'Restrictiveness' of State Cap May Result in $100,000 Cut In Proposed School Budget

Total of $50,000 Trimmed From Account for Purchase of Textbooks; Private School Costs Total $223,376; Pre-Labor Day Opening Voted Down

By TUCKER TRIMBLE

Westfield Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Mark C. Smith, continued to discuss the proposed School Budgetof $44,925,246 for 1993-1994 at the regular school board meeting

Tuesday night.

New information received by Board Secretary, Dr. Robert C. Rader, in meetings with state officials now enable the board to calculate actual state aid figures and add in calcula-tions for the cap, although final fig-ures for the division of capital and current expenses were not specified.

"This information is split for us; some good, some bad," Dr. Smith said. "It's not consistent with what we understood to be the level of aid from the state. We are looking at ways to reduce costs further. We are satisfied with the percentage increase, 4 per cent, but concerned with how that translates into taxes."

The proposed 14-cent increase in the school tax rate due to the budget would mean a $280 increase in taxes on a town home valued at $200,000.

This amount was incorrectly reported as $80 in last week's Westfield Transition aid from the state is $1,118,272, which is within $8,000 of the aid received last year, Dr. Rader reported, and cap is set at 5.63 per cent, although he is not comfortable with the application of the cap to the "The cap may be more restrictive than I thought," Dr. Rader noted, "We may have to cut $100,000 from the budget to comply with it.'

Since the first reading of the budget, $50,000 already has been cut from the textbook line item. New health textbooks for the elementary schools have been postponed for another year.

Total proposed expenditures for instruction are $25,375,703, which is 56.64 per cent of the budget. "This is as it should be," said Dr. Rader, adding there is an unwillingness to cut these programs. Also difficult to reduce are fixed charges, such as health, insur-ance and special-education costs.

Almost a quarter of a million dol-lars, $223,376, is allocated for subsidizing students who attend private schools, either in transportation or textbook costs, Dr. Rader told the board.

Parents who transport their own children to private schools receive $657 per child per year, he said, noting some families send as many as four children to the same private school.

Teachers' salaries figure in the proposed budget at $15,865,098, and the principals' and assistants' salaries at $1,128,595.

Board President, Mrs. Susan H.

Pepper, urged the board to go through the budget to see if a reduced tax rate could be brought about.

This tentative budget will continue on Tuesday, February 23, and on Tuesday, March 2, when a vote will be taken to comply with the Monday, March 8, deadline

Also on the agenda was the final vote for approval of the 1993-1994

Stating the staff has been consistent in its desire for the full week's vacation in February, Mrs. Pepper proposed an amendment to change the calendar to have school start on Thursday, September 2, which is before Labor Day, and to reinstate the week-long break in February.

Board members, Mrs. Melba S. Nixon, opposed the amendment, saying the week-long break could lead to serious child-care problems, and Dr. Smith sided with her, stating the calendar as it stood reflected the balancing of conflicting views."

In fact, the amendment vote was tied4-4, since board member G. Bruce McFadden was absent.

Board member, Dr. B. Carol Molnar, urged the board to try the original calendar, and when taken to the vote, it passed 6-2, with members, Mrs. Darielle M. Walsh, and Vice President, Mrs. Susan Jacobson, op-

After Lawsuit Agreement Is Fully Executed Open Land Will Be Scarce; Ewan Tract Sale Discussed

According to Transportation, Parking and Traffic Committee Chairman Kenneth L. MacRitchie, the ordinance will do away with zone fares regulated by the town.

Despite the release last Wednesday' of figures from the New Jersey Council on Affordable Housing which show Westfield will need an addi-tional 241 units of low- and moderate-income housing by 1999 to meet the so-called Mount Laurel guidelines, the town will have no con-frontation with Mount Laurel re-quirements until at least 1997.

charges imposed by Trenton to fund various programs.

Mayor Garland C, "Bud" Boothe,

Jr. also announced the appointment of Mark Boyd of the Boulevard as an alternate to the Planning Board, William G. Krabec of Coolidge Street as the alternate to the Union County Solid Waste Advisory Committee and

Dr. Jerome Feder of Knollwood Terrace to Union County Air Traffic Noise Advisory Board.

According to Town Attorney Charles H. Brandt, as part of the settlement of the town's Mount Laurel litigation, a Union County Superior Court Judge in November 1991 issued a letter of repose saying the town would be exempt from the regulation's for six years.

The Mount Laurel suit was filed at the end of 1987 by local developers who claimed the town was not properly allocating sites for low- and moderate-income housing.

An agreement reached to end that litigation allowed Westfield to combine rehabilitation of substandard homes in the town, a Regional Contribution Agreement through which the town will pay for the rehabilita-tion of 21 substandard homes in Elizabeth, rezoning of two sites to provide a total of 17 Mount Laureleligible homes and the construction of a second senior citizen housing complex in the area of Boynton Avenue to provide 133 rental units. Several years ago, Mr. Brandt said, the town estimated it would be able to rehabilitate 115 substandard homes in Westfield, but to date only 90 have been done because there are few units which can be considered substandard and whose owners meet income-eligibility guidelines.

When the process first began, he noted, the town opened up an office in the central business district and advertised for applications for rehabilitation work.

Because of the lack of a sufficient number of applications, he added, the office was closed and the town's cfforts were taken over by Union County under the federal Community Development Block Grant Program.

