EDUCATION ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT HAPPY COVERAGE WON'T CHANGE

School Board Approves New Health Insurer Which Will Save Town District $379,000

New Fine Arts Curriculum for the Seventh Graders Also Receives Final Authorization by a 6-2 Vote; Report by Columbia University Consultants Team on Facilities Usage Proposals Delayed Until September

By JAMES A. BRIDGE, 3rd
Specialty Writer for The Westfield Leader

A change in school district insurers will yield the Westfield School System a savings of $379,000 next year on employee health insurance.

The Board of Education approved the switch from Blue Cross-Blue Shield of New Jersey to Shikar Associates of Morristown with an 8-0 vote Tuesday night at the board's Elm Street offices.

Shikar Associates will offer the district a CIGNA, Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, insurance product, and has guaranteed Westfield a two-year contract.

All five of Westfield's employee groups approved the change in insurers, which, according to Michael Seiler, Westfield Education Association President, does not in any way change or modify the coverage the district currently enjoys.

Mr. Seiler said after the meeting his constituency had little trouble making the decision to approve the switch.

"Nothing has changed at all, except the carrier, and it means a $400,000 savings to the district. The switch is an example of everybody using their heads," he said.

Dr. William J. Foley, the Board Secretary, said the maximum liability for claims under the policy will be $3.5 million, and Shikar has committed to a two-year guaranteed contract, with an annual increase not to exceed 15 per cent.

"What it means, is, I could look down at the line item (for insurance) next year, and what we pay could be less," he said.

The Secretary said the board Finance Committee unanimously approved the switch.

Dr. Mark C. Smith, the Superintendent of Schools, said the savings obtained from the new insurer was significant, but continued focus on employee health benefits was needed for even more savings.

Insurance rates for school districts state-wide have been among the taxpayers' fastest-growing costs, he noted.

"There continue to be a long-range need for attention to health benefits. We will still need to pay attention to that in future negotiations," Dr. Smith said.

In other business, a Pennsylvania-based food service that carved $50,000 from school district food service costs this year, and plans to Mexicanize the High School food service in the upcoming school year, was awarded a contract for 1992-1993.

The school board voted 8-0 to retain Service America Corporation of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania for a bid of $78,815.

Bids were solicited from three other providers — ARA Food Services, Marriott, and JC — but none of them responded.

Dr. Foley said all three were contacted and asked why they had eschewed the bid process.

"For lack of a better term, they just didn't think it would be profitable enough," he said.

Dr. Foley credited Service America service representative, Douglas Brown, with the $50,000 food service cost reduction.

Service America is planning on a further $12,000 savings with its bid for 1992-1993.

"As a result of his efforts, there was a very significant turnaround," he said.

Mr. Brown said allegiance to an age-old maxim was behind the rejuvenation.

"In a nutshell, we took a retail mentality to a school food service, and that is the customer is always right," he said.

Among Mr. Brown's innovations to the school service were a contract with Pizza Hut and an outdoor hot dog stand.

Westfield students consumed 17,600 slices of pizza since Thanksgiving of 1991, he said. The hot dog stands averages a daily gross business of $150.

Mr. Brown said his efforts to strike a deal with Taco Bell fell through, but said he plans to convert the high HERITAGE AWARD...Ambassador Abba Eban is presented the Yerusha Award by Westfield Leader columnist, Herbert Ross, the President of the Foundation for Jewish Arts and Heritage, at Temple Emanuel on Sunday. Please see another picture on Page 20.

Ambassador Eban Endorses Search For Peace by 'Persuasion' and Strength

Distinguished Statesman Says United States Support Is Crucial in Maintaining Stability in the Region; Several Awards Are Presented by Organizations

By MICHAEL PETRIANO, 3rd
Specialty Writer for The Westfield Leader

An evening mixed with the air of both humor and seriousness was presented to a full audience on Sunday at Temple Emanuel by Ambassador Abba Eban of Israel.

The Ambassador was presented first with the B'nai B'rith Community Service Award and then with the Temple Emanuel-El Men's Club Judaic Heritage Award.

The third award, presented by the President of the Foundation for Jewish Arts and Heritage and Westfield Leader columnist, Herbert Ross, was the Yerusha Award.

After an introduction by Rabbi Charles A. Kroloff, the Ambassador presented the keynote address for the evening.

The Ambassador, in his opening words, said that, "It does me no harm at all to hear my qualities described with objective restraint."

He then discussed the State of Israel at great length, and early in his address, noted the United States was the first nation to recognize Israel when it became a state in 1948.

Ambassador Eban called Israel "a great and noble invention."

Discussing the recent Gulf War, the Ambassador spoke of the "anguish" presented by the conflict, and said Israel was exposed to aggression "far beyond the reach of its power," but noted his country is a safer place "than ever before."

However, the Ambassador warned if the peace process fails, the situation will be worse than before.

He said the status quo is the worst of all options, and spoke of "persuasion" and not "coercion."

In terms of the recent developments in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union, the Ambassador stressed the central problem is the structure of states, with diverse people living under one flag.

Turning back to Israel, and on a lighter note, the Ambassador said "early on I decided not to be a prophet in Israel — for one thing, there's too much competition."

The Ambassador concluded his address on a serious note. He said, referring to allies and supporters of the state of Israel, "Do not abandon us in the middle of the road — stand with us."

A graduate of Cambridge University in England, Mr. Eban gained international recognition when he became Israel's first Ambassador to the United Nations in 1948 and was a key leader in his country's successful fight for entry into the world body.

He served as Israel's United Nations' Ambassador for 11 years, and for nine years, from 1950 to 1959, held the Ambassador's post to the United States.

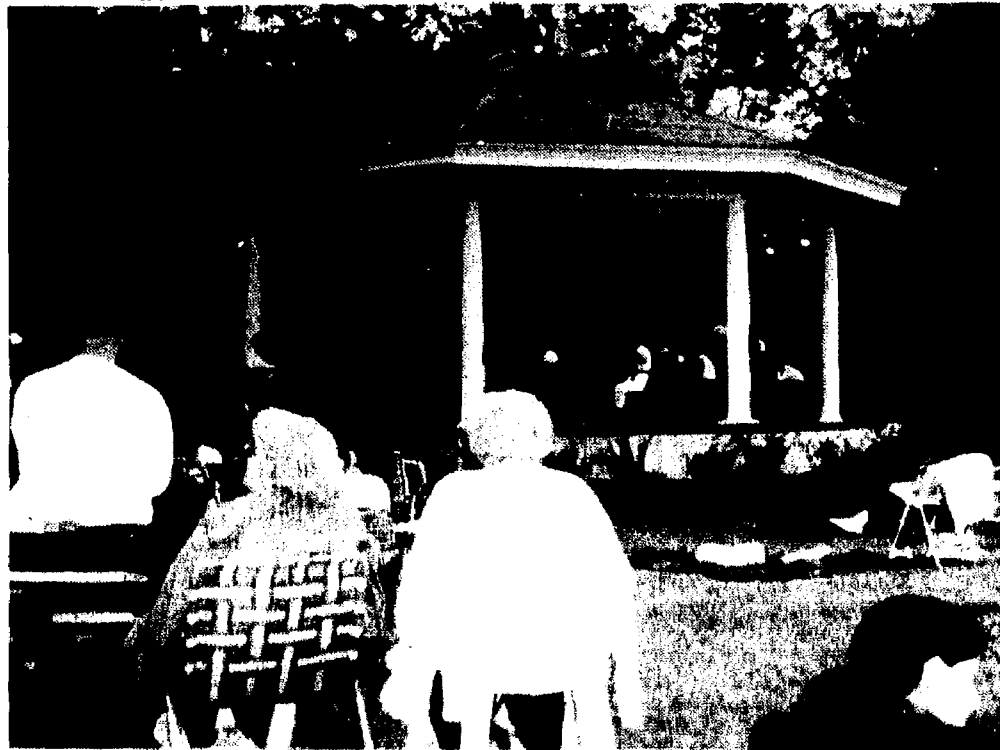

In that capacity, Mr. Eban negotiated foreign aid for his homeland and other basic agreements with the United States.

After resigning from both posts in 1959, he returned to Israel and was elected to the Knesset. He later served as a minister in the Labor cabinets of Ben Gurion, Levi Eshkol and Golda Meir.

While in Israel, the Ambassador turned to a life of teaching and writing and later served as the President of the Weizmann Institute of Science, a visiting professor at Columbia University in New York City and a member of the Center for Advanced Studies at Princeton.

Zoning Board Denies A & M Auto Variance

Parking Facilities at Site Dominate Discussion About the Proposed Automobile Painting Booth

By MICHAEL J. PETRIANO, 3rd
Specialty Writer for The Westfield Leader

A & M Auto Center of 413 South Elmer Street, which has appeared twice before the Westfield Board of Adjustment, was denied a variance to build a spray booth and to use a building for automobile body repair at Monday's meeting of the board.

Other applications also were considered by the board.

Antonio Mormile of A & M Auto Center, was represented by attorney, William Butler, who explained the application and plans for A & M auto had been revised.

However, Arthur C. Fried, a board member, said the case had been heard and denied before. Mr. Fried quoted from town laws which stated, "under the doctrine of res judicata, if the same parties or their privies do seek the same relief in the same factual setting, the case may be dismissed on the ground it already has been decided."

Both Board Attorney, Robert Cockren, and applicant Mr. Butler agreed because there was a "sufficient" change in the application, the case could be heard again.

Mr. Butler stressed the size of the proposed addition would be 450 square feet, or one third less than the original plan.

In terms of the spray booth, Mr. Butler said it would be placed inside the main building, and later presented expert witness, Joseph Jardin, who is involved in the sale of spray booths and equipment, who said the booth was "fully tested" and approved by the Westfield Fire Marshall. He also said Mr. Mormile likely would operate the booth for five years a week.

James J. Kefalonitis, the board's Vice Chairman, questioned the applicants about the problem of noise, to which both Mr. Butler and Mr. Mormile responded the noise would not be great, and the sound of the passing trains, behind the site would be much greater.

Town Council May Decide to Hire Second Senior Complex Consultant

Receipt of $20,000 Federal Grant in September May Fund Second Opinion

By ROBERT R. FASZCZEWSKI
Specialty Writer for The Westfield Leader

Because a $20,000 federal grant has become available to Westfield, the Town Council may vote next fall to hire a second consultant to help it develop plans for a second senior citizen housing complex in the town.

The inclusion of the grant to Westfield in the Union County Community Development Block Grant plan was announced at Tuesday's council conference session by Town Engineer Edward A. Gottko, who coordinates the submission of the town's block grant data to the county Community Development Block Grant Committee.

The council already has authorized a $20,000 expenditure in this year's municipal budget to hire the New York City Partnership, a non-profit organization, to help develop a proposal for a second complex and examine financing options including federal tax credits.

Mr. Gottko said Tuesday, however, the guidelines for the federal grant preclude use of a consultant hired under the grant for anything beyond development of schematics and preliminary cost estimates as planning tools.

Architectural drawings, requests for proposals from builders and a more thorough examination of fiscal options envisioned by the New York group may not be included in the work covered by the federal grant, he added.

When the town submitted its proposal for the federal grant in October, 1991, the engineer said, it had not envisioned expanding the scope of the consultant's duties to those proposed by the New York City Partnership. Those suggestions came after the proposal was submitted.

A meeting was held between Mr. Gottko and Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. and Third Ward Councilman Gary G. Jenkins, who are members of the committee planning the second complex, following Tuesday's council conference.

Mr. Gottko said it was decided at that meeting the New York group would continue the work it was hired to do, and, if the federal grant receives final approval as scheduled in September, the council may approach a second consultant, Vosec, Inc. to provide additional planning tools under the grant proposal.

Other Westfield projects included in the county Community Development Block Grant plan are: $45,000 for the reconstruction of Palsted Avenue, $40,000 for erosion work on the Windsor Avenue brook and $30,000 for the erection of barrier-free ramps on the Municipal Building.

In another construction-related move, the council Tuesday gave its authorization to the submission of the following priority for state Transportation Trust Fund road reconstruction and resurfacing projects: Rahway Avenue from West Broad to Grove Streets, $120,000; Elm Street from East Broad to Walnut Streets, $95,000; Pierson Street from Hyslip Avenue to West Broad Street, $95,000, and Westfield Avenue from South Avenue to Park Street, $180,000.

The council also agreed to award a $52,450.73 contract to Schifano Construction of Middlesex for the milling and paving of the Northside Railroad Station parking lot and of East Broad Street from North Avenue to Elmer Street.

Also given the council's consent

NEW NEIGHBOR? This is an artist's rendering of a prototype of a senior citizen development similar to one proposed for a 4.3-acre subdivision on Route No. 22 West, Mountainside, near the border of Westfield. Hearings on the proposal are expected to continue next month before the Mountainside Board of Adjustment.

