Meyner, Cahill Win; Ask Party Unity

NEWARK (AP) — Former Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner and Republican U.S. Rep. William T. Cahill stressed party unity today for a November governor's race matching two men of similar political style and similar political problems.
Both won nominations yesterday in crowded primary contests that left potentially damaging scars for the general election.
Cahill, a moderate, narrowly defeated U.S. Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr., who campaigned as the only unmistakable conservative in the Republican field of five.
Meyner withstood a dual challenge — from the old-line Democratic organization in populous Hudson County and from a new coalition of liberals. But his margin was 3-2 in a field of six and victory was assured early.
Cahill declined to claim victory on the basis of unofficial returns and Sandman remained silent through the night. Cahill flew to Cincinnati for a son's graduation today.
Meeting Today
Meyner scheduled an immediate meeting today with Gov. Richard J. Hughes, who succeeded him eight years ago. Hughes, neutral in the primary, promised general election support. Meyner called on his opponents "to join ranks so we can have a great Democratic victory on Nov. 4."

With 98 per cent of the vote tallied, Associated Press figures showed Cahill with 155,856 votes to 144,364 for Sandman. Meyner had 170,339 to 87,176 for State Sen. William F. Kelly, the Hudson County candidate.
The other three Republican candidates drew the following totals: State Sen. Harry L. Sears of Morris County 46,843; state Senate President Frank X. McDermott 35,399, and Public Utilities Commissioner William E. Ozzard of Somerset County 19,488.
The other four Democratic candidates drew these votes: U.S. Rep. Henry Helstoski of Bergen County 59,641; Garden State Parkway Director D. Louis Tonti 33,699; former state Sen. Ned J. Parsekian of Bergen County 24,424; and Sea Bright tavern owner John L. Hennessey 6,160.
Both Lawyers
Both Cahill, 56, and Meyner, 60, are lawyers. Both are calm, deliberate speakers. Cahill is regarded as liberal for a Republican, Meyner as conservative for a Democrat.
The issues were more sharply drawn in the Republican contest, where Sandman offered himself as the only clear conservative in the field, while Cahill was touted as the hope for moderates.
"We got a guy who's going to beat Bob Meyner," said the assistant majority leader of the state Assembly, Barry Parker, displaying relief from fears that a conservative candidate would bring legislative losses.
Sandman, who lost the 1965 nomination in a tight contest, opposed a state income tax and vowed a hard line approach to law and order. Cahill also opposed an income tax now.
Deed Issue
In the last month of the campaign, a Cahill aide reported that Sandman owned land which had restrictions in the deeds against sale to Negroes, Sandman said the provisions had been inserted by a lawyer without his knowledge into blank deeds he had signed.
Cahill then was accused of owning land which once had had racial restrictions, but he said these were in deeds made long before he bought the land.
Meyner, touted as a possible contender for national office during his tenure as governor from 1952 through 1961, lost Hudson County, the last Hudson County, the (PRIMARY, Pg. 3, Col. 3) election was in the 5B Assembly District among Republican contenders. The incumbents, Assemblymen Joseph Azzolina and James M. Coleman Jr., walked away from the challenger, Nicholas Chvestuik of Ocean Grove. Mr. Azzolina received 9,360 votes; Mr. Coleman, 10,401 and Mr. Chvestuik, 953.

Sees Confusion
Mr. Danskin attributed the light voter turnout to voter confusion because of the number of candidates seeking the gubernatorial nod.
Mrs. Ann D. Flynn, county GOP vice chairman, added that besides the confusion, the holiday weekend didn't help. She expected the turnout would be light, she said, since there was not much enthusiasm in the election.
Freeholder Larrison said the turnout in the county could have been light because of the open primary.

County Primary Vote Light

By WILLIAM J. ZAORSKI
FREEHOLD — In a light primary election yesterday with only 19 per cent of the voters going to the polls, Republican voting strength dipped a little while the Democrats, long the underdog, increased a bit.
Unofficial voting return calculations indicate that the Republican votes dipped 8 per cent from their average in the past three gubernatorial elections as the Democrats picked up 8 per cent.
This fluctuation in voting averages also occurred in last year's presidential election. Republican votes dropped 9 per cent while the Democrats went up 9 per cent.
While this was the largest gubernatorial election in the state for the past 16 years, voter interest in the county apparently wasn't with it. Only about 35,436 of the county's 189,170 eligible voters cast their ballots.
In the past three gubernatorial elections — those of 1965, 1961 and 1957 — an average of 23 per cent of the county's eligible voters went to the polls.
Republican officials in election return headquarters in Monmouth County courthouse blamed the large number of candidates with 11 gubernatorial aspirants on the ballot, as being confusing and resulting in the small turnout.
They also said the open primary was another reason why people didn't vote.
Traditionally the Republicans have outscored the Democrats in the county election returns. This year was no exception. Unofficial results show Republicans with about 20,850 votes while the Democrats got 14,586.

In past gubernatorial elections, the Republicans have averaged 66 per cent of the votes while the Democrats have had 34 per cent.
GOP Nets 59
In this primary, the Republicans pulled only 59 per cent, 2 per cent more than in last year's primary, while the Democrats scored 41 per cent, a drop of 2 per cent.
High Republican vote getter was incumbent Freeholder Harry Larrison Jr. who is seeking reelection, with 20,850 votes. Mr. Larrison picked up the lead from Freeholder Benjamin H. Danskin, who is running for county clerk, when one-third of the results were known.
High Democrat was Paul Kiernan Jr., who also is seeking the county clerk's post, with 14,586. Mr. Kiernan remained high Democrat throughout the election returns.

CC Wins in Marlboro

MARLBORO — The Citizens Committee (CC) won another resounding victory here last night, with its Republican choices winning all of the top posts and all but three county committee seats in the primary.
It was a defeat for the Regular Republicans. The winners were endorsed by the new Marlboro Township Republican Club, which has a large percentage of CC members.
An independent slate of backup candidates sponsored by the CC and headed by its chairman, Gerald A. Bauman Jr., is now expected to withdraw.
High vote-getter was Councilman John J. McLaughlin, with 643 votes to push him toward another term.
Mayor Walter C. Grubb Jr. won the Republican mayoral nomination from Regular Republican candidate Millard B. (Bud) Lamberson, a former township committeeman, 603-453.
Stokes, McCrackey
Other Republican council nominations were won by David F. Stokes, who got 587 votes, and incumbent Councilman Ellis W. McCracken Jr., who got 585.
They defeated Regular Republicans Steven H. Adler, who got 484 votes, Bennett Leaderman, who polled 444, and Councilman Lawrence C. Youngman who got 420.
The only contest on the Democratic side was in the new District 5 (Whittier Oaks), where write-in candidates endorsed by the new Marlboro Independent Democratic Club won county committee seats.
The Republican winners, who had a victory party at Mr. McLaughlin's home, were jubilant.
"The backing we had was fantastic," said Mr. McLaughlin.
Mr. Bauman called it a "tremendous victory" and said, "It proves that people in Marlboro support our approach to planning and zoning, which we have been working on for seven years."
Mr. Bauman said he was "not in a position to say tonight what our next action will be" regarding the CC independent candidates.
"We filed candidates to give people an alternative in November, in case some of the people who ran on the same platform we have didn't make it. We certainly supported Walter Grubb and the Republican ticket and will continue to do so," he said.
Mayor Grubb was in California on a business trip.
District 5 Democrats gave the nod to Theodore Cayle over organization Democrat James J. Alexander, 36 to 22, and to Mrs. Greta Coleman over Dorothy E. Alexander, 35 to 28.

Other Democratic candidates, all unopposed, scored these tallies: for mayor, Morton Salkind, 230; for councilmen, Eli S. Belli, 228; Lawrence S. Grossman, 223; Mrs. Mary T. Denton, 218.

Fort Denies Charge Of Wasting Money

WASHINGTON — Rep. William J. Harsha, R-Ohio, who has been charging the Defense Department with wasting the taxpayers' money, now contends that the Army Electronics Command wasted "at least $30 million" in a $75 million procurement.
Mr. Harsha previously had contended that the Electronics Command wasted $933,125 in another procurement.
Officials at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., today denied allegations made by Rep. Harsha that Ft. Monmouth wasted money by granting a series of non-competitive contracts to Packard-Bell Electronics Inc. for producing a transponder test set. The contract amounted to $353,000.
The Procurement and Production Directorate at the fort is in charge on contract awards.
A Ft. Monmouth spokesman said the equipment was urgently needed and only Packard-Bell Electronics, the firm that got the contract, could provide it "successfully in nine months" as compared with production lead time of at least 19 months for any new producer.
"On April 11, 1962," Mr. Harsha told the house, "at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., procurement officers of the Army Electronics Command secretly opened bids on a contract to develop a communication system described as 'a secure forward area pulse code modulation terminal.'
"The lowest bid was $370,024; it came from General Dynamics. The fourth lowest bid was $552,673; it came from Raytheon . . . Raytheon got the contract," Mr. Harsha contended that the "waste" in this ratio was pyramided in subsequent contracts.
Earlier Mr. Harsha said a contract for a transponder test set was awarded to Packard-Bell Electronics Corp. through negotiation, by the Army Electronics Command under Maj. Gen. W. B. Latta and his director of procurement and production, Col. Jacob B. Cooperhouse.
Mr. Harsha said he computed his "waste" figure on this procurement from competitive bids on the item "after considerable pressure was applied against the Army Electronics Command from within the electronics industry to finally permit open competitive bidding."
Rep. James J. Howard, D-N. J., said this morning that he was trying to arrange a meeting with Rep. Harsha and Gen. Latta, commander of Ft. Monmouth and the Electronics Command.
"There is no question that Ft. Monmouth is correct in this matter," a spokesman for the congressman said this morning. "What we want to do is bring Gen. Latta and Rep. Harsha together to explain the situation."
The fort said armed services procurement regulations and the law authorizes sole source procurement when essential to meet urgency in delivery.
The transponder equipment is a portable flight line test set used to check pre-flight operational status of the aircraft's identification friend or foe capability.

Girls' Rescuer Wants to Be Lifeguard

By ED WALSH
HIGHLANDS — Michael L. Britton of 16 Fourth St. wants to be a lifeguard this summer. His credentials can't be argued.
Saturday Michael saved two local 12-year-old girls from possible death by drowning when he went to their aid in the Shrewsbury River after they were caught in the incoming tide undertow.
Last night the 17-year-old youth, who is employed as a transporter at Monmouth Medical Center, Long Branch, told The Daily Register of events leading up to the rescue.
"I had gone down to the beach (near Fifth St.) to take a swim and cool off," he began. "I was there for a little while and had been teaching the girls how to swim."
The girls are Debbie Carlstrom of 273 Bay Ave. and Linda Sparno of 61 Bay Ave.
"Later I began walking up the beach from the water and just happened to turn around to see both girls going under and acting panicky," he continued. "There were a lot of other people on the beach but they thought the girls were just clowning around.

"I knew they were in trouble because they can't swim that well and they were out too far."
He said both girls were about 10 feet from shore, where the bottom of the river drops off suddenly.
"I raced back down to the river and when I reached the girls they both grabbed me and started pulling me under with them," the youth reported.

SINCERE THANKS — Michael Britton, 17, of 16 Fourth St., Highlands, smiles appreciatively after receiving a thank you card from two Highlands misses, Linda Sparno, 12, left, and Debbie Carlstrom, 12. The youth raced into the Shrewsbury River last Saturday and saved both girls from possible death by drowning after both girls were caught in undertow. (Register Staff Photo)

At approximately the same time police Capt. Howard Brey, who had witnessed the incident from his passing patrol car, came to the youth's assistance and administered oxygen to both girls. They were later transported by members of the Highlands First Aid Squad to Monmouth Medical Center where they were treated and released.
Later Capt. Brey commended the youth, saying, "I give him 100 per cent credit. He did a great job."
Michael, who has filed an application with the borough in hopes of becoming a lifeguard again this year (he worked the last two weeks of last summer on the Miller Street beach), admitted to (RESCUER, Pg. 3, Col. 8)

Cpl. Thomas L. Blevins Jr., 28th Marines, won the South Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry for heroism in the same area in March.
A candidate for the Bronze Star, he had received a citation and a promotion to corporal for meritorious service in December, when he pulled two wounded comrades to safety from a rice paddy under enemy fire.
Cpl. Blevins, in the Marine Corps since January, 1968, had been in Vietnam nine months. "He told us he was coming home in August," his father said yesterday.
The young Marine was a graduate of Middletown grammar schools and Middletown Township High School, where he played football and was captain of the wrestling team. Graduating from high school in 1966, he attended Rutgers University 1½ years before joining the Marines.
Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother, Rodney Blevins, at home.
Funeral arrangements will be made when the body is returned here in about two weeks.

Dilapidated House Gets Quick Red Bank Action

RED BANK — The Substandard Housing Committee last night promised immediate action on a complaint about the condition of a house located at 18 W. Westside Ave.

The complaint was made by Mrs. J. B. Murphy of 14 W. Westside Avenue who attended the meeting with several of her neighbors and also presented a petition requesting action.

Mrs. Murphy stated that the house was "falling down in the back" and alleged that the building had become a breeding ground for rats, roaches and bees.

She urged the committee to act quickly because the owner of the building, Joseph Berger, was "doing a patch up job" to hide violations.

Promise Is Cited
Building inspector Maxwell Klarin and Police Chief LeRoy Knight reported that they were aware of the conditions.

Chief McKnight said he had mentioned them to the owner who had promised to clean them up. He added that he had been unaware that Mr. Berger had been making such promises to Mrs. Murphy for some time.

Mr. Klarin and several members of the board promised to inspect the premises this morning.

Mr. Berger also had been summoned to appear last night in connection with a substandard dwelling at 65-67 Linden Place. However, Mr. Klarin reported that attorneys representing Mr. Berger had notified him yesterday morning that Mr. Berger had contracted the sale of the property and was not the responsible owner at this point.

Late in the meeting, Mr. James R. Gashin, reported by the attorneys to be the legal owner, appeared and claimed that he indeed is the owner but was unable to perform the necessary repairs because Mr. Berger had not given him the deeds.

Deadline Set
The committee agreed to give Mr. Gashin until September to settle the legal problems and undertake the necessary work. On the insistence of Mr. Klarin, the committee ordered Mr. Gashin to remove a back porch in danger of collapsing.

A 15-day deadline was set for the task and Mr. Gashin agreed to comply in that time.

Mr. Klarin reported that progress was being made on all other outstanding problems, either in form of work in progress or completed or in transfer of title to other parties.

Rooney Chosen From Six Sewer Unit Post Applicants

LITTLE SILVER — William R. Rooney was selected from six applicants for the $17,000 post of executive director of the Northeast Monmouth County Regional Sewerage Authority, NEMCRSA chairman Michael J. Rafferty said last night.

He said that although the authority hadn't advertised the job, "We had discussed creation of the post and had announced we were looking for a director. We had at least a half-dozen applications."

Mr. Rooney was a Fair Haven member of the authority and its treasurer since its inception. He resigned his authority seat to take the executive director's job and last Thursday retired from his job as manager of quality control of International Telephone and Telegraph-Federal Laboratories.

Special Meeting
As reported in yesterday's Daily Register, the executive director's job was established and Mr. Rooney named to it at a special public meeting of the authority last Thursday. Milton A. Mauser, authority attorney, and Mr. Rafferty said the failure to notify newspapers which regularly cover NEMCRSA meetings in advance of Thursday's special session was an oversight.

Mr. Rafferty said that notification of the Thursday meeting wasn't handled by the authority secretary, Paul Schissler, who usually sends out the meeting notices.

He said the person charged with sending the meeting notices, "didn't know we notify the newspapers of special meetings."

Mr. Rafferty said the announcement the authority was looking for a director was made at the March or April meeting.

He said one of the unsuccessful applicants is the executive director of a sewer authority in northern New Jersey.

The NEMCRSA chairman said that the authority "is getting to the point where the need for someone to be on the job full-time has arrived."

He said Mr. Rooney "will be charged with the spade work for finding other personnel."

"We've gotten a fair amount of work done at the treatment plant site, and our expenditures will grow day by day," Mr. Rafferty said.

He said Mr. Rooney will have an office in a building the authority now owns on Raccoon Island, off Monmouth Beach, the site of the treatment plant and the main pumping station.

The $31 million, 12-town regional sewer network is scheduled to begin operating in 1972. At Thursday's meeting, the authority awarded contracts totaling $2.5 million for sewer installation in Little Silver and Oceanport.

Highlands Curfew Code Hearing Is Continued

HIGHLANDS — A public hearing on a curfew ordinance for children under 18 years of age was continued to June 17 from last night's Borough Council meeting.

The measure sets a curfew of 10 p.m. on winter weekdays and 11 p.m. on winter weekends. The deadline is an hour later in summer months.

Mrs. Muriel Smith of Highlands Ave., the only resident to speak on the measure, criticized it as "unconstitutional."

"I question how a parent can be found guilty for his children's activities and I question what loitering means in the ordinance," she told council. "There are no definitions in it."

The governing body continued the hearing because borough attorney Benjamin Gruber was not present to answer questions.

Over the objection of Councilman Cornelius J. Guiney Jr., the council approved payment of $2,131 to the North American Appraisal Co. for revaluation of the borough.

However, the council ruled payment be withheld until a full written report of the appraisal is received.

Mr. Guiney objected, claiming the firm has not done a "good job." The paper work on the project has been completed, hearings between the firm and residents on the new valuations have been completed but the council has not yet received the forms, he said.

On the recommendation of Councilman Ernest F. Vaughan, council will direct a letter to the Henry Hudson Regional Board of Education asking it to prepare for the subdivision of school property along Grand Tour.

The property, with steep hills and valleys, has been ruled unsuitable for school building by the board, which has decided it has no use for the property.

Mr. Vaughan stated that 10 residential lots — good ratables — could be carved from the tract. Money realized from the sale, he added, would be used by the Board of Education to purchase other property suitable for building.

Mr. Vaughan reported that the First Army engineers have requested a meeting with the council before July 1 to discuss the possibility of the Highland Air Force Base becoming a sewer customer once the regional sewerage system has been effected.

Council authorized a loan of $500 to the Regional Sewerage Authority for continuing costs. Atlantic Highlands has similarly approved a $500 amount. Each borough has thus far contributed $1,250 to the operating costs of the sewerage unit.

June 17 was set for a workshop to discuss a proposed increase in the sewer rate to finance repairs to the sewer plant. The workshop session will be at 7 p.m. with an open council meeting at 8 p.m.

Mayor James T. White appointed Stewart King of 63 Bay Ave. an alternate member of the Zoning Board. The appointment was needed, the mayor explained, to enable the board to have a quorum for meetings. The appointment won unanimous approval of council.

Council named Edward Bunting Jr. as a special patrolman.

The first Tuesday of the month will no longer be the regular meeting date of the council, as the body, on recommendation from Mr. Vaughan, moved the session to the third Tuesday of each month. The change will facilitate bill payments.

Council established the first Monday of each month as trash pickup day. This monthly institution will be in lieu of trash day once or twice a year, to prevent buildups of large amounts of debris.

A letter of commendation was sent by council to Michael L. Britton, 17 of 18 4th St. for his heroism in saving of two young borough girls from drowning in the Shrewsbury River Saturday.

Call Off Search For 73 Seamen

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — The Navy has called off its search for 73 seamen missing from a U.S. destroyer cut in half by an Australian carrier during SEATO maneuvers.

"We have absolute confidence that we have picked up all survivors," said a Navy spokesman in announcing the end of search operations by 10 ships from three nations.

Most of those given up for lost — nearly a third of the destroyer Evans' crew — were presumed sleeping in their bunks in the forward part of the ship when it was hit by the carrier Melbourne, flagship of the Australian Navy, in pre-dawn hours about 650 miles southwest of Manila in the Philippines Tuesday. The forward section quickly sank in 5,400 feet of water.

Seas were calm and skies clear at the time of the collision and remained so during the rescue efforts.

Adm. John J. Hyland, Pacific Fleet commander, ordered a court of inquiry similar to the Navy's probe into the seizure of the intelligence ship Pueblo.

The still-floating stern section of the Evans was towed to the Philippines by a fleet tug late Tuesday when the Pentagon began releasing names of the casualties.

Among the lost were the three Sage brothers of Niobrara, Neb. — Gary, 21, Gregory, 19, and Kelly Jo, 18.

Fireman Lawrence J. Kelly Jr. of Costa Mesa, Calif., perished, but his father, Senior Chief Gunner's Mate Lawrence J. Kelly Sr. was a survivor.

Navy headquarters listed 199 Evans survivors and one dead in addition to the 73 missing. The Melbourne had no casualties.

VFW ANTIQUE DOLLS

LITTLE SILVER — Twenty-two members of Junior Girl Scout Troop 303 visited the antique doll museum and hospital of Mrs. Sam Price of 4 North Point Road, Lincroft, last week.

The girls viewed dolls in their authentic settings—the oldest doll dating from 1805. Many dolls were dressed in their original attire, and occupied antique doll houses, carriages, and other furniture pieces.

Mrs. Price started this hobby several years ago, and now has two rooms filled with dolls. Accompanying the scouts were leaders Mrs. Kenneth Layton, Mrs. Lambert Gieseke and Mrs. Edward Betz.

Red Bank Sophomore Is Winner

RED BANK — Helgi Kristinsson, a sophomore at Red Bank High School, topped all students in the county in the biology section of the recent State Science Day Program, held at Monmouth College.

In addition to leading the county, Helgi placed 20th among 463 students who competed at five colleges throughout the state.

The program was sponsored by the New Jersey Science Teachers Association. It consisted of tests in biology, chemistry and physics.

Helgi also paced the Red Bank team entry to a first place among county entrants. His teammates were Jeff Lucas, Mary Nigro and Mary White.

Helgi will receive medals for his achievements on the state and county level, and the school will receive $30 for the accomplishment of the biology team.

Defense Rests In Weber Trial

NEWARK (AP) — The defense has rested its case in the extortion trial of union leader Peter W. Weber.

The defense rested Tuesday after presenting four Negro witnesses who are members of Weber's local.

Various motions were expected to be argued today with summations likely Thursday.

