Town Administrator John Malloy To Retire From Post on January 1

Cites Progress in Westfield Amid Increasing Complexities of Government

By ROBERT R. FASZCZEWSKI
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

After spending approximately a third of his life in the service of the Town of Westfield, Administrator John F. Malloy, Jr. will retire effective Friday, January 1, of next year.

Mr. Malloy, who took over the Westfield position in 1970, will leave town service on Monday, October 4, and take his terminal leave and vacation prior to his last official day on the job.

Although the Administrator, when interviewed by The Westfield Leader last Thursday, was hesitant to take credit for any single accomplishment during his tenure, he said he has seen the town slowly change and progress and, he added, he hopes the town, which, he said, always "has been a very nice place," will be better off when he leaves it than when he came to work here.

Life during the last 23 years has become increasingly more complicated for government, Mr. Malloy said, with ethics law requirements, cap limits on spending and changing environmental regulations.

"It is more difficult for the government to get things done now," he added, "but it is not impossible."

Town residents should be patient with their government, the Administrator said, and they should realize everything may not be accomplished as quickly as they would like.

Asked which of the many people he has worked with and under he considered the most outstanding, Mr. Malloy said there were so many who fit into this category it would be impossible or unfair to single any one out.

"Some words of wisdom from Mr. Malloy to his successor: 'Be prepared for many sleepless nights from meeting or worry time.'"

The outgoing official said it was too early to outline specific plans for

Garbage-Hauling Strike Has Little Town Effect

Picket Lines at Transfer Station Don't Halt Disposal

The strike by members of Local No. 945 of the American Brotherhood of Teamsters, which has halted garbage collection in many area municipalities since last Thursday, generally has been seen as having little effect on Westfield because most of the private haulers serving the town do not employ members of the union.

Early Thursday morning the strike began after tentative agreement reached last Wednesday night between the union and municipal and private waste haulers in 14 counties was rejected by rank-and-file members of the bargaining unit.

Although some trash workers picketed outside the Automated Modular Systems, Inc., a trash-transfer station in Linden, where the town's garbage is taken before being shipped out of state to landfills, that facility is non-union and it remained open.

Negotiators for the Teamsters and representatives of the Municipal Contractors Association and Solid Waste Management Bargaining Group had come to a tentative agreement four hours before union members voted against it 404-98 at a union hall in Little Falls, it was reported.

Under the current three-year contract, drivers earn $13.86 an hour and helpers are paid $12.22 an hour.

The tentative three-year pact called for 5 per cent wage hikes in each of the three years and a one-year freeze at the current $501-per-month level of management contributions for health care.

Although Westfield Town Administrator John F. Malloy, Jr. at the June 29 conference session of the Town Council had warned the council rumors of an impending strike had

Three Juveniles Held In Car Break-Ins

Three juveniles were arrested by Westfield Police in connection with break-ins and burglaries to five cars in various areas of the town on Thursday and Friday.

On Thursday, a car belonging to a Clark woman was broken into in the parking lot of an Elm Street building, and it is unknown whether anything was stolen. The same day, a pouch containing cash and seven toll tokens were stolen from a car belonging to a Williamsport, Pennsylvania woman which was parked in a municipal parking lot on Mountain Avenue.

Friday, two cars were entered on Summit Avenue and nothing was taken, and four packages of baseball cards were stolen from a third car on the street.

COUNCIL APPROVES PLAQUE MEMORIALIZING VETERANS

Proposal for 6 A.M. Noise Limit Draws Criticism From Resident; Leaders Want to Protect Business

If Garbage Haulers Go Out of Business, Councilman Jenkins Says, Decreased Competition Could Result in High Rates to Town Homeowners

By ROBERT R. FASZCZEWSKI
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

A proposal by the Town Council to set a starting time for garbage pickup at 6 a.m. was called ridiculous by a town resident Tuesday night, while some councilmen said the early starting time was necessary to protect small businessmen, the haulers, in Westfield.

Responding to a question from Richard Elbert of 133 St. Paul Street, Solid Waste Committee Chairman Anthony M. LaPorta noted the committee had recommended and the majority of the council supported the 6 a.m. limit for arterial streets, the central business district and schools.

Although he favors a 6:30 a.m. start, Councilman LaPorta noted, the majority of the committee and council and many trash haulers feel the later time would interfere with their business.

The haulers often have said they must begin collecting early in order to get to county waste-transfer stations before they close and to prevent their trucks from being caught in rush-hour traffic.

Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. has written a letter to the haulers in an attempt to get voluntary compliance with the 6 a.m. limit prior to any action on the proposed ordinance, the Solid Waste Committee Chairman said, and he is expected to report back to the council next month on the response to the letter.

Mr. Elbert replied the Union County Noise Ordinance sets 7 a.m. as the earliest time during which noise is allowed, and he called the 6 a.m. time limit and the offer to submit the proposed town ordinance for voluntary compliance ridiculous.

"I support Councilman LaPorta's call for a 6:30 limit," he said. "I don't know why the taxpayers have to endure this noise because of a claim by the haulers the 6:30 limit would hurt their business."

Fourth Ward Councilman James Hely replied in eight years on the council he had not heard a complaint about noise from garbage trucks.

The offenders are one or two haulers, Councilman Hely said, and even though the issue has been widely reported in the local press, only four or five residents have complained about the noise.

He added one hauler had told the council the noise problem could be corrected, if each hauler installed an inexpensive piece of equipment to muffle the noise. This piece of equipment would enable them to meet county noise standards, he said.

The device referred to by Councilman Hely muffles compressors, not the shifting of truck gears, which causes the most noise, Councilman LaPorta said.

He added he has received far more than four or five complaints, and there have been several letters to the editor of local newspapers.

"Even if 100 people were to speak on an issue at a council meeting," the First Ward representative said, "this would represent less than 1 per cent of the town's population. The Mayor and council should not play a numbers game. They should vote on something because they know it is right."

Third Ward Councilman Gary C. Jenkins said the biggest complaint about New Jersey government is that it overregulates small business, and this was the reason for Mayor Boothe's letter.

Councilman Jenkins added, if the town loses a small business such as a trash hauler, competition would decrease, and prices probably would increase for garbage collection.

"If the majority of the haulers al-

SHOPRITE MEETING AT WILSON SCHOOL

Tonight's meeting of the Westfield and Garwood Planning Boards about the ShopRite supermarket proposed for the North Avenue site of Westfield Lumber and Home Center has been moved from Washington School to Wilson School, at 301 Linden Avenue, Westfield.

The meeting will begin at 7:30.

Legislators Condemn Delay in Noise Study

They Support Proposal to Use the Ocean Air Space

Senate President Donald T. DiFrancesco and Assemblymen Richard H. Bagger and Alan M. Augustine, who represent Westfield, today criticized the announcement by the Federal Aviation Administration to extend the Newark Airport Runway No. 22 departure test through the summer. The 60-day test, which was to be completed July 1, has been extended by the aviation agency for an additional 90 days.

The three legislators said the agency's actions are "unacceptable" in the testing, even if modified, is expected to continue to have a severe impact on communities in Central New Jersey.

The lawmakers called for the immediate implementation of a proposal recently submitted to Senator Frank R. Lautenberg by the New Jersey Coalition Against Aircraft Noise.

This proposal would retain Staten Island's jet-noise relief while creating relief for citizens under Newark's Runway No. 22 routes in New Jersey.

The plan calls for a route structure using ocean air space. The proposal was constructed by the architects of the Expanded East Coast Plan, the 1987 Newark Airport re-routing plan which resulted in an increase in aircraft noise over New Jersey.

"We firmly believe it is time to initiate new and creative routing procedures that take into consideration the citizens who reside under them. This plan has the unanimous support of the New Jersey Coalition, which participated in its creation. We believe it should be implemented immediately. Utilizing the ocean in order to provide peace and quiet for New Jerseyans is the only equitable solution," the District No. 22 delegation stated.

"We call upon the Secretary of Transportation, Senators Lautenberg and William "Bill" Bradley, Governor James J. Florio and the Port Authority to take immediate action to stop the current test and to implement the New Jersey ocean-routing plan," said Senator DiFrancesco and Assemblymen Bagger and Augustine.

"We know that the residents in the communities surrounding Newark Airport have suffered since 1987 and we will do what we can to ensure that government does not overlook their plight," said the Senate President.

