PAVE PARADISE...Pictured is one of several sites in Westfield's Tamaques Park, near the shuffleboard courts, where the town Recreation Department wants to put a parking lot, for a total of 71 new parking spaces. Some area residents have objected to the measure, calling it a "de-greening" of the park and claiming that existing lots are under used.

Parking Lot Plan For Tamaques Hits Residents Hard

By JEANNE WHITNEY

The Westfield Recreation Commission listened to residents' objections Monday, and then voted 5-3 in favor of proceeding with a project to add 71 parking spaces at Tamaques Park. Commission member Christine Nugent abstained from voting but did not indicate her reason. Earlier, Ms. Nugent described the parking lot as a "short term sol

Ms. Felsing said. Estimates put the cost of the project at over $70,000. Mr. Ancona said he sought First Ward Councilwoman and Republican mayoral candidate Gail Vernick's help in halting the proposed work at the park. Councilwoman Vernick admitted, "I'm looking into it for the citizens. I'm the citizens' advocate."

At Tuesday's Town Council agenda meeting, Mrs. Vernick urged the council to consider the Court Challenge to Business District SID Tax Raises Questions of Fairness For Commercial Property Owners

By JEANNE WHITNEY

"A rising tide floats all boats." This is what Beth Peterson, Executive Director of Downtown New Jersey, Inc., believes happens when communities make "a leap of faith" — as she calls it — to create a special improvement district (SID) in their downtowns and add a tax on commercial property to support the districts.

For example, she indicated, when commercial downtowns thrive, residential property values remain stable — if not rise.

Downtown New Jersey (DNJ) is a statewide advocacy organization for viable commercial districts and serves as an information clearinghouse when communities seek the "howto" of revitalizing their downtowns.

Yet, an ongoing court challenge to the SID tax by two Morristown commercial property owners, questions the fairness of the measure. Reportedly, the State Supreme Court will now consider the constitutionality of the SID tax after trial and appeals courts upheld the commercial property owners' claim that the tax was "unfair" because homeowners in the district are not taxed. According to Ms. Peterson, the contestants lost a previous appeal charging that a SID tax was outright illegal.

Regardless, the 1986 legislation that allowed special improvement districts has led to the creation of nearly 40 SIDs in the state, including one in the Westfield downtown.

Director of Westfield's Downtown Westfield Corporation (DWC) Michael LaPlace called the Morristown challenge to the districts, "a pretty isolated case."

"I think if we saw more cases like this around the state, then it might be more of a concern," Mr. LaPlace stated. He explained that the Morristown case is limited to challenging the fairness of taxing commercial property owners but not residential properties within the same special improvement zone.

The Town of Westfield has drawn the boundaries of the improvement district to exclude residential property, according to Mr. LaPlace.

"I really feel that we've nipped that (issue) in the bud," he remarked. With an annual budget of about $240,000, the DWC's role is to ad-

School Board Addresses Backlog on Special Ed. Evaluations; SAT Scores Exceed State, Nat. Levels

By MICHELLE H. LePOIDEVIN

The Westfield Board of Education opened its regular meeting of Tuesday night with a bit of good news-the combined average of the Scholastic Assessment Test (SAT) for the 1998 graduating class of Westfield High School was 1113, results which are 96 points higher than the national average of 1017 and 108 points above the state average of 1005. According to the board, a total of 98 percent of the graduating class took the SATs, which is the largest board congratulated five seniors who received perfect 800 scores on the SAT I and seven students who earned perfect scores on the SAT II.

Board President Darielle Walsh expressed her satisfaction with the student's performance.

"We are very proud of the accomplishments of our high school students," she stated.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. William J. Foley reported that the Special Department of the Westfield Public Schools has obtained extra help to keep the "backlog" on IEPs (Individual Evaluation Performance) under control. IEPs are needs assessment profiles on Special Education students conducted to determine what type of programs they require. Dr. Foley noted IEPs should be completed by the end of October. He noted that it would be important to work on solutions to prevent a future backlog problem.

He suggested obtaining extra help for the Special Education Office to process the IEPs more quickly. He noted that it would be useful to get the child study team members online to generate the IEPs.

In recognizing the backlog crisis, Dr. Foley stated, "We had a major change in staff over the summer and codes into the IEP template.

Board Member Eileen Satkin noted that it could be useful to supply a secretary for each child study team.

Director of Special Education Services Theodore Kozlik, explained that the IEP backlog would be cleared up by today, October 8, or tomorrow, October 9.

"We have to evaluate if we want child study teams to become data entry clerks," he stated.

Dr. Foley concluded, "The time has come that we need help now."

to traffic in the park.

Apparently, the plan to add three new parking lots and enlarge two others in Tamaques was okayed by the Town Council as part of the Recreation Department budget for paving.

Dickson Drive residents Michael Ancona and his wife Monica Felsing, said they collected 100 signatures of neighbors and parkgoers who opposed the project.

Ms. Felsing said neither she nor any of the residents she contacted knew about the proposed paving over of grassy areas for parking until contractors began marking the area for clearing.

issue at the council's public meeting next week, Tuesday, October 13. Reportedly, it is now on the agenda for the meeting.

Councilwoman Vernick said last week that she would walk through Tamaques Park with Recreation Director Glenn S. Burrell in order to see the proposed locations for the 71 spaces.

Members of a homeowners association near the park asked the Recreation Commission to delay work on the lots and put together a coalition of residents, recreation department, commission and council members to look at parking and safety concerns in Tamagues Park.

BOE to Hear Report From Citizens Group

On Bond Referendum

The Westfield Board of education will meet this evening, Thursday, October 8, at 8 p.m. in Cafeteria B of Westfield High School, 550 Dorian Road, to address a report by the Superintendent of Schools Citizens Advisory Committee on the proposed $11.7 million bond referendum.

The board will vote on whether or not to proceed with pursuing the referendum for public vote in December.

Planning Board OKs Subdivision; Woodpile in Yard Must be Moved

By BOBBIE BALDASSARI TURSI

The Westfield Planning Board heard one appeal Monday night, ultimately granting conditional approval for the subdivision of a Lamberts Mill Road lot.

Westfield attorney Vincent Loughlin represented applicant Michael Mahoney of Edison and lot owner Robert L. Alpern.

Mr. Alpern intends to sell the rear portion of a lot to Mr. Mahoney, who plans to build a single-family home on the site. The new lot will front on Clarence Street.

Two large sheds and a massive woodpile are currently located on the portion of the property to be sold to Mr. Mahoney. The woodpile, stands some six feet high and measures seven feet by 50 feet wide.

Once the property is subdivided, the woodpile and one shed will be relocated onto Mr. Alpern's property Board Chairman Martin E. Robins stated that, "when this new lot is created, Mr. Alpern's property will become very crowded with these structures.

He added that "the shed is intrusive; to be able to accommodate all this activity, the neighborhood would benefit by some type of screening or vegetation.'

Austin Street resident William Villane, owner of Villane Construction, a third generation family business, addressed the Planning Board, saying, "I live directly behind the proposed lot, and this wood pile is a little more than just a woodpile," he stated. "We are adversely affected by the location of this pile

Mr. Villane also said "this is practically a commercial lumber yard. When the lot is subdivided, where is Mr. Mahoney going to put all this stuff?

'Speaking as a resident and a builder, one of the existing sheds is too high (12 feet), and there is hardly any yardage," he continued.

Mr. Villane's son, Don Edward Villane, who also works for the family firm told the board he was worried about grading, drainage and underground utility easements for the new Town Engineer Kenneth B. Marsh informed the younger Mr. Villane that the applicant will submit a grading plan to the town. Mr. Mahoney said any drainage or underground utility easements will have to be addressed to Mr. Alpern.

"We are concerned about the aesthetics of this lot and how it will affect the quality and value of our lots; there will be too much crowding and squeezing of the back and side lots, Don Villane stated. "We want to keep the area upscale looking."

He then asked the board whether there was an ordinance limiting the amount of wood that can be stored on a residential property.

The board revealed that there is no ordinance limiting the amount of wood and individual may store on their property. One member said, "theoretically, you can cover your entire yard with wood."

William Villane responded to this by stating that "this is an unusual situation – something you would see in Maine, north country; this is a lot of wood.

Mr. Robins assured Mr. Villane that he had a right to be concerned about the aesthetics of this property.

Council Members Continue to Differ On Allocation of Parks Funding

By PAUL J. PEYTON

The party-line split on how to spend town and matching Union County "pocket park" matching grant funds should be resolved next Tuesday when a resolution on how to spend the funds is placed on the agenda for a vote by the full council.

While council members agreed to place the resolution on the agenda, officials and council members, at this point, are still in the dark as to how the final wording will read. One proposal by Republican First Ward Councilman Gregory S. McDermott, a member of the council's Ad Hoc Committee on Parks and Fields, earmarked $120,000 of the funds on improvements at Sycamore Field behind the south side fire house and another $80,000 towards projects at the town's largest park, Tamaques Park.

Another plan by Democratic Third Ward Councilman John J. Walsh proposes to divide the money among several new projects.

Council members urged the two to meet privately to reach a compromise between the two plans.

Mr. McDermott said it would be a "slap in the face" for the council not to support the recommendations of the Recreation Commission.

He urged the council to "move on some projects and bring some closure" to proposals on the council's capital improvement plan.

Democratic Mayor Thomas C. Jardim said he can not see a "philosophy" behind the plan to fund projects already authorized for the council's capital budget plan versus new "necessities" before the council.

Councilman Walsh said the Westfield Soccer Association has presented a $20,000 proposal to make improvements at Sycamore.

"I think $120,000 is a heck of a lot of money to throw in when we have fields that are really sucking wind," Mr. Walsh stated.

Mr. McDermott said the soccer association's proposal would pay for grading and seeding of the field. He noted that the association was not aware of the extensive plan now under consideration.

"Their philosophy was that if you are going to do the field, do it right," he said.

Republican Third Ward Councilman Neil F. Sullivan said he was in favor of "transforming Sycamore Field into CONTINUED ON PAGE 12

Neighborhood Council To Welcome Residents At Debut Street Fair

The Westfield Neighborhood Council (WNC) will hold its firstever, all-day street fair this Saturday, October 10, at Cacciola Place. The rain date is the following day, October 11.

Council Executive Director Ezella Johnson said she is looking forward to meeting Westfield residents at the event, which will feature activities for all ages.

"We're anticipating a good turnout," Ms. Johnson said, adding that the WNC is planning for "900, up to a thousand people," from through-

The WNC Center is located at 127 Cacciola Place, between Central and South Avenues. The street will be blocked off to traffic for the event.

Fair publicity organizer Lois Sarvetnick said the fair will also serve "to acquaint people with the neighborhood and the work of the council.

"It gives people the opportunity to see the accomplishments and achievements of the WNC. It's a part of (Westfield) that a lot of people may not know about," Mrs. Sarvetnick said.

The 30-year-old, family-oriented organization services a neighborhood that was designated last year for revitalization through the efforts of the Westfield Neighborhood Preservation Committee to receive state funding.

Mayor Thomas C. Jardim kicked off the efforts with a tree planting ceremony at the WNC center in May. Long-time Westfield resident Mrs.

A Westfield man was robbed Sunday night by two suspects, one of whom was armed with a handgun, as he walked in the 200 block of Windsor Avenue en route to a convenience store.

The pair then fled in a vehicle with a third suspect, according to the 41year-old victim, who was uninjured. No one has been apprehended in connection with the incident, which occurred shortly after 10 p.m., according to police.

Sarvetnick, whose husband, Harold, took on organizing the inaugural event, said, "It's a viable neighborhood. (Its residents) are anxious to get more involved with the community.

A varied entertainment mix will be showcased on an outdoor stage. Other planned activities include fairway games, children's rides, lunch and homemade sweets baked by volunteers at the center's kitchen.

A ticket booth for the rides, as well as food, will be located at the WNC center. We hope we have a beautiful day," Ms. Johnson said. "We're saying our little prayers.'

Performers will include: the Westfield Fife and Drum Corps, choirs from the Bethel Baptist Church, Deirdre Shea's School of Irish Dance, a blues band, a reggae band, The Music Studio Jazz Band, several Step and Drill groups, and gospel singers from the First Baptist Church of Linden.

Court Challenge to Business District Tax Raises Questions

Ms. Peterson said the Morristown court challenge will test whether the benefits of an SID tax outweigh the costs.

that you can't measure — to having a SID," Ms. Peterson said. For example, "Why does a customer come to Westfield?"

There is a need for SIDs, Ms. Peterson confirms. She likened the situation to that of school districts, where residents without children in the system might object to paying taxes to the Board of Education. This is a "short-sighted" view, according to Ms. Peterson. A thriving downtown will benefit the entire town, she said.

A court decision on the Morristown case could be three months in the waiting. According to a September 29 Star-Ledger report, one Justice involved in the decision, Gary S. Stein, said about the Morristown community, "It's hard for me to fault the city for its efforts.' However, he added, "It's hard for me to imagine they could not refine the assessment system and see if SIDs could do a better job of allocating costs.

Ms. Peterson said her DNJ organization is "just kind of waiting to see what happens." Evidently, if the courts should declare the SID tax "illegal" in the Morristown decision, improvement districts statewide would be hit by the fallout.

"It seems unlikely," Ms. Peterson claimed, "there is a need for the SIDs.

Westfield's SID tax amounts to about 30 cents on $100 of assessed commercial property, according to the town Tax Collector's Office. For example, if a building at 50 Elm Street in the downtown is assessed at $386,000 the SID tax amounts to $1,158 a year on top of the $15,362 town tax bill.

Westfield business and property owner Joe Spector, Chairman of the SID Board of Directors, agreed that for a smaller property in the downtown, the SID tax would run between $1,500 and $2,000 a year.

Sycamore Park" by completing the upgrades as proposed.

Councilman McDermott noted that by completing a few projects instead of partially funding a wide range of proposals, the town can begin setting standards for town parks by bringing the fields up to snuff.

"I think if we can do field by field and do it correctly, I think we can eliminate problems further down the road," Councilman McDermott explained. He said now that the town had found a "match" for town funds to complete Sycamore improvements, the council "would be losing a great opportunity" to complete the work.

