Insurance Coverage for Police Officers Doubled; Premium Rises by $26,000

According to Public Safety Committee Chairman James Hely, the firefighters had been working without a contract since December.

The council also voted to double its insurance coverage, from $1 million to $2 million, on the town's police professional policy, increasing the premium from $73,000 to $99,000 for this year, and maintaining the coverage with the Scottsdale Insurance Co. of Scottsdale, Arizona.

Despite the fact hearings were held Tuesday on proposed street-improvement assessments for property owners on Sherman and Marlboro Streets and Columbus Avenue, only the hearing on Sherman Street drew public comment.

One resident, Mrs. Joanne Purdy of 731 Sherman Street, said she and her neighbors had been promised a stop street would be installed on Sherman Street and Cranford Avenue when the Sherman Street improvements were approved two years ago.

She said now there were more children on the street — thus necessitating the stop — and speed limits on Sherman Street seldom were observed. Councilman Hely replied the Public Safety Committee had received no input on the stop street from residents, but the matter would be pursued and then brought before the entire council for action.

Mrs. Purdy then said the $2,654 assessment she received for her share of the cost of the street project should have been decreased because the cost of the project had dropped from the $61,000 original estimate to $49,000.

Two Administrator John F. Malloy, Jr. replied costs for improvements were put in ordinances based on a worst-case scenario."

The range of assessments, as established in 1990, Mr. Malloy said, was $2,479 to $3,030, and the final assessment was less than the maximum and more than the minimum. The town, he said, had picked up over the years that no drastic changes were necessary in the set-up of buildings and student distributions.

There were no educational reasons to merge the two programs, no overwhelming state fiscal reason to do so, they said, and a demographic study revealed a growing middle school population that could reach 1,200 in less than 10 years.

Dr. Hughes said the reason for the increase is there are fewer women in the workforce and more married women at home for the first time in a

Cost of Improvements To Downtown Reported

Total of Expenditures Placed at $2,477,200

With the town's Downtown Improvement Committee considering ways to renovate the Westfield central business district, Town Administrator John F. Malloy, Jr. last week released to the Town Council a breakdown of the $2,477,200 in capital expenditures made since 1968 in the district.

In 1968, $35,000 was allocated for curbing and the following year $35,000 was set aside for sidewalks, $25,000 for 115 new parking spaces in a municipal parking lot and $15,000 for the installation of curbing.

Funds allocated in 1970 included $40,000 for parking meters, $425,000 for 79 new parking spaces in the parking lot across Central Avenue from the Westfield Post Office and 000 for curbing.

The following year saw $10,000 spent for parking meters, $30,000 for curbing and $24,000 for a sidewalk. In 1972 $12,000 was spent for meters, $85,000 for the addition of

39 spaces to parking lots, $42,000 for sidewalks, $6,000 for the improvement of parking lots and $14,000 for curbing.

Meters were the chief focus in 1973 with $10,000 spent.

The following year $10,000 was allocated for meters and $8,000 for sidewalk improvements. In 1976 $85,000 was spent to improve municipal parking lots on Prospect and Elm Streets and Mountain Avenue and $20,000 for equipment for attendents at the Elm Street and Mountain Avenue lots. Anew parking facility, the so-called Citgo lot, added 85 parking spaces to the town's capacity in 1977 at a cost of $380,000.

The next improvement did not come until 1983 when $30,000 was spent on meters. Two years later $45,000 was allocated for the design of a proposed parking deck on the lot across from the post office on Central Avenue and $40,000 was spent on meters.

Another new facility, the so-called 'Shell lot, added 106 spaces at a cost of $700,000 in 1986, and the same year the South Avenue Railroad Station lot was improved with 63 spaces for a total of $220,000 and the plan for the post office lot deck was can-celled, saving $1,000,000 from the town treasury.

Also in 1986, $35,000 was spent on sidewalks.

Two years later $20,000 was spent on a design for a proposed deck at the Prospect Street lot, and in 1989 $9,200 as spent for another design.
In 1990 a total of $15,000 was spent for meters.

Freeholders Face Questions On Plans For Incinerator: See Page 3

This year, $40,000 was spent for the paying of East Broad Street and $25,000 for improvement of the North Avenue Railroad Station lot.

Over the years, according to Mr. Malloy's figures, exclusive of the $1,000,000 which might have been spent on the construction of a parking deck, 2,025,200 has been spent on parking spaces, $187,000 on meters and attendants, $169,000 on curbing and paving and $144,000 on side-

CIRCLE REVISIONS...The proposed changes to the South Avenue traffic circle, as shown on this map supplied by Town Engineer Edward A. Gottko, will be the subject of a Thursday, September 24, Fown Council committee hearing. Please see another photograph on Page 2.

Proposed Revisions for Circle Topic Of Public Hearing on September 24

The Town Council's Traffic, Transportation and Parking Committee will hold a public hearing on Thursday, September 24, to consider the town's proposal for rebuilding of the Southside Traffic Circle.

Third Ward Councilman Kenneth L. MacRitchie, the Chairman of the Committee, will chair the meeting, which will start at 8 p.m. in the Council

In announcing the hearing, Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. stated, "I have asked the Transportation, Traffic and Parking Committee to review again and conduct a hearing on Westfield's proposal for redesign and rebuilding of the notorious traf-fic circle on South Avenue. This design is essentially the same as that recommended by a committee chaired by former First Ward Councilman Frank J. Rodgers with the assistance of various administration and officials including the Town Engineer, Mr. Gottko, and the Police Chief Scutti and other interested citizens."

Diagrams showing the existing circle and the town's proposal ac-companies this statement.

No change whatsoever would be made to any existing curb lines. All curbs and all sidewalks outside of the curbs would remain where they are, although it would be the town's expectation the curbs themselves would be replaced as part of the construction.

The two small traffic islands to the West will be made into one large island, which will separate traffic coming under the railroad and head-ing West on South Avenue from four lanes, two in each direction, on South

The existing circle will be turned into a "droplet" with the existing gap between the existing circle and the barrier that runs into the railroad being closed. None of the three large trees currently growing on the circle need to be removed as a result of this design.

Finally, the triangular island at the East end will be reduced in size.

Watterson Street will continue to be one way into the circle, while Westfield Avenue will continue to be one way southbound, away from the

The proposal neither adds nor subtracts parking spaces; parking is prohibited throughout the area at the present time and will continue to be prohibited.

An elaborate traffic signal system is necessary to make this work, and presumably this system also will in-clude the existing traffic lights at Westfield Avenue.

Signals also will be added to control movement out from Watterson Street, and traffic southbound under the railroad making a left turn heading eastbound on South Avenue.

I hope all Westfield residents who wish to be heard on this topic or feel they can make contributions to it based on their experience will par-ticipate in the hearing which the committee will conduct.