BLAZING A TRAIL...This 500-gallon-per-minute rotary-gear 1930 American pumper was delivered to the Westfield Fire Department on July 3 of that year to make the department's front line of defense 100 per cent American. In June 1956 it was assigned to the civilian defense organization, and in 1966 the volunteer fire company completely restored the pumper. Often was used by the volunteers in parades and musters, but is no longer in use.

Unemployment, Taxes Issues in Governor Race

Economic issues, particularly unemployment and taxes, are foremost in voters' minds as they consider who to vote for in New Jersey's gubernatorial contest this November, according to the latest Star-Ledger Eagleton Poll conducted by telephone with 666 registered voters between June 10 and 16.

Four in 10 voters in New Jersey say unemployment is the most important issue the next governor will have to face; an additional two in 10 say it is taxes, and another one in 10 identify some other economic problem as the most important issue.

In assessing governor James J. Florio's job performance across 14 specific issues, the Democrat receives his highest positive ratings on the gun-control issue, 58 per cent, and environmental protection, 56 per cent. The incumbent Governor's lowest positive ratings are on holding down the cost of health care, 21 per cent, holding down taxes, 21 per cent, and creating jobs, 20 per cent.

On 12 of the 14 issues asked about, the number of voters saying Republican challenger, Mrs. Christine Todd Whitman, would do a better job than Governor Florio outpaces those who say she would do worse.

The largest difference is on holding down taxes, where 41 percent say Mrs. Whitman would do a better job than Governor Florio, while 11 percent say she would do worse. On all 14 issues, however, at least half of the voters say Mrs. Whitman either would do the same as Governor Florio or they are not sure whether she would do better or worse.

In looking back on Governor Florio's first term in office, voters give him the highest positive job performance ratings of excellent or good on the issues of gun control, 58 per cent, and protecting the environment, 56 per cent.

About two in five voters offer positive ratings of the Democratic Governor on keeping government honest, 43 per cent, reforming the state's welfare system, 42 per cent, providing social services, 40 per cent, improving public school education, 37 per cent, and improving the state's transportation system, 36 per cent.

Three in 10 registered voters in New Jersey give positive grades of excellent or good to the incumbent Governor on reducing crime, 34 per cent, managing the state's economy, 31 per cent, holding down the cost of automobile insurance, 28 per cent, and cutting government spending, 28 per cent.

Governor Florio receives his lowest positive ratings from one fifth of voters on holding down health-care costs, 21 per cent, holding down taxes, 21 per cent, and creating jobs, 20 per cent.

On the Many Issues

After considering Governor Florio's performance across the issues, voters were asked whether Mrs. Whitman would perform better, worse or about the same if she were elected governor. On all but one of the 14 issues majorities of voters say Mrs. Whitman's performance either would be the same as Governor Florio's or they are not sure whether her performance would be better or worse.

On most issues, however, the number saying she would do better than Governor Florio outpaces the number who say she would do worse. The largest better-to-worse margin of 30 points is on holding down taxes, where 41 per cent say Mrs. Whitman would do a better job and 11 per cent say she would do worse than Governor Florio.

Close to half, 47 per cent, of New Jersey voters say their personal financial situation has stayed about the same since James Florio was elected Governor, 38 per cent say it has gotten worse, and 14 per cent report that it has improved.

Democrats are about as likely to say their own financial situation has gotten better, 21 per cent, as they are to say it got worse, 22 per cent. Republicans, 52 to 7 per cent, and independents, 44 to 13 per cent, are more likely to indicate their own financial situation has deteriorated rather than improved since Governor Florio was elected.

Among voters who indicate their family's financial situation has improved over the past few years, 20 per cent say most of the improvement is due to Governor Florio's economic policies. However, among those who say their economic condition has worsened, 36 per cent feel the decline is because of Governor Florio's policies.

The survey shows, however, there are signs New Jersey's economy may be improving, at least from the perspective of employment. The current survey shows 28 per cent of New Jerseyans say an adult in their household has been out of work and actively looking for a job in the past year, which is down from 34 per cent who said that at the beginning of 1993.

SEE BETTER BEHIND THE WHEEL

The better you see, the better you can see the road. Here are some vision tips for safer driving:

- Clean eyeglasses, windshields and headlights often.
- If you need glasses for driving, keep an extra pair in the glove compartment. It's not safe to drive without them.
- Sunglasses are a great help in daylight hours but dangerous at night when they lower the visibility of cars, people and signs.
- Drivers over 60 would be wise to stay on well-lit roads.
- At night, try not to look at oncoming headlights; they can be disorienting and even cause temporary blindness.
- If dry eyes are a problem with wind, heat and air conditioning, keep some ocular lubricant on hand.
- Eyes should be examined regularly and eyeglass prescription kept up to date. Some drivers — especially seniors — find they need a stronger prescription behind the wheel.

Mayor Boothe Outlines History of Independence

Editor's Note: Following is a copy of the remarks made by Westfield Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. at last Thursday's town Independence Day celebration in Mindowaskin Park.

Every Fourth of July, The New York Times republishes the Declaration of Independence.

I don't mean just the text, I mean the whole document in the original, hand-written script attributed to Thomas Jefferson. And on every Fourth of July, I make a point of re-reading, aloud, the text of the declaration. It is a stirring text, and I suggest you try reading it yourself next Sunday.

As I re-read the text in preparation for tonight, I thought I would summarize exactly what Mr. Jefferson and the signers of the Declaration were really complaining about, and relate some of these grievances to the complaints that many of us make today about government.

The declaration starts out with those immortal words, "When it becomes necessary in the course of human events for people to dissolve the political bands that bind them to another, decent respect for the opinions of mankind require that the reasons be set forth."

Then comes the immortal language — "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these rights are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

Those who signed the Declaration and put their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor on the line with their signatures suffered many losses thereafter; some were imprisoned, some were made paupers, some died.

Colonists from Massachusetts to Georgia who took up and fought the cause of independence and the principles in the declaration likewise suffered grievously during the course of the American Revolution and thereafter. You have to ask yourself, why did they do it? Was the hope of independence worth it?

To find some answers, let us go through the litany of royal abuses that make up most of the declaration.

Today all of us have complaints about government — interference, too much government, and so on.

But a significant number of the complaints in the declaration were the Crown failed to enact or abolished laws that helped defend, control and regulate affairs of the colonists and Colonial society. The declaration specifically charges the King refused to agree to laws necessary for public good, and refused to allow laws of immediate and pressing importance.

There were complaints about the law-making process — assertions necessary laws would not be passed unless the people relinquished the right to representation in the Colonial legislature, legislatures were called to assemble at unusual, uncomfortable and distant locations, and legislatures were dissolved repeatedly, and new legislatures were not convened, and Colonial charters themselves were withdrawn — all with the result the colonies remained exposed to all the dangers from without and convulsions within.

You must agree this is interesting language considering how today we always are complaining there are too many laws coming out of Washington, Trenton, Elizabeth — yes, even Town Hall in Westfield.

The Declaration addressed the administration of justice, and complained judges were made dependent upon the King's will alone, and persons accused of crimes either were deprived of the benefit of trial by jury or were transported back to England for trial.

This litany then turns to complaints about the creation of a multitude of new offices.

I love this quote, "The King has sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance" — in other words, government bureaucrats! A wonderful quotation, very appropriate language today.

The declaration protests maintenance by the King of a standing army in the colonies — complaining this was done without consent of the legislatures, and complains the colonists are forced to provide quarters for large bodies of armed troops.

The declaration charges the King "has affected to render the military independent of superior to the civil power" — a statement which reminds us of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's comments about the military-industrial complex not too many years ago.

Economic matters were addressed also — complaints about the King cutting off trade and imposing taxes without the consent of the colonists, all without participation by the colonists in the government process.

In summary, the Declaration of Independence is not an attack on the institution of government. It is not an appeal for some abstract or pure or total independence.

To the contrary — most of the items in the Declaration of Independence charge the King with violating the fundamental principle of a free society — governing under law, living under a government of laws, not of men.

The declaration was saying colonists needed and were entitled to appropriate and sound laws, enacted with the consent of the governed, and this system of government is a fundamental right of all people and particularly of the English colonists.

This litany of quite explicit charges in the Declaration of Independence thus comes down to the complaint the King had ignored his subjects and his obligations to them.

The King had ignored the fundamental system of law as it had developed and become established over hundreds of years, going back to the Magna Carta. These are the reasons, set forth in detail, why the colonists declared themselves dissolving the political bands which had tied them, since 1607, to the Mother country, England.

The Declaration of Independence was not the first, and certainly will not be the last, declaration of the rights of the people. The colonists were not seeking a society free of laws.

