are beginning to wonder what will be the fate of the bills that have been introduced. At present it seems likely Congress will provide a bonus bill but there is some doubt if provision will be made for funds to meet the payment authorized under its terms.

There always has been a strong belief that advocacy of a bonus for service men was a vote getting plank and any loophole that would make the bonus unavailable would be welcome by the politicians in this day of heavy taxes. The majority of the service men have demanded a bonus and subterfuges to avoid its payment are likely to be promptly exposed.

If Congress acts in good faith it will meet the situation fairly and openly and not make any attempt to camouflage.

Abundant fruit crops and the low price of sugar once Household more make it possible Economies to fill the home storerooms with preserves and jellies and give a heavy blow to the high cost of living. The wise housewife has been busy and the stock of dainties for the winter is accumulating rapidly.

The preserving season brings work now, but it also insures comfort and reduced expenses later in the year. The price of canned goods is lower than for several years, but the supply that the housekeeper points out with pride and satisfaction is that which was produced in the home kitchen. The lesson taught by the war garden and the improved methods of preserving fruits and vegetables have been of great value and it is unlikely that they will be entirely forgotten in this generation.

Conditions surrounding legislation at Washington are The Restless not encouraging to Public. business men and there is much impatience manifested over the delays that continue. There is no disposition to criticise or question the good faith of those in charge of the legislative program but the public is anxious for the performance of a constructive plan.

Business, big and little, is restricted until something definite is done and there is no doubt that industry is going to go slow until the problem of taxation is settled. The views and desires of the President have been expressed and the responsibility for further development must be placed squarely on the shoulders of Congress.

A party that was able to control the enthusiastic support of an overwhelming majority of the voters should be able to put in effect its election pledges. The vote that gave the Republican party its complete control of all branches of the government was a vote of confidence and the party in power must prove itself worthy of the trust that was reposed in it.

It is gratifying to note that the spirit of harmony Among many among the the Veterans. men who have served their country in the various wars is greater than it ever has been and through this co-operation the object for which all of these organizations were created will be more readily attained. The great object of all veterans societies is the teaching of loyalty to the nation and the welfare of the men who have borne arms in the wars in which the nation has been engaged.

The work that was inaugurated by the G. A. R. cannot be permitted and in realization of this the survivors of the Spanish-American Legion was organized. zation along similar lines and at the end of the World War the American Legion was organized. In principle and in conception the founders of these organizations were inspired by the same broad and noble idea.

In order to broaden the activities of these organizations there are numerous societies made up of men who served in various of the units or served under varying conditions but in principle and in real purpose their object is to maintain the friendship that came about while the men were in the service as well as to aid in the preservation of the truth of history and to insure at all times full protection of all the well earned rights of the men who have been honorably discharged from the armies of the United States.

Westfield has reason to be proud of its veterans' organizations and they are making themselves of material benefit to the community through their social and athletic activities and in all that they have done they have been building up an American spirit that is absolutely essential in the life of the nation.

COMMUNICATED The Leader, Westfield, N. J. Gentlemen:—No doubt you have noticed through exchanges that the churches are becoming aroused to the necessity of advertising, if they would offset the competition of automobiles and various other forms of Sunday amusement. His Satanic majesty is always awake and full of enterprise, and to keep ahead of him, they are realizing that they must present their own attractions more effectively than heretofore.

However backward the ministers may be in their views concerning it, church advertising is the most legitimate means which they can adopt for furthering their work. E. C. POTTER.

Westfield, N. J., June 20, 1921. Editor, Westfield Leader.

Dear Sir:—Would you kindly put the following item in your paper. The Firemen of Westfield request the residents of this town to kindly fill out post cards mailed them in regards to insurance. In so doing, you will help them to get tax which is due them from all premiums, which is used to care for any member or their family whom may need help. If we do not get this tax direct, it is divided among the 335 Associations in this State. Send them in promptly and help your Firemen to take care of their needy and men injured while doing fire duty. Yours very truly, PETER E. KOECHLEIN.

AS THE EDITOR SEES IT

Stop and think! The country is beginning to emerge from one of the severest cases of business depression it has experienced in years—a period of factories running on half time, with many of them closed; construction work at a standstill; strikes tying up what little industry was left; retailers selling half of their normal quantity; five million people out of employment.

Yet with all of these handicaps there has been no whisper of a financial panic, such as have caused widespread disaster in former years.

