KNOWLEDGE IS POWER

-THOMAS HOBBES

WEST ORANGE, NEW JERSEY

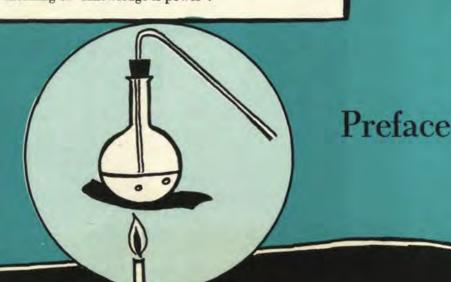

"Human history becomes more and more a race between education and catastrophe" stated H. G. Wells in "The World Set Free". The creation of man inaugurated this unique history of humanity. Civilizations harbored individuals: some great, others insignificant, but all willed some knowledge to mankind. A milestone in history, the printing press afforded widespread dissemination of knowledge, previously the property of only a fortunate few. Having examined the legacy of ancient cultures, Francis Bacon, the prototype of Renaissance man, advanced the theory for all ages that "Knowledge is power". Considered the last man to know everything about every subject, Bacon saw the eclipse of the age of generalization and the dawning of the age of specialization and scientific progress.

Spinning Sputniks with their beep-beep's, the current manifestation of progress, have endowed the world with food for thought and Russia with provisions for propoganda. Yes, to Russia propoganda is power: science, Communism is power.

Why, then, do we accept so readily Bacon's assertion that "Knowledge is power"? Screams of pain from the multitude of physically afflicted people are muffled by the knowledge of medicine. Power to cure. 5-4-3-2-1-0! Will the detonation of this mass of uranium send electricity surging through the copper wires of a great city? Or will it destroy the city? This is knowledge of the atom. Power to better or power to annihilate! The most important knowledge attainable is the understanding of the purpose of life. Man was not created to satisfy his individual desires but to share God's gifts on earth. This is real knowledge. This is infinite power.

When we emerged as babes to behold the world about us, we began to acquire knowledge. As high school graduates we reach outward to grasp, to control even more knowledge. We shall continue to strive for a better world and the true meaning of "Knowledge is power".

The Foundation of Every State Is the Education of Its Youth.

EDMUND EASTWOOD

On the third floor of West Orange High is an office whch could appropriately be labeled "Mr. Eastwood's Walden". Although Mr. Eastwood, the occupant of this retreat, is known as a biology teacher, he has also taught almost every other high school subject, excluding the languages.

Mr. Eastwood graduated from the University of Rhode Island, where he claimed a B.S. degree, and from Columbia University, where he obtained his M.A. degree.

Although he feels that he has not accomplished.

Although he feels that he has not accomplished his specific aim, to interest everybody in biology, he has endowed his students with the idea that biology as a science is related to diurnal living. As his most outstanding achievement, Mr. Eastwood cites the fructification of his career: former students, who return to visit, show that they have not forgotten him and the ideals for which he has militated.

For all that he has done for the youth of West Orange, the class of '58, with gratitude, proudly dedicates the West-O-Ranger to Mr. Eastwood.

CHESTER H. WINE

"Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore, ge wisdom; and with all thy getting get understanding." This statement seems to be the keystone of our vice-principal's philosophy. A graduate of Lebanon Valley College, Mr. Wine, who came to West Orange in 1930, has experienced a variety of positions—history teacher, athletic coach, and vice-principal—all of which have endowed him with this understanding of the students.

with this understanding of the students.

In his capacity as vice-principal of West Orange High School, Mr. Wine has often been associated with a popular colloquial statement "Take five!"
Behind this ejaculation stands a just philosophy of discipline which seeks the cause of a student's

By dedicating the West-O-Ranger to Mr. Wine, the class of '58 wishes to recognize his friendliness, patience, and counsel which have helped to develop West Orange students into West Orange citizens.

DR. REXFORD S. SOUDER

DR. FRANK S. ALBRIGHT

Superintendent

REXFORD S. SOUDER

Before coming to West Orange last fall, Dr. Souder was the school superintendent of the Sudbury and Lincoln-Sudbury Regional School District in Massachusetts. A graduate of Glassboro State Teachers College, he earned his master's and doctorate degrees at Columbia University Teachers College in 1937 and 1951 respectively. A former New Jersey teacher, he became a director of administrative research in San Diego, California. Since his arrival, Dr. Souder has been spending countless hours guiding and promoting the recently undertaken school building program.