The traffic circle area is a vital link which connects the two areas of Westfield. Free and safe traffic flow is important to our school children, our commuters, our shoppers, our community as a whole. We need the circle redone, and redone in an acceptable way.
This circle is on a state highway

Representative Rinaldo Will Not Seek Reelection

Assemblyman Franks Wins Nod to Run for Position

If local Republican leaders have their way, the area will be represented by a new Congressional Representative and a new Assemblyman next

The changes were put in motion by Friday's surprise announcement by 20-year Republican Representative Matthew J. Rinaldo of the Seventh District, which includes Westfield, thathe will not seek an 11th two-year term in the House of Representatives. Representative Rinaldo, the ranking member of his party in Congress from New Jersey, said in a prepared statement he plans to explore "new opportunities

Middlesex and Essex Counties Tuesday night selected Assemblyman Robert D. Franks of New Providence, who now represents Westfield in the lower house of the New Jersey Leg-islature, to run for Representative Rinaldo's seat on the Republican line in November.

He will face Democratic nominee, Leonard R. Sendelsky of Colonia, in the Tuesday, November 3, General Election.

Should the Assemblyman win election to the House in November, Republican leaders in the 22nd Legislative District, which includes Westfield, would have to decide on a replacement to serve out the one-year remaining in his current Assembly term. That person presumably would run for election to a full two-year term in 1993.

Also vying for the Republican nod for Representative were Somerset County Freeholders Michael Pappas and Mrs. Rose McConnell.

Mrs. McConnell pulled out of contention, however, and threw her support to Freeholder Pappas.

The vote for Assemblyman Franks, however, was 480 to 84

The Assemblyman pledged, if elected, to work not only for the district, but for the nation as a whole in the House.

In the prepared statement announcing his intention not to seek an 11th term, Representative Rinaldo expressed regret that by leaving at the end of a term would put his successor at a disadvantage.

He or she would begin their tenure behind the large class of 1993 and 'might have to wait a decade or more to gain a position of influence in the House," the Representative said.

Being a part of the "largest fresh-man class in memory" would leave the new Representative "crowded out of a major committee assignment and forced to accept a seat on a relatively minor committee" which would not be good for the district, he added.

Although this was a very real consideration, Representative Rinaldo said, there were others, including his desire to explore new and challenging opportunities, which were more personal.

He may have reconsidered his decision if he were to become the Chairman of the House Telecommunications and Finance Subcommittee, on which he sits, the Representative noted, but this was not likely because no Republican currently serving in the House has ever chaired a committee.

"Serving in the minority is frustrating at best," he added, "but in times of heightened partisanship it is even more difficult. Frankly, the level of frustration I have felt being in the minority has gotten to the point that I have lost some enthusiasm for the ob. That has strengthened my belief it's time to move on."

Freeholders Faced with Continuing Questions About Trash Incinerator

The Union County Utilities Authority had the unpleasant task at the September 10 Freeholder meeting of trying to explain the authority's and the Freeholders' construction of the county's incinerator being built in Rahway to an angered and at times hostile crowd of opponents mostly from the Concerned Citizens of Union County, a Rahway-based group.

The basis for the argument by op-ponents is a resolution adopted by the Rahway City Council. The resolution, adopted August 10 by 5-4 margin, calls for the immediate halt to construction of the incinerator until an economic and environmental feasibility study, similar to that done in Hudson County, can be completed.

Utilities authority Chairman Angelo Bonanno, addressing the Freeholders, said, "Every avenue of this project has been investigated."

To support this statement he pointed to a stack of five boxes of materials the authority staff brought with them. The documents include over 10,000 pages of reports on everything from air quality, emissions and studies related to health and environmental

"This is the feasibility study you requested," Mr. Bonanno said. Authority Counsel, Jonathan Williams, proceeded to explain the lengthy process the Utilities Authority went through before the project was approved. He said the state had made it a requirement for counties to include resource recovery, incineration, in their solid waste plans.

Mr. Williams said 40 to 50 sites were reviewed before Rahway was chosen as the host community.

Joseph Tato, authority bond counselor, said Ogden Martin Systems Inc. of Fairfield, the company con-tracted to build the trash incinerator, was chosen after a year of reviewing bids for the project. He said $280 million in bonds was issued for the construction of the incinerator.

Mr. Williams defended the safety of the project as it pertains to me health of residents and on the environment.

"It, the incinerator, is the actual result of years of preparation, litigation and scientific examination," he

He said no successful legal challenge has been leveled against the "people involved" in the project "that would in any way demonstrate there is any health or environmental impact: to be generated by the incinerator once it is in operation.

Jeffrey Callahan, the Executive Director of the authority, spoke on the state-of-the-art technology being installed to monitor emissions release.

"The Union County facility will be the first in New Jersey to install ni-trogen dioxide controls and the first in the United States to install mercury control technology," Mr. Callahan

Hudson County Freeholder Louis Manzo explained to the Freeholders his county's decision not to pursue incineration at this time. He said the Hudson Freeholders determined the cost of landfilling toxic ash from an incinerator would be far greater than landfilling costs for solid waste are today.

"The energy benefits of incinera-tion are now awash," Freeholder Manzo said. He said Hudson County has decided to construct a materials recovery plant which would "lessen landfilling and the need to incinerate."

He said incineration was determined by the Hudson County Free-holders Environmental Committee to be "not an environmentally sound disposal strategy."
The Hudson County Freeholder

aid his his county's report determined after 60 per cent of its solid waste is recycled or composted and the remaining 40 per cent "of what is very non-burnable is left to incinerate." He added the one third of the solid waste that is burned would have to be and filled at a much higher cost.

"The cost of incineration doesn't come up to the standards," Freeholder Manzo said.

A composting facility in Hudson County would cost $8 million compared to a resource recovery plant at $178 million, he noted.

Hudson County, he said, has a plan which calls for a waste-based man-agement system combined with composting where half of Hudson's waste would be composted. The residue from composting could be utilized as a covering for landfills.

He noted the county's plan would create more jobs including construc-tion and blue collar jobs "at the same time as saving the environment."

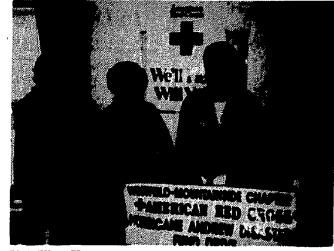

Upon questioning by Mr. Bonanno, Freeholder Manzo admitted Hudson County has not completed an environmental or economic study for construction of an incinerator.

Rahway Councilman William Wnuck said continued construction of the incinerator is bad "not just" because it will release dangerous gases into the atmosphere.

"I'm looking forward to you giving our resolution some consideration.

