West Orange High School

Mountaineer

E Pluribus Unum; "Of many, one." West Orange High School is best described as a place of composites: different classes, different backgrounds, different languages, different dreams, all coming together to form one single student body, unlike any other. In this spirit, the Class of 2006 was one of the most unique classes ever to pass through West Orange High School. For four years, the Class of 2006 grew up together, from frightened freshmen to strong seniors. Subjects were studied, meals were masticated, tests were taken. All the while, West Orange pride brought the seniors together into one cohesive unit. Through their experiences at WOHS, the seniors of 2006 matured and grew into unique individuals, each cut differently. But when put together, these students, athletes, and club members joined snugly together to form classes, teams, and organizations. Indeed, they formed a larger, more important picture. Take a few steps back, and you'll see that the Class of 2006 fits together like...

Voices of a Crowd

After three years of eager anticipation, the Class of 2006 was excited to finally reap the benefits of being seniors at West Orange High School. Parking in the student parking lot, eating in the senior cafeteria, and attending Senior Prom were just a few of the many exclusive privileges of being seniors. The Class of 2006 continually found ways to exhibit its Mountaineer pride; seniors wore '06 jerseys, attended and cheered at the pep rally, and supported the many outstanding teams and clubs of West Orange High School throughout the year. The spirit demonstrated by the seniors served as a common unifying characteristic of the Class of 2006.

Bites of a Bagel

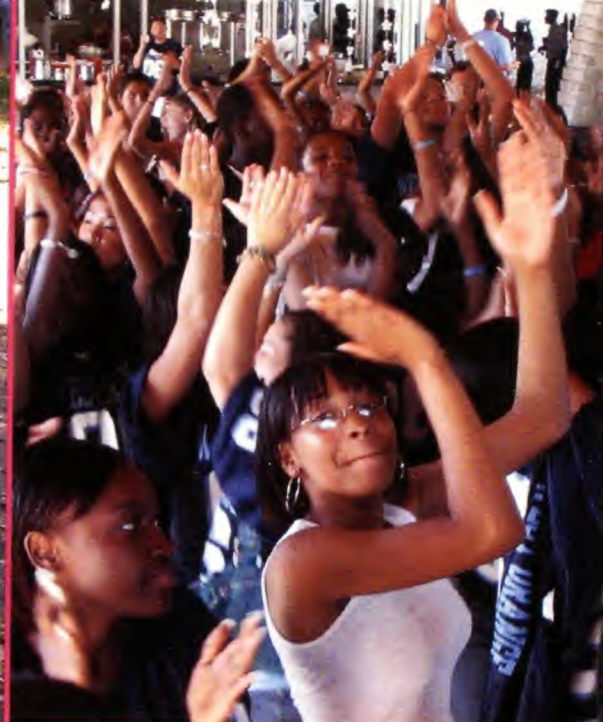

On the morning of September 7, 2005, the freshmen were not the only students stepping into a new atmosphere. As members of the Senior Class arrived to enjoy a delightful, early-morning breakfast with faculty and friends, they finally understood the peculiar room numbers listed on their schedules. Excitement mounted as students realized they would be privileged to use the expansive new addition of classrooms and facilities that was completed over the summer of 2005. Although eager to explore the long-awaited amenities, the seniors took advantage of the opportunity to socialize with their classmates after a two-and-a-half-month hiatus. Students were happy to spend time with good company instead of diving directly into the new school session. Many students purchased their senior jerseys, showing immediately how eager they were to express their true blue spirit. The Senior Breakfast was a perfect way to kick off the last, and hopefully best, year of high school for the Class of 2006.

Seeds of a Watermelon

The students had baskets of fun at the Senior Class Picnic on Thursday, September 22, 2005. For the first time, the picnic was held at Costa del Sol in Union, New Jersey, a beautiful setting for this festive day out. The prospect of improved activities drew unprecedented participation from the students of the Class of 2006. Frisbee, volleyball, football and basketball were just a few of the phenomenal physical activities that took place during the picnic. As the afternoon progressed, many students retreated into the shade and took advantage of the heat to have water fights with their friends, while others enjoyed the free buffet lunch. DJ Duca kept the dance floor jumping long into the afternoon. At the end of the day, seniors of WOHS returned home with bellies full of food and lungs full of laughter.

Days of a Week

It is indicative of the enthusiasm of the Class of 2006 that they would come together and organize a student-initiated Senior Spirit Week. What started as a mere idea blossomed into a full-fledged display of Senior Class unity. On Monday, October 17, 2005, the Senior Class showed up for school decked out in preppy attire that mimicked the extravagance of the cast of the popular MTV series Laguna Beach. Tuesday was Black Out Day, on which the seniors wore black above the waist. With Wednesday came Ghetto Day, and students dressed in oversized t-shirts and baggy pants. Sports Jersey Day was on Thursday and students supported their favorite teams. Eighties Day was the culmination of the festivities of Senior Spirit Week. Girls came to school clad in colorful leg warmers, leggings, tie dye t-shirts, cut up sweatshirts and beaded necklaces. Guys wore aviators and jean jackets. Senior Spirit Week was a true attestation of the diverse, yet cohesive, nature of the Class of 2006.

Return of a Legacy

It was an unseasonably warm night November 4, 2005—a welcome respite from the autumn chill—students and alumni gathered to watch football's last home game. Halftime festivities began with a dazzling dance routine by the cheerleaders to bring out the true "West" spirit. Next, the marching band performed their representation of feudal Japan in the show "Tradition, Courage, Honor," to the music of The Last Samurai. The halftime show culminated with the crowning of the Class of '06's Homecoming King and Queen. The senior class nominated Joana Bernard, Lavanna Martinez, Mallory Stasiuk, Fernando Abreu, Andrew Martinelli, and James Simpkins for the Homecoming Court. Joana Bernard and James Simpkins were crowned to the applause of all in attendance. The Homecoming Dance on November 5, 2005, was regarded as equal parts swanky and spiffy, complete with a buffet dinner and music supplied by the debonair DJ Duca on the "1's and 2's." The Class of 2006 helped to continue a long-lived tradition in our community, a legacy they hope to leave for generations to come.