This, the attorney said, results in few rehabilitation applications.

As part of the town's land-use ordinance, which now is being revised, Mr. Brandt explained, a total of 4.3 acres in the area of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Station on South Avenue will be rezoned to provide 34 housing units, seven of which would be low- and moderate-income units.

The site of Williams Nursery on Springfield Avenue also will be rezoned under the ordinance, he noted, to provide 52 housing units, 10 of which will qualify under Mount Laurel guidelines.

Under the court-approved agreement, the Attorney added, the town has three years in which to build the second senior citizen complex or find an alternative method of fulfilling that portion of the agreement.

The corporation established to explore plans for the second complex still is looking into ways to finance the development and, Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. announced last tuesday, about 12 builder-developers have submitted proposals for constructing the second complex.

The largest tract of undeveloped land in the town is the 10.5-acre Ewan Truct, located in the northwest corner of the town and bounded by Munsee Way and Minisink Way near Prospect

When the Mount Laurel suit was instituted in 1987, the town was preparing to sell 28 residential lots then mapped out on the tract at a public The suit put a stop to these plans.

After the town did a preliminary survey of the wetlands on the tract earlier this year, however, a proposal which would remove 12 of the 28 building lots was submitted to the Town Council by the Public Works Department.

If the plan is approved by the council, the town will seek a letter of interpretation of its plans from the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy as the first step in final approval of the wetlands delineation.

Proceeds from the sale of the Ewan Tract plots, whose value is estimated at between $162,000 and $258,500 each, would be used along with the sale of other town assets to replace the estimated $360,000 Westfield will be spending to rehabilitate the 21 homes in Elizabeth at a cost of $17,000 per home.

The council's Building and Town Property Committee met Tuesday night, and recommendations about the configuration of the lots and the sale of the Ewan Tract were expected to be discussed at that meeting and presented to the entire council at a later date, according to First Ward Councilman Norman N. Greco, the Chairman of the committee.

Scalzadonna Developers also will pay the town back for a portion of the cost of the Elizabeth project after it sells approximately 19 single-family homes it is building on the so-called Site One on Upper Prospect Street. Under agreements reached to pave the way for the settlement of the Mount Laurel suit, Scalzadonna is heing permitted to construct the homes on the 5.46-acre site and George R. Brownell of 1340 Prospect Street is receiving zoning considerations to enable him to more easily develop property he owns adjacent to that owned by the Scalzadonna firm.

Another large site, 7.42-acres bordered by Rahway Avenue, the Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks and the Scotch Plains and Clark borders, is an area where Public Service Electric & Gas Company unsuccessfully sought Westfield Board of Adjustment permission in the fall of 1990 to expand its substation and construct two 65foot electrical towers to increase output for the town and neighboring communities.

There also is a 2.07-acre site bordered by Rahway Avenue and Amy Drive which is privately owned but is considered too steep for development.

Other open land includes a 4.10-CONTINUED DN PAGE 12

Asbestos-Removal Projects To Be Done in Schools

Asbestos-abatement projects, classified as small jobs under guide-lines established under the Asbestos lines established under the Asbestos Hazardous Emergency Response Act, will be carried out at Franklin, McKintey and Washington Elementary Schools during the first three days of February vacation.

According to Dr. Robert C. Rader, the Assistant Superintendent for Business, the removal project will begin on Saturday, February 13, and be completed by Monday, February 15.

The asbestos is located in panels of air-cell insulation in the walls of the McKinley and Wilson School allpurpose rooms and Franklin School's auditorium.

"As part of the Westfield School District's asbestos-management plan, all school buildings are inspected at least once every six months," Dr. Rader said. "Our most recent inspection identified air-cell insulation which contains some asbestos in the walls of the all-purpose rooms of McKinley and Wilson Elementary Schools and the Franklin School auditorium.

"The presence of asbestos in the insulating panels in these schools does not represent a hazard to building occupants,"he continued. "It is being removed as a preventative measure."
The asbestos abatement will be accomplished according to the act's guidelines in three days when schools are closed for February vacation. "Air sampling will be done in the work area and areas outside the work area during the project and at the conclusion of the project to assure the air is clean in both the work area and throughout the building," Dr. Rader noted.

An asbestos-abatement project in-volving 700 linear feet of pipe insu-lation under the Washington School was accomplished during the school vacation week of December 26.

It was necessary to do this work over the December vacation week when the school was unoccupied and in preparation for the construction of a four-classroom addition to Washington School, beginning in March, must be "the fueling of an economic revival supported by conscientious budget practices, incentives for business development and holding the line on taxes."

But the assemblyman said there are many New Jerseyans who will not believe the state has made any real progress, regardless of the per-formance of the economy, until the issues of automobile and health insurance are genuinely resolved by the legislature.

"As a member of the Assembly Insurance Committee, I believe we must come up with a bare-bones, low-cost insurance policy for New Jersey motorists unable to afford traditional coverage plans," the leg-islator stated. "The legislature also must find a way to finance the accu-mulated deficit in the state-run pool without placing a further financial burden on motorists."
He added he believes the state must closely monitor the impact of its new system for financing health care for the indigent, unemployed and uninsured.

"I have some long-term concerns about the financial stability of the state's Unemployment Trust fund," the lawmaker said in reference to the legislature's decision to appropriate 500 million a year from the fund to finance uncompensated care.