"I just think there are other more pressing needs - like the Gumbert bathrooms," responded Councilman Walsh.

Mayor Jardim said it would be a "very, very large mistake" for the council_not to fund the Gumbertimprovements.

The projects in Mr. McDermott's plan received the support of the Westfield Recreation Commission Monday night.

matching grant funds for sprinkler and irrigation systems as well as the grading and seeding of the field.

Mr. McDermott claimed sprinkler systems do not work well because they need constant maintenance and must be turned on and off. Town Engineer and Director of Public Works Kenneth B. Marsh said he has not heard of any "unusual" problems with these systems, noting that the system was installed at Houlihan Field.

The council authorized the other half of the estimated $120,000 in improvements during capital budget meetings earlier in the year. Another $55,000, split between town and county funds, would pay for a picnic shelter at Tamaques.

Tamaques oval drive due to cars parking on both sides of the street during "peak use" of the park. Evidently, there is little room for parked cars, moving cars, runners and rollerbladers on the drive at the same time

Most agree that a no parking ordinance along the drive would heighten safety and residents said it would force street parkers into existing lots.

Residents said the existing lots are often unfilled while parked cars line the oval drive.

In a compromise proposal, Recreation Commission member Jonathan W. Jones wanted to consider adding only 24 spaces to the park and eliminating parking on the oval drive. Mr. Jones lives near the park on Dickson Drive.

Commission member and Councilwoman Janice Weinstein and Mr. Cusimano voted with Mr. Jones against the 71 space plan.

Town Engineer Kenneth Marsh told commission members that maneuvering around trees in paving the new parking lots was possible and would save trees. The five commission members voting in favor of proceeding with the project as planned agreed to save the trees. Mr. Marsh told Town Council members on Tuesday that residents opposing the parking lot "harassed" workers at the site last week. Earlier, Director Burrell claimed the sites had been "vandalized" in that surveying stakes were removed and blades of grass with pink marking paint had been yanked out of the ground. Mr. Ancona said he and Ms. Felsing had sought to discover from workers at the park sites who authorized the project and had made repeated telephone calls to town department offices Mr. Ancona noted that he had not received a call back from Westfield Mayor Thomas Jardim about the parking project. He said Engineer Marsh told him it would be a month before work on the parking lots began. Recreation Director Burrell told Commission members on Monday that the paving contractor "would have been prepared to start on (the lots) next week." Prior to the Commission vote in support of the project, Mr. Burrell described the measure saying, "It's only 71 spaces." The recommendation to proceed with the project will next go to the Town Council. Voting in favor of the plan were Commission members Seymour Koslowski, Chairman, Dr. William Bonsall, Melvyn L. Coren, Linda Pickering and Maureen Regan.

done to their satisfaction. Dr. Foley turned to the issue of the $11.7 bond referendum proposed by the board to improve schools in the Westfield school district to ease the enrollment crisis, maintenance problems and technology needs.

He noted that the Citizen's Advisory Committee held their final meeting to evaluate bond issues on Sunday, October 4. He stated that their report to the board was filed and the committee will report its findings on Thursday, October 8.

He extended his thanks to the committee for their hard work.

"This is a testament to the commitment in this town to try to improve the public schools," he stated.

Dr. Foley reviewed the importance of the referendum by addressing the enrollment crisis.

"We continue to expect high elementary school enrollment and in higher grades," he said.

He also noted that the issue of enrollment is a concern at the special education level due to increased enrollment in the schools. He noted that when the last bond was up for review by the board, "the board rightfully took a conservative point of view (with regard to enrollment), but it is not enough."

Dr. Foley addressed the needs of maintenance issues. He cited the fiveyear facilities committee report regarding the maintenance needs. G L

Dr. Foley later stated, "This is a great school system. We (the board) care very deeply about it. If we do not have necessary space, how can we keep the level of quality and standards?

Mrs. Puleio noted that the referendum would not restore fine arts in the elementary schools by providing art and music classrooms.

Board Member Susan L. Jacobson added, "We are wise to not include art and music in the bond because people felt we didn't need to spend money on that (in the last bond). Hopefully, someday down the road we can do something.'

The board will meet this evening at 8 p.m. in Cafeteria B of Westfield High School at 550 Dorian Road to solely address the bond issue. The board will vote on whether or CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Mrs. Puleio stated that the Long Range Planning Committee will meet on Thursday, October 15, to discuss the intermediate schools and high school.

Board Member Arlene Gardner announced that the Policies Committee will meet on Tuesday. October 13. Mrs. Jacobson noted that the Finance Committee will meet soon to discuss the upcoming budget for next year in order to prepare it for presentation.

Under finance items, the board rejected a bid for an elevator addition at the Westfield Board of Education Administration Building on Elm Street. The bid was rejected because it was estimated over the board's specified amount. The board will revisit the issue at its first November board meeting.

The board also decided to table the issue of a contract between the Board of Education and Union County Educational Services Commission for the rental of Lincoln School for the period of July 1, 1999 to June 30, 1999 at a rental of $122,200. This issue was also tabled at the August 31 board meeting.

The contract, which was arranged for a one-year lease, is being considered for a three-year agreement.

However, Democrats on the council, led by Democratic Third Ward Councilman John J. Walsh, a member of the committee, supports spreading the funds to additional requests from the community, including new bathrooms at Gumbert

Park. Westfield Baseball League (WBL) President Nick Gismondi, who attended the meeting with several other league representatives, told the council that bathrooms at Gumbert are "not a luxury, they are necessity."

Councilman Walsh said the field has never had bathrooms and that portable toilets were vandalized and burnt to the ground earlier this year. The field is used primarily for league baseball games.

Mr. Gismondi said the league fears that if it does not receive funding from the parks and fields program, residents, knowing of the availability of the "pocket park funds," will be reluctant to give donations during the league's fundraising drive.

The WBL has also sought storage space and a concession stand along with additional fencing to protect pedestrians from foul balls hit out of the two fields.

Third Ward Councilman Sullivan, in support of improvements at Sycamore, said that with plans to scrap the use of Memorial Park, other "out of circulation" fields will end up taking "more of the pounding" by organized sporting events. He said the Sycamore improvements have been before the council "for many, many years."

He suggests another $10,000 to be spent on a proposal by the Rake and Hoe Club for "touch and scent garden" at the corner of Rahway Avenue and Shadowlawn Drive geared for the handicapped including wheelchair-bound persons. The club has estimated a total cost of $20,000. Councilwoman Walsh's recommendations also include $5,000 to complete a "pocket park" on Central Avenue as proposed by former Mayor Raymond Stone. The final $5,000 would be earmarked for creation of a park on town-owned land at the corner of Waterson Street and Rahwav Avenue. Mr. Robeson was a performing artist and human rights advocate who lived in town during his youth from 1907 to 1910.

Mayor Jardim said failure for the council to fund the park would be "a real opportunity missed.'

Lawrence A. Goldman said he believes heavy uses of fields in town, such as sports organizations, should pay per use, to help maintain the fields.

The Mayor said he would like funds also set aside for the repair of the concrete overlook at Mindowaskin Park. The entire project proposed by the Friends of Mindowaskin Park is estimated to cost $125,000. Mayor Jardim said he would like the council to fund around $25,000 of the cost to help the Friends' fundraising efforts.

With that, the board moved to approve this application contingent upon four conditions.

One of the sheds must be completely removed from the property; the wood pile is to be moved and placed five feet from the property line of the subdivided lot; the wood pile must not be higher than six feet, and trees must be planted along the lot line between Mr. Alpern's property and the new property for screening and buffering purposes. The tree line should extend to where the remaining shed will be placed, board members determined.

In an interview with The Westfield Leader the following day, Don Villane said, "We are not protesting this site; we are all for new construction, but my family and I own 10-plus lots located directly behind and diagonal to the proposed new lot, and we are protecting our own interests," Don Villane said afterwards.

Mr. Alpern is expected to comply with any future ordinance regulating woodpiles.

SP Council Decides on Two Names For Disputed Street: Cliffwd., Shalom

By JEANNE WHITNEY

The Scotch Plains Township Council agreed Tuesday to revoke a resolution passed in June which changed the name of Cliffwood Street in the township to Shalom Way.

Instead, the street will carry a socalled "dual designation," with both names being official.

The address of the temple Congregation Beth Israel will be 18 Shalom Way.

The street name change was fiercely opposed by Kramer Manor neighbors ever since June, when, following a public hearing, the council decided in favor of the name change with a 4-1 vote.

Councilwoman Irene T. Schmidt had urged the governing body to delay a vote on the measure after some residents asked for time to consider a compromise. Other residents outright objected to the proposed name.

Residents pursued the issue throughout successive public council meetings, and neighbors submitted a petition to the governing body asking to eliminate the name Shalom Way altogether from the street.

The dual name designation is seen as a compromise solution and council members agreed to send letters about the revocation to residents and temple members.

The temple is the only address on the short, dead end street located off of Martine Avenue.

Temple members initially requested the street name change in honor of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the nation of Israel tollowing the second world war.

In a separate case, the council agreed to name a new cul-de-sac "Carri's Farm Circle." The street is part of a new subdivision at 1711 Rahway Road. Although it is named Greensview Lane in the township's Master Plan, officials suggested it be renamed when several other streets in the area were found to have the word "greensview" in their names. The measure would avoid confusion, officials indicated.

Council moved ahead with resolutions urging the state Legislature to dump the requirement that municipalities accept the "lowest responsible bidder" in every project put out for bids.

Mayor Joan Papen agreed to sponsor the measure and asked state League of Municipalities members to do likewise.

The resolution claims that "prices are not necessarily the lowest, and the bidder in practice frequently turns out to be less than responsible."

Some have seen this as opening the door to favoritism in awarding jobs. However, the township has been especially plagued by problems with accepting the "lowest bidder."

Last year, the owners of a company which had been awarded a $1.7 million sewer pumping station contract by the township were discovered to be on their way to prison on bidrigging convictions.

Other incidents the council referred to involved housing projects where developers reportedly left landscaping and drainage uncompleted and were found to have declared bankruptcy.

Local Welfare Director Cites Continued Need For Municipal Services

By SUSAN M. DYCKMAN

Welfare rolls may be going down in Scotch Plains and Fanwood as a result of a strong economy, but there is a continuing need for welfare and social service assistance in these two communities.

Just take a glance at the clutter of notes over Welfare Director Maria Santo's desk in her office at the Scotch Plains Municipal Building.

In providing social services, Mrs. Santo is challenged by finding ways to assist needy residents - who are mostly senior citizens - with a staggering number of issues such as foreclosure, pending eviction, homelessness, or an inability to pay for important necessities such as rent, medical care, prescriptions, utilities, home maintenance and even burials.

Years ago, the Scotch Plains Ministerial Association created a fund with donations from schools, churches, civic organizations, women's clubs and others to assist CONTINUED ON PAGE 12

Local UNICO's Charity Changes The Face of Township; Dedication

By JEANNE WHITNEY

Christopher Columbus discovers Scotch Plains Township.

A three-and-a-half ton marble and stainless steel monument to commemorate the voyage of the Italian sailor will run aground in front of the township Municipal Building at 11 a.m., this Monday, October 12 -Columbus Day.

The local chapter of UNICO - an 85-member Italian-American service organization – will host an unveiling ceremony for the eight-foot high sculpture of a hand holding a sphere and three sailing ships. It will be on the edge of the Village Green at the sidewalk.

UNICO, area Knights of Columbus and the Italian-American Club of Scotch Plains funded the monument and will donate it to the township.

The design of the monument, by Union County College student Lennox Brown of Newark, was selected from nearly 60 entries. White marble for the sculpture came from the same region near Rome as the marble for Michelangelo's "Pietà."

The cost of the monument is estimated at $50,000. It was sculpted earlier this year by an Hungarian artist in Italy, then shipped across the Atlantic Ocean to the United States.

A time capsule will be buried at the monument base several weeks after the dedication of the statue, and then opened in 2050. Current President of ÚNICO, Rocco L. Cornacchia, said the time capsule may include a video tape of the dedication event, club membership lists, history and photos of the groups.

The Knights of Columbus and the Italian-American Club of Scotch will also contribute to the contents of the time capsule, Mr. Cornacchia said.

UNICO's motto is "Service Above Self." The 75-year-old national charitable organization started in Waterbury, Connecticut, and currently has 6,000 members.

The acronym UNICO stands for unity, neighborliness, integrity, charity and opportunity.

Township resident and attorney John Appezzato formed the Scotch Plains-Fanwood UNICO chapter 25 years ago in October 1973, with his cousin, Robert Santo. Mr. Appezzato

Mr. Appezzato was the first president of the Scotch Plains-Fanwood chapter. A president usually serves two terms of one year each, beginning in July, he said.

Club members are of Italian heritage, or married to a person of Italian ancestry, and are at least 18 years old, according to Mr. Appezzato. The national organization recently admitted women to its ranks. Membership applications are put to a vote by the whole chapter.

The local group awards a total of $20,000 in scholarships to college bound graduates each year from the Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School. The average prize - based on scholarship as well as need - is $1,500.

Fanwood Ever Closer To Purchase of Clock

By KIMBERLY A. BROADWELL

A four-faced Victorian street clock for Fanwood's millennium celebration is closer to becoming a reality, as demonstrated by the success of the third annual Fanny Wood Day celebration on September 27.

Proceeds from Fanny Wood Day a colorful blend of exhibits, activities and displays by merchants and crafters - go towards the purchase of the Millennium Clock.

According to Fanwood Mayor Maryanne S. Connelly, the clock will be located on the corner of South and Martine Avenues at the train station. The Mayor added that the location of the clock was picked so that it would be visible from all directions.

Mrs. Connelly reported that the area surrounding the clock would be paved, and benches would be placed at this site.

This year's Fanny Wood Day celebration brought approximately $3,000 into the clock's account, according to Neil Schembre, a member of the Fanny Wood Day Committee. Mr. Schembre said generous donations from three area banks, each

Following the second of two mediation sessions, nine months of negotiations between the two ended Monday without an agreement.

Given the stalemate, the school board called for a fact-finder to hear testimony from both sides and submit a report. In 1996, the last time the board and the teachers union resorted to fact-finding to settle their contract dispute, the procedure took six months.

