Votes Tuesday On School Tab

Adoption of a proposed school budget and school calendar for 1983-1984 tops the list of agenda items for the Westfield Board of Education's formal public business meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the board meeting room at 302 Elm St.

The proposed $21 million school budget will be the topic of a second formal public hearing Tuesday. Following the public hearing, the Board of Education will vote on the school budget.

The school board will be asked to formally approve two recommendations of the finance committee. These are the application to revenue for the 1983-1984 school budget of $125,000 from unexpended fund balances (or "surplus") and $48,825 from restored State Aid from the current 1982-1983 school budget. Application of these funds will reduce the tax call to support the proposed school budget.

A proposed school calendar for the 1983-1984 academic year is also on the school board's agenda Tuesday. The proposed calendar includes the state-mandated 180 days of school between opening day Sept. 7 and closing day June 20. According to the present contract, teachers have to report to school one full day before students, thus teachers will return Tuesday, Sept. 6.

School holidays include:
— Thursday and Friday, September 8 and 9 - Rosh Hashanah
— Monday, October 10 - Columbus Day
— Thursday and Friday, Nov. 10 and 11 - Teacher's Convention Day
— Thursday and Friday, Nov. 24 and 25 - Thanksgiving holiday
— Monday through Friday, Dec. 26 through Dec. 30 - Christmas vacation

— Monday, Jan. 2 - New Year's Day

Ten is twice as many finalists last year's class produced and is one of the highest number in recent years. "This is an indication of the quality of this class," said Dr. Petix. The award cites the students for "high potential for academic performance by distinguished performance as a finalist in the 1983 National Merit Scholarship competition." Pictured, left to right, standing are Linden Hu, Daniel Scott, Scott Johnston; seated in the middle row, Michael Chorost, Mark Johnston, Evelyn Shen, Kelly Scott; and front row, Brian Bernstein, Matthew Cordes and Steven Myerson.

Chamber to Honor Greco, Local Mall Protestors

At its annual dinner dance on March 18, the Westfield Chamber of Commerce will honor its past president, Norman N. Greco Jr. and will formally extend the organization's appreciation to the Westfield "Stop the Mall" committee for its efforts to defeat the proposed Springfield Mall. Warren Rorden, the Chamber president, says that both parties are "a celebration of the valuable services that Greco and the committee have performed for the Westfield community."

Norman Greco, who remains an active member of the Chamber board of directors, served the organization as president from the beginning of 1980 until the end of 1982. During his presidency, the organization gained in strength and stature, doubling its membership and greatly increasing the scope of its projects and activities. Early in 1982, Greco and members of his executive board founded the "Stop the Mall" committee in response to what they perceived as a clear threat to Westfield's economic health from the proposed construction of an 87-store shopping center on Westfield's border in Springfield. The committee expanded to include many private citizens and town officials as well as business people, and the group worked steadily all during 1982 building an eff-

Municipal Tax Up Two Points

Owners of property assessed at $120,000 will pay $24 more in taxes to support municipal services this year under a budget unanimously supported by the Mayor and Town Council on its introduction Tuesday night.

The budget itself, utilizing the 7.5 percent increase option permitted by the New Jersey Legislature this year, will total $10,263,800, an increase of $557,000 over 1982. Because of increased revenues, the amount to be raised by taxation is $3,816,470 and the tax rate to support the municipal budget 33 cents per $100 assessed valuation, up from 31 cents.

Public hearing and final action on the municipal budget will be held at the Town Council's meeting April 12 — the same date on which voters will decide the fate of the $21.5 million school budget.

According to James Capone, chairman of the budget committee, a breakdown of the $557,000 increase in the municipal budget by category includes:

Salaries & Wages - $312,000 - An increase of 7.5%, with approximately half of the municipal employees under contract for 1983.

Legal - OE - $17,000 - Provision for continued litigation of the Springfield mall.

Engineering - OE - $13,000 - Higher cost of maintaining vehicles and equipment.

Public Buildings - OE - $16,000 - Utility cost increases and a provision to demolish two structures acquired through foreclosures.

Group Insurance - $68,000 - Higher medical premiums.

Fire Hydrants - $25,000 - P.U.C. granted rate increase.

Street Lighting - $5,000 - Provision for new street lighting.

Parks - OE - $13,000 - P.U.C. granted increase for disposal at landfill.

Library - $55,000 - Minimum appropriation by law.

All pensions - $30,000 - State computation and billing.

Other - $3,000 - Plus and minus on all other appropriations.

Total - $557,000.

An explanation of the budget would be incomplete without referencing the Cap law, Cap one said. The elements of that law, as they are reflected in this budget, follows:

Within Cap - $7,448,100 - Salaries & Wages and basic services.

Cap Exclusions:

a) Mandated - $127,300 - Costs resulting from legislated program increases implemented after the Cap law.

b) Statutory - $1,317,800 - The Cap law excluded certain categories, the largest being debt service and the Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority charges.

c) Revenue Offset - $169,000 - Programs funded by Federal and State aid.

d) Reserve for Uncollected Taxes - $1,201,600 - The Town must guarantee 100% of tax revenue to the School Board and the County and absorb any shortage of collections.

Total - $10,263,800.

"In order to maintain the current level of basic services provided to the community, Capone added, "Council found it necessary to utilize the option provided under legislation adopted early this year of increasing the capped portion of the budget by 7.5%. Without the availability of that option, there would have been severe basic service reductions this year.

"While the budget has increased by $557,000, prudent financial management has allowed for part of that increase to be offset by higher revenue from surplus and miscellaneous sources. The net result is an increase in revenue from local taxation of $283,000. The tax rate is expected to increase by two cents per $100 of valuation from $0.31 to $0.33. That increase translates into $2 per year per $10,000 of property valuation or, for a property valued at $120,000, an increase of $24,000," Capone concluded.

Prior to the introduction of the budget Tuesday night, council approved using the 7.5 percent increase option for its budget calculations this year, with one councilman, John Brady, abstaining on the vote. Council.

New Ward Lines Affect 600 Southsiders

New ward boundaries were drawn by the Westfield Ward Commission at its meeting Wednesday night, moving a section of about 600 residents in Ward 3 across the railroad tracks to become a part of Ward 2.

Ward 4 was left intact.

The plan adopted by a 3-1 vote by the Ward Commission comprised of Board of Election Commissioners

Donald J. Ludwig,

Margaret A. Brooks and Jerry Bierner, and Westfield Town Clerk Joy Vreeland as chairman had been a subject of controversy for several weeks. In its final form, opposed only by Mrs. Vreeland, the plan comes close to one suggested earlier by Democratic Councilman Brian Fahey and leaves the fourth ward which he represents untouched.

Few Attend Hearing On School Budget

The number of Board of Education members and administrators exceeded the members of the public who appeared at Tuesday night's public hearing of the proposed 1983-84 school budget held at the administration building at 302 Elm St.

Of the nine residents who attended the meeting, only one, Philip Johns, queried the board at length.

"Are we getting our money's worth?" questioned Johns. "I feel the public should receive input as to how figures are arrived at."

Board member William Vincentsen explained that Westfield's school population is a less efficient size than it was several years ago. Conscious decisions to decrease class size, reduction of staff members only at the low end of the pay scale and increased costs

Jackie and Dennis Rogers to Direct Lung Power Day, Woolfolk on Committee

Sunday, March 27 is "Lung Power" Day in Union County.

That's the date of the third annual Aerobics 'n Rhythm benefit for the American Lung Association of Central New Jersey which will be held between 1 and 6 p.m. at the Dunn Sports Center, Elizabeth.

The event will be directed by Jackie and Dennis Rogers of Westfield, president and vice president of Aerobics 'n Rhythm. More than 500 dancers from communities throughout Union County will use their good health to help raise funds for the Lung Association.

Mrs. Rogers, a director of the Lung Association, also announced that Giants star Butch Woolfolk and Elizabeth Mayor Thomas G. Dunn are heading the honorary committee. Dr. Richard H. Guess, an Elizabeth dentist and also a director of the Lung Association, is the general chairman. The Elizabeth High School Key Club is assisting as co-sponsors.

Dr. Guess said that the dance-a-thons sponsored by Aerobics 'n Rhythm have raised more than $100,000 for the Lung Association and that the goal for March 27 is $50,000.

"The events have gained nationwide recognition," Dr. Guess continued, "because they are the biggest and most spectacular benefits ever staged in the country for a Lung Association."

"They are volunteer efforts, which raise much needed funds for our services for children and adults with long-term respiratory problems," he concluded.

Aerobics 'n Rhythm, one of the fastest growing physical fitness programs in the country, combines choreographed dance movements with exercise which benefit the lungs and the heart while also trimming and toning the entire body.

"We are pleased to sponsor this event," Mrs. Rogers said, "because it helps an important community service organization while also focusing attention on a stimulating and health oriented recreational activity."

Contestants are registering sponsors to pledge

50 cents, $1 or more for each 25-minute session they complete in the five-hour activity. All contestants have special forms provided by the Lung Association and sponsors are requested to record their pledges. When the event has been completed, the forms will be validated and the contestants will return to collect the pledges.

In addition to the aerobic dancing, there will be exhibitions by world, national and regional dance teams who will donate their services to assist the work of the Lung Association.

Prizes will be awarded to the contestants who return the highest dollar totals in pledge donations. Last year area merchants and corporations donated more than $10,000 in gift items.

Additional information about the event is available from the Lung Association, 1457 Raritan Rd., Clark.

Red Cross Slates Blood Drive Here Mar. 18

The Westfield-Mountainside chapter of the American Red Cross will hold a community blood drive at its chapter house, 321 Elm St., Friday, March 18. The drive, cosponsored by New Jersey Blood Services, will be open to the public from 2 to 7:30 p.m.

Don Stouder, executive director of the Westfield-Mountainside chapter, noted the importance of a steady blood supply. "Medical advances increase the need for blood each year," said Stouder. "Open-heart surgery, cancer therapies, anemias, and hemophilia treatments all require large amounts of blood. To guarantee that the blood will be there when needed, we must appeal to the donor, the only source of blood."

Anyone between the ages of 17 and 66, weighing at least 110 pounds and in good health, can give blood. The actual donation takes less than 15 minutes and normal activity can be resumed shortly afterwards.

Donated blood will be tested and processed by New Jersey Blood Services, the state's largest processor and distributor of blood and blood components. After processing, a single pint of blood can go on to treat as many as five different patients.

"Brigadoon" in Rehearsal at RJHS

Roosevelt Jr. High School will present the musical Brigadoon March 24, 25, and 26.

If Snows Fall, Cars Need Care

Snow blowing from the roof of a car recently blinded a truck driver on the Tappan Zee Bridge, causing him to veer to his death in the Hudson River.

"This tragedy could have been prevented, Assemblyman Edward K. Gill (R-Dist. 21) said, if the driver of the car had taken a few minutes to brush his car clean before operating it on a public thoroughfare."

Assembly Bill 3223, which Gill has cosponsored, will prevent a recurrence of this kind of accident. The bill requires the removal of accumulated snow and ice from a vehicle before it can be driven on a public road. Violations can result in a fine up to $250 and, if the violation contributes to an accident, $1,000.

Brigadoon is an ethereal Scottish village which lies sleeping among the heather except for one glorious day each year. The play is one of dreams, love, choices and sorrow, all set to music, dance and drama.

The romantic leads are Fiona played by ninth grader Sabrina Prielaida and Tommy played by classmate Bill Scouten. The comic roles are Meg done by freshman Sue Wood and the role of Jeff is played by eighth grader Andrew Kelley. The senior citizen of Brigadoon, Mr. Lundie, is portrayed by eighth grader Kenny Feinsod while classmate Jeff Nelson is the lead tenor in the role of Charlie.

A cast of 58 singers and dancers provide support for the starring roles. Mrs. Drude Roessler provides her talents as director; Peter Bridges is musical director.

Tickets will be available at the door and also on sale at Roosevelt the week preceding the opening.

Westfield Attorney Paves Way To D.C. for 46 Lawyers

In a once-in-a-lifetime experience, 46 attorneys, all members of the Union County Bar Association, will be presented for admission to practice before the United States Supreme Court, the court of last resort in American jurisprudence.

This year's event had its genesis with the Women Lawyers in Union County and it was Barbara Byrd Wecker, a woman attorney who practices law in Westfield, who undertook to make the appropriate arrangements.

At the request of the Women Lawyers of Union County, the officers and trustees of the Union County Bar Association agreed to co-sponsor the admission and underwrite a portion of the expenses.

Wecker began the task in the latter part of June, 1982 and it was not until sometime in December that the clerk of the United States Supreme Court notified her that the United States Supreme Court would entertain the application from Union County on Monday morning, March 7, at 10 a.m.

