Red Cross Fund Over the Top

More Than $50,000
Quota Reported In
Tuesday Night

The 1944 Red Cross War Fund for Westfield-Mountainside has passed with a total of $50,000, according to George W. Wilcox, general chairman of the campaign organization. The goal was $50,000 for this year as compared with $28,300 for 1943.

Mr. Wilcox expressed his gratitude to all who contributed to the success of the effort. He wishes to thank residents who loyally supported the campaign with their funds as well as members of the following War fund campaign committee: Special sales, advertising, publicity, display, advertising, Mountainside, businessmen, teachers, and also the Union managers, captains, block workers, the press, Boy Scouts, members of the various Red Cross units, including the Junior organization and Mr. F. S. G. Williams, who acted as secretary and compiled all the lists of contributors.

Legislators To Go to Trenton

In preparation for Youth Week in April, when boys and girls will take over the local government in Westfield and participate in the State Youth Legislature, George W. Wilcox, boy governor; John Ludlow, assemblyman, and Otis Armstrong, mayor, accompanied by Donald M. Wilcox, will attend the second in a series of pre-legislative conferences at Princeton.

Monday the Westfield "legislators" will visit Trenton as guests of Senator Herbert J. Pascoe, who will introduce them to the state Senate and assembly in action.

Kenneth Mitchell, also an assemblyman, will be unable to attend the Saturday conference, because of his election into the armed service. William H. Warner, social science instructor at WHS, will accompany the group to Trenton.

Defense Council Will Mail Cards For Soldier Vote

Relatives Asked To Make Prompt Return
Of Information

The Westfield Defense Council in order to carry out its assignment to obtain and file with State Headquarters in Trenton a complete list of all the absentee voters in Westfield whether in the armed services or in the auxiliary services such as the Merchant Marine, Red Cross, U. S. O., etc., will mail an official registration card to the home address beginning the first of next week. The families are urged to complete these cards and return them promptly to the Defense Council, 603 North Avenue, where they will be sorted, checked with the Historian's records and forwarded in batches to the Area Headquarters in Newark.

It will not be the responsibility of either the families of the absentees or the Defense Council to pass on the eligibility of the voter. This will be done in Trenton and it will therefore be necessary to forward complete sets of cards irrespective of the age or citizenship of the absentee. If relatives or friends of any of the men or women in the war services have not already listed this absentee with the Defense Council, it should be done immediately so that they may receive a registration card. Governor Edge is particularly anxious that no citizen of this state should be deprived of his vote through absence from his home town due to the war effort.

The special laws governing the voting privilege of citizens in war time do not apply to civilian workers who may be out of town with the exception of those in the field services of the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., etc.

Frequently notices from the camps are inaccurate or incomplete, requiring a double change. We therefore ask that relatives advise us of changes of addresses as soon as they are received. You will be doing your son or daughter a favor, because missed copies cannot be made up.

The affair was a dinner meeting at the YMCA, at which Mrs. Dorothy V. C. Wood, the president, presided.

America will play a great part in winning the peace, the speaker said, as it is the most powerful nation in the world. She mentioned the Food and Agricultural International Organization, which has been studying the problem of the food market and the standard of living. Another problem, she pointed out, is the question of the exchange value of our monies, and that is something, she declared, we cannot handle alone.

Dr. Hickman particularly stressed the International Committee to Prevent War. She said unless we have such an organization, we will have a third war in 20 years. She declared that if this international organization is not achieved within the next two years it will not be achieved at all.

Mabel Wells of New Brunswick, state vice-president, was a guest at the meeting and spoke briefly.

Fitted for Contour

Fields that have been in grass and legumes and still have sufficient stands are well fitted for farming on the contour, since buffer strips may be left along the contour lines to facilitate turning for short rows and to check erosion. Sod from this land can be left in draws to form the grass waterways essential to this type of farming.

Westfielder Breaking Records With Army

Headquarters, European Theatre of Operations—Men from the British Royal Corps of Signals are observing methods by which soldiers of a United States Army signal construction battalion set 45-foot telephone poles in line at the rate of three minutes per pole. M-Sgt. A. F. Hallam of 1731 Boulevard, formerly with the Bell Telephone Co., is a member of the record breaking unit.

The British detachment as well as villagers and farmers in the area were astounded to watch Americans digging five-foot holes and erecting as many as 66 poles a day, and even a greater number when flint and chalk substrata do not slow the work. An American borer mounted on a two and a half ton truck is used. It can go nine feet down, and with four augur sizes can dig holes from eight to 20 inches in diameter. It is powered from the truck motor.

A cable gang, erecting 23 miles of the heaviest single cable ever laid in England, follows the earth boring crew. The 'phone cable contains 768 lines of single wire.

In charge of the American crew, which consists mostly of former telephone and power line workers, is Master Sergeant Howard C. Dodge of Morristown.

"All you have to do is tell these boys what you want and they know how to do it," he said. On one occasion the outfit ran out of poles. Sgt. Dodge took a truckload of his men and unloaded 12,000 poles in 11 days.

Charles Clark's store, at Broad Street and Jerusalem Road (now Clark Street) was built about 1800 and destroyed by fire, 1880. Captain Charles Clark, the pioneer, set up the first trading post in this locality, about 1730. The present titular head of the family, our Town Clerk since 1909, is of the seventh generation and the fifth in lineal descent to bear the surname, Charles. The above photograph was taken about 1865. The man with the fulsome whiskers (on the right) is Tom McClintock, delivery clerk and tenore robusto.

Tuning Up At Charlie Clark's

Black Lou stood at the foot of the stairs. On his broad shoulders two sacks of grain, weighing 100 pounds each, rested as lightly as though they were feathers. "Some sugar, Boss Clark," he begged. "Dat's what I wants afore I goes up"—and he opened his mouth wide.

Into that yawning chasm, Boss Clark crammed a handful of brown sugar. The Negro pressed it back with his tongue and mumbled, "Mo', Boss Clark! I wants mo'!"

His prodigious mouth filled to capacity at last, Black Lou gave an approving grunt and mounted the stairs to the storage room. Soon he was back again for more sacks and more sugar, and with every load his step grew lighter. He was happy as long as he could have all the brown sugar he could eat. After a fourth and final bulging mouthful, he crooned.

Black Lou was the handy man at Charlie Clark's store. Born in slavery, he was a physical giant with the mind of a child. His name was said wherever he could find shelter. In the winter, he hung around the store because it was warm and there was some work for him to do and lots of sugar. Besides, he liked to listen to Boss Clark play the fiddle and the white folks sing and tell stories.

Boss Clark was a fine fiddler. He played that instrument in the Presbyterian Church and led the singing before the organ was installed. At the store, the boys would gather round the pot stove and regale on tobacco and cheese supplied by their generous host and tune up for Sunday service. Breast-pin Billy Miller had a tobacco tenor voice and Billy Applegate, station master, a powerful baritone. Ezra Miller was at his vocal best while nibbling cheese. Ichabod Ross and Tom McClintock carried the air with the aid of the fiddle, and Squire Pierson and Isaac H. Scudder joined in modestly, when the tune wasn't pitched too high.

Boss Clark usually struck up "Old Folks At Home" when it was time for the party to break up. That tune just suited Breast-pin Billy's voice and he put everything he had into it, fortissimo. By the time the chorus had been reached, Black Lou would be out in the middle of the floor, his body swinging and his eyes rolling, while he sang, in deep solemn tones: "Far from de old folks at home." And for singing the chorus alone, he received a mouthful of brown sugar. In his old age, he became a ward of the town.

Educated Dog Coming To Bamberger's

"Boots," the feminine half of the dog team "Boots and Saddle" is a dog who knows not only her ab c's but her number work, too. This pair of dogs may be seen at L. Bamberger & Co., at any one of their four free children's shows to be staged for Saturday, March 25.

"Boots" who is the star of the act is half collie and half wolf. She looks like a Shepherd dog and acts like a human being. "Saddle" looks like a mongrel and is one. He is also something of a clown.

Both dogs have made several appearances in motion pictures and have been written up in national magazines. "Boots" knows 1800 words and can add and subtract and multiply. In fact about the only thing she can't do is make out her own income tax. When her trainer, Herbert Rose, asks her what she would do if someone asked her for an autograph she scurries around and finds a pencil and a piece of paper.

