Neptune Aide Succeeds Smith

WEST LONG BRANCH—Neptune Township Committeeman Harry Larrison, Jr., will be sworn in tomorrow as the newest member of the Monmouth County Board of Freeholders.

Mr. Larrison, 40, a Neptune committeeman six years, was chosen Friday by the Republican Steering Committee to succeed Charles I. Smith, Allentown, who resigned a few days ago.

He was the choice of county GOP Chairman J. Russell Woolley and was supported since his entry into the race for the freeholder seat by Neptune Township GOP Chairman Richard W. (Wes) Stout and his son, State Sen. Richard R. Stout, R-Monmouth, 5th.

The committeeman, an Ocean Grove resident, received 20 of the votes held by 31 out of the 36 members of the steering committee.

The second highest in the secret balloting was Francis R. Hurley, Spring Lake councilman, who was given nine votes.

Mayor John E. Lemon, Jr., of New Shrewsbury and Joseph E. Robertson, Spring Lake Heights, each received one vote. Before the voting started seven other candidates withdrew.

After the votes were counted Mr. Hurley asked that the endorsement be made unanimous.

Hughes Introduces $906 Million Budget; Asks Income Tax Okay

TRENTON (AP)—Gov. Richard J. Hughes presented his long-awaited income tax budget today. It totaled $906.1 million, 40 per cent higher than any previous budget in New Jersey history. The current budget is $640 million.

He made a strong pitch for enactment of his $180 million-a-year income tax. He warned those who favor a sales tax that if they defeat the income tax there is a real chance no broad based tax will be enacted this year. "Then we can say goodbye to our hopes for colleges, for taxpayer assistance, for better schools, for improved institutions, for needed highways and for so many other attributes of a progressive state," he said in a 28-page message prepared for delivery to a joint session of the Legislature.

And he added pointedly that if there is no tax enacted, "then this Legislature manifestly will have much to explain to the people of New Jersey in the elections of 1967." This year's Legislature is the first controlled by Hughes' own Democratic party in half a century.

Gov. Hughes may also ask the Legislature for an emergency vote to postpone the March 20 deadline for the final adoption of municipal budgets throughout the state. The delay would give the towns more time to figure out the benefits they might reap from a broad based tax. Gov. Hughes may be able to push back the March 20 deadline by 10 days without asking for legislation.

The income tax was counted on for $236 million in revenue in the budget. The extra large return results from the fact that the tax year starts Jan. 1, 1966, while the budget year does not end until June 30, 1967, producing 18 months of tax income for the first time only. Most of the income tax money would be given to counties and municipalities in the form of added state aid for schools ($90 million), roads ($15 million), and health ($9 million). There would also be $50 million for college construction, $12 million for institutions construction, and $15 million for state highway construction.

In recent weeks, Hughes has issued specific lists of projects to be financed by the tax. He said skyrocketing school costs since World War II have fallen almost entirely on the local property taxpayer, because New Jersey has no income or sales tax. There are only two other such states in the nation. The school aid program he proposed should ease the pressure on property taxes, he said, and release some municipal revenue for other services that have been neglected.

Aid to Increase State aid to education would increase from $122 million this year to $226 million under Hughes' new budget. The entire state aid section of the budget would rise from $274 million to $410 million, becoming the largest portion of the budget by far, for the first time.

State operating expenses would rise from $302 million to $339 million, capital construction, bolstered by the income tax funds, would increase from the current $72 million to $157 million.

In spite of the big rise in spending, which was larger than the entire state budget of a decade ago, Hughes said he "proposes no unneeded luxuries." He said the budget is intended to keep New Jersey's reputation as the most economically operated state government in the nation.

As further assurance of economy, he recommended recreating an efficiency study commission with a $60,000 appropriation and earmarking $50,000 for management watchdog work by the budget division.

Hughes said the state stands at a pinnacle of prosperity and its people are no longer content to be among the most laggard in providing state services and while relying on a property tax that stems from colonial days.

Prosperity produced unexpectedly large returns from present tax sources, he said, giving the state an estimated surplus of $40.7 million to start the next fiscal year June 30. And current revenue sources should produce another $661 million. Thus, the state would have $338.2 million in revenue for the 1966-67 budget year.

Hughes proposed spending $306,128,433 in the next year. Coupled with $7.1 million in costs that would result from pending bills in the Legislature, the state would wind up the budget year June 30, 1967, with a $25 million surplus.

If the income tax were cut out of the budget, the result would be $708 million budget with a deficit of $5 million.

Allies Count 150 Enemy Dead

Cong Mines Kill 54 Viet Farmers

SAIGON (AP)—The Viet Cong mined three buses today, killing 54 Vietnamese civilians and wounding 18 in retaliation for an Allied operation that is rescuing a huge rice harvest.

Allied ground forces reported killing 150 Viet Cong in scattered clashes elsewhere in South Viet Nam in the past 24 hours, while U. S. planes hammered Communist targets in North and South Viet Nam. Guerrillas overran an outpost in the Mekong Delta, at Dinh Mon, and killed or captured all 11 defenders.

The death-dealing Viet Cong mines were set off on a road 10 miles southwest of Tuy Hoa, on the central coast where the U. S. 101st Airborne, South Korean Marines and South Vietnamese troops have been scouring the countryside for several weeks while the rice was being harvested.

An American spokesman said the first blast was touched off about 7:30 a.m., catching a busload of farmers and killing 27 and wounding 11.

The explosion left a crater nine feet deep in the road, hurled bodies along the roadside.

About an hour and a half later, the spokesman continued, a three-wheel vehicle used as a bus and jammed with passengers drove along the same stretch of road and touched off a second mine. Another 20 Vietnamese were killed and seven wounded.

An hour and a half later a second three-wheel bus drove on to the scene and set off a third mine. This time seven persons were reported killed.

The mining evidently was in retaliation for the rice harvest which has been highly successful in an area that until recently had to import 600 tons a month because the Viet Cong controlled a major portion of the crop.

The airborne brigade, which with Allied troops has killed 137 Viet Cong and captured 75 weapons in Operation Van Buren, reported that 51 per cent of the harvest is in, a total of 27,100 tons of rice now in government warehouses.

Cong Hideouts Found

Patrols found new Viet Cong attacked bridges around Dong hideouts today, including abandoned tunnels and fortifications. A battalion-sized camp was discovered near where the farmers were blasted. A spokesman said it contained about 40,000 rounds of small arms ammunition and had been deserted for about a week when the paratroopers converged on that district.

Some 50 miles southwest of Saigon, the Viet Cong early today attacked an outpost in Dinh Tuong Province manned by about 240 government militiamen. Planes and artillery finally drove the guerrillas back, killing five, a Vietnamese military spokesman said. Government losses were described as light.

Fighter-bomber pilots reported

Hoi and Tiger Island, a radar site in the Gulf of Tonkin. The overcast obscured results of the attacks, however.

Flood Warning Is Given

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

As much of the state began drying out from a dreaching Sunday, flood warnings continued today for the North Jersey counties.

A storm which had moved up from the Gulf of Mexico dropped up to 2 1/2 inches on New Jersey Sunday. The 24-hour total at Newark was 1.80 inches. The rains moved northward early today, and the weather bureau has called for only partly cloudy skies through tonight.

The State Civil Defense headquarters at Trenton warned residents in low-lying areas near rivers in Passaic, Morris, Essex, Bergen and Somerset counties to beware of flooding.

By midnight Sunday, many streams in North Jersey—some as far south as Princeton—had overflowed, flooding roadways and basements.

A one-mile stretch of Routes 1 and 9 in Linden was under two feet of water Sunday night. Several other arteries were temporarily blocked by flood waters.

CD officials said the flood warnings applied to the Raritan, Millstone, Ramapo, Pe-

Body Found Abandoned In Colts Neck

Probe Slaying of Perth Amboy Girl

FREEHOLD — For the second time in six months Monmouth County detectives and State Police are probing the murder of a young girl whose body was found abandoned on the side of a road.

Dead in the latest tragedy is Joanne Fantazier, 17, of Perth Amboy, whose body was found Friday on the frozen surface of Yellow Brook, 10 feet off a bridge on Muhlenbrink Rd., Colts Neck, in the Monmouth Consolidated Water Co. reservoir. She had been dead at least six hours when a New Jersey Bell Telephone Company lineman, talking a walk on a lunch break, found her.

The freeholder-elect faces a primary election threat from Long Branch Councilman Edgar N. Dinkelspiel who has gathered petitions for the contest. The primary is scheduled for June 7 but will probably be changed by the Legislature, which has a Congressional redistricting job to do which may tie in with reapportioning the Senate and Assembly.

Like Mary Ann Klinsky, 18, Raritan Township High School senior whose body was discovered off the Garden State Parkway, Holmdel Township, Sept. 16, Joanne had been struck on the back of the head with a blunt instrument, an autopsy showed.

But unlike Mary Ann, her body was fully clothed except for shoes, and she had not been criminally assaulted, Dr. C. Malcolm B. Gilman, county physician, reported.

The physician saw several similarities in the deaths of both girls, and said authorities have not ruled out a possible connection. Joanne was wearing a three-quarter length coat over a dress.

She was described as a pretty, brunette of medium height and build. A pearl ring still was on her left hand.

Dr. Gilman said she had suffered head cuts, probably when she dropped over the bridge to the icy surface. She died from a concussion and exposure but probably was alive when she reached Colts Neck, he added.

Police at Perth Amboy said Joanne had dropped out of school after an operation for appendicitis last year.

While Mary Ann Klinsky had been an orphan and lived with a brother and sister in West Keansburg, Joanne's parents, Peter and Elizabeth Charne Fantazier were separated. She lived with her mother and three sisters.

Kent F. Ditzel, 100 Branch Ave., Red Bank, was first to discover the body. He had forgotten his lunch and, while other Bell men with whom he was repairing a cable ate at their truck, he took a walk on Muhlenbrink Rd.

After spotting the body, he called to Joseph Gardner, 557 Westwood Ave., Long Branch, who joined him.

After other men had radioed for police aid, Mr. Ditzel was lowered on a Telephone Company lift to a position near the body which he secured by holding the girl's coat. State Police Det. Walter King and members of the Lincroft First Aid squad broke through the ice in a row boat

Howard Lauds GOP's Data; To Seek More Poverty Aid

WASHINGTON—A letter from Monmouth County's Shore Area Republican Club prompted Rep. James J. Howard, D-N.J., 3d Dist., to seek additional funds under the anti-poverty program for the southeastern Kentucky area of Appalachia.

Mr. Howard praised the club for calling the need for more help to his attention and also for sending more than 3,000 pounds of clothes to the poverty stricken families of Kentucky.

The congressman said he discussed the problem with Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity. The Office had approved an $83,856 planning and development grant to a multi-county organization. "This multi-county organization can offer the poor of Owsley County, Ky., and surrounding counties the means of meeting their needs through effective programs designed to conquer the causes and effects of poverty in this small area of Appalachia," Howard said.

"Owsley County," he said, "has no major industry and, consequently, many people are without jobs. The Planning and Development grant should generate expansion to nearby counties."

In a reply to Mrs. Barbara Bajor, Oakhurst, president of the Shore Area Republican Club, and Mrs. Hannelore Sweetwood, Elberon, the club's welfare chairman, Rep. Howard wrote, in part:

"The Opportunity Office is now co-ordinating the effort of many groups to help the disadvantaged citizens of Owsley County. Concerned citizens there are working with this group and increased participation by members of local planning groups should make possible an even more rapid flow of school supplies, books and other materials into these isolated communities."

Rep. Howard said volunteers, including college students, are helping the mountain people to be their own best sources of help toward a better life.

To date the Opportunity Office and other federal agencies have contributed $15,240,213 in helping Kentucky in the field of community action programs; Neighborhood youth corps; work study programs; adult basic education; burial loans program; job corps centers and Vista obligated monies.

Senate to Hear Conflict Bill, 24 Co-Sponsor It

TRENTON — A conflict of interest bill will be introduced in the Senate today carrying the names of 24 senators as co-sponsors.

The measure, which is supported by Gov. Richard J. Hughes, gives the State House Commission, an agency composed of the governor, legislative heads and Treasury Department officials, authority to hear charges against lawmakers and state officers who become involved in private interests that conflict with their public duties.

The legislation should clear the upper house with little trouble because it takes only 15 votes to pass a Senate bill, and the Democrats are in control by a 19-10 margin.

The commission would hear the charges filed against any legislator or state official but the final decision would still be up to the house of which a legislator is a member.

If the offender is not a legislator, the commission would take appropriate action. New legislative rules banning public hearings 60 days before an election, also apply to the commission, Sen. Ridolfi said. This is to avoid a possible political "witch hunt" during a campaign.

The governor vetoed a similar bill last year, saying it had no teeth. He contended it would make legislators judge and jury of charges against themselves.

LONG BRANCH — The 9-pound, 10-ounce son born at 2:38 this morning to Mr. and Mrs. John Welsh, 297 Hollywood Ave., West End, is the 1966 "Sweetheart of the Year," the first baby born on Valentine's Day in local hospitals.

The child born in Monmouth Medical Center, here, will receive hundreds of dollars in gifts from Red Bank merchants.

Addresses Monmouth County Democrats

Hughes Cites Tax Need

By WILLIAM HENDERSON

WALL TOWNSHIP — Gov. Richard J. Hughes has declared New Jersey will become "a sick state" unless new broad based tax revenue is found to cure its ills.

The governor addressed 760 guests attending the victory dinner-dance sponsored by the Democratic County Committee in Sea Girt Inn Saturday night.

"New Jersey is the sixth richest state in the nation and yet we must face this tax problem," Gov. Hughes said, adding: "No body likes a tax and I don't like a tax but we must have the money."

Gov. Hughes continued:

"Next month we'll be counting up votes on an issue which is political. The legislators are going to vote for one or the other form of broad based tax."

"The funds are desperately needed for various projects. It's a shame we have such a reformatory in Bordentown and that 1,400 retarded children are on the waiting list who need help."

The governor told the diners that 80,000 high school students

leges because of overcrowded classrooms in New Jersey.

Cites Rail System

"Our commuter system is sick and we have a state which could be poisoned by water pollution. We must have new revenue to remedy these critical conditions and build new institutions and colleges," Gov. Hughes said.

"An income tax would bear down less on 84 per cent of our people—the working man. The must go to out of the state col-

Long Branch Rule Vote Going to Supreme Court

TRENTON — The state Supreme Court will decide tomorrow morning whether to hear an appeal in the Long Branch change of government special election contest.

If the court accepts the case, arguments will be presented by City Attorney Louis R. Alkins and William Miller, special counsel for the Better Government League, at 2 p.m.

Unless the Supreme Court rules otherwise, an election to decide whether the city should switch from Council-Manager to Mayor and Council government will be held Feb. 23. The change is sponsored by the league over objections of a divided (6 to 3) City Council.

Petitions calling for the special election were held invalid by Superior Court Judge Elvin R. Simmill last month on grounds that they were filed prematurely.

He said the Faulkner Act, under which the city government operates, required a five-year waiting period after a new form of government became operative, before a change could be voted upon.

But the Superior Court appellate division, in a unanimous 3 to 0 vote, reversed Judge Simmill last week. It said the five-year period dated from the time of the Nov. 3, 1960, referendum at which Council-Manager government was adopted and that it expired Nov. 3, 1965.

2 Suspects Face Charges In Keyport

KEYPORT—Charges of breaking and entering and attempted robbery face two men wanted by police here for the entering of Patterson's Liquor Store, Rt. 36, Saturday morning.

The two men escaped capture by running into a swamp covered with a thick blanket of fog, according to Police Chief Leroy B. Huyler.

Police arrived at the scene when the men ran from the building. Three cases of Scotch whisky were found by the rear door of the store.

Police found an abandoned car rented from a Newark firm. While examining it, they were notified that a car owned by James English, 10 Maple Pl., had been stolen.

The stolen car was found a few blocks away, but the thieves had vanished again.

Local police were assisted by police from Matawan and Raritan Townships.

Detective Sgt. Frank Criscillo is investigating.

Set Sentence Tonight For Hovnanians

MANALAPAN — Magistrate Arnold Tanner is scheduled to impose sentence on Hovnanian Brothers, (builders of Yorktowne), tomorrow night for the developer's admitted failure to secure building permits for six houses.

A complaint against the firm was brought by building inspector August Grevesen and George C. Dates, vice president of Hovnanian, pleaded guilty in municipal court last Tuesday.

