The state of the s

I am youth.

Languishing in the brilliant light

Of unknown elapsing time

I stretch my soul

To the future

And shrug off My past.

Little to know-

How transient time Will catch me.

How often the past

Will be the present Of my mind.

Realities today

Are memories of tomorrow.

My mind and eye
Will hold

Gone, fleeting moments.

Through this book,

The clarity of Here and now

Will be recaptured once again.

Within these leaves
My youth,

My life today

Will not be lost Tomorrow.

THE 1964 ARIES

When we, the members of the Class of 1964, leaf through this yearbook years from now and think of our high school years, John Fitzgerald Kennedy will occupy a major place in our thoughts, for he was an integral part of our lives. All of us respected John Kennedy, most of us admired him, and many of us loved him.

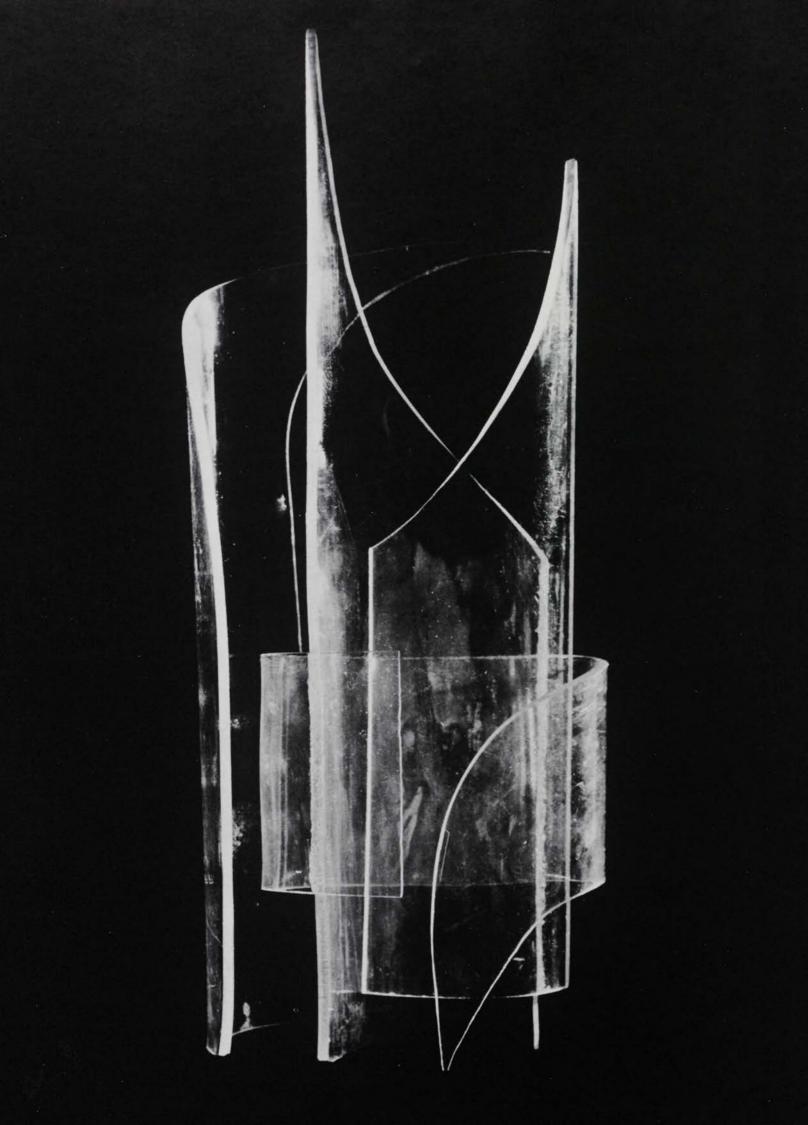

We admired, respected and loved this man, not only because he was attractive, not only because he was youthful, but also because he restored the faith of this nation in itself just when it was beginning to feel old and tired. He gave Americans new vistas; he opened up new doors; he gave us new hope.

President Kennedy appealed particularly to the youth of the nation because he understood and had faith in us. He knew we were idealists who wish to strive for a better world, and he demonstrated to us that, with intelligence and will, a better world could become a reality. John Kennedy showed us that America's adventures lie not only in her past, but also in her future.

It is said that Mr. Kennedy's greatest fear during the Cuban crisis was that if war erupted the young people of the world, who had never been given the chance to shape their future, would have their lives snuffed out with those who had been given that opportunity and had erred. Ultimately, then, John F. Kennedy gave the youth of America and of the world a priceless gift: he gave us a future.

On the day after President Kennedy's death, a song was sung, one whose verses read, "And the dreams of a multitude of men went with him to his death." This is not true, for John Kennedy's contributions to mankind are such that they cannot die. He gave us belief, hope, and new life. It is therefore with great gratitude and love that we, the graduating class of 1964, dedicate our Aries to the memory of the thirty-fifth President of the United States, John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

Guided by his teacher's knowledge and understanding, youth aspires towards maturity.