These children's shows will be staged four times on Saturday. The first one will be at 11 a. m. in the boys department second floor. Next at 1 o'clock in the girls department on the fourth floor. At 2 o'clock the show will go back to the second floor and up on the fourth floor at 3 o'clock. Admission is free to adults and children.

Wheat Gluten

Gluten is marketed for food purposes and as substitute for albumen in the textile industry. Much of the gluten produced in the United States is exported or is further processed into monosodium glutamate, known in the Orient where it originated as "ajinomoto." This secondary product is used chiefly as a condiment for seasoning foods, particularly soups, gravies, and stews. Four pounds of wheat gluten are required to produce one pound of monosodium glutamate.

Anglers Urged to Get Licenses Now

TRENTON—Anglers who are looking forward to taking an active part in their favorite sport should secure fishing licenses now in order to be ready when the curtain rises on the 1944 open fishing season within a short time, the New Jersey Fish and Game Commission announced today.

The exciting trout season, which remains open from April 15 until July 15, usually brings a rush of applicants for licenses at various municipal buildings and fishermen can aid municipal clerks and regular game wardens who distribute the certificates by filing their applications early, the commission said. By securing the licenses early, the fishermen may also eliminate last-minute confusion during an otherwise well-planned fishing trip.

Following the opening of the trout season on the calendar of sporting events is the pike, pickerel and picker season from May 20 to November 30. The latter season will be followed by the popular bass season scheduled for opening from June 15 to November 30.

Sportsmen residing in New Jersey may secure a separate fishing license for $2.00, plus a small issuance fee, or a hunting license for the same amount. A combination hunting and fishing license costs $3.00, plus a small issuance fee. The non-resident fishing license is $5.00, plus a small issuance fee, and the combination non-resident hunting and fishing license costs $10.00, plus a small fee.

"I've brought some more BOOM BOOM... BANG!"

Nazis Rely on Wood
Goering's selection as Reichsfurst and Jaegermeister, "Germany's chief forester and master hunter," was no idle appointment. Goering has stated: "To be without wood in war is nearly as bad as to be without bread"—an appropriate remark when it is considered that German soldiers are eating wood sugar and wood proteins and the meat of cattle fattened upon wood-made fodder. The basis of Germany's "ersatz" industries is wood. Their Buna tires are made from wood alcohol; their trucks are driven by wood-gas; lubricants are obtained from tree stumps; explosives are manufactured from wood pulp and the waste liquors of paper mills.

Save Costs in Census
Millions of federal dollars were saved in taking the 1940 census through application of a statistical method whereby an extended questionnaire requesting additional information was sent to a random sample of 5 per cent of the population. A slight probability of error was taken into account and controlled through an exact knowledge of its magnitude, and the added information thus obtained was of great value to the government as though a complete census had been taken, at a much greater cost.

A $50,000 Frozen Food Locker Plant To Be Built In Westfield

Get Your Locker Now!

This far-sighted housewife has no food worries. She is checking her inventory of fruits, berries, meats and vegetables. She can plan her meals ahead, far ahead, if she desires. She has a family of four and will save, according to figures published by the Department of Agriculture, about $100 per year in her food bills—thanks to her Frozen Food Locker.

Residents of Westfield and Neighboring Communities . .

This is YOUR answer to food shortages and rising prices --- with 70,000 people in the service area, 1,000 lockers will not take long to rent. Your assurance of a locker is immediate action.

Here Is How You
Can Help Get
A Frozen Food
Locker Plant for Our Community

Quickly!

Come To The Meeting

MONDAY, MARCH 27th, at 8:15 P. M.
Westfield Senior High School Auditorium
BRING YOUR FRIENDS

Get your locker rental in today and urge others to do the same. Make checks payable to PEOPLES BANK AND TRUST CO., Depository.

Before priorities can be secured for the construction of new Frozen Food Locker Plants, the United States Department of Agriculture requires a definite number of lockers to be rented and the receipts placed in escrow in a local bank where they are held until the plant opens. When the plant is in actual operation, these escrow payments are then turned over to the locker plant management. We are prepared to build a 1000 locker plant in Westfield; your cooperation in renting your locker promptly will mean that priorities will be granted and the plant will be ready for operation early this summer.

- *1. You guard your family against the impending food crisis.
2. Save ration points—brown and green.
3. Eliminate the drudgery of home canning.
4. Freeze strawberries in June — eat them in December.
5. Cut your food bills 25 per cent to 40 per cent.
6. Bake pies, rolls, cakes, bread today—eat months hence.

7. Surprise your guests with out-of-season foods.
8. Eat in January that salmon you caught the previous May.
9. Serve better, tastier, more healthful foods.
10. Buy wholesale when food is cheapest.
11. Participate in savings of COMMUNITY FROZEN FOODS.
12. Our periodical food "deals" will save you money.

THIS IS WHAT YOU
GAIN BY RENTING
A LOCKER***

DON'T DELAY, RENT YOUR LOCKER TODAY — EVERY LOCKER PLANT HAS A WAITING LIST!
Applications are available at Consumers Center Offices, 9 Elm St., and Office of Civilian Defense, 603 North Ave.

Get your locker now. Locations will be assigned in the order in which applications are received. Be one of the fortunate families enjoying the benefits of a frozen food locker. Medical authorities say that quick-frozen foods retain the full nutritive value and vitamin content. The Department of Agriculture estimates savings per family of at least $100 a year. On a basis of health and wealth you can't afford to let this chance go by.

This is the business center of the locker storage plant where orders are given and accounts kept. Here, too, is a convenient, comfortable place to meet your friends.

This is the receiving department. All food for patrons comes in here where records are made of locker number, and patrons' instructions.

Meat goes from the receiving to the chill room where it stays until it has been cooled to 34°F.

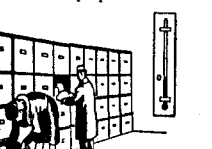

In this room the meat is aged and, as a precaution, all meat is under the protection of special lamps which sterilize the air and prevent growth of mold.

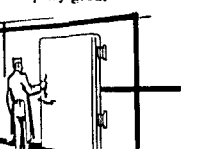

This is the processing room where meat is cut and wrapped in special moisture proof paper. The cutting is done according to the patron's processing order—so many roasts, chops, steaks, etc.

Here is the sharp freeze unit being loaded. In a few seconds at 20°F below zero the produce will be ready to store in patrons' lockers, where it will keep up to 18 months.

This is part of an aisle of individual lockers, kept at zero F. Some are drawer type, some are door type; both are equally good.

At some seasons the Patron may find the locker too small for the food accumulated. In cases like this, locker plants offer additional bulk space which patrons may rent at a small charge.

Here is a patron serving her locker. This locker will hold from 200 to 250 pounds of frozen foods. The patron is saving money, enjoying better, healthier food, can plan her meals days in advance. She is taking advantage of the modern way to keep food and she is very happy about it.

Up to the Voters

Now it is up to the voters. For the first time since 1844 the people of New Jersey will have a chance to decide at the polls next November whether or not they want a new constitution. Although the proposed revision was approved by an overwhelming majority of the voters last fall, and by Governor Edge, actually it squeaked through the Legislature by a narrow margin, and only after some of the features most cherished by its most ardent sponsors had been left out. But the program, at it stands, will give the state what is needed most, a streamlined constitution with, moreover, an easier method of securing amendments. So perhaps the improvements dropped from the revised constitution at the moment, may be added at a later date.

Between now and November, sponsors of the new constitution will have to see that the voters are informed so that they can go to the polls and vote intelligently on the issue. They did so last November. No doubt they will again.

Taxpayers' Paradise?

In a fulsome release that reads like a Chamber of Commerce brochure, the New Jersey Taxpayers' Association calls attention to the charms of New Jersey. Before pulling up stakes to answer the siren claims of the rival forty-seven states, the N. J. T. A. suggests that Jersey residents take a look at some interesting facts about the old home state.

"First off," says the article, "Jersey men should look at the Bureau of Census report for the year ending July 1 last which shows that $675,000,000 was paid in that period in state income taxes, $310,000,000 by individual taxpayers and $365,000,000 by corporations. Nothing like that in New Jersey. Our dish of many other worldly troubles is not sauced with an income tax levied by the state government. All but sixteen of the forty-eight states have this tax, but as for New Jersey taxpayers—'include us out!'"