Stars of a Night

Unfortunately, the first administration of the new SAT on March 12, 2005 happened to coincide with one of the most memorable nights of a student's high school career. After taking the exam in the morning, the Class of 2006 donned formal wear and prepared for the Junior Prom. Students arrived at the Wilshire Grand Hotel excited for a night filled with dinner, dancing, and delight. They strutted their stuff down the Hollywood-themed red carpet as our very own TV36 paparazzi filmed the occasion. Superlatives including the best dressed male and female, the most uniquely dressed male and female, and the best matching couple were awarded. After the dance, many students continued the festivities with trips down the shore and to the city, and parties with friends. The Class of 2006 enjoyed sharing this momentous occasion almost as much as they enjoyed the company.

Student Life

Chills of a Thrill

Though the Class of 2006 took great joy in working, studying, doing community service, and participating in extracurricular activities, they primarily loved to have fun. The activities the seniors engaged in vary as much as their unique personalities. Many students liked to eat together at local restaurants, see a movie, go shopping at the mall, or go to a park and play sports. Those feeling adventurous enjoyed taking trips to New York City for Broadway shows and some dinner, or driving down the shore for the day. Still, others unwound in quieter ways, preferring the company of their photosynthetic forest friends, or of the loved and hated characters of the literary world. Others liked to knit. Whatever the activity, the Class of 2006 took the most pleasure in merely spending time with their friends and creating memories together.

Nicole Handler and Ally Sunberg raise, check, and bluff their way into fortune.

