Psychiatrist recommends dual custody of Baby M

By BOB NEFF
The Register

HACKENSACK — Two couples fighting over the child born of a surrogacy contract should be awarded joint custody of the 11-month-old girl, said a psychiatrist whose testimony later was challenged as biased.

Under cross-examination yesterday, it was learned that Dr. Harold S. Koplewicz interned in New York with one of the wives, and her attorney suggested his testimony was slanted against his former colleague.

Koplewicz yesterday acknowledged that he was once turned in to his superiors for returning late from a vacation by Dr. Elizabeth Stern, who with her husband, William, hired Mary Beth Whitehead to bear the child.

But he denied that the 1979 incident while both were interns at Columbia University Medical Center, New York, would color his testimony against Dr. Stern.

"It was only a professional relationship for one year," the chief of child psychiatry at Long Island Jewish Medical Center testified yesterday. "I haven't seen her since 1979."

Of the fact that Dr. Stern turned him in for returning late, he told Stern attorney Francis J. Donahue: "I didn't know that until you told me. Everybody was pretty mad at me at the time."

Retained to testify by Mrs. Whitehead's attorneys, Koplewicz is the first expert in the unprecedented custody dispute to recommend joint custody as best for Baby M.

The trial, stemming from Mrs. Whitehead's refusal to relinquish her rights to the child as called for in the surrogacy contract, may conclude this week before Superior Court Judge Harvey R. Sorkow.

The judge's ruling, expected around the time of Baby M's first birthday on March 27, is to be the first in the country on the enforceability of a surrogacy contract.

Koplewicz yesterday said under direct questioning by Randolph H. Wolf, a Red Bank attorney representing Mrs. Whitehead, that none of the adults involved in the litigation suffers from a personality disorder.

The Whiteheads offer a large, loving family, and the Sterns offer financial security and educational benefits; joint custody should be awarded, Koplewicz said, to afford Baby M "the best of both worlds."

Additionally, chances that the child will suffer psychologically later in life would increase if she were denied the company of either of her biological parents, Koplewicz said.

By artificial insemination, Stern is the baby's natural father. All of the adults, Koplewicz said, show a strong attachment to the child, but each exhibits some drawbacks as a parent.

The Sterns, he said, are educated and relatively well-off; against the Sterns, he said, are Stern's unrealistic view of Baby M's future and Dr. Stern's "all-or-nothing attitude" about the child.

Dr. Stern believes that one couple should be awarded custody of the child and the other denied all visiting privileges, to the detriment of Baby M, Koplewicz said.

Low salaries may keep out new recruits

By KEVIN FRECHETTE

UNION BEACH — A lack of financial incentive could be discouraging qualified recruits from joining the Police Department here, local law enforcers said yesterday.

Despite a recent pay hike, borough police officers are paid an average of $6,000 less than officers working for neighboring municipalities, said Union Beach Detective Joseph Nappi, president of the local Policemen's Benevolent Association.

Nappi, who has been employed with the department for the past 19 years, said he earns $23,688 annually, about the same as a starting patrolman in Hazlet and other surrounding communities. Starting officers in Union Beach receive $17,631 annually, he added.

The pay disparity for Union Beach police officers is making it difficult for the department to retain experienced veterans and attract qualified recruits, Nappi said.

Recently, two new officers trained by the borough accepted jobs with neighboring municipalities because of the pay differential.

The Borough Council last week settled a year-long dispute with the department's 13 PBA members by approving a three-year contract granting officers an annual pay increase of 8 percent.

The contract was approved by a 3-1 vote with one abstention.

Councilman John J. Keating, who voted against the package, argued that the increase was "inflationary" and said "taxpayers should be so lucky to get the money they (police) get."

"We're satisfied with the contract," Nappi said, "But we're not that satisfied. We're still paid about $6,000 or ABERDEEN — Keeping his business open around the clock would increase the danger that night-shift workers would be robbed and possibly hurt, said a local service-station owner seeking help in his battle for the right to close at night.

An ordinance regulating operating hours of retail businesses was introduced by the Township Council last month at the urging of Norman Cella, owner of Cella's Amoco station on Route 34 near South Atlantic Avenue. Cella,

Bar owner denies beating death link

KEANSBURG — A local bar owner yesterday denied allegations that three residents charged in the beating death of a Navy sailor were at his bar prior to the incident.

Wayne King, owner of the Wagon Wheel Bar, Seabreeze Way, said neither the three suspects nor the victim, Navy Seaman Loye James Stillabower, were drinking at the bar prior to a fight Friday night outside the tavern.

Earlier this week, Monmouth County Prosecutor John A. Kaye said the suspects — two men and one woman — left the bar with Stillabower and another Navy seaman, Arthur Becker, when a fight broke out between Stillabower and one suspect, James Rozzo.

Kaye had said the two other suspects, along with Rozzo, began kicking and beating Stillabower after the Indiana resident had been knocked to the ground.

Stillabower, who was pronounced dead Sunday at Riverview Medical Center in Red Bank, suffered a fractured skull and died of cerebral hemorrhaging, according to an autopsy performed by the Monmouth County Medical Examiner's Office.

Becker reportedly suffered only minor injuries in the fight.

Sea Bright, developer squabble over rebuilding of club

By STEPHANIE GLUCKMAN
The Register

SEA BRIGHT — Anger and confusion have clouded relations between city officials and a developer who wants to build a "condo-tel" on the site of the arson-decimated Peninsula House.

The situation has set the Borough Council at odds with the Zoning Board of Adjustment, and has left the fate of the former landmark site up in the air.

The council is angry with the zoners for their recent approval of 24 condominium hotel rooms, a restaurant and cabana club for the oceanfront site. Council members want a traditional 64-room hotel there, and are afraid the 24-units will be occupied year-round as conventional condominium residential units.

They claim that Sea Bright would appear irresponsible in the eyes of government officials who hold shore protection purse strings if residential units are permitted east of Ocean Avenue. Moreover, they say a hotel is what Sea Bright needs. At their last two meetings, council members have lambasted the zoning board for its vote of approval.

Moreover, council members may well review the zoners' decision and could use their powers to overturn it.

One resident, Robert Redfield, announced yesterday that he plans to file a written objection to the zoning decision with the council. Council members said if they receive such a written objection, they are obliged by law to review the zoners' decision and will have the power to overturn it if they choose to do so.

Meanwhile, council members have told officials from Yacenda Enterprises, owner of the Peninsula House property, that they want the firm to challenge the state's preliminary rejection of a 64-room hotel plan favored by the council. That plan was also approved by the zoners, but informally rejected by the state Department of Environmental Protection under the Coastal Area Facilities Review Act.

Council members said recently they do not want Peninsula House to have the alternative of building the 24 units, because that will make Yacenda Enterprises less motivated to challenge CAFRA's jurisdiction over the Peninsula House. Council members indicated that they believe DEP may not have jurisdiction over the project, because even though CAFRA applies to new construction of 25 or more residential units, Yacenda wants to rebuild what was there before the fire. Rebuilding, council members claim, is not the same as new building.

However, Yacenda Enterprises refuses to challenge CAFRA until it is sure there will be no obstacles to the 24-unit project. If they challenge CAFRA to build 64 rooms and lose, they

The start of a downhill trend

NEW YORK — NBC has not said if it will renew "Hill Street Blues" for another season, but series star Daniel J. Travanti said yesterday he will not be back.

"I have no doubt in my heart that I want to go. Seven years are enough," Travanti said in a telephone interview from Los Angeles. "They were enough for Mary Tyler Moore, too, and they were riding high.

Travanti, who was a little known stage actor when he landed the part of Capt. Frank Furillo, said he will make a feature film this summer with Faye Dunaway in Florida, then appear on stage for the first time in 10 years at Massachusetts theater festival.

"Hill Street" attracted critical attention when it debuted mid-season in January 1981 but got low ratings. NBC kept it on the air and gained a reputation for sticking with "quality" programs. Eventually NBC rose to No. 1 in the ratings, and Grant Tinker, head of MTM Productions which produces "Hill Street," became the network's president.

Well, can she sing?

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — The father of the Arkansas contestant in the Miss USA Pageant says a joke Johnny Carson made on the "Tonight Show" insulted not only his daughter but her whole state.

Donald Ray Smeltzer, of Smackover, father of Sheri Smeltzer, 23, said Monday that Carson joked Feb. 17 he wanted to watch the Miss USA Pageant because he heard that Miss Arkansas had an outstanding talent.

He said Carson quipped that Miss Arkansas, whom he didn't name, could play the piano and sing "God Bless America" while molding a mayonnaise image of Michael Landon.

Smeltzer said he believes Carson didn't have his daughter specifically in mind when he made the joke, but that it wrongly portrayed her and all Arkansans as hicks.

Smeltzer said he wrote to Carson, and sent tapes of his daughter performing and urged him to have her on his show, but has had no response.

'She's quite a character'

NEW YORK — Woody Allen attributes the career success of his companion Mia Farrow to her character-acting abilities.

"She goes home, she learns her lines, she assumes accents, physical traits, every aspect of the character. And once you know she can do this, it opens up any number of possibilities," he said.

Miss Farrow, whose roles in Allen's films have ranged from a psychiatrist in "Zelig" to a cigarette girl in "Radio Days," says she enjoys playing character parts.

"Many people prefer being personalities. Someone like John Wayne did a million films playing the same role and he was always terrific. I'm not like that. I just feel more at home acting a character," she says in an interview in the March issue of American Film magazine.

Mrs. Reagan and leeches?!

WASHINGTON — More than a few years have passed since Nancy Reagan had to put up with leeches, brush her teeth with salt and swim in cold water, but she says she remembers those summer camp experiences fondly.

"I went to camp and I absolutely adored it. I loved it," Mrs. Reagan said Monday in a speech to 1,700 delegates at the Second International Camping Congress.

"I'm one of you," Mrs. Reagan declared as she reminisced about her experiences as a camper at Camp Kechuwa in Michigan.

Camping is valuable because it develops children's self-esteem, Mrs. Reagan said. "I believe self-esteem gives children the strength to cope, not just with avoiding drugs or alcohol, but with life itself.

Mom and daughter are united duo

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The Judds, an award-winning mother-daughter country music duo, were named honorary co-chairwomen Tuesday of an area United Way campaign.