If teachers follow through with job actions set forth in a September 17 memorandum from their negotiating team, the months ahead will likely see members exercising their right to take off Veterans Day and Election Day, November 3 and 11; continuing to picket schools, not putting up bulletin board decorations, and not volunteering their time. A strike remains a possibility.

In the event the SPFEA were to take such action without adequate notice to the parents, it would potentially cause a serious safety problem for youngsters."

She also asked Mrs. McGuane to make sure that all SPFEA members "understand the instructional implications of losing these days in the fall, and the resulting exchange for two days during the spring recess (April 8 and 9).

Mrs. McGuane indicated that today's meeting of the union action team could yield a decision on the November 3 and 11 dates. The board would need to act to close the schools on those days during tonight's agenda meeting.

Commenting on the impact of picketing at schools before and after school hours (8:15 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.), Mrs. McGuane said, "I believe people see us. It's just to show we're dissatisfied. Morale is very low.

Board Vice President Theresa Larkin is frustrated by parents' reticence to speak out on the contract situation.

"This is my second negotiating session," she said. "For my tenure on the board, I've heard over and over from the community that they can't state an opinion without facts. The board has taken the trouble to present the facts. Still silence.

"I just don't get it," concluded Mrs. Larkin.

What stalled the latest talks?

In a written statement distributed while picketing Back to School Night on Tuesday at Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School, the SPFEA claimed, "At our first mediation session of September 2, the board indicated, through the mediator, that it would accept the Association type guides for two years for the teachers and classroom aides.

"The Association was asked to submit salary guides for a third year. The Association submitted all guides and language issues to the board's representatives on September 11.

"On September 14," the statement continued, "the board rejected the Association's guides despite the board's and the Association's previous indication of acceptance.

"On October 2, the board's representative sent the Association salary guides for three years. The guides included split increases for teachers at the bubble increments, only 3 percent increases or increments for most employees, and unacceptable low increases. The board's new guide is actually lower than its first.'

In a press release issued Tuesday, Board President August Ruggiero stated, "On Friday, October 2, the Board Negotiating Team released revised salary guides to the SPFEA (teachers' union), which restructured the board's previous offer in order to include continued longevity increases for those employees with 20 and 25 years of service in the district.

The welfare director counts the police department, pharmacists, United Parcel Service and utility company employees among her best sources for referrals

"They keep a watchful eye," explained Mrs. Santo. For example, she said a UPS delivery person might report that a customer has not picked up mail or newspapers, or the meter reader may notice an elderly resident acting confused, and contact the welfare department.

"There are all kinds of programs out there," Mrs. Santo said. She cited efforts such as senior citizens' property tax relief, Lifeline (which reduces electric and gas bills), and pharmaceutical assistance to the aged and disabled which provide flat fees for prescription charges.

"People can start here to get help," she emphasized.

Although the official township opening of the end-of-the-year holiday season is still more than six weeks' away, Mrs. Santo said her telephone is already ringing with offers to help the local needy in some way.

"I get flooded with calls," she said. "In Scotch Plains and Fanwood, I found that all you have to do is ask."

Mrs. Santo acknowledged the efforts of churches like St. Bartholomew the Apostle and Fanwood Presbyterian, as well as the Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School DECA marketing program, in helping her fulfill holiday wish lists. Throughout the year, she maintains a list of county and municipal welfare clients, plus the names of individuals who request social services.

Before the holidays, she contacts these individuals to see if they would benefit from food baskets and toys during the holidays.

The following are five guidelines to practical generosity that local residents may want to consider:

• Stocking the food pantry and replenishing the Donald Denitzio Memorial Fund are not only seasonal needs, they are year-round responsibilities. As Mrs. Santo put it, "I need turkeys in February, too, not just at Thanksgiving and Christmas.'

• Contribute wisely to the food pantry. Donate food items such as canned tuna fish, peanut butter, hearty soups, boxed macaroni and cheese, cereal, rice, jars of spaghetti sauce, pasta, canned vegetables and canned fruit. Paper towels, facial tissue, toilet paper, dish de-gifts as needed. Like her social service responsibilities, Mrs. Santo's welfare duties have evolved over the years.

In 1997, the State of New Jersey called for all municipal welfare departments to merge with county offices. Seven of Union County's 21 municipalities complied. Others, like Scotch Plains and Fanwood, recognized the value of a "personal touch" when managing the needs of municipal welfare recipients.

The state requires municipal welfare offices to be open five days a week, three hours a day. Because Mrs. Santo did not maintain office hours in Fanwood, the borough struck an interlocal agreement with Scotch Plains in January for the provision of municipal welfare services - a move which enables her to serve both communities from one office.

"The (welfare) rolls have gone down in towns where they kept the municipal welfare program," Mrs. Santo explained. "Where there used to be 40 to 60 individuals on municipal welfare in this community, there are now approximately 15.

"The government thinks a central office is the way to go," continued Mrs. Santo. "We're proving it isn't."

Her long tenure as administrator of the community welfare program, coupled with her on-the-scene presence in the municipal building, helps Mrs. Santo identify those who are truly needy.

To qualify as a municipal welfare recipient of state funding, applicants must be single, unemployed, childless residents. They are required to work for the money they are awarded ($140 per month for an "employable" individual) through community service at a designated work site. Work time ranges from 28 to 40 hours per month.

Under "Work First New Jersey," a program created as part of Federal welfare reform, training and testing programs are in place to help recipients get off welfare.

Mrs. Santo said she is "encouraged" by the $23.2 million recently earmarked for the state from the Federal Welfareto-Work Program.

According to a news release issued by United States Senator Robert G. Torricelli from New Jersey, $578,764 of those funds are slated for Union County, along with a competitive grant award of $5 million.

"The program includes incentives for companies to hire people on welfare by paying part of their salaries," explained

Mrs. Santo.

Earlier this year, residents complained during a public council meeting that the same planters – owned by the township businesses - were illkept.

Council members seem to agree that regular maintenance of plantings by professional gardeners would be the only way to insure the planters would not suffer the same fate on the Village Green.

Councilman William F. Mc-Clintock, Jr., remarked that, "If we had flowers in them all the time, it would look really nice, and make the Municipal Complex look a lot nicer."

Councilwoman Schmidt agreed, "It won't cost a zillion dollars, either." Township officials said they re-

The current contract ends by June of next year and the township's Technology Advisory Committee chaired by resident Ken Anderson - has advised the council throughout the contract review process.

Councilman McClintock said any contract will be non-exclusive so that rapidly changing technology and other companies will be available to residents in the future.

UNICO's major fund raising event for the year is a Labor Day weekend festival with St. Bartholomew's the Apostle Roman Catholic Church. The two groups share the costs and proceeds.

The well attended four-day fair has been celebrated annually for the past 20 years in the township. Mr. Appezzato said the festival tradition was actually brought to the area by immigrants from a southern Italian mountain town, Montazzoli, who settled in the township at the turn of the this century.

Reportedly, the festival honoring St. Nicholas was celebrated annually in the township up until 1965. The start up of the local UNICO chapter brought back the celebration in the form of the Labor Day Italian Festival in the late 1970s, Mr. Appezzato said.

Golf tournaments, dances and the sales of "entertainment books" also funds the charity chest.

Some of the area organizations benefiting from UNICO's generosity are the Center for Hope Hospice, Raphael's Life House, Boys Town of Italy, Make a Wish, Kidney Fund, ARC, Community Access, the Matheny School and the McAuley's School.

One thousand dollars is the average donation. "This is a very active chapter," Mr. Appezzato concluded, 'we try to do a lot.'

The chapter meets every fourth Tuesday of the month at a different restaurant.

Cranford Dramatic Club Celebrates 80th Year

By MICHELLE H. LePOIDEVIN

A wooden casket, a variety of skulls, hovering gargoyles and a single black bat adorn the silent stage that awaits Dracula, the first performance of the season at the Cranford Dramatic Club (CDC), located on 78 Winans Avenue in Cranford.

The CDC is responsible for an assortment of theatrical productions, including musicals, dramas, children's theater and comedy, as well as becoming involved with the surrounding communities in an extensive outreach program.

According to Bob Pells, who has served as President of the CDC for two years and has been an active member of the theater for 32 years, "We are in our 80th year. It all started in 1918. It was just some ladies who got together to read plays and eventually performed a few of them."

He added that performances would take place in the high schools or any other locations that would allow them to be presented. The present building on Winans Avenue opened in 1958, and marks its 40th anniversary this year.

Mr. Pells noted that the CDC has been able to provide uninterrupted theater for the duration of its existence. Throughout World Wars and other hardships, the theater has always been able to put on a production, he added.

Over the 80 years of the CDC, the club has presented three to five musicals per year. This year, the group decided to perform three.

We try to give a cross-section to theater-goers," stated Mr. Pells. "Our Programming Committee determines

The CDC hosts a Children's Theatre which performs during the first two weeks in December. Their production this year will be Snow White Goes West, for which auditions were recently held.

He noted that this program is relatively new, saying he hoped it would expand beyond one annual performance.

SCOTCH PLAINS — Many Scotch Plains residents turned out to voice their concerns regarding a proposed subdivision during Monday night's township Planning Board meeting.

Applicant Ernest Fantini is seeking to subdivide his Pheasant Lane property into nine separate lots, with new homes to be built on each. The hearing on the development proposal was continued from an earlier board

Mr. Dean stated that, in his opinnot cause any significant traffic problems in that area. He added that a study was done by his colleagues during three peak traffic times — two in the morning and one in the evening — and concluded that there would not be any more significant traffic using this route during these times. Janet Dillon of Prospect Street disagreed with Mr. Dean's assessment, stating that there would be a significant traffic backup caused by people using this new through street.

The Mountainside Board of Education met briefly on Tuesday evening to discuss such agenda items as tuition reimbursement and substitute teacher appointments before adjourning to executive session.

Board members approved tuition reimbursements for three teachers who are taking graduate courses. Board members Frank G. Geiger and Linda Esemplare questioned whether teachers should be reimbursed for courses taken outside an individual's field of expertise, or courses taken in Administrative Supervision.

Thomas Lyons is Appointed As Superior Court Judge In Elizabeth's Family Division

ALEXANDRA JELKES

Thomas Lyons of Mountainside is quickly be becoming familiar with the Superior Court of New Jersey. The newest member of the court, he was sworn in as Superior Court Judge in Family Division in Elizabeth on September 4.

Judge Lyons was appointed by Governor Christie Todd Whitman and confirmed by the New Jersey State Senate prior to being sworn in by Union County Assignment Judge Edward W. Beglin, Jr.

During a recent interview, Judge Lyons noted that he felt his legal career would ultimately take him to the bench.

Judge Lyons stated that he believes being a judge allows him to look at the law from a different perspective. He has been an advocate for over 20 years. He noted that this stage of his career will involve learning and orientation.

"Fortunately, Union County has a competent and excellent teaching environment," he stated. "The experienced judges are very helpful in the learning process.'

Recently, Judge Lyons has handled domestic violence cases and family law.

Judge Lyons interest in the law started at an early age. The son of an attorney, Judge Lyons was interested in learning American history and then began investigating the legal world. He worked his way through law school as an intern for the Congressional Research Service. After graduating from Georgetown

Law School in Washington, D.C., Judge Lyons received a judicial clerkship in Union County for one year. He started practicing law in 1976 with the firm of McKenzie, Welt, Dwayne & Lechner.

During that period, he specialized in commercial litigation and transactional work. At the same time he was also Special Counsel to the City of Elizabeth.

In 1979, Judge Lyons' interest in corporate work gave him the opportunity to become the General Counsel for the now defunct Howard Savings Bank, where he supervised the bank's litigation department.

In February, 1989, Judge Lyons oined the Newark law firm, Gibbons, Del Deo, Dolan, Griffinger and Veccione. He was a partner in this firm for nine and half years with a specialty was commercial litigation.

Over the last couple of years, he has spent half time of his time engaging in employment litigation, legal malpractice defense, and contested probate (which in layman's terms means people fighting over trusts), and some governmental litigation.

In terms of the latter, he represented the Essex County Improvement Authority with problems they had encountered with water issues.

From 1988 to 1993, Judge Lyons taught night school at the Seton Hall Law School in Newark. Judge Lyons stayed at Gibbons, Del Deo until he started his judgeship. He said his experience with this firm was "great" and he misses his colleagues.