Weber, president of Local 825 of the Operating Engineers Union, is on trial in U.S. District Court for allegedly accepting $14,000 in pay-offs to influence the award of a contract securing construction of an oil pipeline through the state.

The four witnesses testified about alleged discrimination by the U.C. Price Co. of Bartlesville, Okla., toward them between 1959 and 1963 when they were working on pipelines in New Jersey. The four, Douglas Patterson, James Davis, and brothers Fred and Zack Wilson, alleged that Price supervisors gave them a hard time and sought to have them replaced. But they said their local backed them up.

Party-Backed Assembly Aspirants Victors in All But Atlantic County

NEWARK (AP) — Organizational-backed candidates for Assembly nominations beat back challenges from insurgents in all but Atlantic County in Tuesday's primary election.

Dissident Democrats in Atlantic upset the candidates of County Chairman Arthur W. Ponzio, but party leaders in Hudson, Middlesex, Union and Bergen survived battles with political foes, former lawmakers and so-called "reform" slates as voters decided 31 Assembly primaries.

The most notable organizational victory was the 2-1 margin by which Hudson County Democratic boss John V. Kenny's slate of eight Assembly candidates defeated opponents run by John J. Kenny, his erstwhile lieutenant. The two Kennys, who are not related, have been feuding publicly since early this year.

Incumbent Assemblyman Addison M. McLeon, who was dumped from the ticket by John V. and then ran with John J.'s slate was the chief victim of the organization landslide.

Victorious candidates backed by John V., who has run Hudson County since 1949, included incumbents David Friedl and Christopher J. Jackman, Alfred E. Suminski, and Michael P. Esposito.

In Atlantic County, "reform" candidates Charles Penman, and Joseph J. Messick polled 2,602 and 2,561 respectively against the Ponzio slate of John M. Keeley and Earl B. Fairchild. Keeley ran third with 2,365 votes and Fairchild received 1,925 votes.

Union County Democrat Chairman James J. Kinneally's Assembly slate headed by John T. Connor Jr., son of the former U.S. Commerce Secretary, survived a challenge by two groups of insurgents.

A ticket backed by Elizabeth Mayor Thomas G. Dunn ran second while New Democratic Coalition candidates finished third.

Alan J. Karcher, executive secretary to Gov. Richard J. Hughes, finished a poor third against Middlesex Democratic leader David T. Wilentz's candidates, Martin Spritzer, a nephew of County Chairman Herman Hoffman, and East Brunswick Councilman David Foley.

And Republican Assemblyman Richard A. Olsen, the only one of 10 incumbents restricted out of office to buck his county organization and run for renomination was defeated 3-1 by incumbents Robert K. Haegle Jr. and Peter P. Garibaldi.

Summer School Opens July 7 in Red Bank

RED BANK — Red Bank High School's summer school will open July 7 this year with a slightly different schedule and some new courses, according to Clement C. Jablonski, director.

The school will operate for five weeks this year instead of six as in previous years. However, 60 hours of instruction in each course will be maintained by extending each class period slightly. The last day of school will be Aug. 8.

Enrollment of students to summer school will be based on written permission from the principal or guidance director of the school the student normally attends.

The school day is divided into two periods. The first period runs from 8 until 10:20 a.m., and the second starts at 10:30 and is over at 12:45 p.m.

These review subjects will be offered if sufficient registration is received: algebra I and II, general mathematics, geometry, English I, II, and IV, French I and II, corrective reading physical education, Latin I and II, Spanish I and II, general science, biology, chemistry, physics, world history, U.S.

Snare Trio In a Church Robbery Try

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS — Three area men were charged with breaking, entry and larceny early today after they were discovered by a priest and two patrolmen in St. Agnes Catholic Church here, according to Police Chief James Egidio.

The chief reports that the Rev. Michael Lease called police headquarters at 12:55 a.m. reporting that the church burglar alarm sounded. Sgt. William McLaughlin and Patrolman Henry Reith were detailed to the church and, with Father Lease, discovered three men in the sanctuary, the chief said.

Arrested were Raymond Piano, 21, of Valley Drive, Navesink; Richard Martinez, 20, of 62 E. Lincoln Ave., Atlantic Highlands; and Jeffrey P. McCann, 19, of 196 Bay Ave., Highlands. They were held in county jail in lieu of bail, pending an arraignment in municipal court today.

The chief said the poor box had been opened and an attempt to open the safe also was made. He added that a record player had been taken from the school adjoining the church. The trio subsequently was charged with breaking, entry and larceny, he said.

Top of the News

WASHINGTON — Pay-television will be yanked off the air in any area where it begins putting free TV out of business, says Rosel H. Hyde, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

Hyde said in an interview, however, that fears the proposed authorization of pay-TV would spell the end of free programs are unjustified.

In two months, the FCC has received about 150 letters from TV fans who believe — as opposition advertising suggests — that free TV is in danger.

Last Dec. 13, the FCC issued general rules for permitting pay-TV service, in which a broadcast signal is transmitted in a scrambled form that can only be unscrambled on the home TV set by use of a rented decoder. The rules take effect June 12, but this does not mean an immediate start on pay-TV.

An appeal by the National Association of Theater Owners and Joint Committee Against Toll TV is under consideration by the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals, and the FCC has agreed not to authorize any pay-TV operations for 60 days after the court decision.

The National Association of Broadcasters also has expressed fears that pay-TV could eventually force free TV off the air.

But the FCC says its rules are designed to prevent pay-TV from "siphoning" programs away from free TV. They will permit one pay-TV station each in areas which already have at least four free commercial TV signals available, not counting educational TV.

Okay St. Peter's Teachers' Pact

JERSEY CITY — The president of St. Peter's College has agreed to a recommendation that a controversial theology teacher be given a one-year contract without tenure.

The administration's refusal to rehire the teacher, Thomas Haessler, had helped trigger a student strike and sit-in that led later to the arrest of 33 students and nine teachers.

Plan Fast Jet Plane Guns

WASHINGTON — Faster-firing, harder-hitting guns are being planned for U.S. jet fighters because of dramatic progress made by North Vietnamese pilots against American planes.

Air Force work on developing the gun will start in the coming fiscal year and the weapon will be installed in the F15, a jet fighter designed to provide clear U.S. superiority over any Russian-built jets in the 1970s.

Newark's Garbage Piling Up

NEWARK — One hundred or more tons of garbage piled up on the city's streets awaited disposal today by sanitation men who went on strike Monday.

Yesterday their Teamsters Union leaders ordered the more than 700 sanitation men to return to work today to comply with a court injunction against the walkout. Daniel Tortorello, secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 945 said, "We are optimistic that there will be some progress made very shortly."

Burger Backers Ask Duplicate

WASHINGTON — Two ranking senators, enthusiastic about the appointment of Warren E. Burger to be chief justice, say they want a man just like him named to the remaining Supreme Court vacancy.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., voiced the recommendations yesterday as the Senate Judiciary Committee unanimously approved Burger's nomination. Both Dirksen and Eastland said they hope when President Nixon chooses a successor to Abe Fortas, it will be a man with a background and record similar to that of Burger.

Dirksen said he hopes for a nominee in the law and order image of the chief justice-designate.

Name off Ballot, Loses Race

PARSIPPANY — The name of a Republican candidate for Parsippany Township Council was discovered missing yesterday from the ballot in 15 of 38 election districts.

"I don't understand this, not one of the election workers caught the error," said John M. Freeman, the candidate and a subsequent loser. Freeman finished last in a race with six others for two Township Council seats.

After his name was found missing, the Board of Elections hastily ordered a printer to make up a new ballot strip for the local election and four men stood by ready to insert the strip into the machine. Freeman's supporters, meanwhile, were told to write in his name.

Say Gamblers Paid Squadmen

WASHINGTON — Federal officials have charged that gamblers in Columbus, Ohio, have "had almost every member of the city's vice squad on their payroll."

Assistant Attorney General Will R. Wilson in testimony yesterday before the Senate subcommittee on criminal laws and procedures spoke only of a "major midwestern city" when he said that "low-level officers were reported receiving $250 per month and their superiors as much as $500" from local numbers operators.

But other federal officials later confirmed Wilson had been talking about Columbus. And the Nashville Tennessean quoted Wilson as identifying the midwestern city as the Ohio capital.

Probe Reports on Disorders

WASHINGTON — The federal poverty agency is investigating reports that staff members of a foundation granted nearly $1 million under President Nixon's black capitalism project were involved in violence at a North Carolina college last month.

Charles Collins, an inspector in the Office of Economic Opportunity, was sent to North Carolina earlier this week to check on complaints that employees of the Foundation for Community Development were linked to the May 21 gun battle at North Carolina A&T at Greensboro in which one student was killed.

Medical Guidelines Issued

WASHINGTON — The federal government has quietly put out new guidelines for medical experiments on humans, but an official concedes the chief result may be to "foster a lot of paper garbage."

Despite debate over greater protection for organ-transplant patients, the new guidelines are almost exactly the same as ones published in 1966, a year and a half before the world's first heart transplant. They were mailed last month to institutions sharing some $300 million a year for research involving human beings.

Order Addonizio to Answer

NEWARK — Newark Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio has again been ordered to answer questions of an Essex County grand jury investigating possible corruption in the Newark government.

The mayor balked yesterday when confronted with 40 questions about renovations to his new $59,000 home in New Shrewsbury, and how they were financed. He was brought before Judge James R. Giuliano who for a second time ordered the mayor to testify.

Mayoralty Victor Is Decided

COMPTON, Calif. — City Councilman Douglas F. Dollard defeated Dr. Walter Tucker yesterday in a runoff election between two Negroes for mayor of this Los Angeles suburb of 78,000 persons.

Official complete returns from all 30 precincts gave Dollard 5,711 votes, 58 per cent of the total cast. Tucker had 4,072 for 42 per cent. New industries and need for more and better schools were key issues of the nonpartisan race.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY — Christ Church, Shrewsbury, marks 200th year as Rt. Rev. Albert Van Duzer, suffragan bishop of New Jersey, left, and Mayor Robert C. Lawrence 3rd right admire commemorative plaque at ceremonies. Elizabeth Pratt, president of Jerseyana Club of Shrewsbury Boro School, which presented program on history of the church, and the Rev. Ronald G. Albury, rector, look on. Elizabeth was recipient of annual award given by the Daughters of the American Revolution for outstanding work. (Register Staff Photo)

See New Red Bank Contract Cementing School Relations

RED BANK — Next year's contract between the Board of Education and teachers in the Red Bank school system "should facilitate communications among teachers, the administration and the board," according to the board's contract committee chairman, Dr. Ivan P. Polonsky.

After a work session of the board last night, Dr. Polonsky said that terms of the teachers' contract had been ironed out. He said the agreement provides "a very broad definition of grievances" and "substantial grievance procedures."

Dr. Polonsky added that next year's salary guide for teachers in Red Bank "will be one of the best in the county."

Last night's closed meeting involved final wording in the contract after months of negotiations between the board and the Red Bank Teachers Association. Richard Mundrane served as head of the teachers' contract committee.

Without Rank
Dr. Polonsky commented that the negotiations this year had been carried out "without rank."

"We didn't have to resort to mediation," he said. "It was complicated, but satisfying."

The final version of the contract is to be ratified by each side this week and is scheduled to be aired at a public meeting next Tuesday.

Board member William Magee noted that both sides had reached agreement "with no problems." He said final work on the contract had been scheduled for last night's session and consumed most of the meeting time. He reported that salaries for employees of the summer Head Start program also were reviewed.

Issue Not Raised
It was expected that the question of the students' right to circulate petitions would be raised at last night's meeting. But the issue did not materialize because of work on the contract, according to the two board members.

Board member Mrs. Robert Kopka had said publicly that she would open the question at the meeting. She was one of a minority who voted to permit Red Bank High School students to circulate petitions urging the administration to rehire a popular teacher.

After students were denied permission by the administration and board, they went ahead and petitioned in the school last week. The petitions reportedly were turned over to a vice principal by a student leader who said he was threatened with suspension if he didn't comply.

The Monmouth County Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union defended the students' constitutional right to petition and announced that action might be taken against the school.

Mrs. Kopka attended last night's meeting, but four board members were absent.

PACK PICNIC
HAZLET — At the annual picnic at Holmdel Park awards were presented to members of Cub Pack 263. Graduated into Webelos were Charles Wilson, Bill Dolan, Joseph Beal, Bill Polites, Alan Laurie and David Herr.

Graduating to Boy Scouts were Jules Aerts, Gregory Rose, John Gawlik, John Evans and Stephen Lezite. July 12 will be Webelos Day at Quail Hill. Boys wishing to go should contact Louis Luzito.

For Republican state executive committeewoman, Mrs. Flynn received 20,108 votes and for committeeman, Robert C. Stanley Jr. of Middletown received 20,295.

For Democratic state executive committeewoman, Sea Bright Mayor Cecile F. Norton received 13,292 votes and for committeeman, Paul Kieran, Monmouth County sheriff, received 14,259.

The sheriff was second highest Democratic vote getter, losing first place by 74 votes to his son.

Cable Television Firm Now Seeks a Matawan Franchise

MATAWAN — Community Antenna Television, commonly known as CATV or cable TV, may be coming to Matawan.

Borough Council last night received a letter from American Telecable Services Inc. of Silver Spring, Md., asking for a franchise to install overhead cable on existing utility poles for the transmission of television and FM radio programs.

Because of the proximity of New York City and other television transmission centers, various councilmen expressed surprise that a cable TV firm would seek a franchise in the Matawan area. "Just stick a wire antenna into the attic and you can get all the TV programming you want," said Councilman Stevenson J. Entlerline.

Borough attorney Louis R. Aikins advised the council that cable TV is a competitive field and that other requests for franchises could follow. He added that similar requests were made in Long Branch two months ago.

"The key factor is the terms upon which the franchise is granted," he said. Mayor George Connor invited representatives of the firm to an agenda meeting to explain their request further.

Service Notes Okayed
Council approved the issue of $390,000 in bond anticipation notes to finance improvement of the water and sewer system.

Mayor Connor appointed Councilman Howard Henderson to the Planning Board to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Councilman Vernon A. Ellison.

Council approved overtime pay rates for public works department employees at the regular pay rate plus 50 cents an hour.

Water Runs Low

Councilman Entlerline reported that 1,400,000 gallons of water were consumed on May 31 alone, almost double the normal daily rate of 700,000 gallons. "In the middle of that high consumption period the Church Street well stopped yielding water," he explained. "Possibly it's damaged, but we're getting water out of the well again. Until those storage tanks on Ryers Lane and Middlesex Road are completed, our water system is like an electrical station — as fast as we get it, it goes right out. When the tanks are finished, we can store water. Restrictions prohibiting lawn watering from noon to 8 p.m. are a distinct possibility," he added.

Councilman Stanley C. Yacker reported that the summer recreation program on Lake Lefferts needs two lifeguards and one college boy to complete the staff.

Litter in the Main Street shopping center stems from a pizza restaurant, according to Councilman Yacker.

"The owner promised to do more to stop his customers from throwing their papers around, but he said the problem is largely beyond his control. Still the Board of Health just might attack the problem at the source," Mr. Yacker said.

Mrs. Angela Fry of Oakland Street complained to council that the roadway in front of her house needs paving. "All we have now are puddles and mud," she said, "and I've been calling for one year and nothing has been done."

"Don't feel so bad, because I've lived on an unpaved street for 20 years," replied Michael Kidzus of 23 Ravine Drive.

Mayor Connor said Oakland Street is on the list of streets to be graded and paved.

being a little panicky myself. "I was scared," he said, "because I couldn't control the girls because they were frightened so much. But I couldn't let them stay out there and drown, either."

Michael, who attended Henry Hudson Regional Schools, lives with his mother, Mrs. Virginia Waters, and his brother Randy Waters, 14, at the Fourth St. address. He spends his spare summer hours as an assistant baseball coach with local youngsters.

Asked if there was anything he wished to add to his story the unassuming hero replied: "Yes. None of the newspapers reported the cold I caught!"

Probe Slim Leads In Girls' Slayings

SOMERS POINT (AP) — A weary state policeman had nothing new to report today in the search for the killer of two pretty college girls.

An intensive investigation has been under way since the bodies of Elizabeth Perry and Susan Davis, both 19, were found Monday near the Garden State Parkway in Egg Harbor Township. Both died of knife wounds.

State Police had little to say Tuesday but Albert Hickey, a special security guard for a Somers Point diner, said he saw both girls stop their convertible near the diner early Friday.

"What caught my attention was the two girls in the car picking up a youth," said Hickey.

Hickey, who also is a freelance photographer, said the auto stopped, a youth ran up to the car, some words were said, and the youth then threw a duffel bag into the vehicle and climbed in.

Hitchhiker
Hickey said the youth had been hitchhiking and was wearing a yellow pullover shirt and was about 5-foot-7 or 8.

There were reports that a yellow turtle neck pullover found in the woods had been turned over to authorities yesterday and that a search was on for a maroon car, but State Police would not confirm this.

They did reveal that two "cleancut" young men had breakfast with the girls at the diner shortly before the murders and that the two unidentified young men had been released by police after questioning.

The girls had been vacationing in Ocean City and apparently were on their way to Miss Davis' home when they stopped at the diner. They left Ocean City at 4:30 a.m. Friday.

Two Boys Held In Shrewsbury

SHREWSBURY — Two boys, one 14 and the other 15, were apprehended by police last night after they had entered the Betsy Ross Restaurant, Rt. 35, and taken $39.30 and 125 packages of cigarettes.

Police Chief Raymond Mass said Sgt. George Jeffrey and Patrolman Richard Johnson stopped the boys, who were walking on the highway at 11:30 p.m., carrying a cardboard carton containing the items.

They were taken to police headquarters for questioning, according to the chief. About an hour later, the entry and theft at the restaurant were discovered and juvenile complaints signed against the boys.

Recognition Is Won At Brookdale College

LINCROFT — Brookdale Community College has achieved significant recognition as an institution of higher education.

In recent action the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the regional accrediting agency, granted Brookdale Correspondent Status, the second stage in the accreditation process.

This action, the association comments, "attests that an institution has given evidence of sound planning and of having the resources to implement its plans."

signifies that an institution "has indicated its intent to work toward accreditation, and appears to have the potential for attaining this goal."

Brookdale, which will initiate classes in the fall for a total of some 2,000 full time and part time students, has previously received the approval of the New Jersey Board of Higher Education.

In achieving correspondent status, Brookdale has acquired eligibility to participate in a variety of federal programs providing financial assistance both to the College and its students. A letter to Brookdale from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare states CHAMPIONSHIP MATCHES Army Sgt. I.C. Jose M. Lopez, whose wife Rosaura lives at 30 Mitchell Drive, Eatontown, participated in the 1960 First U.S. Army Commander's Rifle and Pistol Championship Matches at Ft. George G. Meade, Md.

Field Says Incidents at School Were Caused by Small Group

NEW SHREWSBURY — "There should be no condemnation" of the black student population of Monmouth Regional High School for incidents which occurred Friday, May 23, and resulted in the suspension of six students and court action against another.

"This incident was the result of the action of a small group of individuals who should be treated individually. The group had no specific grievance. It appeared to be a reaction to events taking place in other communities."

That was the declaration of Norman J. Field, president of the MRHS Board of Education, who last night read a special report on the incidents.

It was prepared by the superintendent's office "in an effort to present the facts and events surrounding the incident" when "some of our students committed acts of vandalism and violence at school."

Report Prepared
The report, Mr. Field said, was intended to show what actually happened on that day and also to describe events which followed, including action by the administration.

According to the report: "Posters and bulletin board displays were torn off the walls at a time when class elections were being held and the walls were covered with campaign posters."

"Cut-up newspapers were strewn about the administrative foreign language corridor and the B corridor of the school. One teacher was hit with an egg. One white girl was hit several times.

"An attempt was made to set fire to the stage curtain in the multi-purpose room. One teacher was kicked in the leg by a student. There was a great deal of noise and confusion in the halls."

In 30 Minutes
"All the above events occurred between 7:50 a.m. and 8:20 a.m."

"Between 8:30 a.m. and 9:30 a.m., the boy's room on the second floor of the C wing was damaged. A small partition was kicked down and the water dispensing mechanism of a unit was broken."

Steps taken by the school authorities included:

"Police were alerted. A plainclothes policeman was in the building. Teachers were given written instructions. Hall patrols were increased. Supervision during the lunch hour was increased."

"Five students, thought to be involved in the disturbance, were sent home. Edward Davis, a member of the Special Social Studies Committee, was called to address black students. Earlier in the day Dr. Patrick Paranty, superintendent, assembled four black student leaders for consultation."

Precautions Taken
On subsequent events, the report stated: "Precautions were taken on Monday, May 26. On Thursday, May 29, most of the black students stayed home."

"This action was a result of a plea from the leadership of the black community. It was intended as an expression of the feeling of these people that they are not going to be involved in any violence at the school."

Mr. Field repeatedly stressed the action "was not taken at the direction of the administration of the school or the Board of Education. Buses, as well as the school, operated as usual."

The superintendent's office also included in its report a number of recommendations and observations, among which:

"The police chiefs of New Shrewsbury and Eatontown should be notified of any future incidents, and it would be their responsibility to inform their respective mayors and council members."

Advice to Parents
"Parents should be urged to leave their children in school. The school will be evacuated when necessary."

"Pupils who violate the rules should be subject to disciplinary action, or court action, as the nature of the offense warrants."

Concluding the reading of the report, Mr. Field said, "I am certain that this experience, though distasteful, can be of some benefit. Certainly we have learned some techniques which will be of aid should a similar incident occur. More important, we know that our efforts to reach our black student population must continue and increase."

Want Guttled Building Torn Down

LONG BRANCH — Samuel DeBartolis, city building inspector, said last night that he will issue a summons to the owner of the condemned frame dwelling at 142 Ocean Ave., which was gutted by flames late Monday, if the structure is not demolished by Monday.

Mr. DeBartolis said the structure was ordered torn down and that a 15-day extension was allowed Charles Massa of Ocean and Joline Aves, the owner. Legal action will be taken, the inspector said, if the order is not carried out by Monday.

Firemen were alerted to the blaze at about 11:30 p.m. Monday. The fire was doused by 1:45 a.m. yesterday. A large portion of the second floor and attic was damaged as well as most of the roof. The structure has been abandoned four years. It was last used as a summer home for underprivileged New York children.