Director of Secondary Education FRANK S. ALBRIGHT

Formerly a midwesterner, Dr. Albright, who came to West Orange in 1956, tackles the important job of secondary education director. A graduate of Bradley University and the University of Illinois, he holds a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. In the course of an ordinary day Dr. Albright is confronted with problems concerning curriculum and inter-class coordination. During this current year, he is woking on one of his noteworthy porjects—the revision an coordination of the entire English curriculum from kindergarten through senior high school. As some of the people who are reaping the benefits of Dr. Albright's work, we take this opportunity to thank him sincerely.

BELOW-Before knowledge can rule, knowledge must be surveyed.

ABOVE—Every marking period the grade books must be balanced.

Vice-Principal CHESTER H. WINE

A graduate of Lebanon Valley College, Mr. Wine has served West Orange High School as a former history teacher and now as vice-principal. For the class of 1958, Mr. Wine has served in many other "unofficial" capacities, such as counselor, coordinator, and critic. The students of West Orange High School will always remember him as a man interested in their happiness and well-being. It is with pleasant memories that W.O.H.S. acknowledges the work that Mr. Wine has done during these years.

SENIORS

Knowledge, In Truth, Is the Great Sun in the Firmanent. Life and Power Are Scattered With All Its Beams.

-Alfred Lloyd Tennyson

BELOW—The house of the future is drawn.

Ah! for the life of a senior. This is the thought that echoes through the minds of the seniors of '58 as they leave West Orange High School. The nostalgia of graduation prompts fleeting memories of enjoyable events of the past year fleeting memories of enjoyable events of the past year.

Life is not all peaches and cream for the senior. A typical day is filled with the successes and frustrations of academic learning. The senior ushers in the day with a French III or Spanish III class. A follow up to the "au revoirs" and "hasta la vistas" is a trek to the notorious chemistry room for chem class. Today's earth-shaking demonstration may be the synthesis of water. Third period takes the senior to trigonometry or to business math to evaluate the sines of the times or to balance budget books. The passing bell features a mass exodus to the cafeteria. In addition to the sustenance, the senior has the chance to finish up his chem lab or to catch up on his back English notes. But only so much food can be consumed and then it's back to work again, English is next, where a lesson in "Macbeth" is probably on the docket. After "double trouble's" and "tomorrow and tomorrow's" it's downstairs for yesterday's yesterdays in a U. S. History II briefing in problems of American democracy. But the day is not overyet. After trudging upstairs to the chem lab, the weary senior spends the ensuing two periods amidst foul odors, explosions and clogged sinks as the world of scientific endeavor and experiment is opened to him. The 2:50 bell signals the close of a long day of work and fun. A day like this, along with other highlights, will always be remembered in nostalgic moments during years to come.

Dancing to the music of the Flamingoes at the Christmas Dance and at the Valentines Day Dance gains the spotlight in the senior's mind. At the International Week Dance, the seniors along with underclassmen whirl around the floor not only to the notes of music but also to the sounds of many foreign tongues. After weeks of petitioning, and speech making, the student body elects their town commissioners. Ah, that wonderland of fun and frolic, Vacation Valley! Here the senior class amid sport and spirit bids ado to its high school days and hello to its high school memories.

What is a junior? The only way to discover the answer to this question is to follow one through a typical school day.

The day is ushered in by opening exercises in the homeroom. Fifteen minutes later, the junior finds himself immersed in the problems of the first period class. In required history II he traces the development of thirteen tiny colonies into a great American nation. Algebra class next, Ah! Here's where parallel lines meet. Here he learns how to manipulate the unknown to find the known. Third period might find him in typing class, where he improves his key skills. Finally, a rest from all this mental strain? Gym follows, and this he thoroughly enjoys. Another challenging favorite-lunch. A study hall helps digestion after lunch. Now he girds himself for the remainder of the schedule. In English III he explores Emerson's "Nature" with gusto. Whistling "I Love Paris," the junior enters French II class to discuss another amusing tale such as "Le Feu et le Fou." Ending the day in bookkeeping II, he tallies the intricate details of profits and losses. Finally day is done and the junior trudges homeward wondering about the road not

What is the life of a sophomore like? Let's follow a typical sophomore through a school day.