To the contrary, this declaration and its authors clearly recognize laws form the foundation of our government and our society. Laws and governments are necessary, and the process of governing has to be respected by the governing institution as well as by the people.

Republican Trio Attacks Utilities Authority Spending

The Union County Republican Freeholder team yesterday called for a two-pronged approach to rein in spending by the Union County Utilities Authority.

Freeholder Director, Miss Linda Lee Kelly of Elizabeth, Mrs. Linda DiGiovanni of Union and Springfield Township Committeeman, Harry P. Pappas, said a recent report of the expenditure of millions of dollars in legal fees paid to politically-connected law firms in both parties "was a clear sign the independent utilities authority has gotten too independent for the taxpayers' good."

The Republican trio called for a complete audit of spending by the eight-year-old agency, creation of a watchdog advisory committee to monitor expenditures and significantly greater accountability.

Miss Kelly, an attorney who practices in Summit, said the disclosure of legal fees running into the millions of dollars "cries out for an independent audit of all spending by the utilities authority. After all, this agency is supposed to serve the public, not politically well-connected lawyers. Perhaps it is even time to consider hiring one top-flight attorney who would be paid a salary of at least $100,000 on the condition he or she perform most, if not all, of the authority's legal work. We have a sacred obligation to the people of Union County to make sure their tax dollars — which, after all, finance the work of the Union County Utilities Authority — are spent wisely and well in the interests of making our county's solid-waste disposal program the most economical in the state."

Mrs. DiGiovanni said she favored creation of a blue-ribbon advisory committee representing each of the Union County's 21 municipalities to monitor spending by the authority.

"This is a public agency that apparently has been accountable to no one since it was granted independent status by the Board of Freeholders several years ago," she added. "Bringing in monitors with financial expertise to rule herd on the big spenders at the authority should be only the first step in the process of reining in what appears to be a runaway agency," she said.

Bret Schundler Takes Oath as Jersey City Mayor

Former Westfield High School football star Bret Schundler was inaugurated on Thursday as the Mayor of Jersey City in a ceremony held in Liberty State Park.

The first Republican in 75 years to serve in the top executive post of the Democratic stronghold received good wishes and pledges of support from former Housing and Urban Development Secretary Jack Kemp, Governor James J. Florio and Mrs. Christine Todd Whitman, the Republican candidate for Governor.

Mr. Schundler, 34, a former Democrat, said members of both major political parties must work together to reform government and solve society's problems.

He pledged to put more policemen on the beat, clean up streets and empty lots, require welfare recipients to work and improve city recreational programs.

The chief executive also repeated his pledge to give parents vouchers which they will be able to use to pay for their children's education in the schools of their choice, a proposal favored by the National Education Association.

He noted Jersey City spends almost $9,200 in taxes to educate each of its children in the public schools, but a majority of the city's students drop out before they graduate.

The voucher system, he said, may solve the problem by providing a wider range of opportunities.

The last Republican to serve as Jersey City's Mayor was Mark Fagan, who was ousted in 1917 by Frank Hague.

Mayor Fagan also was the first Mayor to win a second term after losing his first bid for re-election.

That feat was not duplicated until 1989, when Gerald McCann beat Anthony Cucci, who had ousted him four years earlier.

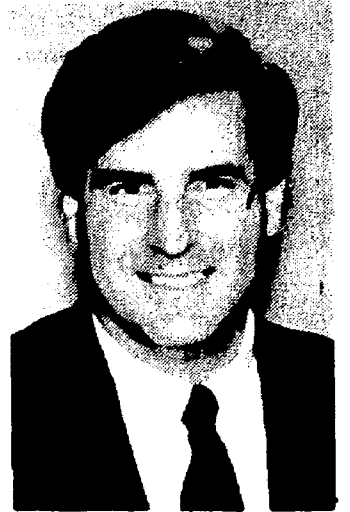

Mayor McCann, however, was forced from office in February of last year after his conviction for mail fraud and income tax evasion.

Afterward, the City Council could come to no consensus on the appointment of an interim Mayor so two of its Presidents served until a special election last November.

In a field of 19 candidates, Mr. Schundler took first place with 16 per cent of the vote.

Although Democrats contended this was an aberration, Mayor Schundler went on to win a full, four-year term with 68 per cent of the turnout.

In a city where 70 per cent of the registered voters are Democrats,

Bret Schundler

Democratic Hudson County Freeholder Louis Manzo received 30 per cent of the vote in the race.

Also elected was Mayor Schundler's entire slate of nine Council Candidates, whose oaths of office were administered July 1 by state Supreme Court Justice Marie Garibaldi.

Mayor Schundler, the youngest of nine children, was born in Morristown and grew up in the Colonia section of Woodbridge before moving to Westfield, where he was named a First Team All-State lineman.

After his graduation from Harvard University in Cambridge, Massachusetts, he worked on the staff of Roy Dyson, a Democratic Congressional Representative from Maryland. In 1984, he was New Jersey Coordinator for Democrat Gary Hart's first Presidential campaign.

The next year, he moved to Jersey City and worked for Salomon Brothers and C.J. Lawrence, an economics research firm.

As his civic activities grew, he left Lawrence in 1990 and became a self-employed financial manager.

He then became a registered Republican and challenged Democrat Edward O'Connor in the 1991 state Senate race, polling 45 per cent of the vote.

Town Parents Deserve Congratulations For Improving the Baseball Complex

Last fall, a group of town parents whose children are involved in baseball decided to improve the baseball complex behind Edison Intermediate School.

The improved facility, most of which has been completed, is expected to benefit the high school baseball team, the Westfield Baseball League and the American Legion Baseball Team, all of which use this facility.

With the approval of the Board of Education, the group, working with all-volunteer labor, erected an outdoor batting cage, refurbished the scoreboard, constructed two dugouts and renovated the infield.

Later, with the help of members of the Westfield Fire Department, the group painted both dugouts, and there are other plans to improve areas around the backstop and dugouts and to landscape.

All of the funds for the project are being donated, and a little more than half of the goal has been reached.

The group came closer to its goal thanks to a raffle held last month for two tickets and an expense-paid trip to the 1993 All-Star game in Baltimore.

In this era of tight funding for our schools and other areas of municipal government and of increasing demands on the tax dollar, it is refreshing to see parents volunteering of their own time and funds for such a worthwhile cause.

We hope the group raises all the money necessary to complete its project, and we urge all Westfielders to join in the effort with their money and skills.

Quiet and Colonial Town Heritage Threatened by New ShopRite Store

This is to express our opposition to the proposed construction of a ShopRite superstore on North Avenue and to urge other Westfield residents to attend the next Planning Board meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, July 8, at Washington School, to voice their opposition to this proposal.

We have been Westfield residents for the past 19 years and with three school age children; we have a considerable vested interest in Westfield and do not want to see anything take place that will detract from the town. We have always been proud of the image of Westfield — that of a quiet, Colonial, residential town which has continually been listed as one of New Jersey's most desirable communities by New Jersey Monthly Magazine.

Construction of the proposed ShopRite will certainly not be an asset to that image or maintain the value of our homes.

There are now six supermarkets within three miles of the North Avenue site, and within our memory at least two others have closed. The A&P on Elm Street appears to be barely sur-living, and we cannot imagine why we would need another supermarket in town. Opening a new store will adversely affect the business of the existing ones and, should they fail, can we afford to have another vacant store in town?

The traffic expert for Village Supermarkets has testified that the proposed store will not bring great traffic increases to the area but rather will redirect existing traffic, but this is nonsense. The only reason for building a 60,000 square foot store is to ensure a high volume of sales and to state that this goal will be met from two towns with declining populations is ludicrous. We feel the increased traffic which this store will bring will be disastrous for Westfield, and we urge all who oppose it to attend the July 8 session to voice their opinion.

We appreciate the time and effort put in by our fellow Westfield residents on the Planning Board, and it is imperative that they know how we feel prior to the vote on this important issue.

Fortunately, Life Doesn't Copy Art

By LOUIS H. CLARK
Specially Written For The Westfield Leader

Even though this fantasizing is to do with actors, I can state unequivocally I have never wanted to be, dreamed about being or even slightly wished to be an actor.

Not because I'm modest but because I discovered long ago it is one of the most boring professions I can think of.

There you are on a stage night after night, feeling good, bad or even terrible, having to mouth someone else's words which have been imparted to you at someone else's direction and you have to do it eight times a week at least.