Jesse I. Taylor, Superintendent of Schools, has been a member of the West Orange School system since 1926. This year will end Mr. Taylor's long term of service, during which he held positions as a mathematics, science, and chemistry teacher, basketball coach, athletic director, assistant principal, and Superintendent of Schools. We commend Mr. Taylor on his excellent record and thank him for the contributions he has made to (the education) of the students of West Orange.

- A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;

- A time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance;
- A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together; a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;

My Seniors, you are about to become alumni and enter into the next phase of your life. It is my hope that each of you will take with you the best that Mountain High has given you. In turn, you have given much, and may the spirit which you have contributed to Mountain continue with each of you in your separate fields of endeavor, and may the succeeding classes follow your example and continue to make Mountain High School outstanding.

The Aries of 1963-64 is only one of the fine contributions that the Class of '64 has made to our school. But the Aries will always help us recall your desire to discover and learn, your sense of values for the forthright things, and your ability to accomplish. My thanks for the opportunity to work with you.

A report on the anticipated Mountain-West Orange Hootenanny was delivered by the Social Committee. The Cafeteria Committee proclaimed the honor system a success and predicted its future use. A calendar of all school events and a Student Bulletin board have been posted in the gym link under the supervision of the Publicity Committee. As a result of the tremendous sale of "collegiate book bags," according to the School Store Committee, it has had a profitable season. Among the year's other accomplishments are the issuance of Student Identification Cards, renaming of the Student Congress Scholarship Award to the John F. Kennedy Memorial Scholarship, and the initiation of an after-school club program.

The discussion of new business included plans for a Code of Ethics and a new system for the election of Student Congress representatives.

The meeting was adjourned at 2:27 P.M.

Respectfully submitted, CAROL FISHER Recording Secretary

Chong Min, our foster child, is a seven-year-old Korean orphan. Thanks to the generous contributions of our students, he now can enjoy a healthy and happy childhood.

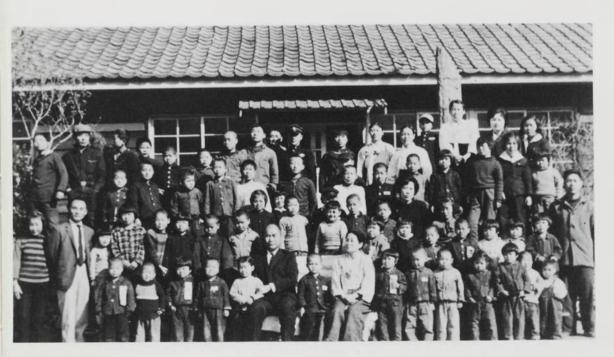

Chong Min and some of his friends play a popular Korean game.

The playground of the orphanage offers the children a place to have fun.

HONARIENS

"I pledge myself to uphold the high purpose of the National Honor Society to which I have been elected; I will be true to the principles for which it stands; I will be loyal at all times to my school; and I will maintain and encourage high standards of Scholarship, Character, Leadership, and Service."

Norman Moscowitz, Jay Kaplan, Larry Ross, and Merle Applebaum, the officers of the Honor Society, light the candles of citizenship, character, leadership, scholarship and service.

The members of the Honor Society light their candles from the communal flame of good citizenship.

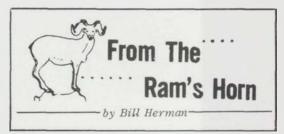

Rambler editors, first to receive the paper, eagerly scan their product.

Richard Ehrenkranz and Marcia Meyers diligently proofread the Rambler.

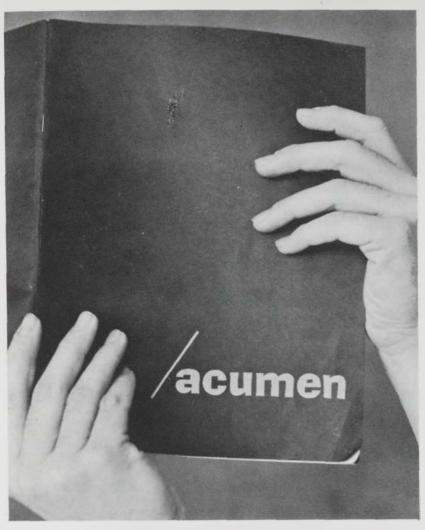

A pat on the back and thanks to the Rambler Staff, who has helped me to fulfill the three goals which I set for the paper last October. We felt that the Rambler should inform the students about Mountain and the world of which we are a part, should act as one of the chief means by which Mountain tells about itself, and finally, should be a major means of communication among the students of our school. The staff and our advisor, Mr. Robert Whelan, have worked together to try to achieve these aims by presenting news articles with greater depth, thought-provoking editorials, letters to the editor, and other new features. We hope we have succeeded and that you enjoyed and benefited from our efforts, for we certainly enjoyed trying. So once again, thanks, and the best of luck to next year's staff and all those that will follow it.

BILL HERMAN

Creative hands hold high the Acumen.

I yearn to step forward And back.

To ponderously scan
The centuries

And see what I've missed.