A sophomore starts the day in his homeroom where he listens to the bulletin and participates in morning exercises. At 9:05 he finds his way through the crowded hallways to his first period class, which might be English II. There he would be greeted by Silas Marner. His next class could be either geometry or typing. In geometry he would be enlightened by several new facts such as parallel lines never meet. In typing he would find that what used to be simple words to him now would become a jumble of letters, t-h-e, a-n-d, e-t-c. Gym follows. This is a perfect time for relieving all pent up energies. None too soon this period is over—yes, it was enjoyable, but lunch is next. He fights his way through the lunch line, rushes to the table, stuffs down the food, and crams a bit for his next class. This class might be Latin. True to generations before him, he would wend his way through Caesar's Gallic Wars with a pony at his side. However, he might have gone to stenography I for shorthand. Here he would encounter hundreds of symbols which presumably represent simple English words. Perhaps he next encounters French I where he would find "Ou est the tableau noir?" Finally he finds himself surrounded by a maze of debits and credits in bookkeeping I. At last the session is over; gathering his books, our eternal sophomore heads homeward to rest? No, to homework!

FALL ACTION FOOTBALL

A stunning upset of Columbia on Thanksgiving Day highlighted the season of Head Coach Ed Johnson's football squad. Playing spirited ball in compiling their season's record of 3-5, the team was sparked by the consistently fine play of senior lettermen.

West Orange supporters were not forced to wait long before viewing the explosiveness of the Cowboy running attack. Featured by Maurice Sutter's 39 yard run, a 63 yard sprint by fleet halfback Bill Cantelmo, and a 14 yard end sweep by Tom Brydon, the ground forces humbled the Irvington defense in the first clash of the season. They piled up almost 300 yards and led the team to a 26-7 triumph.

Then it came! The flu bug, striking at a crucial moment, weakened the team and caused successive losses to East Orange and Dover. Recovering completely, the Johnsonmen dominated their traditional rivals, Orange, in a 21-6 victory. The passing of Jay Force and the breakaway running of Tom Brydon, who was to emerge as the Cowboys' top scorer for the year, were instrumental in the defeat of a stubborn Orange squad. However, victory was not to come without a price. The loss of Bill Cantelmo, injured in the Orange game, contributed to the Cowboys' defeat suffered at the hands of the state champion Bloomfield squad.

On the following Saturday Montclair, which had tied Bloomfield for the state championship, dropped the Cowboys by a 27-0 score. Fighting stubbornly before going down to defeat, West Orange held the powerful offensive machine of Montclair to only 6 points in the first half. The 20-6 score by which Morristown conquered the Cowboys in their next encounter was hardly indicative of the closely-fought game that it was. West Orange matched Morristown in every respect, but just couldn't seem to capitalize on its scoring opportunities.

On Thanksgiving Day, the West Orange team, which had suffered three consecutive losses, came to life against a highly-touted Columbia squad. The Cowboys fought an uphill battle all the way, scoring two TD's in the final period to surprise the Cougars with a 14-6 upset. This victory clinched a tie for first place in the Inter-Oranges League. Closing out his high school career on a final note of brillance was Jay Force, whose fine quarterbacking sparked the Cowboy squad to victory. The equally fine performances of several underclassmen, including Maurice Sutter, Russ Menzel, and Donald Zink, encouraged the coaching staff considerably. Although the loss of many seniors will present a temporary hardship to the team, the coaches feel that the flock of talent in the lower classes will be sufficient to fill the gap and to form the nucleus of a strong Cowboy eleven next year.

TWIRLERS and CHEERLEADERS

An amazing display of "pin-wheels", "coffee-grinders", and "figure-eights" could be seen on the W.O.H.S. football field as this year's twirlers and majorettes went into action. "Basin Street Blues", "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi", and "Turkey in the Straw" are some of the numbers headlined in the weekly half-time productions. One of their most difficult maneuvers, the formation of a heart with a moving arrow, required much exacting time. Under the direction of Mrs. Craig, the squad practiced four times a week to work their routines to perfection. Of the more than sixty girls who try out annually, only fourteen "strutters" are chosen to represent the school. They are chosen on the basis of skill, sportsmanship, and scholastic ability.