In the movies and television it's even worse. How would any sane person feel if they had to wait around for hours so they could emote two minutes of dialogue and do that every day?

As Walter Matthau once said, "Well, the money's pretty good."

One year we took the children over to the playhouse to see The Student Prince. The program notes proudly announced the poor guy who played the starring role had done so over 500 times!

In other words, the man had made a career out of saying the same thing, doing the same thing, wearing out his vocal chords singing the same thing, for God knows how many years. I figured he must hate the uniform but doesn't know what else to do to pay the supermarket cashier.

But there is one thing they do in pictures and television which fills me with envy.

Have you ever seen a character who didn't find a parking place exactly where he wanted it to be? Have you ever found that to happen more than once in your lifetime?

You can go into almost any city and discover malevolent people have deliberately parked just where you want to.

When we were first married my wife commanded me to stop at a little store which had a homemade spaghetti sauce without which she couldn't survive.

I stopped, parked illegally, was back inside of two minutes and found that bottle had cost me $30 with four points against me. That never happens on the screen.

One thing I am glad life doesn't copy from art is the bar scene. Very rarely have I gone into a bar, except during a tight football or basketball game when there is as much noise, excitement and light as there is in a typical television bar. In the bars I know there's usually a quiet buzz of conversation. You can talk to your neighbor about George Steinbrenner but nothing serious. That's why you go to a bar — to relax.

I guess that's the real reason I never wanted to be an actor. I'm just too lazy.

Blockbusters Can Destroy Or Build Up

Blockbuster 1. A great success. A real estate dealer or property owner who racially mixes a neighborhood.

During the aerial bombings conducted by both sides in World War II, large high-explosive bombs were dropped on European cities. They were called blockbusters because of their capacity to completely destroy the buildings within a city block. The sound of such bombs raining down on a city terrified city dwellers.

The literal and very terrifying sense of block buster has faded, giving way to the two figurative definitions listed above. The first definition is an excellent example of linguistic amelioration, in which case a negative word sense is, over time, transformed into a positive one.

The cataclysmic impact of the original block buster eventually developed the sense of a great success, such as the hugely popular Jurassic Park. One company, Blockbuster Video, even uses it in its corporate name.

The negative sense is retained in the second definition above which suggests when a real estate operator or home owner sells a home to family whose ethnic origins differ from the neighborhood's prevailing ethnic composition, this action could destroy the property values in said neighborhood.

If the dinosaurs of Jurassic Park ever are let loose on society, such an event could really have a blockbuster effect on our block. We'll settle for the movie.

active in campus ministry as well as social action activities such as the soap kitchen, interacting with multihandicapped children, and tutoring underprivileged children in inner city Philadelphia.

Administrative Salaries Show Why Budgets Must Be Trimmed

Thank you for printing the salaries of the administrative bureaucracy in our school system.

I am appalled at the level they have reached. They are grossly overpaid and too many in number.

Hopefully, it will wake up the electorate. Our taxes have escalated over the years in an unacceptable way.

Our town administration and the school board must start cutting back as in industry. I have had it, and hopefully the other Westfield citizens are of the same mind.

Hopefully, you will print my letter. Have been a homeowning resident of Westfield since the early 1950s.

Information on High School Sports Sought for Historical Town Book

I am writing to you, and the people, past and present, of Westfield.

I need your help with a project that, I think, will be of great interest to everyone who's ever lived in New Jersey's premier sports town.

I am a member of the Westfield High School Class of 1963.

Gary Kehler asked me to put together a record of Westfield High sports including year by year win-loss records, coaches, captains, team and individual honors.

I've gotten pretty far along with that, but it came upon me there might be interest in a book, a complete history of Westfield High School sports, from the turn of the century up through the current teams.

Only a couple of towns — Trenton and Montclair come to mind — compare with Westfield, as far as cranking out championship teams and individuals.

Anyhow, the research is a tedious process and I live in Bucks County, Pennsylvania making research at the Westfield Memorial Library a chore, it's 75 minutes each way.

I have gotten a log of material from Gary and several coaches, past and present, have been very helpful.

What I'm asking the rest of the people of Westfield for is any help they can give me, whether it's old programs, yearbooks, newspaper articles, anything like that.

Just contact me, I'll "borrow" it, take what I need and then return it, unharmed.

Please don't think anything is unneeded or a waste of time. Believe me, you never know where some nugget of information is going to pop up.

I don't have a time frame for this, although I'd like to publish next year, which I believe is the 200th anniversary of the incorporation of the Township of Westfield.

So, if you could open some of those old boxes in the attic or in the back corner of a closet, check it out and, if you find anything, get in touch with me, I'd appreciate it.

Currently, I have Westfield baseball back to 1930, football back to 1920, swimming back to 1934 and all the current sports since their inception. But I'm missing team and individual statistics, post-season honors and any little anecdotal-type material that would be of possible use for a book on Westfield High School sports.

Thanks in advance for any help you can provide.

Commencement Is Not the Time For Guilt Display

I was disappointed by the commencement address Dr. Robert G. Peix gave to Westfield High Schools' graduating Class of 1993.

While the issue of inter-gender relationships is an important one, to focus entirely on this topic deprived the class of a warmer, more personal and optimistic message.

Some thoughts on the hopes, aspirations and goals of these young people for the future as he said goodbye to them for the academic community would have been appreciated.

If there was a particular incident which triggered the emphasis of Dr. Peix's speech it seemed unknown to those he spoke to.

Indeed, instead of a friendly goodbye, the graduates felt they were being chastised without knowing the reason.

Herbs Can Act as Cure, But They May Be Deadly

By Herb Ross

So, you're into herbs. You claim miraculous cures. Now, let's look at the facts.

It is said licorice root can take care of ulcers. Well, it can help your ulcers, but it also raises your blood pressure. One doctor found eating three or four bars of true licorice candy, most of what we buy is flavored with anise, shot his blood pressure from 120 over 70 to 240 over 160.

But wait — some ulcer patients take a type of licorice that has had its glycyrrhizin, the chemical that raises blood pressure, removed. Patients chew two tablets of the special licorice before or between meals as a curative aid. Some doctors say this may help the ulcers.

So much for licorice. How about Comfrey? This is a herb that proponents say can cure everything, including cancer.

Not so! It is banned in Canada and is rigidly controlled in Germany, because of links to liver damage and cancer. Yet you can find a dozen or so preparations containing comfrey in almost any United States health-food store, aimed at everything from wound healing to bronchitis and indigestion.

None of the experts interviewed think comfrey works for most of the ailments it claims to treat.

One expert adds, "one brand of comfrey-popsin digestive capsules can deliver enough pyrrolizidines, the harmful substance in comfrey, to damage the liver of anyone who takes the recommended dose of two tablets per meal over several months."

Comfrey may have some use as a wound healer. The dried, powdered root contains allantoin, a chemical that promotes the growth of new cells.

Okay, so what about Senna?

By the time you reach the sixth decade, you need some constipation relief. Senna is an active laxative ingredient found in the leaves and seed pods of the Cassia plant. While senna is used in many laxative preparations, herbal and otherwise, it is hardly the gentlest solution. Senna irritates the nerve endings in intestinal tissue, sometimes causing a watery diarrhea and, if overused, a potential serious fluid loss. As with any laxative, it can create dependence.

If you want to use senna, find some traditional laxative using senna in a more controlled dosage. Finally, eating a high-fiber diet, or taking a fiber-based laxative, is gentler and possibly safer.

Finally, a word on mistletoe! It not only is cupid's flower, but some herbalists promote it for relieving menopausal symptoms and also for treating asthma, epilepsy, hypertension, infertility and even (in drug form) cancer. There are a number of published reports of "Mistletoe Hepatitis." Even more to the point, both the leaves and berries are poisonous and particularly dangerous to the young and old.

The experts view — in unison — Don't even think about it. Just stand under the mistletoe and kiss.

Okay?

POPCORN! Sleepless in Seattle Doesn't Awake to Problems

By Michael Goldberger
 One Popcorn, Poor • Two Popcorns, Fair • Three Popcorns, Good • Four Popcorns, Excellent

Inherently doomed to come up short for the very same reasons that make it attractively novel, Sleepless in Seattle suffers from a terminal case of romantic insight coupled with utterly impossible plot construction.
 Attempting to be today's answer to the romantic comedies of the 1930s and 1940s, the film by Nora Ephron manages a good deal of those old time notions within the framework of a very today movie, and without being too much of a smarty pants in the bargain.