Does this indicate that the day of panics for this country is over? It would seem so.

No matter how much we may differ in our political beliefs, or what party may be in power, the fact remains that the American people have an abiding faith in the stability of their government.

They know that it is as sound as the Rock of Gibraltar.

They know that while we may have our periodical depressions in business—as we will always have at intervals—the stability of the government precludes any possibility of destructive panics.

Therefore, we have no panics. This is the U. S. A.

Stop and think! There are probably more aliens in this country than in any other country on the face of the earth.

Our laws are more lax and there is greater opportunity for conspiring against the government than there is in any other country.

The punishment we mete out to such conspirators (when we punish them at all) is probably more lenient than that to be found in any other country.

And yet it is a fact that there is less internal unrest in this country than in any other. There is less undermining of the established order of government. There is less dissatisfaction of every nature.

And why? We have no kings or nobility, no hunded aristocracy of ancient lineage, no class distinctions such as they have in the old world.

We are a democratic people, our rulers are elected by vote of the people, and they govern for the benefit of the people.

There is no other government quite such as ours. There is no other government as fair to all classes of people as ours. There is no other government as generous and as humanitarian as ours.

Aliens who come to our shores make many times the money they made in the lands from whence they came. They are free agents and have no masters. They are men, and not serfs.

They have brains enough to see the advantages of such a government as ours. They have too many brains to seek to destroy the source from which their increased sustenance comes.

In all lands there are a few wild and rabid fools who seek the destruction of government simply because it is government—to sever their own noses for no other reason than that noses are a part of the human anatomy.

They are fewer, and less wild, and less rabid in this country than in any other.

When you hear an isolated idiotic nincompoop railing against this country just ask him how he would like to be forcibly sent back to the place from whence he came?

He will have no answer ready for you. There is none to be made.

We see and read of many queer things in this modern world. Some are amusing, some border on the foolish, while others are downright idiotic. But that is modernity.

Statistics recently made public show that there are sixty-seven men in the United States with an annual income of more than a million dollars. It is too much. They can not possibly use it, and they are not likely to give away any considerable amount of it. What the government does not take in taxation simply adds more millions to their pile, thereby reducing the amount in circulation among the less fortunate.

On general principles a man has a right to all the money he can honestly earn, but there should be a limit beyond which no man can go.

If the government would set a reasonable sum as the limit to the size of fortunes and their incomes, and take possession of everything beyond that limit, there would be an end to the accumulation of the wealth of the country in the hands of a few to the detriment of the many.

The principal prop of bolshevism would be knocked from under its feet, and justice, right and harmony would be more in evidence than the growing unrest that is now so prevalent.

We are approaching perilously near to a state of financial feudalism, and feudalism is the enemy of a republican form of government.

Apparently a certain young Venus concluded she was not attracting the desired admiration from the male sex. It was unthinkable. Something had to be done—and she did it.

She donned a very scanty bathing suit, skin tight. On one bare leg, midway between the knee and the thigh, she painted a picture of a parrot. Then she posed on the bathing beaches, gloried in the vulgar stares of the men, and promptly had her picture taken. Of course it is in print.

The prestige of Westfield is due to the character and standing of its financial institutions, in a larger measure than the public, generally appreciates.

The combined resources of the banks of Westfield are more than $600 for every man, woman and child in the Town.

Very few cities and towns in New Jersey approach this per capita wealth; still fewer exceed it.

Money deposited elsewhere contributes nothing to Westfield's pre-eminence.

News of Troop "D"

N. J. N. C.

SERGEANT HOBSON

MISSES A DRILL

One night, early last week, Sergeant Hobson called up Lieut. Strouse and said he was going to be absent from drill on Wednesday night, as his best girl was being married on Tuesday. Lieut. Strouse could not see how a wedding on Tuesday would interfere with drill on Wednesday night until Hobson said that he was going to be the groom. Congrats from all of us, Chris!

There are people in this world who are always criticizing, but their motives are as different as day is from night. Some of these people—in fact a great many—criticize because it is their nature. Others do it because it is necessary to accomplish whatever they set out to do. Praise helps along a lot, but the spur that urges us on to greater effort is criticism given with the purpose of benefiting those who are criticized. Continued criticism, without any other object that to relieve someone's mind, has the same effect the constantly flicking of a whip on a horse. After a while, it will mean nothing at all.

