COMMUNICATION:

THE BRIDGE TO KNOWLEDGE

WEST-O-RANGER

Published by the Senior Class of West Orange High School

PREFACE

With the advent of Telstar and Mariner II, world and outer space communications have again taken a giant step forward. The many other scientific advances in communications have also helped to bridge the gaps between peoples and places, countries and cultures, and we are able to have vicarious experiences that vastly increase our understanding and learning. For this reason, the staff of the West-O-Ranger has chosen "Communication: The Bridge to Knowledge" as the theme for this book.

Our purpose is to illustrate how we have gained knowledge through communication, how we have spanned the gulf between the loneliness of isolation and the gregariousness of participation, how we have benefited from the association and companionship of our teachers and fellow students, and how we have grown in the understanding of ourselves and others.

There are four means of communication: reading and writing—we read what has already been written and write so we may impart our thoughts; listening and speaking—we speak to others and listen when they speak; graphics—we use pictures and charts, figures and graphs to visualize and portray our ideas; and action—we express our feelings through motion.

The history of our school life, therefore, has been divided into these four categories. This is not to intimate, however, that any particular subject is limited to only one area, for the most important facet of communication is that it is inherently a part of all our experiences.

During our years at West Orange High School, we, with the rest of the world, have shared in the improved methods of communication. Our "Bridge to Knowledge" has broadened us, given us keener insight, and prepared us for the world-wide problems we shall have to face in the future.

He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Elizabethtown College, and his Master of Science and Doctor of Education degrees from the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Glasmire, himself a sincere and understanding person, has, from the first, promoted a feeling of friendship and interest between faculty and students. He enjoys encouraging investigation and adoption of new methods of teaching.

JOSEPH TYLUS

Assistant Principal

A teacher of senior English at West Orange High School until 1959, Mr. Ty-lus then became Director of Guidance and Teaching. Essentially, in his work with the Guidance Department, Mr. Ty-lus's goal is to create a close relationship between counselor and student. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Trenton State College and a Master of Arts degree from Seton Hall University.

He is a graduate of Grove City College and received his Masters degree from Montclair State College. As Administrative Assistant, he is responsible for student attendance and social adjustment. His efforts are devoted to giving aid and assistance to both faculty and students.

IN APPRECIATION

For their many years of interest in and devotion to West Orange students, and to thank them in behalf of the alumni and the present members of our school, we pay special tribute to Miss Grace Wilson and Mr. Merlin Finch, who will be leaving us this year.

Twenty-six years ago Miss Grace Wilson came to West Orange to teach both speech and English, having begun her career in West Virginia where she taught at both the high school and college levels. She also was a member of the Bernardsville High School faculty for a short time.

Although she is in no hurry to leave New Jersey, Miss Wilson definitely plans at some future time to return to West Virginia. When asked what she will remember most about WOHS, Miss Wilson could only say that she has fully enjoyed the many "nice people" she has met and all the "friendly acquaintances" she has made here.

Immediately after receiving his diploma, Mr. Merlin Finch came to West Orange High to teach Industrial Arts. This he did very effectively until he was appointed to his present position of Director of Industrial Arts in West Orange. Mr. Finch is proud of the fact that he has spent his entire forty-year teaching career at West Orange High School and knows that he will remember all those that he has taught, and all that he has learned. His future includes buying land in a small town in Arizona and becoming active in community service there.

Language is communication; hence, language can best be developed in the social situation in which it is used.

Cultivating wholesome personal living and developing social sensitivity and effective participation in group life are the two major goals of the English Department.

These goals can be reached through writing, reading, listening, and speaking. They are our means of learning, understanding, and communicating the skills needed to acquire a feeling of security and satisfaction in normal living, and to enable the pupil to express himself effectively in daily life.

Students can discover the necessity for effective writing, reading, listening, and speaking, as they work with others, for skill in language comes with frequent participation in group activities. As their ability to use the language increases, they learn to use these skills intelligently in enriching their own lives and in improving their society.

HONOR SOCIETY

Representing the ten percent of the senior class which is considered to best demonstrate the qualities of leadership, outstanding scholarship, fine character, and a desire to serve is the Clio-Philo chapter of the National Honor Society at West Orange High School.

Last spring ten juniors were selected to lead the organization and, from these, this year's officers were elected: Albert Turkus, president; Stephen Marcus, vice president; Gayle White, secretary; Leonard Schaper, treasurer. In January, twenty-six seniors were inducted into the society. Miss Ruth Goodyear and Mr. Robert Krimmel act as the faculty sponsors.

The National Honor Society not only stands before the school as an example of excellent scholarship, but also performs many valuable services. Once again, its members organized the Thanksgiving Day motorcade, posted the honor roll in the main hall, and offered a tutoring service to the school.

The high level of scholarship, leadership, and service of this group reflects the fine standards of West Orange High School.