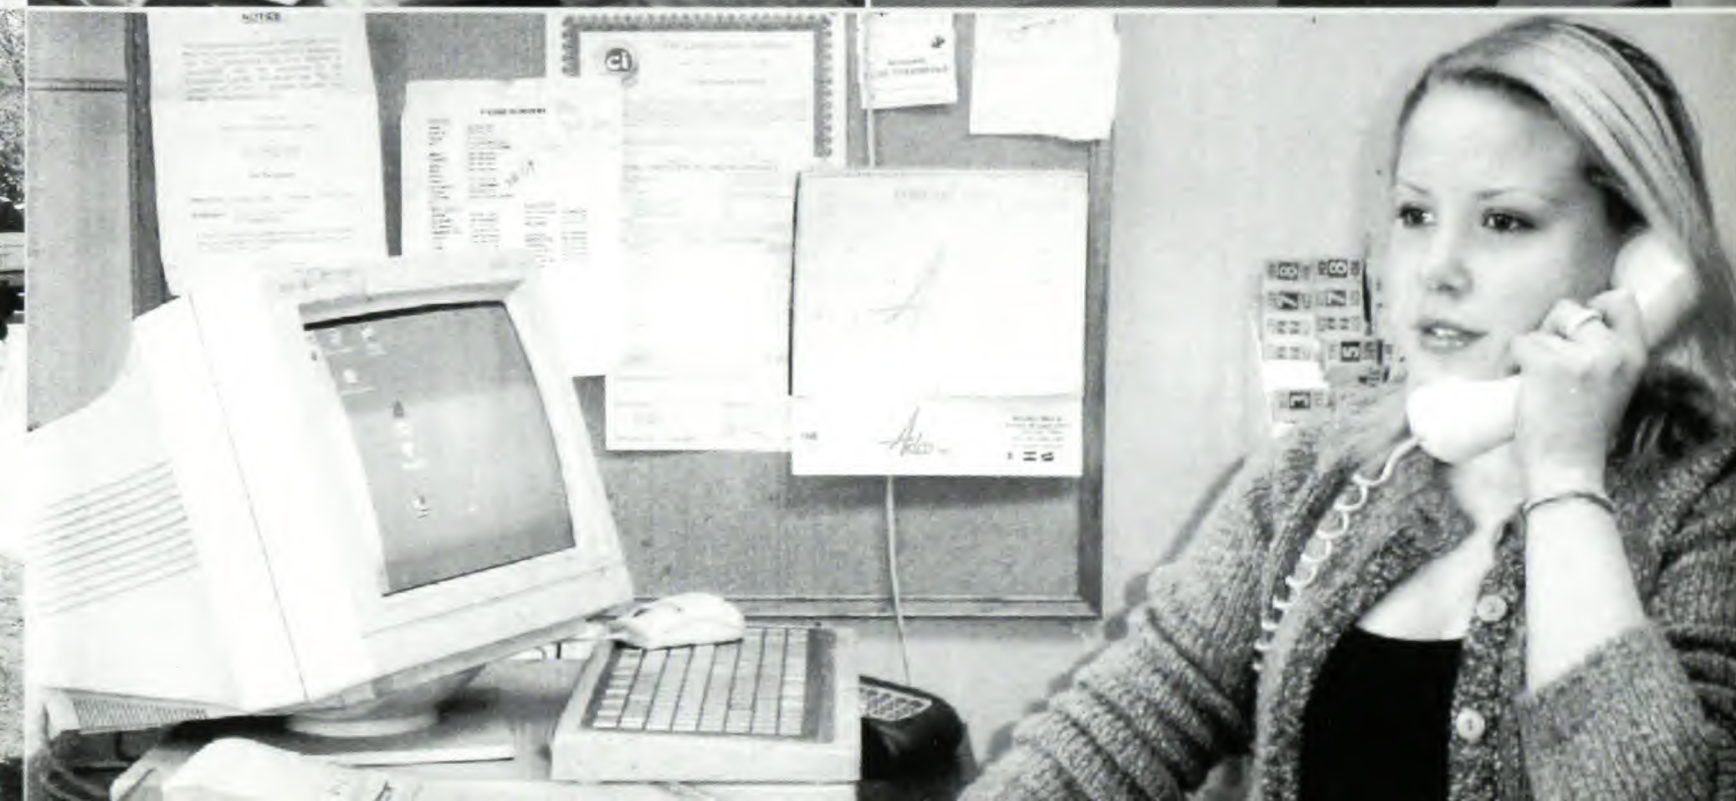

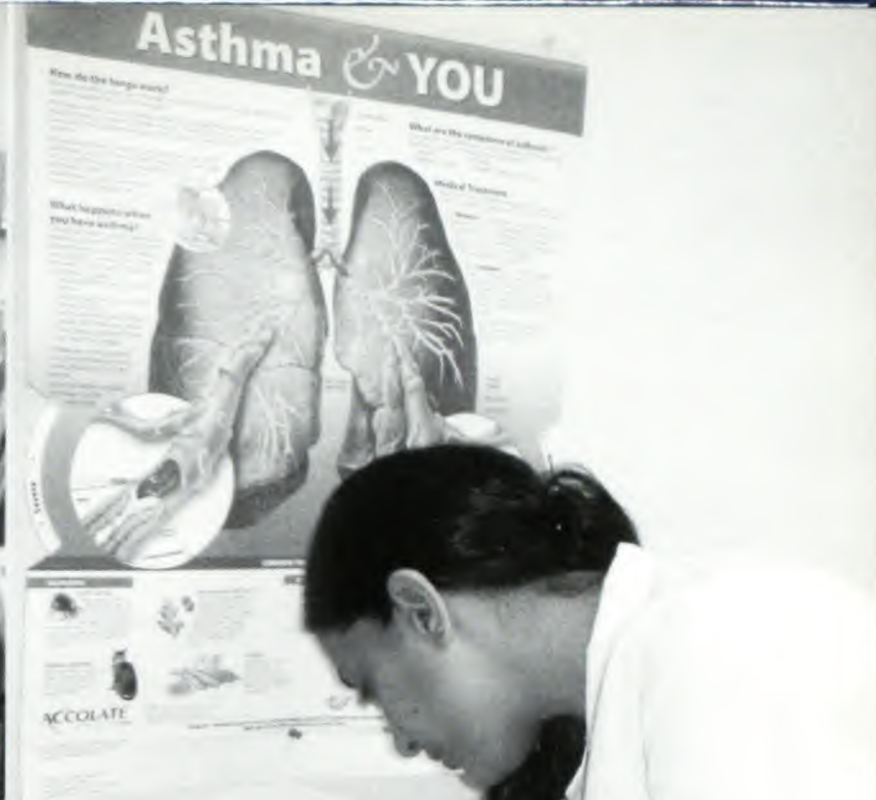

Pennies of a Paycheck

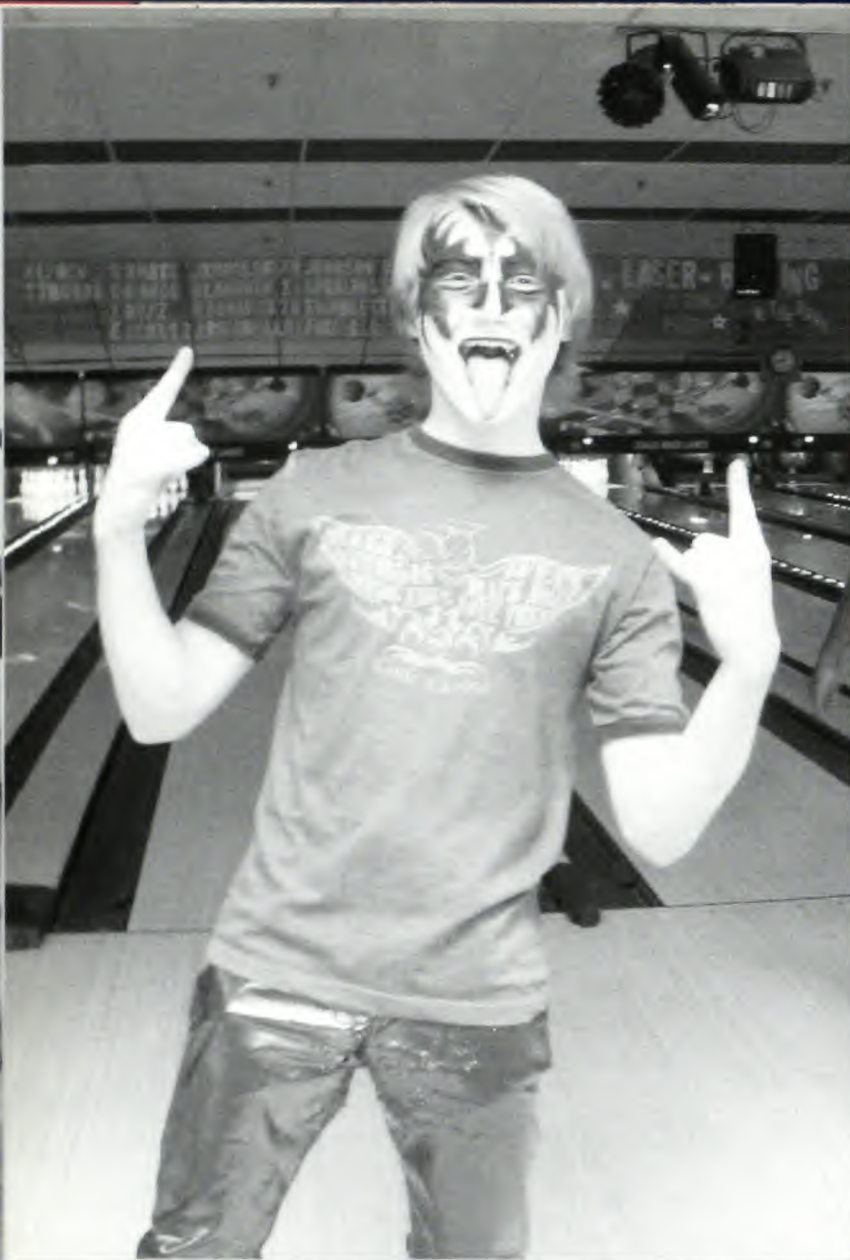

Where the Class of 2006 enjoyed buying fly threads or phat beats, they had to work hard to raise the capital to fund their glamorous lifestyles. Forced to seek employment, the seniors crawled into the lowest ranks of any establishment that would hire them. With the money earned from their minimum wage, they were able to maximize their enjoyment. Many succumbed to the old standards, such as scooping ice cream at Mark + Julie's and folding clothes at stores in the mall. Others ventured into less common vocations such as teaching enrichment classes or working in a doctor's office. Being employed taught the seniors important lessons about time management and commitment, and contributed to making the Class of 2006 well-rounded and constructive members of society. The Class of 2006 was a helpful and valuable addition to the business in the West Orange community.