Unfortunately in this case, the filmmaker, while a fine author, is not a auteur; that is, she's an above-par writer, but a Director she is not. An unimaginative coxswain as concerns cinema, doubtless ego played a role.
 While film auteurs, like Woody Allen, Spike Lee and Steven Spielberg, can perform the hatrick, Miss Ephron hasn't the slightest idea of how to catapult what resultantly amounts to a cumbersome series of scenes. As she isn't capable of interspersing a multi-level of ideas for filmic economy, the story reads in chapters, each set of events connected to the prior business in literal order and meaning. You'll see no fancy footwork here.

However, it still remains a matter of conjecture as to whether or not a journeyman Director could have smoothed the love story's ruffles.

Impressively, the soul of Sleepless in Seattle reads like something that would have felt comfortable in O'Henry's The Four Million, replete with classical ending. But again, without the right movie-mindedness to translate the apples into oranges, the film version is a tad slow and ultimately top-sided.

Happily, there isn't much that requires qualification in the acting department. Meg Ryan as the potential she and Tom Hanks as the potential he are drawn with sheer delight.

He's an architect widower and father of a precocious 9-year-old, Jonah; she's self-deluding and a journalist in Baltimore. Two things separate them at the beginning of the movie: They live 3,000 miles apart and they've never met each other.

But, not to worry; if you're a fatalist, you'll begin to believe it's in the stars for these two fine folks. The possibility begins to germinate when Jonah, missing his deceased Mom, figures it's time for Dad to end the period of mourning and cherchez la new Mommy.

Hence, Jonah, played typically cute by Ross Malinger, takes bull by the horns and calls a radio talk show shrink for advice; he sketches the problem. The airwave doc beseeches Hanks's character, Sam Baldwin, to come on the air and let it all hang out. Amidst much embarrassment, Sam accedes to the request. Of course, it's no surprise when, women across America fall in love with the sensitive, loyal and sexually-vulnerable widower and his devoted little boy.

Also happening to be listening is our gal, Annie Reed, painted by Ryan as a hopeless romantic hiding in rationalizing realist's clothing. She's engaged to a dry, white bread sort, Walter, dabbed in several shades of boredom by Bill Pullman. Mr. Pullman's portrayal of the highly-uninteresting fiancé is comically reminiscent of a similar role played by Ralph Bellamy in the second coming of The Front Page.

At first blush, Annie realizes there is something at work here, crazy as the impossible geography and far-fung concept would readily testify.

Conveniently, her boss at The Baltimore Sun, played by Rosie O'Donnell, is a romantic idealist who not only shares with Annie a love for the movie, An Affair to Remember, but apparently has to answer to no one when it comes to expense accounts. All in the name of l'amour and supposedly a possible feature story, Annie's boss allows her to fly to Seattle. The assignment: Who is this guy the radio shrink dubbed, Sleepless in Seattle.

Pity is, there's no room to manipulate here as Miss Ephron's plot pains her into a corner. She sets some semi-silly, quasi-interesting sidebar stuff into motion, but it doesn't cure the uncomfortable wondering: Will the two ever get together?

Again, though a good motion picture mechanic could have supplied a catalyst or two, the most obvious solution in this writer's opinion would be the integration of wish-daydream sequences — humorous, witty bits in line with the movie's overall mood, hence satisfying impatient appetites while they wait to see if there will or will not be a real piece de resistance.

Expectations run high thanks to a vivaciousness spread by Ryan and Hanks — but when resolution comes too slowly, Sleepless in Seattle certainly makes for tossing and turning.

The oldest living thing on earth is a bristlecone pine tree in California named Methuselah, believed to be 4,700 years old.

It's your right

Under New Jersey's Open Public Records Act, you have a right to inspect most documents of local, county, and state governments and their subdivisions.

The law says that except in certain circumstances any record that is required to be kept by government is a public record.

You have a right to copies of public records within a reasonable amount of time and for a reasonable fee. There are exceptions, of course; for example, to protect personal privacy and the integrity of a criminal investigation.

To illustrate, you have a right to see the resume of the superintendent of schools, but you do not have a right to the superintendent's medical records.

The purpose of the Open Public Records Act is to ensure that public business is conducted in public.

Westfield Service League Marks Its 60th Year

At their annual meeting on June 3, the members of the Westfield Service League celebrated their 60th anniversary. What began in 1933 as a group of 19 women knitting sweaters, preparing surgical dressings and delivering holiday baskets for the District Nursing Association has become a group of about 185 active, associate, sustainer and provisional members.

The league runs the Thrift and Consignment Shops on Elmer Street in Westfield and donates the proceeds to more than 45 local charities such as the Westfield Food Pantry, the Westfield Neighborhood Council, the Red Cross, the Westfield Rescue Squad, the Westfield Department of Human Services, the Union County Association for Retarded Citizens, the Center for Hope Hospice, St. Joseph's Social Service Center, the Youth and Family Counseling and many more. The total donated for this year was $80,000.

In addition to working at the shops, the members give monthly birthday parties for the patients at the Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside, serve as dispatchers at the Westfield Rescue Squad and assist at the local Child Health Clinic.

To commemorate this milestone the league donated money to the Westfield Recreation Commission for landscaping the area around the flagpole at the Memorial Pool complex. The flagpole itself was the league's gift to the town at the time of their 50th anniversary.

Vocational service — covered "Youth in Business Day" for the high school students, a full-day seminar with high school students on "Ethical Decision-Making in the Workplace" and introduced the Charles A. Philhower Award to recognize an outstanding elementary school teacher. Community service — recognized two community members for their humanitarian achievements, purchased a custom racing cycle for Paul Jackson, who is paralyzed from the waist down, enabling him to compete in the New York Marathon. International service — hosted a Youth Exchange student from Spain, Miss Elena Pombo, who spent the school year at Westfield High School, and sponsored Miss Nancy LaCorie as a member of a Group Study Exchange Team going to Finland for six weeks. During 1992-1993 the club distributed $53,000 in scholarships to high school graduates and college students plus $14,000 to various local charitable organizations. In the past year, the club lived up to the year's Rotary slogan, "Real happiness is helping others." Mrs. Cassidy has prepared a plan for the coming year and members look forward to another enjoyable, successful and beneficial year in the club's history. Westfield Rotarians will join 1.2 million Rotarians around the world in implementing the 1993-1994 slogan: "Do what you believe in and believe in what you do."

Proposed 6 A.M. Start for Garbage Hauling Draws Criticism From Resident

ready are complying with the terms of this ordinance, I see no problem with forcing all to comply," Mr. Elbert replied.

First Ward Councilman Norman N. Greco said former Scotch Plains Mayor, Mrs. Irene Schmidt, told him the limit in her town was 6 a.m., and there was no problem enforcing it, a fact disputed by Councilman LaPorta.

Councilman Greco noted, however, the early start time was necessary to avoid a public safety problem, clogged streets.

Mr. Elbert, however, threatened to start a massive petition drive against the early limit and to publish the telephone numbers of all the councilmen so residents who have complaints about noise can telephone them.

Councilmen Hely and Greco both said they would welcome letters from residents who have noise complaints about haulers.

On another matter, the council voted to permit the placing of a plaque honoring the town's World War II dead on the wall near the entrance to the new Community Room, located where the old children's library stood in the Municipal Building.

Mrs. Elizabeth "Betty" Py Davidson, who helped organize the drive through the Westfield High School Class of 1939 to spearhead fund-raising for the plaque, said it would contain the 83 names of Westfielders killed in the war.

Approximately 2,400 town residents served in the war, she noted, excluding those who served in the Merchant Marines and with the Red Cross.

The class decided to undertake the project, she noted, because they believe the seven classmates they lost was the greatest number of any class at the high school.

She assured the council the plaque would be done tastefully, and Mrs. Barbara Vincentsen, the architect for the Municipal Building renovation project, had been consulted about the design.

Councilman Hely, who said he thought the Building and Town Property Committee should have input into the planning for the memorial, expressed concern it would not fit in with the surrounding architecture.

He congratulated Mrs. Davidson on the efforts of her committee, however.

Second Ward Councilwoman, Mrs. Margaret C. Sur, noted, however, the plaque was an appropriate memorial, and its placement would leave room for the other side of the doorway for memorials to other town heroes.

Mayor Boothe also announced Town Administrator John F. Malloy, Jr. would retire effective Friday, January 1 of next year.

The Mayor outlined a number of projects initiated during Mr. Malloy's tenure including the completion of Brightwood Park, the resurfacing of most of the town's streets, the rehabilitation of Mindowaskin Park, and the beginning of the resurgence of the central business district.

