Board, Teachers Still at Impasse Over Health-Care Benefit Costs

Westfield Contract One of Few Agreements in Central Jersey Area Not Signed; Next Session Scheduled With the State Mediator on Wednesday, August 18

By ROBERT R. FASZCZEWSKI Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

Westfield is one of few school districts in Union County and Central Jersey where contracts with teachers still have not been settled.

The outlook for contract settlements statewide is much better this year than last, according to Frank Belluscio, a spokesman for the New Jersey School Boards Association.

Mr. Belluscio noted last August 239 districts were in negotiations, while this month there only are 220 districts still talking.

The Westfield Board of Education

last met with the Westfield Education Association, which represents teachers and nurses in the town's public schools, on June 28.

At that time an impasse was declared in negotiations, and both sides are scheduled to meet with a state-appointed mediator on Wednesday, August 18, according to Dr. Robert C. Rader, the town's Assistant Superintendent of Schools for Business.

The 1993-1994 school year will begin on Wednesday, September 8. The major stumbling block appears to be health-benefit costs.

Dr. Rader noted approximately 26 percent of each teacher's salary goes for benefits. This amounts to around $7,000 per employee, he added.

Social Security benefits of 7.65 percent of each employee's salary are paid by the state, the Assistant Superintendent said, and the costs of pensions, which range from 2 to 7 percent of the salary of each employee in the bargaining unit, are paid for half by the state and half by the employee.

Contributions are determined by the employee's age, salary and expected retirement cost, he added. The average teacher's salary during the 1992-1993 school year was $49,310, the school official noted.

In a press release published last month in The Leader, Westfield Education Association President, Michael Seiler, said the association had made three separate suggestions on health-care cost containment that could save the board "at least $20,000 per year and possibly as high as $40,000 per year," and "if a three-year contract is negotiated, the savings to the board would range from $60,000 to $120,000."

He accused the board of being inconsistent in dealing with the health-insurance issue because, according to Mr. Seiler, two members of the board's negotiating team agreed in concept to work toward an association alternative to the existing dental plan, but, at the next session, he said, all conceptual agreements were rejected by the board.

At the last bargaining session, the education association President noted, the association presented another option based on a three-year contract, and the board rejected the association's offer and "shifted gears" to a one-year contract that would offer salary increases of about 2 percent to those on the top step of the salary guide.

The top step on the current salary guide is reached after 17 increments and the acquisition of a doctor's degree, and the salary at that step is $64,348.

The changes in the board's position on health insurance and salaries were cited by Mr. Seiler as the reasons the talks resulted in an impasse.

In a statement made at the June 15 Board of Education meeting, board President, Mrs. Susan H. Pepper, said the board has budgeted for a $975,000 or 22 percent increase in the cost of health-insurance benefits during the 1993-1994 school year.

him to realize those objectives. A fourth generation Westfielder and an alumnus of Westfield High School, where he starred on the basketball team, Mr. Love has owned Century 21 Taylor & Love, Inc., a real estate firm, in the town for almost 20 years. His Co-Chairman, Douglas T. Schwarz, also is a Westfield native.

"When they asked me to consider serving as Chairman, I said I'd do it if I have a straight man who's organized," said Mr. Love. "That's Doug Schwarz."

GARBAGE VENDORS WARNED TO COMPLY OR FACE LAW

Town Council Tables Ordinance On 6 A.M. Trash-Hauling Start; Residents Seek More Restrictions

Officials Cite Safety Problems With a Later Limit; Homeowners Dispute This; Engineer Edward A. Gottko to Succeed Mr. Malloy as Westfield Administrator

By ROBERT R. FASZCZEWSKI Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

The Town Council on Tuesday voted not to act on an ordinance which would have required garbage haulers to begin collection no earlier than 6 a.m., but several of the council members and the Mayor warned if complaints about pre-dawn noise from pickups continue into next month they would vote for the restrictions.

Several residents who spoke on the matter at Tuesday's public meeting of the council said the proposed ordinance did not go far enough, however, and they wanted to see the starting time set at 6:30 a.m. in order to come close to the 7 a.m. starting time outlined in the Union County Noise Ordinance.

Mrs. Ronnie Kaufman of 450 Edgewood Avenue presented the council with a petition she said contained 118 signatures of residents in favor of the 6:30 limit.

In addition to being a less-restrictive "compromise" to the county ordinance, Mrs. Kaufman noted, the 6:30 measure would be similar to the time limit set forth in an ordinance already in effect in Scotch Plains.

She added residents of the township report few violations of the ordinance, and Scotch Plains Police are easily able to handle them.

"We are not against the haulers," Mrs. Kaufman said, "but they are breaking the law and what they are doing is unlawful and inconsiderate."

Despite a letter last month from Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe, Jr. urging voluntary compliance with later starting times prior to enactment of an ordinance, she added, the haulers still are not complying, and those who already are complying voluntarily should have no problem following an ordinance.

Replying to claims a later starting time would cause accidents, Mrs. Kaufman said county recycling trucks are on town streets all times of the day without incident, and few accidents have been reported in Scotch Plains.

Answering a suggestion by First Ward Councilman Norman N. Greco that residents not happy with early collection can change their haulers, Keith Kaufman, Mrs. Kaufman's husband, said the hauler creating the problem in his area was not the one employed by him.

He added residents have trouble obtaining new haulers if they decided to drop their current haulers.

Another resident Gary Mahr of Myrtle Avenue, a Hamlette Disposal customer, said homeowners put up with smell of garbage for three or four days, and it would not hurt to put up with the smell for another hour or hour and a half.

He added he was opposed to earlier starting time limits allowed in the proposed ordinance for Saturdays because residents particularly wanted to sleep late on Saturdays.

Mrs. Valerie Rodriguez of 137 St. Paul Street, a customer of Bruno Disposal, said she was awakened between 4 and 5:15 a.m. every day, and promised residents would continue their fight even if the proposed 6 a.m. ordinance were tabled.

She added, contrary to some claims, garbage rates in Scotch Plains had not been raised after that township's ordinance went into effect.

Two residents, however, said they saw little need for a restrictive ordinance.

Carl Swenson said he had taken an informal survey of his Clark Street neighbors and "no one understands the commotion over this issue."

Mr. Swenson added having trucks on the street later in the day would create traffic problems, the later hours would cause rate increases and garbage trucks on the streets while children were going to school would create blind spots and impair the safety of the children.

Another resident, William Schaefer of 138 West Dudley Avenue, said while his previous pickups had been at 4:30 in the morning, since the publicity about the proposed ordinance had come out his pickups were done at 7:40 a.m.

When it came time for the council to vote on the proposed 6 a.m. limit, Solid Waste Committee Chairman Anthony M. LaPorta reiterated his support for the 6:30 limit. He noted if there only were two "bad-apple" haulers who were not voluntarily complying, it was not likely the 10 who were complying would raise their rates, and the haulers should realize the town could hire a "super hauler" under a single contract for all of Westfield if it had further problems.

It was silly to consider tabling the measure, he noted, pointing out the council last year enacted a bicycle helmet law which was not voluntary, and he saw no reason for voluntarism on the hauling issue.

He also repeated firing one's hauler was not effective because in the "real world" town garbage haulers do not compete.

Councilman Greco, who moved to table the ordinance, said the calls by residents for a later time limit should be discussed before action was taken.

He also cited the fact several haulers had presented reports of traffic accidents to Third Ward Councilman Gary G. Jenkins, thus pointing out there was a public safety issue in consideration of the ordinance.

The Councilman also said he knew of serious accidents which had taken place involving garbage trucks on West Dudley and North Avenues, and added Dependable Disposal had told him they would start some routes at 8 a.m., while Hamlette Disposal had agreed not to pick up at 1 a.m. at Holy Trinity School.

Town Bicentennial Poster Available in Periwinkle's

Westfield Landmarks Depicted for Celebration

The Westfield Bicentennial poster, highlighting town landmarks, has arrived and is available for purchase, according to Mrs. Linda Maggio, the Chairman of the Westfield Bicentennial Commission.

The posters, which cost $10 each, will help to defray expenses which will be incurred during the year-long celebration of Westfield's 200th birthday as an independent community.

On January 27, 1793, Westfield became a separate township from Elizabeth.

The posters are available for purchase from the official Bicentennial Shop in Periwinkle's Fine Gifts on Elm Street.

They also are available at the United Fund Office in the Westfield Railroad Station on North Avenue, and in the Westfield Main Street office at 150 East Broad Street.

"We are very pleased to offer these beautiful souvenirs of our Bicentennial," said Mrs. Joan Hogan, who helped develop the poster, along with Mrs. Paula Long and Mrs. Lynn Hartzell. "They are just the thing to send along with the children to college, and make excellent gifts for the holidays."

