

Health Agency Seeks Funds for Their Program

Public Health Nursing Group Lists Services Given in Communities

RUMSON—The Public Health Nursing association of Rumson, Sea Bright and Fair Haven, this week started their annual letter campaign to raise funds for the nursing program carried on in the three boroughs. The letter appeal is in charge of Mrs. Robert G. Hisey, association president.

In her appeal the president wrote, "This association is again making its annual independent appeal through the mail for the maintenance of your public health nursing service, always available in your community.

This service, as you know, safeguards your children in their schools, you and your family at home, and protects the total general health in your borough. As you share in the benefits of this invaluable public health program, we feel sure that you will wish to share also in its support.

The communities which your public health nurses serve have been expanding constantly; therefore, our need for funds grows proportionately so that we may adequately meet the increased health demands. May we bring to your attention the fact that every dollar received is expended for health services in Rumson, Sea Bright and Fair Haven.

Our association is not participating in any community appeal this year, and therefore, our annual drive is being made in the usual way.

Included with the appeal letter, Mrs. Hisey sent copies of the association annual report for 1952. The Nursing association, established in 1915, has kept abreast of the times and increased its services and enlarged its program to include all fields of health, including a school health program, infant care and maternal welfare work, home care program, and well-baby conferences. This year the association visited the state mobile X-ray unit to the area, where residents of any of the three served communities could go and have a free chest X-ray made as a precaution against tuberculosis.

Services are available to all residents of the three boroughs without regard to race, creed, color or ability to pay. Patients are asked to pay as much of the cost of a nursing visit as they can afford, but those unable to pay all or part receive exactly the same care and attention. The association raises 52 per cent of its budget by private contributions; 37 1/2 per cent by public funds from schools and borough councils; ten per cent in fees paid by patients, and a half per cent by contract payments.

The association is a member of the National League for Nursing and the New Jersey League for Nursing. The association co-operates with the boards of education, boards of health and borough councils of the three communities they serve, as well as with the juvenile conference councils of the three boroughs. They also co-operate with such agencies as the American Cancer society, the state and county bureaus of old age assistance and child welfare, New Jersey Tuberculosis league, mental hygiene clinics, Monmouth County Organization for Social Service, church and civic groups, service and women's clubs, etc.

Through their dental health program for dentally indigent children, 53 clinics were held, and more than 67 children were cared for. In the school health program, where association nurses, assisted with physical examinations, weighing, measuring, sight and hearing testing, 1,217 children were cared for. Well-baby conferences were held with more than 128 children being cared for, and under this service, service was given in both pre-natal care, baby care and pre-school child care at home.

In home care visits, last year nurses made 1,181 visits to care for acute and chronically ill patients; 159 to care for patients suffering from tuberculosis or communicable diseases, and 588 visits to care for patients for the American Cancer society, to help the state old age assistance bureau, the county Mental Hygiene program, and the state Crippled Children's commission. Nurses in these visits also provided part time nursing care according to the attending physician's orders, and they gave and taught home nursing care in the home.

Debt Free St. James Gets Diocesan OK for New School

DEBT FREE ST. JAMES—F. P. Magr, Joseph T. Casey, pastor of St. James Catholic church, Sunday announced that the parish—with a realty value of $1,000,000—is debt free. This came about last week with the payment of $10,000 to cancel a $180,000 loan with the Trenton Banking company.

Magr, Casey disclosed yesterday that the debt free status has resulted in diocesan approval to proceed with plans for a new school, work on which, the monsignor said, should begin next year. In his seven years as pastor here, $77,000 has been spent for capital improvements. Included are $12,000, Drummond pl. property; $18,000, former Methodist parsonage; $17,000 addition to the elementary school; $10,000, sanitary facilities in the elementary school; $4,800, water-proofing the high school; $12,000 repainting and paving the sanctuary,

Uhrhane Heads Signal Corps Labs

FORT MONMOUTH—Col. Francis F. Uhrhane, who was formerly assigned to the staff of the Chief Signal Officer in Washington, has been named commanding officer of the Signal Corps Engineering laboratories, Maj. General K. B. Lawton, commanding general of Fort Monmouth and the Signal Corps Center, announced this week.

In his former assignment, Col. Uhrhane concentrated on research and engineering matters, duties which are in close keeping with his position in the Signal laboratories.

Col. Francis F. Uhrhane

Col. Uhrhane, who was graduated from the United States Military academy in 1930, succeeds Brig. General Edwin R. Petzing as head of the laboratories, which are comprised of three major installations. They are Signal Laboratory, here on the post; Coles Signal Laboratory, between Red Bank and Lincroft, and Evans Signal Laboratory, at Belmar. Gen. Petzing was recently named Chief Signal Officer in the European Command.

Col. Uhrhane, who was born in Marietta, Ohio, obtained a Master of Science degree in electrical engineering from Ohio State university in 1936. He attended the Signal Corps school the following year in furthering education and experience that has resulted in his becoming one of the nation's foremost authorities in the field of military communications.

Allaire Agency Opens New Office

The Allaire & Son real estate and insurance agency, formerly located at 19 Monmouth st., Monday opened its new offices at 199 Broad st., the former Macdonald property.

The house was built in 1903 by George Sutton and occupied by his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Sutton Macdonald, until she sold it to Mrs. Hubert Farrow, Sr., president of the Allaire agency, in May of this year.

Mrs. Macdonald and her daughters now live in Shrewsbury. The Allaire & Son agency was founded in 1873 by Edward S. Allaire, Sr., and was continued after his death by Edward S. Allaire, Jr., who later sold it to the late Hubert M. Farrow, Sr., and Robert G. Macdonald. Mr. Farrow and Mr. Macdonald later bought out the insurance business of A. D. Cooper, who is still active in the agency.

The business passed to Mr. Farrow on the death of Mr. Macdonald in 1937. Hubert M. Farrow, Jr., present manager of the firm, has operated the business since the death of his father in 1948.

For a number of years the firm operated at 60 Broad st., having moved to the Monmouth st. address about 20 years ago. Today the business is headed by Mrs. Hubert M. Farrow, Jr., who is president, and Kenneth Wyckoff, vice president. Mr. Farrow, Jr., is secretary-treasurer and manages the office.

The first floor of the former Macdonald property has been converted to include two offices for the insurance department and one for real estate. All offices are paneled and provide more room than the firm had on Monmouth st. The agency's new home, according to Mr. Farrow, offers better facilities, is more accessible and has a large parking area at the rear for convenience of clients.

The real estate department is headed by Harold Dowd of Rumson. Associated with him is Harry Vogel of West Long Branch. Mr. Farrow, in addition to managing the office, heads the insurance section. He is assisted by Douglas MacConnell of Fair Haven.

The Red Bank license bureau, formerly located in the agency's Monmouth st. office, now occupies quarters at 9 Riverside ave.

and $3,500, new baptistry. The $212,000 total is exclusive of the money spent administering the parish. About $60,000 is spent annually to maintain the school.

Pediatrics Academy Elects Dr. Tilley

Dr. John A. Tilley of 126 Harding rd., Red Bank, was elected a fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics last week.

After completing internship, a doctor must have at least five years of specializing in the care of infants and children before he is eligible for fellowship in the academy. Then he must pass comprehensive examinations given by the American board of Pediatrics. After passing the examinations, a pediatrician may be elected a fellow of the academy upon application and approval by the executive board.

Board to Seek Info on Regional School Program

Future Enrollments Of High School Age Pupils Pose Problem

SHREWSBURY—The board of education here Monday night decided to attempt to join other boroughs in discussing the possibility of a regional high school.

William Cronie was appointed to represent the board in the discussion now going on in Rumson. Albert L. Strassburger said the problem will become acute in several years because of heavy enrollments in schools which send pupils to Red Bank high, particularly the local one.

Red Bank's tuition rate of $405, "the highest in Monmouth county," according to Walter Dells, was also discussed. Mr. Dells said the rate is excessive and asked that Red Bank be requested to inform the board how the figure was determined. He suggested appealing to the state commissioner of education. Henry Petzal, however, counseled it is not the time to fight the Red Bank board, since Shrewsbury stands the chance of being excluded from the high school. It was pointed out that, by state law, Red Bank is refused to accept Shrewsbury pupils—when given proper notice—but Shrewsbury cannot leave Red Bank unless that board agrees.

Plan Music Program

In other business, the board decided to invite John Luckenbill, Red Bank high school's music director, to its next meeting. Howard Matteson, principal, said he contacted Mr. Luckenbill about special instrumental instruction in the school. Mr. Luckenbill has such programs in Little Silver and Tinton Falls, assisted by Jerry Christian. For one afternoon a week after school hours—the cost is $300 a year. In addition, parents may rent instruments at rates between $15 and $20 a year. Mr. Matteson said Mr. Luckenbill's experience has been that between 20 to 25 pupils would enter the program.

Following discussions of the past few months, the board voted to have its attorney, Thomas P. Doremus, institute action to collect tuition from Gera deVeigh of Tinton Falls. It was disclosed that Mr. deVeigh has not satisfactorily replied to letters or telephone calls from District Clerk Lester C. Scott regarding the matter.

At the suggestion of Walter Dells, the board decided to attempt to enter into contracts with a local electrician, plumber and carpenter. Mr. Dells said a 50-hour "cost plus material" would permit the building committee or Mr. Matteson to engage workers when needed rather than to wait for board action.

Auditorium Debt Free

Mr. Scott announced that a bond payment of $1,500 represented the final one on the 1934 issue for the auditorium. He also announced that the board ended its fiscal year June 30 with a surplus of $13,053.

Mr. Dells was authorized to prepare specifications for ripping up the driveway on the southern edge of the property. He said he plans to have the fence along the driveway repaired and painted, a hedge removed and grass planted. In addition, a sidewalk will connect the front of the building with the new school.

Mr. Matteson was directed to arrange a meeting with state officials relative to the reporting method. In previous years, parent-teacher conferences replaced formal report cards. There have been suggestions that Shrewsbury return to the report card method and others that a combination of conferences and cards be used.

Flea for Little League

Daniel Down wrote the board asking for a donation to aid 30 boys in Little League baseball, which plays on Assemblyman Alfred N. Beadleston's polo field. He said equipment is needed for two teams. Besides money, he added, the help of adults is needed. Mr. Dells favored granting a donation, but the board decided it could not expend its funds for such a project because it is not a part of the school program.

Mr. Scott will reply to a letter from the county Veterans of Foreign Wars' commander, John R. Ward. Mr. Ward had written that Washington's birthday be considered a school holiday. Mr. Scott said the board has always observed the holiday.

Mr. Cronie was appointed to meet with Councilman Harold McCormick, chairman of the police committee, relative to a plan to change the school crossing on highway 35. The crossing is directly in front of the school. The change would have it at Ohio pl.

Workmen's Court Gives West $480

Warren West, 32, of 9 North st., Rumson, recovered $480 in Workmen's Compensation court Friday before Kenneth J. Fornabai, referee, as the result of an injury suffered July 9, 1951, while Mr. West was in the employ of Shore Point Distributing company of Little Silver.

Mr. West testified he was carrying cases of beer through an entranceway under a bar and, while stooping over, he struck the corner of the bar and suffered rib injuries. He was treated by Dr. A. Alfred Podell. In addition to the award, Mr. West's medical expenses were paid. He was represented by William T. Wichmann of the Red Bank firm of Wise and Wise. Shore Point was represented by Theodore Tams of Trenton.

Guardsmen Receive Radio Instruction

Maj. Thomas McNeary, Long Branch, right, demonstrates the operation of the latest radio equipment installed in jeeps of the 644th Tank battalion at the Red Bank Armory Thursday night. The Guardsmen were preparing for two weeks' training at Camp Drum, N. Y., which started Friday and concludes July 27. Others in the photo, left to right, are Capt. Frank Friscia, Rumson; Warrant Officer William Kelly, Fair Haven; Pvt. Ernest Elgrim, Belford; Sgt. Robert Knight, Red Bank; Sgt. John Karinja, Rumson; Sgt. William Strohmeier, Little Silver, and First Sgt. Brutus Applegate, Belford.

Bids for Parkway Interchange At Eatontown to Be Opened Monday

TRENTON—Bids for construction of the Eatontown interchange and a new two-mile dual highway connecting with the Garden State parkway in the boroughs of New Shrewsbury and Eatontown will be received next Monday, Orrie de Nooyer, secretary of the New Jersey Highway Authority, announced today.

The new Eatontown spur, will be built between the parkway and the intersection of the Eatontown traffic circle and rt. 35. Grant ave. will be relocated to provide a grade crossing of the feeder road. Wyckoff and Hope rds. will connect with the new highway.

The contract also includes construction of a reinforced concrete bridge that will carry the Eatontown spur over the northbound roadway of the parkway approximately one-half mile east of Hope rd. The crossing will form part of the interchange that will include location of toll area No. 3B, which will be built under a separate contract.

Connections between the parkway and the new Eatontown spur will permit motorists to enter or leave the parkway in either direction.

Other work will include regrading of Hope rd. and landscaping of the interchange ramps and the proposed toll area. The contractor also will grade all and pave a limited section of the toll area.

The overpass bridge will be 130 feet long and 43 feet and eight inches wide. It will be built with two 18-foot wide roadways separated by a four-foot wide mail and bordered on each side by curbs surmounted by reinforced concrete parapet walls. The bridge deck will be paved with reinforced concrete. Bridge rails will be erected under another contract.

The contractor will be required to perform the work to permit uninterrupted vehicular and pedestrian traffic at all times during the period of construction.

Prepare for Fund Drive

Henry Hagerman

Henry Hagerman will serve as chairman of the Salvation Army's annual maintenance appeal in September. Sub-chairmen are Edward H. Conway, Red Bank business area; Fred Seidenzahl, Little Silver; Col. Chester Haig, Fair Haven; George Woolley, Long Branch; Armstrong Harmon, Earle Naval depot; Mrs. Edward Hinkelman, Navesink; Mrs. Dora Roop, Belford; Mrs. C. F. Moore, Shrewsbury township; Peter Genovese, Centerville, and Mrs. William Alexander, River Plaza.

Capt. Robert Rightmire, commander of the Salvation Army citadel here, states this week that toward the goal of $25,000 there is a reserve of a little more than $2,000.

Oil Bids Confuse Board Members

SHREWSBURY—Action to award an oil contract was held up by the board of education here Monday night to determine which of several bids was actually lowest.

The Fred D. Wilcox company of Red Bank offered a price of .0835, but its bid did not specify that the figure was arrived at by using a New York harbor price of .0787. The harbor price is the basis of all bids, future oil deliveries being charged according to that standard.

One bidder—Shore Gas and Oil—offered a bid of .0854 with a maximum of .0954. District Clerk Lester C. Scott advised the board it need not consider the maximum bid because it was not required by the advertisement for bids.

Other bidders were Lawes Coal company, .084; J. N. Beers, .084; William Pluh, .0842, and Oil Delivery, .0847.

Alphonso J. Dalton was appointed by Board President Frederic Messina to study the bids and to recommend the firm offering the lowest figure. Actually, the bids represent differences in transportation costs since all firms must use the harbor price as its base.

Pastor Co-Author Of 'Diget' Story

KEANSBURG—Rev. Edward S. Zelley, Jr., pastor of the Methodist church here, is co-author of an article entitled "Mixture For a Miracle" that will appear in the August issue of the Reader's Digest.

The story records an event that took place in the life of one passenger aboard "The Broker" when the Woodbridge train wreck in February, 1951. It revolves around Robert Slout of Fair Haven and Rev. Roger J. Squire, pastor, and the congregation of the Red Bank Methodist church.

Rev. Mr. Zelley wrote the story in collaboration with Mrs. Elsie Miller Davis of Galveston, Tex.

Prepare for Summer Field Exercises

Capt. Andrew H. Brennan, Fair Haven, seated in center, checks final plans with members of the 3d battalion, 309th Infantry regiment of the 78th Infantry division (Reserve) which left their Red Bank training center Saturday for two weeks' summer field exercises at Camp Drum, N. Y. This contingent, comprising Monmouth county members of the 309th, will join 3,000 other New Jersey Reservists at the annual encampment. Other reservists seated are Cpl. Robert Provina, Union Beach, left, and Cpl. Franklin Jackson, Keansburg. Standing, left to right, are Pfc. Walter H. Hullen, Fair Haven; M/Sgt. Gordon McMain, Red Bank, and M/Sgt. Arthur T. Rigby, Fair Haven.

Trufolo Succeeds Fahy in Agency

LITTLE SILVER—The Ayers-Fahy real estate and insurance agency of 16 Church st. has announced that the interest in the firm of John B. Fahy has been taken over by Anthony F. Trufolo.

Anthony F. Trufolo

Mr. Trufolo has been with the agency since 1950, active in the sale of local real estate. Mr. Ayers will continue with the agency, the new name of the firm being Ayers-Trufolo. Mr. Ayers said the policy of the new agency will be to supply its clients all possible types of real estate, with special emphasis on the Little Silver area. It will be under the complete management of Mr. Trufolo, assisted by three salesmen.

Mr. Trufolo lives at 77 Silverbrook rd., Shrewsbury. He is a graduate of Red Bank high school and of Muhlenberg college, where he attained senior honors. While at college, he was class treasurer, a member of Kappa Phi Kapa and Phi Sigma Iota national honorary societies and a member of the Pre-Med society. Following college, he joined Red Bank high school as physics and math teacher. For the past three years he has been director of the audio-visual program in the Red Bank school system.

Klarin's Store Has New Look

Klarin's paint and wallpaper store at 26 Monmouth st., has a brand new look with a modern zebrule and aluminum front which also covers the adjoining Jandon TV and appliance shop. The work was done by the Rockafellow Construction Co., Inc., general building contractors, Middletown township.

The green zebrule front is bordered with aluminum bands and aluminum columns. There are two store entrances through new glass and aluminum covered doors and moldings, between which is a large center display window. Small or once are located on the east and west sides of the entrances.

The same scheme is carried out in the Jandon store, with display windows on either side of the glass and aluminum door entrance.

Max Klarin, the paint store proprietor, is president of the Community Chamber of Commerce.

I will not be responsible for debts contracted by anyone other than myself.

Harris Ave., Asbury Park—Advertisement—

NEW YORK CITY—With people in Red Bank earning more money and spending more freely than those in most other communities in the United States, the borough is stamped a flourishing one, with a higher standard of living than the average.

The figures bearing this out are contained in Sales Management's new, copyrighted buying power survey, covering the entire country. Red Bank's 4,200 families had net incomes during the past year, after deduction of personal taxes, of $24,610,000. This represents per family, earnings of $5,860, obtained by dividing total income by number of families.

This was over the earnings generally throughout the country, $5,860 per family, and was larger than earnings in Middle Atlantic States, $5,751.

These averages, obtained mathematically, are higher than the median figures now being published, that have emanated from the last census and which were based on a sampling of incomes under 10,000 sales Sales Management.

How good a year it was in Red Bank is indicated by the fact that local residents accounted for .0106 per cent of the nation's income with a population that was only .0087 per cent of the total.

The greater buying power was reflected in the amount of business done by the local retail stores. Their cash registers rang out to the tune of $51,151,000 in the year, which exceeded the previous year's volume of $44,761,000.

The fact that sales exceed income locally points to the conclusion that Red Bank is the trading hub for a wide surrounding area.

Each city was rated to show its relative standing as a market, based on such considerations as number of people, amount earned, amount spent and rate of growth. Red Bank's rating, called its "quality of market index," is 189, or 80 per cent higher than the general national average.

Radio, TV Shop Has New Quarters

FAIR HAVEN—River Road Radio and Television, Inc., operated by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bennett, which moved this week from 597 River rd., held its grand opening this morning at its new location, 606 River rd.

The appliance store had operated at 597 River rd. since its founding by Mr. and Mrs. Bennett four years ago. The shop is now located in a new building of modern design built by Stender Builders of Fair Haven. The showroom, decorated in a blue and yellow color scheme, features a large display floor with overhead fluorescent lighting.

River Road Radio and Television, Inc., carries a full line of Crosley and Sylvania television sets, Crosley, Emerson and Sylvania radios, Blackstone washing machines, Ironers and dryers. Servel refrigerators and air conditioners, Crosley refrigerators, a freezer, dishwashers and kitchen units, Sunbeam appliances, Telechron clocks and Hoover vacuum cleaners. A representative of the Sunbeam company will demonstrate the Sunbeam automatic deep fryer and coffee maker Saturday.

At the rear of the new store is a large repair shop where all types of radios and television sets will be serviced. All repairs are done on the premises. The store will handle all Blackstone and Servel repairs in Monmouth county, according to Mr. Bennett. Harold A. Giblin, Jr., of Fair Haven, who attended schools offered by those companies, will have charge of the refrigerator and washing machine repair department. George Applegate of Belmar is in charge of the radio and television repair department.

The new store is fronted by a large parking area.

State Soil Tour In County Today

New Brunswick — Three Monmouth county farms are drawing the attention of a large group of experts today, during the annual state soils tour arranged by Wallace A. Mitchell, extension soils specialist at Rutgers university.

Mitchell is taking county agricultural agents, soil conservation district supervisors and assorted agricultural specialists across the Sargent Brothers' farm in East Freehold and the W. D. and Rust Claydon farms two miles west of that community.

At the Clayton place, Mitchell will call attention to three successful farm fish and irrigation ponds, outstanding use of weed killers to reduce machinery traffic over potato fields, and other progressive practices. The Sargents, who grow almost all vegetables except potatoes, will show results with several other practices recommended by the extension service.

CHURCH SCHOOL ENDS

The Christian Doctrine school of St. James Catholic church, which has been in progress the past three weeks here and in Fair Haven, ends tomorrow at a mass in St. James church at 9 o'clock. Breakfast will be served in Red Bank Catholic high school cafeteria following the mass. The annual picnic for those attending the school will be held this afternoon at the Ocean county park in Lakewood.

Former Red Banker Returns, Seeks Decorated War Heroes

Francis Copeland of 216.04 94 rd., Queens Village, L. I., a former resident of Red Bank, visited here the past week en route home from the 63d annual national reunion of the Army and Navy Legion of Valor.

Among those he visited was Mrs. Benjamin L. Atwater of 50 West Front st., whose late husband was one of Mr. Copeland's close friends prior to World War I. Both Mr. Atwater and Mr. Copeland received the Distinguished Service Cross in World War I, making them eligible for membership in the Legion of Valor.

Mr. Copeland, who is national historian for the exclusive veterans' group, explained that Army or Navy veterans who have been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, the Distinguished Service Cross or the Navy Cross are eligible for membership. Widows of such veterans, he added, are eligible for membership in a women's auxiliary, of which Mrs. W. O. Nicol of Rumson is national liaison officer. He said he or Mrs. Nicol are anxious to hear from veterans in this area who have been decorated for outstanding deeds of valor or from their wives.

Mr. Copeland, who was nationally prominent in three cushion billiards, credits Mr. Atwater with first having interested him in "shooting pool." Though seriously wounded in the war, Mr. Copeland became New York state billiards champion in 1931. Illness sidelined him later, but he made a comeback in 1940 to regain the New York title.

A resident of Peters pl. between 1910 and 1915, Mr. Copeland was active in Boy Scout work as a youth. A former neighborhood Boy Scout commissioner in New Jersey, he continues his interest in scouting work. He is the son of the late Charles C. Copeland, who was a member of Monmouth Boat club and the Red Bank Yacht club during the many years he spent summers at the old McDonnell homestead on Riverside dr., near McClees creek.

Mother, Son Hurt When Car Hits Tree

RIVER PLAZA—Richard VanPelt, four, and his mother, Mrs. Laurette VanPelt of Everett rd., Holmdel, were treated at Riverview hospital Monday night for injuries suffered when a car driven by Mrs. VanPelt struck a tree on Half Mile rd. at West Front st. It was reported by Middletown township police.

Taken to the hospital by the Fair View first aid squad, Richard was treated for a half-inch cut under the right eye and a bruise of the left thigh, and his mother for knee bruises. Mrs. VanPelt told police her car skidded into the tree after she was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car.

VFW Auxiliary Receives Citations

HIGHLANDS—The ladies' auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post here has received two citations from the national organization in recognition of its membership, veterans' hospital fund and national expenses activities.

One citation was received on the auxiliary's behalf at a meeting Monday night at the American Legion hall on Bay ave. The other citation was presented to Mrs. Sophie Bieler, a past president.

Mrs. Wade Davis and Mrs. Edward Hennessey will sponsor a cake sale at Elias' store on Bay ave. Saturday morning for the benefit of the auxiliary. It was announced at the meeting. Mrs. Charles Yeingst will join them in sponsoring a rummage sale sometime this summer. Mrs. Davis has donated a dripulator to the auxiliary for the post home under construction in Water Witch.

Mrs. Minnie Doyle has been selected delegate to the national V. F. W. encampment at Milwaukee Aug. 27. Mrs. Katherine Matthews is alternate. Mrs. Doyle also has been selected alternate delegate of the Maggie-Jiggs Coolidge, Asbury Park, an encampment of the fun group of the V.F.W. auxiliary, which will be held in conjunction with the national convention.

The auxiliary next month will send a gift package to Sgt. James Pigott, who is in action in Korea. Sending a package to a local resident now in the armed forces is a regular auxiliary activity. Sgt. Pigott is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Conrad of Fourth st. Mrs. Bieler will be hostess at an auxiliary card party Monday, July 27, at the Legion hall.

Questions About Rumson Schools, Survey Presented by Arnold Tulp

RUMSON—A list of 20 prepared questions regarding the school situation here and the recent survey by the firm of Engelhardt, Engelhardt and Leggett, educational consultants, was presented to the board of education at their meeting Wednesday night of last week. Lack of time and space precluded the use of the questions in their entirety in last week's issue of The Register. Because of the amount of public interest in the Rumson school situation and the proposal to construct a regional school for this borough and Fair Haven, Mr. Tulp's complete questionnaire is presented herewith:

1. Has the Rumson Board approved the report?
2. Has the Fair Haven Board approved the report?
3. Has the report been submitted to the state educational authorities for consideration?
4. If so, have they made any suggestions or corrections?
5. When will the question of a bond issue for new educational facilities be submitted to the voters of Rumson and Fair Haven?
6. Will the ballot provide an opportunity to vote on a new elementary school to the sixth or eighth grades and to reject the proposal for a regional high school with Fair Haven? Or, on the other hand, is it now intended to present to the voters only a single "package plan" embracing the recommendations contained in the report?
7. If this board presently leans toward the latter, or package vote, would it be influenced to change its mind if presented with a petition requesting that alternative proposals be placed on the ballot? If so, how many signatures would be needed? 150? 300? 750? 1,000?
8. Has this board noted the inconsistency between the following statements contained in the report: "Page 2: 'As this study will point out, Rumson will never, in all likelihood, have a sufficient number of boys and girls in public school to maintain a satisfactory and economical senior high school program by itself.' (Note: I consider this to be the basic premise of the report and, for the sake of brevity, will refer to it as such in future questions.)" and

Page 11: "No allowance has been made for future enrollment beyond 1952. As additional homes are built in Rumson, it may be expected that enrollments may exceed the estimates, as a result of children living in the new homes."
To digress from the straight question approach for a moment, I submit that a graduate of the worst high school in the state could have done better than this—and for a smaller fee. I am told that 60 permits for new homes have been issued in Rumson since the report was prepared. If the basic premise of the report is that we will not have enough students in Rumson alone to staff a high school, how can expert consultants glibly fail to take into their estimates such an obvious source of student strength as new home construction? Particularly in Rumson where large estates are constantly being divided into smaller lots? Certainly such estimates can be made by experts unless they are incompetent or lazy.

9. Table XII shows a present senior high school enrollment of 233 students and an expected enrollment from Rumson alone in ten years of 233 students. The basic premise uses the word "never." Does this mean that our present high school is unsatisfactory and uneconomical? Would your board subscribe to this? Does it square with table IV showing the large percentage of our students who are sufficiently well prepared to enter college? I have been led to believe we now have an excellent high school. I still think so. If we can hold the line in those difficult days, we will, I think, be doing all that can be expected of us.