Despite a double hip replacement and failing eye sight, the ancient Aleph Pantaleon is confident of his bowling skills.

Gutterballs of a Game

On a typical night, the teenagers of West Orange High School would be turning in around twelve, but on the night of Senior Bowling, the terrific times were just beginning. The seniors arrived at the Eagle Rock Bowling Lanes clad in creative costumes and ready to roll. Seniors rarely have the opportunity to spend time together outside of school, but when they do, they have a ball. Senior Bowling was no exception. From Legends of the Hidden Temple contestants to the members of KISS, the Class of 2006 put a lot of thought into its teams' themes. Regardless of whether the ball went sailing down the lane or trickled down the gutter, Senior Bowling was a strike.

Spots of a Lot

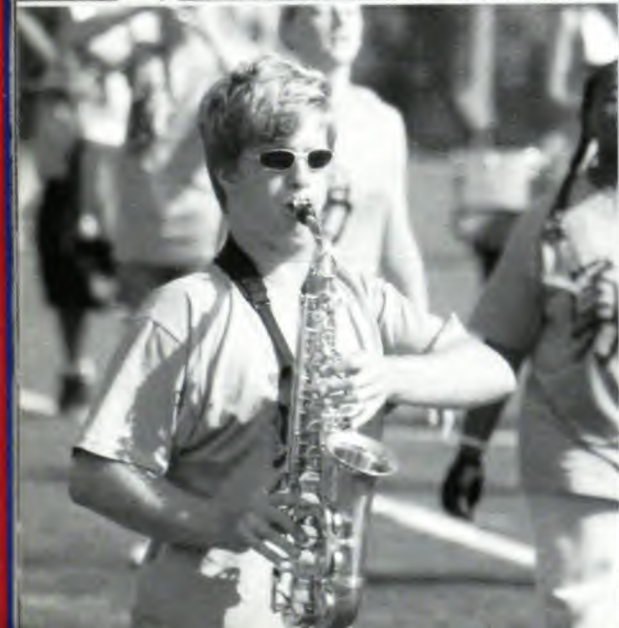

In spite of being subjected to exacting examinations, six hours of white-knuckled hands-on instruction, the strictest driving laws in the nation, and the intimidation of the dreaded drivers' test, the Class of 2006 slowly but surely attained the seemingly unattainable; that coveted card; that divine document; that incredible ID: the drivers' license. With this sacred privilege came the entrance onto an entirely new plane of freedom, allowing the bearer to shuttle him or herself around West Orange's lush, rolling hills and cosmopolitan town center with the greatest of ease. However, with the highest car insurance in the nation, skyrocketing energy prices, and the requirement of an actual car in order to initiate the driving process, they needed the dough before they could go. Furthermore, the Seniors' exploits on the roads were not without the occasional error, but the Class of 2006 utilized its vast knowledge of traffic ordinances and the automotive sciences to ensure the public's safety.

Movements of a Show

The Marching Mountaineers were constantly commended for their outstanding record, and the 2005-2006 season was no different. Whether or not the community considers marching band a varsity sport, the musicians' dedication and excellence cannot be denied. Led by senior Drum Major David Regner, the band marched to numerous victories and acquired many trophies to add to the impressive collection in the band room. Thankfully, the time and effort the Marching Mountaineers devoted to the band this season was handsomely rewarded. The band's long-standing legacy remains intact, thanks in part to the creativity and ingenuity of the Class of 2006. Indeed, the seniors marched to the beat of their own drum.

Crumbs of a Snacktime

When the members of the Class of 2006 look around the halls of West Orange High School, they see the same vivacious visages they have been seeing for the past thirteen years. Through elementary, middle and high school the senior class has forged steadfast friendships and shared numerous nuggets of nostalgia. Throughout the seemingly endless days of education, the Class of 2006 went from Osh Kosh to Abercrombie, Radio Flyers to RAV4's, whilst befriending petty enemies, scraping knees, polishing off juice boxes, and generally making the most of their time together. Looking back on the past and remembering all of the great years spent together, the seniors of the Class of 2006 should consider themselves lucky to have been a part of such a great group of girls and boys.

Deeds of a Do-gooder

In addition to their busy schedules, members of the Class of 2006 found time throughout their high school careers to give back to the community, and to significantly impact the lives of people in need. Students devoted their time to various admirable causes, receiving in return the intense satisfaction that comes from helping others. Seniors volunteered at soup kitchens, tutoring programs, nursing homes, houses of worship, programs abroad to help the needy, extracurricular events, charity events, and other innumerable activities. The senior class's focus on friendliness and philanthropy has influenced the character of the student body as a whole. No cause was too small, no help unappreciated in the student body's quest for social justice and the community's well-being. It was clear that the world became a slightly better place thanks to the seniors' aid.

Little Me

The stage was set, the lights were hot, and the house was packed when the curtain rose on opening night of 2006's annual spring musical, Little Me. Rob Huryk, Danielle Cell, Carolyn Christiano, Kelsey Thompson and others spent months of hard work building sets, sewing costumes, adjusting lights and memorizing lines, songs, music and moves in preparation for the big show. Based on the book by Neil Simon, Little Me is a biographical work following the privileged life of an aspiring starlet and all the wacky events that unfold. The play calls for a vast variety of colorful characters, and Rob Huryk wowed audiences by playing multiple roles, sometimes in the same scene! As the lights came up and the actors took their final bow, the opinion was unanimous: Little Me was a big hit!

Many have said that football is a game of inches. Those on West Orange's football team would say that football is a game of heart. After an intense pre-season on the field and in the infamous Bubble, the school's football players proved that they had enough Strength and Honor to push themselves past their own limitations, and onto glory. With the guidance of Chris DeRosa, Eric Singleton, Ryan Hanley, Jon Gaeta, and the formidable Coach Jacob, the football team brought pride to the stands of the new Suriano Stadium. In a season of ups and downs, the football team fought relentlessly, showing everyone what it meant to be "West."

In the world of athletics, you have players and you have fans. There is no doubt that West Orange's players have moxie, but there are often times when the fans could use a little pick-me-up. This was where the cheerleaders came in.

