Coldest Day Ever!

You don't need to be told that last Sunday was cold, but did you know it was the coldest day ever recorded in this area.

According to officials at Elizabethtown Gas the average or mean temperature on Sunday at Newark Airport was a very mean minus 4.6° F, registering 70 degree days for the date.

A degree day is a measurement indicating how cold a given day is. It is obtained by adding the high and low readings for the day, dividing that figure by two and then subtracting the result from 65.

Thomas F. Withka, assistant vice president of marketing and supply for Elizabethtown Gas, said that the company experienced no problems in meeting the 228,000-dekatherm gas sendout on Sun-day. (228,000 dekatherms is enough gas to heat 2,000 homes for a full year.)

The record sendout by Elizabethtown is 237,000 dekatherms which was established on Monday January 11 when the temperature averaged 7.3° F, with 58 degree days. Withka explained that the greater usage on the 11th was due to the start of the workweek.

Withka noted that the extreme cold weather would result in higher fuel bills "regardless of the kind of fuel used" and urged that conservation measures be taken where practical. He cautioned against lowering thermostats too low where there are elderly or ill persons, or infants.

According to forecasts by the company's weather service, temperatures are expected to be moderate by midweek, although still remaining below nor-

Job Well Done

Two major snowstorms in two days is more than we in this area have seen for quite some time, and we must commend the men in the Public Works Department and other town employees for coping well with

While we are sure there have been some complaints, Westfield's handling of the storms seemed quite superior to those we observed in several other communities - and we travelled through several during the worst of Wednesday's weather.

Not only were roads here passable, but the central business district on Thursday morning was in ex-cellent shape. We must admit, however, that Friday left something to be desired, but it was a holiday for schools, for banks and many others, thus decreasing that day's street traffic. The Fire Department added its bit to make it safer for pedestrians by removing threatening icicles hanging from commercial

In addition, between and after the storms, town crews somehow found the time to clear the snow from ice skating areas, making even skaters happy. Fantastic for kids who seem to have so little opportunity for this type of recreation, albeit frigid temperatures kept many from the ice.

Snow removal, of course, is one thing we pay for with our taxes, and the more snow, the more it costs and the less we can spend for other public works projects. But good street maintenance is probably one budget item which affects more residents than any other expenditure.

Considering factors of cost, weather and traffic, our town employees earned good grades last week.

State Fund Balances Higher Than Anticipated

New Jersey State Government ended its 1981 fiscal year with a General Fund balance of $188.1 million. and fund balances of $58.5 million in both the Property Tax Relief and Casino Revenue Funds, according to the recently released "Financial Report for the Year Ended June 30, 1981" by the New Jersey Department of the Treasury. These fund balances historically known as surplus, are unrestricted balances at year end available for appropriation in the next year for budget balancing or supplemental spending. The ending balance in each of the three funds was higher than originally estimated when the budget was adopted, reports the New Jersey Taxpayers Association. The General Fund amount was $167 million higher than originally anticipated, but nearly $41 million less than the comparable 1980 year-end balance.

Total General Fund budgeted revenue realized was about $3.8 billion, nearly $226 million over 1980 General Fund budgeted revenue, and $122 million in excess of revenue estimated at budget adoption. Eight major taxes provided $109.6 million revenue in excess of estimates, particularly the corporation business, gasoline, transfer inheritance and public utility taxes, while seven taxes fell short by $34.6 million, par ticularly motor vehicle fees, insurance premium and sales taxes. Interfund transfers in excess of estimates were nearly $54 million, much of which was income from investment of bond funds used to pay debt service on bonds, while the lottery provided $8 million more than originally contemplated for its dedicated purposes in the General Fund. Various miscellaneous fees and revenues fell slightly short of estimates mainly because of underyield in Department of Human Services institutional revenues.

On the spending side, General Fund budget authorized spending of $3,957 million was increased by supplemental authorizations of $30.1 million, a combined total of nearly $267 million over 1980, an increase of 7.2 percent. Current and previous years appropriations not expended and lapsed totaled $43.2 million in 1981 compared with $92.9 million in 1980.

