A yearbook is much more than a mere catalogue of events pertaining to a specific time period. For many students, it is the last vestige which remains of their thirteen years of schooling, the final reminder and depository of all the incidents, people, and episodes which colored their high school lives. Thus, it is not a publication to which interest is briefly limited; the enthusiasm following the book's initial publication and distribution will be rekindled time and again in later years by its purchasers as they seek to evoke their high school memories.

But just as a yearbook must capture its subjects for posterity, it must also fulfill a myriad of other requirements: it should be attractively laid out, contain something of interest to each individual, be innovative and contemporary, faithful to student interests, concise, cohesive, and well organized. With these and many other factors commanding careful attention, the production of a successful yearbook is no small task.

We, the compilers of the 1974 West-O-Ranger have tried to meet this challenge and produce what we thought was the best book incorporating all of the aforementioned requirements. Through visual photographic displays and verbal annotations we have tried to best capture the school year 1973-74 and its subsequent memories. It is now up to you to judge for yourself the success of our efforts.

Glenn Kesselhaut,
West-O-Ranger Editor-in-Chief

I went into the huddle and called out "Twenty-six!" Forcefully to inspire them, and a voice from one of the helmets said, "Down. Down. The whole stadium can hear you."

"Twenty-six," I now hissed at them. Twenty-six near 0 pinch, on three! Break!" Their hands cracked as one, and they streamed past me out of the huddle, moving up to the line of scrimmage fast as I wheeled and started for the line behind them.

There are admirable potentialities in every human being. Believe in your strength, youth. Learn to repeat endlessly to yourself. It all depends on me.

Andre Gide

We believe today that man is a descendent of the animals. But couldn't it be that the animals are off shoots of mankind, re-traded specimens of man—man in a stage of arrested development?

Caveat emptor.
Let the Buyer beware.
Latin Proverb

I went to the kitchen and started to eat.
I ate everything in sight. Cakes, breads, cereals, meats, fruits. Succulent chocolates, vegetables in sauce, wines, fish, creams and noodles, eclairs, and wursts totalling in excess of sixty thousand dollars. If God is everywhere, I had concluded, then He is in food.

Woody Allen
Getting Even

It is funny how one's thoughts turn to food
when there is nothing else to think of.

John Colton

To see a world in a grain of sand
 And a heaven in a wild flower:
 Hold infinity in the palm of your hand,
 And eternity in an hour.

William Blake

As rivers have their source in some far off fountain, so the human spirit has its source. To find this fountain of spirit is to learn the secret of heaven and earth.

Lao-Tse

When the Pobble was in the water some unidentified creatures came and ate his toes off, and when he got home his aunt remarked: It's a fact the whole world knows, That Pobbles are happier without their toes, which is funny because it has a meaning, and one might even say a political significance. For the whole theory of authoritarian government is summed up in the statement that Pobbles are happier without their toes.

George Orwell

We are the music makers, and we are the dreamers of dreams,
 Wandering by lone sea breakers and sitting by desolate streams;
 World-losers and world-forsakers,
 On whom the pale noon gleams:
 Yet we are the movers and shakers
 Of the world forever, it seems,

Arthur W. E. O'Shaughnessy
The Fountain of Tears

Forecasters predict that there is an 80 percent chance of light-to-moderate progress in the year 1977, but only, unfortunately for us, in the Southern Hemisphere.

Russell Baker
Poor Russell's Almanac

The more faithfully you listen to the voice within you, the better you will hear what is sounding out side.
Dag Hammarskold