Mother Naomi and daughter Wynonna will narrate a United Way film, do public service announcements and perform at a July 1 concert at the Grand Ole Opry House honoring those who donate between $1,000 and $10,000 to United Way in Middle Tennessee.

The duo won a Grammy Award last week for their hit, "Grandpa (Tell Me 'Bout the Good Ole Days)."

Pia Zadora and daughter Kady: welcome baby brother Kristofer

Pia a mom again

NEW YORK — Singer-actress Pia Zadora is doing just fine after the birth of her second child, a spokeswoman said yesterday.

Miss Zadora, wife of businessman Meshulam Riklis, delivered a son, 6-pound 6½-ounce Kristofer Barzie Riklis, on Monday night at Lenox Hill Hospital, said spokeswoman Robin Miller.

Miss Zadora and Riklis also have a daughter, 2-year-old Kady.

Miss Zadora's manager, Tino Barzie, said "This is exactly what she'd hoped and prayed for — a boy and a girl."

The couple promised to name their son for Barzie after he jokingly told them his name would likely die because his son had two daughters and his daughter had two sons, Barzie said.

"It keeps the Barzie name alive and I'm delighted," Barzie said. "I think it's very, very nice of them."

Barzie said Miss Zadora would resume her singing career with 10 one-night stands in Florida beginning March 26.

They must be doing something right

LOS ANGELES — After 15 years, 3,112 shows and more than $65 million in cash and prizes, Bob Barker has no trouble explaining why "The Price Is Right" became the longest-running network television game show.

"I think that one of the reasons for the show's longevity is that we play so many different games. If you watch a show there comes a time when you've had enough of it. On 'The Price Is Right,' if you don't like what we're doing you only have to wait a few minutes and we'll be doing a completely different game," Barker said.

A show taped Monday and scheduled for broadcast on March 27 broke the single-network longevity record set by "Concentration," which ran on NBC from July 1958 to March 1973.

"The Price Is Right" had earlier incarnations with other hosts on other networks, but Barker has been host since it began its daytime run on CBS.

Prizes include automobiles, boats, appliances but no furs, said Barker, who is active in the animal rights movement. He threatened to quit last month as host of the Miss USA beauty pageant until the producers agreed to have the contestants wear fake furs.

Bulletin Board

■ ART AUCTION — An Art Auction is being held by Middletown Village PFA at Middletown Village School, 145 Kings Highway on Friday, March 6. The auction will include a large selection of lithographs, etchings, engravings, watercolors and oils.

Preview is at 7:00 p.m. and the auction will begin at 8:00 p.m. Admission is $3.00 per person in advance and $4.00 at the door. This includes a free lithograph for each couple or single attending and refreshments.

For advance ticket sales or further information please contact Debbie Schmidt 957-0423 or Pat Walker 671-6789.

■ RED BANK — On Fri., March 6, "Help Yourself to Better Breathing" will be offered at Riverview Medical Center at 6:30 p.m. in the Blaisdell Center for Health Resources. This six-part self-management series is for individuals with respiratory disease and their families. For more information, call the Consumer Health Education Department at 530-2417.

Traffic Watch

■ EXIT RAMP CLOSED — Due to construction, the Garden State Parkway Exit Ramp 100A from the southbound Parkway to Route 66 West in Tinton Falls is closed to all traffic, according to the New Jersey Highway Authority. The ramp will be closed for about one month during which time motorists are urged to use Exit 100B and follow detour signs to Route 66 West.

The Authority operates the 173-mile Garden State Parkway and the Garden State Arts Center in Holmdel.

■ CONSTRUCTION — The New Jersey Turnpike Authority has been informed by the New Jersey Department of Transportation (DOT) of construction activity on Route 1 and 9 (truck route) at the Passaic River Crossing Bridge which will close one lane in each direction through November 20.

These lane closures are sure to adversely effect traffic flow in the surrounding area including anticipated delays at Turnpike Exit 15E.

Depending upon motorists' destinations, preplanning of alternate routes, especially during rush hours, is seriously recommended.

HUD ponders seniors' rent increase

By KENNY TRAINOR
The Register

HAZLET — The department of Housing and Urban Development is expected to make a final decision this week on a proposed 15 percent rent increase at the Middle Road Village senior citizens project.

Preliminary approval of the increase has already been given by the New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Finance Agency, but Hazlet officials have expressed concern over the way the complex owners, CIB International, have applied for the increase.

If approved, the base rent for a one-bedroom apartment at Middle Road Village would increase to $253, up from $220.

"As township officials, they should have given us notice and given us copies of the budget," said Mayor Henry Pekarsky.

Pekarsky said he has written CIB to object about not being sent a copy of the budget, and that the township may present objections to the rent hike once it has an opportunity to review the proposal.

"I plan on going through it thoroughly," said Pekarsky. "I just got a copy of it last week."

Deborah Donofrio, a CIB vice president, said the increase is necessary to meet skyrocketing insurance costs and to make needed repairs on the building.

"Our insurance has almost tripled," said Donofrio. "Our income has been the same for the past five years. It's getting to the point where we'd be operating at a deficit."

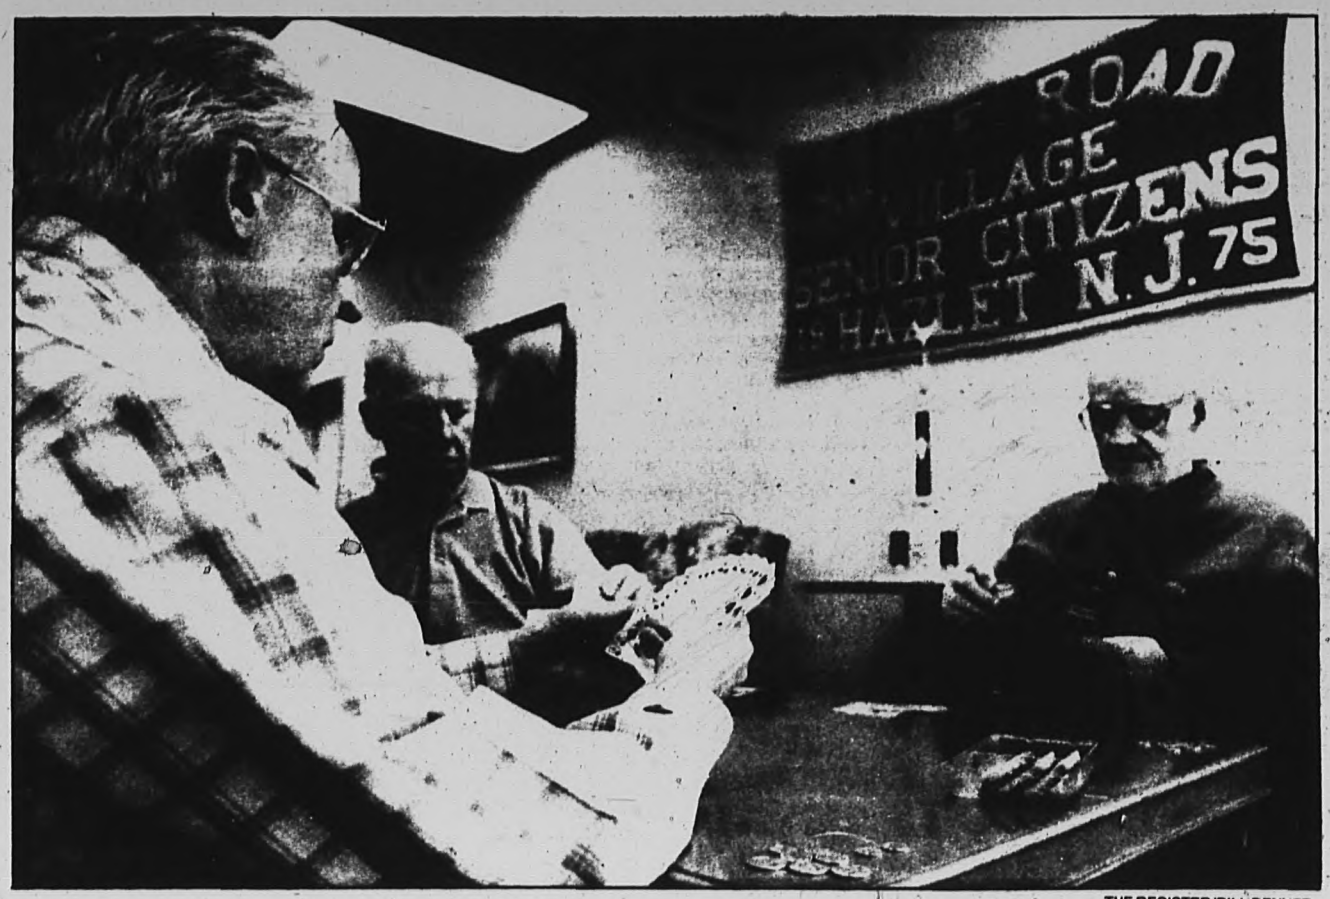

Rose Chuva, a member of the township senior citizen advisory committee, said last night that "Ms. Donofrio has been very helpful" in addressing problems at the complex.

Chuva agreed that there's a need to make repairs in the roof, particularly if such improvements would cut down on electric heating costs.

"The big concern of the seniors is the electric costs," said Chuva. "The electric bills are tremendously high."

CIB built the complex in 1974 with funding from the New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Finance Authority and has managed it ever since. Chuva said the firm has basically done a good job with few complaints.

"The township is sort of a watchdog to see that things go all right," said Chuva.

Services board seeks help in nursing homes

FREEHOLD — Men, women and teen-agers with patience and a willingness to share some time with nursing home residents are urgently needed by the Monmouth County Board of Social Services for its Volunteers in Public Service program, agency officials said.

Nursing home volunteers recruited by the board are trained and placed in 17 nursing homes throughout the county. The need for volunteers is especially critical at Eatontown Convalescent Center, Hazlet Manor and Monmouth Convalescent Center, Long Branch.

Volunteers work in a variety of areas, but Coordinator of Volunteers Ann Lynch said the most important aspect of the program is the one-to-one contact that a volunteer brings to a resident.

To physically frail and lonely people, having a volunteer who is interested and patient is like infusing new life, Lynch said. Volunteers report their own lives are enriched by participating in the program, she said.

By assisting with recreation programs, volunteers expand the number and variety of programs available to residents. Sometimes, a personal interest or talent can develop into an entire new program.