In the thirteen months of its existence, Troop "D" has made a wonderful stride. On Decoration Day, when we made our first appearance as a Troop, there was a great deal of praise. We made a good impression on the town, and we want the town to keep that impression. However, we are not by any means beyond criticism. Those who are in charge of the Troop can find things that are not right and they will try to set them right. It is not because they are fault-finders, but because they have right from the very bottom, the best interests of the Troop at heart.

In five weeks, we will go to camp. Last summer we made a great reputation, and the Governor had words of praise for us. This year, we want to make an even better reputation, but we have some work ahead to do this. For one thing, appearances are going to count for a whole lot, and now is the time to get busy and fix up the uniforms. Take a good look at your shoes. If they are run down at the heels, or the soles need fixing, get them fixed up. Are your leggings in good shape? And how about your blouses and breeches? Do they fit right? If not, take them to your tailor and have him fix them. Have you hat cords and chin straps? If not, get them. If the supply sergeant has not got them, buy them. Look like a real soldier, and you will find it much easier to act like one.

The Army Committee has been holding regular meetings and has practically arranged for the purchase of the site. All that remains to be done now is to get the State Legislature to appropriate the money for the building.

Major Ross' Riding Academy has a rival now. It is the Westfield Riding School, located on Mountain avenue, next to the old cemetery.

We have lost one of the Urban twins, Brock, who has been given his discharge, as he has gone to Rochester, N. Y. There is one consolation, that is, we will know to which one we are talking now.

Wouldn't it be great—
If we did not have to clean the horses?

If we could wear leather puttees all the time?

If they didn't have any parades at camp?

If we could all be officers?

If the non-coms had to go on K. P.?

Mrs. Ryan, of Broad street, entertained a few friends at Bridge Thursday afternoon. Those present were Mrs. Rutledge Tomlin, Mrs. John Gage, Mrs. Gordon Brownell, Mrs. Frank Blackburn, Mrs. Reginald Meeks, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Wm. Kelly and Mrs. Nolan. Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Nolan won the prizes.

When the Lord created the earth he gave to man the means of protecting himself against all of the things that walk or crawl thereon—except the profligate. He slipped a cog there.

When a fellow gets rich quickly he generally tries to forget his old time friends just as suddenly. But it isn't their loss.

"THE GOOSE THAT LAID THE GOLDEN EGG"

"The Goose That Laid the Golden Egg" is the first of "Aesop's Film Fables" to be shown on the screen. Fables Pictures, Inc., the producers of this cartoon feature, drawn by Paul Terry, chose this story to inaugurate the release of the series through Pathe as it is one of the most famous Aesop volumes.

With his skillful pen guided by a keen sense of humor, Cartoonist Paul Terry has drawn what is conceded to be the best examples of animated drawings ever shown on the screen.

The Fable
In "The Goose That Laid the Golden Egg," the familiar story of the farmer's greed for gold is related. The goose supplies golden eggs in abundance and is the envy of all the other creatures of the barn yard. The farmer rejoices over his prize. But, his wife contends that it would be much more advantageous to secure all the gold at once. So, after due persuasion on the part of his better half the agriculturist kills the goose. Alas, when he cuts it open he finds nothing but the usual interior of a barn yard fowl. Sadly grieved, the couple again find themselves in moderate means.
"Failure is the reward of greed" is the moral of this film fable. Paul Terry's comic treatment of the theme drives home the lesson in rapid-laugh fashion. The unusual popularity of Aesop's Fables down through the ages to this very minute attests to their entertainment appeal.

WHY NOT BETTER ROADS?

Men who served in the American army in France tell us of the wonderful roads they found over there.

They were eye openers which did more than merely open eyes. They caused our returned soldiers to think, and talk, and make comparisons that are not flattering to our own country. France, Belgium, Germany, Luxembourg, all of these countries had perfect hard surfaced roads until the engines of war destroyed them in spots. No mud, no ruts or holes, no discomfort of any kind.

America is a Croesus in wealth compared with any of these countries, yet our traveled highways are a perpetual disgrace to our intelligence.

We spend billions and billions in useless governmental, state and personal extravagance, but are not sufficiently far sighted to place our public thoroughfares in even third-rate condition.

We have the wealth, the materials and the labor necessary to make our roads the best in the world, but apparently we are too parsimonious or indifferent to interest ourselves in this necessary work.