Perhaps the most difficult and responsible job in the school from a long-range point of view, is that which falls upon the shoulders of those students who produced the West-O-Ranger. Not fully apparent to the average person is the work involved in such a project. The members of the staff work under constant pressure to meet deadlines. The book attempts to be a true reflection of all the activities carried on throughout the school year.

spent many hours correcting and rewriting, arranging and rearranging parts of this book. Credit must also be given to Bob Hoffmann and his photography staff and to Mike Christiano and his art staff who were assisted by Mr. Robert DeMaine.

Although the students themselves did the writing, picture taking, and layout, Mr. Robert Fennell, the faculty sponsor, was continually available with his invaluable advice and firm guidance.

Miss Marguerite Heeseman ably supervised the collection of all advertising contracts and patron donations, most necessary to the publication of this book. Her business staff conducted well organized campaigns for advertisements and subscriptions.

The Roundup staff, directed by Mr. James Carswell, adviser, and Gayle White, Editor-in-chief, has worked diligently during this year to maintain the high standards set in the past.

The purpose of this publication is to bring all school issues, controversial or otherwise, before its readers. This type of information is needed so that all students can be well informed and actual members of our school society.

Editorials and articles are aimed to increase awareness and interest in school activities. Recognition of individual and group achievements is highlighted, and there are many special features designed to entertain and amuse.

Business manager Larry Kotok and his assistants had the responsibility of securing advertisements, distributing the eight issues, and balancing the budget.

The success of The Roundup may be attributed to the group efforts of a most enthusiastic staff and the fulfillment of the goal they set for themselves: to produce an objective high school publication of fine caliber.

CAULDRON

Through the publication of the Cauldron, our school's literary and art magazine, the students of West Orange High School can demonstrate their creative abilities.

According to Webster's, a cauldron is a large kettle or boiling pot. This is a perfect title for our magazine which is bubbling with original manuscripts, drawings, and enthusiasm.

Evaluation of the many miscellaneous articles which are offered to the staff is a very tedious but rewarding job.

Thanks to the contributing students, Mrs. Ruth Casey and her competent staff, headed by co-editors Sheri Weimer and Rona Lee, have compiled and presented another highly successful magazine which has been entered in national competition.

Others teach us through their writings . . .

Combining business with pleasure is the goal of our Library Council under the direction of Mrs. Elsie Meyer, Mrs. Mary Mauro, and the president, Lyne Weiss. Besides the regular book-mending, cataloguing, and general library duties, the members collected Christmas cards for distribution to nearby orphanages and hospitals. The club successfully creates an atmosphere conducive to a more thorough understanding of library science and a more efficient library.

To develop better speed and understanding in the reading habits of their members is the goal of the Reading Improvement Club and the Reading Improvement Club for Sophomores. The former group, assisted by Mrs. Loretta Krug, met on Friday afternoons; the latter, directed by Miss Ruth Goodyear, met during club periods.

Both clubs use a course developed by the Science Research Associates of Chicago. The members find that their rapid progress aids them greatly in all their studies.

Just as communication is the most important part of education, language is the basic tool of communication. As our world becomes smaller, the ability to communicate with those of other lands becomes a much-needed skill.

Each day at West Orange High School students are able to broaden their horizons through the study of foreign languages. The curriculum includes four-year courses of Latin, Spanish, and French, and a three-year study of German.

In addition to four periods of classroom study per week, during which grammar and other basic skills are practiced, each student spends a fifth class period in the language laboratory. This gives the student the opportunity to listen to himself as he speaks and to record any exercise that he may be doing. Through this modern approach to teaching a foreign language, the student can learn to speak and comprehend as well as write another language.

Continuing to spread the ideas of French culture and helping first and second year students to improve their use of the language in conversation are the two main goals of the French Club. Miss Thelma Allen and President Polly Messier this year headed the largest French Club that West Orange High School has had. Much enthusiasm was generated by the interesting and educational meetings.

Many Latin scholars gathered when the Latin Club met under the able guidance of Miss Mary Loughren and the leadership of President Pam Goldstein. Among the topics discussed by the many excellent speakers were "The Evolution of Languages" and "Roman Life in Britain." One of the highlights of the year was the annual slave market in which new members of the club were auctioned to the old members by Richard Coplon, vice president.

To gain a deeper understanding of the Spanish way of life, the Spanish Club members learn about the people as well as about their countries. Assisted by Miss Margaret Eaton, President Joyce Passante led the students in many worthwhile projects, including the adoption of a Spanish refugee.

This year the German Club has become larger and more successful than ever. With the help of Mr. Charles Seibel, faculty advisor, the members were able to learn much about Germany and the German people through the use of many interesting films. Sandy Bocock served as president.

Today every person needs an adequate background in the field of social studies to undertake the local, national, and international problems with which we all are faced. West Orange High School offers its students a varied program of subjects in this area, including modern history, political geography, economics, and United States history.

The most important goal of the department is to teach the ethics of good citizenship to its students. This is achieved, in part, by the study of the history of man and the problems that have confronted his growth and, in part, by the acceptance of the responsibilities of good citizenship through community service projects.