Alas! I'm affixed to this hour, This life,

Finding joy in the moment
Of flower and sun,
Of infinite stars,
Of God,
And my brothers.

Artistic accomplishments reflect the creativity of its maker. With his hands the artist forms an object from an idea. He creates with care, gradually approaching the final construction. The structure created is an expression of the artist; it remains within him from its conception to its completion.

JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL

Team spark plug, Henry Beder, sets up J.V. attack as he flashes by two Lancers.

Co-Captain Lou Bruss sets the pace for the grueling 2½ mile run.

Transfer student Al De Trolio brightened up the M.H.S. cross-country season this fall. Along with four other underclassmen—Richard Eason, Pat Howell, Lyn Seltzer, and Brad Renshaw—the two senior co-captains, Tom Bono and Lewis Bruss, ran to a 1 and 8 record this fall. During the '63 season Renshaw and De Trolio both cracked Roxbury's course record. Coach Grau is looking forward to a tremendous output next year from these two boys, plus the five other underclassmen and a few J.V. graduates.

Putting on that extra burst of speed, Ram hill-and-dalers approach the finish line.

CROSS-COUNTRY

TRACK

Lyn Seltzer expresses joy at having crossed the finish line.

Alphonse De Trolio leads the milers while setting a new school record.

Larry Winnerman vaults over mark with much to spare.

Under the supervision of Coach Charles Grau and new Assistant Coach Frank Mulvihill, the Ram Cindermen enjoyed a successful season. The boys progressed rapidly after much hard work and practice. Some key personnel were Senior Cocaptains Lewis Bruss and Steve Hyman; Seniors Merrill DeWitt, Marc Sampson, Jay Kaplan, Al Fabricant, Jeff Wagner, Jim Santoro; Juniors Al De Trolio, Pat Galante, Jim Winfield, Rick Pfeffer, Mickey Pozner, and Lyn Seltzer.

Pat Galante jumps, and it looks like another first.

Coach Wear advises—"With two strikes you must protect the plate!"

Lacking the power hitter usually associated with Mountain High School's baseball teams, Coach Wendell Wear's 1964 squad is relying on pitching, defense, and hustle for a winning season. A great deal is expected of the co-captains, pitcher Steve Lipton and short-stop Alan Horn. With plenty of hard work this team should carry on the Mountain athletic tradition and produce a winning season.

We catch Steve Lipton as he hurls a five inning no-hitter against rival Livingston.

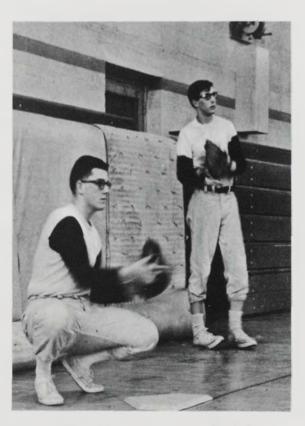

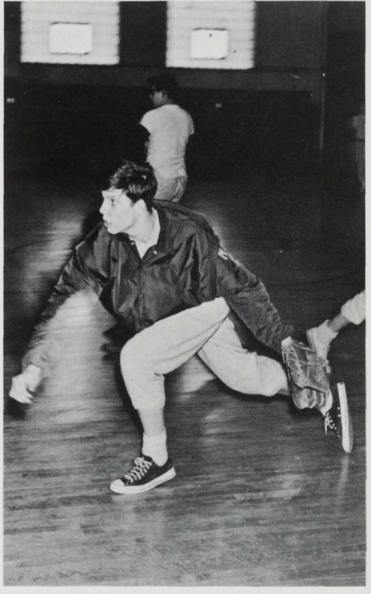

The fine forms of Nick Mitola and Bob Berkowitz result in the crack of the bat as Tom Everett connects.

BASEBALL

S. Letts and B. Jontow warm up the pitcher during pre-season workout in the gym.

S. Lipton works hard to get in shape for the season ahead.

TENNIS

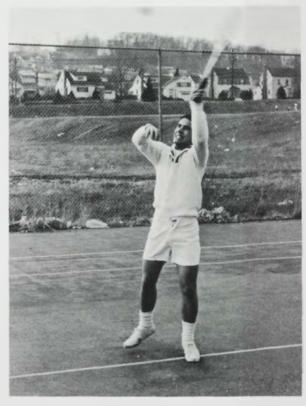

This year's tennis team, expertly guided by Coach Frank D'Alonzo and Co-Captains Mark Gersh and Howard Linker, looks forward to a successful season. With eight members returning from last year's team, they expect to surpass last year's accomplishments: a fourteen and one record and the Jersey Hills Conference Championship.

THE MOUNTAIN TENNIS TEAM

GOLF

This year's golf team, under the direction of Coach Henry Hopkins, looks forward to a very successful season. Ricky Slatnick, Paul Freda, Ken Lanyon, and Bob Liddle comprise the starting five. These boys are ably backed by alternates, Alan Steiner, Jon Klein, Mark May, and Doug Menkeys.

Singles star, Mark Gersh, slams a high lob during a recent practice.