The Assemblyman said another kev insurance issue he hopes to exert an influential role in resolving is to enact legislation to prevent recurrences of last year's Mutual Benefit Life Insurance debacle.

The company became financially insolvent last year, placing the investments and life savings of tens of thousands of New Jerseyans at risk, forcing the legislature to enact a measure to protect the interests of policyholders and save the company from dissolution.

"I was proud of what the legislature accomplished last year to protect the rights, interests and investments of Mutual Benefit Life policyholders, but I'm equally distressed by the fact this situation occurred and may be revisited with another insurer," As-semblyman Augustine said. "The Insurance committee must develop a program, perhaps along the lines of the accreditation package put forward by the National Association of Insurance commissioners, to ensure this never happens again.

The legislator said he will release a statement outlining his agenda as a member of the Assembly Energy and Hazardous Waste Committee, to which he also was appointed, some time this month.

Town Main Street Program Deserves Support; Goals Should Be Specific

·The Town Council and residents, organizations and businessmen in Westfield are being asked to support the first step in a process which could lead to the rejuvenation of the central business district.

For a total price tag of $100,000 per year in each of three years, made up of contributions from each of these groups, the Westfield Downtown Committee hopes to receive the expert advice from the Main Street program it needs to target the business area's future and attract the mix of stores which will return the town to its former status as one of the area's premier shopping and financial centers.

Among questions which may be answered by the study are whether the influx of "mall"type stores like The Gap and Sam Goody attract more shoppers to the more traditional

"mom-and-pop" operations in the business district or whether the chain stores are a detriment to the community's interest.

Also, the study, hopefully, will help the town attract a more diversified mix of businesses rather than being overrun with one type of establishment.

It also should provide guidance about whether a Special Improvement District will be needed to revitalize the district or whether there is any need for a parking deck.

We trust these and many other questions will be answered in detail as the Main Street program comes closer to fruition, and the Downtown Committee and those in charge of the program will be able to provide a thorough justification to those who will be asked to pay for the program.

building to the property line in the front or in the rear. The proposed plan calls for building to the property lines in front and signs than we allow. A variance for this also is sought.

Finally, the planning Board has the responsibility for considering and approving the site plan: How are things laid out on the lot, how do they interrelate with each other, ingress and egress, what traffic problems, if any, will occur on the site and what traffic problems, if any, are likely to occur in adjacent roadways such as North Avenue and South Chestnut Street.

This hearing is going to be unique in that all witnesses are going to be testifying to two municipal planning boards sitting at the same time. Each planning board has to evaluate that part of the project has to evaluate that part of the project which involves its own ordinance. Each board will meet separately at the end to make its independent decision on the application. This is not a merger or consolidation of the two planning boards into one, which is not allowed understate law.

By having one presentation simultaneously to two boards, both boards will neously to two boards, both boards will hear exactly the same testimony, and each board can benefit from the questions asked by members of the other municipality's board.

Another benefit is it will not be necessary for Westfield people to sit in on proceedings in Garwood and vice versa, which would further increase the amount of time planning board members have to devote to this case in addition to other planning board work. Attorneys for the two Hoards have worked out very detailed and very fair procedures and the attorneys for the applicant and several known objectors have agreed to this procedure.

The foregoing has been tended as a factual, neutral explanation of what this proceeding is all about.

I, myself, have formed no conclusion as to what, if anything, ought to be done with the application. I will not and should not form such a conclusion until all the evidence has been presented and the Attorneys have made their final arguments back and seeks variances for that. Our ordinance also limits the number and size of signs. The applicant requests one sign more than we allow and larger signs than we allow. A variance for this

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock the Westfield Tonight at 7:30 o'clock the Westfield and Osrwood Planning Boards will sit together to hear the opening presentation by the firm seeking to build a ShopRite supermarket on the North Avenue property in Westfield and Garwood currently occupied by Westfield Building and Lumber and the small frame building at the end of South Chestrut Street.

Planning hoards in New Jersey function

Planning boards in New Jersey function as judges and juries in land-use matters. Under law, the function of the Planning Board is to hear the evidence presented to it by the applicant and opponents and make findings of fact. Then the board must apply applicable law to those facts.

This law consists of the town zoning ordinance and the statutory and case law all of which will be explained to the Westfield board during the course of the hearings by the Attorney for the Westfield Planning Board, and ditto for the Garwood

Hence, members of the Planning Board have to come to the hearings and to a decision with open and objective minds, like jurors, and make a decision based upon specific findings of fact and upon the law applicable to those facts, and should not get involved in "out-of-court" discussion about the application.

Addressing this present situation, the application is to build a 60,000 squarepaper and it is bound a solvour-square-foot store, located on the site of the present paint and hardware store, the large lum-ber shed and the parking and lumber storage area in between.

The town line between Westfield and Garwood runs roughly down the middle of the existing lumber shed.

The building as presently proposed will straddle that line, so 80 per cent of the building is in Westfield and 20 per cent is in Garwood.

in Garwood.

All of the parking for customers and employees will be on the Garwood part of the property, going all the way down to the parking lot of the mini-mall.

Elderly Resident Gives Thanks To Couple Who Helped Shovel

Something wonderful happened to me on Saturday, February 6.