Fire Chief Eldon K. Adams has termed the fire "suspicious." He said a probe of the blaze will continue. The fire apparently started, he said, in a bathroom.

Cahill and Meyner

Former Gov. Robert B. Meyner, a Democrat, and Rep. William T. Cahill, a Republican, won their party gubernatorial nominations in yesterday's state primary — and set the stage for what will be a most interesting campaign before the November election.

To his credit, Mr. Meyner coasted to an easy victory over five rivals, withstanding a strong challenge from the old-line Hudson County Democratic machine and a new, vital coalition of liberals.

Rep. Cahill defeated Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr. in an exceptionally tight race between the two men in a field of five GOP candidates. It was a tremendous, uphill fight for Mr. Cahill — and Republicans have every reason to be jubilant at the outcome. He is without question the strongest candidate the GOP could have selected. But, more important, his approach and his philosophy are moderate to liberal — in keeping with the modern thinking that is required to solve so many of New Jersey's acute problems.

Mr. Meyner's experience as a former chief executive will prove beneficial to him as the campaign develops. But it is a vastly different state today than when he occupied the State House previously. It took Governor Hughes, Mr. Meyner's successor, to bring New Jersey into a period of fiscal maturity in which it could begin to cope with the many serious issues of the times. We are anxious to see whether Mr. Meyner, as well as Mr. Cahill, can mount programs that will build strongly on the Hughes record of achievement, rather than in any way negate it. This will be the big test for both candidates.

Little Silver's Administrator

It was good to learn yesterday that Little Silver has selected its first borough administrator.

Mayor Gordon N. Litwin, with the unanimous support of Borough Council, named Rufus Z. Johnston, a retired Army lieutenant colonel, to the combined administrator-borough clerk post at an annual salary of $10,000.

There seems to be a trend to begin appointing administrators to help run municipalities. Many borough clerks now perform that function — and do it well. But the title of administrator, with well-defined duties, enhances their role even more.

There is no question that the complexities of municipal government require a professional to be on the scene at all times. Even a borough the size of Little Silver needs someone to carry out the daily functions of local government.

In Mr. Johnston, Little Silver has made an excellent selection. He has held responsible military and civilian administrative positions — and should be an asset to the conduct of government in that fine municipality.

Care at Brookdale

The report yesterday that some 500 students already have informed Brookdale Community College that they plan to be on hand when classes begin in September is encouraging. The college is still awaiting word from about an equal number of students who have been accepted but have not yet replied.

Brookdale officials have proceeded with great care in bringing the college program to its present stage. It is exciting to watch the evolution of an institution of higher learning — and we are impressed by what is taking place there.

Fred B. Hazlett, the director of admissions, said the college is proceeding slowly in admitting students at this time. "We want to be certain that we do not admit more students than we can accommodate," he stated. "Overcrowding our facilities would threaten the quality of the educational program and would not be in the best interests of anyone."

This approach is wise. In its initial year, Brookdale is right in wanting to exercise proper admissions control. This will help to insure the excellent curriculum that is planned.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

$6.2 Billion Peace Tag

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

The eventual cost of modernizing South Vietnamese troop units, so they can take over the fighting there from U.S. forces, is estimated by the Pentagon to be at least $6.2 billion.

ALLEN

That is the whopping price-tag which is being supplied in response to congressional inquiries. Maj. Gen. Henry A. Miley Jr., the Army's deputy chief of staff for logistics, is the Pentagon's authority on the matter.

He says the $6.2 billion will finance equipment, ammunition and other consumable supplies to upgrade South Vietnamese fighting units. The exact cost is subject to adjustment, Miley says, as requirements are reviewed and the pace of combat changes.

Additional sums will apparently be required, however, to complete modernization of South Vietnamese air and naval forces.

About $400 million worth of Army equipment has already been delivered to the South Vietnamese army, under the modernization program, along with some $370 million worth of ammunition.

Equipment supplied has included M-16 rifles, M-60 machine guns and the like.

More transfers will be financed under a supplemental appropriations bill recently passed by the House and awaiting Senate approval. The bill includes about $300 million in modernization funds.

The Pentagon is setting no deadline, now, for completion of the modernization program. Pentagon spokesmen say the completion schedule, like the ultimate cost, will depend on future events—including developments at the Paris peace talks.

The modernization program began in March, 1968, with the decision to supply South Vietnamese units with the M-16 rifle. Initially it was to be a two-phase operation.

Under phase one, South Vietnamese ground forces were to be upgraded under guidelines which assumed that the United States forces would remain and provide logistical services together with air-naval support. Phase two assumed that the United States and North Vietnam would withdraw at some future date. It called for a balanced modernization of all South Vietnamese armed forces.

WITH THE START of the peace talks in Paris, the Pentagon decided to telescope the two phases and move them ahead simultaneously. With that in view, Gen. Creighton Abrams, the Vietnam commander, asked for an acceleration of phase two.

To speed the program, about $80 million appropriated for other purposes was "reprogrammed" by the Pentagon to make additional funds available for modernization in this budget year. About a third of the reprogramming involved phase two, navy and air force modernization.

Under the program, Army spokesmen say, regular units of the South Vietnamese army have been modernized as far as small arms are concerned, and the militia-like regional and popular forces are now getting the fast-firing M-16 rifle.

PROGRESS SATISFACTORY — Army spokesmen have been telling congressional military experts that they are satisfied with the progress of the modernization program so far. They think the South Vietnamese forces are doing as well or better than expected.

They note that, in the 1968 Tet offensive, some of the regional and popular force units withdrew from their assigned outposts into the relative safety of the cities. With analysis of the enemy spring offensive still incomplete, it appears that there was little of that sort of business this time.

The Army experts are therefore inclined to think that the South Vietnamese people, in towns and villages, have increased confidence in the government forces assigned to protect them against the Viet Cong.

Pentagon spokesmen concede that the desertion rate for South Vietnamese forces was bad after the 1968 Tet offensive and remained bad through last summer. Since November, however, the desertion rate had shown a steady downward trend prior to this year's Communist offensive.

On the other side, the number of defections from North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units under the Chieu Hoi (Open Arms) program has steadily increased since autumn. In the early months of this year the rate was twice that for the same period last year.

All these indexes suggest to Pentagon experts that South Vietnamese units are doing their job and that their morale and esprit have improved as the modernization program proceeds.

"Love That Filter"

A CONSERVATIVE VIEW

Too Much for Defense

The tidal wave rolls on we go into June: It is impossible to pick up a newspaper without reading fresh blasts against the Pentagon — against the generals, the admirals, the top brass — against the "military-industrial complex" that is said to be dominating our society and exhausting its wealth.

Everyone is jumping aboard this juggernaut — peacenik students, conscience-stricken colleges, whole coveys of U.S. senators. A House subcommittee publishes a damning report on Pentagon procurement procedures. Such gifted cartoonists as Herblock and Oliphant treat us daily to caricatures of bloated generals playing billion-dollar games. The military budget, we are told, is no longer sacrosanct: Defense spending will be cut to the bone.

In the midst of this orchestrated howling, it is not easy to raise a small voice of reason. Yet the voice has to be raised: This nation is not spending too much on defense. We probably are spending too little.

SURE ENOUGH, vast sums have been spent badly, on tanks that won't run, and planes that won't perform, and missiles that go awry. Defense Secretary Laird has a prodigious task ahead of him, in cracking down on defense contractors who have been taking advantage of the government. Laird is a tough hombre, and will do what has to be done.

But the demand that the U.S. spend less for national security is a demand that makes no sense — not at a time when the Soviet Union is upgrading its navy and expanding its missile program. Regardless of the outcome in Vietnam, our general purpose forces must be kept at high levels. To permit their erosion, in effect, is to abandon commitments; eventually, such a course involves the piecemeal yielding of most of the world to advancing Soviet power.

Sad to say, that is the course the false economizers are pursuing. The consequences of this folly already are appearing.

For a case in point, consider the critical situation that has developed in the field of naval aviation. The Navy maintains an inventory of roughly 8,250 planes. Six years ago, the average age of a Navy plane was about three years. Today the average age is more than seven.

UPWARD OF 2,400 naval aircraft already have outlived their service life; another 2,000 will reach that point of obsolescence within three years. Naval Reserve wings have been stripped of planes and parts. Nothing remains in mothballs. The Navy's inventory of fighters has dropped from 1,700 to 1,100 in eight years. Vice Admiral Thomas F. Connolly, head of naval aviation, has a blunt phrase that sums it up: We are engaged, he says, in "unilateral disarmament."

It will be five years before the Navy's proud new multi-purpose plane, the swept-wing F-14, begins to arrive in significant numbers. Grumman Aircraft is building this beauty; and in view of the enormous Lockheed's runaway costs on the C-5A, it may be in order to note some of the unannounced provisions of Grumman's contract on the F-14.

The Navy wrote into that contract certain specific requirements on design and performance — weight, range, acceleration, landing speed, and the like. Penalty clauses are attached. If Grumman goes over the maximum weight by as much as a hundred pounds, a $440,000 penalty will be imposed. Grumman will have to pay $1,000,000 for every 10 miles of range by which it misses. The penalty for missing the maximum approach speed is a million dollars a knot. The company is confident that it will meet these requirements, on time, within the target price.

The Navy ought to be ordering a thousand planes a year at a cost of $4.8 billion. The economizers threaten to whack this replenishment schedule almost in half — and the Navy is not alone in its appropriation troubles. All our basic defense forces are in the same fix. This way lies disaster; that's where we're headed now.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

Money Squeeze Worsens

By SYLVIA PORTER

The pressures are bearing down on the money and credit marts of our land now to a degree unknown in modern times—and that includes the money "crunch" of September, 1966, when for a panicky couple of days, credit just disappeared.

Not ever has borrowing been deliberately made so tough and expensive. Not ever has the Federal Reserve System gone to these lengths to force our banks into a "liquidity squeeze" so they must reject or at least drastically reduce loan applications.

It would be wasteful for me to use my space listing the cost figures. You can read them in headlines these days: you surely know them all too well if you're trying to borrow either from a financial institution (except for your life insurance company) or via the capital markets. But you'll get a perspective from these few "real-life" borrowing statistics.

Banks themselves have been paying up to 9 per cent to get overnight funds and over 10 per cent to draw dollars back from Europe. In turn, they are charging effective rates of 9-9½ per cent and more on short-medium loans to their top, most favored customers, and rates scaling up from there to less favored customers. Meanwhile mortgage rates are rocketing to a minimum of 9½-11½ per cent and rates on small loans are climbing all over the place. So it goes.

What's more, rationing of credit is spreading through the country and there's no doubt this will get more severe before it eases, for the Federal Reserve is dead-earnest about using the money squeeze to force some of the heat out of the economy.

Federal Reserve chairman Martin is not exaggerating one bit when he chooses a time of shocking "disorder" in the money markets to emphasize that "from here on, patience, perseverance, and persistence will be necessary—and considerable fortitude as well—to pursue steadfastly economic stabilization policies that bring inflation under control."

Is this fair? No! This sort of tight money squeeze is exceedingly unfair to the smallest and weakest borrower, is patently discriminatory. It compels a municipality to postpone building a hospital or school while causing no more than inconvenience to a corporation planning a new factory. It directly eliminates the loan of the college student or small businessman while only nicking the prime borrower. When loans are rationed, it's the weakest borrower who is rationed out.

DOESN'T THIS add to costs? Yes! The extra $100 you pay for interest on a loan adds to your living costs just as much as the extra $100 you pay for a car or carpet. The extra $1,000 the businessman pays to get money adds to his cost of operation just as much as the extra $1,000 he pays to get materials or even pretends that tight money can directly cut wage increases.

Will it work, then? It must—Unless all our trusted theories of economic restraints have been pulverized by the emergence of today's powerful psychology of inflation. Assuming the theories are still valid, a squeeze of this magnitude must compel the postponement or reduction of many spending plans.

We may be finally into the darkest phase of this credit stringency. It's so dark in the money markets at this writing that I am tempted to suggest it's the proverbial darkest before dawn.

THE REPORTER

Hollywood People

By JIM BISHOP

The family attended commencement at Hollywood College to see Don Shoemaker, editor of the Miami Herald, get his doctorate. The ceremonies are always impressive, and the college president, Dr. Lee Garling, hung it around Mr. Shoemaker's neck and almost lifted him off the floor. A little more muscle and it could have been an educational hanging.

BISHOP

Later, Dr. Garling had a garden party in a sunny green setting and I was introduced to an elderly gentleman, a psychiatrist named Dr. Louis Graubard, one of the few living students of Dr. Sigmund Freud. Something about the planes of his face, the champagne sparkle in his eyes, magnetized me.

At the ceremonies, he had remained standing too long and the knees collapsed. The distinguished guests became alarmed and helped Dr. Graubard from the setting at Chaminade High School. At the party, he sipped a scotch, and said "It was nothing." He listened to the old world music being played by a string ensemble somewhere in the shadows, and, without a smile, he observed: "You can't keep a good man down. Sometimes, you can't keep him up either."

Later, we decided to kill the night by going to the home of Stanley Colbert, who was staging a velvet bash. Colbert, who is a motion picture producer, a movie writer, a production chief, has a mustache and small black beard which, when he grins, gives him the appearance of grandma in bed in the story of Little Red Riding Hood.

VIC MAITLAND, an advertising genius was there with his wife, and Don Cuddy, a fat buddy of mine, sat sipping whatever was offered. Colbert and I have both worked the Hollywood beat at one time or another so we began a series of hitch-hiker stories. These are yarns which, when told, remind the other man of a similar story.

Colbert has a beautiful avant-garde home which, surprisingly, has a roof. It also has tin chickens hanging on the walls — an art form which gives me a headache, an aluminum sculpture with white in the middle called "Baked Potato" and chairs whose arms are made of old leather belts.

Once, in Los Angeles, Colbert got a big offer from Charles Feldman to work for him as a writer. "I'm going to Boston for an operation," said Feldman. "So make yourself at home. Read all the scripts in the house. You may like one."

Stan expressed regret that Feldman had to have surgery, and the producer said: "Really, it's nothing. You see, I've been trying to sign Gary Cooper for years and I can never get near him. He's having a similar operation in Boston, so I reserved the bed next to his. By the time we finish our surgery, I'll have him signed."

Motion pictures have always been an unusual business, pocked with purple people, so Feldman went off and had his operation and, in two weeks of man-to-man conversation, got Cooper to sign with him. No problem.

COLBERT WAS getting a couple of thousand a week and he ready every script and had several ideas for million dollar movies. However, Feldman went to Europe for the mineral baths and the sun and, after a year of collecting a huge salary, Colbert sent word to Greg Bautzer, Feldman's lawyer, that he could no longer stand collecting a fortune for doing nothing. The word came back: "If he hasn't any patience, the hell with him."

This led to the story of the time that Howard Hughes bought the RKO studios so that he could star a busty kid named Jane Russell in a movie called "The Outlaw." The day came when the great Hughes came to inspect his property. Producers and production heads fawned a foot behind the great man, who walked silently through the dark caverns of make-believe.

He didn't say hello. He didn't say goodbye. He made no comment. As he stepped back into his big car, a producer coughed and said: "Is there anything you would like to say, Mr. Hughes?" The silent one said: "Yeah. Paint it."

At RKO, Orson Welles was once directing a movie and he ordered pneumatic hammers to dig a deep hole in the concrete floor. He was down five feet when someone said: "What the hell are you doing?" I need a low angle shot," Welles said. The set manager rubbed a tired hand across his forehead. "Did it occur to you," he said, "that you could have raised the set?"

Ben Hecht once told Hughes that he would have to be paid $1,000 a day every day — a check at 5 p.m. — and he got away with it. All I ever got out of Hollywood was the rare treat of speaking to closed doors with names like "Harry Cohn," "Darryl Zanuck," "Jack Warner." They'd have killed me if they knew I also shook hands with their doorknobs.

2 Democratic Incumbents Win Freehold Council Seats

FREEHOLD — Incumbent Democratic Councilman Walter J. Kozloski and Edward M. Lewis Jr. were winners in a three-way primary battle for two borough council seats here.

Mr. Kozloski was high man with 308 votes, Councilman Lewis had 287 and challenger Daniel N. Lewis, who ran as an "Independent Democrat" trailed with 170 votes.

It is not known what effect, if any, recent racial turmoil in the borough had on the election. The challenger, a professional planner and former All-American football player, is a Negro.

Richard A. Phillips, endorsed as a write-in candidate by the United Democratic Club, won the mayoral nomination with 41 votes. Other Democratic write-in candidates for mayor were Councilman Alfred E. Sanders, who got 10 votes and Councilman Tobias H. Mayer, who got 3 votes.

Former Mayor Fred Quinn, a Republican, polled 330 votes to sew up the post of tax assessor. An incumbent, he was unopposed for the nomination. There is no Democratic candidate for the post.

Other unopposed Republican candidates were former borough attorney J. William Boyle for mayor, with 314 votes; Borough Council candidates Walter J. Baillie Jr., a construction consultant, who polled 309 votes, and Jacob J. (Mike) Diehl, proprietor of the Freehold Music Center, who got 289 votes.

Republican Mayor John I. Daves did not seek reelection. He is an Assembly candidate.

Purchase of Navy Property Saves County About $52,800

FREEHOLD — By paying the U.S. Navy Department $12,200 for land the county needs to widen Wyckoff Road in New Shrewsbury, the county Board of Freeholders will save about $52,800.

Freeholder Harry Larrison Jr. said that by taking land from only one side of the road, the county will not have to condemn private properties along the other side of the road. He estimated that this could cost $65,000.

The county will be getting about a two-mile strip of land about 45-50 feet wide, comprising eight acres, for the road project.

Mr. Larrison said New Shrewsbury, which has deeded free and clear a portion of land for the project, is in favor of the county plan.

To take land from both sides of the roadway, Mr. Larrison said, which is the normal way in road widening projects, would mean that the county would have to demolish two buildings and negotiate with about 35 property owners.

Before Mr. Larrison explained that the Navy would have to relocate a road, Freeholder Benjamin H. Danskin said he thought the Navy should have given the county the land.

The county will share with the Navy the cost of replacing the fence along the road, Mr. Larrison added.

Mr. Danskin said the explanation changed his thinking. He added that the county has had a fine relationship with all governmental agencies, and he didn't want to see this change.

Democratic Woman Tops Township Poll

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — The three, regular party endorsed candidates won the Democratic nomination for the four-year council vacancies in yesterday's primary election.

Top vote-getter of the three was the lone woman on the ticket, Mrs. Marilyn D. Brenner, who polled 802 votes. Nominated with her were Joseph F. Zambor 752 and incumbent councilman Jerome R. Kaye 722.

Philip N. Gumbs, a last-minute addition to the regular slate at the insistence of the Matawan Township Democratic Club Inc., lost his bid with 645 votes.

In the two-year council nomination, which was uncontested, Democrat Lewis J. Petrillo won 871 votes and Republican, Mrs. Patricia Willis received 452.

In the uncontested Republican race incumbent Thomas J. Powers won 446 votes, George J. Wentzel 445 and Eugene A. Valanzano, 440.

Mrs. Brenner and Mr. Zambor both served on the council from 1965-67 and were defeated in reelection bids when the Republicans swept four seats and into control of the body in 1967.

"Our nomination is proof people have faith in us for our record in office," Mrs. Brenner stated. "We both hope to regain our former seats in the fall and work for the betterment of the township," she added.

Clayton Gets The Victory In Howell

HOWELL TOWNSHIP — Marvin R. Clayton won a Democratic primary fight for the chance to unseat Republican tax assessor Fred R. Wittenberg Jr., with 522 votes to Salvatore Libonati's 115.

Mr. Wittenberg, unopposed on the Republican slate, polled 470 votes.

Two candidates on each side for three-year terms on the Township Committee were unopposed. The winners in November will succeed Mayor Paul H. Tucker and Committeeman H. Robert Rapp, who did not seek reelection.

The vote for the Republican candidates was 466 for Raymond T. Barnes and 474 for Raymond Roe. Democrats gave 541 votes to James P. Noto and 530 votes to Hyman Schwartz.

Plan Plant Engineers' Local Unit

HOLMDEL — The American Institute of Plant Engineers (AIPE), will soon have its first chapter in Monmouth and Ocean Counties.

Chairman pro tem of the new chapter is William G. Tipton, plant engineer of Lily-Tulip, here.

Other plant engineers helping in the formation of the new AIPE chapter are Joseph Tartaglia, former industrial engineering manager, Lanvin-Charles of the Ritz; Harold Towers, plant engineer for Bell Telephone Laboratories; Joseph Strongoli, assistant plant engineer for Bendix Corp., and Ellis Vieser, marketing manager for Duncan Thacker Associates, Ocean Township.

Invitations have been mailed to plant engineers throughout Monmouth and Ocean Counties for a general membership dinner June 10 at the Holiday Inn, Rt. 35, here.

Mr. Tipton said the invitation list was drawn from the Monmouth and Ocean County industrial brochures, and that if there are any plant engineers who did not receive invitations, they are welcome to attend.

Charles Pike, director of the Monmouth County Planning Board, will be guest speaker. He will discuss future industrial growth in the area.

Holmdel Republican Club Set to Meet

HOLMDEL — The Holmdel Republican Club will meet tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Township Hall.

Those interested are invited to participate in a discussion on the "Basic Function of a Political Club."

Art Exhibit Next Month

HOLMDEL — The township Recreation Commission will sponsor an art exhibit Wednesday, June 11, from 7 to 9 p.m. and Thursday, June 12, from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Teen Center, in the basement of the township library, Holmdel-Keyport Road and Spring Valley Drive.

Open to all township residents, the show will feature categories for youngsters in grades one and two, three and four, five and six, and seven and eight; high school students and adults (amateur).

Ribbons will be presented to winners Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Entries, which may be two- or three-dimensional, must be done at home and delivered to the commission no later than Friday, June 6.

Accepting entries will be commission members John Elisinger, 5 Sweet Briar Lane; Mrs. Elaine Frey, 4 Parkway Place; Mrs. Russ Lagatuta, 5 Mayfair Road; Gary Schwartz, 23 Orchard Ave.; Louis DiGirolamo, S. Beers St.; Nicholas Pavacich, 15 Wiltshire Way, and Mrs. Mary Aabate, 7 Ardmore Place.