If we lay down a few isolated miles of concrete or macadam we are satisfied, and let it go at that.

We simply can't bring ourselves to the point of energetic road construction.

Rich in all other ways, we seem to be destitute of the one essential that is more vital to our common good than any other.

Foreigners coming to this country marvel at our slackness in this respect. They can not understand how we can be satisfied with sloshing around in the mud as we do. They wonder that we are able to climb out of the ruts and find our way back to our homes again.

There is no excuse for this condition, but the fault lies with the citizen as much as with the public official. As a rule, officialdom supplies only what citizenry demands.

As spring opens hundreds of thousands of men should be at work on the public roads of this country. But they are not. There is much talk, more grumbling, unlimited inactivity, and then forgetfulness in the joys of the latest sensation.

Such is the reputation we have earned in road construction.

What's the matter with us, anyway?

Captain of the Good Ship Mary Smith Maneuvers to Hold His Post, as Well as That of Mates Who Were About to Be Discharged by Victimized Owner

(Copyright by the Adams Newspaper Service, New York.)

"an' keep it from causin' Mrs. Simpkins pain."

"We certainly would," said the mate, smiling.

"Of course it's just a joke I thought of," the captain continued; "it would never happen."

"Impossible," agreed the mate. The cook shifted uneasily.

"You've a good berth here, cook," said the skipper; "we've all good berths."

"Yes, sir," said the dazed cook.

"An' tomorrow we go—every one," continued the captain.

A smile began its slow way across the cook's face.

"Mebbe," he said.

"Well, who can tell?" assented the skipper—"who can predict the future? That's all, cook; I thought it was a good joke, an' I thought o' you. You like good jokes."

"Yes, sir," said the cook; "thank you, sir."

"Don't mention it," replied the skipper, graciously. "I think we'll all get to Greenport about five in the morning. Good-night, cook."

"Good-night, sir," answered the smiling cook.

The captain nudged the mate, and the mate nudged the captain. In unison they knocked their pipes against the rail, and arm in arm marched to their enforced bunks forward.

The skipper awakened to the pleasant news that the cook had disappeared. "Went ashore early," was the refrain of the sleepy sailor man at the wheel.

"Well, never mind, probably he'll come back," returned the skipper, with unexpected cheerfulness; "an' now we better all help with the breakfast."

Mr. Simpkins appeared for this meal in no happy mood. He complained of the night noises on the river, and threatened awful things to anyone who disturbed his wife's early morning sleep. The captain's delicate suggestion that he enjoy to the utmost the brief respite from that lady's endearing care, he received with the scorn it deserved.

Soon after the morning meal the captain's anxious eyes discovered a lady, rather decidedly dressed, conversing with the waterman and pointing toward the Mary Smith. When she entered the skiff he called Mr. Simpkins to the rail.

"Rather pretty girl, that," he said with secret malevolence.

"I never pay any attention to such things," returned the other sourly.

The captain leaned closer, and nodded toward the companion-way. "Not even when she's asleep?" he asked.

"You can never be sure," said Simpkins sadly. Then recollecting himself, he added: "How dare you talk to me like that?"

"I believe the girl's coming here," ventured the skipper.

"One of your friends, probably," suggested Mr. Simpkins; "wants to say how sorry she is you've lost your ship."

"Never saw her before," said the captain, "an' as for bein' one o' my friends, it's impossible. She'd be just as likely to be a friend o' yours."

The waterman made quick time with his fair cargo, and as he came up alongside the Mary Smith the mate appeared and gallantly helped the young lady aboard. She made straight for the spot where the captain and Mr. Simpkins stood. The former was inwardly rejoicing at thought of the fall awaiting his foe, when he noticed, to his dismay, that the girl was headed in his direction. He attempted a deft side-step, but she caught his hands in hers and smiled sweetly into his eyes.

"How sweet to see you once more," said the cook's poorly coached friend, in dulcet tones; "they said you had left me forever; but I knew better. Seein' you brings back all the good times we had together."

"The girl's crazy," muttered the unprepared captain.

"Very likely," sneered Mr. Simpkins; "that's your proper line, all right. And you a married man, too. I don't remember encountering such depravity before. How lucky I found you out in time."

"Where have you been all these weeks?" inquired the girl; "I almost cried my eyes out waitin' for you."

The captain endeavored, by wink and gesture, to acquaint the young lady of her mistake, but his efforts were in vain.

