Disciplinary Action Filed Against Officer; Police Chief to Retire

By KATE BROWNE

MOUNTAINSIDE — Mayor Paul N. Mirabelli and the borough council updated residents Monday night on the status of the Stinner versus the Borough of Mountainside lawsuit. The mayor and the borough's attorney, John Post, answered dozens of residents' questions regarding the case. The lawsuit, which was filed in May 2018 by five members of the Mountainside Police Department as well as a part-time employee, alleges sexist, racist and homophobic conduct by Officers Andrew Huber and Thomas Murphy and Police Chief Alan

Prior to taking questions from the public, Mayor Mirabelli directly addressed rumors in the community. In response to concerns regarding the impact of the media's coverage of the lawsuit on property values, the mayor said he spoke to every realtor in the area and they all advised that the real estate market in Mountainside is extremely strong, with several homes recently selling less than two weeks after listing. In addition, according to the mayor, the July 18, 2018 edition of The New York Times real estate section included a lengthy profile of Mountainside, which the paper described as a "hidden gem" with a median asking price of $699,900. The New York Times article did not mention

Hartz Says Construction of Apts. Could Occur Over Seven Years

By MICHAEL BONACCORSO

CRANFORD — The planning board held its second hearing last Wednesday on Hartz Mountain Industries' proposed development at 750 Walnut Avenue that calls for 905 rental units.

At last week's hearing, Hartz Mountain Industries' land use and development director and assistant general counsel, James Rhatican, introduced testimony from commercial real estate expert James McDonough and professional architecture testimony from Bruce E. Englebaugh, a professional architect with Minno & Wasko Architects and Planners.

Mr. Englebaugh stated that the proposed development would total 905 units spread amongst five separate buildings. The development's proposed construction would occur in two separate phases. The total parking spaces proposed after both construction phases are completed is 1,723, stated Mr. Englebaugh.

Construction is proposed to occur over seven years, stated Mr. Rhatican. He said the construction decision was made based on what is most "palatable" for the township.

"If (your) intention would be to make it palatable to the town, there would not be two phases. Is that something Hartz would consider?" questioned Mayor Thomas Hannen, Jr.

Mayor Hannen, speaking as to what palatable" for the township, said perhaps a density less than 30 units per acre would be "palatable," with Hartz choosing just one construction phase versus both phases in their en-

Mr. Rhatican said he did not understand the question, and perceived the questions as being whether both phases of construction could happen simultaneously versus over seven

The five buildings' architectural layouts were presented under the titles Building A, Building B, Building C, Building D and Building E. Amongst the five buildings, the bedroom mix would include 380 one-bedroom market-rate units and 386 two-bedroom market-rate units, stated Mr. Englebaugh.

Amongst the five buildings, the proposed affordable bedroom mix includes 28 one-bedroom units, 82 two-bedroom units and 29 three-bedroom units, he said.

Hartz Mountain will not develop any three-bedroom market-rate units. stated Mr. Englebaugh. He said, currently, three-bedroom market-rate units are not desired or sought after by possible tenants as much as onebedroom and two-bedroom units.

As per court-ordered affordable housing rules, a specific percentage of units must have three bedrooms, stated Mr. Englebaugh.

He said "Phase One" would include the construction of Buildings A and B. There would be 247 total units (both market-rate and affordable units) in Building A and 186 total units in Building B.

Buildings A and B are proposed to have 210 one-bedroom market-rate units and 155 two-bedroom marketrate units, stated Mr. Englebaugh. Both buildings are proposed to have 14 one-bedroom affordable units, 40 two-bedroom affordable units and 14 three-bedroom affordable units.

Phase Two would include Buildings C, D and E, totaling 472 units CONTINUED ON PAGE 8

GARWOOD — Borough council members on Tuesday discussed two possible capital projects and one existing financial agreement, including a Union County Kids Recreation Trust Fund grant further benefiting Hartman Park, Garwood's financial agreement with the Fanwood Department of Public Works regarding street sweeping, and repainting the Center Street railroad underpass.

Councilman Marc Lazarow stated that the recreation trust fund grant will assist the borough in purchasing equipment for two picnic areas with umbrella-shaded tables. Additionally, the grant money will be used to acquire equipment to install a new "functioning water fountain," he said.

The existing water fountain at Hartman Park is unusable or no longer servicing residents, Mr. Lazarow said. He said the project's estimated cost would be somewhere in the $40,000 to $50,000 range depending on a final cost quote.

The grant is structured to be "matching," meaning the borough is responsible for matching whatever amount is granted by the county, stated Mr. Lazarow. He said the borough would have to allot between $20,000 and $25,000 to "match" half the payment of the total project cost.

"This grant application does not commit us to spending the money, but gives us the financial freedom to make informed choices that would have less financial impact on our taxpayers," said Mr. Lazarow.

Councilwoman Ileen Cuccaro said she was concerned with the Hartman Park revitalization project's total cost. Ms. Cuccaro said more money was being spent after the park was 'now brand new."

"Now you want to spend more money," said Councilwoman Cuccaro, suggesting she was blindsided by the additional work materializing in regards to the Hartman Park revitalization.

Councilman Richard McCormack said he was unsure why "shade" was now being discussed for "the first time." Mr. McCormack said he had to question the project's timeline, how certain aspects were prioritized and its impact on total project cost. The annual matching grant process allows the borough's recreational expenditures to be subsidized incrementally over several years, stated Mr. Lazarow.

Councilman Lazarow said Union County granted the borough $80,000 within the past year to revitalize Hartman Park. That grant money is being utilized to fund new equipment purchases, landscaping improvements and the basketball court's restoration, stated Mr. Lazarow. The borough received $25,000 in grant money with no matching clause and $55,000 in "matching grants," he said.

Thus far, the borough has paid or budgeted $55,000 (separate from grant money received) for the Hartman Park revitalization project. Mr. Lazarow said the grant to assist in picnic table purchases and water fountains would be considered a separate project.

Councilwoman Sara Todisco said in previous years the borough has not applied for matching grants pertaining to recreation expenditures. She said the borough did not have a vision for how the money would be purposed.

Ms. Todisco said she agrees with seeking additional grants because the money now has a purpose with the "matching" grant function re-

Andrew Bondarowicz Joins Scotch Plains Twp. Council

By FRED T. ROSSI

SCOTCH PLAINS - The township council on Tuesday voted to appoint Andrew Bondarowicz to the governing body to fill out the remaining five months of the term of Republican Councilman Llewellyn Jones, who resigned his position to relocate out of state.

Mr. Bondarowicz, an attorney who currently is president of the Scotch Plains-Fanwood Soccer Association, also is one of the three Republican candidates running for a four-year term on the council this November. His name, along with the two other Republicans running this fall — Sonali Dalvi and Jeff Kowalczyk was submitted by the township Republican Party to the council for consideration.

Mayor Alexander Smith said that Mr. Bondarowicz's background as an attorney who also holds a master's degree in public policy made him "the best person to help us" in the second half of the year. The two other council members present at Tuesday's meeting, Republican Ted Spera and Democrat John Del Sordi, also supported Mr. Bondarowicz's elevation to the governing body.

Mr. Bondarowicz preserves the Republicans' 3-to-2 council majority, which will be in play in November when three council seats will be up for grabs. Democratic incumbents Rose Checchio and Mr. Del Sordi are not seeking re-election, and Mr. Bondarowicz's term will conclude at the end of this year as well.

In other personnel business, Councilman Ted Spera was named deputy mayor for the remainder of this year, filling the departed Mr. Jones' role. Additionally, Township Manager Al Mirabella announced the promotion of Margaret Heisey, who has served as special projects coordinator since November 2015, to deputy municipal manager, a role he said she has played informally for some time. He called her "an outstanding employee" who has provided "great counsel" to himself, the mayor and the council. Mayor Smith said Ms. Heisey has

The mayor also said on Tuesday that he was scheduled to testify before state legislators in Trenton on Wednesday about affordable housing and said he would urge lawmakers to "assume their responsibilities and give clear direction on how affordable housing should go forward." He said the current process, directed primarily by the courts, is not transparent and costs municipalities a good deal of money in attorneys' fees. The mayor said he also planned to ask state officials to provide additional funding for schools due to what is expected to be an influx of new students living with their families in new affordable-housing units.

Earlier in the meeting, the council heard a brief presentation about a study conducted to assess the needs of the township's emergency responders, the public works department and the administrative staff at town hall as new facilities are planned for all of those functions. As part of the downtown redevelopment efforts now getting underway, the plan is to move the police, fire and rescue squad functions, as well as all administrative offices, out of the business district.

Larry Lane of the Mountainsidebased Musial Group said his firm had met with all municipal departments and assessed their current and future needs related to space, desks, public access, filing space, security, restrooms, copier rooms and the like. While no formal floor plans or indications of future locations were provided, Mr. Lane said it was likely that the square footage of any new buildings will be slightly higher than is found in the existing municipal building, north-side firehouse, public works facility and rescue squad. Parking requirements also will be a significant factor in planning the new

Board of Adjustment OKs Sheffield St. Renovation

By ZOE RADER

MOUNTAINSIDE — Downey General Contracting was granted full permission to renovate the office building at Tuesday's board of adjustment meeting.

The applicant came before the board for a change of tenancy from office and warehouse use by changing from overhead door construction to a commercial building. The office building on Sheffield Street currently houses six different small office tenants. However, both the contracting company and the landlords want to reduce the activity to one tenant.

Nancy Feigel of Summit has owned the building with her husband for roughly 27 years, and she testified in front of the board for this application. She stated that as she and her husband get older, they want to manage less tenants and change the dynamic of the office

With the application, the six offices will be demolished and transformed into one office with a warehouse for Downey General Contracting. Among the changes will be two handicap-accessible bathrooms, a new exit door and an overhead door with a loading area that would eliminate three parking spaces.

James Weill, the applicant's architect, stated that losing the three parking spaces will result in 108 spaces on site, but this will not be an issue, as only 105 spaces are re-

The contracting company, which has been there since 2012, will primarily use the space as a storage unit for their supplies and equipment. The overhead door is needed to load equipment on to box trucks, all of which is done by three or four in the afternoon, Ms. Feigel testi-

The board did not express too many concerns regarding the application, as the changes were mostly modest and did not increase the footprint of the building.

The renovations were unanimously approved, under the conditions that the catch basin be repaired, no equipment can be stored outdoors and no vehicles can be kept in the parking lot overnight.

Additionally during the meeting, an application submitted by the Maxwell Family Court LLC was postponed without a further date.

The board, which is a combined planning and zoning board, will meet again on Tuesday, August 28, at 7:30 p.m.

Resident Albert Del Conte said he supports the council's decision to complete the Hartman Park project through several steps or granting processes to assist the taxpayers in getting more for their tax dollars. Mr. Del Conte said the recreation grant process was similar to the borough's spending procedure with repaving roads. He said the borough repaves every road eventually, but does not repave them all at once.

The borough has elected to apply for Union County infrastructure matching grants, then determining how many roads would be paved in a given budget year.

Councilman McCormack said he was implored as a councilman "to have the conversation" about the borough's agreement with Fanwood's Department of Public Works and its street sweeper or street

"I repeatedly hear things like 'Rich, when is the street sweeper coming?', Why don't we have regular street cleanings?' and 'It seems the quality of street cleanings is not as good as it once was," said Mr. McCormack, describing residents' concerns regarding provided street services.

Mr. McCormack said hearing resident concerns and comments such as those aforementioned "upsets me not only as a councilman, but also a resident of this town.

mittee has discussed repainting the Center Street railroad underpass, stated Mr. Lazarow. He said a quote has not been sought on final project costs to scrape and paint the Center Street underpass. Preliminary discussions within the committee have included using Russo II development fees allotted to the borough, stated Mr. Lazarow. The borough will collect $100,000 in development fees from the Russo II project as one aspect of the financial agreement benefiting the borough, he said.

Mr. McCormack said he does not support spending money before a 'check is even cashed.'

Mr. Lazarow said the suggestion was made forward looking, not binding, and no money was being spent or bonded until the council votes on desired capital projects.

"The Center Street bridge is a wreck and an embarrassment," said Ms. Todisco, describing the bridge's current condition. She said the bridge's current paint job dates back to 1976.

Mayor Charles Lombardo said the bridge is structurally sound, although graffiti has been a problem.

Santiago's consulting fees are $17,500. He also explained that the borough and its insurance carrier had jointly agreed to retain Christine A. Amalfe, an attorney with the law firm of Gibbons LLC, to defend the borough in the Stinner action. Ms. Amalfe's fees are being shared between the insurance carrier and the

In contrast to last month's public meeting, where voices were raised, all of the exchanges between residents and the council were cordial, with the exception of one woman who characterized the council members as "absentee officials" who were "reactive rather than proactive." She loudly accused them of abandoning residents during this year's severe winter storms by failing to take action to restore power and remove storm debris.

Mountainside BOE Receives Additional Aid

By KATE BROWNE

MOUNTAINSIDE — The members of the board of education agreed to allocate additional state aid to special education students at the board's meeting on Tuesday night.

The amount of state aid increased by $150,160. The New Jersey Department of Education notified the board of the additional funding earlier this month. As a result of the increase, the district will receive a total of $763,171 for the 2018-2019 school year. The district received $569,584 in state aid for the 2017-2018 school year. The members approved a resolution to use the funds to defray the costs of out-of-district special education placements.

Chief School Administrator (CSA) Nancy Lubarsky advised that the district will implement the Power School Parent Portal this fall. The portal will provide access to real-time information on a student's grades, schedules and attendance. She urged parents to review the letter they will receive later this month regarding the new system.

In addition, in response to parent's concerns and perceptions regarding what they feel is a large number of half days scheduled, the board has decided to change the previously scheduled half days for the first two days of school to full days. The calendar will be mailed to all students next week. Due to a fire at the playground equipment supplier's warehouse, the new playground equipment for Beechwood Elementary School will not be installed until the end of September.

CSA Lubarsky made a detailed presentation regarding the status of the goals she had set for the 2017-2018 school year. The board determined that she had met or exceeded all of the goals, and as a result will receive a 2 percent salary increase retroactive to July 1, 2017.

The first goal was to conduct a critical analysis of the curriculum using the new state learning standards. The gaps that were identified in language arts included grammar, vocabulary and spelling. In math, the gaps were word problems, statistics and probability, and scientific notation. In social studies, gaps in civics, geography and economics were all identified and will be resolved as part of the review of the entire social studies curriculum, which will be conducted during the upcoming school

The second goal was to improve the services offered by the guidance department. A survey was conducted, and based on input from various stakeholders a decision was made to include a formal mental health and wellness program to address issues such as stress, anxiety and depression, including an improvement in drug and alcohol awareness outreach. The program, which the district will implement, is Social Decision Making and Problem Solving.

In order to better monitor teacher effectiveness, CSA Lubarsky's third goal was to increase the administrators team's visibility through formal and informal walk throughs and dropin visits. She shared sample reports on the results of these "management by walking around" events, which occurred each semester.

The final goal was to improve student math performance and maintain language arts performance on the statewide PARCC standardized tests. The score for the middle-school students increased significantly. For example, the percentage of seventh graders' who achieved a 4 or 5, the highest scores increased from 69 percent to 85 percent and the percentage of eighth graders increased 79.3 percent to 82.7 percent. CSA Lubrasky credited the teachers and the testing team and the district's focus on using data driver learning, which helps teachers personalize each student's learning

In other business, the board of education approved an operation systems license for 160 Chromebook laptops in the amount of $34,502, agreed to a student transportation contract with Durham School Services for the 2018-2019 school year, and to retain the YMCA of Westfield to provide Before/After Care program services for the Mountainside School District.

"We listened to a lot of people, we took their information, and now we're implementing a lot of things. In other board business, the BOE accepted the resignation of board member Catherine Sheridan. Mrs. Sheridan served on the board for the past year and a half. The board thanked Mrs. Sheridan for her countless hours of preparation in regards to her multiple duties, her vision and leadership, her attendance and participation at meetings, her diligence and determination and her dedication and service to the students of the Cranford School District. Board member Maria Loikith commented, "I liked bouncing ideas off her; she has a big heart, she has an open mind at all times. We're going to miss her."

Additionally, the board approved the appointment of Brian Heineman as assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction effective Monday, August 6.

Mr. Heineman was previously the director of curriculum and instruction for the Bernards Township School District.

Kaitlyn Johnston, Christine

Additionally, Ron Hoglund, Jennifer Hilborn and Daphne Morrissey were approved as University Program Advisors, Anthony Rafaniello was approved as coordinator of the Academy of the Performing Arts, and Emily Donahue and David Marconi were approved as student advisors to the Academy of the Performing Arts.

Land-Use Boards Finish Work Until September

SCOTCH PLAINS — At the planning board's final meeting of the summer on Monday, members granted a request for an extension of time to formally record a deed for a three-lot development.