10. If the new elementary school were large enough to take grades 7 and 8, how long could we continue to receive Fair Haven students without overcrowding? I have been told for five years. If so, I think we should adopt this course. In five years we will know more about student population growth in Rumson and Fair Haven. Also, building costs, if we must then resort to a larger high school, may well be lower than they are today. If our experts can't see beyond 1952 on such an important point as new home construction, it seems prudent to let time itself tell us.

11. Would it not be practicable to transfer grades 7 and 8 to the new elementary school? The four major subjects could be taught in one home with the students moving to other quarters for shop, gym, music, etc.

12. If Fair Haven were to construct its own high school and Rumson alone could not supply sufficient students, are there any other sources of student strength in the neighborhood? For example, has Atlantic Highlands or Highlands ever asked permission to send its students to our high school? Will Red Bank, even with its new construction, be able to absorb any of the students from rapidly-growing Little Silver? Could Fair Haven be asked to send only a part of its students to us and the balance elsewhere? In other words, can we not satisfy the basic premise of the report in many ways other than by launching into a regional high school program with a neighboring borough?

13. Has this board studied the so-called "Middle-States Survey" which, I understand, deals with the question of the optimum number of students to staff a good high school? Can this survey be made

Stevens Explains Rezoning Views

NEW SHREWSBURY—Former Mayor George Stevens told The Register this week he hopes officials now working on plans to revise local zoning will not abandon regulations providing that building plots facing five residential streets here shall be larger than the plots behind them.

Mr. Stevens termed a published account of remarks he made at the July 2 meeting of the mayor and council a "misunderstanding" of his position on the issue.

"I was quoted as favoring plots of 20,000 square feet," he said. "That is the size builders have informed me would be most desirable for home plots in behind the frontage plots. But out in front, along Sycamore, Tinton and Riverdale avenues, and Hope and Hance rds., I feel plots should be no smaller than one acre each."

Mr. Stevens said he was arguing without resorting to a regional high school plan.

20. Has full consideration been given to the composition of a joint school board for a regional high school? If the seats on this board are to be allocated in proportion to the student population and Fair Haven will have twice as many students as Rumson, there would be six Fair Haven residents on the board and only three from Rumson. We would then be in the untenable position of paying 62 per cent of the cost of an elaborate school, constructed on Rumson property, which has been removed from the tax roll, to which we are sending one-third of the students and over which we have very little, if any, control.

To me the whole plan is preposterous. A regional high school may be feasible if two neighboring communities have roughly equivalent rates of zoning laws and number of students. In our case, however, each of these vital elements making for harmonious administration and equality of burden is disproportionate in the extreme.

As a practical matter I can see nothing in this plan but confusion, bickering over curriculum and excessive cost all out of proportion to the needs of Rumson children.

19. Has this board made a comparison of tables X and XII? Table XII shows that in five years Rumson alone will have 204 children in the senior high school. This does not take into account new residents coming into the borough after 1952. Table X shows that 310 new homes were built in Rumson during the five-year period 1948-1952, inclusive. The report (page 10) states that each new house contributes 0.1 child per grade. This would mean 0.4 children per new house for a senior high school. If 300 new homes are built in Rumson in the next five years (and 60 permits have been issued in the last four months), approximately 120 students should be added to the 204 shown at the 1957-58 level in table XII making a total of approximately 300 high school children from Rumson alone in five years. I have been told that this is considered a very good number for a modern high school. No matter how this question is approached, we seem to come to the same conclusion, i. e., that Rumson can adequately staff its own high school against what he considered are proposals to make all plots, front and rear, along these streets a minimum size of 30,000 square feet. Such a regulation, he said, would be a major mistake, for both the front and rear properties.

Placing himself in general agreement that now is the time to revise local zoning—something being worked out both by the planning board and the council body—Mr. Stevens said officials should be guided by present trends in home building.

He said he always has favored and still does, "for the sake of neighborhood appearance and progress," the idea of maintaining large building plots along the front of the five streets. The present rule of having them fixed at about two acres each may be too elaborate, he said. "I'd rather see that cut to one acre."

But, said Mr. Stevens, any plan to enlarge the rear lots to 30,000 square feet "may price them right out of today's market. It may mean that our town will lose a considerable number of $18,000 to $20,000 new homes—ratables that we all need and will lose if zoning is not kept flexible."

Present zoning laws call for plots of 20,000 square feet in behind the frontage plots of two acres. Mr.

Stevens, who devoted much of his service as mayor to zoning, said there should be no change in rear plot sizes. "Lots measuring 200x200 feet in front and 100x200 in the rear sections would appear most ideal," he said.

Mr. Stevens said he bases his present recommendations along lines suggested to him by builders who have sought to purchase land—including his own farm—for new home construction in New Shrewsbury.

June 27 at Calvary Episcopal church, Summit, returned home Sunday by plane. The bride is the former Miss Margaret Morse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Morse of Summit and Sandwich, Mass., and Mr. Brodsky is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Brodsky of East River rd., Rumson.

The couple will spend the remainder of the season with the bridegroom's parents, and in the fall will return to New York city, where Mr. Brodsky is a medical student at Columbia university's College of Physicians and Surgeons. Mr. Brodsky was graduated from Princeton university, where he was president of the Campus club.

The American muskrat was imported into Great Britain for fur farms, but going wild, it did so much damage to river banks that further imports have been forbidden and efforts have been made to exterminate it.

Colt's Neck

Miss Noreen Wylie left this week for Fort Lauderdale, Fla., with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Dean, where she will spend the remainder of the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Dean have been visiting Mrs. Dean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Wylie.

Richard Heiser of Matawan spent the week-end with the Gemmell family.

Joseph R. Forman, Naval aviator, who is stationed on the Aircraft Carrier U.S.S. Bennington, has received orders to attend a Naval Air specialist school in Newport, R. I.

Mrs. Grete Keding of Flensburg, Germany, who has been spending the past two months with her brother, Hans Papenhagen of Old Mill House, returned to Germany this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hykaczewski have opened a new store on the Freehold-Eatontown rd., to be known as the Scobeyville General store. They will carry a complete line of groceries, frozen foods, meats, vegetables and fish, and will also have a lunch counter. Mr. and Mrs. Hykaczewski are former Philadelphia residents.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Herman of Summit, Route 34, gave a birthday party Monday for their son, John Jay Herman, who is a year old. Guests were Ronald Dale Myers and Mrs. Sempel Myers, New Monmouth; "Ronny" Carhart and Mrs. "Ronny" Carhart, Leonardo; "Lenny" Stokes and Mrs.

Leonard Stokes, Matawan; Michael Lorri, Mrs. Michael Lorri, Lynn Louise Kiernan, Mrs. Thomas Kiernan and Mrs. John Staley, Belford.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hammond, Jr., entertained Sunday at a birthday party for Mrs. Harry Hammond, the occasion being her 70th birthday. Attending were Harry Hammond and Miss Jennie Baird of Freehold; Miss Claudia Hammond, Metuchen; Mr. and Mrs. Karl Baird, Hightstown; Edwin Baird, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sutton and daughter, Carolyn, Trenton; and Janet, Henry and Richard Hammond, Colt's Neck.

The Fellowship of the Colt's Neck Reformed church gave a farewell party Thursday for August Christen, son of Mrs. William Roth of Manor rd., Colt's Neck, who has enlisted in the Navy. The party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Gemmell of Vanderburgh. Attending were Barbara and Richard Christen, Stephen Hyer, Joy Aumack, Lou Shelley, Marianna Ellis, William VanNote, Sandra and Drucilla Gemmell, Dorothy Scott, Nancy Small, David Scott, Betty Hamernick, Edward and Robert Whalen, Howard Alt, Leah VanNote, John Furiato, Jim Kirk, Emilie Smith, Herman Price, Henry Hammond and Mrs. C. Manns, Mrs. Roth and Mr. and Mrs. Gemmell.

It is believed that the land of Sweden began to emerge from the retreating ice cap of the ice age about 12,000 years before Christ.

You Can Fight Polio Wednesday

The Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the Red Bank Methodist church next Wednesday. Each visit is an important one, but none is more timely than next week's, coming as it does when the polio season is upon us. Polio will come this summer, but there is hope that some of those exposed may be protected from paralysis because of gamma globulin injections. They will be, if you provide the blood for the Red Cross to process.

There is no need to describe the dreaded, crippling disease. Surely you would do anything to reduce its paralyzing effects should it come to someone close to you. It can come to your home and you can do something. That something is giving your blood to the Red Cross to produce gamma globulin for use when the emergency hits. Don't miss Wednesday's chance to help!

Deserves Another Term

One of the matters to come before the Monmouth county Republican Steering committee shortly, perhaps this week, is the recommendation for the reappointment or replacement of Theodore J. Labrecque, Red Bank attorney, on the state division of tax appeals. Mr. Labrecque was appointed in 1946 and reappointed for a full five-year term in 1948. The latter term ended June 30 of this year.

The law provides that not more than four shall be of the same political party on the seven-man board. Mr. Labrecque was appointed and reappointed as a Democrat. In point of service he is the fourth oldest member of the board.

The division is charged with hearing appeals from county tax boards and also from various state tribunals. As a member of the board, Mr. Labrecque has written a number of opinions which have been reported in legal periodicals and he has spoken on tax matters before civic organizations.

Mr. Labrecque's ability as a lawyer and his reputation for fairness and equal justice for all are well known. To be added to these, in weighing Mr. Labrecque's qualifications, is the experience acquired during his seven years with the division. The Republican steering committee should take all these factors into consideration. Its members will be serving the interests of the taxpayers of this state in recommending the reappointment of Mr. Labrecque.

Rumson's School Problem

The road to a solution to the school problem at Rumson looks like a long, hard one. Many residents there are opposed to a regional high school which would serve that borough and Fair Haven, as recommended by the firm of Engelhardt, Engelhardt and Leggett, educational consultants. Some have gone so far as to suggest that Fair Haven be excluded and that Rumson high school be used for Rumson children only. The question, "Why should Rumson bail Fair Haven out?" has been asked. It seems only fair to point out that without youngsters from Fair Haven, it is doubtful whether Rumson high school could have been operated as economically and efficiently as it has. Another factor not to be discounted is the large amount of revenue in tuition fees Fair Haven borough pays to the Rumson school system. The Rumson board should be commended for calling in experts to study the situation. These experts, according to some Rumson taxpayers, did a poor job. But be that as it may, at least they furnished the board a point from which to start.

The survey, whether it be viewed with favor or opposition, has set Rumson residents to thinking seriously of the problem confronting them. That at least is a healthy sign. Who knows, perhaps that from some of these thoughts will come a sound solution, a better one and one more acceptable to all. The Rumson board deserves praise for its action in hiring expert consultants, but it is hoped the board will maintain an open mind regarding the situation and will not close its eyes to other possible solutions.

White Canes and Worthwhile Jobs

Our readers last week were reminded that white canes are carried by the blind, and only the blind, to indicate to motorists and others that their sight is impaired and that they're in need of additional courtesy for their protection and safety. Readers also were reminded last week that these same blind are gainfully employed: Brooms made by the blind were sold by the Highlands Lions club for its blind fund.

But the need for carrying a white cane to indicate an impediment need not carry the implication that the blind are limited to crafts or to charity. As George Dwight, a former Rumson councilman and a member of the board of directors of The Lighthouse, the New York association for the blind, points out in a letter to The Register in this week's issue, "Charity for the blind is worthy; but even as with a sighted person, the greatest satisfaction of all for a blind person is to be gainfully employed in a sighted world." Mr. Dwight says 248 prominent business and professional men in New York City have aided the training and placement of the blind. And now 940 blind persons are employed in New York City alone—83 as dictaphone typists. He cites the employment of 37 blind persons by the Tinkler Roller Bearing company at Camden, O., and 40 at Consolidated Vultee Aircraft company at San Diego, Cal.

Infinite possibilities exist in the employment of the blind. Let white canes be a reminder of the need for greater caution on the part of motorists, and a reminder, too, of the great potential fund of willing, quick-to-learn, and faithful employees.

An Invitation to Disaster

Stretching across the Shrewsbury river, between Highlands and Sea Bright, are a number of unsightly and dangerous objects—evidence of a job left undone. These objects are the "flatiron," so-called because of its shape, which formed part of the old railroad swing draw, and the stone piers which supported the railroad tracks across the eastern, or Sea Bright, side of the river.

Investigation has revealed that the former station platform on the Highlands side has been sold and will be cleaned up and converted into an amusement park and pier. This, if plans go through, will be an asset to the community. The "flatiron" in the center of the river, however, is somewhat in the category of the ugly duckling. Its ownership apparently is a mystery, title to it having been lost in a maze of legal entanglements and reversionary stipulations. Regarding the piers on the Sea Bright side, some of them have been sold, a railroad spokesman said, but for what purpose also is a mystery.

The approach to the modern state highway bridge at Highlands and to the beautiful river area is marred by these relics of the old railroad. They are not only an eyesore, but they are dangerous to navigation. They are an invitation to disaster, due to the swift-running tide. A disabled boat is at the mercy of the river in this area.

Here is a splendid opportunity for municipal officials of Highlands and Sea Bright, together with the civic organizations of these boroughs, to combine forces and bring pressure on the U. S. Corps of Engineers to compel removal of these objects of potential destruction before something of a disastrous nature occurs.

Insurance for the Shore

Among the attractions for which Monmouth county has reason to be proud are the Neptune Music Circus, the Holiday On Ice of 1953 revue and the "legitimate theater" presentations at the Savoy theater in Asbury Park. The people responsible for bringing these major events—Abe Vogel, the Music Circus; the Rediker Brothers, Holiday On Ice, and Walter Reade, the Savoy—deserve our thanks and merit our support.

The important thing about the presentations we've mentioned is the top flight quality of the performers and the excellence of the productions. The shows have attained artistic success if not necessarily financial success. It is heartening that men who live here and have their business interests here are willing to invest large sums of money in an effort to fill the entertainment desires of our summer visitors and residents alike.

With the Garden State parkway nearing reality, the prospect of more visitors is bright. With those added people will come prosperity, provided they like what they see. The Messrs. Vogel, Rediker and Reade are certainly doing their part to please the most discriminating pleasure seekers. In addition, they're giving our year 'round residents more opportunities to enjoy the good old summer time. We commend these enterprisers for we believe they are doing much to insure desirable growth for the shore and the county.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

AIDING THE BLIND

THE MEN'S COMMITTEE OF THE LIGHTHOUSE,
New York Association for the Blind
111 East 96th St.,
New York 22, N. Y.
July 11, 1953

To the Editor:

I have just finished reading your issue of July 9th, and am writing at once to thank you for the publicity you gave the blind in whose problems I am interested. The picture captioned "Highlands Lions Sell Brooms for Blind," informs us that the brooms manufactured in our county are being sold in Monmouth county, which as a former Rumson resident, pleases me very much.

The other picture captioned, "Blind Carry White Canes For Safety," leads me to observe that some of these men appear to be of employable age and makes me curious as to the attitude of the good people of Monmouth county toward employing blind people.

Even if no such problem even exists they might be interested in knowing that here at the Lighthouse our men's committee, which has grown to 248 businessmen in this, its fifth year of existence, not only attempts to raise money for the training of blind people but in addition assists in their employment—himself blind—to place these trained blind people in private industry.

There are now 940 blind people gainfully employed in New York City alone as dictaphone operators, typists, Monmouth county plants like Bendix might be interested in knowing that the Tinkler Roller Bearing company of Camden, O., employs about 37 blind people and Consolidated Vultee Aircraft company of San Diego, Cal., employs perhaps 40.

Charity for the blind is worthy, but even as with a sighted person the greatest satisfaction of a blind person is to be gainfully employed in a sighted world. To help educate the public to the infinite possibilities inherent in this truth is the reason why so many men are volunteering for service on the men's committee, of which I am chairman.

With kind regards,
Sincerely,
George Dwight.

HOW FAR IS OUT?

July 8, 1953.

To the Editor:

The Asbury Park Evening Press' editorial attack on Robert B. Meyner's possibly premature attempt to make sure that Island Beach will not be a "Riviera for the privileged few" is a commendable one. Inquire whether there should be greater public scrutiny of the State Planning and Development Council. It reminded me of the adage, "A state is as good as its leaders."

Also, his counsel presumes that the official capacity but not the private one of the New Jersey senators to vote in favor of the "Off Shore Oil" bill, which gave to the "most favored states" the "offshore" rights in the "offshore" oil and gas rights which belonged to the entire nation. This bill, now a law, gives the coastal states the "offshore" rights in the "offshore" oil and gas rights which belonged to the entire nation.

What are the "historic boundaries" of New Jersey? It seems to me that J. Spencer Smith, chairman of New Jersey's Department of Conservation and Economic Development, who is now defending what he termed the "courageous" senators who voted for "Offshore Oil Give Away," was published in the May 14th issue of the New York Times, and the council should know where the "offshore" oil and gas rights which belonged to the entire nation.

Apparently, there are no Constitutional, statutory or legal prohibitions limiting its claim. As late as 1946 the state was uncertain as to its right to the submerged lands of Kill van Kull, Newark bay, Arthur Kill, Raritan bay and the Delaware river opposite Philadelphia. This decision was based on the state's right in the same and to "fix the exterior line" thereof.

In 1946, the Division of Navigation was authorized to dredge the Shrewsbury and Manasquan rivers, but only within the limits of tidal waters. When the Department of Conservation was created (1945) and the Department of Conservation and Economic Development established (1948), provision was made for "offshore" oil and gas rights but not "offshore" lands.

This review indicates that New Jersey has been concerned with "offshore" oil and gas rights only. However, New Jersey is not prevented thereby from claiming a large area beyond "offshore" as its "historic boundaries."

The council can solve upon Vice Chancellor Grey's language in Simpson v. Moorhead.

"New Jersey was, in its rights as sovereign, the owner of all that belt of water lying at high-water mark within the tidal waters of the state, and thence out into the sea or river, so far as there can be any ownership of lands."

Referring for authority to Martin W. Waddell, the latter case, the U. S. Supreme court held that submerged lands in Raritan bay, Perth Amboy township, where the tide ebbs and flows, belonged to the state. This decision was questioned by today's natural resources conservationists such as Senator Wiley (R.), Ferguson (R.), Tobey (R.), Douglas (D.), Lehman (D.), and Morse (Ind.), who fought against the "Offshore Oil Give Away."

What, then, shall New Jersey claim? The fact that early citizens came from Scotland's Hebrides may afford some basis, a right of discovery, or a "discovery" claim, at least as far as the Outer Hebrides? (This is an island claim as Texas, California and Florida's which our Senators recognized). Perhaps New Jersey can compromise only the Outer Hebrides, or to the ledge of the Continental Shelf, while New Jersey's offshore lands may not

GENTLEMAN'S AGREEMENT

Everyone enjoyed the Coronation, but not everyone enjoyed the tasteless and tedious commercials injected into American telecasts of the event.

The British Broadcasting Corporation supplied television films free to the American networks, with a gentleman's agreement that the actual ceremony should be free from advertising and that any commercials used during other parts of the broadcast should be in good taste. Well, as radio-television critic John Crosby succinctly sums it up in the New York Herald Tribune, they weren't. And many Americans feel badly about this lack of good taste, if not of good faith.

Some Englishmen are using the American broadcasts as a horrendous example of what commercial sponsorship in the radio-TV field must inevitably lead to. The answer is that it need not. Advertising, encouraged by public opinion, is capable of self-restraint. It is not even good commercialism to offend audiences as did some of the advertisers who thrust their wares blatantly into the Coronation proceedings.

Primarily, local stations were responsible. The networks claim that they, as networks, did not put on commercials during the actual religious services in the Abbey, as first reported, but only before and afterwards. And some of the worst examples reported in the English press occurred in telecasts using still pictures of the Coronation, which were outside the scope of the agreement.

Enough remains to justify the BBC (which made no money from the telecasts) in its informal protest against American handling of the matter. Gentleman's agreements call for gentlemanly standards of taste.—The Christian Science Monitor.

AMBITIOUS YOUNGSTERS

There is much to be admired about boys and girls who enroll in summer school classes. Tempting as the months are for carefree play or employment at well-paying jobs, several thousand have indicated they will pursue academic subjects.

Summer school, which has been successfully conducted by the Columbus Board of Education for many years, attracts three kinds of students: Those who, for some reason or other, are retarded in progress; those who are overly ambitious and desire to speed completion of their regular school courses; and those who wish to gain knowledge of special subjects.

Of the latter it is especially interesting to note the great response to instrumental music instruction. This was introduced during last year's summer courses on an experimental basis. The only and the 1,000 children who enrolled for the instruction were more than ample program to continue and expand the program this year.

Two other interesting special subjects are playground and recreation supervision and gardening instruction. That city youngsters are interested in the soil was evidenced by the fact that more than 3,500 participated in last year's garden courses.

It is a pretty good bet that the thousands who enroll for summer courses will not be involved in juvenile delinquency. With minds, hearts, and hands occupied with worthwhile projects they'll be too busy to get themselves into trouble. They deserve a lot of credit and should be encouraged in plans to further their education during the summer months.

—Ohio State Journal, Columbus, O.

ACCORDING TO WEBSTER

Did you ever link together the following four definitions from Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary:

Luck: That which happens to one seemingly by chance.

Chance: Something that befalls as the result of unknown or unconsidered forces.

Accident: An event that takes place without one's foresight or expectation.

Fortuity: Quality of being devoid of whatever exposes one to danger or harm.

In other words, may we deduce from these definitions that study, foresight and perception, which are progressively within reach of all to the extent that they are developed and applied, eliminate luck, chance and accident? May we further deduce that safety in the natural consequence of these steps? Webster offers no evidence to the contrary.

EVENTS OF YEARS AGO FROM REGISTER FILES

50 Years Ago

The newspaper and stationery store of John T. Tetley and Sons on Broad st. was broken into and robbed. The stolen goods consisted of cash, postage stamps, cigars, perfumery, watches, watch chains and some lead money.

Hal Reid, the dramatist, who summered at the Highlands, presented a bust of Washington to the public school at that place. At the presentation, a delegation from the Daughters of Liberty lodge of Highlands was present and they sang the national anthem and "America."

Frederick Davis of Red Bank and Miss Maggie Herbert of Englishtown were enjoying a Sunday afternoon buggy ride when, between Shrewsbury and Long Branch, a thunder shower came upon them and a tree was struck by lightning as they were passing it. The horse started to run away but Mr. Davis managed to control the animal by pulling it into a fence. He was thrown out and his face was badly bruised, but his lady friend was uninjured.

Miss Laura Elliott had been a Sunday school teacher at the First Methodist church for 12 years and in appreciation of her services, her class got up a trolley ride to Long Branch in her honor. Upon their return, Miss Elliott invited the class to her home, where they enjoyed ice cream and cake. Those in the party besides the guest of honor were Mrs. Sophie Thornell, Lulu Scott, Emma Elliott, Nora Field, Maud Jones, Marion Mullett, Eva Lucas, Elsie Megill, Olive Twiford, Laura Eldred, Alda Megill and Nettie Elwood.

Joseph W. Finkelshtein, who for a long time was employed by the Eagle Clothing company and later in J. Kridel's clothing store, gave up clerking to start in the clothing business for himself.

Mrs. Susan Smith Bristol, one of Red Bank's oldest residents, died at her home on Broad st. following an illness of several months. She was a daughter of the late Jonathan McLean, who was one of the best-known residents of Middletown township.

Thomas W. Walling died at his home in Belford at the age of 74 years. In early life he followed clamming as an occupation, but later engaged in farming. He was the first farmer in Middletown township to grow asparagus for market and he made considerable money out of that crop. At his death, he was reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in that section of the county.

The Giants baseball team of Navasink played the Texas Juniors of West Red Bank, the Red Bank team winning by the score of 11 to 5. The battery for the Texas team was Charles Worthley and Eddie Hounihan. The Navasink battery were Jack Stewart and Samuel Barry. The defeat of the Navasink nine was due largely to their inability to hit Worthley's curves.

Walter B. Parsons' orchestra held their annual outing at Green Gables near Pleasant bay, making the trip in a commodious Keyport launch. Besides Mr. Parsons, others in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Nieman and son Harold, Hazel Tilton, Mary Mount, Eleanor Ward, Cecil Weaver, Adelle Carson, Fern Blaisdell, Charles Dennis, Edwin Hobbs, Lila Heisley, Ralph Wilson, Herbert Cullington, Irving Brown, Mrs. Charles B. Parsons and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chadwick.

A. D. Conover, who had conducted a village grocery many years at New Monmouth, opened a cash variety store on West Front at near Broad, its stock consisting of groceries, provisions, dry goods, glassware, crockery, novelties and confectionery.

O. E. Davis' house on Riverside ave. was visited by a burglar, who proved to be Tom Drum, who was arrested within 15 minutes after the crime had been discovered. Drum was recognized as having been a former employee of Mr. Davis and Police Captain William H. Wilson had no trouble in apprehending him.

Mrs. Lewis S. Thompson of Brookdale, who was spending the summer at the Adirondacks, saved the life of her baby daughter by making a hurried trip from the mountains to New York. The child, who was seven months old, swallowed a safety pin and was in imminent danger of choking to death.

Mrs. Thompson got in a private launch with the child, steamed across the lake eight miles to a railroad station where a special train to New York awaited. A specialist removed the pin and the infant recovered very rapidly.

George B. Snyder of Fair Haven, a freeholder from Shrewsbury township, who had been in poor health for three years with stomach trouble, died at his home. He was born in Fair Haven where he had lived for nearly 60 years.

Abram L. Davidson received a gold lodge emblem in appreciation for his services. He had been treasurer without pay of the Court Monmouth, Independent Order of Foresters of Red Bank, for many years.

25 Years Ago

Red Bank Chamber of Commerce sent two resolutions to the mayor and council, requesting them to require new buildings to be set at least eight feet back from the curb and the other was to improve the appearance of Maple ave. from West Front st. to the river, generally known as Allen's hill, which was badly washed out, overgrown with weeds and in an unattractive condition.

Frances Hoxin, daughter of Harry Hoxin of West Front st., was awarded a gold medal and $50 for writing the best biographical essay in a contest throughout the state by the National Young Judea society. The essay was on the life of Theodore Roosevelt, the first president of the World Zionist organization.

The Red Bank auxiliary of the Spring Lake hospital cleared $500 at its annual summer garden party held at the home of Mrs. Biddle H. Garrison. Mrs. George O. Hendrickson was chairman of the party.

committee assisted by Mrs. Garrison, Mrs. Walter Gosling, Mrs. Lillian G. VanBuskirk, Mrs. Frank McMahon, Mrs. Burton Downing, Miss Julia Little and Miss McDowell. Mrs. James R. Smock won a five-dollar gold piece disposed of under the cooperative plan.

Anthony Sharabba of Bridge ave. joined Dan Welch's minstrel show troop. Anthony, who was only 13 years old, was the son of R. Sara Sharabba who conducted a barber shop on Mechanic st.

Capt. Albert N. Runyon landed a tarpon in his pound nets in Raritan bay. It was nearly six feet in length and weighed 100 pounds. He sold it to the New York aquarium for $50.

The former Villars property on the north side of Newman Springs rd., between Shrewsbury ave. and Broad st., was bought by Thomas and Myrtle Haley of Sunset ave. for $3,500. They planned to occupy the property as soon as the legal transactions were completed.

Dr. Eugene Newman was building a pretentious residence at Goosenock Point, near Little Silver, for his own occupancy at a cost of $20,000. George A. Hawkins of Fair Haven had a contract for the construction work and Howard K. Roosevelt of Little Silver was to grade and beautify the grounds surrounding the house.

The Monmouth County Red Cross made a report on the junior branch of the society, showing that 22,994 of the various schools had been enrolled.

Mrs. Walter A. Conroy of Keansburg, entertained the July Eight at cards. The July Eight comprised Mrs. William Hastedt, Mrs. Edward Ryan, Mrs. Robert Dunfee, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Mrs. John Beatty, Mrs. Charles Herman and Mrs. Frank Tremery. Mrs. Conroy made the eighth member of the club.