He also noted in every town department, except the Police Department, there were fewer staff members now than when Mr. Malloy came to the town.

The Mayor praised the Administrator for working in a "quiet and efficient way."

Tamaquos Park pond.

Authorized the payment of $39,267 to Messercola contractors for the construction of new sanitary sewers in Fairview Cemetery and the reduction of $27,931 in escrow payments to P.S.F. Associates for the major subdivision on the upper portion of Prospect Street.

The Mayor also announced the tax rate this year is $3.37 per $100 of assessed valuation and municipal government takes up 15 per cent of the tax bill, town schools 65 per cent and county government 20 per cent.

Total assessed valuation for the town is approximately $1.8 billion, he said.

The Mayor also named Donald Leonard and Todd Evans to the Historic Preservation Commission and Mrs. Leita Kantor to the Union County Arts Center board.

The average age of Americans is almost 33.

Gary Kehler Leaves High School With a Legacy, Not Only Titles

By BRIAN HAMILTON
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

Gary Kehler was intimidated and worried the first time he stepped onto the field as Head Coach of the Westfield High School Football Team.

He was ready to make some changes, wondering if they would pan out.

"I was very concerned because I knew all the people in town were expecting some continuity," said Kehler. "I was apprehensive to see if it was going to work, and fortunately it did for us."

The following 1961 season produced the first of nine undefeated teams for Kehler, in his initial season as Head Coach.

That year was the beginning of an era in Westfield football, a 22-year era which produced 172 wins and nine state championships.

Gary Kehler ended that era by becoming Athletic Director in 1982; he now ends it, once and for all, with his retirement in 1993.

Effective August 31, Kehler announced he will depart from the Athletic Director position, closing the books on a legacy the likes of which may not be seen again.

When he left the field for the office in 1982, Kehler wanted to "put a different focus on my life."

As he prepares to leave Westfield athletics in 1993, Kehler speaks of another new focus.

"Athletics takes up six days a week, and you don't really have free time to do some other things," he said. "I thought it would be about time to try those other things."

Gary Kehler is, first and foremost, a teacher.

Friends in college who entered the field of education influenced Kehler to follow suit.

In fact, he never thought much about coaching during his college years. But his desire to compete was too strong.

"I thought it would be nice to continue in athletics for a while," reflects Kehler. "I thought it would be fun to work with the younger guys and see what we could get out of it."

"One year went after the other, and I never changed for 20-some odd years," he added.

The teaching was carried over into the coaching, which is what might have made Kehler so unique. His teams were not so much infused with X's and O's as they were students of the game, learning from their teacher.

"I think, if we hadn't been as successful, I still would have enjoyed it, if we were developing and learning and I was getting the teaching across," Kehler noted. "That has to take place — teaching and the growth of the program and the individuals in it."

The individuals who participated in Kehler's program were abundantly talented.

During Kehler's tenure as Head Coach, over 30 players received some sort of All-State recognition. Obviously, the players are the most important aspect of the game to a coach, but Kehler doesn't evaluate that importance on talent alone.

Recently, a former player met up with the former Coach and told his former mentor of problems he had in college and beyond. The player said his association with football and wrestling and the strengths he learned from those sports aided him in solving those problems. As he recalled this encounter, Kehler was beaming.

"I've heard that a countless number of times. There's so much to be gained from athletics and competition," Kehler said.

"He (the player) said when he went through double sessions he figured he could go through anything in life."

"That's very pleasing to hear. That's really what we're after, to have some kind of impact like that."

If anyone knows about impact, it is Gary Kehler, along with the football records, he coached wrestling and golf for 24 and 25 years, respectively, winning 232 wrestling matches and 324 golf contests.

Much has been accomplished during his time as Athletic Director as well. The playing fields across town used by high school teams have been refurbished, along with a resurfacing of the high school gymnasium.

Kehler also has made a point of promoting the girl's programs, which were just beginning when he took over in 1982.

"No matter what somebody wants athletically, I think they can find it here," he states. "That makes me very happy."

Gary Kehler has accomplished so much in sports, and he has given so much of himself to a community, not only of residents of a town, but a community of players, coaches and athletes.

Upon his announcement, those who worked with Kehler had nothing but praise and gratitude to offer on his behalf.

Is Gary Kehler the greatest Coach ever at Westfield High School?

Kehler smiled at the notion. "That's a real nice compliment," he returned. "I'm sure there's a lot of people who did a real fine coaching job, but the won loss record wasn't as good."

Then the smile grew larger. "I would be very happy, though, if it would please me very much to have somebody think that."

It is almost easy to predict how Gary Kehler would like to be remembered.

When asked just that, he answered, "somebody that sets a good work ethic and tried to teach non-academic things in a young person's development. To stress reaching your potential, to set lofty goals, and pay the price for what you have to do."

When Gary Kehler leaves the Athletic Office for the final time on August 31, he will leave just as the 1993-1994 school year begins.

The chair behind the desk in the office will not be filled by the same warm, friendly presence that has graced Westfield athletics since 1961.

One wonders how it will be when someone other than Gary Kehler is listed on directories and schedules as Director of Athletics. One wonders how it will sound when the athletic department phone is answered by some other name than Gary Kehler.

Indeed, the retirement of a true legend is a monumental change anywhere, at anytime. In retrospect, before the door closes on August 31, would Gary Kehler have changed anything in his 32 years of athletics?

"You know, the years go by so fast, you go from one to the other," Kehler begins after a moment. "I make any great changes, I guess not. You're who you are. Your personality is yours, your work ethic is yours, so I guess you go with it."

"We have no regrets," Spoken like a true legend.

Strikers Take Crown In Nutmeg Tournament

The Division No. 3 Westfield Strikers Soccer Team, which had an injury-filled season, took a healthy team to Wilton, Connecticut and won their division at the Nutmeg Tournament held over the Father's Day weekend.

The strikers opened the tournament with a crushing 4-0 defeat over the Guilford II, Connecticut team.

Diana Richards had a three-goal hat trick and Megan Brotherton added the final goal.

In the sweltering heat on Saturday afternoon, the Strikers defeated Weston, Connecticut 3-1. Richards, Brotherton and Abby O'Neill slammed in goals.

After an evening of swimming, pizza and an extended elevator ride, the Strikers faced a very tough and skilled Bethlehem, New York team on Sunday morning.

The contest turned into a brilliant defensive battle by both teams and the final score ended in a 0-0 tie.

The tie put the Strikers in a very tentative position concerning their advancement to the championship game, and the next game against Guilford I would be critical. The town team rose to the occasion and played their finest game of the season.

Although the final score was 1-0, Guilford was crushed by the offensive drives of Westfield. The only score of the game was completed by a perfect crossing pass from Brotherton to a charging Richards, who parked the shot past the keeper. This victory guaranteed the championship game for the strikers.

In the championship game, the Strikers scored first against the physical North Salem, New York team. Brotherton forced in the goal after no less than eight Strikers, including halfbacks Katherine Ball and Kelly Korecky, made contact in front of the North Salem goal.

North Salem countered with a goal in the early part of the second half to tie the game. At this point, Westfield went to work. Nicole DeSantis, who had an exceptional tournament at fullback, scored in the upper far post corner on a curving corner kick. Not satisfied, the Strikers scored again on a blast by Richards over the keeper's hands to sew up the 3-1 victory and the championship.

Throughout the tournament, the Strikers enjoyed superb defense from Elyssa Serrilli, Sue Kozub, Lindsey Braun and DeSantis.

The halfbacks, who continually provided offensive and defensive support, were Ball, Korecky, Talia Frankel, Kate Tracy and Suzanne Vinegra.

Richard, Brotherton and O'Neill were very effective on the front line.

Amy Gottko was excellent at keeper, allowing only one goal while there. Colleen Ryan also only allowed one goal in a tremendous effort while at goalie and played well at wing.

Bob Rowland again went the distance pitching a strong game.

The company again sponsored the Senior Softball Team when it defeated Nicolson Detective Agency by a score of 11-2. The balanced attack and the strong defense of the Westfield team again was the difference. Pacing the Burgdorff team was Mich McNichols, Henry Barnes and Bob LoDolce with strong defense and timely hitting. Bob Rowland went the distance pitching. Burgdorff's record now stands at 9-1.

FRANKLIN

Opening week at the playground began with registration on June 28.

The week's theme, which was entitled Celebrate the U.S.A., officially commenced on Tuesday with Nok-Hockey, Connect-Four and tether ball tournaments.