Twenty-two states have a state sales tax, the association goes on to remind us, but an attempt at such a project a few years ago in New Jersey "raised such an outcry among our spirited citizens that the law was repealed. This little melee in tax oppression showed that the big majority of Jersey men were rugged, independent-minded people who did to their state tax on commodity purchases what the Boston citizens of old did to their tax on tea."

There is yet another state tax which Jersey men escape—the state tobacco tax. Sixteen states have it, but—"we can smoke our heads off in huge enjoyment of the thought that our puff-pleasure carries no state toll charges."

Of course, these joys are tempered somewhat for those of our citizenry who make their living in New York, and have their own troubles with that state's income taxes, corporation taxes, personal property taxes, etc. Not forgetting the tragic moment that comes when you forget to stock up on cigarettes at home, and have to pay the New York state tax, plus the city sales tax. All of which serves to remind us that Jersey isn't a bad little home state.

"The salubrity of our climate is recognized," chants the Taxpayers' Association, "with seashore, mountains and lakes close at hand to give us rest and recreation. The salubrity of our taxing system is also widely recognized, else why should so many industries from the outland settle here permanently? Our cup runneth over, hold fast, ye denizens of Weehawken and Pluckamin, to that which is good. You'll find nothing better than Jersey no matter where you may roam."

There Is No Pleasant Despotism

In order to hasten the day of victory, many of the nation's basic industries have at government request, abandoned the principles of competitive free enterprise. No one can legitimately object to such moves when they aid the war effort. But when they begin to take on the appearance of a permanent partnership between industry and government, there is cause for alarm. For, in plain English, when industry goes into partnership with government, the American form of government will disappear. Government will no longer be the umpire—it will be the manager. And once it has control of one or two industries, it will no longer be satisfied to play the umpire for others. It will inevitably end as the manager of all industry and the employer of all citizens.

Natural resource industries such as coal, oil, and electric power, which underlie the entire war effort, have cooperated 100 percent with government to meet war needs more speedily. Many persons have taken the attitude that this cooperation is the beginning of a new era in which old-fashioned principles of minimum government control will have no place.

That idea flowered in Germany. It was thought there that government and industry could go into partnership without impairing the liberties of the people or changing the nature of government. A trend was set in motion that could not be stopped. It finally ended in the destruction of German freedom and a second world war.

The structure of our government is designed to protect the people against government oppression.

Injecting government into business in competition with private citizens weakens that structure. It is not the beginning of a more enlightened era, but the beginning of despotism.

No Tax Rabbits Left In Hat

After reading scholarly talks on our tax problems, and after listening to arguments for and against different methods of taxation, one fact stands out clearly—everybody and his dog must now pay sacrificial taxes, and government extravagance must be cut as drastically as taxes are increased.

If we fail to do this, we admit that we prefer to pass on to the boys at the front not only the risk of life and limb, but the obligation of an unnecessarily high public debt. We make no sacrifice in buying interest-bearing bonds which create debt and in perpetuating every boondoggling political project, while our fighting men sacrifice their lives and opportunities and families to preserve us safe from hardship at home.

Unless those enjoying war profits and war wages pay heavy taxes now to hold down the national debt and prevent the devaluation of the dollar, and unless government expenses are cut to the bone, there will be no chance of lowering the tax rate after the war so that industry and the people can have the tax relief necessary to encourage the accumulation of earnings and savings which are essential to industrial expansion on a peacetime basis that will provide permanent jobs for all.

No amount of rhetoric can change these facts.

On National Unity

Before he set the world aflame, Adolf Hitler boasted that America's diverse elements never could get together in time to save their "decadent democracy."

Possibly his spies took seriously our perennial domestic arguments—the often unbridled outbursts of free and independent individuals who can bait umpires and politicians and each other, and then forget all about it when the game is over.

When we Americans need to get together we can and do, in the interest of national unity. We do it voluntarily, too.

This was illustrated for the benefit of Hitler and Hirohito (and for some of us here at home as well) at a history making meeting in Atlantic City recently. There gathered fifty top-flight leaders in organized industry, labor, agriculture, banking, transportation, commerce and public service, in a National Post-war Conference.

They declared their "joint responsibility" for preventing "mass unemployment, ruinous farm prices, violent ups and downs of business."

They concluded: "If we fail to do all these things together, then the task will fall upon the government."

They knew that they had come together to test whether their supposed conflict of interests could be reconciled voluntarily.

They passed the test—the National Association of Manufacturers, the American Federation of Labor, the CIO, the organized farmers, businessmen, bankers—Americans all!

Finally, they decided to have frequent, periodic such conferences. . . . Theirs is the ringing answer to the proponents of "American disunity!"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Differs With Clergymen

Editor Leader:
The recently published protest of 28 clergymen and writers against continued "obliteration" bombings of German cities comes with poor grace from several of the signers of that appeal, who, a decade before the war began, turned a deaf ear to appeals, which were made to them by the undersigned, to join in public protest against the menace to our national security, and to world peace, of the activities of allies of the German I. G. Farben inside of this nation. It was then that the "obliteration" bombing of total war was being prepared for by the German industrialists, and their campaign was underway, by subversive activities in our midst, to disarm this country physically and spiritually.

These 28 moulders of public opinion will recall the pacifist arguments, based solely upon the horrors of war, which some of them used in 1928 and '29 in advocacy of the unhappy Kellogg treaties to "outlaw war." During the debate on ratification of the Kellogg pact this writer protested to the United States Senate against the dangerous folly of relying upon such flimsy paper promises; I also pointed out that there were only three ways by which war might be outlawed.

Those three methods then appeared impossible of attainment but they might be considered with profit at this time by each of those 28 signers of the recent protest. All of the three methods proposed by me in 1929 bear rather directly upon the total war of obliteration, as conceived by German industrial leaders; two of them are now in process of consummation, and the third remains peculiarly the responsibility of the clergy.

For the edification of those 28 protesters I quote briefly the substance of those three ways to outlaw war, as follows:

"The most effective method would be to do away with all 'rules and regulations' for the conduct of war and let its stark horror sink into the minds of every man and woman. . . . If the rules were done away with and all understood that war would include the aged and infirm, and the mother and children as well, then the men that fate decrees may put armies in motion for purely selfish aims would hesitate at least before doing so again. . . . Unfortunately we continue to agree to rules (of war) which we will keep and other nations make ready to violate at first opportunity."

I think that these members of the clergy may admit that the German people have now brought this one of my methods of outlawing war within reach of the next peace. It will be realized at last that if war is to be really outlawed then the single rule for its conduct must be the obliteration of those who begin it.

The second way to prevent war which I advocated in 1929 was "an armed force of so overwhelming strength that the other nations of the world would respect it and . . . outlaw war (this to be) . . . accomplished by a defensive and offensive agreement between the United States and the British Empire." Such an agreement was unhappily impossible in 1929 but these 28 outraged clergymen and writers may concede that just such an alliance is now near consummation, thanks again to the lust of the German people for the obliteration of the democracies.

The third method of outlawing war which I presented to the Senate 15 years ago was the "complete and actual acceptance of the doctrines of the Christian religion by the so-called civilized nations of the world. . . . Then and then only" I said, "will there be no more war." That time is not yet.

Rather than their plea for a soft war, addressed to those who are now dying to preserve their right of free speech, those clergy who composed that ill-timed sermon had best admit that "the time is not yet" and might better direct an admonition to the German people, and preach from the text: "O Madmen; the sword shall pursue thee." (Jer. 48: 2).

YOUR VICTORY GARDEN

GETTING TOOLS AND GARDEN READY

Inexperienced gardeners are apt to buy too many tools. There are a lot of gadgets made for gardens that may be all right but are not necessary for successful garden management. In fact, only five tools are needed, a spade or spading fork, iron rake, hoe, trowel and garden line.

For the average garden, the tool needed first is that used for digging. The spade is an old favorite and is especially useful in turning over sod. The spading fork is perhaps the easiest tool to handle in soil that has once been dug, as it takes less effort to thrust four times or prongs into the soil than the full blade of a spade. For a tall person, if the spade or spading fork can be secured with a long handle, digging may be a little easier.

Some persons favor a round pointed shovel, either with a short (D) handle or with a long handle. However, this type of shovel is made with the blade hung at an angle with the handle, and unless care is exercised in digging to thrust the blade vertically into the soil, too shallow digging will result. In the hands of a careful, experienced person, the round pointed shovel is a good tool.