Armed with little more than pom-poms, megaphones, and their own dexterity, West Orange's cheer squad had no trouble rallying the troops with its lively chants and fresh stunts. With stout hearts and vivacious visages, these halftime heroes were glad to be launched into the air if it meant that they were supporting the school. Led by Captains Kelly Alfano, Aimeé Lorenzo, Kate McNaboe, and Pamela Misthos, the squad gave it their all, at home, away, and at competition. Everyone agreed that with the cheerleaders around, there was never a dull moment.

We are all familiar with the concept of defending one's turf, but none take it quite as literally as the Girls' Soccer team. Led by Seniors Ashlee Anderson, Swapna Maruri, and Junior Shannon Murphy, the team kicked, crossed, headed, punted and sent a swath of sweat and sorrow across Essex County and beyond. A diverse group of many ages and backgrounds, the team developed close bonds and played the field as a single entity, and with the coaching of Thelmo Nunes and Assistant Coach Stefan Zichella, it is no surprise that the Girls' Soccer team performed as stunningly as it did.

A man of soccer once called it "the opera of the people." If this is so, then the Boys' Soccer team was like a crew of young Pavarotti apprentices.

Usually one of the best teams at West Orange High, the Boys' team once again proved its worthiness. Of course, such stellar performance does not come without a price; the boys trained hard throughout the summer and pulled together to form a troop of agile, assured players with their sights set on victory. Granted, not every opponent was an easy win, but it was apparent to fans and common folk alike that the hard work and effort spent during practices made the team operate as a well-oiled, shot-blocking, goal-scoring machine.

Evolutionary biology tells us that running is one of the most basic impulses that a man can have. Experience tells us that running well over long distances is very, very strenuous. In light of these truths, the Boys' Cross Country team took physical and mental strain to the maximum, each member effectively destroying himself to start anew. Although cross country running is a sport loaded with uphill battles and seemingly endless courses, these young men prepared for the season over hundreds of miles, and reaped the benefits accordingly. Thanks to their diligence and personal struggles, the team left its opponents in the dust.

Interscholastic tennis is interesting in that while a participant is a member of a team, the game is played one-on-one. No one to pass to, no one to score for you, no one to recover a botched play; just you, your opponent, and the net. Despite this life of solitary sphere slinging, the Girls' Tennis team felt right at home on the court. With rackets in their hands, the girls were able to pull together and return serves like a dissatisfied restaurant patron. In addition to success, the girls' also laid claim to pride and personal growth, thanks to leadership on the part of Diane Andres, Jenni Davis, Ally Sunberg and Coach Lesnik.

Spike. Dig. Serve. Bump. Ace. That volleyball contains such a colorful menagerie of verbs is a testament to the exciting, lightening-quick pace of the game. Not only is the game a rapid one, but it puts the players against both often-fearsome opponents and that ever-present force of nature: gravity. Most would find the odds too tough to handle. The Volleyball team did not. Led by Junior, Althea Charles, Seniors Deanna Leone, Maygen Sociedade-Tavares, and Coaches Adamovich and Perez, the Volleyball team took to the court in true Mountaineer fashion, fighting relentlessly toward its goals for the season. Certainly, while some teams were too tough to beat, the close-knit teamwork and the sheer determination on the part of the Volleyball team ensured that West Orange would not be so easily forgotten.

The 2006 Winter Season proved to be a period of intense progress for the Girls' Basketball team. The team was motivated by its captains Najah Harris, Fatia Whitsett, and Tara Neilan. The girls took advantage of the opportunity to utilize our school's extensive, new athletic facilities. The team's hard work and preparation in practice certainly paid off on the court. After making two last-minute lay-ups and a three-pointer in the final forty eight seconds of play, the girls won their Holiday Tournament, and were met with joyous enthusiasm. The team was seeded eighth in the Essex County Tournament, and their record of over .500 qualified the girls for the state tournament. With the talent and dedication present on this year's Girls' Basketball team, it is no surprise that had such a successful season.

Dribbling, dunking and driving down the court, the Boys' Basketball team had a dynamic season. Led by Captain Ben Stolz, the men played tough and kept the heat coming all season long. Coach Cacciacarne believed in his team, and trained them long and hard, which paid off for the boys in the end. Since the sports and games of ancient Greece, wrestling has been known as one of the purest forms of head-to-head competition. A test of strength, agility, and wits, it is a sport that requires diligence in all areas of the participants' bodies and minds, and is fought without the use of any outside equipment. West Orange High School's Wrestling team was prepared on all fronts, accruing a winning record this season and allowing Captain Tommy Lorenzo to earn his one hundredth career victory, establishing a new record for West Orange High School. Coach Zichella and Captains Tommy Lorenzo and Lawrence Petigrow led the team toward pins and wins. Their opponents took it on the chin. Goals of a Hat Trick

Millions of years ago, primitive man fought tooth and nail for survival across the frozen, wind-swept expanse of the Bering Strait. Today, West Orange High School's Hockey team draws upon the same will and determination to achieve victory at any cost under similar circumstances. Like a Jack London protagonist, the team braved the cold to endure amidst the competition, racking up an impressive record and bringing glory to the halls of the newly renovated Richard J. Codey Arena. Captains Gary Braus, Andrew Martinelli and Jake Simon led along side Coach Tom Garguilo, providing the foundation for a strong team and allowing Jacob Simon to score his one hundredth career goal in spite of missing most of last year's season following an injury. Although they are mammals, the Varsity Hockey team is infamous for being cold-blooded.

Spares, strikes, and so much spirit were the marks of the successful season of the Bowling team. Much like their brothers on the boys' team, the Girls' Track team pursued victory with spirit and determination. The girls of the Varsity Track team made incredible leaps and bounds this season. Competing in such exigent events as hurdles, relays, javelin, shot put, pole vaulting and discus, the impressive athletic expertise of these women was necessary. Coach Joe Picataggio kept the girls going strong all season long, with constant motivation and encouragement. Javelin throwers, high jumpers and runners alike, the whole team united to support one another whether at practice or yet another successful meet. Although the girls competed individually in each event, the team came together to form a triumphant troop or runners, throwers, and jumpers who performed professionally throughout the spring season.

