FORTY CENTS

DISTRICT PROBABLY INTACT Saturday Deadline Looms On Drawing Revised Map For House of Representatives

Commission's Republicans and Democrats Negotiating To Determine Where One-Seat Loss Will Come

With Saturday's deadline for a new House of Representatives district map for the state looming, members of the bipartisan commission appointed to redraw the lines to reflect the loss of one of the state's 14 districts reportedly were far apart on agreement last week.

Although both the Republican and Democratic sources have not come up with a solid plan, the odd man out in the new districting map appears to be Democrat Frank Pallone, Jr. in the Third District, which currently includes Monmouth and Ocean Counties, according to published reports.

Democrats interested in maintaining four North Jersey incumbents in their seats have advocated new alignments which would merge Representative Pallone's district with that of Democratic Representative Bernard J. Dwyer of the Sixth District, based in Middlesex County, or would throw Representative Pallone into a race against Republican Christopher H. Smith in a predominantly Republican district in Central New Jersey that would run from Trenton to the Monmouth County shoreline, according to the reports.

Republicans say the Democratic proposals fail to take into account the northern districts have suffered population losses and voting patterns in the state in the last 10 years mean there should not be seven "safe" Democratic seats in a 13-seat delegation.

The Grand Old Party believes Representative Pallone can be beaten for reelection by a non-incumbent challenger and argues a seat should be eliminated in North Jersey.

Both Representative Pallone and Republicans in Monmouth and Ocean Counties have organized a committee to fight against the elimination of the Third District along the Jersey Shore, and the group has promised to file suit to overturn any map that eliminates the district.

Two North-South Links Face Safety Questions

Historical Dispute Delays Building of New Bridge

Two means of traversing the town from the North to the South side are under scrutiny by local and state officials — one for alleged safety problems and the other because it remains closed for safety reasons while its historical significance is studied by the state.

The walls of the Crossway Place railroad underpass are crumbling, and, although the Town Council is awaiting a report on the condition of the underpass by Town Engineer Edward A. Gotko, New Jersey Transit, which owns the structure, has been inspecting it more frequently and has rerouted trains on one of the four tracks spanning it. No changes currently are planned.

First Ward Councilman Norman N. Greco has called for the bridge to be repaired and widened so two cars can drive underneath it, although any action on that front awaits Mr. Gotko's report.

The second span, the Tuttle Parkway Bridge, which connects North and South Avenues, has been closed for several years while federal and state officials study the historical significance of the 1907 metal truss structure.

The state's Office of New Jersey Heritage is seeking an alternative to a new bridge, while the Department of Transportation wants the current one replaced.

CANDIDATES TOLD OF FILING DEADLINE

Those wishing to run for Mayor or one of the four Town Council positions open this year in the Tuesday, June 2, Primary Election or for positions on the municipal committees of either the Republican or Democratic Parties must file petitions of nomination with the Office of the Town Clerk by 4 p.m. on Thursday, April 9, 54 days before the election, Mrs. Joy C. Vreeland, the Clerk, announced this week.

Petitions are available in Mrs. Vreeland's office, which may be telephoned at 789-4030.

Debates on Garages Occupy Zoning Board

*Application for Addition to Pierson Street Home
Results in Concern about 'Overbuilding' the Area*

By MICHAEL J. PETRIANO, 3rd
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

At Monday's meeting of the Board of Adjustment one carried-over appeal and several new appeals for variance were heard.

Achim Buecklers, who applied for a variance to build a two-car garage on December 16, was asked by the board to scale down his plans, but was granted permission to build the garage.

The stipulation was a new site plan and new architectural renderings would be needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lessner of 861 Knollwood Terrace were granted permission to erect an addition to their home.

Eric Diddell of 411 Elm Street was granted permission to erect a three-car garage, provided the width of the driveway does not exceed 12 feet.

Norris Allman of 536 Pierson Street applied to the board for a variance to erect an addition and deck to this home.

During the testimony, Board Chairman, Mrs. Mary Herbenich, said, "I couldn't vote for an addition this large unless you could prove to me the whole neighborhood is overbuilt."

Arthur Fried, a member of the board, responded he had driven through the neighborhood and said there has been overbuilding there.

The board requested the deck not be built and the dimensions of the second-floor section of the proposed addition be decreased.

Mr. Allman was asked to return with these revisions to his plans at next month's meeting.

Robert Mill of 873 Village Green was given permission to erect an addition to his home, with the provision the dimensions of the proposed addition be decreased.

Allan McPhaul of 176 Liberty Avenue was given permission to erect a handicapped access ramp provided the ramp be removed when the house is sold or the ownership of the house is transferred.

The Board of Adjustment will reconvene on Monday, April 20.

State's Report Commended By Dr. Smith

*Town's Students Excel;
Bill for Schools Is High*

By JAMES A. BRIDGE, 3rd
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

Westfield's state school report card was received with high marks from Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Mark C. Smith.

The Superintendent, who was widely critical of last year's report card from the state, said he was pleased with this year's document.

It shows that Westfield spends more on education and puts more experienced and learned instructors before students than in other districts, he said, and also has fewer administrators than state and county averages.

"The report card is a many-times improvement over last year," he said.

"Basically, it shows we spend slightly more for education and the performance of Westfield students exceeds others in the region and in the state," Dr. Smith noted.

High School Proficiency Test results for 1991 show Westfield students far outstrip state averages in reading, mathematics and writing.

Westfield reading performance was rated at 99.6 percent, mathematics at 98.6 percent and writing at 98.9 percent.

DOCUMENT REMAINS UNCHANGED SINCE FEBRUARY 4 Board Unanimously Approved Budget With Total Tax Levy of $37,278,839, Eleven-Cent Increase in School Tax Rate

Candidates Criticize Proposal for Computers in the Elementary Schools

By JAMES A. BRIDGE, 3rd
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

The 1992-1993 school budget was approved 7-0 during Tuesday's Board of Education meeting at the board's Elm Street offices.

The board again presented a budget that was identical to the one unveiled on February 4.

The budget, which stands exactly at cap, represents an 11-cent increase in the tax rate 6.01 per cent higher than last year's spending plan.

While more than 25 people attended the meeting, including seven of the candidates for the three open seats on the board, no criticisms of the $37,278,839 tax levy were offered.

Three candidates again addressed the board's plan to spend $71,000 for elementary school computers.

Catherine Marchant criticized the expenditure for elementary school computers.

"The most controversial thing I've been talking with people about is computers," she said.

The candidate said the board should take the district's $100,000 lunch program subsidy and spend the money for elementary school computers.

Mrs. Eileen Satkin said upgrading the elementary program to include classroom computers made no sense without likewise upgrading the computers already in place in the intermediate schools, while Mrs. Danielle Walsh asked what training guidelines would be put in place for the computers.

Board member, Dr. B. Carol Molnar, asked why the computers intended for the elementary schools couldn't be switched to the intermediate schools, with the older computers currently in the intermediate schools being put to use in the elementary schools.

Dr. Mark C. Smith, the Superintendent of Schools, said he opposed such a swap.

"Yes, you could do it, but it's not a good idea," he said.

The Superintendent said the 20 new computers would fall well short of the need in the intermediate schools, and building a computer policy rightfully belongs at the earliest level of education.

"I think that is an appropriate first objective. The fact is a student going to school in the 1990's ought to have a computer in his classroom," he said.

In other business, the Superintendent reported elementary school enrollments are up sharply.

The rise in enrollment is severe enough to force the board to take formal actions in a near future to be able to accommodate the burgeoning numbers of elementary students, particularly at Washington School, he noted.

Next year three sections of first graders will have to be established, with two sections each for the second through fifth grades. That arrangement will surpass Washington School's classroom capacity, he said.

"We do not have the space to accommodate those numbers at Washington School," he said.

Dr. Smith said the situation would require additional staffing, transferring students or redistricting.

His recommendation is the fifth grade be transferred to the Wilson School, where there are several open classrooms.

Moving the students would be less expensive than expanding the Washington School, he added.

Capital Funding Program For $981,000 Okayed

Mount Laurel Housing Program with Elizabeth, Senior Citizen Complex Design Major Expenditures

By ROBERT R. FASZCZEWSKI
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

A total of $981,000 in capital projects from the town's budget and $10,500 from the swimming pool utility budget will be proposed by the Town Council when it adopts its temporary budget resolution at the regular meeting of the council on Tuesday.

The capital plan, which outlines projects contemplated, will not be finalized until the 1992 municipal budget is finalized, probably in the beginning of May, and the funding for individual projects will not actually be authorized until appropriation ordinances are passed, Town Administrator John F. Malloy, Jr. said at this Tuesday's conference meeting of the council.

The largest expenditure contemplated in the plan, $360,000, would fund a Regional Contribution Agreement through which the town will support the rehabilitation of moderate- and low-cost housing in Elizabeth to satisfy a portion of its Mount Laurel obligation.

Sale of town-owned property such as the Ewan Tract and other town assets is expected to reimburse the town for this expenditure.

The second highest allocation contemplated in the capital plan is $300,000 for the design phase of Westfield's second senior citizens housing program.

Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. said the committee appointed last year to explore the project pretty much has decided on a consultant to help in obtaining financing and other planning but it is awaiting a presentation by him before spending any money.

Other expenditures proposed in the temporary capital budget are $176,000 for street improvements, $145,000 for public works equipment — an aerial lift truck, a chipper, a tractor, a mower and a steam cleaner — and $10,500 for capital improvements to the Memorial Swimming Pool.

Of the total, $853,000 is expected to come from the 1993 municipal budget, $68,000 from the capital improvement fund.

The council also authorized the reissuance of $413,000 in swimming pool utility notes of the $486,000 originally issued to pay for a new roof on the pool building a few years ago.

Of the total, $73,000 of the debt already has been paid off, Mr. Malloy said.

The council also decided at its conference session it will act on a resolution this Tuesday urging the state to repair the Crossway Place railroad overpass and reopen the Tuttle Parkway bridge to traffic after it is repaired or replaced.

If possible, Mayor Boothe said, the state should be urged not to do both projects simultaneously, but the main emphasis should be on getting the projects completed, especially that on Crossway Place.

A "no build" approach, whereby the Tuttle Parkway bridge would remain closed to vehicular traffic and

Runnells Hospital Jobs Safe for the Time Being

Negotiations Over Privatization of Functions Continue

By JAMES A. BRIDGE, 3rd
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

The 94 Runnells Hospital dietary and housekeeping employees still have their jobs — for now.

A resolution to finalize the privatizing of the Berkeley Heights hospital's dietary services was voided from the March 12 agenda of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders because of on-going labor negotiations.

"There still are negotiations going on," Freeholder Chairman Louis A. Santagata said.

The 94 employees would lose their jobs because of Mrs. Ann Baran's proposal to cut costs throughout the county.

According to Mrs. Baran, the County Manager, contracting out the dietary and housekeeping services of the hospital in Berkeley Heights could yield as much as $800,000 in savings.

The hospital has been losing as much as $12 million a year, the same amount of deficit the county itself faces.

The layoff notices to the 94 employees affected by the plan would take effect on Sunday, March 29.

Bargaining began at 4 p.m. last Thursday and continued up to the start of the Freeholder session.

The board retired to its chambers after an unusually brief open session to return to the talks.

Members of Runnells Hospital workers' Union Council No. 8 again attended the meeting, but in far fewer numbers than in previous meeting when as many as 80 turned out to plead for their jobs.

Only one member of the 94 spoke at the meeting.

Mrs. Kathleen Sweeney asked the Freeholders to remember how hard the employees who have been targeted for dismissal in favor of privatization, work.

"I'm just trying to remind you we work above and beyond the call of duty," she said.

In other business, Freeholders Alan M. Augustine and Walter McLeod co-sponsored a resolution to re-evaluate a state plan to close the pediatric and adolescent unit of Rahway Hospital.

Freeholder Augustine condemned the action, which would close the 24-bed facility, and said the state did not consult those residents who use the facility, and urged the state to reconsider its decision.

"They won't find a unit with a lower diagnosis-related group cost in Union County," Freeholder Augustine said.

"This unit served close to 1,000 children in 1991. The state did not consult the local residents who are serviced by the facility when it listed it among the 29 pediatric units targeted for closing," he added.

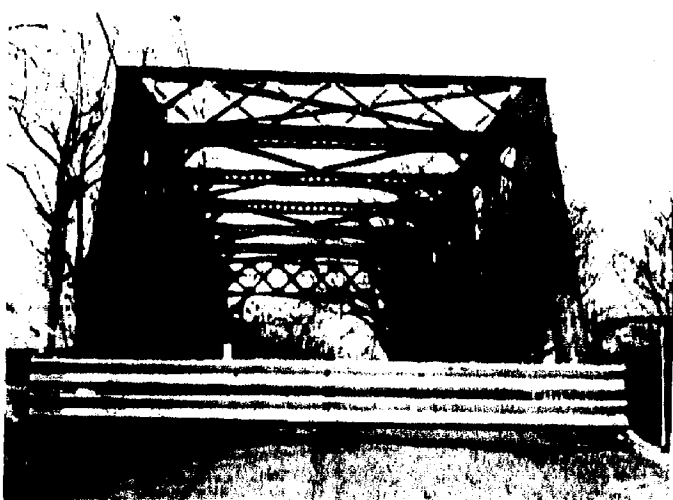

"Nor, by the way, did it consult with hospital administration, staff, pediatricians, other physicians or local officials and health care consumers in making its determination," the Freeholder noted.

Mr. Augustine said the state blindly

Cabaret Show Raises Funds for Summer Play

Local youngsters will have the opportunity to act in a July production of A Midsummer Night's Dream, thanks to several area musical performers who are donating their time and talent for two fund-raising concerts on Friday and Saturday, April 3 and 4, at Wyckoff's Restaurant at 932 South Avenue, Westfield.

Miss Cynthia Meryl, the Acting and Musical Production Director for the Westfield Young People's Performing Arts Company, will star with Mrs. Sue Anne Gershenson in a cabaret-style performance called A Quarter to Nine, showcasing the music of such composers as Cole Porter, Ira Gershwin and Irving Berlin. Pianist, Mrs. Carol J. Binkowski will provide accompaniment, as will Westfield High School brass musicians, Peter Donovan, Donald Meier, Deborah Planko and James Perry.

Miss Meryl and Mrs. Jenny Logus, the Director of the Westfield School of Dance, are planning the summer Shakespeare Theatre-in-the-Round production for children and teenagers.

They aim to raise a major portion of the necessary funds via A Quarter to Nine as well as through various other activities with the children's and parents' help.

Auditions will be held from Friday through Sunday, May 15 to 17, and local youngsters may try out. No previous acting or dancing experience is required.

Tickets for the April 3 and 4 cabaret concerts are on sale at the box office of the school of dance at 402 Boulevard, Westfield.

The price of admission for the 8-45 p.m. show only is $15 with a two-drink minimum.

Tickets for the 7 o'clock dinner and show together are $37.

The box office is open Mondays through Fridays 3 to 9 p.m., and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

For more information, please call 789-3011.

SALE PLANNERS... Mrs. Marile Pierson, left, Co-Chairman of Volunteers, and Miss Nancy Yoder, treasurer of the Friends of the Library Book Sale Committee, make plans to enlist a corps of workers to help with the sale on April 1 to 5.

Donation Hours Told For Library Book Sale

The Friends of the Westfield Memorial Library Annual Book Sale will be April 1. Donations of books will be accepted at the program room of the library at 550 East Broad Street on Saturday, March 28, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., on Sunday, March 29, from noon to 5 p.m., on Monday, March 30, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Tuesday, March 31, from 9 a.m. to noon. The Friends regret they cannot accept textbooks, records, Reader's Digest Condensed Books, videocassettes, National Geographic or any other magazines, or encyclopedias over 10 years old.

Acceptable materials include books, paperbacks, children's reading materials, dictionaries and cookbooks. For more information, please call David Kirkwood at 233-1583. The sale opens April 1 and runs through April 5.

Rescue Squad Teaches Child Safety to Parents

The staff of Time Out for Parents, a day care program at The Presbyterian Church of Westfield, recently took time out to learn about cardiopulmonary resuscitation and child safety in a course sponsored by the Westfield Rescue Squad.

The squad hosts similar courses throughout the year for the community.

"It's very important for parents of young children, and those who provide child care, to know cardiopulmonary resuscitation. You never know when an emergency is going to occur," said course instructor, Mrs. Mary Anne Murphy, a member of the Westfield Rescue Squad. She was assisted by Mrs. Kathy Ostrowski, also a squad member.

The four-hour course, which led to American Heart Association certification in cardiopulmonary resuscitation, taught participants what to do when an infant or child stops breathing or is choking.

"We cannot stress enough how important it is for people to know cardiopulmonary resuscitation," Mrs. Murphy said. "When some can't breathe, irreparable damage can occur in just four to six minutes. What you know can save a life."

The course also included a lecture on child safety.

Even a seemingly safe, supervised environment like a day care center can pose safety hazards, she noted. "If the slats on a crib are too far apart, for example, very small children can slip their heads in between and suffocate. Older model safety gates also can cause this kind of problem."

Mrs. Murphy also reminded course participants not to let very young children play with small toys or toys with removable pieces.

"Young children are particularly susceptible to choking because they are constantly putting objects in their mouths," she told the group.

In addition, children should not be allowed to walk around while eating or to run with anything in their mouths, she said.

The Westfield Rescue Squad regularly offers American Heart Association-approved cardiopulmonary resuscitation courses for groups of eight to 20. Most are open to the public.

For more information, please telephone Mrs. Margaret Brewster at the squad at 233-2501.

Mr. Sweeney Pledges To Hear All Viewpoints

"In recent weeks I have expressed my support for our neighborhood schools and my opposition to the consolidation of our intermediate schools, made specific recommendations on improving communications between the board and the community, called for reform in the budget process and the creation of a multi-year planning process to control costs such as those we experience for employee health-care insurance and supported an emphasis on a basic core curriculum," Board of Education candidate, William J. Sweeney, said this week.

"Today I want to tell you specifically how I will conduct myself as your representative," he added. "I assure every citizen of our town I will hear his point of view. I will gather the facts necessary to make an informed decision. I will articulate my conclusions to you and the board in a clear and direct manner.

"I will respect the views of every citizen even if I disagree with them," Mr. Sweeney said.

"In doing these things, I will have earned the trust you have placed in me as your representative. That kind of representation will create the kinds of policies which will enhance educational opportunities for every student in our district," he said.

A habit is a shackle for the free.