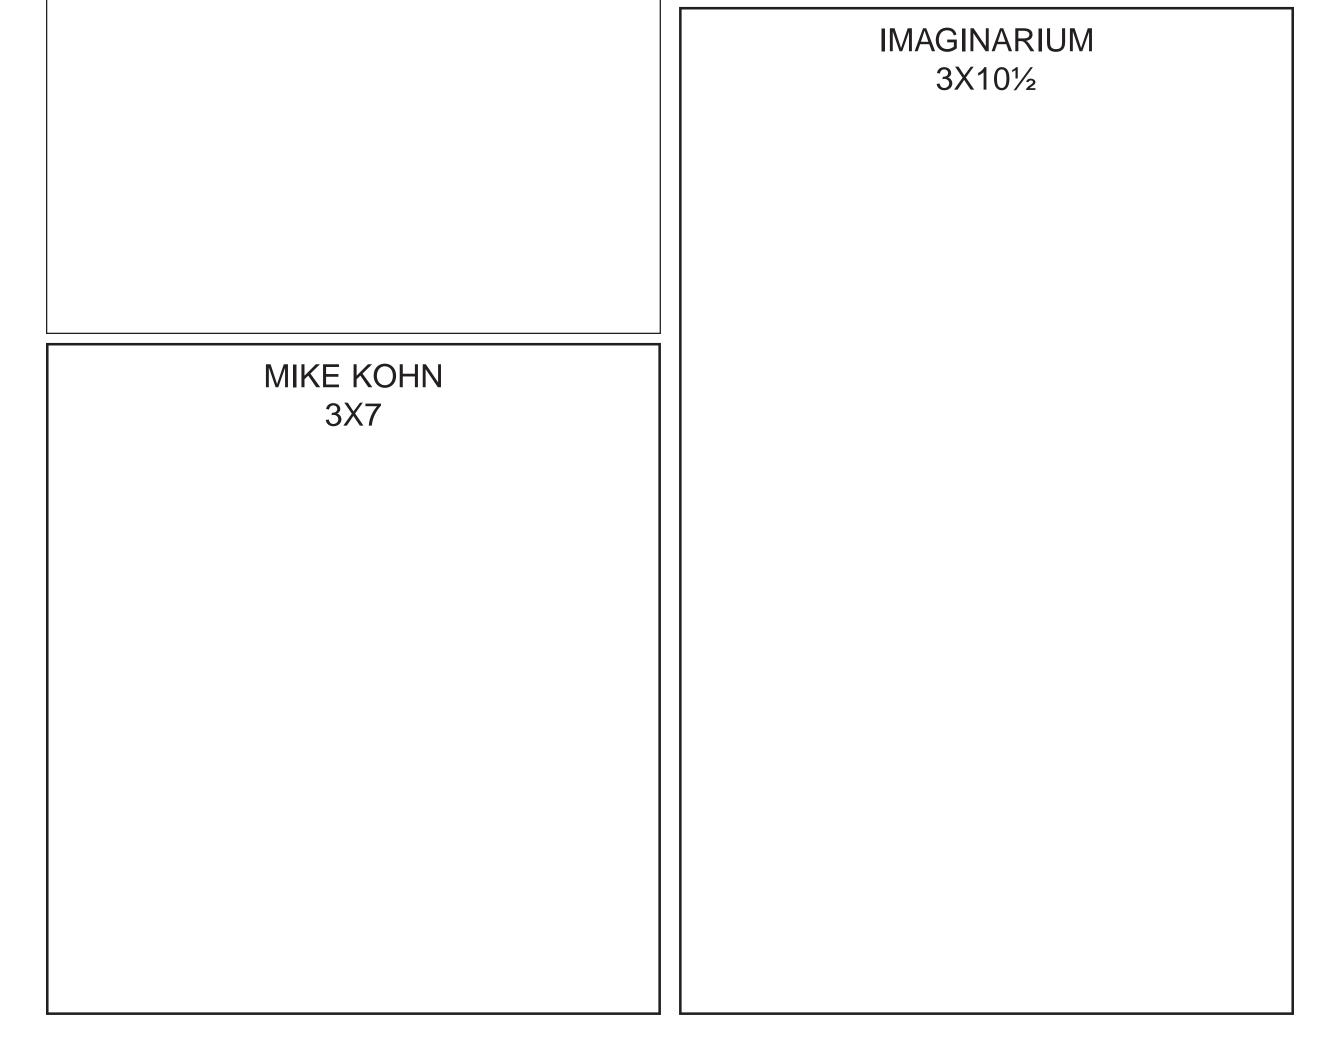

Judge Lyons believes that what makes the legal profession special is "our ability to resolve disputes and create peace between two people."

He continued, "As Abraham Lincoln put it, 'A lawyer can really be a peacemaker and a lawyer who stirs up litigation should be driven out of the profession."

The Judge grew up in Elizabeth and has resided in Mountainside for over 15 years. His wife is a tutor at the Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside. One of his two daughters is a freelance writer for a New York magazine.

One of the things Judge Lyons said he will miss about practicing law is his friends at the law firm and working on cases with a team of people.

"Sharing ideas and debating...that's when the whole team is living the case," he explained.

Arts and Humanities Month Features An Array of Events in Union County

The arts will be on center stage all this month in the Garden State during the entire month of October as New Jersey celebrates national Arts & Humanities Month. In recognition of this promotion, The Westfield Leader and The Times of Scotch Plains and Fanwood will be publishing a series of articles on community theater. The first of these stories, featuring the Cranford Dramatic Club, appears in this week's paper.

The articles will continue with stories on the Westfield Community Players, the Philithalians of Fanwood, and Union County Arts Center in Rahway in the issues of October 15, 22 and 29, respectively.

As part of the month long theme, the New Jersey Cultural Alliance has distributed a booklet of events planned with the full array of arts and humanities.

We believe there are a number of particular events. For instance, a fall festival featuring a celebration of craft demonstrations and entertainment will take place next Sunday, October 18, at the Miller-Cory House Museum in Westfield.

As far as musical performances are concerned, the sounds of Motown will be coming to the Union County Arts Center in Rahway this Sunday, October 11, when The Temptations take the stage. The Arbor Chamber Music Society will present a chamber music concert at the First Baptist Church in Westfield on Sunday, October 18.

A number of house tours will be held this month including the "Four Centuries in a Weekend" sponsored by the Union County Division of Cultural & Heritage Affairs in Union County.

The Westfield, Scotch Plains-Fanwood area has always been big supporters of the arts. Both local high schools have fine traditions of presenting the best in high school productions. Also, Westfield has a number of noted groups including the Westfield Young Artists Cooperative (WYACT), the New Jersey Workshop for The Arts, and the Westfield Symphony Orchestra.

Houses of worship in the communities also offered an array of musical performances throughout the year.

Yes, indeed, the arts and humanities are well represented in the towns this newspaper covers. We encourage all to take advantage of the opportunity to view hometown theater and musical performances. They need our support.

3 popcorns exhilarating as John As Frankenheimer's raucous actionthriller, Ronin is, you know not to take it seriously for a single moment. Not for one iota of a nanosecond do you bring to heart this rock-em, sock-em display of international derring-do and intrigue. Even when at seat's edge, biting nails, and looking for something to grab onto, enthralled viewers soon realize that this snazzy exercise in cutthroat oneupmanship is more fun house ride than do-or-die drama.

There is this little thing about obtaining a mysterious metal box. But why concern yourself? While this renegade romp may steal your breath away, if you stop and think about it, you really aren't investing very much emotion.

For alas, just like the answer you gave at the job interview when they asked for your one true fault, Ronin is just too perfect.

The legendary director, who has brought us such diverse classics as The Manchurian Candidate (1962) and Bird Man of Alcatraz (1962), blissfully, stylishly, and unashamedly shows filmgoers how to hone a genre to perfection.

This means assembling a team of romantically roguish characters, breathtaking photography in Paris and on the French Riviera, the wildest chase scenes since The French Connection, and lots of picaresque dialogue. When one tough guy/ex- secret agent asks former CIA man Sam (Robert DeNiro) if he ever killed anyone, Sam relates: "I know I really hurt someone's feelings once."

And even though journeyman Frankenheimer usually holds the tongue-in-cheek stuff in carefully metered abeyance, you can't help but breathe in the hint of glib that peppers the adventure.

The plot, you ask? Does it much matter, the film cleverly begs the question, so long as it makes the bad guys and the good guys go at it full tilt? So, just for fun, they do toss in a bone of contention.

Per screenwriters J.D. Zeik and Richard Weisz, it's an elusive metal case. But what's in this box? Again, the script playfully asks, what's the difference?

The Russians want it. The Irish want it. Gosh knows who else wants it. And they're all willing to kill for it. Come to think about it, we never did find out if the black statuette in The Maltese Falcon (1941) had any real intrinsic value. Yet Greenstreet, Lorre and Astor were sure crawling all over each other to get Bogart as Sam Spade summed it up succinctly, "It's the stuff dreams are made of.

This is the kind of movie where motley characters bide their time in threadbare apartments and swap banter, part for amusement, part to mark off their territory. It's the kind of movie where someone suddenly yells, "Okay, let's go," and the tough get going.

All hell breaks loose at the drop of a hat. Guns start firing, spectacularly driven cars start flying, and the cops don't show up until one of the warring sides has decimated the sneering foe and disappeared.

And it's also the kind of movie where, despite all the cynicism and useless slaughter, there's time enough for the hero to find both friendship and romance without it seeming mawkish.

DeNiro and Reno form the best Franco-American alliance since the doughboys had reason to sing "Mademoiselle from Armentieres." And when during a stakeout, Sam suddenly gathers in Deirdre for a smooch to throw off the police, the IRA colleen's reaction is uncharacteristically surprising.

But vou wonder, does even Deirdre know what's in the box? And if she did, would she at least tell Sam? Ah, but no sense bothering yourself over it. What's the difference what's in the box?

Exhibiting the sign of a true cinema craftsman, the famed director makes this action-packed variation on a theme look easy. He adds bite to stereotypes, supplies nuance to cliché, and confidently knows when to let an old saw stand.

But it isn't Frankenheimer's obvious skill that is so intoxicating. For there is a far more satisfying attribute at work here. Call it instinct or intuitiveness. It's what really causes his awesome ballet of high-style hooliganism to take wing.

But, say, what about that box? Is the director having a bit of sport with us, manipulating us? Will we ever find out what's in the metal case? Should we have figured it out by now?

During a neatly contemplative break in the action, Michael Lonsdale lends a nice turn as a semi-retired provocateur in the French countryside who offers asylum to a bushwhacked Sam and Vincent. The wizened host shows off the colorful Samurai figures he lovingly models, and explains that a Ronin is a Japanese warrior shamed by the loss of his liege.

He continues that, rather than sign on with a new feudal master, the Ronin wander the countryside in search of mercenary adventure. It's not clear if Sam catches the metaphor.

Perhaps he's too preoccupied, wondering what's in the box.

XEROGRAPHY/ MIMEOGRAPH/ THERMO-FAXTM

During the age of scientific discovery in the 17th through 19th centuries, inventors consistently drew upon Greek and Roman word elements to create trademarks for their inventions. This custom of copying the classics to produce trade names continues in the 20th century. The copier industry, which practiced this kind of legal plagiarism, has created several household words including: xerography. mimeograph, and Thermo-Fax[™]

On October 22, 1938, Chester Carlson produced the first xerographic image in the kitchen of his Jackson Heights, New York apartment. Twenty-one years later (1959), the Haloid Company later named Xerox Corp. introduced the 914 copier. Xerography combines two Greek elements: xeros, meaning dry, and graphein, to write.

Mimeograph also mimicked the Greeks. The word for this earlier duplicator combines mimes, meaning imitator, and graphein. The term was so generally used to describe copiers of that period that it lost its exclusive trademark designation, and the courts reduced it to the status of a generic term for all copiers using a similar process.

Finally, Thermo-FaxTM, another duplicator, was a product of the 3M laboratory in 1944, and the trademark, this time, was a hybrid of the Greek word therme, heat and a shortening of the Latin fac simile, to make similar.

It is ironic that the minters of trademarks for the copier industry reached back into the classic languages to provide identities for these new products. Copy cats!

Clark Lanes had a very special place in my heart. Every time I pass by the empty structure that used to be Clark Lanes, it hurts me to think it used to be my beloved bowling alley.

How could the residents of the Clark and Westfield area let this happen?

Every Saturday night, the house was packed with people waiting to bowl. The Lanes attracted a diverse crowd of bowlers ranging from teens to seniors.

Clark Lanes was a place that kept kids off the street and out of trouble. Clark Lanes afforded seniors a place to exercise and socialize. Clark Lanes was also the home of the Watchung Conference, where high school teams in the area competed against each other.

Now Clark Lanes will be turned into another fitness center and a drug store. Just what our community needs! Doesn't our area have enough fitness centers and drug stores already? How is our community going to replace such a wonderful place for the young and

In Downtown Westfield, 'Business is Booming'

I am concerned about the negative opinions regarding the influx of chain stores in downtown Westfield.

I can clearly recall the fear of town residents several years ago when they heard the rumors that chain stores, The Gap and Sam Goody, would be occupying the vacancies where traditional small-town shops once thrived.

People were convinced that Westfield would lose its uniqueness and charm, and just "wouldn't be Westfield any longer." Unfortunately, years later, these apprehensions of accepting change still exist. To this day, residents don't recognize all of the positive aspects "modernization" has to offer our community.

While some individuals complain about crowds and traffic, they remain ignorant to the fact that those same shoppers keep Westfield alive.

Before these mall stores opened their doors, Westfield had a collection of "For Lease" signs adorning the streets; our town was literally empty. The opportunity of going to the mall was more appealing than being limited to the few town stores.

Today, however, business is booming, the town is full of life. and Westfield is up with the times. The new exclusive shops make Westfield a classy attraction and actively compete with the well-todo Short Hills Mall — a situation other towns envy.

Many of the treasured small boutiques remain; however, the crowds don't pass the small shops by now. As for the "loss of town charm," Westfield is still Westfield. The people who make the community are still there, and that is what counts.

Self-Serving Survey Has Poisoned Our Political Process

Being a Westfield resident for many decades, I always took pride in the town's respect for high moral ground and truth in politics. Apparently, we just had our current Mayor caught with his hand in the cookie iar.

The damage of his self-serving survey containing inflammatory falsehoods has poisoned our political process.

If we are to attract qualified dedicated candidates like Gail Vernick for mayor, we must reject negative campaigning that has no respect for truth. Fortunately, we have a highly educated body of voters who will ultimately separate fact from fiction and reject those who would use less than honorable means to their own ends.

Mayor's Telephone Poll Infuriates Westfielder

I was shocked and disappointed to learn that Mayor Thomas C. Jardim's campaign had used a false and misleading poll in an attempt to discredit Republican opponent Councilwoman Gail S. Vernick.

Claiming to be a Washington polling firm and falsely implying, through their questions, that the other candidate has done something wrong says something about the ethical standards of those involved.

While I am not bipartisan when it comes to this election, I believe that members of both parties should deplore this type of conduct.

It is bad enough that our children are exposed to sleaze and lies from politicians in Washington; I don't want my children to see that here in Westfield. They deserve better than that.

Equally unforgivable is the Mayor's attempts to justify the poll or to make excuses for it. The Mayor not only owes Mrs. Vernick and the residents of Westfield an apology, but he should identify everyone involved in this disgraceful conduct and fire them from his campaign.

Reader Shocked By Effort To Discredit Mrs. Vernick

During the early stages of the Paula Jones case, vicious portrayals of Ms. Jones appeared in the press in an apparent attempt to discredit her character and end the lawsuit.

This tactic backfired, the case progressed, President Bill Clinton was deposed and ultimately the world heard the President of the United States apologize for misleading us.

It is shocking to me that the Mayor of our town would be associated with a poll which apparently is committing character assassination on one of candidates for the Mayor's office, Mrs. Gail S. Vernick. To extend this mudslinging to her husband suggests blatant sexism.