Some of the programs in which volunteers assist are wheelchair bowling, sing-alongs, arts and crafts, fun and fitness, reading with discussions, checkers, chess games and bingo.

Volunteers require no special backgrounds, just the willingness to give a few hours a week, days, evenings or weekends to brighten the lives of the elderly or young disabled, Lynch said.

Orientation and on-the-job training is given to each volunteer. Periodic workshops are sponsored to give ongoing support and guidance to volunteers. A training session is planned for April 8 at Brookdale Community College.

Topics to be discussed include the aged in an institutional setting; remotivating the chronically ill resident; identifying social, intellectual, spiritual and creative needs of residents; the challenger role of a volunteer; and problem solving.

Those interested in attending the training session or wishing more information should contact Lynch at Volunteers in Public Service, Monmouth County Board of Social Services, P.O. Box 3000, Freehold, 07728, or call 431-6185.

Little Silver disabled laws are approved

LITTLE SILVER — The Borough Council withdrew the handicapped ordinance it passed last month Monday night but immediately replaced it with two new ordinances designed to serve the same purpose.

Borough Attorney Chester Apy said the original handicapped ordinance overlapped an older law regulating commercial development in the borough. The council revoked the ordinance, then amended the older ordinance to govern the number and size of parking spaces set aside for the handicapped in shopping centers and municipal land and providing for dropped curbs and other amenities for the disabled. The council also passed a second ordinance setting fines for illegal parking in handicapped spaces.

Apy said the ordinance will apply to new commercial developments, not existing buildings. He said that owners of existing properties can request that the borough police enforce their handicapped parking.

The council intends to go to commercial property owners and ask them to request borough enforcement, Apy added. He noted that parking at the A&P shopping center on Prospect Avenue is under municipal jurisdiction but that other commercial developments here are not.

In another matter, Apy said that the borough won a lawsuit brought against it last September by an emergency-vehicle dealer who sought to force the council to accept its bid for a new ambulance.

Apy said that Judge Larry Stamelman of Superior Court in Freehold ruled that the borough did not have to accept the bid of R.A. Gregory Associates.

Kean voices opposition

Compromise-laden school intervention bill vote likely

TRENTON — The school intervention bill is likely to be posted again for an Assembly vote tomorrow, as last-minute compromises are being worked out to make the bill acceptable.

The controversial bill, sponsored by Assemblyman Joseph Palaia, R-Monmouth, would give the state the right to step in and take a school district away from its board of education and superintendent of schools if the district fails to give its students a quality education.

"Drastic situations sometime require drastic action," said Palaia.

The bill has met with staunch opposition from the New Jersey Education Association and the New Jersey School Boards Association, who dislike the bill because it would give the superintendents the right to remove principals and take all authority away from local school boards.

Gov. Thomas H. Kean, however, has said that he would not support the bills if they took away the state's ability to step in and correct the situation.

Palaia said he is trying to work out a compromise to have the bills meet with the approval of the two school associations, but also not weaken enough that it would lose the backing of Kean.

One compromise concerns the removal of any principal that a state-appointed superintendent feels is unfit. Under the compromise, which will be offered as an amendment to the bill during the session day Thursday, the principals will be given a longer evaluation time. Under the amendment, the state-appointed superintendent must evaluate the principal's performance for a period of at least 12 months, for a maximum of 24 months.

Palaia said he is also trying to work out a compromise concerning the removal of the elected school board. The governor is said to oppose a potential compromise, which would allow the school board to remain as an advisory body without any power. Under the bill, the school board is immediately removed, although up to two members may be appointed as members of the state-appointed superintendent's advisory council.

The rest of the bill would remain fairly intact. The bill calls for the state to monitor a school district for three years. If the district fails for three consecutive years to meet the state guidelines for 51 different criteria, the state would then step in and take over the district.

By "stepping in," the state would fire the local superintendent of schools, the school business administrator, the personnel manager and curriculum director. The state would also relieve the local school board of all responsibility for the district.

Palaia said the bills were necessary for passage because it gives the Commissioner of Education the power of removal in a law, and that would eliminate the possibility that the removal of the local school officials could be delayed in the courts.

No Monmouth County municipality is in danger of having the state take over its district, although Asbury Park has failed to meet the 51 criteria for the last three years. However, a state Department of Education spokemsan saidthat Asbury Park was expected to meet the criteria this year, thus avoiding the possibility that the state would step in and take over the district.

Shrewsbury may vote on school bonds

Repairs to facility focus of proposal facing April 7 test

SHREWSBURY — Borough residents may get to vote on a proposal to issue $950,000 in bonds for repairs to the Shrewsbury Borough School April 7.

The proposal which was approved 8-0 by the board Feb. 10, was resubmitted for a vote "because of some legal changes in the wording of the original proposal," according to a board official who asked to remain anonymous.

As of press time, the board had not voted on the proposal.

If approved by the public during the April 7 school board elections, the proposal would provide funds for repairs and renovation to the school ranging from the purchase of screens for windows to the installation of a new roof.

The proposal to improve and upgrade the school started as a long-range plan in 1984 by a committee of citizens, according to Richard Anderson Jr., chairman of the Building and Grounds Committee.

Some other improvements included in the plan are: repair and expansion of the parking lot and sidewalks; the replacement of all interior and exterior lighting; renovation of the gym, including replacing the gym floor and installing new bleachers; the purchase of a new tractor, new student desks, chairs, bookcases, office equipment and new classroom computers to replace the old ones; and general improvements to the building.

Rebuilding

want to be able to fall back on the 24 units, according to the firm's director of operations for restaurant management, Gary Germain.

Germain said his firm would be losing thousands of dollars in revenue per day by building 24 units instead of 64, and so would rather build the large hotel. But 24 units are better than none, he said.

He said the reason he wants the hotel suites to be sold as condominiums or leased to corporations on an annual basis is to ensure a return on Yacenda's investment. If the hotel rooms are rented on a daily basis, slow business could make the project a financial flop, he claimed.

"I want to know as an owner of a piece of property that I'm not going to lose my shirt more than I already have."

Germain said he has promised the council to challenge CAFRA after the 24-unit plan is secure. Germain said he does not know at what point the project will be secure. It could be when the foundation is built, or at the very least, when the zoning board memorializes its approval by voting on a routine final resolution.

Zoning board Chairman Gregory Harquail said last night that it has not been decided whether the resolution will be on the board's next meeting, scheduled for March 23. As for how the board plans to vote, he said, "We'll just have to see."

Meanwhile, the council is negotiating with Yacenda Enterprises to settle a lawsuit the council filed against the zoners a few years ago to overturn the zoners' approval of 19 condominiums for the site. Council members have indicated that if they can get Yacenda to make some compromises on the 24-unit plan, they may drop the suit against the 19 units.

Council members have claimed the 24-unit plan is a thinly veiled version of the 19-unit plan. Calling units that have two bedrooms, a living room, two baths and kitchen facilities "hotel suites" is ridiculous, they maintained.

Yesterday, council members told their attorney, Peter Falvo, that they want Yacenda Enterprises to guarantee that the suites will not be resold as year-round residences, and that they will be available on a daily rental basis to the public during the bathing season.

Germain claimed yesterday that Yacenda has been trying to negotiate an agreement with the borough as to the amount of time the units will be available for daily rental. He said whoever buys the units will be required to adhere to whatever agreement — if any — Yacenda reaches with the council. He also claimed that just because each unit will be separately owned doesn't mean that the development won't look like a hotel. With a common front desk and restaurant, the project will be virtually indistinguishable from a hotel, he said.

The 24-unit plan is actually the third the zoners have approved for the same site, the other two being the 64-room hotel and the 19 condominiums. When the council, siting a borough ordinance barring residential construction east of Ocean Avenue, sued the zoners to overturn the 19-unit approval, the Peninsula House owners tried for the 64-room hotel.

They planned to build a new wing with 24 units, and put the other 40 in the old building, thereby avoiding CAFRA. When the old building burned in October, their plans became subject to CAFRA review because all 64 units would be new. After CAFRA nixed the plan, Yacenda came out with the condo-tel proposal.

On the other hand, the Whiteheads offer a large, extended family and experience raising children, Koplewicz said. Not in their favor, he said, are their financial instability and Richard Whitehead's alcoholism.

Additionally, said the psychiatrist, Mrs. Whitehead on several occasions has shown an inability to evaluate situations "in an optimal manner," including her involvement in the surrogacy arrangement.

Joint custody, Koplewicz said, "would maximize the gain and minimize the loss."

In making the recommendation, Koplewicz said that Baby M may feel "tremendous rage" at a parent who was denied custody or visitation, putting her at risk of feelings of "hopelessness and helplessness."

He recommended that the parents undergo counseling in order to "get it together" to face the prospect of joint custody.

If Dr. Stern were unable to face joint custody, Koplewicz said, then the Whiteheads should be awarded the child and Stern permitted only minimal visitation time.

The psychiatrist, who interviewed everyone involved for up to three hours, said he based his recommendations on the interviews and on several published medical reports.

A smiling Baby M is handed over to her biological father, William Stern, by an attendant in Hackensack yesterday. The infant had had one of her twice-weekly visits with her mother, Mary Beth Whitehead.

Chief counsel for the Sterns, Newark attorney Gary N. Skoloff, outside the courtroom criticized the recommendation as the "worst possible solution."

"The post-judgment motions will never end," he said. "We have a rule in our firm never to close the file on a case where joint custody is awarded."

Donahue is to continue his cross-examination of Koplewicz this morning.

"I believe my report is unbiased," Koplewicz said. "Betsy was open and available during the interview."

"I believe he is being unprofessional," Dr. Stern, a pediatrician, said during a break in testimony.

Gas

companies are pressuring franchisees to begin 24-hour operation.

The ordinance would prohibit that by imposing closing hours of 11:30 p.m. to 6 a.m. on retail establishments except for such businesses as bars, restaurants, convenience stores and supermarkets.

The council held a public hearing on the measure at its meeting last night.

Cella's gas station reported three armed robberies over the last five months, including an October holdup in which $800 was stolen and a January incident resulting in the theft of $1,400. In the latter incident, Cella said, the attendant was handcuffed to a pole.

A fellow owner, Thurman Lamberth of Strathmore Texaco, said before the meeting that he joined with Cella in the battle because he also believes employees' safety would be threatened.