The complaint alleged that the developer had put in foundations for six houses on Gordon's Corner Rd. without securing building permits. The work was done last year, while an application for preliminary approval of the subdivision sections involved was still pending. No further construction has been done.

Final approval for the sections was recommended by the Planning Board at its last meeting, and further action is now up to the Township Committee.

It is a violation of Township ordinances to build before final approval has been received from the committee, and building permits issued.

Floods

quannock, Pompton, Rockaway and Passaic Rivers. No evacuations were reported Sunday night, but the rivers were expected to crest early today.

The runoff waters poured into North Jersey watersheds, contributing heavily to drought-stricken reservoirs. Sunday morning, the Wanauke Reservoir measured 8.68 billion gallons compared with 8.55 billion on Friday. Today's reading was expected to be considerably higher.

On Feb. 13 last year, the reservoir's storage totaled 7.4 billion.

Gale warnings were posted for the Cape May area Sunday night.

In the Lake Hiawatha area, where police and firemen were deluged with phone calls to empty flooded basements, the fire chief found a particular problem. A pump in his own basement overheated, caught fire and had to be extinguished.

Road crews in North Jersey worked through the night repairing cave-ins. The entire center of a part of Kingston Road in Lake Parsippany collapsed.

Although there was a rash of minor accidents, police reported no major mishaps attributed to the weather Sunday or today.

Santo Domingo Again Seems On the Verge of Disaster

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The disquiet and smell of disaster, so familiar at the height of last April's Dominican revolution, pervades the heart of Santo Domingo.

Streets get dirtier and emptier, people seem angrier, shuttered homes even more hostile and quivers of apprehension increase as one drives from the western part of the city toward the downtown sector.

Plumes of dirty gray smoke give off an acrid smell as they rise from burning mounds of garbage uncollected for weeks. Many people are in black—some mourning lost ones, others the occupation of the city by foreign troops.

Gunfire crackles sporadically here and there in the old part of town laid out 470 years ago. Amid the carnival of disorder and hate, authority seems an anachronism.

The old rebel enclave has been restored in spirit, if not in actual fact. Mounting resistance to the country's military leaders is finding its most eloquent expression in the 20-square block area where for four months last year rebel "constitutionalists" fought for survival of their ideals.

Although the old military checkpoints have disappeared, it's difficult and probably more dangerous to get into the central sector these days. Roving bands of teenagers throw rocks at almost every passing vehicle. This being a baseball-minded city, excellent throwers are in abundance.

Snipers fire with apparently less concentration on specific targets and stray bullets are the norm, not the exception.

For this reason, traffic into the center of town is at a minimum. Foreigners, particularly Americans and especially newsmen, are not welcome. However, the Americans are represented right in the middle of it all by a company of 82nd airborne paratroopers.

"It gets pretty lonely in here, even at noon," said Lt. John Counts, 24, of Denver, Colo., by way of saying Dominicans had not been too sociable lately.

"We keep our boys moving about just so the snipers won't get used to seeing them in one place too often," he said.

The Americans are under orders not to fire unless ordered. The angry mood downtown is the result of a wave of disorders that began last Wednesday and has taken 17 lives so far. The violence set off a strike, mostly in government offices and the sugar industry. Its chief purpose is to force two more military leaders to obey a presidential order transferring them abroad.

The chief target of the constitutionalists, Armed Forces Minister Francisco J. Rivera Camilleri, finally left the country last week. But to get him to go, Provisional President Hector Garcia Godoy rescinded his order transferring two of the three chiefs of staff.

Former President Juan Bosch, the leader of the constitutionalists, said the strikers don't want to destroy the military because "without armed forces there can be no country." But he added that most Dominicans "also know there can be no country if the military does not respect civil authority."

$439 Million Urged For State Education

TRENTON (AP)—The biggest education spending program in New Jersey history was proposed by Gov. Richard J. Hughes today, a $439 million outlay he characterized as a cornerstone for greatness.

The program adds up to nearly half the entire state budget he submitted to the legislature. Much of it would finance mandatory items such as teachers' pensions and existing state aid programs. But it also contains a flood of new recommendations including a $90 million boost in state aid to local schools, $33 million for college construction, expansion of scholarship programs allowing some students to receive as much as $1,000 to help pay their college bills, and $25,000 for planning a new four-year college in heavily populated northeast. He specified Bergen County.

Hughes had touched on many of the proposals previously in his campaign for a state income tax but was more specific in the budget message.

Many of the projects, particularly the construction and state aid levies, hinge upon enactment of an income or sales tax. He prefers an income tax.

"Education is the cornerstone of our economic growth," the governor told the lawmakers.

"And educational opportunity always has constituted the principal legacy of each generation of Americans."

He repeated his contention that New Jersey is sorely lacking in college facilities while homeowners are saddled with spiraling property tax bills to pay for the costs of education at the grade and high school level.

"This budget recognizes the fact that the state must better assist its heavily burdened communities by including the $90 million in additional aid which was proposed in my fourth annual legislative message," he said.

He said his proposals for college construction would provide room for 59,000 students at Rutgers University, the six state colleges and Newark College of Engineering. The total enrollment at state colleges now is 33,000.

The governor also proposed $2 million to finance additional construction at the Rutgers Medical School and under a matching program with the federal government and authorized by the legislature last year.

He recommended $1 million for expanding the Marie H. Katzenbach School for the Deaf.

Hughes underscored his education recommendations as the key to making New Jersey great.

Three weeks ago he told the lawmakers he wanted them to be remembered as the education legislature.

"As far as the imagination of man can reach, as far as public treasury can reasonably extend, we pledge an ever-growing portion of New Jersey's patrimony to this, the most enabling responsibility of men," he has said.

Police pieced together this account of the fatal mishap: Mr. Roberts, eastbound on the highway, drove into the rear of a car driven by Kenneth Wojcicki, South Amboy. The Roberts car then veered into westbound lanes, causing a head-on collision with the McGinnis vehicle.

The Shouter car, westbound, slammed into the wreckage. No charges have been filed, pending completion of investigation.

A car driven by Thomas R. Carroll, 31, of 123 Harmony Ave., East Keansburg, hit one driven by Robert A. Schuur, 25, of 58 Roosevelt Cir. The accident was at Bray and Central Aves.

In the second accident, cars driven by Mrs. Marjorie Maines, 44, of Box 268A, Thompson Ave., East Keansburg; and Miss Nancy F. Maliszewski, 22, of 15 Sunset St., Keansburg, collided at Palmer and Verdun Aves.

"We're going to win the tax," Gov. Hughes concluded. Rep. James J. Howard, D-N.J., 3d Dist., said:

"The other night a few people (650) of the opposition party attended a dinner here. One speaker told about the importance of the two-party system. I agree with him on that point, but how could he tell people to go out and vote only for Republicans and say nothing about the Democrats?"

"Unfortunately we have only one responsible party in New Jersey—the Democratic party."

County Democratic Chairman P. Paul Campi praised Sheriff Paul Kiernan, who also was an honored guest.

"Paul Kiernan has made all residents in the County aware of the importance of Democratic representation," Mr. Campi said. Mr. Campi is an undersheriff.

Mr. Kiernan urged the re-election of Rep. Howard. "Leave no stone unturned to see that he returns to Congress," the sheriff asserted.

Other guests on the dais were Freeholder and Mrs. Eugene J. Bedell; Surrogate and Mrs. Donald J. Cunningham; Mrs. Cecile Norton, state committeewoman, who arranged the dinner; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. McGinnis, Jr., Ocean Township Mayor John J. Reilly and Mrs. Mary G. Reilly, vice chairman of the county committee.

Crash Kills Madison Man In Matawan

MATAWAN—A Madison Township man was killed here Saturday afternoon in a four-car accident on Rt. 34 near Crescent Pl. Identified as Harvey Roberts, 21, of 24 Venus Rd., the man was declared dead on arrival in Perth Amboy General Hospital.

Admitted to the same hospital with a fractured leg, chest injuries and multiple cuts was George McGinnis, 22 Abbott Ave., Ocean Grove.

John Shouter, 1470 Osborne Ave., Bay Head, and his wife, were released from the hospital after treatment of minor injuries.

The Shouter car, westbound, slammed into the wreckage. No charges have been filed, pending completion of investigation.

A car driven by Thomas R. Carroll, 31, of 123 Harmony Ave., East Keansburg, hit one driven by Robert A. Schuur, 25, of 58 Roosevelt Cir. The accident was at Bray and Central Aves.

In the second accident, cars driven by Mrs. Marjorie Maines, 44, of Box 268A, Thompson Ave., East Keansburg; and Miss Nancy F. Maliszewski, 22, of 15 Sunset St., Keansburg, collided at Palmer and Verdun Aves.

"We're going to win the tax," Gov. Hughes concluded. Rep. James J. Howard, D-N.J., 3d Dist., said:

"The other night a few people (650) of the opposition party attended a dinner here. One speaker told about the importance of the two-party system. I agree with him on that point, but how could he tell people to go out and vote only for Republicans and say nothing about the Democrats?"

"Unfortunately we have only one responsible party in New Jersey—the Democratic party."

County Democratic Chairman P. Paul Campi praised Sheriff Paul Kiernan, who also was an honored guest.

"Paul Kiernan has made all residents in the County aware of the importance of Democratic representation," Mr. Campi said. Mr. Campi is an undersheriff.

Mr. Kiernan urged the re-election of Rep. Howard. "Leave no stone unturned to see that he returns to Congress," the sheriff asserted.

Other guests on the dais were Freeholder and Mrs. Eugene J. Bedell; Surrogate and Mrs. Donald J. Cunningham; Mrs. Cecile Norton, state committeewoman, who arranged the dinner; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. McGinnis, Jr., Ocean Township Mayor John J. Reilly and Mrs. Mary G. Reilly, vice chairman of the county committee.

Police pieced together this account of the fatal mishap: Mr. Roberts, eastbound on the highway, drove into the rear of a car driven by Kenneth Wojcicki, South Amboy. The Roberts car then veered into westbound lanes, causing a head-on collision with the McGinnis vehicle.

Christians and Jews Pray for Dying Rabbi

DETROIT (AP)—In churches and synagogues, Jews and Christians joined yesterday in prayers for Rabbi Morris Adler who lay near death after being shot by a young member of his congregation.

Police said Wisnietzky had been under treatment recently for a nervous condition and had received counseling from Rabbi Adler.

The 59-year-old spiritual leader of 6,000 Detroit-area Jews remained in critical condition at Sinai Hospital, where he was admitted Saturday for emergency brain surgery.

His assailant, Richard Wisnietzky, 23, remained on the critical list at nearby Providence Hospital where he was taken with a self-inflicted bullet wound. He was not expected to live, the hospital said.

At Shaarey Zedek Synagogue in suburban Southfield, scene of the tragedy, the 1,000 children of the congregation prayed for the recovery of Rabbi Adler.

And, said Leonard Antel, the school administrator at the synagogue, many words of sympathy were said for Wisnietzky, brilliant honor student at the University of Michigan and recent psychiatric patient, who shot the rabbi, then himself, during a sabbath service.

A spokesman for the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit said there were prayers in most Catholic churches for the recovery of Rabbi Adler and his assailant.

Some 125 persons of the Roman Catholic, Congregationalist and Methodist faiths were among the approximately 600 who watched helplessly Saturday as Wisnietzky shot down the rabbi, then turned the 32-caliber pistol on himself.

The Christians had been invited to the ecumenical service at the synagogue.

Behind Ear Dr. Harry Cass, chief neurosurgeon at Sinai, said Rabbi Adler was shot through the left arm and behind the left ear. A mechanical respirator helped him breathe, Cass said.

The sabbath service was nearly completed when Wisnietzky appeared on the dais of the synagogue. The cantor had begun the "prayer of the dead," when Wisnietzky fired one shot into the ceiling to attract attention, then began reading from a sheet of paper.

Wisnietzky's rambling discourse was recorded by a tape recorder which had been set up for the bar mitzvah, or confirmation, of Steven Frank, 13.

On the tape, Wisnietzky was heard denouncing the congregation for alleged "phoniness and hypocrisy." At the end of the statement, he muttered, "rabbi." Then three shots were heard and the congregation began screaming and wailing.

Burned-Out Family Gets $100 House

KEYPORT — It's not every day you get a bargain like this—a house for $100.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Nelson, Sr., 286 Osborne St., got such a bargain from the Board of Education last week.

The two-story frame dwelling the Nelsons purchased from the board is on a lot the board needs for the expansion of the Central School. It was offered twice, but there were no bidders.

The Nelsons, currently residing with a daughter, lost their home in a tragic fire which claimed the lives of two youths Dec. 12.

Offers by the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post, its auxiliary and Kiwanis Club to help in moving the house two blocks to the 286 Osborne St. address prompted the Nelsons to purchase the house.

No cost for the moving job has been set, but the Nelsons have received offers of assistance from other civic associations.

Hughes Introduces Top State Budget

Hughes included the programs to be supported by the income tax in the budget. Economy-minded legislators face the unpleasant task of cutting out the spending items one by one, if they want to reject the tax.

Additional programs to be financed from the income tax include: $5.5 million for commuter railroad aid, $2.5 million to save municipalities from losing any revenue under a planned reform of business property taxes, $750,000 for scholarships to private colleges, and $250,000 for added graduate scholarships and fellowships.

The biggest chunk of the budget was allocated for education. It was listed for $439 million, almost half the budget. The school aid and college construction increases accounted for most of this. The college construction figure would increase from the current $1 million to $52 million.

When added to bond issue funds, the college programs would increase student capacity at state-supported schools from the present 33,034 to 59,000.

Hughes recommended that $25,000 be set aside for advance planning on a new four-year college to be built in the northeast Metropolitan area. He meant Bergen County, he explained to newsmen.

In addition to the $12 million for institutions construction, Hughes recommended an $8 million increase for operation of the Department of Institutions Agencies. Much of this would go to add 961 new jobs.

Most of the new employees would be attendants at hospitals and social workers in the Bureau of Children's Services. The increased salary cost would be $2.8 million.

Other state agencies would get 1,045 new jobs, representing about a 6 per cent increase in the state's work force and adding $5.8 million to the budget. This would not include the added help needed to collect an income tax. The income tax bill, introduced a week ago, appropriates $3 million for collection costs.

Pension costs for state employees, school teachers and police and firemen will climb from $94 million to $111 million.

Hits Sales Tax

Hughes wound up his speech with an expression of distaste for a sales tax.

"No matter how palatable its supporters seek to make it, the general sales tax would strike a severe blow at the poor and those of moderate income among us," he said.

Proponents of a sales tax have been talking of a measure that would cover clothing, shoes, fuel oil, coal, kerosene, aspirin and other necessities, he said.

"I, for one, cannot recommend a tax that penalizes a working man when he buys a new pair of shoes for his child or a coat for his wife or when he fills his oil tank to heat his house," he said.

He credited most sales tax supporters with a sincere recognition of state needs, but added that they were assuming that defeat of an income tax would be followed immediately by passage of the sales tax.

"I would strongly caution anyone interested in meeting the needs of New Jersey against such an assumption," Hughes said.

The Legislature planned to start a three-week recess after hearing Hughes' message. The Appropriations Committee will hold hearings on the budget during the recess.

The governor has called for a mid-March vote on the income tax, which he has said "will separate the men from the boys" in the Legislature.

Loan Report Is Presented

ASBURY PARK — In the six months since the opening of the Small Business Development Center, a total of $208,370 has been approved for disbursement as economic opportunity loans and a bank participation loan for $5,000, Wilbert C. Russell, acting executive director, said last week.

The funds will stimulate 18 businesses, 10 of them new ones, and will provide jobs for persons on the unemployment rolls, Mr. Russell said.

The SBC staff has counseled more than 300 persons seeking loans, Mr. Russell said. He said more than 160 persons attended the four small business workshops held in the Monmouth Shopping Center, Eatontown, under sponsorship of the Small Business Administration, Newark, and the local SBC.

The SBC was created to make loans under the Economic Opportunity Act (anti-poverty act). The eligibility requirements, tightened in mid-November, make loans available only to persons with marginal incomes. The SBC is considering setting more realistic requirements based on an applicant's net worth, Mr. Russell said.

The SBC office here is processing 300 applications now, Mr. Russell said. He estimated these will result in disbursement of $150,000 to $250,000 a month in loans.