Senior Citizen Facility Proposed for Town Border

In the middle of next month the Mountainside Board of Adjustment will continue to hear testimony on a proposal by Greer Properties Inc. to operate a Marriot Corp. "catered senior citizens living facility" on a 4.3-acre subdivision located at 1350 Route No. 22 West, near the Westfield border, according to published reports.

The applicant kicked off the process by presenting information regarding traffic issues as the board convened on June 8 in Mountainside Borough Hall.

The next meeting will take place on Monday, July 13.

The application entails a "major subdivision" of the 12.6-acre property.

The senior citizen housing would be situated on the 4.3-acre subdivision. Air Con Inc. would retain ownership of the larger parcel.

In addition to site plan approval, the applicant is seeking a use variance since Greer Properties hopes to construct residential units in an area that currently is zoned for office buildings.

The application envisions the building of a two-story structure that would entail 70,000 square feet of total building space.

The site would contain some 103 "catered living units" and some 24 "personal care units," whose occupants would require more than one hour of daily nursing care.

The main building would house various nursing and dining services.

The Marriot Corp. operates several similar senior citizens facilities throughout the country which afford seniors the ability to live independently without the drawbacks of standard nursing homes.

People who are capable of caring for themselves would live in the one-bedroom catered-living units.

These apartments would include a bathroom, kitchenette and living room. Residents would have the freedom of movement associated with residential housing, but would have the comfort of access to health professionals in residence, according to a presentation made to the Board of Adjustment.

Residents of the personal-care units would require more rigorous supervision, it was noted.

Although detailed testimony on the subject has not yet been elicited, it was reported the units would rent for $2,000 to $3,000 per month including nursing care, food, linens and some furnishings. The units would not be subsidized.

Representatives of the Marriot Corp. are slated to testify about further details at the July meeting. Greer Properties is a sister corporation of Marriot.

Board of Adjustment Chairman Richard Picut was quoted as saying he believes deliberations over the application will run through August.

He added the Mountainside Board of Adjustment will seek input from the borough's Planning Board and the Engineering Department, which has conducted an intensive review of the proposal.

Senator Backs Takeover Of Courts by the State

A Senate resolution that eventually would provide county taxpayers with significant property tax relief has been approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The resolution sponsored by Senate President Donald T. DiFrancesco, who represents Westfield, and Senator William L. Gormley, proposes a Constitutional amendment that would provide for the transfer of certain judicial and probation costs from the county to the state by July 1, 1997.

The proposed state takeover of the court system would save counties more than $200 million annually.

"State funding of our court system would offer New Jersey the most cost-effective system of justice. It would remove a multi-million dollar burden from our counties and provide much-needed property tax relief to all New Jerseyans," Senator DiFrancesco noted.

Currently, county governments are responsible for the cost of court support staff, employee benefits, the Prosecutor's Office and office and equipment costs. The state pays for the salaries of judges and their secretaries.

"Our reliance on county-level funding has led to an imbalance in the judicial system, since each county has a varying level of resources available to them. In addition, the counties do not have oversight over the money they contribute to the system. This legislation would help to create a more uniform, efficient judicial system," Senator DiFrancesco added.

The resolution calls for a constitutional question to appear on the November ballot for approval by the voters. If approved, an amendment would require certain judicial costs to be paid by the state and all judicial and probation employees to become employees of the state.

"I am confident there will be bipartisan support for this legislation. It is good for our judicial system, the counties and the taxpayer," the Senator said.

Mayor Boothe Outlines Views on Compost Fine

Editor's Note: The following is a copy of the remarks made by Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. at the June 9 Town Council meeting about the decision by the council to pay $3,000 settled upon with the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy as a fine because of a complaint about odors which allegedly came from the town's Conservation Center between December 27 and 31 of last year.

I am voting for this settlement with the state agency because it is the only sensible thing to do, considering the amount involved and the bottom line for our taxpayers. However, I think we and the public should be aware of what is going on.

The practice of levying fines upon individuals and corporations as punishment for violations and infractions of law has been around for years if not centuries. This practice now carries over into new areas of the law such as environmental complaints.

However, I think we should all question whether this makes sense when the complaint is against another entity or level of government and the fine is ultimately paid by taxpayers and citizens.

This is particularly true in the environmental field, where many of the complaints arise out of situations created long before there was any environmental regulation, or as a result of activities that are required by other regulations.

Examples of the first are the unfortunate sewage bypasses that occur from time to time because of the way our sewers were built and buried in the ground a century ago. The town is trying to find and correct these situations, but like Rome it cannot be built in a day.

When these things happen, as has happened, I think the interests of Westfield are best served by our spending, or even by our being required to spend, money locally to correct the situation rather than as fines sent to Trenton.

The second situation is tonight's problem. We have been running the best leaf recycling operation we can, as required by law. We are at the mercy of a lot of factors, including weather and the hours of the county leaf compost, which are far fewer than our people work. And, always, cost.

Odors are inevitable. We should spend money here to improve the situation rather than as fines to Trenton.

The Department of Environmental Protection and Energy uses this fine money off budget. The more they collect from municipalities, the more they have to use on programs and expenses that are not part of the department's budget as reviewed and passed by the Legislature. So the department has strong motivation to seek out and fine local governments and school boards to build their empire.

Fighting this is not something we can do on a case by case basis in Westfield; it is not worth the legal fees. But I am urging our legislative delegation to review this entire situation and see if they agree with me government fining government simply is not good government.

STRAIGHT TALK... At last week's meeting Rotarian, Carl Swenson, left, introduced Piscataway Rotary Club President, Frank Sztuk, who talked to Westfield Rotary Club members on the subject of "Fraud in Auto Insurance."

Car Insurance Fraud Subject of Rotary Talk

This year's President of the Rotary Club of Piscataway, Frank Sztuk, is a divisional manager of The Hanover Metro Insurance Company. He spoke to the Westfield Rotary Club members on his experiences while investigating automobile insurance fraud in New Jersey.

Mr. Sztuk told Rotarians that New Jersey is the most regulated state in the country and on average is the fifth highest in insurance costs. He gave the example of the least expensive premium for a 25-year-old male in Newark as $2,200 a year. However, the same coverage costs $7,800 in Brooklyn. This situation leads to the appearance of many New Jersey insured cars on the streets of Brooklyn.

New Jersey is a high risk area, since it is the most densely populated state. Mr. Sztuk also said the high cost of fraud in the state adds 30 per cent to insurance premiums.

Air bags now being fitted to cars will help to reduce accidents thus reducing insurance costs.

Mr. Sztuk concluded by saying that New Jersey's Fair Insurance Act will alter the historical rating system on January 1 of next year. At that time premiums will be based on:

- Accident record
- Miles driven
- Type of vehicle
- Driving experience.

It is estimated auto insurance premiums will increase for most drivers when the new system is implemented.

MACULAR DEGENERATION

The macula is the central part of the retina, a tiny area composed of millions of light receptor cells. As we age, those cells slowly weaken, and by age 60, nearly one-third of adults show some signs of macular degeneration.

The first sign is sometimes a "flouter," a small spot that's always in the line of vision, no matter where you look. In time, as the condition worsens, the flouter seems to enlarge until there is a noticeable area of decreased central vision. The condition does not cause total blindness, because peripheral vision is not affected. Still, this is the fastest growing cause of legal blindness among adults in the United States.

In some cases, the degeneration is caused by "leaky" blood vessels and can be corrected with laser beams. In most cases, though, central vision slowly fades. Low-vision aids are available to enhance what vision remains.

The First in a New Series "THE VISION" By Chuck Ren

Beginning an exciting new series by Chuck Ren exploring the spiritual side of Native American culture.

Indians, from the jungles of the Amazon to the snows of Canada, believed they had a special kinship with certain animals. Young warriors would go into the wilderness on their "Visionquest." During days of meditation and fasting, an animal or bird would appear, either physically or in a vision, and become their guardian and protector for the rest of their lives. Certain birds and animals were held in higher esteem and considered more powerful than others. The eagle was one of the most powerful of this group. Thus Chuck Ren's beautiful painting "THE VISION."

Scholastic Awards Show Town Students Can Help Brighten Nation's Future

Thursday night's awards ceremony for Westfield High School and the awards ceremonies conducted by the town's various civic associations such as Unity, Neighborliness, Charity, Integrity, Opportunity (UNICO), the College Men's Club, the College Woman's Club, the Parent-Teacher Organization and many others too numerous to mention here, demonstrate the ambition and intelligence of Westfield's youth and the careful selection process these organizations go through in order to give recognition to the most deserving students.

Next Wednesday's high school graduation also will, no doubt, produce many more honors for different students and for those who already have been recognized.

The school system and their parents also are to be congratulated for providing the support necessary for them to thrive academically and in extracurricular activities.

The Class of 1992 also can be proud its members probably will face less difficulties in one of the most depressed job marketplaces in many years because of the interest and enthusiasm Westfield's students have shown for the high-technology skills which are in increasingly greater demand in today's world.

We are certain they will be successful in their college careers or other vocational pursuits and, perhaps, they will be bringing additional fame to a town already overflowing with highly-successful executives, medical professionals, politicians and leaders in other fields.

Despite the current downturn, our nation has shown a tremendous resiliency in overcoming past adversities and our people, working together, will bounce back from this one very shortly, and we hope some of Westfield's graduates will be leading the way to a bright future.

We wish you all the very best.

Report from Washington

Scare Tactics Unfair In Balanced-Budget Debate

The balanced-budget debate apparently has inspired some lobbying groups to take aim at older Americans with deliberate scare tactics in a misguided attempt to defeat the measure.

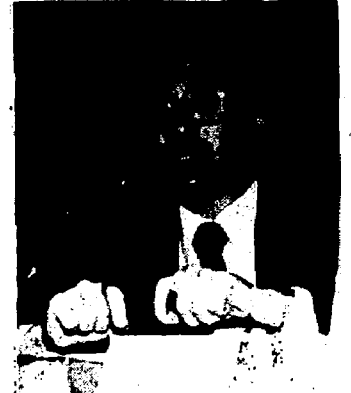

Not long ago, I was shocked and outraged to discover certain lobbying groups are telling senior citizens the balanced-budget amendment is a threat to their Social Security and Medicare benefits.

In my view, this is a deliberate campaign of disinformation, calculated misrepresentations and outright falsehoods that is intended to gain the support of seniors to defeat the balanced-budget amendment. I question the sincerity of these organizations who are doing their best to twist the debate on an important policy questions by frightening people.

There is no more critical issue facing this country right now than the national deficit, which this year will hit $400 billion.

In fact, the biggest threat to Social Security and Medicare is not the balanced-budget amendment; it is the $400 billion deficit and the $4 trillion national debt that we are trying to reduce and eliminate.

By Representative Matthew J. Rinaldo

The truth is that we now spend 15 percent of the annual federal budget just to pay more than $300 billion in interest on this gigantic debt. By way of comparison, we pay more in interest than we spend on national defense or Social Security.

Interest is the largest single item in the federal budget, costing each taxpayer in this country $2,000 a year. More importantly, if nothing is done, interest payments will increase by $300 billion in five years.

If current trends continue, we may see a day when enormous interest payments on the national debt crowd out all other discretionary spending in the budget.

To say, as one group does, the balanced budget amendment is "a dagger aimed at the heart of Medicare" and it "will slash Social Security benefits for 42 million Americans" is an outrageous and deliberate misrepresentation of the facts.

The truth is the amendment, as proposed, does not denote specific cutbacks in specific programs. Neither does it require broad, across-the-board cutbacks in all federal programs.

The amendment, if it is enacted, would require cuts in spending. But Congress and the President would decide where to cut the budget, and there are plenty of places to cut spending without touching programs that help the sick and elderly. Spending limits could be exceeded with a three-fifths vote of both houses of Congress.

Moreover, the proposed amendment does not change in any way the existing status of Social Security. Current protections for the Social Security program that are already federal law would not be compromised.

In addition, amending the constitution is a long process. The amendment must garner a two-thirds vote in both the House and Senate and then must be ratified by a minimum of 37 states with a three-year time limit.

Despite these facts, Washington lobbying groups are telling the elderly they soon will lose their benefits if Congress passes the amendment. This is shameful propaganda, and it is not even close to the truth.

Community Action Committee Seeks to Increase Self-Image

The most important word is us, meaning the fathers, the mothers, the family, the neighborhood and concerned citizens.

The Cacciola community is not large, but so much good has emerged from it — doctors, lawyers, businessmen, social workers, truck drivers, day workers, maids, chauffeurs, cooks and good mothers and fathers.

Our small community is 85 percent African-American and is now being faced with seeing our children being consciously almost always pushed aside — by us, the system and society.

The Westfield community action committee is saying "no more."

Working within the community we want to motivate and upgrade the thinking to not of disappointment, but one of aspirations.

We wish them to be homeowners, not people who could become homeless, not the "F" or "D" or "C" student but trying to make "B's" or "A's."