The poster depicts familiar Westfield landmarks, such as the Revolutionary War Cemetery, the railroad station, the Arcanum Hall turret and the Miller Cory House. The photography was done last spring by P & R Associates.

The first major Bicentennial event will be a gala costume ball to be held on Friday, January 22. Other events will include historic pageants, picnics, fireworks and a carnival. Several organizations are planning major events with a bicentennial theme.

Mrs. Barbara Lewis and Mrs. Lucy Banta are in charge of the Bicentennial master calendar, which will keep track of all the events and provide Westfielders with updates on Bicentennial happenings throughout the year.

Friday, September 17, is the deadline for inclusion on the master calendar.

Volunteers are still needed to participate in different capacities in the various planned events. Those interested in being a part of the Westfield Bicentennial celebrations should telephone Mrs. Ann Robinson, Bicentennial Volunteer Coordinator, at 232-8323.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS...The Westfield Bicentennial poster is available for sale in the Bicentennial Shop at Periwinkle's on Elm Street. Proceeds from the poster sales will help defray the cost of next year's Bicentennial celebrations. Displaying the poster are Periwinkle's proprietor, Mrs. Elaine Moffett, left, and Mrs. Joan Hogan, who was instrumental in the poster's creation.

Day Care Children Tour Businesses in Scotch Plains

Steven Willis, the owner of the Bike Stand at 1818 East Second Street, Scotch Plains and parent of Elisabeth Willis, a student in the Westfield Day Care kindergarten class, arranged to have the children visit several stores on his block.

The children enjoyed a dance class with Helen Watts at the Moderne Academie of Fine Arts at 1820 East Second Street. They then saw pork chops being cut at Frank's Meat Market at 1826 East Second Street before dropping in at the Bike Stand to meet an employee who had just finished first in a New Jersey bicycle race. Mr. Willis gave each child a goodie bag from his shop and escorted them on to Einhorn's Florist, where everyone received a yellow rose from the owners.

An employee at the Custom Lamp and Shade Shop at 1816 East Second Street showed the children how lamps are made and handed out chocolate kisses.

The final stop for the morning was an hour at Martial Arts America at 1814 East Second Street, where employees instructed the children in basic moves and kicks and stressed the importance of respect for others and self discipline.

The Westfield Day Care Center serves families from many communities including Scotch Plains and Fanwood. It is located at 140 Mountain Avenue, Westfield.

Sheriff's Office Unveils Money-Saving Computers

The Union County Sheriff's Office on August 2 unveiled a computer system that will streamline business operations and increase revenues without increasing fees.

Sheriff Ralph G. Froehlich said the Business Office Sheriffs System has "far exceeded our expectations by eliminating burdensome paperwork, improving morale and ensuring present staff levels will handle all volume increases in the future."

Sheriff Froehlich noted his office recognized as far back as 1980 it needed to computerize but was unable to do so because of a series of unreliable vendors and lack of funding.

In addition to providing security throughout the courthouse complex and transporting prisoners, the Sheriff's Office also has the responsibility to serve and execute civil and domestic court orders.

"Our problem was we were doing everything manually to serve a computer-age public," he said.

When the Freeholders made money available in 1991, Sheriff Froehlich tagged Undersheriff Allen C. Martin and Wayne Smith of the business office to develop guidelines and search for vendors.

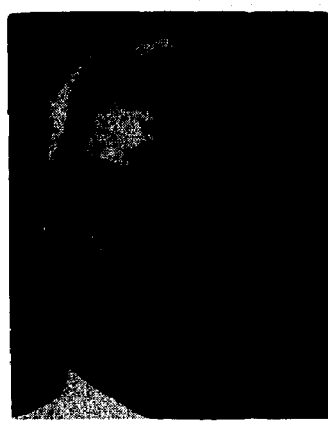

United System Technology Inc. of Texas which has a regional office in Totowa, was contacted to upgrade the business-office operations.

Mr. Smith said $15,000 was spent for new hardware and $50,000 on software to implement the system. However, he said he expects the new system "to pay for itself within two and a half years."

The Sheriff said he expects the computer system to generate an additional $40,000 in revenues annually.

He noted the new system minimizes paperwork, reduces mailing costs and eliminates duplication, along with the need for most forms and ledgers.

For example, the system reduces the weekly foreclosure sales listing from the 20 hours it used to take doing it manually to 30 minutes. The weekly check processing and posting, which used to take 20 hours manually, will now take only two hours.

Sheriff Ralph G. Froehlich

The computer system also will increase the process-server paperwork from 30 an hour to 120, and the hourly number of summonses and complaints returned to court from 15 to 75.

Sheriff Froehlich said employees of United System Technology have been training the business office staff since the system was brought on line in April.

He credited the county's data-processing office with making the system operational.

The Sheriff added the county, "has joined with Middlesex, Ocean, Cape May, Camden and Bergen Counties in becoming the vanguards of county automation, not only in New Jersey but throughout the nation."

"It is my understand... Mercer, Gloucester, Monmouth and Morris Counties have either purchased or are considering this system," he said.

"This places Union County in a position to share and exchange concepts and ideas with sister counties in order to standardize processing flows and functions directly affecting the counties' present and future bottom line," Sheriff Froehlich said.

Town Detective Charged In Assault on Homeowner

Westfield Detective Lieutenant Bernard F. Tracy has been issued a summons charging him with simple assault and is the target of an internal Westfield Police Department investigation following an incident on July 31 in which he allegedly punched a Readington homeowner after the officer and his son were asked to stop urinating on the man's property.

The homeowner, William B. MacKenzie, suffered a broken nose from the punch he said was thrown by Lieutenant Tracy, who was off duty, according to reports from the Readington Police Department and the Hunterdon County Prosecutor's Office.

The incident reportedly occurred in the evening in traffic backed up on County Line Road waiting to get into the New Jersey Festival of Ballooning at Solberg Airport, Readington Police Chief Kenneth Stadnik was quoted as saying.

Readington Police added the Lieutenant and his 13-year-old son had gotten out of a car driven by and registered to the Lieutenant's brother, John Tracy of Bridgewater, who remained behind the wheel.

They went onto Mr. MacKenzie's property, where one or both began urinating.

The homeowner told Police he asked them to leave, an argument began and the Detective punched him.

Lieutenant Tracy was on vacation last week, but Westfield Police Chief Anthony J. Scutti was quoted as saying the town department will follow up with an internal investigation to see if the incident actually took place.

After the confrontation, Lieutenant Tracy and his son got into the car and left, Readington police said.

Moments later, they added, witnesses gave police in the area a description of the Tracy vehicle, which was stopped about a half-mile away by police from neighboring Branchburg.

The homeowner reportedly was brought to where the Lieutenant was stopped and identified him as his assailant.

Readington Police said the Westfield Detective was detained for about an hour and released. He was not arrested, they added.

Lieutenant Tracy, 41, has 19 years on the Westfield force and is in charge of the Detective Bureau.

According to Readington Police, Lieutenant Tracy was served on Thursday with a summons charging simple assault.

Mr. MacKenzie signed the complaint Wednesday.

Readington Police consulted with the Hunterdon Prosecutor to determine whether the Lieutenant should be charged with the disorderly-persons offense, which will be heard in Municipal Court, or an indictable charge of aggravated assault.

The incident and injury lacked elements of the more serious offense, the Prosecutor was quoted as saying. She said her office brought the incident to the attention of Westfield authorities.

Scotch Plains Collector Discovers Rare Elvis Album

Freddie Nurman of Scotch Plains, an avid record collector for many years, and two friends, Robert Levy and Gene Van Severen of Highlands, recently stumbled on a find: A red vinyl 1957 Elvis Christmas record that is a one of a kind.

Word of the discovery has been spreading throughout the area and other parts of the world and the trio from New Jersey have received calls from as far away as Brazil from people asking if it is indeed true and, if so, how much money it would take for them to part with their prize.

So far, the three are holding tight to the dark red platter.

Mr. Nurman wants to donate it to the Elvis estate in Graceland, but Mr. Levy and Mr. Van Severen haven't agreed to that yet.

Mr. Levy, 31, came across the record about a month ago. "A friend of mine knew that I collected records and told me a guy had some old records for sale. I bought a bunch of records off him and then he showed me the red vinyl," said Mr. Levy, a piano dealer.

Mr. Levy purchased about 2,000 records from the man, a retired worker from the Radio Corporation of America record plant in Rockaway. His basement, which had been renovated into a family room, had an extensive Elvis collection, said Mr. Levy.

At first, the man who lived in Hopatcong, said the red vinyl record was not for sale.

The man eventually named a price and sold it because he wanted the money to move to Florida, Mr. Levy speculated.

The three would not reveal how much they paid for the record and the man, who is now living in Florida, could not be contacted for comment. The local collectors said he told them one day in 1957, when he was working in the RCA plant, he took some red pellets, melted down enough for one "biscuit," and pressed the red vinyl record.