Last year, the board approved an application from Victor Beqaj to divide a large lot located at 660 Emil Place into three lots, two of which will be nonconforming with regard to lot size, and then build three new single-family homes. A two-family house, described last year by Mr. Beqaj's attorney as in very poor condition, was located at the end of Emil Place, a street the attorney also described as being in bad condition. There were several conditions included in the board's approval, and at Monday's brief meeting, planning board attorney Robert Pansulla informed the board that those conditions had been fulfilled. But the time period for recording the property's deeds with county authorities had expired in the meantime, necessitating Monday's vote to extend the time.

Neither the planning board nor the zoning board of adjustment have regular meetings set for August. The planning board's next meeting will be on Wednesday, September 12, and the zoning board meets next on Thursday, September 6, although it is meeting in early August solely to finalize its approval of an application it voted on last week.

Looking ahead to the final months of the year, it is likely both the planning and zoning boards will continue to be involved in the downtown redevelopment process.

The township council is expected to consider changes and updates to local zoning ordinances, including ones pertaining specifically to the downtown business district. The two boards are likely to review redevelopment proposals later in the year and recommend any changes to those plans.

In other personnel business, Councilman Ted Spera was named deputy mayor for the remainder of this year, filling the departed Mr. Jones' role. Additionally, Township Manager Al Mirabella announced the promotion of Margaret Heisey, who has served as special projects coordinator since November 2015, to deputy municipal manager, a role he said she has played informally for some time. He called her "an outstanding employee" who has provided "great counsel" to himself, the mayor and the council. Mayor Smith said Ms. Heisey has been "very helpful since I walked in the door" at the start of last year. The mayor also said on Tuesday that he was scheduled to testify before state legislators in Trenton on Wednesday about affordable housing and said he would urge lawmakers to "assume their responsibilities and give clear direction on how affordable housing should go forward." He said the current process, directed primarily by the courts, is not transparent and costs municipalities a good deal of money in attorneys' fees. The mayor said he also planned to ask state officials to provide additional funding for schools due to what is expected to be an influx of new students living with their families in new affordablehousing units.

Earlier in the meeting, the council heard a brief presentation about a study conducted to assess the needs of the township's emergency responders, the public works department and the administrative staff at town hall as new facilities are planned for all of those functions. As part of the downtown redevelopment efforts now getting underway, the plan is to move the police, fire and rescue squad functions, as well as all administrative offices, out of the business district. Larry Lane of the Mountainsidebased Musial Group said his firm had met with all municipal departments at 430 Park Avenue in the municipal parking lot.

Disciplinary Action Filed Against Officer; Police Chief to Retire

By KATE BROWNE

MOUNTAINSIDE — Mayor Paul N. Mirabelli and the borough council updated residents Monday night on the status of the Stinner versus the Borough of Mountainside lawsuit. The mayor and the borough's attorney, John Post, answered dozens of residents' questions regarding the case. The lawsuit, which was filed in May 2018 by five members of the Mountainside Police Department as well as a part-time employee, alleges sexist, racist and homophobic conduct by Officers Andrew Huber and Thomas Murphy and Police Chief Alan Attanasio.

The mayor advised that the council had recently received a confidential report prepared by an independent attorney, William Maderer, a former Assistant United States Attorney, presently with the law firm Saiber LLC. Based on Mr. Maderer's report, the borough has filed disciplinary proceedings against Officer Murphy, who has been suspended without pay. In addition. Chief Attanasio and Officer Huber have submitted their retirement papers to the New Jersey Division of Pension and Benefits. Both men were removed from the borough's payroll as of June 20, 2018.

According to the mayor, the decision regarding their pension request is outside of the control of the borough council. Officer Murphy has asked for a hearing, therefore the council passed a resolution authorizing the retention of the law firm of Apruzzese, McDermott, Mastro & Murphy, which has handled police misconduct allegations for many years, to provide professional legal services related to employment and labor matters at a cost not to exceed $90,000.

Prior to taking questions from the public, Mayor Mirabelli directly addressed rumors in the community. In response to concerns regarding the impact of the media's coverage of the lawsuit on property values, the mayor said he spoke to every realtor in the area and they all advised that the real estate market in Mountainside is extremely strong, with several homes recently selling less than two weeks after listing. In addition, according to the mayor, the July 18, 2018 edition of The New York Times real estate section included a lengthy profile of Mountainside, which the paper described as a "hidden gem" with a median asking price of $699,900. The New York Times article did not mention the lawsuit.

Mayor Mirabelli also stated that data confirmed the lawsuit had not impacted public safety and that Joseph Santiago, a former State Police superintendent who has been retained to conduct a review of the police department, would soon complete his report and recommendations.

Liz Truman asked for clarification regarding the estimated legal fees and the scope of the borough's insurance coverage. Mr. Post explained that the borough is not paying any of the legal fees for the officers named as defendants in the lawsuits and Mr. Santiago's consulting fees are $17,500. He also explained that the borough and its insurance carrier had jointly agreed to retain Christine A. Amalfe, an attorney with the law firm of Gibbons LLC, to defend the borough in the Stinner action. Ms. Amalfe's fees are being shared between the insurance carrier and the borough on a 55-percent-to-45-percent basis. Mr. Post advised that, consistent with insurance industry practice, the borough does not have coverage for punitive damages.

Ileana Montes, a resident who won as a write-in candidate for borough council in the June Democratic Primary, questioned the governing body on the impact a punitive damage award in the Stinner case would have on residents' taxes. Mr. Post explained that punitive damage awards, particularly in employment cases, are extremely unusual. He also assured residents that the borough would consider all appropriate alternative dispute resolution mecha-

In contrast to last month's public meeting, where voices were raised, all of the exchanges between residents and the council were cordial, with the exception of one woman who characterized the council members as "absentee officials" who were "reactive rather than proactive." She loudly accused them of abandoning residents during this year's severe winter storms by failing to take action to restore power and remove storm debris.

In response, Gary Whyte, who resides across the street from Borough Administrator James Debbie, stated that he had personally repeatedly shoveled the Debbie family driveway because Mr. Debbie was busy assisting residents and supporting the borough's storm recovery and snow-removal efforts.

In other business, council members voted to enter into an agreement to sell the property known as the Barnes Tract to the Garnico Group LLC of Green Brook, N.J., for a purchase price of $3.1 million. The resolution authorizing the sale was read in its entirety into the record by the mayor. The resolution detailed the results of multiple hearings over the last three years by the Land Use Board, the testimony and expert opinions offered by planning expert John Chadwick, and the requirements of the borough's Housing Element and Fair Share Plan. The Barnes Tract is to be developed for 32 housing units for sale, of which six will be listed as affordable.

In response to an inquiry from Genevieve Copper of Knightsbridge Road regarding a New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection survey of the site, which identified a wetland area, the mayor stated that development of the site will not affect the wetlands and the site plans will likely be available for public review prior to the September 2018 meetings.

CRANFORD - Student safety and wellness issues were discussed at the Cranford Board of Education (BOE)

Superintendent of Schools Scott Rubin, Ed.D., told the board "we are in the process of always refining and enhancing safety protocols and upgrades, certainly for the upcoming school year."

This past school year the Office of Emergency Planning and Preparedness was brought into the district to conduct security audit.

According to Superintendent Rubin, several meetings with all of the safety representatives were held to create "upgrades and enhancements" based on the feedback from the audit for the upcoming school year. He said many of the enhancements and upgrades will be discussed and finalized at a meeting tonight, July 26, on the implementation of those items.

Furthermore, the safety and wellness meeting will have a focus on which security upgrades will be made public and what items will be implemented "behind the scenes" to "keep our district safe," according to the superinten-

Mountainside BOE Receives Additional Aid

By KATE BROWNE

MOUNTAINSIDE — The members of the board of education agreed to allocate additional state aid to special education students at the board's meeting on Tuesday night.

The amount of state aid increased by $150,160. The New Jersey Department of Education notified the board of the additional funding earlier this month. As a result of the increase, the district will receive a total of $763,171 for the 2018-2019 school year. The district received $569,584 in state aid for the 2017-2018 school year. The members approved a resolution to use the funds to defray the costs of out-of-district special education placements.

Chief School Administrator (CSA) Nancy Lubarsky advised that the district will implement the Power School Parent Portal this fall. The portal will provide access to real-time information on a student's grades, schedules and attendance. She urged parents to review the letter they will receive later this month regarding the new system.

In addition, in response to parent's concerns and perceptions regarding what they feel is a large number of half days scheduled, the board has decided to change the previously scheduled half days for the first two days of school to full days. The calendar will be mailed to all students next week. Due to a fire at the playground equipment supplier's warehouse, the new playground equipment for Beechwood Elementary School will not be installed until the end of September.

CSA Lubarsky made a detailed presentation regarding the status of the goals she had set for the 2017-2018 school year. The board determined that she had met or exceeded all of the goals, and as a result will receive a 2 percent salary increase retroactive to July 1, 2017.

The first goal was to conduct a critical analysis of the curriculum using the new state learning standards. The gaps that were identified in language arts included grammar, vocabulary and spelling. In math, the gaps were word problems, statistics and probability, and scientific notation. In social studies, gaps in civics, geography and economics were all identified and will be resolved as part of the review of the entire social studies curriculum, which will be conducted during the upcoming school

The second goal was to improve the services offered by the guidance department. A survey was conducted. and based on input from various stakeholders a decision was made to include a formal mental health and wellness program to address issues such as stress, anxiety and depression, including an improvement in drug and alcohol awareness outreach. The program, which the district will implement, is Social Decision Making and Problem Solving. In order to better monitor teacher effectiveness, CSA Lubarsky's third goal was to increase the administrators team's visibility through formal and informal walk throughs and dropin visits. She shared sample reports on the results of these "management by walking around" events, which occurred each semester.

The final goal was to improve student math performance and maintain language arts performance on the statewide PARCC standardized tests. The score for the middle-school students increased significantly. For example, the percentage of seventh graders' who achieved a 4 or 5, the highest scores increased from 69 percent to 85 percent and the percentage of eighth graders increased 79.3 percent to 82.7 percent. CSA Lubrasky credited the teachers and the testing team and the district's focus on using data driver learning, which helps teachers personalize each student's learning

In other business, the board of education approved an operation systems license for 160 Chromebook laptops in the amount of $34,502, agreed to a student transportation contract with Durham School Services for the 2018-2019 school year, and to retain the YMCA of Westfield to provide Before/After Care program services for the Mountainside School District.

Garwood Council Discusses Hartman Park Project

By MICHAEL BONACCORSO

GARWOOD — Borough council members on Tuesday discussed two possible capital projects and one existing financial agreement, including a Union County Kids Recreation Trust Fund grant further benefiting Hartman Park, Garwood's financial agreement with the Fanwood Department of Public Works regarding street sweeping, and repainting the Center Street railroad underpass.

Councilman Marc Lazarow stated that the recreation trust fund grant will assist the borough in purchasing equipment for two picnic areas with umbrella-shaded tables. Additionally, the grant money will be used to acquire equipment to install a new "functioning water fountain," he said.

The existing water fountain at Hartman Park is unusable or no longer servicing residents, Mr. Lazarow said. He said the project's estimated cost would be somewhere in the $40,000 to $50,000 range depending on a final cost quote.

The grant is structured to be "matching," meaning the borough is responsible for matching whatever amount is granted by the county, stated Mr. Lazarow. He said the borough would have to allot between $20,000 and $25,000 to "match" half the payment of the total project cost.

"This grant application does not commit us to spending the money, but gives us the financial freedom to make informed choices that would have less financial impact on our taxpayers," said Mr. Lazarow.

Councilwoman Ileen Cuccaro said she was concerned with the Hartman Park revitalization project's total cost. Ms. Cuccaro said more money was being spent after the park was "now brand new."

"Now you want to spend more money," said Councilwoman Cuccaro, suggesting she was blindsided by the additional work materializing in regards to the Hartman Park revitalization.

Councilman Richard McCormack said he was unsure why "shade" was now being discussed for "the first time." Mr. McCormack said he had to question the project's timeline, how certain aspects were prioritized and its impact on total project cost. The annual matching grant process allows the borough's recreational expenditures to be subsidized incrementally over several years, stated Mr. Lazarow.

Councilman Lazarow said Union County granted the borough $80,000 within the past year to revitalize Hartman Park. That grant money is being utilized to fund new equipment purchases, landscaping improvements and the basketball court's restoration, stated Mr. Lazarow. The borough received $25,000 in grant money with no matching clause and $55,000 in "matching grants," he said.

Thus far, the borough has paid or budgeted $55,000 (separate from grant money received) for the Hartman Park revitalization project. Mr. Lazarow said the grant to assist in picnic table purchases and water fountains would be considered a separate project.

Councilwoman Sara Todisco said in previous years the borough has not applied for matching grants pertaining to recreation expenditures. She said the borough did not have a vision for how the money would be purposed.

Ms. Todisco said she agrees with seeking additional grants because the money now has a purpose with the "matching" grant function reducing the overall project cost for taxpayers.

Resident Albert Del Conte said he supports the council's decision to complete the Hartman Park project through several steps or granting processes to assist the taxpayers in getting more for their tax dollars. Mr. Del Conte said the recreation grant process was similar to the borough's spending procedure with repaving roads. He said the borough repaves every road eventually, but does not repave them all at once.

The borough has elected to apply for Union County infrastructure matching grants, then determining how many roads would be paved in a given budget year.

Councilman McCormack said he was implored as a councilman "to have the conversation" about the borough's agreement with Fanwood's Department of Public Works and its street sweeper or street

"Irepeatedly hear things like 'Rich, when is the street sweeper coming? Why don't we have regular street cleanings?' and 'It seems the quality of street cleanings is not as good as it once was," said Mr. McCormack. describing residents' concerns regarding provided street services.

Mr. McCormack said hearing resident concerns and comments such as those aforementioned "upsets me not only as a councilman, but also a resident of this town.'

The buildings and grounds committee has discussed repainting the Center Street railroad underpass, stated Mr. Lazarow. He said a quote has not been sought on final project costs to scrape and paint the Center Street underpass.

Preliminary discussions within the committee have included using Russo II development fees allotted to the borough, stated Mr. Lazarow. The borough will collect $100,000 in development fees from the Russo II project as one aspect of the financial agreement benefiting the borough, he

Mr. McCormack said he does not support spending money before a 'check is even cashed."

Mr. Lazarow said the suggestion was made forward looking, not binding, and no money was being spent or bonded until the council votes on desired capital projects.

"The Center Street bridge is a wreck and an embarrassment," said Ms. Todisco, describing the bridge's current condition. She said the bridge's current paint job dates back to 1976.

Mayor Charles Lombardo said the bridge is structurally sound, although graffiti has been a problem.

Scotch Plains Council and assessed their current and future needs related to space, desks, public access, filing space, security, restrooms, copier rooms and the like. While no formal floor plans or indications of future locations were provided, Mr. Lane said it was likely that the square footage of any new buildings will be slightly higher than is found in the existing municipal building, north-side firehouse, public works facility and rescue squad. Parking requirements also will be a significant factor in planning the new facilities.

At the start of the council's meeting, Police Chief Ted Conley announced the promotion of Jeff Briel to the rank of captain and welcomed Joseph Kostecki, Jr. to the department as an officer.

Board of Adjustment OKs Sheffield Street Renovation

By ZOE RADER

MOUNTAINSIDE — Downey General Contracting was granted full permission to renovate the office building at Tuesday's board of adjustment meeting.

The applicant came before the board for a change of tenancy from office and warehouse use by changing from overhead door construction to a commercial building. The office building on Sheffield Street currently houses six different small office tenants. However, both the contracting company and the landlords want to reduce the activity to

Nancy Feigel of Summit has owned the building with her husband for roughly 27 years, and she testified in front of the board for this application. She stated that as she and her husband get older, they want to manage less tenants and change the dynamic of the office

With the application, the six offices will be demolished and transformed into one office with a warehouse for Downey General Contracting. Among the changes will be two handicap-accessible bathrooms, a new exit door and an overhead door with a loading area that would eliminate three parking spaces.

James Weill, the applicant's architect, stated that losing the three parking spaces will result in 108 spaces on site, but this will not be an issue, as only 105 spaces are re-

The contracting company, which has been there since 2012, will primarily use the space as a storage unit for their supplies and equipment. The overhead door is needed to load equipment on to box trucks, all of which is done by three or four in the afternoon, Ms. Feigel testified.

The board did not express too many concerns regarding the application, as the changes were mostly modest and did not increase the footprint of the building. The renovations were unanimously approved, under the conditions that the catch basin be repaired, no equipment can be stored outdoors and no vehicles can be kept in the parking lot overnight.

Additionally during the meeting, an application submitted by the Maxwell Family Court LLC was postponed without a further date.