LUCKY POOCH — Clark Craig, assistant manager of Woolworth, Red Bank, presents a pedigree miniature French poodle to Mrs. Ida Lavalley, Eatontown. The drawing was an assistant manager's promotion held in conjunction with Woolworth's 90th anniversary promotion.

Tax Collections Jump Is Reported in Freehold

FREEHOLD — Tax collections here went up from 92.5 per cent to 95.48 per cent between 1966 and 1968, according to a 1968 audit report submitted by C. Bergen Groendyke, borough auditor.

Mr. Groendyke told the Borough Council Monday night the figure is above the state average for tax collections. It reduces the amount required in the budget for uncollected taxes and improves the borough's credit rating, he said.

Councilman Alfred E. Sanders said the report shows the borough realized $7,660.75 through short-term investments in U. S. Treasury bonds last year and the water and sewer utility brought in $5,350.66 through investments.

Soden Replaces Gibson
Eugene Soden, one of the owners of M & S Oil Heating Service Inc., here, was appointed to the fifth seat on the Housing Authority to replace Joseph Gibson, who had resigned to become the authority's attorney.

Ernest Hurwitz had been recommended for the post in a letter to the council from the Concerned Citizens of Greater Freehold.

A sixth authority member is to be appointed by the state Department of Community Affairs, said Nathan A. Katz, authority treasurer, after the meeting. Mr. Katz said the authority is interviewing architects for the borough's $1 million low-cost housing program, which is "moving along," he reported.

Stavola Contracting Co. Inc., New Shrewsbury the lowest of six bidders, was awarded an $8,848 contract for reconstruction of Center St. and C. H. Sutphen Freehold, the lowest of three bidders was awarded a $5,680 contract for maintenance and repair materials.

Assessment Report

The Board of Assessments reported curbs, gutters and sidewalks installed on eight borough streets cost $27,151.06, with $24,338.04 to be assessed to individual homeowners and $2,815.02 to be raised by general taxation.

Borough Engineer Harold W. Goldberger was directed to prepare specifications for furniture and carpeting for the new municipal building, which is expected to be ready for them in late July or August. The council resolution called for advertising for bids June 19 and accepting bids July 7.

The council approved a taxi driver's license for Willie S. Lofland Jr. and hired Albert J. McLaughlin as a permanent employee in the Streets and Roads Department.

Nursing Home Zoning Plea Sent to Planners

LONG BRANCH — Plans for a $1.5 million nursing home at 112 Bath Ave. were passed by the city Zoning Board of Adjustment to the Planning Board for study last night.

Bernard and Hilda Gorcey, 501 Monmouth Place, asked for a variance to build a 75-room complex with parking spaces for 70 vehicles. The facility, it was said, would house 150 patients.

Following a four-hour hearing on the measure, the board ruled the application should go to the planners for their advice and consent.

Mr. Gorcey said he would start construction, if the plan is approved, within three months. Completion, he said, would take nine to 12 months. The structure, he said, would be a three-story brick colonial building.

Sidney Alpern, local attorney, represented the applicant.

Peter Falvo, also a city lawyer, represented Alex Gershen, president of Lowden Gardens, Bath Ave., an apartment complex. Mr. Gershen said the planned nursing home would increase the area's parking congestion and would affect his ability to rent his apartments.

Two Write-ins Lone Victors

SHREWSBURY TOWNSHIP — A total of nine votes was tallied for both parties for the committee seat being contested in November and both candidates were write-ins.

Incumbent Julius F. Frickel, a Republican who hadn't filed and said he wouldn't run for another term, said after receiving four write-in votes last night he would accept the nomination.

Also a write-in, David B. Fisher, received five votes on the Democratic ticket.

There are no candidates for county committeeman from the township.

As late as Monday, there was a question as to whether or not there would be candidates for any seat.

Little Silver Road Seems Open to GOP

LITTLE SILVER — Although there were four write-in candidates for the Democratic mayoral nomination, it appears the Republicans will run uncontested in November.

Alfred Pound, president of the fire department, received four votes and John P. Keegan, president of the Monmouth County Young Democrats, received three votes but both said last night they would decline the nomination.

Republican Mrs. Eleanor Ingram and Republican Councilman Anthony Bruno each received one write-in vote for the mayoral nomination and neither is expected to accept. Mrs. Ingram lost a race for mayor on the Democrat-fusion slate four years ago.

Both Mr. Keegan and Mr. Pound said they had had no intention of running and the nomination came as a surprise.

On the Republican ticket, Councilman Thomas Judge polled 480 votes for the nomination for mayor, and Mr. Bruno received 488 votes for the nomination for councilman. Newcomer Lawrence

Disturbance Charge Brings Plea of Guilt

FREEHOLD — Walter Clough, 209 White Road, Little Silver, pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of creating a disturbance in a public place in Red Bank July 5, 1967 while under the influence of alcohol.

County Court Judge M. Raymond McGowan accepted the plea and set July 10 for sentencing.

Assistant County Prosecutor Arnold Levin presented the state's case. Martin Rudnick of Red Bank represented Clough.

Liquor Count Charged to 4

FREEHOLD TOWNSHIP — Four Freehold youths were charged with possession of alcoholic beverages Monday night by township police.

They are George Armstrong, 18 of 58 W. Main St., Robert Robinson, 18 of Throckmorton St., Peter Kloepping, 20, of 20 Sheriff St. and Michael Marchese, 18, of Millhurst Road.

The four were stopped by Sgt. Robert Stiles and Patrolman Michael Kotz for a routine motor vehicle check at 11:30 p.m. Monday night. All are free on $50 bail pending hearing next Monday.

William L. Findlay

Colts Neck Man Given TRW Post

WEST LONG BRANCH — William L. Findlay of Colts Neck has been appointed district manager of the TRW Systems Group's newly-established Regional Office here, according to Ralph Clark, district marketing director. He will coordinate the TRW efforts in the fields of satellite systems, electronics, software and information systems, systems engineering and integration, biological sciences and civil systems. He also will direct TRW activities and liaison with the various departments of defense, industrial and civil systems primarily in the New York and New Jersey areas.

Mr. Findlay, who joined TRW in 1967, has over 20 years of experience in international and domestic marketing in commercial, industrial, civil and defense systems. Prior to his new assignment, he was Applications Manager for the Electronic Systems Division of TRW's Systems Group in Redondo Beach, Calif.

He is a native of Montreal, Canada, and attended McGill University and the University of California. He currently is secretary of the Executive Committee of the New York Chapter, National Security Industrial Association.

Mr. Findlay resides with his wife, Anne, and three children, David, Robert and Marjorie, in Colts Neck.

The Systems Group is a major operating unit of TRW Inc., where more than 80,000 people at over 300 locations around the world are applying advanced technology to products, systems and services for commercial, industrial and government markets.

Almerino Named To Authority

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — In a show of unanimity, the Township Council Monday night appointed Frederick A. Almerino of 100 Avondale Lane to the Municipal Utilities Authority.

Mr. Almerino replaces Richard Vermilyea, who resigned May 5 after a year on the authority, which was peppered with continuing opposition to the Democratic members and their settlement with C. J. Pardun and Son Co. of a sewer contract.

After the meeting, Jerome R. Kaye, councilman and authority member who has been chief target of the Republicans in the Pardun suit and who had criticized the council on its appointment of Mr. Vermilyea, explained why he agreed to the decision last night.

"Mr. Almerino impressed me as a capable man, but I would have preferred an engineer," he said.

Worked as Supervisor

Mr. Almerino is an accountant and has worked as a supervisor of construction auditing for the Port of New York Authority since 1958. In his position, the new appointee will review and evaluate accounting records and procedures of contractors and work extensively with engineers.

Mr. Almerino, 45, is married and has four children. He is a graduate of Fordham University.

The appointment will retain the present makeup on the authority of two Republican appointees and three Democrats. Others serving include Paul Wright, Ernest May and Chairman Karl D. Zuckerman.

The appointment is effective immediately.

The Closing of Another Parochial School

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — The seniors of Helena Catholic Central High School have one thing in common: they'll be without an alma mater come graduation.

The school is closing with graduation, the victim of a nationwide crisis that has hit parochial schools.

A nationwide survey by The Associated Press showed that many parochial schools are being forced to close because of sharply rising costs and a diminishing supply of teachers from religious orders.

Helena Catholic's 74 seniors will simultaneously say "thanks" and "goodbye" upon graduation.

As one senior put it: "It won't be happy. I can already see the tears."

The school's initials, carved from a hillside above Helena known as Scratch Gravel, were not whitewashed as usual. All but the seniors will have to transfer loyalties to Helena Senior — once an archrival, now a refuge. No use having a lingering sign of the past, school officials thought.

When lit recently, white flares were used around the initials "HC." There wasn't money for green to match the school colors.

"I couldn't believe it — we were doing so well, building from nothing to something in sports, and everything," said Shaun Donovan, 17, the senior class president. Donovan said he was shocked, stunned when the closure was announced.

So were 73 other graduates, who barely four years earlier were the first pupils entering the $1.7 million building.

The building even belies its closing. The walls are richly paneled. The floors of terrazzo. The lawn has only a good start. Administrative offices are elegant, even plush. Lack of finances apparently wasn't evident when Central was built.

Need Questioned

The quality and need for parochial school teaching has been questioned. In Montana and elsewhere.

"I'll just have to go out and show I'm a product of the school and prove people have made a mistake," said Donovan. "The school is not just a physical plant — it is an idea that will be carried on."

The Rev. John J. McCoy, school principal, commended Donovan and the other pupils for their unwillingness to sit back and accept the judgment. He related how they began drives, hoping to pledge enough money to keep Central open. They even offered to work summers and donate two weeks' pay, he said. Some gave lectures at Masses. All showed concern.

"We didn't promote the pledge drives," Father McCoy said. "The goals weren't realistic, but the students were thinking." "The closing announcement was really traumatic," said Julie Larsen, an 18-year-old academic whiz who plans to attend Seattle University and study nursing. "When we have our class reunion," she said, "we may not have a building, but we'll have the spirit — that's something you don't turn on at 8 o'clock and off at 3."

Spirit Will Remain
"The loyalties will change, but the spirit of the green will remain," Donovan said of the athletes who now will be forced to join their rivals at Helena High and battle on the same team — wearing the once downgraded red and white.

The announced closure really hit hard in the junior class. It was completely unexpected," said Jim Manion, 18, student body president. "The juniors are trying hard to stay together."

There was some adverse leldown at first. Manion said some sporting equipment disappeared, the thought being,

"It won't be needed next year."

The Helena public school system hopes to buy the modern facility. The church hopes to funnel money saved by closing the school into purely religious work.

The 255 other high school pupils will be assimilated into the city system, as will the nearly 600 grade school pupils affected by another closure.

Father McCoy indicated the situation in Helena and other Montana cities was not isolated but part of a trend — a trend that has seen similar situations arise in New York State, in the Brooklyn-Long Island Diocese, in Maryland, Michigan, Iowa, Ohio, Colorado.

Boston's Richard Cardinal Cushing has ordered a survey of diocesan school problems and even said it might be necessary to consider phasing out "the whole parochial-school system."

There will be problems other than just relocating pupils and placing further burdens on public schools systems.

"In a small school there's more spirit, a closeness between pupils and teachers," said Jane Pedersen, 18, one of the top pupils at Central. "The class reunion just won't be the same," she explained. "There'll just be a memory, not a reality."

Donovan said when the rumors first started the pupils were told "to wait and pray."

They did. Until the Thursday morning Father McCoy called all classes into the spacious auditorium and announced the final plans.

Three MRHS Seniors Scholarship Winners

NEW SHREWSBURY — Three Monmouth Regional High School seniors have been awarded scholarships at two major universities, Stuart Carver, guidance director of the school, announced.

Robert Ashton of 82 Squantum Road and Larry Norman of 8 Cherry St. will attend the College of Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass., and Glennis Clark of 81 Park St. will attend Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa.

Mr. Carver said the scholarships included room and board and tuition and placed their value at approximately $2,500 each.

Dr. Patrick Parenty, superintendent at MRHS, lauded the three seniors saying, "These are fine young men. We are happy and proud of their achievements and look forward to their being outstanding students at their respective universities."

Scout Roundup

HOLMDEL — Twenty-nine Boy Scouts received public recognition for advancement in rank and merit badge awards at Court of Honor ceremonies conducted by Troop 131 in the Indian Hill School.

Parents and guests were welcomed by the troop committee chairman, Lowell D. White. Jack Kerwin, advancement chairman, introduced the troop committee, troop leaders and Charles Kemp, neighborhood commissioner.

Presentations for advancement in rank made by Scoutmaster Jack Kirby.

Roland Belanger, assistant patrol leader to Thomas Barski, James Ewin, Salvatore Pantano, Joseph Viola, Frederick Everett and Douglas Kirby and patrol leader to Jeffrey Ewin, Richard Gerrity and Clifton Marshall and Instructor Michael Gerrity.

A special award was a plaque presented by the junior assistant scoutmaster, John Adamchak, and the senior Green Bar members to the former scoutmaster, William Wolf. Mr. Kemp congratulated the scouts, adult leaders and parents on the progress made by the scouts.

AWARDED PATCHES

RIVER PLAZA — Fifteen members of Boy Scout Troop 32 were awarded Great Northern District Trail Camp patches at Monmouth Council's camporee. They were Joseph Genova, William Beck, Leslie Bell, Robert Coite, Jeffrey Stuart, Kevin Noone, Christopher Foster, Paul Antonou, Brian Antonou, Frank Swettis, David Hansen, Evan Robatino, Joseph Fournier, Kent Morris and Anthony Noone.

Accepted into the Order of the Arrow at Quail Hill Reservation were scouts Paul Antonou, Joseph Fournier, David Hansen, Kent Morris and Kevin Noone and troop committee members Bernard Holmfeld and Sidney Bell.

At a recent Court of Honor, merit badges were presented to Leslie Bell, Jeffrey Stuart, Frank Swettis and Christopher Buzzell. Receiving rank advancements were Daniel Ayers, Christopher Foster, Peter Lutz and Kevin Noone, First Class, and Donald Porzio, Second Class. Six boys attained the rank of Tenderfoot. Stars were given 36 scouts for service ranging from one to five years, representing a total of 73 years of active membership.

The troop will hold a campout Saturday and Sunday, June 21 and 22, at Deepdale Farm, Middletown. Parents will visit the camp site Saturday at 7 p.m. to sample the boys' outdoor cooking.

The annual troop campout at New York's Forestburg Scout Reservation is slated for Tuesday, July 22, through Sunday, July 27. Parents' night will be Saturday, July 26. Several scouts will remain for an additional week of leadership training.

Fathers of troop members have volunteered to assist with camping preparations at Forestburg.

Vorster Blocks Threat to Party

By KENNETH L. WHITING

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister John Vorster has papered over cracks in the ruling Nationalist party and blocked the threat of a splinter political movement.

Two dissident Nationalist members of Parliament agreed to toe the party line in what Vorster termed a "reconciliation." He said differences were dissolved unanimously at a caucus in Cape Town.

"All members of the caucus are... convinced that South Africa can only be governed and steered to its destiny through the policy and principles of the National party," he added.

Nationalists have been in power 21 years and right-wing discontent has been smoldering. Plans were announced in April for a new "purified" Afrikaner political organization which would challenge Vorster for the allegiance of conservative Afrikaners.

The right-wingers fed on the fears of some conservatives that Vorster's policies would dilute Afrikaner nationalism and lead eventually to the end of white supremacy.

Afrikaners are the descendants of Dutch-origin Boer pioneers who adhered to a stern Calvinist faith, sowed the seeds of race segregation and viewed outsiders with suspicion. Conservatives think Vorster is leading South Africa away from these principles.

A key conservative figure has been Dr. Albert Hertzog, who was dropped from Vorster's Cabinet last year. Hertzog and another member of parliament, Louis Stofberg, are now back in the party mainstream, Vorster announced.

The prime minister said Hertzog "rejects the people who pose as Nationalists and try to shield behind him, while they are in fact engaged in plans for the formation of a new party and are undermining the National party..."

The Nationalist party newspaper in Johannesburg, Die Transvaler, praised Vorster for achieving a "political miracle."

Some observers believe deep-seated differences will inevitably reassert themselves.

Leading conservative

spokesmen now are Barry Botha, editor of Veg (Fight) magazine, who last month announced plans for a new party, and S.E.D. Brown, editor of the monthly pamphlet South African Observer. In his May issue, Brown spoke of a growing credibility gap between Vorster and traditional Afrikaners.

"The gap between Mr. Vorster and his people is widening, not diminishing," he said.

Red Bank High Teacher Given Coe Fellowship

STONY BROOK, N.Y. — Jacob W. Needle, 7 Colonial Court, Fair Haven, N.J., chairman of the social studies department at Red Bank High School, has been awarded a William Robertson Coe fellowship in American History and Government by the State University of New York, here.

Mr. Needle is one of 19 teachers selected from more than 300 applicants for the fellowships at The Summer Institute of American History and Government, according to Dr. Martin B. Travis, political science department chairman at Stony Brook and director of the program.

The fellows will be in residence at the State University Conference Center, Planting Fields, Oyster Bay, N. Y., from June 23 to Aug. 1, working with historians and political scientists.

The fellowship provides room, board, tuition and a stipend of $500.

Mr. Needle, a Red Bank High School teacher 14 years, received his bachelor's degree from Northeastern University and his master's from Harvard and is working for his doctorate at Rutgers. He held an English-Speaking Union scholarship for graduate study at Oxford University two summers ago.

Jacob W. Needle

Promotion In Reserve To Thatcher

EAST ORANGE — John S. Thatcher of 75 Gull Road, Middletown, has been promoted to the rank of colonel in the active Air Force Reserve.

Col. Thatcher is completing 21 years of reserve activity, having received his commission through R.O.T.C. at Cornell University in 1940. He is presently assigned to Headquarters, First Air Force Reserve Region, Andrews AFB, Washington, D. C. He is attached for duty with the chief of staff, New Jersey National Guard, in Trenton with liaison responsibilities in the area of military support of civil defense.

Col. Thatcher recently was elected president of the Colonial Life Insurance Co. of America.

Col. John S. Thatcher

Devine, Harper Victors In Freehold Township

FREEHOLD TOWNSHIP — Edwin Devine and Harry D. Harper won the Republican nominations for two three-year terms on the Township Committee, defeating former Mayor Albert V. McCormick and John M. Desider.

They seek the seats now held by Mayor Frank Marzulli and William Benassi, both Republicans, who are not running for reelection.

The Republican vote was 428 for Mr. Devine, 424 for Mr. Harper, 361 for Mr. McCormick and 254 for Mr. Desider.

The winners will be challenged in November by Democrats Michael Dotsey, who polled 231 votes, and Frank J. Guadagnini Jr., who polled 240.

Fresh Air Fund Plea Issued

FAIR HAVEN — Chairmen of this year's Fresh Air Fund program have issued an urgent appeal to county residents to offer city children two-week vacations in their homes.

Jack Carol of Fair Haven said this week that many disadvantaged children have never seen a one-family house — and the Fresh Air Fund gives tenement children the opportunity to play on grass or sandy beaches instead of hot pavement.

The host family is asked to provide hospitality (food and care) without cost to the fund or the child. The fund pays for the child's transportation, liability insurance, medical expenses and all costs of organizing and arranging the program.

The children, ages 5 through 12, are selected by one of the 40 social and welfare agencies cooperating with the Fresh Air Fund in finding the most deserving children. Host families may specify the age and sex of their guest.

Fund officials hope to place 14,000 children this summer in 12 states from Maine to Virginia.

Mr. Carol said that he and Karen Crum of Little Silver will supply further information for prospective families.

Computer Helps Students Handle Realistic Problems

WEST LONG BRANCH — Thanks to a small, desk-sized computer, some 30 students in a statistics course at Monmouth College are able to solve realistic problems without spending a lot of time doing lengthy arithmetic calculations.

The business administration students are enrolled in fundamentals of statistics, a one-semester, introductory course that covers such topics as "theoretical distributions, hypothesis testing of means, variances, and regression," according to the college catalogue, and enough to scare even the most intrepid student. The course is taught by G. Boyd Swartz, an assistant professor in the department of mathematics.

Using the computer provides "a more realistic situation. It's more like what you would find in business and industry," Prof. Swartz explains. He said the computer was donated by Electronics Associates Inc., Long Branch, for use in the class during this academic year.

"In the past, we had to limit our work to small samples, we never considered the variety of problems we are doing now. A problem that would have taken the student hours to complete in the past can now be completed in a matter of minutes," he said.

The problems come from a variety of sources. Some are business-related such as one which compares the tire-life of two brands of tires, or the student can test for correlation between mid-term grades and final grades.

Although the machine is a boon to the busy student, it can only help him speed-up the process of finding the right answer. The student must know the proper statistical theory to apply to the problem. The computer simply computes the information for him, Prof. Swartz explains.

"They must know what information to feed into the computer to get the right answer. They have to know how to interpret the problem into the correct mathematical notation and they must be able to interpret the results of the calculation," he says.

And, even then, the student's work is still not complete, according to Prof. Swartz. "After they get an answer from the computer, they have to make a decision."

Despite the fact that none of the students had any previous computer training, it did not take long to indoctrinate them to its use.

"Their biggest problem was getting over the fear of touching it," the teacher quipped.

The EAI computer is the same type of machine used in business and by many civil engineers and accountants. It is programmed to provide certain information. The program, or information, is fed into the machine on a punched-hole paper tape about three-fourths of an inch wide. Each roll of tape contains the information for a specific class of problems.

PROBLEM SOLVING — Dennis Brown, a junior from Fair Haven, prepares to use computer to solve problem in statistics under watchful eye of G. Boyd Swartz, assistant professor in the department of mathematics at Monmouth College. The computer, on loan to the college from EAI, speeds up calculations of lengthy statistical problems.

Prof. Swartz spent about two months preparing the programs now being used on the computer under EAI sponsorship.