This program was initiated by our senior students thirteen years ago. All senior students realize through this program of volunteer service the necessity of supporting and cooperating with the many local social welfare agencies and hospitals. They become acquainted with all types of people and their standards of living and are rewarded greatly for their endeavors by the self-satisfaction they gain in participating as useful citizens in their own community.

learn to speak for ourselves . . .

Organized to promote student practice in the democratic system of government, the West Orange High School Student Council stimulates interest in school activities and participation in school affairs.

One regular and one alternate representative are elected from each homeroom. Members of the group meet once a week to discuss the student affairs of the school.

The officers this year were: President Richard Trotman, Vice-President William Ochs, Corresponding Secretary Laurie Conner, Recording Secretary Marilyn Barrington, and Treasurer Robert Williams. Among their achievements were a constitutional amendment on election policies, a dress code, revision of the handbook, election of the football queen, co-ed nights, "The Big Switch", and the Mountain Exchange Program. Mr. Paul Rothstein, faculty guide and supervisor, assisted the representatives in their efforts to create a cooperative and congenial atmosphere in the school.

WOHS has long been known for its fine student council and this year's group has carried on the tradition.

While promoting better understanding of world problems and of other peoples, the two international relations clubs enjoyed an informative year climaxed by a trip to the United Nations. These groups were ably guided by Mr. Robert McRoberts and Mr. Clifton Carlson.

West Orange has been fortunate this year to have Toeti Manoe as our American Field Service Exchange Student from Indonesia. Toeti, who completed her high school work in Indonesia, has lived with a West Orange family during this school year. When she returns to her home, she intends to study law or economics at the University of Indonesia in Jakarta.

The Debate Club was most active this year. Led by Miss Mary Loughren, the faculty advisor, and President Roger Kohn the club was successful in many tournaments, including those at the University of Pennsylvania and at Temple University.

Membership in the National Forensic League allows its members to participate in many activities. These include extemporaneous speaking, debating, and poetry and dramatic reading.

Mrs. Ruth Ayers and the members of the Travel Club journeyed to the four corners of the earth every Tuesday morning. The members of the club learned how the people of far-off lands live and what their countries are like.

BROADCASTING CLUBS

For the first time in many years, WOHS had a Radio Club. Under the direction of Mr. Stephen Tollin and five students with General Class Licenses, the club interested as many people in "ham" radio as they could, showed them how an amateur radio station is operated, and, finally, gave the licensed amateurs a chance to use the school's station, K2KEE, during free periods. For the benefit of those who were new to amateur radio, the club studied the laws governing "ham" radio operation set down by the F.C.C. and taught Morse code.

The Sound Crew, with the aid of Mr. George Bizlewicz, is responsible for the operation of all sound equipment during assemblies. We owe many thanks to these boys for their fine service during this past year.

Priding itself on its excellent staff and service, the Guidance Department, which is headed by Miss Katharine Bliss, places each student in a course best suited to his own needs, capability, and interests. The department assists in perfecting high school curriculum and attempts to help each student plan his future. This consideration of individuals during high school and after graduation has helped many students to attend college and to be successful in gaining worthwhile employment.

Those students who plan to work after graduation are advised by Mr. Harold Groendyk as to placement services. Those planning to continue their education at college or business school apply to these institutions with the aid and counsel of the Guidance Department. College representatives who visit the school each year help a great deal in preparing students for the future.

Investigating the

Stimulation of the student mind and building scientific initiative is accomplished by the capable teachers of the Science Department at West Orange High School. The science curriculum offers biology, the study of life and its processes; chemistry, the study of matter and the changes it undergoes; physics, the study of matter and energy; and physiography, the study of the earth. With the exception of physiography, the students taking these courses spend two additional periods a week in the science laboratory.

This department attempts to instill in the individual a knowledge of scientific facts, laws, and concepts, which can be applied to his social, political, and economic welfare. Students who understand the meaning of scientific thinking and the scientific approach, learn to use their knowledge for the solving of every-day problems. The ultimate is reached in the honors science program instituted in 1961.

In an age when any spot on the globe is seconds away and communication with outer space involves just the flick of a switch, we must show special recognition to the scientist.

SCIENCE CLUBS

The Biology and Physics Clubs are designed to allow those with special interests in the sciences to pursue their quest for knowledge beyond what is accomplished in the classroom.

Each Tuesday when clubs meet, one can always find the members of the Biology Club dissecting a frog or examining something under a microscope. This hearty group supervised by Miss Mary Anne Willson, spends its time investigating the many facets of biological study.

Guided by Mr. Irving Shapiro members of the Physics Club learn to carry out complex experiments and to work with more intricate equipment than that used by the average student. After completing a project or an experiment, each student reports his work to the club so that all can benefit from his findings.

The mathematics curriculum is composed of courses, activities, and units of instruction designed to contribute to the conventional and specialized mathematical needs of the individual. This department offers each student a variety of math courses suitable to the schedule that he intends to follow.