Many of the applicants intend to spend the weekend in the Nation's capital taking in the sights, and a reception will be held for them and their guests at the Hyatt Regency Capitol Hill on Sunday evening from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

All of the New Jersey members of the House of Representatives and Senate of the United States have been invited to the reception and to be present the following morning in the chambers of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The group of attorneys from Union County will be presented to the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the United States Supreme Court on the application of Leo Kaplowitz, the president of the Union County Bar Association, and himself admitted to practice before the highest court of the land since 1955.

Those being proposed for admission are: Desmond Raymond Abazia, Mark T. Apostolous, Leonard R. Blumberg, Patricia Breuninger, Arnold I. Budin, Mark J. Buynak, Rosalie A. Cannone, Peter V. Cappiello Jr., Ann Patricia Conti, Kathleen Broderick Estabrooks, Dennis Arnold Estis, Robert Frank.

McKinley School students were recently treated to a live Repertory Theatre performance by the Pushcart Players. "That's Me" explored a collection of stories, as pupils had the opportunity to be introduced to live theatre and the arts in the school auditorium. The audience also has the chance to ask questions of the cast and to see how set designs and costumes were handled. Pictured with members of the cast are McKinley 5th grader, Carrie Maron, first grader Melissa Long and her brother Geoffrey. The arrangements for this production at the school were made by the McKinley PTO cultural arts committee and funded by the parent group.

Bassano: Rail Strike Demonstrates Need for Agency Accountability

The first statewide train strike in New Jersey history just 57 days after NJ Transit took over the railroad demonstrates the need to make the agency accountable to the commuters and taxpayers, Senator C. Louis Bassano (R-Union) said today.

Since 1979, when the Byrne administration set up NJ Transit as an independent operating authority over strong protests in the Legislature, NJT has offered the state:

- higher fares — a 65% increase in train fares, with 20% more threatened — a 56% increase in bus fares, with 25% more threatened
- the loss of more than 32,000 riders
- a vast new bureaucracy. It payroll of $100,468,100 for a staff of 4,892 to serve less than 300,000 people now duplicates the State Department of Transportation with a payroll of $105,645,200 and a staff of 5,473 which serves 7.5 million.
- back-breaking capital costs, (i.e. purchase of 700 buses in a single year at a cost of $100 million — the largest-ever order in the 50-year history of the bus manufacturer, the $456 million electrification of the Morris County line
- higher federal, state and gasoline taxes and tunnel fares to pay capital and operating costs
- continuing cuts in service

The strike has dramatized one major problem with the independent agency — its lack of accountability to the people and the inaccessibility of NJ Transit records to the public who pays the bills.

"With its million-dollar public relations budget, NJ Transit informed commuters the strike is designed to fight the unreasonable costs of paying conductors $40,000 to $45,000 a year," Bassano noted.

"Yet a conductor with 32 years service claimed he earned $20,000 less — that his salary of $28,000 had been reduced to $24,000. The trainmen complained that conductors with lifelong service were being asked to take a $6,000 cut in pay while executive salaries are soaring.

"The salary of NJ Transit Executive Director Jerome Premo, for example, was $77,000 — $7,000 more than N.J. Transportation Commissioner John Sheridan who earns $70,000. It was hiked in January to $84,000 — just $1,000 less than Governor Thomas Kean earns for running the entire state.

"Incredibly, neither commuters nor their State Legislators can verify who is telling the truth. NJ Transit's books are closed to the people and their elected representatives.

"It's essential that NJ Transit be accountable to the public especially in light of a pattern of management that's raised the cost of commuting to both commuter and taxpayer," the Senator asserted.

"Since NJ Transit took over bus and rail operations, fares have soared at astronomical rates, accompanied by more and more demands for new taxes to support mass transit, at the same time service is steadily slashed."

Bassano recently introduced legislation making NJ Transit accountable to the public through its elected representatives in the Legislature.

One bill creates a commission to oversee and evaluate the business and administrative practices of NJ Transit, particularly irregularities, illegal purchases and extravagances which have recently been charged against the agency.

The other requires an accounting of operational, capital and financial costs

Dems to Hear Talk On N.J.'s Toxic Waste

The Westfield Democratic Club will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the studio of Carolyn K. Kueter, 424 St. Marks Ave. Jack Farlow from the Environmental Protection Agency will discuss the problems of toxic waste as it relates to Westfield and the State of New Jersey.

Farlow, a Westfield resident, is on the staff of the oil and hazardous materials spills branch of EPA. Farlow's branch of EPA is charged with finding better and safer ways of cleaning up the nation's environmental mistakes.

"At least four of the most hazardous toxic waste sites listed by the EPA are located in New Jersey, and citizens should become better informed about this topic," said Dr. Martin J. Sheehy, M.D., president of the Westfield Democratic Club. "As a physician I am well aware of the threat that these pollutants represent."

This event continues the series of informative programs currently being presented to Westfield citizens by the Westfield Democratic Club. "The environment must be a priority for every citizen of New Jersey," Dr. Sheehy said. All Westfield residents are invited to attend this meeting.

Kleinman to Entertain At Temple Brunch

Sy Kleinman, "raconteur extraordinaire" will be featured entertainer at the brunch at 11 a.m. Sunday, March 20, at Temple Emanuel-El, 756 East Broad St. His topic will be "Jewish Humor is No Laughing Matter".

Kleinman is a practicing attorney and a member of the faculty of Columbia University Law School.

Herb Ross, program coordinator, said "His material is sophisticated and very funny; and whether the listener is aware of it, he gives a background of Judaism and Jewish history. His quotes from his grandfather and father are hysterical. The homely philosophy which comes through is heartwarming. His Yiddish accents are great, but his southern Yiddish usually has them rolling in the aisles."

Recently, Kleinman and Paul Zim of the Zim Brothers fame produced a record called "Let My People Laugh and Sing." Kleinman tells stories on one side and Paul Zim sings on the other.

Brunch will be served at the event, and there will be a small donation. The program is being sponsored by the various arms of Temple Emanuel-El. Louis Tischler is president of Men's Club; Sylvia Cohen is president of Sisterhood; Rona Geiser is chairperson for adult education; and Jackie Rose is chairperson for social action committee.

"Relatively Few Problems" For Commuters during Strike

Following a meeting with Transportation Commissioner John Sheridan in Trenton last week, Assemblyman Edward Gill (R-Dist. 21) stated that he was generally satisfied with the contingency planning by the New Jersey Transit. As a member of the transportation committee, Gill reported that he has personally observed the bus operation applying to the Raritan line and there appears to be relatively few problems. Commuters seem to have adapted as well as can be expected to the inconvenience of the strike.

Commissioner Sheridan assured Gill that monthly ticket holders can get a refund on unused portions of their tickets. Emergency routes and schedules will be altered where it is indicated, and passenger safety and convenience protected.

Assemblyman Gill pointed out that many of the comments he has received from commuters indicated their general support of the New Jersey Transit's position.

"I will continue to monitor the strike to assure my constituents every protection," Gill said. "What this strike shows, though, is the need for legislation to deal with specific, critical transportation situations such as this strike."

Assemblyman Gill asked that any questions or comments related to this strike be addressed to him at his district office, 23 North Ave. East, Cranford.

Marianne Kerwin, Energy Chairperson Nancy Naragon, Mary Jo Willemssen, Alice Rugg and Shirley Cordes discuss unit studies of radioactive waste.

League of Voters Conducting Radioactive Waste Study

High level radioactive waste — New Jersey's got it! It has to go somewhere on New Jersey roads on self-inspected trucks. What can be done about this problem? Energy units of the League of Women Voters of the Westfield Area (Fanwood, Mountainside, Scotch Plains and Westfield) are studying the problem at meetings. Visitors may call the league phone number listed in the directory for more information.

Units will meet on Tuesday, March 15 at 8 p.m. at Vada Stanton's, 716 Kimball Ave.; Wednesday, March 16, at 1 p.m. at Madeline Reagan's, 623 Fairmont Ave.; and Thursday, March 17 at 9:15 a.m. at Judy Yogan's, 48 Mohican Dr.

On Sunday, March 20, the League of Women Voters will host its annual legislative reception from 3-5 p.m. with many of the area legislators present to speak and answer questions informally.

Incumbent Legislators To Seek New Terms

and chaired the fundraising effort of the Washington Rock Girl Scout Council. He is a member of the Columbia Club, Elks BPOE and the Knights of Columbus.

Educated in the Newark public school system, Bassano attended Bloomfield College before assuming the position of vice president of the Bassano Oil Service in Union.

Hardwick, the Minority Whip, is serving his third term in the Assembly. A member of the Assembly revenue, finance and appropriations committee and delegation leader on the joint appropriations committee, he is also on the joint legislative oversight committee.

A former member of the Union County County Welfare Board, he was past president of the Calvary Lutheran Church, vice chairman of the National Council of State Legislators' Law and Justice Committee, on the Presidential Advisory Committee on Federalism, president of the National Republican Legislators' Association and State Chairman of the American Legislative Exchange Council.

He was graduated from Florida State University with bachelor's and master's degrees before joining Pfizer Pharmaceuticals.

A fulltime legislator, Gill serves on the Assembly transportation and communications committee and the Assembly legislative oversight committee. He is a member of the Governor's Commission on Science and Technology and the Assembly Committee on the Aging.

Former mayor of Cranford, he served as public service commissioner, on the Board of Education, and heads the Housing Board and was director of Civil Defense, and served on the Revenue Sharing Committee.

Winner of this year's Martin Luther King Award presented by the Cranford

Council of Churches, he is a member of the Rotary Club, American Association of Retired Persons, a director of the Telephone Pioneers, past commander of the Cranford American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

An Air Force captain in World War II, Gill is a graduate of Rutgers University, holds an MBA from New York University and studied at Stevens Institute of Technology. He is retired from Western Electric Company.

"I feel that the people in the 21st District are fortunate to have a well balanced team representing them. We will give them our full support," asserted Pisano.

Time Frame Too Short For Parking Solutions?

We couldn't agree more heartily with Councilman Harry Brown that it's time for action on Westfield's parking problems, but two weeks' notice for residents to prepare plans that could have some substance seems a bit precipitous.

Perhaps it might be wise to supply a few statistics to the public, rather than have a lot of duplicate effort in determining who parks where, why, point of origin, point of destination, resident or non-resident, duration of parking, etc.

Most people simply do not have time in a two-week period — only one week now left before the March 17 deadline — (particularly when they themselves are working at the time most of these studies would be most valid) to gather sufficient accurate data to present feasible plans.

Parking has become a growing problem over the years, partially because of the increase of service firms in the central business district and the subsequent need for additional parking spaces for these people.

Most long-term parking (and all of the 50 cents a day variety) and station permit parking is filled before 8 a.m., primarily by commuters and bank employees whose working days begin early. Relatively few businesses enjoy enough space to accommodate their own employees and many encourage their help to park elsewhere so — with good reason — their customers may avail themselves of handy access to their establishments.

It is a dilemma not easily solved — and certainly not on an "act in haste, repent in leisure" fashion.

We believe that the health of a community is to a large degree dependent upon the well-being of its business zone, which does, in turn, require adequate parking facilities for its success.

Growth creates ratables, ratables produce taxes, and taxes provide services. Parking, we feel, is a municipal service, like snow removal, park maintenance, our library, police and fire protection, recreation, sewers, streets and curbs, flood control, etc. We don't feel the town should lose its shirt on providing any of these services, but we don't think that "users' taxes" can necessarily be applied disproportionately.

We elect a Town Council to guide the town in its actions. While we commend the parking and traffic committee for seeking suggestions from the public for ideas, it's unrealistic to assume that the best of recommendations will be made either by the public by next Thursday, or the members of council who attend the parking committee's open meeting only one week after that.

SUPPORTS MARTIN

Editor, Leader;
This year it is our good fortune to have a number of exceptionally fine candidates for the Board of Education. I would like to draw particular attention to Kathleen Martin.

Kathleen has always shown herself to be dedicated, intelligent and extremely knowledgeable about the workings of our school system. She has constantly proven her leadership ability, her concern for an outstanding education and her commitment to seeking new goals for our district.

When Kathleen asserts that "teachers are our most valuable resource," I know that she will focus on the kinds of strategies that will strengthen our current teaching staff and enable us to attract able new people, particularly in the areas of science and mathematics. Kathleen has amply demonstrated that she has the energy and the intelligence to do the necessary homework to ensure that our schools respond to the challenges of the eighties and beyond.

With your help, Kathleen looks forward to serving on our Board of Education — serving you, our children and our community. I shall vote for Kathleen Martin, and I hope that you will too.

BOOSTS BRECHER

Editor, Leader;
I would like to express my support for Lewis Brecher as a candidate for the Board of Education.

He has the best of all reasons to be interested, because he has three children in the Westfield schools, with one in the high school, one in junior high and one in elementary school. In addition, he and his wife Carol have been active PTA members and have taken part in the process of encouraging people to run for the board in the last several years.