Mr. Van Severen, who has collected records for years, said the record had particles of black vinyl in it, indicating the stamp used to make it had been used the same day to press the original black vinyls.

Also, the vinyl has a heavy texture and the edge of the record is squared, as opposed tapered, both signs it was made many years ago.

He also inspected the matrix number on the record and said it matches the original number for that stamping.

The number was definitely stamped, he added, not engraved as is the case with some counterfeits. Finally, he compared a black vinyl original with the red vinyl and found identical imperfections.

An original 1957 black vinyl Elvis Christmas album is one of the most collectible black vinyls and fetches between $500 and $1,500, according to experts.

How much is the red vinyl worth? That's almost impossible to say, according to experts, because there are only about 50 people who seriously bid on records in that league.

It could sell for $15,000 or more. One man immediately offered $7,500 for it when told of the discovery.

Until they decide what to do with their precious find, the three collectors aren't taking any chances.

They're keeping it in a climate-controlled vault, said Mr. Levy.

Township Loses Appeal In $1 Million Lawsuit

Scotch Plains will have to pay a $1 million liability judgment in the case of a girl injured by a municipal truck in 1982 if a July 28 decision by the Superior Court stands.

The township tried unsuccessfully four years ago to sue an insurance broker, the DiLeo Agency, for negligence in recommending an insurance company that later went bankrupt, leaving the municipality with the liability judgment.

Within the next few weeks, according to Township Manager Thomas E. Atkins, the township must decide whether to file a certification application to "appeal the appeal."

The case began when Rita Sculley, 14, was seriously hurt by a township-owned truck on November 9, 1982.

She filed a personal-injury lawsuit against Scotch Plains in January 1984. While the lawsuit was pending, in April 1986, the township was informed its insurance carrier, Midland Insurance Company, had gone bankrupt.

The Sculley case was settled for $2.7 million in January 1987. Of that money, all but $1 million was paid by various other insurance agencies and funds, but the remaining balance was paid by Scotch Plains in 120 monthly installments of $8,333.33 each.

Eventually, the township filed suit against the DiLeo Agency.

After a five-day trial, the jury declined in favor of the agency, finding there was no breach of contract and DiLeo was not negligent.

The township was denied a motion for a new trial two years ago.

Life Insurance Benefits May Be Used While Living

Editor's Note: The following is the first in a series of columns produced by the Institute of Certified Financial Planners and provided to The Westfield Leader and The Times of Scotch Plains and Fanwood by Richard C. Underhill of Westfield, a Certified Financial Planner, who is a member of the group.

Mr. Underhill is a registered investment adviser and a registered general securities, municipal securities, options securities and variable securities principal representing Royal Alliance Associates, Inc. He also is a licensed insurance agent in New Jersey.

The columnist received his Associates Degree in Business Administration with high honors from Nichols College in Dudley, Massachusetts in 1947, his Bachelor of Science Degree magna cum laude in 1951 from Boston University and his Certified Financial Planner designation in 1983 from the College for Financial Planning.

In the financial services field since 1951, he began his career with a financial market letter firm in New England. He then spent 25 years with the Anchor Group of mutual funds, moving from sales promotion up the ranks to become Vice President of Investor Relations.

Mr. Underhill subsequently was the Vice President, Director and National Sales Manager of an insurance-affiliated broker-dealer and several related companies in the Orion Capital complex before becoming the first President of Crestmont Securities, Inc., a bank-affiliated broker-dealer.

He now is in private financial planning practice.

Could you, would you cash in on your own death?

That's an option increasing numbers of insurance companies are offering their terminally or critically-ill policyholders through what is known as accelerated death benefits or living benefits.

Such benefits are typically offered as a rider to a life insurance policy and allow a policy holder to collect all or a portion of the policy's face value before the insured person dies. If only a portion is paid, the designated beneficiary receives all or most of the remaining policy value on the insured's death.

This new feature began in 1989

Actually, there is a naive, a 1950's awkwardness about lovemaking curiously still present in Brook's works.

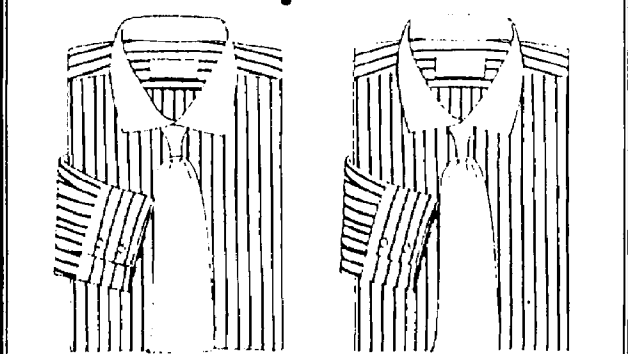

Methinks this Medieval-themed minstrel suffered editing problems, partially explaining its two diverse natures.

Thus, if the popcorn line is especially long on the day of your visit to the bijou, fret not. You'll be seated long before the bona fide fun begins.

Once firmly clad in its convivial, laughter-producing notions, Robin Hood: Men in Tights is dressed to kill your funny bone.

Several Remedies Available For Hypothyroidism

By Herb Ross

You find you're always cold, you're tired and other symptoms. It may be your thermostat is out of whack. If you think I'm talking about the thermostat on the wall, you're wrong! I'm talking about hypothyroidism.

According to an article in Remedy about half of the estimated 6 to 7 million people in the United States who have hypothyroidism, a slowdown in the thyroid's vital hormone-production factory, don't know it. The most likely candidates: Women over 50. One in 10 has a failing thyroid.

The most common cause of underachieving thyroids in the United States is an auto-immune disorder called Hashimoto's disease, which attacks the thyroid gland. The assault leaves the thyroid unable to produce enough thyroxine, a hormone needed by almost every cell. A thyroid slowdown also can be caused by radiation treatments given for overactive thyroids, which force a hyperthyroid to go hypo. And some people are born without thyroids or lose them to cancer; they must be treated immediately and for life.

Synthroid is the most-prescribed drug for hypothyroidism. Made by Boots Pharmaceuticals, it contains levothyroxine, a nearly perfect copy of thyroxine. The only tricky part is working out the dosage; too much can cause anxiety, palpitations, angina and bone thinning. Most physicians start small, usually 25 or 50 milligrams daily, and work up. Synthroid, like some of its competitors, comes in 11 strengths.

The price of the drug is high! There is a generic counterpart, but many doctors won't prescribe the generic. Boots Pharmaceuticals claims they're using synthroid profits to work on extensive thyroid research.

Generic versions seem to have problem with dosage reliability. Don't switch to generic without being retested.

For anyone with the vague, ongoing "aging" symptoms that can indicate hypothyroidism, there is a simple, inexpensive blood check called the TSH test. If you test positive, thyroxine must be taken for life or the symptoms will come back.

But aside from the minor nuisance of having to remember a daily pill, the regimen is usually hassle-free: Side-effects are virtually nil.

Host Families Requested For Students

The Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School American Field Service is seeking residents of Scotch Plains or Fanwood to help provide homes for some of the 45 foreign-exchange students originally assigned to flood-torn areas of Iowa and Missouri for the 1993-1994 school year.

Students in the program come from countries all over the world and would attend the high school as juniors or seniors. Host families need not have children attending public schools. All students are carefully screened and would divide their stay among available host families.

Many local residents have hosted students in the program since the early 1970s, and would be happy to share their experiences or answer questions.

Those who would like to help, should telephone 322-4895, 889-4361 or 753-6866 for further information.

I want to avoid service charges on my checking account, said Harry. Without having to maintain a $3,000 balance. At a big-city bank, the conversation might have ended there. But fortunately for Harry, he was talking to Statewide. We told him about our Regular Checking account. You'll avoid monthly service charges as long as you maintain a balance of just $500. There's never a charge for writing a check. And if your balance does fall below $500, the service charge is only $5 (compare that to what some banks charge). It takes just $100 to open the account. You can get 24-hour access with a Statewide MAC card. And qualified account holders can also enjoy the security of Statewide "No-Bounce" Overdraft Protection. Harry calculated all the advantages and opened his account right away. Today, he offers friends this advice: If you want a great deal on your checking account, choose Statewide Regular Checking.

POPCORN™

Robin Hood: Men in Tights
 A Fairly Fitting Satire

By Michael Goldberger

One Popcorn, Poor • Two Popcorns, Fair • Three Popcorns, Good • Four Popcorns, Excellent

A funny thing doesn't happen on the way to the second half of Robin Hood: Men in Tights, Mel Brooks's good-natured contribution to the old English legend. The movie gets off to a fitfully slow start as the poorly-edited exposition bogs down in overlong, seen-it-before sequences that offer only a hint of the coming amusement.

But, lo and behold, movie-going knave and damsel, that rare movie thing — mid-life redemption — happens right after halftime. Mr. Brooks's creative effort finally catches and begins to spew forth a rapid-fire variety of comic ideas.

