Ordinance Ready to Be Finalized To Make Way for Ward Project

The Westfield Town Council held their weekly conference meeting on Tuesday night after press time. The council was set to discuss a resolution to combine general improvement bonds in the amount of

The same process was done two years ago to bond un-funded debt. Bonds will be sold on all outstanding capital debt, so that the town sees no tax impact in 2005. "This process is much more fis-cally responsible," Town Administrator James Gildea told The Westfield

The debt includes funds for various road improvements, park improvements, police improvements and building improvements.

Not included in this bond sale is $700,000 that was used to fund the studies for the parking decks.

Mr. Gildea told The Leader that, at the time the council was looking to sell the bonds, the referendum had not happened yet. Potentially that money would have been included in the bond for the parking deck, if the town had approved the construction.

Mr. Gildea said that that money would be financed in a separate way in the future.

Two ordinances were also to be discussed at the meeting.

The first ordinance would prohibit the operation of mechanical equipment that creates loud and disturbing noises during certain hours. There are currently several ordinances on the books regarding noise. This new ordinance makes it "crystal clear" as to what hours things such as lawnmowers can be used, according

The second ordinance is related to the James Ward project proposed for Prospect Street.

Mr. Ward is proposing to tear down the building that once housed Statistical Research and an adjacent house in order to build age-restricted condominiums.

The ordinance creates an overlay for that zone to allow for age-restricted, multi unit housing. The zone currently does not allow for housing

The planning board looked at Master Plan and agreed to change it to allow this project. Working with the Town Planner, Blaise Brancheau, the planning board has made suggestions for the ordinance and it is now up to the council to finalize and approve it.

Both ordinances could potentially be introduced on Tuesday, November 30, and passed after a public hearing Fourth Ward Councilman Lawrence Goldman told The Leader that he intended to bring up the issue of rolling back parking fees.

According to Councilman
Goldman, the fees were increased twice in order to fund construction of a parking deck, and without that prospect on the horizon, at least one of the fee increases should be rolled back.

According to Ms. Davis the Ombudzman Office is a liaison between passengers and TSA. The office works with passengers to fill out paperwork, which will allow them to fly without delays.

Ms. Davis explained to The Leader that there are currently 72 airlines who use different software to cross reference names on the no-fly list, and sometimes innocent people are flagged because of name similarities.

She said that people are often stopped at the security check and must verify their identity to security and law enforcement officials before being given a boarding pass.

FAR Study Continues; While Westfield Officials Eye Town-Wide Study

By LAUREN S. PASS

Nearly 90 percent of the homes that are being torn down and rebuilt are all within conformance of current land use restrictions. The construction of the new homes are not being heard before either the planning or zoning boards, so neighbors have no input on what is being built around

Only when new construction exceeds the allowable lot coverage does it need to appear before the board of adjustment, and subdivisions must be heard before the planning board.

While many residents are concerned with the aesthetics of their neighborhoods changing, a larger issue of the change in Westfield's housing stock looms. Many of the teardowns are taking place in neighborhoods where smaller, "starter homes" exist. The dramatic changes taking place with new development not only changes the houses but also changes the income diversity of the

While the town already knows the current lot coverage of each property, the study involves going house-tohouse and estimating current FAR.

"We're trying to compare what's there to what's being built and measure the differences. Newer construction is creating issues of density, we should consider other changes and needs we have as a result," Councilman Caruana told The Westfield

The preliminary results of the study show "that most of what's on the ground is very much in conformity. some of the newer homes are also conforming. Parents of seniors who will be applying for financial aid for college are encouraged to attend the program, as well as parents of juniors and sophomores who may want to start planning now.

Check Cashing Business Dissauded in Fanwood

By DEBORAH MADISON

FANWOOD -- A concept hearing was presented to the Fanwood Planning and Zoning Board of Adjustments by the President of the Terrill Exxon service station, Gary Strassberg, at the board's agenda meeting on November 15.

The attorney for the owner, George Schunwald of Parsippany, presented schematics and photographs of the station and asked the board to give its opinion on the owner's proposal to add a check cashing business to the existing building.

Comparing the accessory use to adding an ATM machine, Mr. Schunwald told the board that the check cashing business would be operated from a cashier's window, already contained inside the waiting room area. The existing plate glass window would be replaced with bulletproof glass and security cameras would be added as is required by state law for this type of usage.

Board Chairman Gregory Cummings voiced his concerns that a check cashing business would be a safety risk and suggested that the police department be queried for its recommendations. He also expressed concerns over traffic and pedestrian safety.

Because the Terrill Road Exxon was already granted approval to operate a truck and car rental business and a convenience store, in addition to the gas and service station, several board members said that they were disinclined to approve any additional uses. These multiple uses were not intended for the light industrial zone in which the business resides, stated Jack Molenaar, council representative to the board.

The Fanwood Borough Council, in fact, recently proposed an ordinance that would limit principal uses in the light industrial zone.

Vice Chairman of the Planning Board, John Celardo, questioned the need for this type of business, doubting whether many Fanwoodians would utilize a check cashing service. Other board members agreed that most local customers do their banking at banks and suggested that Mr. Strassberg wouldn't have enough customers for this type of service.

In other business, it was announced that the Master Plan Committee will meet to discuss revisions to the Borough's Master Plan. Those changes will be discussed at the December agenda meeting, which will be held on Monday,

The next regular meeting of the board will be Wednesday, December 15, when the Woodcliff application, proposing a six-house subdivision, on the border of Scotch Plains, will be presented by attorney for the applicant, Robert Kraus of Kraus, Lieb, Grispin and Roth of Scotch Plains.

The subdivision proposes to raze one existing house and erect six new houses with no variances.

Several months ago, a petition, with signatures of both Fanwood and Scotch Plains residents, was presented to the Planning Board and to the Borough Council, objecting to the subdivision. Residents, in the petition, expressed their concerns that constructing additional impervious area and removing trees would worsen their existing flooding and standing water problems.

According to Mr. Kraus, the development will have to adhere to a storm-water management plan, approved by the Borough Engineer, as well as a tree-replacement plan. Strict guidelines require that these plans insure that no problems are worsened in the area, Mr. Kraus told The Scotch Plains-Fanwood

"People should be very careful that they do not pay exorbitant and excessive fees for drawing up a last will and testament," Surrogate LaCorte said. "The entire process should cost between $150 and $300, not thousands of dollars."

An unsolicited sales pitch to a county woman, recently brought to the surrogate's attention, highlighted the misrepresentation some times used to sell unnecessary estate plans at high prices.

Using a contested will as an example, a salesman called the senior citizen and suggested she set up a living trust to avoid "costly probate" he said could cost as much as $25,000.

The $25,000 figure is presented as the normal price of admitting a will into probate. The salesman suggested that the cost could be avoided by setting up a living trust through his company for about $2,000.

Wile it is true that a contested will concerning an estate worth $250,000 could produce $25,000 in legal fees; it is the exception rather than the rule. "Of all the wills my office handles, 99 percent are never contested," Surrogate LaCorte said. He suggested people exercise caution when offered a deal on an unsolicited living trust.

"Some companies are misrepresenting the value of a living trust," Surrogate LaCorte said. "The real cost of a will and probate is $150 to

FAR Study

FAR. FAR could be revised to cover the total volume and not just livable space.

"We need to study the new construction a little bit more and from a volume perspective. Then make the same comparisons in the same zones in other parts of town. The same zones in different parts of town may be very different," he cautioned.

According to Councilman Caruana, the committee is almost convinced that the study needs to be done in the entire town. But he added that he's "not sure we understand all of the dynamics we need to. We may be looking at an anomaly."

Councilman Caruana told The Leader that the committee must look at, "What aspect of new development may be negatively impacting the congruity of neighborhoods and blocks, and what mechanisms and factors we need to be considering to offset that."

Several factors related to new construction in town still remain up in the air, such as what will be required in affordable housing when the new COAH (Council On Affordable Housing) regulations are passed in New Jersey.

Zoning Bd. Members Look to Decrease New Parking Spaces at Y

By FRED ROSSI

SCOTCHPLAINS -- Homeowners living in the area of the Fanwood-Scotch Plains YMCA on Martine Avenue will have an opportunity at next week's Scotch Plains Zoning Board of Adjustment meeting to ask questions and comment on the YMCA's proposed expansion of its facilities and parking lot.

Last Wednesday, the board held its second hearing on the YMCA's application, which is technically to seek approval for an expansion of its parking lot from 125 parking spaces to about 280 when the multi-phase project is completed several years down the road.

A local ordinance requires membership organizations such as the YMCA to provide one on-site parking space for every four adult members. If the YMCA, with its membership of several thousand adults, teenagers and children, had to comply with that requirement, it would need a parking lot with more than 1,000

A variance permits the YMCA to have the lower capacity parking lot than the ordinance calls for, one that "essentially meets the requirements of the Y," as YMCA attorney Robert Kraus said at the first board hearing in October.

At last week's nearly three-hour hearing, YMCA Executive Director Karin Dreixler summarized for the board her October presentation on the YMCA's plans to expand its facilities over a period of several years while expanding the parking lot.

Engineer James Watson reviewed certain aspects of storm water drainage in the expanded parking lot, buffering strategies and proposed new ingress and egress in the expanded lot.

Professional Planner Elizabeth McKenzie provided an overview of the YMCA property and the proposed expansions, concentrating on the reasons she felt the project would not be detrimental to surrounding homes and neighborhoods.

Initial comments and questions from board members after last week's presentations centered on buffering issues and the size of the expanded parking lot.

There were some concerns raised about whether homes located directly across Martine Avenue from the YMCA would be negatively affected, particularly at night, by the headlights of cars exiting the YMCA.

Mr. Watson said that his plans include a number of plantings along Martine Avenue between the street itself and the parking lot, adding that the plantings would be located atop a berm that would further shield Martine Avenue from car headlights in the parking lot.

He also displayed a photograph depicting the exit lane onto Martine Avenue that, he said, showed the property across the street being blocked by several trees and thick shrubbery.

Several board members expressed concern that the size of the new parking lot would make it a bit of an evesore in the midst of the neighborhood, but Ms. McKenzie noted that the lot would be "considerably set back" from the street.

Board member Tim Livolsi suggested additional plantings and buffering "so we don't know there's a parking lot back there."

Board member Ken Anderson suggested that several parking lot islands be placed within the lot in order to "break up a large asphalt area in the middle of a residential area."

Initial plans do not include any islands in the expanded lot, but Mr. Kraus said the YMCA would be open to including them if the board insisted.

Mr. Anderson also wondered why parking capacity needed to be doubled when YMCA officials have said the current level is usually adequate for the facility's needs. The YMCA does expect that in the coming several years, membership will increase about 25 percent, but Mr. Kraus last week left open the possibility of fewer spaces in the final plans.

Board engineer Thomas Quinn said that after reviewing the plans, he had a sense that the proposed 280 parking spaces might be "overkill," adding that he, too, favored the inclusion of islands to "break the lot up."

The 280 spaces, he said, are a "little more than they need for a 25 percent increase" in membership, although he admitted that it was hard to know at this point what the YMCA's program needs might be several years in the future.

The board's next meeting will be held on Thursday, December 2, with the hearing on the YMCA's application expected to start at 8:30 p.m.

At the start of the meeting, the board agreed to put off a hearing on an application by Mark Lustbader, who is seeking approval to build a home on a portion of non-townshipowned land on the island in the center of Cooper Road. A group of about 30 neighborhood residents attended last week's meeting and demanded a postponement so they could have time to hire an attorney to represent their interests and gather expert witnesses. The board agreed, with Chairman James Fawcett saying that he wanted "a fair and equitable hearing" for the residents. The board will consider the application at its January 6, 2005

'Knitting, Crocheting' Class To Begin at NJWA on Jan. 8

WESTFIELD – The New Jersey Workshop for the Arts (NJWA) has added a new course in the arts and crafts department.

"Knitting and Crocheting" will be offered in the winter semester for eight Saturdays, beginning on January 8. A class for students ages 10 and older will begin at 1 p.m. and a class for adults will start at 2 p.m.

The course will be taught at the NJWA Annex, located at 361 South Avenue, East in Westfield. Instructor Janet Hrindo is an arts and crafts department chairperson at the Westfield Summer Workshop, where she teaches needlework, jewelry making and origami.

The tuition fee of $80 includes a pair of knitting needles, a crocheting hook and yarn for instruction and simple projects. Patterns will also be included.

Students who wish to create additional items may provide their own yarn or different sized needles.

Registration is presently being accepted for this course. Prospective students can call NJWA office at (908) 789-9696 for further information or to request a registration form.

Forms are also available at the NJWA office, located at 150-152 East Broad Street in Westfield.