Amoco Eastern Real Estate Attorney Virginia E. Carlson said that the company is instituting procedures designed to keep attendants safe. Amoco stations that follow the procedure are equipped with bulletproof glass, bright lighting and alarm systems, often including a "panic button" worn by attendants that will alert police to a robbery in progress.

Stations also put incoming money in security safes, which Aberdeen resident and Amoco Territory Manager Ed Loud said Cella's attendants should have used.

Carlson said that Amoco is fighting closing-hour ordinances across the state, and that in this region, the company has won a case against Edison at the trial level.

Municipalities may be out of their jurisdiction in interfering with franchise contracts, she pointed out.

Councilman Richard Wolfe, also a lawyer, disagreed.

He and other councilmen approved Morachnick's motion that the matter be tabled until the March 17 meeting.

$7,000 less than everyone else."

Until recently, detectives with the borough were receiving salary increments similar to borough patrolmen, he added.

"We've just become a training ground for new recruits," said Union Beach Police Chief Michael J. Ennis, "and we're losing many good men to higher paying departments."

While borough officers reach maximum salary after three years — four years earlier than other departments — Ennis said many officers are discouraged from joining Union Beach because of the low starting salary.

Ennis said he anticipates future problems in the hiring of new officers unless salaries are increased to match those of neighboring departments.

Mayor Carmen Stoppiello yesterday said the situation is "costing taxpayers more in the long-run" since many new recruits, who are trained in the borough, eventually transfer to other departments.

"We then have to pay again to train more recruits and there's no guarantee that those officers aren't going to leave us," the mayor said.

To correct the problem, Stoppiello said he will propose increasing starting salaries for new officers to levels comparable with those in neighboring departments.

"I'm not saying we should match them but we should come close to it so that patrolmen who want to stay in Union Beach, who have been trained here, and who know the area, can stay," Stoppiello said.

incident, said employees and customers told him that none of those involved were drinking at the bar prior to fight.

The fight allegedly took place about a block from the bar on the opposite side of the street, he said.

King said law officers may have been confused about the location of the fight since police were summoned to the bar after employees there saw Becker calling for help.

Rozzo, 20, of 16 Bonafede Court, and Joseph Boettinger, 21, of 30 Seabreeze Way, were being held at the Monmouth County Jail last night in lieu of $150,000 bail each. Both have been charged with murder and aggravated assault.

Also held in the incident is Vera Antonucci, 19, of 28 Seabreeze Way, who has been charged with aggravated assault with a weapon. She also was being held at county jail in lieu of $150,000 bail.

The murder is under investigation by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office Major Crimes Unit and the Keansburg Police Department.

Little Silver store owner wants fence

LITTLE SILVER — The owner of a health food shop here says he want to erect a fence to end his parking feud with the shop's next-door neighbor, a 7-Eleven store.

Arthur Edell, owner of the Healthfair Vitamin Center, 625 Branch Ave., told the Planning Board last night that truck drivers visiting the 7-Eleven each morning frequently block his parking area with their big rigs. His complaints to Southland Corp., owner of the store, and to the 7-Eleven's managers have been in vain, he claimed.

Edell said he wants to erect a 3-foot fence with a guard rail to discourage the truck drivers. The board did not rule on the request, however, because Edell must first file an amended site plan showing the location of the proposed fence.

In another matter, the board approved the subdivision of a residential property on Conover Place and Silverside Avenue, paving the way for the property's conversion to commercial use by the joint owners, George Koffenberg and Ronald Zanetich.

Northside Fire Company truck approved

TINTON FALLS — After a year of debate, argument and gavel banging, the borough council finally approved a new fire truck for the Northside Fire Company.

In a 3-1 vote, the council approved a bid from Seagrave Fire Apparatus, Inc., for a 75-foot Quint fire truck.

The Northside fire company submitted a bid for a new fire truck a year ago. The bid for this particular truck, which has a 1500-gallon-per-minute pumping capacity, and a 75-foot ladder, was submitted in November.

Some council members believed the bid was too restrictive. Councilman Eugene Thorton, who voted against approving the fire truck, still holds that belief.

Policeman appointed by Hazlet committee

HAZLET — The Township Committee approved the appointment of another police officer last night, but Committeeman and Police Commissioner Paul Stallonesaid more patrolmen are still needed.

"We can't drag our feet on this any longer," said Stallone. "We need the additional men. We've had a tremendous amount of overtime lately. It's not only expensive to the township, but dangerous to the men."

Jeffrey Miller, a patrolman in Asbury Park for the past two and a half years, was appointed last night, but Stallone said he "had four names ready to go." The Committee passed a resolution in January to hire four officers to replace men on disability, and is hoping to add another position under the safe neighborhoods program.

However, Miller is only the second person hired since the resolution was passed, and Stallone said the township has until March 19 to fill the other three posts before the next police academy starts.

Police Capt. John Featherston said if action is not taken before March 19, it may take another few months before another class begins, and an additional 18 weeks before a new officer can be trained and added to the force.

Matawan introduces budget cap ordinance

MATAWAN — The Borough Council last night introduced a cap ordinance allowing the 1987 budget to be increased an extra 1½ percent, despite opposition by two council members.

Borough Auditor Stephen Gabey said that a 3½ percent cap probably would be sufficient, but that the council should approve the 5 percent cap ordinance to be safe.

The council was unanimous in approving a resolution by Council President James Shea calling for Matawan to formally join the Bayshore Development Council, and appointing Mayor Victor Armellino or his designee as the borough's representative to the group.

Patients moved from fire scene

None injured at Monmouth Medical Center

By STEPHANIE GLUCKMAN
The Register

LONG BRANCH — As a result of a relatively minor fire, some 26 patients were wheeled or otherwise moved from two floors of Monmouth Medical Center's Betty Block Roberts Wing yesterday.

Officials said the patients were all back in their rooms within an hour, and that none of them were injured. Officials had not determined the cause of the fire as of last night.

Philip Famulary, director of security for the hospital, speculated that this was the first time in the history of the hospital that a fire caused the transfer of patients. He said the hospital was "very lucky" that the blaze turned out to be minor.

Famulary maintained that "no patients at any time were in any danger and the move was made strictly as a precautionary measure."

The patients were transferred with the help of maintenance, housekeeping and security employees, under the supervision of the nursing staff.

The blaze, on the wing's vacant third floor, sent smoke to the second floor adolescent unit, according to second-floor nurses. "In a very organized process," 20 patients were taken from the unit to the vacant second floor of the Greenwall Wing of the same building, according to Debra Skelly, a registered nurse working on the second floor.

"The patients seemed to be pretty calm throughout the whole thing. No one was panicky," she said. Some patients had had recent surgery. Others had back problems. The most incapacitated patients were wheeled away as they lay in their beds, she said.

Famulary added that five or six patients were taken from the fourth floor of the wing, which holds the "Day-Stay" unit for patients who receive minor operations and leave within a day. All the fourth-floor patients had had minor surgery yesterday and were planning to go home last night, he said. They were moved to an operating room holding area on the fourth floor, and moved back within an hour, he said.

Skelly sounded a second-floor fire alarm at 5:50 p.m. and Fire Chief Stan Dziuba said firefighters arrived shortly thereafter. They found smoke and flames on the third floor and extinguished the blaze within 10 minutes.

Skelly said none of the patients appeared to mind the smoke. However, another nurse on the floor remarked, "It made me sick to my stomach."

Skelly said she first saw smoke emerging from a telephone wiring box. Although she and other hospital employees speculated that the fire was the result of an electrical malfunction, Detective Sgt. Louis Napoletano said police are still investigating and have not reached a conclusion.

$2.2 million cut from proposed budget

By RANDY BRAMEIER
The Register

MIDDLETOWN — Township Committee members, meeting to scrutinize requests for the 1987 budget, cut at least $2.2 million in proposed capital improvements last night.

Members mulled requests of $9.3 million in hopes of reducing the capital request — primarily equipment, supplies and projects — to $5 million to $6 million. Capital improvements totaled $5.6 million in 1986.

Reducing the wish list represents one of the first steps for the committee, which probably will approve the full budget in April.

Committee members continued reviewing the proposal late last night.

Committee members tentatively cut $1 million from the $1.1 million proposed in the Department of Public Works-Sanitation and could divert the $1 million to look into the possibility of creating a new municipal utility.

Cuts in the Department of Public Safety, Division of Police, meanwhile, totaled $759,012. Police proposed $1,387,000 in the capital budget.

Committee members denied requests for $330,243 in high-tech equipment for the mobile precinct, $108,000 for a call-box system and $86,000 for a mobile fitness-exercise center.

Tentative approval went to several equipment requests, including $30,000 for weatherproof television cameras to scan commuter lots near the new railroad station on Church Street.

Some $375,000 was cut from the $3.4 million Public Works-Engineering budget. Committee members cut $150,000 for repair work on Half Mile Road and $25,000 for drainage improvements.

Plans call for $820,000 worth of road reconstruction in the Leonardo and East Keansburg areas.

About $138,000 in the Public Works-Roads budget went by the wayside, covering a snow plow, a salt spreader and other equipment.

Comedian Danny Kaye dead at 74

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Danny Kaye, who enthralled adults and youngsters alike with tongue-twisting patter in such films as "Hans Christian Andersen" and "The Court Jester," then became an advocate for the world's children, died yesterday at the age of 74.

The red-haired star, who worked his way up from busboy to Broadway, TV and the movies and international honors, died of heart failure brought on by complications of internal bleeding and hepatitis, said publicist Warren Cowan.

His wife of 46 years, Sylvia, and daughter Dena were at his bedside at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center when he died at 3:58 a.m.

Kaye, who also starred in such film classics as "White Christmas" and "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," was hospitalized Sunday and had been in extremely critical condition, said hospital spokesman Ron Wise.

Dr. Charles Kivowitz, his physician, said Kaye contracted hepatitis, an inflammation of the liver, from a blood transfusion during heart surgery in February 1983.

Kaye's title as official permanent ambassador-at-large for the United Nations Children's Fund, UNICEF, earned him the title "Ambassador to the World's Children."

Danny Kaye

"He was truly a champion for children in every continent," said U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar.

"While UNICEF gives them food and medicines, I make them laugh," Kaye said after visiting refugee camps in India in 1971.