West Orange's Lacrosse team was only in its third year, but anyone attending their games and practices would say that the members of the team perform like battle-hardened veterans. Played for centuries by the Iroquois Indians, the first games of lacrosse involved hundreds of warriors on a half mile-long field. Today's games are slightly less grand, but no less intense. Captains Andrew Martinelli and Eric Singleton and Coach Craig Buckley led the lax attack and brought cross-checking, sphere-slinging glory to the fields of West Orange.

West Orange High School's Golf team was certainly up to par this season. Led by an extremely strong and experienced group of seniors, the team chipped its way to golfing glory. Even though individual scores are emphasized in the game of golf, West Orange players encouraged each other to improve their skills. Competing in both the Essex County and the Northern Hills Conference tournaments, the golfers putted, drove, and swung throughout the season. Coach Nick Galante and Captains Ben Heller and Jake Simon were encouraging leaders to the team. Characterized by beautiful birdies and easy eagles, the team completed its putting pilgrimage confidently. The team members logged long hours at the driving range to perfect their swings and knock strokes off their scores.

The Boys' Tennis team served and swung its way through a superb season. The team was strengthened by its powerful group of seniors, who led by example all season long. Under the instruction of Coach Jay Gitter, the boys had a fantastically fun time. Improving their games, learning new skills, and competing in numerous tournaments, Captains Jeff Lesser, Sam Hauss, and Dan Schneier were constant motivators and positive role models to the other boys on and off the court. The Spring 2006 Boys Tennis team's dedication and spirit secured its successful season.

Dear Members of the Graduating Class of 2006,

This Senior Class of 2006 is very special to me for a number of reasons. Do you know what one outstanding reason might be? If you said that we both started out as freshmen at WOHS in September 2002, you would be right! Yes, some four years ago, we entered the doors of WOHS together; you as a freshman, I as the new principal. We have had a number of shared experiences, some which were challenging and others quite exciting. We went through the construction of the new addition together, and you were the first senior class to have this wonderful new building open for you. Now you are leaving, adding a new piece to the chapter in your life - and as some would say - adding a new piece to the puzzle.

To make this puzzle come together fully, it will be most important for you to continue to acquire additional knowledge, learn new skills and be thoroughly prepared for the challenges of today's society. My hope is for all of you to continue your education and experience further success. I encourage you to set short-term and long range goals for yourself and direct your time and energy to achieving those goals. With continued perseverance, diligence and determination, you will be successful in your endeavors.

My very best wishes to you for a wonderful life. May you successfully solve all of the puzzles that come your way; may life be kind to you, and may you enjoy good health, experience much happiness, good fortune and success.

Sincerely,

Arthur J. Alloggiamento

To Our Baby Girl Erica,

Time goes by so fast. Just yesterday, you were our little peanut playing softball with the Starlings and making it past all of the bases to home plate by running underneath all the other players. Look at you now. All grown up. Playing with the big girls. You have definitely proven to your family that size doesn't matter. It's the size of your heart and your desire that allows you to accomplish your goals. You have the biggest heart and we all know that you will accomplish all that you desire. We are so proud of you! Congratulations! Continue to believe in yourself. Your family will always believe in you. We love you!

We don't usually use your full name when referring to you but we feel the need to do so in honoring such an amazing young man, our son. Akeem, you have been the knot that kept the family together and on such a very special occasion, your high school graduation, we just want to let you know how very blessed and grateful we are for having you as our son and part of this family. You have made us very proud and we look forward to attending many more ceremonies in your honor.

We wish you all the best in your future endeavors. Always know we are here to support and guide you in all that you do, today and every tomorrow. You, our dearest son, have truly been our greatest endeavor.

Dearest Frankie,

Congratulations on all of your accomplishments. The pride and joy we have in our hearts couldn't possibly be put into words.

As a baby you were precious, as a little boy you were impish, as a young man you always had all the qualities of a true gentleman.

Everytime we look at the faces of the people that surround you, all the lives you've touched, your grandma f'ayo, your Titi Meri, your aunts, uncles, cousins, and friends. We see laughter, bright eyes, and most of all, we see all the love that you radiate. For this and for so much more, we want to THANK YOU!!!

And now as you go out into the world to explore new horizons and meet new people and have new adventures, Remember...

MAY YOUR GUIDING LIGHT BE STRONG

Dear Heather,

When reaching this point in both your life and ours, our words don't seem to quite fit - so instead, we will borrow from the inimitable words from Dr. Seuss's Oh, the Places You'll Go!

"Congratulations!

Today is your day.

You're off to Great Places!

You're off and away!...

So...

*Be your name Buxbaum or Bixby or Bray

You're off to Great Places!

Today is your day!

Your mountain is waiting.

So... get on your way!"

We are so proud of you. You are truly a wonderful, talented, and beautiful young lady inside and out. Congratulations on this milestone event and we wish you continued success as you go on to college. We love you so much, Mom, Dad, and Dale

From preschool to high school and all in between, we watch you grow up into a wonderful teen. Even your sisters will say you're a terrific brother, and we know that they certainly don't want another. You never disappointed us not one single bit, cross country and golf you never quit. So off to college you soon will go, we'll miss you Ben, more than you'll ever know.

With all our Love,
Mom, Dad, Dani, and Sami

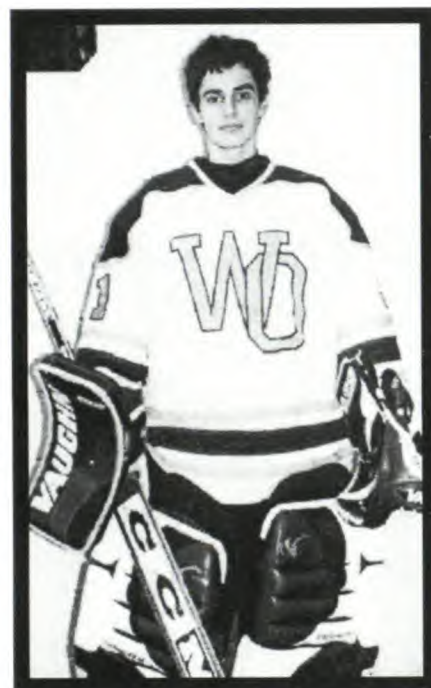

Max,

You are a very special person; intelligent, a good friend and brother, athletic, and a true strong-willed individual. We knew you would be an extraordinary person from the moment you were born and you haven't proven us wrong. Winning the Hillbilly Tournament and The Kelly Cup in 2004 with Sean was an exceptionally proud time for us as parents.