We need volunteers that will help us make this change, teachers, lawyers, housewives, anyone wishing to help or make a donation may contact The Community Action Committee, of which Mary Wether is the Chairman at 654-5192 or the Westfield Neighborhood Council at 127 Cacciola Place, Westfield, 07090, at 233-2772.

What Color Is Your Status On the Job?

The United States government's tendency to colorize forms resulted in two colorful idioms that can cause feelings of hope or fear in the hearts and minds of those receiving them.

In the case of one of these forms, the agency that created it and selected its color no longer exists, while in the second instance the form has changed. Both idioms inspired by these forms, as well as the original colors in which the forms were printed, linger on. We shall now show you their true colors!

Green card — an identification card attesting to the permanent residency status of the person to whom it was issued, and providing him or her with the right to work.

According to Anthony Papasso of the United States Immigration Service, the card has not been printed in green since the 1940s. Since then this chameleon-like card has changed from green to turquoise, then to white and blue, and finally to its current salmon color.

Green carder — a nickname for an alien who has the legal right to work in the United States.

Pink slip — a termination of employment notice; to dismiss, to fire someone from a job. In 1935, during the great depression, the Works Progress Administration was established by Congress.

During its existence it provided 8.5 million jobs to Americans. When the services of its workers were no longer required, they received a pink-colored slip from the agency.

The pink-slip phrase caught on and is widely used today in connection with anyone losing a job.

Councilman Mebane Tells Office Hours

Republican First Ward Councilman David Mebane will hold his regular office hours on Saturday, June 20, in the Administrative Conference Room in the Westfield Town Hall from 10 a.m. to noon. All citizens are welcome.

Councilman Mebane said, "My monthly office hours have become an important part of my constituency outreach program. Monthly office hours makes it possible for me to be accessible to all residents of the First Ward, as well as all residents of Westfield, to discuss any issue of interest."

"Throughout my term I have tried to take advantage of all opportunities to communicate with my constituents. Constituent phone calls, constituent letters, voter registration and my annual report and survey have all contributed to a continuing dialogue between myself and the residents of the First Ward. These kinds of communication greatly enhance my ability to be responsive to the concerns of the First Ward."

"I look forward to continuing these services in the future."

Letters to the Editor

Mayor Garland Boothe Answers Complaints About Manor Park

Editor's Note: The following is a copy of a letter written by Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. to the officers and members of the Manor Park Swim Club.

I received a number of letters from members of the Manor Park Swim Club dealing with the rear entrance to the parking lot of the club from Pine Street.

By the time this letter is published, I hope that most, if not all, of the causes of concern and complaint will be eliminated.

Several years ago the town sold various lots fronting on Pine Street to a developer. As part of the sale and the planning for the subdivision, the developer is required to install curbing and to place sewers and other utilities in the bed of the street. He is not required to install the final street paving until the houses have been completed.

In response to the letters and other complaints, the town has installed a temporary ramp of stone over the Belgian block curbing which permits access from Pine Street into the parking lot. I, myself, have driven my own car over this ramp as have others.

In addition, I believe the town has prevailed upon the developer to proceed expeditiously with the installation of the paved subbase for Pine Street and with other improvements that will make access to the parking lot reasonably smooth and non-hazardous to motor vehicles. When the street finally is finished, a final pavement will be installed on the new extension of Pine Street.

The town very carefully monitors all operations of our developers and insists they comply with their obligations under the law. I want to assure all of you this practice has been followed in this case as well.

I wish the members of the Manor Park Swim Club an enjoyable swimming season this summer. I do not believe they will have a basis for complaint with the entrance to the lot from Pine Street.

Tragedy Avoided By Expert Action

Last weekend five Westfield Youth Soccer teams traveled to Fairfield, Connecticut to take part in the Leake and Nelson Soccer Tournament.

Saturday night all of the teams were at the hotel's outdoor pool, celebrating a full day of soccer play. As you would expect, dozens of children were playing in and out of the pool, and their parents were enjoying the poolside evening.

Without warning, a younger brother of one of the players was pulled unconscious from the pool. Within seconds, Westfield parents and friends were at the child's side, giving flawless medical care. Although the minutes that followed seemed to take hours, these people continued their dedicated resuscitation attempts until they were able to literally bring the young boy back to life. Within another few minutes, the Ambulance Squad arrived and transported the boy to a local hospital for further care.

On behalf of all of the families at that hotel, I would like to offer my heartfelt thanks and sincere admiration for a job well done. If these parents and friends had not been present, a tragedy would have occurred.

Thank you to all who came to the aid of this family. Thank you especially to Colleen Suflay, Beth Hill, Scott Gillin, Mary Beth Munfield and Pat Scanlon. My utmost admiration to all of you. You displayed the best of your professional abilities, and we are all in your debt. Thank God, you were there.

Alan Lantis Gives Account Of Exchange Program in Russia

During October of this school year, Mrs. Beverly Geddis, an English teacher at Westfield High School, and I participated in "Hands Across the Water," a teacher exchange with the former Soviet Union. For three weeks we lived with a Russian family and taught in a Russian school.

While there, we attended many cultural events such as the Moscow Circus and the Bolshoi Ballet, while in Moscow, and visited all the important sites in the nation's capital.

Red Square, the Metro and Arbat Street for trading souvenirs were among the highlights. We witnessed, first hand, the economic and political difficulties facing the people of Russia.

Most of the time was spent in the city of Chelyabinsk, an industrial center 1,500 miles east of Moscow.

Modern Compartmentalization: No Room in the Inn for Art

Modern societies have lost a joy in art that traditional ones possessed. Art is either mass-produced, essentially fake or handled by experts. To recapture that delight, individuals must strive to achieve that old standard. The thought is from David Maybury-Lewis in Millennium: Tribal Wisdom and the Modern World, published by Viking. —K.C.B.

The separation of art from life in modern societies is not a trivial matter, for how can we define the good life and live it with grace if we leave esthetics to specialists? We can neither abolish nor ignore the confusion, anxiety and loneliness of our times — and we cannot recapture the unitary vision of tribal societies. We simply do not live like that anymore. Living gracefully does not require that we attempt the impossible, however. What it does require is a determination that the esthetic not be reduced to a commodity and ourselves to passive consumers of it, as well as a conviction that creativity and imagination are essential to our lives. It requires us to break the vicious cycle of compartmentalization that obliges us to live and work in a functional world that leaves little room for an esthetic response. It requires us above all to understand that modern society separates: Not only art from life, but life from death and all three from meaning. It is up to us to connect.

THE 6TH DECADE

Look Before Leaping
Into New Investments

By Herb Ross

Suddenly, people looked at their certificates of deposit and found interest rates had gone into the dumpster!

For those senior citizens who were counting on this interest to provide some money for their retirement years—Boom, gone! Now what to do?

Suddenly there is a big shift to higher-yielding equities real estate investment trusts, utilities and mutual funds.

One caveat, "Don't Dare to purchase any investment vehicle that you don't fully understand."

You may leave the safety of a certificate of deposit for the shifting sands of mutual funds.

Reginald Green, an Editor with the Mutual Fund News Service, notes a number of mutual funds share this concern.

Says Mr. Green, "Low yields on savings are bringing waves of new investors into mutual funds. Just as the money flowing into funds rises to a flood, the heads of several funds are advising new investors to be cautious. Many of these first-time investors, they say, are going into the wrong funds, have inflated expectations of what they will earn, and are quite unprepared for the inevitable ups and downs in share prices."

Their concerns apply to bonds as well as stocks, to government funds as well as corporate, and to blue-chip stocks as well as emerging growth companies. All are advising potential investors to follow the golden rules of prudent investing although, they say, many act as though they had never heard of them. In part, the problem is dealing with new turf.

Now, a lot of certificate holders are going into bond funds. They should ask: "What is the total return likely to be and what is the risk?"

William Shiebler, the Chief Executive Officer of Putnam Financial, says, "Going just for the highest yield can be the worst possible thing for a conservative investor. Another trap is bonds and stocks have had exceptional performances for the last few years."

"I have a real concern investors who have known only a rising market are expecting too much. They may not be able to face even a normal market decline," Edward Boudreau, the Chairman of John Hancock Mutual, said.

Dorothy Gardner, the President of Eaton Vance Management agrees. "There's a lot of complacency at present about stocks and bonds. Investors are tempted to lengthen bond maturities which can be costly if interest rates move adversely."

Most of the money managers are worried that people who have been savers all their lives are not moving gradually from their secure base to new territories.

Some are attracted by the high returns they read about in last year's exceptional market, and they have gone straight to the more volatile funds such as high-yield bonds or small company stocks. As Mr. Boudreau points out, these investments often give very high returns, but they are the antithesis of the stable prices savers are used to.

"Many of them are not asking themselves the most basic questions, such as, 'How long can I put this money away for?' or 'Am I investing for income now or capital gains in the future?'" Mr. Shiebler said.

"If wish we could dampen expectations," adds Keith Brodtkin, the Chairman of Massachusetts Financial. "If these new investors don't realize there will be some bumpy spots along the way, many will be

'Sister Act' Brings Humor to Life in the Convent

A surprisingly entertaining and buoyant article despite its overwhelming predictability, Sister Act is full of goodwill, generous pronouncements and sappy likability.

By Michael Goldberg

POPCORN RATINGS

POOR

Whoopi Goldberg headlines the sister act in question when circumstances lead her character to the sanctuary of a convent. It is to Director Emil Ardolino's credit this familiar chestnut has the slightest shred of believability.

Here's the buildup: Delores Van Cartier, a nightclub singer portrayed by Miss Goldberg, is keeping close company with Nick, a vicious mobster who owns a Reno gambling emporium. She doesn't know that her beau is a low-life, murdering crook. But she is in the process of giving him the gate since he refuses to leave his wife for her; and then the big divulgence presents itself — witnessing a rub-out ordered by Nick, played with tongue-in-cheek menace by Harvey Keitel.

Delores is sufficiently non-plussed. Fleeing for her life, she heads for the safety of the Reno police headquarters. They relate they've been trying to get the goods on the local gangster for years, and her eyewitness testimony should be enough to seal his judicial fate.

The problem is, they probably won't go to trial for a couple of months. Naturally, our heroine is a tad concerned by the time frame; as it turns out, the man she loved, and who professed his love for her, has put a $100,000 contract out on her life.

Hence, "get thee to a nunnery" is the sound advice heeded by Delores when the police detective suggests a witness-protection charade in San Francisco, at St. Katherine's a very poor parish in the bad section of town. Of course, St. Katherine's fate is uncertain at this juncture, and it sure could use some cheering-up.

The rest, you can guess, but it's fun just the same. The easing of religious stringency, a familiar plot ploy that satisfies a certain release-valve need in many is represented by Whoopi Goldberg's free-wheeling persona.

From the get-go, expectedly, the newcomer and her mother superior, acted with fine temper and style by Maggie Smith, are at loggerheads. The chief nun is a mite conservative, and this visitor from Sodom and Gomorrah is sheer anathema.

Delores, re-named Sister Mary Clarence for this life-saving role, quickly makes friends among her new and unsuspecting peers.

Her fellow sisters, all familiar characters actresses as well as veterans of television commercials who you'll recognize, combine in a splendid assemblage of talent; the ensemble performance they render breathes life into what would have been quite trite in lesser hands.

After sufficiently disobeying Mother Superior and making her a tad crazy, Sister Mary Clarence is restricted in her activities, only allowed to work with the choir — heretofore a rag-tag group of pathetic shriekers. Fast-forward the scenario and the choir becomes first rate, dynamic and controversial in its religious adaptation of rock tunes.

Little St. Katherine's has again filled its pews as the musical reputation grows — so much so, in fact, the Pope, himself, planning a trip to these shores, pencils in St. Katherine's where a special performance will be given.

Concurrently, bad Nick discovers the location of Delores's new digs, and the plan to eliminate her before she sings in the gangster sense of the term is set into motion. If you catch a Biblical reference from time to time, you're probably right...but it's all very informal and the deductions are up to you.

Director Ardolino lets Whoopi find her own way through the script. It's a good move. In some earlier comic movie efforts, filmmakers looked to the comedienne/actress for three laughs a minute, which often resulted in an unprofitable strain on the viewers' patience.

Au contraire here: This easy-going, genial film sets its own pace and parameters, letting the laughs fall where they may.

Casually scooping them up makes Sister Act a relatively entertaining experience.

Does Tarzan Swing Along
On a Wheelchair Now?By LOUIS H. CLARK
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

"Dad, how old is Tarzan now?" my youngest son asked me.

And did you know my whole outlook on life changed with that question. One minute before if you'd said "Tarzan" to me I'd have thought of that lean, muscled body swinging effortlessly from tree to tree with the grace of a Nureyev, beating his chest, placing with his friends, the lions and tigers; easily evading the charge of an enraged rhinoceros.

Now, I wondered if the poor guy could get out of the way of a charging squirrel.