Pupils contemplating a college education will undoubtedly follow the college preparatory courses which include algebra, plane geometry, and senior math. This last year of mathematics consists of trigonometry, solid geometry, and analytical geometry. Most colleges require applicants to have a three-to-four-year background in these subjects, but the requirements vary according to the major the student hopes to pursue.

Students having a superior amount of mathematical ability are eligible to take the honors math courses instituted last year. The honors classes study the theories and abstract concepts of mathematics which are not so thoroughly covered in the regular college preparatory courses. The honors classes progress more rapidly than the other classes, so that at the end of the senior year, they have covered one semester of college math in addition to the standard course.

Students planning to seek business opportunities after graduation may take the general math course. This course will instruct them in the application of simple and complex arithmetic in everyday life.

BUSINESS

Elaine Perrella finds that many hours of practice are necessary in order to become an efficient secretary.

Giving all students the opportunity to learn how to function intelligently in our modern economy and training skilled clerical and secretarial personnel to fill key positions in business are the two basic aims of the Business Department.

In today's business world there is a constant demand for the efficient typist, bookkeeper, and secretary. Our business teachers train students in these and other fields, along with aiding these prospective job candidates by helping to place them in good jobs which promise advancement. Students can also prepare themselves to meet the requirements of more specialized jobs by learning how to operate modern office machines.

Those taking a college preparatory course have their choice of such subjects as typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping. Shorthand is found to be an efficient means of taking notes in classes. Typing with speed and accuracy has become very important to the college student today.

Mrs. Joan Hasbrouck's student secretaries spend their club periods learning how to carry out the varied duties of an efficient secretary. This group provides great service to the school by aiding both the faculty and the office staff. The experiences gained by the girls while members of this club will help them to become truly fine secretaries in the future.

During club period each Tuesday morning the Typing Club met to teach typing to beginners and allow more advanced students time to practice. Miss Susan Hanlon, assisted the students in becoming more proficient in this worthwhile skill.

FINE AND INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Our Fine and Industrial Arts Departments encourage students in studying and working with many materials to learn the value of good craftsmanship. Results of this teaching are seen by the student's ability to change these materials from the raw state into the products designed to meet the consumer's daily needs. This course is the part of our total-educational program which provides opportunity for the study of man and industry through participation in industrial processes and techniques.

With these experiences which will benefit him by increasing the knowledge of his skills, his attitudes, and his accomplishments, the individual becomes more useful as a producer, more appreciative as a consumer, and more valuable as a citizen.

Among many other skills which should be acquired in this day and age is the self-expression which is taught as part of the Fine Arts Department. As art majors, many students become fine and creative artists under the direction of Mr. Robert DeMaine.

ROBERT DeMAINE
Art, Art Major

Mr. DeMaine, a seasoned traveler on the Continent, enhances his teaching with illustrated lectures on European art. He will be greatly missed at WOHS next year, when he returns to his alma mater for a course in city planning.

Under the supervision of Mr. Donald Bush, the members of the Leathercraft Club are offered the experience of creating leather goods, such as wallets, belts, and briefcases, and learn the valuable skills of engraving, designing, and caring for leather goods. These skills provide them with a lasting and satisfying hobby.

The Photography Club with Mr. Albert Lingsch as its adviser aims to promote photography as a hobby. Gerald Rappaport, technical adviser, aided Mr. Lingsch in supplying all the necessary technical information. Field trips for picture taking, sessions in the school darkroom to learn the process of developing pictures, and lectures to improve photographic technique are a few of the activities of the club.

Miss Wydelle Martin and the eighteen members of Interiors for Stage and Home Club were unusually busy this year designing and constructing scenery for the plays given by the drama class. The club also devoted much time to making decorations and creating lighting effects for the Senior Carnival, the Junior Prom, and the Christmas and spring concerts.

Hostesses bring joy to others with home-made Christmas cards.

Realizing that it must cover a much broader scope than it did years ago, our Home Economics Department strives to develop not only the manipulation skills of sewing and cooking, but also those skills necessary for successful modern living. Family relations, child care, house planning, and interior decoration teach students how to function intelligently in our society, and enable them to become a useful member of their community. By learning how to apply the knowledge gained in these courses, the pupil can develop attitudes which will serve her well in the future.

The purpose of the newly formed Hostess Club is to train girls who have not taken homemaking courses. Under the direction of Miss Hulda Luthman, the members learn the proper techniques of meal planning, table setting, and serving. The girls have taken on the responsibility for the decoration and serving of the teachers' Christmas party. A highlight of this year's activities was a visit to a restaurant specializing in foreign foods.

An important part of the school year is the time spent in physical education class. Because of schedule arrangement and equal facilities, sophomores, juniors, and seniors have the same basic curriculum. In the boys' gym classes, team sports are stressed by teachers and coaches. The Marine Physical Fitness Tests are given annually and the boys are also encouraged to participate in such sports as wrestling, tumbling, softball, volleyball, and touch football.