SP Residents to Query Developer On Cushing, Terrill Subdivision

By FRED ROSSI

The Scotch Plains Planning Board will continue a hearing next month on a major subdivision application on Cushing Road.

Helltemp LLC is seeking board approval to subdivide four adjoining lots, two facing Terrill Road and two facing Cushing, into seven lots. Single-family homes are presently situated on the four lots; Helltemp proposes to retain the two Terrill Road homes, raze the two homes on Cushing Road, create a cul-de-sac south of Cushing Road and create five new lots around that cul-de-sac where five homes would be built.

During the three-hour hearing at the board's meeting on Monday evening, board members raised concerns about drainage issues on the Lshaped series of lots.

There are already issues regarding rainwater runoff across Cushing Road, which is a border between Scotch Plains and Plainfield. There are now two wetlands situated on the Cushing Road lots that serve as natural detention basins, although Helltemp representatives maintained that their plans to install detention basins would actually reduce the water runoff into Plainfield.

Monday's hearing centered mostly around a detailed presentation by engineer Edward Dec about drainage issues, soil erosion control, the environmental impact of the proposed development, the number of trees to be removed to make room for the new homes and the potential for increased traffic, especially along Cushing Road.

Mr. Dec said there would be no adverse impact to the surrounding area from the development. He also addressed several concerns raised in a letter to the Planning Board from the Township Environmental Com-

There were also concerns raised about the ability of township emergency vehicles to safely maneuver on the culde-sac, which will have a 13- to 14-foot elevation from its intersection with Cushing Road to its turnaround circle inside the new development. Board member Michael Michalisin said he felt the application was "incomplete." He raised concern with a lack of specifics about certain aspects of the drainage issue, the fact that the township fire department had not submitted a report on the application and the uncertainty about the extent of the developer's plan to widen a portion of Cushing Road in front of the developed lots.

It is expected the board will resume the hearing at its Monday, December 13 meeting, which will begin at 7 p.m., and that members of the public will have an opportunity to ask questions and offer comments about the application.

Fanwood Planning Bd. Dissuades Check Cashing Business in Boro.

erated from a cashier's window, already contained inside the waiting room area. The existing plate glass window would be replaced with bulletproof glass and security cameras would be added as is required by state law for this type of usage.

Board Chairman Gregory Cummings voiced his concerns that a check cashing business would be a safety risk and suggested that the police department be queried for its recommendations. He also expressed concerns over traffic and pedestrian safety.

Because the Terrill Road Exxon was already granted approval to operate a truck and car rental business and a convenience store in addition to the gas and service station, several board members said that they were disinclined to approve any additional uses. These multiple uses were not intended for the light industrial zone in which the business resides, stated Jack Molenaar, council representative to the board.

The Fanwood Borough Council, in fact, recently proposed an ordinance that would limit principal uses in the light industrial zone.

Vice Chairman of the Planning Board, John Celardo, questioned the need for this type of business, doubting whether many Fanwoodians would utilize a check cashing service. Other board members agreed that most local customers do their banking at banks and suggested that Mr. Strassberg wouldn't have enough customers for this type of service.

Mr. Strassberg implored the board to reconsider its positions, stating that he was not trying to get rich but just attempting to make ends meet in these tough economic times.

He suggested that a liquor store is just as likely to be held up, without the added features of bulletproof glass or security cameras.

Mr. Strassberg added that it was not the board's concern whether he would have enough customers and said he'd be willing to take that risk.

After the majority of board members expressed their lack of comfort with this type of business, Mr. Cummings told the applicant, "You now have a sense of how the board feels." In other business, it was announced that the Master Plan Committee will meet to discuss revisions to the borough's Master Plan. Those changes will be discussed at the December agenda meeting, which will be held on Monday, December 6.

The next regular meeting of the board will be Wednesday, December 15, when the Woodcliff application, proposing a six-house subdivision, on the border of Scotch Plains, will be presented by the attorney for the applicant, Robert Kraus of Kraus, Lieb, Grispin and Roth of Scotch

The Union County Department of Parks and Recreation conducted a deer census in and around the Ashbrook Reservation in Scotch Plains on Sunday evening.

Jumpstart Students Gather For Thanksgiving Traditions

SCOTCH PLAINS — Children in the Jumpstart classes taught by Celeste Gomes and Bernadette Hoyer participated in a Thanksgiving Gathering at Brunner Elementary School in Scotch Plains on November 16.

Students from Evergreen Elementary School in Scotch Plains attended the gathering as pilgrims, while the Brunner pupils attended as Native Americans

The teachers and students prepared for the event by learning about how the pilgrims and Native Americans lived a long time ago. Each group crafted items to wear that emulated what the pilgrims and Native Americans may have worn to the first Thanksgiving celebration.

The Native Americans made corn muffins and popcorn to share, while the pilgrims prepared hais – a tasty Colonial treat made from nuts.

Both groups sang songs and recited poems about the group they represented. All of the children worked on a Colonial-type wreath to take home to their families for Thanksgiving.

LEAPING INTO LEARNING...The new full-time Pre-Kindergarten at St. Bartholomew Interparochial School in Scotch Plains has recently introduced the Leap Frog Learning SchoolHouse System technology as a tool for developing prereading and mathematics skills. The Leap Frog System permits students to use a hands-on, multi-sensory approach to learning. Students utilize an array of technology-based learning tools to listen, learn, and respond to activities in language arts, science, math, social studies, and fine arts. A comprehensive set of books, posters, and songs coordinate with the technology-based learning activities. Board Seeks to Decrease New Parking Spaces at Y

Board member Ken Anderson suggested that several parking lot islands be placed within the lot in order to "break up a large asphalt area in the middle of a residential area.'

Initial plans do not include any islands in the expanded lot, but Mr. Kraus said the YMCA would be open to including them if the board in-

Mr. Anderson also wondered why parking capacity needed to be doubled when YMCA officials have said the current level is usually adequate for the facility's needs. The YMCA does expect that in the coming several years, membership will increase about 25 percent, but Mr. Kraus last week left open the possibility of fewer spaces in the final plans. Board engineer Thomas Quinn said that after reviewing the plans, he had a sense that the proposed 280 parking spaces might be "overkill," adding that he, too, favored the inclusion of islands to "break the lot

The 280 spaces, he said, are a "little more than they need for a 25 percent increase" in membership, although he admitted that it was hard to know at this point what the YMCA's program needs might be several years in the future.

The board's next meeting will be held on Thursday, December 2, with the hearing on the YMCA's application expected to start at 8:30 p.m.

At the start of the meeting, the board agreed to put off a hearing on an application by Mark Lustbader, who is seeking approval to build a home on a portion of non-townshipowned land on the island in the center of Cooper Road. A group of about 30 neighborhood residents attended last week's meeting and demanded a postponement so they could have time to hire an attorney to represent their interests and gather expert witnesses. The board agreed, with Chairman James Fawcett saying that he wanted "a fair and equitable hearing" for the residents. The board will consider the application at its January 6, 2005 meeting.

Council Expected to Discuss South Side Deer Census

in Atlantic City, which was attended by all council members and several township officials, the council held its conference and regular meeting on Tuesday evening.

In other business, Township Manager Thomas Atkins informed the council that more than 400 residents registered for the 240 flu vaccines presently available. The majority, 366, were individuals 65 years of age and older. Sixty one residents under 65 years old with health problems and the required note from their physician also registered for a chance to receive the vaccine, which was administered on Tuesday.

Mr. Atkins expects another 225 doses soon and hopes they can be administered early in December.

At its regular meeting, the council was expected to hold a public hearing on an ordinance that will formalize left hand turn-only lanes at Hetfield Avenue and North Avenue and Crestwood Road and North Avenue. The turn lanes were placed at that intersection to ease the flow of traffic, and the ordinance will formalize those lanes and allow the police to enforce their use.

It was also likely that the council would introduce an ordinance to increase the township fee for a certificate of occupancy inspection from the present $25. Other area towns, by contrast, charge considerably more for such inspections, with the fee in Mountainside and Summit being $100, Westfield, $35 and Cranford, $70.

Testing for Odor at MS School Will Continue On November 22

MOUNTAINSIDE --- Although Beechwood School in Mountainside is odor-free, testing will continue on Monday, November 22.

The Westfield Leader toured the school in attempt to smell firsthand the odor that has been plaguing the building since last May. Brightly lit, colorful hallways lead to the four classrooms serviced by the HVAC system RTU No. 2 (roof top unit). The unit believed to be causing the musty smell was covered in children's artwork and appeared brand new.

Everything about the school looked new, clean and smelled odor-free. On November 11, Aerodyne-

Redmond Contractors removed all the wet insulation on the bottom of the ductwork connected to RTU No.

Sean Reilly of Home Health Science associated the odor of the removed insulation with the odor inside the four classrooms.

Home Health Science, an environmental testing company in Sparta, is testing the insulation for mold and other bacteria.

On November 18, the Mountainside Board of Education met with building contractors Paul Otto and Tom Edgley, John Krupka from the Musial Group, Carrier salesman Sergio Dos-Sanots, Carrier Serviceman Bill Joseph and John Mehl from Aerodyne-Redmond to discuss what actions should be taken. All present observed the four classrooms and hallway.

The Carrier representatives made a visual inspection of RTU No. 2, which included the air stream, coils, heat exchanger, fan housing and the air filters. Nothing out of the ordinary was detected. All the ductwork and insulation on RTU No. 2 has recently been replaced, as well as the exterior

The odor was first detected in classrooms 110, 111, 116 and 117 this past spring when the heat was turned off. The heat is now back on and although the smell is no longer apparent, the school board has accepted the proposal of LEW Corporation in the amount of $10,500 to continue with the testing of drywall and other fin-

tion and Environmental Testing Con-

"Based on the scope of work, they (LEW Corporation) will be able to identify the scope more clearly," Board Administrator Paul Vizzuso said when explaining why the board chose LEW Corporation.

The scope of the project will include inspecting the four affected classrooms and assessing the biological conditions. LEW Corporation will collect samples of suspect materials for biological testing including both fungi and bacteria in the testing.

The project may require the removal of drywall and other finishes inside walls, ceiling cavities and in the new bump-out in the four classrooms. The major focus will be on dismantling RTU No. 2 and inspecting the fiberglass linings that are present in the unit and associated

According to the board, an industrial hygienist certified by the American Board of Industrial Hygiene will conduct the inspection. Technicians and a mechanical contractor will assist. The results of the testing should be available seven to 10 day after the samples are taken. When the investigation is complete, LEW Corpora-tion will provide recommendations

The reconstruction of the school is not included in the proposal, and the district will replace all tested areas after the inspection is complete.

Surrogate Cautions Seniors On Estate Planning Scam

AREA – Union County Surrogate James LaCorte is cautioning senior citizens to beware of telephone solicitors offering unnecessary living trust and estate plans at greatly inflated prices.

"People should be very careful that they do not pay exorbitant and excessive fees for drawing up a last will and testament," Surrogate LaCorte said. "The entire process should cost between $150 and $300, not thousands of dollars."

An unsolicited sales pitch to a county woman, recently brought to the surrogate's attention, highlighted the misrepresentation some times used to sell unnecessary estate plans at high prices.

Using a contested will as an example, a salesman called the senior citizen and suggested she set up a living trust to avoid "costly probate" he said could cost as much as $25,000.

The $25,000 figure is presented as the normal price of admitting a will into probate. The salesman suggested that the cost could be avoided by setting up a living trust through his company for about $2,000. Wile it is true that a contested will concerning an estate worth $250,000 could produce $25,000 in legal fees; it is the exception rather than the rule.

"Of all the wills my office handles, 99 percent are never contested," Surrogate LaCorte said. He suggested people exercise caution when offered a deal on an unsolicited living trust.

'Some companies are misrepresenting the value of a living trust," Surrogate LaCorte said. "The real cost of a will and probate is $150 to $300."

The surrogate recommends shopping for a lawyer to have a last will and testament properly drawn up to avoid any complications when entering a will into probate. For more information please call the Union County Surrogate's office at (908) 527-4280 or visit www.ucnj.org/surrogate/index.

FAR Study Continues; While Westfield Officials Eye Town-Wide Study

By LAUREN S. PASS

WESTFIELD -- Nearly 90 percent of the homes that are being torn down and rebuilt are all within conformance of current land use restrictions. The construction of the new homes are not being heard before either the planning or zoning boards, so neighbors have no input on what is being built around them.

Only when new construction exceeds the allowable lot coverage does it need to appear before the board of adjustment, and subdivisions must be heard before the planning board.

While many residents are concerned with the aesthetics of their neighborhoods changing, a larger issue of the change is Westfield's housing stock looms. Many of the teardowns are taking place in neighborhoods where smaller, "starter homes" were built. The dramatic changes taking place with new development not only changes the houses but also changes the income diversity of the town.