Fred E. Brower and his son, Everett, were painfully injured at an explosion and fire in the cellar of William T. Jones' auto shop, service station at Maple ave. and Bergen pl. They were taken to the Long Branch hospital where their injuries were attended to. They were both badly burned about their faces and arms.

The annual firemen's fair, conducted by the Fair Haven Volunteer Fire Co., opened under very favorable conditions and the receipts on the opening night exceeded $1,200. Tom Heeney, the boxer, who was in training at Fair Haven, was a visitor and he promised to have Jack Dempsey as his guest on the closing night of the fair.

Onward Council of American Mechanics bought a property on the south side of Wallace st., near Mount st., as the site for a lodge home. A building committee was appointed, including Philip T. Jannine, Oliver G. Frake, Warren Dennis, Harold A. Hendrickson and N. A. Sutton to start a campaign to raise $50,000 for the new home.

Mrs. Benjamin H. Ford of East Front st. was in the Long Branch hospital with a fractured skull as the result of an automobile accident. She, her husband and daughter, Mrs. Walter Kinsman, were riding near Eatontown when their car became uncontrollable, striking a stump and overturning, pinning Mrs. Ford beneath it.

Jeffrey Lynn Has Title Role In 'Mr. Roberts'

Show Starts Monday
At Savoy Theater,
Hammerstein Directs

ASBURY PARK—Hollywood, television and stage actor Jeffrey Lynn will start in the title role of the record-breaking Broadway comedy hit "Mr. Roberts" at The Savoy, the Walter Reade theater across from the railroad station here next week, Monday through Saturday.

Jeffrey Lynn

"Mr. Roberts" will be directed by William Hammerstein of the famous theatrical family and employ most of the original Broadway cast in the presentation at The Savoy. It was announced by Walter Reade, Jr., co-producer with John Huntington of the Savoy's ten-week stage series. Performances will be given Monday through Saturdays evenings, with matinee Wednesday.

Mr. Reade said that due to current television commitments of Mr. Lynn, the Saturday matinee will be cancelled July 25, and the curtain that evening only will go up shortly after 8 p. m. Instead of the customary 8:40 p. m., to give Mr. Lynn time to get to Asbury Park after completing a coast-to-coast television dramatic show at 7:30 p. m. All other performances that week will be at the customary time.

Mr. Lynn, well remembered for his film performances in such outstanding pictures as "All This and Heaven Too," "For the Love of Mary," and "Letter to Three Wives," has been devoting most of his time in recent months to TV dramatic shows and hosting on video variety programs. As "Mr. Roberts" he will portray the role created on Broadway by Henry Fonda.

Among the personalities who will appear at the Savoy will be James Rennie, playing the role of the captain as he did for several years on Broadway.

Written by Joshua Logan and the late Thomas Hoggen, "Mr. Roberts" ran more than three years at the Alvin theater in New York city, grossing more than any other play in the history of the American theater, and posting the 12th longest run of any play in recent history. In spite of needing cuts to pass the British censors who were not used to American naval slang, it has become accepted as the frankest, most honest play ever written about the American fighting man.

The New York Times called it "a gusty, ribald and sentimental play, thunderingly hilarious." "A magnificent show that has heart and humor" was the verdict of the Herald Tribune. The New York News said "it has everything that is wonderful in the theater."

The AK601 is the setting for the story, AK meaning "Attack Cargo" ship in the Navy, and tells of the efforts of the crew to overcome boredom and lethargy when they are stranded in the backwash of the war in the Pacific.

"Mr. Roberts" is the fourth play in the series of ten at the Savoy, following the current production of Barry Sullivan and Viveca Lindfors in John van Druten's long-run comedy hit, "Bell, Book and Candle," which will play through this Saturday at The Savoy.

Mt. Everest, 28,000 feet high, could be submerged in the Mariana Trench, southwest of Guam.

National Safety Award

E. H. Werner, president of Jersey Central Power & Light company, left, presents Russell W. Aul, safety director with the Edison Electric Institute Accident Frequency Reduction award recently received by the local power firm for an outstanding safety achievement in 1952. The inscription on the national award reads: "In recognition of the achievement by its employees of a 25 per cent, or greater, reduction in its accident frequency rate during the year 1952 as compared with the preceding three years."

Mobile Clinic for Farm Workers

TRENTON — "A mobile health clinic will be used this summer for the examination of migrant farm workers," according to Dr. Jesse B. Aronson, state health officer, central district, State Department of Health. "This facility will be in addition to other clinic centers that have been operated in the past year."

Dr. Aronson stated, "this specially equipped trailer will operate according to schedule in convenient locations in the potato and tomato growing areas of the Central and Southern parts of the state. Special field representatives assigned to this project will contact the farmers who employ seasonal help and advise them several days before the mobile clinic will be in the vicinity of their farms."

He added, "by the use of the mobile unit, it is hoped to reach those farms, which in the past have been out of reach of the clinic service."

Since state health laws require migrants to show evidence of a satisfactory physical examination, it is required that employers of seasonal workers arrange to have their workers attend these clinics. All clinic sessions begin at 7:30 p. m. The location and dates of the opening of the stationary clinics in Monmouth county are: Freehold Health Center, Thursdays, beginning July 16 to Oct. 1, and Implants-town, Intersection of Main and highway 526, Thursdays commencing July 30 until Aug. 27, at Klink's general store.

The remaining schedule of the mobile unit will be announced at a later date.

'Charge It' Plan At Savoy Theater

ASBURY PARK—Stage shows, like groceries and department store merchandise, are now in the "charge it, please," category.

The Walter Reade Theaters announced today that it has just completed arrangements so that people purchasing admission tickets for the ten-week season of Broadway stage plays at its Savoy theater here can charge the cost of the tickets instead of paying cash—as is traditional in show business.

The Reade theaters have enrolled in the "Easy Charge" system of the Allenhurst National Bank and Trust company. Persons with "Easy Charge" cards can purchase individual performance or season tickets at the Savoy, and be billed later for the purchase by the bank. The bank reimburses the theater for the tickets the day the patron gets them at the theater, and takes care of the collection from the buyer on its own later responsibility.

The Reade theaters in Monmouth county have been enrolled in the plan for several months, with patrons saying "Charge it!" when they buy their movie tickets. The Easy Charge plan also covers more than 200 retail establishments in the county, but Reade theaters are the only entertainment venture participating. There is no charge to join the "Easy Charge" plan.

Two Held for Grand Jury On Larceny Charges

William Johnson, 46 West Bergen pl., and Henry Coy, Apple st., New Shrewsbury, were held for action of the grand jury for larceny Monday morning by Magistrate John V. Crowell.

They were charged with stealing a copper drain from the Esley Metal company Saturday. Sgt. Emerson Williams testified he arrested Coy at Mazza's junk yard, Central ave., where he was trying to sell the drain. Coy, said Sgt. Williams, admitted the theft and implicated Johnson.

Man Killed In Pkwy. Crash

NEW SHREWSBURY — Ralph Layton, 37, of Brandonville, Pa., was killed instantly Friday when the car he was driving ran into a large earth-moving machine operated by Bradley Babbitt of Dias Creek, N. J.

According to state police at Shrewsbury, the accident occurred on the section of the Garden State parkway under construction here, Layton, an employee of the Villa Construction company of Westfield, police said, reported for work that morning but hadn't been given an assignment. He got into his car and drove south on the new section of the parkway. Police said his car struck the Euclid dirt carrier which was traveling north. The Euclid carrier, said police, ran over the Layton car. Babbitt also is employed by the Villa company. No charges were made against Babbitt according to police. Layton's body was taken to the Braun funeral home, Eatontown, from where it was shipped to Shenandoah, Pa., for services.

Pastor Gives History of Church At Little Silver on 85th Anniversary

LITTLE SILVER—The regular Sunday morning service and a special service held in the afternoon to mark the 85th anniversary of Embury Methodist church were largely attended.

In the morning Rev. James W. Marshall, pastor, gave the history of the church and also read a congratulatory letter from President Eisenhower.

A sacred concert by the junior and senior choirs highlighted the afternoon service. The choirs were under the direction of Miss Marjorie Frantz, with Mrs. Lucy Ivins as accompanist. Soloists from Red Bank were Richard Eaton, baritone, and Miss Clara Tilton, clarinetist. Tea was served on the parsonage lawn by Mrs. George Inman and Mrs. John Eggenberger.

An anniversary cake was cut by three persons who have been members of the church for the longest length of time. They were Miss Ella King, who joined the church in 1892; Miss Marie Wilby, who joined in 1902; and Harrison Shampore, who became a member in 1905.

Following is part of the church history as prepared by Rev. Mr. Marshall:

Methodism has had a long and interesting history in Little Silver since the first Methodist sermon was preached by Joseph Totten in 1794 at the home of a Richard Borden. At that time, and up until 1845, what is now Little Silver, was called Rumson. In 1845 the name was changed to Parkerville, but with the building of the railroad station in 1875 the name Little Silver was adopted.

The first church building was erected in 1823 and was known as the Rumson M. E. church. It stood just north of the present cemetery on Rumson rd. For two years prior to the building of this church regular services had been held in the home of a Michael Parker. Rev. William Lummis was pastor at the time of the building of this church. In size it was 24x28 feet. But in 1852 an addition was put on the rear of the building, making it 24x40 feet. Around 1832 a great revival was held in the Rumson M. E. church, while at the same time Rev. Thomas Stewart, a preacher of the Freehold Circuit, reported finding only two Methodists in all of Red Bank.

When the Rumson M. E. church was first erected it was a part of the old Freehold Circuit, with a preaching service once every two weeks. Later it was united with the Long Branch church, and in about 1850 became a circuit with First M. E. church of Red Bank, which had been built in 1845. In March of 1867 the Rumson (Little Silver) church became a separate charge, with Rev. George Reed as pastor. Having outgrown the original building the cornerstone of the present church was laid in 1868 by Rev. E. H. Stokes, presiding elder, and Rev. Charles E. Hill of Red Bank. In February of 1869 the church was dedicated, free of debt, having cost over $6,000. At this time the name of the church was changed to Embury Methodist Episcopal church, Philip Embury having been the first lay preacher to preach in America.

The original church, built in 1823, was sold to Jacob Hoyer in 1868, who turned it into a store. Mr. Hoyer had bought a store from Jacob Corlies Parker, who had started the first store at Parkerville in 1845. Mr. Hoyer died in 1874, and Dr. Benjamin F. King rented the store from the Hoyer estate. Dr. King was the father of Miss Ella King of Shrewsbury, who has been an active member of the church for a longer time than any other living person, having joined Embury church in 1892. An employee of Dr. King's, Louis E. Brown of Red Bank, purchased the store and business. At this time the building which had originally faced Rumson rd. was turned around so that it stood facing Church st., just below the present cemetery. Louis Brown operated the store for ten years and then sold the business to Knapp and Allen of Red Bank, although he kept the ownership of the building. When Knapp and Allen gave up the business it was rented to Arthur Erickson, who soon quit, and was finally rented to James Lane, who was operating the business when the store burned to the ground in 1914. Much of this information was obtained from an article in The Red Bank Register of Oct. 19, 1914.

In 1869 Embury church was attached to Oceanport, with morning services at Little Silver and afternoon ones at Oceanport. However, in 1875 it again became a single church with its own pastor.

Under the pastorate of Rev. Percy Perinchief, 1889-91, a new parsonage was erected directly across from the church next to the postoffice. Prior to this there was a parsonage on the west side of Church st., two houses below the church property. This house is still standing.

Eighty-five years ago when the present edifice was erected, the church property did not include the area now occupied by our parsonage and church hall. As a matter of fact, on the ground, which is now the pastor's garden, there once stood an old red brick schoolhouse, which accounts for the many bricks uncovered each time the garden is spaded or cultivated.

Up until about 1910, 1911 on the site of the present parsonage there stood a frame house owned by an Ayres family, but this was moved to Parkerville pl. on about the above date, and the property was turned over to the trustees of the church. This Ayres house stood on Markham pl., west side of the street, just below the creek, but it has since been torn down.

The brick wall surrounding the church property was the generous gift of J. Horace Harding of Rumson rd., and was built around 1913, when Rev. Joseph Garrison was pastor of this church. Mr. Harding, who was a benefactor in many ways to this church, later had the present church hall moved to its present site on the rear of the church property. Previously the hall had stood on Rumson rd., below the present cemetery, and had been used for various community affairs and entertainments. It was often rented to medicine shows—one of these sold an item known as "Remedy White." The remedy which has cured me and will cure others.

The boys of the town played basketball in the hall, and their team, known as the "Wide Awakes," became famous throughout the county, and their games were well attended by the residents of Little Silver. The hall, at that time, was heated by a large stove which was set up in the center of the hall with a stove pipe leading to the ceiling. When visiting teams arrived for the first time they gasped, thinking that they had to play around that hot stove. But just before game time the boys appeared on the floor, equipped with brooms and a towel or two, the pipe was loosened at the stove, and when it started to fall to the floor it was caught on the brooms and carried from the building. The hot stove was then slid to the vestibule, and all was ready for the game. As far as it is known the pipe was never dropped.

About 1927, for the exact date is not now known, this hall was purchased by Mr. Harding and moved to the church property. It is now used for Sunday-school purposes and for other meetings. Under the present pastor this building has been completely renovated inside, with a fine, modern kitchen, having been built, plus toilet facilities. The hall where the Sunday-school classes meet was completely refinished in 1951 by the parents of the children of the Sunday-school. During the fall of 1949 the outside of the hall was painted, thus making it an attractive and useful building.

The sanctuary of the church has had a long and interesting history of face lifting. For example, the Quarterly Conference records of 1890 report that "the old and ugly stoves have been consigned to the junk shop, a cellar dug and two new giant heaters have been put in place." A new organ was installed in 1900, together with new pews and a new carpet. The stained glass windows were installed during the pastorate of Rev. Clifford Dicks about 1916.

The greatest improvements were made to the sanctuary in 1924 and 1925 under the pastorate of Rev. G. Paul Butler, who is now a resident of Little Silver and one of the editors of the New York Mirror. At this time new electrical fixtures were installed, a Moller organ secured and other improvements were made, costing $7,000. This money was raised through the energetic efforts of the pastor and the people.

The most recent work done on the sanctuary was in 1951, when the ceiling and woodwork was painted and the stained glass windows restored. This work cost well over $1,000, and was secured through gifts and pledges at one service.

During January of 1947, under the able leadership of Rev. Dr. F. A. DeMaris, the present parsonage was completed and dedicated. This parsonage is located in the shade of an historic oak tree, which is estimated to be between 200 and 250 years old.

Man Ordered Held For Knife Assault

Timothy B. Hogan of Baltimore, Md., was held for action of the grand jury Saturday morning on a charge of atrocious assault with a dangerous weapon. He was charged with cutting John Walker, 23, also of Baltimore, on the left arm and back.

According to Sgt. Frank Mazza, he and Sgt. Emerson Williams and Patrolman William Story were called to a diner at 100 West Bergen pl. Friday night, where they found Walker lying on the ground suffering from deep cuts. Walker was treated at Riverview hospital. Hogan was arrested a short time later at the diner. Ray Cheatham of 147 West Bergen pl., was picked up at the railroad station as a material witness. According to Sgt. Mazza, Hogan said he had meant to cut Cheatham but cut Walker instead. No bail was set for Hogan.

Level Farming Saves Tractor Wear: Grain Harvest Now in Full Swing

FREEHOLD—Contour farming is simply farming "on the level." When level farming is practiced tractors are not forced to go up and down hill to carry out farm operations and, therefore, they do not wear out so rapidly or use so much fuel.

On most farms tillage can be on the contour without causing too frequent turnings and on many farms the rows will be much longer when farmed on the contour than under the old square field system, notes County Agent M. A. Clark.

Crop yields are increased from 20 to 30 per cent by contour farming alone because moisture is kept on the field where the plants can use it and because topsoil and fertility are not carried away by erosion.

Research at the agricultural experiment station at Rutgers university shows that even the slightest sheet erosion on gently sloping land removes in one season enough nitrogen to equal that found in 200 pounds of nitrate of soda. Contour farming helps save this nitrogen along with other fertilizing elements.

Protect Grain in Storage
With grain harvest now in full swing and with the prospect of much of Monmouth county's wheat harvest being stored on the farms to wait for a better market, protection of this stored grain against insect injury becomes a paramount problem.

County Agent Clark points out that injury by the Angoumois grain moth, the granary weevil, the rice weevil and some other minor insects may consist not only in the feeding that the bugs do in the grain but that they may produce heat and moisture to start a chain reaction of spoilage.

To aid in preventing storage from bugs, the bin should be thoroughly cleaned before new grain is stored. Brush down the side walls and sweep the floor to remove any old grain. That is where the infestation starts. Then spray the walls and ceiling above the area where the grain is to be stored with a five per cent DDT solution. Let this dry before the grain is put in the bin. The spray should not be applied to the sides or floor of the bin that will come in direct contact with the grain. As the bin is filled it can be covered with the old burlap bags that have been dipped in the DDT solution and then thoroughly dried before they are laid on top of the grain. If the grain is to be stored in bags the whole bin surface may be sprayed with the DDT.

Soils for Late Crops
Preparation of soils for the fall crops is different from preparation for early spring crops for which plowing is usually done. When a fall crop follows an early spring crop, the soil should be thoroughly disked a number of times after the first crop has been harvested.

Disk at right angles so that the crop residue is thoroughly flung and worked into the top four inches of soil. This crop residue will act as a surface mulch during the heat of summer.

Where irrigation is not possible, summer plowing, especially when the ground is dry, is not a good practice, according to Mr. Clark. Plowing under hot, dry surface soil and bringing to the surface the fairly moist soil six to eight inches below depletes the soil more quickly of its already fairly low water content during the plowing process.

Many farmers have found that loosening the soil with a deep tillage harrow or roller opens the soil and aerates it without bringing the moist soil and the weed seeds to the surface.

Where small seeds are to be planted, firming the ground with a cultipacker or a Meeker smoothing harrow will insure early germination of the seed and usually bring water to the surface from the sub-soil.

Summer Green Manure Crops
Instead of growing three crops a year under irrigation, many Monmouth county farmers eliminate the quick-growing summer crop and substitute a green manure crop in its place to add organic matter and life to the soil.

Why not plant a green manure crop, such as Sudan grass, sorghum or corn. Immediately after the spring crop of lettuce, onions, cabbage or other early maturing crops have been harvested.

Any of these summer green manure crops will make a rank growth during hot weather. Thoroughly disked into the surface soil, they will provide organic matter and form a good plant bed for early maturing fall crops or for a winter cover crop to be plowed under in late fall or early spring.

Late Summer Pasture
Many farmers can still use Sudan grass to advantage this year, observes County Agent Clark. Where permanent pastures are short, Sudan grass can be planted to insure a high yield of green succulent milk-making grass during the late summer.

Sudan grass requires a summer sun and warm soil for best results. This crop is a heavy feeder and for best results should, under average conditions, receive 40 to 600 pounds of a 7-7-7 fertilizer before seeding. It should be seeded alone at about 25 to 35 pounds per acre and, if planted with one bushel of soybeans, ten pounds to the acre.

Grazing management of Sudan grass is important. A precaution to follow is not to graze the first time until the grass has made 15 to 18 inches of growth. Under certain conditions Sudan grass can cause prussic acid poisoning, but such cases have been rare in the Northeastern states.

After grazing, the Sudan grass should be clipped to insure uniform regrowth. After clipping, let the grass recover 10 to 15 inches before turning cattle into it.

A good seeded, high fertility Sudan grass can provide good summer pasture. If not needed for pasture, it can be made into a satisfactory animal hay crop.

Poultry Breeders' Course Set for Aug. 4

TRENTON—New Jersey poultry breeders and the employees will again have an opportunity to qualify as official flock selectors and pullorum-testing agents, announced B. K. Messersmith, poultry standardization supervisor, State Department of Agriculture.

Being offered for the 13th year, the annual course is planned for Tuesday, Aug. 4, in the laboratory at Trenton. No fees are charged for the instruction and examinations.

Poultrymen who wish to enter their flocks or hatcheries in the United States-New Jersey poultry improvement plan, as well as employees of these men, are eligible for the course. Applications may be obtained from the Department of Agriculture until July 27.

Candidates will be tested on their skill in selecting breeders and testing blood samples and those qualifying are authorized to perform these services under supervision of the Department.

John A. Pino, assistant professor of poultry husbandry, State College of Agriculture, will discuss "Selecting Birds for Breeders" and Dr. F. R. Beaudette or Dr. James A. Blivins, poultry pathologists, New Jersey agricultural experiment station, will address the class on poultry diseases.

The 2,000 traffic policemen of Rome, Italy, are required to spend part of their on-duty hours attending language classes.

County Holy Name Seeks Members

LEONARDO—Plans for a program affording opportunity for all Catholic men to join the Holy Name society in their respective parishes were announced today by James Grodeska, vice president of the county federation of Holy Name societies and chairman of the membership and attendance committee.

Many new families have taken up residence in Monmouth county during the past year, Mr. Grodeska explained. Some are newly married couples while others are established families who have moved into this area from other sections of the county. The Holy Name society, a confraternity of the Catholic church established in 1274, extends welcome to fathers and husbands of these families to become members. While the primary purpose of membership in the Holy Name society is the sanctification of the individual member by honoring the name of God and by avoiding blasphemy and profanity of all kinds, Mr. Grodeska said it also afforded opportunities for social activity and participation in civic affairs of the community.

Individual committees will be established in each of the 28 parishes in the county. Mr. Grodeska stated, and visits to the homes of the prospective members will be made. Planned to end with the annual parade and rally which will be held in Asbury Park in September, the campaign for new members will open Aug. 30 and continue during September.

Assisting Mr. Grodeska with the campaign as chairman of parish committees are George Zahner, Michael Camoesa and Edward Minor, Asbury Park; James Rice, Avon; John Condon, Atlantic Highlands; Joseph Dunn, Bradley Beach; Leo Leakey, Belmar; Richard Woods, Sr., Deal; William Seales, Eatontown; Steve Dericke, Englishtown; Peter Devaney, East Keweenaw; William Costigan, Farmingdale; John Rooney, Freehold; Thomas Thompson, Highlands; Louis Calarco, Vincent Harbor and Dr. E. Emmet Mulholland, K.S.G., Long Branch; John McCabe, Manassquan; Gerald Reilly, New Monmouth; Dr. Mark Muscarella, Keyport; John Genovesi and Edward Dauberschmidt, Red Bank, and William Ahern, Spring Lake.

'Blondes' Begins At Music Circus Monday Night

Hollingsworth Stars; The Student Prince In Last 3 Nights

NEPTUNE—One of the most famous blondes in history will invade the shore area Monday when the Music Circus opens its fourth week of musicals under the 'Big Top.'

Dossie Hollingsworth

This blonde first became famous in a best-selling novel by Anita Loos, then later more people got to know her in a Broadway play, and now Lorelei Lee, the diamond-happy girl from Little Rock, Ark., once again proves that "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," when the smash musical is presented nightly at 8:40 until Saturday, July 25.

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," is the story of Lorelei Lee who learns early in life that men were created for the sole purpose of providing girls with tokens of affection as mink coats, limousines, and, above all, diamonds. Her desire for diamonds is so great that she goes to Paris to add a few more sparkles to her collection under the guise of acquiring an education on the continent.

Carol Hendricks

The musical score is by Jule Styne and Leo Robin whose memorable songs include the lilting "Bye Bye, Baby," "Just a Kiss Apart," and "You Say You Care" and Lorelei's two show stoppers, "A Little Girl From Little Rock," and "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend."

Dossie Hollingsworth will be seen as the gold-digging Lorelei Lee, Miss Hollingsworth, a vivacious blonde, appeared in the same role with the National company both on Broadway and on the extensive road tour and most recently was the alternate lead in the New York hit, "Hazel Flagg." Featured in the cast are Carol Hendricks as Dorothy, Lorelei's best friend, Sid Law-

Quakers Begin Sunday Meetings

SHREWSBURY — The Shrewsbury Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) at Broad st. and Sycamore ave. will begin a series of afternoon extension meetings Sunday at 3 p. m. Once a month during the summer a Friend prominent in Quaker activities will present some of the many works and principles of the Society of Friends. The public is invited.

J. Barnard Walton, field secretary of Friends General Conference, will begin this series with the topic "Seekers and Finders." Barnard Walton spends a great deal of time visiting both established and new meetings. He devoted three months during the winter to Friends in the southwestern states and has recently returned from a visit to 17 meetings and worship groups in New York, Canada and Vermont.

For 35 years Mr. Walton was executive secretary of Friends General Conference, retiring in 1951 to serve the conference in his present capacity. He is a member of the executive board of the American Friends Service Committee, the American Friends Fellowship Council, and Pendle Hill, a graduate school for religious study. He was active in the formation of these organizations. He serves the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting as clerk of the executive committee of ministry and council and is a member of Swarthmore Monthly Meeting, Swarthmore, Pa.

son, Fred Harper, Bob Shaver, Hilda Kosta, and Marion Weeks, plus the voices of the Singing Ensemble, Corps de Ballet, and the Music Circus orchestra. "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," is directed by George Lipton with Michael Kutner as musical director. "Student Prince," the current musical, will be presented nightly until Saturday. The Music Circus is west of Asbury Park, near Jumping Brook Country Club.

Allot Federal Funds For Loans to Farmers

TRENTON—Funds for making farm operating loans during this fiscal year have been allotted to the Farmers Home Administration in New Jersey, according to Chester J. Tyson, Jr., state director.

These funds are available to family-type farmers for the purchase of livestock, feed, fertilizer, labor or to take care of other operating expenses, he said.

In order to qualify for the loan, Mr. Tyson explained, an applicant must have the basic eligibility requirements of sound farm operation, and must be unable to secure his needed finances from his bank or production credit association. Applications are reviewed by a committee of three farmers who reside in the county.

The amount of the loan is based solely on the needs of the applicant, though the maximum is $7,000. The maximum repayment period for an operating loan is seven years. Mr. Tyson suggested that persons who can anticipate their fiscal needs should place their applications as soon as possible.

Farmers Home Administration offices are located in Freehold, Bridgeton, Burlington, Cape May Court House, Flemington, Glasboro, Mays Landing, Newton, Salem and Toms River.

Supper, Program Opening Events For Caravaners

Visitors to Assist Lutheran Groups In League Activities

Tomorrow evening the Caravaners, part of a nation-wide movement to assist local Lutheran groups in developing better programs, will begin their stay here with a fellowship supper sponsored by the Lutheran league of the Red Bank Lutheran church. Work shops, discussions, worship and recreation will follow.

Saturday the Caravaners will be taken on a tour of historic sites throughout this section of the county. In the evening a program similar to the opening night will be carried out. Sunday morning the visitors and local Lutheran leaguers will attend the 8:45 a. m. church service after which they will leave for Ridgeway, Pa., the next stop on their itinerary.

The three Caravaners are Nancy Vaughn, Huntington, Pa., a student at Juniata college; Nancy Dickson, Spanglersburg, S. C., who attends Lenoir Rhyne college; and Glenn Shackelford, Elkins, W. Va., a student at Davis and Elkins college. Miss Vaughn and Miss Dickson will be guests of Mrs. Ada Wilman, 19, Harris Park, and Glenn will be entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Zellman, Jr., 14 Throckmorton ave. Three members of the local church congregation are assisting in this project. They are Mrs. Lynn Cross, George Handzo and Walter Grubb, Jr.

The local church is one of approximately 200 ULS congregations, camps and summer schools that will be visited by 39 Lutheran leaguers grouped into 11 caravan teams by Aug. 8. These Caravaners, along with more than 2,000 leaguers from this country, Canada and Puerto Rico, will open the five-day international convention of the Lutheran League of America Aug. 10 at Miami university, Oxford, O.