Councilman Wnuck added. Robert Carson, a Rahway resident and member of Concerned Citizens, said the county could create more jobs through recycling and composting than a resource recovery

He said incinerators only provide profits to "builders and politicians." City Council in attendance was Mrs. Katherine Fulcommer. She told the

"The Utilities Authority has never presented an alternative to the free-holders," Mr. Carson noted, emphasizing that Concerned Citizens presented an alternative to incineration during the public hearing process but there was no comment on the plan from the authority.

He said the boxes of documents submitted by the authority "say the facility is safe, but they might as well be boxes of money."

"I urge you to reconsider. Get estimates of what it would cost to get an alternative to incineration," Mr. Carson noted.

Mr. Tato questioned the motive, presented by Mr. Carson and other opponents, of ending a legally-binding contract with Ogden Martin.

"I would say to public officials that would say it is cost efficient to renege on a contract, check with your constituents," Mr. Tato said. Mrs. Gladys Johnson, a Rahway resident, said opposition to the facility goes beyond just the health impact. She said traffic noise from trucks entering and exiting the facility would create an additional hazard.

"The incinerator is not only going to kill you. It's going to drive you crazy," she said, adding "it's all about Katherine Fulcommer. She told the Freeholders of her city's ill-fated attempt to have the resource-recovery plant placed on a referendum so Rahway's residents could decide on the matter.

Mr. Williams noted as host community for the incinerator, Rahway will have received $1 million by the end of the year. He said the money has been placed into the city's budget and is being used to benefit Rahway residents.

They, the Rahway City Council. can't face facts. It is an enforceable contract," Mr. Williams added. Mrs. Fulcommer explained Rahway's system of government is that of a "strong mayor, weak coun-cil." She said the city's Mayor, James Kennedy, is strongly in favor of the project despite the objections of some City Council members.

Mrs. Ann Parker, another Rahway resident, pleaded to the Freeholders, "For God's sake stop construction on this incinerator."

One of the few audience members to support the incinerator was Thomas Daley of Cranford, a trustee of the Union County Development Corp.

"I can't believe what I'm hearing tonight. This Freeholder Board has been more than sympathetic to Another member of the Rahway Rahway. Let's give these people a chance to see what they can do. If it doesn't work we will shut it down," Mr. Daley noted.

Assemblyman Endorses Tax Certification Reforms

The delay in the adoption of the state budget which this year left many municipalities, including Westfield in the lurch for setting tax rates, will be avoided if legislation recently proposed by Assemblyman Richard H. Bagger of Westfield is adopted.

Under the proposal, New Jersey municipalities could have their tax levies certified within 10 days of the adoption of the state budget.

Officials from several municipalities and counties around the state complained this year budgets were not being certified by the state Division of Local Government Services in time to meet tax-payment deadlines more than six weeks after the adoption of the state spending plan.

The legislator, a former town Mayor, noted his bill requires the division to certify municipal tax levies within 10 days of the adoption of the state budget or have them deemed automatically certified after that time

As of August 24, nine days after the deadline of payment of taxes by municipalities to counties, 10 communities in Union County were without certification of tax levies and two others had not paid their county portion of taxes.

The lack of certification from the state was given as the reason for the delay in payment of taxes to the county.

The delay from the state chiefly is caused by a delay in the approval of state aid to municipalities.

Also contributing this year was the fact legislators still have not decided on the amount of property tax relief funds to go to 66 communities.

The Assemblyman also has proposed a bill granting a grace period to municipalities that cannot meet the August 15 deadline for payment of county taxes under certain circumstances.

Communities currently are assessed 6 per cent interest on late payment of county taxes.

Heart Association Health Walk Needs Support From Every Westfielder

The newly-formed West Union division of the American Heart Association will sponsor the local edition of the national American Heart Walk on Sunday, October 4, beginning at 9 a.m. in Echo Lake Park in Westfield-Mountainside.

The association will be the beneficiary of pledge money collected by walkers from those who have signed up as donors.

Reducing disability and death from cardiovascular disease and stroke is the major aim of the association.

It has conducted research which had resulted in many life-saving discoveries, including pacemakers, bypass surgery and drug therapy

If this fine work is to continue to meet the increasing demands for new methods of controlling heart disease a massive effort on the part of all Westfielders and other residents of the area is needed.

The American Heart Association obviously felt the generosity of town residents was significant, and this led to the recent formation of the new division which numbers among its board members and officers many of the town's most prominent personalities.

October 4 will be the time to back up the commitment of these people with contributions of time and money from residents and those who work in the town.

We urge all our readers to telephone 1-201-376-3636 for details and to get involved in this worthwhile endeavor.

Town Officials Shouldn't Nap On Mailboxes

A candidate for First Ward Councilman, Anthony M. LaPorta, in a recent letter to the editor wrote it is important town residents, and especially Town Council, keep a close watch over the issue of curbaide mailboxes in Westfield — something it seems postal authorities and no one

In a follow-up letter to the editor Councilman Norman N. Greco thanked Mr. LaPorts for his afterthe-fact "Rip Van Winkle" concern, since the issue was finished.

Now it tums out the curb-side mailbox issue is very much alive, and the subject of further debate. I share Mr. LaPorta's ongoing concern, and hope Mr. Greco and the rest of the Town Council are not napping themselves.

Who Will Take Us On the Road to War? As our presidential candidates continue to delineate themselves, and as they continue to be delineated by press and public, one serious difference between Mr. Bush and Mr. Clinton eludes notice. To wit, Mr. Bush is far more likely to start a war.

He has the track record to prove it. Far from being the candidate of the future, of a "new world order" (read his lips), the President is mired hopelessly in the past. His is the mind-set which has plagued the human race since the Stone Ages — nay, since original sin. Military solutions, Mr. Bush believes, will still be viable in the new world order of the 214 century and beyond. Heaven help us! Mothers with teenage sons might Second, I feel I can make a difference representing the residents of the First Ward in making Westfield a better place in which to live.

I first got involved in town govmment as a member of the town's Insurance Review Committee, being appointed by then-Mayor Richard H.

I took on the political interests that have so long treated our municipal insurance procurement as their po-litical prize. The cost of the town's insurance is the second largest fixed expense in our lown's budget.

With the support of two Republican Councilmen, Kenneth L. MacRitchie and Gary Jenkins, I fought as hard as I could to save tax dollars with real competition in our insurance procurement and end a politically-cozy system which worked against the interest of the taxpayer.

The Democratic Party, and its standard bearer, Governor William "Bill" Clinton, seem to have pre dictably turned back to their tired old New Deal strategy of exploiting class envy between the "rich" and the "poor," while putting forth a program of increasing taxes in order to stimulate the economy. This is an incredibly short-sighted policy and does not stand up to even the most casual analysis of modern economic history. It will destroy jobs, not create

The first thing that Governor Clinton and his party should realize is not all Democrats have been shackled to this knee-jerk tax policy. When Ronald Reagan ran for the Presidency in 1980, he compared his tax-cutting plan to John Kennedy's tax cuts which brought about the economic boom of the 1960s.