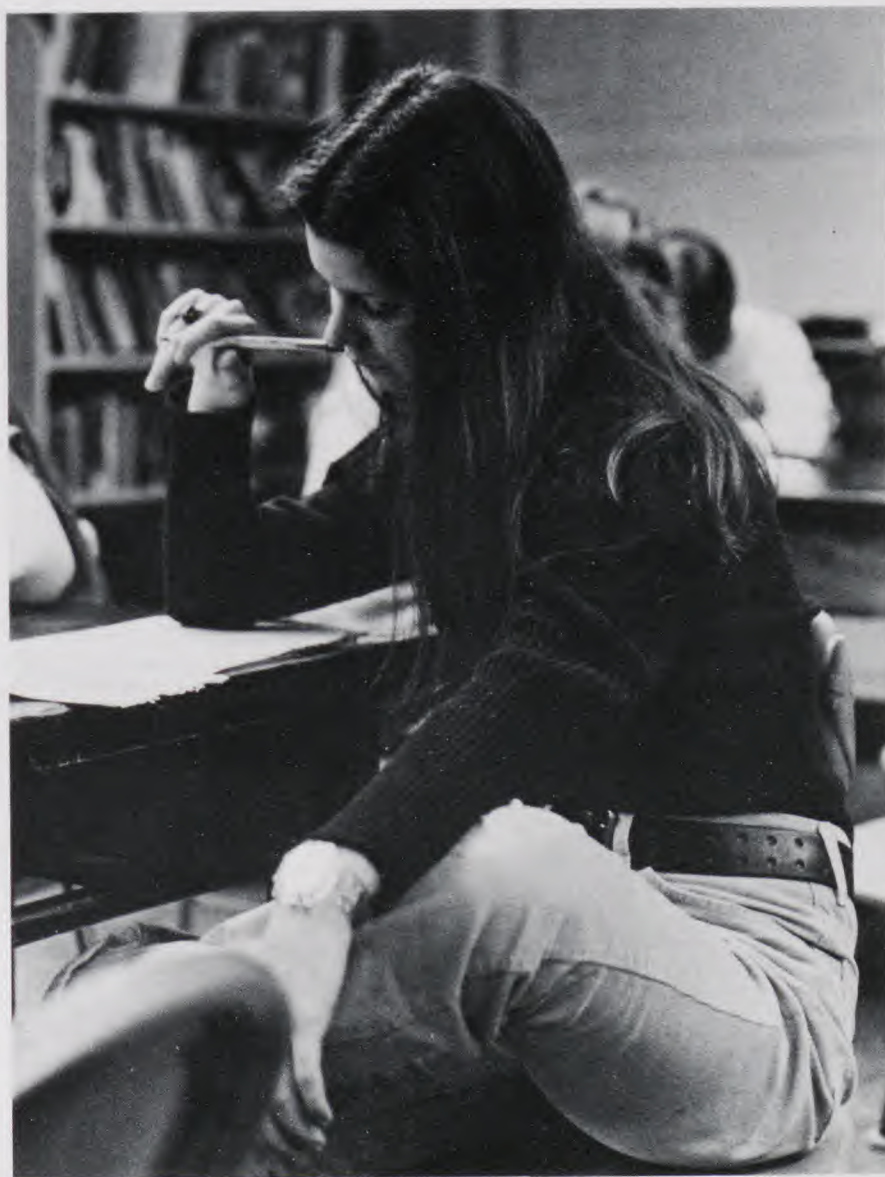

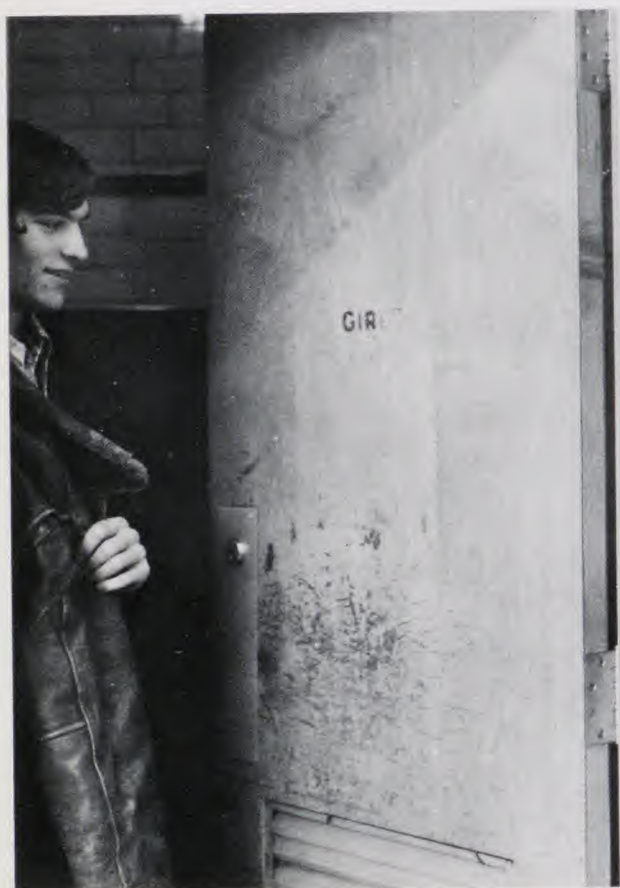

I shall not pass this way again.
Any good thing I can do, or any kindness that I can show, let me do it now! Let me not defer it or neglect it. For I shall not pass this way again.