The board needs people with business experience. Lewis is a C.P.A., and active as a controller and treasurer, all of which will contribute expertise to the process of budgeting and managing the school system.

FAVORS MORAN

Editor, Leader;
This year, the voters of Westfield are fortunate to have a uniquely qualified candidate running for the Board of Education — Carolyn Moran.

We have known Carolyn for many years, first as a caring parent then as an active citizen. Her involvement with children and education is long-standing and includes teaching and volunteer work.

Carolyn has, we believe, three important qualities which will enable her to serve as a very effective member of the board: integrity, energy and compassion.

In each project she has undertaken and each cause she has espoused, she's shown great integrity. She has approached problems with an open mind, done her homework to ascertain the facts and, only then, come to a decision about the merits of the cause.

Once she has determined that she will undertake a job, she has attacked it with boundless energy, giving of herself with determination until she has seen it through. Not only does she have the energy but the time which board matters require to do an intelligent, thorough job.

And never, in any of her activities, has she lost the human quality of compassion. With Carolyn people and their needs come first. That is why she believes the bottom line in any school system is education in the classroom. Children are what schools are for.

These are reasons Carolyn Moran has our support. Westfield would benefit by her election to the Board of Education.

WARNS MOTORISTS

Editor, Leader;
I think it should be brought to the attention of Westfield motorists travelling toward Clark or home through Clark that we are bearing the brunt of stake-outs by the Clark police. Upon several occasions I have observed stakeouts on Terminal Ave. and Westfield Ave. of motorists heading toward Westfield only, and on Central Ave. of motorists going over the railroad bridge from Westfield to Clark.

Naturally, every municipality can use more funds. Clark police have apparently found that Westfield motorists make likely fall-guys.

Watch out, fellow motorists.

SUPPORTS BUDGET

Editor, Leader;
"Quality education is more than some kind of noble, altruistic goal. It's a business proposition. Well-educated people make better consumers. They become well-informed valuable citizens in our community." So says Frito-Lay Chief Executive Officer Wayne Calloway in one of the monthly ads Dallas magazines runs promoting the merits of business involvement in the Dallas schools.

The Westfield Parent-Teacher Council board has voted to support the 1983-1984 school budget. We feel strongly that our town is committed to an excellent educational system or the people would have chosen to live elsewhere.

Most literature shows that a town's good reputation is built primarily on strong schools. We need to maintain and improve what we have in our district. We cannot do this without sufficient money.

No one wants taxes to go up, but inflation and mandated programs do necessitate an increase. According to the latest draft of the budget, the tax increase per $110,000 house evaluation will be $11 per month. We think that if all of our community people would visit our schools and ask questions, they would feel that their dollars are being spent wisely and justly. The state and federal governments have continually decreased their funding to Westfield as well as many other communities. This also plays a big part in the increase of the merits of the cause.

Once she has determined that she will undertake a job, she has attacked it with boundless energy, giving of herself with determination until she has seen it through. Not only does she have the energy but the time which board matters require to do an intelligent, thorough job.

And never, in any of her activities, has she lost the human quality of compassion. With Carolyn people and their needs come first. That is why she believes the bottom line in any school system is education in the classroom. Children are what schools are for.

QUESTION: Many gas stations are offering discounts when you buy gasoline with cash instead of credit. It is confusing, and some stations are not giving the advertised discounts unless you ask for them. Isn't this illegal?
J.A. Union.

ANSWER: Yes, it is illegal. I've notified the state Consumer Affairs office to look into the problem, and that office charged four gas stations with not giving the discounts they posted on signs. Also, I am sponsoring legislation that would permit gas stations to designate one island of gas pumps for credit, and one for cash. Although many stations are doing this, it is illegal at present. I believe this measure will clear up the confusion and fraud now occurring at some gas stations that operate on a discount-for-cash basis.

QUESTION: We oppose Assembly Bill A-1892, "Worker and Community Right to Know Act." What do you think of it? C.C. Cranford.

ANSWER: I understand the intent of the bill, which is to require manufacturers to list substances handled by their employees. But, as of now this legislation is too restrictive and broad. Many non-hazardous substances are included on the list, including beach sand and table salt. I believe a middle ground must be struck, in which workers

Report From Washington

by Congressman

Matt Rinaldo

7th District, New Jersey

American taxpayers would be unhappy to discover that they are subsidizing the construction of hundreds of new ships and cargo vessels in foreign countries while putting the U.S. shipbuilding industry in danger of collapsing. Not only are American shipbuilding companies on the brink of going under, but the failure to build ships in this country is aggravating the nation's depressed steel industry and increasing our balance of payments deficits.

The rusting and unused shipyards in Bayonne, Kearney and Camden echo the situation found in shipyards all over America. In Ohio, the American Shipbuilding Company, one of the largest still operating, has only 66 employees on the payroll. Normally, they employ 1,200 workers.

Several thousand skilled workers were employed at New Jersey's shipyards during the height of World War II and the Korean War. As a major maritime nation that relies on shipping for commerce, the United States is fast moving into a position of almost complete dependence on foreign built and leased vessels to carry its goods.

Since 1960, the amount of U.S. foreign commerce handled by American built ships has shrunk from 42 percent to less than four percent. By contrast, Liberia, Panama, Canada, Great Britain, Japan and Norway carry almost 75 percent of our waterborne cargo. Other countries, especially the Soviet Union, are expanding their bulk fleets as we allow ours to wither away.

Under the Maritime Act and the 1978 Port and Tanker Safety Act, American shipping companies are obtaining tax subsidies to have their ships built and overhauled in foreign countries.

Congress refuses to include a "Buy America" provision in the Maritime Bill. As a consequence, the program to improve tanker safety has become a bonanza for foreign shipbuilding companies at the expense of jobs for American shipyard workers.

In an effort to make U.S. flag vessels less costly to operate, some maritime unions have promised joint contracts for each new vessel constructed under the proposed Competitive Shipping and Shipbuilding Act. It would require all exporters and importers of bulk commodities in the U.S. to ship five percent of their cargoes on U.S. built flag-ships. This would increase by one percent each year until a maximum level of 20 percent of all U.S. bulk commodities are carried on U.S. flagships.

By constructing modern vessels in a series of at least 10 ships, American yards would be able to cut production costs by an estimated 15 percent and provide a stable workload for shipping yards. This would increase labor productivity and lower the costs of capital improvements at the facilities.

It would provide for the construction of 158 bulk ships of 120,000 ton capacity by 1998 to replace the existing tonnage that is obsolete and unsafe. Thousands of jobs in the shipbuilding industry and more than 6,000 seagoing jobs aboard the new vessels would be created. In addition, it would assure that some 200,000 jobs in ship construction and repair, ship operation and maritime related services and supplies are saved.

Multinational companies now escape paying over $100 million a year in U.S. taxes by registering vessels under foreign flags and using foreign crews. The availability of foreign flag vessels in a time of crisis, such as during the oil shortage when tankers were scarce, is not guaranteed.

Encouraging the rebirth of the U.S. shipbuilding industry not only would mean more revenue to the Treasury, but it also would help to boost our international balance of payments. For the past decade, more money has been paid out to foreign shippers for ocean transportation than to domestic operations. Of the $8 billion worth of shipping services recorded in the balance of payments for 1980, only $2.6 billion was paid to U.S. flag vessels.

Many nations recognize the importance of a strong merchant marine and support their shipping and shipbuilding industries through subsidies, tax incentives, preferential financing and cargo reservation programs. In order for the United States to compete, it must provide the incentives to rebuild its own decaying fleet.

1983 School Board Candidates Express Views

Brecher Foresees "Dollars And Sense" Planning

Lewis Brecher, candidate for the Westfield Board of Education, meets with Campaign Manager Helene Gersten and Treasurer Mike Kelly at Sunday's kick-off campaign gathering.

Lewis Brecher launched his campaign for a seat on the Westfield Board of Education on Sunday, pledging to combine his professional skills as a financial executive with his interest in quality education to successfully plan for Westfield's new educational reorganization.

"My excitement for the educational challenges that lie ahead in creating a K-12 educational program are tempered by the realizations of the many problems that face us. Creating a program designed to fit varied individual needs, having that program work on paper and knowing that it will also work in the classroom requires school board members with both fiscal and analytical skills. My extensive experience in both financial controls and initiation, evaluation and implementation of computer systems suited for specific needs well qualifies me, I believe, for the board position I am seeking."

At the Sunday gathering, the candidate told his guests, "I firmly believe we must face up to these challenges now as an entire community. The best way we can begin is with our support for the passage of the 1983-84 school budget. This year's budget has honestly sought consensus and compromise in deciding what is best for Westfield's students. Educational needs cannot be met if the schools we send our children to are not properly maintained. The board has shown fiscal responsibility in its decision to use accumulated operating surplus to fund the long overdue building maintenance projects."

Brecher further stated that he foresees a vital need for intensive fiscal and curriculum planning as the number one priority facing the newly seated board.

"The ground work has been laid by both citizen, staff and administrative studies over the past five years. These studies have shown that a new intermediate program is necessary if we are to meet the challenges confronting our children in today's society.

"With three of my own children in the Westfield school system (Marla in high school, Todd in junior high school and Julie in elementary school), it became ever more apparent to me that a natural flow of curriculum was necessary to insure a smooth transition from one level of instruction to the next. The new program that will be created should not only be able to meet educational needs, but the students' emotional needs as well."

Brecher concluded "We will all have to work together to maintain the programs that have worked for us in the past, as well as create new curriculum to answer tomorrow's needs with strong dollars and sense planning. I look forward to talking with many Westfielders in the campaign weeks ahead and begin the two-way communication that is going to be vital if we are to succeed in this new endeavor."

Better Planning Advocated By Aspirant Mrs. Moran

"Band Aid" solutions to educational needs in Westfield sometimes end up causing more problems than they cure," school board candidate Carolyn Moran said today.

"But putting 'the tool before the goal' planners often end up with programs to fit previously purchased resources and lack of support for the school budget, the former teacher asserted.

The cure is long range planning that carefully fits new programs smoothly into a naturally progressing overall curriculum, gathers substantial staff input "because they alone interact daily with students" and considers the viewpoints of parents and community members to maintain balance and achieve a healthy perspective, Moran asserted.

"In talking with parents and residents I hear concern that we too often rush to judgment and make hasty decisions that prove to be unsound for the long-term," Moran said.

"Careful planning and explanation of changes shows vision and discipline and engenders community support. It justifies expenditures for new programs thereby assuring public approval of a budget required to accomplish the aims, and provides a continuum of education for students."

said Moran, a longtime student of curriculum needs.

"This year we introduced an excellent computer literacy program in the sixth grade. The objectives are well developed and implemented, introducing the youngsters to computers, their history, components, specific uses, basic operations, software, loading and programming.

"But where do these newly knowledgeable youngsters go from here?"

"Unfortunately, the junior high school program which should involve some natural follow up is still undefined. No decisions have yet been made on whether it will be required or elective, short term or long.

"Although the program is not yet developed, 11 computer terminals have been purchased, which have to be hooked into the computer at Elm Street at a cost of $5,000 ($2,500 for each junior high).

"The process is backwards. Before a purchase was made, planners should have determined the number of children to be involved, and the aims of the program to assure that the equipment is suitable to achieve the goals.

"I feel that 'seat of the pants' planning — whether it be the closing of schools before necessary, or a sudden curriculum shift to a middle school-four year high school without first developing a suitable curriculum robs the system in two ways:

- "It provides a bumpy road to education for our children.

- "It removes the wide public support for programs which is the foundation stone of a sound educational system.

"As a member of the Westfield school board, I will work to see that curriculum planning is given first priority, implemented with all due speed but not undue haste, and justified to the community. Then, we can use the budget as management tool to assure that sufficient staff and materials are provided to achieve the aims agreed upon.

"Such an approach brings the greatest public support because the community clearly understands what is being done and stands firmly behind the system and the children," Moran concluded.

Senus: School Reorganization Basis for "Exciting Education"

In a statement at his campaign kick-off this past weekend, board candidate Leo Senus reiterated his belief that the district's reorganization will set the groundwork for "exciting education opportunities" into the 1990's.

"The reorganization of instruction will enable us to design comprehensive programs and curriculum and present the education today's children will need in tomorrow's world," Senus said. "The board has actively solicited public reaction to the reorganization and, through the forum of reports to and from the board, the community has been kept abreast of the progress of the reorganization steering committee."

During this period the board will be looking at such diverse areas as foreign languages, departmentalization for the sixth grades, increased "hands-on" science, and the possibility of expansion to a full day kindergarten.