"The shows you took me to," murmured the fair one; "and the pretty locket you gave me on my birthday. Remember?"

"Never saw you before," declared the skipper.

"Liar," growled Mr. Simpkins.

The captain launched a suddenly conceived plan.

"Well, I don't know as I'll deny it any longer," he said. "I did know you, an' I thought a heap of you. An' I was good to you. Captain Roberts is not a man to skimp money on the girl he likes."

He paused a moment for the fact of his identity to sink in, and after a study of the girl's quickly changing face, he gave an almost imperceptible nod toward Mr. Simpkins. For the first time the girl looked fairly at that gentleman, and then gave a little scream and would have fallen had not the captain, inwardly applauding her acting, caught her in his arms.

"What's the matter?" he inquired.

"Fancy seeing him here," said the girl, "after all these years. I was so pleased to see you, I hadn't noticed him before. You won't mind there bein' another, captain—one who came before I met you?"

"Not at all," said the skipper heartily, "especially if it's this gentleman."

"It is," said the fair one smiling wilyly; "it was a few years ago. We met—and loved. Oh, Simpkins! Simpkins!"

"The girl's crazy!" cried the dismayed Mr. Simpkins.

"Of course," put in the skipper; "that's your line. You married, too; an' to such a nice lady. I'm surprised an' shocked."

"He kept putting off the wedding day," muttered the girl.

"Naturally," said the captain.

"What do you mean by that?" asked the irate Simpkins.

"Why—didn't you keep putting it off?" inquired the captain. "Oh, come on, Simpy, an' confess, like I did. We've all been a little careless at one time or another. An' we'll think the better of you, I'm sure, if you admit it like a man."

"See here," said Mr. Simpkins, "this is all a lie. I never saw the girl before."

"Oh, well," answered the aggrieved skipper, "if it pleases you to stick to it, all right. Only I thought if you admitted it we might be able to fix things so your wife wouldn't hear of it, that's all."

"I say it's a lie," reiterated Mr. Simpkins.

"Lie or not," replied the captain, "your wife don't strike me as a woman that'll ask. She'll hear the story, an' then the storm'll begin."

Mr. Simpkins considered nervously.

"I—I don't want you to get the impression that I'm admitting this thing," he stammered; "but—well on the whole, I think it would be best if my wife were not to be troubled with the story."

"I'll see what I can do," said the skipper; "Nelle likes me, don't you, my dear?"

"Of course," said Nelle, sweetly.

"An' you'd hate to see me lose my ship?"

"Oh, there's no danger of that, is there?" cried the girl.

"Well, I don't know," said the skipper; "there was some talk of it at one time." He and the girl walked forward together in conference. "You overdid it a little, especially at first," he remarked.

"It was Henry's fault," she answered; "he told me the best-looking man, and of course I thought it was you."

The captain smothered a remark about the cook under a smile for his fair flatterer.

"I'd never a-done it," said the girl, "only me and Henry are engaged, and I couldn't see him lose his berth."

"You're a good actress, an' you'll make cook a fine wife," remarked the skipper, himself wondering where the connection was. "I wish you much happiness."

He returned to the excited Mr. Simpkins.

"Good news, Simpy," he said; "she's willing to let bygones be bygones. Though I must say you treated her shameful. Let this be a lesson to you."

"See here," said the regally purple Mr. Simpkins, "I'm not admitting that this is true. It's only a story—"

The captain winked knowingly, and pointed to the departing girl, who was waving Mr. Simpkins a touching farewell. As the waterman's skiff drew away from the Mary Smith, the large and aggressive person of Mrs. Simpkins appeared above deck.

"Elijah, who is that woman?" she inquired shrilly.

Elijah could only mutter, but the skipper stepped bravely forward.

"A young friend of mine," he said, "whom's been payin' me a little visit."

"My love," remarked Mrs. Simpkins, "I like these men less and less the more I see of them. I'm extremely glad we are to be rid of them at once."

Mr. Simpkins cleared his throat. He felt all eyes upon him.

"There has been a slight change, Maria," he said; "I have decided to give the whole crew another trial."

"Nonsense," said the lady, sharply; "they're villains, everyone. Get rid of them at once."