Fred Page, Jr., Riverside ave., president of the local league, and Fred Jacobsen, 126 Branch ave., will attend the convocation as representatives of the local group and the Lutheran League of New Jersey, respectively.

Franchot Tone In Play at Savoy July 27-Aug. 1

Reade Makes Switch To 'The Second Man'; From 'Affairs of State'

ASBURY PARK—Franchot Tone and Betsy von Furstenberg will co-star in "The Second Man" from July 27 to Aug. 1 as the fifth week attraction in the ten-week series of big-name stage plays at The Savoy, the Walter Reade theater across from the railroad station here.

The new stars and play replace "Affairs of State" which was originally booked for that date, but dropped by the Reade organization when it was unable to obtain a star of a magnitude equal to Mr. Tone and Miss von Furstenberg for the leading role.

Mr. Tone, with more than a score of stage and screen shows to his credit, is a veteran of the stage tour circuit. Miss von Furstenberg, one of the rising young stars of Broadway and television, is also well known in the theatrical field.

The remainder of the season at The Savoy will include the following shows, which will be presented under the joint auspices of the Reade's Shore Theatrical Guild and John Huntington, beginning Monday through Saturday, July 25, Jeffrey Lynn in "Mr. Roberts," July 27-Aug. 1, Mr. Tone and Miss von Furstenberg in "The Second Man," Aug. 3-8, Uta Hagen in "Country Girl" with Herbert Berghof and L. G. Marshall; Aug. 10-15, an "Evening With Hildegarde," Aug. 17-22, Joanne Dru and John Ireland in "Laura," Aug. 24-29, Van Heflin in "The Strike," Aug. 31-Sept. 6, Zachary Scott and Ruth Ford in "I Am a Camera."

Questions and Answers To Vets' Problems

Q—I am the widow of a World War I veteran, and I'm drawing Civil Service retirement benefits based on my husband's employment in the Government. Am I supposed to count this money in figuring my annual income for the purpose of getting a V.A. pension?

A—Yes. The retirement benefits, which you get on the basis of your husband's employment, must be considered in determining whether your annual income comes within the ceilings set by law for V.A. pension purposes.

Q—I've just gotten out of service and I've gone to work with an aircraft company as a test pilot. I plan to take out the special term insurance for Korean veterans, but first I want to know if the policy contains any restrictions as to hazardous occupations.

A—Your G.I. insurance policy contains no restrictions as to hazardous occupations. You may engage in any job, without altering the terms of your contract or the amount of your premiums.

Q—I understand that under the Korean G.I. Bill night law courses are counted as part-time training, and may not be measured as more than three-quarters time. Are there any exceptions?

A—Yes. Night law courses approved as full-time courses under standards set by the American Bar Association may be considered as full-time training for purposes of the Korean G.I. Bill.

Q—How much money will V.A. pay a veteran taking correspondence training under the Korean G.I. Bill?

A—V.A. will pay the established charge which the correspondence school requires non-veterans to pay for the same course.

It May Cost Less than the Car You Own!

Surprised by the statement above? Then listen, for a moment, to these amazing facts:

The beautiful motorcar pictured here is actually priced lower than twenty-two different models of other motorcars built and sold in America.

Its gasoline economy is so extraordinary that it will travel farther on a gallon of gasoline than many cars of far less stature and size.

Its dependability is so great that, over a normal span of ownership, it will probably cost as little to operate and maintain as any car you could buy. Records of certain fleet operators indicate this.

And authoritative records reveal that this Cadillac may be expected to return a greater percentage of its owner's investment, at the time of resale, than any other motorcar built in America.

Perhaps your surprise has changed to concern.

For if you happen to own one of the twenty-two cars priced higher than this magnificent Cadillac—or if you own one of the many, many other cars which are very close in price—then you've been needlessly depriving yourself of some of the greatest satisfactions in all the world of motordom.

You've been depriving yourself of Cadillac's brilliant performance . . . its superlative handling ease . . . its marvelous riding comfort . . . its great and inspiring beauty . . . and the deep and abiding pride which comes with ownership of so beloved and respected a possession.

You'll surely agree—that's a lot of things to miss . . . especially when it costs no more to have them in this wonderful, wonderful car!

If you think we might be talking about you—come in and see us. You've already waited too long!

Polio Rate Same, First Victim Dies

CLIFFWOOD — Mrs. Gladys Hoffman, 51, of 21 West Prospect ave., became Monmouth county's first polio victim of 1953, when she died at Perth Amboy General hospital Friday.

Mrs. Hoffman was stricken with the disease five days before she died, and was admitted to the hospital in critical condition. Roland J. Hines, county chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said Mrs. Hoffman's disease was the bulbar type which attacks the respiratory system.

Mr. Hines said Mrs. Hoffman, whose husband is William J. Hoffman, was the oldest person in his memory to be stricken in the county, and that it is unusual for someone of that age to suffer from polio.

Her case was the third in Monmouth county up through last week, and Mr. Hines said the county has maintained its same rate as last year despite a general increase in the number of polio cases reported throughout the nation. A survey by the National Foundation, Mr. Hines said, shows there have been 31 cases in New Jersey through June 27 as compared to 14 in 1952, and nationally there were 4,057 acute cases as compared to 3,556 for the same period last year.

Mr. Hines disclosed that in all cases where polio is suspected members of the immediate family and anyone who has been a resident of the household 24 hours has been inoculated with gamma globulin. Serum is provided by the U. S. Office of Defense Mobilization through arrangement with the New Jersey department of health.

Five centers have been established in Monmouth county for distribution of gamma globulin, which is administered by family physicians, Mr. Hines said. The centers are the Monmouth County Organization for Social Service, Red Bank; Asbury Park and Long Branch boards of health, Manasquan health center and Fred Crocker, Freehold, county district health officer.

Water Company Censured for Lack Of Adequate Notice Before Cut Off

Letters to the Monmouth Consolidated Water company censuring the firm for its handling of a situation which caused a water shortage in several communities in this area Tuesday of last week were authorized by the Rumson council Thursday night and the Fair Haven council Monday night.

Mayor Francis J. Nary explained he had been informed by the water company the cut off resulted when the firm shut off some lines to install a booster pump on Prospect ave., Little Silver. The company, said Mayor Nary, anticipated a lack of water in higher regions and notified residents of those areas to draw water in preparation for the shut-off.

The effect, however, added the mayor, was much more widespread than had been expected and many residents found themselves suddenly without water. Mayor Nary pointed out that a general announcement beforehand could have prevented much of the inconvenience which resulted.

The Rumson fire department was commended by Councilman Garrison C. King for putting men on duty to check on the availability of water from local mains and from adjoining municipalities.

Fair Haven's Mayor Edgar V. Denise said M. Floyd Smith, borough clerk, had been notified of the possible shortage late Monday afternoon of last week. The mayor said, though, that the first he heard of it was when he began receiving complaints from Fair Haven residents Tuesday afternoon. Pointing to the danger from fire, Mayor Denise said the situation could have been much worse.

"Had we had a fire," he stated, "we would have had a very serious condition." The mayor added: "To say it was badly bungled by the water company would be putting it mildly."

Mr. Smith read a letter from H. T. Baldwin of Kemp ave., who said he had received no notice of the shut off. If notice was given, added Mr. Baldwin in his letter, it was inadequate as far as his neighborhood was concerned.

Mr. Smith read a letter written by Mayor Denise in reply to Mr. Baldwin in which he agreed the notice given was inadequate. Answering Mr. Baldwin, Mayor Denise pointed out that while the inconvenience caused by the shut-down was bad, his main concern was of the danger of fire.

A copy of the council's letter to the water company will be sent to the Public Utility commission.

Remember Me?

Bill Griffiths

SPRING LAKE—Bill Griffiths, radio and television actor, will appear in the Ivy Tower Playhouse production "Remember Me?" a new play by Elaine Currington which opens Monday to run for the entire week. The plot concerns a Korean war ace pilot who returns to his home town a hero, and the complications that follow his arrival. Griffiths appeared at the Ivy Tower during the 1951 season. Charlott Knight is directing the play.

Family Dinner Marks Anniversary

COLT'S NECK—Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Wylie of Vandenberg observed their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday at a family reunion dinner at Colt's Neck Inn. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Dean of Port Larderdale, Fla., who attended the event, were marking their sixth wedding anniversary.

Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Yuhas, Jr., of Manlius, N. Y., Misses Yvonne and Noreen Wylie and Mrs. Ellen Wylie. Mrs. Dean is the former Betty Wylie. Mrs. Yuhas is the former Doris Wylie. Mr. and Mrs. Wylie were married in Bethany Presbyterian church in New York city in 1928. They have been Vandenberg residents the past 15 years.

Troast Starts County Campaign

FREEHOLD—In his first Monmouth county campaign speech since winning the Republican nomination for governor in April Paul L. Troast last Thursday night promised to find new revenue to aid schools in rural and residential areas that have not benefited from the state's industrial expansion.

Speaking at the American hotel before about 150 members of the Freehold area Young Republican club and G.O.P. officials at the first installation of the club Mr. Troast said the whole country will watch the outcome of the November election.

The G.O.P. candidate declared that towns growing residentially without ratables from large industries are rapidly increasing their school taxes, and the state "will have to give more state aid." He added that funds must be made available to provide adequate education for all children of the state.

Elaborating on his remarks on the importance of the gubernatorial election Mr. Troast, chairman of the state Turnpike Authority, said the "eyes of the nation" will watch the result because New Jersey is the only Republican state picking a governor, and this may be considered a guide to the reaction of the public to President Eisenhower's administration.

Mr. Troast pointed to the record of the Republican governors of the past ten years, and called them "progressive." He said economy in state government has kept per capita taxes the lowest of any state in the country, without state sales, income or corporate taxes. He cited as examples of the progressive administration the adoption of the new Constitution, the turnpike and parkway development which, he said, is helping the state grow with money from out-of-town residents and recent legislation in other fields.

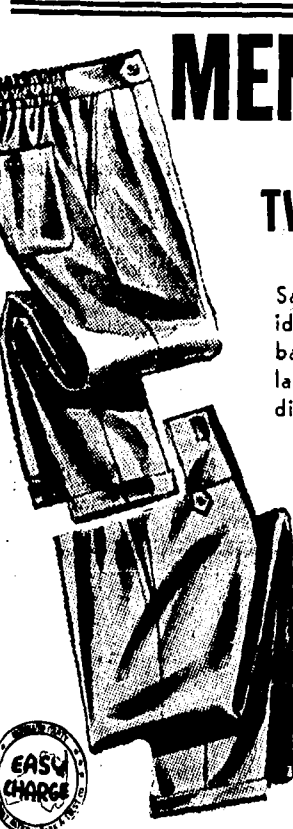

The turnpike chairman said the future of the party in New Jersey rests with the young people, and that the party wants no favors from "those living beyond the law."

Sailing Club Holds Dessert-Bridge

LITTLE SILVER—Mrs. Joseph Herrmann was chairman of a dessert-bridge Tuesday at the Shrewsbury Sailing club. Assisting were Mrs. Byron Briggs, Mrs. Herbert Shea, Mrs. Edward Hardy, Mrs. Harry Koch and Mrs. Edwin McIntire.

With Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hathaway as sponsors, an informal dance was held Saturday at the clubhouse for junior members. This year special sailing races are held for juniors Wednesday afternoons, with instruction for juniors Tuesday and Thursday mornings. The club will hold a Comet regatta Aug. 1 and 2. the modern way is a flameless Automatic Electric Kitchen

Ask grandma about the good old days. She'll tell you "Those old fashioned kitchens were no fun". Hot, balky ranges, kettle-heated water and messy ice-boxes made work long and hard. But that was before electricity. Today, she enjoys the clean, cool, flameless convenience of automatic electric cooking . . . water heating . . . dishwashing . . . refrigeration . . . home freezing — plus many small appliances. For modern living, start planning your all electric kitchen now. Remember, the more electricity you use, the lower your average cost.

Stilwell Fines 16 Violators

CRAWFORD'S CORNER—Magistrate Stanley Stilwell fined Peter Malozzi of North Arlington $28 in Holmdel township court here last week when he found him guilty of a careless driving charge.

Alexandro Roman of Perth Amboy was fined $18 for driving alone while holding a learner's permit. Speeding cost the following $13 each: Fred Moschberger of Elizabeth, Preston B. Tisich of Margate City, Albert Maurelio of Belleville, Irving Goldman of Passaic and Herbert H. Hodges of Newark.

Improper passing brought $8 fines to the following: Peter LaBash of New York City, Irving Kudlow of Englewood, John Martin and Max Schneider of Jersey City, John B. Avanzino of Brooklyn, Leo Lapidus of Bayonne, James V. Cappozza of Weehawken, Andrew L. Cox of Bay Head, Grace Connelly of Scranton, Pa., and Henry Richards of West Orange.

Former Hospital Being Torn Down

LONG BRANCH—Workmen are expected to complete in two weeks the razing of the old Central hotel, which in 1890 became Monmouth Memorial hospital and served as that until last September.

The four-story building opposite the railroad station on Third ave. became a hospital in 1890, three years after the institution had its origin in four rooms over a Broadway delicatessen.

The former hotel, together with the north and south wings, which were added in 1899 and 1904, served as the hospital until 1940 when Borden Memorial pavilion was opened. It then was known as the rear of the plant and was used for wards. Last September the last of the ward patients were moved into the new Community wing.

On June 1 the job of razing the building was begun as part of the hospital's modernization program designed to eliminate all non-direct facilities. Several ideas for new construction on the site, among them a medical arts building similar to the one erected several years ago in Asbury Park, are under consideration.

"I Used to Was"

Fifty years ago Corinne Breton of Ideal Beach, Keansburg, then professionally known as "Baby Corinne, Child Ballerina," posed for a statuette in a Greenwich Village studio. The product, called "The Danseuse," became very popular and decorated the mantels of many homes. It was but six inches high, made of plaster and sold for fifty cents.

Mrs. Breton, always touring, never had a place for one until the Bretons bought their present home. The statuette had by that time lost its vogue and had disappeared from the market.

The search, however, continued and last week a replica turned up in a Red Bank curio shop. Instead of the cheap chalk original at fifty cents, this one was stamped "Bisque; Limoges," and priced at fifty dollars.

WE AIM TO SET

a fine table—maybe not for a hundred and sixty-two years (that's how long the Hotel has been part of Red Bank) but for as long as we're able to serve the finest of all kinds of foods. We hope you'll come sit with us soon and often—on our terrace or in our dining room. And before dinner or after, visit Tom McCarthy in our tap room for your drinking pleasure. For reservations call Red Bank 6-1500. UNION HOUSE, 11 Wharf Ave., Red Bank, N. J.

It stands to reason...

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!

CHEVROLET

Big truck users, small truck users, all truck users buy more Chevrolet trucks than any other make. It stands to reason Chevrolet trucks must offer more of what you want.

When you stop to think about it, the best proof of outstanding value in any product is continued public preference. That's the way it is with Chevrolet trucks. They're the top selling trucks in America today... for the twelfth straight production year.

This is a mighty important fact to consider before you buy your next truck. You'll also want to consider that, while Chevrolet trucks give you more features you want, it's the lowest-priced truck line of all! Come in and talk it over with us.

Need 5,000 Plane Spotters to Plug Gaps at Ground Observer Posts

TRENTON—(AP)—New Jersey's ground observer program, set up as a defense against an enemy sneak attack, is still full of loopholes.

The program was instituted back in 1950, when the U. S. Air Force decided radar and fast interceptor planes were not enough to prevent a damaging one-punch attack under modern conditions.

Those modern conditions, in case you've forgotten, include bombers that travel faster than 500 miles an hour and bombs which can demolish cities.

Theoretically, enemy planes approaching the United States would be picked up by radar while still out at sea or over Canada or Alaska. Interceptors would have plenty of time to head them off.

But there's a hole in the radar network. Single planes flying very low on twisting courses are hard to pick up.

The Air Force decided these planes would not appear suddenly over a target city, or strike directly inland from the coast, but would go inland over the comparatively deserted area and change course several times before heading for their targets.

The planes would travel in small groups, to make it more difficult, and might look very much like American bombers.

It's impractical for U. S. interceptors to fly day and night patrol over every American city and military target, so only one good method of supplementing the radar network was left—the old-fashioned ground observer.

The New Jersey division of civil defense organized 131 ground observer posts in 1950. A year ago these posts—scattered eight miles apart to provide overlapping line of sight coverage—were placed on an active basis.

Today the Air Force counts 72 percent of these posts as active. That means 72 per cent of them are manned some of the time, may be as little as two hours a week. The Civil Defense division can show considerable progress with the program in the past year, but it knows there are still plenty of loopholes.

A chain is as strong as its weakest link. The unmanned post might be the one directly on the route of enemy planes.

Need 5,000 Spotters

The division says it needs 5,000 civilian volunteers, in addition to the 4,000 already in the program, to put all its posts on a 24-hour basis and thus provide complete coverage.

And it says complete coverage is the only safe coverage. All of New Jersey has been designated a target area by the U. S. Department of Defense. There is no part of the state where good ground observation is more important than in any other part.

There are parts, however, where it is difficult for the civil defense division to find enough volunteers. These are the rural areas, not because rural people are less civil defense conscious, but because there are simply less people to go around.

Under ideal conditions, an enemy attack would be thwarted like this:

A ground observer near High Point park sees a four-engine plane, flying low and southeast, he phones a report to the Air Force filter center at Trenton. The filter center checks and finds no such plane should be in the area. Interceptors are sent from McGuire Air Force base to find and identify the strange plane. (A dozen such missions are flown every day.)

If no other ground observer reports come in the interceptors may be able to find the stranger. However, other posts report the plane is tracked on the filter center map, and the interceptors are directed to it by radio. When they find it, they identify it as an enemy and shoot it down.

In the meantime, anti-aircraft batteries in the Trenton-Philadelphia area, the probable target, have been alerted.

Because there's one other factor. The Air Force estimates that if a determined attack is made 70 per cent of the enemy planes will get through the interceptor screen.

Governor's Mystery Trip
Governor Alfred E. Driscoll took a boat trip last week and before he got home a lot of people were wondering what had happened to him.

The matter was simple enough. The governor and his two sons, Alfred, 16, and Peter, 13, wanted to take their 14-foot motorboat up to their summer home in Maine. So they decided to voyage up the coast from New Brunswick to Plymouth, Mass., and have it carried overland from there.

Attempts to check on the governor's location during the five-day trip met with little success. Over the week-end the trip became a "mystery."

By Monday, stories were being detailed "Somewhere off the coast of New England" and "Driscoll at sea."

Some reports pictured the voyage as a missing by Monday night, but Driscoll himself resolved all the questions by walking into the state house Tuesday morning. He told newsmen he and his sons had a very enjoyable and peaceful voyage, reached Plymouth without difficulty, and he had flown back to New Jersey completely unaware of all the fuss going on.

Study Programs For New Inlet, Bigger Pavilion

Sea Bright Beach

Earnings Topping

1952's by $5,000

SEA BRIGHT—The municipal beach is paying off so well—with income reported $5,000 ahead of last year's at this time—that plans are being studied to enlarge the borough's pavilion before next summer.

And the federal and state governments are reported to be gaining interest in local plans to promote a project to cut through an inlet from the Shrewsbury river to the Atlantic.

Talk about these proposals featured Tuesday night's meeting of the mayor and council, although details on both remain to be worked out.

Report Many Visitors

Mayor George H. Krauss said council should get ready before the 1954 budget is drawn up appropriation recommendations for the extension of the pavilion. He said this after Councilman Kenneth Anderson reported $22,260 already has been taken in this year's beach revenue, and Amherse Nelson, beach manager, said the pavilion did not have space enough to accommodate all the visitors who wanted locker space over the busy week-ends.

It was reported that over 60 additional parking spaces were made available in a just completed job to relocate the beach bulkhead nearer the ocean. Cost of the work was $350, money that will be made up in fees.

Councilman Ralph W. Lawrence said he had been over to understand in private talks he has had that a study of an inlet for Sea Bright will be included in a federal-state coastal survey which is already in the planning stages. Mr. Lawrence is chairman of the inlet committee of the Sea Bright Lions club, which has been promoting a local inlet for many years.

Tells of $35,000 Program

Mr. Lawrence said he had been informed that Senator Robert C. Hendrickson is preparing to introduce a bill under which Washington would contribute $50,000 for that survey—of the Jersey coast south to Atlantic City. He said the state is ready to spend $35,000 as its share of the cost of the study. This came out after the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development said in a letter it had no money this year to carry out another all-costs-paid jetty repair program like the one recently completed here. The borough had asked that a new $50,000 repair job be authorized.

Of this Mr. Lawrence said he had talked to the official who wrote the state's letter and was told that while, as the writer reported, money immediately available is only for local-state "match funds," more direct aid funds may be available next year. The borough has been seeking to put its beach protection barriers in good order to retard erosion and build back lost sand.

Guard Promotes C.W.O. McKevitt

The promotion of James F. McKevitt to Chief Warant Officer in the New Jersey National Guard has been announced by Lieut. Col. Hans A. Kessler, commanding officer of the 644th Tank Battalion, 50th Armored Division.

Mr. McKevitt's promotion follows his recent assignment as personnel officer on the staff of Col. Kessler. He has been with the 644th since it was organized in November, 1946, after World War II. He enlisted as a private and served in various noncommissioned officer capacities, including first sergeant, until he was appointed warrant officer, junior grade, in May, 1950.

Prior to World War II, Mr. McKevitt served in the 102d Cavalry, New Jersey National Guard. During the war, he served in the New Jersey State Guard, an organization of troops enlisted by the state to replace National Guard troops called to federal service. He was at one time commanding officer of the Ashbury Park unit of the State Guard and when he resigned his commission to enlist as a private in the newly organized National Guard he was a major in the 644th.

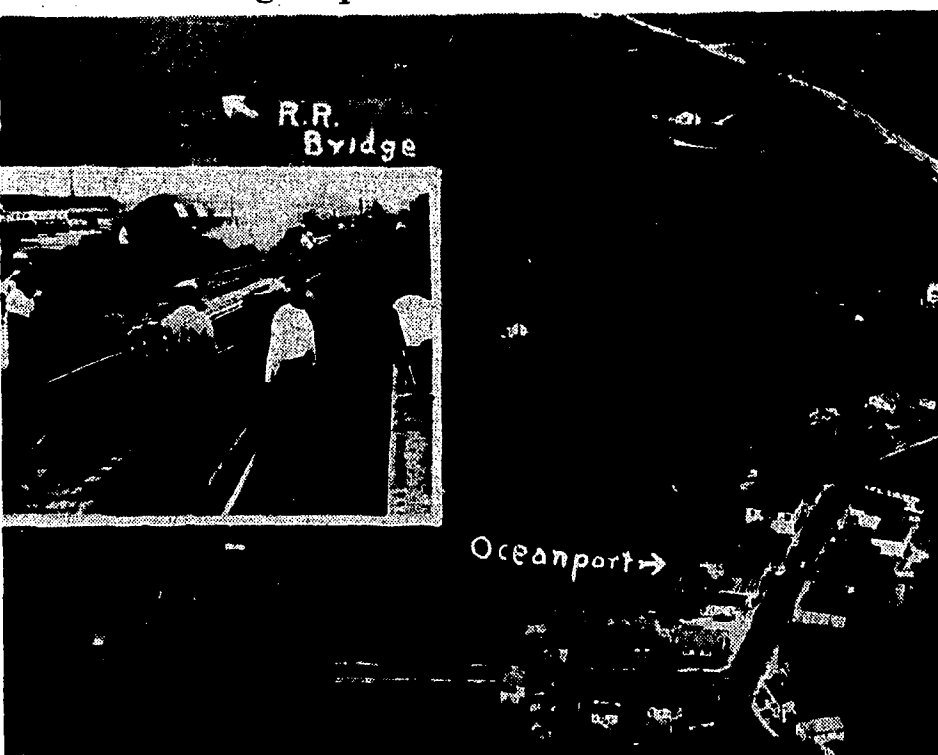

CWO McKevitt is married and resides at 525 Laurel ave., West Allenhurst. In civilian life he is employed as chief adjuster of the Trenton branch of the Loyalty Group Insurance company.

Dr. Berman to Open Office at Keansburg

KEANSBURG—Dr. Ralph E. Berman, assistant medical director of the Bolek Memorial Hospital, association at Charleston, W. Va., since May, 1949, will open an office for the practice of medicine at 141 Main st., Monday.

Dr. Berman was born at Backley, W. Va. He received a bachelor of science degree from the University of West Virginia and his M. D. from the medical school of the University of Virginia. Dr. Berman interned at St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburgh, and served as a captain in the Medical Corps until 1949.

Railroad Bridge Opened for First Time in Six Years

Arrow at upper left indicates New York and Long Branch railroad bridge over Oceanport creek which was opened last Thursday for the first time since 1946 to permit the Fun-Kin-Ball, 26-foot cabin boat owned and piloted by Frank Callahan of Oceanport, to pass from the Shrewsbury river into the creek.

Entrance to the creek can be made only by passing under the bridge. The railroad company, since the bridge had not been used in so long, had placed solid track across it. Removal of the track to permit opening of the bridge required about two hours' work by a railroad crew (inset). About 12 years ago the railroad company and the borough reached an agreement under which four hours' notice must be given for the bridge to be opened.

Mr. Callahan, who said he had been mooring his boat at Wood's boat works in Portaupeck about four miles from the bridge, said he had a spot picked out for a mooring in Oceanport creek and wanted to see if the depth was adequate. He said he called railroad authorities Wednesday of last week and told them he wanted to go through at 8 p. m. Thursday.

He was told to notify the dispatcher, he added. Later he was asked by a railroad official if he could come through at 7 p. m. instead of 8 because of train schedules. Mr. Callahan agreed.

An application by the railroad to close the bridge permanently was opposed recently by borough council. The plan also is being fought by the Oceanport Waterways committee, headed by Col. Clarence E. Lovejoy.

The borough planning board has under study a proposal to construct a landscaped marine basin in the area Mr. Callahan has selected to moor his boat.

Meyner Opens County Campaign With Rally Here Wednesday

Robert B. Meyner, Democratic candidate for governor, will launch his Monmouth county campaign in earnest Wednesday when he makes an intensive, 14-hour visit of the county. Mayor Katharine Eklus Whitely, of this place and Commissioner Paul Kiernan of Long Branch, co-chairmen, said today.

The tour will begin with an 8 a. m. breakfast at Freehold and will be highlighted by a county night rally for municipal leaders, county committeemen and party workers at Molly Pitcher hotel. In between, Mr. Meyner will visit the southern portion of the county, meet with women voters, farmers and others.

"Bob Meyner Day," as it is being called, is primarily arranged to permit the 45-year-old Phillipsburg attorney to meet municipal leaders and members of the county committee to acquaint them with the issues. Shore independents and Republicans "interested in restoration of the two-party system at the county and state levels" have been invited to meet the candidate, according to Mayor White and Mr. Kiernan, and obtain "first-hand information on such issues as Republican corruption as revealed by the legislative investigation into the ousting of Nelson Stamler, Republican prosecutor of Bergen, school aid, the Republican caucus, farm problems, beach erosion, highway development and others."

For this purpose, Mr. Meyner will have a press conference at 11:30 a. m. at the Berkeley Cartier hotel, Asbury Park, where, at 12:30 a. m. a luncheon in his honor will be held by a committee of business and professional men and women. Chairmen of this portion of the program will be Councilman Vincent P. Keuper, Asbury Park councilman, and Stanley Cohen, Long Branch attorney, and Henry Glordano, candidate for freeholder.

The Navy veteran and state senator from Warren county today invited county voters of all political stripes to feel free to discuss the issues with him. At the same time, he expressed hope that the press would subject him to a "thorough cross examination" in order that they may keep the "electorate intelligently informed as to the specific issues which are important to New Jersey's future."

The Freehold breakfast, to take place at the American hotel under the auspices of the Manalapan-

Freehold Democratic club, has been arranged by Stephen Remsen, candidate for freeholder. This will be followed by visits to Manalapan, Sea Girt, Spring Lake, and other municipalities in the southern part of the county. Bradley Beach, Belmar and Long Branch will also be visited.