It appears to defy logic in today's political climate a Republican like Mr. Reagan would use a Democratic President's experience as a blueprint for a successful future. The point does not register on the Democrats and Governor Clinton.

The capital gains tax cut has been referred to by Governor Clinton and his Democratic Congressional allies as a "tax break for the rich." If this is true, then how does the Democratic Party of today explain when the capital gains tax was cut by the Steiger Amendment in 1977, when Jimmy Carter was President, the number of black-owned businesses rose by 50 per cent over the next five years, the lurgest increase ever.

The sad truth for the Democratic Party is a high capital gains tax rate is realfy just an attempt to protect the status quo, to help the current rich stay rich by shielding them from the competition of entrepreneurial capitaliam. This country has to find a way to make capital available to the entrepreneurs of the American economy, who will quickly and efficiently become the engineers of job creation.

During the "failed" Reagan years 20 million jobs were created, almost entirely by small businesses, which represented 90 per cent of all the jobs created during that period.

Over the past year, the economy has been challenging for local business people, to say the least. Closer cooperation between property owners and business tenants can increase business vitality. Local businesses are emphasizing good service and customer and client communication.

To further prove the point, Governor Clinton and the Democrats should open their eyes to what is happening around the globe. The world's fastes! growing economy today is Hong Kong, and their top tax rate is 15 per cent. The United States is now in a position in which we must compete for capital with nations like Hong Kong. Hightax rates leave us in a less competitive position to attract the capital to create jobs.

Is there just a casual relationship between high taxes and unemploy-

In New Jersey we have been unfortunate enough to have been the experiment for Professor James J. Florio's thesis on the subject, and we now lead the nation in unemployment at almost 10 per cent.

In New Jersey, we must "compete" with New York, Pennsylvania, the sunbelt states and the rest of the nation to not only attract new businesses. but to keep the ones we already have! Once you develop a reputation as being "anti-business," is there any doubt which direction unemployment will go? President George Bush and the Republican Party have a plan that could settle this debate once and for all. We not only must lower all tax rates, especially the capital gains rate, to allow us to compete more efficiently in the world economy, but we also must pass Housing and Urban Development Secretary Jack Kemp's Urban Enterprise Zone plan.

Not only will this pull the country out of our current economic problems, but it will allow us, for the first time ever, to approach the economic conditions in our inner cities with the same economic tools which have unleashed the economies of Hong Kong, Mexico, Chile and Taiwan, to name but a few.

Governor Clinton may be a younger man than George Bush, but his economic thinking makes him sound more like President Bush's grandfa-

Overcharging Under Medicare Is a Common Practice

· By Herb Rase

Last week I promised to tell you how to protect your assets should you have enormous nursing home bills. I decided to contact an attorney who has a great deal of experience in these mattern. As a contact the asset of the protections will result, the answers to our questions will come next week from Richard Gordon, Esq., a Westfield attorney.

Now I want to discuss how medicare really did not protect senior citizens fro really did not protect sensor citizens from physicians' overcharges. There is legis-lation now pending to force refunds where beneficiaries are overcharged. The bill, introduced in Congress, would require physicians to refund any amount above the legally-allowed limited for Medicarepatients. Recognizing that much of the overcharging is unintentional, the bills also called for stepped-up efforts to keep physicians informed of the new limitations.

The legislation is aimed at those doctors who do not "participate" in Medicare, i.e., those who do not accept Medicare's approved fee as payment in full. This year, non-participating physicians are allowed to charge up to 120 per cent of what Medicare approves for any particular procedure—next year, the limiting charge will be dropped to 115 per cent.

The fee limitation would provide some

The fee limitation would provide some protection for the Medicare recipient. The bill was introduced by Senator William Cohen, a Republican from Maine, as well as Senate Aging Committee Chairman, David Prior, a Democrat from Arkansas. The Medicare Beneficiary Protection Acts is Senate Bill No. 2698.

Two similar bills recently were introduced in the House, one by Representa-tive James McDermott, a Democrat from Washington State, called House Resolu-tion Bill No. 5115, the Medicare Ben-eficiary Financial Protection Act, and another by Representation John Rhodes, a Republican from Arizona called the Medicare Beneficiary Access and Financial Protection Act of 1992, House Resolution No. 5002.

At a hearing recently, all kinds of stories about physician overcharges were discussed. New York state resident Stanley Lipson, 68, told lawmakers when he un derwent surgery, his physician charged him almost $1,000 above the Medicare approved fee for the procedure. Medicare's approved fee was about $1,100 but his physician charged $2,300, even though the doctor was legally re-stricted from charging more than 120 per cent of the approved charge, about $1,320. But because the limit was not adhered to nor enforced, Mr. Lipson wound up paying more than he was legally responsible for.

to Medicare, his doctor and senior advo-cates, before Mr. Lipson received a refund. It look over a year to straighten out the matter, Mr. Lipson reported.

Medicare claims the present law relative to limiting charges in vague and Medicare does not know how to enforce

The American Medical Association The American Medical Association claims that Medicare does not explain clearly on their Explanation of Medicare Benefits form. Previously, the form indicated the beneficiary always was responsible for any difference between what Medicare pays and what the physician charges, which is not true under the new law. The medical association never surlaw. The medical association never supported Medicare anyway.

Medicare has since removed the confusing wording from the form and agreed to use future forms to alert beneficiaries of fees in excess of limiting charges. At the Senate's balanced billing hearing, a Medicare official admitted a certain the physician and the beneficiary of the American Medical Association officials contend only a small percentage of physicians bill above the limiting charge, and most do so simply because they and most do so simply because they haven't been informed of the new fee

But I would like to have Congress investigate the entire Medicare billing process to see how much overcharging is being done! I'll bet the American Medical Association is wrong. Rococo - art, literature, architecture and music that is too elaborate for current tastes; florid, tasteless. gaudy.

The rococo period of art, decoration and architecture, which followed the baroque period of the 17th century, originated in France about 1720. This style is characterized by smallness of scale, delicacy of color and playfulness of subject.

Rococo can be traced to the French word, rocaille, used to describe a decorative and architectural style that relied on excessive use of shells. Rocaille, in turn, can be traced to a Latin word for rocks.

Though the word florid, used in the description above, is employed most often to describe a rosy or ruddy complexion, it was originally used to describe art or architecture that is flowery. Florid, in fact, is derived from the Latin word floridus, meaning flowery.