Satirizing the 12th century, the motion picture re-tells the familiar tale of Robin of Locksley returns from the Crusades to find things rather amiss, as well as a mess, at home.

Here, the Sheriff of Nottingham is doing the corrupt bidding for King John, usurper of the throne, played by comedian Richard Lewis. Ultimately, Robin recruits his band of Merry Men in reaction to the rampant misery being perpetrated in King Richard's absence.

It takes a tad too long... but once the cast is introduced and the mission spelled out, the film finds its stride. In what amounts to a series on vignettes, among the funniest is a sketch starring Dom DeLuise as Don Giovanni, a side-splitting godfather knock-off spun to perfection. Visited by the scheming Sheriff, the Medici-like don is asked to stack the deck against Robin.

Achieving a very respectable, likeable presence as the title tights wearer is Cary Elwes, a relative unknown. Mr. Elwes, aspiring to the Errol Flynn school of Robin Hood interpretation, proves quite skilled as the pretend-serious, dramatic stonchion at the center of the farce. Glib of tongue and twinkling of eye, he is, of course, destined to court Maid Marion.

In some respects, filmmaker Brooks proves very cognizant of current tastes and trends. His insertion of a rap group to act as a sort of chorus, moving the fore through its transitions, is hip if not entirely inspired. But then again, there are other mechanisms applied here that are practically recycled beyond recognition.

More than 20 years ago, via The Producers and Blazing Saddles, the national treasure who cut his teeth as a writer on The Show of Shows introduced his specific form of shtetk. The skilled juxtaposition of time periods and mores from different eras is served up as a particular type of comic exercise — an occupation mastered by Mr. Brooks and first

Marriage Encounter Weekend Stresses Christian Values

Marriage Encounter is a weekend program to help good marriages become great marriages. The weekend combines Christian values with a busy, structured weekend program to improve communication between husband and wife.

Marriage Encounter is not marriage counseling, sensitivity training or group therapy. It is recommended for all couples, of all faiths who have a good marriage and desire more zip, romance and sparkle.

The New Jersey Community of United Marriage Encounter is conducting a registration drive for the remaining 1993 weekends, September 10 to 12 and October 1 to 3. The event will be held in Somerset, according to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brown of Westfield, the New Jersey Deeper Weekend Registration Couple. The registration deadline for the October weekend is September 1, and registration is limited for both weekends.

The September event is a "Deeper" weekend and recommended for couples who have previously attended a Marriage Encounter weekend. The October event is for couples who have never been to a Marriage Encounter weekend.

The weekend registration fee is $25, which includes two nights and meals at the hotel. According to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Vaupel, the New Jersey Weekend Registration Couple, "The low cost of the weekend is designed to allow all couples, regardless of their economic situation, an opportunity to attend a Marriage Encounter weekend. Additionally, special needs such as diet, allergies, or physical limitations can be arranged when the couples register." The couple's telephone number is 272-0782.

SEE BETTER BEHIND THE WHEEL.
The better you see, the better you can see the road. Here are some vision tips for safer driving:
• Clean eyeglasses, windshield and headlights often.
• If you need glasses for driving, keep an extra pair in the glove compartment. It's not safe to drive without them.
• Sunglasses are a great help in daylight hours but dangerous at night when they lower the visibility of cars, people and signs.
• Drivers over 50 would be wise to stay on well-lit roads.
• At night, try not to look at oncoming headlights; they can be disorienting and even cause temporary blindness.
• If dry eyes are a problem with wind, heat and air conditioning, keep some ocular lubricant on hand.
• Eyes should be examined regularly and eyeglass prescription kept up to date. Some drivers — especially seniors — find they need a stronger prescription behind the wheel.

DESPITE A LARGE FAMILY AND A VARIED BUSINESS CAREER

Mrs. Anna Kane Earns English Degree Summa Cum Laude; It Took 16 Years

Attaining a lifelong dream that came to the forefront of her mind only in later years was a pinnacle for Mrs. Anna Kane, Executive Secretary to Union County College's Dean of Student Services and an alumna of the school, who this month graduated summa cum laude from Kean College of New Jersey in Union.

It took 16 years and considerable organization of an active personal schedule to obtain a bachelor's degree in English. But at 68, the Westfield resident can proudly call the sheepskin her own, something that makes her husband, six children and two grandchildren proud.

As a high school student in her native Bayonne, Mrs. Kane aspired to be a kindergarten teacher. She admits to having a special love for children, and having come from a family of only one sibling, it seemed like fun. Instead, she married and got an accurate semblance of an entire kindergarten class of her own.

Shortly after graduating in 1941, World War II broke out. Higher education for women was not a primary focus, and so she went to Katharine Gibbs Secretarial School in New York City. It was a highly-respected institution that provided her with a concentrated secretarial program and the background needed to land a position immediately as Executive Secretary to the Vice President of a Bayonne chemical corporation.

There, she worked among doctors of chemistry and learned how a clothing dye manufacturer could switch gears to becoming a pharmaceutical provider for the Armed Forces, preparing an anti-malarial drug.

About seven years later, she married and began her large family, leaving her job.

"It was expected in those days," says Mrs. Kane with a unique air of warmth and refinement. "But actually, our work orientation hasn't changed that much, because women still are expected to do the same thing, plus keep a full-time job."

Once the children were grown, in the mid-1970s, Mrs. Kane began helping her husband, James, in his engineering business, as well as friend who had an insurance company. She took a non-credit course in bookkeeping at Union County College, and decided: "I liked the interaction with people. Having always enjoyed school, being in the classroom was fun."

But could she handle a credit load? Mrs. Kane wanted to take more courses by simply attending classes and not going for a degree. Her husband advised her otherwise, and so she began taking credit courses. She took philosophy, English and others, usually one per semester, until she later decided to take two or three courses simultaneously, just to hasten her trek towards an Associate in Arts degree in Liberal Arts at Union County College.

"I found that the instructors encouraged the older student," says Mrs. Kane. "We were welcome because we added another dimension to the class...Our background helped the instructors as well; there was a mutual respect."

Mrs. Kane acknowledges that her greatest fear initially was writing papers, an area in which she now excels, having had her prose and poetry published. But writing a research paper for class took some doing, and her daughters had to teach her to write an essay.

The bottom line, however, is that Mrs. Kane did not stop her studies—not even for one semester, and continued toward her goal of a degree. While attending Union County College, and later Kean, she says she found an enhanced aspect of her relationship with her children. There was more to talk about, and she believes she set a positive role model for studies. Sometimes, they'd even tease her, calling her a "geek" for her conscientious approach.

"My school work became part of my everyday existence," she says. "I had to cut out on extra flourishes, and I cooked ahead of time, organizing everything from food shopping to my social life," she says.

Gradually, Mrs. Kane became increasingly more involved with Union County College, obtaining a student-worker job before taking on executive secretarial positions with various academic departments, assuming her current position with the Dean of Student Services in 1989.

"I like being in an academic environment rather than business," she concedes. "I like the variety of interaction my work has; the tasks are different and I meet different people."

Upon graduation from Union County College in 1983, it was immediately on to Kean for a bachelor's degree, this time in English. There, she became more involved with scholarly endeavors, such as membership in two honor societies and participation in activities including a poetry reading of Emily Dickinson's works.

A highlight was Mrs. Kane's research and written compilation of information about author Caroline

SWEET VOICES... Scotch Plains Cultural Arts committee will present the Hickory Tree Chorus, a local chapter of Sweet Adelines International, today at 8 p.m. on the Village Green on Park Avenue, Scotch Plains. Sweet Adelines International is dedicated to the teaching, singing and performing of one-part harmony, barbershop style, and boasts a worldwide membership of over 30,000 women. The Hickory Tree Chorus was regional champions four times in the 1980s and second-place medalists last year and perform for a wide variety of New Jersey organizations and communities. Members are drawn from the large Central New Jersey area, and 70 singers' repertoire includes solid barbershop, show tunes, ballads, blues and songs of today in acappella four-part harmony. Stevens Wittmann, which was included in an anthology, "Past and Promise: Life of New Jersey Women." That work was under the sponsorship of the New Jersey Women's Project.

Some of Mrs. Kane's original poetry, which tends to take a humorous viewpoint on life's experiences, have been on display at the Newark Public Library. Others, including her set of verses, have been included in collegiate publications.

Mrs. Kane says she especially enjoyed the English major because of its combined literary and writing thrust.

"I liked reading about people and understanding their behavior, people's motivations and the connection with psychology and sociology," she says. "And I love the language."