Stephen Grellet

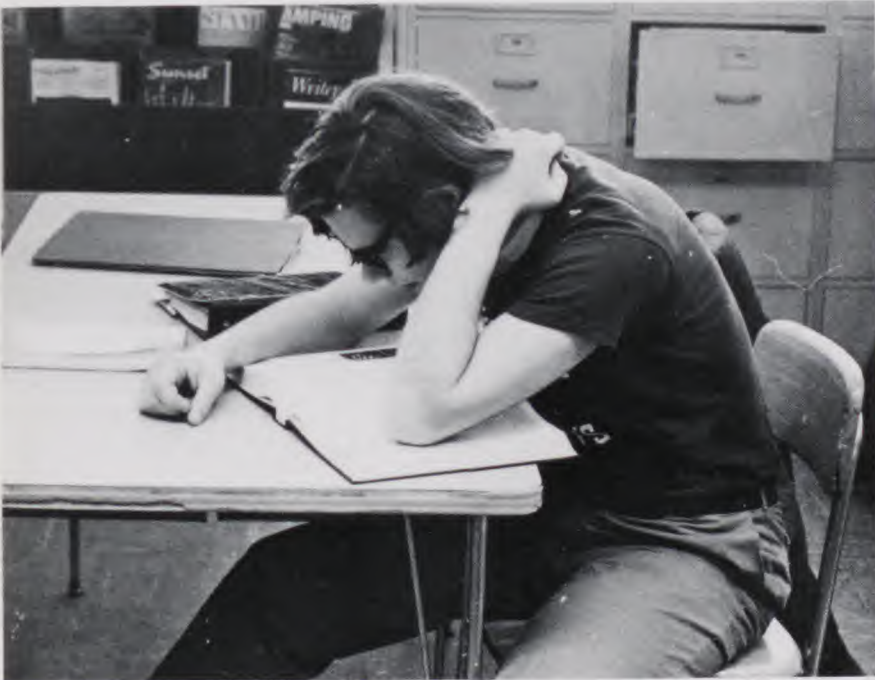

The female is different from the male. There is no doubt about that!

Conrad Veitd

Everyone in the world, of course, would like to be young, except the young. And before they know it they too will be yearning to regain their youth.

A smile: an inexpensive way to improve one's looks.
Anonymous

Thinking is easy, acting is difficult, and putting one's thoughts into action is the most difficult thing in the world—

Goethe

I forget who it was that recommended men for their soul's good to do each day two things they disliked . . . it is a precept that I have followed scrupulously; for every day I have gotten up and have gone to bed.

W. Somerset Maugham
Moon and Sixpence

I was gratified to be able to answer promptly and I did. I said I didn't know.

Mark Twain
Tom Sawyer

We shall not cease from exploration,
And the end of all our exploring
Will be to arrive where we started
And know the place for the first time.
T. S. Elliot

Sociologists agree that the worst thing that can happen to an American child nowadays is youth. When the malady strikes it may help a little for the parent to take his child aside and gently explain that while youth is indeed a terrible affliction, every case in history has been cured—and that the cure is usually worse than the ailment.

If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music he hears, however meas-

All that philosophers have sought, science discovered, genius wrought;
All that reflective memory stores,
or rich imagination pours;
All that the wit of man conceives,
All that he wishes, hopes, believes;
All that he loves, or fears, or hates,
All that to heaven and earth relates,
—These are the lessons that I teach In speaking silence, silent speech.

The young men of this land are not, as they are often called, a "lost" race that never yet has been dicovered. And the whole secret, power, and knowledge of their own discovery is locked within them—they know it, feel it, have the whole thing in them—and they cannot utter it.

THIS IS YOUR PROUDEST HOUR

..... Culminating a period in your life you will always want to remember. As your official photographer, we feel elated to have been able to document this cherished era with photographs pulsating the very life you lived - the very thoughts you spread - the very feeling you so warmly and sincerely shared. This reality though captured in a split second will be an everlasting record for posterity.

The future holds many events for you that you will want to remember - Please feel free to call upon us for all of your photographic needs.