Some students could perhaps establish a friendship with the computer because the unit actually "talks" to the operator. It asks questions which must be supplied by the student. In the computer world, according to Prof. Swartz, the system is termed, "a conversational program." Questions and replies come from the computer, printed by a standard IBM electric typewriter which is connected to the machine. The machine will tell the operator to perform such tasks as "Use t-Test," which is a specific statistical procedure. Or, the computer may ask the student such questions as, "Standard deviation unknown?" when running a comparison test. Or, it may say, "Assume standard deviation equal?" to which the student must answer yes or no. Student replies are typed on a keyboard on the computer.

The questions are pre-punched on the rolls of tape which are fed into the computer and stored in the machine's memory bank. They will come out in the same order each time, Prof. Swartz says, unless the student gives an incorrect reply.

SHREWSBURY — G. J. Sterling Thompson of Middletown, president, Sterling Thompson Gallery of Homes, has been elected president of The University of Penn Club of Monmouth County for the two-year term 1969-71.

Other officers elected at the club's recent meeting in Rod's Shadowbrook, Shrewsbury, are three vice presidents: Paul Blendon, Ocean Township; George V. Churchin, Little Silver, and Mrs. Irving H. Peak, Rumson; treasurer, Alan Avchen, Rumson; secretary, Mrs. B. A. Crulshank, Fair Haven, and publicity chairman, Leon Rosenfeld, Little Silver.

Named secondary school committee chairman was Mrs. Evelyn Edeiken, Deal. Trustees are James Van Wagner, Rumson; and Leonard N. Temko, New Shrewsbury.

Pack 237 Plans Picnic

MATAWAN — Cub Scout Pack 237 will hold its annual family picnic Sunday at Turkey Swamp Park, Freehold Township.

The Webelos recently camped overnight at Quail Hill Reservation, Manalapan Township. Accompanying the boys were Cubmaster Raymond Michaels and Frank Brief Webelos leader.

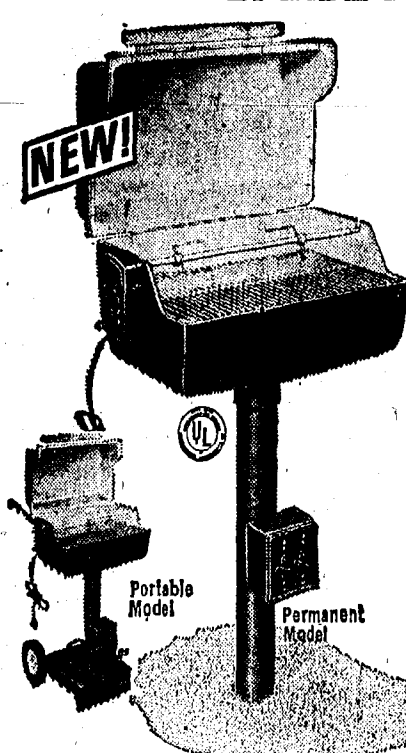

Mr. Michaels was presented with a special award for his service to the pack.

The Cubs bade farewell to Scouts Mark Plotkin, Daniel Hiri, Richard Lovett, Andrew Lovett and Scott Lichtenstein, all of whom are moving.

The pack marched in an area Memorial Day parade.

To Hear Family Of Guitarists

HOLMDEL — The Romero, "Spain's First Family of Guitar," will open the second season of the Garden State Arts Center at Telegraph Hill Park Thursday night, June 12, when they appear with the Philadelphia Orchestra conducted by Eugene Ormandy.

The guitar ensemble, consisting of Celedonio Romero and his sons Celin, Pepe and Angel, will play a concerto for four guitars and orchestra by the Spanish composer Joaquin Rodrigo.

The work, Concierto Andaluz, was commissioned for the Romeros, and premiered at the San Antonio HemisFair last year.

The Romeros will perform with the Philadelphia Orchestra at the Arts Center on June 12, and the following Saturday night.

One of Smallest Tax Havens Is Sold

By STANFORD N. SESSER
LONDON (AP) — One of the world's smallest tax havens, a two-square mile granite island with a population of 16, has a new owner who doesn't bother about taxes in any case.

Dozens of wealthy bidders had been trying to buy Lundy Island for a tax-free home, but they lost out to Britain's National Trust, a nonprofit foundation that protects historic lands and buildings.

To purchase Lundy the trust paid $360,000 it obtained as a gift from a wealthy Briton who now lives in the Bahamas — also a favorite tax haven.

The purchase means that Lundy, in the Bristol Channel between southwest England and Wales, will remain open to tourists. A trust official says it also means Lundy's 16 residents — five married couples and six lighthouse keepers — can continue to live in the tax haven without fear of eviction.

Number Growing
No figures are made public on how many Britons leave England for sunnier tax climates, but the number is growing.

"A lot of people have been thinking about it since the capital gains tax went into effect in 1965," says one London accountant. "If the government doesn't do anything to alleviate the tax burden, it could become a serious thing."

Many of the island dwellers go to Malta, an inexpensive, picturesque island between Sicily and North Africa. This former British colony has an income tax of a mere 2½ per cent. The most famous Briton there is zoologist Desmond Morris, whose book "The Naked Ape" is banned on the heavily Roman Catholic island.

Needn't Go Far

The Englishman who wants to cut his tax bill doesn't have to go far from home. Surrounding Britain are dozens of small islands and two large ones, the Channel Island of Jersey and Guernsey, that have special relationships to the crown allowing them to legislate their own internal affairs. And taxes are definitely internal, they insist.

Jersey, near France, boasts lots of sunshine, fine beaches, beautiful homes — and no sales tax, no capital gains tax, no estate tax. Its income tax is a flat 20 per cent, compared to Britain's top rate of 91 per cent.

"It's a very pleasant place to live," says Hugh McDougall, a director of several Jersey trust funds. "It's very quiet, except when the tourists come in the summer. I've lived here 21 years and I wouldn't want to go back to England."

Islanders need not sever their ties with London completely. Britain generally allows them to visit as often as they like, just so the time doesn't total more than three months a year.

The Channel Islands became a part of Britain in 1066, when William the Conqueror took over England and combined it with Normandy. France later recaptured Normandy, but not the nearby islands.

Queen Ultimate Power

While the islands have their own legislatures, Queen Elizabeth II is still the ultimate power. Britain also provides some services, such as postal deliveries and telephones. Thus Britain could legally impose taxes on the islands, but centuries of tradition and even financial reasons dictate noninterference.

In 1870 the owner of Lundy was arrested for minting his own coins. A British court decided that the island was in every respect a part of England. But the government bowed to tradition and never started collecting taxes.

Residents of the islands offer a number of arrangements that in their view makes their status safe.

Sterling Stays

"Britain may be losing the tax revenues," says one Jersey banker, "but the sterling is staying in the country."

"Let's face it. If people don't like the fact that they have to pay 75 per cent of their income to Inland Revenue, then they'll move. If they can't go to Jersey, they'll take their sterling and move to Spain or Switzerland."

The Jersey financier McDougall maintains that the Channel Islands could declare themselves independent. This would mean, he says, that residents' money would be withdrawn from British banks and exchanged into another currency. Moreover, Britain could lose the money netted from services to the Channel Island's 700,000 tourists a year.

Fort People Cited for Performance

FORT MONMOUTH — Citations for sustained superior and outstanding performance, step increases, and length of service were presented to Army Signal School personnel in separate ceremonies.

In the Department of Communications, Frank S. Grey and Claud Hamilton each received a sustained superior performance rating with cash award from Lt. Col. William C. Dierolf, deputy director.

Mr. Hamilton, an instructor in the Communications Center Branch, Applied Communications Division, joined the Signal School faculty in 1957, a year after he retired with the rank of major from 20 years' active military duty.

He was cited for his "professional presentations and willingness to assist students and faculty members alike." This is second sustained superior citation. He also received a Special Act award in 1967. He and his wife, Pauline, live on Colonial Ter., Colts Neck.

Mr. Grey, a classroom aid in the Support Section of the Tactics Division, joined the staff of the Signal School in 1966. He retired from the Army in 1962 as a first sergeant after 22 years' service. He holds the Silver Star, Soldier's Medal, and the Army Commendation Medal.

In the office of the director of instruction, Francis J. Herbert and Maurice Lubetkin were awarded an outstanding performance citation with step increase and Russell H. Bosworth, an outstanding performance certificate.

Mr. Herbert, education specialist, has been on the faculty of the Signal School since 1950. He previously received three similar awards. He and his wife, Elizabeth, live at 61 William St., Red Bank. They have two sons, Stephen, a first lieutenant in the Signal Corps now serving on active duty in Washington, D.C. and Daniel, a student at Albright College, Reading, Pa.

Mr. Lubetkin, education specialist in the Instructional Methods Division, lives at 41 Hedge Dr., Oceanport, with his wife, Kathleen and son, Steven. He joined the Signal School staff in 1963.

Mr. Bosworth, a supervisory education specialist in the Instructional Methods Division, joined government service in 1952 after serving both in World War II and the Korean War. Mr. Bosworth lives in Livingston with his wife, Leora, and their three children, Russell, David, and Pam.

In the office of the secretary, Mrs. Jane W. McSweeney and Mrs. Mildred A. Fraser each received an outstanding and sustained superior performance citation with cash award. Paul S. Fabry and Mrs. Virginia Springsteen were presented an outstanding performance rating certificate with quality step increase. Col. Thomas Y. Harrigan, secretary, conducted the ceremony.

Mrs. McSweeney, secretary in the Administration Division, joined the staff of the Signal School in 1960. Since that time, she has received a quality step increase and an outstanding and sustained superior performance citation in addition to her present award. Mrs. McSweeney and her husband, John, live at 283 Spring St., Red Bank, with their son, David, 14.

Mrs. Fraser, a government employee 19 years, is a supervisory clerk in the registrar's office. Mrs. Fraser and her husband, Alvin, live at 610 Sewall Ave., Asbury Park.

Mr. Fabry, evaluation clerk, office of the registrar, resides at 212 Beechwood Drive, Shrewsbury, with his wife, Jean, and the couple's two children, Anne and Paul Jr. This is the second outstanding certificate and quality step increase he has received in his 18 years of government service.

Mrs. Springsteen, qualifications rating clerk in the office of the registrar, received a previous outstanding rating in 1968. A federal employee 11 years, she and her husband, Wilbur, live at 3 Parkway Place, Middletown. The couple has one son, John, a student at Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green.

Alfred F. Hawkins and Joseph Lombardo, both on the staff of the office of the comptroller, received an outstanding performance citation and suggestion award respectively, from Melvin Werksman, comptroller. Mr. Hawkins, a resident of Old Bridge is employed as a program analyst in the Management Division, and recently received a quality step increase. He and his wife, Eleanor, have one son, William Jr.

Mr. Lombardo, a management analyst also in the Management Division, has 14 years' government service, the last two of which have been with the Signal School.

He recently received a Special Act award and has also received a previous outstanding and sustained superior rating. Mr. Lombardo and his wife, Rosemarie, live at 503 Cedar Ave., West Long Branch.

In the office of logistics, Vera A. Dirhan received a quality step increase. She is employed as an illustrator of technical equipment in the Training Aids Division and makes her home at 15 Drummond Place, Red Bank.

Mrs. Helen E. Foley, facilities clerk, and Nicholas W. Amatelli, photographer, each received a cash award for adopted suggestions. A federal employee 16 years, Mrs. Foley is corresponding secretary of the Ft. Monmouth Toastmistress Club. She and her husband, James, live at 2506 Sunset Ave., Wanamassa, with their four children.

Mr. Amatelli, resides with his wife, Mildred, at 400 Oakdale Drive, Neptune. The couple has one daughter, Betty Lou.

James S. Laggan received a certificate for 20 years' federal service. He is an instructor in the Special Subjects Division, Department of Command Communications.

Alcoholism Is Called Community Problem

MIDDLETOWN — "Alcoholism is a community problem and a community responsibility," James R. Deans, executive director of the Alcoholism Council of Monmouth County, told civic leaders, including Mayor Harold H. Poulks and members of the Middletown Township Inter Service Group.

The Inter Service Group, which comprises Middletown Jaycees, Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary, held its annual meeting at The Cobblestones. Mr. Deans keynoted his talk to the invocation, which said, in part, "We do not pray that we may escape life's demands and rough places or that we may be excused from our responsibilities."

He enlisted the group's aid as businessmen in the forefront of community life in the fight against the disease he said is "the fourth — and rapidly becoming the third — largest killer in the nation."

The council is a voluntary public health agency dedicated to helping alcoholics and those who live or deal with them find the help they need to arrest the disease.

Mrs. Thomson Cited at Fort

FT. MONMOUTH — Mrs. Virginia P. Thomson of Oceanport received an outstanding performance citation at the Army Signal School.

The citation, which carried with it a salary step increase, paid tribute to "her efficiency, tact, and unquestioned ability to organize."

Mrs. Thomson, information specialist on the commandant's staff, is the receptionist in Myer Hall, headquarters of the Signal School. She entered federal government service in July, 1966, prior to which she was active in the newspaper and real estate fields.

Past president of the Oceanport Community Center and the Port-au-Peck Ladies Auxiliary and a member of the Oceanport PTA, she and her husband, William, live at 4 Riverview Ave. They have four children, Deborah, 18, Janet, 16, William Jr., 11, and Robert, 10. Mr. Thomson, an industrial engineer, served on the Oceanport Board of Education for several years.

Tonti Concedes, Will Aid Meyner

By DORIS KULMAN
NEWARK — At 10:06 last night, Democratic gubernatorial candidate D. Louis Tonti strode into the sitting room of his two-room suite on the eighth floor of the Robert Treat Hotel.

"It's over," he announced to the group of relatives and friends gathered there, "I'm going to concede."

He glanced around quickly. "Where's Doris?"

Mrs. Tonti stepped from the shadows at the side of the room. Her husband rushed forward and embraced her.

End Is Seen

"We're going downstairs to concede," he told her, "He's winning 3 to 1 in Essex."

Doris Tonti stiffened — just for a moment. Then she smiled.

"All right," she said, "Are you going to wear the gloves?"

Mr. Tonti looked down at his hands, covered by white gauze gloves because of an infection resulting, he said, from all that hand-shaking on the campaign trail. And he laughed the exuberant Tonti laugh.

"Sure," he said, "might as well go formal."

"Well," he said softly, almost to himself, as he left the suite, "We did our best."

Entering the elevator en route to the third floor ballroom where television cameras, newsmen and about 50 supporters were waiting in what was to have been Tonti victory headquarters, Mr. Tonti turned suddenly to a campaign worker.

"Joe," he said, "I'm sorry to have let you down."

"You didn't let anyone down, Lou," interjected Rep. James J. Howard, D-N.J., manager of the statewide "Tonti campaign." "We didn't have enough time for the campaign."

In his concession speech, the bouncy Mr. Tonti congratulated former Gov. Robert B. Meyner on his primary election victory and offered his help in the Meyner campaign.

"I've always been a Demo-

crat... I'm still a Democrat. I'm available to provide whatever assistance I can to him in the months ahead.

"While I know I've lost the campaign, I don't feel I'm defeated," Mr. Tonti declared in his speech. He said he is hopeful "whatever ideas of merit I may have advanced may be at least considered by the man who will lead our party in November."

His wife and daughter, Priscilla, were at his side, as they were last March 18 when Mr. Tonti stood on the same platform and announced his candidacy.

He spoke last night against a background of band music, drifting up into the room from the Meyner headquarters on the floor below.

The bitter news came early.

Just 40 minutes after the polls closed, a Tonti press aide met a reporter in the hotel lobby.

"We just heard bad news," he said, "CBS is giving it to Meyner — and by 42 per cent of the vote."

In the eighth floor suite, Mrs. Tonti, Priscilla, the Tonti sons — Ben, 15, and Sherwood, 17 — and a dozen relatives and friends, including several "Tonti girls" clad in yellow and green, sat grimly listening to the election bulletins on the radio and television.

"Incorrigible Optimist"

Mr. Tonti, who describes himself as an "incorrigible optimist" ("you have to be an incorrigible optimist to fight uphill, and that's what I'm doing") was being optimistic.

At 8:50, Tonti was reported with only 7 per cent of the vote. The candidate nodded agreement with an aide who said "no, that can't be," listened attentively while a reporter explained how the news analysts arrive at their projections.

At 9 o'clock, with newsmen "waiting for the concessions to start" according to a Tonti aide, the candidate admitted "it doesn't look so good right now."

Ten minutes later, interviewed by two students from the Seton Hall University radio station ("Sure, come right in. Glad to speak to students any time."), Mr. Tonti suggested that the number of candidates in the Democratic primary this year (six)

"makes it difficult to make projections. There's no historical data. So I think it's premature to give it to Bob Meyner by 42 per cent."

At 9:45, a radio news bulletin reported Meyner leading with 47 per cent of the total vote. Mrs. Tonti gasped, and clasped her hand to her mouth in shock.

"Keep your cool," a Tonti aide advised no one in particular. "The total results aren't in."

That was his worst moment, Mr. Tonti confided later, "when I heard that Meyner was ahead with 47 per cent and realized I was so out of the running..."

A few seconds later James Casey, the campaign coordinator, hurried into the suite and pulled Mr. Tonti aside. For the first — and only — time last night, Mr. Tonti appeared downcast.

Margin Is Small

Mr. Casey brought news that Elizabeth, where Mayor Thomas Dunn declared early for Tonti, and where he expected to pull a big vote, had returned only a small margin of victory.

Mr. Tonti closeted himself in the bedroom with Mr. Casey, Edward Flynn, the campaign public relations director, and Nathan Dubester, a Middlesex County Democratic leader. It was 9:50 and, through the closed door, the sound of a typewriter could be heard. The statement conceding defeat was being prepared. Another 16 minutes, and it was all over.

With 98 per cent of the returns in, Tonti had garnered a little more than 33,600 votes — about 8 per cent of the total.

"I'm disappointed," Mr. Tonti said later, "I'd be lying if I didn't say so. Obviously, I'm not as effective in political action as I thought."

He said he thinks he started campaigning "much too late."

He said he thinks the organization of an effective statewide campaign takes both more experience than he had and more time than he devoted to planning it.

Would he do it again?

"I'm still a concerned citizen, and you never know what a concerned citizen will do when the opportunity presents itself..."

For the nonce "I believe I can help persuade Bob Meyner to involve more and more citizens who are young, imaginative and concerned" and, he wants "to do all I can to help" the Monmouth County Democratic ticket.

His plans for the day after are simple. He's going to spend today at his Holmdel residence — sleeping.

Harsh Reminders

He'll take home with him some harsh reminders of the gubernatorial race — at least $55,000 in debts.

"I haven't seen all the bills, but I know about those because they're in bank loans that must be paid back," Mr. Tonti said.

When his leave of absence expires at the end of this month, it'll be back on the job as executive director of the New Jersey Highway Authority. He has tenure and intends to stay on in that post, Mr. Tonti declared.

Congressman Howard attributed the Tonti defeat to a lack of time to mount a statewide campaign.

The indecision about the primary date and the fact that "we were kept waiting by the courts two weeks" didn't leave enough time for an effective campaign, the congressman said.

He said he will campaign for Meyner.

"I expect to be active on a state level campaigning for the referendum to permit 18-year-olds to vote," Mr. Tonti said.

Rep. Howard declared that he supported Mr. Tonti "because Lou Tonti stands most for what I believe in. I'm happy I supported him. If I had to make the decision again and knew what the results would be, I'd support him again. I feel sorry for Lou tonight, but not for what we did together..."

Priscilla Tonti commented softly, "I don't think all is lost. I think he made an imprint on the state and the party..."

The Tontis retired to their eighth floor suite. The band played on in the Meyner headquarters. And in the ninth floor Tonti campaign headquarters telephones jangled. There wasn't anyone around to answer them.

MOMENT OF VICTORY — Robert B. Meyner and Mrs. Meyner are jubilant at his campaign headquarters after his victory in the Democratic gubernatorial race in the New Jersey primary last night. Meyner was governor from 1953 to 1961. He is 60 years old. (AP Wirephoto)

Keyport Schools Win Approval

KEYPORT — Last night was a time of pride for school administrators and the Board of Education.

After many years of striving, Keyport High School has it made, George D. Search, school superintendent, reported. Not only has the school received renewed approval of the state Board of Education for the next five years, but also it has received 10-year accreditation from the Middle Atlantic States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Mr. Search, terming the ratings "the best you can get," congratulated administrators and teachers for their efforts in achieving them.

For First Time

Dr. Mark B. Muscarella, a board member, remarked that it is the first time Keyport has received the high accreditation. "It's been a pet project of mine ever since I've been on the board; I've been kidded about it," he said. "But it's a proud day for Keyport, I think," he added.

Frank V. Zampello, high school principal, was perhaps proudest of all. He explained that most of the burden of obtaining the high ratings fell on his office and praised his administrators and staff. He is especially pleased, he added, because of his long service in the school system.

"Besides," he said, "I was born and brought up here in Keyport. It means a lot to me."

The board directed a letter to its newly appointed attorney, Harvey G. Hartman, asking advice on what to do about items unfinished by contractors in the addition to Central School. Letters to the contractors by Gerard A. Barba of Shrewsbury, the board's architect, have produced no results. A report from Mr. Hartman is requested at the board's next meeting Tuesday, June 24.

At the request of Mr. Search, the board approved full time posts of guidance counselor and visual aids clerk. The superintendent said the high school needs full time services in both fields. The functions were combined in one employee, Kenneth Robinson, until last month when Mr. Robinson was appointed elementary school vice principal.

Search Planned

Mr. Search told the board he will look among the teachers for a guidance counselor and will advertise for a visual aids clerk.

Charles Ignar of Carteret was hired as a teacher of elementary mathematics and language arts at a salary of $8,600 yearly. Mrs. Doris Post, here, was hired as a library clerk at an annual salary of $3,425. The salary of teacher John J. Mell, who has completed 30 credits beyond the master's degree level, was increased from $11,550 to $11,850.

Fuel oil contracts were awarded two low bidders. Hollywood Oil Service, here, received a contract for No. 2 fuel oil on a low bid of 11.7 cents per gallon, delivered. Wellen Oil Co. of Jersey City will supply No. 4 oil on a low bid of 7.85 cents per gallon, delivered.

The board adjourned until Tuesday, June 24, at 8 p.m.