I would like to share it with the people of Westfield.

If you recall, Saturday was a snowy, bitterly-cold day. After it stopped snowing, I went outside to shovel my sidewalks and driveway and had just begun when I noticed a car proceeding slowly down the street.

The occupants, a young man and woman, apparently also noticed me slowly working at my task. The car stopped and the young woman approached me with a smile, saying she would be so pleased if I would allow them to belo with the showling. them to help with the shoveling. We chatted as they took my shovel and

Banality Stems . From Writs For Monopoly

Banal — anything read or spoken that is commonplace; devoid of freshness or originality.

We were recently seeking a synonym for the word commonplace and in the process discovered a treasure trove of uncommon words, such as banal, trite, hackneyed and trivial. Although our literary aim is to avoid being banal, we simply could not resist presenting the origin of this uncommon word, banal.

Under the feudal system of medieval Europe, the lord of the land, landlord, was granted the authority to issue a writ or ban which had the effect of establishing a monopoly, which in French is a banality, for such things as hunting game, cutting timber, milling grains, pressing grapes and so forth.

The power to control these essential industries made the lords richer, while the common folk remained poor and dissatisfied.

The system of banals was very widespread, and so dominated the peasantry they came to be considered commonolace. Later, the original sense of banal broadened to include all that is commonplace. While tempted to conclude this essay with a banal ending, we opted for this instead:

"Civilization is a movement and not a condition, a voyage and not a harbor" --- Arnold Toyabee lighter, Thank you for making our holidays

Thank you for caring and sharing,

Thank you for everything!

'Connecting' With Others Can Fight Heart Disease

· By Herb Ross

Last week, we explored how the sup-port of others will help in your period of sickness. Let's take a look at why the immune system breaks down.

Stress seems to weaken the immune system and increase our risk of a whole aysism and increase our risk of a whole range of illnesses.

Paople going through a divorce, for example, have lower levels of several immune-system chemicals, including white blood cells that help to destroy viruses, cancer cells, and other dangerous interlement, according to research by Dr. interlopers, according to research by Dr. Janice Kiecolt-Claser at Ohio State University's Comprehensive Cancer

Those who constantly blame others for their problems or who look down on people seem to run the highest risk of coronary problems. They have higher blood pressure, faster heart rates and more blocked arteries.

Researchers are finding more and more

Researchers are finding more and more evidence that "hostility is toxic to the heart," says Dr. Dean Omish, the President and Director of the Preventive Medicine Research Institute in Sausalito, California. "Negative" people die rather earlier from a whole range of causes, adds Dr. Redford Williams, the Director of the Behavioral Medicine Research Center at Duke University. When he followed a group of 255 doctors, he found the most hostile physicians were seven times more likely to have died by age 50 than more amicable colleagues.

Doctors who are hostile probably will not do as well for their patients.
"Arisus see the light! In poetry, art and literature, the heart often is portrayed as literature, the heart often is portrayed as the organ most affected by our emotions," writes Dr. Ornish in his book Dr. Dean Ornish's Program for Reversing Heart Disease. "Physical heart disease may be the final manifestation of years of abuse that first begins in the psyche and spirit." Sharing feelings not only may diminish hostility, but even may help to lessen artery-blocking plaque.
For heart-disease patients, increased intimacy, love and compassion may constitute what Dr. Ornish calls "a different type of open-heart procedure."

Cupid's Arrow May Hit More Than Young Hearts

By LOUIS H. CLARK Specially Vision for The Wanglaid Load

Valentine's Day is above all a senti-mental occasion but not a tear jerker either. It means something entirely dif-

I was a sophomore in high school — a gangling, uncoordinated boy who couldn'tmake any of the teams and always was blushing when a girl talked to me. I did all right academically because, I suppose, I never went any where so I had long of time to another.

lots of time to study.

Then on Pebruary came a Valentine addressed to me that was not from a relative.

Wow, I remember thinking, some girl actually went out and actually spent: 25 cents plus the cost of a stamp to send me a Valentine. I begged my mother to keep it quiet, but of course the news spread through the house like the smell of pancakes on a Sunday morning. My older brother called me a sissy — mostly because he hadn't received a card at all. My sisters couldn't get over the fact someone sisters couldn't get over the fact someone actually would want to send a card to a specimen like me.

Sure I was embarrassed but I was clated too. Someone liked met I got another card in my junior year. By then I had joined clubs and became a teen-age nuisance at home. I also had to be beaten to do my homework just like everyone else because I always was going out. For years I wondered who had sent me those cards but just couldn't figure it out until one day, 10 years after graduation, the solution hit me and I knew.

That same year they held the 10 anniversary celebration of my high school

The gymnasium was full of men and men examining each other and saying,

I mingled with the rest until I saw Mrs.
Anglehouse standing there, a glass of punch in her hand surrounded by a group of former students. She always was a popular teacher. I went up to her when the crowd thinned and said, "Remember me?"

She looked at me and said, "Because I am an English teacher and you have thet lapel card with your name on it I'd say you were..."

"No. I didn't mean that," I hughed.
"But every Valentine's Day I used to say,
'Who sent that card?'" Her china blue eyes twinkled. "How did you find out?" she asked.
"It came out of the blue last year. You always were telling us confidence country."

always were telling us confidence counts for 75 per cent of everything we do and one day it just clicked."
"Was I right?"

