TOWN DEMOCRATS AT ROOSEVELT SEA GIRT RALLY

Two Cars Of Special Filled With Adherents At Repeal Demonstration

LEADERS DISCUSS PLANS

Union County's Total Estimated At 2,000 Of 100,000 Crowd Present

The big drive of the New Jersey Democratic leaders to carry the state for Roosevelt and Garner was inaugurated Saturday at Governor Moore's summer capital, Sea Girt. It was ably seconded by Union County and all Northern New Jersey's democracy, with Westfield and adjacent towns fully represented in the gathering, estimated at a total of 100,000.

Westfield's contingent was headed by James Donnelly, campaign chairman; Ray E. Mayham, Union County's candidate for State Senator and Leo J. Burnes, mayoralty candidate. Clark Township sent a goodly representation and Jerome Kaplan, Democratic leader from Summit, was on hand with a big following, the whole filling two cars of the 14-car special which picked up its first contingent at Plainfield. From the latter center came a host of Congressman Percy Stewart's supporters who put "Stewart for U. S. Senator" pasters on scores of the windows in the long train. Mrs. A. A. Ackerman, who is prominent among the women Democrats of Westfield, was everywhere greeting the voters and she will be an active campaigner when the fight begins to get lively.

There were many women in the throng and quite a few colored voters from Westfield and Summit. All those aboard the train were supplied with handsome silk badges bearing in large letters "Union County Roosevelt Day." At the bottom of the badge was suspended a small button bearing the photo of the Governor. Campaign buttons with "For Repeal, Roosevelt — Stewart," were distributed, reminding all that the day was set aside especially to press the argument for the repeal of the 18th Amendment.

Mr. Donnelly and Ray E. Mayham estimated that Union County's representation at Sea Girt was about 2000. The train picked up many Democrats at Garwood, Cranford, Roselle Park and other stops. Every seat was occupied, with people standing up in several of the cars. Owing to the scores of trains coming from Bayonne, Newark, Jersey City and Elizabeth, the congestion increased beyond Elizabeth and there were numerous delays so that it was almost 2 o'clock before the Plainfield special arrived at Sea Girt. The slow pace was taken advantage of by the Elizabeth and Westfield leaders aboard who conferred over the organization for work in the county. Chairman Donnelly and Mr. Mayham secured pledges that prominent speakers will visit Westfield and other towns when the active campaign begins. Both Mr. Donnelly and Mr. Mayham seemed to be against starting active work too early but before October opens things will begin to hum, they say.

The day was ideal for the rally. When the train arrived at Sea Girt a brisk breeze was blowing inshore, tempering the heat. Westfield's contingent and the other visitors from Union County obtained good points of vantage in the vast assemblage which gathered before the speaker's stand erected on the rear veranda of Governor Moore's summer home.

Congressman Stewart was among the speakers who addressed the throng preliminary to Governor Roosevelt's speech. The Westfield Democrats were greatly heartened by the size of the multitude and the spirit of enthusiasm shown and they spoke especially of the vigor and "pep" displayed by Governor Roosevelt during the delivery of his address.

The Plainfield special left Sea Girt at 6:30 p. m. and passed through a severe thunder storm which began when the train reached South Amboy and obligingly ceased just before the train arrived at Westfield at 9 p. m.

CORRECTION

It was incorrectly stated in the column "The World This Week," last Wednesday that Senator James J. Davis, under indictment with others following investigation of lotteries allegedly conducted by three fraternal orders, was the Democratic nominee for President in 1924. John W. Davis was the nominee in that year. Senator James J. Davis was Secretary of Labor in the cabinets of Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. The "Leader" regrets the error.

CENTRAL COUNCIL TO MARK ANNIVERSARY

Fraternal Order Has Arranged Program For Observance Of Event

Central Council, 131, Junior Order of American Mechanics, will observe its fortieth anniversary at its meeting Friday night in the Legion building and plans for this event are being worked out by a committee consisting of Percy G. DeLong, William Penhale and George A. Clark.

Invitations have been sent out to councils of the order in various parts of the state and the state officers are expected to be present. E. A. Canfield of Chatham, who was instrumental in organizing the local council, has also been invited to be a guest at the anniversary.

September 2, 1892 was a gala occasion for the inhabitants of the then small town of Westfield. On this date a council of the Jr. O. U. A. M. was to be instituted. Early in the evening delegations of the order began to arrive and by the time the festivities were about to start several hundred Juniors were on hand to lend their support and give the baby council a rousing start and to encourage the growth of the organization.

The various units formed a parade and with plenty of music furnished by several bands and under the glare of torches and red fire the procession moved along the principal streets and in course of time returned to Etta Hall on the corner of East Broad street and Prospect street, the building now occupied by the Mutual Grocery store. The lodge room was located on the third floor while the second floor was used as a hall in which dances and other forms of entertainment were held.

Fifty men were initiated and various other ceremonies incident to the institution of a lodge were carried out. Of the fifty charter members only seven are still members of the council, the others having died or dropped from membership. They are: George A. Clark, George E. Beaman, Edwin S. Hall, Edward C. Winter, Alfred R. Woidt, J. Herbert Pearsall and S. Warren Clark.

At the present time the council has a membership of 79. With the development of moving pictures, automobiles, radio and the other things that go to make up modern life it is difficult to attract members to any organization but throughout the years Central Council has maintained a normal growth. The present officers are: Councilor, Willian Penhale; vice councilor, Fred K. Winter; recording secretary, Percy G. DeLong; financial secretary, Floyd Schroppe; treasurer, George A. Clark; junior past councilor, Martin Vincensen; warden, L. J. Balco; conductor, William F. Howarth, Sr.; chaplain, T. M. Wells; inside sentinel, Charles Rothrock; outside sentinel, O. A. Howarth.

EXHIBIT PROJECT OF WESTFIELD STUDENTS

Work Of Senior High School Pupils Shown In New York

An American history project entitled "Writing the Last Chapter of History," executed by Senior High School students in Miss Pike's classes is one of the outstanding features of an exhibit of school work arranged by the "New York Times" for those interested in modern education.

The newspaper has arranged the exhibit as one of modern educational methods as applied to newspaper reading. It has collected, from the leading modern schools all over the United States, striking notebooks, themes and charts prepared by pupils for class work and home assignments in all subjects—with the use of the newspaper as a reference and as a source of information.

The project worked out by Miss Pike's pupils has been very favorably commented on by visiting educators who are ever on the alert for proects which will not only hold the interest of the student during their execution but will train them to tackle and solve their own everyday problems by a self acquired perspective which is logical and applicable.

From the material sent in by Miss Pike to the "New York Times," essays and scrapbooks by the following students were selected and are now on exhibition on the seventh floor of the "Times" annex: Henry Cadwell, Ole Peterson, Violet Thompson, Marjorie Penhale, Calvert Egerton, Russell Bandomer, Ruth Tipping, Lois West, Kathryn Kirn, Hazel O'Donnell, Charles Register, Hemler Vervoort, Ruth Wright, Mary Salisbury, Loretta Fritz, Ruth Pruss, Muriel Staiger, Louise Pospisil, Lorraine Ayers, William Schroll, Virginia Taylor, Betty Seally, Alfred Budde.

BOARD ASKS FOR PARTIAL PAYMENT OF SEWER FUNDS

Joint Meeting Authorizes Call For 25% Of Appropriated Amount

A requisition for 25 per cent of the amount to be raised through the ordinances and supplemental contract was authorized by members of the Rahway Valley Joint Meeting at its meeting Thursday night in its offices, 37 Elm street. The total amount which the member-municipalities will appropriate for the completion of the Rahway Valley Trunk Sewer and its disposal plant is $900,000. The requisition calls for the payment of $225,000 on or before October 1. An estimate of outstanding bills places the amount at $225,000 and these, with the exception of the ones in the hands of the arbitration board will be paid, it was said.

The bonding attorneys advised that the full amount could be raised from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, but that it would be proper for the municipalities to obtain the money from local banks, if possible. Mayor Frederick S. Tipson of Westfield, stated that this was a good time to sell bonds and that prices never would be lower for materials.

J. Wesley Gavitt of Clyde Potts' office stated that the specifications for a disposal plant are in the hands of the printer and will be ready within one week. He added that the Joint Meeting can proceed with the construction work. Mr. Gavitt called attention to a blockage in a Rahway cath basin which had reesulted in sewage backing into the cellars.

The bonding attorneys advised that the supplemental contract could be proceeded with for completion of the sewer by payment of old bills and the construction of the disposal plant at Woodbridge as the passage of the enabling ordinances by the nine municipalities made financing possible.

A communication was received from Hendrickson & Hendrickson, attorneys for John C. Guise, Inc., contractors on section 1, stating that the Joint Meeting had certified that an account due October 16, 1931 would be paid but as yet payment has not been made. The attorneys requested a copy of the minutes. The Joint Meeting stated that it had no objection to the examination of the minute books and Mr. Hendrickson was at liberty to make such examination any time he chose. A bill presented by C. H. Winans for $3,160.20 was ordered paid. The statement of the treasurer as of October 1, 1931, was asked to be brought up to date in order that the exact amount due in outstanding bills might be determined.

The next meeting of the Joint Meeting will be held on Thursday, September 22.

CAMP WATCHUNG CLOSES 5TH SEASON

250 Boy Scouts In This Area Attended During Summer

Camp Watchung, the official Boy Scout camp of the Watchung area council, closed its fifth consecutive season of camping on the new site near Glen Gardner on Sunday afternoon, after seven weeks of successful work in the open.

More than 250 scouts of the Watchung area council were enrolled at one time or another during the season and enjoyed the program of swimming, scoutcraft, and nature lore offered under the leadership of Scout Executive Myron Geddes and his staff of assistants.

During the season 495 scout tests were passed and 61 camp emblems were awarded to as many campers. The season was notable this year for the number of first year campers who were in attendance and each week there was a large turn-over in the enrollment.

The high point of the last week of camp was the Indian ceremonial council fire held last Saturday evening at which time the embers of the fire, significant of the spirit of Camp Watchung, were given to the representatives of the four winds for safe keeping until another year. At the closing ceremonial Chief White Eagle A. V. Searing, chairman of the camp committee, extended his congratulations and appreciation to Mr. Geddes and the staff for the work they had accomplished.

Present on the closing days of camp was Philip S. Carr, Jr., who is also on the camp committee and was the first camp director of the camp on its present site. Mr. Carr was present at the Olympic games in California this summer and was able to tell the scouts some of the interesting experiences which he enjoyed there.

Vice-Chancellor Leaves Case Involving Westfield To Department

(Special to The Leader)

TRENTON, Aug. 31.—Vice Chancellor John H. Backes yesterday left to the discretion of the State Board of Health the application of the City of Westfield to connect with the Rahway Valley Trunk Sewer.

Harry P. Croft, engineer of the State board, claimed the present system of disposing of sewage by Westfield into an overloaded sawage disposal plant and the Robinson branch of the Rahway River constituted a "gross nuisance". Fred C. Hyer, city counsel of Rahway, agreed to the connection temporarily, as an aid to Rahway.

Mayor Clyde Potts of Morristown, engineer, and Frank Dobbins, counsel, for the Rahway Valley Joint Meeting, respectively, suggested that it might be advisable to withhold approval of the application until Westfield contracted to aid in the erection of a joint sewage disposal plant and the completion of the sewer, to take care of all sewage of Rahway Valley municipalities, but that otherwise they had no objections.

"I'll let the State Department of Health do as it sees fit and relieve the court of responsibility," ruled Vice Chancellor Backes.

DECLARES BUSINESS HAS TURNED CORNER

This country has definitely "turned the corner" and the general trend of business is in an upward direction, W. F. Schmidt of the Brookmeier's Service, New York, told members of the Rotary Club of Westfield in a talk given yesterday at the luncheon meeting of the club held in the YMCA. Mr. Schmidt gave an optimistic view of the present economic situation as he discussed the topic "Are Our Troubles Over."

The speaker was frank to admit that business troubles were not entirely over but he pointed out several significant facts that led business men to feel much encouraged as to the future. The marked increase in commodity and security prices should not be taken lightly, the speaker said.

Mr. Schmidt said that the economic situation could be compared to an earthquake, followed by a fire, and the period of reconstruction. The country has experienced the former two and is beginning the work of the latter, he declared.

In a three minute discussion, Geo. W. Frutchey declared that the home, the church and the state are the three organizations to which the people in general should give their wholehearted support at all times, especially now.

WILL CONCLUDE SUMMER SERIES OF BAND CONCERTS

Westfield Band Will Present Season's Final Program Friday Night

The Westfield Band will present the final concert of the summer series Friday night in Mindowaskin Park under the direction of William N. Bartow. This concert has been added to take the place of one postponed several weeks ago when a heavy shower interrupted the program.

Mr. Bartow has arranged another feature in which two members of the band will participate. Messrs. George Clauss, flutist and John Weizing, French horn player, will present the "Serenade" by Titl as a duet. The band will also play "Solid Men to the Front," a march by the late John Phillip Sousa and the overture, "The Beautiful Galatea" by von Suppe. In response to a request, Mr. Bartow has included "The Blue Danube" waltz, by Strauss. The first half of the concert will close with Excerpts from "Bohemian Girl" arranged by Balfe.

The concert will be resumed with the playing of the Grand March, "Coronation" from "The Prophet" by Meyerbeer. Two numbers in lighter vein will follow, "Sweet Jasmine" by Bendix and Dvorak's "Humoresque" another reequest. A descriptive number, "The Cavalry Charge" by Luders and the Mosaic from the "Fortune Teller" by Victor Herbert will follow in the order named. The band will also play the March, "Marine Corps Institute," composed by Capt. Taylor Bronson, leader of the U. S. Marine Band. The 1932 concert series will be brought to a close by the playing of "Auld Lang Syne."

The playing of "The Post Horn," a polka composed by Moore, by Geo. Starch and Richard Farrow, cornetists of the band, featured the concert last Friday night. The selection, which is considered technical by musicians, was played in a most creditable manner by the pair. A large audience was on hand to hear the program and the efforts of the band were warmly received.

79 High School Graduates Seek Further Knowledge In Colleges

Will Enter Forty-Seven Institutions In Various Parts Of Country

Seventy-nine members of the Senior class which was graduated from Westfield High School in June have announced their intention to attend universities and colleges, according to figures given out from the office of Principal Frank N. Neubauer. This brings the total number of W. H. S. graduates attending college up to 214. There were 179 pupils graduated in June and the fact that 44 per cent of the class has been accepted by higher institutions of learning is most gratifying to school officials.

Figures from Mr. Neubauer's office also indicate that the graduates will enter forty-seven different colleges. This is the largest number of pupils to enter college from any graduating class of the local High School and the list of colleges chosen covers a wider range.

In addition to those about to enter college this fall, there are 135 local graduates already enrolled in higher institutions of learning. Of the class of '31, there were 54 pupils enrolled in 35 colleges; 41 members of the class of '30 entered 27 colleges and of the class of '29, 40 pupils are attending 24 colleges.

The thorough training which pupils receive in the local schools is reflected in the fact that colleges throughout the length and breadth of this country accept local graduates gladly. Westfield collegians have maintained the high standard of their High School education in whatever college they have enrolled and usually when a college gives out its list of honor pupils the names of local young men and women are right up among the leaders. It has been estimated that failures of Westfield High School graduates in college are less than one-half of one per cent.