And how about Jane? How could she ever stand getting bitten by all those insects and spiders which infest the jungle?

Poor Jane. She's an elderly lady today. I'll bet nowadays she's covered with insect repellent and even has installed an elevator so she can get into the tree house without using a vine.

Then the thought flashed into my mind about another famous couple: Romeo and Juliet. Suppose their parents had relented and allowed them to get married? After all the Hatfields and the McCoy's finally made up after they became kissin' kin.

I pictured Juliet, a middle-aged lady with a slight moustache kicking a stoutish Romeo out of bed while yelling "Get moving buster. You have to be at the palace at nine. They catch you coming in late, and you'll be out on your own and my father's sick and tired of tending us money."

Does all romance fade as the years go on? Somehow I doubt it. I know couples in their 60s and 70s who have a relationship that's grown out of the romance of their youth like a phoenix that has been born of fire. Holy cow, I'm really going poetic. Phenixes!

Then, as I looked into my son's eyes, I realized for him and his friends, I am the Old Man; his grandfather is only slightly older but we're both in the same class.

That was depressing. I'd have to tell it to my wife. After going through what we've gone through, we are a team that is would take all the armies in a world to separate. Maybe that's what romance is all about, sticking it through.

My son still was looking at me expectantly and I realized not even a second had passed and all these ideas had rushed through my brain in the mysterious way it works, at least 50 hundred times faster than any computer, and I said to him, "Let's see. Burroughs wrote Tarzan about 1913. So suppose Tarzan was born around the early 1900s that'd make him about 89 or so."

"Wow," the kid said. "Just think. He can do all that and still be almost 90. He's a real hero."

I'm just glad I never told him I once used to swing from tree to tree.

Voter Participation Bill Clears Assembly Panel

New Jersey residents would be able to propose new laws under legislation sponsored by Assemblyman Robert D. Franks, who represents Westfield, which was approved by the Assembly State Government Committee on Monday.

Initiative and referendum, a top legislative priority for Assemblyman Franks throughout his 13-year Assembly career, is now cleared for action on the floor of the Assembly.

"The people of New Jersey want the ultimate power to bring about change—the right to place issues on the ballot. And they deserve it," the Assemblyman said.

Under one measure sponsored by Assemblyman Franks, citizens could propose new laws as well as constitutional amendments. Once the requisite number of signatures are gathered, the legislature is required to act on the measure within six months. If it does not, the issue will be placed on the ballot the following November. Initiatives to propose new laws will require signatures equal to 8 percent of the votes cast in the most recent gubernatorial election, while initiatives proposing new amendments require a number of signatures equal to 12 percent.

Currently, 23 states offer citizens the rights of initiative and referendum. The State Government Committee also released a second initiative and referendum bill, sponsored by Assemblyman Franks and committee Chairman Robert Martin.

Under this measure, initiatives proposing new laws require signatures equal to only 6 percent of the votes cast in the most recent gubernatorial election. However, the bill prohibits changes to the state constitution through the initiative and referendum process.

"With so much at stake, the legislature needs the opportunity to consider and debate both options," Assemblyman Franks said. "Although the two bills follow a slightly different path, they both represent change—fundamental, far-reaching change in the lives of every citizen of our state."

Both bills are Assembly concurrent resolutions and would change the state constitution. In order to reach the ballot for approval by the voters this November, a measure needs the support of three fifths of the Assembly and State Senate.

"I am confident the legislature will approve initiative and referendum, as the voters called for in last year's legislative elections. These proposals help insure the power resides with the people," Assemblyman Franks said.

Utilities Authority Takes Action Against Haulers

The Union County Utilities Authority brought action against 26 individual haulers and issued more than 55 summonses for illegal handling of waste during 1991, announced authority Chairman Angelo J. Bonanno.

The Chairman added through this action the authority collected penalties and settlements in excess of $110,000.

Theodore Romankow, the special counsel to the authority, explained the haulers were charged with a variety of violations, ranging from storing waste for more than 24 hours after collection, failing to deliver waste to the proper disposal facility and operating an unauthorized solid waste facility.

"Since the authority issued its first summons in April 1990, more than 150 summonses or orders to show cause have been issued to 45 haulers and approximately $185,000 in fines has been collected," Mr. Romankow said.

Action was brought against the violators under a cooperative agreement between the utilities authority and Union County Regional Environmental Health Commission.

What you don't know about laser surgery might help heal you.

Perhaps you've heard about the use of lasers in surgery.

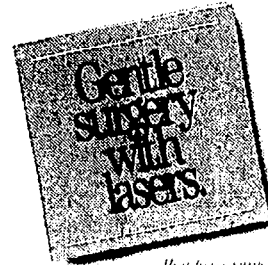

But you probably don't know how often and how widely they can be used. And you may not be aware of the many advantages of laser surgery over conventional surgery.

In fact, lasers can be used by surgeons at the Overlook Hospital Laser Center to treat problems ranging from gall-bladders to brain tumors. And these proven techniques can be so beneficial, they can actually turn some forms of major surgery into outpatient procedures.

Surgery with a tiny incision or no incision. One of the most useful laser techniques actually limits the need for an incision. Instead of cutting through the skin to reach affected areas, surgeons at the Laser Center can treat many patients with an instrument called a laser endoscope through a natural body opening. Working with an endoscope, the surgeon can vaporize internal growths or repair lesions without cutting through healthy tissue.

How laser surgery works: a diagram of a laser endoscope.

Lasers offer less. Laser surgery can be less painful than conventional surgery. And so it requires less anesthesia and fewer pain-relieving drugs after surgery.

Lasers offer decreased bleeding and scarring, and less likelihood of transfusions or complications.

And laser surgery often requires less recovery time, in some cases turning a lengthy stay in the hospital into no stay at all.

Be enlightened. The benefits of surgery at the Overlook Hospital Laser Center are too numerous to mention in this ad.

Call the toll-free number below, and the Overlook Hospital Laser Center will send you this enlightening illustrated booklet free of charge. It will help you discover some of the healing advantages that laser surgery has to offer. But call now. And ask your doctor for more information. Because, if you or a member of your family ever do need surgery, lasers could shed some healing light on the situation.

Lennox Standards of Quality Mark Benefit to Consumers

"Consumers today realize that value means more than just low price. McDowells of Westfield knows that keeping customers happy is the key to success and is committed to becoming a leader in that area," stated Bert McDowell, Vice President of the firm.

"McDowells has successfully completed a rigorous evaluation process to become a Lennox quality dealer. Lennox Industries, Inc., a worldwide manufacturer of heating and air conditioning systems, markets its products through independent Lennox dealers," he said.

"Lennox evaluates its dealers annually based on professionalism, stability and commitment to excellent service. All Lennox dealers are evaluated on a series of standards that measure commitment to customer service, employee relations, productivity, financial responsibility and other practices important for a quality dealer," he added.

President and COO of Lennox Industries Donald Munson explains Lennox's Dealer Quality Standards program as a way to ensure dealers' commitment to outstanding service. "The key word in understanding Quality Standards is 'differentiation,'" said Mr. Munson. "The program re-emphasizes the element that remains unchanged: Lennox is committed to offering homeowners the most exceptional product and service anywhere."

"The program benefits homeowners by creating a consistent level of performance for all Lennox dealers. For instance, a homeowner buying a product from a Lennox dealer in Little Rock receives the same valuable service as a homeowner purchasing equipment from a Lennox dealer in Buffalo," Mr. Munson said.

"McDowells is dedicated to upholding the image of quality which Lennox has been building for almost 100 years," said Mr. McDowell. "That is why we have been a Lennox dealer for over 30 years, and that is why we are proud to participate in the Dealer Quality Standards Program."

Consumers who want to benefit by these new dealer standards can contact McDowells located at 450 North Avenue, Westfield. McDowells was established in 1928 and services Union, Middlesex, Somerset and Essex Counties.

Lennox is based near Dallas and markets its residential and commercial products through a network of 8,000 independent Lennox dealers.

Union County Maintains AAA Moody's Rating

Union County, able to overcome its $11 million budget shortfall predicted for this year, has maintained its triple-A bond rating, according to published reports.

Moody's Investors Service Inc., the New York-based investment rating service, gave the county its highest rating of AAA, indicating the county's bonds are sound investments.

Union County has maintained that highest rating since 1976.

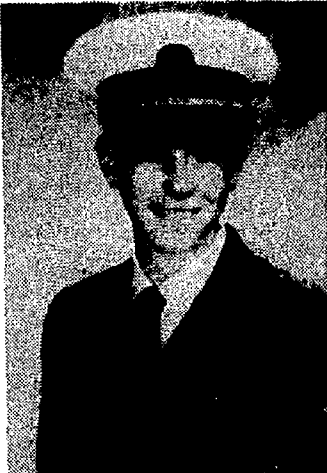

Standard & Poor's Corp. also maintained its rating of AA+, said Freeholder Alan M. Augustine, the Chairman of the board's Finance Committee.

The ratings coincided with the closing of a sale this week of $8.7 million in bonds for such projects as building renovations and computer upgrade at Union County College.

The county went out to bid June 3 with $8.7 million worth of bonds at the most favorable interest rate of 5.61 per cent, he said. The sale was closed on June 9.

If the county dropped one level in the Moody's rating, the interest rate would have been 5.71 per cent and would have meant an additional $4,034 in interest in the first year, or a total of $60,620 over 20 years, the terms of the bonds.

Union County is one of five counties in the state and one of about 30 counties throughout the country to have Moody's AAA rating.

'Y' to Conduct Focus Groups On Programs

The Westfield "Y" is holding focus groups to get suggestions and ideas from local families to help the "Y" better serve their needs.

Since its founding in 1923, the Westfield "Y" has been an organization providing programs and services to the local community and its families.

Communities change and people change. With this in mind, the "Y" is now engaged in a review process to determine the needs of local families for the 1990s and beyond and how the "Y" can better serve its family community.

The focus groups will be run by Westfield Marketing Resources, a professional market research firm, and will review family activities, "Y" scheduling, facility usage and programming. The information provided will be used to enhance the family services offered to the community.

Focus groups are scheduled for both members and non-members for the evenings of Tuesday, June 23, and Thursday, June 25.

Additional people interested in participating, may telephone Lisa Christian, the Assistant Executive Director, at 233-2700.

Parliamentarians Host State President

The Cranford Unit of Parliamentarians will meet on Wednesday, June 24, at the Cranford Free Public Library at 224 Walnut Avenue, Cranford.

The meeting will be called to order at 10 a.m. by the President, Mrs. William B. Diggs, Jr.

Mrs. Richard A. Saa, the President of The New Jersey State Association of Parliamentarians, will be the honored guest at this meeting.

She will bring a message based on the theme of her administration "Knowledge, Strength and Power through Parliamentary Law."

The Cranford Unit is a member of The New Jersey State Association of Parliamentarians and the National Association of Parliamentarians.

The unit meets every month at the Cranford Library to study parliamentary law and procedure. Anyone interested in this subject may attend.

The membership Chairman is Mrs. Geraldine Matson, who may be telephoned at 276-3643.

Moody's conducts a thorough analysis of four basic areas that include a review of the economic climate in the county from the housing market, the availability of room for development, the diversity of industry, and the age and income of the population.

The analysis also includes a review of the debt burden per capita from municipal, school and county budgets. The company also thoroughly analyzes the county budget, which must be balanced, to make sure it includes an adequate surplus and viable contingency plans for emergencies.

The fourth area is county management and administration, questioning whether these officials are qualified, whether their approach is realistic and whether they work effectively to solve difficulties that might arise.

The bonds which were sold on June 9 will be used for capital projects, including the Union County Police Training Academy and crime laboratory, public works and general infrastructure improvements, the purchase of heavy equipment, the removal of underground storage tanks and the purchase of other types of durable equipment.

About $3.09 million of the bond is for Union County College equipment and renovations.

Environment Group Opens Town Office

The National Environmental Law Center has opened a campaign office at 238 St. Paul Street, Westfield, as part of a 12-community nationwide effort to pressure President George Bush into taking a more aggressive stance on global warming issues.

According to Anthony Dutzik, the Director of the town office, Westfield was selected in part because North Jersey plays a major part in producing substances which contribute to the problem.

The town office is one of five opened in the New York metropolitan area because of the next month's Democratic Presidential Convention in New York City and this month's Presidential Primary in the state, he added.

With a goal of collecting 3,500 postcards this summer to be sent to President Bush voicing support for a three-part global warming policy, aides for the center will be contacting residents of Westfield and the rest of Union County, along with those in Bergen, Hudson and Passaic Counties, the Director noted.

The plan calls for a 25 per cent reduction in the nation's carbon dioxide emissions, improved energy efficiency in transportation, industry and buildings to strengthen the United States economy and reduction of the country's dependence on fossil fuels by increasing investments in renewable energy.