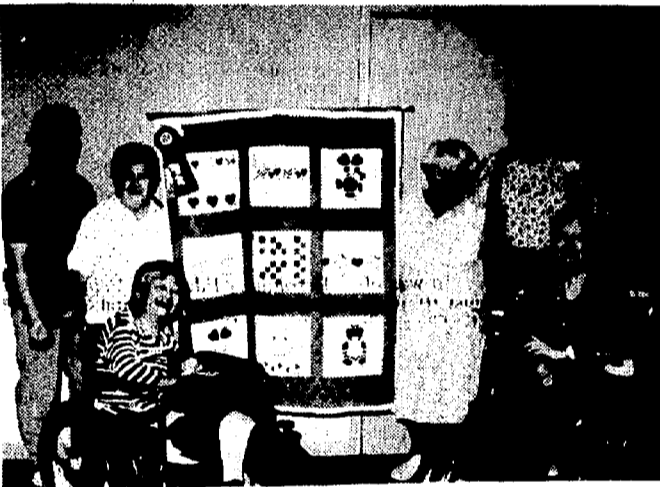

While at Kean, she learned to perfect her writing style, overcoming a weakness for broadness and excessive verbiage. She gained self-confidence, and developed a flair for public speaking, from which she previously would shy away.

"I've developed a special sense of happiness" says Mrs. Kane. "Yet, at the same time, I would like to continue my education as long as I am able. "I don't want to think of this as an end."

She advises other non-traditional age students to "take a risk" and ask professors and classmates for help, because "they'll be glad to give it."

Attending college affords an individual a chance to learn more about life and hear about things from people who have a bit more education, says Mrs. Kane, and for this, a college experience opens doors enabling students to receive even while still giving.

Meridian Residents Win Blue Ribbon in Quilting

The Women's Club at Meridian Nursing Center-Westfield, at 1515 Lamberts Mill Road, took a blue ribbon for their nine-panel quilt in the nursing home division for group projects at the Monmouth County Fair.

Mrs. Douglas Basarab, the Assistant Director of Recreation, and Miss Susan Bishop, the Recreation Specialist, helped the women with the quilt and took a group of the club members to the Monmouth County Fairgrounds in Freehold for a tea in their honor on July 21. There, the women viewed crafts from other nursing homes and each had a slice of the prize-winning cakes.

"The trip gave us some new ideas for next year's craft work," said Mrs. Sadie Kraus, a resident who worked on the project.

The other members of the women's club who made the quilt include Mrs. Dorothy McCabe, Mrs. Sylvia Will, Mrs. Doris Maher, Miss Caroline Mew, Mrs. Anna Lee and Mrs. Myrtle Nolan.

Engineers Hold Workshop For Plains Science Teachers

Local engineers presented a workshop to the Scotch Plains/Fanwood High School science teachers recently. The presentation entitled "Engineering the Future" is a program used to inform educators of the importance and needs of engineering in today's society. The teachers can then use this knowledge to interest students whom are needed for engineers in the future.

The engineers are members from the Professional Engineers Society of Union County. Solomon Domeshek, President-Elect of the society, was coordinator of the workshop.

The other engineers involved with this recent program were C. Stephen Kinsey, the Scotch Plains/Fanwood Municipal Engineer; Srihar Dharapuram, a Partner of Technology Engineering & Construction, Inc. in Kenilworth and Jon Burgess, President of Burgess Technical Resources, Inc., in Scotch Plains.

The local society holds similar sittings with various groups of students in the county throughout the year. The society also sponsors science and mathematics competitions as well as scholarship programs.

Further information on these programs can be obtained from Mr. Domeshek.

Erratum

At the July 29 Westfield Board of Education meeting, Board member, Mrs. Melba S. Nixon, suggested the board should have considered someone willing to work in a salary range of $50,000 to $65,000 when appointing a Director of Human Resources.

It was incorrectly reported in last week's Westfield Leader that Mrs. Nixon had suggested the hiring of someone 55 to 65 years old.

Helpful Hints to Prepare Press Releases for The Leader

A press release should contain the name, address and telephone number of the publicist, have the following essential facts and be typewritten and double-spaced on one side of an 8 1/2-inch by 11-inch sheet.

WHEN the event took place, an exact date;

WHAT it concerned and

WHY the event was held, if necessary.

The Who means names spelled correctly following this style:

— James C. Scott, Jr. in other words, for a man's first name, middle initial, if he has one, and a last name.

— For a woman, supply Mrs. or Miss and give a first name, middle initial, if she has one, and a last name.

— Nicknames are used in sports copy only or appear when the full name is already given.

The WHAT means explaining the purpose of a meeting or reporting what went on. Saying a speech was great means nothing; explaining what a speaker said is newsworthy, if it is important.

Don't:

— Type all in capital letters.

— Expect that your release will appear just as you wrote it.

— Have skimpy margins.

— Write captions on a photograph; use a separate sheet. Don't staple pictures.

— Use abbreviations or acronyms. Names of organizations, states and companies should be spelled out in full.

All copy should be in our office by Fridays at 4 p.m. For events that occur over the weekend, press releases should reach us by Mondays at 10 a.m. Obituaries will be taken to Tuesday at 5 p.m. All matter is used, of course, as we have time to prepare it properly for publications. No guarantees are made.

Mr. Zenner Appointed College Foundation Trustee

Patrick J. Zenner of Westfield, the President and Chief Executive Officer of Hoffmann-La Roche, has been elected as a Trustee of the Foundation of the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, the nation's largest health-sciences university.

The foundation, which was established to provide private-sector support for priority programs of the University, distributed approximately $6 million for student assistance, research and community-service projects during the 1993 fiscal year.

Headquartered in Nutley, Hoffmann-La Roche Inc. is the United States affiliate of the multinational group of companies headed by Roche Holding Ltd. of Basel, Switzerland.

One of the world's leading research-intensive health care companies, Roche is a major provider of prescription pharmaceuticals, diagnostic products and clinical testing services, home-injection therapy services, vitamins and other products for human and animal nutrition, as well as animal drug-feed additives and veterinary products.

Prior to becoming Roche's President and Chief Executive Officer, Mr. Zenner served as the Senior Vice President of the company's Pharmaceuticals Division. In that capacity, he was responsible for three business units — pharmaceuticals, dermatology and home health care. Since 1988, Mr. Zenner has served as a member of the company's Executive Committee and Board of Directors.

Long active in pharmaceutical industry affairs, he is a board member of several trade groups including the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, the Biotechnology Industry Organization and the American Society of Hospital Pharmacists Foundation.

Council Tables Limit On Garbage Collection

"I would rather have the business community policing itself," he added," but if complaints persist for the next month or month and a half, I will vote for the ordinance."

A similar view was expressed by Fourth Ward Councilman James Hely, who urged residents to keep records of early pickups, so the council would know if it should proceed with the law next month.

Praising Councilman LaPorta for his efforts, Third Ward Councilman Kenneth L. MacRitchie said the council should not get into the same gridlock as Congress and act on the time limit.

Mayor Boothe said the haulers should get the message, "Shape up or face regulation."

He urged residents with complaints to call his hotline at 789-4046.

On another matter, the Mayor announced the appointment of Town Engineer Edward A. Gottko as Town Administrator to take the place of John F. Malloy, Jr., who is retiring.

Mr. Malloy, changing his previously-announced plans, will remain in position fulltime until the end of this year.

Mr. Gottko will move into the newly-created position of Assistant Town Administrator for the rest of this year while he is trained by Mr. Malloy.

Patrick J. Zenner

Mr. Zenner joined Roche in 1969 as a sales representative and subsequently held a number of positions in pharmaceutical sales and marketing management.

In 1982, he was named Vice President and General Manager of Roche Laboratories, the marketing, sales, distribution and professional services arm of the company's Pharmaceuticals Division. He later spent two and a half years with Roche's parent in Basel, Switzerland, as head of international pharmaceutical marketing, project development and regulation.

Mr. Zenner holds a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration from Creighton University in Omaha and a Master's Degree in Business Administration in pharmaceutical marketing from Fairleigh Dickinson University.

As of Saturday, January 1, Mr. Gottko will take over fulltime as Administrator and Mr. Malloy will remain to help him until the retiring Administrator's terminal leave expires.

The payment of Mr. Malloy after the first of the year drew protests from Councilman LaPorta, who said the estimated $2,000 extra he would be receiving "sent the wrong message" to residents, especially when it would be added to Mr. Malloy's pension.

Fourth Ward Councilman Michael E. Panagos replied Mr. Malloy only would be paid $462 extra, and this figure was supported by the Mayor.

The Mayor said Mr. Gottko would receive a few thousand dollars more during the time he was serving as Assistant Administrator.

Councilman Panagos was joined by the other Councilmen besides Mr. LaPorta in supporting the payment to Mr. Malloy because of his long service to the town and the extra duties he would be performing.

An extensive background on Mr. Gottko will appear in next week's edition of The Westfield Leader.

The council, in other action, authorized an application to the Planning Board for the subdivision of the town-owned Dunham-Avenue tract into a North and South section separated by wetlands in preparation for sale of the tract.