There are currently seven categories of residential zones in Westfield. Properties range from 6,000 square feet to 40,000 square feet. Each of the zones has it's own restrictions regarding how much of the lot can be covered and what the setbacks are. However, all of the zones in town have a maximum floor area ration of 20 to 35 percent of lot coverage and can be as tall as 38-feet. In certain sections of town, mainly the RS-6 zones where the majority of homes are smaller ranches, newer homes, being built within the zoning restrictions tower above.

The Town of Westfield has asked Town Planner Blaise Brancheau to conduct a pilot study of Floor Area Ratios (FAR) in select RS6 and RS8 zones on the South side of town where the majority of the new construction has taken place.

First Ward Councilman Sal Caruana, who chairs the Code Review and Town Property Committee, which is working with Mr. Brancheau, said, "We're trying to understand the current dynamics." While the town already knows the current lot coverage, the study involves going house-to-house and estimating current FAR. "We're trying to compare what's there to what's being built and measure the differences. Newer construction is creating issues of density, we should consider other changes and needs we have as a result." Councilman Caruana told The Westfield Leader.

The preliminary results of the study show "that most of what's on the ground is very much in conformity, some of the newer homes are also conforming. So the question is, do we want to then change FAR requirements in what we're finding out is another part of the problem is volume," Councilman Caruana said.

While FAR provides calculation of livable space, things like cathedral ceilings are dead space and not included by FAR. FAR could be revised to cover the total volume and not just livable space.

"We need to study the new construction a little bit more and from a volume perspective. Then make the same comparisons in the same zones in other parts of town. The same zones in different parts of town may be very different," he cautioned.

According to Councilman Caruana, the committee is almost convinced that the study needs to be done in the entire town. But he added that he's "not sure we understand all of the dynamics we need to. We may be looking at an anomaly."

Councilman Caruana told The Leader that the committee must look at, "What aspect of new development may be negatively impacting the congruity of neighborhoods and blocks, and what mechanisms and factors we need to be considering to offset that."

Several factors related to new construction in town still remain up in the air, such as what will be required in affordable housing when the new COAH (Council On Affordable Housing) regulations are passed in New Jersey.

Congressman Ferguson Backs Special Edu. Reforms

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Congressman Mike Ferguson (R-N.J.) joined a bipartisan majority as the House approved sweeping reforms to the law governing 6.7 million special education students, including streamlining rules that allow schools to more quickly identify children for extra help to ensure every student with disabilities receives a quality education.

The legislation, which reauthorizes the 1975-era Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, won House approval 397-3. The Senate is next expected to give the legislation final congressional approval.

Rep. Ferguson said the measure rightly emphasizes early identification of students with special needs

"By improving the early identification of children with special

Fanwood Lions Club To Begin Tree Sale

FANWOOD - The Fanwood Lions Club will hold its annual Christmas Tree Sale starting Wednesday, December 1, and continuing through Christmas. It will take place at LaGrande Park, located at LaGrande Avenue and Second Street in Fanwood.

Sale hours will be 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on weekends and 6:30 to 9 p.m. on weekdays. A large selection of trees, including Balsams (large and small), Douglas Firs and Frasier Firs, will be available. There also will be wreaths for sale.

Revenue from this sale will benefit local charities and scholarships for local students.

Boxes will be located at the Christmas tree sale for any donated new toys. The Fanwood Lions will distribute these toys to the United Family and Children's Society of Plainfield. Toys need not be wrapped.

needs while also reducing the number of students who are improperly labeled as disabled, these reforms will ensure every student receives the education they deserve," Rep. Ferguson said after the vote.

A former teacher, Rep. Ferguson said the measure reaffirms Congress' pledge to pay for 40 percent of the costs of educating specialneeds students, which can be significantly higher than the education costs for other students. The balance is paid by state and local governments.

Currently, Washington covers 19 percent of special education costs. The bill calls for Congress to reach the 40 percent federal share by 2011. Federal spending on special education has increased from $2.1 billion in 1994 to $10.1 billion in 2004.

The bill broadens the ways for schools to identify special education pupils, allowing schools to reach children in earlier grades and reduce the percentage of minority children who are tracked toward special education. It makes it easier for schools to remove disruptive students whose misbehavior is not caused by their disability. The House-approved bill also requires that special education teachers be certified as "highly qualified" by the end of the 2005-06 school year.

Rep. Ferguson has long been a strong advocate of strengthening special education and increasing special education funding. Earlier this year, Rep. Ferguson backed legislation to increase federal funding for New Jersey special education programs by more than $108 million, and the first bill Rep. Ferguson introduced in as a congressman in 2001 would strengthen education by increasing special education funding.

The club is also seeking new members. For details, please visit www.westfieldnj.com/ysmen or call Tom Baker at (908) 516-9566.

WF Rotary Club Presents Vocational Service Awards

WESTFIELD – Vocational Service is the banner by which Rotarians "recognize the worthiness of all useful occupations" and demonstrate a commitment to "high ethical standards in all businesses and professions." Each Rotarian makes a valuable contribution to a better society through their daily activities in a business or profession. The Vocational Service Award is the ideal opportunity to recognize community leaders who act with integrity and social responsibility in their professional and volunteer activities.

The Westfield Rotary Vocational Service Awards recognize the dignity of employment and volunteer involvement by honoring the exemplary service of outstanding individuals in their vocations, professions, businesses and volunteer commitment in the community.

The Emerson Thomas Award is presented to an individual who is a member of the club who works in Westfield. This year the recipient is Ted Schlosberg, founder and Executive Director of the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts, Inc. Mr. Schlosberg has been involved with music education since 1960 and continues to bring music into our lives through the programs of the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts located in Westfield since 1972.

The Jim Coventry Award is presented to an individual who lives or works in Westfield. This year the recipient is Joe Spector, owner of the Leader Store in Westfield. Mr. Spector has been involved with the family retail business, established over 50 years ago, and also in numerous local community organizations that promote the downtown business district.

The Volunteer Award is presented to an individual who lives or works in Westfield and demonstrates an outstanding volunteer commitment to the community. This year the recipient is Gregory Ryan, Jr. A Westfield High School senior responsible for the construction of a playground at the Memorial Pool field designed to be accessible to all children especially the handicapped.

The Rotary Club of Westfield meets every Tuesday from 12:15 to 1:30 p.m. in the Westfield, YMCA. The public is invited to the $12 weekly luncheon and hear interesting weekly programs while enjoying the comradeship of Rotary membership.

Greek Mythology Relevance To Be Topic at WF Historic

WESTFIELD – Greek Mythology and its continued relevance and influence in our daily lives will be the topic of Anita Hogaboom at the First Wednesday Luncheon of the Westfield Historical Society at noon on Wednesday, December 1 at B.G. Fields Restaurant, 560 South Avenue, Westfield.

Mrs. Hogaboom has been interested in mythology in general and Greek mythology in particular for 36 years. Over the years she has become convinced that its relevance and application are unending. Every level discovered leads to another to be explored. At the luncheon she will speak on the influence of the Greeks in astrology and will discuss the vast field of Greek influences in our daily lives.

Mrs. Hogaboom is a Freshman English teacher at Arthur L. Johnson in Clark. She has a Bachelor's Degree in Education from West Virginia and a Master's Degree in the Humanities from Drew University and began her teaching career at Governor Livingston Regional High School in 1968. Her husband, Peter Hogaboom, is the Commander of The American Legion Martin Wallberg Post No. 3 in Westfield. They have three sons: Joseph, James and Thomas.

Regular attendees of the luncheon will be contacted by a phone commit-

NEW YORK, NY – The New York Metropolitan Transportation Council (NYMTC) held a Grand Opening ceremony to mark its return to lower Manhattan. During the ribbon-cutting ceremony at the new offices located on the 22nd floor of 199 Water Street, NYMTC also announced the creation of the September 11 Memorial Program for Regional Transportation Planning in memory of Charles Lesperance, Ignatius Adanga and See Wong Shum of Westfield, employees who died in the World Trade Center disaster.

The Memorial Program will set aside funding for publicly solicited transportation planning projects throughout the region, as well as assist students in transportation planning and information technology studies. The memorial program is being developed with the assistance of the University Transportation Research Center, a consortium of ten academic institutions in the region.

"This is a most significant day for NYMTC," said Joseph Boardman, Commissioner, New York State Department of Transportation. 'NYMTC was displaced since the destruction of its offices on the 82nd floor of the World Trade Center. It now has a permanent home again amidst the re-birth of the lower Manhattan area.'

Commissioner Boardman congratulated the NYMTC staff, most of whom participated in the planning for and relocation to the new offices, from selecting furniture to paint colors to the office decor.

A special feature of the Grand Opening ceremony was the unveiling of commemorative plaques to the three lost employees by their spouses. A three-sectioned conference space will bear the names of each one.

Globetrotting was just one of See Wong Shum's interests. Born in Hong Kong, he migrated to the United States in the late 80's, leaving behind his years teaching high school biology – his college major - and being a corrections officer. Between earning an Masters in Business Administration at the State University of New York, Albany, in management information systems, and his work in the New York State departments of health and the New York Metropolitan Transportation Council, he traveled to Europe, South America, Mexico, India and other destinations. His wife Rebecca, whom he wed in 1992, remarked that it would have been nice if he'd waited to take her along on some of those trips.

When Mr. Shum wasn't on the road, he read voraciously, books of all kinds: finance, science, politics, religion, mysteries. On September 11, 2001, he was busy at yet another passion: his computer and his information systems job at NYMTC. Technology bonded him with Rebecca, herself a programmer.

Shum called Rebecca "the glue that held his family together." Their two children, Leon now nine and Chanel now six, were the highlights of their

See Wong Shum came ill." And with good reason. Mr. Shum was acquainted with tragedy. He'd lost two siblings in accidents and was the only remaining son in his close-knit family.

Since 9/11, Rebecca hasn't had much time to pursue Mr. Shum's other interests: movies and working out at health clubs. She's quit her job and is devoting her time to raising Leon and Chanel.

New York Metropolitan Transportation Council (NYMTC) is a council of governments and transportation providers that serves as the Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) for the New York metropolitan region consisting of New York City and the counties of Nassau, Putnam, Rockland, Suffolk, and Westchester. NYMTC provides a collaborative planning forum to address transportation-related issues from a regional perspective and plans and makes decisions on the use of federal transportation funds.

Boosters Commit $25,000 To Kehler Improvements

WESTFIELD – On November 11, the Westfield School Boosters Association (WSBA) listened to a presentation of the benefits of refurbishing the field and track at Kehler Stadium. The WSBA then voted to commit $25,000 to the project by paying $5,000 per year for five years toward the debt service.

The cost of the Kehler Stadium field and track improvement will be $1.38 million. The voting public must approve the bond for the expenditure. A special referendum by the Westfield Board of Education will be held December 14 asking voters to decide on the bond. Polls will be open from 2 to 9 p.m.

Westfield Public School Superintendent Dr. William Foley and former chairman of the Westfield Recreation Commission Keith Hertell made the presentation to the WSBA. According to Dr. Foley and Mr. Hertell, the debt service for the bond equates to $18 per year property tax increase for the average Westfield homeowner.

Dr. Foley and Mr. Hertell asked the WSBA to donate money for the project and to promote voter approval of the bond in the upcoming referendum.

According to Dr. Foley and Mr. Hertell, the basis for requesting the improvements was that field use in Westfield had expanded over the last 20 years, almost doubling according to statistics they referenced. They noted that in 1983, there were 670 Westfield High School (WHS) athletes participating in WHS sports compared to 1,226 in 2003.

Another item discussed was that Kehler field's natural grass has limited use. They said the field is not used in the spring because it must be rehabilitated for fall sports. They said that the artificial turf installation for the field would open the stadium for spring use - making it available for the entire year and for longer periods during the days. Also discussed was that fact that the artificial turf was durable, safe, suffers less from inclement weather, doesn't require grass cutting and is low maintenance (surface is brushed once per month). The Westfield School Boosters Association is a group of 50 men that raises funds to support school athletics.

Marks Elected To League Executive Bd.

SCOTCH PLAINS - On November 19 New Jersey's mayors elected Martin Marks, Mayor of Scotch Plains Township, to serve on the Executive Board of the New Jersey State League of Municipalities.

As a member of the League's Executive Board, Mayor Marks will help lead the Association of New Jersey's 566 municipal governments. Mayor Marks will represent the interests and needs of New Jersey's local elected officials to county, state and federal governments.

The New Jersey State League of Municipalities is a voluntary association created to help communities do a better job of self-governing. Over 560 mayors and 13,000 elected and appointed officials of member municipalities are entitled to all the services and privileges of the league.