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences presented Kaye with a special Oscar in 1954 and the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award in 1982 for his charitable works, especially with UNICEF. He also received a special Tony award in 1953 and Emmy awards for "The Danny Kaye Show" in 1964 and best children's television special in 1975.

Queen Margreth of Denmark knighted Kaye in 1983 for his portrayal of Hans Christian Andersen in the 1952 musical film. The citation called him "the Pied Piper to the children of the world."

Earlier that year, Kaye was awarded the 22nd annual Gold Medal of the USO.

Although Kaye couldn't read music, he conducted symphonies all over the world to benefit children and musicians' pension funds. He had a unique touch, like using a flyswatter to lead the New York Philharmonic in a 1981 performance of "Flight of the Bumble Bee."

Last year, Kaye was nominated for an Emmy for an appearance on "The Cosby Show." In February 1983, he won the 1982 Screen Actors Guild Annual Award for "fostering the finest ideals of the acting profession."

Born David Daniel Kaminsky on Jan. 18, 1913, in Brooklyn, N.Y., Kaye began his career working the Borscht Belt circuit of summer resorts in New York's Catskill Mountains.

An industry burdened by rules

The local clamming industry, beset by stringent regulation and policing, is subject now to a new, nearly debilitating restriction. The state Department of Environmental Protection has limited the legal hours for commercial clamming to between sunrise and 4:30 p.m. Previously allowed to work til sunset, clammers will now be barred from harvesting on weekends.

This severely impedes a clammer's ability to do business.

Besides the fact that clammers no longer are allowed to harvest during weekends to make up for lost time because of bad weather, it's now impossible for clammers to tailor their time to the day's low tide, when conditions are best.

DEP claims the new hours correspond to its regulatory staffing constraints: the department can only afford to hire enforcement officers for the hours between sunrise and 4:30 p.m, officials say.

Regulatory personnel from DEP's Division of Fish, Game and Shellfisheries routinely monitor clammers in restricted clamming zones to be sure that harvests meet daily maximums and that all the clams taken from the river are brought to depuration plants located in Highlands. There, the clams are cleansed to rid them of bacteria that can cause serious illness in those who eat them. DEP's police function, therefore, is essential to protect the public health.

But DEP's new regulation, imposed unilaterally, speaks of something beyond the state's ability to monitor the clam beds each day.

State Sen. Frank Pallone, D-Monmouth, hopes to relieve the burden on clammers by proposing to increase annual licensing fees so that DEP can hire more field workers with the added revenue. Clammers seem to prefer the fee hike — from $25 a year to $75 a year — to the limited harvesting hours.

Pallone said that though the shellfisheries division complains about staff shortages, the department has not estimated how much revenue it needs to correct the imbalance. Nor has DEP indicated it would reinstitute the 7-day-weekly, sunrise to sunset hours if new personnel could be hired with increased revenue.

Though most clammers realize that a healthy product means a healthy business, some unscrupulous practitioners continue to sneak their harvests past the police and depurating plants directly to the merchant, where both gamble with the health of customers.

That's why the state must police the river and issue cumbersome regulations.

Now it appears that DEP has restricted harvesting hours for no real reason other than to motivate the Legislature to increase fee revenues.

Before Sen. Pallone offers his bill for the approval of the full Legislature, we urge that DEP be asked to show, in detail, why it needs a new boost of revenue. If DEP can't restore the old harvesting hours, why the need for more money? Since the number of clammers working waters in north Monmouth has dropped substantially over several years, why are more enforcement officer necessary?

The vital need for DEP regulation in the clamming industry is unquestioned. The restricted harvesting hours the department sprung on local clammers, however, hints at manipulation.

A senior citizen supports gas tax

To The Editor:

I am a senior citizen and I am concerned about a stable source of funding for New Jersey's transportation system. In my opinion, New Jersey's senior citizens are being taken for a ride on the issue of paying higher state gas taxes. But it's not a free one! The truth is — driving on bad roads already costs our senior drivers, indeed all motorists, more than the proposed five-cent gas tax.

When roads and bridges are in as bad shape as many in New Jersey are, we all pay more to operate our cars. Broken and bumpy highways waste gas, increase repair and maintenance costs and devalue our cars more quickly.

I recently received information about "The Road Information Program" (TRIP), they calculate that the average New Jersey senior citizen driver travels about 7,000 miles a year and pays $95.67 annually in additional driving costs due to driving on rough roads. By contrast, the proposed additional gas tax increase would cost each driver only one-fifth as much — $19.55 per year.

The user-fee system, where a gas tax paid at the pump goes for road upkeep is one of the fairest taxes. Only those using the roads pay the tax. Even senior citizens, many of whom are on fixed incomes already, will benefit more from the improved roads than they will pay in increased taxes. In addition, many out of state drivers purchasing gasoline as they drive through, will be assisting in funding New Jersey's system (estimated at 20 percent).

New Jersey already has invested $45 billion in its transportation network. But like any investment — be it a house, a car or a road system — it needs upkeep. The 5-cent tax will go a long way toward preserving the highway system and providing all the citizens of the Garden State with safe and efficient transportation. I personally feel as a senior citizen that I want to leave a legacy of a good transportation system to my children and grandchildren.

Indeed, there is no free ride for the senior citizens of New Jersey, but I doubt the generations that helped build one of the most extensive highway systems in the world want to see it fall into disrepair, and ultimately cost far more in terms of safety, time, and repair costs.

Quality of life questions raised

To the Editor:

On February 11 the Tinton Falls Planning Board gave K. Hovnanian Companies, the developers of Society Hill, their unanimous approval for the proposed 484-unit residential community — 97 single family homes and 387 multiple-unit housing (80 units of which will be designated Mount Laurel housing). Since the proposed development includes Mount Laurel units, Hovnanian has been given permission by the Planning Board to exceed Tinton Falls density limit of 3.5 units per acre. The density limit agreed upon was 5.3 units per acre.

Wayne Deutscher, chairman of Citizens Against Society Hill (CASH) and president of Lenape Woods Condominium Association, opposes the project — citing it as another example of the "wildfire development" occurring in Tinton Falls.

The Planning Board has not yet published any impartial studies of the impact Society Hill will have on our borough schools, taxes, the environment, municipal services, or emergency services like fire and first aid. Keep in mind that on February 3, Borough Council members voted 3-2 to reject the bid for Northside's fire truck — a truck badly needed to protect the residents and businesses in the Northside Fire Company area of Tinton Falls. If we can't protect our current residents, who will foot the bill for 484 new housing units?

Is this responsible government? In their campaign to become elected, Tinton Falls Taxpayers Action Group (T.F.T.A.G.) promised us "More open government" and "balanced representation." What happened when they took over? Just that — they took over! Exactly what has T.F.T.A.G. done to improve life in Tinton Falls? Should we pat them on the back or slap them on the hand?

I suggest that each Tinton Falls resident watch closely the decisions our governing body makes, listen carefully to what the representatives of Council and mayoral appointees are saying, then judge for yourself whether or not some changes are needed.

It's up to us to protect the quality of life in Tinton Falls.

Foxy Fawn, Iranscam beauty, must be recognized for her honesty

BOSTON — Before her 15 minutes of fame are used up, a few words about Fawn Hall.

First of all, let us be honest about it, there had to be a Fawn. This is a story that cried out for a Fawn. Oh, maybe a Bambi, but that would have been too tacky.

My colleagues laboring in the doldrums of Swiss bank accounts needed Fawn. The public deciphering the fine print of the Tower commission needed Fawn. They all greeted the unveiling of this woman, especially in her bathing-suit shots, with a mass snicker of relief. At last, something familiar. Something we can all give a heh-heh about. Foxy Fawn. Iranscam Beauty.

If she had only been beautiful, it would have been enough. Or if she had only been a beautiful secretary — enough. And if she had only been a beautiful secretary and part-time model — enough. But a beautiful secretary and a part-time model who won the love of Arturo Cruz Jr. Bingo! Or should I say "Bimbo!" By the weekend, there were any number of side bets on precisely how long it would take for Fawn to go from her debriefing to decladding in Playboy.

I agree that at least one startled Fawn was predestined to enter the scene of this foreign-policy farce — but not for exactly the same salacious reasons. This baggy-pants troop of men, thrown together for a single show, was not an Affirmative Action Employer. Since the departure of Jeane Kirkpatrick, all the visible foreign policymakers of this administration have been members of the Neo Boys Network. Even George Shultz who emerges as relatively sane has a tiger tatooed on his tail.

Therefore, in the towel-snapping subset that produced this disaster, there were only two conceivable roles for women: wife or secretary. The wife — more about her another time — was already taken. Cherchez La Secretary.

The personal secretary is often regarded by just these sort of retrograde men as the office wife. But not just any old wife, it must be a wife like the one who married dear old Ron. Better yet, an all-purpose woman who will stand by her man while he's falling apart in the Oval Office or while he's shredding documents in the basement.

The remarkable myopia among men who envision women only as helpmeets is the way they assume their help. Having seen women as adjuncts, they go on blithely believing that's how the women see themselves.

Enter Fawn Hall, with this introduction from the ever-chivalrous Ollie North: "I have the prettiest secretary at the NSC. Everybody thinks I'm having an affair with her, but I'm not."

The vital statistics on Fawn — statistics, not measurements — show her to be a 27-year-old GS-9 with nearly ten years' experience who earned between $22,000 and $26,000 a year. She was described as hard-working to the edge of workaholicism. Not a very sexy profile.

She is also a second-generation government secretary. Her mother Wilma (what turn would this tale have taken if she had named her daughter Wilma?) worked for some other members of this troop: McFarlane and Poindexter. There is a certain charm to imagining mom-and-daughter secretaries typing the memos that flew between their bosses. They were supposed to be mere conduits of information, but they were surely the source of the best gossip at the NSC.

When North started to cover his tracks, he automatically turned to his personal secretary, of four years. He told her to start deleting and altering the texts she had originally typed. And like a good personal secretary, she did. Better that he should have learned to type.

At no time, I imagine, did this military man doubt Fawn's loyalty or obedience. Indeed he, like any number of men, may have been devastated when finally deserted by his office wife. But Fawn wasn't ultimately married to her job. When the chips started to fall, there was a moment when she realized there was something more important than loyalty, maybe even honesty.

With all due respect for the sex angle of this saga, some respect is due the honesty angle. Ultimately, it doesn't matter whom Fawn kissed. It matters that she told. She's filling in some of the pieces of this bizarre political puzzle. She deserves more than a snicker.