The Physical Education Department promotes competitive sports on an interscholastic and intramural level. Participation in games builds a strong character in the players and the spectators. They learn how to win and lose gracefully; though there is nothing quite as thrilling as being victorious, the loser can benefit by recognizing his weaknesses and striving to overcome them.

Actions speak louder than words:

By teaching the techniques of the game, the Football Club is able to better the caliber of play while promoting good sportsmanship. Led by Mr. Frank Maze and Mr. Keith Doyle, the boys discuss various plays, work out new ones, and see movies of different football games.

Mr. John Imgrund tries to sharpen the reflexes of the boys in the Basketball Club by devoting part of his club period to actual basketball drills.

The boys are able to improve teamwork and have fun at the same time by making use of diagrams, lectures, and movies.

A rich background of experiences help Mr. Philip Congilose to teach the members of the Baseball Club some of the finer points of the game. The members have shown the value of their pre-season training by the fine record made by the team.

Miss Nancy Trainer, adviser of the Girls' Tumbling Club thinks the forty-five members of the club should learn not only to tumble, but also to tumble with technique. First, the girls are taught to do perfect forward and backward rolls. They then learn more difficult stunts which involve the use of the springboard. This year, the club presented an assembly program in which the girls demonstrated their gymnastic abilities.

Teaching interested girls the basic fundamentals of modern dancing is the object of the Modern Dance Club. The girls, under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Podems, learn the various movements involved in the modern dance. With this background, they learn to create their own dances. The highlight of the year was the physical education assembly. Following this presentation, the club visited the junior high schools to demonstrate their skill. As a conclusion to the year's work, the girls went on a trip with Mrs. Podems to a modern dance clinic.

CHEERLEADERS

Spirited, peppy, and enthusiastic are three good adjectives describing the efforts displayed by the cheerleaders this year. The girls were ably led by their captains Margaret Iannone and Jeanne Swanson with the keen advice of Miss Nancy Trainer. The cheerleaders were seen in action at all football games, basketball games, and pep rallies, and gave ardent support to all the other athletic teams. The cheerleaders also helped to instruct those girls who will be the future promoters of West Orange High School spirit.

Excitement filled the West Orange stands all season, as the Cowboys produced their finest football squad in five years. The success of the team can be attributed to the hard work of the players and coaches, both before and during the ten week season. The Cowboys won three games, tied one and lost five, but this record does not tell the whole story of the team's potential. With a few breaks the Cowboys could have easily compiled a winning record.

In the season's opener, against a favored Irvington eleven, the Cowboys showed their abilities by scoring the first touchdown; however, the Campers won the game in the last quarter, fourteen to six. Paul Kern, leading the offensive drive for West Orange, capped off a sixty-five yard march with a ten yard touchdown run.

The second game was at Clifford Scott, in East Orange. Our boys got off to a slow start, but came from behind to tie the game. At the final gun the score was thirteen to thirteen with the Cowboys six inches from victory. Joe Tellone led the West Orange defensive unit, which held the Scotties scoreless over the last three periods of play.

The Cowboys came home the following week to meet an inspired Vailsburg team. Spirit also ran high in the West Orange stands as they trounced the Vikings, thirty-one to nothing. Lou Daniele's offensive play sparked the team to victory, as he caught six passes and scored two touchdowns for the West Orange eleven.

The team then traveled to Kearny as twenty point underdogs, and returned to West Orange as twenty point favorites. They clobbered the Cardinals twenty-six to six. Leo Dandeo dominated the offensive and defensive units with his superior play.

Mike Colabelli's performance as offensive center and defensive line-backer was exceptional until he injured his arm in the fourth quarter.

A fired up Bloomfield squad visited the slope on the sixth week of the season and upset the favored West Orange team, fourteen to thirteen. Richie Cataldo engineered the Cowboy scoring drives, and did a fine job against a tough Bengal team.

Belleville displayed its outstanding power by defeating the West Orange eleven, thirty-eight to nothing. A superior West Orange effort was turned in by lineman, John "Fox" Kessler.

Undefeated Cherry Hill came to West Orange on a cold, rainy Saturday afternoon and edged out a seven to six victory. Warren Taub, with the help of the defensive unit held the explosive Cherry Hill offense to a mere seven points.

West Orange ended its season against the traditional Thanksgiving Day rival, Columbia High School. In this game the Cougars could do nothing wrong, and beat the Cowboys, thirty-five to seven. The leading ground gainer for West Orange was Ed Purdy.

CROSS COUNTRY

Hard work, fierce determination, and the will to win were outstanding trademarks exhibited by our spirited cross country team, ably coached this fall by Philip Congilose. Although faced with the task of competing against some of the toughest competition in Essex County, the Cowboys kept striving for new heights and completed the season with an encouraging record of five wins and seven losses.

The key to many West Orange victories was Terry Bergen. A senior who earned only a junior varsity letter during the previous fall, Terry surprised everyone with his outstanding improvement. He placed seventeenth in the Essex County meet, and he finished twelfth in the Big Ten competition.