Not only the twirlers but also the cheerleaders are chosen on the basis of skill, sportsmanship, and scholastic ability. Of the seventy attractive girls who tried out for cheerleading last spring, ten were chosen. Leading the group were co-captains Mary Ann Juliano and Pat Acquadro. As the season progressed, faculty advisor, Mrs. Santorine, helped them to work out many amusing tricks designed to promote and maintain school spirit. While attending clinics, the girls met with cheerleading representatives of northern New Jersey schools and discussed some of the singular cheering problems.

At the close of the season, the "polka-dots" are just beginning their most difficult task-training, and finally choosing the cheerleaders for the coming season.

The twirlers and the cheerleaders are dedicated W.O.H.S. supporters whose sole reward is the display of a healthy morale among the student body.

Not since 1949, almost a decade ago, has West Orange displayed so fine a basketball team as this year's ball club. The Cowboys recorded a thirteen-game winning streak in compiling a season's record of 17.3. Had it not been for the exceptionally strong Bloomfield squad, which accounted for all three defeats, the hoopsters would have been all victorious.

Three years of varsity experience paid off for eight seniors, who formed the nucleus of Coach Guest's team. Six of these boys, Jay Force, Charley Turk, Wendy Wear, Irwin Kaplan, Bill Miller and Fred Manuel, saw considerable action throughout the season. Lew Wurgaft and Pete Ramaglia headed a strong Cowboy bench. The fine shooting and playmaking of back court operatives Force and Miller and the exceptionally strong rebounding of 6-3 Kaplan contributed greatly to the success of the team. Consistently steady performances by Wear, Turk, and Manuel furnished W.O. with its margin of victory many times during the season. The very fact that the Cowboys outscored their opponents by at least ten points in thirteen of the seventeen victories is a tribute in itself to the air-tight zone defense condoned by Mr. Guest.

After dropping the second game of the season to Bloomfield, the Cowboys opened upon the county, compiling a winning streak which culminated on the last day of the regular season with another loss to the Bengals. In the course of the streak, W.O. gained undisputed possession of second place in the Big Ten Conference with a fine 8-1 record, Disposing of Bloomfield Tech, Irvington and Weequahic in short order, West Orange advanced to the final round of the E.C.T., only to fall victim again to undefeated Bloomfield. Although the Cowboys were not quite able to evade the shadow of their Bengal nemesis, they left an enviable record that will be difficult to duplicate.

However, a strong J.V. squad, which registered an 11-5 record under the directorship of Coach Wear, have served notice that they will attain the impressive goal set up for them by this year's team.

As the Girls' Sports Program progressed, the students carefully counted the much sought after points. This fall basketball and bowling headlined the after school program. Highlighting the spring sports agenda were softball, ping pong and archery. In addition, the annual coaching clinics for incoming cheerleaders and twirlers were sponsored. Under the current point system, 100 points per sport is given to anyone who faithfully attends and participates in that particular sport. If the student accrues the total of 400 points, she is eligible for the numeral of her class. Upon reaching 800 points, she is presented the W.O.H.S. block.

The Girls' Sports Program, which realizes a participation of over seventy girls in each class, operates under a threefold purpose. Mrs. Craig defines this purpose as "An attempt to give the girls an opportunity to develop interests in sports; the offering of sports included in the college curriculum; the teaching of recreational values."

Aimed at developing the social, emotional, physical, and mental aspects of all its participants, the Boys' Sports Program was directed this year by Coaches Hince and Wear.

Autumn found the boys marching to Jenkins Field in a pigskin parade. The arrival of winter brought on basketball, wrestling, tumbling, and other indoor games. The spring once again changed the mood of the program, softball taking top billing.

Contrary to what might be expected, physical prowess was not too important in rating the boys. Instead, their grades were based on health habits, sportsmanship, attitude, and active participation.

In all, every boy in the school became well acquainted with these basic sports. Others took advantage of expert instruction in training procedure, hunting, and fishing.

BASEBALL

Beginning his first season as Varsity Baseball Coach, Wendell Wear was faced with a challenging building job. The peppery infield, which featured last year's team, had disappeared. A front-line pitcher and catcher had graduated. However, seasoned replacements of past years moved to the fore and filled the gaps ably.

fore and filled the gaps ably.