A survey of colleges which local graduates will enter this year shows that four girls have selected Beaver College. Three young women will be members of the freshmen class at Smith while two will enter Wheaton and two others, Sweet Briar. Two boys and two girls have enrolled in Syracuse University.

Four young men have chosen Cornell University as their alma mater while Colgate and Duke University claim three each. The names of graduates and the colleges they will attend this fall follows:

Eleanore Alexander, Bennington College; Robert Armstrong, Syracuse University; D'Arcy Atwater, Sweet Briar; William Babcock, New Jersey State Teachers College, (Newark); Russell Bandomer, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Harriet Barr, Wheaton College; Helen Becker, Rollins College; William Boyd, St. Johns College; George Brownel, Cornell; Maria Cabanellas, Smith; Dorothy Chiovarou, State Teachers College (Montclair); Dorothy Cogan, Goucher; William Collins, Rutgers; George Cook, New York University; Donald Cross, Duke University; Beryl Curry, State Teachers College (Glassboro).

In the Grammar School it is anticipated that the enrollment will be increased by about 60 with a total of 365 pupils. Two extra teachers have been added to the teaching staff making the total number of teachers nineteen.

GOV. MOORE CUTS NINE FROM STATE PAYROLL

Dismissal Said To Be First Step In Economy Drive

(Special to The Leader)

TRENTON, Aug. 31.—Meeting a show down called by State Senator Emerson L. Richards to practice economy, Governor Moore has separated nine assistant attorney generals from the State pay roll, thus providing a saving of $53,000. All of the assistant attorney generals were Republicans who were appointed during the Larson administration. With one fell swoop, the Governor in letters to State Comptroller John McCutcheon, State Treasurer Albert C. Middleton, Motor Vehicle Commissioner Harold G. Hoffman, Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chairman of the State Highway Commission, Col. William H. Kelly, commissioner of Banking and Insurance, and Attorney General William A. Stevens, gave notice of the cuts.

Those cut off the State pay roll and their assignments were:

Andrew L. McDonough, Plainfield, salary $6,000, Banking and Insurance Department; J. Raymond Tiffany, Hoboken, $5,000, Department of Commerce and Navigation; George Eichler, Hoboken, $6,000, Motor Vehicle Department; Stephen J. Lorenz, Newark, Department of Commerce and Navigation, Benjamin Spitz, Paterson, $5,000, State Police; Col. Geo. Vickers, Jersey City, $10,000; Benjamin S. Scovel, Camden, $6,000; Wilton T. Applegate, Perth Amboy, $5,000, and Benjamin C. VanTine, Long Branch, $5,000, all members of the legal staff of the State Highway Commission.

In informing Attorney General Stevens of the dismissal of the nine assistant attorneys, Governor Moore said that he was convinced that Asitant Attorney General Richard Stockton could handle the litigations of these departments.

The announcement of the Governor was received as a shock by numerous State officials. The Governor also announced that he is not through

Local Observers, However, Hope For Clearing Skies By Afternoon

WILL BEGIN AT 3:23 P. M.

Scientists Chief Interest Will Be In Study Of Corona

Residents of Westfield and vicinity will cast their glances skyward this afternoon to observe one of the strange phenomena of the universe, the total eclipse of the sun. The moon will begin its transition across the sun's path at 2:04 (E. S. T.) and the shadow, some 6,000 miles long and 100 miles wide, will originate north of Siberia at what will be sunrise in that part of the world. This giant shadow will sweep southward across Canada, Hudson Bay, James Bay, Quebec, a portion of Vermont, New Hampshire, southern Maine, Massachusetts and will end in mid-ocean about 4:02 p. m. (E. S. T.).

New Jersey will be within the partial eclipse area and approximately 94 per cent of the eclipse may be seen here. To local watchers the moon will make its first contact with the sun at 3:23 (D. S. T.) and the eclipse will be at its maximum at 4:34 p. m., obscuring all but a tiny crescent of the sun and creating wierd lights along the outer rim of the moon. That is, all this will be seen if the clouds, which at this writing, cover the sky, disperse by afternoon.

Scientific expeditions will observe the eclipse in portions of Vermont and New Hampshire, for it is there that the corona, which attracts the interest of scientists, will be seen at its best. The corona will not be visible here but residents of this section will probably see crescent images of the sun dance under trees on the ground and as the moon moves across the great solar disc the crescent will be broken up into dazzling drops of light. For a brief instant the moon will appear to stand still between the earth and the sun. The earth will appear to undergo a change; the landscape will turn to deep red, fading to shades of orange; trees will lose their brilliant hues and appear leaden and the faces of human beings will appear livid. The giant shadow, traveling at the rate of 1,000 miles per hour will diminish, the sun will once more appear and its brilliant rays will once more obscure the stars that were visible for a short space of time. The 94 per cent eclipse seen here will last but 100 seconds. At 5:30 p. m. the moon will have completed its journey across the face of the sun and the universe will go on in its unerring way as though nothing had happened.

One person in this vicinity will watch the phenomenon with more than passing interest. William Mogey of North Plainfield, who has observed the stars for more than a half century and who is a maker of telescopes, has established an observatory in the Watchung Mountains. He has set up a large telescope, he has prepared charts and everything is in readiness to observe the eclipse, the last to be seen in this section of the country for 31 years. His three sons and a small party of friends will be with him. Mr. Mogey and his friends are particularly interested in the shadow bands, flickering bands of light at the outer rim of the moon, which may be seen here.

His advice to those wishing to see the dramatic spectacle of the comparatively small moon blotting out the immense sun is to secure a smoked glass or a photographic negative plate or film to observe through. Scientists are anxious to determine what effect, if any, the eclipse will have on radio.

"Man" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "Now, O Lord, thou art our father; we are the clay, and thou our potter; and we all are the work of thy hand" (Isaiah 64:8).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded. I have raised him up in righteousness, and I will direct all his ways" (Isaiah 45:12, 13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Immortal man was and is God's image or idea, even the infinite expression of infinite Mind, and immortal man is coexistent and coeternal with that Mind. He has been forever in the eternal Mind, God; but infinite Mind can never be in man, but is reflected by man" (p. 336).

HOLY TRINITY CATHOLIC CHURCH
Rev. H. J. Watterson, Rector.
Masses—7:15, 8:15, 9:15, 10:30 A. M.
Holy Days—6, 7, 8, 9, A. M.

Catholics believe that all are bound to belong to the Church, and he who knows the Church to be the true Church, and willfully remains out of it cannot be saved. While believing this in regard to the Church, they are not to be judges of their fellow-men in regard to salvation, which finally depends on their interior disposition known only by God and by themselves.

That as Jesus Christ is God, He can do all things, and particularly that He can forgive sins and that He can change the substance of bread and wine into the substance of His body and blood; that He has given this power to certain men; viz., to the priesthood of the Church.

That all the doctrines of the Church are contained in the revelation of God; that this revelation is found in the unwritten and written word of God or in tradition and scripture; that tradition finds its infallible expression in the teaching Church; that both are of equal value in as far as they transmit the divine revelation-scripture, because it contains and is the word of God inspired by the Holy Ghost to the sacred authors; tradition, because it is preserved from error by the assistance of the Holy Ghost. While, therefore, the members of the Catholic Church revere and use the Bible, still they believe that the scriptures alone do not contain all the revelation of God. That the marriage of Christians is a sacrament and cannot be dissolved by any court, but only by the death of either of the husband or wife.

They believe in heaven, a state in which the good are rewarded eternally; they believe in hell, a state in which the wicked are condemned eternally; they believe in purgatory, a state in which those suffer for a time who die guilty of venial sins, or without having satisfied the temporal punishment due to their sins; they believe in a general resurrection of the dead, followed by a general judgment, after which purgatory will cease and the souls of the just united to their bodies will be rewarded forever, and the souls of the wicked also reunited to their bodies will be punished forever.

GARWOOD NEWS

NO BIDDERS FOR GARWOOD BONDS

There were no bidders for the proposed bond issues for $225,000 which the borough proposes to float, received at the meeting of the Borough Council held Tuesday night of last week. The borough seeks to raise $186,000 for the completion of the Rahway Valley Trunk Sewer and $39,000 in assessment bonds.

Borough Clerk Walter McManus reported to the mayor that he had received no sealed bids and there was no response to the mayor's question of whether there were bids to be received from the floor.

In answer to Councilman John Dugan's query as to whether or not the local bank had been approached by the council to see if it was interested in the purchase of the bonds, Borough Attorney Bernard Steiner replied that the council has sixty days in which to dispose of the bonds at a private sale. Dugan then asked if the Reconstruction Finance Corporation could be interested, and Attorney Steiner replied that the reconstruction act does not apply to improvements where the source of revenue to finance them is to be received directly or indirectly from the taxpayers through general taxation or special assessments, but that the act applies to improvements which are self-supporting.

A communication from the clerk of Union Township inquiring what is Garwood's attitude concerning the proposed plans of various municipalities of the county to endeavor to effect a decrease in county governmental expenses was referred to Councilman William Kaylor, who is Garwood's representative to the meetings of the representatives from the various municipalities.

John C. Grindlay, chairman of the finance committee, advised that County Treasurer Leavitt has asked for Garwood's share of the cost for the improvement of South avenue but added that until the bond issue is sold the borough will not be able to carry out payment.

Notice was received of the appeal of the Aeolian Company to the State Board of Taxation for reductions in assessments made by the local board. An appeal to the county board was denied recently. The appeal to the state is for a reduction on buildings from $350,000 to $150,000 and for a reduction on personal from $250,000 to $150,000.

U. S. W. V. BRIEFS

The annual national convention of the "Boys of 1898-1902," the United Spanish War Veterans, was opened at Milwaukee, August 21, by Commander-in-Chief George R. Lunn, and the meetings continued to August 25, when the following officers were elected by acclamation and installed: William J. Oten, Okla., commander-in-chief; William J. Armstrong, Wis., senior vice commander-in-chief; Dr. Smith McMullin, Calif., surgeon general; Rev. Chester C. Nelson, Okla., chaplain-in-chief.

The next national encampment will be held in Los Angeles, Calif., in 1933 and Pittsburgh was awarded the national meeting for 1934.

Those present from Union County were Arthur B. Orme, Roselle; J. J. Hackett, Roselle, and P. B. Durrell, Fanwood.

Monday, August 21, was devoted to memorial services and the dedication of the new addition to the U. S. Hospital, National Soldiers' Home, Milwaukee.

The Auxiliary, U. S. W. V., elected Mrs. Anna C. Jessmier, a native of Wisconsin, but a resident of Los Angeles, to the chair of national president; Mrs. Marie C. Williams, Indianapolis, was elected junior vice president.

Wednesday afternoon, 8000 Spanish War Veterans marched down Wisconsin avenue to the tunes of thirty-four years ago; the natural slope of the avenue and a lake breeze in their faces enabled the veterans to march the two and a half miles with but few falling out. The "boys" now average 58 years of age. The New Jersey delegation, clad almost 100 per cent in the regulation blue and gray dress uniforms, were given ovations continually, because of the smart step and correct formation maintained throughout the parade.

P. B. Durrell, M. O. S., who was the official delegate of Sumar Lair, No. 6, of Elizabeth, and who is active in the state and national organizations, returned home Saturday with the report that the veterans were unanimous in declaring that the Milwaukee encampment was the finest they had ever attended. The addresses by Maj. Gen. H. A. Drum, U. S. Navy; Capt. J. S. Abbott, U. S. Navy, and by the representatives of the President of the United States, and of the U. S. Veterans' Administration, were well received. The resolutions opposed the claims of the so-called Economy League; the government representatives stated that the meager pensions of the United Spanish War Veterans would not be molested, as desired by the league, because it is absolutely impossible, due to lack of records, to prove "service connection," and also, because if the pensions were reduced or removed the men would be forced to enter soldiers' homes which would cost the government a great deal more than the present pension system.

The Union County councils of the following organizations will have representatives at a joint meeting to form a veteran alliance of Union County: The Grand Army of the Republic, the United Spanish War Veterans, the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, the American Legion and the Disabled Veterans of the World War.

The Veterans' Alliance is the ultimate official organization of veterans of all wars, and is composed of those organizations which are national in scope and so recognized by the federal government. The meeting will be held in Elizabeth, Wednesday evening. Comrade J. H. Weir, 725 Summit avenue, Westfield, will represent the United Spanish War Veterans.

With the Collegians

By E. J.

Time: Friday night.

Place: Elizabeth Town and Country Club.

She, in a white dress with the blooming redness of her back and arms glowing in contrast.

He: Am I burning up? Oh boy for a bunch of ice cubes under my feet and my face covered with ice cream not cold cream. But the waves sure were swell, weren't they?

She: You're telling me? My knee has a charley horse from struggling against them thar waves and I can't dance because the backs of my legs are burning brightly.

He: I can't dance either, but I can't sit down or stand up so what the heck!

She: I'm awful unhappy too but I think I'm browner than I was last week. Don't you?

He: Sure. I think I got more today than I've ever had in my life. It oughta last till college opens. I don't wanta go back looking like a lily. Gosh my nose burns!

She: It's awful red—don't touch my back! I know I couldn't dance tonight I hurt so.

He: Me either—my poor feet! Oh boy listen—Tiger Rag, come on let's dance.

She: Swell! Hurry up—.

Florence and Bill Lambert spent last week on Third Lake in the Adirondacks where they had a short but delightful vacation.

Kimball Whitehead, graduate of Andover in June, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lant of Summit at their summer home in East Jewett, N. Y. He has added another distinction to his already full quota. Last Saturday night he took part in a play at the well known Onteora Club in East Jewett. Alli Ben Haggan directed the play. Another accomplishment that Kim can take to Yale with him in the fall.

Colony Kinsley is recovering from an appendicitis operation which she underwent last week. She will be home shortly and plans to return to Vassar the end of the month where she will be a sophomore.

Bud Blind was among the alumnae included in the annual outing of the Notre Dame Club of New Jersey held at Doerr's Grove, Livingston, last Thursday. A forward passing contest was held and a horseshoe pitching contest. Teams entered included former and present football stars of the university. Bud was a member of the football team his last two years.

Grace Powers, one of our new young matrons in town and a graduate of the National Kindergarten School in Chicago, has been vacationing and entertaining lately. Last Friday she entertained at bridge for Betty Haines of Cranford, a Chicago classmate. The other guests were Virginia Bushot and Mrs. Judson Mosher.

Lou Van Doren was hostess to a crowd of young collegians on Saturday night last week. A successful party we hear.

Dot Sanders entertained a group of her college friends last week on Thursday evening at a dinner party. It was a birthday celebration and a delightful one.

MERCHANTS VICTIM OF NEW RACKET

A new racket, at least to Westfield, has come to the attention of the local police department and at least two merchants are known to have been victimized.

According to the police the merchant receives a call from a house, later found to be vacant, asking that an order be delivered to the address. The person includes the request that the delivery clerk be prepared to change either a $10 bill or $20. The clerk delivers the order to the back door of the house and as he does so a man appears walking from around the house, telling the clerk that the family has been waiting for the order. In payment for the order the man hands the clerk a check and receives the balance in cash. The check is found to be of the "rubber" variety and the merchant is out the money and the goods.

This racket, it is understood, has been worked successfully in various parts of the state and the police of many municipalities are on the lookout for the slippery gentleman who has thus far eluded them. Local police officials warn merchants to beware of this type of phone calls, particularly those in which the person calling asks that the delivery clerk have plenty of change with him. If merchants receive calls and they are not sure of the source, the police should be notified.