Winners of these tournaments were Edward Harry, Taylor Hogarth, Chrissy Mack, Robert Ruguso and Eric Shumman.

While playgrounders polished up on their softball and kickball skills on Wednesday morning for their upcoming game against Tamaques School playground, the afternoon at Franklin consisted of games such as Snatch-the-Bacon and Four Squares, and the bicycle rodeo.

Meg Smith and Audry Eyring, took first and second places overall in the bike rodeo.

Co-leaders Christine Pereira and Lauren Gagliardi, and assistant Bill Zicker announced events such as the Playground Fair, a beach party and Olympics are scheduled in the weeks to come.

WILSON

On Monday, Wilson had 108 children register for the program. The first day on the playground, the children played get-to-know-you games, ran relay races and had art in the afternoon with Laurie Smith.

To celebrate the Fourth of July, they wore red, white and blue and decorated their bicycles for a bike rodeo. They had a contest for the bicycles that were decorated the most and Kyle Legones came in first, Scott Legones came in second and William Taylor came in third.

On Thursday they played their first softball and kickball games against McKinley School.

In the afternoon, they held a peanut hunt and played more games.

At the end of the week, they had a playground tournament in the morning and cooled off on the Slip-N-Slide in the afternoon.

REACHING THEIR GOAL...The Westfield Recreation Commission is sponsoring a Soccer Camp for boys and girls interested in learning the fundamentals of soccer. The program is under the direction of Chuck Ropars and is taking place at Roosevelt Intermediate School. On June 29 the camp was visited by Dave Masur, the soccer coach for St. John's University in New York. Masur combined demonstration and participation in his visit with the campers. First he asked the assistants of the camp to demonstrate some advanced ball-handling techniques. Then he asked the campers to participate in a shielding-the-ball drill which required they keep possession of the ball and not let anyone kick it out of the grid. Chris Romine was the last camper left in the grid with possession of his ball.

MOVING ALONG...The Westfield Recreation Commission began its summer sports camp program at different locations in town last week. The camps are under the direction of high school coaches and college players and feature visits from professional coaches and athletes. Some of these guests include Dave Masur, the soccer coach for St. John's University, and Rick Mahorn, the star forward for the New Jersey Nets. The Lacrosse Sports Camp has several girls enrolled in the program as well as boys this year. All of the other sports camps including soccer, basketball, tennis and baseball also are co-educational. For information about these camps, please telephone the Westfield Recreation Commission at 789-4080.

This week, they look forward to a water balloon toss, crafts, games and a picnic at the playground.

McKINLEY

The playground opened its 1993 summer with a large enrollment of campers.

Along with returning veterans many new campers registered.

Throughout the playground campers played popular games like Four Squares, Nok Hockey and Uno.

It also looks like McKinley will have a strong softball and kickball team this summer. Their first game was on Thursday.

JEFFERSON

Jefferson started its 1993 summer season with a whole new staff of counselors.

The new counselors are: Tracy Mazza, Linda Coulter, Dana Mann and Jonathan Pierce.

Opening day was highlighted by getting-acquainted games such as Red Rover, Red Rover and a peanut hunt. Danny Egan took first place with 67 peanuts.

To help celebrate July 4, the playgrounders wore red, white and blue and participated in a Bike Rodeo.

The winners of the rodeo were: First Place-Most Patriotic, Valerie and John Kerr; Second Place-Most Sparkly, Beth and Colon Traflet; Third-Most Colorful Helmets, Megan and Stefanie Valenti.

Ribbons also were given to Megan O'Shea, first place, Roxanne Mercado, second place and Scott Saggio, third place overall. The week came to a close with kickball and softball games against Washington on Thursday and Slip-N-Slide on Friday to help the playgrounders cool off in the hot summer sun.

WASHINGTON

The opening week at the playground started off with games and tournaments while the playgrounders quickly learned names and the playground structure. These games were followed by a game of soccer.

The focus of the opening week was Wednesday when the entire playground celebrated the United States and participated in a patriotic bicycle parade. The campers decorated their bikes with streamers and balloons and toured the playground side cheering and ringing their bells.

Leigh Bannworth, Margot Seigel, Tim Hein and Christine Connor received awards in the category of the most colorful bikes while Jessica Sussman, B.J. Orico, Lauren Bannworth, Edward Goutal and Brian Serzan received awards for their decorative bicycles.

Other winners included Kate Albino for the whitest bike; John Paul Bartolomeo for the most colorful handlebars; Andrew Seigel for the smallest bike and Matt Cleaves for having the sportiest bike.

The bicycle rodeo also included categories ranging from the most red bicycle to the most pink bicycle. Winners in the categories were Katie Hollenbach, David Connor, Diana Bartolomeo, Helen Lecson, Mike Babetsky, Brian Dunstan, Jimmy Hollenbach and Darren Levy. The last category was won by Kelly, Kathy and Nicole Seib for being the most decorated family in the parade.

The week ended at the playgrounders cooled down in the Slip 'n Slide and prepared for the Fourth of July weekend.

NEIGHBORHOOD COUNCIL

The playground at the Neighborhood Council was very busy this week.

On Monday, 30 campers registered and on Tuesday they began the program with getting to know you games in the morning and an afternoon filled with arts and crafts. In arts and crafts the children made key chains and sun visors. Later in the week, the counselors Kevin Monroe, Ken Fairfax and Debbie Tiller teamed the campers in pairs to decorate a kite. In the races this week there were many winners.

In the second category of that race Secret Bundy took first place, Lence Clark took second place and Rashee Roberson finished third. The No Hands race had Rihdee Bundy finishing in first place, John Logan finishing in second place and Secret Bundy coming in third. Lence Clark, Nicki Hendrick, Rihdee Bundy and Kyle Clark were all winners in the relay races.

Summer Mailing Tips Given by Postmaster

"If work or vacation takes you away from home, the Postal Service reminds you there are several options available when determining what to do with your mail," Westfield Postmaster David DeFrancesco said. "We will be glad to hold your mail at the post office for up to 30 days," Mr. DeFrancesco noted. "Either stop by our local office or ask your carrier for a hold-mail card specifying the dates you want your mail held. Fill out the card and submit it to either your carrier or drop it off at your local post office before your leave." The Postal Service does not accept requests to hold mail for one day or requests made by telephone. And if you are going to be away for more than 30 days, submit a temporary change-of-address form and your mail will be forwarded to the address of our choice. Fill it out completely, making sure to include the effective dates to start and terminate the forwarding. This service is commonly used when families travel to vacation homes for the summer. If you are going to be away for a few days and don't have time to notify the Postal Service, you might want to ask a friend or neighbor to pick up your mail from your box. Accumulated mail in a box is an advertisement the house is vacant. Additionally, small receptacles, such as apartment boxes, have a limited capacity and once full, your carrier will automatically remove the mail and leave a notice for you to pick it up at the post office. "The Westfield Post Office is here to assist your customers and help put their minds at ease when they are traveling," the Postmaster said.

Seminar to Explore Alternatives To Certificates of Deposit

"Over the past three years the interest you get from certificates of deposit has fallen over 50 per cent. If you've been relying on that income, you've felt the steep decline where it hurts most: In your wallet," states René Dierkes of the Westfield office of Legg Mason Wood Walker.

Lazer Revelations Today at Trailside

During a planetarium show, Lazer Revelations, at the Trailside Nature and Science Center at Coles Avenue and New Providence Road, Mountainside, today and on Thursdays, July 15, 22 and 29, at 2 p.m., those attending will learn about light waves, the speed of light and general astronomy through music, slides, lasers and planetarium special effects.

No children under 6 will be admitted and admission will be $2.50 per person and $2.10 for senior citizens.

Argument is the worst sort of conversation.
Jonathan Swift

"Now with low yields on certificates of deposit, come the prospects of higher taxes. Thus the combination of low yields, inflation and higher taxes all contribute in making certificates of deposit an extremely unattractive investment. There are alternatives," he added.

"Municipal bonds that provide income free of all taxes, yielding a taxable equivalent between 7.5 to 8 per cent are enticing. Not only does one obtain above-average returns, municipal bonds can also be bought with insurance giving an added measure of safety and comfort. Municipal bonds are just one of the avenues to obtain higher rates of return conservatively," he said.

On July 12, Legg Mason will be holding a seminar on how to obtain higher rates of return. Topics will include tax-free investing, mutual funds and stocks. The seminar will start at 7:30 p.m. and will last no longer than one hour. It will be held at the firm's office in Westfield at 203 Elm Street.