Ten outstanding sophomores and juniors will return next year to form the nucleus of the team. Nine of these boys earned varsity letters this year with their fine running, and all are expected to achieve even greater goals next year. Juniors, Richard Buehler, Kenneth Jacobson, Tom Schroll, Richard Coplon and Richard Veitch, along with sophomores, Pete Rosenblum and John Granito turned in excellent performances and will be among those carrying on the Cowboy spirit so well displayed by our present squad.

Captain Ned Steiner puts in an outside shot.

Tension, excitement, and fast play marked the 1962-63 basketball season at West Orange High, as one to remember. Although the Cowboys were not as successful as many had hoped, they are proud of both their record and their team. Lack of height and experience definitely hindered the team this season, but in spite of difficulties they managed to compile a 7 and 8 record.

The Cowboy campaign was highlighted at the beginning of the season by two startling comebacks. After trailing a spirited Belleville team late in the fourth quarter, West Orange bounced back to eke out a victory. The following week our team invaded Kearny and pulled off a similar stunt, to gain the title of having won their first two Big Ten Conference games in overtime play. The Cowboy cagers put on their most impressive showings mid-way through the season with decisive victories over Orange and Nutley. Something that the record does not show is that the Cowboys suffered three of their losses to Bloomfield, Montclair, and Irvington, three top teams, by a total of four points.

The West Orange cause was aided by returning lettermen Ned Steiner and Marc Mezibov. Outstanding support was given by seniors, Richard Dreskin, key figure of the Belleville game, Ted Force, whose fifteen points helped to dump Kearny, Bill Wagner, whose clutch playing sparked a West Orange drive against Irvington, and Chuck Villani, who time and time again came off the bench to bolster tired teammates. Fine play was also exhibited by juniors Jim Caboy and Steve Kesselman. Caboy ended the season second in scoring only to Captain Ned Steiner, as Kesselman filled the guard position ably.

West Orange found tough opponents in the tournaments this year. In the ECT, the Cowboys met a powerful Weequahic five and after a halftime separation of two points, finally succumbed to the Indians. In the State Tournament, a strongly-favored South Side team just slid past the Cowboys, 53-52.

Both the varsity and the jayvee basketball teams made good showings this season. Coaches Imgrund and Pettit should be congratulated on the fine job which they did in producing teams which were a credit to our school.

WRESTLING

Many long hours of hard work plus the will to win were the outstanding characteristics of West Orange's wrestling team superbly guided by Mr. Jerome Sorensen this winter.

The team's two-win and eight-loss record does not tell the actual story of the team's potential, as there were many outstanding individual performances.

In the 98-pound weight class, George Collinson who maintained a record of nine wins, one loss, and one draw proved to be one of the team's steadiest performers.

Richard Cataldo, wrestling in the 123-pound class, showed his prowess by winning all of his regular season matches. Voted as the team's outstanding wrestler, he proved to be an inspiration and leader to his teammates.

Wrestling in the 168-pound division, George Konvalinka showed he was worthy of recognition. He finished the season with a record of eight wins and three losses.

In the heavyweight division, Leo Dandeo, who compiled an impressive eight-and-three record proved to be one of the team's best.

Chosen to represent our school in the state tournament and advancing to the districts, were Leo Dandeo, Richard Cataldo, John Spakowski, George KonValinka, George Collinson, and Mark Woliansky.

If following squads follow the example set by this year's, their seasons are sure to be successful ones.

To quote a former coach, "We are not proud of our record, but we are proud of our team." This was the prevailing feeling of the West Orange High Hockey team this past season. While they were lacking in scoring ability, they were always high in sportsmanship.

With a little luck, four of the games which ended in losses by one-goal margins, might have been turned into victories. Even without these victories, the 1962-1963 hockey team, coached by Ed Liddle, matched all opponents in team spirit and enthusiasm as it eked out a single win over East Orange.

A majority of the players will return next season with experience gained this year. These include forwards Tom Schroll, Carl Moritz, Bob Hershberg, and Steve Vetter; defense men Richard Doering, John Goss, and Greg Young; goalies Rich Veitch and Ron Armstrong.

Cowboys best in the state! This was the highlight of the West Orange swimming season as the Cowboys received honors as the number one team in Groups I, II, and III schools at the State Swimming Meet in Lawrenceville. The Cowboys set three state records on their way to the Group B crown, as Scott Blaze lowered the time in the 100 yard backstroke and Captain Bob Dunkel set marks in the 200 and 400 yard freestyles.

Under the leadership and coaching of Mr. John Prach, the Cowboys also compiled an impressive 14-1 win-loss record, losing only to undefeated Westfield High School. Following their victories over Columbia and Weequahic, West Orange became the second rated team in the state.

The mermen practiced three days a week in the early morning before going to school, and two days a week in the late afternoons. It was through this tremendous effort that Mr. Prach and his boys were able to account for this outstanding record.