Baroque, incidentally, is derived from barroco, a Portuguese word meaning imperfect pearl. This style of architecture and art, which flourished between 1550 and 1750 was ornate and characterized by curved, rather than straight lines of the preceding renaissance period.

Mr. LaPorta stated the $9,000 fee paid to the consultant would be money that certainly could be saved.

"As a member of the town's Insurance Review Committee, I examined the services provided by the Insurance Consultant and found them to be a repetition of what already had been provided by our town's Insurance Agent and the town's Insurance Advisory Committee," said the First Ward candidate.

Mr. LaPorta went on to say he addressed the Town Council last year on this subject. At that time he recommended the Council save taxpaycra' money by eliminating the Consultant's position, since all the services this position offers already are provided in the insurance premiums paid by the town through Westfield's insurance agent, and/or free of charge by the Advisory free of charge by the Advisory with the increased tax bite the Town Council is giving us this year, up over 30 per cent in 1992, and the promise of similar increases for the next few years, we must cut out of the budget all expenses that are not needed and that do not give us a great return on tax dollars spent," Mr. LaPorta noted.

There is a real difference for the voters in the November election, between myself and my opponent. I have spoken about ways to save tax dollars through insurance reforms for the last two years. Insurance is the second largest expense in the town's budget. Mr. Mebane has supported ever-increasing taxes by voting for expenses, such as the re-appointment of the Insurance Consultant, that don't really serve the best interest of the taxpayer," Mr. LaPorta said.

First Ward Survey Results Told by Councilman Mebane

First Ward Councilman David Mehans this week released the results of his Annual Survey and Questionnaire sent to registered voter house-holds in the First Ward earlier this year. Councilman Mebane is seeking re-election in November to the position of Town Councilman from the First Ward.

"Approximately 400, or 17 percent, of the 2,300 households which received questionnaires responded," Councilman Mebane said.

"Overwhelmingly, the greatest concern of persons responding to the survey was controlling property taxes in Westfield. This is an issue to which not only the Town Council, which accounts for about 20 per cent of Westfield tax bills, must respond, but also the county, which accounts for 20 per cent and the School Board, which accounts for 60 per cent. Many respondents, including senior citi zens, were concerned about the increasing salaries and benefits of both municipal employees and teachers,' he said.

Approximately 50 per cent of the spondents ranked the closing of Roosevelt School, the future of the Central Business District and crime in Westfield as being among their top three greatest concerns.

"Overwhelming support for keep-ing Roosevelt School open provides a good barometer of public opinion in this area," he added.

Respondents were very vocal about the importance of the Central Business District to the quality of life in Westfield. In general, substantial concern was expressed about the closing "of many of our local stores" and "maintaining the look and character of Westfield as a true New England Town in New Jersey," he said.

Reflecting on the incidents this summer at the Mindowaskin Park Bandstand, vandalism topped the list of crime problems in Westfield, he said. Running a close second was car thefts, with requests being made for protecting parked cars in the street, he noted.

A number of respondents ranked speeding cars/trucks on local residential roads as a high priority as well as the need for additional patrols in local neighborhoods.

With regard to leaf collection, over 60 per cent of those responding to the questionnaire stated they had been satisfied with leaf collection during the previous year. However, nearly a third expressed concern that leaf collection should start earlier and should be more frequent, he said.

Overwhelming support was expressed for implementation of anAttic Waste Day, When asked how an Attic Waste Collection Day could be paid for, less than a third favored an additional tax assessment, but a majority supported an attic waste collection system paid for on a per item basis.

Gardenaires Set To Meet September 23

AMBLYOPIA

If you see a young child wearing an eye patch, it may be that there has been an injury and the eye is covered to help it heal. But more likely, these days, an eye doctor has diagnosed amblyopia, or "lary eye," and the patch is a common treatment.

Amblyopia is a fairly common functional disorder found in young chaldren: one eye sees sharply and the other doesn't. If the condition is not treated, the bran learns to depend on vision in the better eye and ignores that "message" of the poorer one. In time, the child loses effective vision in that eye.

Professional treatment, started early enough, can successfully restore binocular vision. Eyeglasses may be required as part of the procedure. Often, the child wears a patch on the "good" eye to force the use of the one with poorer Mann.

Overlook Hospital in Summit was one of 21 United States hospitals to participate in the results of an international study that is expected to lead to shorter hospital stays and fewer deaths among patients with weakened heart muscle.

The study, announced in the September 3 New England Journal of Medicine, was organized by the National Heart, Lung and Blood Insti-

Results of the "Studies of Left Ventricular Dysfunction — Prevention Trial" found the drug enalapril reduced the likelihood of hospitalization and the development of heart failure in patients with weakened hearts but no overt signs of heart failure.

Enalapril, a member of the ace inhibitor class of drugs, reduces constriction of blood vessels and thereby decreases the work of the heart. The most common use of this class of drugs, until the studies, was as a treatment for chronic heart failure and hypertension.

The treatment trail studied patients who were already suffering from chronic heart failure. That study also found such patients had significantly fewer deaths and hospitalizations when given enalapril. However, the study did not examine enalapril's preventive effects.

The results of the five-year prevention trail involved 4,228 patients at hospitals in the United States, as well as in other hospitals in Canada and Belgium. The prevention trial of this study confirms that patients who have been determined, through examinations, to be at-risk for heart failure, can live medicine is administered to them as a preventive measure," said Dr. John iregary, the Director of Overlook Hospital's Cardiopulmonary Department and an investigator in the

In chronic heart failure, the heart's ability to pump blood is seriously reduced, leading to fluid collection in the lungs and body and to insufficient blood flow to organs. Its symptoms may include shortness of breath, fatigue, weakness and swollen legs.

Chronic heart failure has become more common in recent years, largely due to improved survival from heart attack and hypertension and from a growing older population.

Patients in the prevention study had weakened heart muscle condition known as left ventricular dysfunction. Their hearts were able to pump no more than 35 per cent of normal volume with each beat. Most had suffered a heart attack. None had yet developed overt symptoms of heart failure and, at the time of their admittance to the trial, none had been taking drugs to prevent the onset of symptoms.

Heart patients at Overlook are also participating in two other ongoing national research trials. In the "Gusto" study, sponsored by Genentech, Inc., victims of recent heart attacks are asked to participate in a comparison of three different thrombolytic drug regimens.

In the "Onset" study, coordinated by the National Institutes of Health, recent heart attack victims are surveyed to find out what they were doing in the hours preceding their attack. Results from those studies are expected in the near future.