This Thanksgiving Remember Those In Need and Take Time to be Thankful

Thanksgiving always seems like the kickoff to New Years. The rest of the year flies by with Chanukah, Christmas and the next thing you know you're voiding your checks because you keep writing the wrong year.

Thanksgiving is solely an American holiday, originating with the early settlers. While they were struggling to find food, they got some help from the Native Americans on how to farm, and the strangers broke bread together.

Each year, families and friends gather for dinner, but there are so many who are alone for the holiday. Food pantries and local organizations do their best to take care of those who do not have enough money or food for the holiday, but there are many who are not needy that have no family. They may be your neighbor, coworker or friend. In the true spirit of Thanksgiving, invite them to your table, and when they offer, let them bring something.

Many people begin to suffer the winter doldrums this time of year. Each of us should find at least one thing to be thankful for, whether you thought this year was good or bad. Even if it is the worst year of your life, you can at least be thankful that you made

For those of you with many things to be thankful for, remember to take a moment to bask in that. So often we are busy on the holidays, running around, trying to get dinner on the table. Stop for just a moment and take it all in, your family, your friends and a great meal.

Happy Thanksgiving everyone!

The Idea to Bag Leaves Should Reexamined, Good Pickup Plan May Be Solution in WF

Autumn is beautiful with the leaves changing colors. Then the leaves all fall and someone has to rake them. Most residents put them in the street, and the town picks them up. Before that, leaves were actually burned. Many can still remember the pleasant smell. But, burning leaves wasn't environmentally friendly or safe so that practice was outlawed.

When the Town of Westfield put out their mailer on this year's leaf pickup schedule, they included a small note that residents will have to bag their leaves next year. This note sent ripples of disbelief throughout the town.

According to the Town of Westfield, they have little choice but to mandate this. The town blames the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (NJDEP). The NJDEP has advised municipalities that they intend to enforce new federal stormwater regulations. These regulations charge the towns with coming up with a program to disallow yard waste to remain in the street for more than seven days; if it's longer, the waste has to be containerized.

The Westfield Department of Public Works (WDPW) says they are looking for a loophole, but until otherwise they interpret the regulation to mean residents must bag their leaves. We think the WDPW should 'bag their interpretation' and devise a fix, not look for a loophole.

A few years back, a comprehensive plan was in a 'Bag of Worms?'

The Governor's Desk The Values And Philosophy That Will Guide Me in the Governor's Office

By Richard J. Codey Acting Governor of New Jersey

Elected officials often are asked why we chose to enter public service. It's a good question. After all, who in their right mind would voluntarily turn over their personal life and freedom to the public and the media?

Indeed, there have been times when each of us have gone home after a particularly bad day and asked, "Why in the world am I doing this?" But then something happens — a neighbor asks for help or a parent glows about her child's teacher or a new park in town — and we remember why we do this. It's for the ability to make a difference. Public service is where you can make a difference for those who have been left behind or forgotten by society. That's the philosophy I bring to the Governor's

My personal experiences, the values of my late mom and dad, have not only shaped the man I am, they define me as a public servant.

The years I spent working in my father's funeral home - seeing the dignity he showed to grieving families instilled in me a sense of respect and compassion for our fellow citizens. I saw how hard it was to run a small business, how important it was to be a man of your word and to treat others with respect - regardless of their status in life.

Watching my wife battle depression while raising a family taught me about class and courage in the face of very real struggles. Even in her deepest, darkest moments, Mary Jo saw beyond herself and put the needs of others first. She emerged stronger, and so did our family.

These experiences form the basis of my public service and the motivation for the issues I care about.

It's amazing how many people have advice for you once you become governor. Most people start out with "Why would anyone want to be governor at this time in our history?" I tell them I didn't run for the job and I wasn't elected to it, but I won't run away from it.

So when people say we have tough problems, I ask "Which one?" Is it the more than $4 billion deficit? The property tax crisis? The aura of scandal that hangs over the New Jersey political landscape? Let me tell you what tough is watching your wife as she lies in a coma and having your children ask you whether their mom is going to die. That's tough.

If you want to talk about real problems, go to Greystone Psychiatric Hospital and try to answer the patient who asks when will I get out? Or ask the father making minimum wage about how hard it is to raise a family or the single mom who can't help her kids with her homework because she has to work a second shift.

These are real problems being experienced by real people, and these are the problems that we in government must face.

I don't want to downplay a multibillion dollar budget deficit, but we can't lose sight that there is a difference between the problems of government and the problems of real people. Those problems - the ones faced by the people who don't have time to read the newspaper because they're too busy taking care of their family - are the problems government must focus on.

I do not know how long I will be governor, but I am not going to change who I am or the values I hold. I want to serve my time with dignity and provide stability to our state government. I want to start the process of restoring the public's trust in the institutions of government.

I want to be an advocate for people who are in need but without the resources to hire a lobbyist or make a political contribution. I want to reach out and help the families and individuals who struggle everyday with mental health.

I want to make our schools a safer place for our children. I want to make sure that the potential of stem cell research is realized right here in New Jersey. And I want to build bipartisan consensus and solutions.

These are the values that I am going to bring to the governor's office the same ones that have served me my entire life. We have some great challenges ahead of us; I need and ask for

Thanks to Town for Making Weinermobile Wish Come True

I am so thankful to live in such a won- Trader Joes, Stop & Shop, Culligan Wa-

A truly extraordinary thing happened to our family this year and because of this great town, we got to share the experience and turn it into something spectacular.

My eight-year-old son Alex entered a national contest and won the Oscar Mayer Wienermobile for a day. He was one of 50 winners out of 70,000 entries nationwide. He won the contest by writing "Oh I wish the Oscar Mayer Wienermobile would come to town so I could raise money for my best friend Patrick's charity. I want to see him walk one day." His seven-year-old friend Patrick Higgins is afflicted with Spinal Muscular Atrophy.

On October 2, his wish came true when the Wienermobile rolled into town. In the short amount of time that we were able to prepare for this event, I enlisted the aid of so many people.

I want to thank everyone who helped make this wish come true. Thank you to the town council, recreation department, Westfield Police Department, Downtown Westfield Corporation, the chamber of commerce, the Westfield Board of Education and PTO for helping make this Wienermobile event such a huge success.

Thank you to Shoprite, Drug Fair,

Thank you to all my friends for handing out wiener whistles and candy at all our donation tables.

Thank you to Channel 36 and the Westfield High School for coming out to film the event.

Thank you to all the wonderful people in our area for taking time out of your busy hectic schedules to witness a once in a lifetime event and to donate to such a worthy cause. Thank you to each child who melted my heart with donations from their piggy

Mother Thanks Westfield Police For Assistance in Finding Son

On Saturday November 13, my 12year-old son did not return home on the agreed time. He went to lunch with a friend downtown at 1 p.m. and was to return home by 3 p.m.

When it was 3:35 and my son was not home, we contacted his friend only to find out that they had parted ways 45 minutes prior — two blocks from my home. My husband and I frantically searched for him until 4:30 before alerting the police. We knew our son to be extremely responsible and therefore we reasoned that something terrible had happened to him.

Certainly, the Westfield police had two very distraught parents to deal with including one hysterical mother. I commend the Westfield Police Department on their professionalism and competency as well as their compassion and understanding. They treated the situation very seriously. Their response was immediate. While some officers tried to locate my son, another officer remained home with us and suggested we call a neighbor who was to perform with my son that evening in the school play. My son was indeed at that neighbor's home, and he had indeed been responsible. He arrived home a few minutes earlier than expected and went to the neighbors to phone us. He left a message on our answering machine that was not functioning and left messages on each of our cell phones, which we didn't have with us. Each time he came home to check, we were not there because we were looking for him.

Believing that your child is missing is the greatest fear any parent can imagine.

It is a paralyzing experience. I cannot thank the Westfield Police enough for their exemplary performance of duty. I also thank them for not making us feel foolish or alarmist. Westfielders should feel secure knowing that these fine and competent individuals are keeping our community safe.

In a Dangerous World, We're in Good Hands Today with 'Dubya'

Regarding 'Ratner Raves' in The Westfield Leader a week ago, let me congratulate the author for proving that an excellent command of the English language can produce such a bitter and meanspirited garbage, when rationality, reason and good judgment are not made part of the composition.

Yes, John Kerry won in Westfield. He also won the county and the state; but the heart and soul (and majority) of the good people of this country reelected George W. Bush — a man of courage, wisdom, fairness and vision; the same man the author refers to as dimwitted.

Over 60 million Americans voted for content, rather than delivery. Deceit, guile and slime were not part of

Reader Is Surprised by Magnitude of Deck Defeat in Westfield

I have been watching the Letters to the Editor closely for the past few weeks expecting a flood of letters in reaction to the resounding defeat of the parking deck proposal. But, surprisingly there have been precious few.

It wasn't so much the defeat itself that surprised me, but the magnitude of the vote; better than three to one against.

I had the privilege of serving on the Mayor's Downtown Parking Committee. After collecting and digesting volumes of data, we recommended not one, not two, but three parking decks in town. The mayor and council in their infinite wisdom, eliminated the deck behind the Rialto and proceeded to recommend the other two to the citizens of Westfield. The train station deck was subsequently dropped and the remaining deck between Elm and Prospect was put to a non-binding referendum. By now, we all know the result. Alas, the voters of Westfield have spoken. There will be no garage in Westfield for the foreseeable future. Perhaps, some time in the distant future, there may be a modest deck, sans apartments and retail. Only time will tell. I hope the good folks of Westfield have not been short-sighted. Maybe the original recommendations of the committee were overkill, but there is still no doubt in my mind that Westfield would benefit greatly from a deck. Are our sister communities of Ridgewood, Montclair, Summit and Princeton all wrong? I think not. I still believe it is possible to construct a deck at an affordable price. I too believe the cost of the proposed deck was outra-

Let us hope that the mall stores that attract business downtown and create traffic for the mom and pop stores continue to feel Westfield is a good investment, even without a garage. I would hate to see the

South Avenue Traffic Circle Modifications Called Dangerous

Life in a small town can sometimes be just chock-full of poorly conceived ideas, ranging from unnecessary rip-out-yourcar-bottom speed bumps to the voterrepudiated parking deck (and, by the way, Mr. Mayor, I haven't received my parking fee refund yet).

Some developmental follies, however, progress well beyond the realm of silliness and fiscal mismanagement to the point of clear, present and acute peril to life and limb. As anyone who has recently driven east on South Avenue is fully aware, the newly constructed vehicular slalom course at the downtown traffic circle is an example of supremely incompetent planning at its very worst.

Until this "improvement" project began, the eastbound flow of traffic along this perfectly straight street, as any rational person would imagine, was - not surprisingly - straight. Now, for arcane reasons known only to the builders of this atrocity, a sidewalk appendage has been inanely constructed to jut out directly into the flow of oncoming traffic. This causes eastbound vehicles to veer sharply to the left and then to enter the circle, not at a safe and sane tangent, but almost at a right angle to the circle itself, thereby creating an extremely dangerous intersection. Snow, sleet and ice will exponentially increase the danger to both drivers and pedestrians.

To add further insult to injury, the "experts" who are responsible for this harebrained scheme have, for no constructive reason, now prohibited cars from turning right on red at the intersection of West Broad Street and South Avenue. Exactly whose moment of triumph was this?

I call upon the Mayor, Westfield Town Council and Union County to take immediate steps to halt this hazardous and thoughtless project and to restore South Avenue to its original configuration. If no one is willing to step forward to take responsibility for our safety, then tragedy is surely inevitable.

Dreyfus Planetarium Special Programs Set For Holidays

NEWARK - The Dreyfuss Planetarium will feature three special programs for the holiday season including Oceans in Space, Mystery of the Missing Seasons, and 'Tis the Sea-

Mystery Of The Missing Seasons is about a young schoolboy named Angelo who finds himself whisked away by two aliens from the planet Dipnot. The friendly aliens, Quix and Queeb, help him discover why we have seasons and why we see different constellations at different times of the year. The winter skies are explored and the winter solstice is discussed. Bowen Technovation created the program.

'Tis The Season traces the development of many of the world's endearing holiday customs — from Yule logs, sparkling Christmas tree lights and the lighting of the Hanukkah Menorah, to gift-giving, kissing under the mistletoe and Santa Claus. It investigates the meaning of the Christmas star and the beautiful constellations that grace the wintertime sky. Loch Ness Productions created the program.

Oceans in Space is a journey of exploration that seeks out places where conditions are favorable for life to exist. Audiences are introduced to the diversity of life on our home planet, even as humans embark on the search for life in the universe. The hunt for extra-solar planets is highlighted as are the conditions necessary to form and sustain life. The program is narrated by Star Trek's Avery Brooks. Oceans in Space was created by Loch Ness Productions.