I have no doubt that Mrs. Vernick will overcome this attempt to discredit her.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON Seventh Congressional District Balanced Budget Called Win

For Country and Taxpayers

By Congressman Robert D. Franks

For the first time since Neil Armstrong set foot on the moon and the Mets were the World Champions of baseball, the federal government has ended the fiscal year with a budget surplus.

The first balanced budget in 30 vears is a victory for our country and for every taxpayer who demanded fiscal responsibility from their representatives in Washington.

Just four years ago, when Democrats controlled both houses of Congress, Washington was drowning in a sea of red ink. Every year, Washington went on a wild shopping spree spending $200 billion more than the government collected in tax revenues. There seemed to be no end in sight to this reckless behavior.

Every budget projection showed Washington taking America deeper and deeper into debt. What a difference a Republican Congress has made.

Dollar by dollar, we began cutting the excesses of the federal government. Nearly 400 federal spending programs were eliminated. The federal bureaucracy was cut by more than 300,000 civilian workers.

Inch by inch, we dragged President Bill Clinton and the Democrats in Congress down the road toward a balanced budget, a stronger economy

$63 billion surplus. Today, our economy is booming. Over nine million new jobs have been created. Everywhere you turn, new homes and businesses are under construction. And the mortgage rate is at a 30year low.

This turnaround did not happen by accident. It is the direct result of actions taken by Congress to put Washington's fiscal house in order. Our policies prompted the Federal Reserve board to drive down interest rates. That made it easier for families to buy a home or finance their kids' college education. It also sent a powerful message to Wall Street and Main Street that America was finally headed in the right direction and it was time to invest in the future.

On September 30, the federal government ended the fiscal year with a

While all Americans can join in the celebration of reaching this milestone, we face an even greater challenge ahead: making sure Washington's actions never return to the days of deficit spending.

Mr. Greco Calls Jitney Bus Separate Issue From Decision On Whether to Build A Deck

Norman N. Greco

WESTFIELD - Norman N. Greco, independent Mayoral Candidate, stated this week that "Westfield is at the crossroads of important issues that will have a strong impact on its future," noting that each individual vote will decide which Mayoral candidate will have the opportunity to govern and direct Westfield into the year 2000 and beyond.

"Westfield is fortunate to have three qualified candidates running for Mayor this November. There are, however, major differences that separate the three of us," Mr. Greco stated. As an example, noted, for over 50 years parking has been an issue in the town. If elected Mayor, Mr. Greco stated that, "I will call for a townwide referendum to resolve the parking deck issue once and for all. The residents of Westfield should decide whether or not to construct a parking deck."

Mr. Greco further stated that, "My opponents have taken the position that a 'jitney bus' will somehow solve Westfield's parking problems. Common sense should tell all of us that our parking problems will not be solved in this manner. I believe that these are two separate and distinct issues that cannot be solved concurrently."

"I have taken a formal position on the parking deck issue and challenge my opponents to do likewise. I do remain open-minded to utilizing a 'jitney bus' for senior citizen transportation. However, these issues remain separate, because commuters have indicated to me that they will not use this jitney service. They feel it will add 40 to 60 minutes to their daily commute," Mr. Greco stated.

Mr. Greco noted that another difference among the candidates is his lifelong residency in Westfield and his 40 plus years of business experience.

Enhancing Communications A Concern for Mrs. Vernick

WESTFIELD - "One of the most important functions of town government is to provide clear, accurate and timely communication between the town and the residents of our community," Westfield Republican Mayoral candidate and First Ward Councilwoman Gail S. Vernick stated this week.

"The extent of our communication problems between our government and our citizens was clearly revealed after the Labor Day storm which wrecked such havoc on our community.

She explained that many residents and businesses lost electrical power and telephone service for days after the storm, severely limiting their ability to communicate with the municipal offices. Then, once service was returned, citizens were unsure which governmental departments to contact to request assistance.

"It became apparent that we need to review, and perhaps revamp, the emergency plan presently being utilized. We must do everything in our power to insure our government's ability to communicate with its citizens through an emergency situation," declared Mrs. Vernick.

"Leadership is not just telling people things. Listening is also a key ingredient to successful leadership," expressed Mrs. Vernick. "In listening to the many residents who complained about their inability to speak with someone who could help, it became apparent I needed to investigate our present communication policies."

In an effort to insure that the communication gap between town government and residents is bridged, Mrs. Vernick stated that she will ask a special committee of citizens to provide advice to the town on ways to improve communications.

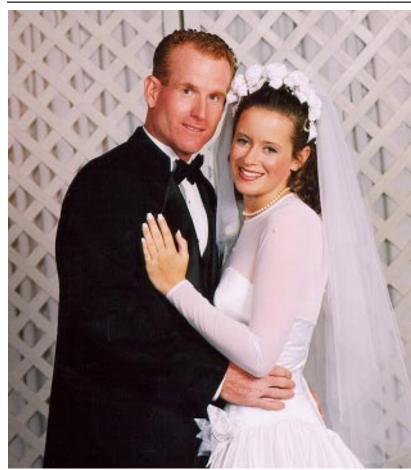

"Our community has many talented citizens with the knowledge and technological experience needed to rectify this problem," she explained.

Westfield Board of Realtors. Mr. Isoldi serves on the Board of Trustees of the Bobby Fund, and is an active member of the Westfield Rotary and UNICO. He was named Realtor of the year in 1997.

General Chairwoman Darielle Walsh explained that the Business Division's goal of $23,305, "should be reached by convincing the local merchants and business people that they have a vested interest in this town.

"If each of the 579 businesses in town pledges just $1 per week, Mr. Isoldi will easily surpass his goal," she added.

The overall goal of this year's United Fund campaign is $615,000. The Business Division is one of 10 divisions in the organization's campaign structure.

"As a part of the United Fund team and newly elected member of the Board of Trustees. I am excited to be able to put my energies behind such a worthwhile effort that benefits both individuals and the entire Westfield community alike," noted Mr. Isoldi.

"We hope each business will consider a minimum pledge of $50 this year. If equally divided among our 20 agencies, that's just $2.50 per agency," explained Mr. Isoldi in a letter to the community.

He added, "We know that many organizations are soliciting your business for a variety of causes throughout the year; however, please consider the 20 agencies, and thousands of people who benefit from your one gift. We ask for that support only once a year, and that time is now.'

Mr. Isoldi is being assisted in the Special Business Division by several volunteers, including Thomas Cherin, Arthur Fried, Ronald Frigerio, George Kraemer, Roger Love, Samuel McCaulley, Mary Ellen O'Boyle, Warren Rorden, and H. Emerson Thomas.

MATRO'S REPEAT; PILKINGTON, NOTOANE TAKE 2ND Devil Girls Sweep to Capture Union County Tennis Title

By DAVID B. CORBIN

A question of Union County dominance was settled on October 5 when the Westfield High School girls tennis team swept all five top slots at the Union County Tennis Tournament at Tamaques Park in Westfield and repeated as champions. Twin seniors Jen and Becky Matro repeated as winners at first and second singles, respectively, to lead the 13th-ranked Blue Devils to a 100-team points and to outdo 16th-ranked Summit which placed second with 68 points. Jen Matro blew past her first two opponents, shutting out Stefanie Clay of Cranford, 6-0, 6-0, in the first round and Mary Anderson, 6-0, 6-0, of Union in the quarterfinals. Matro met her first real competition in the semis where she faced talented Leigh Slonaker of Oak Knoll. Matro won the first set, 6-2, but Slonaker gave her a run in the second before falling 7-5.

"She is a hard hitter," claimed Matro of Slonaker. "She came to the net a lot and she has a stronger forehand than a back hand.'

SEVEN RAIDERS PENETRATE THE COUGAR NET Flawless Raider Boys Dazzle Frustrated Cougars, 7-1

By DAVID B. CORBIN The Times

Frustration overwhelmed the Cranford High School boys soccer squad when the second-ranked Raiders nearly scored at will, winning 7-1, in Scotch Plains on September 28. The Raiders proved their offensive versatility as seven different Raiders sucgame, then the Cougars came roaring back with a score of their own. Just as the Cougars felt that they were on a par with the Raiders, Laing came back two minutes later and buried the ball into the net with a beautiful header. Before the end of the half, Babicz scored to put the Raiders in front, 3-1.

"I think Cranford came into the

As the frustration continued, the Cougars got more and more physical in their style of play. One hungry Cougar threw a football-like block on Zotti and the Raiders were awarded a penalty kick. By DAVID B. CORBIN

All cylinders were firing for the Blue Devils as they impressed the crowd of over 2,000, which included scouts from several local high school, by defeating the Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School football team, 42-20, at Gary Kehler Stadium in Westfield on October 2. Although senior quarterback Brandon Doerr hit for three touchdown passes and kicked six extra points, the most impressive factor was the contribution of the entire Blue Devil team.

Despite seeing themselves behind 28-0 toward the end of the second quarter, the Raiders did not give up and had some shining moments of their own. Due to the absence of senior speedster Blair Woodward, who was injured on the second play of the game against Shabazz on September 26, junior halfback Nathan Jones had to take on added responsibility. He performed well, rushing for 126 yards and scoring on a 64-yard blaze in the third quarter.

Westfield kicked off to open the game and Raider Matt McCarthy point was good

Down 28-0, Jones received the kickoff at the 15 and returned it to the 38. After two fine runs by Jones, the Raiders advanced to the Devil 41. From there, Franzone hit McCarthy coming across to the right at the 35. McCarthy dashed to the 17 for a 24-yard reception. McDaniel blasted to the nine. Next, Franzone pitched out to Jones, who sped to the one. Finally, with 6:57 left in the half. McDaniel plunged over the goal for the touchdown. The extra point conversion failed.

Turner grabbed the kickoff on the 13 and returned it to the 39. Now, the 'slick' play of the game was about to occur. Doerr initiated a double inside reverse which ended up in the hands of Giacone. From there, Giacone slanted to the left sideline and flew into the end zone for a 61-yard touchdown. Doerr hit the extra point the up the lead to 35-6 with 6:39 left of the half.

"That's either a big play or a five yard loss. That is one of our base plays designed to make about five or six yards, but Giacone made the play on his own. Maybe they (the Raiders) had a mistake in coverage," explained Tranchina. "We worry about fumbles on plays like that. We did not use that play against Cranford.'

For the remainder of the half, fine defensive plays were turned in by both sides. Raider Scott Paterson recovered a fumble at the Devil 47, then Perez sacked Franzone for a 14yard loss. Turner received the kickoff at the eight and returned it to the 41. A few plays later, the Blue Devils moved to the Raider 47. Now, the offensive block of the game was about to happen. Doerr handed off to Turner. Center Rob Albino leveled a Raider defender with an earth-shattering block which registered 8.3 on the 'wrecked him' scale. Turner ran through the huge crevice and rumbled 47 yards for the touchdown. The CONTINUED ON PAGE 15

Lee blasted left for six yards, then Doerr hit Chris Giacone as he came across field from left to the right at the Raider 40. From there Giacone broke into the open and breezed into the end zone to complete a 53-yard pass play, making the score, 13-0, Jones grabbed the kickoff at the five an returned it to the 22 where he was brought down by Josh Ray and Kevin McCormack. After runs by La'Marr McDaniel and Jones and a pass interference call on the Blue Devils, the Raiders had a first-andten at their own 45. The combination of Jones and McDaniel gave the Raiders another first down at the Westfield 45. Franzone completed a sevenyard pass to Matt McCarthy, then Jones ran for a first down at the 32. Unfortunately, for the Raiders, the fine march finally came to an end at the Blue Devil 26.

Despite their efforts, the Cougars just could not penetrate the Raiders' territory. Ferrara looped a shot from about 27 yards out which sailed over the crossbar. Moments later, with 24:15 left, Franzone crossed to Zotti who headed the ball just over the crossbar.

The blitz continued. Laing came through the middle on a breakaway and took a shot which was deflected to the left by Somma. With 22:43 remaining, Ferrara took a corner kick from Fiorino and bopped it into the net to up the Raiders' lead to 5-1.

For the next ten minutes, possession of the ball was shared, but Ferrara led another Raider charge with 10:16 when he sizzled a shot which went slightly wide to the right. JESSICA CARAVELLO WINS THE ALL AROUND Versatile Devil Girls Disjoint Union Gymnasts, 102.6-83.05

By DAVID B. CORBIN

Senior Julie Elmuccio soared with a stunning routine to first place on the uneven bars and freshman Jessica Caravello captured the all around to lead the versatile Blue Devils to a 102.6-83.05 victory over the Union High School girls gymnastics team in Westfield on October 1. Blue Devil Head Coach Ellen Kovac skillfully rotated 13 of her gymnasts to come up with the win.

Elmuccio chalked up the highest score of the afternoon when she totaled a 9.35 on the uneven bars. To go along with the smooth flow on her giant swings, she performed a beautiful straddle back transfer from the high bar to the low bar, then dismounted with a high-tucked flyaway.

Elmuccio, who competed in only two events, also placed first in the vault with a mark of 8.9. She made nearly flawless use of her front handspring with a full twist.

Jessica Caravello totaled 35.25 in the all around. Caravello's score of 8.65 earned her a first place on the balance beam. She began with a shoulder stand mount, then performed two back handsprings in a row. Next, she executed high-split leaps, double spins and a cartwheel, then dazzled the crowd with a "Scorpion" flexibility maneuver. Finally, she made her exit with a layout front flip.

David B. Corbin for The Leader and The Times Blue Devil Jessica Caravella

"Some of the moves, I don't have a name for and sometimes I may change my routine depending on how I feel at the time," answered Caravello when asked about the design of her balance beam routine and if she changed it for more serious competition.

Jessica Caravello also placed second in the vault with an 8.8, third on the unevens with an 8.9 and had a marvelous performance on the floor exercises which earned her another second place with an 8.9.

Twin sister Lauren Caravello scored an 8.95 to place first in the floor exercises. Both sisters had superb back handsprings, back flips, leaps, spins and front aerials. Lauren also competed on the unevens and placed second with a score of 9.05.

Junior Tara Clarke seized a third in the vaulting with an 8.25 and had a nice routine on the floor, totaling a 7.9. Clarke performed many difficult back handsprings, back flips and spins, then had some aesthetically pleasing high leaps in her floor routine.