FATHER AND SON SEEK HEAVY DAMAGES

Charles Papandrea, aged 14, and his father Demetrio of 554 W. Broad street are jointly seeking $30,000 damages in a suit which has been filed against Edward A. Benson of 715 Hanford place in Common Pleas Court, Elizabeth.

The son seeks $20,000 damages for injuries while the father through whom the boy is sueing, asks $10,000 for loss of his son's service and medical expenses. The plaintiffs allege that the boy was struck by the defendant's automobile while crossing W. Broad street. They charge that the Benson machin was traveling at an excessive rate of speed. Phillip Ox is representing the plaintiffs.

WESTFIELDER NAMED IN SODA FOUNTAIN SUIT

A writ of replevin was served on Albert L. Wallack, confectioner of 519 South avenue, Westfield, on Saturday by Deputy Sheriff Frank Settlemayer at the behest of the Knight Soda Fountain Company, Newark.

The writ alleges that Wallack owes $32 on a soda fountain and in the suit seeks possession of the fountain and accessories, said to be worth $1,000. A controversy over who should settle for repairs is said to have resulted in Wallack ceasing regular payments.

A WOMAN'S WORD

By HELEN HENDERSON

Here's to our dear old Alma Mater. College Shopping—and what a time I've had at it. What a difference! Now, when I was a girl—as grandmother used to say—but we'll let that go till chapter 39. Today, the co-eds sprints down the line to catch the 6:48 bound for the campus in swagger tweed coat, skirt and hat to match, cashmere blouse and contrasting gloves and bag. She settles back in her pullman with a sigh of relief and a smile of anticipation as she mentally lists the one and various articles of apparel which will add no end to her gala times at collitch. Her campus-trotter, for instance, in red plaid check. Her tweed skirt, designed expressly by her needs, as it has no pleats, needs no pressing and actually refuses to get sat out (if you know what I mean). Accompanied by two sweaters, one of the rackety-rack kind; two blouses, one mannish, and the all very necessary jacket. Then, her two tea dance frocks—one smartly cut velvet absolutely untrimmed; the other, a semi-gorgette, very clingy. While as for her evening gowns—well, I'm getting green with envy. Time to stop.

It's a marvey. From the outside, in its slim enamel case, it looks just like lip stick. What it actually is is a stick of deodorant preparation that may be carried in your bag and be used at any time. It's pure white and greaseless and is guaranteed not to cause the slightest irritation even if used after shaving.

Have you ever eaten fried shrimps? They're delicious? You get the shrimps all ready as usual, dip them in a preparation of egg and cracker meal to which has been added a dash of chutney and fry them in deep butter, till they're well browned on both sides. Serve them sizzling hot. It's a Japanese dish, by the way.

Because of the utter confusion which results when most women, in need of a cigarette, start foraging through their handbags, we now have a pocketbook with a small cigarette case attached to the outside flap. No, it doesn't make the bag bulky or mar its appearance in any way. In fact, it's an added attraction. And, it is a convenience. A gift?

You know, home servicing is getting to be such an art that nowadays you can even get your rugs cleaned right in your own house without going to the trouble of taking them up and laying them down again. Or, if your prefer having them removed, it's possible to get forty-eight hour service which was a thing unheard of a few years back.

I've heard of fur-lined coats, even suits, hats, gloves, and boots, but what made me gasp was the sight of a fur-lined brassiere. Evidently the manufacturers are preparing for a good cold spell of freezing weather. And I can think of many an occasion when such a little item might add materially to one's comfort. What's more, they're form-fitting. Whether that's an inducement or what I'll leave it to you to figure out.

If you're out buying lingerie for this coming season, don't forget that the silhouette this year is a decided straight and simple up and down one, inclined to follow the natural lines of the figure. Thereby, applying logical reasoning, one should avoid slips, teddies or combinations which tend to flare or bunch in the slightest. Also avoid ruffles and panels. You must have a perfectly straight line and, unless your undies lie flat, they're going to be a sure detriment and you might as well throw them out the window. (Blah.)

An offspring of the velvet dress is the velvet glove. Not that the two go together that would be overdoing it. But they do look rather nice with contrasting outfits. Gloves have also appropriated corduroy and you might think they'd be funny looking, but they aren't at all. Nevertheless, with all the innovations, when it comes to fall gloves, give me the good old kid any time. What say!

64,109 UNABLE TO SPEAK ENGLISH

The Census Bureau in 1930 recorded the white foreign-born population of New Jersey as 7.7 per cent unable to speak English.

The figures showed that the state's foreign-born white population numbered 833,727 in the census year, of which 64,109 could not speak the language of their adopted country.

Of these 25,249 were classed as literate, that is able to read and write some language and 38,860 as illiterate.

New Jersey's percentage which could not speak English was higher than for the country as a whole. The census found 6.6 per cent of the entire foreign-born population unable to speak English, or a total of 869,865 persons.

Reports from the front brings the news of a "gigantic drive" by federal leaders and industrialists to coordinate the newly organized credit agencies. The list of industrialists includes nearly every big name in the country and also the business and industrial committees of the twelve federal reserve districts. In the government's freshly built Commerce Building, this greatest of all "better business" conferences has attempted to untangle the greatest economic muddle of all time. With names such as Young, Taylor, Knox, Ford, Firestone and Harriman in the audience of the meeting, the newly created federal credit expansion system should have adequate backing for an effective program of relief. Expressions of such backing appeared in dailies throughout the country in the form of paid advertisements. Most outstanding letter of confidence came from Remington-Rand's president and chairman, James H. Rand, Jr. Addressed to newly appointed Commerce Secretary and former motor man, Roy D. Chapin, his letter told of expansion plans of his company before the doors of the Washington conference opened.

Record breaking has become commonplace in the Putnam family. After breaking two records in her latest non-stop hop from Los Angeles to Newark, Amelia was not even welcomed by her publisher husband, Geo. Palmer Putnam, at the end of her journey. She took the ribbon for the first non-stop coast-to-coast hop and the speed as well. "It seems a little queer even in these days," remarked her husband as they went for a swim in the sound and Amelia told of her swim in a Los Angeles pool on the previous day. According to her story, Hawk's record time would have been cut down if the weather and gasoline supply had allowed her to open the throttle.

From Tokio comes a distinct and formal statement of Japan's foreign minister, Baron Uchida, that the present system for the settlement of international disputes is inadequate. His main objection to the present system of preventing so-called aggressive tactics came through his contention that "there are those in other countries who do not fully comprehend the attitude of Japan toward China nor the measures she has taken." The greatest inter-country friction is produced by the threat of the Tokio government to recognize the Manchurian state, Manchukuo, which she threatens to recognize despite Washington's cry that it approximates a violation of the Kellogg-Briand pact. In reply to these objections, Uchida stated that his country had been forced to adopt necessary measures "to prevent wanton attacks on important rights and interests vital to her national existence." Diplomats over the world realized that any objections to action on these grounds would bring in American "protection" of South and Central American states as well as other "imperialistic" moves in the past by the more powerful nations. To back his stand, he vaguely referred to the action as "essentially identical with the action that other powers have taken under similar circumstances."

When one looks at the vastness of the Muscle Shoals or the terrifying plunge of water over the Niagara brink, the first reaction is—these must be the greatest sources of hydro-electric power in the world. Muscle Shoals did constitute the greatest development of its kind in the world, but now the scene shifts to the Soviet's latest challenge to the capitalistic world—Dneprostroy. Normally this newly dedicated power plant will furnish nearly twice the output of our Niagara, or 756,000 horsepower, with a maximum output in flood seasons of 900,000 or double our greatest working plant. Not unlike our proposed inland waterway, this dam system allows steamers from the Black Sea to penetrate several hundred miles father into the interior on the Dnieper River.

Taking the dictatorial power that Adolph Hitler would welcome, the von Papen government through the Berlin chief of police stopped the publication of Fascistic organ, Der Angriff. The German press seemed confident that an indefinite postponement of elections and meetings of the Reichstag would be made by President von Hindenberg. A coup d'etat for the von Papen government?

September 20 is the approximate date of the district audition of the 1932 national radio audition and young singers in this vicinity who seek musical careers, to say nothing of a chance at a cash award of $5,000, are urged to enroll prior to that date with Miss Jane Whittemore, 1259 Waverly place, Elizabeth, who is local chairman.

Contestants who qualify will be in line for advancement, through state and district contests, to participation in the national audition finals, the winners of which will receive from The Atwater Kent Foundation cash prizes totaling $15,000. Individual awards to the five young men and five young women who progress to the finals will be: $5,000 each to the young man and young woman rated highest; $1,000 each to second-place winners, one young man and one young woman; $500 each to the six runners-up—three young men and three young women.

Miss Whittemore in urging young singers to test their talents by entering the audition emphasized the fact that a high degree of vocal training is not necessary. The aim of the audition is to select the most promising naturally-beautiful voices, not the best-trained voices. The untrained voice of rare quality she declared, has a better chance than the trained, but mediocre voice. Therefore no vocally-gifted boy or girl should hesitate because of lack of training, she said.

Any amateur singer 18 to 25 years old, inclusive, is eligible to compete. Full information for enrolment may be obtained by application to Miss Whittemore. Every winner—local, state and district as well as national—will receive a permanent token. More valuable than the direct prizes, it is declared, are the prestige and recognition accruing to those who take part in these auditions.

13½ Million Spent In State For Relief Work to August 1st

Estimated To Have Aided 400,000 Unemployed Since October, 1931

NEWARK — New Jersey's emergency relief program, from its inception on October 13, 1931, to August 1, 1932, has been carried out at a cost of $13,666,166.85 which is estimated to have aided more than 400,000 needy unemployed during that period.

The total relief expenditure is based on a survey of relief costs in each of the state's 563 municipalities, just completed here at headquarters of the State Emergency Relief Administration. Being based on payments made and bills received by the administration, the total will be increased when all relief accounts for this period have been closed.

State relief officials here estimated that the cost of administering this large relief fund has been slightly less than three per cent.

Of the more than $13,500,000 total relief expenditures, the state administration spent $6,667,884.54, or nearly half of the total, with municipal and county governments paying the balance of the joint program. In Union County the total cost was $1,153,548.95.

While all of the money expended went to alleviate the distress of the unemployed and needy, nearly half, or $6,625,809.74, provided jobs under the employment relief programs instituted at the beginning of the administration's activities.

During the first four or five months after the administration was established, men and women were given jobs in place of direct relief, the highest rate of wage paid under this plan being $25 per week. County and municipal governments shared the cost of these payrolls with the state on an approximately fifty-fifty basis.

As relief needs increased, many municipalities were forced to abandon this employment relief program because of their inability to finance their share of its cost. In such instances the state either aided or carried the entire relief load through a direct relief program.

With state and local relief resources being rapidly drained, Chester I. Barnard, state director of Emergency Relief on August 1, abandoned all employment relief, substituting "work for relief" programs thruout the state.

Under this new system recipients of relief are required to give a stipulated amount of work in return for the aid given, working on municipal work projects in the municipality from which they receive the aid.

More than six and a half million dollars was spent on employment relief according to figures shown in the state survey, and of this amount the state's share was $3,220,693.31. County and municipal governments spent $3,405,116.43.

For direct or dependency relief the state paid $1,715,523.88 with municipal expenditures on this account amounting to $3,573,665.88 up to August 1.

Special state grants of $1,751,107.79 went into municipalities for relief programs on which they were unable to finance their full share.

In Essex and Hudson counties, the largest centers of population, relief costs totaled more than in any other county. Hudson County expenditures amounted to $2,221,565.94 and $3,821,176.13 was spent in Essex.

Total costs in the other 19 counties were as follows: Atlantic, $208,655.14; Bergen, $1,142,934.43; Burlington, $160,961.99; Camden, $837,417.46; Cape May, $48,021.52; Cumberland, $105,732.27; Gloucester, $94,288.96; Hunterdon, $54,913.04; Mercer, $708,689.02; Middlesex, $877,189.07; Monmouth, $179,506.64; Morris, $387,232.25; Ocean, $110,189.35; Passaic, $1,085,963.65; Salem, $43,867.62; Somerset, $182,646.62; Sussex, $54,982.60; Union, $1,153,548.95; Warren, $116,684.20.

PUBLIC SERVICE REWARDS SAFE BUS DRIVERS

For safe driving during the last four-months period more than 2,000 salesmen who operate Public Service street cars and buses received bonuses under the No-Accident Bonus Plan of the company. Bonus checks totaling $17,890 were distributed in the various divisions during the past week to 2,117 men.

The distribution by divisions was as follows: Bergen, $1,245 to 146 men; Central, $2,345 to 278 men; Hudson, $2,900 to 349 men; Passaic, $2,625 to 283 men; Morris, $680 to 61 men; Essex, $5,270 to 647 men; Southern, $2,825 to 353 men.

To all the men at the carhouse and garage which had the best record in each division for the period a special bonus was awarded. Lakeview Garage had the best record in Bergen and Passaic divisions; Dover Garage, the best record in Morris and Central divisions; Greenville carhouse in Hudson division; Big Tree carhouse, in Essex division and Hainesport Garage in Southern division.

GOVERNOR REVIEWS 1300 C. M. T. C. STUDENTS

Stresses Value To State And Nation Of Training In Address

Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey flew from his summer residence last week at Sea Girt to Camp Dix in a plane piloted by Major Robt. L. Copsey, Commander of the 44th Division Aviation, N. J. N. G., to review and address the 1300 students from New York, New Jersey and Delaware. He spoke to the C. M. T. C. Infantry Regiment in the open-air theatre and told them that they were a select group of American young men whose character and training made them of inestimable value to both state and nation.

"In the work you are doing, you are up-holding the fine traditions of Camp Dix established here in the war days by the brave men whose fine and patriotic records will forever live," said Governor Moore, "and you are reflecting great credit upon yourselves, the nation and the three states of New York, New Jersey and Delaware from which you came. You will go back to your homes more self-reliant, strong in the body and mind and with a highly developed appreciation of the responsibilities of good citizenship."

The Governor's address followed an aerial show and a regulation Air Corps review and inspection of the 44th Division Air Squadron, N. J. N. G., and a review of the student regiment on the parade grounds in which troops of the 16th and 18th Infantry, Regular Army, participated. The plant manouvers, commanded in the air by Lt. C. W. Yorkes, were visited by six planes of the Philadelphia Naval Reserve and a group of planes of the Pennsylvania National Guard, which stunted for a short time then dipped in salute to Governor Moore. The 44th Division, N. J. N. G., Air Squadron manouvers were featured by the New Jersey Chief Executives giving orders to the planes above by means of radio. In the reviewing line were Governor A. Harry Moore, Brigadier General H. L. Laubach, Commanding Camp Dix, Brigadier General Birse P. Disque, president of the Second Corps Area Advisory Board, Brigadier General Cornelius Vanderbilt, Commanding the 77th Division, Organized Reserves and Colonel Claude H. Miller, Commanding the 18th Infantry, Regular Army, and executive officer of the C. M. T. Camp.

Friday, the C. M. T. C., students, under command of Colonel Claude H. Miller, and officers of the 18th Infantry, famous war-time regiment of the Regular Army, moved off with full field equipment for Brindle Lake in the new Recreation Park recently leased by the military authorities, on the over-night hike.

During the week a show was staged with the student talent making up in enthusiasm what was lacking in the professional ability.

The Infantry regiment spent several days on the rifle range in practice of the rifle and machine gun, all students made good scores.

Friday morning the officers of the 305th Infantry Organized Reserves, were returned to their homes, the command of the C. M. T. Camp being taken over by officers of the 18th Infantry, Regular Army.