Oceans in Space will feature the latest images from the Cassini spacecraft that flew past Saturn's moon Titan on October 26.

Images and soundtrack samples for this program are available at: http:// lochness.com/shows/ois/ ois_dls.html.

All visitors and museum members must report to the South Wing Desk for ticketing before proceeding to the planetarium. Tickets go on sale at noon on a first come first served basis only. Seating is limited. Programs begin promptly and latecomers cannot be admitted.

and logos.

WESTFIELD — The United Fund of Westfield (UFW) has changed its name to The United Way of Westfield (UWW) according to a press release from the agency last Monday.

The release noted that during its decades-long presence in town, the United Fund always has been affiliated with United Way of America, the Virginia-based national organization. The national United Way system includes a series of regional and county units as well as town-based organizations. Due to the official membership rules of the United Way, the Westfield unit has changed its name to United Way of Westfield.

"The name may be a bit different, but the organization is still the same," said Linda Maggio, its executive director since 1975. "The change alUnited Way goal has been met every year for the past three decades. This year, a campaign to raise $700,000 is in full gear. Hundreds of volunteers are soliciting donations from resi-

Candidate Says Central Union County Has Taxation Without Representation

As a candidate for freeholder this past election, I recently received a report from the county clerks office containing the election results, in detail, of the votes cast in the general election. The report is a breakdown of how many votes each candidate received in each ward, district and town. It also shows what percentage of the votes a candidate received. A review of this year's "numbers" makes a strong argument for changing how members of the Board of Chosen Freeholders are selected Currently, the board members are elected "at large," meaning our county is not divided into districts. It doesn't matter where in the county a board member resides or how many members are elected from the same municipality or geographic area. Normally, three seats are up for grabs each year. Occasionally, an independent candidate will run, but generally three from the Republican Party and three from the Democratic Party are the choices.

The three candidates who garner the highest number of votes win the seats. This year, as in the past several years, the three Democrats won. The newspapers reported the total votes, but these numbers do not tell the whole story. The Democrats garnered about 30,000 more each than the Republicans. However, 15,000 of those votes were out of the City of Elizabeth alone. The Republicans were victorious in Westfield, Scotch Plains, Clark, Garwood, Mountainside, Springfield, Kenilworth, Berkeley Heights, Summit, New Providence and Cranford. Republicans were in the top three in Roselle Park and Fanwood, as well. The Democrats took, Elizabeth, Linden, Hillside, Plainfield, Roselle, Rahway, Union, and Winfield Park by large margins. Roselle Park and Fanwood were splits.

The Republican candidates clearly won the majority of the votes in the majority of the towns, all in central Union County. Currently, we have taxation without representation. The towns in central Union County carry the freight for the rest since these towns have higher property valuations. They pay more county taxes. We have a nine-member freeholder board that is totally Democrat whose members are almost exclusively from outside central Union County. There are two exceptions. Bette Jane Kowalski was appointed in September to replace Mary Routolo and then ran as an incumbent. She did not win in any central Union County towns — including Cranford, her own hometown. The other is Freeholder Mirabella who is serving a third term. He moved to Fanwood after being reelected.

It is clear that we don't have a true voice for the residents of central Union

Viewer Calls For Channel Choice in TV

I am alarmed by the programming on some of the basic cable networks. A special report by the Parents Television Council shows just how licentious and depraved some of the programming on basic cable is. I urge people to read the report, which can be found at www.ParentsTV.org.

The report shows that basic cable is rife with some of the most obscene content imaginable, including pornography [and many variants]. Why should I be forced to bring this sewage into my home in order to watch the Food Network, or the Disney channel? Why should parents have to subsidize channels that undermine their core values and beliefs?

I ask you [those that make the regulations] to consider families like mine when deciding on cable choice. By offering the ability to choose, the power is put back in the hands of the consumer and it forces the producers of indecent or violent programming to fund their own raunchiness. Cable networks have been carried on the backs of consumers long enough. It is time for this extortion to end, and stop it.

Reader Responds to Ratner's Litany of Distortions Letter, Suggests Fresh Air

In reading Mr. Ratner's Letter to the Editor in the November 18 edition, I find I must ask a question or two.

When he mentioned being hoodwinked by the endless litany of distortions, halftruths and just plain untruths, didn't he really mean C.B.S., Dan Rather, the front page of the New York Times and the socalled elite media?

When he mentioned President Bush's puerile pack of candidates, Karl Rove assisted by a motley mélange of media moguls, wouldn't motley be better used in describing Whoopi Goldberg's filthy

Two From Galilee to Depict Story of Mary and Joseph

SCOTCH PLAINS — Two From Galilee, a dramatic Christmas musical from Torn Curtain Productions, will be presented over four evenings next month at the Evangel Church, located at 1251 Terrill Road in Scotch Plains.

Performances are scheduled for Friday and Saturday, December 10 and 11, and Thursday and Friday, December 16 and 17, at 7:30 p.m. each night. Doors will open at 6:45 p.m. There is no admission fee.

Written by Robert Sterling and Karla Worley from a novel by Marjorie Holmes, the musical utilizes drama, humor and music to convey the story of Jesus' birth and the love story of Mary and Joseph.

"The play takes some literary license in depicting Mary and Joseph prior to their union and tries to portray their human qualities, their relationship with their parents and future in-laws," said director Bob Olsen of Westfield, who has directed Torn Curtain Productions for the past 14 years.

Kristina Genova, a student in New York City at the American Musical and Dramatic Academy, will play the part of Mary. Joining her will be Marc Perrella, of Plainfield, in the role of Joseph.

Supporting cast members will include Synnove Reilly of Berkeley Heights and Al Carmon of South Plainfield. Liz Leadenham of Colonia, who also serves as wardrobe designer, and Mr. Olsen will round out the principal cast as the parents of Mary and Joseph.

"The musical is funny, with some comic relief provided by the three Magi and their entourage. It's also very moving, very human and is a great way to get into the real spirit of Christmas," said co-director Andrea Saladino of Clark.

"The entire production is made up from the volunteers of many area churches," added artistic director Maureen Corrao of Piscataway. "The cast, chorus, crew and tech staff total close to 100 and took three months preparing this production as a gift to our community."

For more information on this production, please call (908) 322-9300 or visit www.evangelchurch.com.

FSO Program to Address Positive Behavior Support

WESTFIELD - The Family Support Organization (FSO) of Union County, located at 137 Elmer Street in Westfield, will present a discussion on "Positive Behavior Support in New Jersey Schools" on Thursday, December 2, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

This program, for Union County parents, will focus on how families can deal with situations in which serious behavior problems interfere with a child's ability to learn in school.

Instead of blaming the child or parents, Positive Behavior Support studies what the behavior means to the child and addresses the behavior with a specific plan incorporating long-term strategies for successful outcomes.

TREE TIPS:

Rock Salt - The Mineral Trees Can Do Without

Trees do not have to live near the ocean to experience the real stresses which come from the adverse effects of salt. The rock salt used to melt snow and ice on streets and sidewalks throughout the Northeast has the same damaging results. homeowners may help their properties by selection and protection.

Many people are unaware that salt spray carries a good distance. Trees as far as thirty feet from highways may experience damage from rock salt. At the seashore, salt spray is dispersed in the air in minute particles and may travel inland for thousands of feet. When this spray settles down on salt tolerant plants and trees, not much may happen, but others may be burned almost beyond recognition. This is particularly true for Japanese cutleaf maples, roses, ferns and beeches.

During normal capillary action in trees, water is absorbed and retained by the roots for use by the other parts of the trees. Salt damage basically is a dehydration process which pulls the sap backwards out of the root systems through reverse capillary actions.

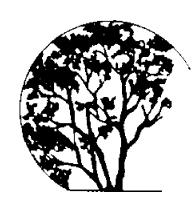

Tree owners may be able to identify rock salt effects by observing leaf scorch, early fall coloration, die-back of twigs and branches or, ultimately, the deaths of the trees. Beech, birch, hemlock, sugar maple, red pine and white pine are trees especially intolerant of salt.

Road maintenance departments are not likely to change their habits so it is best to plant salt resistant species when within reach of salt spray. These varieties include willow, jack pine, black cherry, sycamore, bayberry, white oak and red oak (New Jersey's State Tree) trees.

For owners' uses, if salting of sidewalks and driveways is considered necessary, calcium chloride is far preferable to sodium chloride (rock salt), at least from the trees' points of view. Calcium chloride is ten times less toxic to trees than sodium chloride and is still effective in melting away snow and ice.

If your trees do seem to experience damage from salt applications or salt spray, it may be possible for trained professional arborists to save them. Look for your State's certified tree expert qualification to be certain they have the expertise you and your trees will need.

Those who say that good people are the "salt of the earth" are wise in many ways but they do not know much about tree care!

Let Each Day Be Thanksgiving To God For All His Blessings

By REVEREND VICTORIA NEY

November is the month that we, as a nation, reflect on being thankful. When you think about it, isn't that rather sad? One day out of 365 days to be grateful.

That certainly wasn't what the apostle Paul had in mind when he wrote I Thessalonians 5:16-18. This passage reads, "Be joyful always; pray continually; in everything give thanks, for this is God's will for you in Christ Jesus."

I believe the words "always" and "everything" may seem challenging to us. Many people are only joyful occasionally or in certain circumstances. And as for giving thanks in everything — well, I know we all can come up with things in the last year we wish had not happened.

But Paul doesn't tell us to pick and choose some of our favorite moments for which to be grateful. He says, "In everything give thanks." Why does Paul — why does God — ask this of

Perhaps God has a specific purpose for thankfulness. It seems to me that when we are thankful, we become more aware of God's presence and more motivated to find God's purpose and path. By being thankful, we are actually trusting God — believing that even in the worst circumstances, God is right beside us working things out. It also helps us to take control out of our hands and place it where it belongs — in God's strong capable hands.

This season, why not make every day a Thanksgiving Day? Adopt an attitude of gratitude at the start of each new day and live the day with a grateful heart. Like the old hymn says, "Count your blessings, name them one by one, and it will surprise you what the Lord has done." Beyond anything else in our lives, God, in Christ Jesus, has taken care of us eternally already. Make your life a thank-you letter.

Turn this Thanksgiving into thanksliving. It could make all the differ-

St. Helen's B-ball to Host Shoot-a-Thon Fundraiser

WESTFIELD - The St. Helen's CYO Basketball program has announced that it is holding its Second Annual Shoot-A-Thon on Sunday, December 5, at Westfield High School. St. Helen's will have all 11 of its CYO teams (Boys and Girls fourth through eighth grades) participate in a fundraiser to support the "Helping Hands and Hearts" service ministry at the church. The fundraiser features a Shoot-A-Thon where each participant will shoot 100 foul shots.

Since 1981, the Helping Hands and Hearts ministry has been an outreach program that meets the spiritual, material and financial needs of the St. Helen's local community. In the late 1980s, the program was extended to persons outside the local community, primarily the poor and homeless of the inner cities. Through the help of many volunteers, the activities of this outreach include providing help through a prayer network, meals to shut-ins, transportation assistance, home visits, support to caregivers, parish nursing, one-on-one ministry and visits to homes and nursing homes. The Helping Hands and Hearts ministry has grown throughout the years and is one of St. Helen's most important programs today. In addition to the core services that have been offered since 1981, the program provides Thanksgiving Baskets to approximately 200 needy families and approximately 3,000 Christmas gifts that are donated through other churches, schools and agencies.

The Helping Hands and Hearts program also operates a soup kitchen and food pantry, which serve the local community and inner cities as Each participant will seek pledges, either a straight pledge of any amount of money or on a per shot basis. The pledges for this event will be shared between the St. Helen's CYO Basketball program and Helping Hands and Hearts program.

All businesses and/or individuals interested in sponsoring a St. Helen's CYO basketball player or coach in this Shoot-A-Thon may contact a coach or player or respond directly to Oliver Kirna by e-mail at o.kirna@comcast.net with a pledge

A pledge can by entered up to the morning of the event. Pledges will be collected after the Shoot-A-Thon. Checks can be made payable to: St. Helen's CYO Basketball and mailed to: 185 Tudor Oval, Westfield 07090.

Mrs. Wetscher graduated summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Arts degree from Kean University and holds dual certification in elementary education and library science. Now retired, she was a teacher-librarian in the Bridgewater-Raritan school district and a media specialist at Scotch Plains-Fanwood High

Beatrice G. Wetscher

A lifelong advocate and champion for children with cerebral palsy, Mrs. Wetscher created and led the Guild for Child Care, an advocacy and fund-raising group of women supporting the needs of children with cerebral palsy in New Jersey. She was inspired in this endeavor by her daughter, Holly, who was born with cerebral palsy.