Dear Eric,

On behalf of the Board of Trustees I want to thank you for a delightful evening last Friday. The large turnout was certainly due to the wonderful memories we had from last year. Again you were so generous and accommodating in arranging the dinner. The food was delicious and we marvelled at the expert preparation of such a fresh and tasty fare for over one hundred guests!

We felt well taken care of. I hope you sensed that everybody had a great time, including our young musicians. Your staff was very courteous and patient; please extend our appreciation to all of them.

This evening not only helped us in our fundraising for a tour in 1993, but it also firmned the good ties within our orchestra family. Thank you for supporting our NJYS organization in such a generous and special way.

Very truly yours,

Parents Invited to Meeting On Roosevelt Principal

Parents of students in Roosevelt Intermediate School and parents of students in the three elementary schools, Franklin, Washington and Wilson, that feed into Roosevelt have been invited to attend and participate in a meeting scheduled at 8 p.m. today to develop selection criteria for a new Roosevelt School Principal.

Mrs. Linda Clark, the President of the Roosevelt Parent-Teacher Organization, said the informational meeting will be sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association.

A survey form has been mailed to all Roosevelt parents. Fourth- and fifth-grade students in the three elementary schools were given the survey form to take home to their parents.

The form was developed by the three parent members of the Principal Search Advisory Committee to Select a New Roosevelt School Principal.

They are Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Carol Phelan and James Szezyler.

Results of the survey will be discussed at tonight's meeting, which is one step in the process of selecting a new Principal for Roosevelt School when Eugene Voll retires in July.

"As members of the advisory search committee, we are going to our constituency to find out their expectations in terms of education background, professional experience and personal qualities they would like to see in Roosevelt's new Principal," Mrs. Clark said.

Staff members of the nine-member Advisory Search Committee include Thomas Brown, a western tradition/foreign language teacher at Roosevelt; Mrs. Audrey Zavetz, a sixth-grade English team teacher; and Mrs. Barbara Ball, the English Department head for Edison and Roosevelt Schools.

The staff members also are seeking input from the staff regarding criteria and qualifications they would like to see in a new Principal.

After committee members compile the input about the qualities they will be looking for in a new Principal, the applications will be screened.

A number of candidates will be selected for interviews by the advisory committee and the committee may visit the current school of the applicant.

As with all professional appointments, the committee will advise the Superintendent, however, the final recommendation to the Board of Education will be made by the Superintendent of Schools.

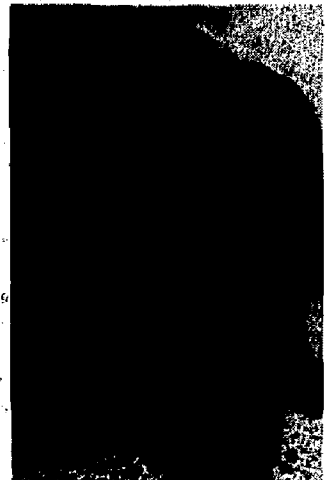

In addition to the three parents and three staff members, the Principal Search Advisory Committee, appointed by Dr. Mark C. Smith, the Superintendent of Schools, also includes Dr. David J. Rock, the Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum and Instruction, and Dr. Robert Petix, the Principal of Westfield High School.

Principal search advisory committees, including parents and professional staff members, were involved in the selection of a new principal for Jefferson School in December, 1987, for Washington School in June, 1987 and for Wilson School this year.

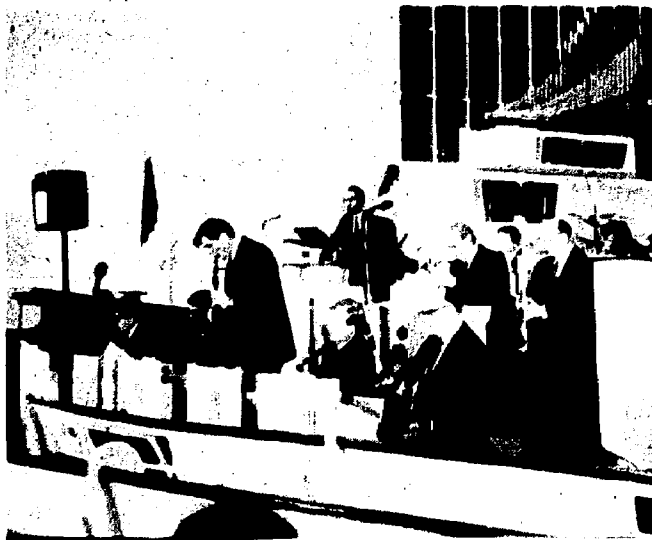

Dennis Riley On Dean's List

Dennis Riley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Riley of Westfield, was named to the 1991 fall semester Dean's List at The American University in Washington, D.C.

A 1990 graduate of Westfield High School, Dennis majors in international studies in the university's School of International Service and participates in the university's honors program.

Library Makes Westie More Accessible to Modems

The Westfield Memorial Library has now made dial-up access to Westie, its on-line computer catalog, available to a greater number of patrons with modems attached to their home computers by adding the VT-100 terminal emulation option.

Ian Rhodes Earns Academic Honors

Ian Rhodes, a 1990 Westfield High School graduate, was named to the Dean's List at Seton Hall University in South Orange for last fall's semester.

Ian is a sophomore in the W. Paul Stillman School of Business and the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Rhodes of Westfield.

This appears as a menu screen after connection to Westie has been completed.

Prior to dialing in patrons should check the documentation for their communications software to verify VT-100 or ADDS VP also known as Viewpoint is offered.

Their modem must then be set up to emulate one of these terminal types.

To reach Westie, they should enter 789-8431 into their dialing directory and follow the instructions in their documentation to connect.

Once they are connected, they should follow the instructions on the screen.

Those who have any questions should telephone the library at 789-4090.

Town Officials Should Pressure State To Repair North-South Links Quickly

The safety and ease with which motorists from Westfield and surrounding communities get from one end of the town to the other are being held hostage to state and federal bureaucrats.

For several years motorists have been unable to travel across the Tuttle Parkway Bridge because the state Department of Transportation has declared it unsafe.

The current bridge, constructed in 1907, probably outlived its useful life many years ago, and the Department of Transportation, in its recommendation to replace the structure, evidently agrees.

The rub, however, comes from the federal government, which requires New Jersey's bridges to be studied for historical significance before repairs are made.

New Jersey's Office of New Jersey Heritage, a division of the Department of Environmental Protection and Energy, has been given the task of evaluating the transportation department's recommendation to comply with federal regulations and the sheer volume of such requests from around the state has inundated its staff so badly that approvals have slowed to a snail's pace.

In another example of Trenton bureaucracy operating at its worst, even though the walls of the Crossway Place railroad overpass are crumbling and many officials say it should be widened to safely accommodate two cars passing underneath, New Jersey Transit say the movement of four stones on the underpass about a quarter of an inch in February 1990 is not sufficient to repair the structure.

The Transit agency did, however, increase inspections on the bridge and rerouted trains, so they do not use the tracks nearest the site of the buckling.

Town Engineer Edward A. Gottko is expected to report to the council on the safety of the structure, although he admits there probably is little the town can do, since the bridge belongs to New Jersey Transit.

In these two instances, we believe the town should take advantage of the fact it has its former Mayor Richard H. Bagger as a member of the Assembly, and it is now represented by both the Senate President and the Chairman of the state Republican Party to put some pressure on state bureaucracy to act with the greatest possible speed to correct these situations for the safety and convenience of Westfield's motorists.

Report from Washington

President Should Veto Wasteful Spending Bills

President George Bush should take advantage of an opportunity to hold the line against further tax increases and attack wasteful spending by exercising the line-item veto over Congressional pork barrel projects.

The White House should take the initiative towards restoring the President's dormant power to selectively impound funds for projects approved by Congress but which the President considers to be "egregious examples of budget waste."

It should not be too difficult to find unnecessary pork-barrel spending in a budget of $1.5 trillion.

Once example that comes to mind immediately is the problem-plagued Steamtown National Historic Site near Scranton, Pennsylvania, a federally-funded rail museum that has already cost taxpayers $39 million with another $13 million appropriated this year. Despite the runaway spending on Steamtown that already has occurred, the Steamtown project, which has been under development for six years, still is years from completion.

When President Ronald Reagan hoisted a 43-pound, 3,296-page budget in front of Congress a few years ago, and declared he needed a line-item veto, it brought cheers in the House but no action.

But with a $400 billion deficit this year, it is time for the President to call Congress' bluff and take his case to the American people.

With roughly $1 trillion of entitlement funds in a budget of $1.5 trillion, the line item veto will not solve all of the nation's fiscal problems.

But it could be an effective weapon in the hands of the President to slow down government spending, avoid tax increases and move in the direction of curbing future deficits.

Presidents from Thomas Jefferson to Richard Nixon have refused to spend funds appropriated by Congress, but the power to block pork-barrel spending with a line-item veto has not been exercised. Spending by Congress has gone out of control.

According to a General Accounting Office study, about $70 billion in spending the White House had objected to between 1984 and 1989 could have been saved if Presidents Reagan and Bush had been willing to confront Congress by lining out specific budget items.

It would have reduced federal deficits and borrowing by 6.7 per cent.

Forty-three governors have the power to line out specific budget items. A number of constitutional scholars believe the law and historic precedent already provide the President with the authority. Thomas Jefferson used it in 1801 when he eliminated $50,000 appropriated by Congress for gunboats.

The deficit is at $400 billion and the national debt will reach $4 trillion this year.

The budget process is broken and we are spending $3.5 billion every day in interest. In just a few more years, interest payments will be the largest item in the budget, bigger than defense and health and human services.

By Representative Matthew J. Rinaldo

I have taken the case for the line-item veto directly to the White House, and I have urged the President to delete pork barrel spending projects. It is time to close the barn door before all the horses are gone.

On Meanings, Roots Of the Au Courant Macro and Micro

Macro and micro. Macro is a combining form used in technical, and scientific words and meaning large or long, while micro is a combining form used in scientific terms and meaning small or very small.

Combining forms such as these are words that only occur in compound forms such as microphone and microbiotics.

An understanding of the meanings of combining forms can help you determine the meanings of the compound words they help to form, and an analysis of a word's origins can assist you to retain their meanings.

Macro has stumped me from time to time, and this essay is the result of my desire to edify my readers, as well as myself.

Macro is derived from the Greek word, makro, meaning large or long. Macrobiotics, therefore, literally means the art of prolonged life (bios) such as with special diet.

The first element in Macedonian incorporates an early form of makro.

The Macedonians, you see, were so-called because they were considerably taller (longer) than their Panhellenic cousins.

Micro, an antonym of macro, is derived from mikro, a Greek word meaning small or very small.

You might be wondering about the logic of the microphone definition considering the meaning of its two elements, micro- and -phone which literally mean small sounds.

The answer to this dilemma can be found in the purpose for which the word microphone was originally conceived.

In 1683, microphone was created to describe an ear trumpet that magnified small sounds for the hard of hearing.

A modern microphone also enables people with normal hearing to better enjoy the small sounds amplified by it.

Getting Government Off The Backs of Business

By Assemblyman Robert D. Franks

The New Jersey Legislature has begun the process of addressing what I like to describe as New Jersey's "Underground Government."

Our system of establishing rules and regulations has grown beyond the control of the Legislature, beyond the reach of the Governor and inaccessible to the public. Every year, a network of state officials, who answer to no one but themselves, impose hundreds of complex, costly and often controversial regulations on our businesses, local governments and every element of our lives.

Of course, I'm not saying that all government rules are bad. Oftentimes, they are necessary to protect the health, safety and welfare of our citizens. But how carefully government manages its regulatory responsibilities can shape the kind of state we live in and the quality of life we all enjoy.

State government has become addicted to writing regulations and the habit only gets worse as time goes on. Since 1970, the number of rules and regulations has increased by more than 500 per cent. Billions of dollars are spent every year complying with thousands of cumbersome and unnecessarily burdensome state regulations.

This mad rule-making rush has led to inconsistent, overlapping and competing regulations that impede progress and in many cases serve no legitimate public purpose. The stacks of paperwork and lengthy review procedures demanded under state regulatory schemes actually hurt, not help, the public by discouraging positive activity and driving up the cost of goods and services.

For years, the Legislature has talked about the need to rein in the state's regulatory bureaucracy. But now, the time for talking is over. At no time has the need for regulatory reform been greater than today. Our economy remains stalled in a deep recession. Hundreds of thousands of jobs have been lost. Every day more businesses are closing up shop.

Legitimate economic activity and opportunities for job creation are suffocating under mounds of state rules and regulations. The time has come for the Legislature to face this problem head-on and lift this formidable barrier to growth and prosperity.

The thousands of rules and regulations on the books have a profound impact on our lives. From the now infamous runny egg rule to the myriad of regulations that drive up the cost of a new home in New Jersey by 30 per cent, all of us are touched by the actions of 100 or more agencies that routinely adopt state rules and regulations. Just think of it, every year close to 600 new rules are promulgated. And these rules, all of which have the force of law, are written by bureaucrats who are in no

Foundation Trustees Thank Those Who Made Dinner Party a Success

On Saturday evening, March 14, almost 500 people came to Westfield High School for 55 dinner parties held in homes all over town to sample "A Taste of Westfield," a Viennese table of desserts created by donations from many Westfield restaurants, businesses and bakeries.

The proceeds from the event are for the benefit of the newly-formed Education Fund of Westfield, Inc.

On behalf of the Trustees, I would like to thank all of the people who volunteered to host a dinner in their homes and also the following people and businesses who contributed so generously to make this kick-off fundraiser an overwhelming success:

Bovella's Italian Pastry Shop, the Cheese Stop, Christoffer's Flowers, Classic Basket, Clyne & Murphy, Ferraro's Restaurant, the Flower Basket, Ginny Pope, Homeward Bound, J & M Market, Lia's, Print Tech, Raymond's of Westfield, Recipes, Saraceno's Bakery, Steuermagel's Nursery, Vance Florists and Williams Nursery.

We extend our special thanks to the following: Robert Rietzke and Boy Scout Troop No. 79, Mrs. Jeannette Maraffi, Ken Marcotte's, Service America, Sinclair's Restaurant and Wyckoff's.

Budget Task Force Head Says It Remains Impartial in Board Races

I must take exception to a statement by Councilman Norman N. Greco in his March 12 letter to the editor. When he asserts the volunteer callers for the Parent-Teacher Council Budget Task Force "are lobbying for the passage of the budget and selection of their approved candidates," he could not be more misinformed about the latter. The names and positions of School Board candidates never are mentioned by the callers. Moreover, if a parent should ask for suggestions as to what candidate or candidates to support, the volunteers have been asked not to discuss that issue.

As to Councilman Greco's obvious disapproval of the Parent-Teacher Council's organized effort to promote the passage of the school budget, there is nothing stopping any Westfield citizen, including Mr. Greco himself, from forming a group to promote its own interests.

I certainly would image the Councilman had calls made on his behalf during his successful bid for the Town Council. For any election, be it local, state, or national, Democrats call Democrats, Republicans call Republicans, environmentalists call environmentalists, and so forth.

I make no apologies for parents dedicated enough to give time and effort for a cause they believe in, and I do not appreciate having the function of the Budget Task Force misrepresented.

When Spring Has Sprung You Won't Be Able To

By LOUIS H. CLARK
Specialty Writer for The Westfield Leader

There is one good thing about winter I am going to miss. Ninety nine per cent of the time household activities do not conflict with football games. There are a few minor annoyances but you can usually fix them in between games.

But now the onslaught of spring is about to commence, it'll be a constant battle between baseball and the garden.

At least I don't have one chore my grandfather used to tell us about. When he was a boy he used to help his father carry out the rugs, hang them over a clothes line one by one and beat them until they cried "Uncle!"

Then his mother would give a final inspection, hitting each part of the rug with what he called a "whacker."

"And if there was one bit of dust coming from that whack, we'd have to beat it up all over again. Thank God for the vacuum cleaner."

On the other hand, they didn't have television in those days though they did have gardens.

"Martha's lawn," as I call it every spring, is much on her mind these days. She has been looking at everyone else's and saying, "Why is the grass on all the lawns in the neighborhood a deeper blue than ours? Have you been buying that cheap seed again?"

"At those prices?" I object. "That grass seed alone costs so much the birds around here call this place 'Gourmet's Delight.' The crab grass removers and everything else we put on it are champagne and dessert to them."

"And the rose fence," she says, not listening as usual. "Why have you cut it back so?"

"I had to. That fence was reaching out and grabbing everyone in sight. Rose fences may look good but they're pains."

"We're going to make a few changes around here this year," she interrupts with determination. You keep silent.

"Don't you want to hear them?" Not really, but you don't say that. Instead you remark, "You're going to tell me anyway, and please remember I have to work to support that green monster — your lawn — which means I can't be at it every day in the week."

There is one satisfaction I get out of working in Martha's garden. Luckily my two neighbors feel the same way I do. So every now and then the three of us get together and talk about the game we are missing with shovels and other gardening tools strewn around us.

Our wives can't yell at us because they don't want to be known as neighborhood shrews. But they caught on quickly. Each one in chronological order will stand it for about half an hour and then will open the door and call out sweetly — "Telephone" — of course there is no telephone call. We all know it but at least we've had a half hour's recess to discuss our labor grievances.

So, while in general I like the spring, I just wish it came some other time of year.

Alcoholism Unit Sets Seminar

"Case Management and Treatment Planning" is the topic of a seminar to be held on Friday, March 27, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. by the Union County Council on Alcoholism and Other Drug Addictions, Inc. at its office at 300 North Avenue East, Westfield.

The course will be taught by Samuel Pirozzi, who is the director of juvenile treatment for Straight & Narrow, Inc. in Paterson. This seminar costs $40. Scholarships are available.

To register, please call the council at 233-8810.

High School Orchestra Sets 'Music from Opera' Concert

The Westfield High School Symphonic Orchestra will present a concert Thursday, April 1, at 8 p.m. in the High School Auditorium. The theme for this concert is "Music from Opera."

The Symphonic Orchestra will perform the Overture to Il Barbiere di Siviglia by Rossini, "The Triumphant March" from Aida, and "Suite" from Porgy and Bess, by George Gershwin. In addition, two arias, "The Doll Aria" from Tales of Hoffman by Offenbach and The Laughing Song from Die Fledermaus of Strauss will be sung by sopranos Michelle Maraffi and Judy Kawaguchi, accompanied by the orchestra.

"The Hebrew's Chorus" from Verdi's Nabucco will be performed with the Mixed Chorus from the high school singing with the orchestra.