Rake A Useful Tool
The second tool needed is an implement to break up the soil and level it. For this work, an iron rake is good. The best type of rake for all around gardening is the level head steel rake, with 10 teeth for women and men not so strong, and 14 teeth for strong men. While the steel bow rake is good for raking and cultivating, the level head rake is a little more useful for leveling down a seed bed and tamping seed rows after they are sown. The rake is an excellent tool for cultivating and keeping the crust of the soil broken, especially if used with a circular motion.

A hoe is needed for opening up furrows to sow seeds and for covering them. Another of its uses is for cultivating, especially if weeds are present. A desirable type of hoe, light and easy to handle, is that known as an onion hoe, with a blade seven or eight inches wide, and about three inches deep. If this type of hoe cannot be obtained, a regular garden hoe will serve the purpose. The kind of hoe used by masons for mixing mortar is too heavy and clumsy for garden work.

If you will cut little notches in the handle of the hoe, six inches apart, it will serve as a measuring rod and save effort in hunting for and using a yardstick.

Trowel For Transplanting
Another tool is essential for gardening. This is a trowel for transplanting. A straight shank trowel with a solid steel socket costs a little more than the standard form, but it will be more durable and well worth the little additional expense.

In good garden management, a garden line is necessary equipment, as it enables the gardener to make straight rows. Any strong string and two stakes will be adequate for this purpose.

Cultivator Good Tool
While these are all the tools that will be required, some persons purchase a cultivator, but the hoe and rake may be made to do this work. There is a type of cultivator known as the Norcross which contains five curved teeth that are removable so that they may be used, which is a very efficient tool. In a large garden, a wheel hoe is favored by some persons. However, the Norcross is the cultivator preferred by the writer, who would rather pull than push and not tramp on the soil after it has been loosened up. Another type of cultivator is the so-called "speedy" cultivator made something like a potato hook or a clam hook. This is a good cultivator and is especially good to pull undesirable materials out of the soil.

Sharpen Old Tools
If you have your tools, clean and sharpen them. Any tool with a cutting edge, as a hoe or a spade, should have its edge kept sharp. Use a large file from the back side of the implement.

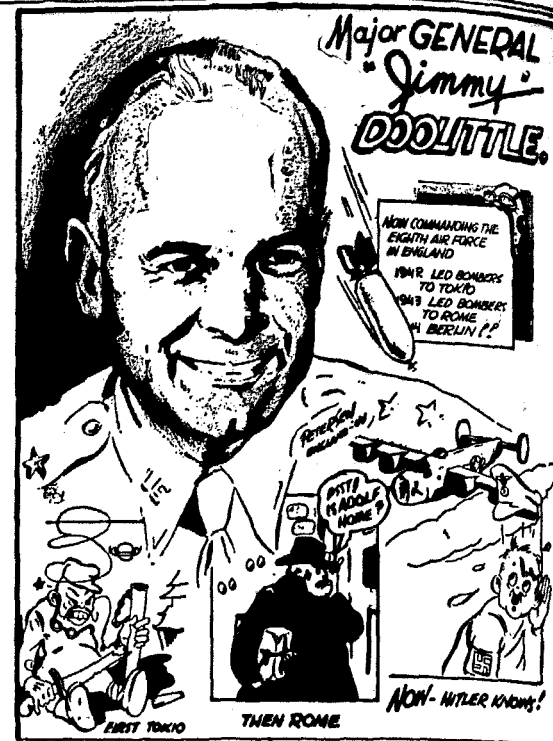

This would be a good time also to get your stakes ready. If you plan to have peas, etc. the brush now and pile it up with a weight upon the branches so that they are flattened.

Clean up the garden so it is ready for digging. Remove stakes and any other debris. Most plant tops that were left in the ground can be dug under, except corn stalks. It is better to pull the stalks up and burn them to get rid of the corn borer. If you have stalks of cabbage, broccoli, etc., left, they should be placed in the bottom of the trench made when digging to rot.

Next week: Preparing the Soil.

Pioneers in Police Radio
The entire development of police radio has come about since 1928, when Detroit set up the first successful municipally owned police-radio system after years of experimentation by police officials of many cities. The final system adopted by Detroit—broadcasting to cruising police cars equipped with receivers tuned to the broadcasting station alone—is in essence the system adopted by cities nationwide generally, though most modern patrol cars now are equipped to send as well as receive messages.

Tobacco Causes Tomato Mosaic
When tobacco is processed, the virus causing mosaic is not killed and may find its way to tomato plants in tobacco juice or moistened tobacco. The common strain of this virus causes a light- and dark-green mottling of the leaves, but no symptoms are seen on the fruit. Another strain results in a brilliant yellow mottling of both leaves and fruit, while a third flecks the leaves with small, brown spots or small, yellowed areas.

Industrial Uses of Wheat
The industrial uses of wheat include the making of starch, gluten, distilled spirits, malt, paste, and core-b. . . . However, up to 1941 not more than one million bushels of wheat were used annually for industrial purposes, although such uses have been on the increase since 1941.

Wright Brothers' Old Idea Finds New Favor Today

Warime demand for high speed, high altitude, highly maneuverable airplanes has turned the minds of aviation designers back to an idea the Wright brothers put into practice in their pioneering days—the use of propellers rotating in opposite directions.

The modern dual rotation propeller, or contraprop, is mounted on a single engine hub, one prop behind the other. The Wright brothers, fearing that the torque (twist) reaction of the single propeller might throw their primitive plane out of control, used two props of opposite pitch mounted on each side of the engine and driven in opposite directions by chain drives from the engine crankshaft.

The more powerful engines of today, developing as much as 2,000 horsepower, have made torque elimination imperative. Torque tends to make an airplane roll in the opposite direction from the rotation of the propeller, and gyroscopic reaction additionally has a tendency to force the plane in a direction at right angles to its normal course.

Dual rotation propellers eliminate both difficulties and much of the strain on both the plane and the pilot, who now has to compensate for the deviations by skillful guiding of the plane.

Causes for Discomfort In Air Travel Decline

Only one airline passenger in 1,000 suffers from air-sickness, which thus virtually has disappeared from the airways as a source of discomfort in flying, it is disclosed by United Airlines.

A five-year survey of discomfort causes among passengers carried by United, revealed that the air-sickness rate steadily has been reduced from 3.3 per 1,000 passengers in 1938 to one per 1,000 in 1942. It was disclosed that other causes of discomfort also have been decreasing to the point where less than five in 1,000 passengers give evidence of any discomfort whatever.

Only one person in 1,000 suffers from the effects of altitude and has to take oxygen, which is provided on all planes; only one in 1,800 has car trouble; only one in 2,500 suffers from nervous unrest; and only one in 1,000 indicates other miscellaneous discomforts.

United's survey of 2,248,998 passengers carried in the years 1938 through 1942 is declared the most extensive of its kind made by any airline on the subject of passenger discomfort.

Grecian Sights

Peacetime visitors to Syracuse in Sicily confined nearly all their sight-seeing to objects dating from 500-300 B. C.: the Doric Temple, the Greek theater (third largest known), the Castle of Eurymachus (most important and complete Greek fortification extant) and the several quarries whose products built the ancient city.

Aeschylus, Pindar, Theocritus and possibly Plato lived in Syracuse for varying periods, but Archimedes, inventor and mathematician, was the city's foremost citizen. He lent a good deal of color to the city by such acts as running unclothed through the streets shouting "Eureka" after discovering the principle of water displacement while taking a bath.

Archimedes told his king that he could move the earth, if he had a place to stand and a lever long enough. He helped put off Roman conquest of Syracuse by setting fire to invading ships by means of huge magnifying glasses set up on shore. When the city was finally taken, Archimedes was stabbed to death by a Roman soldier while deeply absorbed in a mathematical problem.

Jump With Two Chutes

U. S. paratroopers jump with two chutes, the main one on their backs (28 feet in diameter) and a reserve (22 feet) hooked on in front. The reserve is released by ripcord, the main by a 15-foot long static line hooked to a cable inside the plane.

At 15 feet the static line rips off the pack cover, begins drawing out the chute itself. At 43 feet the chute is fully drawn out and the fine silk "break-cord," connecting chute and static line, breaks. After a further fall of around 50 feet the chute opens. It should not take longer than two or three seconds. In all, a paratrooper usually drops around 100 feet down and 400 feet forward (momentum from the plane's speed) before his chute opens.