Little Silver Master Plan Hearing Scheduled July 1

LITTLE SILVER — The Planning Board with one abstention last night voted to present the new master plan to the voters on July 1 for a public discussion.

Robert L. Bainton abstained from the vote declaring, "I've said before we do not need a master plan. We all agreed it was dead once and when we present the new master plan we're going to hear the same things from the voters we heard last time."

The major differences between the 1966 master plan which was rejected and the planners new recommendations are:

Main Changes

—The new plan excludes apartments.

—The borough is reserving several tracts of undeveloped land for recreation and conservation.

—Several changes in main arteries are proposed to speed traffic through the borough with fewer accidents and to route traffic out of the residential districts.

As was promised when the borough adopted a new zoning ordinance earlier this year, the master plan contains no zoning changes.

The land the master plan recommends preserving for conservation and recreation closely follows the recommendations of the Conservation Commission.

The largest section is a "V" shaped belt that would run from the borough hall to the Point Road School and back along Little Silver Creek, across Willow Ave. and Branch Ave. behind the Sunnycrest development.

Also slated for conservation are the wetlands along Town Neck Creek, the north side of Goose Neck Bridge and the area around the lagoon on Seven Bridge Road. Included in the wetlands conservation program is a proposed ordinance prohibiting bulkheading in the wetlands and a clause written into the master plan prohibiting any filling or construction in the wetlands that would change their character or ecology.

Small tracts around Lovett Pond and Sickle Pond are also set for conservation as are several other small tracts scattered throughout the borough.

Under state law, a borough can require that a developer give the mayor and council one year notice before building on land reserved by the borough. During the year, the borough may negotiate to purchase or institute condemnation proceedings to procure the land.

The master plan states the objective of the conservation program is "to preserve the physical assets of the borough and thereby enhance its character and desirability for low density residential use. This entails protection of its few streams, the prevention of erosion and the maintenance of view and natural ecology."

Mayor Gordon N. Litwin said accurate figures have not yet been prepared on the cost of the conservation project. Although the Conservation Commission's report gave approximate prices for the property it recommended setting aside, he explained, the master plan takes only sections of the recommended tracts and the cost has not yet been worked out for the areas chosen.

The mayor also commented on one of the proposed changes in major arteries, a proposed street connecting Rumson Road with White Road in Shrewsbury via Silver White Road.

Speed Problem

He stated, "This would be a severe dislocation of a residential street and would result in faster traffic through a residential area."

Other than that point, the mayor "highly endorses" the master plan and stated, "I think the proposal for open spaces shows imagination and I certainly approve it."

Other proposed road changes and improvements are:

—Straightening the intersection of Rumson Road and White Road at Branch Ave. and installing a traffic light there immediately.

—Straightening the intersection off Harding Road and Seven Bridge Road where they cross Rumson Road and installing a traffic light there immediately.

—Creating a "T" intersection in place of the curved intersection at Harding Road and Ridge Road.

Connecting Silverside Ave. with Sycamore Ave. when the area is developed.

—Arranging traffic flow to minimize the number of left hand turns necessary into the shopping center across the street from the borough hall.

—Prohibiting driveways that open onto a major artery by requiring new homes to have reverse frontages fronting on residential streets.

The Planning Board stressed these improvements would be made over a period of time and not all at once.

The planners also noted that no action on the master plan is slated for the night of the hearing. They stated the July 1 meeting is for the public to voice its opinions on the results of the board's two year study.

Hahne Center's Ruling To Be Tested Again

FREEHOLD — The Business-Residential Organization of Middletown Inc. (BROOM) has filed a notice of appeal of a Superior Court decision which upheld a zoning ordinance amendment in Middletown.

BROOM is appealing the April 15 decision of Superior Court Judge Elvin R. Simmill, who upheld Middletown Township's right to change a 38.6-acre residential zone on Newman Springs Road, Lincroft, to a business zone.

The amendment permits the construction of a $3.5 million Hahne and Co. fashion center there.

BROOM contended the township acted arbitrarily, capriciously and unreasonably; that the amendment violates the master plan, does not advance zoning purposes, allows spot zoning, disregards the character of the area, does not conserve property values or provide for the most appropriate use of the land; that its sole purpose is to attract a high tax rateable and that it creates a traffic hazard.

Judge Simmill ruled that the changing of the zone was a "proper legislative act" of the Township Committee, and the court could not "interpose its will." He said the question of the best reasonable use of the land is debatable and the burden of proof is on the plaintiffs.

Judge Simmill said the master plan is a guideline, not a "straitjacket" and the governing body may agree with it or not, and he noted that the township Planning Board and the Township Committee had devoted considerable study to the matter.

The notice of appeal was filed with the clerk of the Appellate Division of Superior Court in Trenton by BROOM's attorney, S. Joseph Fortunato of Newark, who said yesterday the appeal will probably be heard next fall.

The plaintiffs-appellants are BROOM and four of its members: James P. Deehan, Robert H. Pearce, Walter J. Wickley and Alice Kustera. Defendants are Middletown Township and its Township Committee, Hahne and Co., Newark, and Adcor Realty Corp., New York.

Hennessey Concedes Early

SEA BRIGHT — John L. Hennessey, this borough's candidate for governor, conceded defeat early last night from his apartment above his Gold Coast Tavern here as the first returns showed him running a distant sixth in the six-man Democratic primary.

"Actually, I conceded the election before it even started," he told The Register last night.

Mr. Hennessey spent election day in his apartment and fulfilled a "campaign promise" by not voting in the primary.

"I didn't even vote for myself. I never vote in primaries," he said. He received eight votes here.

Mr. Hennessey was not surprised that a groundswell of public support failed to develop for his candidacy.

He thought it unrealistic to compare him to candidates with 20 years' experience.

"Unlike the other candidates, I wasn't offered any money," he pointed out, "but, on the other hand, I didn't spend any."

During the campaign, which he said he enjoyed thoroughly, Mr. Hennessey refused to take any stand on the issues. He told reporters he would start to think about them if he won.

He did appear on television debates with other candidates, however, but failed to make the final one Sunday. He said his car broke down on the Garden State Parkway and he was unable to hail a taxi.

His one complaint was that the news media always referred to him as "a Sea Bright tavern owner." He said this was "far removed" from his major interests in the stock market and as a business management consultant.

"I wish people would forget the Gold Coast," he said.

Patrons of the Gold Coast can take heart, however. Mr. Hennessey said he plans to open it full time now that the campaign is over.

Former Gov. Meyner can take heart, too. Mr. Hennessey said he would support the primary winner and "work just as hard in the general election, as I did in the primary."

Independent GOP Victors in Matawan

MATAWAN — The old line Regular Republican Club went down in defeat to the Independent GOP slate for the mayoral nomination and the two council vacancies in yesterday's local primary.

The winning candidates, Victor R. Armellino for mayor and Donald T. Day and John E. Webster 2nd for council, called the victory "a reflection of the change the electorate wants in the borough."

The vote tallies for mayor were: Mr. Armellino 376, Regular Republican Thomas F. Ryan 300 and third candidate James E. Shea 181; for council, Mr. Day, 474, Mr. Webster 421 and Regular candidates Mark C. Bendon 341 and Richard B. Munn 349.

The uncontested Democratic candidates were: Ralph Dolan 208 for mayor and Howard M. Schoor 208 and Jack Jenkins 209 for council. Democrat Henry C. Ellis polled 212 in his unchallenged bid for assessor nominee.

Mr. Day, who set up the Independent ticket primarily to oppose the present Republican-controlled council's stand on continued garden apartment construction, said he was gratified at the results.

"I think it was the constructive program we offered," he stated. "The people want a more responsive and community oriented government, not one which carries out its wishes over those of the residents."

"Our hope is that the Regular Republican leadership and the local governing body will pause to reflect on what the primary victory really means," he added.

Mr. Day said both defeated mayoral candidates have come forward with support in the general election.

"It's very important now to get the groups together and work as a unified team for the November election. I personally hold no ill will against any of the opposition."

"I think the open primary was a good thing for the Republican party here," Mr. Day explained. He added that the primary results showed a large increase in newly registered Republicans.

The Independent slate had fielded six County Executive Committee candidates in five districts. Of these, two candidates in the fourth district won over the Regular candidates.

Leaders Hail Housing Ruling

RED BANK — The New Jersey Supreme Court decision Monday to award compensatory damages to victims of housing bias has drawn enthusiastic support from area leaders in the struggle for equal housing.

Stafford Thompson, president of the Red Bank NAACP, said last night that he is "quite enthusiastic" about the decision. "The law has really got teeth, now. It will be much more effective than indicated by its language," he said.

The Supreme Court rejected defense arguments that damages in housing bias cases were not specifically authorized by law.

"It is patently clear," wrote Justice Frederick W. Hall in the unanimous opinion, "that the legislature intended to create an effective enforcement agency in order to eradicate the cancer of discrimination."

The State Civil Rights Division ruled in November 1967 that a black school teacher and his wife in Runnemede, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Jackson, were entitled to the extra cost of living in a motel after they had been refused an apartment because of their color.

An appeals court, the Appellate Division of the Superior Court, overturned the first decision last year.

Monday's Supreme Court decision reversed that ruling and returned to the original Civil Rights Division holding against the apartment owners.

Wilson Shepherd, president of the Shore Citizens for Better Human Relations, agreed "100 per cent" with the ruling.

"The Only Way"

"It is the only way we can make them pay for the heartache they have brought about," he said and added that the decision will "bring back many of the costs of looking for a house to the person who's being discriminated against."

Ermon Jones, president of the Asbury Park-Neptune NAACP, expressed the same sentiment. He said that it was "very fair to Americans who had suffered the hardship of choosing a home in the face of discrimination."

Mr. Jones said he hoped the ruling would act as a deterrent to those who practice discrimination, but he added that he expected this decision to be appealed to the United States Supreme Court.

To Honor 4 Men For Fine Arts Aid

MIDDLETOWN—The Shore Chapter of the New Jersey Society of Architects, a professional organization with members in Monmouth and Ocean Counties, is initiating a program in which individual persons or groups will be honored for their contributions in the field of fine arts.

Those honored would be artists involved in worthwhile community endeavors and local citizens who have contributed to the furtherance of the arts in this area. This year's awards of recognition will be presented at a reception during New Jersey Architects Week Sunday at the Navesink Country Club.

To be honored are D. Louis Tonti, executive director of the Garden State Parkway, for his efforts in establishing the Garden State Arts Center; John Bolduc, outgoing executive vice president of the Red Bank Chamber of Commerce, for his involvement in the proposed park at the termination of Broad St., Red Bank; Franklin Fisher, music educator and bandmaster, for work as chairman of the Cultural Affairs Committee of Dover Township, developing a growing program of cultural events, and the Monmouth Museum, of which Charles B. Harding is president, for establishing a facility for the exhibition and teaching of fine arts.

The chapter announced it intends to make an award of a number of under-termined number of awards of this nature on an annual basis, thereby encouraging increased acceptance and awareness of the arts in Monmouth and Ocean Counties.

Monmouth College Exercises Saturday

WEST LONG BRANCH — Monmouth College will hold its 35th commencement exercises Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium.

This year, for the first time, 15 graduate students will be awarded masters degrees in the fields of physics and teacher education. The college was authorized to begin offering graduate work and confer masters degrees in 1967. The first advanced students in the Department of Teacher Education enrolled for summer courses in 1967, while the first graduate students in the Department of Physics enrolled in September of that year.

Some 670 persons, the largest group in the history of the college, are candidates for bachelors degrees. There are 525 candidates for bachelors of science degrees and 145 candidates for the bachelor of arts degree. In addition, some 600 students are candidates for associate in arts degrees.

4 Honorary Degrees
Four men will be awarded honorary degrees. Irving J. Feist, Shrewsbury, president of Feist and Feist, Newark, will receive the honorary degree of doctor of laws. Mr. Feist will also be the commencement speaker. "The Trumpet Call" is the title of his address.

Honorary degrees will also be awarded to Philip H. Iselin, Oceanport, president and chairman of the board of the Monmouth Park Jockey Club, an honorary doctor of humane letters; Wayne D. McMurray, Asbury Park, president and editor of the Asbury Park Press, an honorary doctor of laws degree, and Dr. Lionel A. Walford, Locust, director of the Sandy Hook Marine Laboratory, an honorary degree of doctor of science.

Summer Program Set At Monmouth Regional

NEW SHREWSBURY — Enrichment opportunity and review subjects will both be offered by the Monmouth Regional High School summer program from June 30 to Aug. 8.

The six-week program, approved by the Board of Education last night, will also be open to students who do not normally attend MRHS. However, these must have a written authorization from their principal or guidance counselor or director for the courses they are to take.

It was also stressed that the school retains the right to withdraw any course for which there is not sufficient registration.

Offered will be these courses:

Gambaccini Presented Award For Outstanding Achievement

NEW YORK — The New York Metropolitan Chapter of the American Society for Public Administration has presented its annual award for outstanding achievement in public administration to Louis J. Gambaccini, formerly of Lincroft, N.J., director of rail transportation of the Port of New York Authority.

Mr. Gambaccini was cited for "his leadership in the monumental task of rebuilding and modernizing the Path railroad system to provide 130,000 daily commuters with good, reliable, round-the-clock service, and for his direction of the planning and construction activities of a new Transportation Center in Journal Square in Jersey City which embodies a daring urban renewal program and a new concept in bringing together multi-modes of transportation."

The New York Metropolitan Chapter of ASPA has 400 members who are employed by state, municipal and federal governments. The award for outstanding achievement has been presented annually since 1958.

A native of New Haven, Conn., Mr. Gambaccini was graduated from the University of Connecticut in 1952 with a BA degree in government, and earned his MPA from Syracuse University in 1956. He joined the Port Authority in 1956 as a management analyst, and five years later was appointed executive assistant in the Railroad Equipment Office. In 1962 he was appointed deputy director of the Rail Transportation Department.

partment, and in 1966 he was named director of the department. He also is vice president and general manager of the Port Authority Trans-Hudson (PATH) Corporation.

Mr. Gambaccini is chairman of the Committee on Government Affairs of the Institute for Rapid Transit, and a member and past president of the New York Metropolitan Chapter of the American Society for Public Administration. In the Korean War, he was a first lieutenant in the Regular Army and was awarded a Combat Infantryman's Badge and a Bronze Star for his service as an infantry platoon leader.

He is married to the former Annette Marie Bush of Derby, Conn. They have six children and reside at 159 Cottage Place, Ridgewood.

Philosophy Doctorate For Priest

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Rev. Richard David Breslin, son of John A. Breslin of Red Bank, N.J., and the late Bertha C. Breslin, will receive the doctor of philosophy degree in education Saturday from The Catholic University of America.

Father Breslin is a graduate of Red Bank Catholic High School and Villanova University. Upon graduation from Villanova, he entered the Order of Saint Augustine and was ordained a priest in November, 1965.

From 1966 to 1968, he taught at Malvern Preparatory School, Malvern, Pa. While there, besides his teaching duties, he was a guidance counselor the first year and became the school disciplinarian the second year.

After that year, the Augustinian Order released Father Breslin to complete his doctoral studies. In January, he successfully defended his doctoral dissertation and became an assistant professor on the faculty of Villanova University.

He is teaching both graduate and undergraduate courses in education at the Augustinian institution.

County Buys Garage For Its Trucks

FREEHOLD — The Board of Freeholders yesterday agreed to buy for $43,000 a garage from Mills Crane Service in Howell Township for the county road department.

The county has been paying $278 a month to rent the garage, Freeholder Harry Larison Jr. said.

The garage was built in 1968 to county specifications, he said, and has been leased since then by the county.

Mr. Larison estimated that the county will get the cost of the building back in 12 years. The freeholder said the road department has 10 district garages. It owns five and leases five, he said.

COUNTY FARE

They're Off and Running... Styles in the Lead

By MARGUERITE HENDERSON

Opening day at Monmouth Park has handsomely turned-out fillies that are not confined to the English walking ring. In the rarified air of the parterre (where almost half of its 71 private boxes are let to Monmouth residents) the female trappings are particularly fine, in an understated sort of way.

Take Saturday, the day of the elegant ensemble, when

Monmouth Park director) wore a knitted two-some in a black and white "slightly psychedelic striped check," while Mrs. Amory L. Haskell (widow of the former Monmouth Park president) donned jacket and dress "on the light side of navy, trimmed with white belt and buttons."

Parterre box-holders from Red Bank include Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Doremus (she wearing a brass-buttoned coat and dress of green and pink checked linen) and Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Eisner (she in a white linen dress and parrot green coat with a stand-up collar). Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eisner attended — her white English pique dress was by Wragge, stated so with his signature sash, in red, looped through a gold ring — as did Monmouth Park secretary and Mrs. David A. Werblin (she in a light blue ensemble) who are staying seasonally at the Molly Pitcher Motor Inn because they sold their Elberon home last year.

Dinner-Jacketed Hercules

Within private parterre enclosures, up to six persons are accommodated luxuriously and at least 12, comfortably. Bar and luncheon service is available — with everything from he-man steaks and roasts to fruit or lobster salads on the skinny side. There are attendants in yachting caps, white slacks and blazers. And for those too comfortable to sashay to the betting windows, a runner named Hercules will do it in record time — and in dinner jacket.

But back to the boxes... their owners include Mr. and Mrs. Allison Stern and Mr. and Mrs. Max Krich, Scobeyville; Mr. and Mrs. Milton S. Erlanger and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Roberts, Oakhurst; Director of Racing and Mrs. H. A. Jimmy Jones, Oceanport; Mr. and Mrs. John W.

Flock, Long Branch; Mr. and Mrs. Adam Gimbel and Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Twitchell, Holmdel; Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. H. Johnson, Tinton Falls; Harold E. Wetterberg, Marlboro; Mrs. Louis Marron, Brielle; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Mintz, Asbury Park; Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Sabatini, Spring Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Pollak, West Long Branch; Mr. and Mrs. William Hanlon, Interlaken; Mrs. John F. Kiely, Deal; John Toolan Sr., Fair Haven; Mr. and Mrs. Townsend B. Martin, Locust (he is a member of the board of directors); Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Mercer, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Wrightson and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Riker, Rumson; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel LaMorte, Little Silver; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Mermelstein, West Deal, and from Middletown — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Packard and Mrs. F. C. Tatum (whose Saturday outfit was a light blue suit and frilly blouse and whose guests were Mr. and Mrs. Prall W. Lambert, Locust, and Henry Werleemann, Rumson).

Others among the Jockey Club's "fourth floor fashionables" (all there with their hovering husbands) were: Mrs. Bernard White, Locust, in a beige and white knit dress and jacket worn with black patent accessories; Mrs. David Marx, Shrewsbury, in a turquoise cotton dress and coat; and Mrs. Leon Hess, Deal, in a white skirt, black shirt and black jacket — this with gold buttons, epaulets and an air militaire.

Springboard for Parties

About the Ocean Library benefit, volumes could be written. More importantly, volumes shall be bought with the almost $2,500 raised through Friday's art preview and reception.

Many in the overflow crowd made the Gallery 100 gala a springboard for Rumson parties later. Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Mercer Jr. (he is president of the library's board of trustees) had a dinner party for 50. Preview artist Monique Plassman (four of whose paintings sold that night) was honored guest at a party tendered by Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Harvey Jr. Mrs. Carlos Kelly gave a party at the Rumson Country Club in honor of artist Marion Simmons (six of whose watercolors are already purchased). Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lyford and Mr. and Mrs. Jeremy Judge (the ladies were of the library committee) held a joint supper party at the Judges' home. Guests of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Archibald included Marti Huber (a Gallery 100 co-owner and manager) and her husband Bruce of Locust. And Miss Robin Gans and Miss Karen Von Kersberg, of the gallery staff, served exotic shrimp fare to several at the home of Robert Taylor (who was not one of that night's featured artists, but two of whose paintings displayed, were sold).

The current show may be seen 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday until June 26. Gallery 100 is located on Avenue of Two Rivers, Rumson.

Commodore Feted

For the Memorial Weekend, those of the Monmouth Boat Club simply kept on socializing.

Friday night's cocktail/outfit was given in honor of Commodore Harold R. Lartaud, Fair Haven, by Vice Commodore Charles Raynor, Red Bank. Real mates and ship mates attended.

Ditto for the dance on Saturday night, with Mrs. Paul Huntsman Jr., Little Silver, and Mrs. Fred Simon, Fair Haven, chairmen. Enjoyers included Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Held, Red Bank; Col. and Mrs. Roger Power, Colts Neck; Mr. and Mrs. Wachenfeld, Fair Haven; Mr. and Mrs. William Heron and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wikoff, Little Silver; and from Middletown — Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Datz, English-town. The public is invited, donations are encouraged and refreshments (provided by the hospital's Marlboro and Freehold auxiliaries) and pony rides will be available.

Riding Rain or Shine

Fast upon us... this Saturday's 4-H Horse Show to benefit the Greater Freehold Area Hospital. Sally Kaul, Colts Neck, president of the 4-H Equestrians, is chairman of the show. It will be held, starting at 9 a.m. come rain or come shine, at the Chester Farm on Rt. 520 and Gordons Corner Road in Wickatunk. The judges will be Miss Georgianna Jones, Trenton, and Mrs. Eileen Datz, English-town. The public is invited, donations are encouraged and refreshments (provided by the hospital's Marlboro and Freehold auxiliaries) and pony rides will be available.

Architects' Invitational

This Sunday, 4-7 p.m. at the Navesink Country Club, the Shore Chapter of the N. J. Society of Architects will hold its invitational "Afternoon With the Arts."

SUPER SEAMSTRESS

Ann Schuling, who specializes in making the colorful silks jockeys wear, works on a checkerboard pattern she made for use at Monmouth Park, where she "reigns" during the summer season. She also is well-known on the Florida circuit as a super seamstress.

Especially for Women

Senior Receives Award

HAZLET — Miss Barbara Anne Dougherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Dougherty, 11 Mallard St., has been named recipient of the Woman's Club of Raritan scholarship award.

The eldest girl in a family of eight children, Miss Dougherty has been accepted at St. Peter's College in Jersey City, Newark State College and Rutgers in Newark. She has selected St. Peter's because of its outstanding pre-med program and because her grandfather taught there and an uncle graduated from the school.