The board, which is a combined planning and zoning board, will meet again on Tuesday, August 28, at 7:30 p.m.

and business advancements. The Fellows first visited Waste Management's patented CORe food waste slurry system in Elizabeth, which serves as RVSA's feedstock supply partner following a recentlyawarded 10-year co-digestion contract. The group was given a firsthand look at the co-digestion process currently in operation at the RVSA treatment plant and the opportunity to speak with professionals regarding this changing paradigm of resource recovery emerging in the water resource sector.

"RVSA had the available anaerobic digestion capacity to create a food waste recycling infrastructure and moved forward with co-digestion earlier this year," explains RVSA Executive Director James Meehan. "With so many facilities throughout the U.S. ramping up to co-digest high-strength organics like commercial food waste and fats, oils and grease, co-digestion is a developing trend in the market. It was an honor to showcase this process to such a talented group of Fellows, who will return to their home countries with an increased knowledge regarding this innovation," said Mr. Meehan.

Several of the Fellows expressed interest in a future RVSA follow-up tour and requested RVSA input on projects they're currently managing in Africa. "Each of these Fellows carries an impressive and experienced background. It is our pleasure to continue collaboration and explore new opportunities," said Mr. Meehan. In addition, with biosolids significantly enhanced through food waste digestion, RVSA intends to explore a partnership with Waste Management and Rutgers to further refine biosolid residuals with the goal of producing fertilizer for direct-land application.

Scutari Applauds Parham's Swearing In As Undersheriff

LINDEN-Senator Nicholas P. Scutari (D-22nd, Limden) congratulated former Linden Police Chief Jonathan Parham on his swearing in as Undersheriff of Union County on July 13.

"Being able to witness the beginning of a new chapter in Jon's life is all the more rewarding because I have watched him evolve from someone on my high school wrestling team to someone who now has the whole community's back and who is truly a hero to so many," said Sen. Scutari. "Over the years, he has demonstrated an ever higher level of integrity and character, and a deeper level of commitment to the service of others. No one deserves this appointment more than Jon Parham, and I could not be prouder.

Undersheriff Parham served Linden for nearly 25 years, elevated from officer to captain before his promotion to chief of the 200-employee department on September 1, 2016. He rose to national recognition during his first few weeks as chief when members of his force apprehended the now convicted "Chelsea Bomber" Ahmad Rahimi after an extended shootout that injured the terrorist and two of Chief Parham's officers. During his six months as chief, Mr. Parham's leadership polished the department's reputation and helped to heal its sadness at the death of fellow Linden Officer Daniel Kuczynski.

"Jon's talents and skills have made all the difference throughout his career and I congratulate my friend as he brings his vision and passion to the sheriff's office," said Senator Scutari. "He, his wife Ebony, and their two young sons have a lot to be proud of as he continues to transform our community and increase the safety and wellbeing of Union County."

Work on Kehler Stadium Will Begin Next Spring

WESTFIELD — After careful review following a two-month delay caused by a bid protest in the Kehler Stadium renovation project, the Westfield Public School District announced on July 19 that construction on the stadium will begin next spring.

"While there was no easy solution to address the delay caused by this unnecessary and frustrating bid complaint, we feel this decision to hold off construction on Kehler Stadium until spring of 2019 is the least disruptive option to our sports programs and other activities," said Business Administrator Dana Sullivan.

Ms. Sullivan said consultations were held with the vendor, Your Way Construction, Inc., and Westfield High School administrators at which a number of considerations were discussed, including the various events and activities held during the school year at the stadium, the fall and spring sports seasons, and whether viable options exist for moving a sport or activity/ event to a different venue during construction. Your Way was the low bidder at $3,031,100.

In a prior press release, Ms. Sullivan said if construction on the stadium had not completed by the fall it would have impacted the freshman, junior varsity and varsity football program as well as girls' and boys' soccer and field hockey programs.

'We will continue to work with our coaches to try to minimize disruption and address concerns," Superintendent Margaret Dolan said. "We appreciate the community's ongoing patience throughout the Kehler renovation project.

Work on Kehler Stadium to replace the turf field, track, blacktop, bleachers and to renovate the bathrooms had been scheduled to begin in early May after the contract was awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, Your Way Construction, Inc. of Irvington. The Board approved the Kehler contract on March 19.

H&S Construction and Mechanical, Inc. of Elizabeth, the third lowest bidder in the process, filed a bid protest that was denied on April 13 by Judge Karen M. Cassidy, who presided over the complaint proceedings in the Superior Court of the County of Union.

On April 16, H & S Construction and Mechanical filed an appeal, which was heard on June 7 by the Appellate Division of the Superior Court of New Jersey. The appellate division denied the complaint on

Westfield Receives Additional School Aid

WESTFIELD — The Westfield Public School District will receive an additional $223,710 in state funding to be used on district-wide security enhancements, bringing the total in state aid for the 2018-2019 school year to $3,828,581. The district was notified by the New Jersey Department of Education of the additional funding on July 13.

"We intend to use this additional state aid for door replacement, cameras, and other security enhancements district-wide," said Business Administrator Dana Sullivan. Westfield's aid is up $578,924 or 17.81 percent over last year's amount.

Ms. Sullivan noted that because the school tax rate was previously certified by the county for the 2018-2019 school year, as per state requirements, there is no provision to change

Mehrotra, Montes Demand Independent Investigation

MOUNTAINSIDE—Democratic candidates for Borough Council Anjali Mehrotra and Ileana Montes are calling for a thorough independent investigation into of allegations leveled against members of the Mountainside Police Department in a recent lawsuit.

"This investigation must look into the role Mayor Paul Mirabelli's administration and the rest of Mountainside's Borough Council may have played in creating what seems to have become a culture of corruption in Borough Hall, allowing this behavior to take place and then covering it up until a costly lawsuit brought the activity out into the open," according to a press release issued Monday.

In a letter to the Mayor and Council, Mr. Mehrotra and Ms. Montes outline what they believe is a "culture of corruption that has come to permeate all branches of Borough Hall," according to the

"Allegedly, for nearly two decades police officers and other borough officials with connections to Mayor Mirabelli, Council President Keith Turner, Business Administrator and former Police Chief James Debbie, and the rest of the Council have been promoted ahead of more qualified candidates, been permitted to work side jobs while on duty, and continued to work despite engaging in dangerous behavior that would have been grounds for termination anywhere else," the release states.

The candidates have called for: a "thorough independent investigation" of the administration and council into "what they knew and when they knew about the alleged corruption" in Mountainside's police department and Borough Hall, criminal charges against all who are found to have broken any laws, the "immediate firing" of officers who are found to have committed offenses, and denial of retirement benefits to anyone who is found to have broken any

Jobs Guarantee Development Act of 2018, H.R. 6467, which would create a pilot program within the Department of Labor to test the impact of a federal job guarantee in 15 high-unemployment communities across the country.

Within these test sites, any adult resident seeking employment would be matched with a job in an understaffed field, including senior- and childcare, infrastructure, and community revitalization, infusing resources that will improve American communities while increasing access to jobs.

Despite the low official unemployment rate, eight million Americans who want work cannot find jobs, while nearly 4.7 million Americans who want full-time work can only find part-time jobs.

The Federal Jobs Guarantee Development Act of 2018 is a House companion to legislation introduced by Senator Cory Booker (D-NJ). Jobs created through the program would include a minimum wage phased to $15 per hour, paid family and sick leave, and health coverage like that enjoyed by members of Congress. The bill also expands the Work Opportunity Tax Credit to incentivize private employers to recruit and hire participants out of the pilot program.

Congresswoman Watson Coleman is a co-sponsor of the Job Opportunities for All Act, which would provide federal funding to put people to work immediately in both the public and the private sector.

RVSA Prepares to File Suit Against State

By WAYNE BAKER

RAHWAY — The Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority (RVSA) is expected to file a lawsuit against the state regarding a new law that requires certain state oversight of budgets of regional sewerage authorities. The RVSA Board of Commissioners voted in May to file the lawsuit following former Governor Chris Christie's signing of Bill S-848 in January.

Dennis Estis, the authority's counsel, said at Thursday's meeting that the suit is to be joined by the Plainfield Area Regional Sewerage Authority (PARSA), and is expected to eventually be joined to a suit filed by Two Rivers Reclamation Authority, which has already been filed and which the state has made a motion to dismiss.

According to S-848, the bill "limits the percentage of growth in the fee funded appropriations in the annual budget of a regional sewerage authority to not more than 2 percent per year, and stipulates that the amount billed to customers of the authority, or the amount billed to a local unit for its proportional share of the authority's expenses, is not permitted to exceed that amount billed in the previous budget year to each customer or local unit by more than 2 percent for comparable usage of the sewerage system."

The RVSA's basic argument is that the law impairs the agreement between RVSA and its member municipalities and is unsconstitutional.

In other business, it was revealed that Springfield was likely to avoid penalties for excessive flows in past years after having provided evidence of ordinances and bonding in lieu of penalties from the RVSA. Later in the meeting there was some discussion of discovery of a significant inflow and infiltration (I&I) site. Inflow and infiltration is the term for stormwater or groundwater entry into the sanitary sewer system.

An update on the digester cover replacement project by John Buonocore, RVSA's staff engineer, and given as part of Executive Director Jim Meehan's monthly update to the board, revealed that while 136 days remain until the scheduled completion of the project, about 250 days remain until it will actually be completed. Mr. Meehan indicated that he "sees a sense of urgency" in the contractor's actions. Because of the lateness, they currently are billing the contractor $400 per day for liquidated damages and the penalty will rise to $500 per day soon. A prior meeting had revealed that some portion of the damages are likely to be returned to the contractor because they will be difficult to justify.

Louis Lambe, Cranford's commissioner, introduced a motion to remove flow exceedances that resulted from a storm on April 16 and 17 from exceedance calculations. Marty Rothfelder, Westfield's commissioner, said he "didn't see why we (RVSA) should throw out data." Mr. Lambe circulated a map showing his belief that exceedances relate, in part, to locations relative to the authority's trunk lines. Discussion also touched on the time lag that can occur as stormwater works through the system, possibly resulting in exceedances over an additional day for those "further down" the system. Mr. Meehan mentioned the possibility of changing from flow measurements every quarter hour to hourly.

Eventually, Mr. Buonocore said, as he has to make the data adjustments, he "feels adjustments should be made in exceedance hearings. Mr. Estis said he backed Mr. Buonocore's suggestion. Garwood's commissioner, Stephen Greet, said Springfield's recent discovery of a major I&I source was only made under the pressure of exceedance hearings and the associated penalties. The motion was eventually tabled until the next meeting.

Mr. Meehan also told the board he recommends that the bar screen project that is part of the 2019 five-year capital plan should be worked on sooner, rather than later. The bar screen, which removes large items from the sewage, uses a design that is complex and costly to maintain. The simpler design will reduce maintenance costs, in part because it will not suffer damage if it goes underwater.

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Congressman Leonard Lance (R-7th, Westfield) became the first member of the New Jersey congressional delegation to cosponsor H.R. 6437, the bipartisan Secure America from Russian Interference Act of 2018. The package of legislation includes a bill co-authored by Mr. Lance, H.R. 5216, the Directing Implementation of Sanctions and Accountability for Russian Mischief (DISARM) Act.

"I support the unanimous conclusion of America's intelligence community that Russia hacked the 2016 U.S. presidential election. This is not a partisan issue and that's why I have co-sponsored this bipartisan package to bolster American Security and strengthen our NATO alliance," said Mr. Lance. Nearly 50 Years Ago, 'The Eagle Has Landed'

The entire world was watching TV with wonderment as the first men landed on the moon. It was the biggest televised event ever back then, connecting all of mankind on July 20, of 1969.

"Houston, Tranquility Base here. The Eagle has landed!'

A few hours later, as he stepped from the ladder of the lunar landing module to the surface of the moon, Neil Armstrong, the first man on the moon, said, "That's one small step for man – one giant leap for mankind." Buzz Aldrin was right behind him. Michael Collins circled overhead in the Command Module.

The world glowed with self-esteem. Those who witnessed that momentous occasion remember exactly where they were at that moment.

The astronauts left a plaque, which is still there on the moon today. It reads: "Here Men From Planet Earth First Set Foot Upon the Moon. July 1969 A.D. We Came In Peace For All Mankind." The moment was a marvel, filled with such promise for the future. People then grew up as the U.S. and the USSR (United Soviet Socialist Republic, for those who don't know this today) continued to compete in the "Space Race." Brave and daring men from both sides of the iron curtain risked everything and challenged the unknown - what heart, skill and bravado! -Yesteryear's "right stuff."

It strikes me that many people alive today have no idea what I'm talking about - they weren't even born then. They've never experienced a man landing on the moon. The last time it occurred was with Apollo 17 on December 11, 1972 - Eugene Cernan and Harrison Schmidt. Ronald Evans was there, too, but circling the moon as pilot of the Command Module.

I wonder who actually was the last man to leave the moon, Cernan or Schmidt? About Apollo 8, Paul Babik made this comment in a letter to the editor in 2002. "May I point out, however, that the first men to leave Earth's gravity were aboard Apollo 8 during 1968 at Christmas time. Those men included Jim Lovell, who went on to command Apollo 13, and Frank Borman. Their picture of 'Earth-Rise,' which should have had much more of an influence on image, and their reading from Genesis on Christmas Eve as they orbited the Moon is still chilling to those of us who remember it." William Anders also made Launched on December 21, 1968, Apollo 8 took three days to travel to the Moon. The crew orbited 10 times, taking 20 hours. Their Christmas Eve television broadcast, in which they read the first 10 verses from the Book of Genesis, was the most watched TV program ever back then. Apollo 8 paved the way for Apollo 11 to fulfill President John F. Kennedy's goal > of landing a man on the Moon before the end of the decade.

> The Apollo Manned Moon missions were not without heartache and angst. At the start with Apollo 1 in January 1967, Gus Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee lost their lives during preflight tests on the launch pad when fire burst out in their pure oxygen-filled module.

There was grieving. Then, extensive investigation and overhaul was done. No one gave up.

Manned flights resumed with Apollo 7 in October 1968.

Apollo 13 was filled with drama, as the entire world observed with dread for days as the astronauts almost became lost in space. With a crippled craft, no power, little oxygen and computers lost, the astronauts used a slide rule to navigate home from the heavens. They also improvised with what is now known as "duct tape" to make a canister to remove CO2 from their cabin to prevent suffocation. Most youngsters today don't know what a slide rule is stop by and I'll show you one.

Apollo 14's trip to the moon turned out to be a little more light-hearted; Alan Shepard took out a six-iron and hit a few golf balls "miles and miles and miles." It troubles me today. I'm curious... could we still land a man on the moon? Yes, but only if we return to the spirit of yesteryear – with the "right stuff.

The "American Spirit" -- Here's Pluto and Charon!

mankind than it has had, is a classic 20th century School Boards Should Return State Aid Hikes to Taxpayers

Buzz Aldrin

Many school districts around the state, including Westfield, Scotch Plains-Fanwood and Mountainside, found out last week that they will be getting another boost in state aid over what was promised in Governor Phil Murphy's budget message in March. But the question now is, what impact this will have, if any, on the school portion of local property-tax bills this year.

The Westfield Board of Education is to receive an additional $223,710 to increase its total 2018-2019 aid to $3,828,581, up $578,924 or 18 percent over last year. Scotch Plains-Fanwood will receive another $69,722, for a new total of $3,596,939, an increase of $396,000 or 12.37 percent over 2017-2018. Cranford's aid remained at $2,624,844, which is $187,301 or 7.68 percent over last year. Garwood also did not get an increase from March numbers, remaining at $504,445, which is up $35,081 or 7.48 percent from a year ago. Mountainside received a boost of $150,160 from the Governor's budget message for a new total of $763,171, representing an increase of $193,587 or 34 percent over 2017-2018.

Westfield, Scotch Plains-Fanwood and Mountainside are among 391 districts statewide that will see more aid, while Cranford and Garwood are among 14 districts seeing no change in aid, with another 172 districts receiving cuts in aid. We are hopeful that aid will continue to rise at this year's levels locally. With this said, school boards need to make every effort to control costs rather than just using the extra aid by spending money elsewhere with taxpayers seeing no relief.

Fanwood Mayor Colleen Mahr and the borough council have asked the Scotch Plains-Fanwood Board of Education to apply the additional aid the district is receiving to reduce the local school tax. Westfield school officials say the county has already certified the 2018-2019 budget and thus school tax amounts cannot be changed.

We ask both school districts to look into the additional aid to see if it can change the tax numbers. Taxpayers are paying a lot in taxes already, with school and county taxes being the largest amounts on tax bills. As we have said before, state aid should be increased both for school districts, as is occurring, as well as towns, which unfortunately are seeing mostly flat aid numbers again this year. Local governments are faced with higher salaries and e m p l o y e e health-insurance hikes for police and firefighters, and so any increase in aid would be warmly welcomed, as would tighter school and county budgets.