Senus emphasized that "the constant themes throughout our discussions and planning has been the recognition that we should not force the reorganization before the student enrollment can be adequately housed in the physical plant and the realization that our program and staff have to be prepared for the changeover. Westfield is not often faced with such an opportunity. The success of the proposal decided upon will be dependent upon the commitment of the parents, staff and administrators. Our philosophy will be designed to fit Westfield's needs. We have to be careful not to lessen educational quality at one level to aid another."

"The board is pleased with the educational progress in Westfield and invites the community, at large, to visit its schools to see the vital changes that have already taken place in recent times," Senus said. "Citizens need only go to the office of the particular school they are interested in, and the personnel there will be happy to talk with them and provide them with the information they seek."

Martin Stresses Importance Of School Maintenance

Kathleen Martin, candidate for the Westfield Board of Education, today discussed the maintenance of the Westfield public schools.

"In the past, boards of education in Westfield were fiscally conservative. The justification for this was to emphasize program. However, this overly frugal approach to the problems of maintenance of plant and equipment led to a deterioration of the valuable assets which the taxpayers worked hard to provide. When the State of New Jersey effectuated the cap law in 1976, the amount the board was permitted to spend was computed according to a formula which was based on the very conservative spending of the previous year.

"Three years ago, Westfield residents were asked to vote for a capital bond which would have financed $7.2 million of needed work on roofs, boilers, etc. That bond was defeated, as was its successor. Since then, the Board of Education has attempted to do the most pressing projects: those dealing with safety, those which are mandated by the State for the handicapped, and some major repairs and replacements such as roofs. The current bond has made a commitment to complete a total of $1.5 million worth of projects in the near future. This is only a portion of what actually needs to be done. A study formulated by architects for the Board of Education estimates approximately $13 million in projects which must be done in the near future if our plants are to be properly preserved for future generations."

Mrs. Martin continued, "As residents of Westfield, we all must realize that our schools are our assets. We need to have an ongoing maintenance plan. Allowing our buildings to deteriorate only raises the price tag for renovation. Deterioration becomes increasingly difficult to quell, and the passage of time inflates the costs of repairs. Further, where there could be fuel savings, each year that work is postponed translates into ever increasing expenses in the operating budget for fuel. While taxpayers may have been willing to support a bond issue for the building of new schools during the time of increasing enrollment, they also must be willing to properly maintain the facilities which are now in service. Homeowner-taxpayers should recognize the long range savings of proper maintenance. Board members must be far-sighted in their approach to planning and financing in order to preserve the school assets for both the long and short range of the Westfield community," Mrs. Martin concluded.

DEPOSITS INSURED TO $100,000 BY FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN INSURANCE CORPORATION

Mrs. Christine Bondira's five-four cluster class at McKinley School recently presented the play "The Wizard of Oz" before many parents and classes. To Discuss Fiber Diets March 17

"Increasing Fiber in the Diet" is the third in a four-part series given by Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside, in cooperation with the Westfield Adult School, to be held Thursday, March 17 at the hospital's auditorium A. The series is being conducted as part of the hospital's participation in National Nutrition Month.

Mary Ellen Kazar R.D., dietary director, and Marcia Beroset R.D., therapeutic dietitian, will lecture on the problems of low fiber diets and will advise on planning meals that have high fiber content.

"Eating foods high in fiber tends to reduce symptoms of chronic bowel problems and may reduce the risk of developing cancer of the colon," Beroset said.

Those who would like to find out how to include more sources of fiber in meal preparation, may attend the lecture on March 17 at Children's Specialized Hospital. A question and answer period follows the lecture.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the Children's Specialized education department. The program is free, but the hospital requests that people call to register.

Horticulture Series Rescheduled

Two workshops on home horticulture will be conducted at Union County College in March, according to Dr. Frank Dee, dean of the College's Division of Continuing Education, with a slight scheduling change.

Spring lawn maintenance, originally scheduled for March 19, will be conducted on Saturday, March 12. Home vegetable gardening has been changed from March 12 to Saturday, March 19. Both two-hour workshops will be held from 10 a.m. to 12 noon in the Campus Center Theatre on the Cranford campus.

There is no charge for the workshops which are being offered as a community service in cooperation with the Union County Extension Service, Dr. Dee said.

Dr. Henry W. Indyk, extension specialist in turf management, Cook College, Rutgers University, will conduct the lawn maintenance workshop.

Bradford Johnson, extension specialist in vegetables at Rutgers University, and Joyce Mulhall, program associate in agriculture, will coordinate the workshop on vegetable gardening.

Museum to Feature Craft Of Tin Piercing Sunday

The early American craft of tin piercing will be demonstrated by James Mumford at the Osborn Cannonball House Museum on Sunday afternoon, March 13. Mumford, a Clark resident, is a former president of the Clark Historical Society and is presently serving as restoration chairman of the Dr. William Robinson Plantation in Clark.

History records that the trade of tin piercing was brought to this country by English and Irish immigrants in the early 1700s. Today the creations of these early craftsmen are cherished antique treasures. Shem Drown, who plied his trade in 1710, was famous for his tin weathervanes and Edward Pattison who left County Tyrone, Ireland to set up shop in Berlin, Conn., sold his wares to the Yankee peddlers who then set out by foot to cover the countryside.

Mumford will work on a tin lantern using tools similar to those used in Colonial times: hammers, tin snips, mallets and punches to create the intricate designs. Because there was little glass available in the early 1700s, the tin lantern was an essential item in every Colonial household and farm. The lantern had a small door in which could be closed to prevent the wind from extinguishing the candle. However, when the farmer reached his barn and was safe inside, he could open the small lantern door which provided more light as he went about his chores. Mumford will also exhibit tin nutmeg graters, apple corers, sconces, ink wells, candle snuffers, weather vanes and candle boxes.

The Osborn Cannonball House Museum is located at 1840 Front St., Scotch Plains, and is open to the public every Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Bill Would Mandate Filling Vacant Seats

Governing bodies would be required to fill vacant municipal posts within a "reasonable time" ranging from 15 to 60 days, under a bill introduced in the State Legislature by Assemblyman Edward K. Gill (R-Union). The bill received unanimous approval in committee and will now be brought to the Assembly floor.

To assure that the will of the voters is taken into account, a successor would be required to be selected from a list of candidates proposed by the same political party as the office holder who had won election.

Gill drafted the bill to assure citizens are not deprived of vital community services when the governing body fails to replace an official upon a death or resignation. "The refusal to fill such positions as mayor, councilman, or committee-man robs the people of the representation to which they're entitled," the Assemblyman asserted. "Yet, sometimes political differences interfere and a post is left vacant indefinitely."

The law details the steps to be taken to appoint or elect a successor for the departed official. Vacancies occurring after Sept. 1 of the last year of the term would be filled by appointment for the unexpired term. At any other time, the vacancy would be filled at the next general or municipal election, whichever is held first. The governing body would be permitted to fill the vacancy temporarily until that time.

The law prescribes that appointments to slots where the incumbent was the nominee of a political party be selected from a list of three candidates proposed by the political party from which the incumbent came. "This provision ensures that a political philosophy endorsed by the voters in an election will be reflected in the views of the replacement for the candidate who won election," Gill explained.

Children's Event At Hahne's Mar. 26

The Happy Times Children's Theatre will tell the story of "The Country Bunny and The Little Gold Shoes" at Hahne's Department Store, Westfield on Saturday, March 26, at 12 noon in the Children's Department.

The program is free and open to the public. No reservations or tickets necessary.

Color Slide Contest Tuesday

A pictorial color slide competition will be the feature of the Plainfield Camera Club meeting, at the United National Bank in Fanwood, 45 Martine ave., at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The contest is one of seven sponsored by the Photographic Society of America throughout the club year. Slides will be presented for judging in four classes—B, A, AA, and Salon. Six of the winning slides will be forwarded to an outside club for judging in competition with groups from all over the country.

Robert Winter, a longtime resident of Westfield and a part of the salon class in the Plainfield Camera Club, revealed recently that he had been an active member of the club for 25 years. He stated, however, that there are other quarter-century members, and at least two—Catherine and Jean Roxburgh of Mountainside—have been coming to the meetings for 35 years. All three of these photo-enthusiasts are recent retirees, and all enjoy travel and the presentation of travel slide shows.

Only members may submit slides, but the public is invited to attend any meeting.

Local Travel Agents To Begin Course

"Management of Sales Personnel" is a course initiated by Westfield area travel agents who are pursuing their CTC (Certified Travel Counselor) designations. Travel industry members interested in joining the group should contact coordinator Fontaine Gatti at Brant Travel, 107 Quimby St.

The group will meet every Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Brant Travel.

Milan Kriznansky, vice-director of the Westfield Old Guard introduced Union County Sheriff Ralph Froehlich, left, who was the speaker of the morning. Sheriff Froehlich is a resident of Elizabeth and before being elected Sheriff was a lieutenant in the Elizabeth Police Dept. He has conducted classes and lectured throughout the State on criminal behavior and on the causes and prevention of crime. His topic this morning was the finger printing of school children for their protection if they were ever lost or kidnapped.

RC Parishes Unite

For Blood Drive Sunday

Holy Trinity and St. Helen's Roman Catholic parishes will hold their seventh annual blood drive Sunday in the cafeteria of Holy Trinity School between the hours of 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The drive will be conducted by the mobile unit of the North Jersey Blood Center.

According to blood drive chairman Renee Borsuk of Holy Trinity and Gail McCarthy of St. Helen's, "everyone in good health between the ages of 18 and 66 can consider becoming a donor. In addition, 17-year-olds may give blood with parental permission."

Health Planning Council Elects James Pascuiti

James M. Pascuiti of Mountainside, director of counseling at Children's Specialized Hospital, has been elected vice president of the board of trustees of the Regional Health Planning Council.

The council, the health systems agency in Region II, is a non-profit planning corporation which is the regional review authority in the state's Certificate of Need process. As such, the Regional Health Planning Council is mandated by Federal law to provide effective health planning in Essex, Morris, Union, Warren and Sussex Counties.

Pascuiti, who has been a member of the RHPC board of trustees since 1980 and its executive committee since 1981, has been with Children's Specialized since 1976. A certified rehabilitation counselor, he received a master's degree in rehabilitation counseling from Seton Hall University.

Active in professional affairs, Pascuiti also serves on the advisory board of the New Jersey Head Injury Association and is the current president of the New Jersey Rehabilitation Association. He also holds membership in the National Rehabilitation Association, National Association of Citizens with Disabilities, Hospital Planning Society of New Jersey and the New Jersey Disabled Information Awareness and Living Group.

Pascuiti and his wife, the former Jean Merrill of Nutley have two children and reside at 335 Darby Lane.

March Proclaimed "Red Cross Month"

President Ronald Reagan, in an address delivered in Washington, D.C., has proclaimed the month of March "Red Cross Month". As a part of this theme, the Westfield-Mountainside Chapter has begun its annual March members and funds campaign.

In his statement, the President indicated that the services in blood collection, disaster relief, safety and first aid training, and services for youth and the elderly provide local communities with benefits that would otherwise cost billions of dollars. The Westfield-Mountainside Chapter has growing programs in all of these areas.

As with most non-profit activities, the Red Cross needs public support to be able to continue its vital services, according to Donald B. Stouder, executive director of the local chapter.

In continuing his proclamation, President Reagan stated "In accordance with this year's Red Cross theme: "We'll Help Will You? I urge all Americans to donate their time and financial resources in support of Local Red Cross activities." Mr. Reagan ended his address by saying, "By giving of ourselves, we give the greatest gift one human being can give another - 'The Gift of Love'."

Mrs. Allen Winch and Mrs. Pedro Salom, past presidents of the Westfield Art Association, display a lithograph by Gerald Lubeck which will be awarded to a visitor at the March 21-26 watercolor and graphic show at the Wateunk Room of the Municipal Building.

WAA to Display Graphics, Watercolors at Annual Show

The 62nd annual member watercolor and graphic show and sale of the Westfield Art Association will be open to the public from Monday, March 21, through Saturday, March 26 in the Wateunk Room of the Westfield Municipal Building, 425 East Broad St.

Daily exhibit hours will be from 1-5 and 7-9 p.m. Admission is free. Both framed and portfolio works will be for sale, according to the chairman, Mrs. Pedro G. Salom III.

Of special interest to visitors, excluding members of W.A.A. and their families, will be a framed, limited edition lithograph donated by Gerald Lubeck which will be presented to a lucky visitor.

Lubeck, an eminent professional artist, attended high school in Westfield and received a scholarship to the National Academy of Design in New York City. He also studied privately with the late Maxwell Simpson and others. His pictures are shown in art galleries in the U.S., Canada and other countries. He has received many awards, and is a member of the Salmagundi Club and Allied Artists of New York.