Prior to the Red Bank rally, Mr. Meyner will address a Farmers' Cooperative meeting in Freehold. Mrs. Gustave J. Freret of Fair Haven, in charge of women's activities, has issued a blanket invitation to women voters to meet the candidate.

Others on the committee are Mrs. Cecile Norton, Sea Bright; Mrs. Mary Jones, Red Bank; Mayor Solomon Lautman, Deal; Frank Dalton, Neptune; Glen Swader, Manalapan; Samuel Fisher, Jr., Middletown, candidate for the assembly; John Pettito, Red Bank; and Harry Bennett, Port Monmouth, also an assembly candidate. Mr. Pettito will be chairman of the Red Bank county meeting, assisted by Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Rita Douglas, president of the Red Women's Democratic club. All candidates will speak briefly at the Red Bank rally prior to the major address by Mr. Meyner. A special reserved section will be set aside in the hotel ballroom for all county committeemen and women.

Cotts Bottling Rents Warehouse

Mrs. Ruth Myrah, manager of the Massar Agency of 9 Canal st., reports that Cotts Bottling Co., Inc., has rented on a long-term lease an office and warehouse from W. B. Mandell at 1238 Corlies ave., Neptune. This event marks another step in the expansion of Cotts Beverage distribution.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bott of Rutherford have sold their home at 70 Cayuga ave., Portaupeck, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jarocki of Pine Island, N. Y.

Mrs. and Mrs. Walter Nygard of Clemons, N. C., have rented their home at 80 Locust ave., West Long Branch, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wilder on a long-term lease. Both transactions were negotiated by the Massar Agency here.

Frank Perry Buys Choice River Rd. Commercial Site

Tony E. Hunting of Bonus Agency Reports Five Sales He Made

FAIR HAVEN—Tony E. Hunting, associate of the Russell M. Bonus agency here, reports the sale to Frank Perry of the Bernard Johnson property located adjacent to Mr. Perry's present place of business on River rd. Mr. Perry's plans are to build a modern store on the property with a large parking area in the rear with an exit on Navesink ave. The property is in Fair Haven's fast growing "shopping center."

Dr. and Mrs. Craig Crenshaw of Red Bank have purchased the large Colonial home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore E. Hall. Located on Silverbrook rd., Shrewsbury, the house consists of seven large rooms and three baths. The Crenshaws are associated with the United States government. After minor changes, the Crenshaws will take possession of their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall have purchased a new residence in Lincroft. Another transaction was the sale of a new house on Third st., Fair Haven, built by Arthur Baker. The house consists of five rooms, tiled bath, modern kitchen and full cellar. The buyer, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Johnson, who took occupancy of their new home July 1, are conducting two bedrooms in the large expansion attic. Mr. Johnson will retire in 1954 after serving 35 years service with the Pullman company.

Mr. and Mrs. John Finnegan sold their home on Salem lane, Little Silver, through Mr. Hunting. The house, an attractive one and one-half story Cape Cod, consists of five rooms and tiled bath with a complete play room in the basement. The grounds are beautifully landscaped.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunham of New Brunswick have purchased a "Knollwood" dwelling built by the Allen Brothers in 1951, from Helen M. Entrikin. The house is of Cape Cod architecture and contains four and one-half rooms and bath. A glass enclosed breezeway leads to a one-car attached garage. A large flagstone patio in the rear of the breezeway affords a very pretty setting for the summer months.

Council Drops Plan to Rezone Forman Street

Application for Liquor License Transfer Withdrawn

FAIR HAVEN—A proposal to change that part of Forman st., between Smith and Cedar sts., from a residential zone to a business zone was dropped by the mayor and council Monday night on recommendation of the planning board.

The change was included in an amendment to the borough's zoning law. Although the Forman st. proposal was dropped, the remainder of the amendment which redesignates certain areas in R-4 zones, calling for 75-foot lot frontages as part of R-5 zones requiring 50-foot frontages was left intact. A public hearing on the ordinance will be continued at council's next meeting.

Purpose of the inclusion of the R-4 areas in R-5 zones, according to the planning board, is to conform zoning to existing conditions and remove the necessity for property owners to apply for a variance when they wish to erect or remodel their homes. Under the ordinance, a person owning a 50-foot lot in a 75-foot zone had to obtain a variance to add to or otherwise alter his home.

At a public hearing on the measure at the June 22 meeting, a group of Forman st. residents, headed by Harry Kniffen, objected to the re-designation of Forman st. on grounds that it would lessen their property values.

An application for approval of the transfer of the Club 608 liquor license from Fred Maffeo to Lucy Genovese was withdrawn as council was about to act on a motion to reject the application. William R. Blair, Jr., borough attorney, explained council would have to reject the application because it didn't contain in writing the consent of Mr. Maffeo, the licensee, or a waiver of tax by the Alcoholic Tax Bureau. Julius Goiden, representing the applicant, asked permission to withdraw the application so there would be no record of rejection. His request was granted.

Herbert C. Hawkins, president of the fire company, told council the company had abandoned plans for a firemen's fair this year. He added the company at a meeting last week considered the possibility of holding a fair without gambling, but reached the conclusion a fair without the usual gambling would not be worthwhile. He stated the present financial condition of the company would not permit a venture where there is a chance of failure.

The company, said Mr. Hawkins, will canvass the borough and solicit funds for expenses for the coming year. By motion, council granted permission to canvass the community. Mayor Denise followed up council's action by promising the company a $25 donation.

Joseph J. Soan, borough auditor, in giving the annual audit report, said the borough is in "excellent financial condition." Tax collections last year, he said, were very good, with 91.54 per cent of the taxes having been paid. The auditor explained that of the tax dollar, 32.35 per cent is for municipal operation; 47.90 for schools, and 19.75 is paid to the county.

Council directed the police department to keep children out of the borough dump at the foot of Brown's lane. The action was taken after Councilman Tony Hunting reported that youngsters of all ages go into the dump. He added the dump is "full of rats and some child is going to be badly bitten." Mr. Hunting pointed out conditions there are very unsanitary and for health reasons children should be kept out of the place.

Piccola Home Bought by Sugars

EATONTOWN—The Theodore W. McGinness real estate and insurance agency of 21 Broad st. announces the sale of a modern three bedroom ranch house at 36 Delaware ave., West Long Branch, to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sugar of Eatontown.

This home was built for Mr. and Mrs. Sugar by Anthony J. Piccola, builder of Shrewsbury. It features a large living room, dining room and line paneled kitchen, three bedrooms and tile bath and one-car attached garage. The Sugars have taken possession of their home.

Another sale by the McGinness agency is that of a three-bedroom ranch home in the Ellikwood section of Eatontown to Capt. and Mrs. Robert Caughman. The home was built from plans by Allen Brothers, Inc. of Fair Haven. Capt. Caughman is serving with the Signal Corps at an overseas post.

Mr. McGinness has also sold to Mr. and Mrs. John Dells of Eatontown a 1/2 acre plot in the Stirrup lane section of Eatontown, formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Smock, Jr., of Sea Girt.

Another Stirrup lane plot was sold for Col. and Mrs. Wesley C. Franklin in Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Denegris of New Shrewsbury. Joining the list of properties managed by the McGinness agency this month were those of Capt. Donald W. Boston, 11 Eton pl., Eatontown, to Capt. and Mrs. Emmett Arnold; the property of Maj. Owen Blankenship to Mr. and Mrs. David K. Barton at 31 Campbell dr., Eatontown; the property of Col. Griffin L. Davis at 6 Farm lane, Eatontown, to Capt. and Mrs. John Pierce, and the property of Col. Philip Huston at 5 Farm lane, Eatontown, to Capt. Thomas R. Dolan.

Board Sets Aug. 6 for Referendum On Purchase of Three Properties

Music Circus to Operate Seven Nights a Week

NEPTUNE—The Neptune Music Circus will operate seven nights a week for the balance of the season, Abbe Vogel, business manager, announced yesterday. Under the new arrangement, the final performance of "Student Prince," the current show, will be given Sunday night. Mr. Vogel said he has received many requests for Sunday night performances. The Saturday matinee will be discontinued, he said.

Keansburg Bank Sets New Record

William C. Johnson, president of the Keansburg National bank, announces that at the close of business Monday, July 13, the total bank deposits had reached $7,100,000. This is the first time in the history of the bank that the deposits have reached that sum.

Money on Hand
Mr. Canzona stated the bank has money on hand to buy the properties and the cost of their acquisition wouldn't be added to the borough's tax load. The board, he explained, received $34,000 from the federal government for the education of Fort Monmouth children and children attending Red Bank schools whose parents work at Fort Monmouth. The money was not included in the budget, he added, because when the budget was made up there was no certainty the money would be available.

Pointing to the need for the additional land, Mr. Canzona explained the high school additions now under construction are being built on the former playground, and more play area is necessary. The state department of education, he added, recommends 100 square feet of playground space for each pupil. Even with the acquisition of the new property, that figure would not be met. The president pointed out the Middle States Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges has recommended to the board that it obtain additional play area. It is imperative, he added, to have more land.

House to be Used
Mr. Canzona emphasized the ten-room Spinning house would not be torn down but would be used for administrative and supervisory offices. Use of the house, he said, would free three classrooms in the Junior high school building now being used as offices for classroom use. To build three classrooms would cost a total of $90,000 or $30,000 each, explained Paul Young, district clerk. Dr. M. Gregg Hibbs, superintendent of schools, pointed out the offices were not included in the high school additions because the board felt additional classrooms were the primary need.

Pointing to the price to be paid for the Spinning property, Mr. Canzona explained Mrs. Spinning operates a boarding house there from which she derives an income of about $240 a month.

Teacher Hired
On recommendation of Dr. Hibbs, the board authorized employment of John R. Heycock of Le-moyne, Pa., as a seventh grade teacher at the River Street school and assistant varsity basketball coach. A graduate of Shippensburg State Teachers college, Mr. Heycock will receive a salary of $3,000 plus $200 for his basketball duties.

Mr. Young reported he and James Davidheiser, Middletown township district clerk, appeared recently in Washington before the house committee on labor and education to extend federal aid to schools in federally impacted areas. A letter from Mr. Canzona was read at the hearing, he added. The bill to extend the aid has passed the house, Mr. Young said, and is expected to be passed by the senate.

Dr. Hibbs in his report stated the average salary of Red Bank teachers for the 1953-54 school year will be $4,296.85 as compared to $4,069.23 for the 1952-53 school year. The average experience of teachers in the Red Bank system, he said, is 11.33 years.

Turn Down Township
A request from the Atlantic township board of education to permit two township students to attend the Middlesex county vocational school was turned down in line with the board's policy requiring such applications to be made before the budget is made up. A request by the Atlantic township board to permit a boy who attended the vocational school last year to return to Red Bank high school was granted.

No action was taken on a resolution from the Monmouth county council, Veterans of Foreign Wars, protesting the scheduling of classes on Washington's birthday and other holidays. Dr. Hibbs pointed out that programs held in school on such holidays have bore effect on youngsters from a day off. Mr. Young stated Red Bank schools were closed all day Washington's birthday this year.

The board granted permission to the Garibaldi society to use the athletic field for a fireworks display Columbus day.

4-H Club Fair Opens Tomorrow

FREEHOLD—A year's work on such projects as poultry, livestock, raising in both flowers and vegetables, forestry, cooking, canning and sewing will be exhibited at the Raceway tomorrow and Saturday by Monmouth county 4-H club members. The latest in farm machinery and equipment will also be displayed.

William C. Lynn, secretary of the New Jersey Association of Agricultural fairs, will officiate at the grand opening at 1:30 p. m. A parade, open to all the youth of the county, starts at 2 o'clock. Bike safety will be stressed. The Central Jersey 4-H beef cattle judging contest is set for 4 o'clock.

A square dance has been arranged for tomorrow night, starting at 8 o'clock. Bill Erickson of Trenton will be the caller. Saturday's events include a county 4-H beef show at noon; dairy show at 1 p. m.; tractor operator's contest at 4:30; rodeo at 7:30 and parade starting at 8:15. Girls in the sewing projects will model their clothing in the revue. A six-piece orchestra will provide music for the revue and for dancing later.

The board of education, at a meeting Tuesday night, set Thursday, Aug. 6, as the date for a referendum in which the board will seek voters' approval for the purchase of three tracts of land adjacent to the high school property. The properties in question are owned by Mrs. Mary R. Spinning, 56 Branch ave., Miss Edith Walling, 18 Tower Hill ave., and Harold Potter, 30 Tower Hill ave. The Spinning property, 60 feet wide by 318 feet deep, and the Potter and Walling tracts, each 100 by 60 feet, would add 60 feet to the high school property along the entire south boundary.

Edmund J. Canzona, president, said the board has entered into an agreement with Mrs. Spinning to purchase her property for $22,000. Contracts are being drawn for the purchase of the other properties, at $2,000 each, he added. All contracts will be subject to approval in the referendum.

Money on Hand
Mr. Canzona stated the bank has money on hand to buy the properties and the cost of their acquisition wouldn't be added to the borough's tax load. The board, he explained, received $34,000 from the federal government for the education of Fort Monmouth children and children attending Red Bank schools whose parents work at Fort Monmouth. The money was not included in the budget, he added, because when the budget was made up there was no certainty the money would be available.

Pointing to the need for the additional land, Mr. Canzona explained the high school additions now under construction are being built on the former playground, and more play area is necessary. The state department of education, he added, recommends 100 square feet of playground space for each pupil. Even with the acquisition of the new property, that figure would not be met. The president pointed out the Middle States Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges has recommended to the board that it obtain additional play area. It is imperative, he added, to have more land.

House to be Used
Mr. Canzona emphasized the ten-room Spinning house would not be torn down but would be used for administrative and supervisory offices. Use of the house, he said, would free three classrooms in the Junior high school building now being used as offices for classroom use. To build three classrooms would cost a total of $90,000 or $30,000 each, explained Paul Young, district clerk. Dr. M. Gregg Hibbs, superintendent of schools, pointed out the offices were not included in the high school additions because the board felt additional classrooms were the primary need.

Pointing to the price to be paid for the Spinning property, Mr. Canzona explained Mrs. Spinning operates a boarding house there from which she derives an income of about $240 a month.

 "Life is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Christian Science churches this Sunday. It will be shown how man can progressively demonstrate health, happiness and longevity.
 The Golden Text is from John: "As the Father hath life in himself, so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself." (8:26).
 Readings from the King James version of the Bible will include: "... like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life. Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord." (Rom. 6:4, 11).
 Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy state: "A sinful, sick, and dying mortal is not the likeness of God, the perfect and eternal... The understanding that Life is God, Spirit, lengthens our days by strengthening our trust in the deathless reality of Life, its almightiness and immortality." (Pp. 292, 487).

The Governor Explains Mystery Trip

Governor Alfred E. Driscoll, center, is interviewed by newsmen in his office at Trenton, Tuesday, after returning from a five-day surprise jaunt to New England in an outboard motorboat. Driscoll and his two sons, Alfred, 16, and Peter, 13, slipped out of the state last Thursday in a 14-foot boat headed for the governor's vacation home at Lake Onawa, deep in the Maine woods. The secret trip became a much publicized venture as newsmen tried unsuccessfully to locate the trio. The governor's associates said he made the trip to deliver the boat to the secluded vacation retreat.

Snakes in Bathtub

Tops Chamber Requests

FAIR HAVEN—Ray E. Taylor, executive vice president of the Red Bank Community Chamber of Commerce, has received some strange requests. A recent one from Mrs. Elhel Chandler of Fair Haven, however, topped them all. Mrs. Chandler called the chamber to say there was a snake in her bathtub. Mr. Taylor called Mayor Edgar V. Denise, who referred the matter to police. Meanwhile, a neighbor disposed of the snake. According to one expert opinion, snakes sometimes enter houses through pipes running to septic tanks.

'Meyner for Governor Clubs' Start $1 Drive

William Robert Warwick has been named chairman of the Monmouth county "Meyner for Governor Clubs" with headquarters at his law offices, 184 Broadway, Long Branch.

A dollar membership drive to raise television funds for the gubernatorial nominee, Robert B. Meyner, through these clubs which are being formed in each of the 21 counties, was announced yesterday by the Democratic state chairman, Charles R. Howell.

The campaign was inspired, Rep. Howell said, by Brown S. Hallgreen, an 80-year-old resident of Trenton, who sent in a cash contribution of one dollar with a note suggesting that "a million citizens interested in a good government would be pleased to have the privilege of giving one dollar each. That should be the limit."

Card Mailed on 13th Received on 13th, Too

FREEHOLD TOWNSHIP — Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Jones of Elton-Adolphus rd. here this week read a card from their nephew that was mailed on the 13th and received on the 13th—four years and five months later.

Addressed correctly and bearing correct postage, the card was a valentine from their nephew, D. L. Wheeler, who on Feb. 13, 1949, mailed the card from Upper Montclair. The envelope bore the cryptic stamp, "See Letter Carrier." No other explanation for the tardy delivery was made.

Their nephew now lives in Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Jones said they'll telephone him to let him know his card arrived.

Reports Read For Chorus Board

FAIR HAVEN—Committee reports were read and policy discussed at a meeting of the board of directors of Monmouth Civic Chorus Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacLean on Grange Walk.

Attending were William Gordon Pagdin, conductor; Millard Sierk, president; Mrs. Edward Lackas, vice president; Miss Marjorie Croot, secretary; Oscar Hennings, treasurer; Miss Betty MacIntosh, financial secretary; Edward C. Minckelman and Mrs. MacLean, conductor's committee members, and Mrs. Esther Chark, publicity director.

Sweden was an important factor in the settlement of what is now the United States, having founded a colony on the Delaware river in 1638.

WE'RE GLAD TO MOVE FOR THE PARKWAY!

Everything's growing down this way. And one of the things that will contribute greatly to the growth and success of this area is the Garden State Parkway.

But naturally with growth of any kind, you have growing pains and problems. We've got one.

For because of the Parkway coming through, we're going to have to move some gas mains to get out of its way. Naturally we want to do this without interrupting your service or inconveniencing you in any way.

So next Tuesday, July 21, at 2:30 in the morning, we're going to start moving the mains. If everything goes according to schedule, we should be through by 4:30 in the afternoon, in just 14 hours. And you won't even know we've been working on the mains. There'll be no change in your gas service.

However, we plan to have an emergency supply of manufactured gas on hand, so that if something upsets our schedule, we can put the manufactured gas into the lines and keep right on supplying you with gas. In any case, there will be no interruption in your gas service.

If we do have to put the manufactured gas in the lines, there will be a slight change in the color of your flame. It will be orange in color, instead of the blue flame. Otherwise, everything will be the same. Whatever happens, you'll have gas. And we'll all have growth.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Martin Smith, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Plosky and children, Butch and Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Smith, Jr., and children, Timmy, Barbara Lynn and Christine, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller and son Donny, Miss Vivien Owens, Miss Loretta Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Taber and children, and Mrs. Rose Cardo.

Holmdel

The Ladies' auxiliary of the Holmdel fire company will hold an outdoor covered dish picnic Saturday on the grounds of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Phillips. Auxiliary members and their families will attend. On the committee are Mrs. George Schanck, Mrs. Robert Voorhees, Mrs. Wesley Buck and Mrs. Phillips.

The first birthday of Leola Buck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Buck, was celebrated Monday.

Harry Doty is on a business trip to Chicago, Ill., this week. The fire company was called out Monday to a brush fire at Troutville's on hwy. 34.

Members of the township committee attended a state municipalities' dinner meeting at Rutgers university last week. Dr. Mason Gross was the speaker. A tour by bus was taken of the university grounds. Attending from here were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ely, Mr. and Mrs. John Mount, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Stillwell, Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Phillips.

Flowers placed at the Sunday morning service at the Holmdel church were given by Dr. and Mrs. Robert P. Lawrence.

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid society, announced for July, has been postponed to Aug. 11, at Fellowship hall. The sermon topic by Rev. Wallace L. Gallup for Sunday will be "The Penalties of Life."

Italian children have three Christmas—Dec. 25; St. Nicholas day which fall on Dec. 6 and Epiphany, Jan. 6, on all of which gifts are given.

Giants Trim Eagles, 5-3, In Shore Loop

Local Nine Leads Circuit With 5-1 Record; Leonardo F. C. Trims Freehold

The Red Bank Giants managed to hold a slim lead in the Jersey Shore Baseball league after the "Jints" edged Atlantic Highlands Eagles, 5-3, Sunday afternoon.

Red Bank scored single runs in the seventh and eighth frames which resulted in the victory, and gave Manager Herman Aschettino's nine its fifth triumph in six outings. The Eagles have lost five games in seven starts.

Errors helped the Red Bank cause as the Giants chalked up tallies in the first and fifth frames. When the Eagles closed the gap to 3-2 in the bottom of the sixth Red Bank added tallies in the next two innings.

Jackie Lewis singled in the seventh and stole second and third. Hank Newton and Ralph Mazzucca walked and Harlan Neighton hit a long fly ball out to left field, which allowed Lewis to dent the rubber.

In the eighth chapter Relief Chucker Stout was hit by a pitched ball and Cliff Simpson received a free ticket to first. Lewis' second single loaded the base paths and then Stout scored the run when Newton walked to force in the run.

The Eagles' late scoring spree came in the sixth when Eddie Keyes singled and after Tom Harrington went out, George Cherry followed with a single. Ken Reed forced Cherry and Herb Reed was hit by a pitched ball. A single by Sonny Gaskin sent Reed and Keyes over the rubber. Stout came on in relief at this point and forced Mulligan to pop out.

The Eagles added a lone marker in the seventh as Spencer Keyes singled, went to second on an overthrow, and scored after two were out as Tom Harrington singled.

Field Club Wins, 10-4 Leonardo Field club held the runner-up spot in the loop by trimming Freehold, 10-4. The Field clubbers came up with a big four-run first inning and after this start Leonardo had no trouble conquering the county seat nine.

The Field club rolled up a 7-0 lead before Freehold found the plate to score four runs in the last two innings to avoid suffering a shutout.

"Smokey" Stover was tagged for eight hits by the Merchants, three of which were batted out by Tom Berton. Stover fanned eight batters and walked nine.

In other contests Long Branch trimmed Adelphi, 10-6 and Whitesville took a 1-0 measure over Neptune.

Learning to Swim

Track Patrons Hike Betting 10.8 Per Cent

Attendance Jumps 8 Per Cent After 25 Racing Days

MONMOUTH PARK—Goals of a million spectators for its 50-day summer meeting and a mutuels handle of $80,000,000 seemed attainable as Monmouth Park took stock after 25 days of thoroughbred competition, exactly one-half of the current season.

For the first half of the season 414,455 fans have filed through the turnstiles for a daily average of 16,578 against 380,283 and a daily average of 15,211 for the same period in 1952, an increase of eight per cent. In wagering, Monmouth Park patrons have backed their choices to the extent of $3,042,204, a daily mark of $1,381,692 compared to $30,709,559 a year ago when an average was $1,238,382. Here the increase is 10.8 per cent. Continuation of such gains for the remaining 25 days indicates around 950,000 fans and $78,500,000 in play, although the second half has always been the best and, in previous years, the increase considerably larger.

Keen competition among owners, trainers and jockeys has enlivened the present meeting and added much to the enjoyment of Monmouth's patrons. An indication of just how sharp the battle lines are drawn is shown by the fact that already 271 owners have shared in the purses, 86 different trainers have saddled winners and 35 jockeys have scored victories. Among the stakes performers, Jonett Shouse's Cinda alone has been able to win two added money events, the Oceanport and Regret Handicaps.

At the halfway mark J. L. McKnight, whose stable topped the money winners a year ago, again heads the list with $26,450. Shouse is second with $20,709. J. M. Roebline third with $20,255. James Cox Brady fourth with $20,225 and William G. Helis, Jr. rounding out the big five with $28,200. Jimmy Stout and Sam Boulmetis, both veterans of the saddle, are engaged in one of the hottest contests in years. Stout, leader at Monmouth three straight seasons and four of the seven previous years, scored 22 victories in 25 days.

to lead Sam by one. Joe Culmone and Roger LeBlanc are tied for third with 15 while next in line are Charley Burr and Charles O'Brien with 13.

Trainer Sidney Jacobs has a bit more edge in the conditioning race with ten winners saddled against seven each for J. Bowers Bond and W. R. Mitchell. Mitchell was the 1952 Monmouth leader. The percentage of winning favorites during the first half of the meeting was 30.5 as 61 choices scored in 200 events.

Timely Notes On The Great Outdoors

BY STEW VAN VLIET

STRIPED BASS BILL A-104 DUE TO BECOME LAW

Never before in the history of the state of New Jersey have so many sportsmen and generations yet to come, owed such a lasting debt of gratitude to one man, William J. Mackey, Jr., of Middletown, president of the New Jersey League of Salt Water Anglers.

According to Mackey, Gov. Driscoll is expected to sign on July 21 the Beadleston-Salber Bill A-104, which will eliminate all netting of striped bass in the inshore waters of the coast.

It seems like only yesterday when, following the reports of the slaughter of wintering striped bass in the waters of Great Bay and Mullica river areas, that a small group of determined sportsmen met in the office of William S. Frank of Shrewsbury, and the New Jersey League of Salt Water Anglers was born.

From this meager beginning, and against the greatest possible odds, the league, under the dynamic personality and leadership of Bill Mackey, grew in numbers, overcoming all obstacles in its path until today emerges victorious in one of the greatest conservation and economic victories of all times.

FLUKE AND OXYGEN CAPSULES

We stopped in at Jack Cohen's tackle shop on Shrewsbury avenue, Red Bank, the other day and told him that we intended to take a crack at some good eating fluke. Jack asked us what we intended to use for bait and when we told him killees he gave us a couple of oxygen capsules to try out.

HEAVIEST RUN OF FLUKE IN YEARS

We are in the midst of one of the heaviest runs of fluke that the Jersey coast has enjoyed in many a moon. Combined with ideal weather, it has produced the greatest turn out of salt water anglers we have ever witnessed.

rounded the "Point of the Hook" aboard the Sandy, out of Leonardo Yacht Basin, Capt. Bill Frank of Shrewsbury, there were boats in mass concentrations as far as the eye could see.

There were rowboats, out-boards, in-boards, U-drives, charters, party boats from Monmouth county yacht basins, and the big head boats loaded to capacity from the metropolitan areas. We even saw an aquaplane in the tide rip at the "Point of the Hook." Whether he was trolling a fishing line we were unable to determine.

We are at a loss to explain just why we are enjoying this exceptionally heavy run of fluke this season. As a rule fluke are not considered a "cycle fish," such as bluefish, tuna, bonito and others. They are always more or less plentiful along our coast.

OVER FISHING PUTS MANY FOUND NETS OUT OF BUSINESS

The only explanation we have to offer for the great numbers of fluke this season is that over fishing has put a large number of pound nets out of business. Out of some 30 or more which for years have reached their tentacles out into the ocean, from Cape May to Sea Bright, working the year and the clock around, until the supply of coastwise fishes has been reduced to the point where many of them have had to go into bankruptcy.

So today only some six or so remain, thereby allowing many thousands of migrating fishes, including fluke, to reach their natural feeding and breeding grounds.

You may recall that we had one of the greatest runs of ling and whiting in years. We attribute much of this to the reduced number of nets. Ling and whiting provide one of the greatest sources of food for bluefish, tuna, albacore and other species. Therefore, we look for one of the best fishing seasons we have had in many years.

BLUES ARRIVE—CHUMMERS GO INTO ACTION

Advanced scouts of the vast schools of bluefish, which have been located off Barnegat ridge, have at last arrived. They are located between the Shrewsbury Rocks and the old rim of the Mud Hole, where night and day chumming has gotten off to a flying start. Catches have been running well over the century mark.

At this writing they are not inclined to strike a trolled lure. However, within the next week or ten days they will move into the area of the Shrewsbury Rocks, where they will remain for the balance of the season. That is the time when the trollers will get in their good work, and some fast and furious action can be expected.