Counseling Offered By Dr. Hamway For College Bound

Dr. Timothy Hamway, a licensed psychologist, will be running a special summer counseling for students about to enter college. The social and emotional demands of the transition to college life will be the focus of this group experience.

Team United Triumphs In Connecticut Tourney

Team United of the Westfield Soccer Association's Division No. 5 Boys Traveling Soccer League was crowned the champion of the Under-9-Year-Old Division in the Eighth Annual Leske and Nelson Sportsman's Tournament held in Fairfield, Connecticut on June 13 and 14.

The Under-9 Division was divided into two flights of four teams each. United was undefeated in its three games in its flight and crushed the winner of the other flight in the championship game Sunday afternoon.

United drew a tough opponent when it faced the host Fairfield team in the opening game Saturday morning. United pulled together as a team, moving the ball from one end of the field to the other to maintain a strong offensive attack throughout the game. Center striker, Adam Walker, scored the first goal in this and every game played over the weekend. Against Fairfield, he beat the goalie with a chip shot from 12 yards out. A determined Fairfield team evened the score at half-time.

In the second half, fullback, Evan Molloy, twice used sliding tackles to shut down emerging break-away threats by the pesky Fairfield strikers. Sweeper, Connor Mulvey, and stopper, Matt Hall, dominated the center of the field to anchor the United defense. Goalie, Ryan MacDonald, saved a certain goal with a diving save to his right midway in the second half.

Strikers, Kyle Vantosky and Tim Carroll, played exceptionally well in the second half with several scoring attempts. United finally broke the tie when striker, Michael Farley, brought the ball down the right side of the field and delivered a hard shot that the Fairfield goalie was unable to control.

United was focused and determined in its second tournament game to take an early lead and rely on its defense to preserve the victory. According to script, United scored three goals in the first half to go in to defeat Westport 3 to 1. Center striker, Walker, displaying his incredible speed, started the scoring with a break-away goal early in the first half.

United's second goal came on a text book give-and-go play executed by striker, Cam Anthony, and halfback, Nick Geissler. Anthony first took the ball deep into the left corner of the field before passing back to Geissler, 10 yards behind the play. As Anthony broke for the goal, Geissler delivered a perfect pass for Anthony. The subsequent cross by Anthony was delivered to striker, Xander Rothschild, standing unmarked in the mouth of the goal for a perfect volley into the net. A few minutes later Walker scored again as he gathered a loose ball in front of the net for the tally.

With a three-goal lead at halftime, United's defense dug in to preserve the win. Exceptional marking and aggressive play by fullbacks, Brandon Kape and Greg Odachowski, kept the ball away from Westport's strikers for most of the second half. Halfbacks, Brad Gillin, Glenn Hurley and Greg Scanlon, controlled the midfield, frequently changing the direction of the ball away from the Westport offense.

United played the early bid game Sunday morning against Wilton, Connecticut to determine who would represent their flight in the championship game. Against Wilton, United played the ball wide to its strikers before a deep cross to the center of the field. A direct kick by sweeper, Mulvey, from the 20-yard line was headed for the right corner of the net before hitting the upturned hand of a Wilton fullback.

The referee's view of the play was shielded and thus a penalty kick was not awarded to United. United seemed to rally after the omitted penalty when striker, Walker, scored with a hard shot to the left corner of the net. Rothschild assisted on the goal with a perfect lead pass to Walker. Wilton responded with a tally on a corner kick and the score was tied at half-time.

In the second half, stopper, Hall, sweeper, Mulvey and center halfback, Gillin, led the defense and completely shut down the Wilton offense. The winning goal for United was scored by striker, Anthony, when he was perfectly positioned at the left goal post for a crossing pass.

In the championship game Sunday afternoon, United met the winner of the other four-team flight, Nashua, New Hampshire. United saved its best for last as it completely dominated every aspect of the game. The Nashua goalie was pummeled with shots launched from the United offense. United's defense smothered any semblance of an offense by intercepting virtually every pass and delivering the ball down wide to the waiting strikers. Nashua registered only one feeble shot on goal in the entire game.

As was the case in each game over the weekend, Walker scored the first goal. He fought off two Nashua defenders before hitting a high, slicing shot to the right corner of the net over the head of the goalie. Despite several scoring threats and complete control of the game, United entered the half with a one-goal lead.

Determined to make its maiden championship appearance a success, United came out in the second half hungry for victory. United used aggressive defensive attacks and change-of-direction plays to wear down the Nashua defense. United's work effort yielded early results with three quick goals. Striker, Michael Farley, attracted a crowd of defenders in the right corner of the field before delivering a back pass to center halfback, Gillin, who launched a missile into the left corner of the net. A few minutes later, Farley's rocket shot was deflected by the Nashua goalie, unfortunately to the feet of Rothschild waiting for the rebound tally. Rothschild scored again a few minutes later on an assist from halfback, Gillin. Farley completed the scoring late in the game with a hard shot high into the net.

Each United player was virtually flawless in the championship game. Fullbacks, Molloy and Kape, and sweeper, Mulvey, repeatedly beat the Nashua players to the ball to convert potential scoring threats into offensive drives for United.

Halfbacks, Hurley and Scanlon, skillfully utilized change-of-direction plays that resulted in Nashua constantly chasing the ball instead of controlling it.

Strikers, Vantosky and Carroll, selflessly attracted defenders away from the goal area before passing the ball to unmarked teammates. Goalies, Ryan MacDonald and Geissler played exceptionally well throughout the weekend and earned their first championship shutout.

Legion Opens Year With a 3-2 Record

The Westfield American Legion Baseball Team opened its 1992 season with an 8 to 0 win over the Cranford Recreation Team on June 8. Chris Infantino tossed a six hitter. The locals broke it open in the seventh inning when they scored six runs. Dave Duels and Jeff Pereira each had two runs driven in. Winning pitcher, Infantino, walked one while striking out seven.

Curt Gambin of Rahway allowed seven hits, walking five and striking out four for his first win of the season. Pereira, the losing pitcher, gave up all six runs, leaving the game with none out in the fifth inning. He was relieved by Roguso, who allowed no runs and no hits for the last three innings. Adam Yunuzzi had two hits for the Westfield team.

Jaguars Take Wings From Condors, Hawks

Ken Lantz scored the first run of the game for the Condors in Westfield Minor League play on June 7 in the first inning, but the Jaguars took the lead with four runs in the bottom of the inning.

Base hits by Mike Tricarico and Jon Kotler preceded two-run singles by Sam Ruetschwald and Ryan O'Donohue. A double by Doug Minarik was the big hit as the Condors bottled back with five second-inning runs to regain the lead.

The Condors' Eric Pina struck out the side in the bottom of the second, then Jaguars' pitcher, Michael Sanocki, returned the favor by striking out all three batters he faced in the top of the third inning. Tricarico's double ignited a five-run rally for the Jaguars in the third inning: Brian Osborn, O'Donohue, Russell Ozman and Jordan Newmark each had runs batted in in the uprising. Tricarico struck out the Condors' cleanup hitter with the bases loaded in the final inning to save the game for the Jaguars, who won 9-6.

The Condors and Jaguars split their season series and were to face each other again in the American Division playoffs on Tuesday.

Ruetschwald's single drove in the first run and Greg Tatum's base hit plated two more runners in the Jaguars' five-run first inning on June 8. Seth Auguststein's base hit was the big hit as the Hawks scored three first-inning runs of their own.

Brian Osborn had a run-scoring double as well as a run-batted-in single in the Jaguars' seven-run second inning.

Sam Pina's double in the third inning drew the Hawks to within 13-6, but the Jaguars put the game out of reach with eight runs in the fourth inning: Eddie Thomas' second hit of the game drove in one run and runs batted in also were contributed by Joe Kotler, Osborn, Ozman, Donahue and Sanocki.

Jordan Newmark pitched a scoreless final inning as the Jaguars recorded their 10th victory of the season, 21-8.

Five Baseball Players On All-Union County Team

Five Westfield players have been named to the All-Union County Baseball Team and three of them, junior, Chris Infantino, junior Dave Duels and senior, Drew Keehn, were chosen for the First Team.

Pitcher, Jim Charlesworth, was named to the Second Team, and third baseman, Dave Harwood, was named to the Third Team.

Infantino, a right-handed pitcher, opposed the toughest foes for Westfield (20-8).

He defeated Elizabeth (19-12) twice and Watchung Hills (19-3) and Union (20-9) once.

In 66 and two thirds innings, Infantino was touched for 59 hits.

He had just 34 strikeouts, but issued only 10 walks and ended with an 8-2 record and a 1.37 earned-run average. He also played in left field and batted .280 and drove in 14 runs.

Duels, who was up the middle at second base for Westfield, emerged as one of the county's top threats in his junior season.

He ripped eight doubles, drove in 28 runs and hit .400 while swiping 15 bases in 18 tries.

Keehn, the leadoff batter, scored 32 times, stole 23 bases in 25 attempts, drove in 25 runs and batted .354.

A repeater on All-Union County, Keehn, who chalked up 85 assists at shortstop, will play at Arizona Central, a respected junior college that often feeds players into Division No. 1 schools.

Goski Lady Truckers Lose in Playoffs

The Goski Lady Truckers went down to a third up just Say No to 19-18 last Monday in a playoff game in the Westfield Girls American Softball League.

Helping the Lady Truckers almost pull this one out was Kathy Kajava, who combined a monster game at the plate with superb catching. Helping keep the offense in gear were Lauren McMillan and Krista Mattos, who also pitched solid games, as well as Sara Cobby, Becky Blumrich, Jenna Corrales and Dana Jacober. Julia McMillan displayed her versatility by moving from catcher to infield to outfield flawlessly and producing of the plate.

Kate Wyatt and Karen Cancellieri proved once again why the "congrat trio" was indispensable to the Lady Truckers by being in the middle of rallies and playing outstanding defense. Laura Bruns, the other third of the "congrat trio," missed the game due to illness and that proved to hurt the Lady Truckers.

The Lady Truckers also missed Designated Hitter and Administrative Supervisor Melissa Belkowski who was in England to visit the Royal Family.

Mammal Exhibit On Display At Trailside

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders has announced the completed installation of a new exhibit, "Mammals of the Watchung" at Trailside Nature and Science Center at Coles Avenue and New Providence Road in Mountainside.

The exhibit, located in the center's natural history museum and funded in part by the Trailside Museum Association, was designed and installed by exhibit artist, Douglas Schiller.

It features 10 cases housing 14 different species of mammals native to the Watchung Reservation.

According to Union county Manager, Mrs. Ann Baran, "The exhibit provides visitors to the museum with information about the animals' habitat, habits and food requirements in an interesting and easy-to-understand format."

The public will see examples of these Watchung Reservation inhabitants depicted in their own natural setting. A red fox pup seen emerging from its den or a chipmunk started by the attack of a weasel are just two of the scenes shown in the exhibit.

The exhibit will remain on permanent display and can be viewed from 1 to 5 p.m. daily.

For more information about Trailside's exhibits or other programs, please telephone 789-3670.

Keith Petersen Attends Cleaning Fluid Seminar

Keith Petersen of the Eardly T. Petersen Company in Westfield recently successfully completed a two-day seminar in cleaning formulations and procedures.

"Our premier manufacturer of sanitary supply chemicals, the Cello Corporation in Havre de Grace, Maryland, recently held their annual distributor seminar," Mr. Petersen said. "Since this is a limited, invitation-only event, we felt fortunate we were one of the attendees. This seminar covers everything from the chemical make-up of different cleaning products to hands-on procedures."

The seminar concluded with a tour of the Cello plant, where the distributors were shown the laboratory in which the formulations are created and fine-tuned to the immense holding vats where the results, ready to be transferred into the packaged form used by the end-user, are stored.

"The wealth of information accrued in only two days," Mr. Petersen said.

The Cello Corporation has been one of the nation's leading manufacturers of high-quality sanitary supply chemicals since the 1950s, Mr. Petersen said.

"I myself use what I sell to the homeowner and the commercial user and my recommendations are based upon first-hand evaluation," he added. Cello makes such products as floor finishes, waxes and sealers, floor strippers, spray-buff compounds, floor rejuvenators, neutral floor cleaners, window-cleaning formulations, multi-purpose cleaners, degreasers, bathroom and sink cleaners and toilet bowl cleaners.

Mr. Petersen will be able to answer questions related to cleaning problems or needs at the Eardly T. Petersen Company in Westfield by telephoning 232-5723. Inquiries can be faxed to 232-8761.

Dr. Smith Elected School Coalition Head

Westfield School Superintendent, Dr. Mark C. Smith, was elected President of the Garden State Coalition of Schools at the coalition's first Board of Trustees meeting Monday in Cranbury.

Eighteen School districts were named Trustees at the coalition's first annual meeting, which was attended by more than 100 School Superintendents and board Presidents representing 60 school districts.

The coalition currently includes 49 school districts formally organized to further the dual goals of excellence and equity in education.