Currently, there is an exhibit of several members' paintings in the window of the Robert Treat Liquor Store on Quimby St. in Westfield which will be on view until the end of March. The artists exhibiting are: Mrs. Jane Whipple Green, Mrs. Leokadia Stanik, Mrs. Mabel Winch, Mrs. Florence Laughlin and Sidney Spence, president of W.A.A.

As most find it harder to meet those never ending bills, so too is the Westfield Volunteer Rescue Squad.

The Squad maintains three ambulances and it is not unusual for all three to be on different calls at the same time. Last year the squad instituted a program of improved ambulance maintenance which cost almost $12,000. This includes tires, tune ups, batteries, and repairs. The object of this is to extend the life of the ambulances. Fuel alone cost $8,000 in 1982.

This past year, despite the aggressive ambulance maintenance program, the squad found it necessary to replace an ambulance that was no longer dependable. The cost of replacement was $48,000 — a lot of money for an organization that does not charge for services rendered.

The squad must continually re-stock the first-aid supplies and periodically service some of the equipment. This cost more than $9,000 in 1982.

The headquarters for the squad is on Waterson St. The cost of utilities, (heat, electricity, water) in the building was almost $8,000 last year.

There are many more expenses involved, such as building maintenance, insurance on the ambulances and telephone bills.

This year the officers of the Rescue Squad are asking each resident in Westfield to consider increasing their donation.

High Costs Affect Rescue Squad

Westfield Volunteer Rescue Squad member Glen Kittleson routinely checks under the hood of the ambulances in an effort to avoid unforeseen problems when the ambulances are out on calls.

They are also asking those included in the direct mail appeal sent to all residents of Westfield in early March. Contributions may also be addressed to Westfield Volunteer Rescue Squad 1983 Fund Drive, c/o Central Jersey Bank & Trust Company, 177 East Broad St., Westfield, New Jersey 07090.

Contributions may be sent in the reply envelope

Westfield Jaycees Mercedes Benz cocktail party-dance project director Fred Vogel and local Jaycees are pictured with a new 1983 Mercedes Benz, which the Jaycees will give away Friday, April 1, at the Westwood Lounge in Garwood.

The Jaycees have limited ticket sales to 300 tickets for what, Urs Spoerri describes "as one of the social highlights of the community and surrounding area."

"Someone is going to walk away, or should I say drive away from our April 1 cocktail party, the proud owner of a brand new 1983, Mercedes Benz, 240 D, four door, luxuriously equipped sedan," stressed Spoerri. But if you don't have a ticket, you simply can't join us that evening, and worse yet, you'll not be among the 300 ticket holders having an opportunity to own that automobile."

Vogel added that those interested in tickets or other information should contact John Ricker at Barrett and Parker in Westfield. Tickets entitle purchaser and guest to also attend the affair, which will feature hot and cold hors d'oeuvres, unlimited champagne, and dancing to a live band.

Dr. Bernie Greenwald and daughter Cari give each of Mrs. Roberta Geyer's third graders a new toothbrush and the advice to change brushes every three to four months. Tommy McGear and Elyssia Boykin are also pictured.

Dentist Visits Jefferson

Dr. Bernie Greenwald, D.M.D., visited his daughter Cari and her classmates in Mrs. Roberta Geyer's third grade class at Jefferson School in honor of February's Dental Health Month.

Dr. Greenwald discussed the dental development of children in this age group with the class. Many of them are losing their primary teeth and getting permanent teeth and molars; the importance of proper cleaning to prevent decay in both primary and permanent teeth was stressed. What to expect during a visit to the dentist was also discussed, covering such points as the role of the dental hygienist, the purpose of x-rays and fluoride treatments, and orthodontia.

Dr. Greenwald also diagramed a tooth for the class, showing that it is composed of enamel, dentin, nerves and blood. This led to the discussion of how to keep teeth strong and free from decay. Dr. Greenwald asked the children to remember that good nutrition, brushing and flossing save teeth.

Computer Co. Names Reifer Sales Director

SCI-COM Computer Systems, which develops and markets the Seiko Series 8600 small business desktop computer, has named Kenneth A. Reifer of Westfield director of national sales.

"SCI-COM has quickly established itself in the small business desktop computer industry," said Michael A. Ford, SCI-COM's executive vice president and general manager. "Ken Reifer will play an important role in the expanding SCI-COM organization, assisting us in further penetrating this burgeoning market."

As SCI-COM's director of national sales, Reifer will serve as liaison with SCI-COM's master distributor, Intech Corporation, and will also help shape the company's marketing strategy.

Reifer comes to SCI-COM from Digiac Corporation of Smithtown, Long Island, where as vice president of sales he supplied local high schools and community colleges with multi-user microcomputer systems.

Before joining Digiac, Reifer was eastern regional director for S.D. Systems of Dallas, selling microprocessor boards to OEMs and systems integrators. Prior to that, he served for 17 years with Olivette Corporation, where he served in various capacities, including marketing manager of its system dealer division.

Reifer holds a bachelor's degree in business from Rutgers University. He lives here with his wife, Judith, and their two children.

She is the director of Federated Art Associations of New Jersey, Inc. in which capacity she is chairman of the "Directory of Visual Art Organizations in New Jersey," the FAA/NJ "Views" Quarterly and of the annual FAA/NJ Art Seminar, this year to be held March 19 at Hickman Hall Auditorium, Douglass College in New Brunswick.

"Li'l Abner" Crew Hard at Work

While the actors, dancers, and musicians are putting the finishing touches on the March 25-26 Deerfield School production of "Li'l Abner," a large behind-the-scenes crew is making the technical aspects of the performance possible.

Deerfield students, former students, parents, and other community residents are all sharing their skills and talents, according to Co-Directors Mark Acito and Doris Julian.

Producing the backdrop will be Kelly and Patrick Attenasio, Suzanne Burdge, Jessica Capece, Janine Demski, Chris Graziano, Chris Hanauer, Sascha Higazi, Birgitte Jaffe, Jim Kellerk, Steven Koochis, Angelique Lopez, and Tara McGrath.

Set construction will be done by Michael Barisonek, David Blackwell, Brian Charters, Sean Delaney, John Kovacs, David Kozubal, Don Kucera, Gabe Julian, Steven Souders, Billy Quandt, Geoff von der Linden, and Alan Whipple.

Costume creators will be Barbara Carpency, Daisy Crane, Camie Delaney, Robert DiBella, Diane LaFon, Kerri McCarthy, Linda Miske, Suzanne Muller, Eileen Schon, and Jeanne Wilhelms.

The technical crew includes Brian Charters, Diane Connell, Louis Federico, Dale Forsman, David Harding, Gabe Julian, David Kozubal, Steve Marsh, Fred Moebus, Steven Souders, Geoff von der Linden, Bill

Quandt, and Mark Zacieracha.

Kathy Betyeman, Roberta Krumholz, Lois Radding, Margaret Thompson, and Alice Zacieracha are in charge of obtaining or creating the props necessary for the Dogpatch area, while Donna Castelo, Carol Forsman, Amy and Wendy Julian, and Sue Winans will transform the Deerfield students into hillbillies through makeup.

Sandy Burdge and Janet and Peggy Wilson will be in charge of tickets. Assisting with publicity and photography are Bart Barre, Cari Conn, Chris Graziano, Tara McGrath, Lois Radding, David Simon, Robin Steckler, Lynne Stoddard, and Janet and Kim Swanson.

Deerfield Teams Do Well In Olympics of the Mind

Members of the Deerfield School "Wrecking Ball Structure" team are shown during the Olympics of the Mind competition as they confer with parent assistant Carol Fowler.

"It's been exciting, but I'll be glad when the frenzy is over and I can find things again," sighs Deerfield School Enrichment Coordinator Pamela Gray, as she surveys her classroom/office. It is filled with mining hats, life-sized puppets, fishing equipment, weights, and other creatively commandeered Olympics of the Mind supplies.

Three Deerfield teams proceed to regional competition in the Olympics of the Mind next Wednesday, March 16, after earning berths in their respective leagues in February contests.

"They're all winners," notes Ms. Gray, speaking from her perspective as overall coordinator of the teams, and she applauds the dedicated efforts of eight parent volunteers who assisted her in coaching the teams and made it possible to send five teams to the league contests.

She points out that every student participating gained because they've enthusiastically stretched their minds, they've expanded their interests, and they've learned how to function as a team.

The Olympics of the Mind goal is to provide an exciting competitive stimulus to creativity and problem-solving. The competition, which includes a long-term problem and a spontaneous problem-solving section, elicits the kind of school spirit usually associated with athletic events.

Thirty-two Deerfield students responded to the open invitation to participate last November, and began addressing their long-range problem in lengthy, frequent after-school sessions.

They were assisted by parents, several of whom had taken the OM coach training course, Deerfield librarian Susan Collier, and Gray.

Each long-range problem was delineated in several pages of rules, regulations, limitations and restrictions. If a procedure was not precluded in the problem's instruction, the team was free to use it, so ingenuity was at a premium. In the competition, points were awarded for both solutions and style.

Teams could choose from several long-range problems offered for the 1983 competition. "Humor from Homer" challenged a group to select a scene from "The Iliad" or "The Odyssey" and recreate it in humorous fashion. In "Pirates and the Queen's Treasure," the team was asked to act as privateers trying to retrieve a lost treasure and include a plan to counteract "Blackbeard."

"Wrecking Ball Structure" tested student skill at building a balsa wood structure which would support a number of weights and withstand the shock of the impact of a billiard ball rolled down an incline toward it. "Miner's Helper" called for a team to create, design, construct and operate a device to follow a prescribed path and gather materials (minerals).

A "Miner's Helper" team took first place in the League II competition. The team includes Brad Krumholz, Blair Micke, Roy Morton, David Simon, Robert Shapiro, and alternate David Kadesh, assisted by parents Peg Moser and Roberta Krumholz.

Earning a second-place spot in League I was another team solving "Miner's Helper," composed of Lisa Bayer, Margo Demski, Beth Engert, Brian Martin, Dale Torborg, and alternates Valerie Rau and Dawn Ray. They are assisted by Alys Demski and Nancy Engert.

A "Humor from Homer" team took second place in League II and includes Craig Carson, James Downey, Matt Swarts, Jeff Sumner, Eric Weinstein, and alternate Ted Roth. Adult assistants are Judy Carson and Joyce Weinstein.

A "Wrecking Ball Structure" team included Pat Attenasio, Andrew and Stephen Fowler, Glenn and Sean Stevens, and alternate Chris Graham, assisted by Carol Fowler. Competing in "Pirates and the Queen's Treasure" were Jennifer Arthur, Scott Boyd, Brian Delaney, Jennifer Garippa, Chris LaFon, and alternates Chris Delaney and George Serio. They were coached by Susan Collier, assisted by Sandra Arthur.

Deerfield guidance counselor Edwin Sjonell served in the competition again this year as a trained judge.

New County Maps Available

The brand new 1983 Union County map is now available by mail or at central pick up sites in Union County.

The 30" X 40" color map is the most up-to-date map of the Union County area, according to Arthur J. Grisi, county manager. "The map includes street, highway and railroad changes and many other alterations. We also had the cartographers include the newly marked county road system - identified by blue and yellow pentagonal signs," said Grisi.

In addition, the back of the map has been redesigned to allow citizens easy contact and access to county facilities and services.

Maps may be purchased from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday to Friday at the County Administration Building, Elizabeth or at the Engineering and Planning Offices at 2325 South Ave., Scotch Plains.

The cost of the map is $1.25 if purchased in person, or $1.75 if mailed.

County officials want to alert citizens who have already sent in their names and addresses, and are waiting to receive maps in the mail, that the county must receive a check or money order before the maps can be mailed. Checks should be made payable to the County of Union.

The vote left many observers surprised, as alternate plans had also been presented to the commissioners, two of whom are Republican.

Mrs. Vreeland also is the appointee of a Republican administration as is Town Attorney Charles Brandt, author of an alternate plan rejected by the Ward Commission.

The re-warding of Westfield was mandated to meet more equal population criteria for the town's four wards. Redistricting of all wards will follow in time for this year's elections.

A map and description of new ward boundaries appears on page 18 of today's Leader.

by the school board via a first reading in public last month, are on the agenda for adoption. They are entitled "Class Ranking" which would set a dual-ranking system for high school students, beginning in September, 1983 for the Class of 1986, and "Conflict of Interest" which prohibits school staff members from using school time, student time or school facilities in connection with any personal activity for outside groups organized to provide trips for Westfield students.

Artwork by students at Franklin School, used in a commercial that ran during the February celebration of National Dental Health Month, will be shown at Tuesday's Board of Education meeting.

Art Teacher Kay Brede discussed the project in four art classes at Franklin School in December, tying in the use of art in commerce and industry. Representatives of Benton and Bowles Advertising Agency selected artwork for the commercial.

The meeting is open to the public. Public comments on any agenda item are sought at the beginning of the meeting, which begins at 8 p.m. promptly, and comments on any educational item are sought at the end of the meeting.