WHAT, NO HELPERS?

Trout, salmon and spinning rods played the major roles on a recent bluefishing trip into the Mud Hole. Pete Irving, Ed Febbo, Bill Sauter and Ray O'Neill, Sr., all members of Plumbers local No. 181, of Red Bank, made a trip aboard the charter Yippee II, Capt. Ray O'Neill, Jr., out of Highlands Municipal Yacht Basin, to cap their skills against the crapping choppers of the sea, using the lightest tackle possible.

In talking to Ray, Sr., he told us that it was one of the finest days' sport he has ever enjoyed. He used a light salmon rod, light line and no drag on his reel.

"We boated 39 big blues and had any number of strikes," said Ray, "but it was hard to set the hook with such light tackle."

"Sharks gave us a lot of excitement and trouble by stripping off lines. Later in the day I turned my rod over to the skipper, who tied into a big shark, which was too much for the light rod and it snapped."

"From now on it is light tackle for me. You may not come in with several hundred fish to brag about to your friends but I would rather land one with light tackle than a dozen on a heavy rod."

We might add that we heartily agree with Ray, and are anxious to get a crack at them with our new Mitchell Companion Rod and Atlantic Spinning reel.

62-POUND EIGHT OUNCE STRIPER LEADS SCHAEFER TOURNAMENT

The heaviest striped bass to be entered in the Seventh Annual R. J. Schaefer Salt Water contest weighed 62 pounds eight ounces, and was caught by Edward Cook, Jr., of the Cuttyhunk Mass club of Massachusetts.

This monster is only 11 pounds under the world record, which was caught back in the year 1913 at Vineyard sound by C. B. Church.

Out of the 293 clubs entered in the tournament our local Navesink River Rod and Gun club still holds third place. Special mention for June is given to Mrs. Ann Frank of Shrewsbury, who continued her scoring for the club with her best catch, scaling 38 pounds. Addison J. Howland of Rumson set the pace for the club with a 39-pounder. William S. Frank of Shrewsbury came through with a 36-pounder, while the writer weighed in a 33-pounder and Chet Simmons of Rumson landed a 28-pounder.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

According to the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries commission a good start has been made in the co-operative federal-state striped bass research program.

A wide variety of research projects is contemplated, including studies of spawning and spawning grounds, surveys of larval and juvenile fish, studies of migration by tagging and other means; analysis of racial composition of the stock, inventories of the local sport fisheries and miscellaneous biological investigations, including research on the viability of eggs of large striped bass.

According to the United Press, Gov. Gregg has signed into law legislation authorizing New Hampshire schools to instruct in the and proper use of firearms, the game laws and proper hunting practices. The bill is believed to

Signaleers Lose Army Golf Title

PORT DIX—Fort Monmouth's golfers, defending champions of the First Army golf championship, were dethroned Friday when Port Devens, Mass., won the crown.

Devens' four-day 72-hole total of 1,144 strokes bettered Monmouth's total of 1,153. Port Dix was third with 1,182 and Fort Jay, N. Y., copped fourth place with 1,202.

The low medalist award went to Pvt. Roger Horton of Worcester, Mass., who had a par 280 for 72 holes.

The five top men in the tourney will compete in the All-Army golf championship at Fort Ord, Cal., July 27. Lieut. William Anderson, Pvt. Richard Spaulding and Pvt. Jack Hessler, all of Monmouth, copped three of the five places. Anderson fired 281, Spaulding 285, and Hessler 287.

Competing teams were from 19 installations in the First Army area, which includes New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

be pioneer legislation of its kind in the country.

We have received a postcard from Capt. Ad Howland of Rumson who, with Capt. Cottrell of Red Bank, was spending a few days as guest of Andre Pilot of Rumson at the latter's salmon fishing camp in Quebec, Canada. He states that Cottrell landed three on the first try weighing 22, 28 and 30 pounds. During the time which Mr. Pilot has been up there he has landed the limit of 45 fish.

Prospects for the week-end along the waterfront: Plenty of fluke in rivers, bays and shore line. Forages on the increase. Blues should be in the area of the Shrewsbury Rocks. Chumming is the best bet, although it is possible they will be hitting deep trolled lures. Use leaded core or wire line. Lead squids, Tony Accetta Pet 17 or 18 spoons or Jigit etc.

Bill McCarthy Wins Second 25-Lap Stock Car Feature at Wall Stadium

WALL TOWNSHIP—Bill McCarthy of Red Bank outlasted a large field of stock cars Saturday night at the Wall oval to cop the 25-lap feature in a rugged see-saw battle all the way with Richie Hall of Toms River.

McCarthy rolled ahead of Hall in the 15th lap to take over the lead. In a nip-and-tuck battle Hall's car hopped on the rear of McCarthy's in the 19th lap.

The final lap turned out to be the thriller, as Hall whizzed around the outside of McCarthy on the first turn when the local pilot was pinned in behind another car. Hall, however, failed to maintain the lead.

On the second turn his car went high on the oval and twisted as McCarthy scooted out front. Hall straightened out but was unable to overhaul the victor in the home stretch.

The victory was McCarthy's second main event at the speedway this season.

Dick Davis set a record for ten-lap events when he toured the oval in 2:50.02. Davis' mark was not the only one established as Parker Bohn, Freehold, chalked up a record for the 12-lap semi-final. His time was 3:25.07.

Mrs. Doris Newton, track publicity director, presented a trophy to Ronnie Kohler, Paterson, for his triumph in the 200-lap Short Track Grand National event held July 4.

RESULTS
First Heat—10 Laps—Al Keller, Green Acres, Freehold, 3:25.02; Red Bank, 3:25.02; Charlie Dyer, North Bergen, Time—3:25.02.

Second Heat—10 Laps—Parker Bohn, Freehold, 3:25.07; Dick Davis, Manasquan, 3:25.07; Bill McCarthy, Red Bank, 3:25.07; Chevalier, Sayreville, 3:25.07; Feature Event—25 Laps—Bill McCarthy, Richie Hall, Frank Schneider, Dick Davis, Al Keller, No time.

Freehold, Richie Hall, Toms River; Bill McCarthy, Time—2:54.62.
Third Heat—10 Laps—Frank Schneider, Lambertville; Charlie Speaker, Asbury Park; Pete LaVance, Spring Lake, Time—2:55.12.
First Semi-Final—12 Laps—Pete LaVance, Spring Lake; Lenny Brown, Lambertville; Al Keller, Time—3:25.06.
Second Semi-Final—12 Laps—Parker Bohn, Bill McCarthy, Tommy Elliott, Bloomfield, Time—3:25.07.
Consolation—10 Laps—Dick Davis, Manasquan; Frank Schneider, Bill Chevalier, Sayreville, Time—2:50.02.
Feature Event—25 Laps—Bill McCarthy, Richie Hall, Frank Schneider, Dick Davis, Al Keller, No time.

June Methot Wins Lightning Series In "Red Grant" Memorial Regatta

PERTH AMBOY — Competing against a field of ten skippers in the annual "Red Grant" regatta sponsored by the Raritan Yacht club here over the week-end, June Methot, at the tiller of Chantley, copped the three race series.

Monmouth Boat club skippers made a clean sweep of the first three places in the series as Charles Allaire, back at the tiller of Magic after a short illness, took second honors with Ed Waters, skippering Revenger, taking third place.

The first race got under way Saturday morning in a light breeze and it was Roy Knapp of Perth Amboy leading the way at the weather mark, closely followed by Allaire as a number of the craft had trouble getting over the starting line. At the end of the first reach, Miss Methot moved up into a challenging position while Allaire sailed into the lead. The breeze died down and the skippers found it necessary to heave their anchors to keep from drifting. When the wind did come up, Miss Methot was in a favorable spot, and Chantley sailed into first place. Allaire took second, while Waters went over the line in fifth spot.

In the afternoon race Miss Methot built up a lead of well over a half mile on the first weather leg and the subsequent spinnaker run. Then a fairly heavy breeze sprang up, and Allaire and Waters began to close the gap as they entered the final weather leg to the finish line. Allaire took Miss Methot on the leeward mark and chose to cover Chantley, letting Revenger go. Waters, faced with the problem of covering both boats, which were constantly about on different tacks, surrendered his lead to Allaire briefly, but regained it to finish first. Allaire, meanwhile, was successful in covering Miss Methot to cop second with Chantley taking third.

In the final race Miss Methot moved out in front but was caught in the tide on the first spinnaker leg, giving Allaire and Waters, who were alongside each other, a chance to close in. On the second long weather leg the three Red Bankers again engaged in a vigorous tacking duel with Waters getting the best of it while he was able to cover Allaire, who was then second. At the weather mark, however, Miss Methot regained first and held it over the next lap to win the race and series.

Allaire, desperately in need of a first place to win, went to leeward on the spinnaker run, but lost ground on the gamble. He took third in the race and second in the series, while Waters held onto second to finish third in the series.

The fire company was called out to three grass fires the past week, caused by sparks from passing trains. On Tuesday members extinguished a fire near the railroad on the John H. Bahrenburg estate on Beers st. A fire was put out on the Rudolph J. Chval, Jr., property by the railroad track Friday afternoon. Saturday afternoon the company was called to the Robert E. Hutchinson farm on Telegraph Hill rd., known as the James W. Hoff farm, near the railroad which burned about six acres of grass and brush. The old Hoff home, which has not been occupied for a number of years, was in danger, but the fire was gotten under control due to the quick arrival of the company. The Hutchinson family purchased the farm from David L. Edelmuth and have been occupying the place for the past seven months.

Trisha and Lynn Kissel, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Kissel, Hazlet-Holmdel rd., have returned home from a week's visit with relatives in Long Island.

New RCA TV Sets Go on Display Locally Today

All-new RCA-Victor television receivers, featuring lower prices and advanced engineering developments, are being displayed today for the first time by Red Bank dealers.

Frederic M. Comins, vice president in charge of sales for Krich-New Jersey, Inc., exclusive RCA-Victor distributors in New Jersey, said a new development incorporated into the new sets is a fully automatic rotary tuner designed to provide maximum picture clarity and ease of reception. The tuner, named the "Rotomatic" by the engineers who invented it, represents one of television's most important technological advances, Mr. Comins said.

Among cabinet styles are authentic Provincial, American Colonial, Modern, Contemporary and Regency. Finishes include mahogany, walnut, natural walnut, cherry, limed oak, antique, blond, maroon and ebony. The unusually great styling diversity, Mr. Comins emphasized, reflects growing public recognition of the fact that television sets not only produce clear, dependable pictures, but that they complement living room decor, too.

Pointing out that production of TV receivers probably reached an all-time high during the first six months of 1953, Mr. Comins predicted continued high level sales in the radio-television industry during the second half of the year.

Lincroft 4-H Club Prepares for Fair

LINCROFT—The 47 members of the 4-H club have been hustling around this week getting their exhibits in order for the opening of the Monmouth county 4-H fair at the Freehold raceway tomorrow. Under the supervision of their leaders: Mrs. I. T. Bartlett, Middletown; Mrs. Charles Conover, Everett; Mrs. Paul Camenzind, Lincroft; Mrs. Harold Morgan, Lincroft; Mrs. Karl Whitel, Middletown; Mrs. George Gould, Lincroft; Mrs. Harold Willgerodt, Lincroft; and Mrs. Thomas E. Kraan, River Plaza, an excellent showing is forecast, as Lincroft stands at the top of the county clubs in size and accomplishment. Five projects are being shown: cooking, sewing, gardening, forestry and poultry.

This year, a new display idea is being tried. Each club will show all its exhibits, after being separately judged, as a club booth. Lincroft will attempt to suggest a kitchen, since most 4-H work goes through that room at one time or another. The exhibit will include ironing newly-made clothes, food preparation, flower arranging, etc. Members on the work committee are Rosemarie Braun, Gordon Bornkamp, Susan Anable, Betty Hoelzer, Max Gould, Lincroft, assisted by Mrs. Bartlett and Mrs. Whitel, leaders and Miss Kerry Boland, junior leader.

4-H club activity is not all hard work, as visitors will learn at the fair Friday night when they dance with the members to square dances called by Bill Erickson of Trenton. Twenty club members with some leaders will leave Monday, July 27, for a week with 150 Monmouth, Cumberland and Middlesex county campers at the state 4-H camp in Stokes forest, Sussex county. Arts and crafts, swimming, Indian campfires and tribal ritual and nature study will be the order of the day, and dancing and games will fill the bill in the evening.

Because white shirts sometimes cause a glare on TV screens, pastel colors usually are worn before the cameras.

Children's Show Benefits Drive

FAIR HAVEN—A variety show, modeled after the "Jackie Gleason Television Show," presented Saturday afternoon by a group of youngsters of this borough, netted $30.63 which has been turned over to the Monmouth County Cerebral Palsy drive.

The show was the idea of Carolyn Liebeck, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Liebeck of 12 Gillespie ave. The porch of the Liebeck house was used as a stage. Taking part in the production, besides Carolyn, were Buddy Kruse, William Kelly, Judy Gale, Evelyn Pryor, Susan Mapes, Barbara Little, Linda Distelhurst, Marjorie Porter, Pat Liebeck, Helga Schneider, Charlie Cupples, Sandra Stender, Phyllis Halleran, Barbara Procopio, Jack Liebeck and Don Robarex.

The receipts were turned over to Councilman Tony E. Hunting who in turn gave it to the cerebral palsy drive committee. The show and those participating drew the praise of Mayor Edgar V. Denise and members of the borough council at their meeting Monday night.

Driscoll Signs Chiropractic Bill

Gov. Driscoll yesterday signed Assembly Bill No. 455, which provides for the regulation of the chiropractic profession in New Jersey. By this act the governor ended the long controversy which has existed for more than 30 years between the medical profession and the chiropractors.

The legislation was framed at meetings held at the direction of the governor under the chairmanship of Dr. Daniel Bergsma, state commissioner of health. Representatives of the Medical Society of New Jersey, the Society of New Jersey Chiropractors and the State Board of Medical Examiners were present at the hearings. Dr. Robert H. Hazel of Spring Lake and Dr. Cecil L. Martin of Jersey City represented the chiropractors. The conferences lasted over three months.

Dr. Hazel, who has served as legislative representative of the Society of New Jersey Chiropractors for the past ten years, said: "Gov. Driscoll in informing me today of his having signed the bill, mentioned the long and arduous road that the chiropractors have had to tread in securing this legislation. He feels as I do that the legislation is meritorious, and adequately solves the problem in the interests of the public health."

Monmouth county's assemblymen, Elvin R. Simmill, speaker of the house, and Alfred N. Beadleston, together with Senator Richard R. Stout, voted for the bill.

Auxiliary Honors Its Ex-President

Members of the auxiliary of the Red Bank unit of Postal Employees gave an informal party Monday for the auxiliary's retiring president, Mrs. Jasper Sharabba. The party was held at Mrs. Sharabba's home on Hudson ave.

Members gave Mrs. Sharabba a pair of earrings. Attending were Mrs. Valice DeFazio, auxiliary president; Mrs. John Hammond and Mrs. Robert Helbig, party chairmen; Mrs. Francis Sagurton, Mrs. Anthony Vaccarella, Mrs. George Macfarlane, Mrs. James Delatash, Mrs. Joseph W. Canning, Mrs. William Buchanan, Mrs. Elwood Hendricks, Jr., Mrs. Russell MacConnell and Mrs. Gordon Forbes.

J. C. Borden Heads Hospital Drive

LONG BRANCH—John C. Borden, third vice president of the board of governors of Monmouth Memorial hospital, has been named chairman of the hospital's annual maintenance campaign to raise $100,000. This money is raised each year to offset the deficit created by the rendering of hospital services to those residents of Monmouth county who are unable to pay for services.

Mr. Borden, a resident of Rumson, has been a member of the hospital board for 14 years. He has been working on hospital campaigns many years and anticipates a successful campaign.

The first two organizational meetings were held at Mr. Borden's home and the campaign is now under way. Working with Mr. Borden on the special gifts committee are Monroe Elster, Bertram H. Borden, Walter W. Reid, Jr., Miss A. Grace King, Mrs. Theresa Schreiber, Spencer Pitts, Louis K. Timolat, William Gridley, Horace K. Horner, Leon Hess, Henry Herrman, Mrs. Allison L. S. Storn, Dr. Armand Hammer, Dr. William G. Herrman, Vincent Canavan, Richard J. Hearp, Mrs. Charles Schock, Jr., Mrs. Dorman H. McFaddin and Mrs. Julius Flink.

The first report has been made and $24,992 was reported. The second report will be made Saturday at the board meeting.

ville rd., near Hosford ave., Leonard, returned to her home, 26 Hooper ave., Sunday from River view hospital, where she had been a patient during the four weeks since the accident.

Mrs. Dender suffered a fractured skull, punctured lung, several fractured ribs, other internal injuries, shock and a wrist cut when her car went out of control on wet pavement and hit the tree. She is permitted to be out of bed for short periods, and is able to take some steps.

Week's Developments Further Plans For Boro Acquisition of Twinlights

HIGHLANDS—Plans for this borough's acquisition of Twinlights from the federal government as a historic monument were furthered by developments this week.

Joseph J. Truncer of the bureau of forestry, parks and historic sites of the state department of conservation and economic development Tuesday night conferred with Mayor Charles Hatzenduehler, other borough officials and service club representatives. They discussed methods of presenting information necessary for the borough's application to the General Services Administration for the landmark.

A tour of the historic beacon will be made Tuesday afternoon by those who took part in this week's confab and by other persons working toward the maintenance of the site as a monument. A representative of the G. S. A. will guide the group through the lighthouse.

Borough Clerk Frank Bolen said yesterday that Rep. James C. Auchincloss of Rumson, acknowledging receipt of a check list of steps to be taken for the acquisition, said he will confer with the G. S. A. in Washington, D. C., and inform the clerk of progress there.

Mr. Truncer, who has represented the state in efforts toward the acquisition of Sandy Hook as a state park site, told Tuesday night's confab of information to be included in the borough's application. Borough council has authorized the mayor to take all steps necessary for acquiring the light. Mr. Truncer showed samples of applications for other historic sites.

Dr. Richard A. Weiss and G. V. Kadenbach, members of the service club's Twinlights committee, said the club will compile a historical background to be included in the application. The planning board is charged with plans for the restoration of the building and with a comprehensive plan for its general administration as a borough project.

Firemen's Fair Starts Tonight

HEADEN'S CORNER—The 26th annual Firemen's Fair of the Middletown Fire Company 1 will start tonight with promises of surprise games and other feature attractions.

The fair will run again tomorrow and Saturday nights and then will resume Friday and Saturday of next week. It is one of the few firemen's fairs being conducted in Monmouth county this year as a result of the state ban against games of chance.

Joseph Donato and Harlan Hogan, co-chairmen of the fair committee, said last night that members of the committee had finished creating their own games to replace the former ones, and that some of the games will surprise fair patrons because of their similarity to the old type, although all are within the law.

The co-chairmen also said that this year the committee has purchased thousands of dollars worth of beautiful prizes because the emphasis on the fair has been placed on merchandise awards to replace the money pay-offs. Increased attention has also been paid to the pony and hay rides and other features for children to make the fair more interesting for them.

Lions to Sell Last 75 Brooms

HIGHLANDS—With 225 brooms sold during the July 4 week-end, members of the Lions club here will sell the remaining 75 brooms Saturday between 6 and 9 p. m. on Bay ave. corners in the borough's business section.

Proceeds of the sale go to the club's blind fund. Henry Fehlbauer and George McGowan are co-chairmen of the sale committee. They will be assisted by William Lee, James McGough, George Ellis, George Lahey and Frank Hall. Louis Loder, G. V. Kadenbach and John Sciorlino have donated the use of their trucks for canvassing elsewhere in town.

Plans for the sale were made at a club meeting Tuesday night at Cedar Inn. Mr. Sciorlino, recently installed president, was in the chair for the first time. Ben November of New York City was a guest of Sam Silverblatt. The club's next meeting will be Tuesday, July 28, at Cedar Inn.

Police Probe Two Entries Here

Red Bank police are investigating break and entries and unsuccessful burglary attempts at the Tuller construction company office, 95 Monmouth st., Friday, and the Dixon Oil company, South Pearl st., Tuesday night.

The Tuller office, according to Deputy Chief George Clayton, was entered through a rear door which, he said, had been left unlocked. An attempt to crack a concrete blind safe in the office of Raymond E. Lippincott, paymaster, was unsuccessful. Several drawers in the desk of J. Daniel Tuller had been opened but nothing removed, Clayton said. The Dixon Oil company plant was entered through a toilet window on the north side of the building. A metal cabinet containing a small safe was opened with a grass cutting "whip" which the thief found in the plant and left behind. Nothing was taken.

Deputy Chief Clayton said this morning police suspect the entries were done by the same person who entered five stores on White st. last week.

Service Station Hit in Letters To Freeholders

Board: 'No Comment'
About Proposed Plant
At Lincroft Corner

FREEHOLD—The board of freeholders yesterday afternoon received six letters protesting the proposed construction of a service station at Newman Springs and Swimming River rds., Lincroft, but Joseph C. Irwin, director, said the problem primarily is local, and the board took no action.

The protests and two received previously, contend that a service station at the intersection would create a traffic hazard. Board members also have received telephone calls protesting the construction, Mr. Irwin said. The board presently is not in a position to comment, he added.

Howard W. Roberts, county counsel, and Middletown township clerk, said the Middletown township committee has not reached a decision in its consideration of the question.

Ask McFarland Raise
A petition from Keyport post, American Legion, urging an increase in the salary of Arthur W. McFarland, county superintendent of veterans' internment, was referred to the board as a whole. The petition claims Mr. McFarland is receiving the same salary the job paid in 1938. The county American Legion executive committee concurs with the Keyport post in its argument.

Freeholder Victor E. Grossinger, welfare director, reported the New Jersey hospital licensing board, a branch of the State Department of Institutions and Agencies, has approved the 24-bed addition to the hospital at the county welfare home. The approval entitles the county to $145.00 per patient per month in state and federal aid.

John L. Montgomery, county welfare director, told the board the approval by Commissioner Sanford Bates, which will result in the additional revenue, will permit further improvements in medical care given inmates of the home.

Bridges, Road Work
Passed on its first reading was a resolution appropriating $33,500 for the reconstruction of four bridges and one culvert.

The board accepted the annual report of Elmer O. Stevens and A. M. Hart, registered municipal accountants. It also approved a plan for county aid for the improvement of Fletcher beach, which is located in Bradley Beach and Neptune township.

Fred McDowell of Neptune was awarded a contract to resurface portions of county roads 9 and 516 at a cost of $47,564.85.

Teeple Fines Five Clammers

MIDDLETOWN—Acting Magistrate Irving W. Teeple Monday night fined five clammers arrested June 4 offshore at Leonard by 18 officials of the New York and New Jersey state fisheries divisions, the New Jersey State Health Department and state police.

Mr. Teeple reserved decision two weeks before when the fourth session of the hearing of illegal clamming charges was concluded. For clamming in a contaminated area, each of the following were fined $100 and $5 costs of court: Warren C. Apel and George C. Boyce of Belford, Peter Kopasz of Laurence Harbor, Curtis Ludlow of Port Monmouth and Edward Martin of Leonard. Apel also was fined $50 and $5 costs for clamming without a license, and $10 and $5 costs for clamming at night. Each of the other four also was fined $10 and $5 costs for clamming at night, and $10 and $5 costs for clamming while under power.

Also arrested with the five was William Richardson, 17, of Belford. Charges against him have been referred to the Middletown township juvenile conference committee.

George Carey of Matawan, attorney for the five men, announced an appeal will be made. Fate of two boats—the Mary G. III, owned by Apel and Boyce, and the Walter Hanson, owned by Kopasz—will be decided by the State Division of Shell Fisheries during the raid, was not known by Police here. The boats are now berthed at Compton's creek, Belford.

Crowell Fines 13 Violators

Magistrate John V. Crowell yesterday morning fined Eddin Brown of Newark $50 for permitting an unlicensed driver to operate his car. The driver, Shirley Josephine Taylor of East Orange, was fined $10. Mr. Crowell also fined Rose Malina of 106 Lehigh st., $10 for careless driving. Quentin E. Hampton of Freehold paid $7 for a stop street violation.

The following were fined $3 for improper parking: Marion Stinson of 80 Catherine st., Richard Burke of 137 Broad st., John Sovers of Belford, Marianne N. Gorin of Navalink River rd., Middletown township, James C. Smith of Keansburg, Leon McKenna of Long Branch, and Helen Tomkonog of Weatling. Theodore Fine of 165 Harding rd. paid $4 for improper parking.

Highlands Children Aid Polio Fund

Roland J. Hines, Asbury Park councilman and county chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is pictured yesterday as he received a donation of $20.20 from Mildred Kugelman, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kugelman of 67 Fifth st., Highlands. The back yard of the Kugelman home was the scene last week of a variety show staged by nine young girls as a polio benefit. They are, left to right, Vera Hawley, Mary Meenan, Diane Falk, Mildred and Carol Reid, Donna Scheels, Judith Shanley, Theresa Hannah and Jane Bonomo. Mildred and Donna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scheels of 68 Fifth st., produced the show, assisted by Carol Reid, announcer. A previous performance netted $11.07 for a beach party for neighborhood children, leading to arrangements for the polio benefit.

Theft Epidemic Hits Shrewsbury

SHREWSBURY—State and local police are investigating an outbreak of four breaking and entering here this week.

Most recent in the series was the theft of $125 from the Red Bank Hudson company, Broad st., Tuesday night. "According to police the thief entered by breaking a window in a door and unlocking the door from the inside. The cash, which was in a small metal box in an office, included about $110 in bills and the remainder in change. A cigarette machine was pried open and the contents removed."

Trooper William Lamberton of the state police and Special Officer John W. Parker of Shrewsbury police are investigating. Monday night Wildanger's Body shop, Shrewsbury ave., Hawkins garage, Shrewsbury ave., and Newman Springs rd., and the Triangle garage, Newman Springs rd., were entered. Wildanger's was entered through a rear door and about $4 stolen from a soft drink vending machine. Although a safe had been tampered with, according to police, it was not opened.

Hawkins' garage and the Triangle garage were entered through rear windows, which were broken and unlocked from inside. Approximately $8 in cigarettes or change was taken from a cigarette machine which was broken open at Hawkins'. A small box containing between $15 and $20 was stolen from the office of the Triangle garage and an additional $22 or $25 from a cigarette vending machine.

The Monday night thefts are being investigated by Shrewsbury Patrolman Raymond Mass, State Trooper Walter King and State Police Detective Chester Riggio. Unsuccessful attempts were reported Tuesday morning by the Borough Door Products company, Shrewsbury ave., Melrose garage, Shrewsbury ave., and Matthews brothers garage, Newman Springs rd.

Kuehl Receives Bronze Star

RUMSON—Lieut. Richard A. Kuehl of Elm lane, recently was awarded the Bronze Star medal for meritorious service in Korea. The citation states: "Lieut. Kuehl displayed exemplary personal knowledge, initiative and perseverance in the performance of his duties. As battery motor officer his desire to see a job well done, cheerfulness and co-operative spirit constantly improved the standards of the maintenance section. Later as training commander, his outstanding leadership, aggressive action, keen understanding and superior judgment resulted in vast improvement in the efficiency of the communication supply system. The meritorious service rendered by Lieut. Kuehl throughout this period reflects great credit on himself and the military service."

Lieut. Kuehl was graduated from Englewood high school in 1948. He entered the Army in December, 1950, and received basic training at Fort Benning, Ga. He was selected for Officers Candidate school and received artillery training at Fort Sill, Okla., after which he was assigned to the 92d Field Artillery. Lieut. Kuehl is on his way home from Korea and, according to his father, Frederick A. Kuehl, Sr., of Elm lane, will probably return to work with the Olin Elevator company after several weeks' vacation.

Lieut. Kuehl is a brother of Dr. Frederick A. Kuehl, Jr., of Rumson rd.