TROOP TO RETURN FROM CAMP MOORE

Troop K, 102nd Cavalry, N. G. N. J., which with the rest of the regiment is at Camp Moore, Sea Girt, for the annual 15-day active field service, will return to the Westfield Armory on Saturday. Orders to break camp will be given after reveille Saturday morning and men, horses and equipment will entrain for home about 10 o'clock.

During the past week the regiment has been participating in hikes, drills in open and close order, training in the use of firearms and saber.

The entire regiment participated in the review and dress parade Saturday when Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Presidential nominee, visited the camp as the guest of Gov. A. Harry Moore.

Dr. Henry Oscar Rockefeller says: "The name Rockefeller is derived from the French Roquefeuille, and means 'rock and field,' as illustrated by the coat of arms. In France it was spelled in several different ways, as follows: Roquefeuille, Roquefreil, Rockevallier, Roquefeuil and Rockefolle."

JOTTINGS FROM POLICE BLOTTER

And it came to pass as the nosy reporter visited the house in which are kept the records of the watch, he turned the pages of the book in which are enscribed the misdeeds and iniquities of the wicked.

On the seven and twentieth day of the eighth month the scribe had written as follows: 2:20 a. m., Officer August Benninger reported finding the glass broken in the door of a service station. At 4 p. m. Officer Charles Benninger issued a summons to a resident of Irvington for speeding. An hour later, Patrolman Ernest Long issued a summons to a woman motorist for speeding on Central avenue. Two boys, caught in the act of taking parts from an automobile at a local service station, were arrested by Patrolmen Elmer Nead and Clifford Long, at 8:05 p. m.

Peter Villa of Newark, who evidently had looked upon the wine when it was red, was brought in by Patrolman Nead and C. Long at 8:50 p. m. At 8:51 p. m. a report was received that a limb had fallen from a large tree near the home of Undersheriff C. Wesley Collins on East Broad street; Patrolman George Wragg removed the debris. At 10:07 p. m. a call was received from a resident of Florence avenue, stating that someone was in their automobile which was in the rear of the house; Sergt. Louis Pfirrmann and Patrolman Nead were on the call and found no traces.

At 12:54 a. m., Sunday, a call was received from a resident of Prospect street that his wife was causing a disturbance in a local eating place; Officers Lester Gebler and August Benninger were dispatched to the place but everything was quiet. In response to a call received at 2:33 a. m., a squad of police officers, headed by Sergt. Pfirrmann, visited a home on Ross Place where they found a party in full swing. According to the blotter, the call came from a woman, speaking in a low voice, and reporting that there was trouble at the address given. When questioned, everyone at the party denied knowledge of the telephone call.

At 1:30 p. m. a Plainfield motorist was given a summons for speeding.

One ambulance call was reported over the week-end. On Saturday, Dr. Lorimer Armstrong requested that the ambulance bring a local resident home from the Rahway Memorial Hospital.

LETTERS FROM READERS

We're Wrong

Editor, Westfield Leader,
Westfield, N. J.
Dear Sir:—

Your readers will agree with your opinion as to the excellence of the concert given by the Westfield Band with Arthur Pryor as guest conductor. You are in error, however, when you say that the euphonium solo "Two Little Love Bees," played as an encore by the soloist of the evening, Mr. Mantia, was a "composition of his own." This song will recall Christine MacDonald in the "Spring Maid," and was composed by Reinhardt.

Very truly yours,
E. H. ROTHMAYER.

Cards Aid Unemployment

Some people are going to say, "We're not going to send Christmas cards this year." What's going to be our answer? Are we going to let them get away with it? No, we most certainly are not! Here's some of the answers we will give them: "Did you ever stop to think that when you suddenly drop a custom, long recognized as a proper one, you are working a hardship on many people?

"Do you realize that we bought our stock of Christmas cards last spring, and that if you and others do not buy them we shall be forced to give up, thereby creating lost jobs —more unemployment?

"Have you thought of all those who get extra work in the Post Office during the Christmas season, and that this year, more than ever, men need employment?

"The government, too, needs your assistance to help balance the budget, which makes your dollar worth more to you and every one else.

"And there's another phase of it which perhaps is more important than the ones already mentioned. Shouldn't we carry on, just as we did during the war, for the very 'uplift' effect it has on ourselves and our friends, many of whom need the cheery message your Christmas card will convey? Here's a time when sentiment counts more than ever, and you say you're not going to send cards? Why, my friends, you are defeating your own ends by taking such action. Sentiment will build up morale, it will install new life, new hope, and if you forget those in need of your friendly message, what will they think?

"No, don't omit Christmas cards this year, but rather send more generously than ever.

COUNCILMEN CATCH FISH AND SUNBURN

Members of the Town Council took a day off from their arduous duties last Wednesday and went down to the sea in a ship to try their luck at fishing. Luck was with them for they caught about fifty blues, weaks and bonitas. Upon their return they turned over the entire catch to be distributed to needy families. If one had looked out over Barnegat Bay he would not have recognized Westfield's governing body. Each was dressed in his oldest clothes and presented an unusual, if not picturesque appearance. For instance, no one would have recognized Councilman Robert S. MacCormack in the flannel shirt and old trousers and a wide brimmed straw hat pulled well down over his eyes. His colleagues wore similar articles of clothing. Someone said that they resembled recruits of Captain Kidd.

One of the party decided to fish without a shirt and he forthwith removed that portion of his apparel. Before he knew it, Old Sol got in his good work. There was plenty of surface for the sun's rays to play on and even today the gentleman in question is applying quarts of soothing lotions to ease the sunburn. The other councilmen were sunburned in varied degrees but all report having had a fine time. No party would be complete without Charles Clark the genial town clerk and Charlie was the life of the party.

APPRECIATION

Clark-Hyslip Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is deeply indebted to P. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in St. John's Church. Besides his brother, Mr Kean is survived by a sister, Mrs. W. Emlen Roosevelt.

Few of Good Standing

The man that understands the evil of his own heart, how vile it is, is the only useful, fruitful, solidly believing, and obedient person; others are fit only to delude themselves, to disquiet families, churches, and all relations whatever.—Owen.

NEWS FROM TRENTON

(Special to Leader)

New Vice-Chancellor

Circuit Court Judge Francis B. Davis of Gloucester County has been installed as vice chancellor to succeed Vice Chancellor Edmund B. Leaming of Camden. The new vice chancellor served in the legislature for a number of years, having been speaker of the Senate at one time.

200,000 Were at Sea Girt

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City has estimated that the crowd that attended the Roosevelt Day reception at Sea Girt last Saturday numbered nearly 200,000. Conservative observers estimated the throng at between 70,000 to 100,000. According to Mayor Hague there were approximately 24,000 private cars and 100 special trains which carried about 1,000 each. In addition to these there were about 2,000 chartered buses.

Ocean Flyers Listed

Frank J. Lynch of Summit and James G. Fernald of Verona, who are planning a trans-atlantic flight, are among the pilots listed by the State Aviation Commission.

Last Reception Tomorrow

The last of Governor Moore's receptions to the various counties will be held tomorrow at Sea Girt. Visitors from Essex, Atlantic and Mercer counties will be guests of the Governor.

51 Year Old Clock Stops

A clock in the office of Attorney General Willam A. Stevens stopped ticking the other day after approximately 51 years of service. A note found on the back of the clock stated that it was purchased in 1881. No one at the State House could recall when the clock was last repaired.

with chopping off unnecessary State officials. He intends to lop off more, regardless of their political affiliations. State officialdom is quite uneasy because of the Governor's drastic action. None of the ousted legal assistants contemplate legal action. The positions have been considered sinicures because their State duties are in addition to law practices.

The removal of the nine attorneys will add considerable to the work of Attorney General Stevens. Other assistants in his office were not disturbed.

Replying to the statement of Senator Richards, Governor Moore asserted that he would welcome an investigation by the Atlantic Senator into any state department.

"I would be glad to have him investigate any state department," declared the Governor. "I shall certainly appreciate his co-operation."

Richards criticism of the executive resulted in a boomerrang. The Atlantic senator issued his statement on Monday and the Governor started wielding the axe yesterday.

"I am not going to reconsider my decision to eliminate the nine positions," said the Governor. "It is obvious that there is no longer so much need of a heavy personnel as there has been in the past. I propose to go into every department in search of useless jobs."

OUTDOOR SERVICES BROUGHT TO CLOSE

Largest Audience Attends Vespers In Mindowaskin Park Sunday Night

The second largest audience of the season was present at the closing vespers service in Mindowaskin Park on Sunday evening last. When the prelude on the organ, accompanied by the cornetists, started over two hundred persons were comfortably seated in front of the band stand and twenty-seven more arrived later.

Otto Carpenter, one of the directors of the YMCA was in general charge of the meeting with J. E. Peterson in charge of the singing. Mrs. Dorothy French inspired the audience with a soprano solo.

Rev. J. T. Cleland, director of religion at Amherst College, brought a splendid thought to the audience in his twenty minute address. Rev. Cleland used the rather unusual Bible passage where Moses "gave to some of the people twelve covered wagons and twelve pairs of oxen, but to others he gave none." He drew out the thought that some things should and could be done by machinery, the covered wagons, but other things, the arc of the covenant, had to be carried on the shoulders of men.

Rev. Mr. Cleland proceeded to show how art, music, education, religion, could not be mechanized, but must come "by being carried as it were on the shoulders of men."

The YMCA has sponsored the eight Sunday evening services in co-operation with the churches and the series just closed has been the most successful of any in the past four years.

Latest in Clocks

A gearless clock has been invented that has only four moving parts and the slowest makes two revolutions a day, carrying the hour hand. A rotating magnetic field and two permanent magnets are used.

DR. BOWLBY SEES GRAVE MENACE IN DRY LAW REPEAL

Lord's Day Alliance Head Decries Return Of Legalized Saloon

Declaring that another dark age in the church would be a greater calamity than the economic depression, the Rev. Dr. H. L. Bowlby of East Orange, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, launched an attack on the move to repeal the 18th Amendment in a sermon delivered Sunday morning in the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Bowlby warned that the return of the legalized saloon would bring increased disrespect of the Sabbath and ruin to countless homes.

The speaker declared that the return of the legalized saloon would be a heart stab at the sanctity of the Sabbath and countless homes would again be ruined.

"A loyal, active church membership and the best brand of citizenship must team together against the iniquitous liquor traffic. If the 18th Amendment struck a deadly blow against the monstrous legalized liquor business, then we must fight to prevent the dooming of that amendment.

"This nation cannot make 'a covenant with death and a league with hell' and expect the favor of Almighty God.

"President Hoover was right when on August 10 he told me, 'Our fight is to keep the liquor traffic from coming back into power. I will continue to enforce the law with all my might.'

"With powerful commercial amusement and sporting interests determined to write a new King Charles' book of Sunday sports, and the movie house and theatre self-convinced that they will take the right of way in Sunday from chapel, church and cathedral, the people must awake to the fact that a possible dark age of the church in the 20th century would be a far greater calamity than the three year financial and economic depression that has smitten the world.

"Let the saloon with its sordid, oft-times salacious appendages become fixed in our nation again and how vastly greater will be the burden of the Sabbath already overladen with secularization and commercialization.

"Pastors and all Bible school teachers," continued Dr. Bowlby, "should be alert and active, not once or twice a year, but every week in an aggressive and determined effort to answer the S. O. S. call, Save Our Sabbath, and to secure its future against unwarranted commercial invasions and through frequent instruction inculcate in the minds of both youths and adults the privilege and obligation of observing the Sabbath as a Holy Day."

FIREMEN FIGHT BLAZE AT DUMP

Members of the Westfield Fire Department were kept busy for five hours yesterday afternoon fighting a fire which broke out in the dump on upper Prospect street. The first call was received at fire headquarters at about 2:30 o'clock and apparatus was dispatched to the place. The fire was burning its way through heaps of rubbish four feet thick and stubbornly resisted their efforts. Another relay of men was sent out at 6 o'clock and after an hour and a half of fighting the firemen returned to headquarters.

A suit for $50,000 has been instituted in Common Pleas Court by Mr. and Mrs. Anzelone of Elizabeth against Carmelo and Agatino Maimone of 1721 South avenue, Westfield, and Abraham Gordon, a taxi owner of Elizabeth.

The suit alleges that the Maimone car was in collision with a taxi owned by Gordon on May 28, 1931. Mrs. Anzelone, a passenger in the taxi, seeks $40,000 for alleged injuries while her husband asks $10,000 for loss of her service.

MOST UNUSUAL "FIRE" STUMPS FIREMEN

A child's screams caused a resident of West Broad street to send in a call to the Westfield Fire Department last night shortly before 8 o'clock. Box 89 at fire headquarters was rung in and all apparatus responded. When the firemen arrived they learned that the cries of a child at 650 West Broad street had alarmed a neighbor who thinking that it might be a fire sent in the call.

It is not recorded whether the firemen used their hose in cooling off the child whose screams were caused by an application of some old fashioned punishment.

DRIVERS KILLED ON AUTO SPEEDWAY

Frank Farmer and Bill Neapolitan, two Philadelphia drivers, died of injuries received when machines they were operating crashed during the opening day auto races at the rebuilt Woodbridge Speedway on Sunday. They crashed in the third lap of the second qualifying heat before more than 8,000 spectators and died shortly after reaching Perth Amboy General Hospital.

Farmer was driving an Everready Special and was one of the race favorites. Neapolitan, who was regarded as a "dark horse," was driving a Shaw Special owned by Ben Shaw, a driver whose address is listed as Westfield. His showing this season was such that he was regarded with favor in auto racing circles.

The accident was one of the most serious of its kind and it occurred a short distance from the spot where Bob Robinson and John Rohrer were killed on the old board track which had been replaced by an asphalt surface. Farmer and Neapolitan were battling for third place in the second qualifying heat in the five-mile race. Stubby Stubblefield and Doc MacKenzie were leading at the time.

Neapolitan held the front, but, on taking the first turn out of the homestretch, skidded wide and Farmer attempted to pass him on the inside with his more powerful machine. Neapolitan, apparently unaware that Farmer was cutting in, straightened out toward the inside of the track and was hit broadside by the brilliant hued Everready Special.

The younger driver's car was turned over by the impact, while Farmer's car somersaulted over it and the tangled remains of men and metal rolled over and over in a cloud of dust until they thudded against the guard rail at the top of the track.

Farmer died from a crushed head and internal injuries, while Neapolitan died of a ruptured blood vessel in his chest and other internal injuries. The remainder of the field halted until the smashed cars were removed and then continued the heat. The remainder of the program was completed.

PRESSURE AT BORO FIRE WAS GOOD

The statement has been made to the "Leader" that contradictory to early reports, the water pressure at Mountainside at the time of the fire there a week ago Sunday night was high. In support of the statement it is said that two lengths of hose were broken by the pressure.

STORM DISRUPTS TELEPHONE SERVICE BUT BRINGS RELIEF

The heavy rain and sharp lightning which swept over this section Saturday night caused some disruption to local telephone service. According to information from the repair department of this section, about 30 lines and 55 instruments were temporarily put out of order and workmen of the company were kept busy Sunday and Monday restoring local service.

Slight damage also occurred to Public Service equipment, a few fuses being blown, but this did not interrupt the service

The storm, however, came as a welcome relief after an oppressive day The thermometer had reached 93 but dropped to 85 following the storm. Cool breezes prevailed on Sunday, which were most welcome after the long stretch of hot weather.