Adult School Features Sound of Big Bands

The sounds of the bands of Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey and other big bands will be heard at the Westfield Adult School this fall in a course called The Big

Using records and tapes, the course will trace the history of the big band era, its musicians and its singers along with the important part New Jersey played in the big band era of the

The instructor will be Robert MacPherson of Westfield, a former big band critic, writer and disc jockey. The records and tapes will come from his own extensive collection as well as from the archives of RCA Records, the Institute of Jazz Studies at Rutgers and local public libraries. 'I think we'll have something for to Guy Lombardo and Spike Jones, Mr. MacPherson said. "New Jersey played a unique role in the big band era. Not only did many of the musicians come from our state, but New Jersey had many of the famous ballrooms such as the Meadowbrook in Cedar Grove and the Marine Ballroom at the old Steel Pier in Atlantic City where radio broadcasts helped make the bands famous." The course will begin on Monday, Legislation that would repeal the provision of the Quality Education Act requiring municipalities to spend their surplus funds passed the As-sembly by a vote of 70-0 on Sep-

American History Topic for Sons Vincent J. Parlapiano of Roselle Park will address the first fall meeting of the Westfield Fields Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, September 29 at Grace Presbyterian Church at 1100 Boulevard, Westfield.

County Historical Society, and a Past President of the Rahway Historical Society, Mr. Parlapiano is a scholar of early American history. His presentation will cover colonial taverns and the true saga of Molly Pitcher. The speaker is a volunteer at the Union County Cultural and Heritage Affairs Office, and was among those $100,000 a few years ago to save the Merchants' and Drovers' Tavern in Rahway from demolition.

The measure is sponsored by Assemblymen Richard H. Bagger and Robert D. Franks, who represent the 22nd District, which includes West-

The bill, which now heads to the Senate for consideration, would repeal a provision in Chapter No. 63 of the Public Laws of 1991 requiring all municipalities that collect school taxes in advance to refund the surplus funds over a four-year period.

The forced spending of municipal surplus funds has been criticized by local officials as fiscally irresponsible.

"We are seeking to repeal this portion of the law because after four years of mandated surplus reduction. municipalities will find themselves without any surplus funds and will be forced to substantially increase property taxes," Assemblyman Bagger said. He said the Quality Education Act threatens the fiscal integrity of many communities by dissipating municipal assets and reducing investments revenues.

"Our legislation would allow local governments to determine for themselves what level of surplus and investment they should have," the Assemblyman added.

Overlook to Sponsor Free Eye Screening

Overlook Hospital in Summit, in cooperation with the Medical Society of New Jersey, will sponsor a free eye screening program on Tuesday, September 22, and Friday, September

The eye screening is open to any-one who is over 35 and is not under ophthalmological care.

At the eye screening, Overlook Hospital ophthalmologists will check for any evidence of eye disease or any general disease reflected in the eyes that should be additionally treated by a physician. Prescriptions for eyeglasses and contact lens fittings will not be included.

The cost of the screening is free. The screenings will be held at Over-look on Tuesday, September 22, from 4 to 7 p.m., and at the Summit Rectention Center on Friday, September 25, from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

For additional information, please call Overlook a Department of Tealth Isducation at 522-2963.

First Baptists Renovate Church

Seventy-one-year-old coping stones, roof slates and gargoyles are being replaced and repaired at The First Baptist Church of Westfield.

"The years have taken their toll on our English country stone building and it was time to make major repairs before further damage occurred," spokesman Robert Yorke, the Chairman of the Facilities and Finance Committee, said. Jack Alpaugh of Westfield headed the capital funds committee that raised all of the funds for the major project. He was assisted by other committee members, Mrs. Gladys Gleason, Allen R. Malcolm, Harold Hammar, Ronald Taylor, Mr. Yorke, Mrs. Jean Kellogg and Alan Greenlaw.

Robert Eckman, a Westfield architect, has coordinated the renovation work with the Newman Company and several sub-contractors. Work began in August and is expected to be completed by the end of September.

St. Helen's Provides Camp for Ill Children

This past summer, 50 children with cancer or serious blood disorders attended camp in upstate New York, mainly due to the generosity of members of St. Helen's Roman Catholic Parish in Westfield. The camp was founded by St. Helen's late Religious Education Director, Sister Patricia Daly, and Leo Forrest in 1985.

Today, the camp runs in memory of Sister Patricia with Mr. Forrest serving as the Executive Director. Each child attends at no cost: the money is raised largely through an annual raffle sponsored by the parish.

The majority of campers are pa-tients at Babies Hospital in New York City. The staff from the Division of Pediatric Hematology-Oncology provides medical care throughout the week, as well as training for the approximately 65 volunteers. The volunteers include Marist Brothers and local teens and adults from St. Helen's, all of whom donate their time as counselors, drivers and kitchen staff members.

Camp activities are the same as any other camp — swimming, arts and crafts, story-telling and woodworking.

The camp's goal is to provide a traditional week of summer camping to children who otherwise might not be able to attend camp, be it due to health factors or an uncomfortable feeling at other camps.

St. Helen's already is planning for next years' camp, its eighth annual. The cancer camp raffle will be held in

Mrs. Whitmore, Was Active In St. Paul's Church

Mrs. Richard Maxwell Whitmore, who had lived in Westfield from 1954 to 1976, died at Hackettstown Hospital Friday evening, September 11, after a brief illness.

Born Miss Muriel Reid Hooper in 1909 at Pompton Lakes, she was the daughter of the Reverend Edward P. Hooper, for many years Rector of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Innocents in Hoboken, and Mrs. Hooper. She was a graduate of St. Agatha's Episcopal School in New York City and of Wilson College in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania.

A French major, Mrs. Whitmore was in one of the first groups of American college students to do their junior year studies in Paris at the

Before moving to Westfield, Mrs. Whitmore lived in Short Hills and Chatham and subsequent to her years in town, in Crestwood Village and Hackettstown.

Boy Booters Ranked First in the Nation

Playoffs for Men's Singles

Begin; Final Standings Told

This year's Westfield boys' Soccer Team was voted the No. 1 high school accer team in the nation by the National Soccer Coaches Association, despite losing 11 players to graduation.

Senior forward, Mike Cort, commented, "One of the major problems the new rank will give us this year is some of our less competitive opponents will have more incentive to beat us. The rank will just make our season that much harder than it already is."

The No. 1 ranking was a surprise to many after a scrimmage loss to state powerhouse St. Benedict's 2-1.

Jeff Hang scored Westfield's lonely goal in last week's loss.

"We weren't even close to the kind of play that we are capable of against St. Benedict's. It was an all-around terribly-played game; and we only lost by one," Senior Co-Captain Mike Ryan said. Westfield opened its regular season

Last year the Westfield Boys' Cross Country Team rolled over its competition en route to capturing country, conference and state sectional titles.

What's the problem?

Five of its seven Varsity members can now be found in places such as Duke, Brown and Princeton Universities. What's the answer?