For information, please call Mr. Dierkes at 232-2686.

'Soar Into Summer' Winners Announced by Town Chamber

The Intown group of the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce announced the winners of the "Soar Into Summer" promotion conducted in June. Mrs. Christine Kheer, a Westfield resident for 13 years, won the grand prize of a hot air balloon ride for two. Thirty other entrants in the drawing won prizes donated by Chamber businesses.

Mrs. Kheer, who enjoys walking into town with her baby son for shopping and errands, entered the drawing at Central Jersey Bank. The bank was among the 34 Intown members which were entry locations for the promotion. Mrs. Kheer is employed as an educational consultant, teaching teachers of elementary grades mathematics and science.

Battery Recycling Program Begins With Ceremony

The Union County Utilities Authority held a battery recycling kickoff program at its Linden offices last Thursday in an effort to heighten awareness of a newly-implemented household battery-recycling mandate.

Michael Winka, the Executive Assistant for the Division of Solid Waste of the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy and Jeffrey S. Callahan, the Executive Director of the utilities authority, were the featured speakers.

Representatives from the National Electrical Manufacturers Association, Portable Rechargeable Battery Association, the utilities authority, Advanced Recycling Technology Systems, Inc. and Cycle Chem were on hand to provide local officials, municipal recycling coordinators and representatives from local hospitals and businesses with information on the mandate.

Authority Chairman, Mrs. Helen Miller, explained it is essential batteries, which contain heavy metals, are removed from both the residential and commercial waste stream.

"It is imperative that residents and businesses properly discard consumer batteries," Mrs. Miller explained. "Batteries must be separated. They should not be disposed of in municipal solid waste landfills or in the waste-to-energy facility that will be completed this year."

The utilities authority has been assisting all municipalities and other recycling collection agencies with programs to guarantee the success of recovering batteries in all Union County municipalities.

Four collection alternatives have been implemented in Union County. They include inclusion in municipal curbside collection recycling programs, point-of-sale recovery, drop-off programs and special waste-day disposal programs.

"Through these efforts, Union County continues to move closer to meeting its 60 per cent recycling goal," noted authority Vice Chairman Angelo J. Bonanno, who serves as the Chairman of the authority's Recycling Committee. "At the same time we are handling batteries in the most environmentally-sound and cost-effective manner."

Residential collection programs vary by municipality. For instance, 12 Union County municipalities offer a curbside program six towns offer a depot collection service and three towns offer both collection options.

The curbside collection program in Westfield began May 13 and 14.

Acceptable batteries include AA, AAA, C, D, nine-volt, lantern and button-cell batteries. Vehicular batteries will not be accepted. They can be returned at the point of sale or area Union County facilities including A & M Battery at 414 Spring Street, Elizabeth or Interstate Battery Systems on Bloy Street and Ramsey Avenue, Hillside.

They can also be brought to the authority's household special waste disposal days.

Republican Assemblymen Oppose Sports Gambling

Pair Hits Costly Lobbying Efforts by Casinos

Assemblymen Richard H. Bagger and Alan M. Augustine July 1 reiterated their opposition to legislation that would legalize sports gambling.

Richard H. Bagger

Alan M. Augustine

notwithstanding a $2-million lobbying campaign by the Casino Association of New Jersey to get the bill through the Legislature.

Assemblyman Augustine said he received over 600 "unsigned" form letters drafted by the association in the past two weeks urging support for the bill. The legislation, Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 103 and Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 124, is now under consideration by the General Assembly.

Assemblyman Bagger, who serves on the Assembly Appropriations Committee, which is slated to consider the bill on July 8, said the casino industry is "trying to use its money to dictate public policy." But he stated, "I continue to oppose sports betting and will vote against it in the Appropriations Committee."

In a random telephone sampling conducted by Assemblyman Augustine's office to the residents whose names and addresses appear on the letter, the overwhelming majority said they had not authorized the use of their name.

One citizen said she authorized use of a letter, but said she was misled by a representative of the Casino Association about its actual content, according to Assemblyman Augustine.

"Most of those we contacted knew nothing about these letters that had their names at the bottom," Assemblyman Augustine said. "Even a cursory review of this letter campaign indicates that it does not even approximate the feelings of the public on this issue."

"We're elected to represent the will of our constituents," Assemblyman Augustine continued. "Desperate lobbying efforts such as these which misrepresent the individual citizen's true feelings about an issue threaten the entire democratic process, and should be publicly condemned and rooted out."

"The Casino Association of New Jersey's lobbying effort has simply strengthened my resolve to oppose this bill," Assemblyman Augustine said. "I sincerely hope the methods used by the association in this lobbying effort were not endorsed by its members."

Assemblyman Bagger voted against sports betting when it was defeated by the Appropriations Committee on May 18 by an 8-to-2 vote. A previous sports betting bill had stalled in the Appropriations Committee last December for lack of support. Now a third sports betting bill has been introduced and will face the Appropriations Committee on July 8.

"Sports betting is bad public policy for New Jersey," Assemblyman Bagger explained. "It generates little or no revenue for the state while exacting a much higher social price. New Jersey already relies too heavily on gambling revenues. Let's not downgrade our sports heroes and demean athletic competition. Enough is enough."

The program will begin with an orientation in the center's planetarium, and from there, participants

"What is perhaps most troubling," Assemblyman Bagger added, "is the relentless effort of the casino industry to legalize sports betting at any cost. It is disconcerting to see a narrow, special interest spend millions in an effort to influence the Legislature. As far as I'm concerned, the casinos' campaign for sports betting will not prevail."

Press reports and public documents reflect expenditures by the Casino Association of New Jersey in support of sports betting totalling approximately $2 million in the last year, including $500,000 in the last 10 days.

will move outside to identify and locate the Summer Triangle and Hercules Cluster. Visible planets, bright stars and other constellations will also be pointed out.

Votes on Subcontracting Draw Ire of Mrs. Pepper

Mrs. Susan H. Pepper, a Democratic candidate for the Assembly in the 22nd Legislative District, expressed serious concern over the votes cast by Assemblymen Alan M. Augustine and Richard H. Bagger in support of Assembly Bill No. 1220 that severely inhibits boards of education from subcontracting services.

Mrs. Pepper stated, "For the second time in the last six months, Mr. Augustine and Mr. Bagger have voted with special-interest groups instead of with their constituents. I find it hard to believe our representatives, who claim to be concerned about saving taxpayers' dollars, bowed again to the wishes of influential special interest groups as they did when they voted to override the Governor's ban on assault weapons."

Mrs. Pepper continued, "There are significant problems with Assembly Bill No. 1220. In times of limited resources, the option to subcontract non-educational services, such as food service, transportation or custodial and maintenance services, can result in substantial savings. These savings can help boards maintain critical educational programs and hold taxes down."

"This bill poses serious obstacles even to those school boards merely considering privatization. Boards would be prohibited from subcontracting services during the terms of an existing contract. More importantly, the bill mandates that before subcontracting, a board must negotiate with a union about the impact of the decision. A union could potentially veto a privatization plan by refusing to agree with the school board over the impact," Mrs. Pepper said.

"Many board of education members testified before the Assembly Education Committee in May about how subcontracting saved their districts millions of dollars. The New Jersey State Department of Education and the New Jersey School Boards Association opposed the bill. The Westfield Leader and other newspapers throughout the state strongly editorialized against Assembly Bill No. 1220," Mrs. Pepper noted.

"As President of the Westfield Board of Education, I know from local experience how the option to consider subcontracting can help control costs for support services. The availability of this alternative allowed the Westfield board to work with its employees to design more efficient and cost effective services to the district. This translated into more dollars for education and lower tax increases," she added.

"In Bergen County, the Ridgewood Board of Education has reported savings of $1.6 million for 1992-1993 through the subcontracting of custodial and maintenance services. Piscataway, Highland Park and Bridgewater-Raritan school districts have had similar experiences. This alternative for saving money should be available for taxpayers throughout the state," she said.

Mrs. Pepper concluded, "I continue to be disappointed in the votes of our representatives when they put their allegiance to special interest groups above the needs and desires of their constituents. I have made a pledge not to accept financial contributions from any organized political action committee or special interest group. I believe that campaign finance reform is a critical issue in this campaign, and I look forward to presenting my ideas on this matter in the near future. For now, however, I sincerely hope that Donald T. DiFrancesco and the other members of the State Senate make a better decision on this topic."