Papa and Cece are proud to see you turn into a smart and independent thinker. Bubbie and Zayda would have been so happy to see you growing up to be a loving and compassionate young man. Please know that we all love you so much and will support you in life in whatever you decide your path may be, for we know that you have many options and your future is bright.

Love- Mom, Dad, and Sean

Dear RJ,
 Congratulations on all of your accomplishments. We are so very proud of you!

From the moment you were born, we knew how special you were going to be. It seems like it was yesterday that you were just a baby in your highchair and now here you are, ready to go off to college.

You have been a constant source of happiness, joy, and pride in our lives as we have watched you grow. You have grown into a kind, loving, mature, and sensitive young man who delights everyone who knows you with your charm and your unique sense of humor.

Follow your dreams wherever they lead you. Be true to yourself. Have confidence in yourself. Have faith in God and know that our love and support are with you always.

May all your hopes and dreams come true!

With all of love always,
 Mom, Dad, Megan, and Missy

When you're far from home...

Dear Lauren,
We can't believe this day has come—you are graduating!
What a joy it has been watching you grow into the wonderful young woman you are today.
You are, after all, our BROWN-EYED GIRL!
You have delighted us since Miss Carol's and Gregory and through Roosevelt. We have relished your accomplishments in WOHS: playing with the Marching Band and making Section Leader, playing Softball (second base), getting your license and driving, turning 18 and yes, being able to finally stay out after midnight.
We couldn't be more proud of you!
You are flying away now, as you should, reaching over the rainbow, pursuing your dreams.
Remember, no matter what, we are always here for you.
Be safe, be happy, BE GOOD!
We love you more than you know.
Love,
Mom and Dad

Dear Lauren,
I can't believe you are graduating! I'm so proud of you.
You're not only a great sister-- you are a great friend.
Thanks for carrying on the O'Malley Legacy by joining the Marching Band. LoL!
I don't know what I'm going to do without you at home next year!
I'm going to miss you but I know you'll do great and you're going to have the best time of your life.
I love you,
Kristin

ANYWAY

People are unreasonable, illogical, and self-centered.
LOVE THEM ANYWAY.

If you do good, people will accuse you of selfish motives.

DO GOOD ANYWAY.

Honesty and frankness make you vulnerable.
BE HONEST AND FRANK ANYWAY.

What you spend years building may be destroyed overnight.

BUILD ANYWAY.

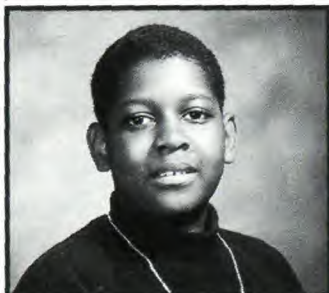

Give the world the best you have, and you will be kicked in the teeth.

GIVE THE WORLD THE BEST YOU HAVE ANYWAY.

LOVE GOD, LOVE YOURSELF, LOVE YOUR MOTHER, LOVE YOUR FAMILY

Remember you are responsible for the choices you make in life.

GOD BLESS YOU,
LOVE GRANDMA

Dear Corey,

The second you came into my life, I knew you would make me proud. I've always had faith in you and knew you would make the right decisions. But even if you make a wrong decision, always remember you and only you will have to live with it and never let anyone tell you this or that can't be done. Remember CAN'T is not a word.

For all the times...I've called you on your cell phone wondering where you are.

For all the times... I've said Corey do this or Corey do that.

For all the times... You've thought I was getting on your nerves.

It was only me loving you, like a Mom is suppose to.

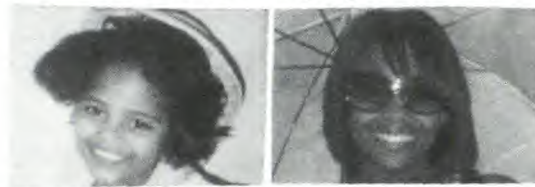

YOUR FUTURE WILL BE WHATEVER YOU MAKE IT SO ENJOY LIFE AND ALWAYS BE YOURSELF!!!

Loving You Forever,
Mom

A Message to Our Sons

We have watched you boys play hockey for so many years, some of you since you were five years old, some of you for only a few years.

At first, we watched with trepidation as you first learned to skate. We watched you shuffle around the ice for the first time. We saw you fall and struggle to get up; but you did...time and time again.

Soon you were gliding around the rink like you had been skating your whole life. Then that glorious day came when you scored your first goal. You were so excited! The look on your little faces was priceless, but we were just as thrilled as you were. It was as if we had scored the goals ourselves!

Next came the hockey lessons, pre-dawn practices, endless trips to the Sports Section for new skates, pads, gloves, etc, etc, etc. Some of you joined the traveling teams which involved many long trips in the car to various games and tournaments. Of course, we must not forget the countless trips to the Emergency Room for the broken bones, separated shoulders, concussions, and all -too-famous contusions!

Then came high school...our little boys were becoming men. You had good seasons and not so good seasons. There were wins and losses..highs and lows.. just like in life. You faced each game and challenge with energy, dedication, determination and always good sportsmanship. We were always very proud of how our sons played every game as good sports, always as gentlemen.

As you are about to leave high school and go on to the next phase of your lives, we, your parents, want to wish you what you have brought to us all these years of watching you play hockey- endless love and much, much joy!

Love,

Your Parents

State Champs 04 & Grand Champs 05

Dear Varsity 05/06,

Thank you so much for another great year. We did so well in competition this year, and we'll always remember that. We've been through so much together and we can't believe this has come to an end, but we will miss you all. Good luck next year and keep in touch!