William Mathews, choral teacher at the high school, conducts this group of singers in grades 10 to 12.

The Symphonic Orchestra, conducted by Mrs. Jeannette Maraffi, is a group of musicians from grades nine to 12, performing repertoire from all periods of music. From violins to tuba, all orchestral instruments are represented this year.

The public is invited to this concert. Westfield High School is located at 550 Doran Road, Westfield.

BRIDGING THE GAP...Senior English students of Miss Brenda Fluhault have been working on a special project with senior citizens to break down stereotypes associated with senior citizens and adolescents and develop intergenerational respect, friendship and understanding while emphasizing students' writing skills. In addition to visiting the Westfield Senior Citizen's Housing Complex, the class welcomed students from Meridian Nursing Center in Westfield, who spoke to the students about sensitivity of the aging process. Shown, left to right, are Miss Fluhault, Jeffrey Klamon, Mrs. Susan Incarnato, Mrs. Annette Lissy, student Kristen Scardaville, student Jason Myers and Mrs. Beth Capanno. The class looks forward, later this month, to welcoming Mrs. Janine Madala of the Union County Office for the Aging, who will explain the many resources available to senior citizens through her office. These presentations were scheduled through the school system's Sharing Talents & Skills office.

Radio Flyer Never Soars To Meet Its Potential

3 & 1/2 popcorns
Though equipped with all sorts of excellent potential, Radio Flyer never does seem to completely satisfying heights.

It's a puzzle: A decent script is headed by a fine director who employs capable actors and cinematographer of enviable repute. Yet none of it conspires to that elusive sum greater than its parts. Movie detectives may agree that lack of commitment to any one of the film's shared facets, while unimportant, spreads the wealth a bit thin. Director Richard Donner explores the magical world of childhood through protagonists Bobby and Michael McKenzie, as narrated by Tom Hanks. It is a marvelous place where reality, more the domain of adults than children, co-mingles with fantasy, where everything's possible if you wish hard enough.

However, added to this nostalgic, trance-like adventure is a very serious story about child abuse — a knowledgeable, sympathetic and effectively tough-treatment that adds smartly to the popular information on these dastardly acts.

Mary McKenzie, a struggling single mom portrayed by Lorraine Bracco, hitches up with what increasingly proves to be a nightmarish ne'er-do-well — a beer-drinking, obnoxious dimwit who demands that step-sons Michael and Bobby (Elijah Wood and Joseph Mazzello) address him as "The King."

Thirty per cent into the motion picture, we learn the royal belly has been beating Bobby on a regular basis; now, with this divulgence, only we and the physically unscathed Michael know about it. Both little boys are reticent to blow the whistle, as Mom is apparently happy for the first time in their collective memory.

Director Donner, in very subtle terms mixed with violent punctuation, describes the catch 22 abused children can find themselves facing.

Alas, childhood also is a resilient time, and our young heroes hatch a plan formulated to free them of the ever-present terror that is The King: they come up with — ta, ta, ta, ta — "The Big Idea." It's a pip, a doozy — a grand, albeit hairbrained project that could only emanate from the hope and aspiration of youth. Add to the plan a novel bit of speculation concerning a previous, similar attempt by a "flyer" before them, said to be fact by some, myth by others, and a slightly chilling sense of a destiny only shared by children in promulgated.

Donner often achieves a genuine nostalgic aura, and if you inhale hard enough you just may smell those sweet aromas of warm summer nights and the unlimited zeal of youthful ambition. Likewise, the grim divulgence about childhood prove a chilling, snering kettle of fish.

The flock makes a noble attempt to provide a quiet yet informed statement, but the failure to integrate what results in a duality of nature proves a detracting factor. A fantastical, absolutely absurd ending which you've got to see — when it comes on cable — while a deliciously exciting deliciously impossible climax, is a strange curiosity to be sure. Though it achieves considerable altitude, Radio Flyer simply can't decide which square to land on.

Council Delays Rejecting Bid On Alarms

The Town Council On March 10 decided to delay for two weeks the rejection of the low bid of E.P. Reid, Inc. of Madison to provide an alarm system in Police Headquarters to which property owners could hook up their home alarms for a fee so Chief Anthony J. Scutti can have a chance to examine a Reid-installed alarm system in operation.

Town Attorney Charles H. Brandt had recommended the rejection of the Reid bid because he said certain sections of the bid form had not been completed and the firm had not supplied examples of the compatibility of the system it installed with the bid specifications and of places where systems it installed were in operation.

After Edward Reid, the President of the company, presented evidence he said disputed the town's contentions the council decided to delay its decision until the Chief had had a chance to examine a Reid-installed system.

The council also decided to release a $72,250 payment to J.A. Alexander, Inc. for the construction of the new Mindowaskin Park bandstand and approved the sale of a front end loader no longer used by the Public Works Department to John Sisto of Cranford for $2,565 and the appointment of the Reverend Robert W. Kunze of St. Helen's Roman Catholic Church as the Chaplain of the Police Department.

Summit Chorale's Bach Well Done, But Gloomy

By HENRY WYATT
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

It is amazing, really, how few are the compositions on which depends the knowledge and love of Bach's music among the general public.

The Brandenburg Concertos and the orchestral suites are staples of the concert and recorded repertoire.

Much of the keyboard music is familiar to piano students, and, in the case of music for organ, to churchgoers.

Chorists know many of Bach's chorale settings. The public will sit through the Passions with reverent attitude if not with real love or deep understanding, and often enough the reverence is sufficient to move listeners' hearts. And, given the richness and power of Bach's music, reverence is often transmuted to love.

But most of Bach's vast output is the domain of specialists. Not many singers and instrumentalists ever will explore more than a dozen or so of the 200 cantatas during their professional lives.

The Masses, save for the B-minor, are very rarely given. Yet this is true of most music.

Of the 100-plus symphonies of Haydn, or the 50-plus symphonies or 27 piano concertos of Mozart, how many does the average concert-goer or record buyer really know?

The Bach concert of the Summit Chorale and the Colonial Symphony on February 7 was a mix of the very familiar with the somewhat familiar and the totally unknown.

The first category included the Third Brandenburg Concerto and the Magnificat, which was the second half of the concert. The concerto was played with strong rhythms and clean articulations, and Gerald Tarack's cadenza was commendable. The only item wanting was assertiveness and imagination from the continuo.

Commendable also was the Magnificat, sung with clarity and energy.

Bach's complex textures were rendered clearly, as the large chorus was tight and fleet. The soloists, all members of the Chorale, were quite good. It was apparent the singers love and understand this joyous music. Not only the vocal warmth, but facial expressions and body English can say a lot. It was a happy performance.

The first half of the concert was less felicitous. Two cantatas were given, the first of which Nun ist das Heil, consists of an opening chorus only, as the rest has been lost.

It was written for St. Michael's Day, and, like the three other cantatas for this feast day, is a textual and musical representation of the archangel slaying the dragon, and predominant in all these cantatas are trumpets and drums and fugal writing for the chorus.

Like the other St. Michael's Day works the work is Bach at his most militantly Lutheran, smiting in his music the unrighteous.

The work is a genuine rarity, and the Chorale and the orchestra evidently were unfamiliar with the work. They sounded somewhat under-rehearsed, and many of Bach's splendid effects failed to come through the musical swirl. The tempo was on the slow side and things tended to plod.

The other cantata, Jesu, der du meine Seele, is among the best-known of Bach's cantatas, albeit not as familiar as the Magnificat.

It was composed for the 14th Sunday after Trinity, and like the other cantatas composed for this occasion in the Lutheran calendar, music and text illustrate the protection afforded by faith against afflictions of body and spirit.

There is an emphasis on physical pain and emotional distress. Thus the work is full of chromatic motives, sharply depictive leaps in the strings and other metaphoric devices.

Perhaps the Chorale's musical director, way accountable to the voters for their actions.

Streamlining the regulatory process has been a special concern of mine for several years. In 1986, I wrote the law that created the study commission on regulatory efficiency. That 33-member commission, which included representatives of state agencies that write regulations as well as those effected by them, spent 10 months assessing the regulatory system and developing a series of recommendations designed to make the process work for the public good, not against it.

Let's face it. We in the Legislature have created a monster that feeds upon itself and grows stronger, more powerful, and more threatening to our state's economic stability every day. It's now up to us to tame this monster and develop a regulatory process that's simple, fair and responsive to the needs of all New Jerseyans.

Garyth Nair, chose to serve up a general atmosphere of gloomy dolor. Tempos again were slow and the textures were thick. Unfortunately, Bach's wonderful tone painting was obscured.

Generality of sentiment prevailed over the crystalline specificities of Baroque rhetorical and musical practice.

But the latter is what has been emphasized by recent research and the new attention to authentic musical style, and it is less and less tenable now to render Bach in heavy, dark colours.

For Bach and his contemporaries, music was a sub-discipline of rhetoric. It was to instruct and depict, and its devices were specific and clear, even when complex.

Mr. Nair, sadly, chose not the clear and specific, but rather the broad brush strokes that tended to paint over the musical and emotional complications of this work.

The Chorale's singing was quite fine, and I look forward to hearing them in April, when they perform Aida in concert with the Westfield Symphony.

Symphony Brass Trio In Concert at Library

The Friends of the Westfield Memorial Library will present the Westfield Symphony Orchestra Brass Trio in concert on Sunday, March 22, at 3 p.m. at the library at 550 East Broad Street. Admission will be free. The trio consists of trumpeter, David Sampson; French hornist, Michael Martin, and Vernon Post.

The trio is part of the orchestra's Brass Quintet, which was invited to perform in January for the opening of the Legislature in Trenton.

This will be the trio's first appearance in these concerts.

In addition to being an expert on the trumpet, Mr. Sampson is widely recognized as a composer and is a recipient of many grants from such organizations as the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

Mr. Martin is a freelance musician in the metropolitan area and a member of the New York City Ballet Orchestra.

The trio will present a concert featuring music by the 20th century French composer Poulenc as well as masterpieces by Bach and Handel and a suite of renaissance dances.

The program will conclude with an arrangement of popular favorites.

Business Expo Will Be Held March 24

The public, especially people in business locally, may attend the Business After Hours Expo on Tuesday, March 24, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

The event, at Wyckoff's restaurant at 932 South Avenue West, Westfield, is co-sponsored by the Central Jersey, Suburban, Union County, Union Township and Westfield Area Chambers of Commerce.

Forty exhibitors, the maximum allowed, have reserved tables at which to display their goods and services.

Among exhibitors will be the Westfield Chamber, Chase Home Mortgage Corp., Cleaning Services Inc., Computer Integrated Systems Inc., Meridian Nursing Center, Paradigm Associates, Patient Care Inc., Print Tech, The Suburban News, Talking Savings, Totally Tuthill, Union County Printing & Mailing and United Jersey Bank.

The Business After Hours Expo provides an opportunity for all types of businesses to develop and meet new business contacts, promote their products and services and interact with an all-business audience from a sizeable geographical area.

Attendees may exchange business cards and also are invited to distribute their own promotional brochures while they are viewing the exhibits.

Reservations for attendees will cost $12 for chamber members and $25 for non-members, including hors d'oeuvres and door prizes. There will be a cash bar.

To make reservations, please telephone the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce at 233-3021.

Miss Deborah S. Ness, Mr. Woodward Marry

The Community Congregational Church in the Short Hills section of Millburn on Saturday, December 14, was the setting for the formal candlelight wedding of Miss Deborah Susan Ness, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stanley Ness of Short Hills and William Lea Woodward, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patterson Woodward of Westfield and East Orleans, Massachusetts.

Mr. Woodward is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Matlack Lea, 3rd of Fanwood.

Dr. Kenyon J. Wildrick of the Short Hills church and the Reverend Dr. John G. Wightman, pastor of The First Congregational Church of Westfield, officiated at the 6:30 p.m. ceremony.

The reception followed at Canoe Brook Country Club in Summit.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a beaded silk lace gown with a sabrina neckline and a cathedral-length train. She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, white freesias and ivy.

The maid of honor was the sister of the bride, Miss Nancy E. Ness of New York City, and the bridesmaids were Miss Mary Patricia Doherty of Summit, Mrs. Sharon R. Palumbo of New Providence, Mrs. Allison H. Hamborsky of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, Miss Alexandra K. Bowman of Snow Mass Village, Colorado, and Mrs. Dana G. Randazzo of Dublin, Ohio.

Thomas L. Woodward of Chatham served as the best man for his brother. Ushers included Timothy S. Ness of Short Hills, Robert J. Carroll and Kevin R. Jelinek of Summit, Gregory C. LeStage and Robert H. Farnham of Boston, William P. Lovejoy, Jr. of Merrimac, Massachusetts, and John R. Miller, 4th of White Plains, New York.

The bride is a graduate of Millburn High School and Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio. She is employed by Geneco, Inc. of New York City as a sales account executive.

The groom is a graduate of The Trinity-Pawling School in Pawling, New York and Lycoming College in Williamsport, Pennsylvania. He is employed as a merchandising representative for Star Merchandising Company, Inc. of Union, representing Bacardi Imports, Inc. and Brown-Forman Beverage Company.

The couple resides in Summit.

Miss Caroline Reyna Hawley and Bradley Boyer Preble

Miss Hawley Betrothed To Bradley Preble

Dr. Adrienne Hawley of Westfield and John H. Hawley of Naranja, Florida have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Caroline Reyna Hawley, to Bradley Boyer Preble, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace L. Preble of Portland, Oregon.

A summer wedding is planned. Miss Hawley is a third-grade teacher at the Walnut Avenue School in Cranford. She is a summa cum laude graduate of Dartmouth College in Hanover, New Hampshire, where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Her mother is a senior professor and the Coordinator of the Language Department at Union County College in Cranford. Her father is a pilot with the United States Customs Service.

Mr. Preble is a business analyst with Marketing Corporation of America in Westport, Connecticut. He also is a summa cum laude graduate of Dartmouth College, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and was selected as an Academic All-American athlete.

His mother is a ceramicist and his father is the President of The Carr Group in Portland.

Guest Artist Will Teach Suzuki Violin Master Classes

Young violin students playing at all levels are invited to register for master classes with internationally recognized Suzuki teacher and trainer Allen Lieb, currently an instructor at the School for in Performance from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and holds a teaching certificate from the Talent Education Institute in Matsumoto, Japan, after studying several years with Shinichi Suzuki.

The Suzuki Violin Master Classes are being sponsored by The Music Studio, a nonprofit program of the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts.

This summer, Mr. Lieb will return to Westfield to conduct intensive, one-week workshops for both violin students and violin teachers. "From Twinkle to Tchaikovsky" A Violin Teacher's Guide to Practical Pedagogy" and "The Suzuki Method: Lessons for Beginning through Advanced Violin Students" will be held July 20 through July 24, and July 27 through July 31, at Edison Intermediate School. Registration is currently being accepted for this summer program.

For more information, please call 322-5065.

Allen Lieb

Strings in New York City. The one-hour classes will be held on Tuesday, March 31, at Redeemer Lutheran Day School, 229 Cowperthwaite Place, Westfield. The fee is $10, and the deadline for registration is March 27.

Mr. Lieb will work with students individually on violin techniques and requests that participants come prepared to play a piece. The master classes will be divided according to levels and the schedule is available from the Workshop.

The Suzuki method of teaching acknowledges the physical and social development of each student and encourages parents to become involved as partners in the child's learning experience. Parents are invited to stay and observe the March 31 master classes.

Mr. Lieb brings to these master classes years of experience giving workshops for students and teachers throughout the United States, Canada, Europe and Australia. He taught string pedagogy at Memphis State University, served as director of the Memphis State Suzuki Institute and has been a guest instructor at Westminster College Conservatory. Mr. Lieb received a Master of Music Degree

Eye Openers

CARING FOR YOUR CONTACTS

It's not hard to wear contact lenses successfully, but it does take some extra care regarding eye hygiene — and simple common sense, too. Here are some important reminders:

- Unless your lenses are specifically prescribed for extended wear, be sure to remove them before you go to sleep.
- Soft contact lenses — except for the disposables — need to be cleaned and sterilized daily. To remove protein deposits, use an enzymatic cleanser at least once a week.
- Wear sunglasses on windy days to keep dust particles out of your eyes. The dust is bad for both eyes and lenses.
- Avoid getting chemicals — even hair spray — on your lenses.
- Never wear a torn contact lens, no matter how small the tear.
- If there is pain or eyes are red, the first-aid rule is to remove the lenses for a few days. Call your optometrist.
- If there is a change in your vision, schedule an examination.

LORDY, LORDY, LOOK WHO'S "40"

WHO COULD IT BE? HERE'S THE KEY.

Bisquick on a stick,
A cross country ski,
Saint Helen herself,
A teacher of CCD.

All over town
You'll see her van,
Or perhaps on the court
With racket in hand.

Many a scout
Has followed her lead.

Wilson and Roosevelt
Have seen her good deeds.

When July arrives,
And the kids leave school,
Our '52 beauty
Lives at the pool

You may have guessed already —
Get your call in quick,
And wish Happy Birthday
TO THIS GREAT CHICK!

Miss Michelle Tracey and Milan diPierro

Miss Michelle Tracey To Wed Mr. diPierro

Mr. and Mrs. John Tracey of Westfield announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Michelle Tracey, to Milan diPierro, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles diPierro of Westfield.

The bride-to-be graduated from Westfield High School and Villanova University in Villanova, Pennsylvania. She received her Master of Arts Degree in Psychology from Seton Hall University in South Orange.

Her fiancé, also a graduate of Westfield High School, graduated from the University of Virginia and received his Master of Arts Degree in Biomedical Engineering from Columbia University in New York City. He is employed by Siemens Medical Systems.

The couple plans to wed on Saturday, July 25.

Miss Paula Rooney Fiancée of Mr. Price

Mr. and Mrs. James Rooney of Linden announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Paula Rooney of Garwood, to Kevin James Price of Garwood, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurie J. Price of Westfield.

The future bride graduated from Roselle Catholic High School in Roselle in 1989. She is presently employed by Schering-Plough Supertots Day Care Center in Union.

Mr. Price graduated from Westfield High School in 1984. He attended Monmouth College in West Long Branch and Kean College in Union. He is the owner of October Sheets in Garwood.

The wedding date is Friday, October 9.

Miss Erika Brinza In New Summit Post

The Summit Trust Company announced the recent promotion of Miss Erika Brinza to Assistant Vice President and Trust Officer at the bank's recently-opened regional trust office, located at its Westfield branch at 302 East Broad Street.