Planners

waiting their turns to unload should actually free up some stalls, according to William Butler, Foodtown's attorney. Eighty-nine stalls are required by zoning regulations.

Pre-hearing discussions between Mayfair representatives and neighbors of the supermarket elicited information that the greatest concern was the noise generated by loading and unloading and a heat exchanger. Louis Goodfriend, an acoustical engineer, told the board that such factors as reduction of number of vehicles, shielding of the operation and elimination of nighttime deliveries, should reduce the noise impact on the neighbors by a minimum of 60% and as much as 90%.

Board members, who unanimously approved the addition and site plan, set conditions to address the noise factor. Deliveries, unloading and trash removal will be limited to 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; truck engines are to be turned off during deliveries and a noise barrier is to be constructed around the heat exchanger. An amendment suggested by Councilman John Brady requires that gas lanterns on Elm St. be replaced.

Board members determined that a discrepancy between the application and the site plan offered by Conrad Wissel, a builder, to construct a dwelling at 212 Myrtle Ave. prevented a hearing of the appeal. Wissel said he would amend the application.

Anthony Mormile, of A.M. Auto Center Inc. received an extension to the April meeting for his request to build an addition at 401-413 Elmer St. His attorney was ill.

St. Helen's Church did not require an open hearing for its request to build a multi purpose parish house at the site. Board members granted unanimous permission to the church to build the $600,000 building which would replace a temporary structure currently there. Additional parking will be provided. Plans do not include a rectory to be built at present.

Property owned by Martin and Jacqueline Nuernberger at 827 Girard Ave. was classified a minor subdivision.

Municipal Tax

cil also gave final unanimous approval to an easement over town-owned land adjacent to the Westfield railroad station to provide access to commercial property.

Introduced and scheduled for public hearing and council action at its meeting March 22 were ordinances which will:

- Amend a previous ordinance to include the purchase of 12 mobile two-way radios among items authorized in a $127,000 appropriation;
- Release from the town's official map designating land reserved for public use in an area bounded by Twin Oaks Terrace, Boynton Ave., Center St. and Columbus Ave.;
- Appropriate $3,000 for compensation to ward commissioners and other personnel involved in the mandated relocation of ward lines;
- Require $25 deposit fees for use of lacrosse helmets, gloves and sticks; and
- Appropriate $25,800 for purchase of various items of equipment, including a typewriter for the town clerk's office, a submersible pump for the Fire Department, an electric scanner for the Recreation Department, and four radar units, three traffic signal controllers and two vehicle light and siren bars for the Police Department.

Also approved were contracts for police and fire department uniforms and another for $40,085 for the Phase III extension of the Fairacres Ave. storm sewer.

Chamber

fective opposition force to the mail proposal. The Chamber membership believes that the measure of success achieved by the committee deserves formal recognition and thanks from the business community.

"The years of Greco's presidency were marked by serious economic problems in the nation and in the State. Nevertheless, the Westfield Chamber, under Greco's leadership, helped to maintain the commercial viability of the local business community and managed to extend its programs and services both to its members and to the Westfield community," said Rorden. Despite escalating costs, the traditional community observances such as the Christmas lights and the American flag projects were maintained by the business sponsors. Two new annual community events were initiated under Greco's direction: The summer Family Run Day, begun three years ago, draws participants from all over New Jersey and gives a day of family activities to local residents. The profits realized from Run Day are contributed to local charities. Greco was also instrumental in launching the Westfield Home Safety and Security Show. This day of exhibits and demonstrations on every safety measure from CPR to alarm systems is open free to the public thanks to a sponsoring coalition of Westfield agencies and organizations.

Throughout his term of office, Greco's leadership has been characterized by his ability to bring together various groups to work for common causes, according to the Chamber executive. "One example of such effective cooperation is the Stop the Mail committee; another is the Home Security Show. Several more cooperative efforts have provided services on a smaller scale.

"One recently formed coalition was especially important to the Chamber organization itself. Through the efforts of Greco and his board, the independent Westfield Association of Merchants was united with the Chamber Retail Division, forming a single, broader-based association of retail businesses. This group of business people does more to actively promote Westfield's commercial district than any other organization. During the last three years, promotional activities were extended and strengthened, resulting in a healthier local economy. These efforts to support local business benefit the larger community as well.

"Greco's accomplishments during his term of office have been invaluable to the chamber organization and his work has done much to help all Westfielders," Rorden emphasized. "The Chamber is pleased to have this opportunity to honor him."

Rorden, who served as chairman of the Westfield "Stop the Mail" committee, went on to explain the committee's contributions to Westfield. "This group of volunteers — residents, town officials and business people — gave unstintingly of their time and talents through a long, grueling fight. Even though many believed the opposition to the mail developers was an impossible undertaking, this committee went on working and actually gained in strength as time passed."

The Westfield "Stop the Mail" committee worked to rally opposition to the mail proposal both from private citizens and from elected officials in the area. Their work was largely responsible for the formation of sister committees in several towns around the mail site. As the mail proposal was reviewed by the Springfield Planning Board during 11 months of formal hearings, this Westfield committee raised funds to furnish expert witnesses to testify against the proposal.

The Chamber of Commerce tribute to Greco and to the Stop the Mail committee will be held at Echo Lake Country Club on March 18. Further information is available from the Chamber of Commerce office in Westfield.

Budget Hearing

of fixed expenditures were advanced as reasons by board members for the $21.6 million budget, which is below caps.

Dr. Laurence Greene, superintendent of schools, emphasized the importance of a quality school system.

Johns commented, "The mere expenditure of funds does not guarantee quality."

Eloise Mason, representing Parent-Teacher Council stated that the council supported the budget.

Questions regarding staffing were raised by Beverly Geddis, president of WEA. The board has proposed a cutback of approximately 10 positions.

Directory in Print

The Union County Chamber of Commerce has produced a Union County Industrial Directory for the first time. Prior to 1983, the Chamber's Industrial Directory listed only those industries in the 15 communities of Eastern Union County. "However, when we changed our name from Eastern to Union County Chamber of Commerce, we felt an obligation to produce a Directory of all Union County industries," said Cliff Peake, president. The 84-page volume is the culmination of one year's work, compiling and updating for current information on the industrial companies in the county.

The information, broken down by town, lists class of trade, principal personnel, complete address and phone number, plus number of employees.

Waiting to begin the annual Spaulding for Children Walk-athon are students wearing brightly-colored, neon vests, which were sewn and contributed by the Junior Woman's Club of Westfield. Volunteer checkers from Spaulding are wearing costumes for the event. This year's walk is set for April 17, rain or shine.

Spaulding Walk-athon Will Be April 17

The Spaulding for Children annual Walk-athon is set for Sunday, April 17 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., rain or shine. The route begins at the Lincoln Federal Savings Bank parking lot between East Broad St. and North Ave. Walkers begin any time from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and still complete the one to 15 mile course.

The Walk-athon committee will be alerting Westfield, Scotch Plains, Fanwood, Mountainside, Garwood and Cranford Police Departments to be aware of the route and the event. In addition, a car caravan of Spaulding volunteers will circulate around the course.

Adults as well as students are encouraged to "Walk a Child Home." Participants may walk less than the 15 miles. Check points are established along the route and walkers may stop at any one of them to be picked up. Check points are supervised by area community clubs and Spaulding volunteers. Refreshments, which have been contributed by local merchants will be served at specific points.

Sponsors who support the walkers' efforts may opt for either a pledge per mile walked or a flat fee for their tax deductible contribution. Gifts to the walkers will be given to those who turn in $25 or more. The committee will announce the grand prize at a later date.

Sponsor sheets and posters will be distributed to the students in the various school systems. Individuals also may secure the forms at the Spaulding for Children office, 36 Prospect St.

Monies raised will be used to further the efforts of Spaulding for Children, a free adoption agency for hard-to-place children.

Seeing Eye Has Spring Puppy Boom

The Seeing Eye seeks families to raise a supply of cuddly pups destined to be dog guides for blind people. Puppies born at the scientific breeding station in Mendham Township will be ready for loving homes in March, April and May. The Seeing Eye pays veterinary expenses and provides a monthly allowance to help defray other puppy raising costs. The 4-H youngsters who raise the puppies take them to local 4-H meetings to teach them basic obedience, and a Seeing Eye representative will visit the home periodically to help with the care and handling of each pup. Raising a Seeing Eye puppy is a family project. As a family member, a puppy gets the confidence it needs to be a Seeing Eye dog. When it's old enough for training, it will already be well adjusted to family life. Sometime between 12 and 14 months of age the pup will return to The Seeing Eye for specialized training.

At The Seeing Eye in Morris Township, qualified instructors teach Seeing Eye dogs to guide blind people. Since 1941 4-H families have been raising puppies for The Seeing Eye. For more information call the local county 4-H agent at the County Building on North Ave.

Learning Center Cites "Case History"

"David scored high on an intelligence test and was doing well in fourth grade. But his parents were concerned because David complained that school was dull and boring. He never brought home any books and never did any homework."

This is a case history which represents a composite of several students who have attended The Learning Center at 600 So. Livingston Ave., Livingston, according to center officials.

"In addition, David's older brother exhibited the same pattern of doing well till fifth grade. Then his marks started dropping. By eighth grade his marks slipped significantly and the guidance counselor suggested he be placed in lower track classes."

"To insure that David did not follow in his brother's footsteps, David's parents had him tested at The Learning Center. He took a battery of tests designed to measure his reading, writing, and math skills. Some tests were multiple choice, but many were administered on a one-to-one basis.

"On the tests David exhibited superior computational math skills but had difficulty on multistep word problems. On a standardized achievement test he scored high, although his parents reported he scored even higher last year when he took a similar achievement test in school."

"His oral reading ability was very good, but he had difficulty when asked to recall a short paragraph without prompting or questioning by the diagnostician. His writing ability was very weak. He had difficulty writing a sentence and did not fully understand how to organize a composition."

"David was heading for trouble. He was not prepared for the more difficult tasks that lay ahead. However, after receiving instruction from the certified, experienced teachers at The Learning Center and by following their advice, the problems were corrected."

"Today David is happier with himself, thinks school is 'ok' and is getting good grades," the case history recalled.

Checklist to Aid Elderly In Filing Tax Reports

Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo, R-N.J., the ranking Republican on the House Select Committee on Aging, today issued a tax checklist booklet to assist the elderly in filing their 1982 income tax reports.

The 20-page booklet features a checklist of deductions and hints to help older Americans take advantage of exemptions, deductions and tax credits to which they are entitled. Major changes in the tax laws are covered in the publication, and a listing of telephone numbers is provided for taxpayers seeking assistance in completing their state and federal tax forms.

Information is also provided on the Internal Revenue Service's new Tele-Tax telephone service, on various federal publications available to answer tax questions, and on the special IRS tax counseling program for the elderly. Other issues covered include residential energy credits, savings incentives, reporting income from the sale of a home, estimated tax payments, and the estate and gift tax law.

Rinaldo said the booklet, prepared in cooperation with the Aging Committee and the Internal Revenue Service, is intended to ensure that senior citizens are aware of recent changes in the tax law so they may take full advantage of the benefits available to them.

This is the sixth consecutive year that Rinaldo has issued a checklist and general information booklet to help senior citizens prepare their federal income tax returns.

Single copies of the publication are available to individuals and bulk supplies may be obtained on request by senior citizen clubs and organizations.

Copies may be obtained by contacting Congressman Rinaldo at 2338 Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515, or his district office at 1961 Morris Avenue, Union, N.J. 07083.

Congressman Rinaldo represents the 7th Congressional District which includes 30 municipalities in Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Somerset and Union counties.

College Plans Golden Jubilee

A year-long Golden Jubilee celebration is planned by Union County College, Cranford, Elizabeth and Scotch Plains, beginning Oct. 16, 1983, according to Dr. Saul Orkin, UCC president.

Union County College was established on Aug. 22, 1928, through a consolidation of Union College, which was founded in Roselle in 1933 as Union County Junior College, and Union County Technical Institute, which was founded in 1960.

Union County Junior College was the first of six Emergency Relief Administration institutions formed in New Jersey during the Great Depression. It was designed to provide employment for out-of-work professors and a college education for Union County residents who could not afford to go away to college.

When federal funds dried up in 1936, the college was continued as an independent institution under the control of a board of trustees and changed its name to Union Junior College.

In 1947, the college changed its name to Union College but continued as a two-year college of the academic disciplines.

Union remained a totally independent college until 1969 when it became part of the Union County Community College System under contract to the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education, qualifying for state and county funds. The agency also contracted with Union County Technical Institute to provide higher educational services in lieu of a County College. In 1982, Union College and UCTI merged to become Union County College and the Coordinating Agency was dissolved.