First Baptist Plans 'Hanging of Greens'

WESTFIELD - The First Baptist Church of Westfield, located at 170 Elm Street, will hold its annual "Hanging of the Greens" this Sunday, November 28, following the 10:30 a.m. worship service. Decorating will get underway at noon.

The church will be decorated festively for the holidays. A nativity scene with freestanding characters, designed by graphic artist and church member Art Taylor, will fill the front of the sanctuary, watched over by colorful angels patterned on Michelangelo's.

Candlesticks, bows, and greenery will adorn the pews of the sanctuary, while banners and live Christmas trees will mark the entry doors.

The decorations will provide a backdrop for Carols in the Round, to be offered at 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, December 4 and 5, by the young adult Westfield Chorale, directed by William Mathews.

Anyone interested in volunteering to help decorate the church, or in ticket availability for the Westfield Chorale concerts, may call the church office at (908) 233-2278.

BRUSH WITH CELEBRITY...Members of Girl Scout Troop No. 384 from Park Middle School in Scotch Plains are pictured with Matt Lauer during a recent visit to "The Today Show" in New York City. The girls, accompanied by their leaders and two other mothers, made the trip as part of their efforts to earn their communications badge. They also visited Democracy Plaza.

Girl Scout Troop No. 384 Visits 'The Today Show'

SCOTCH PLAINS — Eight girls representing Troop No. 384 from Park Middle School in Scotch Plains traveled to New York City on November 4 on a quest to earn their communications badge.

Armed with extra clothes, bagels, hot chocolate and a box of Girl Scout cookies, and accompanied by their leaders and two other mothers, the girls visited "The Today Show," arriving outside the studio at 6:15 a.m.

The girls displayed posters telling everyone they were working on their communications badge, while hoping to make it on camera during their

Al Roker, Ann Curry, Matt Lauer and Katie Couric all stopped to talk to the girls. They learned of Mr. Lauer's fondness for Girl Scout cookies, and Ms. Couric, once a Girl Scout herself, recited the promise with the girls on air. In all, the girls were seen on television four times.

Afterwards, the scouts toured Democracy Plaza and took turns debating with one another at the podium. They viewed the Declaration of Independence, sat at a replica of the President's desk in the Oval Office, and walked through Air Force One.

Dickens Wright, of WNBC advertising sales, arranged a tour of NBC Studios for the troop, where the girls learned that everything isn't what it seems to be on television.

The troop members included Allison Grimm, Kendall Fawcett, Katherine Fletcher, Kerri Killeen, Rebecca Maioriello, Kristina Palozzolo, Cassandra Segulin and Emily Stefanik.

Leaders Linda Grimm and Gina Fawcett, along with the other mothers, Kim Stefanik and Debbie Palozzolo, accompanied the scouts on their visit.

The girls will now work on the final phase of earning their communications badge, when they design and present an advertising campaign for a product or service of their choice.

In an effort to give back to the community, Troop No. 384 will prepare and serve lunch to Habitat for Humanity workers in Plainfield on Saturday, December 11.

Yogi Berra and His Baseball Museum: Saturday, November 20. Departure at 11:30 a.m. from Park Middle School, Park Avenue, Scotch Plains. Return approximately 5 p.m. Fee: $35. Group members will travel to the Clifton/Little Falls area by bus to have lunch on their own at a local restaurant and then arrive at the destination of the day – the Yogi Berra Museum & Learning Center on the campus of Montclair State University. The visit there will encompass a special presentation led by its director on "Yogi Berra and Lifelong Lessons Taught By Sports. A guided tour of the museum will be provided, including Hall of Fame quality displays tracing the history of baseball from its pre-Civil War origins to the development of the Yankees as sports' most fabled franchise. Participants will see the winning tradition of the Yankees - from Ruth to Gehrig to DiMaggio to Berra and Mantle — in the images and memorabilia throughout the exhibit area. Finally, there will be time after the program and tour to find a base ball souvenir in the gift shop.

Holiday touring and tea at Liberty Hall: Wednesday, December 8 Departure at noon from Brookside Park, Hetfield Avenue, Scotch Plains Return approximately 4:30 p.m. Fee

Built on the eve of the Revolution, Liberty Hall in Union was home to the prominent Livingston and Kean families of New Jersey and was associated with many of the events that shaped the nation's destiny. A local estate set on 26 acres, it is a jewel complete with a 50-room mansion, of which docents will give a guided tour. The mansion will be especially exquisite with its holiday decorations On the glass porch, group members will enjoy tea with sandwiches, petite scones, pastries and clotted cream and jams. There also will be time at Liberty Hall for group members to walk the grounds on their own and to browse the museum gift shop.

Education Fund of Westfield Announces Annual Stroll Date

WESTFIELD – The Education Fund of Westfield's annual Westfield Winter Stroll will take place on Sunday, December 5 from 12 to 5 p.m. Over 30 downtown businesses will donate a percentage of the day's receipts to the Education Fund.

The Education Fund of Westfield is a non-profit community organization dedicated to enhancing the quality of education in Westfield schools. With fundraisers and direct solicitation, this volunteer-based group raises money to give back to the schools through grants to teachers and principals. To date, the Education Fund has distributed over $160,000 to Westfield schools. For the 2003-2004 school year the fund distributed $21,262 with 13 separate grants to purchase equipment and to fund new programs.

During the Winter Stroll a special book entitled "Westfield, A Celebration of Community" will be for sale at Liberty Travel for $25. The special edition book is filled with over 100 color photographs of Westfield.

For more information contact the Education Fund of Westfield at (908) 317-9813 e-mail edfundwestfield@comcast.net.

ANNIE ONISHI WAS THE TEAM'S 'ACE IN THE HOLE'

Blue Devil X-C Girls Battled Through Competitive Season

By DAVID B. CORBIN

Until two years ago, the Westfield High School girls cross-country team reigned supreme in the Watchung Conference (WC) and in Union County (UC). But with the emergence of a strong Scotch Plains-Fanwood squad and a surprising performance from Oak Knoll two years ago, the Blue Devils' supremacy has been tested. In 2002, Oak Knoll snapped the Blue Devils' 11-year streak as king of the hill in the UC tournament. The Raider girls halted the Blue Devils' 88-dual meet winning streak and nineyear reign as WC champions in 2003 before Westfield battled back to regain the UC title. This season, the Raiders nipped the Blue Devils by a whisker for the WC title and had the judges recounting the sheet before edging them for the UC title. However, the Blue Devils went on to claim their second-straight North Jersey, Section 2, Group 4 title.

"2004 was a challenging season across the board," said Blue Devil Head Coach Thom Hornish. "For girls cross-country, there was improvement across the board. The county and conference certainly have grown in terms of competition. Scotch Plains, last year, made a very serious bid. You couldn't ignore them. Their strength was repeated in 2004. They are to be commended for everything they did. In addition to Scotch Plains and Oak Knoll, you see the emergence of Cranford. Laura Gallo was one of the premier runners. It's nice to see the young lady from Plainfield (Jahlisa Smith). A long time ago, Plainfield was the gold standard in the early Westfield has always run with a "pack" mentality, but the leader of the "pack" has been senior Annie Onishi who placed fourth in the WC race, fifth in the UC race with a personal-best (PB) time of 20:10 and crossed sixth in the sectionals with a time of 20:52.

"Annie was our ace in the hole. She is a tough competitor. She will run through a wall for you," said Hornish. At the WC, the Blue Devils took Finely executed offensive drives on the part of both teams seemed to be overshadowed by one key mental lapse that eventually led to a 28-21 victory by the West Morris High School football team over Scotch Plains-Fanwood in the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 3 semifinal game in Chester on November 19.

The Raiders were punting from their own 33-yard line with 52 seconds left in the half. Punter Mike Baumwoll's knee touched the ground on the 21-yard line after receiving a low snap. Although Baumwoll got the kick off, the incident did not escape the referee's watchful eye. The 6-5 Wolfpack took over and seized the opportunity, taking three passing plays to hit pay dirt, with Pete Hornung's three-yard touchdown reception, and to carry a 21-7 lead into the locker room.

"That was big! End of the half! Instead of down by one (TD) we are down by two," said Raider Head Coach Steve Ciccotelli. "We can't do that. We gave them the short field. Football is a real position game and we left them in a position where they did not have to drive the length of the

Devil Boys Place 8th At Meet of Champs

The Westfield High School boys cross-country team turned in its finest performance of the season to place eighth at the Meet of Champions in Holmdel Park on November 20. The Blue Devil boys totaled 233 points to win a tiebreaker with Ocean City and also topped rival Cranford that finished 11th at 242.

Blue Devil Jeff Perrella crossed sixth with a personal-best time of 16:07 and teammate Robert Broadbent finished 25th with a time of 16:29, both ahead of any Cranford runner. Superb performances were also turned in by Kris Kagan (93rd), Mike Gorski (104th) and Jay Hoban (121st).

completed 17 of 21 passes for 190 yards (two interceptions), including a 20-yard touchdown (TD) strike to wide receiver Colin Weber (4 receptions, 50 yards). Wide receiver/ safety Sean Smith had eight receptions for 109 yards, Lamont Hunt and Nick Giannaci each had two receptions for nine and 21 yards, respectively, and Anthony Curry had a one-yard reception.

 $The \, opportunistic \, Wolfpack \, scored \,$ three other big-play touchdowns by capitalizing on some Raider defensive positioning mistakes. The first came in a flash. Realizing that the Raiders had a vulnerability problem all season protecting against the outside run, Wolfpack halfback Jake Field (13 carries, 112 yards) took the opening handoff and swept around the right side for an 83-yard TD run with just 41 seconds off the clock. The Raiders adjusted and that play never developed again.

"We didn't make the right adjustment on the right side, but the next time they ran it, it was a four-yard loss. That's the way it should have been the first time," said Ciccotelli.

The second Wolfpack TD was set up by a crafty pass from quarterback Mike Critchley to Hornung who lined up on the left side, slanted right, grabbed the ball over the middle and sped 50 yards to the Raider 27 be-CONTINUED ON PAGE 13

Crimson Knights Top Raiders For NJ Group 3 Crown, 4-1

By FRED LECOMTE

The Wastfield Leader and The Times

Looking to bring home its first New Jersey Group 3 Championship since winning its seventh in 1998, the No. 5 ranked Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School boys' soccer team was limited to just three shots on goal and stunned by unranked Wall, 4-1, on November 19 at the College of New Jersey in Ewing "We had the pressure on for the first 20 minutes of the half but we just couldn't punch one in to equalize it. We brought sweeper Terrence Charles out of the back and into the forward position and we paid the price in the back with some people not doing their job along with two major mistakes that put it out of reach," said Raider Head Coach Tom Breznitsky. "Wall was pretty fortunate with the chances that they had. They capitalized and it came back to haunt us."

Things seemed to be going in the Crimson Knights favor, especially in the early going. With 26:09 left in the first half, midfielder Mike Juska broke through the middle and unloaded a shot from 20 yards out that deflected off a defender's left leg in front of the box. The ball slithered into the right corner of the net.

The Raiders roared back when freshman midfielder Brian Hessemer, attacking from the left, sent a cross into the center where junior forward Sean Young, dogged by several defenders drilled a header to Knight keeper Rvan Bumbera. The deflection off the keeper found senior midfielder Sean McNelis properly positioned in the goalmouth. McNelis blazed a shot into the upper right corner to tie the game with 25:36 left.

The Knights regained the momentum with ferocious and unrelenting assaults. With 17:15 left in the half, forward Jay Vigilante, on a cross from David Larcara, tattered the right side of the net to give Wall a, 2-1 lead. By halftime, the Raiders had one shot on goal, two corners and two direct kicks.

"We definitely did not show up to play defensively. We were not ready in the first half and the two goals they scored were definitely mistakes in the back and the midfield was not getting back. They came to play and we didn't," said McNelis. "We won our section, conference and counties. Being here we have such a high regard of what a successful season is. We have higher standards than anyone else, but what can you ask for."

but they got a deflection. We got it back but they managed a couple of lucky breaks and capitalized while we did not. That's what happens in these big games," said senior Greg Leischner. "We had a slow start early in the year but we picked it up. We won a lot of big games, ended here and that's a great feat. Unfortunately, we fell short tonight.'

"Anytime you get to the state finals, it's a tremendous accomplishment. A final season of 23-4, Union county champs, Watchung conference champs, and sectional champs. We certainly would of liked to win the final one here but like you said, we did not bring our 'A' game with us. I'm proud of them. They did a great job and once again, it was another season where people did not expect us to be where we were. We had a great run and there's nothing to hang our heads about," concluded Breznitsky.