I nodded. "Your card made me feel I was somebody. That I was just as good as was someous. Interwas just as good as anyone else."

"That's why I did it and do it today," she said. "I send them to a select group of boys and girls who won't get Valentines from anyone but their relatives. I think you see what it does."

"I do. And I want to thank you."
"You will keep my secret," she said. "I still send them out."

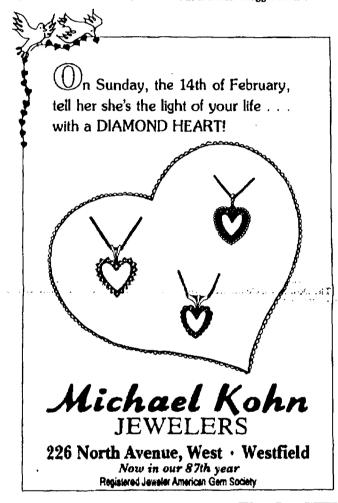

Mrs. A passed away last year, which is why I feel free now to expose her secret and to thank her publicly.

The Newark Boys Chorus Sings a Diverse Program

By HENRY WYATT

One of the reasons for the overall purity of tone and diction the Newark Boys Chorus sang with in their concert of February 7 in Westfield is their training. These young men attend that most European of musical institutions, a choir school. In addition to their academics, the students rehearse daily, a required part of their curriculum, not as an elective or after-school activity. Their musical training is intense and professional, and it begins at an early age. In such an atmosphere, a uniform approach to tone production, diction and phrasing is inculcated daily, and is assured in practice. This is almost impossible to of with an adult chorus, especially in America, given the mobility of our population, and the diversity and inconsistency of the individual singers' vocal training. That is why most American choruses sound muddy and tonally unfocused, compared to their European counterparts.

Another reason for the Newark Roys

Chorus' musical consistency is the firm discipline from the podium, exercised by the music director, Owen Moten Pinto, Her resumé includes some very Impressive associations, including the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, and the late Aivin Ailey; her accomplishments as arranger and singer were much in evidence during the concert.

She exercises discipline with a sense of mission and believes in her choristers, as musicians and as people, and the bond between ensemble and director transcends the purely musical.

The Churus' artistic mission is broad in nature, the mastery and performance of mnature, the mastery and performance of music from diverse cultures. These young men sing texts in linglish, Czech, Xhosa, Latin and Zulu, and their basic vocal approach works well for various musical styles they perform. The first part of the program was given to the classical choral reportoire. Herein was a good balance between the familiar and the last known. Vivaltit 2 finels is and the loss known. Vivaldi's Gloria is a stable of Baroque choral literature, and it was rendered with tightness of phrasing and clarity of texture, and with brisk tempos. The AveMaria, op. 12, of Brahms, is a genuine rarity, and this auditor's ear was continued that the unusual nature of a hove choral is most appropriate for this a boys chorus is most appropriate for this music, even if not precisely authentic historically. In both works balances among the voices was good, although occasionally upset by the amplification system, which tended to favor the trebles, and was probably not necessary, given the forward acoustical image of the hall.

The second part of the program featured African and African American music. This in itself was an object lesson in the This in itself was an object lesson in the diversity of cultures, given the vast dispersion of African peoples over the globe, and the many musical genres Africans have originated and influenced. Two works with Zulu texts were performed, including the noble and stirring anthem of the African National Congress, N'Kosí Sikele' Afrika.

of the African National Congress, N'Kosi Sikele 'I Afrika.

Equally moving were four traditional spirituals and gospel works, which, in this age of relentless commercialization of black urban music, are in danger of becoming raritles. We risk the integrity of American musical culture if we lose this preclous legacy, recognized by Dvorák a century ago as the basis for our national music. Thanks are due to the Chorus for preserving it in performance.

Excellent vocal solos were sung by choristers Jonathan London and Sharif Radney, and, as a marvelous suprise, by the music director. Willis B: Koker, 3rd, was the alert and sensitive accompanist. The concert was presented by the Westfield Community Center, on whose beautiful accompanies. board this critic nits.

SPORTS VISION TESTING

While any basic optometric eye examination will evaluate the health of the eye, check visual acuity and ascertain that two eyes are working well together, there are further areas of concern for the athlete, whether amateur or professional.

For example, a sports vision examination goes beyond reading an eye chart on the wall to determine vision strength when both the eyes and the ball they are following are in motion — a skill called dynamic visual acuity. Further tasting can determine the speed and accuracy of the subject's hand-eye coordination and how well overhohers fusion is used. With special equipment, the eye doctor can gauge just how may the athlete keeps an eye on the hall. well the athlete keeps an eye on the ball.

Once the level of sports vision skills is known, visual training can be utilized to enhance them, helping the athletes to improve their games, and their fives.

By ERIC RUBIN Specially Written for The Woodlate

The Westfield Boys' Basketball Team welcomed the return of sophomore Brandon Pretlow as the cagers won two out of three games this week. Pretlow averaged 10 points a game during the three games and sparked victories against Shabazz and Plainfield. Pretlow's absence from the team was due to academic ineligibility. He had to sit out until February 1.

The cager certainly made the best of his comeback.