"All children need to succeed," Dr. Smith said. "Meeting that challenge is the responsibility of all school districts," he added, noting the coalition which began with 27 members last month "now includes 49 members and more who have expressed an interest in joining."

Membership in the coalition is open to any school district that passes a resolution subscribing to the coalition's statement of purpose and pays $500 dues.

District memberships are represented by school Superintendents and school board Presidents or other school board representatives.

"This organization is unique in furthering the ends of excellence and equality in education," the new President noted. "We will address issues from the perspective of those who have led those school districts who have the most to lose by a leveling down of educational funding. As an association of school board Presidents and School Superintendents, we combine leadership with professional leadership and will have a stronger, clearer voice in Trenton."

Asked why form a group separate from the New Jersey Association of Administrators and Supervisors and the New Jersey School Boards Association, Dr. Smith replied, "It is often important to speak with a single voice; however, if different groups say the same thing from each unique perspective, it can be even more powerful."

The 18 school districts named trustees of the coalition are: Chatham, Cherry Hill, Colts Neck, Hackensack, Haddonfield, Holmdel, Livingston, Madison, Millburn, Monroe Township, North Haledon, Paramus, Ridgewood, Rumson, South Orange-Maplewood, Summit, Westfield and Woodcliff Lake.

In addition to the 18 Trustees, the 31 other member school districts include Allendale, Bergen County Special Services, Berkeley Heights, Bernards Township, Boonton Township, Chester, Clark, Cranford, Fairlawn, Fort Lee, Franklin Lakes, Glen Ridge, Hanover Park Regional, Hillsdale, Kenilworth, Lawrence Township, Little Ferry, Lincoln Park, New Milford, Northern Highlands, Oradell, Ark Ridge, Parsippany, Passaic Township, Rochelle Park, Saddle Brook, Saddle River, Tenafly, Union County Regional High School District No. 1, West Essex and Westwood. The coalition's primary focus, according to its statement of purpose, will be on the interrelated issues of excellence and equity, educational practices and school finances. Supporting efforts toward equitable educational opportunities for all school children, the Coalition will develop and share information concerning legislation, regulations and educational programs and their effects on coalition districts. Information will be shared with member districts, with the public and with elected and appointed government officials.

Noting that "legislation in Trenton has been turning out like popcorn kernels," Steven Smith of Chatham, who chaired the group's annual meeting as the temporary Co-Chairman said that the group will have to develop position papers very carefully.

"We will work closely with urban and foundation school districts because whatever happens with the Quality Education Act, the impact will be most severely felt on the transition and transition foundation districts in the early years," Dr. Smith said.

Next steps that the coalition plans to take, according to the new President, are: Studying legislation, developing position statements and developing and sharing information with member districts, with the public and with elected and appointed government officials.

Congregational Church Cites Mother's Morning Out Aide

The First Congregational Church of Westfield and members of the community praised Mrs. Patricia Woodward on June 7 for her service to hundreds of young mothers as the Director of Mother's Morning Out for 17 years.

Honoring her retirement, a commemorative plaque will be hung in Loomis Hall, the church's lower level activity room where the group has met since 1975.

Because of the enthusiasm of a small group of young church mothers, today the First Congregational Church, at 125 Elmer Street, houses and supports the group, which serves the town and its surrounding communities.

It began with the understanding that young mothers need time to themselves while their children are provided for in a happy, secure environment. As one of the founders, Mrs. Woodward has seen the program grow from its original enrollment of 45 children each week to its present enrollment of 220.

"We started small, meeting two mornings a week, but we grew rapidly, and now the program operates five mornings and one afternoon each week," Mrs. Woodward said.

Mother's Morning Out employs a staff of 13; its programs and policies are formulated by a Board of Directors comprised of 12 members of the church.

The group is fully licensed by the New Jersey Division of Youth and Family Services and has developed an excellent reputation for providing a creative and nurturing environment for the children.

Japanese Women's Club Donates to Area Groups

The Japanese Women's Club of Westfield recently made donations totalling $1,500 to local organizations, schools and libraries from proceeds of the 12th annual Japan Day Festival, held each spring and co-sponsored by the Westfield "Y." Proceeds of Japan Day are donated each year to local organizations.

Mrs. Yoshie Kitai, the President of the club, said, "In appreciation to our adopted communities which give us a comfortable and hearty life, this year we are donating books and cassettes to schools and libraries around this area. We hope these will be helpful to the community in understanding the Japanese culture, feelings and way of life."

Copies of the book Origami, the intricate art of paperfolding, and books and cassette tapes on Japanese for Children, a beginning course in everyday conversation, are being donated to Westfield, Scotch Plains-Fanwood, Mountainside, Roselle Park, New Providence, Rahway, Edison, Linden and Berkeley Heights libraries and schools.

In addition, Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountsinside, the Westfield "Y" and local educational and language-assistance organizations, received cash contributions.

Most Americans Support Smoke-Free Environment

A growing percentage of Americans believe environmental tobacco smoke is harmful and prefer smoke-free public places, according to a public opinion survey released June 10 by the American Lung Association.

"It's time for policymakers at all levels—federal, state and local—to catch up with public opinion and to do more to protect the health of smokers and non-smokers alike through laws and regulations designed to limit exposure to tobacco smoke," Dr. Lee B. Reichman, the President of the American Lung Association and the Past President of the American Lung Association of New Jersey, said.

"A major step forward will be the upcoming release of an Environmental Protection Agency report assessing the health risks of exposure to environmental tobacco smoke," Dr. Reichman said.

The report is expected to classify environmental tobacco smoke as a known human carcinogen and a factor in respiratory problems in children. A revised draft of the report is slated to be delivered to the Environmental Protection Agency's Scientific Advisory Board for final review within the next few days, with publication of the official report coming later this year.

"The advisory board should improve the risk assessment as soon as possible," Dr. Reichman said. "Results of our survey indicate the American people are ready for it."

The Lung Association survey found nine in 10 adults are aware environmental tobacco smoke, also known as second-hand or passive smoke, is harmful to infants and young children (95 per cent strongly agree or agree), pregnant women (93 per cent) and older healthy adults (91 per cent).

Women are more likely than men to believe the smoke is harmful to all three groups, and non-smokers are more likely than smokers to strongly agree about the harmful effects of the smoke.

"Even eight in 10 smokers know environmental tobacco smoke is bad for the people around them," Dr. Reichman noted.

"The survey found that most current smokers strongly agreed or agreed the smoke is harmful to infants and young children (89 per cent), pregnant women (86 per cent) and older healthy adults (76 per cent).

The survey found increasing support for total bans or restrictions on smoking in public places such as restaurants, workplaces, hotels, buses and trains.

Current smokers are more likely than others to believe smoking in public places should be restricted rather than prohibited entirely.

Yet, even among smokers, relatively few favor no restrictions. Those who have never smoked are most likely to feel smoking should not be allowed at all in public places.

"As awareness of the health hazards of environmental tobacco smoke grows, more Americans want to live, work and socialize in smoke-free environments," Dr. Reichman concluded.

Experience is the name everyone gives to his mistakes.

Zoning Board Denies A & M Auto Variance

Late in the testimony, Fourth Ward Councilman James Hely appeared before the board to say A & M Auto was guilty of a parking violation and that the area is "overutilized."

After the public was heard, the board members discussed the case among themselves.

Mr. Fried insisted again the application be dismissed.

Thomas C. Phelan and Mrs. Jean Sawtelle, board members, expressed concern about parking in the area.

Mr. Kefalonitis said he was opposed to the spray booth, and Lawrence J. Mannino, a board member, said the use was "too extensive."

G. Graydon Curtis, another board member, also expressed concern over parking and another "number of factors."

After Mr. Fried made a motion to deny the variance, and with Mr. Kefalonitis recording the motion, the board voted to deny the variance.

In other business, Mr. and Mrs. George Kraemer of 616 Ardsleigh Drive were granted permission to erect an addition, with the provision they scale down their plans.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rivell of 445 Birch Place were given permission to erect an addition.

Michael Posluszny of 1722 Boulevard was given permission to erect an addition.

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Daly also were given permission to erect an addition above their two-car garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Phillips of 13 Burgess Court also were granted permission to erect an addition.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Succato of 261 Canterbury Road planned to demolish their existing home and to erect a new home at the same location.

Representing neighbors who protested the proposed demolition and construction was attorney, James B. Flynn.

Mr. Flynn spoke of preserving the character of home that presently exist there, and said the "house is simply too big for the lot."

Mr. Fried asked Mr. Succato if he would feel more comfortable with an attorney representing him, and said Mr. Succato could seek a continuance.

Mr. Cockren suggested Mr. Succato amend his application and renotice his neighbors for the July meeting, to which testimony had been postponed.

school cafeteria for a Mexican-style food display.

"Heart-healthy," low-sodium and low-fat foods also will be offered next year, he said.

Mrs. Susan H. Pepper, school board President, announced the Garden State Coalition of Schools has selected Dr. Smith its President.

Mrs. Melba S. Nixon, one of two school board members early in the year to voice concern about the divisive potential of the group, said he was pleased with Dr. Smith's selection.

"I feel very good about that, I feel very relieved, because I know Dr. Smith has a commitment to all of the children of New Jersey," Mrs. Nixon said.

The coalition is an association of essentially suburban school district Superintendents and board Presidents.

On another matter, Dr. Smith said he has recommended the report from the Columbia University Teachers College consultants on school buildings not be presented to the board and public until September.

"July and August in Westfield is not the time when people can pay full attention to that," he said.

Dr. Smith said while the report has been scheduled for release in July, the urgency for the report had faded with the decision not to close any of the district's middle schools.

"That's not in the cards," he said.

Several Washington School parents continued to protest the board's decision to tolerate larger class sizes for Washington second graders.

Kenneth Jernigan said he thought the problem of classroom crowding should have been addressed, and chided the board for not "examining redistricting before now and before the beginning of the fall term."

Mrs. Ann Venezia concurred the problem had not been tackled until too late.

"I think the problem has been around for a little while, for a long while," she said.

Mrs. Venezia said she and other parents believed Washington School's library should be used as a classroom to allow for three groups of second graders, rather than splitting 52 children into two larger-than-usual groups.

"When it comes to classroom instruction or a library, I have to side with classroom instruction," she said, urging the board to be more flexible.

The Superintendent replied if the second grade class grew any larger than it is, he would not advocate classes larger than 30 pupils.

"My emergency position would be to eliminate the library," he said.

Mrs. Ann Marie Monahan said she thought the board should put the needs of mainstream children first. She apologized for her emotional plea to the board, and said the issue is both emotional and intellectual.

"We are emotional, but we are thinking with our minds," she noted.

The board also approved on second reading the new fine arts curriculum for seven graders, 6-2. The new curriculum will require all seventh graders to spend two days a week studying music, two days studying art, and one swing day studying humanities.

Also on second reading, the new mathematics curriculum was kicked off with the approval of the Addison Wesley Mathematics, Grade 1-6 text series, in an 8-0 vote.

Dr. Koop Addresses Overlook Foundation Forum

Former United States Surgeon General, Dr. C. Everett Koop, discussed his ideas to reform the nation's troubled health care system at a special lecture held on June 3 at Summit High School. His appearance was sponsored by the Overlook Hospital Foundation of Summit as part of an annual community lecture series.

In his talk, Dr. Koop, who served as the nation's top doctor from 1981 to 1989 during the Reagan administration, pointed to inaction by the country's political leaders as one of the major causes of the current United States health care crisis.

Dr. Koop also criticized the nation's insurance industry, medical and legal communities and the American public for being contributors to the crisis.

However, he cautioned his audience, in attempting to resolve such health care problems as patient access and cost containment, "There are no easy answers, only a series of difficult choices."

The doctor, who is touring the country to speak on health-care reform, outlined a number of potential solutions, such as reducing medical student debt to allow more doctors to pursue careers as general practitioners rather than as specialists, developing an emphasis on preventive medicine among doctors and patients, encouraging the public to lead healthier lives through better diet and exercise and eliminating legal awards for pain-and-suffering lawsuits.

A graduate of Dartmouth College in Hanover, New Hampshire, Dr. Koop received his Medical Degree from Cornell Medical College in Ithaca, New York and his Doctor of Science in Medicine Degree from the Graduate School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania.

He is a member of many professional medical associations, and is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and the American Academy of Pediatrics.