Devil's Den Westfield/Plainfield

By BRUCE JOHNSON

/ritten for The Westfield Leader and

The Westfield-Plainfield football rivalry will reach historic proportions this morning at 11 a. m., when the teams meet for the 100th time. Hub Stine Field in Plainfield is a fitting site for the game, since Stine was a coach at Westfield (1916-20) before going to Plainfield for a long career as a coach and athletic director.

According to unofficial research, only Millville vs. Vineland (135th meeting tomorrow) and Blair Academy vs. Peddie School (101st meeting earlier this year) have played more games than Westfield-Plainfield. (Phillipsburg vs. Easton, Pa., will reach 100 next Thanksgiving.)

The nation's oldest rivalry, according to the National Federation of High Schools, is Connecticut's New London vs. Norwalk Free Academy that started in 1875. Only about two-dozen schools in the country have met more often than WHS and Plainfield. Westfield's No. 2 all-time rival in games played is Rahway with 58, though the schools last played in 1998.

Westfield has 50 wins, Plainfield 42 and there have been seven ties. Here's a breakdown of the results, by decade (Westfield wins-Plainfield wins-ties): 1900-09: 3-5-1 1910-19: 5-6-1 1920-29: 1-5 1930-39: 4-2-3 1940-49: 6-2 1950-59: 0-10 1960-69: 6-4 1970-79: 11-0 1980-89: 6-3-1 1990-99: 5-4-1 2000-03: 3-1

The Cardinals dominated the 1950s, as Abe Smith's juggernauts annually ranked among the state's premier teams. Les Zorge's final Westfield team in 1960 ended WHS's 11-game losing streak on Thanksgiving Day with a 13-7 victory before over 10,000 fans in Plainfield. Sophomore Marty Howarth had two interceptions, a fumble recovery and a touchdownsaving tackle that day.

After Westfield ruled in the 1970s with 11 straight wins (including one during the state playoffs in 1977), the teams have battled on fairly even terms for the last quarter-century, Westfield winning 14, Plainfield eight with two ties. But this is truly one of those games where the teams' won-loss records (Plainfield is 4-5, WHS 1-8) don't mean a thing. It's the last game ever for a lot of players, and it means a lot to the people and alumni in both towns. The biggest crowd of the year will be there as another part of history is put into the record books for one of New Jersey's great rivalries

NEXT WEEK

With the 2004 football season completed, we'll take a look at a couple of all-time Westfield High School teams. One was picked in 1950 by Hall of Famer Rick McGinley for his senior paper, covering 1900-1950. The other is mine, covering 1960-2004. TRIVIA QUESTION

Who was Westfield's first Thanksgiving Day opponent and what year was that game? And how many others were there before 1944, when Plainfield became the annual Turkey Day foe? By the way, sophomore Bobby Dougherty passed to Jack Salvato for one TD and ran for another as Westfield's 12-0 victory capped a 10-0 season.

MOVIN' ON?

Cranford is rumored to be trying to leave the Watchung Conference, where it has to play too many big schools. If the Cougars are able to make the move – possibly to the Mountain Valley Conference, where they would join A.L. Johnson, Rahway, Dayton, New Providence, Roselle Park, Roselle, Union Catholic and Governor Livingston among others – would Westfield, and maybe Scotch Plains-Fanwood, be next to leave? The Skyland (Bridgewater, Hunterdon Central, Phillipsburg, Watchung Hills) and/or Greater Middlesex (East Brunswick, Sayreville, J.P. Stevens, Edison) conferences would no doubt love to have teams with the athletic traditions of WHS and SP-F. The Blue Devils have belonged to the Watchung Conference since 1960.

GREAT FINISH

Another congrats to coach Jack Martin and his boys cross-country team. The Blue Devils, sixth at the Group 4 championships, finished eighth at last Saturday's Meet of Champions in Holmdel Park. Junior Jeff Perrella, the sectional individual champ, finished behind just five runners in the entire state!

Martin's bunch finally beat Cranford, which had beaten WHS in their dual meet and at the county and conference championships. Both teams are loaded for next year, when Cranford will try to win its ninth straight county title. The county record of eight in a row was set twice by Westfield, from 1975-82 under legendary coach Walt Clarkson and from 1989-96 under Martin.

STREAKIN'

WHS's 28-7 win over Edison in their NJSIAA consolation game enabled this year's Blue Devils to end an 11-game losing streak, longest in school history. The old mark of nine losses in a row was set during the 1952 and '53 seasons, under Hall of Fame coach Joe Freeman.

After opening the 1952 season with a 7-0 win over Union, Westfield lost to Rahway (14-0) and South River (21-0). Ties against Roselle Park (0-0) and Columbia (6-6) preceded the losing streak, which began on November 1 with a 14-12 home loss to Bound Brook (Westfield was 28-2-1 in 31 meetings with the Crusaders over the years). Losses to Springfield (13-0), West Orange (8-0) and Plainfield (27-14) ended a 1-6-2 season. In 1953, Union (7-0), Rahway (26-12), South River (28-0), Roselle Park (46-0) and Columbia (31-6) ran the losing streak to nine before George Buchanan's two touchdowns and one by Sonny Bonneau produced an 18-6 win at Bound Brook

TRIVIA ANSWER

Madison in 1923. Westfield won 6-3. Blue Devil X-C Girls Battled Through Competitive Season

the fourth through seventh spots with Onishi at 20:38, sophomore Jennifer Danielsson at 20:40, junior Rachel Barrett at 20:47 and senior Anne Siwulec at 20:58. At the UC race, sophomore Kim Legones placed 12th at 20:33 (a personal best [PB]), Siwulec was 13th at 20:46 (PB), Barrett was 14th at 20:53 and freshman Rose Driscoll crossed 15th at 20:57 (PB). Danielsson, who crossed ninth at 20:30 (PB) in the UC race and finished ninth in the section at 21:07, has been making great strides to possibly becoming the Blue Devils' front runner next year.

"Jen has been our steady Number 2," said Hornish. "What we did not have was that way out in front Number 1. This year you needed to have someone who could run 20 flat at Holmdel, or perhaps two, if you were really going to make a bid for the Meet of Champions, or have a group of kids who could run 20:30. If you ask me my druthers, I would rather have a pack.

Other pack runners who have contributed well this season are: senior Erin McCloskey, juniors Meg Driscoll, Jayne Ruotolo, Carly Oliff, Caitlyn Berkowitz and Jillian Hobson and sophomores Ayn Wisler and Meg Buttrick.

"We did very well. We had a good time at the state meet. 21:24 was our team time, an improvement of 37 seconds from the Shore Coaches. We are right where we want to be. We are coming back next year with a real strong situation. We have a baker's dozen plus one, 14 kids, which we call our varsity core."

David B. Corbin for The Westfield Leader and The Times GOING OVER THE PLAY... The Westfield PAL "D" offense gets the play from quarterback Nathan Mitchel in preparation for their big day at Giants Stadium

Westfield PAL 'D' Preps For Giants Stadium

By DAVID B. CORBIN

Dreams will come true for the Westfield PAL "D" football team when they march onto the field during halftime of the Giants/Eagles game at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford on November 28. Surrounded by a crowd of approximately 76,000 spectators and viewed by millions, the "D" team will show off its talents.

The setup will pit the Westfield PAL "D" offense against its defense. "We will get in about a dozen or so plays," said PAL "D" coach John Dugan who added, "This is the second-year players - fourth and fifth graders, so it is very much still instructional football. It's just been a fantastic group of kids to coach. At the beginning of the year, they were just bumping into each other. They really came together and had a 6-3-1 season. I hope they stick together all through high school."

On December 5, 1999, the "D" team, under the guidance of Owen Brand, also performed at Giants Stadium during a Giants/Jets game. Twenty-two years to the day prior, Brand had touchdown receptions of 47 yards and 24 yards in Westfield High School's crushing, 33-12, victory over Barringer in the presence of a record crowd of 32,232 – for high school games. "Several years ago we had the opportunity to do it with the "D" team. Just knowing the right people up at the Giants organization, who were really into youth football, helped us do it. They actually contacted us," said Dugan. "That was almost 22 vears to the day that Owen played up at the Meadowlands.'

"I can't wait. I have been there a couple of times," said wingback Bran-/assallo_a Giants fan_who has one touchdown to his credit this season. Vassallo said he was not nervous yet, but he may be when they come out of the shoot at the stadium.

Running back Brendon Dugan, who has scored two touchdowns this season, said, "It sounds cool, exciting. I'll be a little nervous."

Halfback John Lanzano, who has scored some touchdowns and had a long run of about 70 yards, said, "I have been there a couple of times. I'm a little nervous but I'm going to enjoy it."

"These kids have been on cloud nine ever since we told them from their last victory, which was a come-from-behind win over Berkeley Heights," said Dugan. "At the end of the game, we told them to keep their uniforms another few weeks and that they would be going and playing at the halftime show of the Giants/Eagle game. Since then they have been absolutely crazy over it, telling everybody in town."

WF Turkey Trot Set For This Saturday

The 21st annual Westfield 5-Mile Turkey Trot and Westfield Midas PracticeHard Mile will be held this Saturday, November 27, at Tamaques Park in Westfield. The 1-Mile event will begin at 10:30 a.m. and the 5-Mile Run will begin at 11 a.m.

The 1-Mile course is run entirely inside the park. The 5 Miler (USATF certified and 500 point Grand Prix) will begin and end in the park with the bulk of the run on the residential streets fore being chased down by Smith. Five plays later from the 12, Critchley hit Hornung in the end zone on the same pass pattern to put the Wolfpack up 14-7 with 5:24 left in the first half

The final Wolfpack TD began when a Raider drive was ruined with an interception at the Wolfpack seven-yard line early in the third quarter. After a nine-yard gain by Field, fullback Nate Anderson burst off-tackle for an 84-yard TD run with 8:20 left in the quarter. On the other hand, the Raiders scored all three of their TDs on long scoring drives. The first came on an eight-play, 62-yard scoring march that ended with LaForge's 19-yard TD run with 10:32 left in the half. Their second TD came after the Wolfpack's final TD. Finding success on the ground with halfback Rashawn Strong, the Raiders chewed up 65 yards on 12 plays, concluded by Srong's two-yard plunge into the engineered their third long scoring drive, this time with a six-play aerial attack that covered 76 yards, ending with Weber's spectacular, 20-yard leaping grab in the end zone with 1:08 left in the game. The ensuing onside kick was smothered by a Wolfpack defender.

Late in the fourth quarter, the Raiders

"We did a lot of good things. Weber did a nice job. Danny was throwing the ball. We did what we wanted to do offensively," said Ciccotelli.

"It wasn't anything physical. It was definitely mental. We made a lot of mental mistakes, not covering our people. The second half we played better. We didn't come to play today like we should have," said linebacker/ center Kevin Urban who made several tackles and had a tipped pass. "The punt before the half where our punter put his knee down really hurt. That gave them good field position. But, it's just a game."

"Our kids never quit. They never stopped. I got to be proud of them. It didn't work out," said Ciccotelli.

WF PAL 'A' Grid Kids Win Suburban Youth League

Westfield PAL "A" team won the Suburban Youth Football League Championship by beating Richmond Boro (RB), 18-13, on November 21 in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn. The "A" team coached by Fred DeFazio finished 10-0-1.

Chris Rhodes began with a 60-yard run then Tony DiIorio handed to Ricardo Johnson who had a short sprint for the TD. Joe Kania, Matt Marcus, Josh Firestone, Eric Moran, Mike Tarnofsky, Craig Dyer, Jihaad Billups, Tyshon Allen, Brett DeFazio, Chris Sheehan and Brandon Rolnick provided blocking.

Michael Clark, James Diddell, Chris Jacob, Brandon Rolnick made tackles with support from Jimmy Reardon, TJ Mruz, Kevin Murphy, Spencer Cassidy, Billups, Allen and Rhodes.

The defense again came up big with tackles by Rolnick and Rhodes that stopped a first down with assistance from Gerald Schuman. Eric Moran later recovered a fumble on a

RB punt return. DiIorio passed to Johnson who sped 45 yards for his second TD. DeFazio intercepted a long pass to end the half.

In the second half, Reardon,
Murphy, Diddell, Jacob and Mruz had tackles and Rhodes closed with a backfield take down. RB botched a punt and Rhodes tackled for the turnover deep in RB territory.

Next, Rolnick recorded a tackle and Diddell recovered a fumble. Westfield moved downfield after DiIorio passed to Billups who pitched out to Johnson.

In the fourth quarter, Matt Stroup, Ryan Gradel, Dan Ludlum, Nick Hawkins, Brian Dunn, David Babetski and Drew Bergin provided offense. Johnson carried twice, Mruz got a first down and DiIorio tossed to Johnson who glided for a 35-yard

Defenders John Gilmartin, Frank Lewis, Nick DeFraites, Evan Paulen, Matt Reiss held strong but RB got on the board after two long pass completions and an extra point.