Miss Brinza has served in trust administration since joining the bank in March 1990, when she was assigned to its Summit office as the Trust Officer and Assistant Secretary. Beginning her banking career in 1985 with First Fidelity Bank in Newark, Miss Brinza started in the Marketing Department. Through management training, she progressed to the Trust Department, serving as a Trust Officer until joining Summit Trust.

Born in a suburb of Budapest, Hungary, Miss Brinza has lived in the United States since the age of eight. She grew up in Metuchen, graduated from Metuchen High School, and, in 1984, earned a Bachelor's Degree from Fairleigh Dickinson University in Madison, where she majored in psychology with a concentration in business.

She also is a graduate of both the National Trust School and the National Graduate Trust School, programs conducted out of Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois.

Miss Brinza has been designated a financial services counselor, and has completed graduate-level courses in finance, accounting, money and banking and credit analysis.

PREVENTING HARASSMENT... Mrs. Caren Haym of Douglas College in New Brunswick, right, shares information with Mrs. Heather Kennedy, a health teacher and student, Lisa Krasner of Westfield High School, about the work of Students Against Sexual Harassment & Advancement, and explained how substance abuse plays a big part in the crime of date rape. This presentation was scheduled during Drug Awareness Week through the school system's Sharing Talents & Skills office.

Philip Dietterich Leads Sunday Oratorio Concert

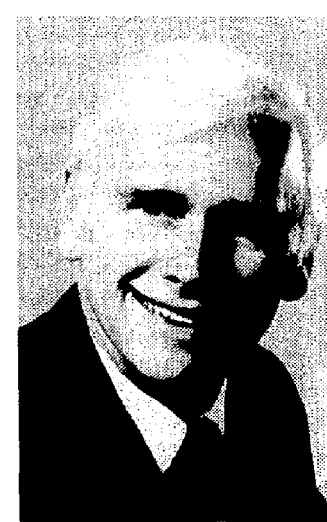

Miss Jeannette Ferrell, a soprano, and Mark Delavan, a bass, will sing the two solo parts in the Brahms Requiem with the Oratorio Singers mixed choir of 40 and a professional orchestra of 40 under the baton of Philip R. Dietterich on Sunday, March 22, at 3 p.m. in The First United Methodist Church of Westfield.

Two of the composer's less well-known works for chorus and orchestra, Nänie and Schicksalslied, Song of Destiny, complete the concert.

Berlioz, Cherubini, Durufle, Dvorak, Fauré, Mozart, Palestrina and Verdi all wrote requiems, but the New Grove Dictionary of Music & Musicians (1980) says Ockeghem composed the oldest existing requiem about 1470, and from that time to the mid-1970's, 1,600 more were composed.

"We might expect the farther we moved away from the Middle Ages into the secular modern era, the fewer requiems would be composed, but in the 77 years between the death of Bach (1750) and the death of Beethoven (1827) 250 were written, including Mozart's in 1791," a spokesman for the Oratorio Singers said.

During the next 85 years (1825-1910) when Brahms, Fauré and Verdi wrote theirs, 620 others were written. In the 65 years from 1910 to the mid-1970's, production fell to a mere 335, still nearly 100 more than in Mozart's time.

Philip R. Dietterich

Son Born To Resniks

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Resnik of Shelburne, Vermont announced the birth of their son, Joseph Frederick Resnik, on Tuesday, March 3.

Mrs. Resnik is the former Miss Anne Marie Grasing.

Erratum

The name of a groom was incorrectly stated as Dr. James Fertakos in the March 5 edition of The Westfield Leader.

His correct name is Dr. Roy James Fertakos.

In these 500 years, composers have reshaped what was originally a religious funeral service sung only in a Roman Catholic church.

Although the Mozart Requiem was integrated into a Catholic funeral Mass for President John Fitzgerald Kennedy, the Brahms German Requiem and later works like the Britten War Requiem are nonliturgical.

The composers chose verses from the German Lutheran Bible or from English poets instead of the traditional text of the Latin Mass. While they often are performed in churches, these requiems usually are presented as concert pieces, which they were intended to be.

However far they stray from the ancient form, the great requiems of Mozart, Verdi, and Brahms are examples of the most profound spiritual and artistic inspiration and achievement. Only a rigid orthodoxy would condemn their deviation from the rules.

"But even the most tolerant mind must reel at the thought of two examples from the 20th century: a Deutsches Helden Requiem (1937) by Herman Erdler on Nazi themes, and a Lenin Requiem (1970), Hanns Eisler's tribute to the Soviet leader," an Oratorio spokesman said.

No such problems of religious tradition arise with Nänie and Schicksalslied.

The first is a short poem by Schiller, and the second a short poem by Hölderlin, whose themes inspired Brahms to set time to music.

Schicksalslied contrasts the eternal beauty, bliss and peace enjoyed by the immortal gods with the constant suffering and uncertainty of humanity, never at rest, always tossed like water from crag to crag.

Tickets for the March 22 concert, at $13 and $9 for seniors and students, are available at Burgdorff Realtors, Jeannette's Gift Shop, Turner World Travel or the First United Methodist Church of Westfield.

For information, please telephone 233-4211.

Franklin to Host Memorial to Teacher

The Franklin School Parent-Teacher Association will hold a dedication and memorial for Mrs. Katherine Jackson on Thursday, April 2 at 7 p.m. in the Franklin School auditorium.

The Parent-Teacher Association commissioned an original art work from Westfield High School student, St. John Frizell, last June. The completed art work will be unveiled and dedicated at the April 2 memorial.

Mrs. Jackson helped to design and implement the Franklin art appreciation program that brings art appreciation volunteers into each classroom each month.

The public may attend the memorial dedication ceremony.

The geoduck clam may weigh up to six pounds.

A WORLD OF MUSIC... Third-grade students, under the direction of music teacher, Mrs. Muriel Northover, celebrate Music in Our Schools Month at Jefferson School with a multicultural focus. Participating in Saso Kroma, an African stone passing song, are: Steven Block, Lindsay Guerriero, Jacob Rosenstein, Kerri Anness, Mayuko Moriyama and Tyne Duffy.

Responsiveness Should Be A Board Must: Mr. Fox

Michael W. Fox, a certified public accountant and a candidate for the Westfield Board of Education, believes a responsive school board is an important element in a cooperative effort among the community at large.

Mr. Fox stated, "Parents have expressed concern that the board is not always responsive to their views. The perception is their interests are not always being taken into account when the board formulates policy and takes other actions. The board needs to be more cognizant of the community's preferences."

"The most recent example was the vote on the proposed school calendar. At that meeting, I listened as many parents expressed a desire to limit the winter vacation and have school end earlier in June. Several board members conceded they had been contacted by parents who supported this view, but it seemed the board disregarded this and voted on the calendar as proposed, thereby requiring our students to start school before Labor Day and finish the year late in June," he observed.

"Citizens who attend meetings feel insufficient time is allocated to the public portion of the meetings. They have expressed concern the board at times may be cutting the public meeting short since numerous items have to be discussed in executive session," Mr. Fox said.

"To further enhance board responsiveness and to allow more time for public input, it would be helpful if the board dedicated one meeting per month to only agenda items and public input and did not schedule an executive session for that evening," he said.

In closing, Mr. Fox stated, "The board's effectiveness could be improved if it encouraged increased dialogue with the public. This would also foster a more positive image in the community. It is my intention to stress such interaction if I am elected on April 7th."

FOR 40 YEARS... Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. and Roger Borchin, Principal of the Redeemer Lutheran Day School, are shown as Mayor Boothe signed a proclamation recognizing March as Lutheran Schools Month and the 40th anniversary of the establishment of Redeemer Lutheran Day School.

Redeemer Lutheran Marks Its 40th Anniversary

Over 2,000 schools throughout the United States celebrate Lutheran Schools Month in March. It is especially fitting at this time that Redeemer Lutheran Day School begins its 40th anniversary celebration as a community school in Westfield, said Roger Borchin, the school's Principal.

In the autumn of 1952, Redeemer Church under the direction of Mrs. Wanda Reuning, opened Lutheran Hall Nursery School. In the years since the advent of the nursery school, an additional educational complex was built and the school expanded to include Kindergarten through sixth grade and an extended care program to serve the needs of working parents. Presently, the school enrolls 125 students with an additional 40 children using extended care. A summer program, modeled after the highly successful extended care program, will begin late in June.

A number of activities throughout the year will help celebrate Redeemer

Lutheran School's 40 years of service to children. On March 21st, a 1950's theme dance will be held for school parents and friends of the school. A special mission walk in May will raise money for the varied school programs which make Redeemer unusual. Also, the school will present the Westfield Women's Fiver on July 18. This five-mile race, under the direction of Peter Mogendorff, will raise scholarship money for Redeemer's extended care program.

Redeemer Lutheran School is part of the second largest parochial school system in America. Early in the development of America, Lutheran schools were established in many Colonial towns where German or Scandinavian Lutherans settled. Today there are over 2,000 Lutheran nursery, elementary, high schools and colleges throughout the United States. New Jersey is the home of 47 Lutheran nursery and elementary schools.

Chancel Choir Will Sing Elijah Sunday, March 22

Part I of Elijah by Felix Mendelssohn will be presented on Sunday, March 22, at 10:30 a.m., at The Presbyterian Church in Westfield.

This well-known oratorio of the tremendously powerful Old Testament story will be sung by the Chancel Choir, with Randy Enders in the title role, and featuring soloists, Mrs. Susan McNamara Faas, Mrs. Mary Beth Munson, Vivian Buenavides and Drew Martin.

Elijah had its premiere at the Birmingham Festival in 1846, a year before the composer's death. Composed with the English audience in mind, the music has universal appeal and has long been a favorite on both sides of the Atlantic, as well as on the European Continent. All are welcome to attend.

Congregational Church Blood Drive March 22

The North Jersey Blood Center will return to First Congregational Church at 125 Elmer Street, on Sunday, March 22.

According to officials at the North Jersey Blood Center blood supplies are dangerously low.

In January, the center reported having "less than a one-day supply of O-positive blood," the Chairman for the blood drive and the spokesman for First Congregational Church said. "Even though Dessert Storm is behind us, pressing needs continue on our homefront!"

The blood drive will be held from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Ketchum Hall, which is located in the basement of the McCorison building and may be entered from the parking lot at the rear of the church.

Volunteer blood donors must be at least 18 years of age — 17-year-olds may donate with a signed permission slip from a parent or guardian — weigh at least 110 pounds and be in general good health. People may make whole blood donations every 56 days, eight weeks, as long as they meet all other health requirements.

A Food and Drug Administration regulation instituted in August, 1991 now requires all donors to give their Social Security number and present a signed form of identification at the time of the blood donation. The donor's signature will be compared to the signature on the donor registration card.

The procedure for donating blood takes under one hour from the initial mini-physical to the post-donation snack. The actual donation takes about 10 minutes. As an added service, each donor will receive a complimentary cholesterol evaluation. The results of the screening will be mailed to the donor's home in three to four weeks.

According to the blood center, just one pint of blood donated may be used to save several lives. Each component of blood has a specific value and usage:

— Whole blood, not broken down, is used in surgery and for those patients who have lost a massive amount of blood.

— Red cells treat anemia due to oxygen deficiency disorders, chronic blood loss or iron deficiency.

— Platelets treat bleeding disorders, cancers and leukemia.

— Plasma and its derivatives treat severe burns, shock, hemophilia and other bleeding disorders.

Appointments to donate blood may be made by telephoning the church office at 233-2494.

Questions about specific health conditions and donor acceptability may be directed to the North Jersey Blood Center at 1-201-676-4700.

DR. DOOLITTLE...The children in Mrs. Patricia Jakubowski's class at Wilson School donated a gift of Animals to the third-grade classroom.

OLD ORIENTAL RUGS SOUGHT

TUNING UP...Mrs. Evelyn Bleeke and Robert Grube rehearse for the Sunday, April 5, "Festival of Arts" at the First Presbyterian Church of Cranford.

Festival of Arts Slated April 5 in Cranford

A "Festival of the Arts" will take place on Sunday, April 5, at 3 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of Cranford, at the corner of North Union and Springfield Avenues.

The three-part festival will include a musical presentation of the oratorio St. Paul by Felix Mendelssohn by the Chancel Choir and soloists in the sanctuary, followed by an art exhibit in the library and then a reception for all in Bates Hall.

The public may attend and there will be no charge, but those wishing to be a patron for $10 each may do so. Names will be printed in the program and special seating will be reserved.

The oratorio, by the composer of Elijah, tells the dramatic story of St. Paul beginning with the martyrdom of St. Stephen, which Paul, then Saul, condones; then the conversion of Saul on the road to Damascus, his ministry as Paul to the Jews and the Gentiles and his own martyrdom.

The role of Paul will be sung by Norman Brubaker, a baritone. Rodney Clark, a tenor, will sing the role of the narrator.

Other featured soloists will be Mrs. Ann Weeks, a soprano; Norey Luchash, a soprano, and Mrs. Gerda Czyborra, a mezzo-soprano.

Robert Grube, an organist, will accompany and Mrs. Evelyn Bleeke, of Westfield, the Minister of Music, will direct the choir.

A special dedication will be given to Fred Deacon, whose memorial funds were used to purchase the choral scores for this performance.

The art exhibit is under the direction of Mrs. Mary Nevalls, assisted by Harold Owen, and will feature many paintings, sculpture and related art objects.

There will be time for browsing before the reception of sandwiches, cookies and coffee in Bates Hall.

Art Competition Prize: To Have Works at Capitol

High Schoolers in 7th Congressional District
Urged to Vie by Representative Rinaldo

Representative Matthew J. Rinaldo, the Republican representing the 7th Congressional District in which Westfield is located, is inviting aspiring young artists living in the district to compete to have their work displayed in the United States Capitol Building in Washington, D.C. as part of this year's Artistic Discovery contest.

The annual competition in the district sponsored by Republican Rinaldo and the Congressional Arts Caucus is intended to promote art and creative talent and is open to all students in grades nine through 12.

All entries from the district will be exhibited, and the district winner and runners-up announced at a special reception hosted by Schering-Plough on Friday, May 8, to which the young artists and their families are invited. The entries will be judged by a panel of art professionals.

Each school may submit four pieces of work to the district competition. The winning artist from the district will be invited to be present for the opening of the annual Artistic Discovery exhibit in Washington along with other winning artists selected in similar contests from Congressional districts nationwide.

To be eligible, the artwork must be an original concept—not reproduced from any existing photograph, painting or other work—in the form of two-dimensional paintings, drawings, collages or prints no larger than 32-by-32 inches framed. Photography or works based on photographic prints are not eligible.

The entries must be delivered, wired and ready for hanging, to Congressman Rinaldo's district office at 1961 Morris Avenue in Union by 6 p.m. on Tuesday, April 21.

The 7th Congressional District includes Berkeley Heights, Clark, Cranford, Elizabeth, Fanwood, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside, New Providence, Plainfield, Roselle Park, Scotch Plains, Springfield, Summit, Union, Westfield and Winfield in Union County; Dunellen and Middlesex Borough in Middlesex County; Millburn and Short Hills in Essex County and Bound Brook, Bridgewater, Martinsville, Green Brook, Manville, North Plainfield, Warren and Watchung in Somerset County.

High School art faculty members, art instructors and students may obtain additional information about the contest from the 7th Congressional district Union office at 687-4235.

The Artistic Discovery contest is conducted in participating Congressional districts each year at no cost to the Federal Government.

Chip of Paint Will Show Mansion's Changing History

The story of two centuries of change in Perth Amboy, as seen in a chip of paint from the 231-year-old Proprietary House, will be told in a slide presentation and lecture at the historic mansion at 149 Kearny Avenue on Sunday, March 22, at 2 p.m.

A representative of the historic preservation firm, Acroterion of Morristown, will describe the process of paint analysis and show slides of the process at work in the Colonial building.

The demonstration is sponsored by the Proprietary House Association and is open to the public. A contribution of $3 is requested.

The association is responsible for the preservation and restoration of the building, which was the home of Governor William Franklin until his arrest by American patriots in 1776.

Before restoration of the interior could begin, it was necessary for the sake of authenticity to have the paint analyzed to assure that a new application would match the original.

Following the prescribed procedure, paint scrapings were taken at the house in November of last year. The paint was then analyzed at the Acroterion laboratory.

The house is owned by the State of New Jersey and administered by the Division of Parks and Forestry of the Department of Environmental Protection.

COOKING IT UP...Mrs. Pamela Tenzer, left, Mrs. Mary Hirsch, center, and Mrs. Sally Bialick look over the final proofs of the Wilson School cookbook, An Education in Cooking. The fund-raising effort will begin when the book is delivered on Friday, April 3.

Wilson Parents Publish Fund-raiser Cookbook

The Wilson School Parent-Teacher Association is proud to announce the publication of its cookbook, An Education in Cooking.

The cookbook holds almost 400 recipes contributed by Wilson parents, students, teachers, friends and local restaurants. The book also is illustrated by the students.

The cookbook committee spent approximately four months collecting recipes and designing the book, which will be delivered on Friday, April 3.

Mrs. Mary Hirsch chaired this fund-raising effort assisted by Mrs. Sally Bialick, proofreading; Mrs. Beverly Green, recipe organization; Mrs. Pamela Tenzer, artwork, and Mrs. Kim Taylor, publicity.

Some 30 other parents volunteered their time to develop the book.

Recipes include every part of a menu. Appetizers, casseroles, entrees and desserts are just a few of the ten divisions of the book.

Twenty-one local restaurants, including Chez Catherine, Wycoff's, Star of India, Giovanna's and Lia's placed original recipes in the book.

An Education in Cooking is a fund-raiser for Wilson School, and its proceeds will be designated for cultural events and computer/technological equipment.

Those interested in more information or purchasing the book may telephone 233-4397 or 233-0041.

Mr. Dickinson was transported to the hospital by helicopter.

In a second accident, Cynthia L. LaQuaglia of Westfield was taken to Overlook Hospital in Summit last Wednesday morning with eye injuries after her car was involved in a collision with one driven by Ilana W. Zarafu of South Orange on Mountain Avenue near Orchard Street.

No charges were filed.

ON EXHIBIT... Michael Kane, a photo-realist artist, is exhibiting drawings at the Cudahy Gallery, 170 East 75th Street, New York, through March 28. This show includes colored pencil and acrylic works that are a part of his major series of still-life genre and entitled "Still Life with Cake," "Still Life with Hot Dog," "Still Life with Wine Bottle" and "Still Life with Tea." Pictured here is "Jif Still Life," also in colored pencil and acrylic, which was completed in 1988. His drawings are also available through Reflections of Canvas Gallery of Westfield. He is a graduate of Westfield High School and has a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree from Glassboro State College in New Jersey. At present, he resides in Rahway. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Kane of Westfield.