Falling Leaves

Falling of sugar maple leaves during June should cause no great concern among home owners. This condition is caused by the maple petiole borer. Although the number of leaves which fall may seem large they represent but a very small percentage of the leaves on the tree, and usually little if any effect results to the tree.

The worm or larval stage of the insect hollows out a portion of the petiole or leaf stem causing it to break, letting the leaf and part of the leaf stem fall to the ground. A few days later the remainder of the petiole with the larva enclosed falls to the ground. The larva enters the ground where it remains until next spring when it emerges again in the form of a very minute sawfly.

Red Cross Honors "Dad" Plumridge

Charles E. Plumridge, or "Dad" Plumridge, as he is affectionately called, was honored on the occasion of his 85th birthday, at a meeting of the Red Cross held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. F. Wallace, 629 Tremont avenue. After the business meeting, Gordon Parry, treasurer of the Red Cross, presented to Mr. Plumridge, the chairman, a handsomely bound leather book, embossed with his name and the hand-lettered inscription, "We, your friends of the Red Cross, want you to keep this little book as evidence of our appreciation and each, in signing, pledge our continued loyalty and wish you health, happiness and prosperity." More than a hundred friends and Red Cross workers had signed their names, including several from the New York Red Cross chapter. At the social hour which followed, Mr. Plumridge received a large birthday cake appropriately decorated and lighted with candles.

The Red Cross canteen members have had the busiest time in their history during March, having served refreshments or entire meals to 2,026 people at their several posts of duty. They serve luncheons to the patients at the Rahway Hospital three days each week, and they furnished coffee, cocoa and doughnuts to the men and boys on the recent paper drive. As there were two blood bank periods during March they served two lunch-ens for the New York staff of nurses and doctors, besides coffee and sandwiches to about 200 donors each day. On March 11, 18 and 25 the local corps has charge of refreshments for the hospital area at Camp Kilmer, when coffee and home-made cake are provided.

The Home Service Department of the Red Cross is continually facing new problems, as more and more men enter the service and are sent to the far corners of the world. No matter where a service man is stationed, Red Cross field workers, assigned to both hospitalized and able-bodied troops, make use of the two-way communication service with the home town chapters, thus relieving anxiety at both ends of the line. In February 145 cases were presented to the local office and 125 acted upon. Twenty workers gave 600 hours of time, 44 visits were made to homes and 216 interviews took place in the office. L. B. VanLeuven has resumed the responsibility of keeping in touch with the families of the prisoners of war and notifying them of any change in government rulings. Miss Alice Bible, chairman, will attend a conference for home service chairmen to be held March 27 to 31 in New York.

The Red Cross Home Nursing Department announces that new classes will be formed as soon as there are sufficient registrations, for either day or evening classes. High school girls are being urged to join the Cadet Nurse Corps.

A water safety instruction course will be given at the YMCA pool from April 10 to 14.

The Blood Donor Service appreciates the 161 blood donors who braved the storm Monday afternoon to contribute to the Red Cross blood bank.

LAST MONTH you learned how to send your youngster to college

LAST MONTH, you bought some extra War Bonds.

Maybe it wasn't easy to dig up the extra cash. Maybe you had to figure awhile to see how you could cut down on some of the money you'd been spending for comforts—or even necessities.

But the point is, you did figure it out. You did find out how to put the extra money aside—and still get along.

And the moment you did that, you found out something else. You learned how to send your youngster to college—how to provide a comfortable, independent old age for yourself—how to get your share of the good things that are coming after the war.

You learned that you could save more money than you ever thought you could.

For your own sake and your Country's—don't forget it! Keep on saving that money! Keep right on buying those extra War Bonds from here on in!

Fresh Fruits Will Yield

Good Juices for Canning

Those softer fruits which the homemaker must discard for whole fruit canning will give excellent juice provided they are free from bruises and decay and in no way overripe.

You may use rhubarb, berries, cherries, currants, plums, cranberries, or grapes, preferably locally grown. Fruits from your garden or nearby farms are best for juices, since freshness plays an important role in all successful canning. Red raspberries make an especially fine fruit juice that retains the fresh fruit flavor over many months, even though it may lose some color in time. Wild berries, if sufficiently juicy, may be used and also the wild Muscadine grape if it grows in your region.

To preserve the fruity taste, juice for beverages should be extracted from the raw or slightly heated fruit. Since apples and peaches do not give up their juices readily when raw or slightly heated, home economists do not recommend them for home-canned beverage juice.

Citrus juices are hard to put up at home and take a good deal of sugar. Chemists of the department of agriculture have found in their experiments that citrus juice packed in glass and stored at room temperatures darkened and developed "off flavors."

Old Man of Sea
The "Story of the Seven Voyages of Sindbad the Sailor," one of the fabulous tales of the Arabian Nights, recounts the strange adventures of Sindbad. On his fifth voyage he met on an island an old man who indicated he wanted to be carried across a stream. Sindbad lifted him to his shoulders but while they crossed the stream the gnarled old fellow wound his legs around Sindbad's neck, nearly choking him, and would not get down. After carrying him for many exhausting days, Sindbad made some grape wine and the old man drank it until he became intoxicated, whereupon Sindbad managed to throw him to the ground, then struck him on the head with a stone until he died.

Later, passengers on a vessel told Sindbad, "This old man who rode upon thy shoulders is called the Old Man of the Sea, and no one was ever beneath his limbs and escaped from him excepting thee."

Wheat Starch
The production of wheat starch is the oldest branch of the starch industry. At the present time, there are two wet-milling companies in the United States that produce wheat starch and gluten. One is located at Harbor Beach, Mich., and the other at Columbus, Ohio. These companies use wheat flour as a raw material. Prior to the first World War, eight companies are reported to have operated, but economic conditions during and after the war forced six of them to discontinue production.

Smiling and Patriotic, New Jersey housewives, like Norma Gilchrist, return empty deposit bottles at least once a week to the point of purchase.

Fishing Plans In County Lakes

Much of the good fishing enjoyed by local sportsmen is attributed to the stocking of The Union County Park Commission's various lakes and streams by the New Jersey State Fish and Game Commission and the shipments of fish received from the Federal department each year.

The number of persons reported fishing in the park system during 1943 totaled 55,061. This is a cumulative total and not different fishermen. There is no record available of the number of fish caught each year since fishermen are not required to secure any special permit from the Park Commission, as long as a State fishing license has been obtained.

Boats are available for general use and not restricted to fishermen at Warinanco, Rahway River, and Upper and Lower Echo Lake as well as at Lake Surprise in the Watchung Reservation. The boating season extends from early April until early November with boats renting at 25c per hour.

Various park lakes and streams where fishing is enjoyed are listed as: Warinanco Lake, Upper and Lower Echo Lake, Seeley's Pond, Green Brook Lake, Cedar Brook Lake, Briant's Pond, Nomahegan Lake, Union County Park Trap and Skeet Shooting Grounds, Lake Surprise, Rahway River, and Green Brook.

Andy Shraw, Union County warden for the State Fish and Game Commission will be stocking the streams in the near future and in continuing its policy The Park Commission will prohibit fishing in the park streams immediately until trout season opens on April 15. During the trout season, no fishing will be permitted on the day of stocking.

Silk Worms Spin Cocoons
American-born silk worms reach their maturity in a month, at which time they get down to the serious business of spinning their cocoons. The worms will spin enough silk within a few hours to conceal themselves from outside view, and will then continue to spin for several days until the cocoon is completed.

Ten days or so later the silk worm emerges as a moth and breaks through the silken shell. Since the moth possesses no chewing mechanism it softens the cocoon by secreting a solvent material and then claws its way to the outside. Ordinarily these moths do not fly, because they have lost the use of their wings through generations of domestication.

Sea Water Undrinkable Mixture of Elements

How to "unscramble" sea water chemically so that a drinkable, life-sustaining liquid results, is one of the latest discoveries stimulated by war conditions—in this case by the tragic plight of hundreds of mariners and fliers set adrift at sea, many to die of thirst. A kit for treating the sea water, developed by scientists of the navy and other agencies, will be placed in ships' lifeboats and in the rubber rafts carried by overseas airplanes.

From the point of view of drinkableness by man, sea water is just water with an assortment of ill-tasting and poisonous chemicals. It is a sort of "world soup" leached and stewed from the bony framework of the earth through untold geologic ages.