Viet Nam

In South Viet Nam yesterday and early today with a total of 333 sorties which a spokesman said destroyed 530 buildings and damaged another 360, sank 16 sampans and killed an estimated 70 Viet Cong, reports from spotter planes said.

Peking's New China news agency said a U. S. high altitude Drone plane was shot down Sunday over North Viet Nam's Ninh Binh province. It said it was the 15th pilotless reconnaissance plane downed in the north.

In developments abroad, the semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al-Ahram said President Gamal Abdel Nasser and President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana will meet in Cairo next Monday for a new attempt to get the opposing factions in Viet Nam to negotiate. Al-Ahram said Nkrumah will go on to Rangoon, Peking, Hanoi and Moscow.

Canadian Foreign Secretary Paul Martin will go to Washington Saturday for talks with Secretary of State Dean Rusk that are expected to center on Viet Nam. Mr. Martin will confer with UN Secretary-General U Thant.

Peking, Hanoi and Jakarta continued pouring out attacks against the west.

President Ho Chi Minh sent Nasser a message charging that the United States is "burning all, destroying all, killing all, using napalm bombs, poison gases and toxic chemicals to massacre the civilian population in vast areas of North Viet Nam." He expressed confidence that the Egyptian leader would "take part in stopping the vile maneuvers of the United States in Viet Nam."

Peking's New China News agency accused the United States of using Formosa as a base for "extending its aggressive war against Viet Nam" and for "planned aggression against the Chinese mainland."

Hanoi's official daily Nhan Dan accused Japan of assisting the United States in Viet Nam. The newspaper also accused Thailand of sending troops to Laos to fight with Royal Lao forces in Laos against the pro-Communist Pathet Lao which control the eastern area of Laos through which the Ho Chi Minh trail runs from North to South Viet Nam.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived in Bangkok with assurances that the United States does not intend to back off from its firm stand against the Communists in Southeast Asia.

Radio Jakarta broadcast an appeal from Indonesian President Sukarno to the Philippines not to send troops to Viet Nam "to help the United States."

Tallest and Best, Say Keyport Pupils

Class Lauds Abe Lincoln

By DORIS KULMAN

KEYPORT — Young Abe Lincoln read a lot, studied hard, and the fourth-graders in Mrs. Charles Clemons' class here agree, grew to be the tallest and best President this nation ever had.

"He would travel miles for just one book," Lisa McCann, 11 Green Grove Rd. noted in a composition written in honor of Lincoln's birthday last Friday. And reading in Lincoln's time was not as comfortable as reading in ours, Lisa pointed out. "He did not have electric lamps, because electricity was not invented yet. But that didn't bother Abe, because he would read by the firelight," she wrote. "Abe read a lot and learned a lot."

Their compositions show the children were impressed, too, with the death of young Abe Lincoln's mother and his father's remarriage. The Lincoln household was in need of a wife and mother, many of the youngsters noted, because there was no one to cook or clean.

"His 11-year-old sister did not know how to make soap. And the house was getting full of bugs," Stephen Roberts, 79 Broad St., wrote.

"Abe Lincoln grew fast," George Henn, 154 Broad St., wrote. "He grew so fast he soon became big enough to be a lawyer."

Lincoln was a bit of a non-conformist, Linda Mackason, 79 Fulton St., observed.

"He had a tall black hat," she wrote. "He didn't dress like other people. They thought he was queer. But he was an honest man even if he didn't dress like other people."

Lincoln "wanted to free all the slaves," Evelyn Mary Fenton, 276 First St., wrote. "He stopped the war between the North and South. He was in a debate about slavery. He wrote the Gettysburg Address."

But, she continued sadly, "When he married he married a very cross woman. She was a Todd."

Many of the fourth-graders touched on Lincoln's tragic death.

"Abe Lincoln was in a theatre...," George Henn wrote. "All at once a shot rang out. Our 10th President was no longer living. 'Some people ask themselves, 'Where is Abe?' George continued. He concluded, truly, "He lives in the heart of everyone."

BREAKTHROUGH FOR YOUTH leaders of the Middle-town-Red Bank District Monmouth Council Boy Scouts are Robert Lyon, district organization and extension committee chairman; Robert S. ## Teachers in Newark Set to Return Today

NEWARK (AP) — Newark's teachers, over half of whom struck the state's biggest public school system for two days last week, were to return to their classrooms today.

The Newark Teachers Association, which struck the system in a dispute over the amount of proposed salary increases, voted Sunday night to return to work and turn the problem over to an impartial arbitrator.

The NTA is the teachers' bargaining agent.

The rival Newark Teachers Union, which had partially honored the strike Thursday and Friday, met Sunday night and applauded the show of unity by the NTA and NTU "in securing what appears to be a $700 increase this far, not including the normal increment."

An NTU spokesman said NTU teachers would return to work Monday with their NTA co-workers. The question of not returning never came up, he said. The NTU struck the school system Dec. 2 and 3 over which group should represent the city's teachers.

NTU leaders were fined $3,700 for striking in violation of a superior court injunction barring the strike.

The NTA strike last week was in violation of a similar court injunction and 39 NTA representatives were to appear in Superior Court today to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court.

Meanwhile Prof. John T. Dunlop, chairman of the department of economics at Harvard University, was due to begin hearings today in an effort to resolve a deadlock in the size of the salary package provided in the 1966-67 school budget.

The NTA membership voted Sunday night, by a 6 to 1 majority, that Dunlop's findings would be binding.

The NTU, while going along with the NTA's decision, said it regretted the NTA's decision to abandon negotiations in favor of binding arbitration.

Even some members of the NTA were disappointed in the decision to leave it to Dunlop. One woman told the NTA meeting, "I lost two days pay and gained nothing. We should end the strike only after a settlement."

Another NTA teacher, Marvin Tintsky, said he was backing the arbitrator only because the association's negotiators committed themselves to the board of education. The negotiators agreed Friday to ask the membership to call off the strike and put the dispute before an arbitrator.

About half of the city's 3,200 teachers stayed away from their classrooms during the two-day strike, the second in the city's history, causing school officials to send about one-fifth of the students home from school.

Ruth M. Buehrer, NTA president, said Sunday the NTA was seeking an across-the-board pay boost of $1,000 and the city was offering $700.

Earlier NTA leaders said they were seeking a $1,000 increase for teachers at the top of the pay scale and $800 for others.

Newark Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio said Friday the board was willing to give the teachers a $700 increase.

The current minimum salary is $5,600 with a top of $10,100.

Addonizio called the board's offer, which would provide a starting salary of $8,300, "the highest salary for any urban center in the United States."

Like Skirts, Not Ski Pants Find Women Prefer Glances

NEW YORK (AP) — A British doctor tells girls to wear ski pants to work in winter instead of short-skirted skirts. Some American women hold no brief for the idea, one declaring: "They (skirts) might be a menace to health but ski pants won't attract as many eyes."

Apparently the "eyes" have it for a host of women who readily acknowledge that they dress to please men, not the weather, an Associated Press sampling of women's views reveals.

Dr. Geoffrey Taylor, an expert on illnesses caused by low temperatures, said Sunday in his laboratory in Cricket Malherbie, England, that "these skirts, four inches above the knee, are ridiculous as protection against the British winter," adding:

"Girls would be more efficient employees if they wore ski pants, and men would work better if they wore long underpants."

Counters Mrs. Sharon Gunderson, a housewife of West Los Angeles, Calif., "I just don't see what difference it would make. You can get just as sick being overheated in ski pants as you can getting frozen in short skirts."

A cocktail waitress in the Los Angeles area comments: "Sure they're a menace. But what's so special about winter? There are men around all year."

Susan Coburn, 23, of Columbus, Ohio, thinks ski pants for Robert C. Bellas, county promotion director, reported that Mrs. Theodore Moreau, auxiliary president, stated the members were "very favorably impressed," and that they found suggestions they had presented earlier had been met.

Another Ferry Restaurant Due?

SEA BRIGHT — Borough Council Friday learned of a plan to moor a 100-unit boat in the Shrewsbury River here.

The governing body received a letter from the state Alcoholic Beverage Control. It advised that Howard Roberts, a Middletown attorney, asked the ABC for a ruling on the legality of a liquor license for such a facility. The ABC ruled it appears to be within the law.

It was learned that a ferry boat would be converted into the planned boat-restaurant-bar facility. The name of the person represented by Mr. Howard has not been revealed.

Louis R. Aikins, borough attorney, said the plan raises legal questions on zoning, taxing and borough jurisdiction issues involved.

Council, which agreed the plan is a surprise to the body, tabled the issue for study.

Six Hired at Little Silver To Teach Remedial Reading

LITTLE SILVER — The Board of Education has hired six teachers for its federally financed remedial program for some first-through-sixth-graders.

Each of the teachers will work five hours a day, two days a week, at $5 an hour.

The board has received a federal allotment of $10,055 for the program, designed to help the culturally and educationally deprived, under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The teachers hired last night will take over classroom duties during the 2½ hours each week the regular teacher will spend with the deprived children in the class.

The program also includes a remedial summer school.

It will provide additional school psychological services for the youngsters and home visits by the school nurse.

C. David Vanderhoof, superintendent of schools, said the parochial schools in the area have nominated a small number of youngsters for the program. They will attend the public school here one-half day each week, he said. Under the federal education act, the program must be available to all youngsters residing in the borough, including those attending non-public schools.

Mr. Vanderhoof said children participating are expected to improve at least one-half year above their anticipated improvement in a regular class.

After 600,000 miles at a penny per mile,
"Diesel knock" sounds like the sweetest music this side of heaven

The Mercedes-Benz 200 Diesel makes one of its infrequent stops for fuel—a tankful can take you 500 miles.

The Mercedes-Benz 200 Diesel costs $4,142. At stoplights, people may perk up their ears at its "pocketa-pocketa" sound. But it can chop your fuel costs in half. And can keep doing it long after other cars are on the scrap pile. Old stuff to over 500,000 Mercedes-Benz Diesel owners. Take 3 minutes to find out for yourself.

MR. JESSE L. GRAY of Albany, Oregon bought a Mercedes-Benz Diesel in 1957. Since then he has rolled up over 600,000 miles—at a fuel cost of slightly less than one cent per mile.

But a Diesel saves more than fuel expense. "The total operating cost," Mr. Gray reports, "has been 4.6¢ per mile. This figure includes repairs, tires, fuel, insurance and depreciation."

Stunning proof of Diesel economy. And quite beyond the grasp of even those tiny gasoline-powered cars.

The Diesel secret

The 200D burns diesel fuel, cheaper in most places than the cheapest gasoline. And burns it at a stingy average rate of one gallon every 30 miles.

A Diesel is far more efficient than any gasoline engine. Fuel is fed by injection nozzles directly into the combustion chambers. Sheer compression ignites the fuel—not a spark. A Cadillac's compression ratio is only 10.5 to 1. The 200D has a compression ratio of 21.0 to 1. Result: 30 percent more fuel energy is converted into power.

A further economy: no spark plugs, no condensers, no distributors, no points—not even any carburetors to adjust or replace. The engine block and other moving engine parts are extravagantly strong. Durable enough, in fact, to last tens of thousands more miles than conventional engine parts.

Technical sidelight: Diesel fuel helps lubricate engine parts while they work. By reducing friction, this cuts wear. Piston rings are often still serviceable after 250,000 miles.

Forget the ear plugs

That combustion inside a Diesel engine produces the sound commonly known as "Diesel knock." It's audible mostly at idling speeds and under 20 mph. Thirty years of Mercedes-Benz refinement has made it more of a "Diesel murmur" in the 200D—as CAR LIFE magazine attests: "Once under way, things quiet down and many unsuspecting passengers are surprised to learn that they've been riding in a Diesel."

Note: Many veteran Diesel owners prefer a little noise. Without it, they say, people wouldn't know it was a Diesel. The 200D may be something of a status symbol, at that.

500 miles on a tankful

Thousands of highway transport trucks and buses use diesel fuel. While not handy at every corner gas station, it isn't hard to find. And once you've tanked up, the 200D can cover 500 miles before needing a refill.

More than an engine

You'll find many other remarkable things in the 200D besides its engine. No seasick wallowing in curves, for example. No bouncing or pitching on potholed back roads. The 200D's fully independent suspension comes from the 300SLR—a world championship Mercedes-Benz sports racing car.

One reason for this suspension's perfect balance: its coil springs are graded before assembly in 4 tests. Each car gets a precisely matched set.

Welded at 10,000 points

The 200D won't age to the tune of squeaks, rattles or groans. Its body is a taut steel shell, welded in 10,000 places. Far stronger and more twist-resistant than separate body-and-frame types that must be bolted together.

Trustworthy brakes

The 200D supplies braking power you dare not expect from commonplace cars. The secret: front disc brakes. No heart-stopping "fade" in repeated hard use. No swerving in sudden stops. For extra security, the 200D uses a dual circuit brake system. If one system ever failed, a "back-up" system would instantly act to halt the car.

More reassurance: brake, steering and suspension parts on the 200D are hand tightened with a unique torque wrench. The moment exact tightness is reached, this wrench squirts a blot of yellow paint. Visible proof of perfect adjustment.

Squelching muscle fatigue

Orthopedic physicians dictated the 200D's large, firmly upholstered seats. Your body is so correctly supported that 600-mile trips leave you rested and relaxed. Even the rear seat—an afterthought in so many modern cars—is carefully contoured.

Skeptics: Check the 200D's interior dimensions with a tape measure. Then compare them with a large domestic car. Surprise—the 200D is as roomy, and in many cases roomier. It's shaped around its occupants—not a styling theme.

Mercedes-Benz and safety

Mercedes-Benz considers safety a sober obligation—not a public relations problem. Safety starts with the car's basic design. The 200D body is a patented safety feature. Front and rear sections are designed to yield on violent impact, absorbing shock before it can reach the passenger area. Roof and windshield pillars are rigid. Door locks are designed to keep doors shut in collisions from any angle. Inside, safety padding extends even to the steering wheel hub. And super premium-grade 4-ply tires are standard equipment.

Shift in Foreign Aid

After a year-long top level review of the U.S. foreign aid program, the President has presented the verbal outlines of what he called a "bold and daring" response to the needs of developing nations. Instead of stressing a goal of expeditious industrialization, which represents an impossible leap for many peoples, the President recommended a program to "help give the people of the less developed world the food, the health, the skills and education . . . to lead their nations to self-sufficient lives."

As part of a new approach to foreign aid, the President proposed to base American assistance on "a severe and exacting" application of criteria of self-help through economic, fiscal and social reforms, including population control. Observing that the United States can never do more than supplement the efforts of the developing nations themselves, Mr. Johnson candidly pointed to the need for recipient countries to take firm steps of their own to supply their food needs, to fight disease, to combat ignorance and to refrain from wasting their resources "in political and military adventures."

The clear purpose of the proposed reorientation, as it should be, is to concentrate aid funds in a more limited number of nations which help themselves. To focus the U.S. program in the planned new directions, the President requested increased amounts for agricultural, educational and health aid, with the details to be spelled out in successive messages.

It is at once evident, however, that the overall figures in the foreign aid message, for reasons which are obvious though unstated, do not support the professed bold new approach. In requesting a total of $3.38 billion for fiscal 1967 — $2.46 billion for worldwide economic aid and $917 million for military aid—the President was asking for the smallest appropriation in the 18-year history of foreign aid. But the significant fact is that the military assistance allocation does not include the figure for South Viet Nam, which is incorporated this year in the Defense Department budget. The costly war in Viet Nam, with its unforeseeable drain on resources, is undoubtedly having an effect on foreign aid, as on other Johnson Administration projects.

The tragic truth seems to be that, until the Vietnamese conflict is settled, the United States is not prepared to devote its energies to the hunger, the illiteracy and the population growth which the President rightly labeled as a challenge to our own security and a threat to the future of the world.

Common Market Thaw

Ever so slowly, Western Europe is moving toward greater unity. The brake on this movement remains President de Gaulle of France. But it is not difficult to observe a thaw even there.

Meeting with other market members in Luxembourg, France ended its seven-month boycott of the market. The French president had two factors pressuring him — the growing economic interdependence of Western Europe and French disapproval of his antagonism to the market.

At the meeting, France made little headway on the restrictions it sought to impose upon the market's executive commission, such as: The 10-point directive that would have curbed commission power (now reduced to seven minor suggestions), a deadline for appointing a new commission (now subject to prior agreement), and a demand for retaining a veto in the council of ministers on issues vital to France but contrary to treaty obligation (now limited to an agreement to disagree).