He first saw action against Shabazz last Tuesday, scoring 11 points and snatching eight rebounds to lead the cagers to a 73-58 victory. Besides the impressive return of Pretlow, Senior phenom Mike Comandini was raining from outside. Mike put in 34 points and shot an incredible 14-16 from

The Blue Devils did not let this game slip out from under them, as they kept the good pressure defense on the Bulldogs and continued to hit shots.

Westfield then had a home game against Summit on Thursday. This was expected to be a somewhat easy game for the Devils, but instead turned into a heart-breaker for the Westfield players and

The eagers took a 54-49 lead into the dreaded fourth period. The fourth-quarter jinx took over again and the players wilted at the hands of Summit.

Westfield was outscored 15-8 in the final eight minutes, and the final score totaled 64-62.

Mike Comandini led the team with 18 points, junior Mike Checkett tallied 16 and junior point guard Marc Koslowski netted 12. Matt Comandini also contributed 10 strong points.

The Blue Devils traveled to Plainfield to avenge their earlier season 63-58 loss. And believe me, they did!

Westfield came to Plainfield with a westfield came to Plainfield with a hearbreaking loss and an incredible size disadvantage. The last time these two teams met Plainfield overpowered the cages on the boars, but this time was a

Westfield played incredible defense, led by Rob Moore and Koslowski, and also shotthed aylights out of Plainfield as Mike Community secred 30 points.

Pretlow also had a good showing by netting 15 solid points enroute to a 72-51 drubbing of the Cardinals.

This week moved Westfield's record up to 5-13. It also showed what a powerful leam they can be with all cylinders working.

The eagers played Union Catholic on Tuesday.

Yesterday, we knew we are questioning if our daughter is being adequately prepared for the challenges of high school, and ultimately of college. In primary school, girls and boys tend to list math as their favorite subject. Yet by the end of middle school, girls no longer favor math, and at the same time they measure how smart they are by how well they do in math! Love of math and science is the norm, not the exception, for girls at Kent Place because our girls are successful at both. Innovative programs like the Chicago Math curriculum and the Ciba-Geigy Partners in Science help us toster reasoning skills and often lifelong interests.

Kent Place Middle School is a special place because it encourages girls to succeed. For more information, please call Amy Ziobarth, Director of Admissions (908) 273-0900

Fencing Club Begins Spring Class Signups

The Westfield Fencing Club is accepting registration for its spring session of fencing classes and invites beginning and experienced fencers to enroli. Classes are designed for to enroll. Classes are designed for children and adults and are open to all New Jersey residents. Children must be at least 10 years old.

Professional fencing Conches Tom Tomko and John Izzolino will provide instruction in epec, foil and sabre fencing. Beginning fencers will learn the heart offencing and defensive and defensive and defensive. the basic offensive and defensive moves while developing speed and coordination. The more experienced fencers will continue to develop and fine-tune these skills and learn advanced and more complex fencing strategies. Class size is kept small to allow the instructors to individualize

Follies Circus Will Appear At Arts Center

The New York Follies will bring its Family Circus to Rahway's Union County Arts Center on Saturday,

The Follies' Family Circus is a mix of acrobatic feats and circus-style comedy acts designed for broad audience appeal. The March 6 arts center engagement will get underway at 6 p.m. and reserved seattickets are $10 for all seats.

The number to telephone for reservations and more information is 499-8226

The 1,300-seat center is a professionally-restored vintage movie palace situated at the junction of Central Avenue and Main and Irving Streets in Rahway's historic restoration district. There is ample parking in the immediate vicinity.

The spring session will consist of five classes that will meet on Saturdays, February 20 and 27 and March 6, 13 and 20, at Redeemer Lutheran Day School at 229 Cowperthwaite Place, Westfield.

Beginning adult fencers will meet from 10 to 11 a.m., experienced adult fencers from 11 a.m. to noon, experienced youth from noon to 1 p.m. and beginning youth from 1 to 2 p.m. The sabre class will meet as a mixed group for those aged 11 and up from 2 to 3 p.m.

The registration deadline for the registration deadine for the spring fencing session is Wednesday, February 17.

A club spokesman also announced plans to hold a Summer Sale for experienced fencers of all ages. Participants will have the opportunity to spar with one another in an open gymnasium setting, and, in this way, stay in good fencing shape and improve their fencing skills.

Tomko and Izzolino will provide instruction and oversee competitions during each session.

The Summer Sale will be held at Redeemer Lutheran Day School on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, June 20 to July 29, from 6:30 to 8:30 o'clock. Participants must have a minimum of one year of fencing instruction.

To learn more about the spring fencing classes and the Summer Sale. Please telephone 322-5065.

The club is a project of the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts, a non-profit organization that also oversees The Music Studio, the Westfield Workshop for the Arts, Westfield Community Orchestra and Union County Music Theater, under the direction of Dr. Theodore K. Schlosberg.

TO THE RESCUE...A helicopter lands at the Westfield High School field on Friday morning to transport Carlos Sanchez of Elizabeth, a Union County recycling employee, to University Hospital in Newark after hecustained internal injuries after reportedly falling off the side of a recycling truck on Beverly Drive and being run over by the truck. Mr. Sanchez was listed in stable cond Tuesday morning. The picture was taken by Chris Black of Westfield.

County 4-H to Sponsor Its Camp in August

The Union County 4-H Camp will be held from August 16 to 20.