Almost every conceivable substance has been washed by rains and rivers into the sea, but some are there now in solution in tremendously greater strength than others. Of the 92 elements that make up the earth and everything in it, 49 have been found in sea water. It is likely that traces of many of the other 43 are there too.

The ease with which materials dissolve is one important factor in what is found in the sea today. Silicon (chief ingredient in sand), aluminum, and iron are the three most abundant solid elements in the earth's crust; but because they are so hard to dissolve, sea water is practically free of them.

Paraguay Rich, Colorful

On June 11, 1811, Paraguay separated and established its independence. She waged a five-year war of horror against Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay. Today Paraguay is known for its beef products, hides, cotton, tannin, oranges, tobacco and vegetable oils. Yerba mate was first grown here. Quebracho wood from Paraguay's forests is important in tanning hides. Itaguaia lace, sheer as cobwebs, is made by the Guarani Indians. The lovely old city of Asuncion, the remains of Jesuit temples, the beauty of the Parana river, wild birds in the palm trees of the Chaco region—these are highlights in Paraguay.

Joseph A. Porter In Assembly Race

When Representative Donald H. McLean first sought elective office, back in 1932, his campaign manager was a fellow-attorney, Joseph A. Porter of 41 Princeton road, Elizabeth. Porter this week announced his candidacy for Republican nomination for the New Jersey Assembly.

He has been a trial lawyer and a counsellor at law since 1936. He is an advocate of "home rule" and believes county and municipal government should not be overruled by mandatory, illogical Trenton acts.

A native of Newark, he lived in Canada for twelve years before moving to Elizabeth in 1919. He is a graduate of Battin High School, University of Virginia, and of New Jersey Law School. He was admitted to practice in New Jersey in 1932.

Porter has been a member of the Elizabeth law firm of Whittemore, McLean & Hand since 1933, but formerly was in partnership with Capt. Richard P. Green. His wife is the former Anita J. Silverman of Uniontown, Pa., a teacher and dietitian, and they have a son, Roger Jr., 8.

Keystones Win Roll Off To Down Woodchoppers

It was nip and tuck all the way between the Woodchoppers and Keystones Monday night on the YMCA lanes and it required a roll off to decide the last game. First game went to Keystones by the narrow margin of 6 pins. The second was taken by the lumbermen with only 12 pins to spare. The roll-off was taken by Keystones 90 to 87. In the other match, league leading Senators had an easier task in taking the first and last from Collegians.

Furness of Keystone soared to 235 in the middle game and also took the high series with 572. Taylor of Senators was also hot with a high individual of 230 and a series of 592. Otto of Collegians also had a three game total of 592, with a high game of 223. Doerrier of Keystones had a three game total of 560 and Hoff of Collegians scored 546. Scores:

See Saw Continues In Equipment League

That see saw business in the standings of the Westfield Equipment Engineers League is keeping interest high among the alleymen. Jacks, who have been moving from first place to second and back to first again, won two games from Lamps Thursday night to go into a tie with Selectors. But the two weren't alone when the last pin had fallen. Keys took first place Selectors into camp in two of the three games and made it a three way job. Meantime, Cords and Relays, who have a little fight of their own near the cellar, were bowling to a two game win for Cords. Hall set the pace with a pretty 216 in the first game for Cords. Wilson had 200 for Jacks. Scores:

No Change In Church League Standing

Heitmans' sweep over Berry should have made some difference in the standings of the Methodist-Presbyterian Church Bowling League Thursday night. However, second place McCabes lost two to Methodists, so all positions remain unchanged. The issue was in doubt until the last game which McCabes lost by only one pin. Rauth soared to 254 in the first game for Heitman, had 213 in the second and a series of 624, thus copping both high individual game and high series. Furness was in the double century group with 202 as was Strickland with 201. Scores:

Bonnettis Set Two New Records

Bonnetti Bros. consistent leaders of the Recreation League, set up two new records in scoring a sweep win over Comptrollers Friday night at Recreation lanes. First record to fall was the high single game which the Painters upset with 1038 in the first game. Previous high was held by Carmen's Barbers with 1029. The three game high also was passed with a total of 2903 which was 53 pins better than the previous mark also held by Bonnetti.

In other matches, Carmen's Barbers took two from Hamrah Bros. and Knickerbocker's blanked Rodie Rubber. As usual in this high scoring league there were plenty of rollers in the 200 column, but Hal Shmuel had both high game and high series with 236 and 651 respectively. Scores:

At Oxford

One of the most entertaining musicals in months opens at the Oxford Theatre Thursday. It is "Higher and Higher" with Michele Morgan, Frank Sinatra and Frank Sinatra sharing the stardom.

The plot basis is a gay melange of love, purpose and misunderstandings, revolving about the plight of a group of unpaid domestic servants in a big Fifth avenue mansion and of their bankrupt employer. As a means of getting hold of some money they induce the slave to pose as the employer's socialite daughter and try to marry her off to a millionaire. The scheme immediately runs into financial and romantic complications, told to some of the catchiest songs the screen has offered in years.

Comedy situations galore, and novel incidents and settings are woven into the story, and with such noted funsters as Leon Errol, Marcy McGuire and Paul and Grace Hartman the hilarity hits plenty of high peaks. Also in featured roles are Barbara Hale and Dooley Wilson.

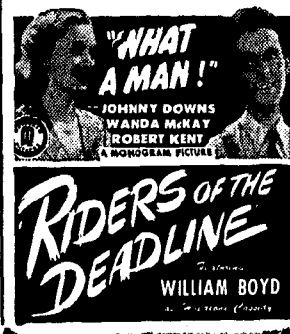

The co-feature is "Charlie Chan in Secret Service" with Sidney Tolar, Gwen Kenyon, Manton Moreland.

"Girl Crazy" Coming
Sunday To Rialto

Two veterans of the screen celebrated an auspicious anniversary recently. For M-G-M's gay musical, "Girl Crazy," coming Sunday to the Rialto Theatre, marks the eighth time Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland have appeared together in a film.

Back in 1937, Mickey first showed Judy the ropes when she played one of her first screen roles opposite him in "Thoroughbred: Don't Cry." That was only the beginning. Since then Mickey and Judy have become one of the most popular screen teams and each scores individually in new screen portrayals.

In "Girl Crazy" they are supported by Gil Stratton, Robert E. Strickland, Nancy Walker, "Rags" Ragland, Frances Rafferty, G. Fuy Kibbee and Howard Freeman. Tommy Dorsey and his band supply the musical background of melodies by the beloved George Gershwin. Norman Taurog directed and Arthur Freed produced.

In Lead at Strand

"His Butler's Sister," the gay new comedy drama, that opens at the Strand Theatre, tomorrow definitely proves that director Frank Borzage still has the deft touch that has long made him known as one of Hollywood's top film masters.

Lovely Deanna Durbin carries the feminine lead with a quality of charm that seems to improve in each one of her pictures.

Believing her brother (Pat O'Brien) to be wealthy and in a position to help her ambitions for a singing career, Ann Carter (Deanna Durbin) from a small Indiana City arrives in New York to find her brother, a butler. His employer, Charles Gerard (Frankot Tone) is a noted composer, and Ann upsets her brother by staying on in the household as a new maid, hoping the composer will eavesdrop on her singing sometime.

Akim Tamiroff, Frank Jenks, Sig Arno and Alan Mowbray are also featured.

New "Desert Song"
Due at Rahway

"The Desert Song," famed musical, now modernized and filmed in technicolor with all its glorious songs, romance, excitement and adventure, opens Sunday at the Rahway Theatre. This Warner Bros. production features Dennis Morgan and Irene Manning in the leading singing roles. Bruce Cabot, Lynne Overman and Gene Lockhart are prominent in the supporting cast.

Fighting that cost the U. S. Marines a life for every square yard of ground gained, the bloodiest casualty list in American military history, is shown in "With the Marines at Tarawa," which is one of three hits at this theatre.

Discusses Plans For After War

At a meeting of the local branch of the League of Nations Association held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Philhower, plans were discussed for a Town Meeting at the Senior High School, Tuesday, April 25, when Clark Eickelberger, executive secretary of the United Nations Association, will speak.