During the hour in which the rain fell the precipitation was registered at .40 of an inch at the Plainfield Weather Station. S. K. Pearson, observer, declared that the rainfall in South Plainfield and that vicinity was apparently much heavier and that New York City enjoyed a total fall of .94 of an inch.

RABBIT FOOT IS UNLUCKY FOR NEGRO

A rabbit's foot may bring good luck to the person carrying it but its charm did not work in the case of Leroy Mason, colored, aged 38, of 111 West 139th street, New York City. Mason is now in the county jail awaiting action by the grand jury on a charge of theft.

The negro was arrested Saturday afternoon after having stolen $19.50 from William E. Smith's gas station on South avenue, Garwood. Steve Eustice, a mechanic, is said to have caught Mason in the act of stealing the money and called to his employer. The negro fled with the two men in pursuit and was finally captured by Police Sergt. Dennis Comiskey, who had been notified of the theft in the rear of the Thatcher Furnance Plant.

Mason was arraigned before Judge F. W. Ewald and plead guilty to the charge of theft and committed to the county jail.

ENGLAND'S NOBLEST NORMAN CASTLE

England's noblest Norman castle is how writers and travelers describe Nedingham Castle, in beautiful northern Essex. You can see it shortly before you cross the Stour into Suffolk. Its keep is the best preserved Norman Keep in England; although built in 1129 by Gundulf, who also built the keep of the Tower of London, the pure air of that countryside has kept the stone from weathering and the surface is as perfect as when the last workman left it. It stands 110 feet high, 52 feet by 55 feet and its walls vary from 10 to 13 feet in thickness. It has five floors and on the second is the ancient Audience Chamber with a Norman arch whose span is the greatest known of that period.

Friday

THE SINGING ESTHONIANS

Wherever you go in Estonia, you will remark the love of song which appears to be as extensive among the Esthonians as among the bardic folk of Wales. They sing at their work and play, at their national festivals and at their domestic duties. When they have exhausted their national repertoire, and it is quite a large one, they improvise new songs. Their folk songs run into tens of thousands. Where the aptitude for song comes from it would be hard to say, for unlike the Welsh and the Swiss they have no mountains, their highest hill being less than 500 feet high, but their lovely lakes, fens, baronial halls and woodland verdure may explain in part.

Saturday

FRANCE'S COAST OF SILVER

Between the Loire and the Garonne the coast of France is studded with seaside resorts, of which Olonne-famous for its beautiful women with their quaint "butterfly" head-dresses, golden earrings, and small clattering "sabots,"—and Royan are the best known. After passing the estuary of the Gironde we enter the district where the most wonderful vineyards of the world are found, and from which the celebrated Bordeaux wines come, and the wide plain which Arcachon has made famous and the lovely Cote d'Argent, that vast region which skirts the forest of Landes, of Pines, sand dunes and a lakeland of pools interspersed with villages.

ROMAN REMAINS IN SOUTHEST FRANCE

North of Avignon in France, indeed, throughout the region surrounding it, the visitor will find many memorials of its ancient Roman past. For example, at Orange, the ancient capital of Cavaries, was a Roman colony, and it possesses the best preserved Roman triumphal arch in France, dating to the days of Tiberus and its vast theatre built to accommodate 40,000 spectators, has a scene wall 120 feet high and 300 feet long. Lyons also has an important Celtic as well as Roman past, and while it boasts today of being the world's leading silk city, and has the finest textile museum in the world, it has in its vicinity many Roman remains.

Monday

THE VALLEY OF THE MEUSE

One of the loveliest regions of France is near Mezieres, the capital of the Ardennes, founded in the 9th century. Beyond the town lies a series of beautiful gorges with the river flowing 200 and 300 meters below the level of the plateau. Every valley, every rocky crag is filled with luxuriant vegetation and the dark red and grey cliffs form a picturesque setting for the scene. The valley of the Meuse was once famous for its forests; and its cliffs of several hundred feet often approach too close to each other to allow a footpath on its banks. The district is the legendary home of "The Four Sons of Aymon" heroes of the Middle Ages who rode one behind the other on the wonderful horse Bayard, gift of the fairy Orlando.

Tuesday

HIKING IN THE FATHERLAND

Long before the war Germany was a land for hikers, and some of America's earliest tourists, such as Bayard Taylor walked through it. In 1911 seventeen hostels for hikers called Jugendherbergen were opened and 3000 young men and women stayed over night in them. Last year there were 2,100 hostels and four million night's accommodations were registered. Although many hostels have been built for the purpose, a great many are transformed medieval castles, hotels, villas and even ships. Each inn is in charge of a warden and the charge is trifling. Alcohol and tobacco are not permitted.

IN GERMAN ZOOS

Hagenbech's Zoological Gardens at Stellinger, near Hamburg is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year. It was the first zoo to show wild animals at liberty in their natural surrounders, a practice now adopted all over the world. The annual report of the Berlin Zoo shows that it is now the lagest in the world, including 1235 specimens of mammals representing 543 different species and 2594 birds of 799 species. Another famous German zoo is the Munich Zoo at Hellabrunn, the first to arrange its animals geographically. It possess rare hy birds, such as a cross of lion and tigress, polar and brown bear and between a fox and a dog.

"WILD" COW EXCITES PEACEFUL STREET

Police Called To Quell Antics Of Bovine, Exciting Residents

Patrolman Ernest Long is receiving the congratulations of his fellow-officers of the police department for his heroic efforts in behalf of the residents of Fairacres avenue, Sunday afternoon. According to the report an excited resident called police headquarters, asking that help be sent there at once, as a wild animal threatened the neighborhood. Acting Desk Sergeant Charles Montross dispatched Long to that section of town and as he approached Fairacres avenue, saw the cause of all the excitement.

A cow, owned by Michael Whalen of Division street, had wandered from its pasture and decided to make a tour of inspection of the vicinity. Evidently Bossie liked the neighborhood as well as the tender grass and flowering shrubs that adorned the lawns on that street, so decided to make that street her permanent feeding ground. The residents, however, were not so enthusiastic as the cow was an unwelcome guest and they quickly called their children in and barricaded doors and windows. When Patrolman Long arrived the street was in a state of seige.

The cow was peacefully eating some particularly tasty grass when the patrolman drew up. The animal looked up and gazed into the eyes of Patrolman Long. The officer kept the cow's attention while he cautiously approached and skillfully lassooed the animal and, after that it was an easy matter to return her to her owner.

Other members of the department have earned reputations for handling and taming animals. Patrolman Augustus H. Benninger captured a young pig that had escaped from a box in the freight office some years ago, while his brother, Patrolman Charles Benninger picked up a pole-cat thinking it was a stray kitten and brought it into the Westfield diner. The night man on duty recognized the difference in a moment and begged the officer to take the animal outside as it was bad for the trade. The patrolman let the animal loose and it walked off without doing him any harm.

FIRM RECEIVES HUGE ORDER FOR HYMNALS

(From Kingsport, Tenn., Times)

The Kingsport Press, Incorporated, has received the largest known single order of hymnals ever placed with a single concern. The order was placed by The Christian Science Publishing Society of Boston, Mass.

The order consists of 400,000 cloth bound books and 10,000 de luxe full leather bound books. The books will be distributed throughout the world. It is expected the distribution will begin about September 1.

The music plates for the 640 page hymnal were prepared by the F. H. Gilson Company of Boston, nationally known music compositors. All of the type for the plates was set by hand.

E. W. Palmer, president of the plant, said some idea of the magnitude of the order could be obtained by the quantity of material and time necessary for the completion of the book. Five of the largest perfecting presses of the Kingsport Press began work on printing the book June 15 and ran 20 hours each day until August 25.

A total of 325 tons of paper was used in the book, 40,240 yards of book cloth, 39,000 yards of head bands, seven tons of end paper material, 50 tons of cover board and more than 210,000 yards of muslin re-enforcement for the backs of the books.

Mr. Palmer said probably the most outstanding part of the manufacturing process will be the use of more than 500,000 sheets of 22 carat gold for the stamping on the cloth-bound edition and gilding the edges and stamping the de luxe edition.

D. A. R. TO MEET ON CONSTITUTION DAY

The Daughters of the American Revolution will hold an evening meeting on Constitution Day, September 17, at the home of Regent Mrs. Burr A. Towl. The guests of the evening will be members of the S. A. R. and C. A. R. and the speaker for the evening will be Colonel Dempsey.

SILVER STAR, WAR MEDAL IN NEW FORM

Award For Gallantry In Action May Be Worn Separately

A new and impressively beautiful form last week was given to one of America's coveted battle decorations when the War Department announced that the modest Silver Star—awarded only for gallantry in action—will hereafter be worn as a separate medal.

Thousands of World War heroes and veterans of the Spanish American War, Philippine Insurrection, and numerous other campaigns will be permitted under the new ruling to wear the modified decoration, consisting of the original Silver Star superimposed upon a bronze star of larger proportions and suspended by an appropriate ribbon, white in background with a central red stripe, two blue stripes and blue edges.

Heretofore the Silver Star has been worn on the ribbon of the service medal for the campaigns for service in which the citations were awarded and also on the corresponding service ribbon.

With the new decoration, Oak Leaf Clusters will be provided for veterans who have been awarded more than one citation for gallantry in action.

Under Congressional authority, the Silver Star is awarded for each citation of an officer or enlisted man for gallantry in action, published in orders issued from the headquarters of a force commanded by a general officer, or of which a general normally would be the commander, provided the feat is not recognized by the award of the Congressional Medal of Honor or the Distinguished Service Cross.

The law prescribes that the Silver Star shall be worn as the President shall direct and President Hoover has given his sanction to the new separate medal form.

With the recent revival of the Purple Heart and the new Silver Star decoration, the War Department complement of medals is now filled. It covers every act of bravery, heroism, or gallantry in war, as well as every act of heroism or extraordinary achievement in peace, and every distinguished and meritorious act of extraordinary fidelity or of essential service in war or in peace. There is now no act of bravery or of distinguished service on the part of an officer or enlisted man which is not recognizable by an appropriate award.

Application for the new Silver Star decoration or Oak Leaf Clusters may be made to The Adjutant General of the Army, Washington, D. C. Veterans in the Army or in civil life whose official citations for gallantry in action are on file in the War Department and who have been authorized to wear citation stars on their service ribbons are eligible to apply.

Animal Characteristics

All of the ruminants or cudchewers, namely cattle, sheep, goats, deer, antelope and camels, invariably get up with their hind legs first, while other large quadrupeds use the opposite procedure, with forelegs first.

Square Meal Called Lawn's Best Defense Against Winter

Feeding lawns and perennials a square meal in the fall to protect them against winter killing is now the practice of better home gardeners. This is particularly advisable when your lawn has gone through a hot, dry summer and is naturally in a weakened condition.

Most people think it is the freezing of the plants above the surface of the soil that does the damage to lawns and plants during winter, but this is not the case. It is the alternate freezing and thawing of the soil itself, which causes an expansion and contraction of the soil and breaks the roofs of the plants, especially those with small, weak root systems. This movement of the soil by freezing and thawing is commonly called "heaving."

As a protection against these winter hardships, experienced gardeners are recommending feeding the lawn and plants a square meal of a balanced plant food. The application of it on established and new lawns in the late summer and early fall develops strong, vigorous root systems that will help prevent winter killing.

SALMON NUMBERS ON LICENSE PLATES

1933 license plates are being distributed to dealers and are expected here by the local agency in the near future. The colors for next year's plates will be salmon-red numbers on a black background. This is a new shade never before used in the state. Over the numbers is "N. J.—'33."

Plates will be issued at the local office on and after Tuesday, November 1. Residents are requested to register as early as convenient in order to save "time and patience for all concerned."

ABOUT TOWN with SALLY

Labor Day's all but on top of us now, and this is almost our last crack at having to spell Indian mountain resorts or West Indian cruise ships. Pretty soon we can settle down to a nice long winter of reporting bridge parties on streets we're practically letter perfect on by now. If you're traveling with us this week, bring a sweater, for we're heading north.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Cox and son, Stephen, of Woodland avenue are remaining at Indian Lake, N. Y., where they have spent the month of August, until after Labor Day.

Mrs. A. E. Keller of Dudley avenue is visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fairbairn of Kimball avenue at their summer home at Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard.

Mrs. C. R. Swaney of Lawrence avenue and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford Swaney of Highland avenue have returned from a vacation at Martha's Vineyard.

A number of Westfielders visited their sons at Camp Wulamat, Bristol, N. H., during the past week, including Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Roche, Mrs. George Weiland, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Czerny, Mr. and Mrs. W. Powell, Mrs. William B. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Mayo and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Van Leuven.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ganzel and their two daughters arrived recently from California for a visit with Mr. Ganzel's mother, Mrs. Louis C. Ganzel of Westfield avenue. Mrs. Ganzel's daughter, Mrs. Lamar S. Collier who, with her two young daughters has been her mother's guest for the past month, is leaving Saturday for her home in Alabama.

Mr. Theodore H. Ludwig of Kimball avenue returned Saturday from a trip abroad. Mrs. Ludwig has returned from a stay in Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. F. X. McGough and daughters are back in their Euclid avenue home after a vacation at Scituate, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bradfield and daughter, Caroline, of Lenox avenue have taken a cottage at Culver's Lake for a month.

Forty youthful campers left Balsam Knoll Kamp, Orr's Island, Maine, after the camp's closing festivities last Friday and the Westfield contingent brought an impressive array of honors home. LOCAL CHILDREN WIN IN BABY CONTEST

More than seventy children were entered in the baby contest held on Wednesday night at Echo Lake Park under the auspices of Miss Frances Blitzer, the playground supervisor, assisted by Mrs. Vivian F. Keal and Mrs. Julia Welton of the local District Nursing Association who acted as judges.

Bruce Giezer of Westfield was declared the winner in the best developed baby class while Roland Lynch of Elizabeth and Frank A. Torisco of Garwood took honors as being the most plump. George and Russell Romeo of Westfield were judged as having the curliest hair while the honor of having the longest curls went to Mary Ann Luca of Cranford, with Louise Roca of Garwood a close second. Richard Lee Graham of Westfield won the distinction of having the reddest hair of all entrants. Many other events were judged but no local babies were entered.

Certificates of award were presented to winners in each event by the Union County Park Commission.

MAYOR TIPSON LAUDS EMPLOYEES

Mayor Frederick S. Tipson has expressed gratification at the ready response of town employees who have voluntarily turned back 5 per cent of their wages to the town coffers. The Mayor said that rumor had it that a reduction of wages might be made but this was found to be unnecessary, due to the fact that the town employees showed their willingness to co-operate in an effort to reduce municipal expenditures. Mayor Tipson expressed himself as being confident that should he or other town officials bring forward any other constructive means of aiding in bringing about a better condition, these suggestions would be cordially received by employees of the town.

The return of 5 per cent of the wages became effective August 1 and at the last meeting of the Town Council, Dennis N. Lever, the town treasurer, reported the receipt of $478 from this source. About 90 persons employed by the town in various capacities are affected and it is estimated that during the twelve month period the program is in effect, the town will receive a total of $98,000.

DIALINGS

By CHUCK LESLIE

As I was saying something I thought was apropo, Jack Benny interrupted me. Told about the origin of the phrase "Politics makes strange bedfellows"—it seems that he traces back to the fact that they seem to like the same bunk. You could have knocked me over with the proverbial feather—I can't take my puns without coffee. And these "strange bedfellows" are ever with us and with all kinds of water on the shoulder. As Robert Armbruster would put it, "A candidate these days has to carry water on both shoulders—plain water on one and firewater on the other." Whereupon we place a wreath upon the grave of this maestro as he goes into a philosophical twitter. Tsk! Tsk!