■ GOV. THOMAS H. KEAN. — Gov. Thomas H. Kean said yesterday he and New York Gov. Mario Cuomo are close to reaching an agreement on how a $5 billion capital improvement plan for the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey should be structured.

The governor would not comment on the details of the proposed plan, saying his staff still has some work to do with Cuomo's staff before either state signs off.

The capital improvement program will be designed to upgrade the tunnel and bridge crossings, rail connections and airports the Port Authority oversees, including John F. Kennedy International in New York and Newark International. It also is expected to include a Hoboken-to-Battery Park, N.Y., ferry service and provisions to spur waterfront development.

Published reports have predicted PATH fares will rise from 75 cents to $1 and bridge tolls from $2 to $3 to improve the Port Authority's financial health when it goes out to bond for the $5 billion program.

■ HOT LINE. The Department of Community Affairs' Division on Women has set up a statewide hot line for victims of domestic violence and their families, the agency announced yesterday.

Department Commissioner Leonard S. Coleman said callers can speak with experts for counseling and ways of seeking immediate assistance. The number is 1-800-572-SAFE.

Legislative Briefs

■ SEN. LAURENCE WEISS. — The Senate Appropriations Committee will review at least a dozen topics, from transportation projects to AIDS treatment, during its deliberations on Gov. Thomas H. Kean's $10.18 billion budget proposal, Sen. Laurence Weiss said yesterday.

"We believe the most productive method of reviewing a budget document of this magnitude is to focus in on specific topics to determine whether the taxpayers' money is being allocated in the most efficient manner possible," said the Middlesex County Democrat, committee chairman.

The committee's first session on the governor's spending plan for fiscal 1988 is set for March 11. It will include a report from Treasurer Feather O'Connor on the state's economic outlook, revenue estimates and state spending.

Weiss said the committee also will review the Transportation Trust Fund, toxic waste cleanup, minimum teacher salaries, college tuition policies, AIDS treatment, municipal aid, farmland preservation, prison overcrowding and a number of other topics during its hearings, scheduled through April 9.

Panel would draw district lines

Bill creates bipartisan commission intended to avoid gerrymandering

By NICHOLAS G. KATSARELAS
Associated Press

TRENTON — Lawmakers hoping to avoid "the inevitable results of gerrymandering" urged support yesterday for the creation of a bipartisan panel that would redraw New Jersey's congressional and legislative districts after the 1990 census.

"I think the problem of redistricting is the greatest single blot on the integrity of the electoral process in New Jersey," said Assemblyman Robert Franks, R-Union.

He and Assemblyman Frank Pelly, D-Middlesex, have co-sponsored legislation calling for major changes in the way maps are drafted and aimed at removing some of the political maneuvering that traditionally has marked the redistricting process.

The lawmakers called a news conference to announce that time was running out for approval of the measure and to ask colleagues to endorse it.

Franks said the bill, which takes the form of a constitutional amendment, must get Senate and Assembly approval by August to be put on the November general election ballot. By law, Gov. Thomas H. Kean does not need to sign proposed constitutional amendments.

The districts must be redrawn every 10 years, after the federal census, to keep up with population changes.

Under the existing system, the Legislature draws the boundaries of the state's 14 congressional districts, while the 11-member Apportionment Commission drafts the 40 legislative districts.

Franks and Pelly's proposal calls for a 10-member New Jersey Redistricting Commission, which would draw both congressional and legislative maps and remove the Legislature and the Apportionment Commission from the process.

One member would each be chosen by Assembly Speaker Charles Hardwick, R-Union, Assembly Minority Leader Alan Karcher, D-Middlesex, Senate President John Russo, D-Ocean, Senate Minority Leader James Hurley, R-Cumberland and both state party chairmen.

The other four members would be selected by the New Jersey Supreme Court. None could have run for public office, but one must be a declared Republican and another a Democrat.

Under the plan, at least three of the Supreme Court's appointees and at least one political appointee from each party would have to support a plan for it to pass.

If the committee becomes deadlocked and can't agree between a Republican and Democratic plan, Franks said, the Supreme Court would choose.

Study says fishy food helps heart

By MARY HELEN GILLESPIE
Associated Press

CAMDEN — A fishier diet for 25 laboratory rats not only resulted in the rodents becoming healthier, but also led a New Jersey scientist to what he says is a new link between fish oil and the prevention of heart disease.

Fish oil apparently protects the heart from the ravages of heart disease in laboratory animals by changing the structure of the acutal heart muscle, said Carl Hock, a research scientist at the School of Osteopathic Medicine at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey.

"It was a rather dramatic change," he said at a news conference yesterday. Hock, who holds a Ph.D in physiology and biophysics from the University of Louisville, collaborated on the fish oil study with Dr. Diane K. Reibel of Thomas Jefferson University Hospital in Philadelphia.

The study is the first to link the effects of fish oil directly on the structure of the heart, Hock said. Previous studies have looked at how blood platelets and blood fat levels are affected by certain fatty acids in fish oil.

Some researchers suggest the fatty acids, known as omega-3, reduce the risk of heart disease.

During Hock's four-week study, the corn oil in the rats' diets was changed to fish oil.

The omega-3 fatty acids became part of the cell membranes of the heart muscle and apparently protected the cells from trauma, Hock said.

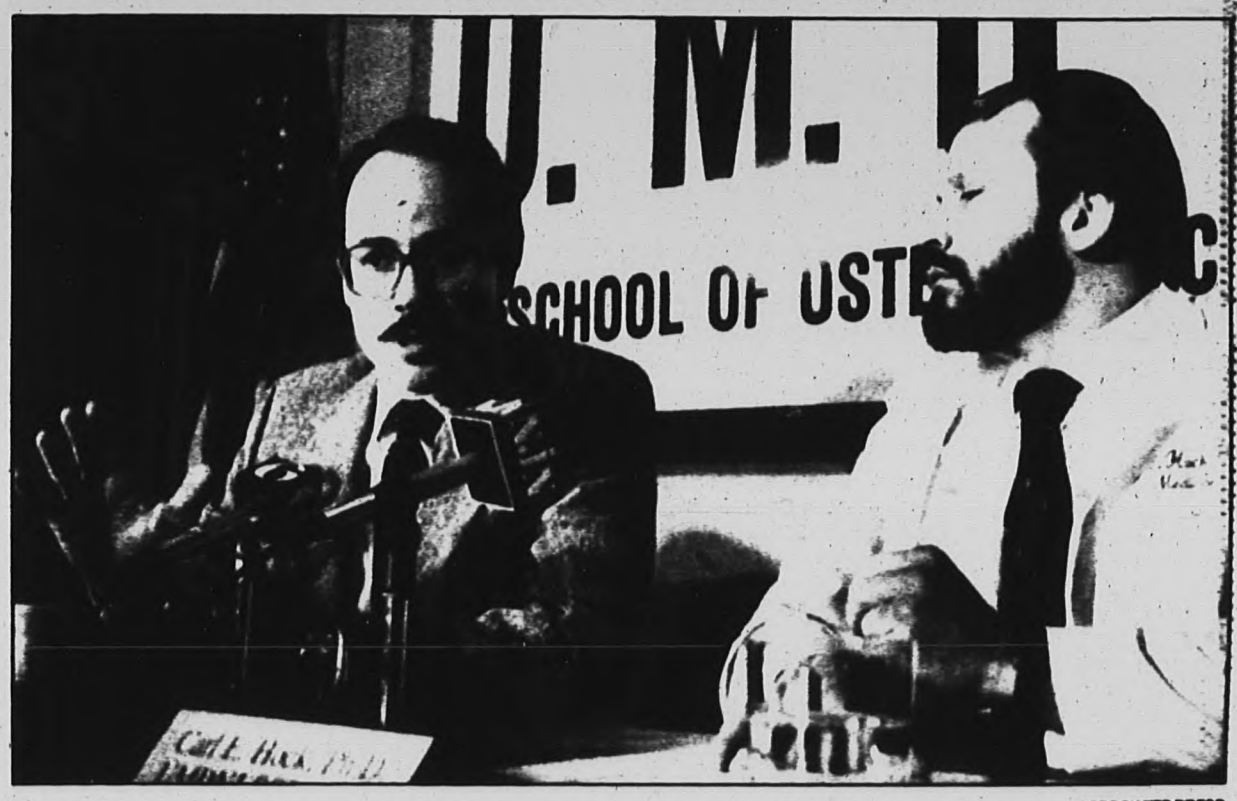

When blood vessels to the rats' hearts were tied off, the hearts of the animals that had been ingesting the fish oil suffered less damage than those of the control group, he said.

"We didn't see any side effects," he added.

Similar studies on humans should present the same results, Hock said.

"While I can't say it does occur, I can say it would occur," Hock said.

But he declined to recommend a human dosage of fish oil for people interested in warding off heart disease.

Concrete slab hits car, kills Jerseyan

By JUDIE GLAVE
Associated Press

New York police yesterday backed off from earlier statements that a 30-pound hunk of concrete that killed a woman on the Cross-Bronx Expressway had been thrown from an overpass. They said they were not sure what had happened.

Frieda Visconti, 66, was a passenger in a car being driven by her husband, Adolph, when the chunk of concrete shattered the windshield and struck Mrs. Visconti in the chest, said Capt. Thomas Green of the 9th detective zone.

The couple, who live in Edgewater, were driving west on the expressway between the Third and Jerome avenue exits shortly before midnight Monday when the incident occurred.

Sgt. Raymond O'Donnell, a police spokesman, said earlier in the day that officials believed the slab was hurled from the overpass because a preliminary check showed no missing pieces from the overpass structure. He added they also found "a similar type of concrete in a lot" near the expressway on Morris Avenue.

But Green refused to go that far.

"We do not know the origin of that piece of concrete and that's what the investigation is going to determine," Green said at a news conference at the 48th Precinct.

The captain said a cursory check of overpasses in the area overnight did not show any missing pieces.

Blue Cross wants 18.6% rate increase

NEWARK (AP) — Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Jersey's individual and small group business posted a $65 million operating loss last year that necessitates a rate increase if the insurance carrier is to avoid a 1987 deficit, a company official said yesterday.