Starting at first was left-hand power hitter Wendy Wear. The keystone combination of Sam Pansulla at short and Pete Ramaglia were instrumental in many defensive maneuvers. Sharing the hot corner were Jay Force and Bob Wohlgemuth. The outfield pastures were patrolled by Pete Terner, Bob Acens, Gerry Halfpenny, and Larry Handler. Coach Wear's pitching staff consisted of righties John Bilotti, Jay Force, Carl Cerbone, and Ernie Del Grasso, and southpaw hurlers Irwin Kaplan and Lonnie Jones. Behind the plate, receiving the slants of the moundsmen, were Bob Cataldo and Bill Bode.

Getting off to a slow start, the Cowboys dropped four of their first seven encounters. Two of these defeats, however, were dealt by an undefeated Montclair team. Coach Wear expressed the hope that as the season progressed his young ball club would develop into a first rate outfit.

Under extremely poor conditions the track team, led by its new coach, Joseph Hince, began practice this year. The football field, sole practice area provided for the squad, was snow-covered during the first weeks of practice.

Still, by mid-April the team was rounded into a well-balanced unit. West Orange featured Russell Aquino, Ray Brennan, and John Peppe in the hurdling events. The leading Cowboy entry in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, Maury Rockman, was aided by Joel Rauch and Steve Venokur. Handling the 440 were Ed Palardy and Dick Stro-bridge, while Bill Miller carried the burden in the 880. During his first year of competition, Charley Turk appeared to be a top miler.

In field events, picking up where he left off last year, Bill Cantelmo soared in pole-vaulting competition. Another newcomer, Ray Bury, blossomed into the Cowboy's top high jumper. In addition to his hurdling, Russell Aquino constituted W.O.'s chief threat in the broad jump. Rounding out the field-eventers were Jerry Halfpenny in the shot-put, Cantelmo in the javelin, and John Noel in the discus.

Although the team lost its first dual meet to Irvington, the performance of the boys gave hope of a highly successful season.

Under the supervision of Mr. Merlin Finch, the West Orange tennis squad is hopeful of a successful season. Although the squad is yet to be tested, excellent material has instilled a feeling of quiet confidence among the members.

Carrying the load in single matches this year will be experienced netsters Lewis Wurgaft, Dick Tull, and Barry Hirsch. Members for the doubles combinations will be chosen from a field of five which includes Samuel Turkus III, Stan Lipkin, Richard Koch, Art Kobler, and Jay Trachtenberg.

Striving to improve on last year's 10-6 record, the boys believe the prospects are exceptionally bright.

TENNIS

GOLF

Seeking to improve on last year's unimpressive 0-12 record, Haydn Evans's golf team combined experience and new blood in an effort to record a successful season.

Lending a touch of know-how were Captain Paul McChesney and senior letterman Bob Conklin. Newcomers William McManus, Fran Groves, Haydn Evans, Jr., and Barry Markowitz hoped to give the squad its much-needed lift.

The linksters dropped their first three matches due to lack of experience. However, the steady play of the lettermen and the continued improvement of the new men guarantee that the West Orange golf squad has a short wait before its first taste of victory.

ACTIVITIES

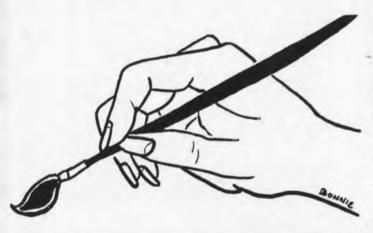

Books Are Bridges to Understanding Other People.

Both newly organized this year, the Art Service and Are Scenery Clubs meet every Wednesday and Friday mornings, respectively, under the supervision of Mr. Robert DeMaine. Performing any and all services which may tend to better our school or community, the Art Service Club complements its title. Posters, decorations, and displays are a specialty of this club. Members of the Art Scenery Club, working in groups, construct scale model stages complete with costumes and props. Their purpose is to illustrate the different methods of staging plays. If both these clubs are successful in accomplishing their objectives, they will certainly be continued next year.