Congregational to Sponsor Free Concert March 25

Soprano, Miss Claire Stadtmueller, and pianist, Earl Buys, will perform in a free concert at the First Congregational Church at 125 Elmer Street, Westfield, on Wednesday, March 25, at noon.

The concert is one of the Lenten Mid-Day Musicales series conceived by Music Director, Dr. Barbara Thomson, and hosted by the church.

Miss Stadtmueller has performed with choruses and orchestras throughout New Jersey in works such as Mozart's Mass in C Minor, Bach's Mass in B Minor and Passion According to St. Matthew, Brahms' Requiem and Schubert's Masses.

She has also toured Italy as a soprano soloist with Ars Musical Chorale and Orchestra.

In January Miss Stadtmueller appeared at Avery Fisher Hall in New York City with the University Men's Glee Club of New York.

She and her teacher, Mr. Buys, have been presented in recital in New Jersey and in Trinity Church's Noonday Concert Series in New York City.

In April, Miss Stadtmueller will sing the role of Rosario in Granados' Goyescas with the State Repertory Opera.

Mr. Buys recently moved his studio to New York City after several years on the West Coast, where he performed extensively the solo piano and Lied repertoire.

He has toured with many singers including Gerard Souzay and William Warfield.

Mr. Buys has been on staff at the Ravel Institute in St. Jean-de-Luz in France, the Santa Fe Opera, the Metropolitan Opera, the University of Minnesota, the Marin Opera and the San Francisco Conservatory of Music where he studied piano with Milton Salkind.

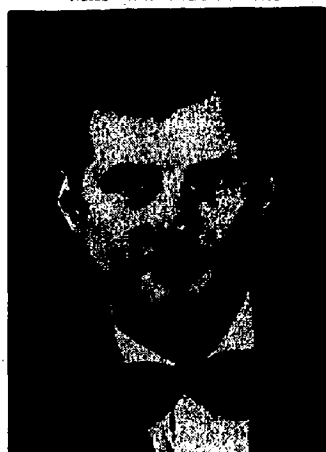

He has assisted many conductors including Kurt Herbert Adler, Edode Waart, Edwin MacArthur, Nicholas McGegan and Herbert Blomstedt.

His composition, Youth and Old Age was composed for and premiered by Gerard Souzay.

In addition, Pieces of Earth, a composition for girls' chorus and

Miss Claire Stadtmueller

Earl Buys

piano, was recorded and toured England and Wales.

First Congregational Church provides free babysitting for the Musicales. Following the concert, a soup and sandwich luncheon is available. The church is handicapped-accessible.

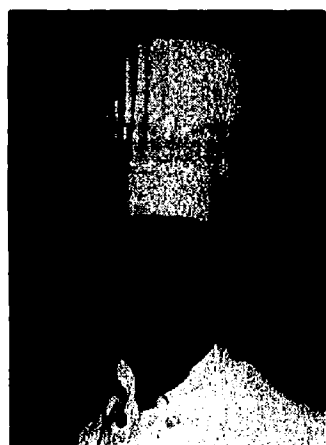

Funding for these concerts has been made possible in part by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts through a grant administered by the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs.

Taste of the Nation Will Benefit the Hungry

The Manor restaurant in West Orange will once again be the host site of the Taste of the Nation, when American Express presents Share Our Strength's annual nationwide food and wine tasting-to-raise funds and awareness for hunger relief.

Twenty-four of New Jersey's premier chefs will gather at The Manor on Monday, March 30, from 6 to 10 p.m. to prepare signature dishes at this most talked about culinary event of the year. Last year, participating chefs at the West Orange fundraiser brought in $35,000, all of which was donated to agencies fighting hunger in local communities as well as state-wide and nation-wide. Nationally, Share Our Strength hopes to raise $2.5 million at tastings in 100 areas across the country being held during the week of March 29 - April 5.

The March 30 event at The Manor is sponsored locally by Martell Cognac. Contributions from local sponsors, in-kind donors and national event sponsor American Express enable Share Our Strength to distribute 100 percent of the funds raised to groups fighting hunger. The Extra Helping Program of the Community Food Bank of New Jersey is one of the recipients of the funds raised that evening.

A CHIEF CHEF... Eric Tevrow, Chef and Proprietor of Sinclair's of Westfield, is one of 24 New Jersey chefs providing a signature dish for the 5th Annual Taste of the Nation on March 30th.

Mrs. Catherine Alexandrou, the Chef and Proprietor of Chez Catherine, and Eric Tevrow, the Chef and Proprietor of Sinclair's, both of Westfield, are participating in the event.

Symphony to Memorialize Jack Bober in Concert

Jack Bober, a member of the Westfield Symphony Orchestra Board of Directors for a number of years, will be memorialized during the next Westfield Symphony Orchestra concert.

Mr. Bober died in December.

Funded by Mr. and Mrs. William Priest, the concert will begin with Ravel's Pavane pour une Infante defunte, particularly appropriate for the occasion.

The concert will be on Saturday, March 28, at 8 p.m. in the Westfield High School Auditorium at the corner of Rahway Avenue and Dorian Road.

In light of Mr. Bober's complete enjoyment of life, it is also appropriate the program will include Richard Strauss' humorous and highly enjoyable Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme Suite.

The suite is the result of a planned opera by Strauss based on the play, Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme, written by the French playwright Moliere in 1670.

The opera did not materialize, but Strauss composed incidental music for a staging of the play in 1916, which became the basis of a suite, first performed in 1920.

Moliere was Louis XIV's favorite playwright. He was successful in writing witty plays that exposed the foibles and foolishness of the nobility. The plot of Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme deals with a Monsieur Jourdain, a low-born would-be gentleman, his new millions, and his attempts to ape his social superiors. The play's movements will be interspersed with brief scenes from the play presented by professional actors.

Also on the program will be the New Jersey premiere of Composer-In-Residence Samuel Zyman's Piano Concerto.

Mr. Zyman is a member of the faculty at The Juilliard School.

The symphony orchestra commissioned and premiered Mr. Zyman's Guitar Concerto in 1989 and presented the New Jersey premiere of his cello concerto last October. The guest artist will be Mrs. Miriam Conti, the pianist to whom the work is dedicated. She also has recorded the work.

Music Director Brad Keimach will lead a pre-concert discussion of the evening's repertoire at 7 o'clock, made possible by a grant from the Frank and Lydia Bergen Foundation.

Tickets are $18.50, $16 for seniors and $10 for students, and are available in Westfield at Lancasters, Ltd., Rorden Realty, the Town Book Store, Turner World Travel, at the Cranford Book Store, at the Martine Avenue Bookstore in Panwood and at Camelot Books in Summit.

For further information and for reservations, please call the symphony office at 232-9400.

Swimmers Easily Top St. Joseph's for Title

By DARRIN HERTZELL
Specialty Writer for The Westfield Leader

Best times weren't good enough. Motivation wasn't enough. In some cases, best lifetime swims weren't fast enough. Yes, the St. Joseph's of Monticelli Swim Team while frantically searching its bag of tricks could not pull out their 13th state championship.

And its not their times were not the best they had swum all year—their entire life, in fact.

But this year's Westfield High School Swim Team, possibly the best Westfield team ever, was just too dominating.

Westfield took nine out of 11 events while crushing St. Joe's 111-59 on Thursday.

The meet began with the fastest medley relay ever swum in Westfield history. Darren Hertell, Dave Schwartz, Tom Mann and Sean Schaefer combined to swim a one-minute and 37.8-second time, over two seconds under the 27-year-old mark that was untouched until the team smashed the record earlier in the season.

The next event was the most important motivational race of the entire year, and Westfield responded with a 1-2-3 led by senior Ed Pretre and followed by Tim Smith and Ted Pollock. Ed's time of one minute and 46.88 seconds, Tim's of one minute and 47.63 seconds and Ted's of one minute and 48.11 seconds were all season bests.

From there, Westfield took a tough loss in Hertell's 200-yard individual medley, but responded beautifully with a sweep of the 50-yard freestyle with Scott Kaslucky, Bryan Jenner and Schafer at the helm.

In the 100-yard butterfly Westfield's Mann was touched out by St. Joseph's Mark Woon who, shaved and tapered for the meet, accounted for his team's only two victories.

The 100-yard freestyle again featured senior Kaslucky, who won the event in a season best of 48.09 seconds.

In the 500-yard freestyle, Pretre, who had the meet of his life, won the event in a four minutes and 50.17 seconds junior Pete Catanzaro close behind at four minutes and 52.52 seconds.

Westfield's domination in the relays usually proves to be a strong point, and the 200-yard freestyle relay last Thursday was no exception.

They took the first two places and watched the scoreboard rack up points. With victory pretty much in hand, the pressure was off Hertell in the 100-yard backstroke. Fortunately, his competitor did not swim his best time and Hertell was able to beat him, insuring his undefeated season in the event.

The 100-yard breaststroke showed Schwartz' dominance in a state in the event as he won easily in 58.29 seconds. The last relay went along with the rest of the meet as Westfield won by over five seconds.

As team members gazed upon the scoreboard, they tried to breathe in the results that handed St. Joseph's their first state final loss in 12 years, and couldn't. It was all just too much for one Thursday evening. Maybe it will sink in soon.

Drew Rountree Places in Tourney

Westfield freshman, Drew Rountree, placed in two events for the Millersville University Men's Track and Field Team of Millersville, Pennsylvania at the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference Indoor Track and Field Championships held recently at Smith College in Northampton, Massachusetts.

Rountree captured two first-place finishes in the shot put and the 35-pound weight throw with distances of 49 feet, 6.5 inches and 47 feet, nine inches, respectively.

He also was named the Most Outstanding Male Field Athlete for the competition.

As a team overall, Millersville finished second in the 11-team field.

SPORTS

TAKING THE TITLE... A group of Westfield lacrosse players won the championship of the Tri-State Indoor Lacrosse League on Saturday, February 29. The league plays its games near the Meadowlands in Rutherford and is comprised of teams of high school aged lacrosse players from towns in New Jersey, Rockland County, New York and New York City. Westfield won the semi-final game against Ridgewood, when Matt Dupuis fired the winning goal less than one minute into sudden-death overtime. Westfield went on to defeat the Rockland County All-Stars. The trophy is on display at Kehler's Athletic Balance sporting goods store and has been given by the team members to the Recreation Department to acknowledge the contribution that the department has made to the development of lacrosse in Westfield. Team members, shown left to right, are: Front row, Ryan Hughes, Joel Kamina, Steve Kocaj, Chris Wojcik and Paul Baly; middle row, Keith Zadourian, David Sprague, John Mask, Matt Prybylski and Mike Catenacci; back row, Coach, Tom Sprague, Matt Dupuis, Scott Brainerd, Bob Hermiston and Coach Skip Prybylski.

Devil Bowlers Record Best-ever State Finish

By JEFF HEMER

Specialty Writer for The Westfield Leader

In an extremely competitive and high-scoring tournament, the Westfield High School bowling team recorded its best ever finish in the state finals, fifth place, at Carolier Lanes in North Brunswick on Saturday.

Even though this was the team's best-ever performance in the finals, the fifth-place finish was slightly disappointing.

"We dug ourselves another hole in the first game and because the scores were so high we just couldn't get out of it," lamented Coach Mike Tirone, who has plenty of reasons to take heart.

His team and Woodbridge are the only two teams to have made the finals the last four years in a row. He coached the Blue Devils to a 17-1 record this year and to their third consecutive Watchung Conference championship.

But the state title has eluded them, having finished sixth, eighth and 12th in the three previous years.

"The way the tournament is set up it's just a horse race," senior Jeff Hemer said. "To be here you have to have a decent team and three games to decide which is the best just isn't enough. The breaks don't even out after only three games. Luck is definitely a factor here."

"Ideally, the states should be at least six games, and on different lanes each game. Some lanes in a house are easier than others, and if you draw a tough pair, you're spotting the field 50 or 60 pins right there," noted Hemer.

"But whatever the format is, you've got to adapt to it," commented Tirone. Unfortunately for Westfield, they adapted in the middle of the second game, not the second frame.

Their 871 opener only put them in eighth place out of the elite 14-team field.

Lakewood paced the field after one game with a 983. Woodbridge, bowling at their home house, an extreme advantage at this level, nonchalantly tossed a fourth-place 933.

In the second game something bit most of the teams, as 11 teams shot over 900 and four tossed a 1,000.

Fortunately for Westfield, they were one of the four. Their 1,017 second-game explosion moved them up to fifth place.

All of a sudden they were back in the race. Ahead of them were Woodbridge, who blasted 1,056, Lakewood, 941 in the second game; Clifton, 920, and, surprisingly enough, Cranford, 1,062. To finish in the top three, the Blue Devils figured they would need another 1,000.

It looked like it could happen. With Woodbridge and Lakewood running away and Cranford sputtering disastrously, the door was open.

But Westfield tripped on the threshold. On the third-place game in the sixth, several bowlers missed several key spares in the ensuing frames, and the strike production was again not there in the 10th.

A potentially great game was knocked down to a 917, good enough to hold onto fifth place, but nothing more.

Woodbridge won their first boys' state title with a 3,031 total. Lakewood was second at 2,972, followed by the big shocker, Cranford, 2,838; then South Plainfield, 2,835; Westfield, 2,805; Hudson Catholic, 2,799, and Sparta, 2,791.

Linden's sectional triumph this year is still their only post-season success story in the past four years, as the Tigers were lapped by the rest of the field. Linden quietly crawled to a 13th place finish at 2,669.

"It would have been nice to win a state title," Hemer said, "but, in retrospect, we had four great years where we were in every match we played. We kept getting better every year, and there's no reason it won't continue. I'm very proud of this team and how it's grown in the past four years."

In the individual event, which is held simultaneously, Hemer finished eighth in the 42-man field with a 597 series. Mike Pass was right behind him in ninth with a 574 tally.

Bob Slesman paced the team with a 607, but did not qualify in last week's sectionals. Mike Mullin of Don Bosco Prep won with a 648.

The team now faces the challenge of maintaining the consistency they have achieved over the last four years, now they are losing Hemer and Slesman.

"They can do it," Hemer said. "When they trust themselves and their abilities, they are great. Westfield will be a great bowling team next year."

The high school season is over, but the bowling season never ends.

Hemer, Slesman, Greg Rhodes and Matt Jackson all compete on the Junior Bowlers Tour, which is a year-round organization offering the toughest junior competition in the east.

The tour will help keep Rhodes and Pass sharp, as they will become the key players for Westfield next September when Clark Lanes will again hear the voice of Mike Tirone commandingly stating: "Down the lane! Make your spares! Bagels for everyone!"

Jordan Ends Career With Third in State Tilt

By JEREMY BARBIN
Specialty Writer for The Westfield Leader

And then there was one. Paul Jordan, the 160-pound phenomenon, began a quest to Atlantic City this past weekend and ended a fantastic season.

Paul started this quest against Andrew Gayle in the Super Regionals. Gayle, from Patterson, proved to be no match for the dominant Jordan, and was handed a 15-0 technical fall.

Because of the new "luck-of-the-draw" system employed this year, Jordan would have to face new rival, Justin LaSala of Arthur L. Johnson Regional of Clark.

The two had split their past matches with each winning one. Jordan had beaten him in the regional finals 6-3, while losing to LaSala in the district finals 4-3. It was time for the rubber match.

However, this match would be the most important of the three. The setting was Atlantic City's Convention Hall, the prize a chance to wrestle Middletown South's master, Glenn Pretzloff, in the state semifinals.

Prior to the match the Westfield senior was, "Very happy with the draw. I felt very confident going into the match against LaSala."

Whether it was confidence or a third-time charm, Jordan proved he belonged in the semi-finals. Ahead 4-0, he found the opportunity to hold LaSala down and then step over for the pin.

About his victory, Jordan stated, "I was very happy to settle the score with LaSala, and I was very much looking forward to wrestling Pretzloff."

The Middletown South sophomore was too strong for the competition. Coming off a fourth-place finish as a freshman, Pretzloff was determined to win it all this year.

Unfortunately, Jordan was standing in his way. Jordan fell to the eventual champion 11-2.

After his tough loss, Jordan had a chance to redeem himself and view for a spot in the consolation round. To do this, Jordan had to face Tim Hakeem of Randolph.

When Randolph crushed Westfield in the sectionals, Hakeem defeated Jordan 10-7. There was no love lost between the two — Hakeem gave Jordan a concussion in their first meeting.

Down 7-3 early, Jordan was able to make a few escapes in the third period and come away with a 10-9 victory.

This victory propelled Jordan into the third-place match against Pat Wilde of Somerville. Despite being tied 4-4 in the third period Jordan felt in control. He was able to control his opponent onto his back and record a pin.

With this victory, the Westfielder received third place in one of the toughest weight classes in the state. When it was over, the Westfield Co-Captain said, "It was a relief to get third. I worked all season toward the states, and I was able to get on a roll and come out victorious."

Jordan ended his illustrious season with a 32-4 record. He ended his magnificent career at Westfield with 90 wins.

Many of his teammates found Jordan to be a motivating leader as well as an excellent teacher. He was one man ingredient in the success of the wrestling team this year.

While reflecting on his last season at Westfield Jordan stated, "It was a great way to end a career. We had a great time this year, and to be able to end the season like this, well it's just great."

An era of Westfield wrestling has come to an end. Previous to Paul was his brother Chris, another standout at Westfield.

Now, with Paul the last wrestler in the Jordan family, graduating their wonderful individual chapters as well as their family chapter, have come to a close. But what an ending.

Bulls Top Knicks To Capture Crown

The Chicago Bulls defeated the New York Knicks 28-22 to win the Westfield Basketball Association's sixth-grade championship.

Robbie McCullam, the high scorer in the game for the Bulls, was supported in the scoring by Coley Lechner, Daniel Todd, Dan Ottosen, Jason Corcoran and Chris Owens.

The strong defensive play and rebounding of Jeff Kivetz, Larry Sasso and John DeLouie contained the normally high-scoring Knicks in a true team victory.

The Bulls ended the regular season with a winning record and won their playoff games against the two teams with the best regular-season records among the six teams in the sixth-grade league — the Trailblazers and the Knicks. The Bulls were coached by Bob Todd and assisted by Rob McCullam and Dave Owens.

Mrs. Smith Elected Aging Home Unit Delegate

Mrs. Ruth B. Smith, the Administrator and Manager of the Westfield Senior Citizens Housing complex, has been elected to the House of Delegates of the American Association of Homes for the Aging.