Mrs. Philhower, chairman of the New Jersey State Committee on the Cause and Cure of War spoke on "The Need for World Organization." She said in part:

"The organization of peace must have back of it the force of a unifying ideal. Politically nations still live in the 18th century, blocked off by boundaries, tariffs and sovereignty. The alternatives to recurring wars are world empire achieved by force, or some form of world association achieved by consent. The United Nations have committed themselves to the ideal of an international organization. Their statesmen must design, construct and establish institutions to that end.

"The chief responsibility for immediate military control will inevitably fall upon the armies of the United States, Great Britain and Russia, acting in the interests of the United Nations. Care should be exercised that these controls be on a temporary basis. As soon as possible the rehabilitation of these areas should be placed under the auspices of the appropriate United Nations organization.

"Statesmen will be presented with an opportunity to build on these foundations when the war is over. They can be successful only if public opinion is ready. The people of the United Nations must comprehend the minimum requirements of a world organization for a just and lasting peace. It is the job of the common man to contribute the necessary public opinion and also the insistence which will enable statesmen to reconstruct a new world order.

National governments will be restored and helped to assume increasingly the future welfare of their people, the speaker predicted, according to general principles set down in the Atlantic Charter, Lend Lease agreements, etc. The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation and other organizations soon to be set up are all efforts to stimulate an expanding world economy with higher standards for the peoples of the world. But as Mr. Herbert Lehman says, "The main job of countries capable of supplying the most pressing needs of people will be to help them to help themselves."

The United Nations will need an assembly for developing and crystallizing world public opinion, for initiating plans and for co-ordinating international legislation. The World Court is an essential, also an international secretariat. In addition there will be need for autonomous functional organizations, and no doubt regional organizations.

To be effective, collective security needs to be organized with agencies for international policing. Such a force must be strong enough to prevent aggression, but at the same time, so limited and checked that it cannot be used illegally or oppressively. One plan of a specialized international force gives certain types of armaments to the world authority and others to the nations. Nations would retain reduced armies and navies only to prevent domestic disorder. Nations would be obliged to apply economic sanctions to the aggressor. The central authority would maintain an international air force.

The International Authority would name private manufacturers in different countries for the production of each major type of armament. This spread would avoid monopoly and the danger that an aggressive state might withdraw from the arrangement.

The cession of air bases for the use of the international air force would be indispensable. These bases would be protected by their own fighting planes, by limited ground forces and perhaps by submarines.

Contributions would be paid by national governments, perhaps a percentage of all international postal charges. To establish and maintain the force, a world conference with limited legislative authority would be necessary. The sole use of the International Air Force would be to prevent aggression.

It will be possible for the United Nations to create order after the war, Mrs. Philhower concluded, but to do so they must convince the lesser powers and the opinions of their own peoples

More Leaflets Ready For Victory Gardeners

NEW BRUNSWICK, March 16—Following up his recent announcement that the 1944 Victory Garden Manual for New Jersey is now ready for general distribution, Prof. F. G. Helyar of the College of Agriculture, Rutgers University, and chairman of the State Victory Garden committee, reported today that three more leaflets are off the press.

The first, "Preparing Garden Soils," takes up liming, fertilizing and methods of digging the garden. Ways of applying fertilizer and digging the garden are illustrated by drawings.

The second leaflet, entitled "Growing Leafy Vegetables in New Jersey Home Gardens" discusses such crops as broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, various greens, and other leafy crops. This leaflet also includes a chart giving directions for

Committee Seeks Flowers For Veterans

A plant for Easter at the bedside of each wounded veteran in New Jersey hospitals. That's the goal of the Committee of the New Jersey Sector For Plants for Hospitalized Service Men.

Similar drives during Easter and Christmas time last year resulted in many expressions of appreciation from the sick, wounded and disabled veterans of the armed forces, hospitalized in this area and away from home.

The committee has opened its drive for donations of one dollar or more. Each dollar contributed will place one plant at the bedside of a veteran, with an appropriate tag bearing the name of the donor.

Contributions should be mailed to the treasurer, Carl K. Withers, president, Lincoln National Bank, Newark. Each contribution will be acknowledged to the donor and a plant delivered to a veteran on Good Friday.

Lit. Club To See Play

Members of the WHS Literary Club will see the matinee performance of "Tomorrow the World" April 19. The group will be chaperoned by Miss Gertrude Foutz and Miss Margaret Dietrich. The April meeting of the club will be held at Lois Young's home.

Methodist Pastor Asked To Remain

Rev. John Wesley Lord, D. D., was invited to return for another year with an increase in salary as pastor of the First Methodist Church at the annual meeting in the chapel last week. Rev. Henry L. Lambdin, D. D., superintendent of the Newark district of the Methodist Church, presided.

Louis Campbell reported the debt retirement fund would pay off the final debt of $14,500 this year and that the church property and parsonage, valued at $225,000, then will be debt free. Mrs. George Anderson, chairman of the Board of Missions and Church Extension, said the church voluntarily is adding $2,000 to the quota of $2,500 assigned by the World Service Conference. The fact that the contribution has been increased to $4,500 was reported this month in the Christian Advocate.

More than 200 persons attended the dinner which preceded the annual meeting. Mrs. D. C. Tate was in charge. Joseph Mickle, lay leader, presided at the dinner and musical meeting in conjunction with the meeting. Members who participated were: Sally Evans, soprano; Paul Smith, French horn; Roger O'Neill, violinist; Wesley Boys' choir under the direction of Mrs. Edward Otto and Mrs. Frank Beattys who gave several readings.

Reports of committees were given by the following: Women's Guild, Mrs. John Brook; Sunday evening fellowship, Edward Otto; Methodist youth fellowship, James Clark; minister of education, Mrs. Earle Bennett; men's club, Louis Campbell; membership, Russell Ballantine; board of trustees, Raymond Powell and nominating committee, Frank J. Feely.

Members re-elected to the board were Alexis Darling, W. B. Millen, Dr. Lorimer Armstrong and Herbert Welch who was elected to the unexpired term of the late Frank Reed.

Officers elected were: Financial secretary, Mrs. A. P. Darling; recording steward, F. J. Feely; disbursing steward, A. P. Darling; communion steward, Mrs. M. F. Pearsall, some member of whose family has held the position for sixty-five years.

John W. Marden was named new lay leader. Edward Otto was re-elected as a local preacher and Mrs. Earle H. Bennett was made minister of Christian education. Church stewards also were elected and standing committees appointed.

Central Buying 10 Diesel Engines

The Central Railroad of New Jersey, first line in the nation to buy a Diesel electric locomotive, announced today it expects delivery late this month of the first of a series of ten additional Diesel electric switching locomotives which will be used in the Jersey Central's metropolitan district yards.

The 1,000 horsepower locomotive is being built by the Baldwin Locomotive Works. Four others from Baldwin and five of the same type from the American Locomotive Co. are expected in April or May, bringing the Jersey Central's total of Diesels to 31.

The new locomotives will cost $78,500 each, or a total of $785,000. Of this, the Jersey Central will pay $157,000 cash and has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue notes for the remaining $628,000, at 1 1/2% annual interest, and to be paid off in five years.

The league was founded in 1913 and since that time has been engaged in combatting social, political and economic discrimination toward minority groups. The league has conducted investigations which have aided federal and military agencies in bringing to light the activities of subversive groups in America, such as the Christian Front, the Silver Shirts and other agencies charged with fostering hatred of American democratic institutions.

Former Cop Directs Army Traffic In India

Directing tank traffic in India "is a little different from my old beat" according to Pfc Al Reimer, former Westfield policeman who is now with the Military Police unit in India. In a letter to fellow police officers here thanking them for the Christmas package they sent him, he wrote: "Only may be directing traffic for the tanks and it doesn't do any good to be a holler at the drivers because they can't hear a thing above the roar of their airplane type motors. Only time I got hot was when a Chinese sergeant lost control of his tank and needed for me. I made tracks fast to keep from being flattened."

He wrote that as military police they have the widest possible variety of work and that he finds himself seriously on duty in a city of teeming millions or in the hills, the water, or an upland village and that his weapons change according to duty. Pfc. Reimer wrote that one day he made through the jungle and the river barge lasted 44 days while returning by air consumed only four days.

He told his fellow officers that when the time comes I will not be reluctant to change the khaki for the blue uniform and be able to talk with the citizens in American instead of sign language. I'll wash my hands of the great unwashed, the untouchable, the destitute and the diseased, the beggars, the fakirs, the fortune tellers, the snake charmers and mystic men of the East with their potions and charms which will accomplish anything (for a price); the princes and the maharajas—I'll swap the works for good old New Jersey. It's a great comfort to know that my family is safe in Westfield enjoying the protection of the best police department in the state."