Protect Drinking Water From Garwood Contamination Run-Off

Concerned citizens in the region, myself included, are asking public officials to please halt the demolition of the contaminated the Petro/Casale site in Garwood. I urge our citizens to join us and take action to write directly to Senator Thomas Kean Jr.. Assemblymembers Jon Bramnick and Nancy Munoz, Governor Phil Murphy, and NJDEP Commissioner Catherine McCabe, to intervene. As I write this there is an uncovered heap of demolition work going on: an uncovered heap that has already publicly been identified as being loaded with decades of toxic materials, from the building construction itself as well as the production, manufacturing and processing that occurred in those buildings since the sites were used for industrial purposes circa 1889.

I am grateful that The Westfield Leader published information in the July 19, 2018 edition documenting that the Aluminum Company of America (ALCOA) was used to cast uranium slugs at the site during WWII. There was certainly waste from the operations, even if only from the machinery that came into contact with the slugs. We don't have documentation of that machinery. In 1989, the Department of Energy (DOE) decided against cleaning up the site, that the 'potential for contamination was remote." Is there radioactivity at the site? We still do not know! Radioactivity goes away at a very, very slow rate and is poisonous at very small auantities

Also as I write this, it is raining hard, and forecasts call for rain for the next week. Storm drains that surround Petro/Casale on South Ave. and Center St. flow into Garwood Brook, which in turn spills its contents into the Rahway River. According to the Rahway River Watershed Association's website, the Rahway River is the source of drinking water to the people of the city of Rahway. The untreated waters of the Rahway River are also a primary contact recreation area for canoeing, fishing, and water play for children. Aside from the known toxins that we can assume are going into the Rahway River as run-off from the toxic site in Garwood, what about the possible radioactivity that could go into our neighbors' drinking water?

Cleaning up toxins once they are already in householders' water is costly—including drinking, bathing, laundry, lawns, swimming pools, gardens, etc.. The effects of under-treated water on human health is incalculable. Prevention of leachate, relative to the alternatives, is very cheap.

Water is Life! Tell your public servants to stop the demolition until higher standards of testing and protecting health, air, and drinking water and recreational waters are enforced:

Garwood's Petro Development Needs EPA Radiological Testing

Dear Senator Thomas H. Kean, Jr. The people in your district need your help. The demolition of Garwood's pervasively contaminated Petro/ Casale site has begun. Weeks and months of diligent research and letter writing from concerned residents have generated little to no results.

As per the attached article in last week's Westfield Leader, the site was formerly the location of secret atomic weapons experiments with uranium. The site should not be disturbed until comprehensive site-wide testing rules out residual radiological waste or locates it and removes it within an enclosed work setting.

The demolition is expected to last at least three months. Garwood's single K-8 public school property and Hartman Playground are located a few yards from the site. My four children, all under the age of 12, attend the school. To get there, we have to walk, bike, or drive past the uncovered toxic work site. Hundreds of other Garwood children do too.

We need you to directly intervene as our representative to suspend activity at the site until testing occurs. But that's just the beginning. There are a host of other serious and urgent public health and safety concerns that need to be addressed.

Among these are the fact that stormwater and high winds from weather events like those of July 17, 2018, pose real health and safety threats to the region. The high winds send particulate from the piles of uncovered demolition debris and industrial filth sailing into the surrounding residential communities of Westfield, Garwood, and beyond. Torrential downpours like those of July 17 surge through and soak exposed mounds of debris from the toxic site, sending the resulting industrial tea to nearby storm drains that spill into the Rahway River. Gerrymandering Is Rigging NJ Elections, Not The Russians

Living in NJ is a challenge, even more so, if you have no ability to influence the legislative process. Gerrymandering has resulted in one-party rule. As Jon Bramnick has said in a recent release: "Voters should elect their representatives instead of the other way around, but that is not the way it works in New Jersey.'

Bramnick is proposing that we amend the state constitution to define what a competitive district is and stop manipulation so that a party cannot manufacture election results Over the last nine elections, the popular vote in New Jersey has been split nearly 50-50. Yet, gerrymandering has allowed Democrats to pick up 10 seats in the State Assembly in spite of the voters' desires.

Under Bramnick's amendments. a competitive district would not favor a political party by more than 10 percent; and, districts will change based on the voter turn out in the election for governor.

This is a great concept and deserves serious consideration by all of

Commentary Your Voice Is Needed On Court Forced Development

In recent months, a series of "town hall" meetings have taken place within our local readership area focusing on redevelopment plans, state-mandated affordablehousing obligations and the potential impact on those communities in which such large-scale projects

These public forums have been initiated by state and municipal officials, as well as developer representatives, and have provided valuable opportunities for residents to pose questions, share concerns and express sentiments about issues with the potential to drastically impact the future of the towns they call home.

On July 9, Republican Assembly Minority Leader Jon Bramnick (R-21st, Westfield) led a meeting at the Kilkenny House in Cranford to present his ideas for changing state laws that compel towns to accept high-density dwellings in order to fulfill their affordable-housing requirements. He was joined by Assemblywoman Nancy Muñoz (R-21st, Summit) at the town hall, which drew an audience of several dozen. Among them were residents of Cranford and Clark concerned about a proposal by Hartz Mountain Industries to build 905 apartments at 750 Walnut Avenue, near the border of the two towns. Hartz is seeking to have the property rezoned from commercial to residential.

Asm. Bramnick plans to continue his campaign for legislative reform regarding affordable-housing mandates with a rally September 20 on the steps of the State House in Trenton. Scotch Plains Mayor Alexander Smith has said he intends to speak at the rally, and encouraged area residents to attend.

Town-hall meetings also have recently taken place in Garwood in response to redevelopment projects at the Paperboard site on North Avenue and the Petro/ Casale site on South Avenue. Issues addressed during these events ranged from density to environmental concerns surrounding demolition of the existing building on the latter site.

Additionally, the Assembly Housing and Community Development Committee, headed by Assemblyman Benjie Wimberly (D-35th, Paterson), was scheduled to hold a hearing July 25 at 10 a.m. in Committee Room 16, Fourth Floor, of the State House Annex in Trenton, during which invited guests and the public were to give testimony on affordable-housing needs in New Jersey.

In addition to these town-hallstyle meetings, the Scotch Plains Downtown Redevelopment Committee holds public meetings on the second Wednesday of each month, at 7 p.m., at the township municipal building. They also provide a resource for residents and business owners to have input and gain information concerning multi-phase redevelopment plans for the township's central business district.

During the town hall two weeks ago in Cranford, Asm. Bramnick urged his audience to attend meetings of their local government, planning and zoning boards to voice their concerns about highdensity housing. "Community sentiment is very important," he maintained, when decisions such as that involving prospective rezoning of the Walnut Avenue property are being made at the local level.

We concur that residents need to take a proactive role in shaping the direction of their communities, by staying informed, offering their own ideas and voicing opposition to those concepts they do not feel are correct. Each of us whether public official or private citizen, business or property owner, regardless of political allegiance — are stakeholders in our communities. We should therefore remain vigilant advocates for what we believe is in our communities' best interest.

GOP Union County Freeholder Candidates Decry Elizabeth Cronyism

The Union County Freeholders' decision to appoint State Senator and newly-elected Union County Democratic Chairman, Nick Scutari's chief of staff, Ed Oatman, as county manager smelled of corruption from the start. To place a political consultant like Oatman in the role of overseeing 2,800 employees and running the dayto-day operations of the $500-million county budget suggests cronyism and not meritocracy. Furthermore, eight of the nine members of the Freeholder board endorsed Scutari in his bid to secure the Democratic Chairmanship over Fanwood Mayor Colleen Mahr. As for the lone dissenter, Freeholder Muhammad Jalloh, he was replaced on this year's ballot by the daughter of a long-time Democratic donor for turning his back on Scutari.

This appointment may be a temporary victory for the Union County Democrat machine, but there are ways to fight back! In Garwood at their April 24 meeting, a bipartisan group of councilpersons, led by Democratic Mayoral candidate Sara Todisco and Republican Mayoral candidate Ileen Cuccaro, showed their collective concern over Ed Oatman's appointment as county manager. In addition, they sought out a resolution to the county Freeholder Board disapproving of this appointment and pointing out the corruption taking place in Elizabeth. In fact, Garwood Democratic Councilman Marc Lazarow stated he had "major concerns" about Union County and the corruption taking place there and offered his support of a resolution saying as much. It is my hope that the full Garwood Council and other Union County municipalities approve a resolution rebuking Ed Oatman's appointment.

Lastly, I urge all voters, including elected Democrats like Sara Todisco and Colleen Mahr, to get behind the Republican ticket to send a message to Nick Scutari and his cronies that corruption has no place in Union County. If elected, we will appoint a new county manager based on his or her merits. Together, Democrats, Republicans, and unaffiliated voters, we can show that Union County is for all of us and not for the select few!

To Be Less Divided New Jersey Needs Competitive Districts

The Mestfield Lender and The Scotch Plains - Fanwood TIMES

Voters should select their representatives instead of the other way around, but that is not the way it works in New

The redistricting process allows politicians to choose their constituents by manipulating electoral maps to keep their seats, and keep their party in power. One party is likely to win elections by an overwhelming margin as a result, while the opposing party has little to no chance of winning. Manipulating districts for one political party's benefit is called gerrymandering.

It diminishes the influence of voters, reduces the number of competitive districts and contributes to the rising partisan polarization across the country and in Congress. It leaves far too many voters with no meaningful choice and a feeling that they have no power to change things, which discourages voter turnout.

We want a democracy that puts the power in the hands of the people to fairly elect their representatives in state and federal government. The way things work now it is becoming

I am proposing that we amend the state constitution to define what a competitive district is and stop manipulation so the party in power doesn't manufacture election results. A competitive district must not favor a political party by more than 10 percent, and the districts will change based on voter turnout in our elections for governor.

When districts are crafted to give one party the advantage it polarizes political parties and people; and when you have districts that are extreme in partisanship it breeds extreme representation. As Gov. Tom Kean once said, most people in New Jersey want to us govern from the middle.

Manipulating voting districts causes elected officials to be more extreme, either far to the political left or the right, with less chance of compromise. Most Americans are in the middle of the political spectrum and gerrymandering of districts is a disservice to our democracy.

Real reform would maximize the number of truly competitive districts so that voters have a choice and can throw out incumbents if they want. That is the intention of amending the state constitution, so New Jerseyans are sure that they are getting a fair chance and the game is not rigged.

The number of competitive legislative districts in New Jersey has fallen dramatically over the past two decades. Voter turnout in the past few elections has gotten worse and worse. Governor Phil Murphy was elected by less than 40 percent of voters because people are discouraged by how bad things are. The last nine elections have given Democrats a large majority in the Legislature, allowing them to control the policy and politics of the state even though it does not wholly reflect the electorate.

In that time the popular vote has been split nearly 50-50. Yet, gerrymandering has allowed Democrats to pick up 10 seats in the state Assembly in spite of half of the voters' desires. The electoral map is not responsive to the will of the people, and as the majority unjustly increases the power of voters is diminished. Change starts with the voters. Our government is supposed to be representative of the people, for the people and by the people. My proposed amendment would ensure that the people's input is paramount to fair elections.

The amendment allows any New Jersey voter to challenge the established districts if they do not think that the electoral map promotes competition. The challenge will go straight to the state Supreme Court, and if it is successful a new map will have to be drawn to promote fair elections.

Over the past two decades New Jersey has increasingly been mired in one-party rule as the political environment has become more spiteful. The political polarization has made it worse, and there needs to be real

The electoral map should represent the people and voters shouldn't be discouraged because of politics. We need to make sure our districts are competitive and fair. That's my goal.

BRINGING DOWN THE RUNNING BACK...Union linebacker Drew Ortiz (Westfield, No. 50) brings down Middlesex running back Manny Resto (St. Joseph) as Cranford's Elijah Arroyo, No. 1, closes in at the Snapple Bowl in Woodbridge.

DO YOU FEEL LUCKY? WELL DO YA?...Union offensive linemen Jordan Barham (Westfield, No. 56), Jawahn Gasque (Roselle Park, No. 78) and Mike Ceceri (Brearley, No. 74) have full intentions of protecting their QB at the Snapple Bowl.

Middlesex Downs Union, 22-6, in Annual Snapple Bowl Game

By DAVID B. CORBIN
secially Written for The Westfield Leader and The

Enthusiasm, perhaps a little too much enthusiasm that resulted in a multitude of penalties and two bench-clearing discussions, highlighted the 25th Annual Snapple Bowl Football Classic between the Union County Senior All-Stars and the Middlesex County Senior All-Stars at Priscoe Stadium in Woodbridge on July 19. The Middlesex offense proved to be more effective and quite tricky, while the defense was making big plays all evening, resulting in a 22-6 victory.

Union had won the previous two events, 24-14 last year and 13-7 in 2016; however, with the win, Middlesex leads the series, 15-10. All proceeds from the game would go to the Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside and the Lakeview School for Disabilities in Edison.

Representing the Westfield Blue Devils on the gridiron were Shea Elliott (linebacker), Adam McDaniel (wide receiver), Jake Vall-Llobera (defensive line & fullback occasionally), Drew Ortiz (linebacker) and Jordan Barham (offensive line). Representing the Cranford Cougars were Elijah Arroyo (defensive back/punt returns), Dylan Budnik (linebacker) and Jack Carroll (offensive line). Although Cooper Heisey (quarterback) and Dwight Laylor (wide receiver) were selected, Scotch Plains-Fanwood brought no players. Mike Magliacano (defensive line) represented Governor Livingston.

Elliott, Vall-Llobera, McDaniel, Ortiz and Arroyo were involved in several tackles throughout the game and on certain occasions, Vall-Llobera was used as a battering ram to pick up short yardage on offense.

Just before the second half, Elliott expressed, "It has definitely been like a right of passage for Westfield guys who are going to be playing in college. Seeing all these guys growing up, all these stars coming on and continue to play in the Snapple Bowl with guys we looked up to. It is also a great opportunity to get ready for college. I am going to be playing at the University of Chicago next year, so it's good to get the pads on in the summer and hit a little before I get out there."

"It's an honor being part of this game. Some of these guys we are playing with are the best players from their county. They are talented, we are talented, so it's always good to get out here and put the pads on before I go to school at New Haven. Mini camp starts the fifth, so I am glad to put the pads on one last time," McDaniel added.

Representing the cheerleading squad for the Blue Devils were Katie Clark and Drew Ferris. Representing Scotch Plains-Fanwood were Gianna Cassara, Tamara Daliquer, Elizabeth DePaola, Ally Vuono and Alexa Zsak.

Union received the opening kickoff and beginning at their own 28 moved the ball to the Middlesex 40 using a series of runs and a screen pass from quarterback Antonio Salcfas (Dayton) to Dylan Camilo (Roselle Park). However, the drive stalled and Middlesex answered with a drive of its own until quarterback Luke Pero's (Colonia) pass was picked off by Haleem Woods (Plainfield) at the

Mtnside 8Us Nip Hillsborough In Cal Ripken State Semi, 7-6

By DAVID B. CORBIN

Opportunities may have come earlier for the Hillsborough Raiders and they did capitalize on them but Mountainside (Green Machine), winners of Pool B, took advantage of their opportunities late in the game to pull off a 7-6, seven-inning come from behind victory in the semifinal round of the Cal Ripken, Jr. 8U State Tournament at Memorial Field in Scotch Plains on July 18. Trailing, 6-1, in the bottom of the fifth inning, the Green Machine cashed in with five runs to knot the score then took advantage of another opportunity to score the winning run in the seventh to advance to the championship to face North Brunswick, winners over Monroe.

The Hillside Raiders, whose only loss in Pool A was to Monroe, consisted of Bryce Hayden, Justin Gregov, Jon Feltre, Jacob Treonze, Jack Pankowski, Andrew Wheeler, Aaron Feath, Bella Ruh, Logan Raab, Daniel Galfney and Gavin Glazewski. Competing for Mountainside were Addison Adorato, Jacob Minnefor, Matt Filiaci, Mateo Liloia, Tice Hanratty, Mike Donahue, LJ Cantagallo, Noah Hunter, Drew Peris, Alex Pater, Greg Dardinello and Bobby Poth.

Mountainside basically went with a new pitcher in every inning, beginning with Filiaci, who also stepped back on the mound in the extra inning (seventh). Hillsborough totaled only five hits but received eight walks, and had two hit batters, while striking out 10 times. Hillsborough also capitalized on some Green Machine errors and swiped several bases to set up their runs.

"We did. The biggest thing is getting people in scoring position and putting the ball in play. We were able to do that for a little while," Hillsborough Coach Frank Raab said.

"At this level, if you look at our pitching, we have strong pitching. Most teams don't score unless they are doing that [stealing] against us. That's how they got most of their runs. They really didn't hit. Before this game I think we gave up maybe six, seven hits but we have given up four, five runs a game on up because of that," Mountainside Head Coach Steve Filiaci said.