Mrs. Ruth B. Smith

Members of the New Jersey Association of Non-Profit Homes for the Aging elected Mrs. Smith to the national post on January 28. She has been elected to serve through 1995.

Mrs. Smith has managed the town's senior citizens' housing facility since August 1990.

Prior to that she served the state of New Jersey in the Department of Community Affairs, Division on Housing as a Program Manager, assisting municipalities in formulating projects to meet their Mount Laurel obligations. Mrs. Smith was the Executive Director of the Westfield Neighborhood Improvement Association from 1979 through 1986, utilizing Community Development Block Grant funds to rehabilitate housing, improve public facilities and increase social services to Westfield neighborhoods.

During her tenure as the Executive Director, she represented Westfield on the Union County Community Development Revenue Sharing Committee and as the Chairman of the committee's Subcommittee on Housing and chaired the Housing Committee of the Cranford League of Women Voters for seven years.

She recently participated in the production of a video on affordable housing in New Jersey through the state League of Women Voters Housing Committee.

Mrs. Smith was one of the founding members of the Cranford Senior Citizens Housing Corporation and served as an executive board member from 1970 through 1976.

The 150-member House of Delegates Mrs. Smith joins selects the members of the association's Board of Directors and its officers. Delegates also assist the board in clarifying association policy, long-range planning and governance of the association.

The association is a national non-profit organization representing 3,800 not-for-profit nursing homes, retirement communities, senior housing facilities and community-service organizations serving the elderly throughout the United States. It is headquartered in Washington, D.C. with regional offices in Albany, New York, Chicago and Denver.

The New Jersey group represents 124 members of not-for-profit nursing homes, residential health care facilities, continuing-care retirement communities, independent housing developments and county facilities. Mrs. Smith serves on their Board of Trustees and chairs the State Housing Committee.

Republican Confab Features Six-Way Freeholder Race

A six-way contest for three Freeholder nominations will be fought out Saturday, April 4, at the Union County Republican Convention to be held at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield.

Candidates include: Mayor Robert Vigilanti of Mountaintop, Paul O'Keefe, a former Freeholder from Plainfield; Henry Kurz, a former Councilman for Roselle Park; Harry Pappas, a township Committee member from Springfield; Mrs. Linda DiGiovanni of Union and Vic Trzesniowski of Westfield.

Mrs. DiGiovanni is the Credit Manager of a national construction company, and Mr. Trzesniowski heads his own management recruiting firm.

Running unopposed for the House of Representatives is Union County's long-time Republican Representative, Matthew J. Rinaldo, who is expected to be renominated by acclamation.

Nominees also are to be selected for the county's two constitutional offices, those of Sheriff and Surrogate.

Co-Chairman for the Convention, Miss Elizabeth Cox, the Summit Municipal Chairman, and William Ruocco, the Springfield Municipal Chairman, announced there will be a Presidential preference poll taken at the convention.

Auditorium doors will open at 8:45 a.m. for delegate registration. Over 700 delegates from 21 Union County municipalities are expected to attend.

Those wishing additional information may phone Republican County Headquarters at 241-9877.

Adoption Open House Set For Sunday, March 22

People for Animals, a not-for-profit animal welfare organization serving Essex, Middlesex and Union Counties, in association with other animal welfare groups, is sponsoring a pet adoption open house on Sunday, March 22, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at Barbie's Pet Salon at 540 Springfield Avenue, Berkeley Heights. The salon has donated the use of its facility for the event.

Numerous cats and dogs will be available. People for Animals encourages families to consider fostering a pet as well as adoption. Fostering allows a family time to decide if an animal is "right" for them, a spokesman for the group said.

"This is important in households where there are existing pets and young children to consider. The cat or dog benefits greatly by the love and care it receives in the foster home rather than being housed in a kennel awaiting adoption. Your help is needed as a foster family to save a life," he said.

All animals are fully inoculated, veterinarian checked and, in most cases, spayed or neutered. Please call 353-6374 or 241-4954 for information about adoption and fostering.

Trailside Holding Birdhouse Contest

Trailside Nature & Science Center at Coles Avenue and New Providence Road, Mountainside is sponsoring the Build a Better Birdhouse Contest.

Participants from first graders through adults can design and construct a birdhouse and enter to win prizes from Trailside's Natural History Gift Shop.

Categories include: Most Original Design, Best Use of Recyclable Materials, and a Good Housekeeping Award for the birdhouse easiest to clean out.

Age groups are: First through fourth grades, fifth through eighth grades and high school age and over.

All entries received on or before Thursday, March 26, will be displayed at Trailside's Visitor Center.

An awards ceremony will be held at Wildlife Sunday on April 5 at 3 p.m.

To obtain a brochure containing rules and bird house specifications, please telephone Trailside at 789-3670.

DEPENDENT ON LOVE...Nicholas is a sweet nine-month-old playful kitten with a soft silver grey coat. He would make a great pet for any family and is neutered, has shots and is healthy.

Stephen Benisch Backs Recognition for Teachers

"Westfield has been fortunate to be the home of many excellent teachers. A number of them have been the honored recipients of New Jersey's Teacher Recognition Award," Board of Education candidate, Stephen B. Benisch, said this week.

"During the last three years, it has become a spring tradition for Westfield's parents to nominate their candidates for the teacher award. However, many parents will be disappointed to learn Governor James J. Florio has cut this expenditure from the budget. New Jersey no longer offers the teacher award," Mr. Benisch added.

"As a community, Westfield should not allow this tradition to end. We have several local educational and service organizations, which should be approached to fill the vacuum left by the state," he said.

"Our teachers are professionals, whose excellence should be recognized," the candidate noted.

Kreskin to Return To Arts Center

The Amazing Kreskin will return to the Union County Arts Center in Rahway on Friday, April 10, for a return engagement by popular demand. Tickets are $7.50 and $10 and may be reserved by telephoning the arts center box office at 499-8226.

In his April 10 appearance at the arts center, Kreskin will, as usual, offer to waive his fee if he fails to find the check in payment thereof, which has been carefully hidden. In last year's appearance, he found it.

The arts center is a 1,300-seat former vaudeville-movie palace situated at the intersection of Main and Irving Streets and Central Avenue in the heart of Rahway's historic restoration district. There is ample parking in the immediate vicinity.

This spring the Westfield Recreation Commission will offer a new "Introduction to Ballet" program through the Westfield School of Dance.

The program will be offered to all Westfield girls aged 5 to 7 on Mondays and Wednesdays from March 30 to June 10 at the Westfield School of Dance.

The 5-year-olds will meet from 3 to 3:30 p.m. each day with the 6- and 7-year-olds following each day from 3:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Under the instruction of Mrs. Jenny Logus, the Director of the Westfield School of Dance, the girls will learn the basic uses of the barre as well as beginner dance steps.

Mrs. Logus has years of experience including being the past Director of the world-renowned Broadway Dance Center and is a nationally-recognized children's choreographer.

The cost of the program is $25 for the 10-week session. Enrollment is limited to 20 students per class and the deadline for registration is Friday, March 27.

Participants will provide pink ballet shoes, pink tights and leotards of any color.

FOR COMMUNITY SERVICE... Commending 71 years of service to the community, Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr., center, is shown with some members who have served as Regent of the Westfield Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Since its founding in March of 1920, the chapter has promoted its objectives of historic preservation, education and patriotic endeavor through a myriad of activities including: Assisting with the establishment of the Miller-Cory museum; donating and maintaining historic markers; sponsoring essay and sewing contests as well as awarding students' achievements in American History, the Reserve Officers Training Corps and citizenship in schools in Westfield, among many others. Shown with Mayor Boothe are, from left, Mrs. Jane Stoner, Mrs. Jo Graf, Mrs. Joan Smith and Mrs. Jean Towl.

Mr. Soffer Endorses Motivation at All Levels

"As a candidate for the Westfield School Board, and as a research biologist, administrator and educator, I hope to instill in students a desire to do the best they can. We must prepare the next generation to inherit our society. I feel this can best be done through innovation and a solid core curriculum in our schools. We must further develop our program in music, the liberal arts and especially mathematics, science and technology," Board of Education candidate, Lawrence Soffer, said this week.

"I am interested in seeing more hands-on studies and experiments for children at the lower levels. Children need to be moving and exploring their world," he added.

"Except for the contractual budgetary increases, I believe there should be greater control of the costs. Through the years it has not been clear the increased costs have paralleled the academic achievements of our students. In addition to our concerns for the high achievers, I believe it is essential to energize and motivate the students on the middle and especially the low levels. This can be achieved with new, innovative programs when appropriate. The core curriculum needs to be reviewed and improvements made with greater frequency," Mr. Soffer said.

"With your vote of confidence, and with your comments, suggestion and criticisms, I hope to be able to help set policy with the other members of the school board," he noted.

be opened only as a pedestrian walkway, is supported by the state historic preservation agency which has to make a ruling before any work on the 1907 structure can proceed, Town Engineer Edward A. Gottko said.

This approach was favored only by Fourth Ward Councilman James Hely at the conference session.

The council, at the conference meeting, also discussed several proposals made at last Thursday's Transportation, Parking and Traffic Committee meeting.

Chief among these was to construct a parking deck in the central business district.

The proposal first studied by the committee was for a $2,136,550 deck for 375 cars on the site of the current municipal parking lot near the A & P store on Prospect Street first put forth in 1989 by Westfield's Vincentsen Associates.

Mayor Boothe also urged the committee to review plans proposed in 1988 by T & M Associates for a two-and-a-half level deck and a two-level deck on the same site at projected costs of $3,400,000 and 421 spaces and $2,700,000 and 348 spaces, respectively.

State School Report Commended by Dr. Smith

The score for all three was 96.1 per cent.

State averages, respectively, were: 97.5 per cent, 87.2 per cent, 92.3 per cent and 82.1 per cent.

Scholastic Aptitude Test results for the class of 1991 also were well above state averages, the report card noted.

Westfield students averaged 532 in mathematics versus the state average of 469 and verbal scores were 468 for Westfielders and 417 the state average.

Westfield's average rate of increase in per-pupil spending was 9.8 per cent, while regionally the average was 7.7 per cent and it was 8.1 per cent statewide.

The tax rate for Westfield is 19 per cent. His strongest criticism of the report card was the timing of the rating implied the state was trying to influence voters.

"It should be released in the fall. It seems to suggest an interest in influencing those (school) elections," he said.

School board member, Mrs. Melba S. Nixon, said she thought the report card was markedly better than last year's.

"This is highly readable. It's almost as if somebody whispered in their ear," she said.

Smith reported.

'Taste of Westfield' Attracts More Than 600

More than 600 Westfielders showed their support for the new Education Fund of Westfield by taking part in "A Taste of Westfield," the fund's introductory event, on Saturday.

"It is truly gratifying to see the enthusiastic way Westfield has endorsed our new Education Fund," William S. Jeremiah, 2nd, the President of the fund, said. "I'm impressed with the number of Westfielders who came to this event, with the many others who couldn't attend but made generous donations and with the 100-plus teachers and staff members who participated."

The participants either hosted or attended one of 58 dinner parties given in homes around town, which were followed by dessert and coffee provided by Westfield's leading restaurants and food businesses at the Westfield High School cafeteria.

Door prizes were awarded and music and entertainment was provided by Robert Rietzke and Boy Scout Troop No. 79's Jazz Band and Mrs. Jeannette Maraffi, a Westfield Public Schools music teacher.

"We are extremely pleased with the support of citizens and parents from all over Westfield and teachers and staff from all schools and the many businesses who contributed to the success of this kick-off fund-raiser—truly a community event for the benefit of our children," said Mrs. Carol Phelan, the Chairman of the fund's Special Projects and Fund-raising committee.

The following local merchants and individuals made significant donations to the festivities: Bovella's Italian Pastry Shop, the Cheese Shop, Christoffer's Flowers, the Classic Basket, Clyne and Murphy, Ferraro's Restaurant, The Flower Basket, Mrs. Ginny Pope, Homeward Bound, J and M Market, Recipes, Saraceno's Bakery, Service America, Sinclair's Restaurant, Steuermagel's Nursery, Vance Florists, Williams Nursery and Wyckoff's Restaurant.

Hosts and hostesses who volunteered their homes provided the dinner as their donation for the evening, and received free admittance tickets for the desserts and entertainment at the high school.

Each dinner guest purchased a ticket at the dinner house for the host for a minimum donation of $15.

The volunteer host and/or hostess decided the type of dinner to be served, anything from Domino's pizza to Chateaubriand, and the names and number of guests to be invited.

Lancaster Ltd. supported the event by selling tickets to the dessert and entertainment portion of the evening to those guests who did not attend a dinner party.

The Education Fund, headed by Mr. Jeremiah, was begun last year as a non-profit, philanthropic, community-based organization.

The purpose of the Fund is to keep Westfield's young people well-equipped and productive in an increasingly competitive, complex and changing world by providing a catalyst for the generation and allocation of resources to enhance the programs of the Westfield Public Schools, he said.

The 15-member Board of Trustees, 12 of whom must be Westfield residents and not less than eight of whom must be parents, when they are elected, of Westfield Public School students, was appointed in August 1991.

In addition to Mr. Jeremiah, they are Roger Love, Vice President; A. Donald Pray, Treasurer; Mrs. Nancy Liggers, Secretary; Mrs. Ellen Albertson, Lawrence Goldman, William Jacobs, Edward Kassakian, Robert H. Mulreany, William D. Peck, Mrs. Susan H. Pepper, Mrs. Phelan, Mrs. Michele Picou, David Tyre and Mrs. Danielle Walsh.

Those who could not attend the March 14 event but would like to support the fund by making a tax-deductible donation can do so by sending a check to the Education Fund of Westfield, P. O. Box 2221, Westfield, 07091-2221.

'Y' to Phase Out Rooms For Boarders in June

In June the Westfield "Y" will become the last of the state's suburban Young Men's Christian Associations to phase out its low-cost rooms for men, according to published reports.

"We tried to set our course for what our role will be in Westfield over the next 10 years," explained Stanley Kasluskusky, the Executive Director of the Westfield "Y."

Acknowledging no program goal was met through the boarding rooms and the need for exercise and day care space was growing, the "Y's" Board of Directors decided last summer to phase out its 24 rooms, he said.

When the phase-out is complete, the only remaining Young Men's Christian Associations in the state to offer boarding rooms will be in Plainfield, Elizabeth, Bayonne, Greater Bergen (Hackensack), Hoboken, Jersey City, Montclair, Newark, Passaic, Patterson, Perth Amboy and Asbury Park.

"It is the ending of an era," said Philip Duschne, a former resident who now lives in The Hills condominium complex in Bedminster. Adding he feels melancholy about the change, Mr. Duschne said, "The 'Y' as it stands now is outgrowing itself. I think they did the only thing they could do."

The Westfield "Y," which had 36 rooms when it began in 1928, decreased that number to 24 after some physical renovations in 1988.

The remaining small, college dormitory-sized rooms are along one narrow hallway on the third floor.

The men use a common bathroom and have no kitchen facilities. Rent is $75 a week.

"The Young Men's Christian Association built a residence because at that time, 1928, it was not socially acceptable for young men to be living alone," Mr. Kasluskusky explained.

"By the 1990s, many of the residents were long-term boarders who did not fit those original characteristics," he added.

"We decided that to go into the future the right way, we would have needed cooking and shower facilities. It was really a substantial housing situation to go into the future with," he added.

Additionally, he said, the Westfield "Y" has almost 500 children in its burgeoning day care program.

"As our work has focused more on the family, we have needed more program space," he noted.

After the last residents leave in June, the third floor will be renovated into a 4,500-square-foot cardiovascular and fitness area.

Fitness areas now on the first and second floors will be used for child care, Mr. Kasluskusky added.

"The reaction I've heard from the boarders is change is disturbing, but they appreciate the 'Y' being sensitive and giving them enough time," Mr. Kasluskusky said.

The "Y" stopped taking tenants last June, notified the existing boarders of the phase-out in October and hired a consultant to help the residents find new housing by the deadline.

Although no one boarding at the "Y" is on welfare, most have strict financial limitations that will determine what housing they can afford.

In addition, some have developmental and emotional problems.

Mr. Duschne, who found his apartment on his own, is delighted with the change.

"I'm happy as a clam at high tide," he said, sitting in apartment space that is at least five times the size of his previous room. "This is something I should have done a while ago," said Mr. Duschne, a former executive recruiter and New Providence resident who moved to the "Y" after he got divorced 10 years ago.

Although Mr. Duschne said the move may be more difficult for the 11 residents still at the "Y" than it was for him—he had the help of a daughter and son-in-law who live nearby—he added once the change occurs, it should be best for everyone involved.

"It's going to have a positive effect overall on the 'Y,'" he added.

And, for those who still want to find a "Y" with boarding rooms, they have to go no farther than Plainfield.

Although located only two towns away from Westfield, the Plainfield Area Young Men's Christian Association has focused on boarding space as a priority of its community.

It has 62 single rooms and an emergency homeless shelter for men, women and children that averages 45 people a night, said Ray E. Day, the President and Chief Executive Officer of the Plainfield group.

CERTIFIED... Mrs. Ella Shaykevich, the Nursing Care Coordinator at the Meridian Nursing Center in Westfield, has received certification in gerontology from the American Nurses Association. A resident of Westfield, she is a graduate of the Clara Maass School of Nursing and has been on staff at the Meridian Nursing Center for more than five years. Mrs. Shaykevich is married and has two daughters, Marina and Pearl, students at Westfield High School and Jefferson School respectively.

County to Honor Vietnam Veterans

Union County again will participate in the New Jersey Vietnam Veterans' Remembrance Day on Thursday, May 7, to honor those who served in the Vietnam conflict.

This is the second year the remembrance day will be held to gain awareness of the sacrifices made by Vietnam veterans and to raise funds for construction of a New Jersey Vietnam Veteran's Memorial at the Garden State Arts Center in Holmdel.

The ceremony will begin statewide at 11:15 a.m., with the tolling of church bells and the sound of police and fire department sirens for one minute.

At 11:16 a.m. The Star Spangled Banner will be played and all radio stations in the state also are being asked to play it. A prayer will follow, then remarks by veterans and others.

All Union County employees that served during the conflict may attend, as well as the public. The Union County Sheriff's Office Honor Guard and the Union County Flag Guardian Committee also will be present.

New Congressional Map Due by This Weekend

Frank J. Charral, respectively, now add up to only three and a quarter districts, according to the Republicans.