"Maria," returned Mr. Simpkins, making the stand of his life, "this is my ship. We are not at home now. Here I am going to run things to suit myself." A muffled cheer from the crew, hidden variously about the deck, disconcerted him. "I've promised them another chance," he finished; "an' another chance they're going to get."

"You're a fool, Elijah," snarled Mrs. Simpkins.

"Yes, maybe I am," agreed her husband meekly.

"I'm going back to London by rail this minute," she continued, "and so are you. Come below and help me pack."

As Mr. Simpkins hastened to obey, the captain handed him a small slip of paper.

"What's this?" the Mary Smith owner asked.

"It's a little matter," said the skipper; "but it might as well be settled now as later. Just a small bill of two pound ten for food and clothing used by a fellow that didn't ship."

CUTTLEFISH FULL OF TRICKS

Denizen of the Deep That Has Distinct Commercial Value—is Adept at Camouflage.

Under the skin of the back of the cuttlefish, or the squid, as this relative of the devilfish is also known, is a bone (its substitute for a skeleton), which affords to caged birds a suitable substance to sharpen their beaks upon. Oddly enough, no American species of squid furnishes a satisfactory cuttlebone. These bones come from China or from the Mediterranean.

Cuttlebone ground to powder is an important ingredient of dentifrices. The "ink" thrown out by the animal to cloud the water when trying to escape furnishes the "sepia" of commerce, being dried and pressed into cakes. It enters also into the composition of "India ink."

The cuttlefish has a beak of its own, parrotlike, sharp and powerful. It is remarkable to see these mollusks dashing right and left through a school of young mackerel, biting a triangular piece out of the neck of each fish and killing at every snap by severing the spinal cord. They are frightfully greedy creatures and will devour their own kind with avidity.

The mackerel, when grown, take their turn at gobbling the cuttles. Indeed, all carnivorous animals that dwell in the sea feed largely upon squids. Even the whales devour them by myriads.

The chameleon, famous for changing its coat colors, is an amateur at camouflage compared with the squid, which automatically and instantly alters its hues as it passes over one kind of bottom or another, so as to match the background and obtain a relative invisibility.

Dropping to the sandy bottom, it assumes the color of sand. Among rocks it adopts the hue thereof. Swimming in the water after prey it is almost transparent.

The Uintah Railway terminates at Watson, Utah. Between Watson and Vernal stretches 60 miles of arid desert.

Watson and Vernal is entirely unpaved, across an arid desert, with no habitation save three freight huts," writes Vice-President Robinson of the railway.

And yet the public suffers no inconvenience in traveling between these two towns, because the Uintah Railway maintains an unflinching passenger service with two Buick cars.

"In summer the temperature ranges as high as 110°; in winter as low as zero, with the road often covered with 12 inches of snow. The two Buicks have never been off this route—are operating there today."

Present lines of new Buick six-cylinder models will be carried thru the 1922 season. Beginning June 1st the new series and prices will be as follows, f. o. b. factories, Flint, Michigan.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

ONE OF LEGION'S FOUNDERS

Col. Milton Foreman's Connection Dates Back to the Original Paris Caucus.

Col. Milton J. Foreman, national executive committeeman of the Illinois department of the American Legion, is a Chicago lawyer, who for many years has been active in public and military affairs. His connection with the Legion dates back to the original Paris caucus at which time the idea of forming a Legion was conceived. At that meeting he was named chairman of the temporary executive committee. Returning to the United States, he was elected commander of the Illinois department. In 11 months the membership in Illinois increased from 19,000 to more than 60,000, and the number of posts from 220 to 682.

While serving with the First Illinois cavalry, in 1894, Mr. Foreman acquired an active interest in military affairs. He served with that organization during the Spanish-American war and rose to the rank of captain. After the war Mr. Foreman began the practice of law in Chicago, and became major in the First cavalry. In 1914 he was promoted to lieutenant colonel, and two years later commissioned colonel of the regiment. He was in command of that organization during the border troubles.

With the outbreak of the World war, Colonel Foreman requested the transfer of his regiment to field artillery, which was effected in June, 1917. Colonel Foreman took the regiment to France in 1917 and commanded it throughout the war. He received three citations for gallantry and was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for achievements in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives.

While not in the military service, Mr. Foreman practiced law in Chicago and took an active interest in public affairs throughout the state. In 1899 he was elected to the Chicago city council and served six consecutive terms. He was chairman of the Chicago charter convention whose work has become a model for planners of new city charters.