Rotarians to Hear Mr. Ananthanarayanan

Narayana Lier Ananthanarayanan will tell members of the Rotary club of "India Today and Its Problems" at a luncheon meeting today at the Molly Pitcher hotel.

A native of India, Mr. Ananthanarayanan has been in this country six years. He attended college two years in India, and Carnegie Institute of Technology, and Lehigh university here. Mr. Ananthanarayanan holds a bachelor's degree in science and a Ph.D. in meteorology. Charles Gallagher is in charge of the program. The club will visit the United Nations in New York city Sept. 24. A clam bake will be held Wednesday, Aug. 26, at McGuire's grove.

En Route to Europe

Rev. Joseph F. Sheehan

SHREWSBURY—Rev. Joseph F. Sheehan, captain in the Army Chaplain corps, left here yesterday to report to Camp Kilmer and assignment to an Army post in Europe. Father Sheehan, former curate at St. James, Red Bank; Star of the Sea, Long Branch; St. Gabriel's, Bradelyville, is a veteran of combat action in Korea, where he received the Silver Star medal for gallantry in action. He is the brother of Mrs. James Kearney, 16 Parker pl.

Board Continues Transfer Study

HIGHLANDS—The board of education here will investigate further a borough council request for a transfer of title to the site of the old water plant on Miller st. from the school board to the governing body.

Councilman Alexander F. Bahra, a former school board member, said Monday night that the borough owns the building now on the property, but the board of education still retains title to the land. He said the borough is anxious to list the property on the tax rolls. A manufacturing firm is interested in its purchase, he added.

Board members agreed with William V. Raucher, president, that the board should receive a share of the purchase price. They also were of the opinion that the building should be considered for use as a "badly needed" community center.

The board accepted the resignation of George King, a member of the board, who will move from the borough next month, and of Mrs. Mary Maloney, fifth grade teacher. John Petrillo, school principal, said at least two more teachers will be needed in the fall.

'Skywatch' Chief Appeals for Help

SEA BRIGHT—Councilman Nels Jacobson, commander of the local "Operation Skywatch" U. S. Air Force-Civil Defense Ground Observer corps here, this week issued another urgent appeal for volunteers to man the post at the borough pavilion.

He said that since the vacation season started—and, perhaps as a result of Korean war peace talks—his staff has been shrinking in size. "We've just got to have volunteer help if we're to stay open," he said.

Mr. Jacobson said that only last week an Air Force spokesman informed him that the Sea Bright post is considered "one of the most urgently needed along the Atlantic coast because of its nearness to the New York-Metropolitan area." He said it has been impossible to carry out orders to keep the post functioning 24 hours a day "as it should."

Only recently, President Eisenhower called "Operation Skywatch" one of the most vital civil defense organizations in the country, saying that only through its services can the nation be assured protection against a sneak air attack.

Volunteers should contact Mr. Jacobson at borough hall. In many cases, duty hours can be set up for the conveniences of the applicant.

Rumson Awards Curb Contract

RUMSON—The mayor and council last Thursday night awarded a contract for the curbing of Edgewood rd. to A. DePont of Neptune City, who submitted a bid of $5,300, the lowest of three received. The work is to be paid for by the borough, which will assess property owners on Edgewood rd. Unit price of the bid was $1.25 per foot.

Councilman Garrison C. King, chairman of the five committee, appealed for public support of the borough's two fire companies. He pointed out the ban on gambling makes a profitable firemen's fair this year impossible. The firemen, explained Mr. King, have canceled plans for a fair and are appealing for funds by mail.

Mayor Francis J. Nary announced he would answer a complaint by Mrs. Carl E. Johnson of Forrest ave. about dogs. Mrs. Johnson said she had been attacked by a boxer dog on her own property and had warded the animal off with a stream from a garden hose. A public hearing on an amendment to the borough's dog ordinance will be continued at council's meeting next Thursday night. The amendment would prohibit dogs from running at large.

Patrolmen Erling Monsen and John Delaney were commended by Mr. King for detecting a fault in the fire alarm system recently when the alarm failed to sound.

Councilman Charles B. Harding reported "Watch Out For Children" signs have been erected on Blackpoint rd. in compliance with requests by residents of that street.

Queen St Ann to Reign
At Church Picnic Aug. 16
KEANSBURG—Queen St Ann will be chosen by popular vote at a picnic to be held for the benefit of St. Ann's Catholic church here Sunday, Aug. 16, at McGuire's grove off rt. 35, Middletown township. Single girls between 13 and 20 are eligible to take part in the contest. A previous announcement set the minimum age at 16. Further plans for the picnic will be made after noon mass Sunday at St. Ann's school hall. Joseph Brunner is contest chairman.

Condemnations For Parkway Filed by State

About 60 Suits
Pressed on Owners
In 3 Municipalities

FREEHOLD—The New Jersey Highway authority Tuesday filed condemnation proceedings against about 60 properties in New Shrewsbury and Middletown and Matawan townships, which are wanted for construction of the Garden State parkway.

The state has offered a total of $284,768 for the properties involved, but owners have refused this settlement.

Among the land areas involved are 12.65 acres held in the name of Shrewsbury township, now New Shrewsbury. Borough Attorney Milton Mauser said this probably is the borough dump, off Wayside rd. Officials have said they will not sell the dump for an offered $100 an acre since that does not represent replacement value.

In each of the proceedings, the state is depositing with the court here a cash amount which it contends is a fair price for the land. The Superior court then is naming three condemnation commissioners—a real estate man, a lawyer and a layman—to set a value of the property.

So far, however, commissioners have been named in only one case—for the Matawan property of William and Betty J. Kuhns. The state has offered $33,514 for the land. Named as commissioners are John T. Lawley, real estate man, Richard O. Minio, lawyer, and Louis Becker. They are to report their money recommendation to the court.

In another case—against Rear Adm. Andrew G. Shepard (U.S.N.-Ret.) and Mrs. Shepard, of Riverdale ave., New Shrewsbury, these owners have been asked to show cause Sept. 18 why commissioners should not be named. For three acres of their land, the state has offered $2,282.

It was indicated here that Superior Court Judge Frank T. Lloyd, Jr., will make a decision Sept. 18 concerning appointment of commissioners for the bulk of the pending actions.

Following is a list of owners named in the condemnation suits and prices that have been offered for their land by the state:

New Shrewsbury—Andrew G. and Gilberte Shepard, $2,282; Edward Berman, $24,500; a consolidated suit listing properties in the Green Grove section and owned by S. F. W. Hibbs, $100; Joseph Simmel, $100; Hugh Higginson, $100; Violet L. Vinton, $20; W. B. Hermaine, $100.

Also C. W. Seymour, $100; T. H. Wimbush, $100; Claude Asquith, $50; a consolidated action under the listing of Franklin J. Terrier, $50; heirs of Jacob W. Morris, $168; Wall Washed Saw and Gravel company, $1,297; Shrewsbury township, $1,265; Stanley K. and Margaret J. Downs and Minnie Riley, $4,800; Winfield Scott and Florence Pruden, $13,600.

Also Morris Hall, $603; Emma Hathaway, $330; a consolidated listing under the Securities Development corporation, $150; David Proskey, $200; Roland Asquith, $50; William Devereaux and John Hunter, $720; Lylettie White, $1,084; the former property of Jacobus Hubbard, $814; Vincenzo Caruso, $1,716; Edwin C. and Margaret L. Reed, $4,761 (Mrs. Reed is borough clerk).

Also, William Buettner, $14,900; E. Preston and Bernice Alexander, $2,110; a consolidated action offering $13,768 to William A. Thompson, Richard Davison, Elizabeth H. Dennis, Joseph Scaranio, Joseph Shepherd, the heirs of Susan J. Smock, Wildeen and Jeanne V. Bonnett, William K. Conklin and three owners not named for New Shrewsbury properties.

Also, a consolidated suit listed under Johanna Deo, $30; Francis Davey, $100; Patrick J. Nash, $50; Martin Rexsen, $100; Carrie G. Day, $100; Louise Smeier, $100; James Sharkey, $100; Bessie Mentcher, $300; Charles E. Wareing, $100; and John J. Sullivan, $100. Middletown township—Walter E. and Margaret Laudenslager, $5,115; Francis Sannelli, $16,554; Vincenzo Anna L. Lum, $4,392; Floyd and Letitia Reale, $784; Ernest A. and Beatrice Riceman, $441; Harry B. Hollander and others, $22,500; heirs of Clarence Charles Lum, $21,667; Anna L. Lum, $23,030; Karl and Marjorie Wintol, $13,431; and Edwin H. and Mary C. Branch, $9,264.

Matawan township—William and Betty J. Kuhns, $33,514; William J. Hawkins, $200; Boyd C. and Eleanor Higley, $16,000; and Andrew Nunzio, $9,600.

TO HEAR REPORT

RUMSON—The planning committee of the congregation of the Presbyterian church will meet next Monday night at Bingham hall, at which time a report on additional space for the educational program will be given. Preliminary sketches and other reports will be turned over to an architect for further study.

Tomorrow at 9 A. M.
For 109 County Boys

SANTA ANA, Cal.—The 109 Boy Scouts and 13 leaders from Monmouth county, N. J., arrived at the National Jamboree camp site here Monday at 5:30 p. m. and all are ready for tomorrow's salute bonob at 9 a. m. which will signal the raising of the U. S. flag and the official opening of festivities.

Arriving earlier than most of the scouts, Monmouth's representatives were among the first to be assigned a camp site. A beautiful spot, it overlooks the bay and each of the three troops have 80x80-foot sections.

Red Bank and Bayshore scouts—troop 13—have an entrance sign which says "Lucky Troop 13," embellished by two horseshoes. Below it, the boys' names are listed, each on his own plaque.

Have Ideal Site
Boys from the southern part of the county have an entrance gate on which are life-size cutouts of their leaders. Each boy's name appears below. The Freehold-Long Branch area erected a 3x8-foot "Jesse's Mosquito" at its entrance.

After putting the finishing touches to the camp Tuesday, the boys swam for the first time in the Pacific ocean. They left the Atlantic ocean from Asbury Park a week ago Sunday. In between, the train trip was interrupted repeatedly by sightseeing tours. The West has given the visiting scouts "the full treatment." Many majors on hand to greet them and there are police escorts and welcome signs in abundance.

A telegram sent by Will Pino of Ocean Grove, county co-ordinator, to J. Fred Billett, scout executive at the headquarters in Long Branch, gave the word that "all are hale and hearty."

Songs for Breakfast
Included in the events before reaching the camp were a visit to the Weyerhaeuser Timber mill at Everett, Wash., one of the largest in the nation. Dinner followed at the Masonic temple in Everett, served by members of the Eastern Star.

There were 600 scouts fed at breakfast in the grand ballroom of the fashionable Multnomah hotel in Portland, Ore., but Monmouth's lads stole the show by leading the entire assemblage in camp songs.

Sunday's activities included a cruise. While crossing the bay at San Francisco on the steamer, Euroka, Protestant services were held on the bow of the ship at the same time a Catholic mass was being celebrated on the bow of the ship. Jewish services were held the night before at Klamath Falls, Ore.

Day With Cowboys

The county boys traveled over the Golden Gate bridge in buses and that night had a genuine Chinese dinner at the Hang Far Low restaurant in San Francisco. Yesterday was spent visiting the famous Knott Berry farm—the Williamsburg of the West—which is a typical Western town, complete with residents in cowboy garb. A barbecue ranch dinner was served there last night.

The jamboree lasts until July 24. After packing tents and baggage aboard the trains, the boys will take off July 25 for the Grand Canyon in Arizona. Also scheduled is a visit to Carlsbad, N. M., where they will dine in the subterranean cafeteria 750 feet below the surface. At Santa Fe, N. M., 12 county scouts will leave the party to travel to Cimarron for 12 days at the National Boy Scout ranch for Explorer scouts. They will be led by James Flynn.

That will mark the end of the sightseeing for the most part. There'll be stops at Kansas City and St. Louis, Mo., with the train due to pull into West Trenton Tuesday, July 28.

Tract of 25 Lots OK'd by Council

FAIR HAVEN—The mayor and council Tuesday night, at a meeting adjourned from Monday, approved a map of 25 lots on a tract located between the new fire house and the river. The lots, each of which has a minimum area of 20,000 feet front on Lewis lane, which runs through the center of the tract. The developers are F. L. Zipt and G. N. Bull of Hance rd., and William P. Scott, Red Bank contractor and builder.

Council's approval is subject to a deposit of $21,282.50 by the developers to cover the cost of resurfacing Lewis lane and providing adequate drainage for surface water.

The planning board, of which William L. Russell is chairman, had approved the map at a special meeting earlier Tuesday evening. Councilman Eugene M. Magee, chairman of utilities, was authorized to contact the Monmouth Consolidated Water company to arrange for installation of two or three fire hydrants on Lewis lane.

In another matter at the adjourned meeting Council approved payment of a bill for $300 from M. J. Skovla, contractor, in connection with the widening and resurfacing of Baitin rd.

J. P. Igoe Buys House at Shore

MONMOUTH BEACH—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Igoe recently purchased from the Story Estates, Inc., one of the largest homes in this borough. The sale was effected by the Charles E. Sweeney agency of Rumson.

The property comprises a large tract on the west side of Ocean ave., about a block and a half north of the Monmouth Beach club. On it is a frame dwelling of three stories. The first floor has a living room with fireplace, television room annex, reception hall, paneled powder room, beamed ceiling dining room, butler's pantry, kitchen and laundry. On the second floor are six guest rooms and three modern baths. The third floor has three guest rooms, two baths and servants' accommodations. Also on the property is a five-car frame garage.

The Sweeney agency also sold to the above purchaser additional ground adjoining the property and extending to Sea View ave., with the same frontage as on Ocean ave. The seller of this tract was Thomas P. McKenna of Orange, who previously owned the entire property.

Mr. and Mrs. Igoe recently sold their home in Allenhurst and contemplate maintaining their new home as their permanent summer residence.

Government Sued In Tank Accident

TRENTON—A civil suit for injuries and property damage has been instituted against the United States by Mr. and Mrs. Dominick M. Furiato of Brookdale farm, Lincolnton, and their three-year-old daughter Rachael.

In the suit filed this week in Federal court, the Furiatos through their attorney, William T. Wichmann of the Red Bank firm of Wise and Wise, are demanding $45,000.

The Furiatos allege that the government was responsible Apr. 15, 1953, for a 90-ton Army tank, which was being tested on Newman Springs rd., crashing into the Furiato car.

The complaint states that the tank, operated by Thomas J. Kelso of East Lincoln, N. J., a Highlands, a government employee, was driven on an excessive speed and that sufficient warning and safeguards were not used to warn approaching cars that this large vehicle was being tested.

The state police at the time of the accident stated that the tank was 12 feet wide and that the entire width of the lane of Newman Springs rd. was only ten feet wide.

The Furiato car was completely demolished and Mrs. Furiato, operator of the car, suffered injuries and was confined at Silver-lane hospital. The daughter suffered minor injuries but was released after treatment at Riverview.

Guy Lombardo's Band to Play At Turf Ball

Seventh Charity Event Set for July 25 At Monmouth Park

MONMOUTH PARK—The seventh annual Turf charity ball and carnival, one of the summer's outstanding events along the north New Jersey shore, will be held at Monmouth Park Saturday evening, July 25, following the afternoon running of the rich Monmouth handicap.

All proceeds of the night are to accrue to hospitals and charities, and to this sum the Monmouth Park Jockey club will make its customary donation of $25,000. Since the inception of the charity ball, $350,000 has been distributed among charitable organizations, doing much to alleviate suffering and sickness in the area.

Those attending the ball will get more for their money than a mere inward glow, however. Music will be furnished by Guy Lombardo and his famous orchestra, with dancing from 9 p. m. until 2 a. m. The usual glittering midway will be available with its games of skill, and there will be an auctioning of donated gifts, all helping to swell the charity fund.

Many sportsmen and sportswomen from Monmouth county, as well as from other sections of the East, have been sharing the duties imposed in insuring the success of the ball. Legal barriers this season which prevent the raffling of automobiles and the installation of games of chance have caused them to look around for new sources of revenue. They believe considerable of the effort will be taken up in dancing circles, and with a $5 general admission charge the largest crowd in the history of the event is anticipated. For those wishing to enjoy dinner at the clubhouse, a $10 fee is charged.

Sharing in the distribution of charity fund monies are such organizations as Monmouth Memorial hospital and Pitkin hospital, much of the sum allocated these groups being used to battle the scourge of infantile paralysis. Riverview hospital, Monmouth County organization for Social Service, Dr. E. C. Hazard hospital, Allenwood Tuberculosis hospital, motor corps of the county for Infantile Paralysis, American Cancer society and many other worthy charities also share in the distribution.

At St. James Catholic church Saturday, Miss Ann Marie Trafford and Richard Calt were married in a double ring ceremony at a nuptial mass by Msgr. Joseph T. Casey.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harmer Trafford of De-Normandie ave., Fair Haven, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Calt of Foster st., River Plaza. Mrs. Georgia Mason was organist, and Michael Bergin, soloist.

Mr. Trafford gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of white lace over satin, made ballerina length. Her three-quarters length nylon tulle veil fell from a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a prayer book with markers of white carnations.

Miss June Wahl of Keyport, the bridegroom's cousin, was maid of honor. With her tulle veil, she had a floral headpiece and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of pastel flowers.

The bridesmaids, Miss Carol Trafford, the bride's sister, and Miss Catherine Lockwood, Fair Haven, were dressed in the same styled costume in lavender. They also carried old-fashioned bouquets of pastel flowers.

Robert Calt of Red Bank was his brother's best man. Frank Trafford of Fair Haven, the bride's brother, and Jack Dnfard of Red Bank were ushers.

A reception followed at the Crystal Brook Inn, Eatontown. The bride's mother chose navy blue and white for her costume, with a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore beige and a corsage of yellow roses.

When the couple return from a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, they will make their home in Long Branch. The bride's traveling costume was blue linen with a matching stole, and accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Rumson high school and the bridegroom of Middletown township high school. He served in the Seabee corps and is employed in the office of the Naval depot at Earle.

GALLAGHER—CRELIN

EAST KEANSBURG—At St. Catherine's Catholic church Saturday afternoon, Miss Rose Marie Gallagher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Gallagher of Nevada ave., became the bride of Philemon Burton Crelin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Rev. Francis Gunner performed the ceremony, and a reception followed at the Knights of Columbus hall in Keansburg.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a ballerina length gown which had a lace bodice, with high collar and long sleeves, and a full skirt of net over satin. Her fingertip length veil fell from a crown of orange blossoms, and her cascade bouquet was white carnations and gladioli.

Miss Madeline Gallagher was her sister's honor attendant. Her dress was made in two shades of blue, with a deep blue bodice which had an off-shoulder neckline and a lace jacket, and a net tier skirt over satin. She wore a crown trimmed with sprays of forget-me-nots, and carried pink carnations and gladioli.

The bride's mother was attired in navy blue, and the dress had a shaded sash. Her accessories were white and navy blue. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue print with white accessories, and orchids.

Robert Charles Burnett of Liberty Corners was best man. James V. Gallagher, Jr., of Belford, and Michael Barna, Jr., Linden, the bride's brother-in-law, ushered.

For her wedding trip to the Pocomos, the bride wore a pink suit with beige and blue accessories. The couple will make their home on Monmouth st., Red Bank.

The bride is a graduate of Red Bank Catholic high school, and is employed by Vidge Products of Red Bank. The bridegroom, a graduate of Red Bank high school, is employed by United Parcel in their Red Bank depot.

MACNEILL—GAIN

RUMSON—Miss Nancy MacNeill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. MacNeill of Sycamore ave., Fair Haven, Saturday at St. George's Episcopal church became the bride of Donald C. Gain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gahn of Blackpoint rd., this borough. Rev. John Bloomquist, acting rector, performed the ceremony. Paul Thomas was organist.

Cobb Threatens To Revoke License

WAYSIDE—Charles Cobb, Jr., of Freehold and Hampton McDonald Claiborne of Dover, Va., were found guilty last night by Magistrate Walter N. Cobb of racing their autos on Cherry st.

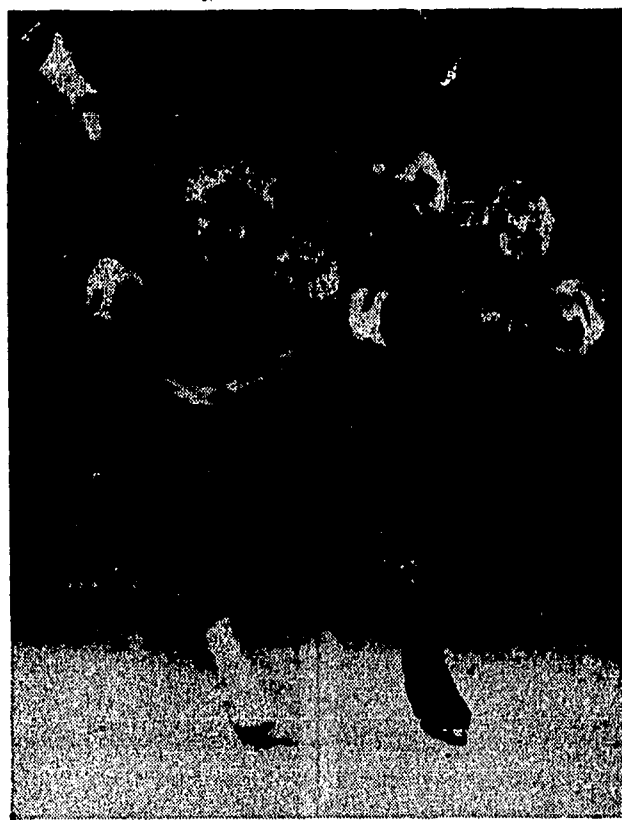

In addition, Cobb was found guilty of driving without a registration. He was given a warning of license revocation and fined $23. Claiborne had his Virginia license revoked for 30 days and was ordered to get New Jersey plates if he intends to work and live here. Special Officer William Brown made the arrests.

A Raymond Hankinson of West Allenhurst was fined $8 when found guilty of causing an accident while backing out of a driveway into highway 35. Judge Cobb found Howard Danowitz of Freehold not guilty of careless driving, a counter charge leveled by Hankinson.

Carson Harris of 542 Shrewsbury ave., Red Bank, was fined $5 for having improper tail lights.

The violations bureau collected ten fines of $10 each for stop street violations from John J. Alexander, West Front st., Red Bank; Samuel Keen, Camden; George Coffenberg, Jersey City; Joseph J. LaCorte, Teaneck; Arthur Rodin, East Orange; Audrey B. Roll, Neptune; John P. Armstrong, Perth Amboy, and Daniel K. Sobol, Newark. Ronald A. Hart of Belmar received a suspended $7 fine for a stop street violation, but paid $3 costs. Marcos Vasaya of Newark paid $10 for traveling the wrong way on a one-way street.

Holiday on Ice Headliners

Pictured are two of the reasons the Holiday on Ice of 1953 show at the Asbury Park Convention hall is acclaimed as the most thrilling event at the shore. They are lovely Joan Hyldoft and handsome Michael Meehan, blade stars who are appearing for the second straight season as headliners of the big ice show. The show ends its run Sunday, Aug. 2.

Champion Accused Of Grand Larceny

KEANSBURG—Ivan Champion, 57, proprietor of a concession here, was charged with grand larceny Monday in New York city felony court. Magistrate Philip B. Thurston released Champion in $1,000 bail pending hearing of the charge.

A complaint against Champion, lodged by Sam Pally of Debby Headware, Incorporated, New York city, charges that he issued a worthless check in making payment for $210 worth of hats bought June 29 in New York city. Owner of the hat company, Mr. Pally said the check was returned by the Wachovia Bank and Trust company of Raleigh, N. C., because of insufficient funds.

Champion was arrested by Detective John Delaney of New York city's Eighth squad.

Indecent Films Seized by Carton

ASBURY PARK—Prosecutor J. Victor Carton's campaign against indecent films went into action Monday night when five "minute movie" machines were removed from two amusement centers on the beachfront.

Mr. Carton said that all amusement concessions were warned early this year that lewd films would not be tolerated, and the machines were taken because the films were of nude women. He added that the confiscation came following an inspection of the boardwalk over the week-end.

No charges have been made, Mr. Carton said, against the operators of the Palace Amusements or the Beach Amusement company, but the machines will be taken before the grand jury.

Spokesmen for both of the raided places said they had been warned by Mr. Carton that indecent pictures would not be allowed.

N. Y. C. Magistrate Holds Saunders for Jury

PORT MONMOUTH—James Saunders, 20, of this place, was held in $1,500 bail for the action of the New York grand jury Tuesday by Magistrate Thomas H. Cullen, Jr., in New York city felony court. He is charged with the theft of $255 from Donald Busto, proprietor of Busto's restaurant, 11 Stone st., New York city, where he was employed as a busboy.

Arrested earlier this month Saunders is charged with failing to make a deposit of $255 given to him for that purpose by his employer. Mr. Busto said the deposit was not made and that Saunders did not report back for work.

Maher Denies Assault On Port Authority Cop

HIGHLANDS—William Maher, 42, of 33 Valley st. here, denied in special sessions court in New York city Tuesday that he attacked Patrolman John Fitzgerald of the New York Port Authority police May 22 in the bus terminal on 41st st.

Maher will stand trial Sept. 25 on an assault charge that grew out of his arrest for disorderly conduct. His sentence for disorderly conduct was suspended in felony court here. The patrolman charges that Maher punched him and attempted to kick him when he was placed under arrest as disorderly.

Gasoline Generator Provides Power For Riverview During Blackout

Although many communities in Monmouth county were blacked out Monday night as the result of a power failure, the situation was normal at Riverview hospital.

The hospital, equipped with a 35,000-kilowatt gasoline-driven auxiliary generator, carried on as usual. The auxiliary unit, which is under the care of Alfred Ferry, maintenance engineer, provides electricity to operate lights in the hospital's corridors, nurses and medication stations, operating rooms, obstetrical suite, nursery, and operates one elevator. The generator, according to Mr. Ferry, can operate as long as three days without being refueled.

When the power fails the generator "kicks in" automatically. The changeover is made so quickly there is no interruption in electricity other than a momentary "blink" of the lights.

Should the auxiliary generator fail during a power failure, operations can be performed with the aid of emergency battery banks in the operating rooms.

On hand for immediate use to provide additional light are half-mile portable lights. These can be used in patient rooms which are not connected with the emergency system.

Man Power Works As Electric Fails

LONG BRANCH—Manual operation of an iron lung motor for 2½ hours was necessary during Monday night's power failure at the shore to keep alive Shirley Will, 18-year-old Asbury Park ex-model and polio victim.

Miss Will, the only iron lung patient in Monmouth Memorial hospital's polio ward, suffered no ill effects because of the efforts of a group, including her father, Rudolph Will, and the hospital administrator, Ira Ernst, who worked the respirator's hand pump for more than two hours. Finally, a gasoline-operated generator supplied by Fort Monmouth relieved the burden.

The power failure struck from the Barilair river in Middletown county to Barnegat in Ocean county, and officials of the Jersey Central Power and Light company said it happened when a 33,000 volt line broke and fell on a 69,000 volt line. The failure came about 6:45 p. m., and about an hour later power was restored in some localities. However, in other sections it was still out until 10 p. m. Company spokesmen said some of the load caused by the short circuit at the Sayreville plant was taken up by the new E. H. Werner plant in South Amboy.

In Miss Will's case, the failure could have meant life or death. When it went off the motor on the respirator which keeps her breathing stopped running. The hospital's generator, which supplied power for the institution's lights during the emergency, was useless because it works off direct current only, and the respirator requires alternating current.

While the crew of hospital personnel hand-pumped the motor, an appeal to Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton, Fort Monmouth commander, produced a gasoline-operated generator within 15 minutes. However, this did not immediately solve the problem as the generator ran out of gas. Gasoline could not be purchased from service stations because the pumps were not operating during the power failure, but a solution was soon found when volunteers siphoned gas from nurses' cars. The generator was hooked up to the respirator motor.