But the Green Machine added some flare to their base stealing, especially in the five-run fifth inning where they inserted three delayed steals.

"We were flat, so we had to do the same thing. Keep the delayed steals going then get the bats going and score some runs," Coach Filaici explained.

Wheeler tossed the first two innings for Hillsborough and yielded only a single to Donahue, while striking out two and walking no one. Feltre pitched innings three and four and allowed just one run (Filiaci) and a single to LiLoia, while walking no

BIG GAIN FOR MIDDLESEX...Middlesex running back Manny Resto (C on helmet - St. Joseph) gets a 13-yard gain on a screen pass from quarterback Paul Cocozziello (St. Joseph) at the Snapple Bowl in Woodbridge on July 19.

David B. Corbin for The Westfield Leader and The Times NEARLY BREAKING THROUGH...Union running back Andy Martin (Union H.S. No. 2) breaks through the Middlesex defense for a few yards during the Annual Snapple Bowl held at Priscoe Field in Woodbridge on July 19.

Middlesex All-Stars Down Union, 22-6, in Annual Snapple Bowl Game

Union four yard line.

Union had another drive squashed when wide receiver Max Hayford's (Summit) reception was jarred loose by Devin Lanza (Middlesex HS) and the fumble was recovered by Jevon Davis (Piscataway). Union had another drive just before the end of the first quarter that was thwarted when Salcfas' pass to Keyshawn Cummings (Rahway) was batted down in the end

Early in the second quarter, Middlesex got possession at its 48 yard line. After a first down, quarterback Paul Cocozziello (St. Joseph) delivered a screen pass to Manny Resto (St. Joseph) good for 13 yards. Middlesex then rumbled to the Union one where Donavan Benoit (Edison) plunged in for the touchdown. Dylan Kriz (South Brunswick) kicked the point after for a 7-0 lead with 9:05 on

Union's offense was cut short when Najhir Woods (Piscataway) picked off a pass and returned it to the Union 19. With key tackles by Vall-Llobera and Elliott, Union took over possession at their own three. Unfortunately a bad snap resulted in a safety and a 9-0 lead with 3:19 left in the half. Just before the half, Union had another the fourth quarter. A few plays later, drive cut short when Charles Lovett (South Plainfield) picked off a pass at the Middlesex 14.

In the third quarter, Middlesex pulled off a successful fake punt when Pero scampered 20 yards to the Union 25. Two more runs put the ball on the 14 where wide receiver Ahmed Aly (Edison) hauled in Pero's pass for the touchdown with 11:19 on the clock. The PAT made the score 16-0. Union finally answered with a touchdown with the help of an interference call, a two-yard run by Andy Martin (Union HS) and a three-yard TD reception by Chuck Ifewekwune (Union) with 7:02 on the clock. The two-point conversion run by Salcfas came up a yard

Union's Nicholas Balisage (Roselle) and Temi Adanlawo (Union) recorded a huge sack that set up a fourth-and-17 for Middlesex. From that point onward, emotions tended to elevate. Multiple flags were thrown on a punt return by Union. Participants from both teams swarmed the field for what seemed to be intense discussions. After a calming period, Union eventually had to punt and Middlesex took over at its 19 early in Cocozziello connected with wide receiver Tyler Jack (Perth Amboy) on the right sideline. From there Jack sprinted into the end zone for a 62yard touchdown with 11:10 remaining for a 22-6 lead.

Union's woes did not end. A bad snap cost them 16 yards and forced a punt to the Middlesex 34 but the defense managed to hold. Arroyo received the punt at the Union 19 and returned it to the 40 where he was abruptly stopped.

"I was running and out of the corner of my eye, I was seeing one of my own guys coming at me. I was like, 'Is this dude really going to take me out?' I avoided the hit then a couple of guys came up. I broke free then Middlesex crowded me and took me down," Arroyo described.

On his experience playing his last game at the high school level, Arroyo said, "There are a lot of emotions. This is the last time representing Cranford. It would have been nice to win but it was good knowing this was for a good cause. I had fun out here, met a lot of guys I played with during the season. It was a great experience. But next year I will be playing at Rowan. I report there in two weeks. I can't wait. Î am very excited." As the game was about to end, highly emotional behavior reemerged and the game was stopped by the officials with 1:25 on the clock. No traditional handshakes took place and the Union squad was hastened into the locker room. No further interviews were permitted.

salvage an 8-7 triumph.

After the first inning and one-half pitchers Fernandez and Wolgang's Howie Bailos were just plain stingy on the mound until the bottom of the seventh inning. But the stinginess really came from the fine defensive CONTINUED ON PAGE 13

St. Anthony Nips St. Mike, 7-5, In St. Bart's Softball League

By ALEX LOWE

John Deitch delivered three RBI and pitched a complete game to lead St. Anthony past St. Michael, 7-5, in a St. Bart's Oldtimers Men's Softball League, Angels Division showdown played on July 19 at Brookside Park in Scotch Plains. The game was an important victory for St. Anthony (8-6-1) as St. Michael came into the $game\ atop\ the\ Angels\ Division\ with\ a$ 9-4-1 record. The win pulled St. AnDeitch retired Hopler and James Killeen to escape the inning without further damage.

Despite the early fireworks, the game would soon turn into a pitching duel. St. Anthony grabbed the lead in the top of the second after Abram dropped a two-out single over the shortstop's head. Deitch took it from there, driving home his second run of the game on a triple to the leftcenterfield gap.

St. Anthony extended the lead in though as Hopler got Logan to pop out to short to end the rally. It was the second straight inning that Hopler had escaped from bases-loaded, noout jam by only allowing a single run.

While Hopler was allowing single runs, Deitch was hanging up goose eggs as St. Michael went scoreless in the second and third innings. St. Michael finally made its move in the fourth inning. Jason Virgil, Stratton and Balestriere led off with back-toback-to-back singles, loading the bases

A sac fly to left by Robert Del Cid scored Abram to make it 2-0. Shawn Yaney doubled to score Deitch for a 3-0 lead.

St. Michael answered right back in the bottom of the inning. Louis Balestriere smacked a one-out triple down the right field line that scored Robert Stratton who had earlier singled. The relay throw to first for a double play was high and Virgil turned and headed for second where he was thrown out for a double play. BROWN 2-RUN TRIPLE, RBI 1B; MANGIRIS KNOCKS IN 3

St. Anthony Taps St. Sebastian In St. Bart's Softball, 13-10

By ALEX LOWE

St. Anthony defeated St. Sebastian, 13-10, in a St. Bart's Oldtimers' Softball League, Angels Division game played on July 20 at Farley Field in Scotch Plains. Coady Brown had a two-run triple and an RBI single to fuel the St. Anthony offense. It was a productive 24-hour period for St. Anthony, which defeated Angels Division leader St. Michael a day earlier.

St. Sebastian on the other hand, losers of four of their last five games, did not come to Farley Field to take a nap. Trailing 5-0 in the bottom of the first inning, St. Sebastian went to work and let St. Anthony starter John Deitch know that this was not going to be a walk in the park. St. Sebastian scored six runs in the frame to take a 6-5 lead.

James Richey belted a two-run double down the leftfield line to get things started. Pat MacDonnell got a run home when he engineered a basesloaded walk. Nate Mangiris dropped a perfectly placed, bloop double that landed just inside the leftfield line that plated two more runs. Stanley Lesniewski delivered the go ahead run St. Anthony took the lead right back in the second with an RBI single by Michael Abram and a sac fly from Steve Burton. St. Anthony tacked on two more in the third inning to make it 9-6. Brown delivered an RBI single as did Bruce Logan.

St. Sebastian got one back in the third when they worked the bases loaded with one out. Mangiris got a run across on a ground out to make it 9-7. But the rally was cut short when Deitch retired Brendan McNamara on a grounder to short for the third out. St. Sebastian stranded the tying run on first base.

St. Anthony padded the lead to 10-7 on Mike Surbrug's sacrifice fly in the fourth. They added two more in the fifth when Brown punched a tworun triple to the base of the leftfield fence against St. Sebastian starter Jay Down 12-7, St. Sebastian mounted another rally in the fifth. Varoujan Baboomian got things started with a triple into the left centerfield gap. Richey brought him home with a sac fly to left, making it 12-8. Singles by Semple and Kris Olsen set the table for Mike DiFabrizio, who came through with a two RBI double to leftcenter. Once again though, St. Sebastian left the tying runner on base when Deitch got Mangiris to fly out to centerfield for the third out.

Deitch helped his own cause with an RBI single in the sixth to stretch the lead to 13-10. St. Sebastian got the tying run to the plate in the bottom of the sixth but Wells Pikaart grounded to short to end that threat.

Middlesex leads the 25-game series 15-10. COUNTDOWN TO FOOTBALL

The school has produced dozens of outstanding players, including Bobby Wilkinson, Danny Williams, Terry Brady, Bob Claussen, Bill Mammen, Chip Hall, John Brown, Tommy Ansbro, Tim Gaffney, Ted Danser, Cregg Watner, Rich Jeremiah, Ronnie Kashlak, Ryan Shallcross, Jimmy Arbes, Sean Elliott ... and many others.

Hillsborough scored twice in the top of the first inning. Hayden tapped a leadoff single past third, stole second, advanced to third on a wild pitch that was followed by a throwing error that allowed him to score. drew an RBI walk. Feath gave Hillsborough a 6-1 lead with a tworun double into right field.

But the Green Machine answered with their big five-run shout out. Cantagallo and Hunter both walked and Adorato pounded a key two-run double to centerfield. Minnefor added an RBI groundout. After Filiaci reached base safely, he added his magic of delayed steals. LiLoia lashed an RBI single to right and also pulled off a delayed steal. Hanratty lofted a fly to right that was dropped, allowing LiLoia to tie the score.

'Adonato, LiLoia, Filiaci from the districts until now, they have been catcher also gunned down a runner attempting to steal to prevent Mountainside from scoring in the sixth. Filiaci came back to the mound in the seventh and after fanning the first batter, walked the next two. Hanratty stepped to the mound in relief, struck out a batter then walked the next to load the bases but Donahue at third snagged a wicked line drive to silence the threat.

"What we did is Filiaci started but you can bring him back in. As soon as he walked two guys, we were pulling him out for somebody else. That's the one thing about this team. Deep pitching," Coach Filiaci said.

SCORING THE WINNING RUN...Mountainside's Jacob Minnefor, No. 7, scores the winning run against Hillsborough in the bottom of the seventh inning to advance the Green Machine to the Cal Ripken 8U State Championship Game.

Mountainside kept Hillsborough from scoring in the third and fourth innings. In the Green Machine fourth, Filiaci reached first safely and LiLoia singled past short. Filiaci stole third and scored on a wild pitch, narrowing the margin to 2-1.

The fifth inning proved to change the complexion of the game. Hillsborough's Galfney reached on an error and Hayden walked. Galfney was forced out on Gregov's grounder. Feltre's grounder to first was fielded but dropped due to a collision loading the bases. Treonze got an RBI after being hit by a pitch then Pankowski

In the sixth, Filiaci, now behind the plate, gunned down a runner attempting to steal second to prevent any Hillsborough scoring.

"He worked so hard and he's got a strong arm. That was a big throw to get the guy at second. That was awe-performances of their teammates. St. Wolfgang benefited heavily from the efforts of shortstop Dave Eckert, who made several impressive running snags. His most impressive catch came in the sixth inning when he sprinted into mid-leftfield to backhand a difficult popup off the bat of Erik Hastrup. Eckert then added two more slick snags in the seventh, one in shallow left and the other in shallow center.

But the Wolfmen also received other fine performances from rightcenterfielder Jon Villegas, who galloped forward to rob Jerry Russo of a hit, and left-centerfielder Brian Weber, whose running grab robbed Jeff Friedlander of his potential second hit. Mike McKenna used his blazing speed to chase down Hastrup's liner to left then right fielder Brian Healy made a sliding snare of Chris San Juan's low liner.

St. George shortstop Russo denied Eckert of a hit when he absorbed his lined steamer in the fifth inning. He also made Ryan Peters shake his head when he corralled his sharp grounder and converted it to a putout in the second inning. Josh Baik, however, made the first super grab of the evening when he hauled in Weber's lined shot in right field in the first inning. First baseman Bill Scheiner made it interesting in the fifth inning when Eckert's liner lodged into his glove then popped out but his relaxed but accurate reflexes allowed him to quickly make

Only two extra base hits were recorded in the game and both were delivered by the Wolfmen, a double from Daryl Palmieri, who went 3-for-3 with a run scored, and an RBI triple

Andy Wilber led St. George with three singles and an RBI. Fernandez had two singles and two RBI. Baik rapped a two-run single and an RBI Juan rapped an RBI single, was intentionally walked and scored twice. Paul Bifani singled twice and scored once. Although being robbed twice, Hastrup had an RBI sac fly, singled and scored once. Scheiner singled twice and scored once.

St. George seized a 3-0 lead in the top of the first inning. Bifani slapped a leadoff single to right, Hastrup lined a single to left and San Juan was intentionally walked. Baik lofted an RBI sac fly to center, Wilber looped an RBI single over second and Fernandez added an RBI groundout to second.

The score quickly knotted, 3-3, in the Wolfgang first. Palmieri legged out a looping double to shallow rightcenter, Villegas whacked his RBI triple to deep right, Bialos slashed an RBI single to right and Healy drilled an RBI single to center.

St. George plated five runs in the second to take an 8-3 lead. Don Rinaldi reached base on an error, Scheiner wiggled a single past short and Friedlander curled a single over first to load the bases. Hastrup lined an RBI sac fly to right, San Juan jolted an RBI single to right-center and Baik bashed a tworun single to left. Wilber singled and Fernandez poked an RBI single to left.

From that point onward until the bottom of the seventh inning, both teams' bats went into slumber mode due to the effective pitching of Fernandez and Bialos and the impres-PUBLIC NOTICE

The nearly fairytale seventh inning arrived and the Wolfmen began to huff and puff in order to bring St. George's house down. Healy plopped a one-out single over second, Bobby McGuinnes whizzed a single down the third baseline and Reilly walked to load the bases. Veglia dribbled an RBI single over second and Joe Tilocca drew and RBI free pass. Eckert's RBI sac fly scored Reilly and Peters hopped an RBI single past third to make the score, 8-7, with runners on first and third. Frank Apocella stepped to the plate and got under the pitch causing a short but dangerous infield popup but Fernandez sprinted forward and corralled it for the final out.

Having won four of their past six games, the victory placed St. George one half game behind the league leaders St. Francis and St. Michael. St. George upped its record to 9-5, while St. Francis, who won five of its last six games, improved to 9-4-1, just a few percentage points ahead of St. Michael, who had lost four of its past six games slipping to 10-5-1. Meanwhile St. Wolfgang slipped to fifth place with a 7-7 record behind St. Anthony at 9-6-1. The three teams vying for the cellar are St. Joseph and St. Vincent both at 4-10 and St. Sebastian just a nip ahead at 4-9-1.

TEAM Cranford VFW Creative Industries Too DeBellis Associates Liberty Lighting Group 8, DeBellis

Associates 7 LLG found just enough offense to secure the win over team DeBellis. Leading the way for Liberty were Lou Balestriere, who stroked three singles in three at-bats, and Willie Jackson, who was just a HR shy of the cycle. After tying the game in the previous inning, Liberty's Rick Lindemann crushed a one-out double to left in the 7th. In his first game back off the DL, Jeff Maglietta stepped to the plate, and with two outs, ripped a pitch deep to center scoring Lindemann for the walk-off victory. Howard Walker led the DeBellis boys with three hits (3B) followed by Dave McFall and Rich Grossberg with two hits apiece.

Kilkenny House 8, Cranford VFW 7 Kilkenny squeezed out the victory in the bottom of the 7th on a base hit by Bill Hillyer with the bases loaded, just after the potential winning run was thrown out at the plate the play before. Kilkenny hitting was led by Bill Vanderstreet (4-for-4) and Don Montefusco (3 hits) and the pitching of Rich Kovach, who allowed only five hits. Cranford VFW was led by Bill Early and Charlie Wischusen, who both had triples, and Gary Schaller, who doubled. Tom Rutkowski pitched well for Cranford and their defense came up with some fine plays.

Avengers 23, Creative Too 15 The Avengers defeated Creative Too in a slugfest at Linden Memorial Field. For the Avengers, Steve Falco, Joe Brown (HR) and Richie Krov were 3-for-3. Anthony Abbaleo, Geno Raisley, Robert Hoffman, Steve Landau, Ron Horinko and Dave Goodman added two hits apiece to the Avengers' 25 hit attack. The Avengers defense was lead by Geno Raisley's solid play at third base.

Yogi's Boys 16, Awnings 7

Yogi's Boys has hit their predictable pennant stretch stride with a key A Division victory at Linden Memorial Field. Every player on Yogi's Boys had at least two hits, led by Steve Ferro with three.