TRACK

At the beginning of the season coaches Maze and Doyle had six returning lettermen and a large turnout of hopeful fleet-foots. The returning letter winners provided strength in both track and field events.

Head Coach Maze looked for points in the field events from Scott Blaze, Pete Roselli, and Greg Young, as well as from many of the newcomers. Blaze, one of last year's high scorers, showed great potential in the javelin, discus, and shot.

Coach Doyle was more fortunate in the track events, having five of the six returning lettermen. Paul Kern, who ran the one-hundred and the two-twenty was ably assisted by Marc Mezibov, Rich Dreskin, and Harold Reaves, a speedy sophomore. Great depth and talent was exhibited in the half-mile as Ken Jacobsen, Tom Schroll, and Rich Trotman consistently added points for the Cowboys. Rich Veitch, the specialist in the mile, along with Terry Bergen, showed great improvement, and were counted upon heavily.

Three seniors, Lou Grasso, Kevin Hopkins, and John Rubin, ran both the high and low hurdles for West Orange.

Regardless of their won-loss record, the Cowboys prided themselves in their efforts and morale and spirit ran high.

BASEBALL

Combining the needed experience and the excellent guidance of coach Phillip Congilose, the West Orange High baseball team aspired to surpass the fine record compiled by last year's team. With the help of eight returning starters, the squad never once let up on their opponents.

Doing the hurling for the Cowboys were Dick Bauer, Don Schwartz, Marv Davies, and Dan Reilly. West Orange benefitted from the fine defensive play of Lou Daniele and Ed Purdy, while the hitting was handled by John Kessler and Nick Struble. The best all-around performances were turned in by Ted Force and Dick Bauer.

The rare combination of ability and the will-to-win instilled in this year's squad, as its spirit and drive never faltered throughout the entire season.

GOLF

This year the golf team faced some of the toughest competition the state had to offer. Meeting such teams as Westfield, Millburn, and Bloomfield, defending Big Ten champs, the Cowboys fared well for themselves.

Our team had five returning lettermen this season, including Ned Steiner, Al Flusser, Leslie Charmatz, Bob Williams, and Andy Scioscia. Last year the team finished fourth in the state tournament, and compiled a final record of eight wins and eight losses for 1962.

TENNIS

With the help of five returning lettermen, Coach John Pettit was able to build a foundation for a team with depth and ability. The new courts behind the school helped the boys to improve their skill and continued to do so this season. Having gained experience and know-how, the boys strived to improve upon their very respectable record of the 1961-1962 season.

Returning this year to the squad were Ray Kobler, Richard Coplon, Charles Steiner, Joel Davis, and Jim Moore, along with several very promising sophomores.

MAJORETTES

Many fourth period classes have been interrupted by the spirited tunes of the marching band on the football field. Directing the "disturbance" last season were Head Majorette Gayle White, regulars Carolyn Dunsmore and Alexis Furgess, and alternate Suzanne Army. The girls spent many hours with Mr. John Sost learning not only their own routines but also those of the band.

All their hard work paid off in the colorful shows that were presented to lift the spirits of the crowd and to help cheer our boys on to victory.

TWIRLERS

With a twirl of the baton and a sprightly step, the WOHS twirlers came alive at each football game as they went through entertaining and intricate routines. The talented shows were the result of long hours of practice. Captain Pat Weber and Co-Captain Marsha Beirach directed the squad. As adviser, Mrs. Elizabeth Podems kept all under a watchful eye. The twirlers, working as a unit, helped WOHS attain a student body full of school spirit.

To entertain others . . .

Almost one third of the WOHS students participated in at least one of the four branches of the Vocal Music Department this year.

The general chorus is designed for anyone who enjoys singing. No auditions are required for this group, in which popular music and show tunes are sung and enjoyed by all.

The auditorium choir and the concert choir were both formed on a selective basis. The auditorium choir, under the able direction of Mr. Dale Smyth, devoted itself to the more classic of the choral repertoire. The concert choir, directed by Mr. Earle W. Barnes, sang not only at our own Christmas and spring concerts, but also at the junior high schools.

The "Top 24", a group of the twenty-four most talented voices in the school, was also heard at the two annual concerts.

West Orange High School was also privileged to have a total of five students in the New Jersey All-State Chorus, the All-Eastern Chorus, and the New Jersey State Operatic Festival.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

This year there were many fine groups featured by the Instrumental Music Department of WOHS.

The first group, which appeared during the football season, was the marching band. Under the direction of Mr. John Sost, it offered many pre-game and half-time shows at the games. At the end of the season, this group reorganized to form the concert band, which was frequently heard in assemblies as well as at their annual spring concert.

The orchestra was led by Mr. Arthur Montzka.

This organization was heard often at assemblies and also at the annual spring concert.

The dance band spent every Tuesday morning club period and many afternoons after school rehearsing. This group performed many times during the year, highlighting its achievements at the Military Ball in January.

The excellence of our Instrumental Music Department was proven by the fact that four of its students represented WOHS in the several all-state groups.