President de Gaulle has further improved the market situation by toasting West German Chancellor Erhard in Paris and expressing the expectation that Germany would one day be peacefully reunited. This came as a surprise to the West Germans. It cost De Gaulle nothing and may help lubricate market operations.

Further, it is reported that the British see fresh signs that before too long they will be asked to join the market. They view De Gaulle as concerned with West Germany's growing economic strength. They theorize that he would be amenable to Britain's entry as a counter-balancing force that would share his concern for German growth. The market still seems to revolve around De Gaulle, as disillusioning as this may be for other nations. It is good to know, however, that the market is once again out of the French drums.

How to Save on Taxes

In the series of eight columns starting today, you will find vital facts and guides to help you save money and avoid costly mistakes in preparing your 1965 income tax return.

First, protect yourself from unnecessary trouble by avoiding the following most common filing errors: —Not attaching all the Forms W-2 reporting the pay which you and your wife received from your employers.

—Incorrectly listing your Social Security numbers or incompletely reporting your address.

—Not checking the correct block for your filing status—such as single, or married filing joint return, etc.

—Checking off the wrong blocks for your personal exemption and dependents—particularly not noting that dependent children who live with you are listed on page 1, not page 2.

—Listing various items of income or deductions on the wrong line.

—Not signing your return.

IT'S A VIRTUAL certainty your individual return will be checked for mathematical errors. About one out of every 25 persons does some wrong arithmetic which forces him either to pay up what was under-paid or to collect a refund of a mistaken overpayment. And astonishingly, one-third of those making mathematical errors overpays. Last year the most common reason for overpaying taxes was the taxpayer's failure to take the minimum standard deduction to which he was entitled.

Remember too that, in addition to a mathematical check, about one of every 23 individual taxpayers is called to an Internal Revenue Office for an examination of his return.

Here are other important tax savings points which you must not overlook in preparing your 1965 return. None of these is clearly pointed out in the form itself.

The income averaging provisions added for the first time for 1964 are just as valid for 1965. In view of the high earnings, bonuses, profits and short-term gains in stocks realized by many last year, income averaging will apply to you now. In general, a tax saving is possible under this break if your 1965 taxable income is at least $3,000 greater than 133 1/3 per cent of your average taxable income for 1961 through 1964 inclusive. Take a few minutes to make a quick calculation before you finish your return. You may be able to cut your '65 tax bill through income averaging.

MILLIONS OF YOU who traded in stocks in 1965 will have paid state transfer taxes on your stock or security deals. These taxes are deductible in full, so if you show your sales price after deducting the state transfer taxes, you are short-changing yourself. What you should do is show the gross sales price less commissions, and deduct the transfer taxes separately on page 2 of Form 1040. Because Form 1040 has no line under "Taxes" for transfer taxes, you easily may overlook the deduction. Write in "State transfer taxes" and the amount of the taxes directly below the line for Personal Property taxes, on page 2 of Form 1040.

Another important tax saving for which the form provides no separate line involves any excess Social Security tax you paid because you worked for more than one employer and your total pay for 1965 exceeded $4,800. If so, total the Social Security taxes withheld from your pay by all your employers. Say this comes to $185. The amount over $174, or $11, can be claimed as a direct reduction of your '65 tax. Squeeze this in on line 17a, writing in "FICA" to the left of the entry.

Finally, if you use the tax table method to figure your taxes, you will find only three tax tables this year. If you are single, use Table A. If you are married or an unmarried head of household (or a widow or widower entitled to lower tax rates), use Table B. Table C is for the rare case of married couples filing separately.

Itemized Deduction Guidelines.

Drunk or Alcoholic?

The argument now before the Federal courts that chronic alcoholism is a sickness and not a crime is a knotty one. There are variables in drinking. The average drunk who sits glassy-eyed behind the wheel of a car, or who fancies himself a Don Juan at a party, is not an alcoholic. He's a part-time sot.

BISHOP

A long time ago, men like Peabody of Boston, Burlingame of Connecticut and Wister of Philadelphia laid down the dictum that an alcoholic is one who is ruled by the bottle. The degree of intoxication and the frequency are but minor determinants. "He drinks," said Wister, "not because he wants to, but because he must."

He was probably the first to say that, in the case of the true alcoholic, "One is too many and a hundred are not enough." The first city magistrate I knew who noticed that the same offenders kept coming back under arrest was William Mehler of Hackensack, N.J. In 1945, he began to think of it, not as a crime, but as a psychological condition.

Mehler sentenced drunks to read a book called The Glass Crutch, a biography of Wister, an alcoholic and a doctor of alcoholics. It didn't do much good. The book merely made the victim acutely conscious that he was in a trap.

CHIEF MAGISTRATE John Murtagh practically circumvented the law by refusing to send chronic drunks to jail. He put many of them in hospitals. Still, the hospitals were poorly equipped to handle these cases and, worse, didn't want to. The doctors had little understanding of the problems which shove a man to his own doom.

Treatment consisted of sedation and an oral gem of wisdom, such as: "For God's sake man, buck up. Quit it. You're killing your wife." As soon as the victim was dried out, he was shipped home trembling and guilt-ridden, to face the domestic lecture. Often, he was back in court within a few days.

Bellevue Hospital discharged two from the psychiatric division on the same afternoon. They were fortyish men, squinting and shivering in the sun. They bought two bottles of cheap gin, drank most of it on the corner, and staggered down to the East River and hopped in. They were back in the hospital in the record time of one hour and 50 minutes.

What to do about it? First, I believe the laws of the several states must be altered to acknowledge that, while drunkenness is a crime, chronic alcoholism is a sickness. And right there is the big knot in this problem—defining the two. In the United States there are about four million men and women who are sick and beyond control.

IT ISN'T GOING to be easy to pluck them from the once-in-awhile bar files. It is a task for court-appointed psychologists. Especially those who major in alcoholic therapy. Once a drinker is certified by qualified psychologists as a chronic alcoholic, the court should place him in medical detention for treatment.

In sum, treatment is ordered whether the victim wants it or not. After proper hospitalization, rehabilitation can begin with a series of psychological treatments. Throughout, he is on court parole, which can be revoked at any time he doesn't follow treatment.

Wister used to say that the weakness in psychological treatment is that, in time, the boozier gets to understand so much about the bottle that he fancies himself an expert. "Sometimes," he said, "I push my patients toward a controlled relapse, to teach them that nobody truly understands this disease."

Alcoholics Anonymous, of course, has done more to assist alcoholics to understand themselves, and to resist drinking, than any group in the world. The catharsis of listening to others worse off than yourself, and the communion of working together to save a fallen brother is beyond price. A.A.'s ten steps toward a better life are inspired.

THERE ARE GRADATIONS of alcoholism which are difficult to assess. The once or twice a week drunk may not be an alcoholic at all. On the other hand, the sweet little old lady who sips a casual sherry at a lawn party may be a closet drinker. The boozier who drives a car may kill sober people and this one is the most vicious of the lot.

He fogs off before he leaves the tavern and, most of the time, he makes it home without trouble. Sooner or later, he will do it once too often. When he sobers up, it is all news to him and he tells the police that he didn't mean to hurt anybody.

The distillers of America have always been opposed to overdilution because it gives their business a bad name. They earn a nice profit on casual drinking. Why don't they put some money into the legal matter of changing the law so that the chronic alcoholic can be properly treated, while the careless drinker goes to jail, where he belongs?

Alcohol doesn't make an alcoholic. Problems do . . .

Robert S. Allen, Paul Scott: Inside Washington

Guantanamo Bay Threatened

WASHINGTON—Russia is building seven mysterious underground weapons sites near the heavily fortified U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

The sites, suspected of being launching bases for new-type Soviet ground-to-ground rockets, are within three miles of this country's stronghold on the Communist-ruled island.

Latest information gathered by U.S. intelligence sources within Cuba indicates the underground "missile" sites range in size from 70 to 100 feet in length, 20 to 35 feet in width, and from 15 to 75 feet in depth.

Construction work, which involves the pouring of large quantities of cement, was started about three months ago and is continuing at an accelerated pace since the first of the year.

U.S. efforts to photograph the sites have been only partially successful because of the limitations put on reconnaissance operations over Cuba.

Reconnaissance planes flying off the coast of Cuba are photographing the construction work at regular intervals, but none of the pictures show the deep side of the sites because of the angle at which they must be taken.

THE PHOTOGRAPHS, now being carefully studied at the Pentagon, reveal that in all instances the side of the site closest to the Guantanamo base is the deepest part of the underground "missile" base.

Significantly, the far side of the site contains several manmade shelves in step-like formation from the bottom to the top of the "big hole," as the sites are being called in backstage intelligence briefings. These "steps" are being covered with a heavy layer of cement.

COMING MISSILE CRISIS?—In warnings similar to those given in advance of the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, intelligence experts are telling superiors that the sites are being constructed so that several missiles or heavy mortars can be installed and fired from each of them.

Cuban refugees, whose information is largely being ignored by high-level U.S. authorities, are frankly saying that Russian and Cuban technicians are working on the sites, and that they are part of a network of military installations that Castro is building to neutralize the powerful U.S. naval base.

These refugee "informants" contend that once the sites are completed and the missiles operational, Castro intends to issue an ultimatum to the U.S. to withdraw from Guantanamo or its forces there will be destroyed.

If this warning is accurate, as many of the refugees' past reports have been, the U.S. could by next fall face a missile crisis as sinister as that which rocked the world in 1962 during the Kennedy administration.

U.S. officials so far have done little about these mysterious installations, other than trying to figure out what the Russians and Cubans may have up their sleeves.

No high-level or low-level flights directly over these targets have been ordered because of White House policy not to "rock the boat" in Cuban waters while the Cuban refugee airlift program is underway.

SHUTTING OUR EYES—This intelligence gap could be as damaging to this country's security as the CIA's failure to overfly Cuba in July-August 1962, when eight Soviet bloc ships arrived with electronic, radar and construction equipment for IRBM sites.

A Russian ship added to the site mystery recently when it tried to steam through Guantanamo Bay without accepting a U.S. pilot. When a U.S. destroyer challenged the Soviet ship by crossing its bow, the Russian skipper backed down and two U.S. naval tugs then escorted the Red vessel back to the open ocean.

John Chamberlain: These Days

Passports and 'Equal Protection'

The "equal protection" clause of the Constitution is an honorable one, and the ancient theory that the privileges and immunities of the citizens shall be equal is the very cornerstone of Anglo-Saxon—or, indeed, any other—justice. But, as of this moment of writing, there has been no indictment of Yale Professor Staughton Lynd, Communist theoretician Herbert Aptheker, and "New Leftist" Thomas Hayden for having traveled illegally to the "out-of-bounds" Communist nation of North Viet Nam. They have had their passports lifted, and that is all.

I am not trying to be mean in raising the point about indictment, for the utility, if not the justice, of prohibiting travel to some of the world's trouble spots can certainly be questioned. But the truth is that the penalties for breaking the travel ban regulations seem to be applied in discriminatory ways. Some people get slapped at once; some get it worse than others; some are indulged for months before there is any movement to punish them.

BACK IN 1963 a young man named Philip Abbott Luce took a group of "students" to Castro's Cuba. A year later he helped organize a second trip to Fidel's out-of-bounds Communist paradise. For doing this he not only had his passport revoked; he was also placed under federal indictment for his law breaking. Stefan Martinot, Levi Laub, and Anatole Schlosser were his co-defendants. At present Martinot, Laub, and Schlosser are waiting for a Brooklyn judge to reach a decision in the case. Luce himself, having disowned his previous ties with the Progressive Labor Movement, the dissident Communist group which was implicated in organizing the Cuban trip of 59 students, is apparently receiving special treatment for helping the government in obtaining information about the doings of the "Maoist" Left.

Well, if Luce, Martinot, Laub, and Schlosser were deemed subject to indictment for going to Cuba, or for helping to organize trips for others, how can a government that is founded on the idea that the privileges and immunities of the citizens shall be equal fail to indict Staughton Lynd, Herbert Aptheker, and Thomas Hayden for doing precisely what Luce, Martinot, and Laub did? Fair is fair.

AGAIN, EVEN in the matter of passport revocation, the law seems to be applied at an uneven tempo. The students who went to Cuba in 1963 and 1964 lost their passports quickly. Lynd kept his long enough to take a little trip to London after his return to Yale University from Hanoi. When Lynd did have his passport canceled, the State Department finally got around to withdrawing the passports of four youths who journeyed to Hanoi from a youth festival in Finland last August. This latter punishment was meted out only after a five-month lag.

The American Civil Liberties Union, which is currently meditating on taking the Lynd passport case to court, obviously thinks it might be considered unconstitutional to forbid travel to countries against whom we have not officially declared war. This columnist thoroughly deplores Staughton Lynd's attitude about the Vietnamese War (to me, it is a completely just war, for it is being undertaken in defense of a weak nation that has been shamefully and immorally attacked by an organized conspiracy of totalitarian imperialists.) But the fact that Staughton Lynd is blind to facts does not mean that it is a good thing for the U.S. government to forbid travel.

The passport regulations prohibiting trips to places like Cuba, Red China, and North Viet Nam mean that the American people are forced to get their news about proscribed countries from law breakers like Lynd, or from Englishmen like Felix Greene. This Greene, it will be remembered, thinks Mao Tse-tung is just wonderful because he eradicated "corruption" through the simple expedient of killing some 25 million people who might have been crooks if they had been allowed to live.

The passport laws are bad. But as long as they are on the books, they should be applied without favoritism.

Highlands Air Force Base Deactivation Said Planned

RED BANK — Paul Zar, 152 Spring St., said yesterday that he has been informed that the Highlands Air Force Station is scheduled for deactivation in December and may be transferred to use of the Army.

Mr. Zar, who is chairman of the Citizens Committee for a Monmouth County Community College, said he favors establishment of a two-year county program at the installation if it becomes surplus property.

In a news release, Mr. Zar, who is a government employee, said he has had correspondence on the point with the Air Force Department. He said he has been advised that the Army "has indicated a possible continuing requirement for the station in connection with the existing fire direction center for the New York-Philadelphia defense area."

County May Get It

If the transfer does not materialize, Mr. Zar said, the county may be eligible to acquire the base through the Department of Health Education and Welfare for use for educational purposes.

He said he has asked the department to keep him informed and added that he will relay pertinent information to the Monmouth County Board of Freeholders.

Mr. Zar also renewed criticism of the freeholders for having permitted two and a half years to have elapsed while a special committee was studying the county's need for a county college program.

The new program on natural beautification, sponsored by President and Mrs. Johnson, and actively promoted by the First Lady, is expected to be evident in the forthcoming show.

The more than 46 gardens will cover the complete range of gardening activities from formal gardens to beautified backyards. Among the displays were rose gardens, azalea gardens, orchid gardens, gardens of bright annuals and perennials, enormous trees up to 80 feet high, fountains, brooks and cobbled terraces.

The international flower show, which first opened in 1913, is a non-profit operation sponsored jointly by the Horticultural Society of New York and the New York Florists' Club. Chairman of the board of the international show this year is Dr. Albert J. Irving. John F. Edwards is executive director.

Among the major gardens the Kodak Photo Garden is the largest, featuring rare plants and trees, brilliant geraniums and cineraria and live flamingoes.

Sterling Forest Gardens will again present an all-white garden with drifts of white rhododendron, azaleas, laurel and white flowering quince, against an evergreen background. Lily of the valley, English daisies and white candy-tuft will make sharp contrast against green ground covers and grass.

In the two major amateur areas, the Garden Club of America and the Horticultural Society of New York, a wide range of exhibits from 1,000 foot gardens down to an individual pot of African violets will be seen. The two clubs estimate that they will have nearly 1,500 entrants in more than 200 classes.

The Rumson (N. J.) Garden Club will participate in the Garden Club of America competitions again this year.