Yogi's Boys 18, Liberty 14

Yogi's Boys extended their stretch drive A Division lead by pounding out 28 hits. Perfect at the plate for The Boys were Dana Kimmel (4H, 4R), Joe Massimino (3H, 3R, 2HR, 7 RBI's) and Steve Ferro (3H). Also contributing to the offense were Tom Straniero (3H, 3R) and Anthony Santorelli (3H). For Liberty, Tom MacDermant, Lou Balestriere (2B) and Willie Jackson were all 4-for-4. Don Miller (3B) and Harry Semple (2B) kept the pressure on with 3 hits

Awnings 17, Creative Too 10

Awnings finally got the offense humming and broke a 4-game slide with a 17-10 victory over Creative Industries Too at Linden Memorial Field. AG was paced by Gary Cutler, Danny Mendoza, Rick Dempsey (3 RBI), Bob Lorincz, Ray Meigs and John Campanella who all had three hits. Rich Polinitza added four RBI in the victory

American Legion 28, Avengers 17 American Legion stayed hot on the tail of ADivision leading Yogi's Boys with an 28-17 offensive explosion at Linden Memorial Field. For the Legion, Ed Kushner (triple), Jimmy Caravano and Johnny Symczak each had four hits. Gene Antonucci (HR), Johnny Amato, Glenn Sysco, Walt Serafyn (2 triples) each added three hits in the Legion victory. For The Avengers, Bill Moore, Anthony Abbaleo, Moe Fernandez and Ron Horinko were 3-for-3. Leo Diguilio (HR), Steve Falco, Geno Raisley, Robert Hoffman and Dave Goodman contributed two hits apiece.

Kilkenny House 11, DeBellis 7

Kilkenny House relied on the steady pitching of George Brokaw and a stingy defense. The Kilkenny offense was led by Bob D'Meo who was 3for-3. For DeBellis, Jorge Barca led the way with three hits. "Brooklyn" Bruce Billotti, Art Martines and Dennis Wilckens had two hits each.

WILD ACTION AT THIRD...Two Berkeley Heights girls get hung up at third base as Westfield 12U catcher Erica Lawrence and third baseman Caitlin Clancy attempt to figure out who to tag. Westfield won, 5-1, for the title on July 28, 2014

From the archives of The Westfield Leader and The Scotch Plains-Fanwood Times

July 26, 2016: Ten-run rule seemed to be on the horizon after the topseeded Westfield White 11Us gushed to an 8-0 lead after two innings but the fourth-seeded Summit Gold refused to quit and made it a contest in the second round of the New Providence Gold League playoffs at Gumbert 2 Field in Westfield. The Hilltoppers showed their character and skipped across the plate five times in the third inning and added another in the fourth before the Blue Devils regained their composure to pull out a 9-7 victory and to advance to the championship

Leo Mangiamele held an effective war club with a hard RBI double to left in the second inning and a key RRI single to right in the with his walk and run scored in the first. Brett Fischer scored on all three of his plate appearances, which included scoring the ninth run off Mangiamele's single. Owen Callahan rapped a two-run double and scored once. Anthony Buoscio walked twice and scored both times.

July 27, 2016: Sixth-seeded Charlie Brown's did not hide under its Linus blanket for six innings but needed it in the final three innings as third-seeded Chico's bailed themselves out with five more insurance runs during that rest period to earn a 20-13 victory in the first round of the Scotch Plains Men's Softball League ADivision playoffs at Jerseyland Field in Scotch Plains. Chico's, comprised mostly of somewhat recent SPF Raider baseball players, pelted Charlie Brown's with 28 hits, which included six doubles and three triples. Two of those triples came off the bat of former Raider baseball standout James D'Angelo, who finished with a team-leading five RBI.

Jack Poillon led Chico's with five hits, while scoring four times and added a pair of RBI. John Murphy laid down the law with four hits, including a double, two RBI and two runs scored. Stan Lorenz rapped four singles and scored twice. Chris Lettieri lashed an RBI double and a pair of RBI singles, while scoring three times. Morgan Ellman tripled, doubled, singled, scored four times and had two RBI. Brad Alleman doubled twice with an RBI and singled.

Charlie Brown's leadoff hitter Kyle Berwick, a Sigma Pi frat brother, was on fire and lit up the field with a triple, a double, a single, three RBI and four runs scored.

July 25, 2014: Brother against brother on the mound once again, but there was absolutely no sympathy for younger brother John Chupko of St. Anthony as older brother Frank Chupko's St. Joseph team pelted him with power in every inning, especially the fourth, to cruise to a 22-7, five-inning victory in St. Bart's Oldtimers Men's Softball League action at Farley Field in Scotch Plains.

Kevin Spellman spellbound John Chupko with a colossal two-run home $run\,and\,a\,two\text{-}run\,double\,to\,go\,with\,his$ other double, while scoring twice. Jerry Russo blasted a solo homer, an RBI triple and an RBI sacrifice fly, while scoring three times. Lou Balestriere belted a two-run double, an RBI sac Nash Warfield whacked an RBI double, singled and scored twice.

July 28, 2014: Sign of things to come? Maybe! Westfield Black finally found the Achilles Heel in the bottom of the sixth inning to earn a 5-1 victory over Berkeley Heights for the Parkway Invitational Softball League 12U championship at the Westfield High School JV Field. Erica Lawrence stepped up to the plate and launched a long shot over the centerfielder's head, resulting in a grand slam home run and a 5-0 Westfield lead in the bottom of the sixth inning.

July 26, 2012: Zany plays, followed by the thunder and darkness from impending severe weather halted the New Providence Green League upper bracket championship game between the Westfield Blue 12-yearold baseball team and the Springfield Minutemen in the top of the fifth inning at Gumbert 2 Field in Westfield. The remainder of the game was played the next day, but at the time of the postponement, Westfield held a 6-4 lead. However, Springfield tied the game in the fifth, but Westfield regained the lead, 7-6, and held on to claim the title.

Matt Cetlin was Westfield Blue's most formidable offensive threat with a two-run double and an RBI groundout. He also scored a run. Jack Johnson pounded the ball with a pair of singles, while scoring once in his two plate appearances. But it was Kevin Fuller (2-for-3, run scored) who knocked in what turned out to be the winning RBI

James F. Carden, 88, Family Man, Pilot, Veteran, Habitat Volunteer

James Francis Carden, known to friends as both "Jim" and "Daddy Jim," passed away on Friday, July 20, 2018, at the age of 88 years, after a prolonged struggle with pulmonary and cardiac illness. A native of Youngstown, Ohio, and longtime resident of Westfield, N.J., Jim graduated from Chaney High School in 1948 and briefly attended Youngstown University before joining the United States Air Force, where he became a fighter pilot in the 319th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, flying F-94B all-weather fighter planes in Ko-

American Airlines. Jim was passionate about flying, but his main love was his wife and family. He was a loyal friend and helpful neighbor. Home renovations and improvements were second nature to Jim, and he loved working on projects in his home and the homes of his three chil-

found time to travel back to his family roots and relations in Ohio, where he will now be laid to rest in the Old Home Cemetery. He is survived by his loving wife of 65 years, Rosella (Ro); his children, Cathy (Rob) Shaffer, Jamie Carden-Leventhal and Jimmer (Lisa) Carden; his four grandchildren, PJ and Lydia Leventhal and Miles and Aidan Carden; his brother, John (Donna) Carden of Boardman, Ohio, and many cousins, nieces and nephews.

Visitation and a celebration of Jim's life will be held from 3 to 7 p.m. on Friday, July 27, at the Higgins and Bonner Echo Lake Funeral Home, 582 Springfield Avenue, Westfield, N.J., with a brief memorial service at 6:30 p.m.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations in memory of Jim Carden can be made to Habitat for Humanity of Greater Plainfield and Middlesex County, New Jersey: http://www.habitatgpmc.org/; (888) 557-6032.

Local Residents Are Among Pan-Mass Challenge Riders

AREA — During the weekend of August 4 and 5, Jonathan Gellman and Reid Prichett of Westfield and James Chitty and Joseph Hesson of Scotch Plains will cycle up to 192 miles in the Pan-Mass Challenge (PMC) with the goal of topping last year's record-breaking gift and raising $52 million for critical cancer research and patient care at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

During PMC weekend, more than 6,300 cyclists from 43 states and 10 countries will gather in Massachusetts to participate in the PMC. Riders include everyone from seasoned triathletes to weekend warriors and range in age from 13 to 85. Many ride to honor a family member or friend lost to, or being treated for, cancer, and over 900 riders and volunteers are cancer survivors or current patients themselves, and considered Living Proof® of the PMC mission.

Designed to cater to all levels of cycling and fund-raising ability, the PMC offers 12 different routes, varying in mileage and difficulty, that pass through 46 towns across the Commonwealth, with starting lines in Sturbridge, Wellesley and Bourne. Cyclists are required to raise between $600 and $8,000, depending on the chosen route, although the average cyclist raises more than $7,000.

Volunteers, spectators, donors and sponsors also are part of the camaraderie on ride weekend, all working together in hopes of one day eradicating cancer.

"After surpassing our goal and raising $51 million for Dana-Farber last year, we are excited to keep the momentum going as we approach our 39th PMC ride weekend," said Billy Starr, founder and executive director of the PMC. "We are continuously humbled by the dedication and generosity of our riders, volunteers, donors, sponsors and community members - it's thanks to them that the PMC is able to make such an immense impact on the fight against cancer. We hope everyone has a safe and enjoyable ride weekend and can't wait to see you all out on the road."

The PMC donates 100 percent of every rider-raised dollar directly to Dana-Farber through its fund-raising institute's largest single contributor, raising more than 53 percent of the Jimmy Fund's annual revenue. In 2017, the PMC gave a record gift of $51 million to Dana-Farber, bringing its 38-year contribution to a total of more than $598 million since its in-

In Loving Memory Of Betty Jean Short Fitterer

Betty Jean Fitterer

Betty Jean Short Fitterer, daughter of Thomas and Hazel Gulick, died on November 14, 2017 on Cape Cod, Mass. Betty was born. lived and was married in Falmouth, Ky. She will be remembered for her sweet kindness, her smile, her thoughtfulness, her style, and her appreciation of both hearing and saying "a funny," as she called the quick quip. She deeply loved her home and garden, her friends, her family, and her cats. There were many truths in Betty's life: always have a novel and crossword puzzle in progress; only feed shrimp to cats; salt goes with everything; meals are to be a still life as well as delicious; cashmere sweaters are to be worn every day in layers; bridge is a game of easy strategy; and rugs are to be hooked with wool dyed on top of the stove in 1700's colours.

Betty married Hazen L. Short on December 11, 1949. They loved to dance. They started their family in Kansas City, where Hazen worked for P&G, then by way of Cincinnati, Ohio, moved to Westfield, N.J., in 1961, where Betty was a long-time volunteer for the Westfield Service League as well as the Children's Country Home, in addition to other organizations. When Hazen suffered a stroke in 1977, Betty cared for him for ten years with patience and love.

After Hazen's death, Betty realized their plan to live on Cape Cod, and moved to Barnstable, Mass., where she made her home an anchor for her family. She later married the kind, retired Wall Street bondsman and golfer, John C. Fitterer, Jr. of Westfield, N.J., in 1996, who died in

In Betty's advanced stages of Alzheimer's, at her memory care home, she went into her friends' rooms and folded their clothes or dusted the nurses' station with a napkin, helping others

Betty is survived by a daughter, Amy L. Archer; a son, Douglas H. Short, and his wife, Christina R. Short; two grandchildren, Maxandra E. Kramer and Thomas L. Short, and her Kentucky cousins, Bob Gulick and Doris Kemp, and her BFF of over 50 years, Barbara Brown. A service was held in memory of Betty at Woodhead Funeral Home in Falmouth, Ky., on Wednesday, May 16, 2018. For the online guestbook, please www.ccgfuneralhome.com.

YOUNG ENTREPRENEURS...Students in Carol DelConte's fifth-grade 21st Century Skills class at Lincoln School in Garwood were challenged with the task of being entrepreneurial philanthropists. They brainstormed and researched ways to donate their time, talents and resources to help others. Working individually and in small groups, they created and implemented philanthropic plans from start to finish. They donated to organizations and individuals in their community, all the while exploring how they could make a positive difference in other people's lives. Some of the groups that benefited from their efforts were St. Jude Children's Hospital, animal rescue shelters and Newark Beth Israel Hospital.

POPCORN

"Ant-Man and the Wasp" Going Molecular 2 & ½ popcorns

One Popcorn, Poor $\,$ — Two Popcorns, Fair — Three Popcorns, Good — Four Popcorns, Excellent

By Michael S. Goldberger

Y'know how in organic chemistry they show you a molecular construction and then ask you to identify it from another angle? Well, I can't do that, which is why I'm a film critic and not a dermatologist. And it's worked out pretty well, except until now, when I'm faced with trying to explain the pseudo-scientific ins and outs of director Peyton Reed's "Ant-Man and the Wasp." You see, a good deal of this adventure yarn is concerned with rescuing Michelle Pfeiffer's Janet Van Dyne a.k.a. Wasp from the Quantum Realm, and I have absolutely no idea where that is.

I only know that whether it is to the left, right, up, down or somewhere sideways, it is very, very small...like subatomic small. Forget about how the lady got stuck there for now. It's part of the multifarious prongs of minutiae, pun embarrassingly attempted, that will unravel in the form of a screenplay probably obscure enough for Marvel Comics stalwarts, but way too convoluted for someone who had originally planned to delve no further than skin deep.

But being a fair sort of guy, who I think would have accepted all health insurances, Medicare and, Psst, even no money if you're real poor, but don't let it get around, I'll take the aficionados' word for it that there's some scientific basis to all the gobbledygook here glorified. However, conversely quite intolerant if films expect me to learn an entire, franchise-dedicated libretto in order to understand what in tarnation is going on, I've taken to just letting such mishegoss wash over me. And then, if entertained nonetheless, I recommend it to my fellow Great Unwashed.

In this case, I offer no breakthrough opportunity for those who wouldn't years, if blessed with such longevity. However, for those most assuredly uninterested but who might be pressed into duty as accompanying parents or grandparents, there is consolation in the humorously self-conscious patter co-title character Paul Rudd spreads across the scenario. Likeable in a winningly self-effacing way, Mr. Rudd, who gets the Anthony Perkins award for thus far not aging during his entire career, is a charming entity unto him-

Plus, if you allot some cred for impressive casting in the form of big name actors who, while nice to see, add nothing to the movie as a whole, Michael Douglas is Mom Wasp's genius hubby, Dr. Hank Pym, and Laurence Fishburne is his former colleague, Dr. Bill Foster.

And, if still seeking rationalization to tout "Ant-Man and the Wasp," there's the domestic angle as Mr. Rudd's Scott Lang/Ant-Man, divorced from his wife, tries to be the perfect dad to his idolizing, precocious daughter, Cassie (Ryder

But if not a Marvel devotee, be warned: There is hardly a paragraph of dialogue that doesn't include the word quantum. It's quantum this and quantum that, delivered in a Hula Hoop craze fervor, and inevitably causing me, despite all avowals, to burn my brain synapses in painful contemplation.

Still, despite the hifalutin techno jargon that only professors at MIT and kids under 17 grok, it's basically comic book sci-fi meets traditional action flick, replete with a despicably appropriate villain for these fragile times. You've doubtless seen real life versions of black marketer Sonny Burch on the nightly news. They're either awaiting trial, tantalizing justice seekers with whether or not they will flip in the cause of saving our democracy, or holding court on talk shows where they revel in their "nah, nah, can't catch me" chutzpah.

In this fictional mirror, Burch, played to a snarky turn by Walton Goggins, sells Hope Van Dyne/Wasp (Evangeline Lilly), daughter of Dr. Pym and Ant-Man's on again off again love interest, a part necessary for that trek to the Quantum Realm. But when these good, smart people display their creative adaptation of the gizmo for its humanitarian purpose, the doubledealing brigand spots an illegal way to profit from it, which, to the criminal mind, is always more preferable than an honest transaction.

Hence, my short critique of this movie: It's good versus evil. I should have put that at the top of the column, huh?

My haughty detractions aside, and soberly considering that you take good over evil wherever you can find it these days, whether in the form of polite fellow motorists, welcoming servers at coffee shops, politicians who actually have your interests at heart, or movie plots, I kind of get it. Plus, it's all so very colorful...so much so that I think if I were 11 the sign at the entranceway to my basement sanctuary might read "Welcome to the Quantum Realm" instead of the current "Brooks Was Here." That granted, only zealots need go buggy over "Ant-Man and the

CDC to Feature Hispanic Theatre Festival

CRANFORD—Spanish-language theatre is alive and well in New Jersey. For the second straight year, the CDC Theatre in Cranford will feature its Hispanic Theatre Festival, its Festival de Teatro Hispanico, for four performances Thursday, July 26, through Saturday, July 28.