Union County Junior College opened in 1933 with 263 students attending only evening classes. Today

Union County College enrolls more than 9,000 full-time and part-time students on three campuses working toward a degree and several thousand more enrolled in non-credit offerings. UCCJ began classes at night in Abraham Clark High School in Roselle. It opened a day session in 1941 in two late 19th century Victorian houses on Second and Third Aves. in Roselle.

The college moved to the Grant School at the corner of Springfield Avenue and Holly Street, Cranford, in 1941 and remained there until moving to its 48-acre campus off Springfield Avenue, opposite Nomahegan Park in Cranford in 1959.

The Cranford campus, which serves about 6,000 students, houses seven major buildings: Nomahegan Building, the original building on the campus; the Campus Center, the Science Building, the Humanities Building, the Kenneth C. MacKay Library, which honors the college's long-time president, James MacDonald Hall, the administration building, and the William Miller Sperry Observatory.

At the Scotch Plains Campus, the college operates an Engineering and Business Technologies Building and a Health Technologies Building. In addition, the College has an Urban Educational Center at 10 Butler St., Elizabeth, which houses its Institute for Intensive English serving more than 400 students, and its Employment Skills Center serving more than 250 students.

Since its founding in 1933, Union County College has emerged from a single purpose arts and science transfer institution to a multi-purpose comprehensive community college.

Six people were taken to local hospitals after five separate accidents this week. None of the injuries was considered to be serious, according to police.

Following a collision at Prospect St. and Cowperthwaite Place Tuesday morning a 58-year-old Bayonne woman was taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, where she was treated and released. Gloria Vicedomini also was charged with a stop sign violation. Thomas R. Rize, 31, of Clark, the driver of the other car, told police that he would see his own doctor. As a result of the accident a tree and berm belonging to the town were damaged.

The driver of a car found adjacent to the North Ave. fire station Sunday afternoon was taken to Overlook Hospital, treated and released. Police said that the driver, Stacy N. Ewan Jr., 33, of 24 Sunnywood Drive had apparently blacked out at the wheel. The firehouse sustained no visible damage.

David Welch, 27, 78 Elm St. told police he fell asleep at the wheel of his car prior to striking a parked car on Prospect St. between Cowperthwaite Place and Dudley Ave. early Saturday morning. He, too, was taken to Overlook Hospital where he was treated and released.

Donald B. Elliott, 31, of Edison was charged with driving while intoxicated after his car crashed into a tree on a Clifton St. lawn between Beverly Drive and Central Ave. Friday afternoon. He was taken to Rahway Hospital for treatment of an injured foot.

Abendmusik Concert to Feature Haydn Mass

Haydn's "Missa Sancti Nicolai" will be the featured work on the second Abendmusik subscription concert of the season on Sunday, March 20, at 4 p.m. in St. Paul's Church, 414 East Broad St. The Haydn mass was composed for the name-day (St. Nicolas) of the composer's employer, Prince Nicolaus Esterhazy, for performance in the Castle Chapel at Eisenstadt on December 6, 1772 (when Haydn was 40). The work is written for four soloists, choir and an orchestra including two horns. In the addition, two Bach cantatas will be heard: No. 79, "Got der Herr ist Sonn und Schild" and No. 73, "Herr wie du will."

Soloists for the concert will be Julianne Baird, soprano; Jeffrey Dooley, countertenor; Charles Osborne and Frank Kelley, tenors; and William Sharp, baritone. As usual, St. Paul's Choir of Men and Boys will be joined by the Levin Baroque Ensemble, playing original instruments, under the direction of Richard Connelly.

Bach's Cantata 79 was probably written for Reformation Day 1725, and begins with a jubilant, exuberant opening chorus with a large orchestra of

Bach Cantata At Grace Church

The choir of Grace Episcopal Church in Plainfield will present Cantata Number 4, "Christ Lay In The Bonds of Death" by J.S. Bach at the Sunday morning service at 10:30 a.m. March 20.
This is an Easter Cantata which partakes of some of the penitential aspects of Lent. Unlike some of the later Bach works, it is essentially a chorale with variations, each verse being treated differently both instrumentally and vocally. It is one of the earliest Bach cantatas and was written shortly after 1704.

We provide "Old Fashioned Personal Service." Nature's Bounty natural vitamins and minerals are available. Household appliances, Leggs, giftwrap, and franchised cosmetics and toiletries are stocked. Most of us are quick to reach for an aspirin tablet at the first sign of pain. However, there are times when we should not take aspirin. We should not, for example, take aspirin one week before and one week after planned surgery. Surgery for tonsil removal as well as facial and oral surgery require aspirin-free, bleeding control. Taking aspirin for a hangover may also make an irritated stomach feel even worse. Be advised that an effervescent headache tablet contains the equivalent of one aspirin tablet. It is also advisable not to take aspirin during the last three months before childbirth.

HANDY HINT:
Drink a full eight ounces of water with each dose of aspirin.

76'ers and Thick Necks In Cup Race Tomorrow

The opening round of the Westfield High School Basketball League featured some great passing, superb shooting, awesome rebounding, tough defense, well timed plays, and just great basketball, but unfortunately this week's crowd was smaller than usual. In the first game the 76'ers squeezed out a victory over the powerful Alabama Slammers, 49-46. In the second playoff clash the fine shooting Thick-Necks ran their way to victory over the young Bud Men, 76-62.

76'ers 49
Alabama Slammers 46
The contest between the top ranked 76'ers (only loss to the Red Devils) and the Alabama Slammers displayed the Tom and Dom show against the supreme "front" court. Although the "court" outscored the Tom and Dom duo, the 76'ers still were able to win, 49-46; thus clinching a spot for next week's showdown against the Thick-Necks.

A tight contest throughout, as neither team could hold more than a 4 point lead, the 76'ers did not clinch victory until Pablo "too cool" Blanco sank 2 free throws. The champagne did not break out until Jeff "Jose" Gummont netted a foul shot.

The game got off to a fast pace and just after Rich Harlan hit a 25 foot jumper, the Slammers found themselves holding a 18-14 lead. The 76'ers pulled within 2 at halftime.

The 76'ers took charge in the third quarter, outscoring their opponents 16-11. Red Downey, who led all scores with 23 points, netted 8 in the period. The outstanding rebounding by Pete Murphy kept the Slammers in the game. "Murphy" collected 4 offensive rebounds, tallying 8 points for the quarter. His final stats were impressive; 14 points, 17 rebounds, and 3 assists. Despite the presence of Murphy, the 76'ers managed to pull out the win.

PLAYOFF NOTES: The supreme "front" court totaled 42 points Harlan scored 11, Longo added 17 (8-11 from the floor) compared to Tommy T. and Dommy D. who combined for 38. What hurt the most for the Slammers was the Municipal "back" court of Steve Laddis and Dave Brown. The duo could only manage 4 points on not enough shots. The 76'ers, who were missing center Shawn Smith were outscored 39-30. Mike Hinlan collected 11 rebounds.

Thick-Necks 76
Bud Men 62
The Thick-Necks never trailed after getting the opening basket and ran their way into the Championship. The Thick-Necks came out hot as heck with some unbelievable outside and inside shooting by Kevin "the Pizzaman" Lasher and Jeff Gordon. Though the T-N were hot, the Bud Men hung tough only trailing 19-14 at the end of the first quarter. But early in the second period the T-N big man, Tom "Fierce" Pierce, took the ball to the basket and drew the foul on Big Bud Rochford his fourth foul of the day, causing the Bud Men to play without a big man the rest of the half. With this advantage the T-N took the ball right to the Bud Men and they now started to hit the boards hard and completely dominated. (Rebounds: Lasher 10, Costa 11, Capano 9, Gordon 8, Pierce 6.) In the second half the Bud Men cut the lead to three with some tough defense and a running offense; they were led by Mike Cauterucci 13 points, 18 rebounds, Roger Brewster 20 points, 11 steals and Pat Brady 8 points, 5 steals. But Kevin "The Pizzaman" Lasher was just too slick hitting 11 for 14 from the field and 5 for 5 from foul line as he and his teammates were just too balanced for the Bud Men to handle.

PLAYOFF NOTES — The T-N's 76 points broke playoff record formally held by the '81-'82 Bud Men. This will be the Thick-Necks first championship appearance in the team's history.

LEAGUE TALKS — This year's CBL Cup (Capano-Brown) will be hosted by Lisa Brown and Cathy Capano, this year's CBL Queens. Dan O'Connor has become the first player in WHSBL history to have more fouls than points, averaging 1.72 points a game and 4.2 fouls per game. Last week's low attendance was caused by the hungry crowds being drawn to the Rotary Pancake Day at the High School.

At tomorrow night's CBL Cup Game varsity stars Chris Rupp, Dan Hauck, John Miles and Chris Friericks will be signing autographs at half time in order to promote the high school basketball program. Tomorrow night's CBL Cup game is the second such game in the league's two year history. And last year's CBL Cup champ was the Bud Men. This week's Player of the Week went to the "almost General" WHSBL All-Star Kevin Lasher, who scored 28 points, ripped 10 rebounds and dished out an assist to help lead his T-N to victory over the Bud Men. Lasher, All-State punter and kicker, is reported to have had contract talks with the N.J. Generals but will attend college instead.

Next week the ALL-WHSBL team will be announced, along with league MVP, coach of the year, and predictions for such as next year's CBL Cup champ and players to make the jump from WHSBL to WHS varsity.

BREW'S PICKS (12 for 14 so far this year) — Tomorrow night's CBL Cup game at 7:30 in Roosevelt Gym. This the final game with all the marbles at stake. The Thick-Necks over the 76'ers in a high scorer 68-64. The Roosevelt Gym will be jumping with league's largest crowd expected. This is just the kind of game the T-N want. The T-N will control the tempo with Pizzaman (Costa and Lasher) leading the way. The Tom and Dom Show will try to take center stage, but it could get the "Hook" late in the third quarter.

This is the first CBL Cup game to be without Hall of Famer Kevin "Jam" Morris now playing for Williams College.

Grapplers Finish 5-8

By Robin Miller and Jennifer Arpin

The WHS Grapplers ended their season with a 5 win 8 loss record after winning the District XI tournament but losing in the regionals.

This past weekend the seven first and second players at the districts lost their first matches and were eliminated from the state championships.

This loss came after a big upset win for Westfield at the District XI championships, defeating competition which earlier this season out classed WHS in dual meets. The matmen competed against seven other teams, the toughest competition coming from Cranford. The team's winning score was 126 points.

All but two matmen won their first elimination matches Feb. 25. On Saturday the 26th the second eliminations were successful also, with all but three Grapplers advancing to the finals that night. Though they lost, Rich Hingel (109), Dima Ostrovsky (141), and John McElroy (148) won their consolation matches and placed third in the district. In the finals, two Grapplers Jim Dodd (136) and Tom Snyder (189), took first place. Jim won a decision of 23 to 3 and Tom won a decision of 11 to 2. Other matmen in the finals were John Shaefer (101), Marc Giaccone (121), Milan DiPietro (128), Ron Parisi (170) and Mike Staggard (156) who lost only after an overtime decision by the referee. These matmen placed second.

Although unseeded, Harrison felled his preliminary challenger, took a forfeit in the quarters then bumped first seed Adam Burstein 1-0 to meet Wise in the finals.

"Hot Shot" Contest To End WBA Season

In the last week of regulation play, Notre Dame, UCLA and Georgetown proved victorious. Next week, the entire Fourth Grade WBA will participate in a "Hot Shot" contest. The competition will take place at Roosevelt Jr. High at 1 p.m., with awards presented to the winners immediately afterwards. This will be the final week of Fourth Grade WBA. This week's results:

Notre Dame 36
Virginia 24

The Cavaliers of Virginia and the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame hooked up in an exciting, high scoring game. Both teams played an aggressive, fast paced game that Notre Dame pulled away to win in the fourth quarter. Leading the offensive surge for the Cavaliers were Brian Carovillano, Pat Rock, Woody Weldon and Leonard Stern. Rachael Silverman played her best game of the season, and pulled down many key rebounds. Grant Cowell, Chris Hartzell and Matt Fountain also played well in a losing cause. Notre Dame was led offensively by Joe Marinelli, who scored 22 points. Also contributing on the offensive end were Matt Bilodeau and Corey Walsh. Sean McGale, who scored his first points of the season, was a terror on the offensive and defensive boards. Alissia Kaye and Ted Jensen displayed strong defense in Notre Dame's fine win.

It's not too late to sign up for Watching Stables, Glenside Ave., Summit, for the spring Watching Mounted Troop.

There are a few openings remaining and those interested may register from 9:30 a.m. - noon and 1:30 - 4:30 p.m., Saturday, at the stables, a Union County Department of Parks and Recreation facility.