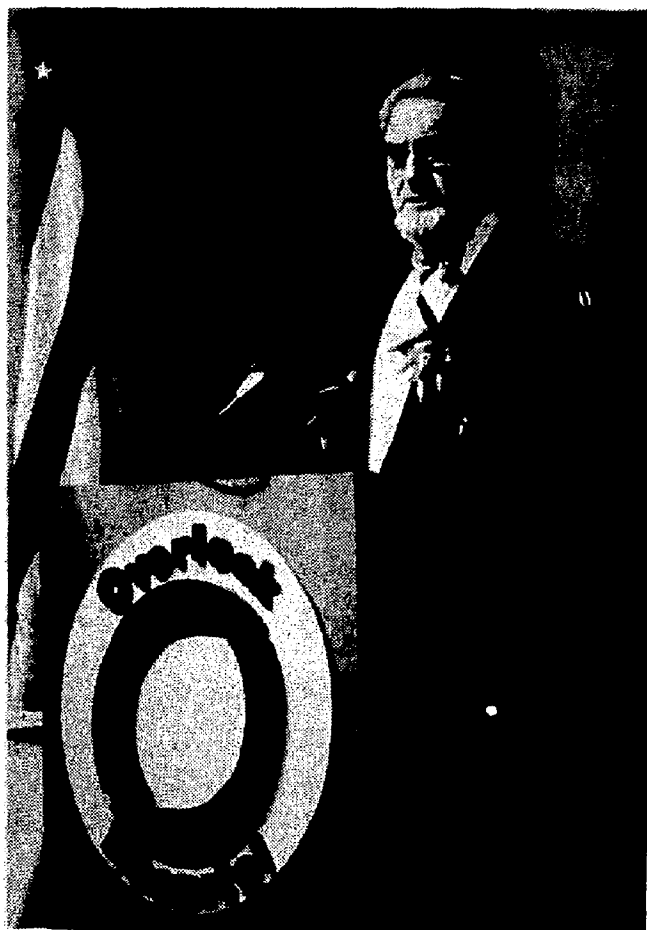

The doctor has received numerous honors and awards including 23 honorary doctorates and has written more than 200 articles and books about the practice of medicine, biomedical ethics and health policies.

In introducing Dr. Koop to an audience composed of community residents and Overlook Hospital employees, Michael J. Sniffen, the President of the Hospital, said the former Surgeon General's appearance was the third such appearance to be sponsored by the foundation.

In the annual series, a speaker who focuses on health-care issues is presented in a free lecture to the Overlook community.

Free prostate cancer screening, sponsored by Muhlenberg Regional Medical Center and medical staff urologists, will be held from July 9 to July 11 at the medical center.

Prostate cancer is the most common cause of cancer among men, striking one of every 11 males, according to the American Cancer Society. Prostate cancer can occur and spread without symptoms. The best defense is early diagnosis and the American Cancer Society recommends that all men over age 40 should have a yearly medical checkup.

The screenings will be held on Thursday, July 9, from 2 to 8 p.m., Friday, July 10 from 2 to 6 p.m. and Saturday, July 11 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Each participant will receive a rectal examination, educational materials and a blood test, the newest monitoring tool which measures the body's level of prostate specific antigen. An increased level may be an indicator of prostate cancer. Additional health information and a video program also will be available.

GETTING READY...A. Donald Pray, Chairman of the Optimist Club, receives donation check from Paul Campanelli, Director of the Westfield Recreation Department.

About 290 Students Set For an All-Night Bash

Project Graduation — Bash '92, the all-night Westfield High School post graduation party, reported significant community support as graduation approaches next week.

A continuing grand founder is the Westfield Foundation with a $1,000 donation. "Support by groups such as he foundation, keep the suggested donation to parents affordable," noted 3rd Chairman, A. Donald Pray.

The Westfield Recreation Department a co-sponsor of the event has donated $2,500, which was raised through their Road Race at Tamaques Park in April. These monies will be used to pay for entertainment and transportation at Bash '92 including the D.J., Laser Karaoke Celebrity Video and buses to the Ricochet Racquet Club, Mr. Pray explained.

The Westfield Recreation Department is a co-sponsor of the event along with the Optimist Club of Westfield and the Parent-Teacher Organization at the high school. A total of 290 seniors have signed up for the party to date.

IT CAN BE YOURS...This certificate will be awarded to anyone "adopting" a portion of Mindowaskin Park through a contribution to the Friends of the Park renovation project.

Friends of Mindowaskin Offer 'Adopt-A-Foot' Plan

Do you want a piece of Mindowaskin Park?

Residents can't purchase any of the town-owned property adjacent to Westfield's Municipal Building, but they can adopt a small section.

As part of a major fund-raising effort undertaken by the Friends of Mindowaskin Park to restore the site, those interested may purchase "Adopt-a-Foot" certificates for $10.

The "Adopt-a-Foot" certificates, designed by Westfielders, Arthur Taylor of The Lawrence Group, are available at Rorden Realty, at the corner of Quimby and Elm Streets, Westfield.

The idea for offering the adoption certificates came from town residents, Mrs. Barbara McIntyre, who was among a number of Westfield residents asked by the Friends to provide input about fund-raising projects.

"Adopt-a-Foot is a novel idea which allows everyone to help with the restoration," said Mrs. Nancy Priest, the head of fund-raising for the Friends' Board of Directors.

Mrs. Priest said she hopes local residents will buy certificates for all their family members, for ex-town residents and as holiday and birthday presents.

The Friends have set an overall $250,000 goal. In addition to the "Adopt-a-Foot" project, the Friends have established a major gifts campaign with categories of giving.

"Friends of Mindowaskin Park" T-shirts also will be available at the park's summer concerts. Mrs. Susan Debbie of North Euclid Avenue heads the Friends' T-shirt committee. Lancaster, Ltd. on Elm Street will be selling them as well.

Donors will be listed in a commemorative publication.

The restoration will include upgrading park lighting and benches, improving signs and plantings and expanding and upgrading the equipment of the playground. Drainage problems will be addressed by the town.

Town Council has authorized $10,000 toward playground-restoration work, the first project scheduled. The total cost of the playground revitalization is expected to be in the $30,000 range.

Mindowaskin Park, which will mark its 75th anniversary next year, features a pond inhabited by ducks, bridges, a bandstand, the playground, benches and a series of memorial and other plantings.

Noting the park land once was a dumping ground, Mrs. Priest said, "People in Westfield worked to establish a park in 1918. It is up to us to continue that goal by improving the facilities for future generations."

Other members of the Board of Directors of Friends of Mindowaskin Park include: Kurt C. Bauer, George R. Brownell, Mrs. Michelle E. Healy, T. Milton Kupfer, Mrs. Melba S. Nixon, Beth D. Pollack, Mrs. Marilyn A. Shields; Chairman, Mrs. Margaret C. Sur, H. Emerson Thomas, Mrs. Barbara Vincentsen and Robert L. Newell.

Prosecutor Wants Action To Aid Young Offenders

Union County Prosecutor Andrew K. Ruotolo Jr. of Westfield last Wednesday asked members of the county Juvenile Officers Association for their help in turning young offenders away from crime, published reports said.

Mr. Ruotolo called upon the association of work with him in developing non-traditional ways to address juvenile recidivism and reduce the rate by at least 5 per cent.

Speaking at a luncheon of the association at The Westwood in Garwood, Ruotolo said he will be unveiling a major strategy this fall to deal with first-time offenders.

"I will be committing my office's offenders."

The Prosecutor cited statistics showing youngsters who come into contact with the justice system for the first time have a 60 per cent chance of getting into trouble with the law again. The rate increases to 80 per cent for second-time offenders and to more than 90 per cent for youths who run afoul of the law on four occasions or more.

"Tragically, by the time a juvenile has committed four or five offenses, we have lost them to crime," he said.

Mr. Ruotolo asked the juvenile officers "to rededicate themselves to attempt to salvage our youth."

He added law enforcement officers have "twin concerns that have to be addressed. Our youth have to be accountable for their actions; a civilized society demands that. However, a civilized society has a corresponding obligation to put its energies into rehabilitating its youth. We can't afford to just warehouse troublesome youngsters and write them off."

The Prosecutor said he is "looking to the juvenile officers, who by virtue of their profession have dedicated their time and energies to our youth, to serve with me in establishing an alternative to the traditional justice system."

"We will be spending the next few months developing a program which will identify children in trouble and attempt to intervene in their lives in a meaningful way," he noted.

"My greatest natural resource is the Juvenile Officers Association and the experience and wisdom of its members," Mr. Ruotolo said. "I challenged them to risk failure. We can spend the next four years of my term pretending the problem isn't there and the system is working or we can attempt to confront the harsh reality that we have to do more."

attention and resources, as well as dedicating the rest of my term as Prosecutor to addressing the needs of the children of our county," Mr. Ruotolo said.

"I believe the criminal justice system does not meet the needs of our juveniles and must be improved if we are to make an impact on crime and curb the recidivism among youthful

'Readolympics' to Be Held At Library This Summer

"Readolympics" is the theme of the Summer Reading Club at the Westfield Memorial Library. Children who are reading on their own may join the reading club. Children who cannot yet read an entire book by themselves may join the Listening Club and earn credits for listening to stories others read to them. The rules for both clubs are outlined in a special summer program sheet available at the Children's Desk.

Reading club members will receive a reading record booklet in which to list the books they read. For every five, 10 or 15 books completed, members' names will be posted on a display wall. For 20, 30 or 40 books, members will have a United States flag posted. There also will be prizes, certificates and tickets to the finale program.

Decathlon Readers will complete 10 reading "events" to earn a medal for the display. Any reader who wishes can compete in the Decathlon game.

Listening Club members will receive a booklet in which the books they listen to may be recorded. For five books, the member's name is placed on a special poster. For 10 and 20 books stickers are added to the child's name.

The Summer Reading Club will begin on Monday, June 22, at 10 a.m. and continue through Thursday, September 10, at 8 p.m. Children may register anytime during the summer.

Westfield Library membership is required to participate in each club.

Miss Maureen Kelly Opens Just Voices

Miss Maureen Kelly, formerly of Westfield, has left VoiceCasting, where she was the Casting Director for the past five years, to launch Just Voices, a specialty casting service for radio, television, industrials and animatics, with special emphasis on the needs of the advertising industry.

The organization is headed by Miss Kelly, who is the President and Casting Director. It is located in New York City.

It has been almost 10 years since Miss Kelly came to New York City to pursue a career in the advertising business. She landed an entry-level position at McCaffrey & McCall, and as an assistant in the creative department set about learning everything she could from the creative directors, art directors, copywriters and producers at the agency.

Eighteen months later she had the opportunity to join No Soap Productions, a New York-based radio production house, where she signed on as an assistant to the company President and eventually took on the firm's in-house casting responsibilities.

Her successes and love for casting helped to inspire No Soap to establish VoiceCasting.

Miss Kelly, who had been with the firm six and a half years, enjoyed the position of Casting Director for both companies until she resigned to open Just Voices.

PROUD PARENTS...Scouts Jeffrey Hemer, left, and Keith Mellen were awarded the rank of Eagle Scout at Troop No. 77's Eagle Court of Honor, and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hemer and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Mellen, were congratulated for their help in reaching this major Scouting achievement.

Troop No. 77 Honors Two New Eagle Scouts

Scouts, Jeffrey Hemer and Keith Mellen of Troop No. 77 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Westfield, were awarded the rank of Eagle Scout at the troop's Court of Honor on June 8, and the troop inducted 18 new boys and welcomed one transfer from another community.

The Eagle rank is the highest achievement award given to Scouts by the Boy Scouts of America and is earned by only 3 per cent of all Scouts.

The requirements include extensive advancement tests, active participation and leadership in Scouting activities and the planning, supervision and completion of a service project for the Scout's school, church or community.

The invocation for opening the Court of Honor was given by the Reverend Lois Meyer of St. Paul's.

Honored guests included Assemblyman Richard H. Bagger, who is an Eagle Scout; Robert Cushman, the Colonial District Advancement Chairman, and Robert Morris, the colonial District Executive from the Watching Area Council.

Members of the candidates' families present included their parents, Troop Committeeman and Mrs. Bruce Hemer and Scoutmaster and Mrs. Bruce Mellen. In ceremonies before the Eagle awards, the troop welcomed 18 new members, many of whom recently had been Webelos Scouts in local Cub Packs.

Advancements to the ranks of Tenderfoot, Second Class, First Class and Star were recognized for several of the troop's scouts, and Eagle Scout Andrew Olson was awarded the Eagle Bronze Palm for additional merit badges beyond those required for Eagle. Appreciation certificates were presented to several adult volunteers who had worked with the troop over the past year.

The Eagle Scout ward ceremony was conducted by Troop Committee Chairman Gary Olson with the help of Assistant Scoutmasters Christian Bartholomay, Fred Egner and Edward Glynn and Mr. Cushman and Troop Advancement Chairman Allen Hatfield.

Mr. Morris officially pronounced the candidates to be Eagle Scouts. Eagle badges were presented to the new Eagles by their mothers, and miniature Eagle insignia were presented to each of the Eagle parents by their sons.

Assemblyman Bagger presented Certificates of Recognition from the New Jersey Assembly and plaques also were presented from the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders. Congratulatory messages were read from Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. and the Town Council, from the New Jersey Senate through Senator Donald T. DiFrancesco, who represents Westfield; from Representative Matthew J. Rinaldi of the Seventh District, from Governor James J. Florio, and from President George Bush.