Despite a large and vibrant Hispanic population of 1.2 million in the state, the creators of this event recognized that there are no Spanish-language plays being performed on an ongoing basis that cater to that community in central New Jersey. Last summer, the CDC Theatre, the longest continuously-producing community theatre in New Jersey, bridged that gap by mounting the premiere Hispanic Theatre Festi-

The play being showcased this season is Bar Manolo, a full-length comedy by European playwright Jean-Pierre Martinez. Directed by CDC Theatre member Joel Redmount, the story unfolds in a friendly, comfortable bar that happens to be across from a cemetery. The bar owner, Manolo, relies on a steady stream of customers looking for a little respite from the activities across the street. This particular afternoon features the interplay of two philosophical funeral workers, a professor who may or may not be having an affair with one of his students, a flooded basement, a damaged coffin, a misplaced cell phone, a lost lottery ticket, a waitress frustrated with her bad luck with online dating, a befuddled old lady and a host of other characters, all of whom Manolo greets with a friendly smile and an offer of watered-down cognac.

The cast will feature Robert Asencio of Elizabeth, Paula Carrerio of Millburn, Merari Cortes of Edison, Milagros Cortes of Linden, Flora Cadillo of Union, Willy Illas of Perth Amboy, Norma Melendez of Montclair, Lili Rebelo of Cranford and Jose A. Rivera of Union.

Performances will take place at the CDC Theatre, located at 78 Winans Avenue, Cranford, on Thursday, July 26, Friday, July 27, and Saturday, July 28, all at 8 p.m., with a matinee performance on July 28 at 2 p.m. Knowing it would not truly be a festival without appropriate music and food, the producers of the event are looking to provide complimentary refreshments on opening night, in the spirit of the evening. CDC Theatre looks forward to exploring the richness of la cultura Latina, as reflected in plays that mirror the pride, the drama and comedy of the human experience, as showcased through a Spanish-language lens.

Tickets will be available for purchase through the website, cdctheatre.org, or available at the box office prior to each performance.

CLARK-The Union County Torah Center will present a Jewish Story and Crafts Hour on Wednesday, August 1, at 5 p.m., at Barnes & Noble, located at 1180 Raritan Road, Clark. TASO Plans Free Concert At PCW This Sunday

WESTFIELD—The August Symphony Orchestra (TASO) announced its annual free concert will be held on Sunday, July 29, at 3 p.m., at The Presbyterian Church in Westfield, under the baton of conductor Michael Avagliano. The program features the passionate energy of Brahms' First Symphony, Haydn's popular trumpet concerto in E flat major with guest soloist Andrew Filippone, and select pieces by Mendelssohn and Strauss.

Haydn's radiant concerto in E flat major is the most famous trumpet concerto and possibly Haydn's most popular concerto. The spirited piece is chock full of sparkling humor, dramatic surprises and harmonic detours, while showcasing the expressive artistry of both the soloist and trumpet. Mr. Filippone is principal trumpeter for the Plainfleld Symphony Orchestra and teaches trumpet at Drew Uni-

Brahms Symphony 1 in C Minor is a complex piece with passionate energy. It is widely regarded as one of the greatest symphonies of the Austro-German tradition. In this, his first symphony, Brahms pays homage to Beethoven with a majestic theme, heard in the strings, that closely resembles the "Ode to Joy" melody from Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

The charming Strauss Serenade for Winds is thoroughly pleasing for its special fluctuation from calm moments moments of great intensity.

"Strauss was still a teenager when he wrote the Serenade, and I think that youthful exuberance shows in the piece," said Mr. Avagliano.

Mendelssohn's Overture in C Major is both energetic and dramatic. It is the composer's first large piece for wind instruments; prior to that he had only written for strings or piano.

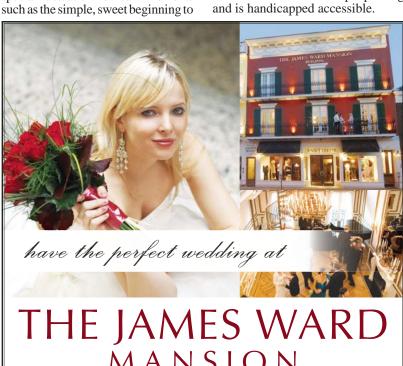

This year marks the third season the orchestra will be conducted by Mr.

Avagliano, who has served as music director of the Central Jersey Symphony since 2008, and was recently appointed music director of the Summit Symphony. He is on the faculty of Drew University as conductor of the Drew Chamber Orchestra and violin professor. As a violinist, Mr. Avagliano has appeared with the New Jersey Sym-

Michael Avagliano phony, the Singapore Symphony, the Strauss Symphony of America, and the Indianapolis Chamber Orchestra and is an active performer in the New York area. "Maestro Avagliano brings a wealth of talent and expertise to The August Symphony Orchestra," stated Robert Whiteley, president of TASO. "We are honored to have him lead our orchestra and maintain our high standard of quality performance of musical works."

ALL'S WELL...Helena (Noelle Fair) pursues the reluctant Bertram (Joey Santia) in marriage in the Hudson Shakespeare Company's production of All's Well That Ends Well, to be presented on Monday at the Cranford Public Library.

All's Well That Ends Well Due at Cranford Library

CRANFORD – All's Well That Ends Well will be presented by the Hudson Shakespeare Company (HSC) on Monday at the Cranford Public Library. It is directed by Jon Ciccarelli, with fight choreography by Dispatch Combat Collective.

Set in France and Italy, All's Well That Ends Well is a story of one-sided romance, based on a tale from Boccaccio's The Decameron.

Helena (Noelle Fair), the orphaned daughter of a well-known doctor, is under the protection of the widowed Countess of Rossillion (Sharon DeWitte Caccibaudo) after her father's death. In love with Bertram (Joev Santia). the countess' son. Helena follows him to court, where she cures the sick French king (Aurelio Kogan) of a fatal illness. In exchange for curing the king, Helena asks for Bertram's hand in marriage. The king rewards Helena by granting the marriage.

However, Bertram resists the marriage, rejecting her in court.

When forced by the king to marry her, he refuses to sleep with her and, accompanied by the braggart Parolles (Ryan Knight), leaves for the Italian

HSC's production asks the viewer to look at both the good and ill spun within the yarn of the story of its two main characters, Bertram and Hel-

"In most productions of this show, Helena is painted a wronged victim. She is rejected by Bertram in a very public, cruel, and embarrassing way,' said Mr. Ciccarelli, the show's director, "but her response and subsequent plot to this rejection can be seen as deceitful, and even questionable. She befriends another woman and they trick him into sleeping with Helena, thus getting her pregnant and fulfilling Bertram's conditions. Conversely, many productions paint Bertram out as a spoiled royal brat who treats Helena poorly, but let's not forget, he was forced into a marriage that he had no say so in.'

The free performance will take place on Monday, July 30, at 7 p.m., at the Cranford Public Library, located at 224 Walnut Avenue, Cranford.

Cheney of Scotch Plains To Perform in Circus

SCOTCH PLAINS — Sean Cheney of Scotch Plains is one of six students and alumni who will be working backstage in the Muhlenberg Summer Music Theatre (MSMT) circus production "TAL: Beyond Imagina-tion." The all-age show runs Friday, July 27, and Saturday, July 28, in the studio theatre, Trexler Pavilion for Theatre & Dance.

MSMT is teaming up with the Atlas Circus Company to present "TAL: Beyond Imagination," a world-premiere modern circus production, with a message that will resonate with children and adults alike, according to Shantell Cruz, who plays the title character.

In addition to six students and alumni working behind the scenes, a cast of 10 performers clown, act and perform aerial acrobatics throughout the show. All of them are veterans of Muhlenberg's dance and theater programs.

"'TAL' is a magical show, entirely full of fun," Ms. Cruz said. "It's about someone who rediscovers her passions and finds the courage to follow her dreams.

"It was taking the concept of having too many ideas, too many images, and kind of melding them together," said Noah Dach, the show's creator and director. "How do you do that? In a dream. A dream doesn't exactly make sense, but makes complete sense. It's where different images can mesh together and become something new." "TAL" is the latest work from Atlas

Circus Company, a Muhlenberg-born contemporary circus ensemble currently making waves in New York City. The company works with talented performers, designers and other creative artists to reinvent the circus and challenge audience expectations, Mr. Dach said. Atlas has produced several other modern circus pieces — most recently "The Optimist," presented this spring at The People's Improv Theater in New York City. The New York Post has called the company "the new Ringling Brothers.'

"TAL: Beyond Imagination" plays Friday, July 27, at 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m., and Saturday, July 28, at 10 a.m.

Tickets can be purchased at muhlenberg.edu/smt or (484) 664-3333. Performances are in the Studio Theatre in the Trexler Pavilion for Theatre & Dance, Muhlenberg College, 2400 Chew Street, Allentown.

Amsterdam, a City You'll Want to Visit Again and Again

By FRED T. ROSSI

I'm amazed at how many people, who have traveled throughout Europe, tell me they have yet to visit Amsterdam, the picturesque capital city of the Netherlands that has climbed to the top of my list of favorite places. It is a place that's more like a village of more than 800,000 residents than a big and bustling metropolis.

I've visited Amsterdam several times in recent years, and every time I board the airplane to fly back home, I'm already planning my next trip to one of Europe's more unique and safe cities. There are no bad neighborhoods in Amsterdam, although I avoid the vicinity of the central train station, usually crowded with tourists, tour buses, fast food joints and the occasional hustler. But once you're out of that immediate area, you can truly enjoy a city that feels architecturally as if you were dropped into a life-size replica of a village out of "Hansel and Gretel."

The city center, or Centrum, is made up of a series of lovely 17th-century canals arranged in concentric Ushaped belts. The canals, which are not very wide, can be crossed by any number of small bridges and run alongside buildings containing wellmaintained shops and apartments. You'll see interesting-looking canal boats, home to some of the locals, docked permanently along the sides of some of the wider canals. Singel is the innermost canal, having first served as a moat around medieval Amsterdam from 1480 until 1585. One of the wider canals, the Zwanenburgwal, also is one of the most beautiful, with the painter Rembrandt and the philosopher Spinoza having lived alongside it.

One can easily spend days walking along the canals, taking photos, stopping in a café along the way or sitting on a bench and enjoying the calm and serenity. Amsterdam is not a noisy city; in fact, the most prevalent sound might just be the tinkling of the bell from one of the hundreds of thousands of bicycles that pretty much everyone — young and old — rides. In fact, that's the first thing you need to become acclimated to when you arrive. Bicycles are everywhere in Amsterdam and it's important to be aware of the bike lanes, lest you hear a bell signaling you to move over.

Be sure to also pay attention to Amsterdam's unique architecture. First, notice how narrow many of the buildings are. Back in the 16th century, when many were built, Amsterdam houses were taxed based on their width, which caused residents to build narrow and tall. The city's narrowest house is a mere six feet wide and 15 feet deep, with one room per floor!

You'll also notice many of the older buildings lean forward towards the street. I first figured this was due to the settling of the building itself, but I learned from a waiter one night that until the start of the 19th century, construction regulations stated that all houses needed to lean forward. In medieval times, the buildings had an upper floor larger than the size of the floor below. Its main advantage is that when it rains, the water doesn't enter into the floor below. It also allowed a bigger upper floor, without taking too much space in the street.

Most of the houses in Amsterdam were not only used for living, they were also used to store goods since Amsterdam was — and still is — a major port city. So, goods were often stored in the attics of merchants' canal houses, with the goods hoisted up from the street using a hook on the beam sticking out at the top floor. A leaning facade meant it was less likely that the goods would hit the wall or break a window. Look up today and vou'll see numerous buildings with hooks sticking from the top floor.

There's plenty to see in Amsterdam besides the canals and the architecture, though. There are parks galore, all within walking distance of the city's center. Vondelpark and Westerpark are two of my favorites. The Amsterdam Zoo, which also includes a wonderful aquarium and butterfly garden besides the array of animals, shouldn't be missed. The tour of the Anne Frank House was one of the more sobering experiences I've had. The cramped quarters where the young Jewish wartime diarist and her family hid from Nazi persecution is well-preserved and very jarring. There are a number of great museums, including the Rijksmuseum, home to the largest collection of classical Dutch art, the Van Gogh Museum and the Rembrandt House Museum, where the famed painter lived and painted for nearly 20 years.

The writer John Green said, "Some tourists think Amsterdam is a city of sin, but in truth, it is a city of freedom. And in freedom, most people find sin." Any perceived sins in wonderful Amsterdam may just be in the eye of the beholder, like the low-key red-light district and the unobtrusive coffee shops that sell things other than coffee.

If you have time to spare, there are also places outside of Amsterdam that are worth a day trip, including Haarlem to the west, Utrecht to the south, and, to the northeast, Giethoorn, a beautiful little town with no roads and only canals.

Amsterdam is my favorite place on Earth these days, and every time I visit, my affection for the "Venice of the North" grows and deepens. If you haven't yet been there, go. As soon as

Junior Production Brings It In New Adaptation of Musical

By MICHAEL BONACCORSO

RAHWAY – The all-junior cast brought it last Friday night in the debut of Bring It On, Jr.: The Musical held at Union County Performing Arts Center's Hamilton Stage, located at 360 Hamilton Street. The show will run through this Sunday, July 29.

The entertaining, for-all-ages storyline follows popular high-school cheer captain Campbell (Charlotte MacMurray), whose superficial social exterior is cracked when she is redistricted to another school district.

Devoid of her perceived superior social status, Campbell soon discerns what matters most when she forges new friendships at her new school, Jackson High School. Campbell finds her place, but not without the growing pains of change.

When Campbell discovers Jackson has a dance team, not a cheerleading team, she alongside her new friends at Jackson turn Jackson's dance team into a cheerleading squad. Soon they begin competing at cheerleading nationals, and battle Campbell's former school's cheer team and now rival, Truman High School.

Truman cheer captain Eva (Annika Helgeson), Campbell's once protégé before the unexpected redistricting, is now Campbell's foil. Eva is equally as domineering, narcissistic and shallow as Campbell once was, and has found her way to cheer captain through manipulation. Eva must keep Truman's cheer team on top by defeating Jackson's cheer team at nationals.

Ms. Helgeson as Eva provided comedic relief through her believable delivery as a social climber who will

Ms. MacMurray was tasked with a tough role, having to display a variety of emotions within scenes as her character is continuously evolving socially. Ms. MacMurray did nothing to disappoint, while tasking a tremendous theatrical responsibility.

The uplifting performance with comedic punches, dance routines and solos keeps the audience's attention throughout the 90-minute runtime.

BRING IT: Pictured, left to right, are: Alessandra Gialanella of Scotch Plains, Maya Levitt of Westfield and Eve Harrison of Fanwood, who all had a part in Bring It On, Jr.: The Musical.

Director and choreographer Lindsay Maron, of the production company Pixie Dust Players, a theatre company solely for children and teenagers, did an extraordinary job at creating a seamless production. Beginning in March, Ms. Maron edited the production script, adapting Bring It On: The Musical into a pilot production for an all-junior cast. If age means nothing in production talent, Ms. Maron and her cast exemplify

The cast performed 13 songs, with each song setting the theme for each essential scene. The song list was selected with precision, coupled with an energy-filled performance. The song choices allow for those who have graduated high school decades ago to remember what it was like to feel like an outcast when they were forced into an unknown social setting.

The dance routines, filled with gymnastic moves and acrobatics, were impressive for even those not familiar with the gymnastic community and the cheer community.

Actress Maya Levitt, of Westfield, portrayed an excellent transition character, Bridget, rising from an unnoticeable at Truman to immediately being well received at Jackson. Bridget, who also was redistricted to Jackson, was not in Campbell's social circle at Truman, but now acts as Campbell's social ambassador at Jackson.

Danielle (Najah Hetsberger), Nautica (Alexis Goode), La Cienega (Andrew Au) and Randall (Ellis Gage) were portrayed as mature and independent characters with a confident and self-assured performance.

The production will continue Friday, July 27, and Saturday, July 28, at 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, July 29, at 2 p.m. The cast will alternate with each performance date. Tickets are $25 and can be purchased in advance by calling the ticket box office at (732) 499-8226 or visiting ucpac.org.

Middlesex Downs Union, 22-6, in Annual Snapple Bowl

By DAVID B. CORBIN
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

Enthusiasm, perhaps a little too much enthusiasm that resulted in a multitude of penalties and two bench-clearing discussions, highlighted the 25th Annual Snapple Bowl Football Classic between the Union County Senior All-Stars and the Middlesex County Senior All-Stars at Priscoe Stadium in Woodbridge on July 19. The Middlesex offense proved to be more effective and quite tricky, while the defense was making big plays all evening, resulting in a 22-6 victory.

Union had won the previous two events, 24-14 last year and 13-7 in 2016; however, with the win, Middlesex leads the series, 15-10. All proceeds from the game would go to the Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside and the Lakeview School for Disabilities in Edison.