Personal income tax revenue for the Property Tax Relief Fund of $1,106 million was $137 million over 1980 yield, more than 14 percent, exceeding original estimates by $41 million. Taxes collected for the Casino Revenue Fund provided $72.1 million, close to the estimate, and an increase of $14.1 million over fiscal 1980 as the number of operating casinos increased from three to seven during the year.

Ending fiscal year's undesignated fund balances are important in balancing the subsequent year's budget. Present consideration is how much of the $188 million 1981 balance will be needed for 1982. That $188 million should not be confused as being available for balancing the 1983 budget. When the 1982 General Fund budget was adopted last June, it was balanced with the projected use of more than $90 million from the fund balance needed to avoid a 1982 budget deficit. New projections for the remaining months of fiscal 1982 of revenue yield in relation to estimates and increases or lapses in spending authorizations will help determine the balances needed in 1982, as well as the estimated amount available for use in the 1983 budget.

EVOLUTION DEBATE

Editor, Leader; The latest information indicates the great debate on creation/evolution between Dr. Duane Gish and Dr. Russell Dolittle will be aired on prime time TV in the month of January. Because evolution is taught as fact in most tax supported public schools, it makes this controversy of extreme importance. În a recent trial in California the judge ruled that evolution must be presented only as "dogma" and this has nflamed the whole evoluionary world. It is well to consider that many highly skilled scien-tists (most of them having been educated in Darwin heory) do not agree with any or all of the evolutionary positions. An evolutionist, though claiming the supernatural is not science, has to accept literally millions of miracles — while a creationist only has to accept one miracle. If we can believe God created Adam in one day — with the appearance of a mature man - there is no problem in considering a mature universe, or any act of creation or salvation. Many archaeologists take a Bible with them as they explore because the Bible has proven to be 100% accurate. The same holds true for dates and events in history. Can this Book be totally right in some parts and totally wrong in others? Norman Macbeth, a Har ard trained lawyer, spent 10 years in researching the subject. He read a library of books on evolutionary theory. He claims if he had to oppose evolution in court he could get the "case thrown out."

"Natural selection" is sacred among evolu-tionists. It is that factor which causes the "fittest" to survive in the next influences in the environment. Why do some multiply and some die out? The "because some are fit and live and they survive because they are dark. This is a tautology and is meaningless, as are most of the speculations set forth by evolutionary

REVALUATION Editor, Leader;

Mr. Niedzwiecki's letter in respect of our reevaluated assessed proper ty tax, printed under "Letters to the Editor" on Jan. 7, provides a clear explanation of the subject.

Let us all support a movement to bring some semblance of sanity into the situation.

Answer So much has been written about depression and lonliness during the holidays that I'm not sure I your situation I would together and sharing, and then the parting and separation are the precipitating factors in bringing forth your depressive state. In general, think of the 3 X's when trying to understand your depression: 1) Excitement - we all feel excitement when we think about the holidays. We think about friends, relatives, the sharing of experiences, love. gifts, etc. We fantasize, we daydream. So much of this is healthy, appropriate.

2) Exploitation — we become excited and then confused about all the messages given to us by our Society (the mass media being its disciple): buy, consume, spend money in order to show love, care. Buy articles that cost a lot, that play well, that wear well. Buy lots of things, money is no object. Buy, buy, buy! And the result if you can't do it, can't compete, don't have the money: Feelings of guilt and inadequacy. 3) Expectations — we often have fond memories from our childhood, true or distorted. Memories of togetherness, unending joy. We miss it, we look for it in our present ex-periences. And, of course,

County jail is symptomatic and a notice to the owner to problem of over-crowded make the necessary repair prisons, rising crime and public demands that criminals be kept incarcerated longer. The prison and court situation is so bad that nearly 30,000 criminal cases are backogged in New Jersey. More than 18 percent of these cases are more than year old. Building more prisons and hiring personnel to control the prison populations will prove to be costly. In addition, the criminal justice system in New Jersey must also supervise 43,000 convicted offenders who have never been sent to prison and are free on probation, plus another 8,000 free on parole.