Bird Clubbers Report Spring Around the Corner

Spring is "just around the corner" according to late reports by the Junior members of the Westfield Bird Club as reported at their recent meeting. The evening grosbeaks which have been wintering in this section have already embarked upon their northward journey. The wintering ducks—merganser, blue and green winged teal, scaups, blacks and mallards are noted in greater concentrations, flocking up in anticipation of their take-off to northern breeding grounds. Another unusual visitor reported was the little saw-whet owl.

The feature of the evening was presented by one of the club members, W. R. Atwood, who showed colored movies of Canada and some of the better known Gaspé and Saguenay sections.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Tucker of Hillside avenue were hosts for the evening.

Famous Sculptor's Ceramics Exhibited Locally

Waylande Gregory, whose mountain top studios are located near Bound Brook, achieved world recognition when his thirty-three large scale ceramic statues were exhibited at the New York World's Fair. One of the most popular was a colossal fountain group, the "Fountain of Atoms," containing twelve monumental-scale terra cotta figures, each individual figure weighing over a ton. Mr. Gregory has recently completed a ceramic mural for the municipal center in Washington, D. C., which is the first of its kind in modern times. The White House, U. S. Military Academy at West Point, and many leading museums throughout the country have acquired examples of Waylande Gregory's work. This same artist is the discoverer of a unique process (patent pending) in which he fuses clear crystals into ceramic clay structure.

The jewel-toned crystals are pools of scintillating color which sparkle and gleam under transparent glaze which imprisons them. These original hand-made creations are now exclusively exhibited by Paul Allemand, Jewelers, and are being featured in their window display for the entire month. Students and lovers of art, as well as the general public will find it most unusual and interesting.

Veteran Pilots Are Training Cadets

Air-fighters who have learned "the hard way"—in actual combat with enemy planes—today are passing on the benefits of their experiences to aviation cadets at the various Army airfields.

Student fliers, it has been found, are more apt to pay heed to an instructor with campaign ribbons on his chest than to one whose knowledge of sky war is purely theoretical. Bringing home veteran airmen to serve as instructors improves the training program and also enables the pilots, navigators, and bombardiers who have taken part in many missions to enjoy a period of comparative relaxation.

Combat flying is for young men, and men 17 years of age may get a start toward a career in the skies by seeking enlistment in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. If such applicants are found to be qualified by an Aviation Cadet Examining Board, they are permitted to wear the silver-winged emblem of the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve while awaiting their call to active service.

Members of the ACER may continue their education or civilian pursuits until some time within the six months period following their 18th birthday. Upon being called to active duty, they first receive basic military training at an Army Air Forces Basic Training Center, then receive five months of college training, and finally takes 27 to 32 more weeks of specialized instruction at an Air Force Training Center.

Jeske Honored As New Division Chief

The specially-decorated Moresque Restaurant, 111 Prospect avenue, W. Orange, was the scene Thursday night of a "congratulations" party given to John W. Jeske of Westfield by almost 100 of his Western Electric fellow-war workers in honors of his becoming a division chief at the Kearny Works.

Edward C. Lane, a long time associate, presented him with a handsome pen set and a shield-shaped plaque inscribed with the names of ninety-seven well-wishers who attended the party. Mr. Jeske has been associated with the Western Electric Co. a little more than twenty-one years. As a young man he started to work at the Chicago plant, and it was just fifteen years ago that he left Chicago and came to Kearny. During his long and varied experience with Western Electric, Mr. Jeske has held many supervisory posts in the cost, operating, methods and results organizations.

His recent promotion as division chief of jacks, lamp sockets and maintenance shop, will give him a fine opportunity to see that fighting equipment reaches the fighting fronts in sufficient quantity, and in sufficient time, for his eldest son, Dick, a former all-state football player, is now a seaman in the Naval Academy Details at Hainbridge, Md.

Westfield Boy On Camp Panel Conference

Charles Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Henry of 651 Shadowlawn drive, participated in a panel discussion of six boys and six girls on the subject "Camping and the War-time Needs of Youth" at the Hotel Pennsylvania, Thursday night. Dr. Bruce Robinson of the Newark Board of Education conducted the discussion. He was picked for the honor by John A. Ledlie, camp director of Camp Wawayanda which Charles attends.

Gideon Society Meets In Westfield

Rev. Charles Anderson, pastor of the Brookdale Baptist Church of Bloomfield, was the speaker at the dinner meeting of the Plainfield Camp of the Gideon Society in the YMCA Saturday evening. Meetings of the society and the auxiliary were held in the afternoon. Members of the Plainfield Camp, embracing Westfield, Rahway, Cranford and other towns in this area, state officers and delegates from the other nine camps in the state attended.

Pastors of a number of churches in the area were guests. Special services in connection with the work of the Gideon Society, which has distributed 8,000,000 testaments to members of the armed forces and related services since the outbreak of the war, were conducted in the churches Sunday.

HERE'S what a big-city physician, name on request, recently said: "In my general practice, I can always count on my Studebaker these war days for reliable, low-cost performance."

That doctor is one of many hard-working civilians who are getting exceptional tire, gas and maintenance economy from their Studebaker Champions, Commanders and

Linden Man Enters Assembly Race

Joseph S. Lindabury of 725 North Wood avenue, Linden, has announced that he would be an Assembly candidate in the Republican party primary. Mr. Lindabury has resided in Linden almost twenty years. He was born in Jersey City on March 30, 1898, and graduated from Dickinson High of that city in 1916. Approximately one year after his graduation, Lindabury enlisted in the army at the outbreak of World War I and saw active duty in France with the Twenty-ninth Division.

On returning from France, Mr. Lindabury studied law at the New Jersey Law School, and graduated in 1924. He is now practicing law in Newark, a member of the firm of Herrigel, Lindabury & Herrigel, which firm also has an office in the Hersch Tower Building in Elizabeth. Mr. Lindabury is vice president and counsel of the Linden Trust Co., and last year graduated from the Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University, where he wrote a thesis on "Bank Financing of Aircraft."

He was for many years a member of the Republican County committee from Linden, and was formerly a vice chairman of the Republican County committee under Register Ed Bauer who was then chairman. Mr. Lindabury is the only war veteran to enter the race so far.

Old Guard Hears OPA Man

Harry Salisbury of the Newark office of the OPA, speaking before the members of the Westfield Old Guard at their meeting in the YMCA Thursday, predicted a period of unparalleled prosperity in the country after the war.

Although the OPA, he said, is the most maligned agency in the government and price control has been called something new and un-American, it is designed for the protection of the American people and the control system is as old as the American system of government.

The OPA is the only agency which stands in the way of an unstable economy and bars unbridled inflation, he said. It has saved the country millions of dollars and provides the only guarantee that business will remain on a sound basis. It provides the insurance and assurance for the white collar class that they will be able to purchase the necessities of life.

Mr. Salisbury revealed that the OPA had visited sixty-five stores here recently and found only three minor violations of the price code. John Verlonden introduced Mr. Salisbury. Ernest Wemple of Cranford presided at the meeting and extended greeting from the members to Charles E. Plumridge on his eighty-fifth birthday anniversary.

William S. Wilkinson and John D. McEwen read brief papers. John H. O'Connell, 87 years old, was welcomed on his return to the meetings after an absence of several months.

Women Work in Aircraft

War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt reports that from 70 to 80 per cent of the new workers in the aircraft industry are women. Declaring that the production of aircraft is rapidly becoming a "women's industry," he revealed that women comprised approximately one-third of the workers now employed, the proportion running about 45 per cent in western plants, 33 per cent in the Middle West and 26 per cent in the East. It is probable that the proportion for the whole country will rise to 50 per cent by the end of 1943. Before the United States entered the war, only 2 per cent of aircraft industry workers were women.

Use Ladders Safely

Here are five points emphasized in the safe use of ladders: Do not leave tools or other heavy articles on top of a stepladder from which they may fall; in using ordinary rungs ladders, place them only against solid and stationary backgrounds; the foot of the ladder should be one-fourth of the ladder's length away from the wall against which it is leaning; when ascending or descending a ladder, always face it and use both hands; use only ladders in good repair. Never use one with missing or broken rungs or steps.