The last Europa passenger list carried the name of former Minister to Sweden, Ira Nelson Morris and before long you'll be hearing this diplomat in one of the greatest experiments in international good-will that has been attempted as yet. The idea—Morris plans to visit a number of European countries and arrange various cultural, political, industrial, and scientific programs which will attempt to aid the building of a world consciousness. Radio has been looked upon as one of the greatest mediums for bringing about a greater understanding among the people on this little globe of ours. This new series may be the first step in using radio for this purpose—it will be found on the fall dialings.

The little news item, "Local Boy Makes Good," can be tagged on Russ Columbo—and it was only a year ago that he drifted into the canyons of Broadway with very little cash on hand and a wardrobe that could be stored in an empty matchbox. He may be off the air—but, there is one very good reason for his silence. If you had $300,000 stuck under your chin, would you shake your head? Nor would I. That's the way the story goes—Hollywood took him and it was no cheap deal. People always ask, "How did he do it?" Sounds very simple when you hear it, but did you know that his "break" came from none other than that croon of crooners, Rudy Vallee. It seems Russ dropped into the Pennsylvania Hotel one day to pass upon the work of his rival to be. Through the courtesy of competitor crooner, Rudy Vallee, he was allowed to walk to a local microphone which carries the voice to the rooms of the hotel—Radio then found him—an exec from the chain was listening that one occasion. Yes, it is a very queer world—and the people are perhaps the queerest.

Gar Wood and Kaye Don are at it again and radio is there to tell the tale. From seven angles and an amphibian, one should be able to hear the race without much difficulty. Miss America X will be Gar Wood's entry and the English have their hopes pinned on Miss England III to take the Harmsworth trophy which has been in the arms of Wood for the past 22 years. It should be good—Friday and Saturday morning over NBC.

After flying a flag on the stage of a Broadway revusical and all these years as a columnist, Heywood Broun is airing his ideas in a very interesting chat program at noon hour. A little desert between courses rather than after them—I like it—not the sort of thing you find on every program either. Real meat and plenty of weight in those remarks. Since his attempt to be elected to Congress he has improved his style until he wins a prize—unusual.

I don't expect you to believe it, but . . . Attendance has fallen off at Chicago's Uptown (Public) Theatre since Bennie Kreuger has been on those teatime tunefests; he was their master of ceremonies for three years—and that is a long time . . . Rudy's new Hollywood Villa will not be used by the croon-king; address 55 Central Park West . . . Fortune, the Collie Man, gives radio the credit for his return to health after a sickness—he heard a newscaster say that he wasn't expected to live through the night and fooled them . . .

MISS EDITH PITCHER RECEIVES DEGREE

Miss Edith Pitcher of East Dudley avenue was among the forty-seven students to receive her Master's Degree in French from the Middlebury Language Schools at the commencement exercises held recently. The degrees were conferred by President Paul D. Moody. One doctorate of modern languages was given, the third honor of this kind to be conferred since the degree was instituted at the school.

The commencement brought to a close one of the most successful summer sessions in the history of the institution. The enrollment included students from every part of the country and from practically every major college and the session consisted of a six week period of concentrated study in French, Itlaian, Spanish, German or English. There was a slight drop in the enrollment due to economic conditions but an increase was shown in the German department and the newly established Italian department drew a much larger attendance than was expected. France, Spain and Porto Rico were the principal foreign countries represented.

WELFARE BOARD WILL MEET TODAY

The County Welfare Board which meets today is expected to give old age relief grants to about 125 investigated cases, according to an announcement made by Irving Engleman, clerk of the board.

Persons involved, along with those awarded grants at previous meetings of the board, may expect checks by September 2, Mr. Engleman said.

County Attorney Francis J. Blatz of Plainfield has been busy the last two days in the capacity of county adjuster reviewing the investigations of the 125 new cases. He will make recommendations at today's meeting.

According to Clerk Engleman there are 680 applicants registered in his office, 325 men and 355 women.

41 MEN SEEK ADMISSION TO BAR

Robert F. Darby of 11 East Dudley avenue and John C. Nuisance Peddlers

The housewife has a hard time these days and we wouldn't trade places with her for a good deal of real gold. Husbands who may find their wives a bit out of sorts at the end of the day can lay it to the "Nuisance Peddlers".

Westfield, in common with other suburban towns, has recently been overrun with this latest development of commerce and trade. We don't know what the record of interruptions for a single day is or who holds it, but it is a fact that most local door bells are weakening under the strain.

Not so bad is the salesman who has a reliable article, probably a wanted one, to sell, but nothing less than nuisances are those who want to get rid of most amazing objects. And they are persistent, in some cases insulting.

As one town enforces its ordinances these people overrun the next, and they do a very complete job.

As a matter of protection, the housewife should ask for the police permit which every canvasser in Westfield is required to have and if one is not shown call the police. Secondly, buy nothing that it is not certain is as represented.

We recognize the right of every one to earn a living, but it isn't fair nor good economics to permit unreliable out-of-town canvassers to take business away from local stores and housewives should be given protection from fake goods.

Less permits and fewer purchases from out-of-town canvassers will in a short time reduce the number of times one has to answer the door in a day.

Clear Cut Campaigns

Political campaigns have become so active in recent years that the average voter approaches election day muddled and not at all sure that he has selected the best man after all.

The greatest service political parties could render would be to reduce their arguments for votes to the language of the layman, keeping only to facts which cannot be questioned.

No sooner does a campaign of a party get under way than the competing factions become embroiled in charges and counter charges, and in short order the battle becomes so heated that paradoxically the voter is forgotten in the mad scramble for votes.

The public is deserving of better treatment and greater appreciation of its intelligence. So much has been said and written the past few years on governments, city, State or National, that Mr. and Mrs. Voter are apt to be easily offended by any appeal not based on common sense. Voters are interested in what a candidate will do if elected and in whether or not he is able to do it. Campaign directors should keep this in mind.

Value In Ocean Flying

Since ocean flying has become so popular, the question: "What does it mean?" again comes up. It has been said they prove nothing and that instead of aiding aviation, they have discredited it by the deaths which have resulted.

These statements are not entirely true. The ocean flights have done and are doing for aviation just what automobile races in the early days did for the automobiles. They constitute a proving ground and they must have given valuable information to manufacturers and designers.

Ocean flights have been made both ways. They have been made by women and by men, in small 'planes and large ones, and they have advanced aviation.

They have established confidence in the ability of airplanes and pilots and they have encouraged all connected with the industry to greater progress.

Well planned flights with definite objects in view are commendable. All others are foolhardy and detrimental to the growth of a great industry.

Spoiling the Record

It is a pity that with decreases in practically all phases of accidents, the figures for those caused by automobiles have to spoil the record.

The National Safety Council has reported that figures for 1931 show decreases of fatal accidents except for auto deaths.

Of approximately 97,000 accidental deaths last year, automobiles had first place in causes with 33,500, compared with 32,929 in 1930, and 13,939 ten years ago. Six per cent of the number are blamed to women drivers.

Some 29,000 people were killed in their homes.

Aviation is safer. The number of fatal accidents for the year decreased from 620 in 1930 to 500.

Deaths in industry decreased from 19,000 in 1930 to 17,000 in 1931, and drownings were considerably less.

When it is noted that the chief cause of automobile accidents is pure carelessness it is too bad that a concerted effort cannot be made to clear the record.

BATTLE THREATENS ICEMEN-STAR GAME

In a game which almost resulted in a free for all fight, the North Stars defeated the Knickerbocker Icemen 5-0 Friday night at Echo Lake Park. The game was played to determine the Westfield Softball League championship as each team had won first honors in the first and second halves. The Icemen won the opening tilt on Tuesday night of last week by scoring a 1-0 decision over the Stars.

Players on both sides were more or less on edge and it did not take much to start the fireworks. It is said that spectators became involved and one person who attempted to be a peacemaker received a black eye for his trouble. At one period the game almost developed into a young riot. Fists flew, bats were flourished and rival players were ready to spring at each other's throats but the storm was quelled without much damage.

The Stars and Icemen played a scoreless game up until the seventh frame, when the former pushed two markers across. They added three more in the eighth while the Icemen were unable to make a single plate crossing. McDonald was on the firing line for the Stars and yielded 11 safeties which he kept well scattered. Rosendale and E. Dreyer divided hurling honors and the Stars gathered a total of 15 hits off both.

"NO LICENSES" COSTLY TO 419 CHEAP "SPORTSMEN"

Many poachers who schemed to hunt and fish in New Jersey without paying the state license fee for the privilege have found that poor sportsmanship also is poor economy. When 416 of them were apprehended by wardens during the last fiscal year, they paid in fines and costs several times the price of a license, as shown by the annual report of the State Fish and Game Commission. Another 110 violators were arrested when as non-residents, they attempted to "economize" by purchasing the lower-priced resident licenses.

The twelve-month period ending June 30, 1932, was a busy year for the New Jersey fish and game wardens. They made a total of 1395 arrests for various violations. This was only 24 less than in the previous year, which holds the record. Of this big total only 15 were acquitted of charges against them, according to the report which is prepared by Protector James H. Stratton.

A few sentences were suspended because of extenuating circumstances and 35 cases were appealed to higher courts. In default of fines 64 defendants were sent to jail for periods from 10 to 90 days. Hunting and fishing licenses of 114 violators were revoked and 16 guns were confiscated from foreigners.

LEAVITT GIVES FIGURES FROM COUNTY DEPTS.

A statement issued by County Treasurer Nathan R. Leavitt shows that five county departments report receipts of $137,203.62 for the first seven months of 1932 as against anticipated revenue for the year of $230,000.

The office of Sheriff Frank R. Emmons reports receipts of $50,187.45 to July 31, against anticipated revenue for the year of $50,000. Increase in the number of papers being served through the sheriff's office, and the increase in realty foreclosure actions helped to swell the fees.

County Register Edward Bauer reports receipts of $37,596.04, against anticipated revenue for the year of $70,000.

Surrogate George H. Johnston reports $24,829.88 for seven months, against anticipated income for the year of $70,000.

County Clerk Neil McLeod, Jr., reports receipts of $16,993.02 for seven months against $25,000 anticipated for the year.

The county courts produced $7,597.23 in fines, against $15,000 anticipated from this source for the year.

Treasurer Leavitt also reports that $9,488.75 has been received as interest on bank deposits, and that $10,000 is anticipated from this source for the year.

The young man prepared to enter Union College at the Pingry School, Elizabeth, from which he was graduated in June. While at Pingry he was prominently identified with the musical and literary activities of the school and was also a member of the soccer and track teams.

World's Oldest Map?

Harvard authorities believe that a crude little map unearthed by the Semitic and Fogg museums' expedition at the site of ancient Nuzi, in Iraq, 200 miles north of Babylon, is the oldest map in the world. They estimate that the map, a clay tablet that may be held in the hollow of the hand, dates back more than forty centuries.

NEWS FROM TRENTON

GOV. MOORE WANTS FURTHER ECONOMY

(Special to the Leader)

Governor A. Harry Moore has called upon heads of all state departments to further curtail governmental expenses by saving as much as ten per cent of current appropriations for materials, supplies, equipment and as much as 5 per cent of appropriations for personal services.

"The time has come when the expenses of the state government must be reduced" said the Governor in a letter to departmental officials. "The state with reduced revenues, like the family with a diminished income, must go without many things which it would like to have if ample funds were available. Under our curtailed public income and in response to the existing conditions, ways must be found to obtain the necessary essential of government at a cost below our accustomed expenditures."

In announcing the new policies and regulations to be observed during the remainder of the fiscal year, Governor Moore served notice on state officials that expensive furnishings or equipment will not be authorized in the future and that no transfer of funds from one account to another will be tolerated unless shown to be absolutely necessary.

The Governor has called a halt to future traveling at the expense of the state, except when absolutely necessary. The Governor also ordered the discontinuance of allowance for mid-day meals of officers and employes and also payment of living expenses near the place of employment, except in institutional positions where maintenance is a part of the compensation.

Hoffman Explains

Beseiged with requests from automobile accessory and service dealers, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Harold G. Hoffman declared that he has no legal right to revoke licenses of motorists for indebtedness. Replying to requests to punish motorists by taking away their licenses for nonpayment of debts, Commissioner Hoffman said that there were no laws to permit such drastic action. Many of the complaints came from gas station owners who sought the revocation of the driver's license until the bill was paid.

Will Appeal Order

Attorney General William A. Stevens has filed a formal notice with the clerk of the Court of Chancery of an appeal from the order of Chancellor Edwin R. Walker for the use of surplus funds of the court to finance the probe of receivership practices. The Chancellor has held that expenses of the probe to date amounting to $7,359 should be taken from surplus funds of the Court of Chancery which totals approximately $300,000. Attorney General Stevens claims that the Chancery Court fund cannot be tapped for this purpose without legislative sanction. Disclosures of receivership abuses have been the subject of an investigation by the Court of Chancery.

Employment Agencies Warned

Four employment agencies in Glassboro, Gloucester County, have been notified to cease handling labor in South Jersey truck farms through the ancient padrone system or be prosecuted under the state law of 1880, prohibiting the payment of wages otherwise than in cash. Russell J. Eldridge, director of the bureau of employment, has submitted a report to Commissioner Charles R. Blunt on the practice among foreign born farm laborers who are practically enslaved to employment agencies. According to Mr. Eldridge, some of the employment agencies operate general povisions stores in connection with the agencies and require workers to purchase necessities from the store. Farmers employing the laborers pay the wages to the employment agency instead of the workers who deduct the cost of various purchases made in the store before paying off the laborers.

RICHARDS WOULD INVESTIGATE BUDGET

Senator Emerson L. Richards of Atlantic County has announced that when the Senate meets again he will propose a resolution asking for an investigation of the state budget and the purchasing departments. In a statement issued, Senator Richards poked some fun at the Governor in the latter economy program. The Atlantic Senator asked: "If the state is being rooked for $20 pens, $60 ice cream freezers and $900 cows; who is responsible? If now the Governor finds that there is extravagance and waste in state purchases it is squarely up to his own appointee, Mr. Quigley."

Senator Richards pointed to the new law regulating state purchases that empowers the Governor to prohibit excessive costly purchases.

"If eternal vigilance is the price of economy, I guess we have to revive the Abell Commission and go to work again," continued Senator Richards, "therefore when the Senate meets, I propose to move a resolution urging a Senate investigation of the purchasing and budget departments to find who has been permitted these extravagances."

HOLD-UP MEN GET $50 FROM STORE

Two men, one of whom was a negro, held up Abe Babbitt, proprietor of a store at West Broad street and Rahway avenue shortly after 11:30 o'clock Friday night and escaped with $50 in bills and silver which they took from the cash drawer. Babbitt told the police that the men entered the store and asked for cigarettes. As he reached for the package the negro pointed a gun at him and told him to raise his hands. The white man went to the cash drawer and removed the money.

Keeping the proprietor covered, the two men backed their way from the store and jumped into a waiting automobile and were quickly lost from sight. No one saw the getaway and Babbitt was unable to give a good description of the pair. Police Sergeant Louis Pfirrmann and a squad of officers combed the neighborhood for possible traces of the holdup men but found none.