But it is only part of the nationwide crime problem. Half the nation's crime is attributed to juveniles, and at any one time tens of thousands of juveniles are either awaiting hearings or in juvenile detention Virtually every law enforcement ficer acknowledges that many crimes such as burglary and robbery are drug related. Union County's Narcotics Advisory Board recently completed a survey of every municipal police depart-ment and investigating agency, and discovered that drug abuse has increased more than 20 percent in the county during the last two years.

The Internal Revenue Service must play a more aggressive role in helping state law enforcement authorities pinpoint the source of funds used in illegal drug traffic. I am cosponsoring a bill to use IRS tax information against big time criminals who hide their drug profits. Changing federal bail laws, as recommended by Attorney General Smith, also would make it harder for major drug dealers to disappear before trial. STARSCOPE by Clare Annswell

WEEK OF: JANUARY 21, 1982

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19 Accent is on starting new tasks, especially around the house. Your sarcasm can be brutal — best ally is restraint. Romantic interest is generous, warm and very helpful

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Be on your best behavior all week, you're being watched by senior people. Relationship that has lingered in the background moves to the forefront of your life.

ARIES - March 21-April 20 Old travel or academic wish is within reach; this is an outstanding week for taking affirmative action. New information arrives to clarify real estate or other financial matter

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Easy to be citical this week; go out of your way to temper remarks with kindness. Romance is filled with lovely surprises now, especially for married Taureans

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Don't plunge into long-term ventures without doing necessary homework. First impressions are not as strong as hard facts. Friend may be a little too eager to delegate authority. CANCER - June 22-July 22

Relatives, perhaps in-laws, are asking lots of questions. Career shift indicated, and perhaps you assume managerial responsibilities. Spontaneous gatherings are upbeat LEO - July 23-August 22

Major project is neating completion, but don't neglect the all-important finishing touches. Community responsibilities increase, and with them your standing grows. VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Emphasis is on originality and independence. You may be privy to some top-secret facts. Weekend finds you face to face with a very stubborn - and very attractive - individual. LIBRA - September 23-October 22

A third party can help you settle a domestic misunderstanding. Week's keyword is observation; keep informed of goings on in your private circle and in the world in general. SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Small, steady gains in finance brighten the week. Make sure you know all the facts before pronouncing judgment on an out-of-favor friend, relative or colleague. SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22 Variety is stressed through the week Each day brings an all-new challenge, or entanglement, or adventure. Weekend delay may prove to your eventual advantage.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20 Speculative venture requires more discussion and investigation. Activate dormant creative projects — and put some comph into world-weary friends or relatives. BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Ambilion, independence and impatience are your middle names, and you have a great gift for motivating people. Self-improvement is spotlighted over next five months, leading ultimately to professional Shuhsi Hsu, represented China in both the League of Nations and the United Nations and served as his country's ambassador to Canada, Peru and Bolivia, died at the age of 89, in his home in Westfield Jan. 14.

A scholar of international renown, Mr. Hsu was professor of international law at Yenching University in Peking from 1923 to 1937. At a time when China was faced with increasing foreign encroachment, Mr. Hsu's outspoken views on China's territorial integrity before international forums such as the Kyoto Conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations in 1929 and the League of Nations in 1932-33, captured the imagination of a new generation of Chinese intellectuals.

When Japan invaded his homeland in 1937, Mr. Hsu joined the foreign office of the Chinese government and for the next 30 years took on a score of diplomatic missions, including the Dumbarton Oaks Conference of 1944 and the San Francisco Conference (UNCIO) of 1945 which established the United Nations. During the ten years from 1946 to 1956, he represented his country on the United Nations Security Council on many occasions while a member of China's permanent mission to the United Nations. There is no denying that infectious mononucleosis is a serious illness. However, in most cases, it passes fairly rapidly and leaves no after effects. The rate of recovery depends on the patient's psychological outlook as well as diet and sleeping patterns. The cause of "mono" is not exactly known. As a result, the cure and method of transmission of the disease are difficult to specify. You may be able to get it from kissing or from sharing the same utensils as someone who either has the disease or is a carrier.

Do not participate in contact sports when suffering with "mono" or other diseases that affect the spleen.