Senior Amy Seligman grabbed a third place on the beam with a 7.6, CONTINUED ON PAGE 14

scooped the ball at the 12 and returned it to the 30 where he was tackled by Sergio Villafane. Two plays later, a Raider pitchout was fumbled and recovered by Blue Devil Tom Lee on the 25.

On their very first offensive play, Blue Devil Todd Dowling whizzed off tackle and in for the touchdown with 11:04 remaining in the first quarter. Doerr's first extra point at-tempt was good and Westfield held an early 7-0 lead.

Jones received the kickoff at the four-yard line and returned it to the 39. A crushing tackle of Jones by Doerr, then a quarterback sack by Marcus Thornton for an eight-yard loss put the Raiders on their own 30 with a third-and-19 situation. Quarterback Joe Franzone completed a pass to Jones for a 12-yard gain and the Raiders were forced to punt. The punt into the wind rolled dead at the Devil 42.

With huge gains by McCormack, Turner and Giacone, the Blue Devils surged to the Raider 18. On the first play of the second quarter, the Raiders were penalized five yards for encroachment, then on the second play, they were penalized half the distance to the goal for a personal foul. From the four, Doerr rolled right and threw a lightning bolt to Perez for the touchdown. Doerr's extra point was good and the Blue Devils increased their lead to 21-0 with 11:35 left in the half.

"It was a bootleg play. The first thing is for Doerr to run the ball, but he saw Perez in the open and he passed to him," said Tranchina.

The solid Blue Devil line held the Raiders on one series. Turner returned the punt to the Blue Devil 36. Runs by Turner and Lee moved the ball to the Raider 28 where Doerr rolled to his left and found Maurice Boatwright in the end zone with 9:32 left in the half. Again, Doerr's extra Senior Laurie Hogan competed only on the balance beam. Her routine was highlighted by her back handspring to a back flip on the very narrow, four inch beam.

Hogan also may shift her routine depending on the competition and how she feels. "I sometimes use a handstand mount, but this time I decided to use a front leap mount and was a little off on my balance," stated Hogan.

"I'm very happy with my play," stated Matro just after her semifinal match. "Erin (Arnold) was definitely the toughest. She is very strong and aggressive." When asked about her upcoming title match with top-seeded Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School Raider Diegi Notoane, Matro responded, "She's very tough. I may have to play her more patiently. She will come right at you. If you drill it at her, she will drill it back."

Becky Matro went into the finals set on avenging her earlier loss to Notoane. Using the patience that she had mentioned earlier, Matro pulled out a 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, victory over Notoane.

Notoane sailed through the first round, defeating Lisa Lavikoff of Cranford, 6-0, 6-0, then won by default over Caitlin O'Shea of Mother Seton. Notoane met some major resistance in the semis with Highlander (Governor Livingston) Lauren Kobel. Notoane won the first set, 6-3, but dropped the second, 7-5. After regaining her form, Notoane took the final set, 6-1. Kobel defeated Christa Olandra of Roselle, 6-0, 6-0, and Gaby Lega of Oak Knoll, 6-1, 6-4.

Second-seeded Blue Devil Ilka Netravali, at third singles, made her climb to the finals by topping Gina Hernandez of Union Catholic, 6-0, 6-1, in the first round, grounding Kim Racon of A. L. Johnson, 6-2, 6-0, in the quarterfinals, then toppling Highlander Alison Kobel, 6-0, 7-6 (7-1). Kobel downed Safdar Huma of Roselle Park, 6-3, 6-2, then edged Raider Cara Bristol, 6-7 (4-7), 6-5, where Bristol withdrew because of an injury. Bristol had defeated Anabelle De La Paz of Mother Seton, 6-0, 6-2.

Netravali outlasted and toppled first-seeded Summit Hilltopper Tina Kaufmann, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2, in the title match.

Second-seeded Blue Devils Katie Richards and Maggie Wei climbed to their tile match by blanking Lillian Fashman and Donna Luria of Dayton, 6-0, 6-0, Courtney Meehan and Vicki Balson of Kent Place, 6-1, 6-2, then Lindsay Ott and Erin Moran of Oak Knoll, 6-3, 6-1.

Richards and Wei also found a way to topple first-seeded Hill toppers Jessica Arnold and Emily Gamble, 4-6, 6-1, 7-5, in the championship match.

Blue Devils Lisa Gorbaty and Rebecca Goldberg marched to the finals by dropping Tiernan Applegate and Tami Coangelo of Union Catholic, 6-0, 6-1, Lauren Swierc and Jamie Baker of A. L. Johnson, 6-3, 6-0, then Lindsay Goward and Suzi Gottdenker of Kent Place, 6-2, 6-2. In the finals, Gorbaty and Goldberg stunned, then flattened first-seeded Hilltoppers Liz Bomgaars and Julie Krell, 6-0, 6-2. Raiders Danielle Kapner and Jan Weiner won their opening first doubles match, 6-1, 6-4 over Lisa Ragucci and Alice Alexandrescu of Union but dropped a heart breaker to

"We have Carolyn (Pilkington) and Diegi (Notoane) in the finals, but Danielle (Kapner) and Jan (Weiner) let down in the semis. They should have played better," said Raider Head Coach Sue Allen after the semifinal matches.

Raiders Kari Whitley and Gail Hannigan defeated Rena Steinback and Ali Puliti of Dayton, 6-1, 6-0, then lost to Goward and Gottdenker, 6-2, 6-2, at second doubles.

The Raiders placed fourth with 41 points behind third-placed Governor Livingston at 45.

Devils Beat Columbia; Edged by Morristown

The hosting Westfield High School girls field hockey team defeated Columbia High School, 2-0, on September 28, then dropped a tough, 1-0, game to a skillful Morristown squad on October 1. The split put the Blue Devils at 5-1-1.

Senior Kelsey Ill scored the first goal against Columbia off an assist from senior Allison Cook early into the game, then Ill assisted Cook on her goal just before the half. Ill received the pass directly in the middle of the field and zipped it into the net from about 12 yards away.

Westfield succeeded with its policy of constant offensive pressure as the Columbia goalie got plenty of exercise. Only on a few occasions did minutes of the game and whooshed it into the net to score the only goal of the game to give a very tough Morristown team a 1-0 victory over the Blue Devils on October 1. Blue Devil goalie Jen Woodbury made some remarkable saves to keep the game close while the Blue Devil offense put on the attack.

The Blue Devil offense appeared to have a slight edge in possession, but despite taking several shots, were unable to hit pay dirt. The Blue Dev-ils nearly tied the game within the final minute but the Morristown goalie managed to reject the ball.

Morristown goalie Reina Singh had eight saves and Woodbury had four. Morristown improved to 7-1.

The Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School girls soccer team tied Princeton Day, 1-1, in Princeton on October 1. Kerry Golcher of Princeton Day scored the first goal of the game early in the second half, then Raider freshman Jill Koscielecki tied the score 1-1 on an assist from sophomore Rene Zidonik.

"It was a good game. We went to overtime. It ended at 7:00," stated Raider Head Coach Frank Butz.

"Christine (Bowers) made several great saves to preserve the tie. On a few occasions, they (other team) got a two-on-none breakaway and Christine made some unbelievable saves. She waited, waited, waited, and boom she caught the shots from about 10 feet. It was just beautiful. We had some great opportunities too, but we didn't score. The girls played hard.'

The Raider record shifted to 1-4-3 while Princeton Day shifted to 2-3-2. 0

Kelly Murphy was bombarded with shot-after-shot but repelled all 16 of them. Junior goalie Jennifer Woodbury made five saves for the Blue Devils.

Blue Devils Allison Cook, Kelsey Ill, Valerie Wicks and Jessica Wycoff led the attack on the Cougar's pen, but were not able to capitalize on their scoring opportunities due to the strong Cranford defense.

Westfield High School field hockey Head Coach Maggie McFadden commented, "I thought it was a well played game. It could have gone either way. I thought our offense had some nice shots on goal that the Cranford goalie saved." The highlight of the game came about

Westfield Killer Bees Defeat Cranford Cobras, 4-1

At their first home game of the season, the Westfield Killer Bees U12 girls traveling soccer team battled the Cranford Cobras, a team the Bees had never defeated in previous meetings. This time, the Bees won, 4-1.

Five minutes into the match, the Cobras scored first. Later, the Killer Bee defense stiffened. Led by the solid play of fullbacks Amanda Dickson and Justine Palme, sweeper Emily MacNeil, and stoppers Marykate Maher and Hannah Burke; keeper Jessie Elkoury would not allow another goal.

With the Bees' goal area secure, the outside halfbacks: Jenna Federgreen, Caroline Cariste, Anne Siwulec, and Jessica Schor were able to move the ball up the sides and into the Cobra half.

Attempts by Cranford to move back were thwarted by the strong defense up the middle by center halfbacks Gio Palatucci and Ali Carter. The defense consistently moved the ball out to the wings Stephanie Bridgeman, Sarah Hansen and Lauren Purdy.

The wings and halfbacks then began a beautiful series of passes, back passes, and sharp crosses until at 24 minutes, a series from Carter to Hansen reached center forward Melissa who drilled a shot from just outside the 18 yard box into the net. At the half, which the Bees had dominated 11-3 with shots on goal, but the score was tied, 1-1.

In the second half the Killer Bees struck quickly. Only 54 seconds into the half, Cariste crossed the ball to Purdy, who put the ball in the corner of the net and the Bees took a 2-1 lead.

At 47 minutes into the match, Melissa made a crisp pass from center to left where Bridgeman rocked a shot into the net, upping the lead to 3-1. Afterwards, the Cobras were unable to strike a single shot on goal for 25 minutes.

In the final 10 minutes Cranford mounted several offensive challenges. During a tense five minutes, the Cobras lofted three corner kicks towards the goal and fired five shots, but Elkoury smothered all but one shot which she deflected.

Finally, with only three minutes to go in the match, Federgreen made a nice pass to Bridgeman. As the defenders closed in, Bridgeman back passed to Federgreen who sent a long cross to Melissa who finished the play with a quick shot, giving the Bees the victory.

The Scotch Plains Fanwood Jazz U11 girls remained undefeated as they edged the Westfield Defeeters, 1-0, on October 4.

The depleted Jazz, playing without four teammates, displayed a determined defense and held off the Defeeters de-spite several dangerous scoring chances. Loni Kaye, seeing her first extending time in goal, came up big with several saves for the Jazz. Bitsy Kipping also played flawless in her stint in goal.

Öne Westfield scoring chance was snuffed out when Meaghan Kelly alertly knocked away a close in rebound shot. Another Westfield rush was broken up by Becca McGuire and another by Jessica Churgin.

Finally, as the final minutes ticked away the Jazz caught a big break. Jess McGarry rammed a high crossing pass through the goal box which was knocked away by the hand of a Westfield player. A handball was called and the Jazz were awarded a penalty kick. Maddie Wasser was given the assignment and she drilled a low kick to the goalie's right side. Girls Azurri defeated the East Brunswick Roadrunners, 6-1. The Azurri were relentless in its efforts led by Lauren Weissbrod who hit the frame three tunes as the locals built up a 13-2 shooting edge.

The Azurri shuck quickly in the second half as center mid Allie Hambleton passed to Colleen LaForge who shot to the left of the goalie for the opening score. Next left wing Maggie McLaughlin raced past the tight defensive marking to loft one in over the keeper. The third score was a three-person combo as LaForge crossed to Liz Halpin who left the ball for Hambleton to put in the net. Halpin then put one off the post that LaForge tapped in on the rebound.

The Roadrunners answered with their only goal of the match before Allie Zazzali scored twice to finish the 6-1 scoreline. Left back Brittanny Larkin assisted on the first and the second came off a rebound of a shot by Amanda Makowski Samantha Buteas and Linda Missal led the defense with tenacious play all day in front of the solid goalkeeping by Emily and Molly Meehan.

South Brunswick Strikers a 3-0 lead.

The SP-FExpress U11 soccer team traveled to South Brunswick last Sunday and emerged with a 3-3 tie.

With light rain falling throughout, the Express scored first on a nice play by Matt Fleissner, who beat the fullback down the right side and scored in the left corner of the net. South Brunswick came back, scoring three times to take a commanding 3-1 lead half-time lead.

The Express battled courageously in the second half, applying constant pressure to the South Brunswick defense before Brian Halpin scored on a Fleissner assist with 15 minutes to play.

Trailing by one goal, the Express played with tremendous hustle and enthusiasm in tough conditions until finally, with less than a minute to play, Mark Ciecura broke through the defense down the middle, outraced the last defender and hammered a shot past the diving South Brunswick goalie. Tom Cusimano Advocate For Infrastructure Review

WESTFIELD - Tom Cusimano, Republican candidate for Fourth Ward Councilman on the Westfield Town Council, said this week that he is a strong advocate for a review of the town's infrastructures to include roads, utilities, water and sewer service, bridges, pedestrian walk ways and other structures.

"The Tuttle Parkway Bridge, a decaying and unsafe structure several years ago, has been transformed to safe and functional crossing from North Avenue to South Avenue. Under the leadership of former Mayor Bud Boothe, the necessary funds and permits were obtained to restore the roadway.

"Today, the bridge offers an alternative to the congested traffic circle joining North Avenue and South Avenue. It is important to continue improving the safety of towns residents," the candidate said. "It is through a comprehensive review of the town's infrastructure and developing a long range plan that we can maintain, repair and improve roads, walkways, sewers and the like while working within the existing budget process. It is important to prioritize any capital improvement projects and plan for them so that they can be accomplished without any major tax increases.

"My 25 plus years of military service have taught me the importance of reviewing, planning, budgeting and carrying out major projects such as this," stated Mr. Cusimano.

The candidate invites any resident of the Fourth Ward who has any comments, suggestions or concerns regarding any of the town's infrastructure to contact him at (908) 654-9660.

Scotch Plains Democrats Support Revitalization

SCOTCH PLAINS - "The revitalization of downtown Scotch Plains has languished for too many years," asserted Democratic Township Council candidates Franklin P. Donatelli, Tarquin Jay Bromley, and Geri Morgan Samuel in their weekly press release. Mr. Donatelli stated that, "As a lifelong resident of Scotch Plains I underbolstered by considering 'pedestrian mall days,'" suggested Mrs. Samuel.