Mrs. Norman C. Ramsey, Rumson, is chairman of entries for the club. The members will enter a number of artistic arrangements, horticulture, ground cover, evergreen cuttings, mailing class and decorative terrariums. Among community planting exhibits, Rosedale Nurseries will show a "Town Plaza" complete with contemporary planting of linden trees, yews and junipers, setting off masses of porcelain blue and white pansies. Private exhibitors will include Mr. and Mrs. John Hay Whitney who will show a tropical garden with rare varieties of small orchids. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Glenn Mook will present an informal spring garden. A brook will flow through masses of brightly colored primula into a quiet pool bordered by a rock garden planted with small spring flowering bulbs. A tanbark path will wind among clumps of white birch and beds of flowers. Educational exhibits will include booths by Rutgers University, Cornell and the Agricultural University at Farmingdale, L. I. The Florists' Telegraph Delivery and New York Florists' Club will have exhibits of cut flower arrangements for all types of occasions. For the fourth consecutive year, a design school will be conducted by the Metropolitan Retail Florists of New York. Five one-hour sessions will be held daily, with accommodations for more than 200. Classes in flower arranging also will be held by the Horticultural Society and Garden Club of America.

The Recalcitrant Cook

At Home With Her Range

"I'm sure cooking must have its place, but I've never been quite able to find it," said Peg Bracken, the other day. "That is, either cooking is out in left field or I am."

Miss Bracken is a syndicated columnist and author of the best-selling "I Hate to Cook Book." The book's three million-plus sales prove that quite a few homemakers feel the same way. Being a realist, however, Miss Bracken believes that we'd better be grateful to the kindly and imaginative folk who have made cooking more automatic than traumatic.

"Once, when I was first married and living in an antiquated and frigid beach house on Lake Erie," said Miss Bracken, "I was cooking on an old kerosene stove. Mercifully I forget exactly how the thing was put together, except that it never should have been put together in the first place.

"It had circular fabric wicks around each burner, as I remember, each one with millions of little holes in it. No timers, no heat controls, no removable burner plates, no nothing. And one day I let a large pot of molasses taffy boil over, all over everything.

"I think you have to have spent a long weekend cleaning hardened molasses taffy out of four million burner holes to appreciate fully how far science has come."

Best Friend Miss Bracken feels that even heat elements and thermostatic controls like those on modern electric ranges are the pre-occupied cook's best friend.

"The last thing I want to do after I've set my Skid Row Stroganoff to simmer and put my Cockeyed Cake in the oven is to keep coming back to the scene of the crime," she says.

"For one thing, I want to think about something else. Also, I think a hostess who keeps whizzing back and forth like a ping-pong ball is rather a pain in the neck. If you know something will quit cooking when it's supposed to, your own party can be a lot more fun for everybody concerned."

"Another thing," she said, "I think the fact that the automatic timers start things cooking is an awfully big help, if you don't want to think about cooking any more than you absolutely have to. You used to have to hang around and poke your head in and out of the oven, like a gopher and his hole. You know, it's hot enough, or cool enough, or whatever. When you might have been writing a paragraph or taking a walk."

It's a comfort, she added, to know things will take care of themselves.

"Actually," she said thoughtfully, "I suppose the thing I really hate about cooking is that you're always supposed to be doing it at the times when you'd rather be doing something else. Not only doing, but hovering over it. And once I've decided what it's going to be, and shopped for it, and brought it home, and mixed it up, I think that's enough."

Miss Bracken's range of creative cooking is much wider than one might imagine from the title of her book. It covers leftovers (Beef Encores), vegetable dishes (Tomatochokes), entrees (Sole Survivor) and last-minute meals (Muffin Tin Supper).

By Miss Bracken's own admission, her more than 200 recipes don't contain any Escoffier creations. But they do have these attributes — they're nutritious and they taste good. And they're all easy to make, with a reliable range. To insure that cooking ease and reliability, she plans to install a modern all-electric kitchen in her new home.

"Once I've steeled myself to the inevitability of cooking something," says Miss Bracken, "I want to know that the end result will be worth it. I know that some ranges make me seem like a lot better cook than I am, and when you feel as I do toward the whole operation, you appreciate all the help you can get."

Meat Pie in the British Tradition

By BARBARA HARMON

LONDON (AP) — Meat pie is a British institution. In America the pie is mostly sweet. In Britain it is the savory pie that delights.

We have the English pork pie, the veal and ham pie, the chicken and bacon pie, the game pie such as partridge, woodcock, venison, hare or rabbit. And of course, there's steak and kidney pie.

I choose pork pie. The English pork pie has inspired poetic rhapsodies in the past. My variation is a country dish known as Cider Pork Pie—served hot.

For this spareribs of pork are used. They should be prepared English-style — called country-style in the United States — with all the meat attached to the rib. I suggest that you ask your butcher to bone the spareribs for you, if this is not within his province, it is quite possible to do the boning yourself. Or if he will undertake only part of the job, you can finish the boning at home. You will need 1½ pounds of meat, weighed after boning.

Recommendation

My husband—who can't take steak and kidney pie and dislikes game pie, which I unfortunately like — thinks the Cider Pork Pie is delicious. That, coming from him, makes me feel safe in recommending it.

The pie can be served at picnics, for lunch with salad, for supper and for parties. Yes, even for dinners.

The great French gastronomist Brillat-Savarin once said: "A good pie is excellent hot, but the test of a good pie is how does it eat cold?"

We've tried the leftover pie straight from the refrigerator, the day after it was served hot. According to my husband, it tasted fine.

CIDER PORK PIE

1½ pounds boned country-style fresh pork spareribs
Well-seasoned flour
2 tablespoons lard
½ pound cooking apples
1 large onion
1½ cups sifted flour
Salt
5 tablespoons margarine
1 egg, separated
Sage and grated nutmeg
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons cider
1 chicken bouillon cube

Trim off any fat from meat and cut into small pieces. Roll the pieces in the well-seasoned flour, or shake together the meat and seasoned flour in a plastic bag.

Brown the meat in the lard for about 5 minutes, turning until sealed on all sides; reserve meat.

Peel and core apples and slice thinly into rings. Skin and thinly slice onion; separate into rings.

Make the short-crust pastry. Sift together the flour and a pinch of salt into a bowl. Add the margarine and rub in with the fingertips until mixture resembles fine bread crumbs. Mix to a stiff dough with a little cold water and the yolk of the egg. Turn out onto a floured board; roll out and cut into the shape—but 1 inch larger—of the top of a deep 1½-quart casserole. Cut off a 1-inch strip of pastry from around the edge of the rolled-out shape.

Pork Goes First

Put half of the pork into the bottom of the 1½-quart casserole. Add a layer of half the apple and half the onion along with a pinch of sage and a little grated nutmeg. Repeat layers.

Heat the cider in a saucepan and dissolve the chicken bouillon cube in it. Pour cider mixture into the casserole.

Press the 1-inch strip of pastry around the top inner edge of the casserole; dampen pastry strip with cold water. Put on pastry top; seal edge to pastry strip and flute. Cut a hole (an open vent) in the center of the pastry top for the steam to escape. Brush pastry with the white of the egg.

Bake in the center of a preheated 400-degree (hot) oven for 30 minutes; reduce heat to 350 degrees (moderate) and bake about 20 minutes longer. The entire baking time is about 50 minutes.

Served with creamed potatoes and a green vegetable, this pie feeds four. The ideal wine with the dish is a white Burgundy—I like a Meursault that has enough body to stand up to the seasoning of the pie.

Here are other suggestions for a menu featuring the pie:

Potted Shrimp; Cider Pork Pie; Orange Water Ice; Stilton Cheese; Coffee.

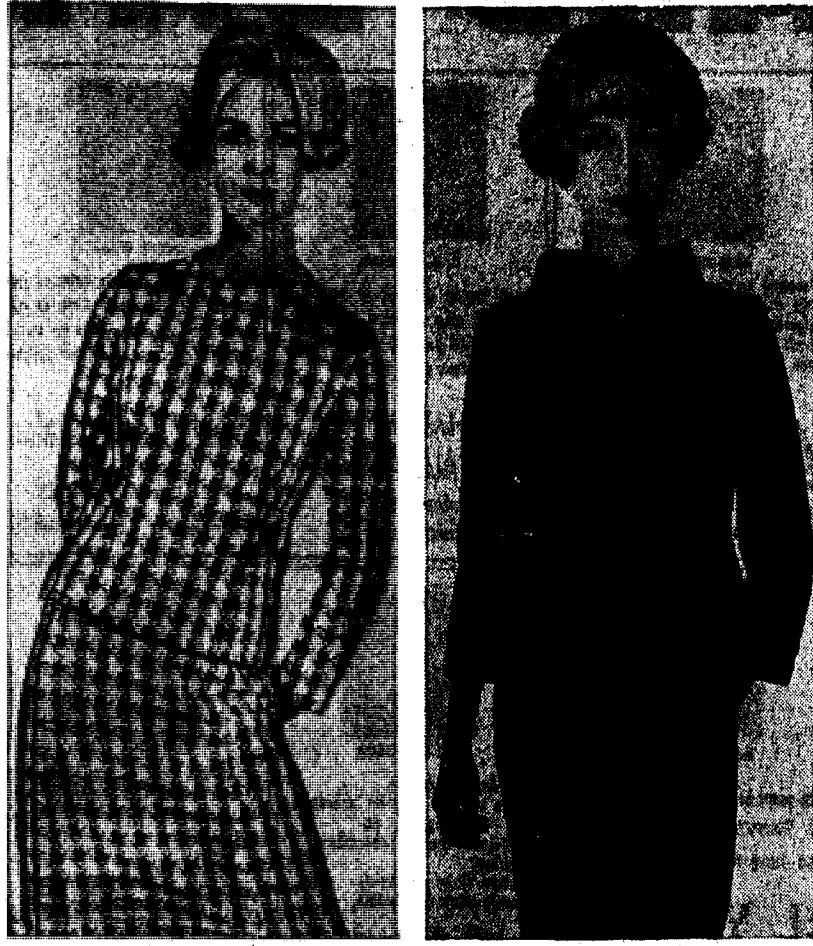

Next Week: Spaghetti alla Carbonara

A Story of Italian Versatility

THE story here, besides the obvious one in the three costumes shown of mastery of line and shape, is color, fabric and double play.

For Spring and Summer, Alberto Fabiani, Italian designer, has created an out-standing ready-to-wear collection glowing with color and filled with charming silhouettes and unusual fabrics.

Tangerine, Florentine red, Capri blue, apple green, along with others, appear throughout the collection.

Many of his suits, coats and jackets of his ensembles were designed specifically to play multiplication and dual color roles by reversing completely to double play.

The beauty of fine fashions and, incidentally, to prolong its life.

One of his elegant Nattier wool coats, made in several color combinations, "presto changes" in one instant from citron to oyster white.

A town suit in black and white check turns completely into an emerald green wool suit.

Many other of his ingenious touches and intricate detailing will also delight and excite the woman of good taste.

Humphrey Hops to Laos; Assures Thais of Stand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey hopped over to Laos today for a brief visit after assuring Thailand's leaders that the United States is determined to stand fast against communism in Southeast Asia.

En route to Vientiane, administrative capital of Laos, Humphrey made an aerial survey of more than a dozen highway, dam, electrification and irrigation projects in Thailand's northeast, a target for Communist subversion.

The vice president also was to fly by helicopter from Vientiane across the Mekong River to a rural development project in poverty-stricken northeast Thailand.

Before leaving for Laos, Humphrey sandwiched in an early morning cruise along Bangkok's canals. Wearing an open-necked knit shirt, the vice president waved and hailed Thais passing in boats, took pictures with a small box camera and at the floating market bought a spreading straw farmer's hat which he donned in place of the baseball cap he started out in.

Humphrey reached Bangkok from Saigon yesterday. He promptly sought to reassure Thailand's leaders that there was nothing to warrant their concern that the United States might be weakening in its resolve to defeat communism.

U. S. officials had received word that Thais were worried that President Johnson might have tried at the Honolulu conference to nudge South Vietnam's leaders into dropping their opposition to dealing with the Viet Cong in any peace negotiations.

After telling Premier Thanom Kittikachorn and Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman that the United States will continue to stand firm, the vice president turned to his other major objective here.

This is to point up U. S. interest in getting the nations of the Mekong River basin to work together on a co-operative Southeast Asia Development Program as proposed by Johnson in a speech last April.

Humphrey, acting as Johnson's emissary, also wants to encourage Thailand's "accelerated rural development" plan which is getting up momentum in the northeast section of the otherwise prosperous country.

Communist activity has been mounting in the northeast, whose 13 million population almost equals that of South Viet Nam. This situation in an area with many persons of North Vietnamese and Laotian origin has been causing both the Thai and U. S. governments considerable concern.

As in Viet Nam, the United States feels the way to counter communism is to improve the lot of those the Communists try to win over.

In Viet Nam, Communist insurgency has led to war. The United States would like to nip such a threat in Thailand before it gets out of hand and leads to another Viet Nam.

Humphrey was scheduled to confer for about two hours in Vientiane with Premier Souvanna Phouma and other Laotian officials.

The visit to Laos was regarded as a gesture to emphasize U. S. readiness to defend the divided kingdom from further Communist aggression.

The United States has also been concerned about the funneling of troops and supplies from North Viet Nam down the Ho Chi Minh Trail which runs through Laos to South Viet Nam.

Humphrey is on friendly terms with Souvanna Phouma as an outgrowth of the neutralist premier's visit to Washington last year.

Humphrey said in Saigon he would report to the Laotian leaders on the U. S. peace offensive, which the vice president says is continuing despite North Vietnamese rebuffs.

Conspicuously absent from the schedule were any inspections of U. S. troops in Thailand, although Humphrey was to change planes at the Udorn Airport where American warplanes have been based.

The United States does not talk about its air operations from Thai bases, out of deference to Thailand's delicate position.

There are about 12,000 U. S. servicemen in Thailand, many of them busy building and maintaining various kinds of support facilities, construction roads and doing similar work.

Humphrey is to leave Bangkok tomorrow for Karachi, Pakistan.

GOP in Raritan Is Against Case

RARITAN TOWNSHIP — The local Republican Club has passed a resolution asking that official party endorsement of Sen. Clifford P. Case, who is seeking reelection, be withheld.

"Senator Case has clearly demonstrated by his voting record and by the position he has taken on numerous state issues that he has not, in the past, and does not now, support Republican ideals," the resolution reads.

The club members asked that the endorsement be given to Charles W. Sandman, Cape May Republican, and former senator; Sen. Richard R. Stout, R-Monmouth, Assemblyman Alfred N. Beadleston, R-Monmouth, or another party member of like stature.

The resolution, which will be forwarded to county and state Republican organizations was introduced by Salvatore N. Mazzone, who is president of the Conservative Club of Monmouth County.

J. Russell Woolley, the Monmouth County Republican chairman said the County steering committee would meet shortly to resolve the Case candidacy.

Mr. Mazzone said he has observed widespread sentiment through out the county and state in opposition to Sen. Case.

"As Republicans," he said, "we have a greater responsibility than just pulling the right levers in the voting booth. It is obligatory upon us to let our party leaders know what and whom we are for and against."

"If enough of us around the state do this now, perhaps some-

Thief Gets $2,182 Here

RED BANK — The third time was the charm for a weekend burglar on East Bergen Pl. He took loot valued at $2,182.50 from one of three places he broke into.

Detective Herbert A. Swanson was dispatched last night to investigate a break-in at the office of Dr. Sylvester Hecht, 194 East Bergen Pl.

While there he discovered the home of Jack Chesterman, upstairs at the same address, had been entered, and a watch was missing.

And while still at the scene, a call from police headquarters advised him the home of Christopher Giannelli, 193 East Bergen Pl., had been entered.

The loot taken from the Giannelli home included $70 worth of silver dollars, a watch, jewelry, a milk stool, clothing and other coins.

Shrewsbury Township's Budget Seen Calling for New Solutions

By MARGOT SMITH
SHREWSBURY TOWNSHIP — The problems that will rise out of the 1966 municipal budget to be introduced March 4 will require precedent-making solutions.

Money from state and federal sources will be needed to prevent what could bring a mass exodus that would create a ghost township.

Revenues are down and costs are up.

Joseph X. Seaman, township auditor, will propose a budget that calls for $104,672 to be raised locally, a $43,918 increase.

Many fixed-income residents of Alfred Vail Mutual Co-operative Association, the sole significant taxpayer here, will balk if their rents are increased to defray the difference.

Middletown Board Cuts Budget, 18-Cent Rise Set

MIDDLETOWN — Cuts in the 1966-67 school budget amount to a nine-cent decrease in the estimated school tax rate.

The increase—which was 27 cents per $100 assessed valuation in the recently defeated schedule—now is shown at 18 cents per $100.

The school rate will be $2.41, bringing the total rate to $3.59—up 21 cents.