Tomblen Reaches Semi-Finals In Tennis Club Men's Singles

-:- SPOT SPORTS -:-

By HERMAN OBERTUBBESING

Just what has become of those Olympic athletes? Some of them are barnstorming and some are taking a rest—and the losers are the ones that are resting. Women's golf was startled to find that the Texas Olympic wonder is hardly resting. Once in an age I'd read those accounts of women's divot-digging, but they were about as colorful as a wheat field on a calm day. The name of this color-packed individual—must I tell you?—is Mildred (Babe) Didrikson. After taking more than her share in that California Chamber of Commerce meeting, she came out with the statement that she would try golf—just to keep in trim, donchaknow. If she can even cut her score to place her in the first two dozen, it will add enough to the contest to make the matches worth following. A cheer for the colorful lass from Texas.

* * * *

Helen Jacobs, by the way and despite her recent win in the national women's tennis tournament after seven attempts, wants to write short stories more than anything. Those I get I don't want.

* * * *

I don't think I'll ever get over that affair on the west coast—the 1928 winners didn't fare so well. Of the myriads of winners, I can only find three men who repeated in the recent games. For your scrapbook: Pat O'Callaghan that mighty Irishman who slung the hammer to beat his old record. The title for heavyweight wrestling returned to its former owner—Johan Richtoff. And Bobby Pierce fanned his scull faster than four years ago.

* * * *

I guess the Cubs have it. After the second place Dodgers attempted to invade the windy city, it looks well for Charley Grimm's ball swatters. Local wags have tried to place the reason for the real smothering of the Brooklyns to the piece of paper that Charley signed before the Flatbush lads arrived. The paper was a contract which placed Mr. Grimm in the driver's seat for next year. Well, whatever it was—I can say that Guy Bush did his part. Or did you notice the number of Brooklyn moundsmen that were used against him in the second game of that three game scramble between the top and second place. Babe Herman helped to beat his former team-mates by hitting three out of five trials and assisted them in removing three pitchers in no time at all. Mark Konieg didn't let things pass him; this former Tiger and Yankee shortstop figured in six of nine putouts in three innings and that's not so bad.

* * * *

Fans who witnessed the exhibition game of old timers in Cincinnati Sunday were amazed at the prowess of Nick Altrock, funnyman of the diamond. The batter stood gazing at the mound with bat extended in the usual manner. Nick made his usual pigeon-toed movements and looked at his man before placing his toe in the hole. By a wave of his age-cracked hand, he brought all the fielders in. He caught the batter on two barnyard swings and took the last one by a called strike. The crowd was amazed at his confidence until—they announced that the batter was blind.

* * * *

If league position is any indication, teams should change managers every week. Charley Grimm has the Cubs in trim. And what about the boys in Brooklyn under Max Carey. His story is like a story. They let him out of the Pittsburg club only a little while ago and even the Dodgers themselves tied a can to his 19 year record. He wandered around for a while and before I could say National League he was there in Flatbush telling the boys where to hit and how to steal. He has taken them to second place from the near cellar by a streak-like drive which carried 25 wins in 30 games. Even though the Cubs have topped him now— a few days back it was no sure thing. They can't seem to take over the club that has their playful Babe Herman.

* * * *

A record breaker is that twirler from Cleveland, Wesley Ferrell. He is the first hurler that has won 20 or more games in his first four years of major ball.

Circulation figures of a certain Chicago daily went up 35,000 copies on that blue day "Rajah" Hornsby left the Cubs and Charlie Grimm took the reigning job.

BEAVERS TAKE TITLE IN BOYS' LEAGUE

The Beavers pounded their way to a 21-5 decision over the Blue Caps Wednesday morning at Unami Park to win the title of the Westfield Boys' Baseball League. The game was played as the result of the protest filed by the Blue Caps following Friday's game. It was claimed by the latter team that the presence of Joe Dugan in the Beaver line-up was an irregularity. The league officials, after hearing both sides, had sustained the protest. It appears that Dugan's name was on the Beaver roster early in the season but had been crossed off, making the player ineligible.

Gleason hurled for the Beavers and yielded six hits. His teammates drove Rosecrans from the hill and continued their attack against Callahan, who succeeded him, gathering 13 safeties including a triple by Gleason, from both hurlers.

HAWKS WIN 3-0 IN BENEFIT GAME

With Scheck pitching in brilliant form the Hawks scored a 3-0 victory over the Elizabeth Relief Club Wednesday night in an exhibition game for the benefit of the unemployed of Elizabeth. Otto, who is usually found behind the home plate, took it upon himself to carry the pitching burden and a right fine job he did. He only allowed three hits and inspired by the example shown by the veteran, his teammates played airtight ball afield.

The Hawks managed to get six safeties off Babinsc, which included a home run by Terpak. Bob Lincoln led the locals with two hits.

PENSA'S BATTING HELPS DeMOLAY LADS

The H. N. Taylor Company team defeated Dave Colson's DeMolay lads to the tune of 7-3 in a game played Thursday night on the Roosevelt Jr. High School field. As each team had won a game during the Softball League seasons, this was to determine which had the edge.

"Red" Cartwright acted as base umpire and what each team said of him would burn asbestos. This, however, did not phase the little man with the blue shirt and black spectacles and each decision was followed by a cloud of smoke from his pipe.

Ack Pensa's mightly bat raised havoc with the curves of Walter Sell for he was responsible for batting in two of the DeMolay runs. The Fraternity boys had things pretty much their own way for eight innings but a blow-up paved the way for their downfall. The Hardwaremen pounded the offerings of Parsell for three runs in the ninth, enough to win while Walter Sell held the Colsonites scoreless. The line-up:

APPLICATIONS DUE FOR USE OF COUNTY FIELDS

Following the usual policy no seasonal permits for the use of football and soccer fields in the Union County Park system will be issued until September 1. Applications will be received up to and including this date and every effort will be made to meet the requests as submitted. If this is impossible some other provision will be made.

Applications for permits received after this date will be issued in the order received and therefore, it is urged that all teams desiring to use park fields file their application at once with the superintendent of recreation of the Union County Park Commission.

WESTFIELD TO ENTER COUNTY SWIM MEET

Two New Jersey State Junior A. A. U. swimming championships will be held together with the Sixth Annual Union County Swimming Meet at the Rahway pool on Saturday, September 10.

Interest in the meet seems to be greater than in any previous year and entries are being filed daily. The meet is sanctioned by the A. A. U. The 100 meters for men and the similar event for women will bring together the best swimmers in the state at this distance. These events will draw a large number of spectators not heretofore attracted to the county championships.

The men's division was won last year by the Elizabeth YMCA and the high point trophy for the women went to the Elizabeth YWCA. Westfield YMCA will make an attempt this year to repeat their victories of 1929 and 1930.

The program in addition to the A. A. U. events and open to residents of Union County is:

Senior Men (18 years and over)—50-yard free style, 100-yard free style, 200-yard free style, 50-yard back stroke, 100-yard breast stroke, diving, relay, 200-yard free style relay.

Senior Women (16 years and over)—50-yard free style, 75-yard free style, diving.

Juniors, 111 lbs. and over. Junior Boys (not having reached 18th birthday) — 25-yard free style, 50-yard free style, 50-yard breast stroke, 100-yard free style relay, diving.

Junior Girls (not having reached 16th birthday)—25-yard free style, 50-yard free style.

Midget Boys (110 lbs. and under)—25-yard free style, 50-yard free style.

Diving—Set dives (1), front jack dive (2), swan dive (3), back dive, and two optional dives.

Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded winners of first, second and third places respectively. High point team winners will receive awards as in the past.

SHORE BIRDS IN SEASON SEPT. 1. HUNTERS EAGER

Bay shores and meadows will make a big contribution to sport and food for New Jersey gunners when the season opens at noon, September 1, for sora, marsh hen or clapper or king rails and for other rails, except coot, and for galinules. Great early flights of these shore birds are reported from all parts of the coast and from the Delaware valley.

The shore bird season will provide the first hunting of the year for Jersey nimrods, since federal emergency regulations banned the usual January wildfowl hunting. Daily bag limits, as fixed by state law, are: "twenty-five sora, twenty-five in the aggregate of all kinds of rail except sora, including marsh hens and galinules, but not more than fifteen of any one species."

FISH "PLANTING" GAVE ANGLERS GREAT SPORT

Back of the fine sport enjoyed by New Jersey and visiting anglers, this year, the State Fish and Game Commission has revealed in its annual report, was the planting in streams and lakes of a grand total of 118,224,000 fish during the twelve months ending June 30. All but a half-million of these fish were reared at the state fish hatcheries at Hackettstown and Hancock's Bridge. The balance were netted from canals, reservoirs and tidal basins by wardens for redistribution in other waters.

Every stream and lake in New Jersey open to public fishing, free from pollution and suitable for fish life was stocked during the year with varieties best suited for its particular water temperatures and environment. Trout form in weight volume the greatest output of the Hackettstown hatcheries. Three kinds of trout—brook, rainbow and brown—were liberated in legal catchable size of six inches or over and on up to angling super-thrillers of 16 to 20 inches.

Hatchery Superintendent Charles O. Hayford reported excellent results with rearing large and small mouth bass. A total of 128,000 young bass were distributed. Yellow perch and white perch, now the most extensively caught food and game fish in the state, were reared at both hatcheries by the millions and planted in the fry stage. Other species distributed last year were bluegills, common sunfish, crappie and catfish. At the Hancock's Bridge hatchery, 800,000 shad fry were reared and then planted in the headwaters of Maurice river, now the state's chief center of the shad-fishing industry.

UNION SQUARE WINS OVER RECREATIONS

The Union Squares of Elizabeth took a pair of games from the local Recreation quintet in a State Duckpin League match rolled Thursday night in Elizabeth. The Elizabeth team soared beyond the 800 mark to win the opening pair. They captured the first game by 143 sticks aided by Gelhausen's 261. Westfield took the final game by 36 pins, despite the fact that Gelhausen again toppled the pins for a double century.

OTTO SCHECK HURLS HAWKS TO VICTORY

The Hawks finally broke into the win column by registering a 5-3 victory over the hard-hitting Garwood nine Sunday afternoon at Unami Park. Old Otto Scheck, the veteran backstop, decided that it was high time for Westfield to win a game and throwing aside his mask protector and shin guards, he went to the hill and pitched one of the best games of the season. The old fox has caught many good pitchers and the exhibition he put up on Sunday would put many a so-called good twirler to shame. Otto allowed the Garwegians but three hits, including a homer by Klein and a three bagger by Carley, and he didn't issue a pass.

Eddie Conlin pitched a nice game for Garwood but was touched up for eight safeties, which included a circuit smash by Biff Bradley, a triple by MacIsaac and doubles by Lincoln and Scheck. It was a disappointment to Eddie as he had turned in a brilliant victory the last time he faced the Hawks.

Connolley was behind the bat for the Hawks and a right good job he did. Scheck and Lincoln, with two hits each, led the Hawks' attack. Old Wibby Van Doren once more made his appearance before the cheering multitude and in his two trips to the plate he secured one hit. The Hawks made two misplays while Garwood played errorless ball behind Ace Conlin.

The Hawks started out to show Conlin that the mystic spell which he appears to have had during the several times he has pitched against them was broken and they pushed two runs over in the opening inning. They added another in the second inning, one more in the fifth and just to put the game on ice, scored again in the eighth.

Otto Scheck was the man of mystery this time. The old master mowed the Garwegians down like so much grass for six innings, ably supported by his mates afield. In the seventh the Garwood team broke the ice and scored one run and added another pair in a short rally in the ninth.

On Saturday afternoon the Hawks played an exhibition game with a team calling itself the Elizabeth Farmers. The locals won the contest 10-3 with Joe Betz on the firing line. Joe Pecina started for the Farmers but gave way to another hurler. No box score is available and the only reports available come from spectators. One of the features, it is said, was a home run scored by a Hawk player. He bunted, reached first base safely, went to second on a wild throw and kept on going to third, crossing the plate on another misplay.

STEARNS-APGAR WIN CLUB PLAY

Initial honors in the Relay Tournament staged Saturday at the Shackamaxon Country Club went to Councilman Sheldon Stearns of Westfield, paired with D. L. Apgar of Plainfield, with a card of 79—9—70. H. B. Bell and C. J. Fritz, the only pair to post a score, followed with 88—15—73. About 40 players were entered in the tourney but the majority appeared to be somewhat out of form.

The elimination of Joseph A. West, seeded 2, by W. T. Livermore in the third round and R. W. Pitman's victory over Horace Baker in a quarter-final match, featured the play on Sunday in the annual Men's Singles Tournament held at the Westfield Tennis Club. Livermore, who was unseeded, defeated his opponent in three hard sets, 3-6, 8-6, 6-2, while Pitman also unseeded, played most brilliantly to upset Baker, seeded 4, by scores of 7-9, 6-4, 6-4.

Robert L. Tomblen, defending champion, turned back four opponents to gain the semi-final round. His match with W. M. Campbell in the first round Saturday afternoon was one of the features of the play. Campbell put up a great battle but Tomblen outsmarted him at critical times to win the match, 6-1, 6-3. L. L. Tremaine, runner-up in last year's tourney, also reached the semi-finals by eliminating four opponents. He won three of his four sets by love scores. Tomblen will meet Pitman this week-end.

Livermore and Carter and Tremaine and Moser will meet during the current week to play their quarter-final matches.

Play got under way Saturday afternoon with an entry list of 40 members of the club. The majority of matches played that day were won in straight sets, although E. R. Merry, 3rd, was forced to an extra set in his match with Carl Kinsley, whom he defeated 6-1, 5-7, 6-3. The players who lost their first matches were entered in a Consolation Tournament which got under way later in the day.

ALEXANDER WILL TRY FOR CORNELL SQUAD

Harold M. Alexander of Westfield, a student at Cornell University, is among the 85 men who have been invited to report for early football practice by Coach Gil Dobie. The squad will assemble on September 5 and begin preparation for the intensive football schedule which the big red team will take on this season. Synopsis of Preceding Chapters

After his marriage to Grace Livingston, Tommy Tucker closes his real estate business in Reading and takes his bride to Joplin, Mo. There, for eleven months, he tries to establish himself as a realtor, spending his last cent on some old Amusement Park property, hoping to sell it to the railroad for a spur line. The night the deal is to be closed, Barstow, the road's buyer, and his wife are dining at the Tucker apartment. Suddenly Dick Loring, an old flame of Grace's and Tommy's former rival, drops in unexpectedly. He announces that he is now with the railroad.

Chapter IV

DICK'S announcement fell like a bombshell upon the small group. Tommy started and stared open-mouthed at Loring. Grace's face lighted with a pleased expression of surprise.

"I've heard some very fine things about you Mr. Loring," Barstow said.

"I'm sure you have," Grace added smilingly. "We all knew Dick would give a good account of himself. Didn't we, Tommy!"

"Oh, yes," Tommy retorted in a tone of disgust. "Nobody would give a better account of himself than Dick."

"How have you been doing, Tommy?" Dick smiled.

"Oh, I'm making out all right."

"Making out all right," echoed Grace in a voice that mingled surprise with pride. "Why he's doing splendidly, Dick. Tommy's going to be a very rich man. He's sold—."

Never mind" Tommy cut her off curtly, "sit around and—."

"Oh, do let me tell him," Grace persisted. "Tommy has a big piece of property the railroad is going to buy to build a new road."

"For that new spur line?" Dick assumed, arching his eyebrows.

"Yes," said Tommy flatly.

"Good boy, Tommy," Dick congratulated him.