"Communities about the state have found it advantageous to close off the main downtown thoroughfare for limited periods of time to create outdoor, mall-like shopping. Local building codes can promote themes for front and rear facade improvements that would create a more aesthetically appealing central business district," she

MAINTENANCE CODE AT WORK...The property pictured above, located in Westfield's Fourth Ward, had been uninhabited and unattended to for many months when a neighbor brought it to Fourth Ward Councilman Lawrence A. Goldman's attention. He suggested that a petition be filed by the neighboring owners with the town under the new exterior property maintenance code. While the matter is pending, and since the picture was taken, the town has performed some basic cleanup work on the lawn and foliage, providing some degree of relief from a neighborhood eyesore.

Mr. Goldman Cites Initiatives As Laws Committee Chairman

WESTFIELD - Westfield Fourth Ward Councilman Lawrence A. Goldman pointed to his experience and ideas and cited recent initiatives of the Laws and Rules Committee, which he chairs, as he continued his campaign for re-election this week. "When Tom Jardim and I were elected two years ago I requested the appointment as Chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee because I welcomed the challenge of crafting new ordinances and shepherding them through the adoption process," Mr. Goldman said.

"I am particularly proud of the exterior property maintenance code which provides local officials with a new means to address unsightly conditions on residential and commercial properties," he added.

"We worked very hard to develop an ordinance which balances the dual objectives of serving the rights of homeowners to have neighborhood eyesores acted upon and protecting property owners from unfair and obtrusive governmental action," he explained.

Councilman Goldman explained that one purpose of the code is to helped to draft a shade tree ordinance, which was adopted by the Town Council," he noted.

Mr. Goldman also noted that when former Councilmen Kenneth L. MacRitchie and Donnell Carr proposed the creation of a housing commission to promote the rehabilitation of residential housing, he made the proposal a priority action item for the Laws and Rules Committee.

"I regarded the proposal as a means of assisting elderly or incapacitated residents in repairing deteriorating conditions on their homes. The Commission would be comprised of volunteers whose objective will be to seek out available grant money and make rehabilitation programs known to qualifying residents," Councilman Goldman stated.

The full Council indicated its support for such a Commission at a recent conference session and the process of preparing the text of an ordinance is underway. Councilman Goldman also called up the Town Council to consider adopting a requirement that sales of multifamily residential properties be subject_to_the_prior_receipt_of_a certificate of occupancy from the

Fanwood Dems Say Forum Would Have Been Informative

FANWOOD - Dramatic candidates for the Fanwood Borough Council this week criticized their Republican opponents for refusing an invitation by the Westfield Area League of Women Voters to participate in a candidates forum.

Councilwoman Karen Schurtz and Kathy Mitchell, who also serves as head of the Fanwood Democratic Party, are opposing Republicans Dave Trumpp and Will Coronato for two seats on the Borough Council.

The League of Women Voters approached the candidates with an offer to sponsor a public debate before the Tuesday, November 3 election. The Democratic candidates said they "gladly accepted" the invitation to debate.

The League of Women Voters at that point decided to cancel the forum.

"We've attempted to keep the residents of Fanwood informed about what's going on in the borough," said Councilwoman Schurtz.

"A public debate about local issues would have been very informative, but our opponents don't want to participate in a public forum.

"It's too bad that candidates who claim to be listening to the people of Fanwood are the ones who won't debate," said Ms. Mitchell. "They claim to be running for you, but instead they seem to be running from you.'

Councilwoman Schurtz was first elected to the Fanwood Borough Council in 1995. She is a member of the Fanwood Planning Board and Chairwoman of the Land Use and Historic Preservation Committee.

She is also Fire Commissioner and the council's Senior Citizen Liaison. Councilwoman Schurtz is married and the mother of three children. She is a school teacher and a Eucharistic Minister at Immaculate Heart of Mary Roman Catholic Church.

Ms. Mitchell is making her second run for a council seat. She is presently the Treasurer of the Fanwood Public Library. The candidate is a Past President of the Fanwood Recycling Association and she's been active with the Clean Communities Committee and the Fanwood Environmental Commission.

Ms. Mitchell is a Trustee of Interfaith Council for the Homeless and is a blood drive coordinator and Social Concerns Coordinator at Heart of Mary Church. The candidate has lived in Fanwood for 44 years and is a registered nurse.

"Considering that downtown revitalization has been studied and restudied by the council for more than 15 years and countless numbers of recommendations suggested, one must ask," stated Mr. Donatelli, "why hasn't the council done more? It's clear that a new vision is needed on the council if downtown revitalization is to get off the ground," he said.

Mr. Bromley noted that, "Ample offstreet parking is the bottom line to encourage people to shop in a business district. Too often Scotch Plains government has moved in the opposite direction. The municipal government has eroded the number of valuable shopper parking spaces by granting variances that allow residential apartment units to be built above the retail shops.

"The township government's effort to change the local zoning code itself to permit still more apartments over retail shops was another bad planning idea. Another issue is the disgraceful appearance of Route 22 as it runs through Scotch Plains.'

"You can't blame motorists from gaining a negative perception of what the downtown must look like when the gateway to the community is such an eyesore," remarked Mr. Bromley. "Good planning and zoning enforcement can lead to the cleaning up of the appearance of Route 22

Ms. Morgan Samuel added that, "The township government keeps missing many opportunities well within its grasp to draw shoppers to the downtown area. Building senior citizen housing miles away from the downtown area on the deep south side of Scotch Plains is indicative of the poor planning that the council has practiced over the years. Those seniors find it easier to shop in Clark and Fanwood than to travel to the center of Scotch Plains.'

"Downtown sales days could be explained. The candidates emphasized in a joint statement that, "There's still the need to remove the spectre of potential devastation of a flood. We have provided the leadership in calling attention to potential horrific damage that could befall the north side of Scotch Plains and the downtown business district itself if the Blue Brook over flows its banks an sends flood waters surging downstream into Scotch Plains as it has done three times since 1971." The candidates also explained that,

"The plan to construct a 116-unit townhouse project on a 7.7 acre tract of land on the north side of Route 22 in the flood way of the Blue Brook is not in the best interests of downtown Scotch Plains. Moving the business district's development along requires a level of responsibility and accountability on the part of the council."

Republican Freeholder Slate Responds to Latest Rumor

he stated.

Juan Fernandez, Andrew tion."

MacDonald and George Gore, Republican candidates for the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, reacted last week to a published newspaper report on a "rumor" that Union County Manager Michael J. Lapolla, working without a contract, would be leaving his position as the county's chief administrator to become a judge. Mr. Lapolla said the judge rumors were untrue. While he said he is "working at the pleasure of the Board of Chosen Freeholders," it is his intention to seek a contract from the board next year.

The County Manager repeated an earlier statement that he "categorically" denies that he is seeking a judgeship.

Mr. Fernandez responded to the published story in noting, "History repeats itself.

"A little over a year ago," Mr. Fernandez said, "there was a rumor floating around the county that had then Democrat Freeholder Carol Cohen stepping down after the November elections to be appointed County Counsel. The three Republicans on the board at the time brought the rumor to light and stated that by waiting until after the election, the Democrats could appoint Mrs. Cohen's replacement without going through the democratic process of allowing the voters to choose her successor

"Ms. Cohen denied the rumor," Mr. MacDonald said. "She said the job had not been offered to her.'

A published news account reported that, "Scutari denied the Democrats are scheming to give Cohen the job.

Mr. MacDonald also stated that then Democrat Freeholder Chairwoman Linda d. Stender claimed the Republicans were trying to create a political issue and that Daniel P. Sullivan, currently Freeholder Chairman, called the Republicans' claims "purely political" and an "assump-

Mr. Gore pointed out the hypocrisy of the Democrats, remarking, "Five months later, Carol Cohen resigned as Freeholder and (Freeholders) Sullivan, Stender, Scutari and the rest of the Democrats on the board appointed her County Counsel!"

"If this pattern continues, history will repeat itself," Freeholder Fernandez said. "A new Deputy County manager was appointed, along with additional staff, even though the county, under Republican leadership, eliminated the position."

"It seems that the Democrats are not only playing musical chairs with county tax dollars, they are now adding people like the Deputy County Manager to the payroll pending their new appointments to high paying positions," Freeholder Fernandez added.

Mr. MacDonald stated, "When Ann Baran was the County Manager, there was no Deputy County Manager. One month after (Mr.) Lapolla was appointed, he handed out political patronage without regard to necessity or cost to the taxpayer.'

Mr. Lapolla stated, "I don't want why they (the Republicans) keep spreading rumors.

Mr. Gore responded that, "For reasons only they can explain, the Democrats insist on using 'smoke and mirrors' when addressing their inappropriate actions. Unfortunately, the Democrats on the Board of Freeholders never have to worry about anyone objecting to their questionable agendas because they have unanimous, 9-0 control."

"At the Union County Administration Building, there has been a pattern of inappropriate behavior, fueled by an arrogance of power and disrespect for the people who place their trust in elected officials to put the welfare of the people ahead of personal, party-drive, political agendas," they said in a joint statement.

Without Cost to Taxpayers

WESTFIELD — Westfield Third Ward Councilman John J. Walsh spoke this week about the need for action on the town's parks and fields to overcome years of neglect.

"Everyone has been talking about maintaining the parks and fields but I am doing something about it," stated Councilman Walsh, who is seeking reelection to a second term.

Last year, Mr. Walsh, as the council's liaison to the Westfield Recreation Commission, asked the commission to come up with a proposal to create a separate Parks and Fields Maintenance Department whose sole function would be the upkeep of the town's parks and fields.

"I was grateful for the prompt response of the Recreation Department which came up with a detailed, workable proposal. Unfortunately, the estimated cost would have been a terrible strain on the budget and I knew we had to figure out a way to do it without the general taxpayer bearing any of the cost, if possible," Mr. Walsh stated.

Mr. Walsh suggested to the Recreation Commission that a Plan be devised to create a user fee program, such that the organized teams who obtain permits for the use of the fields paid a fixed fee which could be financed with minor contributions in team registrations.

He also suggested that the money from the permit fee could be used to partially fund the Parks Department. The candidate noted that a transfer from the Public Works Department might provide the rest of the necessary funding.

"I spoke to a number of people in town about this idea and it received a warm response. People with children playing in organized sports thought it was worth a small addition to registration fees to put the fields in better condition," Mr. Walsh noted.

The Councilman also stated that it was "a win-win situation," because the residents obtained better services with no need to increase taxes.

Councilman Walsh also noted that the condition of the parks and fields has been the source of complaints by a significant number of the residents. He has been asked repeatedly by residents why the town cannot do a better job.

Prominent examples of the problems include the baseball fields at Tamaques Park and the soccer field at Sycamore Street.

"Our fields are heavily used which aggravates their neglect. I am certain that the many organizations who use the fields will support this proposal as one that will enhance the safety and well-being of our children and adult players," observed Mr. Walsh.

The Recreation Department is studying the user fee concept and Councilman Walsh said he looks forward to a report from the Department to the Recreation Commission in the near future.

LET'S CLEANUP ROUTE 22...Franklin P. Donatelli, Tarquin Jay Bromley and Geri Morgan Samuel, Scotch Plains Democratic Township Council candidates, standing along Route 22, have announced specific ideas for promoting downtown vitalization. Among them is a cleaning up the high way.

SIDEWALKS STILL AN ISSUE...Will Coronato, left, and Dave Trumpp, Republican candidates for Fanwood Borough Council, survey what they say is one of the many dangerous sidewalks in Fanwood.

Fanwood Republicans Call For Repeal of Permits to Fix Dangerous Borough Sidewalks

FANWOOD - Will Coronato and David Trumpp, Republican candidates for Fanwood Borough Council, called for a repeal of building permit fees for sidewalk repair. This is in response to what they claimed has been a failure of Democratic Mayor Maryanne S. Connelly to fulfill a New Year's Day promise to begin repaving Fanwood's sidewalks. "It's unfortunate that Mayor Connelly did not deliver on a simple promise to begin repairing damaged sidewalks this year," said Mr. Coronato. "What's worse is that the Democratic controlled council doesn't even try to make it easy for members of the public to repair sidewalks.

"The borough requires homeowners to pay for a permit to repair sidewalks in front of their homes that serve the entire community," he added.

Mr. Trumpp commented that Republicans believe sidewalks damaged by the borough's trees should be fixed by the Borough.

"This should be a borough expense, not a burden borne by individual homeowners who are currently responsible for the cost of sidewalk repairs and who also face a fine if they cut down a borough tree which poses a hazard to local residents," Mr. Trumpp stated.

Mr. Coronato and Mr. Trumpp said the Democrats appear to have a strange set of values.

"Mayor Connelly pushed hard for Belgian block curbing around Borough Hall when the council considered the borough's budget in January and February. She also pushed hard for a gazebo in which to perform weddings. But she has been strangely silent on protecting residents who can't safely walk on Fanwood's sidewalks," said Mr. Trumpp.

"We want to make Fanwood a safe community," said Mr. Coronato. "If elected, public safety - including repair of sidewalks - will be our highest priority. We're running for vou.'

WESTFIELD - A long career in sales and marketing has convinced Town Council Democratic Second Ward candidate Joe Stoner that a focus on customer service as practiced in business and industry needs greater emphasis in town government.

"Town Council and other parts of our municipal government should treat citizens the same way good business people serve their custom-ers," said Mr. Stoner at a recent gathering.

"Each and every one of them wants to have their concerns met, their needs addressed. They want to know that I am working with them to solve whatever problem they may have. Whether my customer needs help adapting the instruments my company makes to a particular function they need, or whether my customer, the citizen, seeks help from the council in getting a stop sign put up at a dangerous intersection, the important thing is that I listen carefully and earnestly to everything my customer says and do whatever I can to satisfy their questions even if I can't give them the final result that they want.

"I think we need to have all the employees of our town put a greater emphasis on this idea, too," Mr. Stoner said.