The camp is a sleep-away facility located in Bermerville. The rural setting of Sussex County is the backdrop for swimming, hiking, nature studies, horseback riding, arts and earlier and and crafts and other activities.

The camp is licensed by the New Jersey Department of Health and managed by the Rutgers Cooperative Extension 4-H program.

Boys and girls aged 9 to 12 may attend. The cost for all meals, lodging, and round-trip transportation is $140. Youth 12 to 15 years old may apply to attend as counselors-in-training at the same cost. Adults 16 and over may go to camp free if they qualify to be counselors.

For more information, please telephone the 4-H office at 654-9854. Camp space is filled on a first-come, first-serve basis.

United Fund Official Explains Allocations

"It has been called the United Fund's best kept secret. It is the best expression of the financial accountability of the United Fund. It also is evidence of how the United Fund executes its public trust of contribu-tors' dollars, James Pinkin, the 1993 Chairman of Allocations, said. "Called the Budget Review and Citizen-Review Process for Allocations, it is the way the Unite Fund distributes its campaign contributions for human services.

"The process is simple: Local citizens, United Fund volunteers, make decisions for the good of their communities.

"Each year, men and women serve on the United Fund's allocations committees, making decisions on how the United Fund will spend its funds for health and human services. They representa cross-section of Westfield: Different nationalities, races and religions. They work in a variety of occupations, ranging from company President to middle manager to homemaker," Mr. Pinkin added.

"Those people bring together varied skills, experiences, perspectives and knowledge to accomplish something that has a great impact on Westfield.

'Volunteers evaluate each United Fund agency in five areas: 1. Service objectives; 2. Target groups served; 3. Program accountability; 4. Financing, and 5. Management. They also visit agencies to discuss issues such as the quality of the services delivered

"Distributing United Fund dollars is a difficult task. It means trying to meet unlimited needs with limited dollars while being accountable to the contributor. How, for example, do you decide the relative needs among a child with cerebral palsy, a senior citizen needing home health care, or a teenager in need of drug or alcohol treatment," he asked.

"United Fund volunteers take one more factor into consideration when deciding how to spend contributions: Our priorities for funding. They try to answer the questions: "What services are needed most in Westfield, and which are most appropriate for "This citizen-review process, then, is a thorough, thoughtful method to distribute your contribution. It is designed to accomplish five important functions: 1. Ensure your gift is wisely spent; 2. Provide quality health and human services; 3. Maintain accountability to you, the contributor; 4. Try to reach critical areas or target groups of people who are unserved or underserved; and 5. Avoid duplication of other private funding sources or governmental programs.

Proprietary House to Hold Servants Party Event

cepted for the Annual Servanta Party at the historic Royal Governor's Mansion, the Proprietary House, at 149 Keerny Avenue, Perth Amboy.

The colonial-style gala will be Saturday, February 27, from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. The event is open to the public, but attendance is limited to 100 guests in the 230-year-old building.

Reservations for seatings, at $35 each, may be made by check mailed to the Proprietary House Association, Post Office Drawer 868, Perth Amboy, 08862.

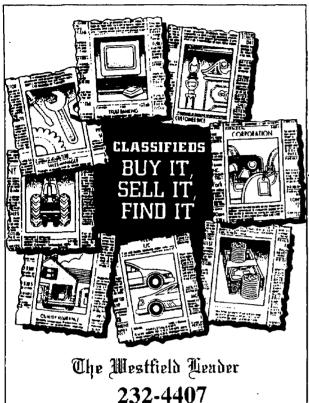

For information, please telephone

The event's theme is based on the premise Governor William Franklin and his wife will be away for the weekend on a visit to Philadelphia. With the governor away, the servants decide to have a party.

Food, drink and entertainment typical of America's late 1700's will be provided to the merry-makers. There will be a silent auction of donated treasures. Party-goers have the option of wearing colonial costumes or modern dress.

A balladeer will stroll among the tables and sing songs popular with the common people in colonial times. Using guitar and hammered dulcimer, will sing the songs that once enlivened taverns in early America, and aided independence.

A buffet table will provide a selection of: Turkey with corn bread dressing, country-style ham, cream of peanut soup, ginger bread, sweet potatoes, orange-raisin cake, old-fashioned whipping cream nut-cake succotash, creamed onions, glazed carrots, pumpkin soup, Marlborough

Wrote 'The Battle Hymn of the Republic' And Introduced Mother's Day in 1872

The Fortnightly Group, the Evening Membership Department of The Woman's Clubof Westfield, will meet on Wednesday, February 17, at 8 p.m. at the Clubhouse. The hostesses for the evening are Mrs. Patricia Lambert, Mrs. Helen Sturges and Miss Margot Valentine.

Members will be warmed by a roaring fire, while listening to a book review given by guest speaker, Mrs. C. D. Shacklett.

Mrs. Shacklett will review Julia Ward Howe written by Mrs. Laura E. Richards and Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott, the daughters of Mrs. Howe. This biography was published in 1915 by The Riverside Press, receiving distinction in 1917 when it was selected as the first biography to receive the Pulitzer Prize.

Julia Ward Howe (1819-1910) was a writer, lecturer and womens' rights activist. She wrote the words of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" to the tune of "John Browns' Body," while visiting military camps near Wash-ington, D.C. in 1861. This song became the major war song of the Union forces.