Love Always,
SENIORS '06

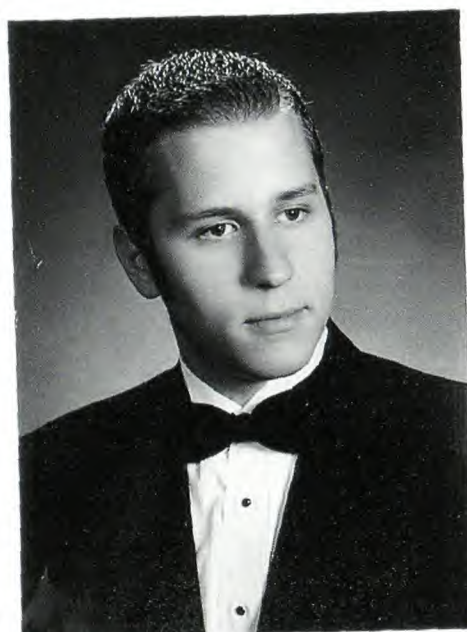

Also, a very special thanks to our coaches, without whom we would not have accomplished all that we have.

Congratualations Jenni!

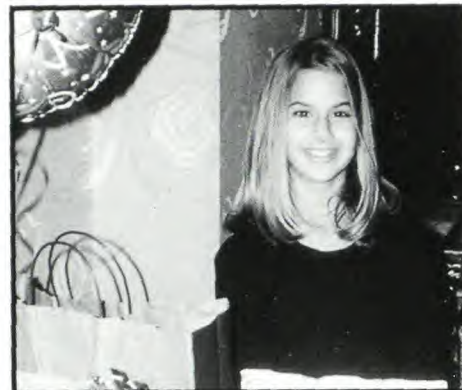

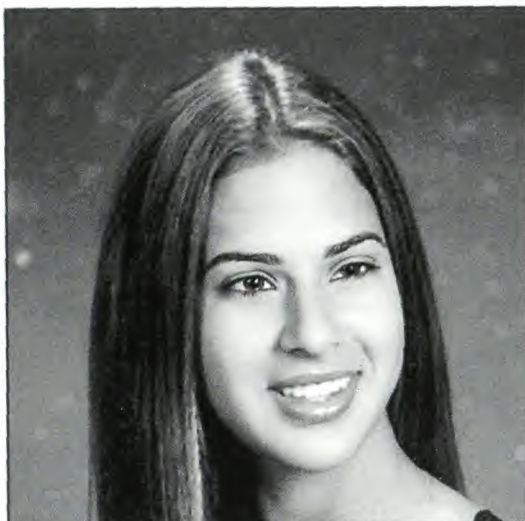

We are so proud of all of your accomplishments and the woman you have become.
Your confidence- style and independence always shine through. You have learned to always get back up on the horse. Take your lessons with you.
Continue to follow your heart and dreams- believe and the world will be yours.

May all your dreams come true.

Love always and forever,
Mom and Matt

Congratulations Chidima!

It seems like just yesterday you started nursery school. Now, you are graduating high school and entering college! You have made us very proud throughout the years and we wish you a lifetime of happiness, love, and success.

With much love,
Mom, Dad, Zim ('95),
Amaka ('99), &
Ugonma ('01)

Ashley,
We know who holds your future
We know who holds your hand
With God things just don't happen
Everything He does is planned

So reach up for the stars
Follow what's in your heart
Let God direct your future
As He's done right from the start!
Love,
Mom and Junie

Ashley,
Every moment is a golden one for those who have been blessed with the vision to recognize it as such! Be blessed!

Love,
Papa, Grandma Jenny,
Anthony, Sheila, and Asya

Maygen,
We are so proud of you
and your accomplishments!
Keep reaching for the stars sweetheart!
Love Always,
Dad, Lisa, Eric, and Rocky

A Mother's Dedication

Through My Daughter Maygen's Eyes:

I have learned to love unconditionally;
To feel the depths of all emotions;
To see the beauty in everything that is;
To touch in the gentlest way;
To hold strong in the midst of a storm;
To cry, to fall, to stand tall in the midst of it all;
To enjoy life even when mistakes are made;
To laugh at things and even myself;
To be free and to be whole!

All of this I have learned from you because you are the type of daughter every mother prays for. Smart and wise beyond words. Full of love for family and friends. Sensitive and kind. Giving and gentle. Funny and full of wit. You are a soul from years before and years beyond. You are my beautiful child that has always been and will always be the BEAT OF MY HEART!

No matter how close or how far: No matter how young or how old:

I'll love you forever;
I'll like you for always;
For as long as I'm living;
My baby you will be!!

The world is at your feet; the stars are shining in your path; the wind is blowing in your direction; the ocean is flowing for you to follow. In God's footsteps you will reach your destiny! Grow wild; Grow free; Grow into you and who you want to be!

From your mother
Who is so proud;
Who will always love you and guide you;
Who will always boss you and tell you to CLEAN YOUR ROOM!
--Love Mom

Through good times and bad, happy or sad a true friend will always be with you. They are the people that you can turn to when life seems to rough, like no one else is there; but you look to your side and there they are right next to you. They aren't afraid to tell you the truth even though it may hurt you and they reassure you that they will always be there to care, support, and love you for you. Above all they are the one's that you can never forget no matter how far away you are because they are always in your hearts

To The Class of 2006,

We never thought this moment would come but graduation is finally here. For some of us, we've been together since kindergarten, about 13 years; for others, it has been less; for others, more. Yet regardless of how long we've known one another, we've had fun along the way. Over the past four years, we've all had different experiences, whether they included sports' seasons, play practices, art exhibits, part time jobs, or volunteering. These experiences along with the times we shared with friends, the classes with our favorite teachers, the parties we attended, the movies we saw, the sports' games we shouted "WEST" at, or whatever else we did with our time, were hopefully some of the best times of our lives, and we hope we have created a book that you can look to years from now to cherish the memories we'll share from high school. So as our last year in West Orange comes to a close, the Mountaineer staff would like to wish everyone the best of luck in the future, and we hope your senior year was as fun and exciting as our's was. We finally made it!

Love,
The Yearbook Staff of 2006
Good luck in the future!

Mrs. Martino,

This has been a momentous year for you. You not only had a baby boy, but you had the chance to work with the best students in WOHS! Haha! Congratulations from the entire 2005-2006 Yearbook Staff.

We wish all the best for you and your new family.

*Love,
The Mountaineer Crew*