"As I have walked my ward, one of the concerns I hear most frequently is that public servants often don't seem to care about the public they serve. I've heard stories of people kept waiting for days by a building inspector who never comes and never calls to say he can't come. I've heard about people treated rudely by town employees when asking a simple question. This is not the kind of experience, allow me to bring a common sense business-like approach to town government," he stated

LETS CLEANUP DOWNTOWN...Second Ward Councilman James J. Gruba stands behind a downtown Westfield overflowing garbage receptacle. Council-woman Gruba stated, "Because of all the good work of the Westfield Downtown Corporation and its many supporters, adequate garbage collection is the least we can do to help this successful effort which was initiated by the Town Council five years ago. We will take immediate steps to improve this condition." Mr. Gruba, a Republican, is seeking reelection.

Mr. Greco has lived in town for 57 years and vividly recalls the pristine conditions of our parks and ball fields. He stated that, "As Mayor, I will bring the parks and fields back to their original conditions. This will be accomplished through the cre-ation of a Parks and Fields Maintenance Department.'

Mr. Greco cited the importance of making the town's building permit process more user friendly.

In this regard he stated, "As Mayor, I will formally institute a Road Maintenance Repair Program that will include a 'pothole hotline' and a long-term strategic replacement plan. My platform issues are on record and I challenge my opponents to do likewise.'

Finally, Mr. Greco stated, "All residents agree that there are large issues facing Westfield. It is crucial that voters choose the correct candidate in the November election. Political parties do not solve Westfield's problems."

"Westfield needs an honest, strong leader to make the difficult decisions that will ultimately create effective town policy. I wish to formally go on record that I have no political ties that will sway my decision making process. I believe I am the correct candidate to accomplish these goals," he stated.

Mr. Bagger's Bill to Exempt Education Savings Accounts From Income Tax Passes, 77-0

Legislation sponsored by Assem-blyman Richard H. Bagger of Westfield that would exempt all age more families to start saving accounts." "Hopefully, this will also encoureducation savings accounts from for college when their children are young," he said. "By providing this added tax incentive, we can encourage more people to make room in their family budgets for future college savings. Ultimately, our goal is to make sure that any New Jersey high school student who is qualified can afford to go to college.' Under Assembly Bill No. 2367, earnings in a qualified state tuition program or education individual retirement account would be exempt from New Jersey gross income tax provided the proceeds are used to pay the costs of higher education. While NJ BEST proceeds are exempt from state taxation, Assemblyman Bagger's bill would extend the exemption to qualified tuition plans in other states and federal education IRAs.

The actual erection of the signs were contributed by the Township Public Works Department.

"We are already in the process of striking next year's budget and will be allocating similar funds to the continuing downtown efforts," Councilman Marks pointed out.

"Early on in the improvement efforts, the township got the ball in motion with the easily identifiable green and white signs signaling the many municipal parking lots which afford free parking and easy accessibility to the many retail and professional establishments in our downtown," said Councilman Robert Johnston, who is seeking reelection to the council.

"We are now implementing a $200,000 state grant that we secured to consolidate and improve parking behind the stores on East Second Street," he explained.

Many other improvements to the township have been in place for a while that have become a part of life in downtown Scotch Plains, according to Republican Council candidate Paulette Coronato.

"Specially marked parking spaces that line Park and Westfield Avenues and East Second Street are just such 'hard to earn' state grants. 'The lighting, brick paver dividers, landscaping and black top in the municipal parking lot behind the Park Avenue stores were among the first improvements to the downtown," she said.

According to Ms. Iammatteo, these improvements were achieved through the cooperative efforts of the Republican Council members and downtown business leaders.

Most recently the new gazebo on the corner of Park Avenue and East Front Street proclaims the municipal's building's Village Green, the scene of many township sponsored summer performances, including numerous community events.

Again, we can thank the business community for the materials as they join volunteers from the Union County Vo-Tech school and township employees who built the gazebo at no cost to the taxpayers," said Mayor Joan Papen.

According to Mrs. Vernick, the town must constantly strive to improve the way it provides information to its citizens. She cited the example of a town-wide directory of services that would be distributed twice a year to all residents.

"I applaud the initiative of Greg McDermott, the Republican Councilman for the First Ward, for his leadership in introducing this invaluable directory, as a measure to improve our town's ability to communicate with citizens in a more efficient and effective manner.

"As Mayor, I will insure this initiative becomes a reality," announced Councilwoman Vernick.

Mrs. Vernick has been an invited guest to dozens of neighborhood meetings all over Westfield in the last four years as a member of the council.

She said her ability to listen to concerns, disseminate information and filter it to appropriate department heads, has brought her success in helping to resolve many neighborhood issues.

She saw success when she worked with the Orenda Circle and Harrow Road neighborhoods. Mrs. Vernick was congratulated by a Virginia Street resident for her efforts to resolve the problem that neighborhood recently experienced.

Mrs. Vernick said she has been invited to many of these townwide neighborhood meetings because she remains focused on problems and communicates with the residents until their concerns are resolved.

"It is the responsibility of our government officials to apprise our residents in a timely fashion of all issues which directly concern them. Westfield citizens will always know where they stand and how to proceed, when I am their Mayor," announced Councilwoman Vernick.

IN NEED OF ENHANCEMENTS...Noreen Lund, Republican candidate for the Third Ward seat on the Westfield Town Council, stands next to Krauszers and the pocket park on Central Avenue. The candidate said she would like to see some enhancements to this area and the Central Avenue corridor.

Central Ave. Development Top Priority for Ms. Lund

WESTFIELD - Noreen Lund, Republican candidate for the Third Ward Town Council seat for the Westfield Town Council, this week emphasized her commitment to the development of Central Avenue after attending a recent Town Council meeting.

The candidate referred to Central Avenue as the "Gateway to Westfield" because so many commuters travel on that road everyday. However, Ms. Lund also observed that, "Central Avenue is the main street of the Third Ward. We have to have a council member who will challenge to see this area improved. I can't help but wonder how many first impressions of our neighborhoods are formed by people who only view us through the prism of Central Avenue.'

Agreeing with Republican First Ward Councilman Gregory S. McDermott, Ms. Lund said she is basically supportive of the Town Council's efforts to develop both a Housing Commission and a Neighborhood Preservation Program. However, the candidate was quick to point out that the Neighborhood Preservation Program is focused exclusively on the Central Avenue area that is in greatest need.

"Here we have a critical area for redevelopment in the Third Ward and once again the Town Council appears to be diluting our efforts to improve our community," Ms. Lund said.

Ms. Lund pointed to her support of the Central Avenue pocket park between Krauszers and The Sock Company, improving the exterior look of the Krauszers as well as her support for the improvements of Sycamore Field as specific examples of her commitment to the Central Avenue corridor

"The Third Ward has supported so many programs in the other sections of town including the SID (special improvement district) and the redevelopment of critical parks and open spaces in other wards.

"Now it is time to focus on a critical housing, shopping, and transportation artery, which once it is improved will be an asset for the entire town. We cannot afford to continue neglecting this area," Ms. Lund stated.

"A coalition must be created between Third Ward business owners, homeowners, landlords, and community-based organizations to develop a comprehensive redevelopment plan as well as enough political momentum to see that plan carried out. Otherwise, our projects will continue to be overlooked," the candidate regrettably observed.

Third Ward residents are invited to call Ms. Lund at (908) 654-6077.

regardless of what course is being taken."

Board President Patricia Taeschler echoed Mr. Perrin's thoughts concerning teachers who continue their education regardless of the courses being taken, and stated she was "proud to be part of a board that reimburses staff members to take courses.'

She noted that teachers are allotted six credits in tuition reimbursement per year, not exceeding $875 per three credit course.

In other business, Chief School Administrator, Dr. Gerard Schaller, announced that the board's Tuesday, October 20, meeting, which will include a Math Curriculum presentation, would start at 8 p.m. instead of 7:30.

The time change will allow parents to attend the Parent Teacher Association's parent education discussion scheduled for that evening at 6:45 p.m. The discussion will focus on Megan's Law and will take place in the Deerfield School's Media Center.

Dr. Schaller also announced that there will be a presentation during the board's Tuesday, November 3, meeting, given by Vicki Jenkins, Supervisor of Special Services and the Learning Disability Teacher Consultant.

She will review the new rules and regulations on special education and students' rights.

Finally, the appointment of two substitute teachers was approved for the 1998-1999 school year.

bushes, which would have to be done in order to create the through street.

Mr. Dean responded that trees and brush would only have to be cleared in small sections at the first bend of Pheasant Lane, involving an area of 100 feet by five or 10 feet at the most, and would be done to "improve the line of sight" for traffic, and not for paving purposes.

Robert Kraus, an attorney representing area residents who are opposed to the development project, revealed that at the board's next meeting, he would present expert witnesses to testify on his clients' behalf.

Board members stated that they wanted to see the conclusion of testimony and get to a decision in the case by the end of the year.

In other business, the board continued to hear testimony related to an appeal by Ralph Iaione for a proposed subdivision at 2298 Westfield Avenue. Mr. Iaione, who has a house on the existing lot, hopes to build another if the subdivision is approved.

Neighbors have been concerned over the aesthetics of the neighborhood and the safety of children walking along a path to and from Evergreen Elementary School. The school is located near the proposed subdivision.

Edward Witkowski of Sunrise Court told board members he had specific safety issues regarding Evergreen students going to and from school if the applicant's subdivision is granted.

Mr. Witkowski argued that the applicant's new driveway would be dangerous to children using the path. Arthur Fowler, who owns the property adjacent to Mr. Iaione's, stated that he had problems with the planned driveway as well, and also expressed safety concerns over children walking to and from Evergreen.

Edward Cooney of Sunrise Court expressed concern that excess water from the backyard of the proposed new home would spill into his own backyard.

Engineer Jon Vincenti, testifying on behalf of Mr. Iaione, said no excess water would travel into Mr. Cooney's backyard as a result of the proposed new home.

He stated that the water in the backyard would drain the same as it does now. Mr. Vincenti said drainage from the roof and driveway of the proposed second house would go forward directly into an underground detention facility in front of the house.

Board Chairman George Tomkin reported that the board would vote on the proposed subdivision at its Monday, October 19 meeting, after all board members had the opportunity to review transcripts from the previous board meeting.

The board has announced that it will vote on The Reserve townhouse application on Monday, December 7.

Developer K. Hovnanian is proposing to build a 116-unit townhouse complex on 7.7 acres of property, currently owned by sisters-in-law Frances and Angeline Donato. The project has been open and pending for over two years.

Mr. Kraus, representing the developer, has stated in past reports that 20 percent of the planned units would be designated as low- to moderate-income housing.

The project is opposed by Weldon Materials, a Westfield-based firm which owns a stone quarry adjacent to the tentative development site. Weldon is being represented by attorney William Butler of Westfield.

Union County Marks Fire Prevention Week

One important lesson that Union County Freeholder Linda d. Stender learned during her five years as Liaison to the Fire Services Advisory Board was that everyone should know that once they are safely outside of a burning building they should stay out.

"More than 4,000 people die every year in the United States because of a fire, 80 percent of those, die as a result of a house fire. So it is important to plan ahead and practice a fire escape plan to enhance the chances of surviving," Freeholder Stender said.

As part of the efforts to alert citizens to the dangers of house fires, the Board of Chosen Freeholders declared the week of October 4 through 10 as "Fire Prevention Week."

"In conjunction with our celebration, the board wishes to applaud and commend all firefighters in Union County who dedicate their lives to the safety of life and property," Freeholder Stender said as she presented Resolutions to Chief Leonard Spina of the Union County Fire Chiefs Association and David Maas, President of the Union County Fire Prevention Association.

County Receives $147,500 Federal Grant To Combat Possible Terrorism Attack

A grant from the United States Department of Justice, recently received by Union County government, is aimed at saving lives and protecting residents in the event of a terrorist attack.

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders announced October 1 that the county has received a $147,530 grant to help prepare for the possibility of a chemical or biological attack by terrorists. The grant provides funds for new equipment to detect the chemical and biologist agents and help personnel respond.

"We are living in dangerous times," said Freeholder Daniel P. Sullivan, Chairman of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders. "With the collapse of the former Soviet Union and instability around the world, Union County must be prepared to respond in an attack of this kind."

Union County is the location of Newark International Airport, which straddles the Newark-Elizabeth border, the largest cargo port and one of the largest gas and oil handling facilities on the east coast. The Arthur Kill, which forms the county's eastern border, is one of the world's busiest shipping lanes.

Union County also is a densely populated area, with 500,000 people living in an area just over 100 square miles, and is in close proximity to the financial district in Manhattan.

All of this makes the county an attractive site for terrorists, says Freeholder Linda d. Stender of Fanwood, Liaison to the county's Emergency Management Council.

"Many factors make Union County a possible site for terrorist activities," said Freeholder Stender. "But today, any place in America can potentially be the site of a terrorist act, so it makes sense for the county to prepare for that possibility. To save lives and protect county residents, our ability to respond in a timely, effective manner is crucial.'

The largest part of the grant, more than $84,000, will be used to purchase 20 suits and five self-contained breathing systems that would allow emergency personnel to enter an area contaminated by chemical or biological weapons. Once there, personnel could assist victims or assess the extent of contamination or damage to the site.

Because of the importance of communications in responding to a terrorist attack, the grant will allocate $21,000 for radio equipment to allow personnel to communicate with each other at the scene of an emergency and to communicate with officials at a central command post.

A $20,000 portion of the grant money is earmarked for a specialized high-definition video camera that could be positioned at a site to send images back to the command center to allow officials to assess the scene.

About $7,000 of the grant will be used to purchase garments, visors and hoods to allow emergency personnel to respond to an exploded or unexploded bomb containing chemical agents.

Another $9,000 will be used to purchase equipment to allow emergency personnel to detect chemical or biological agents when responding to a call.

After a report of an explosion or of escaping gas, local police and fire units would be dispatched, and would soon lose contact with their departments.

childbirth and aging. Physicians, a gynecologist, nutritionist, mental health providers, a nurse/midwife, plastic surgeon and radiologist will speak and field questions on many issues, including the changes that occur throughout the lives of women.

Part of the cost of this event will be underwritten by Schering-Plough Corp., of Kenilworth. Sponsorship by the company and the Board of Chosen Freeholders means that this seminar can be provided to women at no charge.

"By providing this seminar at no charge, we hope that women and teens from across the county will be able to attend this events," said Carolyn Vollero, Chairwoman of the commission.

A free breakfast also will be provided to all participants.