SERVICE CLUBS

Included in our extra-curricular activities are four service clubs, basic essentials of any club program. Always active in serving our community, the Jr. Red Cross Club, under the leadership of Miss Schwenk, created a brighter, happier Christmas for many young children by donating attractively wrapped gifts to local hospitals. Mrs. McNaughton's Baby-Sitting Club made Easter-egg surprises for the children at Janet Memorial Home. The girls are also working to improve their understanding of children, so that they will make better baby-sitters, and better parents.

Under the able supervision of Mrs. Meyer, our Library

Council strives to bring people and books closer together, and to create a more thorough understanding of library science.

Plans for this year included a trip to the Federal Reserve Bank. WOHS's Future Teachers of America Club, supervised by Miss Gardner, acquaints high school students with preparation for teaching through visits to colleges, and observation in elementary and junior high schools.

In numerous ways the service clubs perform a variety of invaluable duties not only for the individual student, but also for the school welfare.

Offering the opportunity to further free-time interests under the aid of capable supervision, the hobby clubs afford a variety of activities.

Mr. Blumer, sponsor of the Collectors' Club, lectured extensively on various subjects which included lamps, paper weights, lithographs, and china. Illustrative material from his own collection and several trips also heightened interest in the club.

Faculty advisor of two clubs, Mr. Bayer helped his Bridge Club members gain finesse in their game in addition to exposing and exploiting new developments in the Model Railroading Club. The Leathercraft Club, under the skilled direction of Mr. Busch, produced many fine helts, wallets, and leather accessories.

fine belts, wallets, and leather accessories.

"The game of kings" provoked many hours of tense excitement as the members of Mr. Fink's Chess Club battled to outwit each other on the black and white squares. The club also sponsored a tournament to determine the champion of "The Checkmate Circle". Variety was surely the spice of the Needlecraft Club as crocheting, knitting, embroidery, garment-making and handwork were all included in the club's activities. Miss Quinn's nimble fingers guided the club's members in their diversified endeavors.

BUSINESS CLUBS

Few people realize what an important role the business clubs play in our school. These clubs spend most of their time aiding the teachers and departments with clerical work. Cutting stencils, typing library cards, and operating the mimeograph machine are among their divers services.

Under the able leadership of Mrs. Hasbrouck, Mr. Groendyk, and Mr.

Under the able leadership of Mrs. Hasbrouck, Mr. Groendyk, and Mr. Evans, the students in these clubs savor sundry skills. LANGUAGE CLUBS

Under the direction of Miss Loughren, the club's originator, the Latin Club has "endeavored to enrich the cultural background" of its members. A movie, featuring the story of the recent excavations of Herculaneum and Pompeii, attendance at the N. J. Latin Club Convention, and support of a Latin scholarship fund for high school seniors are just a few of their many worthwhile projects.

El Circulo Cervantes, under the co-sponsorship of Senorita Eaton and Senora Seaman, conducts all of its meetings in Spanish. At their annual Christmas party, they found talent from within their own group of seventy members. The group has made a New York excursion to see a Spanish movie and to visit a Spanish restaurant.

Like the Spanish Club, Le Cercle Francais meetings are all held in French. Their sponsors, Mlles. Allen and Lennox, help the members to prepare skits and songs for many of their meetings. A speaker, film, and field trip have highlighted the monthly meetings. Although completely separated from each other during the year, the clubs join in the planning and execution of the annual language picnic, where the Frenchmen, Spaniards, and Romans form a melting pot to have food, fun, and a good softball game.

SCIENCE CLUBS

As in the past, West Orange provided a well rounded group of science clubs which offered experiences to satisfy the questioning minds of future scientists. The main under-taking of the Radio-Electronics Club was the construction of a simple radio receiver. Guest speakers frequently addressed the Biology Techniques Club. An intruder in the biology lab might have caught a glimpse of a club member disecting a frog. Amid choking fumes and clogged up sinks, the Organic Chemistry Club conducted numerous experiments. Adhering to the popular trend of the day, the Engineering Club probed into the extensive science of rockets and rocket engines. In the theoretical field of science a new club made its appearance: the Math Club delved into basic calculus and various types of recreational math.

The basic theme of the clubs, to familiarize the student with a particular field and to stimulate interest in various projects which would supplement class work, satisfied the questioning attitude which has been in evidence as a result of

COMMUNICATIONS CLUBS

Cultural activities in the fields of drama, debate, and writing were fostered by the Communications Clubs.