"Tommy has been awfully clever about it," Grace went on proudly. "It was an old amusement park, and Tommy found out that—."

"Amusement park?" Dick interrupted her quizzically. "Out by Hillsboro?"

"No, not Hillsboro — Knollwood," Tommy corrected him.

Loring hesitated a moment and as he regarded Tommy a sarcastic grin spread over his face. "Is that what you're counting on to make you rich?"

"Oh, I have other interests," replied Tommy casually.

"Well, I'm glad of that Tommy, because Knollwood's not where the road's to be built at all."

"Oh," gasped Grace, "oh—oh—oh Tommy!"

"Oh, what!" snapped Tommy angrily.

"Oh, did you hear what he said?"

"Certainly!" But what does he know about it?"

"Well, I ought to know something," Dick laughed contemptuously, "I'm going to construct it!"

It was Barstow who now broke into the aggravated conversation. "Are you sure of what you're saying, Loring?" he asked hesitantly. "If the route's been changed they have not advised me."

"I don't know anything about that," Dick answered him.

"Tucker," said Barstow, now thoroughly disturbed, "Have you got the maps? Maybe Loring has the names mixed."

Tommy brought a large map from the small desk in the corner of the room and spreading it on the table, began, "Now, I'll show you—."

"You don't have to show me, cut in Dick. "Here is Hillsboro—the road comes down this way from Joplin."

Barstow could not speak for a moment, he was so amazed. "This knocks me a twister, Loring," he finally exclaimed. "Tucker and I had practically concluded negotiations for his property."

"Oh! Are you the right-of-way agent?" Dick turned to Tommy and smiled: "Well, I didn't mean to queer your sale, Tommy."

Tommy could contain himself no longer. He jumped up heatedly from the table. "Say, what is this," he cried, "a frame-up?"

"That's not the way I work, Mr. Tucker," Barstow stated sharply, as he too, rose from the table. "I try to get all things as reasonable as I can but I don't accept the hospitality of a man and try to do him at the same time. I'd like to have another day on that option."

"That option is up to-night," retorted Tommy vehemently.

"Well, I'm not ready to give you an answer now."

"I can't help that. I know you want it, and tomorrow it will cost you more."

The glare in Barstow's eyes softened sympathetically as he turned to Grace.

"I think under the circumstances, Mrs. Tucker," he said, "the best thing for Mrs. Barstow and me to do is—retire."

"Please dont," Grace pleaded, "Tommy has been working very hard lately, and his nerves—."

"I really think it's best!" Barstow reiterated.

Grace was trembling with emotion as she saw her guests to the door, and when the last good night was finally said gave way to her feelings. Sinking into a chair, she buried her face in her arms on the table. Tommy came over to her and put his arm around her shoulder but Grace shook him off.

"What are you crying for, Grace?" he whispered with boyish tenderness.

"Didn't you say that we hadn't a cent in the world," she sobbed. "And my Liberty Bond! You've gone and lost my Liberty Bond! You had no right to do that—you know you hadn't."

"You said it would be all right," Tommy said meekly.

"I said that because you said you were going to make a lot of money."

"Don't you worry about our not having a lot of money."

"But I do. I guess we'll always be just nothing," she went on, crying as though her heart would break, "always live in flats—I'll do my own cooking—make my own dresses, and we'll have to put on a brave front to our friends, just as we had to do to Dick tonight."

Tommy straightened, bristling with resentment. "Is that so?" he flung at her caustically. "Well, I'm just a little bit tired of hearing about Mr. Loring. For two pins I'd go over to his hotel and tell him what I think of him."

"Well, you won't," sniffled Grace, looking up at him, "you've behaved badly enough for one night."

"I don't think you've behaved so well yourself, for a respectable married woman. I thought you were going to kiss Loring when he came in. I wish now I'd punched him."

"Well, you'd better not—you'd get the worst of it," she retorted.

Tommy smiled at her a sickly smile. "You don't think I'm any good at all, do you, Grace? Maybe it would be better if I went out some place and never came back. At least you'd have my insurance."

Grace's face was scarlet as she looked up at him. "Tommy," she cried, jumping to her feet. "Don't you talk that way. I won't have . . ."

"Well, that's better than living with a man who can't support you."

"Stop it! shouted Grace, stamping her foot, "Stop it, I say."

But Tommy would not stop. "Maybe you'd rather have me wait until I take out another policy—enough to take you to London or Paris."

How long Tommy would have continued his tirade will never be known, for Grace suddenly swept madly out of the room and returned a few moments later, dressed for the street, an overnight bag in her hand.

"Where—where are you going?" demanded Tommy.

"I'm going home!"

Tommy never moved so rapidly in all his born days. He fairly flew to the door, blocking her passage. "No, you're not. You're not going to leave this house."

"Who's going to prevent me," she sneered at him.

"I am!"

"Oh, no you're not! Get out of my way, please."

"If you go out of that door, Grace, you and I are through."

"Of course, we are!" she told him firmly.

"I mean it, Grace," he warned her weakly, "I . . ."

"I hope you do—so do I. Goodbye!" and she slammed the door after her.

MOVIES

Rialto Theatre, Westfield

"Red Headed Woman," Katherine Brush's widely-read novel of a stenographer who capitalized on her sex appeal, comes to the local screen with Jean Harlow, her famous platinum-blonde hair changed to a flaming red, in the title role. The picture is the attraction today and tomorrow at the Rialto Theatre, Westfield. The management begs to advise parents that "Red Headed Woman" is a picture that is not recommended for children.

Friday and Saturday of this week, George Brent and Joan Blondell will be seen in "Miss Pinkerton," a story from the pen of Mary Roberts Rinehart and one that will be found suitable for children as well as adults. The co-feature on the same two days should prove a joy-fest for the children of this community, due to the revival of the famous juvenile offering, "Skippy." The latter is presented as a request offering and one which will no doubt arouse more than ordinary interest.

Monday and Tuesday, September 5, 6, an unusually good holiday bill will grace the loca screen. A picture of super laughs, "Million Dollar Legs," in which Hollywood's funniest people offer a fortune in fun, frolic and foolishness; the cast contains the names of the screen's most humorous comedians including Jack Oakie, W. C. Fields, Andy Clyde, Ben Turpin, Hank Mann, Lyda Roberta, Geo. Barbier, Hugh Herbert, Dickie Moore and Susan Fleming.

The co-feature on the above two days is from the pen of the noted thrill producer and Sherlock Holmes master mind, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle —it is none other than "The Missing Rembrandt," which is the most recent adventure of Sherlock.

With the combination of the Olympic scream, "Million Dollar Legs," and the Sherlock Holmes thrill, as well as the popular team of Laurel and Hardy, Rialto patrons can anticipate a day of meritorious entertainment so far as the movies are concerned.

On Wednesday and Thursday, September 7, 8, George Bancroft and Wynne Gibson appear in the best screen presentation of the former's career, "Lady and Gent," a picture that will recover many of the followers who have deserted "Big George"; it is a role that is made to order for Bancroft—and Miss Gibson is not in the background—exceptional character work and perfect support brings this young lady to the foreground of interest. The balance of the cast offers James Gleason, Charles Starrett, Joyce Compton, Charles Grapewin, John Wayne and a host of others.

"Roar of the Dragon" with Richard Dix, and Constance Bennett in "What Price Hollywood," is the local attraction for Friday and Saturday, September 9, 10.

* * *

Paramount Theatre, Plainfield

Having given the general public just about time to recover from successive pokes in the ribs, the four cocoanuts—pardon, the four Marx brothers—have gone to town again, this time in a concoction appropriately enough called "Horse Feathers." It is coming to the Paramount Theatre, Plainfield, for one week beginning Friday, September 2.

Neither in heaven nor on earth, on land nor sea, is there anything even remotely resembling "Horse Feathers." It is just about the most insanely delirious howl that has ever hit the screen. It has neither rhyme nor reason, except to make audiences laugh until the tears roll. You can take past performances, lay them end to end (if possible) and you still will be a million miles from approximating this mad pandemonium which some inspired soul out Hollywood way saw fit to give a title.

This time the Marx maniacs go collegiate; Groucho is the new president of Huxley College, Zeppo is a Freshman, Harpo is working his way thru college, and Chico plays college football and runs a speakeasy on the side. Between them they make the picture just a long, loud college yell.

Liberty Theatre, Plainfield

Gay parties and thrilling action in city night clubs will be seen in "Crooner," which begins a four-day engagement at the Liberty Theatre, Plainfield, on Saturday. David Manners and Ann Dvorak, who make such an excellent team as lovers, will be seen as the leading players in this production. The former, who plays the title role, is said to give an excellent performance as the crooner who leaps to fame overnight and becomes so impressed with his accidental success that he imagines he is a genius. Miss Dvorak takes the part of his college sweetheart. Ken Murray, famous radio entertainer, proves to be just as entertaining on the screen as publicity manager, while Claire Dodd, Broadway favorite, sets the heart aflutter as a society vamp; Guy Kibbee contributes barrels of fun as a jovial drunk in a night club.

The theme is said to be a composite story of the lives of famous crooners and takes a satirical jab at the vanities of professional entertainers. It is gay and jazzy, a revelation of the wild hysteria of night club life, although it carries a serious vein of delightful romance. It abounds with humorous sequences and exciting action, interspersed with sparkling dialogue.

Oxford Theatre, Plainfield

Marion Nixon's charm and wistfulness, characteristic of all her past film work, are said to reach their highest expression in her current success, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" special Fox production of the great love story which starts a four-day run Saturday at the Oxford Theatre, Plainfield. Ralph Bellamy in the male lead is another favorite in the production.

An outing of three weeks in northern California was included in the location trips during the filming of this picture. Another jaunt taken by the company and more than three score technicians was an outdoor location near Long Beach where a New England blizzadr was reproduced for the picture.

This romantic drama introduces a new baby "find" to the screen. He is Ronald Harris, curly-headed two-year old, who, it is said, nearly steals the picture, his first.

"Ballyhoo of 1932"—Shubert Theatre, Newark

Glittering with bright names and witticisms is the new revue, "Ballyhoo of 1932," which began a week's engagement Monday at the Shubert Theatre, Newark. This daring and colorful production is sponsored by four young men of the present day theatre and art world, Norman Anthony, magazine editor who has written skitches and dialogue for the production; Russell Patterson, designer of costumes and settings for the show; Lewis Gensler, whose tunes in the revue range from modern music to spirited schottische's of the past; and Bobby Connelly, whose numbers in the show range from hill-billy satires to take-offs on the brokerage systems, all done to dance rhythm.

Heading the brilliant cast of artists to be seen are Willie and Eugene Howard, who bring to the stage two characterizations that will go down in history alongside the famous Smith Bros. of magazine fame. Supporting are Jeanne Aubert, Lulu McConnell, Bob Hope, Vera Marshe, Gloria Gilbert, etc., not to mention a luscious chorus of 75 Ballyhoo beauties.

"Clear All Wires" Opens Broad St. Theatre, Newark

If excitement and fun are what theatregoers of today want, there will be plenty of both when Herman Shumlin's production of "Clear All Wires!" opens Monday evening, September 5, at the Broad St. Theatre, Newark. With a cast of more than 35 players, headed by Thomas Mitchell, one of Broadway's best acting bets in both comedy and drama, this new show promises to become one of Broadway's new season hits when it arrives there the week after its Newark premiere. The production, written by Bella and Samuel Spewack, is, in a different way, one of never-dull stage surprises.

those up-to-the-minute quick moving

The plot is laid in Moscow—is one of the timeliest plays written—and, in addition to its roaring comedy and swift dramatic action, reveals an intimate and surprising glimpse of manners and customs of the Soviet Republic.

Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Mitchell, whose recent performances in "Riddle Me This," etc., gave him an enviable reputation, has the featured role of B. J. Thomas, a roving journalist who lives for excitement; if he cannot find it, he creates it—this is one of the most colorful parts ever written. Dorothy Mathews has a comedy role; others in the cast are Egon Brecher, Charles Romano, Dorothy Tree, and many others.

STARDUST

By HAL MARCUS

Four Star Folks: Joan Crawford, born Lucille LeSeur in San Antonio, Texas, twenty odd years ago. The gods lavish their gifts on some, but Joan's life is a shining example of grubbing and perseverance. Six years ago she was high kicking in Harry Richman's nooyawk giggle club. She didn't have any trouble slipping into Hollerwood unnoticed; plumb, shapeless, and extremely awkward, she had about as much chance of breaking into the moompichers as Harry Langdon has of playing Hamlet. But the gal had the yen and the nerve. Starting from scratch with a very little bit of money, she went on a shudderable diet, cut her weight down, took lessons in grace, tumbled, turned somersaults, jumped rope, and performed the whole routine of bone-breaking body-building stunts. She first clicked in "Our Dancing Daughters." Since that time she's appeared in a number of hit pictures, her best performance, in our opinion, being that given in her latest show, "Letty Lynton." She has acted opposite every leading man of worth in Movietown, and has managed to make monkeys out of most of them, including the great god Gable. Gorgeous clothes-horse Gloria Swanson looks like a Delancey street wax dummy alongside of Crawford at her dressiest. Emgeem is grooming the gal to succeed la Garbo if the Swedish firefly really does decide to hang her hat in the land of matches and fjords (pronounced fjords). Crawford is hard as nails, and would probably use her own mother for a stepping stone if she thought it would aid her career. There are those who believe that she married Junior Fairbanks for the same reason, although the two seem to be hitching the affair off well enough. Joan is an unnatural actress, and, if we didn't like her, we'd say she has a tendency toward melodramatic. But we do like her—for us she typifies Hollywood at heart—hard, glittering, grasping, mean—but always reaching out for something higher, something better—and sometimes achieving it. The Deitrichs and Hardings and Carrolls and Sydneys may come and go, but it'll be a long time before another Crawford crashes Hollywood!

* * *

Emgeem started it, but Fox is keeping the all-star picture making going. In "State Fair," the newest Will Rogers super, the Oklahoma cowboy will have for his support Janet Gaynor, Sally Eilers, Robert Montgomery, Phillips Holmes, Spencer Tracy and Louise Dresser. What a picture that ought to be! To quote Cyrano Durantee "Oboyoboyoboy!"

* * *

Incidentally, Will Rogers will turn crooner in his "Jubilo" now under production. Some of Tin Pan Alley's ablest tunester's are spending their days and nights banging out torch songs for the Claremore Kid.

Add Garboiana: If the Warner boys are successful in their negotiations with Emgeem, none other than Greta the First will have the leading fem role opposite Warren William in "The Match King." And, to add a touch of Spice, if the arrangement goes through, part of the picture will be shot on the Swedish estate of the late Ivar Kreuger, the thinly disguised loco-foco tycoon of the story. What these ingenious studio sticklers won't do in the name of sweet realism!

Sari Maritza, petite English ingenue imported to do leads for smart drawing room pictures, has a story to tell. Last November while playing legit in London she was cabled for and told to arrive in Movietown by the first of January. Just before Christmas she was taken down with an appendix attack and doctors advised an immediate operation. Sari underwent the operation, but insisted upon being put on board ship immediately afterward, much against the advice of her medico. The crossing over wasn't particularly pleasant, and between the pain and the rolling sea, the little lady spent a miserable Christmas day on board ship. When she landed in New York she turned down the invitation of a friend to stay there a while and rest, but hurried on to Hollywood. She got there on time, only to find that the picture she was supposed to work on had been shelved and there was no other part for her in view. To date Sari has been in California eight months without making faces at a camera. Hollywood!