In the annual financial statement it filed with the state Department of Insurance on Monday, the non-profit hospital and medical insurance giant that insures 4.3 million New Jersey residents said it paid out record benefits of $1.8 billion last year, up $133 million from 1985.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield, which merged a year ago to create the state's largest health insurer, paid out $7.5 million in claims every working day of 1986, up about $500,000 per day from the previous year, said Joseph Walsh, company vice president for public affairs.

"If current trends of utilization continue and current income continues — because rates are not increased — we would be in a $65 million deficit position by year's end," he said.

A rate increase is needed for the carrier's 1.7 million small group and individual customers, Walsh said.

Last month, Blue Cross and Blue Shield asked the Insurance Department for a $147 million, or 18.6 percent, rate increase for small group and individual customers. Four months ago, the agency granted the company a 15 percent rate hike for the 1.7 million subscribers.

Insurance Department spokesman Tom Hooper said the agency was "working on" the most recent request.

"They're not going to get it by April 1 (as requested), if at all," he said, noting that Blue Cross and Blue Shield only now should be starting to benefit from the rate increase Insurance Commissioner Kenneth D. Merin approved in September.

Walsh said the increase is needed to offset hospital and medical costs that have been rising steadily at about 10 percent a year and are projected to continue to rise at about the same rate.

He said the company paid 1.7 million hospital claims last year, up 40,000 from 1985, while paying 8.7 million medical claims, up about 1 million from the previous year.

Although there was an increase in claims last year, the most significant reason for the company's rising costs is medical inflation, Walsh said.

He said the reserves of the two companies before they merged in February 1986 totaled $62 million and had dwindled to $251,000 at the end of 1986.

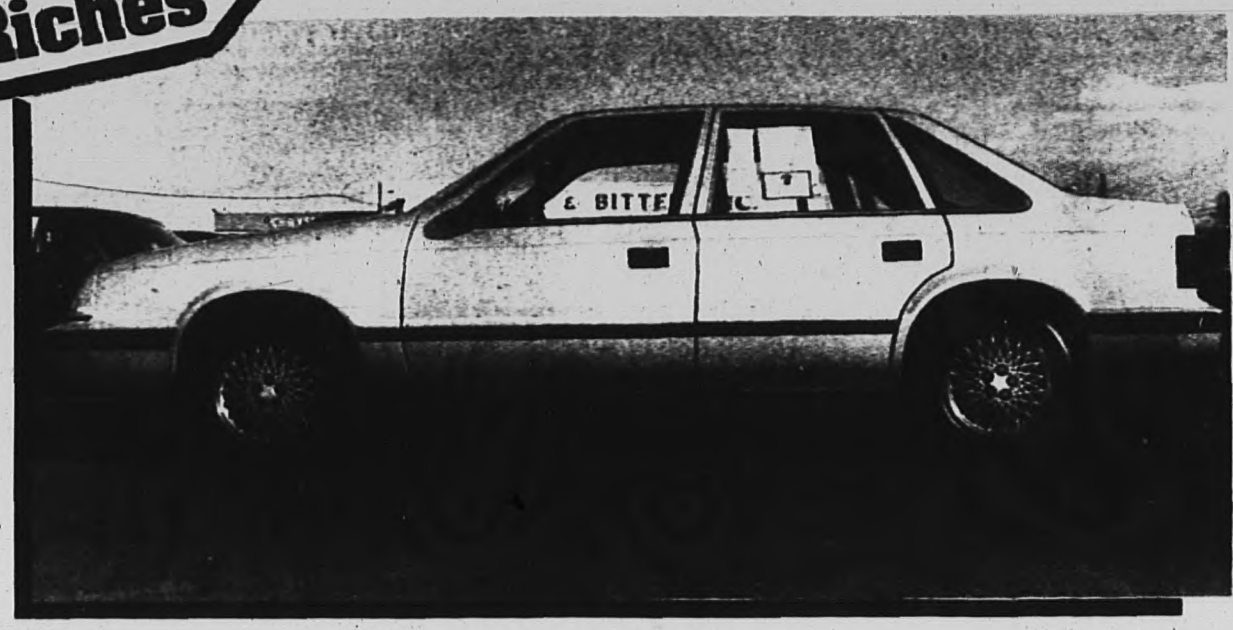

If the full increase request is granted, family coverage — basic medical, major medical and hospital coverage — would increase by $36.63 per month to $204.51. The same coverage in a small group plan of fewer than 50 people would cost $197.98 per month, a $33 increase.

Increases in premium payments collected from Blue Cross and Blue Shield's group subscribers are linked directly to the claims submitted by members of each group and set according to formulas approved by the Insurance Department.

■ WEBSTER CIA NOMINEE. President Reagan yesterday chose FBI Director William H. Webster, who brought the bureau out of a crisis nine years ago, to take over the embattled CIA.

Webster would replace William J. Casey, who resigned after undergoing surgery for brain cancer.

■ ISRAELI CHARGED WITH SPYING. A senior Israeli air force officer was charged yesterday with espionage in an indictment accusing him of recruiting convicted spy Jonathan Jay Pollard to sell top-secret U.S. military intelligence.

Aviem Sella, identified by the Justice Department as a brigadier general, was named in a three-count indictment charging him with conspiracy to commit espionage, espionage, and receiving U.S. defense secrets as a foreign agent.

■ ARMS NEGOTIATOR RECALLED. President Reagan announced yesterday that he was recalling his senior arms control negotiators from Geneva to plot strategy for a nuclear weapons reduction agreement with the Soviet Union that "must be effectively verifiable."

Reagan, who has made few public appearances lately, appeared in the White House press room to compliment Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev for divorcing the quest for a treaty to rid Europe of medium-range nuclear missiles from knottier arms control issues.

■ PARKING CRACKDOWN. Transportation Commissioner Ross Sandler, flanked by tow trucks and traffic agents, kicked off the city's newest parking crackdown yesterday during a stroll through Lower Manhattan.

Sandler and an entourage watched as a car bearing a "NY Official" license plate and Department of General Services emblem was towed from the corner of Church and Worth streets.

Under the new rules, even vehicles bearing city permits are banned from parking in a congested 10-block area west of City Hall. Simultaneously, more than 35,000 cars lost their official parking status.

Previous parking crackdowns centered on the midtown commercial area and Chinatown.

Court: Rights laws protect AIDS victims

By AARON EPSTEIN
Knight-Ridder News Service

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court, striking a blow against what it called "myths and fears about disability and disease," ruled yesterday that a federal civil rights law protects people with contagious diseases against discrimination by anyone who receives federal aid.

Although the 7-2 decision did not deal directly with AIDS, it was clear to many experts that victims of the acquired immune deficiency syndrome now may use the law to fight discrimination in the work place, public school classrooms and elsewhere.

"It marks a great victory for the disability movement," declared Arthur S. Leonard, an associate professor at New York Law School who has specialized in discrimination against AIDS patients in the work place.

"It means that an employer who wants to take action (against sufferers of AIDS) would have to justify it on basis of the medical facts — not because they or their customers would be afraid to have these people on the payroll," Leonard said.

Specifically, the justices concluded that an experienced third-grade teacher in Florida, who was fired in 1979 solely because she was afflicted with a recurrence of tuberculosis, was a "handicapped individual" covered by the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

The statute bars discrimination by government contractors, public schools and other recipients of federal aid from discriminating against an "otherwise qualified handicapped individual."

The high court decision, written by Justice William J. Brennan Jr., means the teacher, Gene H. Arline, cannot be fired unless her employer, the Nassau County (Fla.) school board, can prove that the risks of infection to herself and others prevent her from being qualified to teach.

071 Merchandise For Sale

SELL
The Things You Don't Want

Did you know there are hundreds of shoppers reading the classified section of The Register everyday, for the best buys on used merchandise for sale. No doubt things you want to sell will sell when you place your ad in the classified section.
To help you sell your furniture, appliances, clothes or anything else, we'll give you plenty of advertising time in The Register at a very reasonable price. ($10.90 for 4 line ad — your ad runs 10 days.)
If you're selling a single item in your "Merchandise for Sale" ad, and you haven't sold it in 10 days — you still have more advertising time. Call us on the 10th day and we'll be happy to rerun your same single item "Merchandise for Sale" ad for another 10 days at no charge (FREE!)
Need more help to sell your merchandise. We'll put your ad in the newspaper called The Fort Monmouth Message, which is distributed at Fort Monmouth. More than 13,000 military and civilian personnel stationed at the Fort read this weekly newspaper with avid interest. For an extra $2.40, your "Merchandise for Sale" ad runs in the Register for up to 10 days (20 days for single item ad if necessary) plus 1 week in The Fort Monmouth Message. Of course if your merchandise is sold, you can cancel your ad anytime. The price stays the same.
Call 542-1700 to place your ad or for information.

250 Autos for Sale

SELL YOUR CAR

Did you know more prospective car buyers in this area first read the classified section of The Register, for the best used car deals. No doubt an ad will help you make the best deal for your car.
To help you sell your car, we'll give you plenty of advertising time in The Register at a very reasonable price. ($10.90 for 4 line ad — your ad runs 10 days. (Everyday 23,000 people buy The Register.) Call us on the 10th day if you haven't sold your car and we'll be happy to rerun your auto for sale ad for another 10 days at no charge (FREE!)
Need more help to sell your car. We'll put your auto for sale ad in the newspaper called The Fort Monmouth Message, which is distributed at Fort Monmouth. More than 13,000 military and civilian personnel stationed at the Fort read this weekly newspaper with avid interest. For an extra $2.40, your auto for sale ad runs in the Register for up to 20 days if necessary, plus 1 week in The Fort Monmouth Message. Of course if you sell your car you can cancel your ad anytime. The price stays the same.
Call 542-1700 to place your ad or for information.

Lusaka, Zambia

■ NO SOCIALISM. Two leaders of the exiled African National Congress say the group has no plans to create a socialist economy immediately in South Africa if it ousts the white-minority government.

Fears of the nationalization of businesses and other economic changes are among the leading sources of anxiety for whites in South Africa when discussing a possible shift to black majority rule. But taken together, the ANC statements appear to represent the clearest commitment yet to the continued existence of a private sector in post-apartheid society.

Bangui, Central African Republic

■ CANNIBALISM ALLEGED. Deposed Emperor Jean Bedel Bokassa eagerly devoured meals of human flesh, a man claiming to be the former imperial cook testified yesterday.