HIKE TO NATIONAL CAPITAL

Plan Suggested by Kansas Committeeman to Tell Lawmakers What Legion Men Need.

"Join the army and walk around the world!" Do you remember that slogan?

Do you boys whose weary feet ate up the kilometers on the other side and the miles on this side so paraphrased the advertising of the recruiting service during the war. But walking won the war. "Let's keep it up," urges W. F. Kurtz, Kansas national executive committeeman of the American Legion. "Let's walk to Washington and tell them what the Legion wants for its disabled and for its whole membership."

According to Mr. Kurtz' plan, delegates from each state department of the Legion would hike overland to the nation's capitol, arranging their schedules so as to meet on the White House steps on the same day. However, he would permit representatives from the other side of the Rockies to ride the cushions across to this side.

Legion posts along the way would feed and shelter the hikers. "I'll lead the way, and outwalk anyone in the Legion," the Kansas pedestrian declares.

C. O. D.

An old ducky visited a doctor and received instructions as to what he should do. Shaking his head, he was about to leave the office, when the doctor called out:

"Hey, there, uncle, you forgot to pay me."

"Pay you for what?"

"For my advice."

"Nossuh, boss, I've complimented it from all angles and decided not to take it."—American Legion Weekly.

Second Hand.

"I want two sheets of fly paper," said the lady entering the corner general store.

The none-too-brilliant clerk extracted two sheets from the window.

"Ten cents," he said.

"How embarrassing! I've only a nickel with me."

"Aw, I s'pose you can have the two for five cents," he grumbled. "They're half full of flies already."—American Legion Weekly.

LEGION MEN HIT BY RULING

National Judge Advocate Decides Organization Officer Ineligible If Holding Public Office.

A decision of far-reaching importance as affecting the participation in politics of men holding office in the American Legion has just been handed down by Robert A. Adams, national judge advocate of the Legion, in response to an inquiry from the Inter-Post Council of Los Angeles, Cal.

At its annual election held in December a Los Angeles post elected Channing Follette as commander for 1921. A short time afterwards Follette was appointed justice of the peace by the board of supervisors of Los Angeles county.

The question arose whether, in view of the fact that Follette had been appointed to an office which, in its nature, except in the matter of filling vacancies, is an elective, salaried public office, he was eligible to serve as an officer of the Legion.

In his official ruling, the national judge advocate says:

"This being a salaried, elective public office, it is my opinion that the method of filling a vacancy is not essential in determining the eligibility of a Legionaire holding such office. The office is elective, although the case with which we deal is that of an appointment.

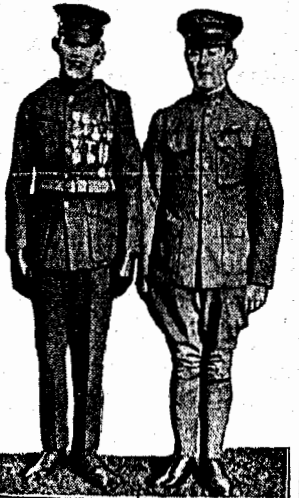

"The purpose of the constitutional provision is, of course, to prevent, so far as possible, the use by a member of the Legion of his Legion membership in furthering a political career. Consequently, the effect of an appointment is in no wise dissimilar from an election, and it is my opinion that the incumbent is, by the acceptance of his office, rendered ineligible for the office of the American Legion."

It is believed that many Legion members, appointed to political offices will be affected by this ruling.

TWO HEROES AS HONOR GUARD

Distinguished Illinois Buddies Deputed to Save National Commander on Inspection Trip.

When F. W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, inspected Illinois posts, he was provided with an honor guard of two heroes of the World war, who have received 16 medals and citations for bravery between them.

Left—Sergt. Jack Riley, M. C. of Chicago, is Illinois' most decorated war hero. He wears the Congressional Medal of Honor, French Military Medal, Croix de Guerre with palm and star, D. S. C., Navy Cross, Belgian War Cross, Victory Medal with five battle clasps and four citation stars.

Right—Robert Waterhouse, a veteran of the 88rd Division of Chicago, holder of the Distinguished Service Cross, British Distinguished Service Order, Croix de Guerre and Belgian War Cross.

GOVERNOR NEFF AIDS LEGION

Chief Executive of Texas Urges All Eligibles to Become Members of the Organization.