Representing the Westfield Blue Devils on the gridiron were Shea Elliott (linebacker), Adam McDaniel (wide receiver), Jake Vall-Llobera (defensive line & fullback occasionally), Drew Ortiz

(offensive line). Representing the Cranford Cougars were Elijah Arroyo (defensive back/punt returns), Dylan Budnik (linebacker) and Jack Carroll (offensive line). Although Cooper Heisey (quarterback) and Dwight Laylor (wide receiver) were selected, Scotch Plains-Fanwood brought no players. Mike Magliacano (defensive line) represented Governor Livingston.

Elliott, Vall-Llobera, McDaniel, Ortiz and Arroyo were involved in several tackles throughout the game and on certain occasions. Vall-Llobera was used as a battering ram to pick up short yardage on offense.

Just before the second half,

(linebacker) and Jordan Barham Elliott expressed, "It has definitely been like a right of passage for Westfield guvs who are going to be playing in college. Vuono and Alexa Zsak.

Union received the opening kickoff and beginning at their own 28 moved the ball to the Middlesex 40 using a series of runs and a screen pass from quarterback Antonio Salcfas (Dayton) to Dylan Camilo (Roselle Park). However, the drive stalled and Middlesex answered with a drive of its own until quarterback Luke Pero's (Colonia) pass was picked off by Haleem Woods (Plainfield) at the Union four yard

Union had another drive squashed when wide receiver Max Hayford's (Summit) reception was jarred loose by Devin Lanza (Middlesex HS) and the fumble was recovered by Jevon Davis (Piscataway). Union had another drive just before the end of the first quarter that was thwarted when Salcfas' pass to Keyshawn Cummings (Rahway) was batted down in the end zone.

Early in the second quarter, Middlesex got possession at its 48 yard line. After a first down, quarterback Paul Cocozziello (St. Joseph) delivered a screen pass to Manny Resto (St. Joseph) good for 13 yards. Middlesex then rumbled to the Union one where Donavan Benoit (Edison) plunged in for the touchdown. Dylan Kriz (South Brunswick) kicked the point after for a 7-0 lead with 9:05 on the clock.

Union's offense was cut short when Najhir Woods (Piscataway) picked off a pass and returned it to the Union 19. With key tackles by Vall-Llobera and Elliott, Union took over possession at their own three. Unfortunately a bad snap resulted in a safety and a 9-0 lead with 3:19 left in the half. Just before the half, Union had another drive cut short when Charles Lovett (South Plainfield) picked off a pass at the Middlesex 14.

In the third quarter, Middlesex pulled off a successful fake punt seemed to be intense discuswhen Pero scampered 20 yards to the Union 25. Two more runs put the ball on the 14 where wide receiver Ahmed Aly (Edison) hauled in Pero's pass for the touchdown with 11:19 on the clock. The PAT made the score 16-0. Union finally answered with a touchdown with the help of an interference call, a two-yard run by Andy Martin (Union HS) and a three-yard TD reception by Chuck Ifewekwune (Union) with 7:02 on the clock. The two-point conversion run by Salcfas came up a yard short.

Union's Nicholas Balisage (Roselle) and Temi Adanlawo (Union) recorded a huge sack stopped. that set up a fourth-and-17 for Middlesex. From that point onward, emotions tended to elevate. Multiple flags were thrown on a punt return by Union. Participants from both teams sions. After a calming period, Union eventually had to punt and Middlesex took over at its 19 early in the fourth quarter. A few plays later, Cocozziello connected with wide receiver Tyler Jack (Perth Amboy) on the right sideline. From there Jack sprinted into the end zone for a 62-yard touchdown with 11:10 remaining for a 22-6 lead.

Union's woes did not end. A bad snap cost them 16 yards and forced a punt to the Middlesex 34 but the defense managed to hold. Arroyo received the punt at the Union 19 and returned it to the 40 where he was abruptly

"I was running and out of the corner of my eye, I was seeing one of my own guys coming at me. I was like, 'Is this dude really going to take me out?' I avoided the hit then a couple of guys swarmed the field for what came up. I broke free then Middlesex crowded me and took me down," Arroyo described.

On his experience playing his last game at the high school level, Arroyo said, "There are a lot of emotions. This is the last time representing Cranford. It would have been nice to win but it was good knowing this was for a good cause. I had fun out here, met a lot of guys I played with during the season. It was a great experience. But next year I will be playing at Rowan. I report there in two weeks. I can't wait. I am very excited."

As the game was about to end, highly emotional behavior reemerged and the game was stopped by the officials with 1:25 on the clock. No traditional handshakes took place and the Union squad was hastened into the locker room. No further interviews were permitted.

Hartz Says Construction of Apts. Could Occur Over Seven Years

By MICHAEL BONACCORSO Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

CRANFORD — The planning board held its second hearing

last Wednesday on Hartz Mountain Industries' proposed development at 750 Walnut Avenue that calls for 905 rental units.

At last week's hearing, Hartz Mountain Industries' land use and development director and assistant general counsel, James Rhatican, introduced testimony from commercial real estate expert James McDonough and professional architecture testimony from Bruce E. Englebaugh, a professional architect with Minno & Wasko Architects and Planners.

Mr. Englebaugh stated that the proposed development would total 905 units spread amongst five separate buildings. The development's proposed construction would occur in two separate phases. The total parking spaces proposed after both construction phases are completed is 1,723, stated Mr. Englebaugh.

Construction is proposed to occur over seven years, stated Mr. Rhatican. He said the construction decision was made based on what is most "palatable" for the township.

"If (your) intention would be to make it palatable to the town, there would not be two phases. Is that something Hartz would consider?" questioned Mayor Thomas Hannen, Jr.

Mayor Hannen, speaking as to what is "palatable" for the township, said perhaps a density less than 30 units per acre would be "palatable," with Hartz choosing just one construction phase versus both phases in their entirety.

Mr. Rhatican said he did not understand the question, and perceived the questions as being whether both phases of construction could happen simultaneously versus over seven years.

The five buildings' architectural layouts were presented under the titles Building A, Building B, Building C, Building D and Building E. Amongst the five buildings, the bedroom mix would include 380 one-bedroom market-rate units and 386 two-bedroom market-rate units, stated Mr. Englebaugh.

Amongst the five buildings, the proposed affordable bedroom mix includes 28 one-bedroom units, 82 two-bedroom units and 29 three-bedroom units, he said.

Hartz Mountain will not develop any three-bedroom market-rate units, stated Mr. Englebaugh. He said, currently, three-bedroom market-rate units are not desired or sought after by possible tenants as much as one-bedroom and two-bedroom units.

As per court-ordered affordable housing rules, a specific percentage of units must have three stated bedrooms, Englebaugh.

He said "Phase One" would include the construction of Buildings A and B. There would be 247 total units (both market-rate and affordable units) in Building A and 186 total units in Building B.

Buildings A and B are proposed to have 210 one-bedroom market-rate units and 155 two-bedroom market-rate units, stated Mr. Englebaugh. Both buildings are proposed to have 14 onebedroom affordable units, 40 two-bedroom affordable units and 14 three-bedroom affordable units.

Phase Two would include Buildings C, D and E, totaling 472 units developed amongst the three buildings, stated Mr.

Englebaugh, Buildings A, B and C are each designed at four stories in height, he said.

Buildings C, D and E are proposed to have 170 one-bedroom market-rate units and 231 twobedroom market-rate units, with an affordable bedroom mix of 14 one-bedroom units, 42 two-bedroom units and 15 three-bedroom units, stated Mr. Englebaugh.

He said there would be a total of 1,278 spaces in an enclosed parking deck and 445 surface spaces.

Mr. Englebaugh said the Building A garage is proposed to have 468 spaces. The Building B garage is proposed for 170 spaces.

Planning board member Christopher Chapman said the architect was charged with the task to design something that "complements the town.

"Which ways does this (the development) complement the town?" Mr. Chapman questioned Mr. Englebaugh.

Mr. Englebaugh said the development would generate tax revenue, which would be beneficial to the township, and stated that the development would be "nice looking.

Garwood Council Discusses Hartman Park Project

By MICHAEL BONACCORSO Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

GARWOOD — Borough council members on Tuesday discussed two possible capital projects and one existing financial agreement, including a Union County Kids Recreation Trust Fund grant further benefiting Hartman Park, Garwood's financial agreement with the Fanwood Department of Public Works regarding street sweeping, and repainting the Center Street railroad underpass.

Councilman Marc Lazarow stated that the recreation trust fund grant will assist the borough in purchasing equipment for two picnic areas with umbrella-shaded tables. Additionally, the grant money will be used to acquire equipment to install a new "functioning water fountain," he said.

The existing water fountain at Hartman Park is unusable or no longer servicing residents, Mr. Lazarow said. He said the project's estimated cost would be somewhere in the $40,000 to $50,000 range depending on a final cost quote.

The grant is structured to be "matching," meaning the borough is responsible for matching whatever amount is granted by the county, stated Mr. Lazarow. He said the borough would have to allot between $20,000 and $25,000 to "match" half the payment of the total project cost.

"This grant application does not commit us to spending the money, but gives us the financial freedom to make informed choices that would have less financial impact on our taxpayers," said Mr. Lazarow.

Councilwoman Ileen Cuccaro said she was concerned with the Hartman Park revitalization project's total cost. Ms. Cuccaro said more money was being spent after the park was "now brand

"Now you want to spend more money," said Councilwoman Cuccaro, suggesting she was blindsided by the additional work materializing in regards to the Hartman Park revitalization.

Councilman Richard McCormack said he was unsure why "shade" was now being discussed for "the first time." Mr. McCormack said he had to question the project's timeline, how certain aspects were prioritized and its impact on total project cost. The annual matching grant process allows the borough's recreational expenditures to be subsidized incrementally over several years, stated Mr. Lazarow.

Councilman Lazarow said Union County granted the borough $80,000 within the past year to revitalize Hartman Park. That grant money is being utilized to fund new equipment purchases, landscaping improvements and the basketball court's restoration, stated Mr. Lazarow. The borough received $25,000 in grant money with no matching clause and $55,000 in "matching grants," he said.

Thus far, the borough has paid or budgeted $55,000 (separate from grant money received) for the Hartman Park revitalization project. Mr. Lazarow said the grant to assist in picnic table purchases and water fountains would be considered a separate project.

Councilwoman Sara Todisco said in previous years the borough has not applied for matching grants pertaining to recreation expenditures. She said the borough did not have a vision for how the money would be purposed.

Ms. Todisco said she agrees with seeking additional grants because the money now has a

School Safety Awareness Discussed by Cranford

By ROBYN ORR-GIOFFRE Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

CRANFORD — Student safety and wellness issues were discussed at the Cranford Board of Education (BOE) meeting Monday night.

Rubin, Ed.D., told the board "we are in the process of always refining and enhancing safety protocols and upgrades, certainly for the upcoming school year."

This past school year the Office of Emergency Planning and Preparedness was brought into the district to conduct a security audit.

Rubin, several meetings with all of the safety representatives were held to create "upgrades and enhancements" based on the feedback from the audit for the upcoming school year. He said many of the enhancements and upgrades will be discussed and finalized at a meeting tonight, July 26, on the implementation of those items.

Furthermore, the safety and wellness meeting will have a fo-Superintendent of Schools Scott cus on which security upgrades will be made public and what items will be implemented "behind the scenes" to "keep our district safe," according to the superintendent.

Superintendent Rubin also spoke about the new position in the district for coordinator of culture and climate. Resident Albert Del Conte said he supports the council's decision to complete the Hartman Park project through several steps or granting processes to assist the taxpayers in getting more for their tax dollars. Mr. Del Conte said the recreation grant coming?', 'Why don't we have process was similar to the borough's spending procedure with repaying roads. He said the borough repaves every road eventually, but does not repave them all at once.

Mayor Hannen wondered why the ingress and egress for the development would be residential streets and neighborhoods perpendicular to the development.

Mr. Englebaugh said he was unaware of traffic intentions and that the question should be directed towards the traffic engineer at the next hearing on Wednesday, August 1.

"It's part of the design you presented. The assumption would be if those roads were not there you would have to redesign (the development)," said Mayor Hannen, after stating the residential neighborhoods are being utilized to support the proposed increased traffic flow from "such a housing density."

Mr. Rhatican said at May's hearing that Hartz Mountain commercial real estate sales and leasing director Charlie Reese summarized Hartz Mountain's difficulty with finding tenants for the existing office space at the 750 Walnut location.

be paved in a given budget year.

Councilman McCormack said he was implored as a councilman "to have the conversation" about the borough's agreement with Fanwood's Department of Public Works and its street sweeper or street services.

"I repeatedly hear things like 'Rich, when is the street sweeper regular street cleanings?' and 'It seems the quality of street cleanings is not as good as it once was," said Mr. McCormack, describing residents' concerns regarding provided street services.

Mr. McCormack said hearing resident concerns and comments such as those aforementioned "upsets me not only as a councilman, but also a resident of this town."

The buildings and grounds committee has discussed repainting the Center Street railroad underpass, stated Mr. Lazarow. He said a quote has not been sought on final project costs to scrape and paint the Center Street underpass. Preliminary discussions within the committee have included using Russo II development fees allotted to the borough, stated Mr. Lazarow. The borough will collect $100,000 in development fees from the Russo II project as one aspect of the financial agreement benefiting the borough, he said.

Mr. McCormack said he does not support spending money before a "check is even cashed."

Mr. Lazarow said the suggestion was made forward looking, not binding, and no money was being spent or bonded until the council votes on desired capital projects.

"The Center Street bridge is a wreck and an embarrassment," said Ms. Todisco, describing the bridge's current condition. She said the bridge's current paint iob dates back to 1976.

Mayor Charles Lombardo said the bridge is structurally sound, although graffiti has been a problem.

In going to the Parent-Teacher Association meetings during the last school year, Mr. Hulse commented, "We listened to a lot of people, we took their information, and now we're implementing a lot of things."

In other board business, the BOE accepted the resignation of board member Catherine Sheridan, Mrs. Sheridan served on the board for the past year and a half.

We need you to directly intervene as our representative to suspend activity at the site until testing occurs.

But that's just the beginning. There are a host of other serious and urgent public health and safety concerns that need to be addréssed.

Among these are the fact that stormwater and high winds from weather events like those of July 17, 2018, pose real health and safety threats to the region. The high winds send particulate from the piles of uncovered demolition debris and industrial filth sailing into the surrounding residential communities of Westfield, Garwood, and beyond. Torrential downpours like those of July 17 surge through and soak exposed mounds of debris from the toxic site, sending the resulting industrial tea to nearby storm drains that spill into the Rahway River. The Rahway River is a source of drinking water for the people of Rahway.

According to the Rahway River Watershed Association's website, the Rahway River is the source of drinking water to the people of the city of Rahway. The untreated waters of the Rahway River are also a primary contact recreation area for canoeing, fishing, and water play for children. Aside from the known toxins that we can assume are going into the Rahway River as run-off from the toxic site in Garwood, what about the possible radioactivity that could go into our neighbors

Cleaning up toxins once they are already in householders' water is costly—including drinking, bathing, laundry, lawns, swimming pools, gardens, etc.. The effects of under-treated water on human health is incalculable. Prevention of leachate, relative to the alternatives, is very cheap.

The Union County Freeholders' Sara Todisco and Republican Mayshowed their collective concern over Ed Oatman's appointment as county manager. In addition, they sought out a resolution to the county Freeholder Board disapproving of this appointment and pointing out the corruption taking place in Elizabeth. In fact, Garwood Democratic Councilman Marc Lazarow stated he had "major concerns" about Union County and the corruption taking place there and offered his support of a resolution saying as much. It is my hope that the full Garwood Council and other Union County municipalities approve a resolution rebuking Ed Öatman's appointment.

Lastly, I urge all voters, including elected Democrats like Sara Todisco and Colleen Mahr, to get behind the Republican ticket to send a message to Nick Scutari and his cronies that corruption has no place in Union County. I urge our citizens to join us and take action to write directly to Senator Thomas Kean Jr., Assemblymembers Jon Bramnick and Nancy Munoz, Governor Phil Murphy, and NJDEP Commissioner Catherine McCabe, to intervene. I am grateful that The Westfield Leader published information in the July 19, 2018 edition documenting that the Aluminum Company of America (ALCOA) was used to cast uranium slugs at the site during WWII. There was certainly waste from the operations, even if only from the machinery that came into contact with the slugs. We don't have documentation of that machinery. "In most productions of this Set in France and Italy, All's show, Helena is painted a wronged victim. She is rejected by Bertram in a very public, cruel, and embarrassing way," said Mr. Ciccarelli, the show's director, "but her response and subsequent plot to this rejection can be seen as deceitful, and even questionable. She befriends another woman and they trick him into sleeping with Helena, thus getting her pregnant and fulfilling Bertram's conditions.