The troop program emphasizes instructional horsemanship riding, horsemanship and good sportsmanship from the Beginner through Advanced levels for youngsters ages 8-18. Some 40,000 youngsters have participated in the program since it began in 1935. Part of the program is the annual spring and fall troop horse shows.

from North Carolina 28-16. Offensive standouts were Jim Monninger, Rebecca Krohn, Josh Fischer, Karen Hansen and Johnny DeWalt. Defensive standouts were J.P. Maloney, Shawn Feeney, John O'Shea and Justin Burckett. The leading scorer for UCLA was Jim Monninger. For North Carolina, Mark Cagnassola, David Goldner and Jay Ball led the offense. Strong defensive contributions were made by Matt Bomba, Ross Martin, Chris McCall, Matt McCall, Lelia Arnhem and Wendy Crown.

Georgetown 24

A total team effort by Georgetown played off with a hard fought victory over a tough Kentucky team.

Jeff Suto, Paul Cavalcure, Chris Capone and Christine McKenna all hit the nets for points. Defensively, Rich Fela, Jason Golush, Robert Berry, Kathy Harris and Matt Kaelbein led the Hoyas. Rebounding by the entire team held the game in check. Kentucky played well again, despite losing. Lee Topar, Eric Wildstein and Brian Schackman played their usual steady game. Chris Wojcik played well both ways. Becky Nusse added 2 points to Kentucky's cause. Maite Quinn, Pam Curly and Mark Coxson also played well in a losing cause.

McGorty Wins Two State Titles

Kevin McGorty became the first Westfield athlete to win two state championships in one season as he placed first in the All-Group high jump last week.

Going into the competition McGorty was a little skeptical. "I knew Felix Davis would be there," said Kevin. "He had already beaten me in the Group-Fours." It was in the Group-Fours that Kevin won his first state championship. In the competition he teamed with Greg Kasko to win the high jump relay.

At the All-group meet the victory came down to the wire. With the bar set at 6'10", Kevin had to clear height he had never made before. "When Davis made 6'10" I knew that in order to win I would have to clear it on the first try to avoid a tie." And he did just that. In doing so he also set a new school record.

Greg Kasko also had a good night. In the mile competition, Kasko placed seventh overall with a personal best of 4:24.7.

Sixth Grade Playoffs Begin This Week

The sixth grade regular season ended Saturday with the following results:

Georgetown 35

Kentucky 31

In the first overtime of the season, Georgetown edged Kentucky 35-31. Kentucky's shorthanded team labored continually against the strong Georgetown balance. Kentucky was led on offense by Lee Krasner, 10 points; Mike Hamilton, 4 points; John Macko, 4 points; Robbie Roth, 5 points; Bill Callahan, 2 points; and Roy Janson, 6 points. The Wildcat strength on defense was encouraged by Jeff Carovillano and strongly executed by their remaining 6 players.

Georgetown played its best game of the season in the thrilling victory. Mike Pushko led the team with 10 points followed by Jeff Kupelman with 7 points and David Stravach with 6.

The defense was the key to the victory with many steals and blocked shots. Charles LaRosa and Darryl Robinson scored 4 points each and played well at guard.

Rutgers 17

Princeton 16

Rutgers won a thrilling 17-16 victory over a fine Princeton team. Every player contributed with fine defense and rebounding. Jerry Infantino led the scoring with 7 points followed by Tracy Martin with 6. Oran Margulis and Jamie DelGuidice chipped in with 2. Greg Tranto and Terry Hegarty did a great job on defense.

Princeton lost its second game in their last three starts as Rutgers defeated the Tigers by a score of 17 to 16. Princeton did, however, play a strong third quarter as they came back from a 9 to 4 half time disadvantage to temporarily gain the lead midway through the second half.

Mark Kumpf and Bruce Lowe who each scored 4 points along with Keith Graf who had 4 points displayed aggressive defense and sound ball handling. Phil Gallagher, high scorer for the Tigers with 6 points, and John Bomba both rebounded effectively for Princeton. Lisa Clevenger, John Steurnagel, Mark Gorbity, and Jennifer Baldwin also played well for the stumping Tigers.

Rutgers 25

Notre Dame had a well balanced attack with nearly everyone scoring a basket. The Irish were led by Craig Curly with 10, Chris Donzella with 8, and Doug Kris, Alex Graf, Dave Briemer and Sean Duggan each with a basket. Paul Nazzaru and Adrienne Dwyer each had several key rebounds and Shirley Borgese played extremely tough defense. It was by far the best team effort in defeating a game Rutgers squad.

Virginia 20

North Carolina 13

Virginia won a real dogfight against a well coached North Carolina team. Although playing without their tallest player, Virginia did a good job on the boards. The overall desire and determination were the real keys to this victory.

Scoring were John Niedzwiecki with 7 points, Colin Conway with 6 points, Dave Oliveri, Jim Robins, and Greg Johnson. Jason McLane, Scott Aquila and Keven Schultz each did a good overall job.

North Carolina lost a tough game to first place Virginia. Rich Poller led North Carolina's defense and scored 4 points. Tom Cassidy scored 3, while John Pushko, Mike Smith, and Chris McEvily scored 2 each. Chris Shea played a strong defensive game while Mike Shoemaker and Tom Marshall set several key plays and helped in the rebounding.

Seton Hall 21

Penn State 20

With a last second desperate shot, Jon Gelfand sunk a 15 footer to pull it out for Seton Hall over Penn State 21 to 20. This was the second time this season Jon had the winning basket to defeat Penn State.

Chris Hanlon and Robert Filippone were once again awesome off the boards, pulling down critical rebounds and keeping Seton Hall in the game. Scoring for Seton Hall were Mike Isolda with 5 points, Joe Murphy with 6, and Kyle Bergen, Dave Simons, and Chris Hanlon with 2 each. Jennifer Feldman, Jeff Cronin and Ken Kotovsky hustled throughout giving Jon the chance to win it in the last seconds.

Penn State was led in scoring by Andy Cozewith and Adam Schoenberg with 8 points each. Chipping in with a bucket each were Chris Cho, John Kiseli and Dave Lukaszewicz. Josh Hager played his usual heads up game at point guard. Jon Walsh, Adam Chersensky and Brian Gruske also played well.

Princeton 26

Penn State 23

Princeton, after watching a commanding half time lead almost completely disappear, held on to defeat a fired up Penn State team by a score of 26 to 23. Keith Graf was high man for the victorious Tigers with 8 points while Mark Kumpf, Bruce Lowe, and Phil Gallagher each had six points. John Steurnagel and Lisa Clevenger both had a number of key rebounds as they displayed strong defensive play. Princeton, once again, was also aided by the rebounding and passing of John Bomba and the continued improved play and hustle of Jennifer Baldwin.

Letters in Soccer

Greg Bunting of Westfield has been awarded a letter for participation in soccer at Lehigh University.

Gottlick Earns National Trip

The method was not exactly the one Phil Gottlick had in mind, but the end result is the same.

Gottlick, a graduate of Westfield High School, has had his sights set all season on participation in the Division I national wrestling tournament March 10-12 at the Myriad in Oklahoma City, Okla. A direct route to that tournament was through claiming the East Coast Conference 142-pound weight class championship.

But Gottlick's bid for the ECC title came up short, as he lost to 142 champion Tony Arena of Hofstra — the only wrestler to beat Gottlick this season — won a 10-2 decision in the championship match last weekend at the University of Delaware.

Gottlick's bid for a national berth came true, though, in a secondary nature as the Drexel University sophomore was chosen by the ECC coaches as one of two "at-large" participants to the national tourney.

The national qualification will be the icing on the cake for Gottlick, who does his talking on the mat.

Gottlick won his first 17 matches of the season before Arena handed him an 11-6 setback in Drexel's final dual match of the season. Along the way to recording his 20-2 record to date, Gottlick won the championships of both the Philadelphia Metropolitan and Delaware Invitational tournaments, as the ECC runnerup award.

"Phil was a real pleasant surprise this season," Drexel coach Jack Childs commented. "He has always had the talent to wrestle like he did this season, but he just realized his potential this season. He is much, much improved from when he started here last year and is now one of the most aggressive pinners around." Gottlick pinned five opponents this season.

"I am really looking forward to next year," Childs said, with a gleam in his eye.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gottlick of 223 Midwood Place, Phil is an administrative systems management major at Drexel.

He will be joined by teammate George Kovach, a freshman who won the ECC heavyweight title, at the national tournament. A third Dragon, senior 177-pounder Blair Weaver, could be in the national field, as he was chosen as the alternate from the ECC and will make the trip southwest if any of the 12 ECC representatives (10 champions and two at-large) are unable to go.

As a team this season Drexel won the Philly Metro title for the second consecutive year; placed second at the Delaware Invitational and was third in the ECC championships.

Wheelchair Athletes To Compete Saturday

National and internationally-known wheelchair athletes, including reigning wheelchair table tennis champion Ken Brooks are scheduled to compete in the Sixth Annual Central Jersey Invitational Wheelchair Meet on Saturday at the Dunn Sports Center, Elizabeth.

Brooks, who won the gold medal at the National Wheelchair Games held in Minnesota last summer, competes as a member of the New Jersey Blue Devils. Other national champions figured to provide the "scores to beat" at the March 6 event include Tywana Caldwell of Jersey City and Janet Severt, a member of the New Jersey Wheelers.

The Central Jersey Invitational is co-sponsored by Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside and the John F. Kennedy Medical Center in Edison in cooperation with the Tri-State Wheelchair Athletic Association. Meet coordinators are Lori Woods, senior recreational therapist at Children's and Randy Schoenhaus, acting director of recreational therapy at JFK. Andrew Chasanoff, assistant chief recreational therapist at Children's is serving as consultant.

The all-day competition, which is expected to draw more than 200 competitors from the tri-state area, plus Delaware, Massachusetts, Connecticut and the District of Columbia, will be governed by Tri-State Wheelchair Athletic Association and the National Wheelchair Athletic Association rules.

Events will include the slalom, softball throw, swimming, track, weightlifting and table tennis, and special slalom and dash events for electric wheelchair, according to the meet coordinators.

Trophies and medals will be awarded in three levels of competition: Junior (age 5-15); Adult (16 years

WSA Square Dance To Aid Europe '83

The Europe '83 committee of the Westfield Soccer Association will host a square dance on March 12 at Temple Emmanuel in Westfield starting at 7:30 p.m.

The dance, which has become an annual event, will have Bob Anderson as the caller. Anderson was the caller at last year's successful gala which drew a crowd of almost 200 people. There is ample parking at the Temple and table snacks as well as coffee and cake will be served by the committee.

According to Chairmen Don and Arlene Pearce, "If you've never square danced before, you have a real treat in store — if you have, then we know you'll be there. It is the perfect opportunity for you and your honey to do-si-do the night away." Tickets are available from the Peaces of Lincoln Rd. or Marge and Ed Capano of Wychview Dr. "Do try and make it," asks Mrs. Pearce, "we guarantee you a good time."

Fifth Grade Cage Finals Saturday

After the first round of the 5th grade cagers ACC style tournament, the matchups are as follows for the finals Saturday: 12:30 Lakes vs. Nets, Sonics vs. Knicks; 2:00 Pacers vs. Suns, Trailblazers vs. 76ers.

Individual games played last Saturday were tough, intense contests.

Nets 16
Sonics 14

A three minute overtime was needed to establish the difference between two closely matched teams.

Mark Gilrain's basket settled the contest. Intense rebounding by Gilrain, Carolyn Sherman and Ryan Gardiner complimented close guarding by Net forwards Paul Stanzel and Jack Dowlin in this complete team effort. Matt Watson and Ryan Manville played both ends of the court in their usual all out style. Michael Kelly's smooth unhurried play was particularly important in the pressure packed late going.

The Sonics played a hard fought game. Leading the scoring was Jason Meyer, 8, Terry Quinn 4, and Chris Ward 2. Playing great defense was Scott Parisi, Jay Kunicky, Jonathon Meyer, Andy Kern, Steve Burkowski and Mark McCaffrey.

Lakers 35
Knicks 18

Lakers won their eighth game of the season. Led by their fast guards Ben Beyerlein who scored 12 points while center guard Jim Murphy and Mark Bartlett scored 6 each. The passing and rebounding efforts were led by John Pugliese who scored 3, Mike Hanna and Josh Feinberg. Jodi Gross and Marcie Bartlett the glamor on the squad, showed their talents on both offense and defense. Matt Shea took the offense with super passing and added 4 points to the score.

The Knicks were overpowered by a fast Laker team. Leading scorers for the Knicks were Kim Cauana, Steve Price and Scott Coren. Ryan Single and Josh Klein played aggressive defense. Eric Westfield wrestling coaches were kept busy throughout the week with season-ending tournaments. A total of 27 grapplers were able to place in three separate events, bringing home seven firsts, 11 seconds, 6 thirds, and 3 fourth place wins.