Surgical instruments recovered from Pompeii include spatulas, lancets, tongs, scissors, midwifery instruments and others of outstanding technical excellence.

Eatontown

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ousterman, Villa pl., held a family outdoor buffet supper Sunday to celebrate Mrs. Ousterman's birthday and that of her father, Fred Gebien of Long Branch. Present were Mrs. Gebien, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook, Long Branch; Mr. and Mrs. Lyman B. Lockwood, Shrewsbury; Mr. and Mrs. James Wise, Mr. and Mrs. James Shea, Mr. and Mrs. William Gaynor, Rumson, and Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Campfield, Irvington.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Clementi, Myrtle ave., are parents of a daughter, Andrea, born Monday at Monmouth Memorial hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Clementi have three other children: Charles, Fred and Margaret.

Mr. and Mrs. James N. Wolcott, Sr., Buttonwood ave., are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. John Cargill of New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Warren McKraik of Lagrangeville, N. Y., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Meeks, Jr., Reynolds dr.

Mrs. James Wolcott, Jr., and son Paul, Buttonwood dr., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lamb of Saugerties, N. Y.

Mrs. Elmina Phipps of Murphree rd., Pine Brook, Friday completed her studies at the five-day workshop sponsored by the state department of education at New Jersey College for Women at New Brunswick for elementary and secondary school lunchroom cooks. Part of the national school lunch program, the workshop was arranged by Miss Janet N. Jardine, state school lunch supervisor, in co-operation with the home economics department of N.J.C.

Trapped Dog, Overcome By Smoke, Dies in Fire

MIDDLETOWN — Three township fire companies Tuesday night extinguished a blaze in Mrs. Charles W. Cooper's home off Tindall rd. here after two downstairs rooms were burned out and considerable smoke damage was caused upstairs where a trapped pet dog was overcome and died.

Middletown township fire company No. 1 at Headland Corner, Belford Independent company and Belford Engine company answered a call about 10:30 p. m., and were at the scene about two hours before the fire was extinguished. The fire started in the kitchen, according to Capt. Arthur Soden, of the Middletown company. Fire Chief Garrett Corson and Joseph Munch, second assistant chief of the township fire department, also were at the scene.

The earliest log cabins in what is now the United States were built by Swedes.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Met

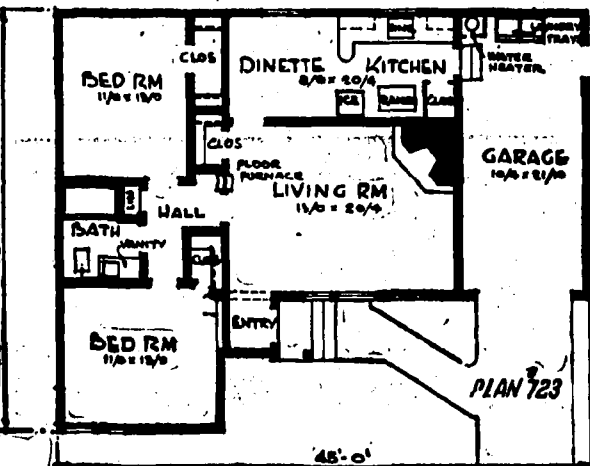

"GO WEST, YOUNG MAN, GO WEST"

FOR MANY GENERATIONS, AMERICA WAS ABLE TO LOOK TOWARD OPEN COUNTRY FOR GROWTH AND EXPANSION AND FOR OPPORTUNITY. PUSHING BACK THE WILDERNESS, OUR PIONEER SETTLERS STEADILY MOVED THE FRONTIERS WESTWARD AND FAMILIES FOLLOWED TO DEVELOP THE LAND WHICH THEY HAD OPENED UP.

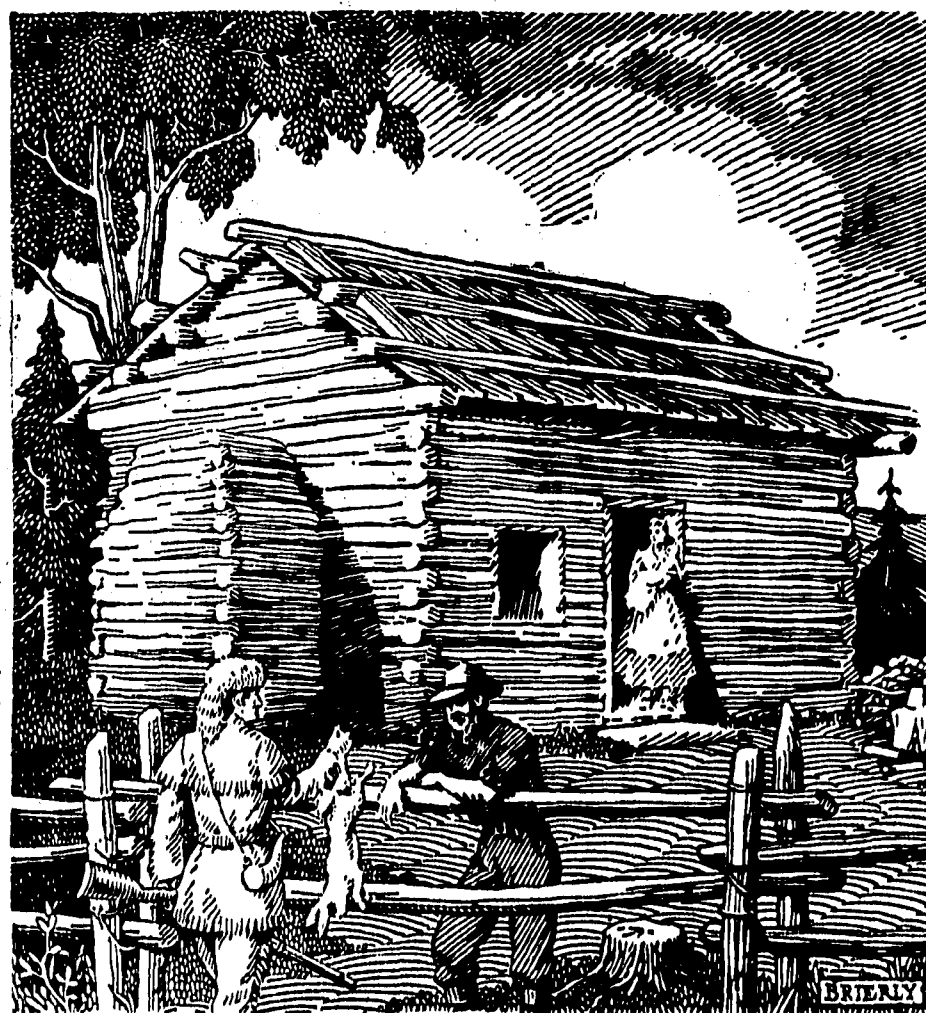

THE LURE OF NEW FRONTIERS STILL DRAWS AMERICANS—FRONTIERS NO LONGER ON THE MAP BUT IN THE MIND. AND AS NEW OPPORTUNITIES ARE OPENED UP, THROUGH INVENTION, THROUGH RESEARCH AND THROUGH PLAIN HARD WORK, FAMILIES FOLLOW THROUGH IN THEIR DEVELOPMENT BY STAKING THEIR MONEY, THROUGH LIFE INSURANCE AND SAVINGS, IN THE PRODUCTIVE PROGRESS OF THE NATION'S DEVELOPMENT.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures
A BRICK FRONT and colonial touches give variety to this design 1781 by McMurray & Chirgolis, architects, 988 Stuyvesant Ave., Union, N. J. Although the living room is ample to include dining space the third bedroom at the rear can be used for a dining room, or a maid's room, depending on family size and habits. This house, covering 1,000 square feet without garage, is being built and sold with lot and garage in New Jersey for $13,500.

LANDMARK IN HISTORY

1809, HODGENVILLE, KY. Birthplace of ABRAHAM LINCOLN

After his marriage in June, 1806, Thomas Lincoln and his young wife, Nancy Hanks Lincoln, set up housekeeping in this simple log cabin in Hodgenville, Madison County (now Laramie). Three years later, on Feb. 12, 1809, their first son was born. He was named Abraham, after his paternal grandfather, who came to Kentucky from Virginia about 1784 and was killed by an Indian soon after his arrival. It has been said that Lincoln's first ancestor in America came from Norwich, England, in 1636, and settled in Hingham, Mass. The log cabin, restored, is now a national monument in Hodgenville.

Home Economics

Drink More Milk

Milk contains a greater variety of food elements than almost any other food. Mrs. Lorna K. White, home agent, points out. It is especially high in calcium and riboflavin but contains good amounts of protein, vitamin A, thiamine, phosphorus and niacin with a fair amount of fat and vitamins C and D. Milk is a real food bargain. All but two of these food elements are found in the milk below the cream line. The cream or fat of the milk contains the vitamin A.

Some people think milk causes them to gain weight. It may if it is not counted as a definite part of the meal. Those who are concerned about their waistline could pour off the top of the bottle and drink the skim milk. An eight-ounce glass of whole milk has 166 calories, the same amount of skim milk or buttermilk has 84 calories and whole chocolate milk has 180 calories. Whether you are young, old or anywhere in between, your body needs calcium each day and no other food eaten daily supplies the same amount of calcium plus all the other nutrients found in milk.

Cheese is a concentrated milk product high in protein and containing the other food elements in milk minus the water. Cheeses vary in their fat content since some are made of skim milk and others of whole milk. Cottage cheese, a skim milk product, is high in protein but low in calcium as the whey drains from the curd most of the calcium is dissolved in it.

The agent suggests that if you make cottage cheese yourself, you save the whey for making pancakes or hot breads. Some soda with baking powder makes a lighter product.

Ice cream is America's favorite dessert and deserves to be eaten often, she believes. The many combination flavors and ways of serving ice cream, with or without a sauce, offer endless possibilities for variety. For that evening snack while watching television or before going to bed, drink a glass of whole or skim milk to add your daily health score.

Talking It Over

Two teen-agers have such definite ideas about everything in my home—marriage, politics, social status and even bringing up children, says a baffled parent. They are opinionated and feel strongly about these matters. Yet their ideas are almost ridiculous sometimes. I don't like to contradict them, because I know young people should feel free to have ideas. But sometimes, it's all I can do to keep quiet.

Why don't you just make them stop? It asks another parent. Young people are too fresh these days. They shouldn't be allowed to talk about things that are still beyond them. There's plenty of time when they are older.

A third parent who has been listening quietly asks—Are either of these actually the best approach? Does it help young people clarify their views when their parents keep quiet or make the teen-agers keep quiet? Isn't there a middle way where more balance can be achieved?

It is through the middle way that parents can help their adolescents explore ideas and develop a better understanding about current problems, says Mrs. White. This is not done by parents' keeping quiet or by parents' forcing their own ideas upon the young people. It is done through conversation where each person—youth and parent alike—has a right to express opinions. It is done when these conversations continue to be discussions and do not degenerate into a free-for-all argument where one person is determined to force the others to accept only his ideas.

The art of conversation is a very important part of family life. Marriage, politics and many other things are of concern to youth.

They need to build a foundation, because quite soon they themselves will be making decisions about their lives. Through talking it over at home, the young people will hear what their parents believe. Even more important they will hear the reasons for these beliefs. In this way, the young people are helped to gain through the experience of others. In the end, they will form their own judgments which may differ from their parents. Meanwhile, through discussion and conversation, they can profit from their parents' knowledge of life and wisdom of maturity.

Electric Wiring

Increased use of electricity during the last six years has made the wiring system in most older homes obsolete. And even some new homes have been built with wiring that just can't take care of electrical living.

Mrs. White says your home doesn't run smoothly and efficiently if you have to crawl under furniture to plug in lamps or move heavy pieces to connect an appliance. Unsafe and ugly octopus tangles of four or five extension cords plugged into a single outlet are just a small part of the annoyances of old-fashioned wiring.

In some homes, appliances take forever to heat and still worse, never do get hot enough to bake a waffle or even brown the morning toast. The equipment is not faulty, but the wiring is, says the home agent.

Or you may find that all you need to bring your wiring up-to-date is an extra outlet or two. But just add outlets if your circuits are already loaded. Outlets never increase the total amount of electricity available in your home. The flow or amount of electricity is dependent upon the size of the wire used and the length of the wires from the house panel to the outlets.

In many instances, your electrician may find that your wiring system needs another circuit or two in order that more outlets can be added. Don't disregard this recommendation if you want lights and work-saving electrical appliances performing at top-flight efficiency.

A baby born in the United States today has an even chance of living to the age of 65. This is twice the life expectancy of a baby born when George Washington became president.

Cloudiness on the bottom of a glass cooking utensil is caused by minerals in the water. It is easily removed by adding a tablespoon of vinegar to the water and then boiling a few minutes. Avoid using steel wool on glassware as it will scratch the surface. If it must be used, a soap and steel wool pad will not be so injurious to the surface as steel wool without soap.

Cottage Cheese Is Good

Low-Cost Protein Food

Whether you call it Dutch, cottage or pot cheese or know it by the Pennsylvania Dutch name of ameercheese, it's all the same cheese and a good addition to your meals during June Dairy month or any other time of year says Mrs. Lorna K. White, home agent.

This popular cheese was originally made in small homes or cottages for family use. When it was sent from Holland to England, it became known in the British Isles as Dutch cheese.

Cottage cheese is made of sour skim milk. The whey, mostly water, is drained off, leaving the coagulated curd, which is largely protein. This cheese compares with lean meat in body building qualities, weight for weight. When serving cottage cheese in place of meat, a large serving is necessary, not just a spoonful.

Cottage cheese contains some minerals and vitamins says the agent. The calcium is found largely in the whey which should be saved and used in baking where ever sour milk or buttermilk can be used. Store cottage cheese in the refrigerator and use it within a few days.

Dry cottage cheese without any cream added is especially good for those watching their weight. It is low in fat content.

The mild flavor of cottage cheese makes it possible to serve it often in combination with fruits, vegetables, as a main dish such as cottage cheese and peanut loaf or croquettes and in desserts.

Today's Hope Chest Differs

From Those of the Past

Look into the hope chest of this summer's bride and you'll find table covers and bed linens with both eye appeal and practicality.

Mrs. White says that for really gala occasions, many of today's brides choose an appliqued linen or organdy tablecloth in white, coral or pastel color, the organdy having a permanent finish. Such cloths are on the expensive side and require careful laundering.

Everyday place mats might include plastic ones which merely require a swish of a damp cloth for cleaning or fancy ones requiring washing and ironing but which are still easy to care for because they are small, the agent suggests. Some of the newest mats are of rustic-looking cotton, rayon, nylon and other new fibers. Textured effects, lovely colors and metallic threads make many practical place mats very effective on the table. For a complete tablecover, a striped rayon makes a tempting setting for an informal meal.

Mrs. White points out that blankets, both summer and winter weights, are now being made of nylon, rayon, acrylic or blends of these with wool or rayon. Without wool, these blankets do not attract moths or other insects, so the storage problem is lessened.

Some of these new fibered blankets have a tendency to ball up and look rough, a factor which some women dislike but which others are willing to accept because they don't have to worry about moth control. In any case, try a nylon plisse blanket cover. You'll find it attractive, easy to wash and needs no ironing.

New York's Coney Island seashore resort where thousands of people go on hot summer days is no called because it once was inhabited only by rabbits.

White-Crowned Sparrow

When winter has given way to spring and spring shows occasional signs of summer, the White-crowned Sparrows are in the height of their Northern migration through the Northern part of the United States. They have wintered south of a line running crudely from the Potomac and Ohio river valleys to Arizona and Southern Lower California. Their winter range extends well into Mexico. They breed north of Central California's mountains through Northern Arizona, Wyoming, Southern Quebec and Southern Greenland. The breeding range extends North, roughly as far as trees are to be found.

The White-crowned Sparrow, like its close relative, the White-throated Sparrow, is about one-half inch longer than a song sparrow, with a correspondingly wider wing spread. The length of the White-crowned Sparrow is about 7 1/2 inches. The easiest field character to distinguish the White-crowned from the White-throated is naturally the absence in the former of the conspicuous white throat of the latter. The White-crowned is also in general grayer. In both, the top of the head appears at a distance to be similarly black and white striped. Both appear as rather large sparrows and in migration they may be in flocks of small size, sometimes with other kinds of sparrows mixed in.

A college student, who was later a professor of zoology, was asked by his professor to collect some sparrows for use in laboratory and for feeding a captive alligator. The student, anxious to please his tutor, shot the largest sparrows he could find. They happened to be White-crowned sparrows. The professor probably meant English sparrows. A dynamic lesson followed on the importance of knowing one sparrow from another before any killing is done. This philosophy, according to the National Wildlife Federation, could wisely be applied to many practices associated with casual or intentional wildlife management.

Anyone who has followed a mixed flock of White-crowned or White-throated sparrows on a rainy spring morning and listened to their sweet sibilant songs, or who may have had any considerable association with the birds, would probably be the last to kill them simply because they were the largest sparrows available. The White-crowned sparrow seems to be whispering its call while the White-throated gives a high-pitched, sweet call that is just out of this world.

White-crowned sparrows feed to a great extent on grain and to a great extent on weed seeds. Their economic importance is probably neutral, but their emotional importance ranks high with those who know them best. During the summer months their food is primarily insects.

White-crowned sparrows usually nest in brushland or open woods, usually in hilly country. The nest of grass, roots and leaves, with a fine lining, is usually hidden in dense vegetation a foot or so above the ground. Four to five eggs, each nearly an inch long, bluish-gray to whitish, and spotted or dotted with reddish brown or brown, are incubated for about two weeks by the female. There is but one annual brood and the nesting and rearing period is usually in June and July. If you have not made the acquaintance of this delightful bird and live within the area of its northern migration this spring, then get out and get acquainted. You will thank me for introducing you to the bird, the bird for living, and wildlife protection organizations like the National Wildlife Federation for sending you this message.

HEALTH HINTS

(This column is contributed as a public service by the Medical Society of New Jersey and the Monmouth County Medical Society. Questions should be addressed to the Medical Society of New Jersey at 315 West State St., Trenton 8, N. J.)

Swim With Your Head

Safe swimming regularly involves the exercise of almost as much intelligence as it does muscular activity. Properly indulged, swimming is one of the most pleasant and refreshing forms of exercise. Nevertheless, through carelessness or lack of thoroughness it can—and frequently does—lead to tragedy.

The outdoor swimming season is an appropriate time to review the basic cautions that must be kept in mind by thoughtful swimmers:

Don't swim alone, or at night, or in fog that would obscure your distress signals.

Don't develop an exaggerated sense of your ability as a swimmer. Some of the so-called "best swimmers" drown.

Don't attempt strenuous swimming for at least two hours after eating.

Don't undertake distance swimming unless accompanied by a boat and someone trained in life-saving.

Don't swim beyond your depths in very cold water, or when you feel under par, or are markedly fatigued.

Don't "horse around" in the water. Fools can kill as surely as murderers.

Don't dive into unknown waters. Broken necks and broken backs are all too often divers' injuries.

Swim rhythmically and relaxedly while you chant to yourself, "He who swims the thoughtful way shall live to swim another day."

—Michael S. Newjohn, M.D.

Halibut Supperettes

4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons minced onion
4 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 1/2 cups milk
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup diced, cooked celery
1 pound cooked halibut
Melt butter, add onion and cook over low heat until tender, but not brown. Blend in flour and seasonings; stir in milk and cook until mixture boils and thickens, stirring constantly. Add lemon juice and celery; fold in flaked fish. Serve hot over split chicken biscuits. Serves 6.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Picture "A Day at Home"

IN A FAMILY album, if the pictures are identified, it's generally with a phrase like this—"Mother and Aunt Sarah at Yellowstone—June 10, 1950" or "Bobby and Julia—Bobby's birthday party—October 20, 1952," etc. Usually it's a somewhat special event that brings about picture taking for the album. I've always believed, however, that there were as many possibilities for interesting pictures in the happenings of a normal day about home.

Why not devote a section in your album to "A usual day at our house"? Equipped with a camera, a couple of rolls of film, a few flash lamps, and what promises to be a normal day, you're all set.

From the moment the children arise in the morning, you're certain to be busy all day long. You could start by taking pictures of them as they dress and get ready for the day's activities—Sarah as she brushes her teeth, Bobby as he struggles with his cowlick. Then there's the breakfast table—as familiar a scene as you probably know—but almost never recorded. Getting them off to school is another routine happening which will make a good shot, particularly if you take it from the front door as they go down the walk. Father, too, can be snapped from the same vantage point as he goes off to work.

As for mother's own day, a co-operative neighbor could be invited in for a while to take a few shots of her activities—perhaps one of her making out the shopping list, having mid-morning coffee, getting the car out to go downtown, even ironing or washing the dishes.

When the family again gathers, get pictures of evening activities that follow the normal pattern. If father reads to the children, helps them with their homework, or works on a hobby with them, shots of that would be excellent. So would one of mother knitting, as she watches a favorite program on television. Speaking of television, try sneaking up on the youngsters for a candid shot that will record the intense expressions as they concentrate on their favorite cowboy or interplanetary hero.

Keep your camera handy the whole day, and try shooting a "day at home." There'll be more opportunities for good pictures than you'll probably have time to take advantage of.

Know Your Government

Let Us—Not U. S.—Do It.

"We'll take less from government, if government will take less from us."

This should be the theme of taxpayers across the nation in support of the economy drive in Congress and efforts to bring Federal Government expenditures into balance with income, points out the National Conference of State Taxpayer Association Executives. In advancing the first seven appropriations bills of the current session, the House of Representatives trimmed about $1.8 billion dollars from original budget requests. But, warns the Taxpayers' group, back-home support will be needed to make the economy drive a success. One way to make big savings in Federal spending, points out the Taxpayers Conference, is to "stop depending upon the Federal Government to do the things for us which we should be doing for ourselves."

"Handouts" from the various levels of government to the next in line traditionally are expensive, especially for the man at the end of the line—the taxpayer. This truism has long been noted by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association which calls for "delegation of the various governmental functions to the lowest levels of government capable of fulfilling them efficiently and economically, thus placing maximum reliance upon the democratic process."

As a step in this direction and toward the disentanglement of the expensive and expensive program of Federal grants-in-aid to state and local government, the New Jersey organization also has endorsed, in principle, the Taft-Hartley bill in Congress establishing a Commission to study inter-governmental relationships, including grants-in-aid. These companion measures have won approval in both the Senate and House of Representatives.

Charter Act in Operation

From the level reaches of Cumberland county in southern New Jersey to the Hudson river in the north, municipalities—including New Jersey's largest—are in various stages of developing the new forms of municipal government provided in the Optional Charter Law of 1950 (Faulkner Act), reports the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

Vineland in Cumberland county July 1 observed its first anniversary as a city operating under the strong mayor form of government provided under the Faulkner act.

The same date marked the beginning of operations under the new governmental form for the City of Hoboken. The Hudson county municipality became the first New Jersey city to change from commission to the new strong-mayor type of government. This followed a charter study recommending the strong-mayor type and a referendum at which citizens voted for the change. During the proceedings a court action was brought in New Jersey Supreme court which upheld constitutionality of the Optional Charter Law.

In Ramsey (Bergen county) a charter commission elected last November has reported to the mayor and council. Charter commissions in Englewood (Bergen county), Parsippany-Troy Hills (Morris county) and Rahway (Union county) will submit their reports in the near future.

The charter study overwhelmingly approved by Newark voters in May is in full progress. The commission is holding a series of public meetings to obtain citizen sentiment on the form of government believed desirable for New Jersey's largest city.

As the result of a unanimous resolution by the Cedar Grove township commission, voters of that Essex county municipality will vote in November on the question of electing a charter commission.

According to recent reports, citizen groups in Hillside township (Union county) and the Town of Irvington (Essex county) are organizing drives to obtain sufficient signatures on petitions to have the question of electing a charter commission added to the November ballot.

Boro OK's Purchase of Police Car, Standby Generator, Lighting Truck

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS—Borough council Tuesday night accepted the $839 bid of Dender's garage and repair shop here for a 1953 Plymouth for the police department with an allowance, to waive the $1,714 total price, of $875 for the present car, a 1951 Plymouth that has registered more than 50,000 miles.

Also received was a bid from Weller Auto Sales corporation here. The Weller firm allowed $900 for the present car on the purchase of a Chevrolet priced at $1,761 for a bid of $861. The award followed council's adoption of a resolution declaring that an $1,100 emergency exists. The difference will provide for the transfer of the police radio and a special generator, and other costs. Council authorized Councilman Harry B. Murtha, chairman of the police committee, to secure bids at a meeting three weeks before.

Council adopted an ordinance providing for the purchase of a $4,000 standby Diesel engine generator for the water department and another providing for the purchase of a $3,000 light equipment truck for the fire department. The first ordinance provides for the issuance of $3,800 in bonds after down payment of $200 appropriated in the budget. The $3,000 for the light equipment truck will not be paid through a bond issue. Funds are available in capital account for the purchase. No objection was voiced at public hearing of the ordinance. Fire Chief Elbert Mason extended the fire department's thanks to council for the light truck.

Club Fee $150

Introduced Tuesday night was an amendment to the ordinance regulating the sale of alcoholic beverages. The amendment repeals the $500 fee for plenary retail consumption licenses and the $400 fee for plenary retail distribution licenses but drops the recently established club license fee of $400 to $150. This was an action dictated by reference to state law, Borough Attorney John M. Pillsbury explained. Council had set the fee at $400 in providing for a club license that will be issued to the Atlantic Highlands yacht club, but statutes set the maximum fee for club licenses at $100, Mr. Pillsbury said. Public hearing on the amendment was set for 8 p. m. Tuesday, July 23.

Council accepted a deed for a 13½-foot strip on East Highland ave. from Elizabeth M. Ray, who now lives in Massachusetts. The strip was a borough encroachment—it's part of East Highland ave.—on the Ray property, and receipt of the deed gives the borough clear title to the road and removes an encumbrance from the property that was instrumental in delaying its sale.

Borough Clerk Nelson H. Roberts was instructed to write the Civil Aeronautics Administration at Newark to obtain information relative to low-flying planes over the borough. Council's action followed receipt of a letter of protest from Edward A. Warren of Asbury ave.

Water Line Approved

Borough Engineer Craig Finnegan was instructed to conduct a survey of a storm sewer problem on Eyrie rd. Council authorized the installation of 150 feet of two-inch galvanized pipe on East Lincoln ave. at a cost of $200. The borough will furnish taps for the water line, which will run from a dead-end to a four-inch main on Navesink ave., and the work will be done by George C. Koepfel and Son of this place.

Joseph Schena, director of the municipal band, told Mayor Waldron P. Smith and council that an additional $500 is needed for the series of ten weekly concerts at the yacht harbor. Council has appropriated $500 for the band, and Mayor Smith told Mr. Schena that an appeal for contributions will be made. A fund drive has been successful in the past.

Mayor Smith reported the $180 contribution from Middletown township toward expenses of maintaining the "Operation Skywatch" post at the yacht harbor here. The Ground Observer Corps post has been in continuous 24-hour-per-day operation since last July, the mayor reported. He offered his congratulations to Clifford Barker, post supervisor, who Tuesday night received an award of merit at Trenton from Air Force filter center officials. Mayor Smith said the corps' building has been set on a new foundation and that lights and a telephone have been transferred there. Middletown township's contribution came after the mayor called upon surrounding communities to bear some of the load of protecting the area. No other communities have followed suit to date, he said.

Rosenfeld Takes Heating Course

WICHITA, Kan.—Samuel Rosenfeld, owner of Middletown Plumbing and Heating Supply Co., is here this week for a heating and air conditioning school offered by the University of Wichita in co-operation with the Coleman Company, Inc.

Mr. Rosenfeld is one of 42 Coleman dealers selected for special instruction in the classrooms and laboratories of both the university and the Coleman Heating Institute. The school serves to acquaint Coleman dealers with the newest developments in the field of home heating and air conditioning. The group also will study application engineering, merchandising methods and business administration.