DRAMA

"Wake me when it's over!"

Fundamentals of dramatics, movement, and voice expression, as well as basic character interpretation and improvisations were taught by Mr. Richard Evers in the dramatics class this year. To gain experience, the students performed scenes in the classroom and were criticized by classmates. They also studied plays and analyzed them, learning the motivation of the characters. In addition, Mr. Evers' class received further experience through field trips to observe professional actors on stage.

The evidence of the class' hard work became apparent in the excellent assembly programs they presented. "Visiting Day at Bora Bora", a farce about the superstitions of the ancient natives living on tropical islands, was very amusing and the scenery was extremely realistic and effective. "The Revenge of Baron La Rue", a satire on vampires, was also enjoyed very much by all.

In addition to the classroom group, there was a dramatics club. This club, also under the direction of Mr. Evers, met during club periods. The students presented various scenes, which they rehearsed on their own, while the other members observed, judged, and gave constructive criticism.

Thursday mornings were eagerly anticipated by WOHS students this past year because they brought educational, entertaining, and amusing assemblies.

The Assembly Committee, under the direction of Mrs. Violette Cotter, staged many programs throughout the year: several interesting speakers, including a newspaper commentator and a United Nations representative, Mr. Lynch-Shyllon from Sierra Leone; several musical assemblies; awards assemblies; and dramatic presentations. Also on this highly-rated list of assemblies were the National Honor Society Induction Ceremony and the assembly presented by Toeti Manoe our Exchange Student.

MENTAL ACTION CLUBS

Cowboys Consolidated was organized to promote school spirit for all school athletic events. In 1962-1963 this was achieved under the guidance of Mr. John Pettit, faculty adviser, and Sharon Berger, president.

Evidence of Cow-Con's progress and influence was felt throughout the school year. Plans to promote school spirit were originated during the Tuesday club periods. Groups were formed to discuss new ideas for the advancement of team support. For its first year as a club, Cow-Con has successfully attained its goal and hopes to continue to do so.

Eager bridge players are given a chance to exhibit their prowess in Mr. James Mulvihill's and Miss Mary Williams's Bridge Club. Each week our followers of Goren meet in two groups. The advanced players conduct their own games, while the intermediates are instructed by their advisers. Whether "beginner" or "pro", the members enjoy their Tuesday mornings thoroughly.

Under the guidance of Mr. Stephen Tollin, this year's Chess Club arranged a rigorous meet schedule with other schools in our area. The twenty-five-man club was composed of novices and experienced players. Their weekly battles provided many hours of pleasure for all.

FUTURE PROFESSION CLUBS

Future teachers practice the skills they plan to use in their years ahead.

A preview of teaching as a career is offered to the members of the Future Teachers of America Club, under the supervision of Miss Avis Clarke. Through films, speakers, and visits to other schools, club members gain insight into the field of education. Highlighting this year's agenda were visits to Newark State and Montclair State Colleges.

Aspiring nurses-to-be are offered an interesting program by the Future Nurses of America Club. The members viewed many movies this year, and also had the opportunity to talk with several West Orange alumnae now in training. The girls provided Christmas entertainment at a nearby nursing home. Under the guidance of Miss Margaret Lumley, these students have gained a greater knowledge and appreciation of the duties of a nurse.

The Future Physicians Club of WOHS was established a few years ago in order to help students gain information about the medical profession. Under the able direction of Mr. Edward Liddle, the club accomplished this during the current year with movies, lectures, and field trips. The members of the club also benefited from the experiments and laboratory techniques demonstrated by Mr. Liddle.

One, two, three—Kick!

"Come one! Come all! Test your strength at games of skill!" These invitations to the Carnival Dance, sponsored by the senior class, promised a night of fun for everyone, and this promise was fulfilled.

Seniors, juniors, and sophomores strolled leisurely through the gym which was magically transformed into a real carnival setting by Mrs. Elizabeth Dennington and her various committees. From the moment one stepped through the clown face which surrounded the entrance to the gym until the moment of leaving, everyone really felt the true carnival atmosphere.

Enthusiasm was shown by all the students, especially those who actually put on side-show attractions. Between these shows, the students played the games of skill which they themselves had constructed.

This carnival was a welcome diversion, for it combined dancing, games of skill, an excellent show, and even a fortune teller into an evening that will long be remembered by all who attended.

"BIRTHPLACE OF ORGANIZED RESEARCH"

Seventy-six years ago, when our town was just 25 years young, Thomas A. Edison constructed in West Orange the world's first laboratory dedicated to organized research. It was the forerunner of the nation's great industrial laboratories of today. Edison's original West Orange laboratory and his home now constitute the Edison National Monument museum, which annually attracts thousands of visitors, both young and old.

As Edison's corporate heir, the Thomas A. Edison Industries, a unit of the McGraw-Edison Company, is proud of its continuing role as a leader in research and invention.

We salute the young men and women of West Orange High School as leaders of the years ahead.