Representative Payne's district cannot be eliminated. He is the state's only black representative and the lawmakers have to take special care, under the federal Voting Rights Act, to protect the integrity of a black majority district.

According to sources very highly placed in the state Democratic Party, one of the plans under serious consideration by that party, however, would remove Union's Vauxhall section, which is predominantly black, from the Seventh Congressional District through which the entire township is represented by Republican Matthew J. Rinaldo, and place it into Representative Payne's district.

It is not believed the rest of Union, or the rest of Representative Rinaldo's district, which currently includes Westfield as well as several other municipalities in Union County as well as parts of Somerset, Middlesex and Essex County, would change significantly.

Three districts represented by Republicans, the Fourth of Representative Smith, the 12th of Representative Richard A. Zimmer and the 13th of Representative H. James Saxton, now are oversized in population.

Among the rumors about the redistricting negotiations, there also is one Democrats may try to save Representative Tomcilli's seat in exchange for a promise from the Ninth District Democrat not to run against Governor James J. Florio in next year's Democratic Primary Election.

Alan Rosenthal, the Director of the Eagleton Institute of Politics on the Douglass College campus of Rutgers University in New Brunswick, is the Chairman and independent 13th member of the commission.

Mr. Rosenthal eventually could break a partisan tie among the members.

If a compromise cannot be reached with Mr. Rosenthal's intervention, two competing maps would be presented to the New Jersey Supreme Court.

The deadline for the group to complete its work is Saturday, and the filing deadline for the Primary for the House of Representatives Primary and General Elections is Thursday, April 9.

Workshop Will Deal With Esteem

A workshop for parents on "Building Your Child's Self Esteem" will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. on Thursday, March 26 in the Edison Intermediate School cafeteria.

Miss Bette DeFiorio, the Basic Skills Coordinator for the Westfield Public Schools, will conduct the workshop for parents of students in kindergarten through fifth grade.

Workshop topics will include: Acceptance, expectations, communication, correcting inappropriate behavior, responsibility, cooperation and turning failure into success.

Parents interested in registering for the workshop may telephone Miss DeFiorio at 789-4597.

The deadline for registration is Tuesday, March 24.

following raw use numbers in recommending the unit be closed. The number of patients in the unit fell markedly during winter, a fact becomes lost in calculations based on averages, he said, and the children in the populous greater Rahway area could face grave danger if the unit is closed.

"Closing Rahway's unit would thrust children with life-threatening illness and young accident victims into the precarious situation of treatment at a distant center. Compounding the stress of getting the child to an alternative facility would be the inconvenience of visitation and the change the child's regular physician might not be available," he noted.

Somerville's Somerset Medical Center recently rebuffed a similar challenge from the state to close its pediatric facility.

DRIVE TOWARD FUTURE... Westfield high school students, in partnership with the New Morris Chevrolet of Westfield and GEO, are preparing to launch the "Driving for Education" program the week of March 30 to April 4. Chevrolet dealers throughout the country are providing Apple computers, Magnavox audio/visual equipment and Compton's Encyclopedias to schools in their community. Participants test drive a vehicle at Morris Chevrolet and complete a "Proof of Drive" certificate which is credited toward the total credits needed to earn the education awards. Program participants, shown, left to right, are: Julia Kelly, a senior, Stephanie Grosso, a junior, Pamela Gross, a sophomore, and James Wilson, a freshman.

Five-Miler Scheduled April 25 in Tamaques

The Westfield Recreation Commission will host its Second Annual Five-Miler and One-Mile Fun Run on Saturday, April 25, at Tamaques Park.

Proceeds from the event will begin with the One-Mile Fun Run at 9 a.m. followed by the Five-Miler at 9:30 a.m.

Registration will be accepted through Friday, April 17. The entry fee is $8 for the Five-Miler and $4 for the Fun Run.

Registration fees at race time will be $10 and $5, respectively. T-shirts will be issued to the first 200 registrants.

The race will feature a fast and flat certified course with mile splits and water stations. Limited parking and rest room facilities will be available. Runners should come dressed to run.

For a race application or information, please telephone the Westfield Recreation Commission at 789-4080.

Trophies will be awarded in the following categories: First, second and third place male and female finishers of the Fun Run, overall male and female winners of the Five-Miler; and first, second and third-place finishers in each age group of the Five-Miler.

Melissa Wells Helps Smith Win

Melissa Wells, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wells of Westfield and a graduate of Westfield High School, recently completed her second season as a member of the Smith College Swimming and Diving Team of Northampton, Massachusetts.

Wells swam sprint freestyle events for the Pioneers and won the 50-meter freestyle four times, as well as the 100-meter and 200-meter freestyle and 50-meter butterfly events one time.

She also was a member of two relay teams that were named to the Seven Sisters All-Tournament Team.

The Smith College Pioneers completed their season with a 6-4 dual meet record. In February, they won the Seven Sisters Swimming and Diving Championship.

They placed eighth in New England regional competition and sent five swimmers to the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division No. 3 nationals.

Burketts Help Bowdoin Rack Up Swim Crowns

Anne Burkett of Westfield, a freshman at Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine, anchored the 200-yard medley relay team that won first place at the Women's New England Division No. 3 swimming and diving championships held February 28 to March 1 at Bowdoin.

Twenty-eight teams competed. Anne split at 24.21 seconds for the come-from-behind victory over the team from archival Williams College of Williamstown, Massachusetts.

The winning time was one minute and 50.67 seconds.

Anne also swam on the 400-yard freestyle relay that won first with a time of three minutes and 39.16 seconds.

She swam on the 800-yard freestyle relay team that was second with a time of seven minutes and 58.55 seconds and anchored the 200-yard freestyle relay team that was second with a time of one minute, 40.98 seconds. Hersplit was 24.50 seconds.

She placed fourth in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 25.36 seconds. Her time of 54.73 seconds earned fourth in the 100-yard freestyle, and her time of one minute and 58.31 seconds earned her first place in the consolation heat.

The Bowdoin women ended the season with only one defeat, to Williams, and in third place at the New England tournament, behind Williams and Tufts University.

Westfielder Austin Burkett, a sophomore at Bowdoin, broke two college records competing in the Men's Division No. 3 New England swimming and diving championships meet March 6 to 8 at Wesleyan University in Middletown, Connecticut.

His records came in the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 54.09 seconds, fifth place, and in the 200-yard backstroke with a time of one minute and 58.1 seconds, seventh place.

He was fourth in the 50-yard backstroke at 25.31 seconds and third in the 100-yard individual medley at 54.81 seconds.

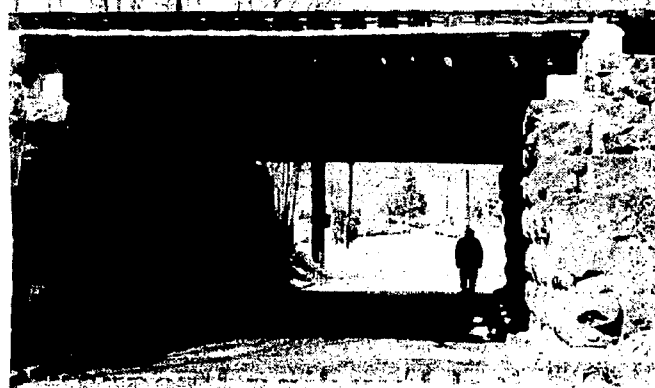

He swam the backstroke on the 200-yard medley relay team that placed fourth in one minute and 37.28 seconds.

He swam backstroke on the 400-yard medley relay team that placed sixth in three minutes and 35.62 seconds and swam on the 800-yard freestyle relay team that placed fifth in seven minutes and 6.35 seconds.

Austin is a member of Chi Psi fraternity at Bowdoin.

Anne was recently initiated into Alpha Kappa Sigma fraternity.

They both swam for the Westfield "Y" Devil Fish and Westfield High School.

Knicks Take Measure Of Bulls 18 to 15

The Knicks ended their season with an exciting come from behind victory over the determined but hard luck Bulls in the Westfield In-Town Fourth-Grade League on March 7.

Led by high scoring Ralph Rapano with 6 points, wily veteran Derek Lortzard, with four points, and speedy rookie Travis Russo, also with four points, the Knicks overcame a 10-4 third quarter deficit with 18 straight points.

The majority of the Knicks success for the game and the year was their tenacious defense which averaged 13 takeaways per game was led by Eric Zimuk, Lortzard, Rapano, Russo, Chris Chella, Jonathan Atkins and Steven Black. Rounding out the Knicks scoring were rookies Chella and another patented punch by "Wildman" Brian Gallagher. These Knicks continued to display their team play with sharp passing, highlighted by a Howard Monroe-Gray beauty on an inbound pass to Chella, and rebounding led by Daniel Matthews with seven boards, Monroe-Gray with six and Mike Miro, Jason Dreyer and Nicky Clark.

In the end it was Knicks, 18; Bulls, 15.

Health Day, April 4, Will Offer Blood Tests

The Garwood Board of Health will conduct a Health Day on Saturday, April 4, from 9 to 11 a.m. at the Garwood First Aid Building on Walnut Street.

The event will offer extensive blood screening performed by National Health Labs.

Robert M. Sherr, Director of Health, said anyone taking the blood test must fast for eight to 12 hours before, with the exception of water.

Registration for the blood test is mandatory and will be conducted by the Westfield Health Department, 425 East Broad Street, Westfield, from Monday to Friday, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., beginning on March 23. The registration deadline is 4 p.m. on Thursday, April 2, however, registration is limited and may be discontinued if program capacity is reached prior to scheduled deadline.

The blood test costs $15, which may be paid in cash or check at the time of registration.

The Health Day will offer blood pressure, nutrition and breast self-examination programs. Also, ColoScreen test kits will be available to test for occult blood in the gastrointestinal tract. Test packets and dietary restrictions will be distributed.

The Health Day is open to residents of Garwood, Fanwood, Westfield and Mountainside exclusively.

Advice is the thing most blessed to give than to receive.

Deadlines Help Leader Serve You

Those preparing press releases for submission to The Westfield Leader are reminded all copy should be in the hands of the Editor at 50 Elm Street, Westfield, by 4 p.m., on the Friday before the Thursday on which they wish it to appear.

For events which happen the weekend prior to publication, press releases should reach the Editor by Monday of the week of publication at 10 a.m.

Obituaries will be taken until Tuesday at 5 p.m.

For events which are planned weeks or months in advance, we encourage submission of stories as early as possible prior to the event.

The above deadlines are meant to enable us to prepare your copy carefully.

DOING THEIR PART...Doncaster, a designer clothing company based in Westfield which holds private showings and fashions shows, will donate a portion of their proceeds this year to benefit the American Cancer Society. Showing their support, left to right, are: Mrs. Camilla Quinn-Kuhn, Mrs. Kris Luka, Mrs. Brenda Curtis, the Executive Director of the American Cancer Society; Mrs. Nancy Cox, Mrs. Judy Thompson and Mrs. Susan Daly.

Wardlaw Students Win Award

Two Wardlaw-Hatridge High School students from Westfield were awarded prizes in the 13th Annual New Jersey High School Student Art Show recently held by the duCret School of the Arts in Plainfield.

They are Matthew McCall, third-prize winner in the Ink and Watercolor Category, and Gregory Sturcke, second-prize winner in the Print Category.

One of the few major exhibitions for New Jersey high school students, the duCret School of the Arts provides high school juniors and seniors with the opportunity to display their work and have it judged in a state-wide competition. This year 209 pieces were accepted into the show representing 27 different high schools in New Jersey. Thirty-four prizes and fourteen honorable mentions were awarded in 10 categories.

The duCret School of the Arts, founded in 1926, is the oldest private art school in New Jersey. It is accredited by the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools.

Mr. Mulvee: Candidates Should Back Progress

Editor's Note: The following is a news release from Robert D. Mulvee, a candidate for the Westfield Board of Education.

In selecting candidates for the Westfield Board of Education, community members should consider even a single school board member will have a direct effect upon a student's education.

The only question is whether that effect will be positive or negative, there is no place for a fence sitter because the game here is to advance the ball. By this I mean the board member will either establish policy that enhances the level of educational achievement, or he or she will not.

The downside comes in two possible forms. First, policy could be developed that results in reduced student achievement. Of course, that result is unlikely to occur in a town like Westfield.

Second, adhering to status-quo policies is itself a step backward because the future workplace will require achievement levels several notches up from today's.

For example, one candidate has publicly characterized the planned introduction of a new mathematics curriculum as "avant garde."

Such a position ignores not only mainstream educational thinking, but the widespread consensus that serves as the foundation for the current national educational goal to substantially improve our students' performance in mathematics and science.

In my opinion, "doing things the old way" may serve as a persuasive message to some voters whose children are out of the system.

As a candidate, and parent of children just beginning in the system, however, it is a message I hope the majority of voters summarily reject.

Thus, the test for voters is to correctly identify those three candidates most capable to advance the educational ball — always mindful of fiscal reality.

Advancing that ball will require individuals with problem-solving and analytical skills who share a commitment to achieve continued educational excellence and to do so more efficiently.

These individuals also must recognize that progress often is accomplished only through change.

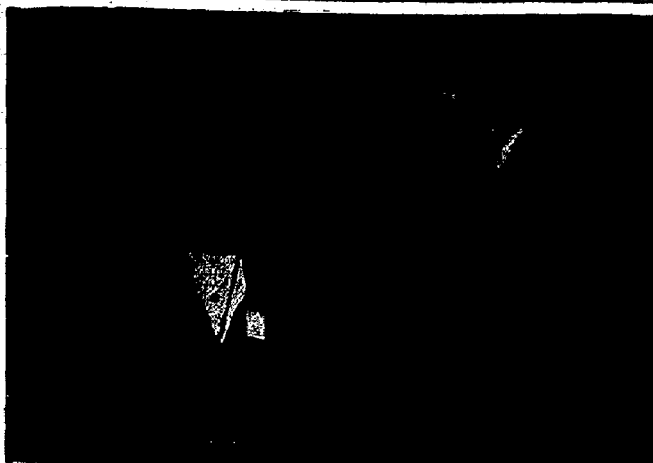

Jefferson Students In Arts Assembly

Jefferson School students recently participated in a Storybuilders Creative Arts Assembly sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association and Creative Currents, Inc.

Following the assembly, all students participated in story-writing workshops. Students' stories will be produced on stage at a second assembly in the spring.

FIRST HAND LOOK... Assemblyman Richard H. Bagger, right, of Westfield took a first-hand look at the community's pediatric facility at Rahway Hospital last Thursday. In a cost-containment move, the state Department of Health has slated the unit for closing. This comes as the state moves to a more regionalized approach to health care. City officials, physicians and community groups are expressing to Governor James J. Florio and state legislators their opposition to the closing. With Assemblyman Bagger are Dr. Uma Viswanathan, left, the Chairman of the hospital's Department of Pediatrics, and Mrs. Deborah Carney, the Nurse Manager.

Mrs. DeMarco to Chair Support Center Campaign

Mrs. Annemarie Bridgeman DeMarco, a Westfield resident, has been selected to co-chair the 1992 Public Relations and Marketing Campaign for the Support Center of DeMarco was named Young Career Woman by the Westfield Business and Professional Women. Recently, she was nominated to Who's Who in American Women.

Mrs. DeMarco has extensive philanthropic experience both, in and outside, of the workplace. In the fall of 1991, she served as an AT&T Campaign Captain for the United Way and improved participation by 12 per cent. Also in 1991, she developed a course for indigent unwed mothers, entitled "First Step Career Development Workshop," and presents this curriculum bi-annually.

Additionally, she serves as an alumni recruiter for her alma mater, Cornell. Mrs. DeMarco's relationship with the Support Center began when she created and delivered a seminar "Assessing and Improving Nonprofit Performance" in May of 1991.

The goal of the public relations and marketing campaign is to heighten awareness of the Support Center's valuable work. The center will be sponsoring numerous seminars throughout the spring, 1992 season. Mrs. DeMarco will again be conducting her seminar along with others scheduled in April, May, June and July. On May 15, the Support Center will present Non-Profit Day — a bi-annual symposium where current issues impacting philanthropic management will be explored.

For more information about the Support Center, please call 643-5774.

MAYOR SALUTES CLUB... Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. signs a resolution proclaiming the 75th Anniversary of the College Woman's Club. The purpose of the club is "to serve the general interests of this community and to further the higher education of women." To this end, the club annually awards scholarships and freshman grants. Attending the signing are Miss Marge Merrill, Publicity Chairman; Mrs. Pasquale (June) Orto, Vice President; Mrs. Maas (Ann) Mine, President; Mrs. John (Jo) Jacobson, Assistant Chairman; and Mrs. Garland C. (Galle) Boothe, Jr., Chairman of the 75th Anniversary Tea which was held on Sunday afternoon, March 15, at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in town.

Mayor Installs 24-Hour 'Hotline'

A telephone answering system is now installed on the direct line into Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe Jr.'s office.

There is no answering machine — this is a New Jersey Bell service and it is in service 24 hours a day and the Mayor can access it from wherever he is. He is the only person who can access the messages.

The telephone number is 789-4046. The system goes on after four rings.

Mrs. Delaney, Mr. Young Team Up for Burgdorff

A new concept in real estate sales is emerging to give buyers and sellers almost 24-hour access to their agent's services. This approach is "teaming."

Mrs. Camie Delaney and Gregory Young, top agents with Burgdorff Realtors' Westfield office, have formed a partnership.

Their idea of teaming developed a year ago when Mrs. Delaney won the annual office sales award and Mr. Young the annual office listing award.

The result, as they see it, has been better communication and service for both clients and customers, as well as a clear increase in productivity.

According to Mrs. Jean Massard, the Westfield Office Manager, "The team approach is a novel and exciting opportunity to combine talent and knowledge. It gives the very best to our customers in this changing and fast-moving 1992 real estate market."

Mrs. Delaney, of Mountainside, has been a member of the state's Million Dollar Sales Club since 1987 and Burgdorff's President's Club, requiring $3 million of business in a year. She is a Past President of the Mountainside Board of Education.

Mr. Young, a resident of Union County for almost 30 years, has been a member of the state's Million Dollar Club since 1986 and of Burgdorff's President's Club.

A Graduate Realtor Institute and Certified Real Estate Specialist designee, he served two terms as President of the New Jersey Chapter of Certified Real Estate Specialists, was a Director for the New Jersey Association of Realtors, and was named the 1989 Realtor Associate of the Year by the Westfield Board of Realtors.