Congratulations were also noted for Jeff from the Union County Bowling Association and from the Boy Scouts of America Valley Forge Council because of Jeff's skills as a champion bowler and as a summer camp counselor at Resica Falls Scout Reservation. The Eagle Charge was given to Jeff by his Eagle Scout brother, Alec Hemer, and to Keith Mellen by Assemblyman Bagger.

Jeff and Keith have followed very similar and very distinguished careers in Scouting since joining Troop No. 77 in 1985 as Webelos graduates from Cub Pack No. 79 at Tamaques School. Both have filled many leadership positions and are now Junior Assistant Scoutmaster and Assistant Scoutmaster, respectively, in the troop.

Both young men attended the Boy Scouts of America National Sea Base in the Florida Keys in 1988 and the National Jamboree in 1989. Both are veterans of several summers at Forestburg Scout Reservation, several Klondike Derbies and several Delaware Canoe Races, where they usually brought home a prize or two, and both were honored with membership in the Order of the Arrow.

Jeff has been a summer-camp staff member at Resica Falls Reservation in Pennsylvania, and Keith has been on the staff at Winnebago Reservation in New Jersey.

Jeff is an honor roll senior at Westfield High School and is the Captain of the Bowling Team, where he has a perfect game to his credit. He also covered var-

OFFICIAL WELCOME...Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. makes a presentation of an official exchange proclamation to visiting teachers, Mrs. Lidiya Popovitch and Sergei Chekanov.

AT THE RECEPTION...Among those attending "Moscow on the Mindowaskin" were honored guests Dr. Robert G. Petix, the Westfield High School Principal, right, and Mrs. Susan H. Pepper, the President of the Board of Education, second from right.

Russian Teachers Enjoy 'Moscow on Mindowaskin'

"Moscow on the Mindowaskin" was the theme for a reception and dinner held recently at the Assembly Hall of the Presbyterian Church of Westfield. Sergei Chekanov and Mrs. Lidiya Popovitch, teachers from the former Soviet Union, were the honored guests.

Alan Lantis, the Coordinator of Project '79, the alternative education program offered at Westfield High School, reciprocated courtesies and warm hospitality extended both to him and to Mrs. Beverly Geddis, a Westfield High School English teacher, during their visit to the former Soviet Union last October.

The evening's arrangements were through the auspices of Project People, the newly-formed organization consisting of Project '79 staff, project parents and project student representatives in the ninth through 12th grades.

The room was arrayed with color — all shades of red, white and blue. Approximately 125 people attended along with other specially-invited guests.

Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. presented the visiting teachers with an official exchange proclamation.

Among those on hand were Dr.

Robert G. Petix, the Westfield High School Principal, Dr. Thomas McHugh, Vice Principal, and Mrs. Susan H. Pepper, the Board of Education President.

Following the dinner, Mrs. Joan Robinson, the Chairman of the event, introduced Mr. Lantis and Mrs. Geddis, who narrated a program including slides of their October visit. The visiting teachers were presented with floral bouquets and copies of "A Day in the Life of America."

Mrs. Robinson thanked her committee and acknowledged the contributions by the Presbyterian Church and local businesses.

"While in America," Mrs. Robinson said, "our visitors spent three weeks observing schools in our community. They toured Trenton, Princeton, New York City and Washington, D.C., and when they told us how much they enjoyed all of it their eyes filled with tears as they said, in unison, the dinner and meeting project families was the real highlight of their trip."

Information on Project '79 and Project People can be obtained by telephoning Mr. Lantis at Westfield High School.

Multiple Listing Services Expand Homeowner Choices

For those who are shopping for a new home or looking for a buyer for their current home will find grouped together, a large number of homes on the market for buyers to browse through in a multiple listing service.

"Whether you're in the market to buy a home or sell one, multiple listing can be the key to a speedy and satisfying transaction," according to Mrs. Pinkie Luerssen, the President of the Westfield Board of Realtors.

A multiple listing service consists of a compilation of listings and market statistics for a given area and is a mechanism by which listing brokers make offers of sub-agency or cooperation with buyer agents to the other participating firms.

The concept is over 100 years old, and time has proven its success. All details of the home for sale, including price and special features, are compiled. This information is entered onto a form and then published in a Multiple Listing Service book or in a computerized data base which is leased or sold to participating agents, Mrs. Luerssen explained.

Working with an agent, buyers define their needs and wants within their price range. For example, a homebuyer may be looking for a three-bedroom home with a fireplace within a certain area. The master bedroom, however, must be located on the first floor and the buyer cannot spend more than $200,000. Using the service, the agent can determine which houses currently on the market and listed in the service satisfy these requirements, she added.

The sellers of these houses may or may not be represented by the agent with whom the buyer is working. With a multiple listing service, however, everybody benefits. Buyers have a wider selection of homes to consider, and sellers have more buyers looking at their homes, bringing the best possible price at the best possible terms, the realtor board President said.

"Some homebuyers will ask to borrow the Multiple Listing Service book so they can review the homes currently available," Mrs. Luerssen noted. In addition, photocopying the listing book violates the copyright laws. Good agents will not violate the rules and regulations of the system they have the privilege of using."

Research from the National Association of Realtors reveals 86 percent of all real estate companies are members of at least one Multiple Listing Service, many subscribe to several and 59 percent have computerized access to the service. A computerized system generally will allow for more variables to be considered when defining the buyers' interests and, of course, can speed up the search process, she added.

"The Westfield Board of Realtors has offered the service to its customers since 1946," Mrs. Luerssen noted. Over 150 offices and 1,000 agents currently participate in the Westfield Board Multiple Listing Service.

What is the future of the Multiple Listing Service? With computer technology advancing so quickly, some experts predict the service's books will become computerized portable databases and real estate agents will be able to print out listings and color photos from their cars. This data will include not only the basic information about the property and price, but also tax information, more complete market statistical packages and community particulars.

Whatever the advances, the service is here to stay — meeting the needs of both home buyers and sellers, Mrs. Luerssen said.

The Westfield Board of Realtors currently provides added exposure for buyers and sellers by its reciprocal arrangements with the Garden State Multiple Listing Service, the Summit, New Providence and Berkeley Heights Board of Realtors and with the nearby Boards of Realtors of Plainfield, Somerset, Hunterdon, Somerset and Middlesex Counties.

Added Consultant May Be Hired

was the awarding of a $24,017.50 contract to Cardell, Inc. of the Keasbey section of Woodbridge for the milling and paving of the Memorial Pool parking lot.

Ordinances also were authorized to:

- Amend the Historic Preservation Ordinance to designate all of Mindowaskin Park and the entire Veterans' Monument site as town historic sites and make it easier for the town to renovate designated sites.

- Allow realtors more options in the erection of "for sale" signs near homes, but increase the fee to $35 for each sign and raise the period for which a permit for each sign is valid from 60 to 120 days.

- Increase the fine for allowing animals to litter property from $25 to $100 per offense.

- Permitting the town to collect on tax or other liens it holds on fire-damaged property from the insurance proceeds prior to other creditors.

- Making first the seller, then the buyer, of a property rather than the realtor involved in a home sale responsible for fees for inspection for smoke detectors as required by state law.

The council also agreed to the rezoning of a 40-foot section of a building lot at 618 Central Avenue from residential to business use to conform to the zone for the rest of the lot in order to allow the developer to include parking on the site.

Realtor Board Warns About Lead Poisoning

The older your home the more likely it is to contain lead-based paint, a health concern affecting the lives of American children.

To combat this threat, homeowners and buyers can determine corrective action by submitting paint chip samples for content analysis.

"The options of testing or researching the history of a home's construction can reveal information vital to the health of homeowners and their families," Mrs. Pinky Luerssen, the President of the Westfield Board of Realtors, said.

Lead-based paint was used in about two thirds of the houses built before 1940, in about one third of the houses built between 1940 and 1960 and in some houses built since 1960.

In 1978 the government restricted the amount of lead content in paint.

Exposure to even low levels of lead can result in damage to the kidneys, brain and central nervous system.

Lead accumulation poses an acute risk to children because it is more easily absorbed into growing bodies, especially those under the age of 7. Pregnant women can transfer lead to a developing fetus. Lead also has been shown to cause reproductive problems for men, the realtor spokeswoman said.

Answers to the problem focus on whether a seller discloses a home's lead condition, as well as the buyer's choice to investigate, or if the government should impose a mandatory testing process for all home transactions.

Linking mandatory lead testing to a real estate sales transaction would result in a cumbersome process adversely affecting consumers, according to Mrs. Luerssen.

"The problem of lead-based paint in homes should be resolved by people planning to stay in a residence or by those moving into one," she noted.

"If Americans have to rely on another layer of bureaucracy imposed at the time of a home sale, it will take another generation of home sales to address the problems. In the meantime, those searching for moderately-priced homes would have to find additional money for mandatory testing fees and possible paint removal," Mrs. Luerssen added.

Seller disclosure and consumer education are endorsed by realtors as the most effective way to arrest this form of childhood lead poisoning. A bill currently under consideration in the United States Senate calls for mortgage lenders to provide a lead-disclosure statement on the dangers of lead to children, encourages concerned buyers and lessors to request lead tests to be done on the premises and requires sellers and lessors to disclose to buyers all "known lead hazards" on the property.

The Westfield Board of Realtors believes Congress should pass the Senate proposal in order to develop a faster, more reliable method of addressing the lead point health threat while protecting home values, Mrs. Luerssen said.

If mandatory lead tests performed at the point of sale were imposed on an average of 3.4 million home sales per year in the United States, it would take approximately 25 years to cover the 57 million homes at risk, she added.

For more information on the lead paint problem, Mrs. Luerssen suggested contacting the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development at 1-800-245-2691 for its publication, Lead-Based Paint: Interim Guidelines for Hazard Identification and Abatement in Public and Indian Housing.

Most fatal boating accidents occur under these conditions and in over 90 per cent of the fatalities the victim was not wearing a life jacket.

Safety Council Offers Tips for Healthy Summer

Summer vacation can be the most enjoyable time of year for families—the chance to be together, relax and have a good time "away from it all."

But poor planning can spoil a trip or lead to tragic accidents.

The New Jersey State Safety Council offers the following tips to help keep vacations safe and healthy:

• Take the proper precautions when driving as more people are killed and injured in motor vehicle crashes during the summer months than during any other time of year. Give cars pre-trip safety checks. Do not overload the vehicle or obstruct the driver's ability to see out of any window. Make certain everyone is protected with a safety belt or properly installed approved child safety seat.

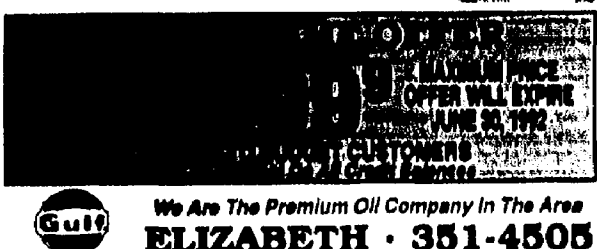

• When vacationing near water use extra caution. Swim only in areas supervised by a lifeguard and never swim alone. Drowning is the fourth leading cause of accidental death in

Rahway Residents Oppose Incinerator Road Proposal

More than 200 Rahway residents living near Union County's incinerator have signed a petition opposing a plan to connect Randolph Avenue with Route No. 1 to accommodate truck traffic going to the burner, published reports said.

The petition, signed by residents of Woodbridge Road, Randolph Avenue, East Hazelwood Avenue and Witherspoon Street, was presented to the City Council at its meeting last Wednesday.

"We have a four-block area behind where the incinerator is going that is mainly black," the Secretary of the Community Homeowners and Tenant Association was quoted as saying. "At the end of the four-block area, they want to connect Randolph Avenue with Route No. 1 and we're very upset."

"This is supposed to be a residential area and once they connect the two roads then trucks will come down our neighborhood."

She added the city, county and state are practicing "environmental racism" by placing the waste-to-energy incinerator in a predominantly African-American area of Rahway.

"Ninety per cent of the people are black and they must of thought that they could pick this area for the incinerator without much opposition from the residents," she said. "We're upset because they are going to turn our middle-class homes, which some have paid up to $200,000 for, into a ghetto."

"The state doesn't seem to understand you just can't push people around. We've petitioned Governor James J. Florio through our Concerned Citizens of Union County and we thought he would abolish the incinerator because it's only 1,500 feet from a school and only yards away from a day care center, houses and a church."

church."

Among those present at last Wednesday's meeting was an organizer of a new group of residents who live in the First and Fourth Wards. Voters in both those wards voted against the incinerator when the burner question was put to Rahway residents in 1983.

"We want people from Rahway to get out of their homes and find out what's going on in their town," the organizer said. "I want them to attend the council meetings to find out what our politicians are saying and what they are standing up for."