This year's team may actually be bet-ter. Co-Captain Matt Gorbaty and junior, Andy Ruggiero, last year's top two run-ners, are back, and join with Co-Captain Chris Demasi to form one of the top trios

A group of underclassmen, led by sophomores, Ted Kilcommons and Adam Barcan, and juniors, Rich Kostro and Jim Nicoll, also will help ease the loss of seniors, Dan Barcan, Mike Chung and Chris Griffith.

In a recent time trial in Tamaques Park, this group took the top seven spots. Ac-cording to Coach Jack Martin, the times, on average, were faster than last year's.

Mrs. Melba N. Nixon, another board member, said she wanted to take issue with the consultants for the dense jargon employed in the report.

"I'm going to quarrel with you just a little bit. Why use terms like mimetic or transformation? Though we have a highly literate and thoughtful community, you don't want to use those terms" she said.

Mr. Smith said he concurred. "I want to agree with you, and that

The Hotspurs' defense led the charge against Flemington by limiting their opponents to one shot on goal in the entire game. Hallbacks, Bradley Gillin; Brandon Kape, and Gienn Hurley, dominated the midfield and Igaited the Hotspurs' offensive drive.

Walker scored on an assist from Ryan MacDonald, with a volley past the goalle. Hallbacks, Kape and Odachowski, assisted on the next goal as they delivered the balt torst flex. Rothychild.

backs, Kape and Odachowski, assisted on the next goal as they delivered the ball to striker, Rothschild, walting in front of the net. A few ninutes later Rothschild assisted on a goal socored by Bottini. MacDonald scored a goal to the lower lefthand corner of the net. In the second half, Walker scored on a break away from mid-field, beating the goalle to his right. The final goal of the game was scored by Odachowski on an assist from striker, Nick Gelsder.

After spotting Bridgewater a two-goal advantage, the Hotspura' offensive threat, led by strikers, Michael Farley, Gelssler and Rothschild, produced a goal as Boitini scored from short range on a loose hall in front of the goal.

Against Somerset Hills in the first half the Hotspurs completely dominated Somerset Hills, not permitting a single shot on goal and allowing the ball to corss mid-field only briefly. Fullback Evan Molloy; Odachowski, and Kape, led the defense, Somerset Hills cause back in the second half, shuttling down the Hotspurs' offense and moving the ball the length of the field. A loose ball voiley laily by Somerset Hills mid-way through the second half proved to be the winning and only tally.

Echo Lake Park Walk To Benefit Heart Group

Hundreds of Union County citizens will join thousands of walkers around the state to walk all over cardiovascular diseases during the American Heart Walk, slated for Sunday, October 4, at 9 a.m. in Echo Lake Park in Westfield-Mountainside.

The American Heart Association's "American Heart Walk" is a national event held in communities across the country during the first weekend in October.

The non-competitive, just-for-fun eventis expected to draw participants of all ages. The walkers will raise money for cardiovascular research by asking friends and co-workers for contributions for walking the course. "We're excited about this event," we re excited adout this event, Steven Edwards, the Union County Chairman said. "Cardiovascular diseases, including stroke, are America's No. 1 killer. They affect people in their 30s, 40s, and 50s — often their most productive years. Children aren't excluded from cardiovascular diseases either. There only are two ways to fight them — finding the cure through research and preventing them in the first place. We'll have lots of information at the American Heart Walk on how to help prevent cardiovascular diseases and stroke, including getting the regular exercise that helps strengthen your heart muscle.

"over 30,000 die annually from some form of heart disease and over two million state residents have one or more forms of cardiovascular dis-

Each walker raising $100 will get an American Heart Walk T-Shirt and will be eligible for prizes for raising money to fight cardiovascular dis-

The American Heart Association is the nation's largest voluntary health agency dedicated to the reduction of disability and death from heart and blood vessel diseases, which annually kill almost one million Americans. Last year the American Heart Association spent more than $218 million for research, support and public and professional education and community programs.

For more information on how to participate or sponsor a walker, please telephone Mrs. Karen Weiss, at the American Heart Association at 201-376-3636.

Walk Will Be Sponsored To Benefit Hospital Unit

The annual Healthy Heart Walk to benefit Rahway Hospital's Healthy Heart Center will be held in Union County Park in Rahway on Sunday, October 11.

The Healthy Heart Center, which has been in operation since September 1988, is dedicated to cardiac well-being through prevention and rehabilitation. This is accomplished through individualized nutrition and exercise programs, educational sessions and stress management training. Since its inception, enrollment in the program has risen to more than 350 participants and continues to rise.

The one-and-a-quarter-mile walk will be sponsored by the Rahway Hospital Foundation, the Kiwanis Club of Clark, Hoechst-Roussel Pharmaceuticals Inc. and DuPont Pharmaceuticals.

The first 250 registrants will receive Healthy Heart Center baseball caps and certificates will be awarded to all who complete the walk. Last year, more than 160 area residents of all ages participated in and completed the leisurely walk which traces the lake and various groves of Union County Park.

Also, the 10th annual Run For Life will be held in conjunction with the walk. The hospital foundation and the Kiwanis Club of Clark will sponsor this event, which includes a one-and-a-quarter-mile, two-and-a-half-mile and five-mile races. Proceeds will benefit Kiwanis' service activities as well as the Healthy Heart Center

The courses have been accurately measured with a surveyor's wheel and computerized scoring will be implemented for the races. The park will be closed to traffic during the walk and races. Complimentary convenient parking will be available behind Huffman-Koos, directly across from the park on St. Georges

Raffle winners will be drawn following the completion of events, at approximately 10 a.m. The grand prize is a three-day, two-night vacation package for two valued at $600 courtesy of the Pocono Manor Inn & Golf Resort. Other raffle prizes to be awarded include a day at the spa for two valued at $160 courtesy of the Hilton at Short Hills and gift certificates donated by Herman's World of Sporting Goods, L'Affaire Restaurant of Mountainside and Fulton Restaurant of Rahway.

The fee for entries in the walk or any of the three races received by Monday, October 5, is $8; same-day registration on Sunday, October 11, is $10.

Registration forms may be obtained and raffle tickets may be purchased through the Healthy Heart Center by telephoning 499-6073, or Rahway Hospital Foundation Development Office at 499-6135.

odically, not constantly.

Mr. Flynn then presented Mrs. Marilyn Kelly, the Manager of the office, who has been in that position for the past eight years.

Mrs. Kelly explained most of the time parking is no problem and described the daily routine of her salespeople.
Mrs. Elizabeth H. List, a board member, asked Mrs. Kelly what area her office covered, and Mrs. Kelly replied the office dealt with clients from Edison to Elizabeth, Warren and Berkeley Heights.

Board Chairman Allen R. Malcolm asked Mrs. Kelly if the office will expand further in the future, to which she responded that no future expansion was planned.