The students of the Press Club under the able leadership of Mrs. Meyerson learned many of the principles of newspaper writing. They applied these principles in a series of articles regarding the high school which were subsequently ciples in a series of articles regarding the high school which were subsequently published in the local newspapers. Another club which stimulated original composition was Mrs. Casey's Creative Writing Club. This club edited the third edition of the "Cauldron", a literary magazine devoted to the publication of outstanding literary efforts of West Orange students.

Miss Loughran's Debating Club had a very active year participating in local debates and outside competition. This club developed the students' skills in argument and extemporaneous speaking, while members of the Drama Club, under the competent leadership of Mr. Kupfer, gained valuable experience in acting and in appreciation of drama.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Under the efficient and progressive administration of its President Richard Tull the Student Council has completed one of its most notable years.

For the second year the Council supported the Janet Memorial Home project. Under the chairmanship of Lynn Flusser, the committee planned numerous activities for the youngsters. Aside from weekly visits, an entertainment night and a trip to the Morristown football game were provided for by the committee. In addition, the receipts from the annual Christmas canned foods drive were donated.

To promote safe and courteous driving, the Council organized a Safe Teen program for the student body. The program provided that to be permitted to park in the school parking lot, each car must be registered. To discourage discourteous drivers the committee formulated a point system whereby said drivers would be excluded from the parking lot.

A tremendous rise in school spirit was noted and was due largely to the efforts of a council coordinated activity, Cowboys Consolidated. This organization provided megaphones for the Thanksgiving game, and posters, tags, and buses to the away football games for the junior high school students. The innovation of outdoor pep rallies and the sale of Cowboy hats were key factors in establishing the success of this committee.

in establishing the success of this committee.

Despite the lack of adequate facilities, the Council, nevertheless, conducted the annual Soph Hop and the Big Switch to complement its social calendar.

Many other improvements were instituted by the Council. Among the most notable was a bulletin board erected at Roosevelt Junior High to keep the sophomores posted on school news. Initiated to raise a scholarship fund for a foreign student to come to America and for a West Orange student to travel to a foreign country, the "Bonds for Friendship" campaign raised some $350 among the students. Through the efforts of the Council, the front steps of the building were repaired. Indeed, the Student Council of 1957-1958 can be justly proud of its many outstanding achievements.

Cowboy spirit was incited by the terrific football and basketball pep rallies. In addition articles and pictures of athletes were posted on school bulletin boards by the club.

One of the most enjoyable activities of the year was the annual Clio-Philo excursion to New York to attend the Broadway hit, "West Side Story".

PHILO

The Philologian Honorary Society sponsored many worthwhile activities this year. The school was kept well posted on all athletic events by the prominent sports scoreboards. Much enthusiasm was aroused during the football season by the lively posted campaigns. Also, the continuation of the tutoring service, started last year, was a great service to the school.

The year was highlighted by the Philo-Clio banquet which ended the activities of the societies.

DANCE CLUBS

Among the many club sponsored activities, the dancing clubs continually gain in popularity. As a result of the vivid instruction given by the faculty advisers, dancing talent is developed not only in basic steps but also in some of the contemporary dances.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Santorine, the Modern Dancing Club helped develop poise, coordination, and interpretive ability in its all-female membership. The Social Dancing Club, sponsored by Messrs. Mull, Maccia, and Mrs. Craig, quickly passed the time toe-tapping to the rhythm and blues of the popular tunes. The club added many records to the school's collection, in addition to sponsoring several dancing contests and a Christmas party for its members.

Mainly a debate and discussion club, the International Relations Club conducts dynamic meetings about current events. Supervised by Mr. McRoberts, the club boasts a membership of about thirty people. Included among the aims of the club are these: to give an insight into the history behind the news, to improve the understanding of foreign countries and their policies, and to give everybody a chance to develop a broader and more tolerant mind. With the increasing entaglement of the United States in world affairs, clubs, like the International Relations Club, prove invaluable in enlightening the youth of America.