Guy Nelson Earns Design Degree

Guy Jeffrey Nelson, a 1987 graduate of Westfield High School, has recently graduated from the Rhode Island School of Design with a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree. He majored in graphic design and also studied industrial design and completed liberal arts credits at Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island.

During his education he held full-time professional internships at Spy Magazine in New York City and at the Oracle Software Company in Redwood City, California.

While attending the design school, he served on the Student Board representing both the Industrial Design and Graphic Design Departments. He also worked as a Teaching Assistant for the school's Graduate and Academic Computing Center.

Mr. Nelson designed the school's 1991-1992 Student Handbook and the Academic Calendar and was the Art Director of Brown University's Issues, a student monthly literary magazine for a year and a half.

He designed a wine label for the Oakville Ranch in Napa, California and a poster commemorating a 1988 Carnegie Hall concert featuring Dave Brubeck.

He is presently working in Boston for Allen and Chin Design as a freelance designer and computer consultant. He is planning to tour Europe for three months beginning in mid-April.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin C. Nelson of Westfield.

Union County Home Show Back in Westfield Again

With spring on the way, there is no better time to think about home improvement projects than now. And coming just in time to meet every home remodeler's need is the Union County Home Remodeling and Better Living Show.

More than 100 companies in 150 booths will be participating in the show when it comes to the National Guard Armory in Westfield on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 27, 28 and 29.

Sponsored by All Seasons Promotions, Inc. of West Springfield, Massachusetts, with 40 years in the home show business and in cooperation with the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce, the show will contain everything for the person looking to repair, decorate or remodel their home.

With exhibits ranging from remodelers to home improvements, interior decorating, energy saving and new home building, the show will provide attendees with everything they need for their home remodeling projects brought together under one roof.

As a special bonus, anyone who attends the home remodeling show or obtains a discount ticket will be eligible to win the major prize of a trip for two on a major airline with hotel accommodations or one of three mini-vacations.

The dates and hours for the show are Friday, March 27, from 5 to 9:30 p.m.; Saturday, March 28, from noon to 9:30 p.m. and Sunday, March 29, from noon to 6 p.m.

Senior citizens will be admitted free on Friday, March 27, from 5 to 9:30 p.m.

For further information, please call 1-800-237-6024.

Town Native's Artworks On Exhibit During April

"Laying it On," an exhibit featuring paintings, drawings and sculptural art by Barbara Ann Slitkin of Westfield, will be held at the Tompkins Square Gallery at 331 East 10th Street, New York City, from Wednesday, April 1, to Wednesday, April 29.

The opening will be April 1 from 4 to 7 p.m. The gallery's schedule is Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 3 to 5 p.m. and by appointment by telephoning 1-212-529-4869.

Ten per cent of all proceeds from sales of art works shown at Tompkins Square Gallery will be equally donated to the Tompkins Square branch of the New York Public Library and to Greenpeace International. (This contribution is tax deductible.)

In 1986, the artist moved from Westfield to the Tompkins Square community, and went to work for a short period for Greenpeace.

Living in the East Village and being part of the community affected her art. She recycled objects to imbue a special quality to the surface of her paintings.

Her work pays homage to the mosaics on St. Mark's Place.

She is a juried member of the National Society of Mural Painters. Her work was featured on NBC-TV News, in local museum shows and collections.

Other gallery exhibitions in which the artist's work also will be shown in April are: Femme Vitale, Whitehall Gallery, 250 West 100th Street, New York City; "Men by Women," Ganymede 220 West Houston Street, New York City, and International Exposition, Marble & Granite Gallery, 14th Street, New York City.

Simpsons Firm Joins Home Warranty Program

Simpsons Home Improvements of Westfield has qualified for the Home Owners Warrantee Remodeler Program, according to Samuel Herzog, President of the Home Owners Warrantee Corporation of New Jersey.

Simpsons Home Improvements is now one of the select few remodelers in New Jersey to be accepted into the nation's first warranty and insurance program for remodeled homes.

The firm specializes in residential remodeling projects, although light commercial remodeling work has also been performed, says Todd Annis, President. Mr. Annis founded his company in 1987, on the concept of "taking a person's dream and turning it into reality by providing quality workmanship and quality-oriented customer service."

His firm has projects throughout Somerset, Morris, Union, Hunterdon and northern Middlesex Counties. Although Mr. Annis' firm has performed all sorts of remodeling work, from replacing windows to building major additions, most of his projects involve adding master bedroom suites, great rooms and renovating and enlarging kitchens.

As Mr. Annis puts it, "We bring older homes in sync with today's lifestyles."

Mr. Annis is a member of the Builders Association of Somerset and Morris, the Remodelers Council and the New Jersey Builders Association. He also serves on the Home Owners Warrantee Corporation of New Jersey's Remodeler Advisory Committee and Underwriting Committee.

"Service is the most important aspect of our work," he said. "Not only do we use only quality materials and exceed industry standards in everything we do, so the job gets done right the first time, we are also committed to servicing our customers well after the remodeling work is completed."

Mr. Annis said the Remodeler Program is good for consumers as well as the industry. "Even before remodeling work commences, homeowners can take the comfort in knowing that Remodelers have been carefully screened as to their technical ability, financial condition and history of customer service by a national warranty/insurance company. The members subscribe to a set of nationally-recognized performance standards, offer a specifically-written two-year warranty and agree to participate in third-party dispute resolution should a problem or disagreement develop after the remodel job is completed," he said.

As a member of the program, Simpsons warrants each of its jobs for one year against workmanship and materials defects and for two years against defects in major systems — wiring, plumbing, heating, cooling and mechanical systems — as well as major structural defects on the remodeled portions of the home, as defined in the performance standards document.

Simpsons Home Improvement of Westfield can be reached by calling 232-6380.

Westfield Office of Coldwell, Banker Schlott Named No. 1 Among Firm's 2,000 Offices

Chandler Barton, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Coldwell Banker of Mission Viejo, California has announced the Westfield office of Coldwell Banker Schlott, Realtors has been recognized as the firm's most successful office in North America.

Mr. Barton made the announcement at the company's International Business Conference held recently in Las Vegas.

"We couldn't be more proud of our Westfield office," said Richard L. Schlott, President of Coldwell Banker Schlott, Realtors, a major Coldwell Banker operating division headquartered in Wayne. "We have always assumed that Westfield was one of the most successful real estate offices in the nation, but until we joined with Coldwell Banker, a national company, we had no point of comparison to judge just exactly how immense their success was. Now that we're part of an organization that stretches all across the North American continent, Westfield can receive the acclaim it justly deserves — that of a world class real estate office."

Westfield Manager, Mrs. Marilyn Kelly, in accepting the honor, praised her office staff and sales associates. "This is a personal tribute to each one of them," she said. "To be recognized as number one in just one year under Coldwell Banker management is a tremendous achievement." Mrs. Kelly also advised that 15 Westfield sales associates were present at the International Business Conference when the honor was announced. "Having 15 of our sales agents there was not only a great thrill for me, it was another record. No other office in the United States, Hawaii or Canada had that many agents qualify to attend the conference based on their 1991 performance," she added.

Coldwell Banker Schlott's Westfield office opened in 1984 with five sales associates and Mrs. Kelly as its Manager. Since that time, it has shown unparalleled growth since the very first day. In its first year it was the most successful of all Schlott Realtors' new offices. In its second year, it was named most improved office and in 1986, its third year of operation, the office was ranked number one among 120 Schlott offices, a position it held until Schlott was acquired by Coldwell Banker in early 1991.

The Westfield office, located at 264 East Broad Street, has been the number one office in Coldwell Banker Schlott for the past six years, as well as number one on the Westfield Board of Realtors.

Board Candidate Supports Careful Budget Scrutiny

School board candidate, Catherine J. Marchant, recently responded to the question of how the district can maintain or improve the quality of education in the light of fiscal restraints imposed by the state.

She said, "We must carefully consider how we spend each dollar. Every item in the budget and every program proposed must be scrutinized for effect and efficiency."

The candidate continued, "We must continually ask the question, does this expenditure or program add value to the education of our children? If the answer is no, then we must eliminate it. If the answer is yes, then we should analyze the expenditure to see if the same value can be added less expensively."

She also suggested the administration elicit ideas from support staff and faculty on ways to reduce waste and ineffectual spending.

"We must use the resources of parents and community members through volunteer programs and joint school-community ventures. When contracts are negotiated, creative ways must be found to eliminate non-value-adding costs while retaining adequate compensation for faculty and staff," the candidate added.

Board Candidates Night To Be Shown on Cable

The March 23 "Meet the School Board Candidates' Night" at Roosevelt Intermediate School will be videotaped for broadcast on the Westfield Public School's Channel 36 on Suburban Cablevision.

The candidates' night, scheduled to begin at 7:45 p.m., will be sponsored by the Westfield Parent-Teacher Council.

Two other "Meet the Candidates' Nights" will be held: One, sponsored by the Concerned African-American Parents, on Thursday, March 26, at 7:30 p.m. and the other, sponsored by the Westfield Area League of Women Voters, at 7:45 p.m. on Tuesday, March 31, at Edison Intermediate School.

The eight candidates for three seats on the Westfield Board of Education in the Tuesday, April 7, annual school election have been invited to participate in all three candidates' nights.

They are, in ballot order: Robert D. Mulvey, William J. Sweeney, Catherine J. Marchant, Mrs. Eileen Satkin, Michael W. Fox, Mrs. Danielle M. Walsh, Stephen B. Benisch and Lawrence Soffer.

Taping of the March 23 event will be done by three high school television studio staff members and by students in television courses at the high school.

The uncut videotape of the event will be shown 18 times between Wednesday, April 1, and Monday, April 6, on the Westfield Public Schools' Channel 36.

Broadcast times and dates follows: Noon and 4 and 8 p.m., Wednesday through Friday, April 1 to 3, at 2, 6 and 10 p.m. Saturday through Monday, April 4 to 6.

Suburban School Districts Form New Organization

Editor's Note: This article was prepared for publication by the Public Information Office of the Westfield Public Schools.

A representative group of suburban school districts agreed to form a new association joining school boards and superintendents "concerned primarily with the interrelated issues of quality and equity in academic achievement and school finance" at a meeting on March 9 in Woodbridge, as announced in last week's issue of The Westfield Leader.

Calling the decision "a positive one for the education of all children in New Jersey," Mrs. Susan H. Pepper, President of the Westfield Board of Education, co-chaired the meeting with Dr. Harry Galinsky, Superintendent of the Paramus Public Schools.

"Excellence is as important as equity in furthering high achievement for all students in New Jersey," said Mrs. Pepper. "As we wrestle with issues of education policy and funding, excellence must not be sacrificed for equity." She noted the needs that brought the districts together in the past have not gone away. "In fact, those needs show evidence of intensifying," she continued.

"The state continues to wrestle with funding formulas. Recommendations of the Quality Education Commission are under discussion. The movement toward national standards and national assessment presents new challenges," she said.

Dr. Galinsky said that Monday's meeting was initiated by school districts which have been meeting regularly in the last 18 months. In October of 1990, when 25 school districts endorsed a position paper on the Quality Education Act and in January of this year, when 30 superintendents wrote to the newly-elected members of the State Assembly and State Senate restating their commitment to help urban districts without destroying quality school programs. That letter, according to Dr. Galinsky, also urged state action to encourage cooperation between urban and suburban school districts.

Dr. Galinsky said the new association will "continue to lobby to produce a funding law which will result in equity, excellence and fairness for all school children in New Jersey."

Dr. Ralph Lieber, Superintendent of the South Orange-Maplewood Public Schools, was Superintendent of the Edison Public Schools when a new association called the Association of Metropolitan School Districts in Minnesota was formed. He outlined that association's structure, strategies and successes.

The new New Jersey association will be modeled after the Minnesota one. He said the Minnesota association "did not undercut or replace the broader umbrella organizations in that state. In many ways," he continued, "it proved to be a positive addition which complemented existing groups."

The new association will commit resources to help officials in Trenton "hear our views, our concerns and our ideas more clearly," Dr. Lieber stated.

New Jersey has separate associations for superintendents, The New Jersey Association of School Administrators, and for school boards, The New Jersey School Boards Association. The new association brings together superintendents and school boards in one association.

"We need to find new ways to solve problems," said Robert Winter, Superintendent of Schools in Wayne Township and President of the New Jersey Association of School Administrators. "I am pleased to be here as President of the administrators and as a suburban school superintendent. We want to find a permanent solution to the funding problem."

Mr. Winter said, "The school boards and superintendents were considering the formation of a coalition of school districts with similar concerns and common positions on legislation as a logical way to build support and exert pressure for legislative change. Robert E. Boose, Executive Director of the New Jersey School Boards Association, stated in a letter: "...It is probable that our joint efforts for the advocacy of public education, equitable funding and broader understanding of the impact of legislative action on today's schools will indeed be enhanced by your coalition."

The association will work cooperatively with all school districts in New Jersey to further unified efforts on behalf of all children in the Garden State," said Steven Smith, President of the School District of the Chatham Board of Education.

Dr. Timothy Brennan, Superintendent of Schools in Holmdel, noted that Governor James J. Florio's Quality Education Act was passed quickly in June of 1990 without input from school districts across the state.

"The new association will move slowly and deliberately, taking into consideration recommendations of superintendents and school boards to improve the achievement of all students in our schools," he said. "We will make our recommendations known to elected and appointed officials in Trenton. Our goal is to preserve quality education. To that end, we will represent all children in the state, whether they attend school in the suburbs, in rural communities or in our cities," he added.

"The next decade in education will be affected by decisions made at the state capital," said Westfield Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Mark C. Smith. "We need to speak in a more unified way to have the influence we need. We need to help the state do a better job of providing equitable education for all school children."

An Ad Hoc Committee is being formed to invite a broader range of school districts to join the association and to develop its structure. The Ad Hoc plans to meet on March 19.

Sheriff Froehlich to Seek Sixth Term This Fall

Union County Sheriff Ralph Froehlich is running for re-election to his sixth term in office. In June, Sheriff Froehlich will begin his 35th year as a law enforcement officer in Union County.

Mr. Froehlich joined the Elizabeth Police Department in 1958 and was assigned to the Patrol Division until 1962. He then volunteered for duty with the Tactical Squad until his promotion to Sergeant in 1965.

In 1967 he competed for and received a national scholarship to Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois. Following graduation, he returned to command the Tactical Squad. It was during this assignment that Mr. Froehlich and six officers effected one of the largest arrests made by the Elizabeth Police Department. They arrested 87 members of a motorcycle gang and confiscated their firearms and narcotics.

From 1968 to 1972, Mr. Froehlich was assigned to Planning and Training Units. He was awarded a Law Enforcement Assistance Program Scholarship and a New Jersey Police Training Scholarship that allowed him to continue his education. He attended Kean College evenings and graduated with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Political Science in 1974 and was inducted into the National Political Honor Society.

Mr. Froehlich was then assigned a special task in the city's low-income, high-crime area. He commanded the Department's Community Relations Unit and specialized in developing crime prevention programs with juveniles and minority groups. In 1974 he was promoted to Lieutenant.

While an Officer with the Elizabeth Police Department, he received numerous commendations including the New Jersey Valor Award for rescuing four children from a fire in which three persons perished, the Policeman of the Year Award and the Elizabeth Police Department Merit Award for apprehending an armed robber who held the customers of a drugstore hostage.

After his election as Sheriff, he received additional recognition for his efforts in the corrections area from numerous groups and officials. In 1980 he was elected President of the National Jail Managers Association, President of the New Jersey Sheriff's Association in 1984 and 1985, and was appointed to the Board of the National Coalition for Jail Reform. In 1979 and in 1982 he received the Distinguished Service Award from this organization.

Under Sheriff Froehlich's direction, the Sheriff's Department developed a program to fingerprint school children to assist law enforcement agencies in locating missing children. This program and the book "Play It Safe," designed to educate our adults and children, has been used as a model throughout the United States.

He has continually looked for methods to increase revenues, educate children and implement programs to assist our law enforcement officers. In 1991, the Business Office increased its revenue to the county by $200,000.

The officers and dogs in the Search and Rescue Unit have been instrumental in the apprehension and conviction of murderers, arsonists and burglars and the confiscation of over $700,000 in contaminated monies. A portion of this money is returned to the Sheriff's Office for use in crime prevention programs.

In 1991, the Sheriff was selected to be part of a team of law enforcement professionals that visited China to study their criminal justice system and share our knowledge with their governmental agencies.

The Union County Courthouse Security Plan has been a model for Sheriffs throughout New Jersey. It has been so well recognized that the Sheriff was presented a National Award for its design and implementation.

Sheriff Froehlich also received national recognition for the Law Enforcement Intern Program and his efforts in the area of fugitive apprehension and programs to protect our children.

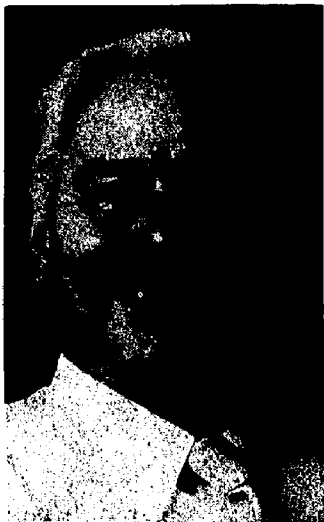

Sheriff Froehlich said he is confident that, with the cooperation of his staff, the efforts to constantly improve the operation of this office will be successful.

Roosevelt School Open Benefits All: Mrs. Satkin

"The Board of Education sets policies which have a direct impact on the lives of our children. Recent board decisions concerning redistricting and instructional grouping illustrate the broad sweeping effect of many board policies," Mrs. Eileen Satkin, a candidate seeking a seat on the Westfield Board of Education, said.

"The recent attention given to the potential closing of Roosevelt Intermediate School illustrates the impact board decision have on the student population. The closing of Roosevelt would be a mistake for the entire town," she said.

"Early adolescence is a difficult stage of development which is better educated in small, more manageable groups. Fortunately, the present budget provides for capital improvements to Roosevelt and therefore reflects this important commitment by the board to maintaining two intermediate schools," she added.

"Especially during times of fiscal restraint, we must remember the primary responsibility of the Board of Education is to one 'special interest group' Westfield's children. The purpose of the board is to set the policies that guarantee quality education for each student in Westfield," she stressed.

TOP MUSICIANS...Andrew Pierpan and Amy Molnar were selected as the Wilson School Musicians of the Month for March. A fourth grader, Andrew, is in his first year playing the saxophone. Amy, a fifth-grade violinist, has been playing for three years. Selections were made by instrumental instructors John Josa and Dr. Theodore K. Schlosberg.