UNDEFEATED AND CHAMPIONS...The Westfield Juventus U11 boys undefeated "A" soccer team finished first in its division with 30 goals for the season. Coached by Matt Felix, Steve Schapow and trainer Adrian Borrows, their last game in Berkeley Heights this past Sunday was a 3-1 victory that put them in first

Westfield Rangers Capture U11 Division Soccer Title

The Westfield Rangers boy's soccer team beat the Plainfield Red Falcons, 2-1, to clinch first in their U11 division of the Mid-New Jersey Youth

Soccer Association (MNJYSA).
The Rangers fell behind 1-0 on a long pass to a wide-open shooter. Ranger goalie Adam Firestone had little chance to stop this shot. The Rangers quickly closed the door by successfully matching the offensive and defense speed of the Plainfield team.

Midfielder Eric Saunders shifted to goalie in the second half and made several key stops. Defenders Michael Woods, Julian Olivares, Evan Friedman and Kevin Larkin controlled the goal zone and were quick to get the ball downfield.

With about 10 minutes left in the game, the Rangers pulled even on a great goal by forward Spencer Kerkhof. With the title on the line, the Rangers kept the offensive pressure on. With about one minute remaining, a Plainfield defender was called for a clear tripping foul in the goal zone. Midfielder Brian Vander Schaaf converted the penalty kick for the victory.
The Rangers finished with an 8-2 record (10-2 with tournament play) and the division title. Sean Doherty, Declan Fitzmaurice, Jack Leahy, Will Goeghegan, Brendan Seery, Henry Ritter and Steven West also contributed to the Rangers midfield and offensive power during their final two Rangers' Coach Shawn Doherty, Assistant Coaches David Vander Schaaf and Mark Friedman, and Trainer Rob Alman did an excellent job.

CJ U14 Stars Conclude Successful Fall Season

The CJ Stars U-14 soccer team concluded its fall season with a 4-2 record in the competitive Jersey Area Girls (JAGs) league.

The team started with a close, 2-1, loss against East Windsor, then rallied with four consecutive wins over SSC (4-1), Staten Island (2-0), Robbinsville (1-0) and Princeton (1-0). They ended with a hard-fought 1-0 loss against first place Wall on November 7. The Stars will be playing this winter in an indoor league against high school teams.

The CJ Stars are coached by Keith Hertell. The team plays a Brazilian tyle of soccer, with an emphasis on ball movement on the ground, minimum number of touches, diagonal passes and runs, and circulating the ball using the entire field. They generally play three tournaments each season in addition to league games. Any interested players may call Coach Hertell at (908) 233-5522.

U14 Blue Thunder Tie Flemington in Soccer

proved key as the Scotch Plains-Fanwood (SPF) U14 boy's soccer team closed out the regular season with a hard fought, 1-1, tie against the visiting Flemington Phantoms. SPF fullbacks Joe D'auria and Denzel Amankwah, with help from midfielder Colin Grimm, turned back countless Phantom rushes in the first 10 minutes and cleared several Flemington corner kicks as goalkeeper Andrew Smith recorded eight firsthalf saves to keep the game close.

The lone Blue Thunder goal came off the foot of Dan Meurer late in the first half as he hammered home a rebound off a shot by Michael Roth. The goal was Meurer's third in two games. Juan Castillo, Danny Gore, Steve Kuchinsky and Marc Fusillo all added shots on the Flemington net.

F-SP YMCA Offers Youth Gymnastics

Young gymnasts at the Fanwoodcotch Plains YMCA brought their teddy bears to class recently to share the fun with new friends. A progressive preschool gymnastics program focuses on age-appropriate activities utilizing the vault, uneven bars and balance beams, as well as special mats and equipment to help refine gross motor skills.

The "Y" also offers parent/toddler and kindergarten classes, a progressive program for girls in grades 1 through 12, and competitive teams for girls. For more information about gymnastics at the Fanwood-Scotch Plains YMCA, please call (908) 889-8880.

DEATH NOTICE

Erwin Raabe, 83, Retired Executive; Was Known For Kindness and Humor

Erwin M. Raabe of Carmel, Calif. was freed from all care on Thursday, November 18, 2004 at the age of 83.

Born in Baltimore, Md. on May 6, 1921, he had lived in Westfield with his family from 1960 to 1988, when he moved to Carmel.

Erwin was a holder of several metallurgy patents and the inventor of various container types, including the common fivegallon pail. He rose from the position of bench chemist to that of Vice-President of Research and Development of Rheem Manufacturing Company of Linden, N.J., working in the container division for 43 years.

After retiring in 1984, he was an avid hiker and naturalist in the Monterey Peninsula and Big Sur areas. Erwin had been recognized at the age of 14 as discoverer of the northern-most habitat in North America of the trap-door spider.

He was a member of the American Chemical Society, Monterey Bay Aquarium and The Carmel Foundation.

He is survived by his loving wife of 60 years, Clare, of Carmel, Calif.; son Ted of Pleasanton, Calif.; son and daughterin-law Ken and Jane of Chicago, Ill., and four devoted grandchildren, Alex, Vanessa, Max and Ethan.

His great sense of humor and kind nature will make him greatly missed by all who knew him. "God bless us, everyone" was his favorite saying.

At Erwin's request, services will be private. Arrangements are by The Paul Mortuary in Pacific Grove, Calif.

Anthony Deland, 75, Plumbing Contractor; Longtime Business Owner In Westfield

Erwin M. Raabe

Anthony Deland, 75, of Westfield and Point Pleasant died on Saturday, November 20, at Overlook Hospital in Summit.

Born in Newark, he had lived in Bloomfield for 50 years before moving to Westfield 22 years ago. For the last 24 years, he also maintained a second home in Point Pleasant.

Mr. Deland, a plumbing contractor, was the owner of A-Mech, Inc. in Westfield for many years. He also was a long-time member of Plumbers Local No. 24 of Springfield.

Surviving are his wife, Jean Finamore Deland; a son, Steven Deland; two daughters, June Gaglioti and Jacqueline Dubinett; two brothers, Michael Deland and Vincent Deland; a sister, Marlene Caffrey, and four granddaughters.

The funeral service was scheduled for 9 a.m. on Wednesday, November 24, at the Dooley Colonial Home, 556 Westfield Avenue in Westfield. A Mass of Christian Burial was to follow at 10 a.m. at St. Helen's Roman Catholic Church in Westfield. Interment was to take place at the Gate of Heaven Cemetery in East Hanover.

Admirers Flock to View Frank's Latest Art at Juxtapose Gallery

By MICHELLE HELEN Le POIDEVIN

WESTFIELD - At 4 p.m. last Saturday, the doors to Juxtapose Gallery on Elm Street in Westfield were opened to collectors and admirers of Springfield artist Helen Frank.

Besides the one spacious gallery wall normally devoted to Frank's artwork, other spaces were set aside to mount the artist's etchings, drawings and lithographs.

Frank, who was on-hand for the three-hour exhibition and reception, was unstoppable and exuberant, greeting visitors and modestly explaining her techniques and creativity.

"It was the most successful show ever," reported Juxtapose Gallery Proprietor Gerri Gildea on Monday morning. "It went very well. The whole gallery was filled throughout the evening. I would estimate that over 100 people came."

While sales of Frank's etchings were made during the show, no one will pick up their pieces for another two weeks. Visitors and shoppers are encouraged to stop by and view copies of the etchings, as well as multiple works by the artist.

The showcase window of Juxtapose featured one of Frank's latest original drawings, "The Dining Room," while the two other recent pieces, "Dance Lesson" and "Central Park" were also prominently displayed.

Gildea announced that the gallery will host its next reception on Saturday, December 4, for artist Joanna

In an article published last April in The Westfield Leader and The Scotch Plains-Fanwood Times, I spoke highly of Lisa's debut recording, and I am pleased to learn that the artist is receiving the accolades that she deserves.

"Toucan You Can" has garnered several impressive awards and many exciting and noteworthy projects are in the making, including a benefit CD, entitled "Jersey

With the assistance of SRA studio President Seth Alexander and Courier News Entertainment Editor, Bob Makin, Lisa's new CD will aid New Jersey children though scholarships and music education. Several of the artists featured on the CD will be well-known and recognizable talents.

Lisa is also at work on an animated film that has strong interest from a major California animation studio. She recently signed with a literary agent in California who is very interested in Lisa's work and hopes to find the right house that will publish Lisa's stories in conjunction with her music.

The wife, mother and psychotherapist always manages to find time to perform locally at schools and libraries and is passionate about sharing her love of music with children.

Raised in California, Lisa studied songwriting and story writing and holds a bachelor's degree from the University of California and a master's degree from Yeshiva University. 'Toucan You Čan" is filled with wonderfully catchy tunes, all penned by Lisa, and the CD includes the talents of several local children. The artist sings and accompanies herself on the guitar, and I honestly can say that this is one handsome, well-spoken, clean-cut guy, one would find it hard to believe that he is the founder of Delian League, a "heavy metal" band that is bound to go places.

The band formed 2 ½ years ago, and has already recorded a demo. Now, they are in the studio working on their first album, due for release in April 2005 on Screaming Ferret Records.

When asked about the band's enigmatic name, Hatfield told The Westfield Leader and The Scotch Plains-Fanwood Times about the Greek reference to the army responsible for "clearing a path for the arts in civilization." It seems that Athenian culture saw its heyday as the League carved the way for wealth and arts, after freeing Greek cities from the Persians.

While the sounds of heavy metal may not be a cultural ideal for all, the music was perfectly fine for a brisk walk around the lake, as The Leader/ Times had an opportunity to hear the demo, "The Day of Question."

You can download the three songs on the demo by visiting http://www.delianleague.com/media.html. The band currently has five members (three of which are Westfield High School graduates) including Hatfield, one of the originals who founded the group with Richard Broadhead in 2003. Although Delian League is his first formal band, Hatfield has been a guitarist since the eighth grade, and a student of voice, jazz, and guitar for years. He also teaches at the Scotch Plains Music Center when he isn't busy in the studio, performing, or at his fulltime job managing the Barnes & Noble in Springfield.

In fact, one thread connecting these five seems to be their passion, dedication, and love of bands like Metallica. Each is a serious musician, and, while not busy in the studio, is living the life of any other person waiting for that

The band's newest member, drummer Joe Dooling, owns a hardware store in Suffern, N.Y., while vocalist Jude Andrade, who did some marketing on the Internet and established a mailing list of more than 500, is employed by J.P. Morgan and Company.

> Go figure. Hatfield's dream is that, following the release of their album, a major record company would pick up Delian League and the tour will begin. Somehow, this does not seem unrealistic for the group that has been named the "Best Unsigned Band

WESTFIELD – "Clouds Go Wild" Faltermayer hoped one day to publish by 35-year Westfield resident Edmund a novel for children.

Faltermayer, a children's book published posthumously by Author House, is expected to be released on Wednesday, December

Westfield was a model for the book's setting, the fictional town of Lysander. Faltermayer began writing the novel shortly after the blizzard of 1978, during which 18 inches of snow hit the Westfield area in a series of snowstorms.

Readers young and old will recognize Westfield in descriptions of Lysander's wide streets and stately old homes with wrap-around porches. Faltermayer was a member of The Presbyterian Church in Westfield and Echo Lake Country Club. He served as President of the Westfield Memorial Library board.

The story's protagonist Roderick Ringley was inspired by the author's son, Steven, whose obsession with snow lasts to this day. accomplished journalist, MOUNTAINSIDE — The Potters Guild of New Jersey, an organization dedicated to the development of New Jersey's ceramic artists, held their 11th Annual Holiday Pottery Show and Sale at Community Presbyterian Church in Mountainside on November 13 and 14.

Over 25 guild members participated in the event which showcased handcrafted ceramic vases, pitchers, plates, trays and other one of a kind pieces of pottery created by members.

The guild holds several shows each year where the ceramic craftsmanship of its 50-plus membership from throughout the state can be presented to the general public. In addition to selling pottery directly from their tables, many potters received commissions for custom work, such as eight piece place settings, at the

"We had a lot of serious buyers," said Nancy Radomski, Marketing Director for the Guild, "many of whom were first-time customers.' Radomski added that many longtime customers were returning to this year's show and sale with their adult children, who were looking to purchase pottery for themselves. One such parent and child team were mother Donna Duffy and her daughter, Tara Lombardo both of Scotch Plains, who were eagerly scouting out interesting pieces for their personal collections. "We come to the show every year," said Duffy. "We look for interesting shapes and sizes to display in the