The board slashed $110,000 from the schedule and appropriated $100,000 from surplus.

The amount to be raised by taxation is decreased by $210,000.

Where Cuts Made

Current expense appropriations were cut by $32,000. Making up the cut are: four new teachers, $25,000; two new secretaries, $6,000; four new custodians, $16,400; and one new supervisor, $10,000. Teaching supplies were cut $16,600, and the insurance account $8,900.

The board now plans to hire an additional 29 teachers instead of the planned 33 to handle an estimated increase in enrollment of 500 students. The original aim was to lower class sizes.

Approximately $28,000 was slashed from capital outlay. It was to have provided equipment for arts and crafts and bands for the new junior high schools.

The surplus appropriation is $250,000, an increase of $50,000. This will leave a balance of an estimated $300,000 to $350,000 in the account.

The revised spending schedule totals $7,766,561—up $720,939. The local tax levy is $5,800,565—up $645,967.

About 50 persons attended the special meeting held Friday.

The current spending schedule was defeated the first time it was submitted last year. Cut by some $136,000, it was approved at the polls the second time.

Two former public officials were critical of revisions made by the board.

They were J. Crawford Compton, former township committee member, and Harold Copeland, a member of the board for 18 years and its president for 13 years.

Mr. Compton reiterated his view the surplus should be deleted entirely. He said the board's appropriation of an additional $100,000 in surplus funds was a step in the right direction, but added the board isn't going far enough.

Mr. Copeland urged the board to make further cuts.

He predicted the public will reject the budget again. It's up to the board to make cuts, not to take funds from surplus, he added.

He declared that he didn't think the board members expected the budget to pass. "Last year, I warned you the budget wouldn't go through unless you kept it down."

Voters will go to the polls again next Monday.

Surplus Use, Ratables Increase Trim Freehold Township Tax

FREEHOLD TOWNSHIP — They'll be spending more and enjoying it more here in 1966, thanks to use of surplus and an increase in ratables which will permit a drop in the municipal purposes tax levy, despite an increase in the budget.

Published figures reveal total appropriations for 1966 budgeted at $660,447 up from $529,477 in 1965, an increase of nearly 25 per cent.

Township auditor, Joseph J. Gross, Ship Bottom, has estimated that, despite the increase, the tax levy for municipal purposes will be down by about three cents to 24 cents in 1966.

Surplus Rises

Surplus balance took a big jump in 1965, from $262,668 at the close of 1964 to $496,277 at Dec. 31, 1965, an increase of more than $233,000.

The increase in surplus plus additional surplus, for a total of $302,000 has been anticipated in financing the 1966 budget.

The amount to be raised by local taxes has gone up only $2,000 from $137,000 in 1965 to $139,000 in 1966.

The new budget also gives evidence that township officials expect a decline in new construction this year. Revenue from building permits is budgeted at $15,000, compared to $20,000 budgeted in 1965. Building permit revenues realized in 1965 were in excess of $22,000.

Major increases in expenditures budgeted for 1966 include:

—Salaries and wages; up $30,790. More than $8,000 of this increase is for the office of the tax collector. Salaries and wages in that office have been budgeted for $15,660 compared to $7,000 budgeted in 1965. Other salary increases over $3,000 have been budgeted for the police department, the tax assessor's office and the municipal court.

—The industrial committee has a budget of $3,500 compared to $1,000 in 1965.

—"Other expenses" (not salaries or wages) are up more than $5,000 for the police department, from $4,000 to $9,200; road repair and maintenance is up from $35,000 to $45,000 in this category.

—Capital equipment for the road department is budgeted at $28,000 compared to $5,000 last year.

The budget provides $50,000 towards the construction of the new municipal hall and $40,000 to be paid to the Borough of Freehold as part of the Township's contribution toward Borough costs incurred in expanding water service to the Township-located Brookway Glass Co. plant.

A public hearing on the budget is scheduled for Feb. 28 at 8 p.m. at Township Hall.

$31,275 School Budget Cut OK'd in Colts Neck

COLTS NECK — The Township Board of Education will present a revised 1966-67 budget, down $31,275 from the schedule defeated last Tuesday, for voter approval Wednesday, Feb. 23.

The 5.5 per cent cutback in proposed operating costs was agreed upon at a special meeting Friday night.

At the same time, following a conference of the Township Committee and school board, Mayor Alfred E. Ruppel announced that the municipal budget to be introduced tonight will contain an appropriation from surplus to offset the record high school cost.

Not For Schools

The mayor said the committee appropriation will not be applied to the school budget and will not affect it. The result, however, will be to reduce the money to be raised by taxes this year.

A year ago, the committee appropriated $75,000 from surplus directly to the Board of Education and the money was used to reduce the total to be raised by taxes for the school budget.

Lee Tuomenoksa, school board president, said he understood the township appropriation this year will be $25,000. It will not be listed an anticipated revenue in the school budget and will not be available for school board use.

No public hearing is planned on the new school budget, but it will be discussed by a school board representative Wednesday at 8 p.m. at an open meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association in the Cedar Drive School.

Mutual Approval

A letter of explanation will be mailed to residents.

Mr. Ruppel and Mr. Tuomenoksa indicated mutual approval of the budgeting plan elected by the township committee.

"The board feels, and we agree," said the mayor, "that its budget should stand on its own. Voters in part have misunderstood the $75,000 last year."

The board president concurred, and said the plan should reflect a more accurate picture. Possibly it may prevent the kind of dispute which arose the day before the school election when a flyer was mailed to residents opposing the budget plan, he added.

The flyer claimed that school costs had increased 98 per cent. Mr. Tuomenoksa said the 98 per cent reflected a difference of figures which were not comparable, having been distorted by presence of the $75,000 from municipal surplus in one and not the other.

Budget cuts agreed upon by the Board total $28,200 from current expenses. Deleted were $8,500 from cafeteria operations, provision for a full time business manager, a custodian and one of several extra teachers contemplated. They also cover $2,075 from capital outlay for new lockers.

As revised the new budget would total $613,250.50, including $34,705 debt service. Items to be put on the ballot for voter consideration are $522,210 for current expenses and $6,336 for capital outlay.

Leslie H. Douglas, the board secretary, said that if more cuts had to be made they probably would have to come in areas of transportation and more from cafeteria.

The cafeteria, which has been carried as a deficit operation, had been listed for a $13,500 appropriation in the first budget. It has now been reduced to $4,000.

Mr. Tuomenoksa said the board plans to increase prices of meals somewhat to gain enough additional revenue. The amount will be determined later. Current prices, he said, are 20 to 30 cents each.

The school board stood by its decision to employ a full time superintendent of schools. Until now an administrative principal has been in charge. The board opened its second school this year and it plans building an addition for use next year and expects soon to propose a third school.

Acknowledging there has been criticism of the plan for a superintendent, Mr. Douglas said the position was necessary.

"You have to be familiar with the system to see it," he said. Enrollment could reach 1,000 in the 1967-68 year and the faculty will include 44 teachers in the coming year, he said.

Loss of a full time business manager and of the teacher out from the list, Mr. Tuomenoksa said, will hurt the system.

"These cuts are wrong," he said, "but with the kind of defeat our first budget got, we have no choice."

The board has been aiming to maintain a 25 pupil average but Mr. Tuomenoksa said, the change will mean that probably some classes will go over 30.

The board will hold its annual organization meeting tonight at the Cedar Drive school at 8 p.m. Afterward it will conduct business of its regular February meeting, postponed from last Thursday.

Mr. Tuomenoksa indicated he may decline re-election as president if it is proffered. He expects to be assigned to a new business position in the Midwest in the fall.

The only other substantial income anticipated, according to Mr. Seaman, is $6,411 promised from the Hamiltonian at Shrewsbury garden apartments whose check, due March 31 has not yet been received. If the amount, representing the 1965 revenue from the apartments, is not received by the time the budget is introduced, Mr. Seaman said, it cannot be legally anticipated for the current year, and that figure will have to be added to the amount to be raised by taxation.

The new apartments, successors to World War II barracks that once provided $15,000 to $20,000 a year to the township, pay no actual property taxes. In return for the municipal services they receive, Elin and Baroff, East Orange owner-managers, pay 15 per cent of gross rental receipts minus $382 in real estate taxes.

The Hamiltonian units didn't open until last May, and are less than half occupied now.

The other side of the missing coin is the township's eleventh-line increase in school costs. By a recent court order, the formulas used to compute its share of school budgets at Tinton Falls Elementary District and Monmouth Regional High School are revised.

Louis Steinmuller, secretary to the Tinton Falls school board, estimates the township's bill this year will be about $45,667 compared to $37,541. Because the school operates on a calendar year basis, only $21,717 of this, must be raised this year.

According to Ralph Keovil, secretary to the Monmouth Regional board, the township will pay $29,174 compared to $8,201.

Added to the township's woes is an elevated garbage collection cost. Last year it paid $11,000. The new contract, encompassing the Hamiltonian units, is for $16,000 per year. There is no escalator clause in the new contract, which is for two years with an option to renew.

In addition to the $39,000 raised locally last year for municipal purposes, the township spent $45,794 out of surplus and other revenues, leaving its surplus balance at $8,400. It is committed, by contract with Elin and Baroff, to replace or rebuild its tottering Community Hall building by June, 1967. The apartment managers have promised a swimming pool-cabana facility. Both improvements would tend to attract tenants to fill the vacancies and increase revenues from that source.

Mrs. Anne Switek, township clerk, and Mrs. Grace Donahue, president of the mutual association, have been conducting an energetic search for means of obtaining aid, by legislation or grant, to stem the financial crisis.

According to Mr. Seaman, law requires the municipality to pay its school bills first and use the remainder to furnish the services required by the municipality.

A reduction in expenditures for the township's upkeep, plus a rise in the cost of living here, would diminish the desirability of living here.

At full capacity, the township would house 427 families. At present, there are 64 families in the $2 million Hamiltonian complex of 162 units, and 265 families in Vail homes.

MOPPING UP OPERATIONS — Sgt. Daniel S. Murdoch and Capt. William W. Woodward clear up water in Middletown Police Department Friday. Water seeped through cinder block walls and rose to depth of two inches. Training room, three offices and vault were affected. Police theorize melting snow seeping into ground caused the mess.

Raritan Budget Pared, Easing Tax Increase

RARITAN TOWNSHIP — The Board of Education slashed $42,503 from its defeated budget Friday night, reducing the estimated tax rate increase by "two or three cents," according to Theodore J. Slieve, board president.

Current expense was reduced $25,003 to $2,908,223 with $2,189,377 to be raised by taxation.

Capital outlay was reduced $17,500 to $41,773 with the entire amount to be raised by local taxes.

Deleted from capital outlay were $12,500 for a fire detection system required by state statute by 1968 and $5,000 for a landscaping project at various schools.

Wednesday, Feb. 23, was set for a new vote on the spending schedule. The board reorganizes tonight at 8 p.m.

School Budget Talk In Highlands Tonight

HIGHLANDS — The Board of Education failed to muster a quorum Saturday for action on its defeated budget. A special meeting has been scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight.

Reorganization of the board is set for 8 p.m.

The board cut $18,000 from teacher salaries, affecting 15 plans to hire two additional classroom teachers and a physical education instructor.

Also deleted from the budget were $4,853 for elementary school library books, $1,900 for builders' liability insurance premium, $600 for the salary of its adult school director who will now be paid from tuition, and $550 for three department chairmen.

Director's Selection Expected

LONG BRANCH — The city may have an urban renewal director by the end of the week. Mayor Vincent J. Mazza said city council hopes to make a selection during a caucus session this week.

To date, the council has interviewed two men for the post. An urban renewal director in New York state was interviewed Saturday and a Pennsylvania man was interviewed earlier last week.

The council has set aside $11,000 in the proposed 1968 budget for the director's salary. The mayor said the city will be reimbursed by the federal government.

The city must hire a director before it can meet federal requirements for a $172,000 grant for a proposed oceanfront redevelopment project.

Fire Levels Squad House In Madison

MADISON TOWNSHIP — Fire demolished a township First Aid Squad building on Marlboro Rd., Woodbridge, yesterday morning, destroying two ambulances and a crash truck.

Bayshore Rail Hearing to Start

NEWARK (AP) — Hearings are to begin today on the Jersey Central Railroad's request to discontinue passenger trains on its Raritan and Sandy Hook Bayshore section in Monmouth County.

The railroad said it is losing $300,000 a year on the route. Local officials contend the loss of the route would be a hardship to 600 commuters.

Hearings before the State Highway Department's railroad transportation division are set for 10 a.m. at the State Office Building.

Marlboro Kills Resolutions, Then Passes Them Again

MARLBORO — Township Council has rescinded two resolutions approved last month and, with modifications, passed them again.

At the reorganization meeting Jan. 1, council authorized mayor and council to be reimbursed for expenses up to $25. On Jan. 13, three township boards were required to submit copies of their minutes to council within five days after their meetings.

The new resolution restricts reimbursable expenses up to $25 a month to mayor and council president only. Councilmen Joseph T. Brodnick and Philip A. Arnold objected, saying they believed all councilmen should be reimbursed.

Changing time requirements for copies of official minutes from the Board of Health, the Zoning Board of Adjustment and the unofficial copies within five days.

Councilmen Brodnick and Arnold again objected and questioned why only three boards were required to submit their minutes. Council President George E. Creevy said they were selected to keep continuity with the groups and council.

Approval Granted
Final approval was granted to applications from U.S. Homes and Development Corp. for about 314 homes on Rt. 9. The developers had waited for this since last year after they had won a court suit authorizing the homes to be built. The applications were further delayed by a township appeal but the Appellate Division confirmed the lower courts ruling.

A missing resolution for Atlantic Seaboard Home and Development Corp. which did not arrive with the Planning Board's letter of transmittal last month, was resubmitted by the board and was referred to the attorney for study. The application is for 34 homes.

Planning Board Secretary Philip Inglis suggested that council apply for federal grants immediately for a municipal building. He said money could be obtained which would pay all or most of the costs.

Not pleased with council's answer to his question about rules of order at municipal meetings last month, Henry J. Petri, Marlboro St., informed council by letter that he believed council was violating the Faulkner Act and the municipal code concerning the rules of order and the conducting of business.

Milton Kosene, township attorney, would not comment on this. He said he would study the complaint and reply later.

DEDICATED PRO GOLFER — Arnie Palmer, the "money man" of golf who let business interfere with his game in 1965, appears to be on the so-called "comeback" trail.

The pro golfers are now on the PGA tournament circuit, with about six events out of the way. In competing in most of these early season tournaments, Arnie has been playing fine golf.

In fact, he is off to the finest start of his great career. The records show that his start is the best of any pro in 20 years. In the first four tournaments, Palmer finished first, second, third and second. Usually slow to get going, his fastest start before this was in 1961, when he went first, fourth, eighth and third.

HE'S FIGHTING FOR THE TOP — Arnie Palmer, one of golf's great pro players, is getting off one of his drives in this year's tournament play. Palmer, after a poor showing last year, is battling back in '66. So far he has been doing very well, even though he had trouble in the Phoenix Open.

Picking a winner on the pro circuit is like picking a horse in a big race. Anyone in the field has a crack at the top spot. Last year, eight tournaments went by with eight different winners until Doug Sanders put the Pensacola Open and the Doran Open back to back in March.

This year's tour started with Palmer winning the Los Angeles Open, Billy Casper the San Diego event, a newcomer, Don Massengale, the Crosby competition, and Ken Venturi, another comebacker, in the San Francisco Lucky International.

Despite Palmer's being back up there near the top, newcomers appear to be offering the veterans surprising competition. With Palmer in better playing spirit and with Jack Nicklaus, who took over Arnie's throne in 1965, and Gary Player soon to join the circuit, TV golf fans are in for a fine winter of weekend golf.

What happened in the Phoenix Open? Arnie ran into trouble with a 74 Saturday, a 72 yesterday. There's still today, though.

FLIERS KEEP FLYING — For years, the cry has been "break up the Yankees." On the Shore, they can cry "break up the Fliers." But, will it do any good? One has to pass along credit where credit is due, and it certainly is due coach Larry Hennessy of Neptune High School.

Hennessy, no doubt, has more basketball experience than any other coach in the Shore Conference. Larry's cage knowledge was proven again Friday night when the Fliers racked up their seventh Class A title in a row. Hennessy's team won the title eight out of the nine years he has held the coaching reins at Neptune.