She has wanted to become a doctor since the eighth grade when she won second prize at a local science fair for a demonstration on lung cancer. Her primary and secondary education was attained in the Hazlet school system.

Tutorial Aide

In Raritan High School she was cited for participating in the tutorial program, and was a member of the Latin Club, German Club, Yearbook Literary Staff, and participated in intramural sports.

She has been a member of the Girl Scouts for seven years, including secretary to Mrs. William Windrow's Cadette troop 556, treasurer for Senior Mounted troop 200 of Middletown, member of the Senior Planning Board, liaison officer for the Girl Scout Cookie Sale sponsored by Steinbach Company. She was senior aide at the Girl Scout camp at Holmdel Park for three years.

Delivers Newspapers

Barbara's outside interests include horseback riding, collecting Donovan records, reading, camping, visiting historic sites, cooking, sewing and serving as assistant chauffeur for the family.

Self-employed as a babysitter for six years, she also handles a motor route for morning newspapers. Her father is an insurance claims supervisor and her mother is working her way through Newark State College.

Miss Dougherty has also been awarded a New Jersey State scholarship.

TRASH AND TREASURE

They are Mrs. Frank Schlosser, grand regent; Mrs. Wallace Price, vice grand regent; Mrs. Chester Kowalczyk, prophetess; Mrs. Robert Zeller, historian; Mrs. Edward O'Neill, financial secretary; Mrs. Donald Riedell, treasurer; Mrs. James O'Neill, lecturer; Mrs. John Breslin, monitor; Mrs. Michael Dunzeo, sentinel, and Mrs. Peter Freunzl, organist.

2 Win In Contest

FREEHOLD — Two local women have won first place awards in the State Grange sewing contest.

On May 24 Mrs. Edith W. Plicher, member of Monmouth Grange 92, Monmouth County Pomona representative, modeled her two-piece dress that won first place in Class A; and Miss Kathleen Fredericks wore her dress and coat ensemble in Class B at the luncheon and fashion show held in the Pennington Grange. These dresses will be entered in the national competition in New York City.

Daughter to Pipers

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Piper of Ypsilanti became the parents of a daughter, Danielle, born May 22 here in the Women's Clinic of the University of Michigan. Mrs. Piper is the former Beverly Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Reed, Riverbrook Ave., Lincoln, N. J.

Scout Headed for 'Reach Out'

Marilyn Glaser

FARMINGDALE — Marilyn Glaser, Fair Haven, Monmouth Council of Girl Scout "Opportunity '69'er" selected to participate in "Reach Out," Detroit, Mich., is packing her bags in earnest now as the date of her departure draws near. From June 24 to July 12 Marilyn will live at Camp Innisfree, Pinckney, Mich., a 1,000-acre campsite owned by the Girl Scouts of Metropolitan Detroit, where "Reach Out" will be held.

Participants will study, discuss, have workshops and hear guest speakers in the fields of: fellow man (people with special needs within one's community), environs (conservation of one's community and conservation of natural resources) and world (international friendship).

The purpose of "Reach Out" is to give the older girl scout an opportunity to explore in depth one of the fields of interest — and in Marilyn's case she has chosen to focus on the field of "fellow man" — and to receive concentrated training in leadership skills, and develop plans to implement a back-home service project based on pre-discovered needs. As her pre-event assignment she is determining the service needs in local communities.

A junior at Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School, Marilyn is a member of Senior Mariner troop 191 of Rumson, and this year serves as its chairman. During her Cadette years she earned her first class designation, served as troop treasurer and scribe, patrol leader and assistant patrol leader, and participated in the vocational convale.

As a Senior Girl Scout Marilyn has served as troop scribe, earned the Mariner certificate issued by the Mystic Mariners, and works with a junior troop. She has had extensive day, troop, church and other camping experience.

In addition to her scouting activities, Marilyn is a leader and worker for the Red Bank Community Workcamps, sings second alto in the Tower Singers (school choral group), is a member of the National Honor Society, American Field Service Club, NAACP, Methodist Youth Fellowship, Methodist Youth Choir, and High School Service Club. She was formerly active in girls intermural sports.

3 TVs Are Gifts To School

FAIR HAVEN — The Fair Haven PTA ended its year of activities with the presentation of gifts to the school system and the installation of officers.

The gifts included three instructional television sets, a donation to the school's Stokes Forest outdoor education project under the direction of John Malmquist and an educational enrichment fund to be used by Fair Haven teachers.

The new officers are Mrs. Joseph Brown, president; Mrs. M.J. Rothstein and Mr. Edward P. Hemschoot, vice presidents; Mrs. John J. Kelly, recording secretary; Mrs. Harriet Walker, corresponding secretary, and Fred Bassini Jr., treasurer.

Lady Bird On Flower Committee

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the new committee for the Wild Flowers of Texas, according to Mrs. David Rockefeller, chairman.

The committee has been formed to introduce Volume 3 in the monumental series, "Wild Flowers of the United States." This volume was originally planned to embrace the native flora of the Southwestern states but the wild flowers of Texas were so numerous that the two-part volume had to be devoted solely to Texas, the only instance of its kind in the six volume series.

"Wild Flowers of the United States" are edited by Dr. Harold William Rickett, senior curator of botany at the New York Botanical Garden, and are published by the McGraw-Hill Book Company. Volume 3 will be introduced Oct. 9 at the opening of a special exhibition in the Amon Carter Museum of Western Art at Fort Worth, Tex. Arranged by the museum's chairman, Mrs. J. Lee Johnson 3rd, the display will extend through Nov. 30 and will illustrate the colorful wild flowers of Texas.

THE FAST GOURMET
White House Mushrooms

By POPPY CANNON
WASHINGTON — When George and Martha Washington reigned like latter-day king and queen in the White House, life in the kitchen was not serene. Cooks came and went with distressing frequency. In the winter of 1789, this advertisement appeared:

"A COOK is wanted for the family of the President of the United States. No one need apply who is not perfect in the business, and can bring indubitable testimonials of sobriety, honesty and attention to the duties of the station."

Except for a few tranquil periods, and a few administrations, there have always been problems in the chef department. During the last three years, however, beautiful tranquility has reigned — since Henry Haller, formerly executive chef at the Sheraton East Hotel in New York City, became the chef of the White House chefs.

Chef Haller, born and educated in Switzerland, a naturalized citizen of the United States since 1957, is a tall, handsome, lithe and lively man in his early 40s, with four handsome children ranging in age from 10 to 5 — two sons, Robert Henry and Richard Eugene, and two daughters, Susan Carol and Nancy Rose.

Educated in Switzerland, he served his apprenticeship in some of the great resort hotels of the Continent, the Ritz Carleton in Montreal, the Hampshire House in New York, and, finally, at the Sheraton East.

His most impressive trait, according to White House aficionados, is his unfailing patience, amiability and hate of waste.

What endears him most to a battered food writer, however, is his willingness to share some of his personal triumphs. Here is one, simple and quick enough for any novice — Mushrooms Provencal. It was served recently as a part of an elaborate state dinner. We made it the entire at a light and elegant Saturday night supper.

MUSHROOMS PROVENCAL

To serve as a main dish for six, wash or simply wipe 2 lb. fresh white mushrooms; cut off the stems and chop or sliver the stems. Sauté the mushrooms whole in ½ cup heated olive oil, just about 3 min.; remove from oil and keep warm. To the oil that is left in the skillet, add the chopped mushroom stems, 3 cloves garlic minced or crushed, and 3 shallots or the white part of 3 green onions, also chopped. Sauté slowly about 4 min. Sprinkle with 1 tsp. flour, stirring the flour into the juices. Do this slowly off heat so that flour cannot possibly lump. On heat again, gradually add 1 cup dry, white table wine or vermouth and continue cooking until the sauce is smooth and slightly thickened. Add 2 tsp. finely chopped parsley, 1 tsp. fresh-chopped thyme or about ½ tsp. dried thyme — rubbed between your fingers to release the oils. (Two tablespoonfuls tomato paste may be added at the last. We prefer to omit it.) Finally, stir in the mushrooms so as not to injure the little beauties. May be served on toast, but we prefer in small bowls accompanied by the crustiest of French bread which simply must be dunked into the wonderful sauce. Tastes rather like snails but even more delicious.

TEEN FORUM

Musical Switch

By JEAN ADAMS
SWITCH: (Q.) I play the piano. I also play the clarinet. I love the guitar. I would love to take guitar instead of piano. I hate the piano.

My parents are crazy for me to be an expert at the piano and I haven't spoken to them about the guitar. How can I make the switch? — Guitar Lover in Philadelphia.

(A.) Be honest and tell your parents about wanting to take guitar lessons. But you don't have to call it a "switch."

They may say yes more quickly if you say you've enjoyed music so much you'd like to take on a new instrument.

There are many similarities in playing the guitar and the piano and you may discover "as you go on that your piano training is a great help to you. You may even want to keep up the piano with the guitar and drop the horn playing.

PHONE JANGLE: (Q.) I call up this girl every day after school. I'm 13 and I'm going with her.

If anyone else answers I hang up. She isn't allowed to talk on the telephone to boys, and I don't want to get her into trouble.

I ask her to call me, but she won't. Do you have any advice? — B. in Alabama.

(A.) She is correct in not calling you. Girls are not supposed to call boys. Her parents would probably give her more trouble if she called you than if you called her.

Why not, on your next visit, become friends with her parents. They may make an exception to the no-phone-call rule for you.

If they do, don't make a pest of yourself and call too often.

It would be wise, too, to find out when she is usually at home and call then.

Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Tex. 77001. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Seated were Mrs. James Frenette, Neptune, president; Mrs. Ed Kenny, Belford, vice president; Mrs. Frank Falconetti, Belford, recording secretary; Mrs. David Rochford, Middletown, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frank Long, Lakewood, treasurer, and Mrs. Thomas Boeckel, Middletown, extension officer. Mrs. Gene Moran, Middletown, was named City Council representative.

At the candlelight ceremony Mrs. Kip Mitchell, Fair Haven, received the Ritual of Jewels degree. The Ritual of Affirmation was given to Mrs. Frenette, Mrs. William Pennington, and Mrs. Mitchell. Committees named by Mrs.

Frenette are Mrs. Theodore Gullman, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Moran, and Mrs. Kenny, social committee; Mrs. Al Henrichs, Neptune, Mrs. Sam Best, Middletown, Mrs. Rochford, and Mrs. Moran, service committee; Mrs. Boeckel, Mrs. Pennington, Mrs. Gullman, and Mrs. Allan Gannon, Middletown, ways and means committee; Mrs. Kenny, Mrs. Best, and Mrs. Boeckel, membership committee; Mrs. Falconetti, Mrs. Frenette, and Mrs. Gullman, yearbook. Mrs. Henrichs is in charge of cultural programs for the year.

Christopher Weiss, 16 Conover Lane, Rumson, is one of the students accepting invitations to join the University of Iowa, Iowa City, honors program upon enrollment as a freshman.

ANN LANDERS

Games People Play

Dear Ann Landers: This is for the lady who referred to her body as "the most precious gift she has for her bridegroom" — and to others who labor under this gross illusion.

When women stop thinking of their bodies as "gifts," men will cease to think of them as prizes to be won. One of the principal problems with our cultural setup is caused by the games people play. If a sexual relationship has any real significance it must be mutually desirable. Tell it like it is, will you please? — From Berkeley brother" is a good enough reason to insist on knowing every move my husband makes? His widowed sister lives across the street from us and her nosiness drives me crazy.

What she doesn't see from her window she telephones and asks about. "Whose car was out in front of your place from 8:30 till 11:00?" "You received a telegram this morning. Is everything all right?" "I saw the delivery boy from the drugstore ring your bell a few minutes ago. Is somebody sick?"

This evening was the last straw. She called a few minutes ago and said, "I saw Gerald leave the house in his good suit. Where did he go?"

Do I have the right to tell her to mind her own business? If you say so I'll do it. — Sick Of Her

Dear S.O.H.: Of course you have the right. But do you have the courage? Every time you answer a none-of-your-business type question you make it easier for her to ask the next one.

When you get really fed up you'll tell your sister-in-law off and that will end the inquisition or at least discourage her prying.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is bright when it comes to his work, but he lacks common sense. Last night at mealtime he took a pill to help him diet and an antibiotic for a touch of dysentery. He then fixed himself a very stiff highball "to relax." After dinner he drank a can of beer and washed down two sleeping pills with a slug of bourbon, "to insure a good night's rest." I worry about him. He says I'm foolish. Am I? — Worry Wart Worry Wart: No. He is. Pills and alcohol can be a dangerous combination. Also, some drugs should not be mixed. Your "bright" husband could wake up one morning and find himself shaking hands with St. Peter. Tell him he's playing with dynamite, and if he doesn't believe you to check with a doctor.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents . . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Auxiliary Awards 3 For 850 Volunteer Hours

WAYSIDE — The Louise C. Bodman Health Center MOOSS held its last meeting of the season here at the Health Center, Mrs. Edward H. Urion, recently elected president, discussed with the members the auxiliary's plans for the summer and fall. Mrs. Alice Libovsky of Little Silver was introduced as a prospective member.

Mrs. Ernest Lovanyak presented service award pins to Mrs. L. D. Seely for 500 accumulated hours, Mrs. Robert Becker for 250 hours and Mrs. . . . 100 hours. Mrs. Seely is a charter member of the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Ernest Lovanyak, service chairman, announced that the seven Well-Child Conference clinics will continue during the summer months and that volunteers are needed for complete staffing. She also reported that the auxiliary had been requested to help with the MOOSS migrant labor health program during the month of July.

Mrs. Seely, chairman of the annual children's party, explained the postponement of this event which is usually held in the spring. It was decided that the extensive building program just being completed at the Center created a hazard for the very young children. She suggested a Halloween costume party for the youngsters Oct. 29 with traditional decorations, favors and refreshments.

HAZLET — The township Women's Democratic Club will hold its third annual "Breakfast in Hollywood" Friday at 8:30 p.m. in Buck Smith's, Palmer Ave., East Keansburg.

Prizes will be awarded to winners of the "crazy hat" competition.

Tickets are available from Mrs. James White or Mrs. Eugene Ballister.

Miss Sue E. Harrison, daughter of James E. Harrison, 8 Evergreen Drive, Rumson, was one of 24 juniors elected to the Mortar Board, University of Colorado, Denver, Colo., women's honorary society.

Conley, Toomey Honored

EATONTOWN — Seniors George Conley, a three letterman, and Mike Toomey, a varsity baseball reserve, captured the two most coveted awards last night when the Bulldog Boosters honored Rumson-Fair Haven Regional sports teams at their annual banquet in Old Orchard Country Club here.

Conley received the Booster Club's $300 scholarship award which is presented annually to the senior who plans to major in physical education in college. An outstanding performer in the field events, Conley will be the school's lone entry in the state track meet Saturday. He also quarterbacked the Bulldogs' football team and was a member of the basketball team.

Cross Memorial

Toomey is the first recipient of the new Danny Cross Memorial Trophy, a perpetual award established to honor the young baseball player who died in an automobile accident about a year ago. The annual award will go to the diamond who best displays sportsmanship, spirit and sincerity, all qualities shown by Danny.

Thomas Dooley was named the most valuable player in baseball while Dick Danielson received the outstanding wrestler trophy. Bill Jakubec, outstanding freshman wrestler, and Mike Tardiff, most improved freshman matman, also received special honors.

Parade of Athletes

All members of the cross-country, baseball, wrestling, gymnastics, basketball, track, tennis and golf teams, as well as the Girls' Athletic Association, were introduced and honored by their respective coaches.

Hollis Haltom, president of the Bulldog Boosters, was master of ceremonies.

THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER

Care and Feeding of Long Distance Runners

By GEORGE SHEEHAN

We may be heading for the "Age of Aquarius," but we are passing through the "Age of Heracles" on the way. Daily events confirm the philosophy of that ancient Greek who thought that life and change were inseparable — and things were always in a state of flux.

This week a medical journal reported that computer-patient relations were so good the machine was preferred over the doctor; Marshall McLuhan wrote that "civilization in the form of perception and organization based on the phonetic alphabet is in a state of rapid and universal decline" and the last defenders of normalcy, the distance runners were in trouble.

SIGHT-TO-SURFACE

Ordinarily, the care and feeding of a long distance runner is no problem. Given a pair of shoes, a join cloth, and sufficient yogurt, the runner will retire from sight-to-surface annually at the Boston Marathon. Even joggers are not looked on as demanding people. The National Jogging Association describes this activity as the most convenient, inexpensive, and readily available exercise.

In a changing world these solitary contemplative road-runners perform the function of the medieval monks. The preservation and application of the values of the ages. In this case to make them part of McLuhan's electric technology — when all the books are gone.

SHEEHAN

Reports from Boston and Houston suggest that this may not be easy.

Jock Semple, who has charge of the logistics of the Boston Marathon, has come out for a restricted entry in the event which draws members of the faithful from the four corners of the world. Such a policy would have serious effects on the distance running sport. Boston has become the Mecca to ever increasing numbers of enthusiasts — and is undoubtedly the greatest stimulus to long distance running in this country. Statistics from this year's Patriots Day festivities show that 678 (more than the entire entry in 1967) finished within the required time of four hours. This is an average of just over nine minutes a mile for the 26-plus miles, evidence of the amount of pre-race training by the average contestant and his interest in the sport.

The Houston announcement suggests that other forces may cut into the ranks of the distance runners.

Sports Specialty of Houston has a catalog of accessories for runners which includes a snake bite kit (with a reciprocating pump with adaptors — designed for self use), an animal repellent which is discharged in a 10 foot stream, and a first aid kit with 151 items. To this alarming array of medical paraphernalia they add a line of high visibility clothing to avoid being struck by a car at night.

HANDLING THE DANGERS

These inherent dangers of the sport can be handled in other ways. The biting dog remedies are as numerous and as personal as the cures for hiccoughs. Most are based on the fact that dogs (except enormous ones) are even more chicken than distance runners. A tree branch or an empty beer can (usually the most readily available object on our highways) held in menacing fashion will usually turn away any surly dog. But the best rule is the adherence to main arteries where danger exists for only quadruped.

Runners in the grip of the euphoria or "la bella indifferenza" which appears after about five miles of hard going have been known to stand up to a charging dog (of moderate size) and belt him on the nose — with satisfying results.

The dangers of night running are mainly psychological. Dr. Cooper, author of "Aerobics" and the leading guru in the physical fitness establishment, has discovered a 70 percent dropout rate for after hours runners versus only 15 percent for the early morning species.

Buddy Edelen, one of America's best at the marathon and an advocate of the 6:30 a.m. workout, sleeps in his running clothes. This reduces the argument between body and conscience to "Are you going to put on the shoes or aren't you?"

Distance runners who have survived these problems will not be surprised by a recent article in the Medical Times on the efficacy of prayer. What was described by the authors as "the oldest of therapies" was found to have a statistically significant effect on disease states.

Any runner who has sought help when he apparently reached the physiological limit — and found it, can believe that. And might even apply it to the diseases of this ever changing Heraclitian world.

Crowd of 4,500

A crowd of 4,500 poured in for the qualifying rounds over an extremely hilly and difficult layout, which measures 6,200 yards and plays to a par 36-36-72.

Most of the fans went the full route with their Arnie, cheering every dramatic shot and moaning with every putt he missed.

The 39-year-old, four-time Masters winner gave his Arnie a run of its old-time thrills when on the 38th hole of the long day he hit an iron to the final green. It struck the flag stick on the fly and bounded about 25 yards past.

"That's Arnie of old," a spectator was heard to say.

"We will have to wait a couple of weeks to find out about that," Palmer said later.

It's Academic To Warnermen

RUMSON — Rumson's Pop Warner football team has been named second runners-up in the Pop Warner Academic Football World Championships.

The local team's rating was based on its grid record from last season, 7-1-1, plus the year's academic ratings of the youngsters who played on the team.

Rumson's Pee Wee grid team received honorable mention in the same type of competition in its age classification.

Bit of Fluff Rated Even Money Choice

OCEANPORT — George R. Wallace's Bit of Fluff, freshened since two allowance victories in April at Gulfstream Park, looms an even-money choice to continue her winning ways in today's $8,500 allowance feature at Monmouth Park.

Bit of Fluff will have seven rivals in the six-furlong test for older fillies and mares. They include W. C. Prickett's Double the Bet, Crown Stable's Some Wind, Lotsoc Farm's Gee Sparkler, A. J. O'Connell's Tony's India, Indian Mills Stock Farm's Weekly Wacki, Woodside Stud's Ruictions and Ann Taboo, owned in partnership by Mrs. N. H. Seruton and Mrs. J. E. Nugent.

Bit of Fluff's Gulfstream victories came in wire-to-wire style. In her last outing, April 15, she showed the way to such good fillies as Clover Blossom and Royal Entrance, winning by three lengths. Today she will be ridden by Ray Broussard and carry top weight of 119 pounds spotting from two to 10 pounds.

Breaks Malden

Double the Bet, who broke her maiden for a $5,000 claiming price here last year before moving up the class ladder, is still winless this season although she has threatened several times.

Her running style contrasts sharply with the favorite.

Double the Bet races best from off the pace.

Some Wind is the winningest member of the field with three tallies this season, one in allowance company, and two under a $20,000 claiming tag. The speedy miss will be ridden by apprentice Rudy Maag, who is under contract to Some Wind's trainer, Budd Lepman.

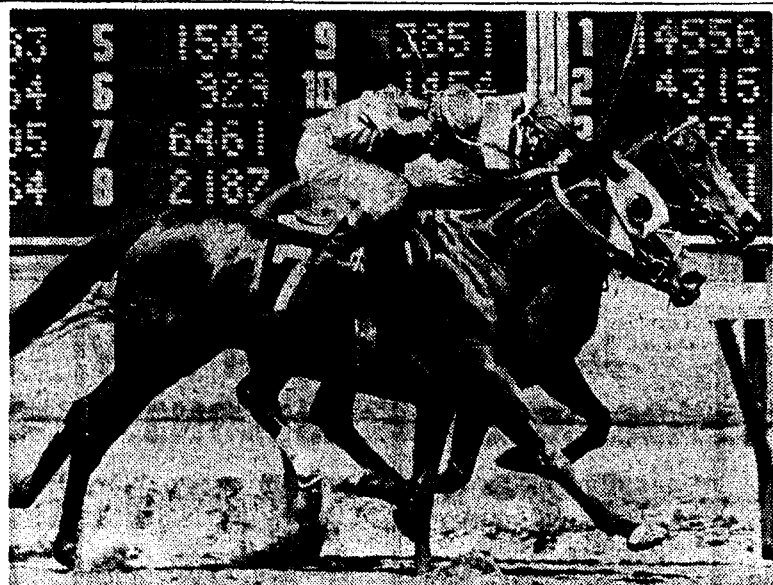

Ruictions and Ann Baboo are the only other 1969 winners in the field, but both scored in cheaper company.