It was noted the town has not yet decided whether the entire parcels will be sold as whole pieces or if they will be divided, how individual lots will be configured, if portions of tracts will be sold to owners of homes surrounding the tract, if the town will put in roads and other improvements or if the town will sell the tracts to a developer or supervise the sale on its own.

Also authorized were:

- Introduction of an ordinance prohibiting skateboarding on central business district sidewalks.
- The hiring of Concept Engineer-

Man Injured

In Accident

A Burnt Hills, New York man, Nelson Ripley, 64, was in the intensive care unit of Overlook Hospital in Summit yesterday morning recovering from a serious head injury he received when the bicycle he was riding on Sunday evening on Woodland Avenue struck a depression in the roadway, causing him to flip over the handle bars and strike his head on the street.

According to police reports, Mr. Ripley and his daughter, Mrs. Mary Harris of Westfield, were riding their bicycles together at the time of the accident.

The depression, according to reports, was caused by the improper filling of a hole in the roadway by construction company crews hired by the Elizabethtown Gas Company.

Westfield Playgrounders Find Many Methods to Keep Cool

SPORTS

FRANKLIN

August was off to a hot start as playgrounders cooled off at the Monday morning swim on August 2 at Memorial Pool.

Monday afternoon's Baby Picture Contest drew a few away from a game of "Dead or Alive," which was being dominated by Brian Gallagher, Kellen Doyle and Billy Schultz. Some of those participating in the contest were Michael, Kevin and Tony O'Leary, Nicholas Davidio, Roger Roguso, Claire McNamara and Claire Rosenberg.

Playgrounders' hard work at the fair earlier this summer paid off on August 3 as playgrounders were treated to Movie Day, a trip to the Rialto to see Rookie of the Year.

The beach came to the playground last week with the Franklin Playground Beach Party. Playgrounders enjoyed soda and chips, music and the Slip 'n Slide.

This week also brings Pet Day to Franklin Playgrounders as campers show off the animals they love and compete for the blue ribbon.

WASHINGTON

In the playground Show-Off Week started with a cool day at Memorial Pool. Playgrounders enjoyed swimming at the pool all day as they avoided the heat. The week continued as playgrounders watched the softball championship game between McKinley and Jefferson playgrounds.

As Wednesday rolled around the playgrounders were excited over Crazy T-shirt and Hat Day. Wednesday also was filled with 4-Square and Nok-Hockey tournaments. In the 4-Square tournament Eva Barrett and Dan Morrissey received first-place ribbons while Alex Barrett and Colby Fagan received second-place ribbons.

In the Nok-Hockey tournament Colby Fagan and Alex Barrett won first-place ribbons. The hat-and-shirt contest was won by Jeremy Owens, Steven Adams and Brett Alemecc. The week ended as the playground celebrated Holiday in August. The playgrounders sang Christmas tunes and the grand finale was a Christmas tree pinata.

NEIGHBORHOOD COUNCIL JULY 28

The morning consisted of arts and crafts with the children decorating jars and bottles with crepe paper. The children who did not participate in arts and crafts went to the Memorial Pool for kickball against the Wilson School team, which never showed! The council took the win. With this win, the council will now host Tamaques for the championship on Thursday. They also had a Westfield Police Officer come and speak about alcohol and drugs.

JULY 29

On championship day many of the children were looking forward to playing baseball. The council came out strong with five runs in the first, three in the second and three in the third, but Tamaques came back with six in the bottom of the third. The council had a very strong fourth, scoring eight runs including a home run by Secret Bundy. Other outstanding plays were made by LeNee and Kyle Clarke, Rahdee Bundy and Louis Mercer. The final score was 19-8 with the council having an unbeaten season. The afternoon went great, despite the heat. The children played the Cat Catches the Rat and then Bingo.

JULY 30

In the morning masks were made for arts and crafts. Partners were picked for the talent show. In the afternoon, the children practiced for the talent show. Later in the afternoon, they had a peanut hunt.

AUGUST 2

The children went to the Memorial Pool for a swim. In the afternoon games were played such as beach volleyball and dodge ball.

AUGUST 3

The water-balloon toss was played. The winners were: LeNee Clark and Secret Bundy. Some children played basketball and others played Nok-Hockey, checkers and jump rope. In the afternoon, it was off to the Memorial Park for three hours of swimming.

EXCEPTIONAL CENTER

The playgrounders opened the Olympics last week with an air sculpture with patriotic red, white and blue balloons.

Art projects have kept the playgrounders very busy recently. Some of their creations include decoupage bottles and painted T-shirts.

On July 30 the campers visited Solberg Airport for the Balloon Festival. There were many colorful balloons to look at. The two favorites among the youngsters was the balloon shaped as a sneaker and another in the shape of a battery.

During the week they rehearsed for a show they presented at a nursing home on Thursday.

TAMAQUES

The activities at the playground made last week a fun and successful one for its campers.

On Monday, the children participated in a tetherball tournament. By the end of the tournament Paul Cognetti had captured third place and Brian Clancy second, and first place went to Michael Meredith.

Since Tuesday was such a hot and humid day, the camp leader, Kristy McDermott, thought it would be a good day to go to Memorial Pool.

On Wednesday, the playground held a talent show for the children. Brendan Gorman won coolest guy on wheels, Alex and Candice Leger won first most creative, Raju Bhandari won second most creative, Matt Torriello won first funniest and Mike Sherry won second funniest, and David Cognetti won third funniest. Finally, on Thursday the playgrounders tie dyed, which was very successful when they did it earlier in the summer, and Friday was Movie Day.

JEFFERSON

The playground finished off Physical Fitness Week with tournaments. Devin Power, Liz McKeon and Bryan Power came in first, second and third, respectively in the Connect Four tournament.

In tetherball, Liz McKeon came in first, followed by Ryan Schafer and Mike Ciacciarelli, who came in second and third, respectively. The Nok-Hockey tournament was won by Liz McKeon with Ian Velez coming in second and Tyler Patla coming in third.

The beginning of Show Off Week was met with a difficult loss to McKinley Playground in the softball

All-Stars Take Division, North Jersey Championship

The Westfield 11-Year-Old Summer All-Star Team completed a successful summer baseball season by winning both the North Jersey All-Star American Division and the North Jersey League Playoff Championship.

The North Jersey All-Star League is comprised of 10 teams representing Union, Morris and Somerset counties. Westfield completed their overall season with a 14-2 record.

In the championship game, played at Florham Park, Westfield neutralized the potent Florham Park line up with a 14-8 win on the strong pitching of Randy Majocha who went the distance and displayed an assortment of fastballs and off-speed pitches.

Westfield's offense erupted for 17 hits in the game. Centerfielder, Josh Falcone, led the way with four hits and three runs scored. First baseman, Robert Roguso, had three hits and scored three runs. Short stop, James Beninato and third baseman, Jeff Bendix, had two hits each.

With Westfield leading 5-3, the team scored four times in the fourth inning highlighted by catcher, Brian Flynn's two run single and runs-batted-in singles by left fielder, Richie

Myers, second baseman, Anthony Colucci and right fielder, Jason Rower.

A five-run fifth inning sealed the victory for Westfield. Designated hitter, Brian Fitzpatrick's sacrifice bunt along with singles by Falcone and Beninato led the way.

Westfield won its first two playoff games by defeating New Providence 8-1 and Berkeley Heights 4-0 with Randy Majocha and Brian Flynn combining for the first win against New Providence. Majocha went the distance in the Berkeley Heights game with two hits and struck out 12 batters. Runs-batted-in singles were hit by Brian Flynn, Dean Ricca, Anthony Colucci and Jeff Bendix.

Westfield featured a fine defense with the strong outfield play of Richie Myers, Josh Falcone, Chris Benson and Jason Rower. The infield was anchored by Jeff Bendix at third base, James Beninato and Randy Majocha sharing shortstop duties and Anthony Colucci at second base. Dean Ricca and Robert Roguso rounded out the infield at first base. Brian Flynn and Jeff Bendix handled the catching chores. Westfield's strong pitching was led by Randy Majocha, Brian Fitzpatrick, Brian Flynn and James Beninato.

The team was managed by Bob Flynn. The coaches were Joe Beninato, Rocco Colucci and Stan Majocha.

Freddie Spencer In Hall of Fame

The namesake of this past Sunday's bicycle race in Scotch Plains, Freddie Spencer, was inducted into the New York Sports Museum and Hall of Fame in New York City on February 10.

Spencer, the father of Scotch Plains Mayor Joan Papan, received the honor a year after he died at age 87. He was the only bicyclist among 56 athletes inducted this year.

As a 21-year-old neo-pro he set six world records from 49 minutes and 28.6 seconds in a 25-mile event at the New York Velodrome in August 1929 to two national titles, 65 straight match sprints between 1925 and 1929 and completing 99 of the 102 six-day races he entered, winning four in New York and two in Chicago.