With an "Eyes right!" and a "Forward march!" the marching band stepped off on muddy fields. Its full clashing sound on crisp Saturday afternoons gave a boost to that "cowboy spirit" and promised good things to come from high school musicians. Later in the fall the marching band transformed into the concert band as its members hung up their uniforms and settled down into the "pit". Under the direction of Mr. Reifsnyder and Mr. Sost, drums, horns, and reeds released the rhythms and harmonies of "Kentucky 1800" and "L'il Abner".

Feet tapped impulsively as the dance band swung into popular music and the "old standards". Membership, based on various qualifications, was determined by Mr. Sost. The dance band fellows and gals dragged themselves out of bed early every Thursday morning and practiced before school. It was they who provided the "beat" at the "Big Switch" and other school functions.

MUSIC ACTIVITIES

With full orchestration, the concert orchestra provided excellent renditions of "Victory at Sea" and "The Girl I Left Behind". Mr. Butterfield and Mr. Sost conducted a successful concert.

Conducted by Mr. Barnes, the A Cappella Choir provided a wonderful experience in choral singing for those who qualified, Mr. Barnes, who believes in using only the best music, maintained a high quality in the work of the choir. The crooners were especially fond of the "Song of Christmas" and the "Creation".

Despite only weekly rehearsals, the Girls' Glee Club delivered fine performances at the Christmas and Spring Concerts. Under the direction of Mr. Barnes, the club developed good four-part harmony. In accordance with tradition, the girls, dressed in white robes, led the candle-light procession at the Christmas Concert. Not to be surpassed by their female counterparts, the Boys' Glee Club blended an array of masculine voices.

Musical interest and ability were high this year, as shown by the large representation of WOHS in state instrumental and vocal organizations. Music activities at the high school were enjoyed not only by participants but also by spectators.

WOTAC, under the able direction of President Sam Pansulla and his committees, enjoyed a highly successful eighteenth year. Besides providing history hours for some seniors, WOTAC held the usual dances after every football game and instituted dances after several basketball games, something new this year. Upon being questioned, WOTACers admitted that the place really jumped to tunes by some great hands bands.

Queen Pat Acquadro and her attendants reigned at the annual Football Queen Dance, one of the social highlights. Smacking of continental flavor, the International Night proved to be the resounding success of the season.

THE ROUND-UP

During its twelve years of publication, the "Roundup" has constantly maintained only the highest standards of reporting to the student body the important news and views of the year. As proof of the quality of coverage, the paper has been the recipient of many distinguished awards, including a first place award from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Under the guidance of faculty supervisor, Mr. Atwell Thomas, the co-editors-in-chief Lewis Wurgaft and Barbara Bonnaviat, a capable staff have offered the student body not only acute coverage but also reading enjoyment.

In addition to its journalistic endeavors, the "Roundup" has made contributions to the school social and physical welfare. As in years past, the staff had operated the food concessions at athletic events and had sponsored the "Typical Student Contest."

WEST-O-RANGER

This "West-O-Ranger", produced under the direct leadership of Evelyn Picon, editor-in-chief, and Mr. Tylus, faculty adviser, has cap-tured the real spirit of West Orange High School. It is a yearbook not just of pictures and words but of emotion and energy.

Included in the book are rememberances of things past. The Thanksgiving victory, the gym classes that weren't, the traffic jams, the drilling and welding, the smell of carbon disulfide! Will the '58 alumni recall those teachers, heart throbs, friends and enemies, those A's, B's, C's, and . . . ? They only have to dust off that old yearbook and take a look.

The "West-O-Ranger" makes 1958 a year to remember, for treasured nostalgia has been locked between the covers.

From history we learn many truths. At no other time in the history of our country, however, have we had to face the basic truth, stated in our theme that "Knowledge is Power."

If we are to meet the challenge of vast shapeless space, we first must accept the challenge of this earthly sphere.

Our sciences continually beckon us to new horizons which we willingly follow. We bask in the comforts of new inventions. Yet, somehow, we de-emphasize one of our most important products-human relations. Motivated by a desire to learn, we have promoted certain activities to develop human relations. We should know how our town is governed, so WOHS sponsors a student-commissioner exchange program. The desire to know people outside of our town, country has led us to sponsor field trips. We invite a foreign exchange student to stay with us and reciprocate by sending one of our students to a foreign country. We conduct a "Bonds for Friendship Drive". These activities we promote for the sake of knowledge, for the sake of understanding home, town, country, world.