Vis-A-Vis' Victory

Thieu Flexible, But Fears Election

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu is prepared to be flexible at his Midway Island conference with President Nixon, aides say, but he sees no need to be rushed into elections to establish the nation's future political regime.

As seen from Saigon, one of the burning issues of the summit meeting Sunday will be Nixon's call for elections. Nixon proposed in his May 14 speech that elections should be held as a key procedure toward evolving an eight-point peace plan.

Thieu, back in Saigon after visits to South Korea and Formosa, will spend the remainder of the week preparing for the summit conference. He sought the meeting after Nixon laid down his first detailed program for peace in Vietnam.

Initial reaction to the Nixon plan was generally positive, but after closer examination concern arose about what Nixon meant in his election proposal.

Although Nixon mentioned no timetable for elections, there is an impression here that he feels they should be held before the next national voting scheduled under the South Vietnamese constitution. Partial Senate elections are set for late 1970. House and presidential elections are scheduled for 1971.

Any revision of this schedule would probably require constitutional amendment, and Thieu has said he is not prepared to take this step. Behind this expressed attitude is the fear that Thieu's regime couldn't win a confrontation with the Communists at the polls. Thieu has virtually no political base of his own, and the country's political parties are splintered. The Communists are closely disciplined and could be expected to vote as a bloc, larger than any of the pro-government factions can command.

In an attempt to remedy this potentially dangerous situation, Thieu launched May 25 his "National Social Democrat Front," which he hopes to build into an effective party. But the front is only in the spadework stage. Operating regulations and an "action program" have yet to be worked out.

"We are moving, but it is a slow process and we need more time," said one high official. "Grassroots work has really not yet begun."

Thieu also is dubious about Nixon's proposal that an "international body" supervise the elections he called for. The proposal requires more precision before the Thieu government can buy it, aides said.

While foot-dragging by Thieu on elections may develop at Midway, he is pictured as fully aware of the pressures on Nixon to sustain movement on a Vietnam peace program. Some of this pressure was pointed up last week by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who said Thieu must "elect to face his future alone" if he refuses to make concessions necessary to achieve peace.

Without being specific, sources close to Thieu said:

"We are prepared to be flexible. We have a number of formulas for this which so far have not been talked about."

On the question of a partial U.S. troop withdrawal — or "replacement" of U.S. troops by the South Vietnamese, as it is referred to here — Thieu is said to be in full agreement. Suggestions that 50,000 or more U.S. troops could be sent home cause no serious alarm at Independence Palace.

Half-Session Classes Eyed in Union Beach

UNION BEACH — Three hundred pupils face possible half sessions next year, it was announced at last night's Board of Education meeting.

Commenting on the disclosure made by school principal William DiMaio, board president James R. McKittrick said another alternative of the board would be to purchase relocatable module classrooms.

Mr. McKittrick said the present dilemma will be presented to Borough Council when both bodies meet Tuesday night to discuss again budget cuts made by council.

"When our budget was defeated initially we cut it down," Mr. McKittrick said, "and when it was defeated again, it was cut down by council. We appealed but we won't know the outcome of our appeal until June 23. In the meantime we are faced with this decision, so we will have to make this a point of our discussion next week," he concluded.

Mr. DiMaio revealed that of the present 182 pupils attending kindergarten 172 are expected in September to proceed to the five first grade classrooms available.

"Our first grade teachers are becoming a little apprehensive," he continued. "They are faced with the possibility of teaching 37 pupils in a class."

Mr. McKittrick said that at least one other grade will be faced with half sessions if classroom problems are not resolved. He did not reveal the grade level.

The board will accept bids at its adjourned meeting June 24 for painting the all purpose room at Memorial School and for reconstructing a roof on the Florence Avenue School.

On recommendation of the custodian the board purchased a vacuum cleaner for $350, a fogging unit for $160 and an eraser cleaner for $80.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Marianne Casey and granted a one year leave of absence to Miss Barbara McElroy. Both are teachers.

MCROSS Aides At Convention

RED BANK — Miss Winona E. Darragh of Little Silver, executive director, and Miss Sara R. Manley of Red Bank, director of nursing services, represented MCROSS Family Health and Nursing Service at the 1969 National League for Nursing Convention in Detroit.

The six-day conclave directed the attention of delegates from all parts of the United States to civil disorders, health services for the 200 million-plus citizens, working with people where they are, poverty, the roles of public and voluntary health agencies, the place of the community college in nursing education and other subjects of significance to the nursing profession and to health care.

Dr. Judd Loses In Shrewsbury

SHREWSBURY — Dr. A. Bradford Judd, candidate for the splinter Democrats lost the nomination for one of the two council seats open this fall to the two regular Democratic candidates.

Dr. Judd polled 35 votes compared to Earl M. Kaplan with 78 and Francis X. Sullivan with 64. Write-in candidate James O'Hara received one vote.

In the Republican column, incumbents Mrs. Emilia Siciliano and Frederick J. Mancuso polled 261 and 254 votes respectively.

Shrewsbury went over to complete GOP control last November when the Independent Republicans were defeated. There have been no Democrats on the council for several years.

Winnig With Mallory Randall

NEW YORK — Mallory Randall Corporation has appointed Neal G. Winnig of Englishtown as vice president, secretary and general counsel.

Prior to joining Mallory Randall, Mr. Winnig was secretary of Lehigh Valley Industries, Inc. His experience also includes the position of corporate counsel for Investors Funding Corporation of New York, four years as an attorney with The Securities & Exchange Commission in Washington, D.C., and three years in private practice.

He is a member of the National Panel of the American Arbitration Association, American Society of Corporate Secretaries, Inc., and a member of the New York State Bar Association and the state bar of Wisconsin.

Daughter, Like Red Bank Dad, Aims Career Toward Army

By MARGOT SMITH
RED BANK — Like father, like daughter.

Pat Truex, daughter of Lt. Col. Raymond Truex Jr. and Mrs. Truex of 21 East Bergen Place, is in the Army now.

In Pittsburgh last Thursday, Pat was inducted into the Army Reserve and the Army Student Nurse Program. Her father administered the oath.

At present, Pat is completing her second year at Carlow College School of Nursing, formerly Mount Mercy College, in Pittsburgh. The school granted her a full four-year scholarship.

Wearing the Army Student Nurse pin means that the government accepts responsibility for Pat's last two years at Carlow. Upon award of her college degree, she will be commissioned a lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps and will remain in the Army for three years.

Though she's not yet sure about making a career of the Army as her father has, Pat's mind is definitely made up about nursing. Ever since her early days at Red Bank Catholic High School, where she graduated second in her class, Pat has been propelled in that direction.

"Pat's a glutton for work," her parents say. She became interested in nursing after joining her mother as a volunteer at Patterson Army Hospital at Ft. Monmouth.

Throughout high school, she devoted most of her free time as a junior aide there. The rest was spent doing aide work at Riverview Hospital and Monmouth Medical Center.

DAD AND DAUGHTER IN THE ARMY — Pat Truex, 21 East Bergen Place, Red Bank, received the Army oath of enlistment from her father, Lt. Col. Raymond Truex Jr. She has joined the U. S. Army Reserve and the Army Student Nurse program.

"She has just the right makeup for nursing," Pat's mother says. "She loves responsibility and handles it well. She sees what needs doing, and understands just what a patient needs and wants."

At Carlow, Pat has been elected to the student government association and has held a part-time job as laboratory assistant. She is taking extra credits this summer.

There are three Truexes in the service now. Pat's brother, Michael, is completing a four-year enlistment in the Coast Guard this summer. He returned from Vietnam in September and now serves on a Coast Guard weather cutter on Long Beach Island.

Dad, a 20-year Army veteran, is assigned to the U.S. Army Electronics Command, Ft. Monmouth. He spent a year in 1965-66 in Saigon.

Assistance Given to Asthma Sufferers

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The youngster with the mod haircut climbed into the bright orange capsule and grinned through the sealed window as the heavy door swung shut — air tight — behind him.

Like other youngsters under treatment for asthma at an unusual facility here, Peter Ewing, 6, calls himself an "asthmanaut."

The chamber he entered is known technically as a "plethysmograph." But the young asthma patients, carrying out their play on space program lingo, call it "Asthma 13." Doctors and technicians call it "the body box."

The chamber is used to measure the amount of lung damage caused by asthma. Peter Ewing is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne A. Ewing of Springfield, Ohio. His father is a doctor of theology, and a teaching missionary for the Lutheran Church in America.

Returned From Singapore — Peter's worsening asthma caused the family to return to the United States from Singapore in 1968. Dr. Ewing now is a visiting professor at the Hama School of Theology in Springfield. Peter's near fatal attacks of asthma resulted in his coming to Denver early this month as a patient in a new section of Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital (CARIH), the largest such facility in the Western Hemisphere.

The airtight plethysmograph helps determine just how severely lung function has been impaired, said Dr. Hyman Chai, director of hospital services.

Confined in the chamber with its fixed volume of air, the youngsters breathe through a device that feeds measurements of pressure and volume outside to a console, where readings permit quick calculation of lung function.

The device also is used by physicians to measure the effectiveness of therapy. "I can see whether what I'm doing is really working," said Dr. Chai. "We can't rely on the subjective reporting by the child."

'Say They Feel Fine'

"If they're planning to go bowling, they may be wheezing and still say they feel fine."

CARIH, with 165 beds, provides free treatment and care for children from throughout the United States who suffer from chronic and unmanageable asthma. Researchers here also are looking for the causes of asthma and other allergic diseases.

While nine of 10 children improve under medical supervision, it is estimated there are 300,000 children with severe constrictions of airways. CARIH estimates 80 per cent of the severely afflicted patients it treats either improve so that little medication is required or become asthma free. Virtually all the others improve enough to attend school regularly and participate in most normal childhood activities.

PROGRAMMER/ANALYSTS

Big 360 computers are coming to Monmouth County... so why commute!

Stay at the shore with INSCO — a new nationwide computer services organization that's made it so big we're building a multi-million dollar headquarters complex in NEPTUNE.

Our advance technical group is now in temporary quarters in ASBURY PARK. We have immediate need in ASBURY PARK for additional commercial programmer/analysts with a minimum of 6 months experience working with 360 COBOL and BAL under full O/S.

Our personnel and technical representatives plan to interview in ASBURY PARK in the near future.

To arrange for convenient day or evening interviews send a resume telling us about your education, work history and salary earnings. We are particularly interested in learning specifics of what you have done in the programming area.

TV COMMENT

Interview Puts Sirhan Closeup

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — The American public had its first real closeup look at Sirhan Sirhan, convicted assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in an interview with NBC news correspondent Jack Perkins, portions of which were broadcast on the network's "First Tuesday" program.

The slight, dark man, speaking with some accent, responded volubly, almost eagerly, to the newsmen's questions — up to the point when he was asked about the events immediately surrounding the shooting of the senator a year ago. Most of the time a half-smile played on his features.

Perkins reminded Sirhan of testimony that he had been drinking and looked around the Ambassador Hotel for some coffee. Sirhan agreed.

"I don't remember much that happened after that," he said.

Much of his talk was confusing since Sirhan repeatedly voiced his affection for Kennedy, his sorrow about his death and his inability to realize the man died at his hand.

The excerpts included in the two-hour news show were introduced by host Sander Vanocur who said the interview was conducted the day after Sirhan had been sentenced to death, had been arranged through the prisoner's counsel "for a fee."

Since the whole interview lasted some two hours and only about 18 minutes of it was shown, perhaps the continuity suffered by editing.

Shrewd Hold Back
NBC's monthly two-hour show competes, during its second half, with CBS's weekly news hour. Since the Sirhan interview was the high point of the program, NBC shrewdly held it for that last portion.

The first hour was filled with features that seemed long and drawn out. There was an inspection of some high school and college students interested in witchcraft and the occult, including one stagy-looking sequence showing some teenage girls holding a seance during a slumber party.

It was followed by a segment showing the less than affluent life on a small tropical island in Micronesia, followed by some material on Guam.

There was also a long feature on a smoking clinic, long on exhortation on the evils of cigarettes and testimonials by the participants but no help to any viewers who wanted to quit. There was a short and interesting bit, later in the program on a fairly successful voluntary sterilization program in overpopulated India.

Dryly Cynical
There may be some complaints from California after Arthur Miller, the playwright, read a "collage" of thoughts assembled during a tour of the state. Most of his impressions, illustrated as he spoke, were dryly cynical.

Some examples: "California is Christianity plus all the conveniences" illustrated by services at a drive in church. "Tragedy is when you lose your boat."

"Society is when people listen to classical music."

"Progress is anything that turns itself on and off."

The total impression was so rough that Vanocur appeared with a postscript stating that Miller had said that his observations were not meant to apply to California exclusively.

O'Shea Is Really A Lawman Now

By BOB THOMAS
THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Recently a burglary suspect peered into the face of the investigating detective and inquired, "Say—aren't you that actor on TV?"

"Nah, I just look like him," said the detective, and he continued his interrogation.

He turned to acting on the Broadway stage and then in films, but his ambition to be a cop never died. One night he met the Los Angeles County sheriff at a party and told him of his offstage interest.

The next day the actor was sworn in as a deputy, and he put in duty in the tough Firestone and East Los Angeles districts.

During his television series, O'Shea had dropped 40 pounds from his previous 178, presumably from overwork. But his health worsened, and doctors found a lump over his heart they believed to be cancer. Later it proved to be a distended aorta which O'Shea was caused by a rodeo spill. An operation cured the condition and also remedied four ulcers and two hernias, but left him permanently slim.

Outstanding Ratings Given

FT. MONMOUTH — Outstanding performance ratings were awarded to three employees of the U.S. Army Satellite Communications (SATCOM) Agency by the commanding officer, Col. George E. Rippey. The awards were presented to Mary A. Ganson, Laura Howard and Michael O'Donnell.

Mrs. Ganson is the secretary to the Director of Operations Analysis. She and her husband Charles and three sons live at 115 Martin Drive, Lincolnton.

Mrs. Howard is secretary to the commander. She and her husband, Wesley, live at 9 Bernard St., Eatontown.

Mr. O'Donnell is assigned to the Programs Directorate of the Agency. He and his wife Carol live at 3 Tamarack Drive, Englishtown.

"ASTRO-GUIDE" By Ceean

Thursday, June 5

Present—For You and Yours . . . Afternoon hours are most favorably aspected portion of day. Concentrate on work you can finish by day's end because things left over are apt to prove burdensome. Avoid extreme ideas as they are not likely to prove practical. Some emotional tension enters the picture around dinner time.

The Day Under Your Sign

Aries, Born Mar. 21 to Apr. 19
Energy and enthusiasm are valuable assets. Good time to go after what you want.

Taurus, April 20 to May 20
Good time to promote a pet project, particularly some sort of group activity.

Gemini, May 21 to June 21
Proceed with confidence, but avoid appearing aggressive as this could hinder you.

Cancer, June 22 to July 21
There may be an opportunity for you to take some action that enhances your prestige.

Leo, July 22 to Aug. 21
You may have to put a check-rein on your emotions if you run into irritating situation at home.

Virgo, Aug. 22 to Sept. 22
Emphasis is on conservative action. Some financial reward may come as big surprise.

Libra, Sept. 23 to Oct. 22
Be sure to take your partner into your confidence regarding business matter.

Scorpio, Oct. 23 to Nov. 21
There should be some good breaks for you. If you are single, this could mean romance.

Sagittarius, Nov. 22 to Dec. 21

Capricorn, Dec. 22 to Jan. 20
Benefit through others' actions. Act on a hunch. Outcome will be favorable, suggest radiations.

Aquarius, Jan. 21 to Feb. 19
You can impress those with whom you come in contact. Pay particular attention to appearance.

Pisces, Feb. 20 to March 20
Take care of obligations before spending money on frivolity. Home repairs should have first call.

Plan Vacations Again For Ghetto Children

LINCROFT — Donald Van Dyke of 178 Parkway Ter., vice president of New Jersey Neighbors, announces the non-profit organization is again sponsoring summer vacations for youngsters from ghetto areas of Newark.

According to Mr. Van Dyke, who also serves as the project's Monmouth County chairman, "Host families who are willing to reach across the barriers of economy, race and religion are needed to continue the program. Assistance is also being sought in recruiting host families and securing donations, which are tax-deductible."

New Jersey Neighbors has tried to accommodate the greatest number of children by establishing three two-week periods for summer visits, beginning June 28.

Bridge Advice

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The traditional lead against a notrump contract is the fourth-highest card in your longest and strongest suit. This practice permits other players to draw inferences about the nature of your hand.

West opened the deuce of spades, and South immediately assumed that West had led from a four-card suit. Sometimes a player has a card lower than his lead, a fifth-best card, but the leader cannot have a card lower than the deuce.

South confirmed the spade position by refusing East's queen and then the king. East continued with a low spade, and South won. Now it was clear that West had led from a four-card spade suit headed by the jack.

This information became important when declarer then began to run his heart tricks and discovered that West had started with only one heart. Oddly enough, the fact that West was known to have four spades and one heart in his original hand told South how to play the diamonds.

Since North and South had bid only notrump, West could have no reason to avoid leading a suit. He would surely lead his best suit, which ever it happened to be. If he had a five-card suit he would open it in preference to leading from a four-card suit. In other words, West could not have five diamonds or five clubs since he had chosen to open from a four-card spade suit.

South knew that West had started with eight cards in clubs and diamonds com-

To play the diamonds cor-

Answer: Bid two clubs, the partner to show a major suit of four or more cards. If partner bids two hearts, you will raise to four hearts; and if he bids two diamonds you can afford to bid two hearts.

But if partner bids two not quite strong enough for a bid of three hearts.

103,018 Young People Visited Center in May

HOLMDEL — More than 100,000 New Jersey youngsters attended the special series of Young People's Concerts at the Garden State Arts Center last month.

When the curtain went down Thursday afternoon on the final of the 31 free performances arranged in May, the total attendance including teachers and school aides added up to 103,018.

The special series was sponsored by the Garden State Arts Center Fund, which the New Jersey Highway Authority established last year to receive contributions for such young people's activities.

An added attraction for the benefit of the fund is scheduled at the Arts Center Friday, when Mater Dei High School of New Monmouth presents its own production of the famed musical "The King and I." The special performance starts at 8 p.m.

The authority, through its Arts Center Fund, is also planning special daytime performances this summer — as last year — for youngsters from disadvantaged areas of the state. The arts center's regular season starts June 12.

Three Plays For Youngsters

MIDDLETOWN — The Middletown Township High School Children's Theater will present morning and afternoon performances for elementary school pupils today, tomorrow and Friday. Plays will include "Mr. Popper's Penguin," "Hansel and Gretel" and "Pippi Longstocking."

Participating in the theater, now in its sixth year, are students who are taking various elective English department courses. Miss Norma Montemuro is department head.

Creative writing classes, under the supervision of Mrs. Victoria Taylor, write scripts and song lyrics for the productions. Drama classes, taught by Mrs. Jan Theorin and Mrs. Catherine Stansbury, provide casts for the shows. Mrs. Theorin's play production students handle make-up and costumes, while Mrs. Dianne Krahert's stagecraft classes are in charge of sets, lighting and technical direction.

Elementary children attending the programs learn songs from the plays in advance. Youngsters are greeted at the high school by clowns who distribute programs.

Decline Pattern Clings to Street

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market stuck to its now familiar declining pattern yesterday. Trading was fairly active.

The market has been sliding since the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials reached its 1969 high of 968.85 May 14. This average took a loss of 2.39 yesterday closing at 930.78.

Analysts said the two persistent main aggravations — tight money and lack of progress toward ending the Vietnam war — continued to make investors cautious.

They said this attitude probably would persist until after President Nixon's meeting with South Vietnam President Thieu next Sunday, and until it is determined whether interest rates are going up again.

The market closed at its lowest level of the session

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — My husband buys shares of Litton Industries through a company plan. We know nothing about stocks and wonder if we should hold the shares.—W.R.

A — Because your husband is buying stock through an employee profit-sharing plan, he undoubtedly enjoys some advantage either through reduction of share price or from company matched contributions.

At recent sharply oversold levels, Litton shares are an attractive long-term commitment. A strong earnings up-trend was interrupted in the '67-'68 fiscal year, precipitating a sell-off last year. More recent weakness reflects less-than-expected recovery in earnings for second quarter and the Justice Department's investigation of conglomerate companies.

For fiscal 1969, ending July, estimates of $2.50 a share seem within reason. On that basis, shares trading at 21x are at an historically low multiple and, in relation to Litton's long-term prospects, a good buy.

Q — I have investments paying dividends in every month but February, May, August and November. What blue-chip issues pay dividends in these months — R.H.

A — More than I would be willing to list here. Five stocks that pay in the months you mention which are well worth your consideration are: Cincinnati Gas & Electric, Consolidated Natural Gas, Diamond International, Marshall Field and Siera Pacific Power. The first two stocks yield over 5 per cent, the latter three under 4 per cent.

Q — Can anyone sell at any time through their broker these bonds: N.Y. Telephone 7 1/8 of 2009 and Public Service Electric & Gas 7% of 1990? What possible loss might one have to take in selling?—L.R.

A — Yes, both issues are salable in the open bond market. Most recent quotes were at a premium, thereby lowering yield to maturity closer to 7 per cent. However, if interest rates continue to climb, the price of these 7 1/8 per cent and 7% per cent bonds would decline, since a drying up of demand would force their prices down to a level where the yield was more nearly in line with current rates. If, however, these bonds were held until redemption, there would be no loss of capital.