Guyana's Aubrey Gordon Wins Spencer Master's

Aubrey Gordon, a native of Guyana, who lives in Queens, New York, took first place in the Master's Race and led in the Category No. 1-2 event with three laps to go before finishing third behind former national champion Bob Livingston and Ronnie Johnson in Sunday's Freddie Spencer Memorial Criterium Bicycle Race in Scotch Plains.

With two laps left in the race, Gordon fell into fourth place, but it came down to a final sprint between him, Livingston and Johnson. Livingston made his move before the final turn and finished the 30-mile category No. 1-2 in the lead in one hour and one minute and 16 seconds.

In the Master's Race, for those 35 and older, Gordon led early and was then joined by a pack of five others that pulled away midway through the race and stayed together.

Heading into the final lap of the 20-mile race, Gordon was in third place but pulled ahead to win the event in 40 minutes and 54 seconds, just under 30 miles per hour.

In another exciting event, in Category No. 4, Ryan Luke of Australia opened up a huge lead halfway through the 20-mile race and pulled

On Monday, the playgrounders started off Show Off Week by having a pet show. All the animals that participated were judged and received ribbons. The children played capture-the-flag on Tuesday morning and had a baby picture contest in the afternoon. Since all the baby pictures were adorable, they gave ribbons to everyone for different categories. The children were able to show off their talent on Wednesday at the Gong Show.

They are going to end Show Off Week by going to Mindowaskin Park for a picnic and by having a playground tournament and are looking forward to the All Playgrounders picnic at Tamaques Park, which will be held next Wednesday.

Friday morning, the playgrounders took part in the weekly art lesson. The project consisted of painting jars for a decorative touch.

That afternoon, the children took a field trip to the Sports Park of Route No. 22. Popular games included miniature golf, batting cages, bumper cars and video games.

The Westfield Memorial Pool was Monday morning's site for sun. All of the children who came enjoyed the cool water.

OFFICIAL BACKING...Assemblyman Richard H. Bagger, left, whose district includes Westfield, Fanwood and Scotch Plains, recently attended a practice session of the Clark Wildcats 16-year-old-and-under Girls Fastpitch Softball Team to wish them success in the American Softball Association National Tournament in Fort Worth tomorrow to Sunday, August 15. Since the team, whose members reside throughout Union County and surrounding areas, is representing New Jersey in the tournament, Assemblyman Bagger presented them a state flag for use in the opening-ceremony parade.

The first auto race was held in Paris in 1894.

Plains Children Participate In Healthy Strides Walks

At Brookside Park in Scotch Plains recently children made customized picture frames under the direction of Carolyn Kiley, assisted by Gina DiFabio.

Isabel Lozano, Tanya Canto, Janet Chisholm, Alexis Vtoll, Crystal Redderson, Tracy Howell, Amy Ryan and Christi DeNuzzo, park attendees in the Healthy Stride Program, cumulatively walked 1,200 miles, the equivalent of walking to Texas. Crystal Redderson walked the equivalent of 59 miles, Tracy Howell walked 55 miles and Doug Rager 51 miles. All were rewarded with a treat.

Green Forest Park participants in the Healthy Strides Program walked a total of 843 miles. This is a distance equivalent to walking from New York to Chicago. One child and his brother walked 92 and 55 miles, respectively. Siddhant Dhandia walked 78 miles. Forty youngsters enjoyed a Hawaiian luau feast celebrating their victory.

Jerseyland Park playgrounders spent hours practicing dance steps to celebrate Kwanzaa on August 6. Park participants and their families joined in games and activities and enjoyed lunch while learning about the significance of Kwanzaa such as its symbols. The dance group also performed.

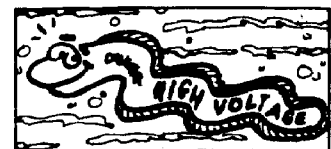

Jerseyland Park playgrounders walked the equivalent of the distance from New Jersey to Philadelphia and back. Kyle Paige and Charles Lee led the pack, walking the furthest, followed by Carl Jennings. The walkers also enjoyed a treat celebrating successful completion of the Healthy Strides walking program.

There still are openings for the Scienstational Workshop to be held at Terrill Middle School from August 23 to 27, as well as the Kids Karate Camp at Park Middle School from August 16 to 20.

Parents should telephone the Recreation Office at 322-6700 for details.

CALCULATING THE FACTS...Paul F. Kielblock, right, Safety Manager of the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club, points out the importance of the advanced traffic accident investigation skills learned by Officer Edward T. Belford of the Westfield Police Department. The officer recently completed the Advanced Technical Accident Investigation Course sponsored by the Club's Foundation for Safety.

Course Helps to Show Causes of an Accident

When you're in an accident, how does the police officer determine who is at fault or how the accident happened?

The New Jersey Automobile Club Foundation for Safety recently sponsored a course in Advanced Traffic Accident Investigation to provide police officers with the advanced skills necessary to determine what happened at the scene of an accident. The course also enables the officers to provide expert testimony in court cases relating to traffic accidents.

"The New Jersey Automobile Club Foundation for Safety is pleased to sponsor the Technical Advanced Traffic Accident Investigation Course," said Paul F. Kielblock, AAA's Safety Manager. "Our communities benefit from these accident investigation techniques that enable towns to improve road conditions and driver safety."

Officer Edward T. Belford of the Westfield Police Department completed the Foundation's Technical Advanced Traffic Accident Investigation Course. The officer learned how to estimate vehicle speeds from skidmarks, rolls, vaults, falls and scuffmarks; analyze vehicle damage to determine forces and movements involved in the collision; determine if lights were on or off at impact and if tire condition contributed to the accident; calculate accident scene measurements from photographs, and consider the human factors and evasive actions involved in the accident.

"The technical skills and information I gained from this course will help me to more accurately report how and why an accident happened," said Officer Belford. "It'll also be better able to determine the role that the road, weather and vehicle conditions along with driver error played in each accident."

Seaman Harris On Duty at Sea

Navy Seaman Wendy C. Harris, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eligha H. Harris of 330 Hunter Avenue, Scotch Plains, recently passed the midway point in a six-month deployment aboard the destroyer tender U.S.S. Shenandoah, homeported in Norfolk, Virginia as part of the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Theodore Roosevelt Battle Group.

Elements of the battle group are currently in the Red Sea, where they are enforcing the United Nations-imposed "no-fly" zone over Southern Iraq.

Others are working closely with North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies to enforce the United Nations-imposed "no-fly" zone over Bosnia-Herzegovina and are operating in the Adriatic Sea in support of Operation Provide Promise which provides relief supplies to the war-torn former Yugoslavia.

During this deployment, the Yellowstone-class destroyer tender and its 1,400 men and women have been providing repair, maintenance and logistics support to the battle group, at sea and pier-side.

Thus far, U.S.S. Shenandoah has been to Agusta Bay, Sicily and Suoda Bay, Crete to tend ships. While in Agusta Bay, volunteers from the crew painted two large meeting rooms at Contrada San Bartolomeu Seminary.

The 1989 graduate of Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School joined the Navy in May, 1990.

J. Brendan Meyer Earns Degree

J. Brendan Meyer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Meyer of Scotch Plains, received a Bachelor of Architecture Degree from the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Indiana, at commencement ceremonies in May.

He also was named to the Dean's List for the spring semester.

Brendan will begin graduate studies in American civilization and historic preservation at George Washington University in Washington, D.C. in the fall.

Traveling to Denver to participate in World Youth Day are two Westfield High School seniors, Tara McEnerney and Tara Corno.

Both are parishioners of St. Helen's Roman Catholic Church and are part of a group of 500 from the Archdiocese of Newark who are attending. Accompanying them is Mrs. Maureen Schmidt, Youth Ministry Assistant.

The five-day conference, which began yesterday and will conclude on Sunday, August 15, and which will be attended by Pope John Paul II, will bring together an estimated 300,000 youth and young adults from the United States and 70 other countries.

The two Taras are active members at St. Helen's. They are Peer Ministers and in that capacity serve as group and retreat leaders in the Youth Ministry program.

Tara McEnerney has been selected to represent the Archdiocese at a private Mass celebrated by Pope John Paul on Saturday, August 14. Only 380 of the thousands attending will participate in this special liturgy celebrated by His Holiness.

The Holy Father established World Youth Day in 1985 during the International Year of Youth promoted by the United Nations.

In alternating years, 1985, 1987, 1989 and 1991, he had invited young people to join him for several days for catechesis, prayer and fellowship. Past international gatherings have been held in Italy, Argentina, Spain and Poland.

Many cultural exhibits and forums, catechetical and liturgical meetings, discussion groups and community service projects have been planned.