Shore teams generally run into trouble advancing in the NJSIAA basketball tournament, and we asked Larry's opinion yesterday for this coming tourney. Stated Larry, "The boys seem to be having a better attitude and are working harder. They're looking forward to the state tournament."

Not in a mood to count chickens before they hatch, Larry said, "First we want the Shore Conference playoff victory. We have to watch out for Middletown and Lakewood."

Asked if he thought he would encounter trouble from the Lions and the Piners, he replied: "On any given night, one team can knock the other off, and most teams play much better against Neptune."

When Neptune was seeking a basketball coach, the Board of Education went out for the best, and they found the best. His record proves it. Some boards hire a coach with limited playing ability and think he is a basketball coach. Doesn't always work that way.

Hennessy had the experience. He was an All-American with Villanova. He played pro ball with Syracuse and Philadelphia. When he started coaching at Neptune, he continued playing in the Eastern League for about six years. No question about it, Hennessy knows basketball.

There are some coaches and officials who detest Larry's way of fighting for his team if he thinks there was a wrong call or some other incident by an official or opposing coach. If a coach is going to produce a winning team, he has to have the fighting spirit to insert into his club. School officials frown on coaches standing up and yelling at officials, but you can bet in Neptune there is not too much frowning when trophies and titles continue to pour into the school.

We'd much rather see a spirited coach and team any day, than a sleepy one with a sleepy coach at the helm. And don't think there aren't a few sleepy ones around.

SHORT SNORTS — Roman Brother, Horse of the Year in 1965, and Kelso, holder of that honor an unprecedented five times (1960-64), head the nominees for the $100,000 Gulfstream Park Handicap March 26. Kelso just keeps running along. Kelso won the event in 1965.

CBA Edged by Seton Hall, 50-49

SOUTH ORANGE — Two foul shots by Mel Knight with 41 seconds left in the second overtime period yesterday gave Seton Hall Prep a 50-49 basketball victory over Christian Brothers Academy.

In the remaining 41 seconds, CBA's Chris Hill missed a field goal attempt and Bob Woodward was fouled with one second left but missed on the first of a one-and-one situation.

With six seconds gone in the second overtime period, Tom Courain scored on a layup to give Seton Hall a 47-45 advantage. Ninety seconds later, he made a foul shot to extend the winners' lead to 48-45. With one minute showing on the clock, Woodward converted a pair of free throws put CBA within one point, 46-47, and 11 seconds later Paul Christopher stole the ball and went the length of the court for the bucket that gave the Colts a 49-48 edge. Eight seconds later, Knight made the two foul shots that decided the final outcome.

Seton Hall is 12-6 on the season, while CBA is 15-3. The first half of regulation play was a see-saw battle with Seton Hall holding a 23-22 lead at intermission. The teams exchanged baskets at the outset of the second half. Then, at 7:46 of the third period, Kirk Robinson put CBA into the lead, 26-25, with a hook shot from 10 feet out. A jump shot by Christopher and a layup by Robinson put the Colts ahead, 30-25. CBA led, 37-30, at the end of the quarter.

With 2:49 left in regulation play, Woodward's pair of free throws gave CBA a 43-38 advantage. A jump shot by Seton Hall's Bob Bowman and a three-point play by Courain knotted the score, 43-43, and sent the game into the first overtime period.

Each team scored two points in the first three-minute period. Marty Kenney got both of CBA's on free throws to put the Lincolnton team ahead, 45-43. Knight became responsible for the second overtime stanza when he drove in for a basket with 50 seconds left in the initial overtime session.

CBA ran into serious foul trouble in the final quarter of regulation play. Bill McCrea fouled out after only two minutes of the final stanza and Kenney did likewise midway through the period. Robinson fouled out near the end of the first overtime period.

Woodward picked four of his fouls in the third stanza. CBA was 20 for 50 from the floor and nine for 13 at the foul line, while Seton Hall was 19 for 42 and 12 for 18, respectively.

Knight ended the game as high scorer with 20 points while Courain finished with 13. Robinson led CBA with 19 and Christopher added 11.

Bill Gladding and Andy Gill scored 22 and 19 points, respectively, to lead CBA's reserves to a 59-57 victory in the preliminary game.

NFL to Tackle Stocking

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The expansion-minded world of professional sports will have its eye on the National Football League today when the owners tackle the job of stocking their newest baby, the Atlanta Falcons, with 42 veteran players.

In ordinary times, only the cities involved and the men who reportedly have a $8.5 million stake in Atlanta would be vitally interested. However, in this day of proposed expansion in baseball, hockey and basketball, every move to stock a new team is observed closely.

Baseball, deeply involved in a legal battle over the Braves' shift from Milwaukee to Atlanta, insist the National League can not expand at this time. A Wisconsin judge has ordered the Braves to stay in Milwaukee for the league to expand in 1966 and make major league baseball of "competitive quality" available in Milwaukee.

Because of the expansion talk in all sports the manner of stocking a team becomes most important. When the NFL took in Dallas in 1960 and Minnesota in 1961 it froze a certain number of established clubs. A similar plan will be worked out for Atlanta.

With 45,000 season tickets already sold at Atlanta and new coach Norm Hecker anxious to come up with a representative shift from Milwaukee to Atlanta, prising names on the lists of available players.

The owners must decide how many of their 40-man rosters to exempt or freeze. It is expected they will keep 30 or 32 out of the draft. That would give Atlanta three picks from the bottom eight or ten players on each team.

After they have agreed on a formula, probably tomorrow, the actual selections will be made Wednesday.

The Falcons have a strong base of rookies for they participated in the draft last November and signed 20 players.

The drafted and signed included linebacker Tommy Nobis, Texas' All-American, Randy Johnson, Texas A&I quarterback, and halfbacks Nick Raskas and Bill Wolski and end Phil Sheridan of Notre Dame.

20th Loss For Celts

"I'm very, very happy to have played a small part on your ball club," Bob Cousy told general manager-coach Red Auerbach of the Boston Celtics.

Auerbach undoubtedly wishes his former backcourt ace still was doing his "small part" because this season has not been the kind Auerbach has grown accustomed to.

Three-Game Lead
The Celtics are leading the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division, but only by three games, and already have lost 20 compared to 18 for all of last season. The latest loss was 120-110 to Los Angeles yesterday afternoon.

Boston was trailing by only four points at halftime when Cousy made a presentation during ceremonies honoring Auerbach, who is retiring as coach at the end of the season. But the Lakers clinched it by outscoring the Celtics 32-24 in the third quarter.

Royals Beaten
In the only other game, the Cincinnati Royals lost, 104-102, to St. Louis and dropped to third place in the East, one-half game behind the Philadelphia.

The Lakers got 26 points from Rudy LaRusso and 25 from LeRoy Ellis before they fouled out in the closing minutes. Jerry West, who picked up the slack after LaRusso and Ellis left, added 22. Larry Siegfried scored 26 and John Havlicek 22 for the Celtics.

Bridges Wins It
Bill Bridges' two foul shots with 29 seconds left caused Cincinnati's downfall. Bridges finished with 38 points. Jerry Lucas netted 31 for the Royals, who played without Oscar Robertson.

The Big O was sidelined by a groin injury suffered in Saturday night's 143-116 victory over Detroit. It was not known how long he will be out of action.

Star's Role for Maki
Chico Maki, who skates in the shadow of formidable Bobby Hull, has slipped free for a fleeting moment and sent the Chicago Black Hawks back into first place in the torrid National Hockey League title race.

Maki, a hard-working right wing who plays in virtual anonymity alongside the dynamic Hull on Chicago's No. 1 forward unit, scored two goals and set up a third last night as the Hawks — playing without their injured superstar — whipped New York, 6-1.

The victory, coupled with Detroit's 4-3 loss to Montreal, lifted Chicago two points ahead of both the Red Wings and Canadiens.

The fourth place Toronto Maple Leafs tied Boston, 4-4, on Orland Kurtenbach's third period goal in yesterday's other game.

Hull, who needs six goals to break the single-season scoring record of 50, injured a knee during the Hawks' 2-2 tie with Montreal Saturday night and is expected to be out of action for a week.

The Chicago ace looked skates with Claude Provost of Montreal in the second period and smashed into a goalpost. He came back to score his 45th goal minutes later but sat out the final period.

Maki shot the Hawks in front to stay early in the first period last night and set up Doug Mohns' power play goal later in the opening session. The 165-pound speedster triggered a three-goal burst in the last period that put the game out of reach.

The two goals boosted Maki's season total to 12, four short of his previous high, Ken Wharram, Red Hay and Eric Neeter-enko completed the scoring for the Hawks, who were without

Aching Dickinson Leads by Three

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Gutty little Gardner Dickinson, pain pills in hand for his ailing back, set out today in quest of a victory in what may be his last golf tournament for some time — the $60,000 Phoenix Open.

Dickinson fought off the pain in his back and the charges of several contenders yesterday, and his even par 71 gave him a three-round total of 206 and a three-stroke lead over Bob Rosburg.

"I almost called it quits after the second hole," said Dickinson, a 38-year-old, 130-pounder who plays out of Lost Tree Village, Fla.

"I took three pain killers before the round," he said. "The pain subsided a little, but the pills upset my stomach. I was very satisfied with the round under the circumstances."

Regardless of his fate in today's final round, Dickinson plans to leave the tour to have his back checked. "I can't go on like this, that's for sure," he said. "I'll just have to quit until the back is fixed."

Dickinson has carved out rounds of 66-69-71 over the 6,763-yard Phoenix Country Club course, a par 36-35-71 layout which most of the pros haven't solved.

Mason Rudolph came the closest, drawing to within one stroke after Dickinson's bogeys on eight and nine. But Rudolph double bogeyed the par three 13th and triple bogeyed the par four 17th and finished with a 73 for 212.

Gene Littler came within two strokes but fell back to four at the end of the round. Littler lost a stroke when his caddy inadvertently stepped on his ball on the 16th fairway.

Littler was tied at 210 with Doug Sanders. Both have had identical rounds of 70-71-69.

Jack Rule stood alone at 211, and Dudley Wynong and Charles Coady were tied with Rudolph at 212.

Sanders well remembers last week, when he started the final round of the Bob Hope Desert Classic in Palm Springs, Calif., six strokes off the pace.

In that tourney, he fired an eagle and four birdies on the back nine and went on to beat Arnold Palmer in a playoff.

Palmer, who has cooled off a bit from his torrid start on the winter tour, was 11 strokes off the pace going into today's final round. He has had rounds of 71-74-72.

The best scores Sunday were 67s by Terry Dill and Kermit Zarley. Dill and Dick Crawford were tied at 213, and Zarley was one of four players grouped at 215.

Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., used a two-iron to score a hole in one on the par three, 230-yard eighth hole. It was the third ace of Still's career and his second in a little more than a year.

Conference Cage Races Nearly Complete

THE DAILY REGISTER Monday, Feb. 14, 1966-15

Shore Conference basketball title races stand two-thirds decided today following a weekend that saw old man upset enjoy one of his most productive nights.

Neptune and Lakewood own clear cut championships and Henry Hudson Regional is a step away from the third Shore Conference crown after convincing victories.

Neptune assured itself of at least a tie for the title by walloping Toms River Friday, 60-41, and then enjoyed the news that Brick Township had upset Middletown, 72-71, in double overtime, giving Neptune its seventh straight A Division championship.

Lakewood, which holds the B Southern Division crown, belted Southern Regional, 89-52, and will meet Henry Hudson Regional or Manasquan for the over-all B

Division crown in the post-season Shore Conference playoffs.

Henry Hudson clinched a tie for its first B Northern title by rapping Southern Freehold Regional, 80-54, and now needs only to defeat Shore Regional Friday to win the title outright.

That same Shore Regional quintet was one of the upset victims in Friday's frays. Raritan Township, previously a winner only three times in B Northern Division action, pummeled the Blue Devils, 72-56.

An inspired Mater Dei quintet, a questionable entry in the NJSIAA tournament off its 2-12 record, seemed intent on justifying its tourney berth by knocking off Red Bank Catholic, 51-50.

The Casey, 11-3 on the campaign, are also entered in tourney play.

Biggest surprise of the night was Brick's edging of Middletown, which went into the game with losses only to Neptune (twice) and Henry Hudson.

An amazingly easy 80-54 triumph over Freehold Regional, posted by Long Branch, coupled with Monmouth Regional's 61-46 drubbing of Red Bank dropped the hapless Bucs into the A Division cellar.

In other games, Manasquan beat Wall, 67-54, and Rumson-Fair Haven Regional walloped Point Pleasant Beach, 104-80, in B North versus B South meetings; Hoffman rolled up one-time winner Keap, 89-65; Central Regional downed Jackson Township, 71-64, in a B Southern Division affair, and Croydon Hall whipped Carteret School, 76-57, and Point Pleasant Boro edged St. Joseph's of Toms River, 72-70, in two non-Shore Conference encounters.

Fred Warren flipped in 11 field goals for 22 points in leading Neptune's title clincher over Toms River. Top Shore scorer Steve Cutillo added 17 for the Fliers, who can finish with an unblemished A Division record (14-0) by knocking off Monmouth Regional and Red Bank this week. They are 18-1 over-all.

Senior jumping jack Willie Hendricks tossed in 32 points for Henry Hudson scoring honors. Tom Wiley, Southern Freehold's star, accounted for 28.

At Middletown, Jeff Emmetts took over as the Brick scoring ace, registering 23 points as the Green Dragons topped the Lions in double overtime. Rich Mazella was next with 15. Emmetts tallied four points in the second overtime session after the two teams failed to score in the first extra three-minute period. Art Emken's 24 led Middletown. Bill Kalkhof added 15.

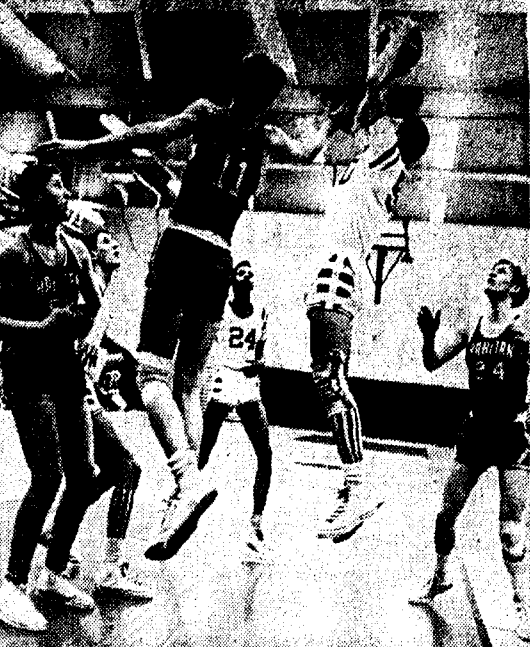

A freshman, Bill Collins, popped in 18 points and Charles Hantke matched that total, two of the reasons Mater Dei shocked Red Bank Catholic. Ray Angers, back put in the winning basket with less than 30 seconds left. Red Bank Catholic, which lost sophomore ace Tom McBride via the personal foul route midway through the second half, got 16 points from Hector Delgado and 12 from Rick Geiger, McBride put in 11 before he fouled out.

Another absentee, this one for the entire game, was noticeable at West Long Branch where Raritan upset Shore. Steve Woolley, one of Shore's high scorers of late, sat out the game because of illness. A 5-7 performer, Ray Coleman, put 25 points in the scorebook to emerge the game's star. Joe Page was next for Raritan with 19. Jay Franks had 20 for Shore.

Long Branch, coming on strong after a miserable start, had four players in double figures in rolling over Freehold. Bentley Odom led the way with 19 for the Branchers, who exploded for 30 points in the second quarter to break the game wide open. John Jones, Bob Puryear and Joe Jones had 18, 15 and 14 points, respectively. Ed Kelly was Freehold's top point man with 12.

Jay Nauden scored 25 and Dave Valentine added 15 as Monmouth handed Red Bank its seventh straight loss to drop the Buccos into the A Division cellar. Red Bank was never in it after falling behind by seven, 17-10, in the opening stanza. Lone double figure scorer for the Bucs was Tom Ingram, who tallied 11.

Defensive play was tossed out the window as Rumson-Fair Haven went over the century mark in crushing Point Pleasant Beach. The Bulldogs opened up a 35-12 first quarter bulge and took a 32-26 third quarter scoring edge. Greg Galbavy's 29 points topped the Bulldogs, who got 19 from Ashley Bell, 17 from Greg Brown and 16 from Mike Delaney.