Governor Pat Neff of Texas has recognized the importance of the American Legion's effort to extend its influence in that state by giving an unqualified endorsement of the membership campaign now under way.

"Officials of the department of Texas, American Legion, the organization which stands as a living perpetuation of the spirit of the American soldier during the World war, are now making an especial effort to draw more ex-service men into their ranks," said Governor Neff.

"The record set by the men who form the department of Texas, during that period preceding November 11, 1918, and the principles advocated by these men since they have welded themselves into the American Legion," he continued, "leads me to suggest that the public would be serving its own ends, as well as those of the American Legion, by lending active support to the membership campaign the latter has launched. The former service man who has not affiliated with the American Legion should need no one to point out the advantage to be derived by him and his country through his support of this organization; but in the rush of modern life, some things are overlooked and those who have not the privilege of eligibility for the American Legion may aid by calling this to the attention of their acquaintances who have been in the service."

Andrew Johnson.

Mrs. Eliza McCordie Johnson.

had shocked Charles Sumner into starting a whispered discussion of his enforced resignation. When he became president his intemperance in speech lent color to exaggerated reports of his intemperance in drink.

For two years before Lincoln died, the radical leaders had been insisting that congress, not the president, should fix the terms of peace for the southern states. They had angrily denounced him as a despot, an autocrat and a usurper, because of his policy of reconstruction. And congress had persistently refused to admit the senators and representatives from the states which he had reconstructed on his liberal plan.

Apart from the Republican politicians and a mere faction of extremists, the north was in favor of Lincoln's moderate policies. But when it became a question between Johnson and the radicals, the radicals won overwhelmingly in the congressional election of 1866.

With a two-thirds majority in the new house and senate, the Republicans overrode the president's vetoes, and congress took command of the government. The reconstructed states were outlawed. The south was divided into military provinces. The ballot was thrust into the unskillful hand of the freedmen, notwithstanding it was still denied the negro in all but six states of the north. At the same time a large class of Southern whites was disfranchised for disloyalty in the war, which left several states to pass under the corrupt government of northern "carpet baggers" and southern "scalawags," who gained power by manipulating the ignorant black vote and who held it by force of federal bayonets.

As northern "fire eaters" pressed to the front, on one side of the Mason and Dixon line, southern "fire eaters" took the lead on the other side. By night the Ku Klux Klan rode their sable horses in a campaign of terrorism to frighten the blacks from using the ballot.

Party and sectional politics, north and south, still was the marplot of the Union. As it had fostered disunion before the war, it was doing its worst to prevent reunion, now that the war was over.

were specified and the misdemeanors that were alleged, consisted almost wholly of the president's attempts to remove Stanton without the consent of the senate.

This most important trial in American history began on March 5, 1868, with the senate chamber crowded and Chief Justice Chase of the Supreme court in the chair.

There was a general expectation that the senate would convict, no matter how flimsy the case, and crowds of eager partisans flocked to Washington to enjoy the spectacle of a White House eviction—to see "Andy walk the plank." Senator Ben Wade of Ohio was confident to the last that he would be called on, as president of the senate, to take Johnson's place. His inaugural is said to have been written and his cabinet selected, with General Butler of Massachusetts for secretary of state.

As the roll of the senate was called, amid a hushed suspense, the Republican senators all voted for conviction, until the chief justice asked, "Mr. Senator Fessenden, how say you? Is the respondent, Andrew Johnson, president of the United States, guilty or not guilty of a high misdemeanor as charged in this article?"

"Not guilty," answered the distinguished senator from Maine, who had been in Lincoln's cabinet. The party alignment was broken and it was again broken in another moment by Senator Grimes of Iowa, who had been stricken with paralysis under the strain of the trial, but who managed to struggle to his feet when his name was called. Trumbull of Illinois, an old friend of Lincoln, was another man of ability and distinction among the seven Republican senators who broke away and joined the Democrats. Yet there were thirty-five votes for conviction against only nineteen for acquittal, just one less than the two-thirds necessary to convict.

By a single vote the unique independence of the American presidency, which makes it the most eminent and powerful political office in the world, was saved. Had congress triumphed, the first long step would have been taken toward congressional government on the pattern of the parliamentary governments of Europe.

And if you have meat, and it is not of the best, the relish is not there. The quality of the meat you eat is more important than the quantity. We serve the BEST. PAIGE'S RESTAURANT 63 Elm Street