The opening programming began at the Civic Center Park at noon yesterday, and the conference will conclude with a closing Mass for all at 9:30 a.m. on August 15 at Cherry Creek State Park.

Terrill School Students Study Victorian Times

Students in two classes of teacher, Mrs. Catherine Matfield at Terrill Middle School, spent time this winter learning about the Victorian era. They read H.G. Wells' War of the Worlds and A. Conan Doyle's Hound of the Baskervilles and then researched the time period to understand better the ideas and behaviors evidenced in the two novels.

Mrs. Matfield's period one class organized the era's historical events, literary accomplishment, inventions, scientific advances, transportation and customs into a news broadcast entitled "New Year's Eve 1899." Anchor persons and all reporters dressed in costume with ladies wearing hats and gloves and with gentlemen attired with walking sticks, vests and top hats. The broadcast was followed by a tea organized by one research group. Crumpets, scones, cream puffs, a Victorian sandwich and tea were served.

The period eight group presented their research in the form of scrapbooks showing Victorian influences on the 1990's. Students examined architecture, clothing, furniture, schools, transportation, manners and food of the times. And from family collections at home, students brought in antimacassars, lace doilies, Christmas ornaments, and old photographs of Victorian days to share with their classmates.

First Savings Reports 33 Per Cent Increase

Net income for the first six months of 1993 rose to a new mid-year high of $5.2 million, up 33 per cent over $3.9 million earned in the first half of 1992, announced Joseph S. Yewaisis, the Chairman and President of First Savings Bank, which has an office in Fanwood.

The results include a net cumulative gain in the first quarter of $398,000 from the adoption of two statements of financial accounting standards.

Net income in the second quarter of this year was $2.3 million, comparable to $1.9 million earned in the second quarter of 1992, in increase of 21 per cent.

Earnings per share for the first six months of 1993 were $1.77 after the cumulative effect of the accounting changes and $1.63 before the accounting changes. Since the bank converted to stock ownership in the third quarter of last year, comparative earnings per share for the first half of last year are not applicable.

Mr. Yewaisis attributed the bank's strong earnings to the continuing low-interest-rate environment which has kept down the cost of funds while stimulating demand for home mortgages and other types of loans.

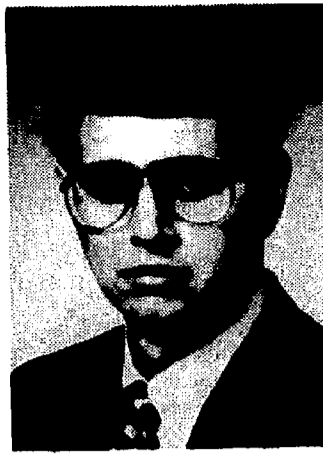

Stockholder equity on June 30 of this year totaled $63.4 million, compared with $47.2 million on June 30 of last year, an increase of 34 per cent. The increase was attributable in part to the sale of one million shares of common stock in the reorganization from a mutual to a stock company. First Savings Bank continues to exceed all capital ratios required by regulatory agencies.

A 10 per cent stock dividend was declared by the bank's Board of Directors for stockholders of record as of June 15 of this year, and was paid on July 1.

In addition, a cash dividend of $0.1625 has been declared for the second quarter of 1993, payable on July 30 to stockholders of record as of July 15.

On June 30 of this year, assets totaled $766.3 million and deposits $667.5 million. Return on average assets, annualized, was 1.35 per cent after the cumulative effect of the accounting changes, compared with 1.01 per cent during the same period last year.

Headquartered in Perth Amboy since 1901, First Savings has 15 retail banking offices in Middlesex, Monmouth and Union Counties.

Park Students Visit Little Italy in City

At the end of the school year, the eighth-grade Italian class at Park Middle School enjoyed a visit to a typical Italian "neighborhood."

Students visited "il mercato," sampled "Genoa salami," savored "gelato" and delighted in eating "cannoli" plus other Italian delicacies. They also were awestruck upon entering the magnificent European-style church and squirmed upon entering a typical "poultry market" with live chickens, ducks and rabbits.

When leaving Little Italy in New York, the remark heard by all was "That's Italian!"

FOR THE EARTH... In observance of both Earth Day and Arbor Day, students at the Park Middle School planted impatiens. Each student weeded and prepared the soil where they would plant their flowers. While learning the importance of helping nature, these students helped to beautify their school.

Mathematics Supervisor Aids Roche Initiative

Hoffmann-La Roche, Inc. has joined with Kean College of New Jersey in Union, Rutgers University and the College of Saint Elizabeth in Convent Station to create programs that strengthen the teaching of mathematics and science at the elementary level.

Under the Hoffmann-La Roche Teaching Excellence and Equity in Mathematics and Science Initiative, the schools have received grants to implement programs for undergraduate students over a three-year period.

The initiative grew out of a recent study of Roche's education support programs over the past decade by Karlheinz Haas, the supervisor of Mathematics for the Scotch Plains-Fanwood Public Schools.

One of Mr. Haas' strongest recommendations was for Roche to redirect some of its efforts to address the needs at the teacher preparation or preservice training level.

This recommendation was reinforced by the 1992 report of the New Jersey Quality Education Commission, All Our Children, which addressed the urgency of strengthening teacher training and certification requirements.

Specifically, the initiative targets three goals:

- Achieving excellence in the teaching of mathematics and science at the elementary level.
- Promoting content mastery in mathematics and science among teachers-in-training through interdepartmental collaboration among the disciplines.
- Preparing mathematics and science teachers to address barriers to success among student groups currently underserved because of race, ethnicity and gender.

Through the initiative, Kean seeks to implement an innovative mathematics and science undergraduate teacher-preparation program with a special emphasis on attracting and retaining minorities. The program will increase the total number of mathematics and science courses available to education majors, integrate mathematics and science content with relevant methodology and focus on strategies for multicultural populations.

Rutgers has designed a program called "Mentors and Partners in Elementary School Mathematics, Science and Technology." The university will conduct an intensive, four-week summer program with hands-on mathematics, science and teaching activities coordinated by Rutgers' Center for Mathematics, Science, and Computer Education.

The program also will have a follow-up component of monthly classroom visits to urban elementary schools. The program is designed to attract undergraduate students, particularly minority students, to teaching mathematics, science and technology in kindergarten through eighth grade. The program also establishes mentor relationships between graduate students and elementary teachers in predominantly minority-school districts.

The faculty at the College of Saint Elizabeth has designed a program called "Three R's Towards Effective Teaching of Mathematics and Science — Recruit, Retain and Renew." Through this initiative, the college plans to recruit minority women for their education programs who will also major in math and science; retain a high percentage of them through an innovative support system of study groups, and renew the teaching of mathematics and science in kindergarten through 12th grade.

Recycling Motor Oil Is Made Easier for Residents

Recycling used motor oil just got easier for Union County residents, thanks to the Union County Utilities Authority.

Chairwoman, Mrs. Helen Miller, explained the authority has offered each of the county's 21 municipalities the opportunity to obtain a used motor oil igloo at no cost. The igloos have already started being delivered to various municipalities this week.

The cost of the receptacles were paid for through a Recycling Program Planning Grant from the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy. Ten municipalities have accepted the igloos, which will allow residents to deposit used motor oil for free.

Hillside was the first municipality to receive the igloo. Berkeley Heights, Elizabeth, Garwood, Linden, New Providence, Roselle, Roselle Park, Scotch Plains and Summit will receive their igloos shortly. Also, two igloos will be delivered to the county.

"We are just trying to make it as simple as possible for people to get into the habit of recycling," Mrs. Miller said. "Hopefully, these igloos will deter people from discarding used motor oil improperly and will encourage them to recycle it."

Each container has a 360-gallon capacity. It is an igloo in shape consisting of a one-piece dome with a built-in sink. The receptacles are 64 inches high and 64 inches wide.

Vice Chairman Angelo J. Bonanno noted the authority will empty the igloos and be responsible for recycling its contents. Maintenance of the igloo will be the municipalities responsibility.

"Too many people think that it's acceptable to dispose of oil down a sewer or with their household trash, but that is simply not correct," Mr. Bonanno explained. "Motor oil can and should be recycled."

Motor oil that is improperly discarded not only can contaminate ground water it also wastes a valuable energy source.

If your municipality is not receiving an igloo, used motor oil is accepted at Exxon Service Stations, Mobil Service Stations and state certified reinspection stations. Also, check with your local municipal recycling coordinator to obtain information on any local programs that are available

PROPER DISPOSAL... Showing off the township's new used motor oil igloo is Municipal Recycling Coordinator, Mrs. Joanne Schwab, Authority Vice Chairman Angelo J. Bonanno and Hillside Mayor Peter Corvelli. The new igloo-shaped receptacle will provide residents with a means of recycling used motor oil rather than discarding it improperly. The Union County Utilities Authority has provided igloos to interested municipalities throughout Union County.