Mrs. Karen Rhodes, the owner of Fine Toys Ltd. at 256 East Broad Street, said this application seemed to her as an attempt to "squeeze a business out of town," and discussed the parking problem, particularly on Thursday evening.

Another neighbor mentioned the parking situation hasn't changed, and the "spots are used as convenience spots."

Third Ward Councilman Gary G. Jenkins, a member of the Downtown Committee, said he was very concerned about seeing "more and more 'bigger guys' coming in" and said "more office space is fine, but I don't think it enhances the town."

Mrs. Felice Cohen, the owner of Felice at 266 East Broad Street, said. we have to monitor the lots and pick up garbage," and the area in which the cars from the Coldwell Banker/ Schlott office are parked is "a hazard and it's filthy." Mr. Flynn, after discussion with Mrs. Kelly, said "we don't want to be. a big person pushing out a little per-son," and noted Mrs. Kelly had replied the debris in the lot area was from movie-goers at the adjacent Rialto

Mr. Flynn also said Schlott has been a "good tenant," and said a concerted effort would be made by Schlott in "considering all that was

After Mr. Malcolm quoted from the Master Plan of Westfield, he stressed retail business was primarily desired in the downtown area, and offices were a secondary use.

Gary T. Hall, a board member, said the parking is more intensive than at a retail establishment, and Mr. Malcolm concluded a lot of office space is currently available in West-

The board then voted to unanimously deny the application. The next application was that of Brand Travel Service at 204-206 Lenox Avenue, which had applied to convert the use of its building to combination office and residential

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brand, the applicants, were represented by Mr. Flynn, who explained during the testimony, this building, which had been an eight-family house since the 1920s, has been a problem to its owners, and said the applicants were "trying to make the best of a very bad situation." Mr. Flynn said the first floor would be used for a retail ousiness, and the second and third floors would be residential. Town Engineer Edward A. Gottko said the town cannot issue permits

In other business, Westfield High School Athletic Director Gary Kehler appeared to seek approval for dugout plans for the Rahway Avenue athletic field, and said the dugouts would be a "ground-level type structure." The application was unanimously approved. Mr. Flynn also appeared to discuss a new site plan concerning the Pros-pect Street lots being developed by loseph Scalzadonna, as part of the Mt. Laurel settlement, in which tree removal has begun.

Charles H. Brandt, the Town Attorney, was present to mention slight adjustments in lot sizes had been made, with some smaller and some larger now. Citizens of the area were present to express concern about drainage, to which engineer, Michael Sosinski, responded drains will be maintained and expanded.
One citizen said he hoped the town would maintain the construction on a "quality basis," and said "before you give approval, be considerate." The board then approved the new CANINE THERAPY...Mrs. Anna Haefell, 98, of Westfield enjoys the company of a dog during a pet therapy session at Meridian Nursing Center-Westfield as a nursing home staff member helps out.

Pet Therapy Brings Joy to Meridian Patients documented as an effective therapy, as the residents in Meridian Nursing Westfield can attest.

These pets' visits provide physical stimulation for those who may have motor-coordination difficulties, social interaction for those who are bedbound and memory stimulation and reminiscence.

Pet visits are part of Meridian-Westfield's "Quality of Life Program.

This program requires all employees to participate in enhancing the residents' quality of life through employee-chosen activities whether it's facility wide, or just one-on-one.

Some employees participate in large events like the annual fashion show, gong show or holiday dance.

Others provide manicures, letter writing or personal visits.

The Administrator hosts the men's club for lunch with her home-cooked stuffed shells and meatballs.

Meridian Nursing Center-Westfield has many other innovative programs for the residents. The facility recently began a special program for Alzheimer's residents called Focus. The Focus program provides a small-group setting, offering a positive, supportive and safe environment plus specially designed activities, including pet visits.

For more information about Meridian-Westfield and its programs, please telephone the Admissions Director at 233-9700. The public may visit from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Councilman Jenkins Backs Downtown Improvements

Third Ward Councilman Gary G. Jenkins, seeking re-election in the Tuesday, November 3, General Election, has endorsed the creation of a Downtown Management Cor-poration and a Special Improvement District to finance and manage a downtown parking deck and other downtown improvements.

Councilman Jenkins recommended a financing structure in which the town government would borrow on the town's well-established credit rating, and would lend the money to the Downtown Management Corporation for construction of the parking deck and other downtown improve-

Repayment of the loan would come from parking-deck meter revenues and from special assessments on the real property in the downtown Special Improvement District. However, no additional financial burden would he placed on the residential taxpayers of Westfield.

Third Ward Councilman Kenneth L. MacRitchie also endorsed this approach, calling it "both politically feasible and financially feasible."

Councilman Jenkins noted his active participation in the Downtown Westfield Committee, which was formed to enhance the central business district.

He expressed support for a comprehensive program of downtown improvements; the most important would be a parking deck to alleviate the downtown parking shortage, but other improvements, such as better lighting, would be included.

He also described the benefits of having a Downtown Management Corporation; in addition to operating a parking deck, such a corporation could conduct retail promotion and retail recruitment activities.

According to Councilman Jenkins, a facade-improvement revolving loan fund, operated by the Downtown Management Corporation, could be established to finance the rehabilitation of the facades of downtown buildings.

"The central business district is an important part of Westfield, and I shall continue my efforts to create a downtown of which the entire community can be proud," commented Councilman Jenkins.

The Miller-Cory House Museum at 614 Mountain Avenue, Westfield, will begin its 20th year as a "living museum" when it reopens on Sunday, September 20, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Samuel Miller purchased 100 acres of land in the "West Fields" of Elizabethtown and began building the farmhouse for his bride, Mrs. Sabra Miller, in 1740. A private residence until 1972, the Miller-Cory House Museum has been serving the public ever since.

Visitors may experience daily life on a New Jersey farm as volunteers in period costume demonstrate crafts and chores appropriate to the seasons.

Mrs. Patricia Hubinger and Mrs. Helen Fazio will demonstrate spinning, a process in which fibers are twisted and elongated into yarn. Spinning wool fibers in early New Jersey was sometimes done with a large spinning wheel known by various names such as a great wheel, wool wheel or walking wheel. Smaller spinning wheels with foot treadles also were used to spin wool in addition to spinning flax fibers into lines thread.

The inventory taken of Joseph Cory's estate in 1802 includes three pairs of wool cards, used for preparing the fibers for spinning, one spinning wheel, a spooling wheel, and swifts, used for winding yarn. Tours of the restored farmhouse with furnishings based on the 1802 inventory will be conducted throughout the afternoon. Openhearth cooking demonstrations will take place again this fall in the Frazee building where the cooking committecuses period recipes, and herbs and vegetables from the museum's gar-