Middletown Wrestlers Reign

LONG BRANCH — Gaining the first Shore Conference wrestling championship in the school's history, Middletown Township High School defeated Toms River, 29-11, Saturday night at Long Branch High school.

Coach Dick Kleva's Lions clinched the conference's Northern Division title Feb. 7, taking a 31-11 decision over previously undefeated Long Branch.

Middletown is the only unbeaten team in the Shore area, with an 11-0 mark. Toms River is now 10-3-1.

The only roadblock in the way of the first undefeated regular season in the three years it has been competing on the varsity level is winless Red Bank Catholic. Middletown will entertain the Casey's tomorrow. Middletown enjoyed its best previous campaign last season when it posted an 8-3 record, losing only to Christian Brothers Academy, Long Branch and Toms River.

Middletown dominated Saturday's match with Toms River, winning nine of the 12 bouts, including the last five.

The Lion's Dennis O'Neil (115) and Bob Paladino (168) both kept their perfect individual records intact by winning. They have 10-0 records. Matt Florio (178) also notched his 10th victory of the campaign by getting the lone pin of the match. A draw is the only blemish on Florio's otherwise perfect record.

Jim Florio notched his sixth win of the season without a setback, scoring a decision in the 145-pound bout, while heavyweight Tom Thill notched his seventh without losing when he also won by a decision.

Sophomore Frank Puglisi ran his record to a 10-1 with a decision in the 98-pound class. Bill Gunzel (157) also boosted his mark to 10-1 with a victory, while Tom Blevins (141) won his eighth match in 10 starts.

Other winners for Middletown were Dave Steiner (106), Dwight McKenna (123) and Bob Jennings (130).

Toms River's winners were Bill Scott (98), Wayne Bush (136) and Leo Davis (141).

Middletown's weekend assignment will be the NJSIAA District 23 competition Saturday at Christian Brothers Academy. The Lions placed fourth in last season's districts with 34 points.

Following the districts, the regionals will be held Feb. 26 at Somerville, while the state finals will be March 5 at the Asbury Park Convention Hall.

In other matches Saturday, CBA breezed past Red Bank Catholic, 39-3; Southern Regional overwhelmed Southern Freehold, 37-8, and Ocean Township defeated Point Pleasant Beach, 25-19.

CBA used only one senior, heavyweight Tom Dinen, against R.B. Catholic and he was decided by Marty Mihok, 11-4.

The Colts also used three freshmen, four sophomores and four juniors.

Kentucky, Texas Western Remain Only Undefeated

A couple of the smaller stars kept Kentucky and Texas Western, the country's only unbeaten major college basketball teams, in the perfect class Saturday.

They did it the hard way, too, winning on the road.

Louie Dampier, a 6-4-footer, got 18 points and paced the top-ranked Kentucky Wildcats to their 21st straight win, a 77-64 conquest of Auburn. The victory was the 19th for the Wildcats this season and virtually clinched the Southeastern conference title for them. They have a 10-0 SEC record.

Bobby Joe Hill, 5-10 floor commander, led the fourth-ranked Texas Western Miners from their 18th in a row.

Hill scored 19 points, 16 of them as he led the Miners from behind a 41-21 halftime deficit. A jump shot by Nevel Sheld with 40 seconds left tied the regulation game at 58-58. In the extra period Hill scored six of the Miners' nine points.

Top 10 Teams Win

Duke, Chicago Loyola, Vanderbilt, Providence, Kansas, Nebraska and Michigan, the other teams in The Associated Press Top Ten to play Saturday, all won. But the highest scoring feat of the night went to Houston's 6-8 sophomore, Evin Hayes.

Hayes tossed in 55 points, the highest single game individual output in a major game this season, and paced the Cougars to a runaway 140-87 home triumph over Southwestern of Texas. It was the Cougars' 12th straight and made their over-all record 17-4.

Although Coach Vic Bubas benched two of his starters, Bob Verga and Bob Reidy, for violation of an 11 p.m. curfew, the second-ranked Duke Blue Devils whipped Virginia 81-55 at Durham. Playing at home, third-ranked Chicago Loyola rebounded from its upset defeat by Wichita on Tuesday and overwhelmed St. Johns of Minnesota 106-77.

Vanderbilt, the No. 5 team scored a 71-53 road triumph over Alabama. Providence, No. 6, whipped St. Bonaventure 84-62 on a neutral court in Buffalo, N.Y. Kansas, No. 7, Nebraska, No. 9, and Michigan No. 10, each won at home. St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, No. 8, did not play Saturday.

Big Walt Wesley scored 20 points in leading Kansas over Oklahoma State 59-33. Grant Simmons got 22 points in sparking Nebraska over Iowa State 81-70. All-America Cazzie Russell got 36 points as Michigan beat Wisconsin 120-102 and took undisputed first place in the Big Ten.

Record Vault, Upset In 2-Mile Event

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A world record of 16 feet, 10 inches by pole vaulter John Penn went into the record book today, along with an upset finish in the featured two-mile run as an aftermath of the Los Angeles Times Indoor Games.

Many of the world famous track and field athletes headed to the next big event on the winter indoor circuit, the New York Athletic Club meet next Saturday night in Madison Square Garden.

Pennel supplied the world record Saturday night before 13,477 fans when he bettered his own indoor mark of 16-9 1/2, made here last Jan. 22.

Bill Ballie, the slope-shouldered 31-year-old distance runner from New Zealand, was the surprise winner in the featured two-mile race.

He put on an unexpected burst of speed in the final three laps to beat out Australia's Ron Carke, while well back in fifth place was Kenya's hero, Kipchoge Keino.

Ballie's time was 8:37.4, Carke's 8:38.4 and Keino got in at 8:40.7.

Third and fourth places went to Bob Day of UCLA and Viktor Krutinsky of U.S.S.R.

Keino, limping from a pulled muscle, said he would return to down, instead of maintaining a steady pace. McGrady said, "That gave my opponent Cassell more courage, and he almost caught me."

"Judging from my time, I would have to say yes, it was my best race ever. But from what I did in the race, I would have to say no."

Cassell was the only champion returning from the 1965 Mason-Dixon Games, in which he won the 500-yard run.

One other indoor record was tied when the mile relay team from Southern University of Baton Rouge, La., won with a 3:11.1 time in the featured race.

Another 7-Footer

Dallas, Tex. — Texas has contributed another seven-foot high jumper to track and field competition.

The first was Colin Ridgway, the Australian from Lamar Tech who did 7-1/2 in the Border Olympics of 1962. That was outdoors.

Saturday night, John Hartford was the first to jump seven feet in a Texas indoor meet.

The Texas Southern star, whose best outdoors mark was 6-11 1/2 last year, leaped an even seven feet in the Dallas Invitational meet.

He tried three times at 7-1 but missed.

Hartford participated in record-breaking that bettered Texas standards 10 times and tied two in two nights.

Kenya today but wants to run again in Southern California meets this summer. He seemed in doubt about coming back to America for the National Amateur Athletic Union meet in Albuquerque May 4.

Jim Grelle of Portland, Ore., won the mile in 4:03.1 with his usual last-lap kick.

John Camien of Kansas State Teachers was second in 4:04.4, followed in turn by John Davies of New Zealand, Basil Clifford of Ireland and Rick Ricker, the high school runner from Spokane, Wash.

Mason-Dixon Games

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Nineteen-year-old Martin McGrady says his first indoor-record race wasn't his best, because he ran the first lap too fast.

McGrady, a sophomore at Central State, Wilberforce, Ohio, set his record in the sixth Mason-Dixon Games Saturday night by defeating veteran Ollan Cassell in the 600-yard run in 1:09.0.

Olympian Cassell, of Nutley, N.J., running unattached, posted a 1:09.1, itself better than Wendell Motley's old record 1:09.2 set in 1964 while Motley was running for Yale.

McGrady said his coach Dave Youngblood, told him to run the first 20 yards in 24 seconds. He made the lap around the Freedom Hall boards in 23.7. "I got excited, and slowed previously owned and proudly cared for

Besides being little more than nicely broken in, the major difference you'll consciously note between one of our late-model Continentals and a new one is the remarkable savings a previously owned Continental affords its second owner. The ride, the look, the performance, the quality are classic, timeless, unmistakably Continental. Come in and RUMSON — "The World of Sholom Aleichem," three plays by the Yiddish author, will be presented by the drama group of the United Synagogue Youth of Congregation B'nai Israel, here, Saturday and Sunday at 8:15 p.m.

The plays are "A Tale of Chelm," "Zontche Schweig" and "The High School."

Survey Sees County Production Worker Better Off These Days

NEW YORK — Is the average Monmouth County family better off today, in terms of buying power, than it was five or 10 years ago?

To what extent has the rising cost of living eaten into the income gains it has chalked up? Locally, the figures show, the financial picture is a rosy one. Family earnings have been rising at a much faster rate than the cost of goods and services.

As a result, the average production worker is in much better shape than he was in previous years. His week's pay goes farther in the market place than it did formerly.

Just how it shapes up, taking into account both increased earnings and higher costs, is brought out in surveys made by the Tax Foundation, by the Department of Labor and others.

They show that the average working man in Monmouth County now earns enough after 24 minutes on the job to buy a pound of round steak, best grade, or the equivalent.

In dollars and cents, the round steak is 14 per cent more expensive than it was seven years ago. However, it amounts to less, in terms of his working time, because his wages have gone up more than the 14 per cent.

The figures show that per capita income in the local area is 24 per cent higher than in 1958.

As a result, local residents have greater buying power than before. For example, a man's wool suit, good grade, can now be bought with 28 hours of work and an automobile tire, size 7.50 x 15, with about nine hours.

These items, and most others, would have cost considerably more, in terms of effort, seven years ago.

The Tax Foundation shows, in a special study, how much time is spent by a typical $10,000-a-year man (married with two children) during an eight-hour day, to provide for his family's various needs.

It shows that he must work two hours and 19 minutes to meet the tax bills, one hour and 30 minutes for housing and household costs, one hour and 16 minutes for food and tobacco, and 39 minutes for transportation.

The rest of the time goes for apparel, 31 minutes, medical, 21 minutes, recreation, 18 minutes, and all others, one hour and six minutes.

Post Office Bids Sought For Navesink

NAVESINK — The Post Office Department is seeking competitive bids to build and lease a new post office building here. Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien has announced.

Postmaster O'Brien said bidding is designed to encourage the most attractive and economical offer to the government. In line with President Johnson's economy program to achieve the best possible postal service at the least possible cost.

Under the department's construction-lease program, the successful bidder will construct the building according to departmental specifications and lease it to the Post Office Department for a basic period of five years, with options to renew the lease for an additional 20 years.

The department's capital investment will be limited substantially to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership, with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

Bidding documents will be available tomorrow and may be obtained from William B. McGovern, regional real estate officer, Room 838, U.S. Post Office and Court House, Newark. All bids must be submitted by March 31.

Rand Hopes To Cut Costs Of Insurance

LONG BRANCH — Acting City Manager Jacob Rand has proposed establishing an internal safety committee composed of various city department heads as a means in which to cut the city's insurance costs.

After meeting with the city's insurance consultant, Mr. Rand said he learned the city is paying a compensation premium about double what would ordinarily be charged because of the city's past record of compensation claims.

He said he hopes to initiate a tighter control in the handling of claims to reduce the premium which, he said, could conceivably be slashed by about 7,000 annually.

He said employees repeatedly involved in accidents would be investigated to "determine whether they are careless or merely accident prone. These employees will then be educated in proper safety procedures."

He said he hopes to initiate a tighter control in the handling of claims to reduce the premium which, he said, could conceivably be slashed by about 7,000 annually.

The bids, which were for the furnishing of No. 2 fuel oil and gasoline, were scheduled by City Council to be returned Feb. 24. The Council condemned a house on Springdale Ave. owned by Philip Coyne.

Permission was granted to the Long Branch and Vicinity Council of Churches to hold Lenten services on the vacant lot at Broadway and Third Ave. on seven successive Wednesday evenings beginning Feb. 23.

An ordinance regulating through streets, parking and snow removal was passed while an ordinance prohibiting parking on a number of city streets was introduced.

Small Boat Handling Course Set

FORT MONMOUTH — Bob Miller, commander of Flotilla 27, United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, reports that registration for the public instruction course in small boat handling will be accepted when the classes start Tuesday, March 1, at 8 p.m. in Building 478 here.

Classes will be open to all small boat owners and their families. Non-boat owners are also invited to attend. The ten-week course, two-hour sessions, will be held every Tuesday. Movies and slides will also be shown during some of the classes.

The course is designed to help the novice boatman learn the fundamentals of safety and courtesy afloat. A certificate of proficiency will be awarded by the Coast Guard to all who pass the final examination, which will be given during the last session.

All instructors of the auxiliary serve without compensation, but there is a charge to cover the cost of books. Charles Jacelon is course supervisor for the auxiliary. Details and registration may also be made by telephoning Herman J. Carter, public relations officer, 376 West End Ave., Long Branch.

Acting City Manager Jacob Rand announced that he had arranged with Monmouth Medical Center to provide medical services when required by the police department. The city had been without a city physician since July, 1964.

The program, part of the club's observance of Brotherhood Week, was open to the public.

Rev. Grauel, a Methodist minister who spends most of his time traveling and lecturing, spent six weeks in Israel and nearby countries last summer studying archaeological excavations.

Bridge Advice

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

It's easy to be a liberal spender when you're rolling in the stuff, but when you're down to your last nickel you have to spend it all in one place. This stingy attitude will get you nowhere at the bridge table.

Declarer took the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart, drew trumps with the king and ace, and led the queen of diamonds from dummy for a finesse.

West took the king of diamonds and returned a diamond to the ace. South led to the jack of diamonds and returned a club. When East played low, declarer took a deep finesse with the eight of clubs.

West had to win and had to give South a trick. If West returned a club, South's king would win a trick. If West led anything else, dummy would discard a club while South ruffed. Either way, South was sure to make the contract.

Thanks Partner

"Thanks for nothing," West growled as the opponents scored the rubber.

"What could I do?" East demanded. "All I had was just one queen."

"You had only one card, and you couldn't even play that at the right time," West pointed out. East could defeat the contract by playing the queen of clubs when declarer first led the suit from dummy. If South played the king, West would take three clubs at once. If South played low, East would win the trick and lead another club.

The correct play became obvious when South cleared out both red suits from dummy and his own hand. If West had to win the first club trick he would be unable to get out safely. The only chance was to step up with the queen of clubs in the hope of rescuing West from the end play.

Answers: Pass. You have 11 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubler, enough for an optional opening bid. In this case you refuse the option because your suit is only mediocre and because the distribution is only so-so. You might open the bidding if you had three small diamonds with five spades headed by A-Q-J.

The balance of the portfolio includes multi-family, industrial, institutional and other loans which ranged in 1965, from $25,000 to $1.6 million.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I am a widow of 53, living comfortably on interest from money in savings banks. I own 150 shares Time Inc., which is now worth $15,000. Should I hold or sell half and put the proceeds into the bank? What do you think of New England Telephone? It doesn't seem to do very much. My mother bought it five years ago at 5 1/2 and it shows a loss."

H.C.

A) Please allow me to answer your second question first. New England Telephone is an excellent income producer, but its growth—except for the past two years—has been only moderate. I advise your mother to keep the stock. The current yield is 4.5 per cent and since New England—particularly Boston—is undergoing somewhat of a renaissance, I believe the stock will show further appreciation.

You have an excellent growth holding in Time Inc. I believe you should switch half to Eastman Kodak for diversification purposes only. I advise you to add no more to savings, since these—unlike the two stocks mentioned—can offer you no inflation protection whatsoever.

Q) "I own $20,000 Series H bonds, maturing March 1966. Can you tell me the advantages of investing in savings bonds or good municipal bonds. I am in my 70s and interested only in safety."

C.F.

A) Your Series H bonds maturing next month have been promised an extension. The President has announced that the interest rate will be raised on all bonds now outstanding, as well as on those to be extended. For a person in your position, there are great advantages in holding savings bonds. You get absolute safety combined with complete stability, which is unobtainable in any other bond whatsoever.

Municipals offer a higher taxable equivalent yield if your income is in the upper brackets. They do fluctuate on money conditions, which might disturb you. I advise you to extend your Series H bonds.