Among her many achievements, Mrs. Howe helped to organize the New England Woman's Club in 1868 and served for many years as its President. She also introduced the idea of Mother's Day in 1872 and was one of the most famous American women of her time.

Grants Help Town Girls Attend Capital Workshops

The Optimist Club of Westfield has announced the winners of its fourth annual competition awarding two scholarships to week-long Congressional Seminars. The first-place winner is Carina Tammam of Westfield High School. Miss Tammam selected the Presidential Inaugural Week Seminar and spent the week in the nation's capital enjoying many events associated with the inauguration. The second-place winner is Blizabeth Zawislakof Union Catholic High School. Miss Zawislak will spend the week of June 27 to July 2 in Washington at the workshop.

The scholarship covers all fees,

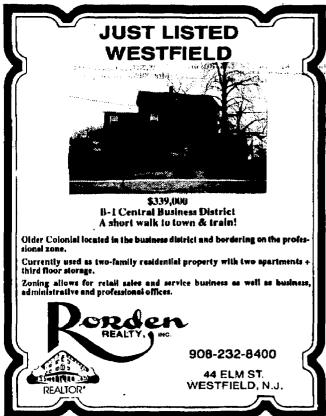

The scholarship covers all fees, tuition, room, meals and seminar materials. The winner's also received free rail transportation to and from Washington courtesy of Amtrak as another part of their award.

The stated objective of the Congressional Seminar is to increase citizenship participation and student knowledge of contemporary events through informative dialogue sessions with recognized leaders from the government, international and private United States sectors and to loster a greater understanding among student participants with the exchange of ideas and cultures. These highly-structured programs run from Saturday through the following Friday of the selected week.

Both courses are held at Mount Vernon College, a residential campus located near Georgetown.

Andrew Bucko Wins Contest

Andrew Bucko of Redeemer Lutheran School of Westfield is among 27 Union County fifth grad-ers who have won the Central Jersey Class of 2000 Dear Mr. President Contest, a contest designed to help involve students in the 1992 Presidential Election and the electoral process.

The contest is just one component of this year's Central Jersey Class of 2000 Program, a corporate/educational partnership sponsored by Central Jersey Bank that benefits children in the high school graduating class of 2000 in Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Ocean, Somerset and Union Counties.

More than 300 fifth-grade classes at more than 200 schools in Central New Jersey entered the Dear Mr. President Contest, Teachers participating in the program were encouraged to use the Dear Mr. President contest as a vehicle to solicit discussion with their students about the 1992 Presidential Election and the democratic process.

Participating students were asked to write a letter to the newly-elected President answering the questions, "Why is education important to our

Entries were judged by each school's principal based on content, thought process and effort.

In recognition of their achievement, winning students will be invited to attend the Central Jersey Class of 2000 Third Annual Achievement Event this spring.

R. S. Miner Honors Dr. Percy Julian

Westfield High School was honored in the spring of 1963 by many visitors who came to speak at the Saturday Science Series.

Among them was the late Dr. Percy L. Julian of Chicago, who presented a story of the development of modern pharmaceuticals from the common soybean.

He had come at the request of his friend, Westfielder Robert S. Miner, Jr., then a Board of Education member and the President in 1963-1964. Dr. Julian again was honored posthumously by the introduction of a new United States Post Office Commemorative stamp on January 29 at Roosevelt University in Chicago. His old friend, Mr. Miner, was one of the speakers on that occasion at the invitation of Dr. Julian's widow for both scout age groups in the Klondike Derby Sled race held on January 30 in the Watchung Reser-

The 38th annual race was held in the Surprise Lake area with frozen ground, but no snow.

Delayed one week for better ground conditions, this year's derby had 35 teams participating, down from the 48 which had planned to participate, and was the first derby under the banner of the new Patriot District of the Watchung AreaCouncil.
The Patriot District was formed by the recent merger of the Colonia District, which started the derby in 1956 and served scout troops from Garwood to Watchung, and the Spirit of '76 District, which extended from Summit to Long Hill Township. Sled teams from Blue Mountain Valley District scout troops also participated. The derby was dedicated to the memory of Michael Poland, an Assistant Scoutmaster of Troop No. 273 in Westfield, who died recently and unexpectedly.

Scout patrols, with five to 10 boys each, were grouped by age, with the 27 scout division patrols having two or less scouts over 13, and the eight senior scout patrols having older boys.

Starting in timed waves of six patrols, each patrol pulled a sled weighing at least 100 pounds and with specified equipment over a roughly three-mile path between Klondike "towns."

At each town, they were graded by

Extra points, or "nuggets" were awarded for starting a fire with flint and steel and final scores for the teams were calculated from the nug-gets earned and the elapsed times.

In the Senior scout group, the Panther Patrol, led by David Hatfield, took first place, followed by the Ravens of Troop No. 172 in Westfield, the Seniors of Troop No. 368 from Berkeley Heights, the Panthers of Troop No. 73 in Westfield, The Cobras from Troop No. 104 in Scotch Plains, and the Sewer Rats from Troop No. 1 in New Providence.

In the scout group, the Raccoon Patrol, also from Troop No. 77, and led by Brent Sonneck-Schmelz, won first place, followed closely by the Pox Patrol from Troop No. 56 in Millington, the Kings from Troop No. 125 in South Plainfield, the G.I.