"My boss well and truly did eat that meal in my presence and he truly liked it," Phillipe Linguissa said at the ex-ruler's trial on charges including murder, embezzlement and procuring bodies for cannibalism.

Bokassa claimed he had never seen Linguissa until the man appeared in court. He said his political enemies were using the witness to say anything against him.

Rome, Italy

■ CRAXI RESIGNS. Premier Bettino Craxi announced his resignation yesterday and that of his five-party coalition Cabinet, Italy's 45th government and at 3½ years the longest lived since World War II. Craxi was the nation's first Socialist postwar premier.

Geneva, Switzerland

■ ARMS TALKS CONTINUE. U.S. and Soviet teams continued talks on medium-range nuclear missiles and President Reagan said the Americans would present new proposals today.

Maynard Glitman and Lem Masterkov led the U.S. and Soviet negotiators in yesterday's meeting. Soviet spokesman Alexander Monakhov said they talked for about 90 minutes at the Soviet Mission, but he gave no details.

Max Kampelman and Yuli Vorontsov, chiefs of the two delegations, had a luncheon meeting yesterday.

Manila, Philippines

■ LAND REFORM PLANNED. Hours before President Corazon Aquino declared "everything is okay" here, a lieutenant colonel and his driver were killed yesterday in what was feared could be the start of a Communist terror campaign in Manila.

Aquino also directed her Cabinet yesterday to draft a comprehensive land reform program and said she may sign it into law before a new, two-chamber Congress convenes in July.

At her first news conference of the year, Aquino signed an executive order to use funds from the sale of bankrupt companies, foreclosed by the government years ago, to finance any new land reform program.

3rd witness says Demjanjuk is 'Ivan'

By MARY SEDOR
Associated Press

JERUSALEM — A Nazi death camp survivor identified John Demjanjuk as "Ivan the Terrible" from a 36-year-old photograph yesterday and described how the brutal guard shot a girl dead as she tried to escape over a fence.

Asked by the prosecution to flip through a photo album and identify the Ukrainian guard, Joseph Czarny pointed to a 1951 photo of Demjanjuk, a retired autoworker from Ohio. "Here he is, Ivan the Terrible," Czarny said.

Czarny is the third survivor of the camp to identify Demjanjuk as the infamous 'Ivan.'

Demjanjuk, a 66-year-old native of the Soviet Ukraine, is accused of being the guard known as Ivan the Terrible, who beat and mutilated prisoners at the Treblinka concentration camp in Nazi-occupied Poland, then pushed them into the death chambers and turned on the gas.

He claims never to have been at Treblinka, where 850,000 Jews were killed in 1942-43, and says he is a victim of mistaken identity. Demjanjuk's lawyers base his defense on the contention that Ivan was killed during an inmate uprising in August 1943.

Czarny, 60, spent 10 months at Treblinka when he was 16. He told the court he first identified the picture for Israeli investigators in 1976 and "I said, 'My God, he's alive! He's alive!' Until then I didn't know."

"I see him now as though it were yesterday," Czarny continued. "Tall, broad, large eyes, somewhat elongated face, very tall. He had a black peaked cap with the skull that was the insignia of the SS. He had a belt across his chest with a pistol."

He said Ivan would stand with Nazi SS officers as trains with boxcars full of Jews arrived at Treblinka.

"During one of these transports, I saw Ivan the Terrible shooting in the direction of the outer fence," he said.

"Then I saw his target: a young girl who apparently had succeeded in climbing onto the fence. He pulled out his pistol and fired and I just had a chance to catch a glimpse of this girl as she lurched back lifeless."

Pour sweet maple syrup into main courses, desserts and plenty of other dishes

By PHYLLIS MAGIDA
The Chicago Tribune

THE REGISTER/MARTIN PETTERCHAK

Rich, sticky maple syrup goes great with waffles, but it also gives main courses a velvety sweet texture.

Canadian Pierre Faucher has the look of a backwoodsman. But rather than chopping down trees, he taps them.

A large man with a heavy gray beard, Faucher extracts sap from maple trees, cooks the maple sap into maple syrup, then prepares hundreds of meals using maple syrup as a major ingredient.

Faucher and his wife, Sandra, own a 40-acre maple syrup farm and restaurant in Rigaud, Quebec, about 50 miles from Montreal — Sucrerie de la Montagne (Maple Grove of the Mountains). Visitors who come to dine are also treated to onsite sugar-making demonstrations at the farm's 19th-Century Canadian sugar house.

In St. Charles, Ill., recently to demonstrate maple syrup cooking and classic Canadian recipes at the 4th All-Canada Show in the Pheasant Run MegaCenter, Faucher, in logger's pants and suspenders, explained why the food he serves nightly to as many as 600 guests — dishes such as Quebec meat pies, pigs' feet stews and maple syrup pies — are not the usual run-of-the-mill dishes.

"The recipes were all created by my mother," he says. "My grandfather was a settler in La Beauce, a region of the province of Quebec, just north of the state of Maine, and my mother used to cook for the lumberjacks in the logging camps, using the maple syrup that was produced around there. The recipes are characteristic of this area of Canada. Maple syrup gives a sweet, velvety quality to food."

Every meal that the Fauchers serve has maple syrup in it. Nine years ago, when the sugar shack first opened, they used and sold only the 350 gallons of maple syrup that the farm yielded.

"The restaurant had a capacity of only 30 people then," he recalls. "We cooked on two wood stoves with no running water. We had so little room we often bundled our son Stefan into a sleeping bag and put him outside the kitchen."

Now the Fauchers use and sell 1,500 gallons of maple syrup a year to thousands of visitors.

"We have to rent more maple farms nearby, just to have enough to feed everybody," he says.

"We extract sap, then concentrate it — 40 gallons become 1 gallon of syrup. We simmer it until the sap reaches 219 degrees, the point at which it becomes maple syrup. Maple sugar is just syrup cooked to 224 degrees, then poured into molds to harden. To use it, all you have to do is grate it."

Faucher explains that maple syrup and sugar add a smooth, sweet taste to many foods, one reason he enjoys cooking with it.

■ Store maple products in the refrigerator or the freezer. If put in the freezer, they won't freeze, just thicken, but will keep for years. Sometimes maple products develop a mold in the refrigerator. This can be removed, but the syrup still will taste faintly of the mold. To get rid of the mold flavor, cook it slowly over low heat to 224 degrees and pour it into molds.

■ Put ¾ teaspoon of maple sugar in your coffee; its sweetness is equivalent to a teaspoon of sugar. Or mix it in with yogurt.

Register Recipe Winner

BLUEFISH CAKES POLISH STYLE

2 bluefish, three to four pounds each (fillet, remove skin and bones)
1 large onion
2 medium onions
Italian spices, salt, pepper to taste
1 clove garlic, or garlic powder
¾ cup bread crumbs, plus more for breading
1 small egg
Olive oil for frying
1 bay leaf

Clean and wash fish thoroughly. Cut into pieces and wash several times more. Pat lightly and remove any remaining bones. Put the fish meat through a grinder, using the course grind attachment. (Do not grind too fine otherwise meat becomes watery.) Place fish meat in a dish.

Grind one large onion using the same grinder attachment. Add salt, pepper and Italian spices to taste. Add one clove garlic or garlic powder. Add ¾ cup bread crumbs and the egg. Mix all ingredients together and knead thoroughly. Shape into small cakes. Sprinkle lightly with more bread crumbs. Put olive oil into frying pan and heat slowly. Place cakes in pan and heat lightly until golden brown on each side.

Place cakes on a dish. Cut two medium onions and simmer lightly in olive oil until soft and golden. Add the cakes and bay leaf. Add water and simmer until soft, turning and adding water as needed. Serves four.

You can't beat fresh pepper

By JEANMARIE BROWNSON
Chicago Tribune

Pepper, the little spice with a big flavor, has caused Portuguese sailors to lose their lives in pursuit of it, been used as ransom for treasure, paid for a serf's freedom and even been the subject of literary prose over the centuries.

Pepper is also one of the world's oldest spices and one of the most treasured flavors in many a cook's mind. It can be used before and after cooking in marinades, soups, stews, sauces, pickles and salad dressings. It is equally good with meat, fish, poultry, vegetables and fruit.

Years ago the price of pepper was prohibitive, making it a rich man's spice. In fact, pepper was so valued it was a more stable standard than gold.

Pepper, or piper nigrum, is from the Piperaceae family. The pepper vine grows wild in the equatorial forests of India and Asia and is cultivated in other tropical countries. Under the large dark leaves of the vine grow berries. These berries are harvested at various stages: Unripe berries that are sold freeze-dried or packed in brine are known as green peppercorns; black peppercorns are unripe berries that are picked and dried in the sun; and white peppercorns are ripe berries that have had their outer flesh soaked and rubbed off.

The highest quality pepper is said to come from the coast of Malabar. Gourmet food stores often sell a variety of peppercorns from different places. Three fine black peppercorns available are Java, Madagascar and Tellicherry. Muntok is perhaps the most common white peppercorn available.

Black, white and green peppercorns are readily available in the United States and are best purchased as whole peppercorns. Unfortunately, the most common way pepper is sold in this country is in the ground state. Whole peppercorns will stay fresh for a long time, but ground pepper quickly loses both its aroma and its flavor. Bottled ground white pepper can even start to taste rancid.

Using fresh ground pepper is not just a fad started by smart restaurateurs who wanted to improve their salad presentations. Freshly ground pepper can mean the difference between an ordinary dish and an extraordinary one. When a recipe calls for freshly ground pepper, it means pepper ground from a mill by the cook as it is needed. And one of the easiest ways to improve your cooking is to buy whole peppercorns and a pepper mill.

Many chefs have a secret spice mixture they add to personalize their dishes. New Orleans chef Paul Prudhomme uses a combination of several peppers and herbs to season his food and prepare his famous blackened redfish.

White pepper is preferred in white sauces where black specks might look strange. White pepper has a sweeter, less hot taste than black. Green peppercorns have a more earthy taste and are often paired with pork and duck.

To buy: Purchase peppercorns whole in tightly sealed jars. Or, if buying in bulk, check to make sure they have been stored in covered containers and the peppercorns are evenly shaped and colored.

Pear Tree tasting successful

Monmouth County residents who were at The Pear Tree restaurant in Rumson on Feb. 18 enjoyed a special dinner, featuring the wines of the William Hill Winery from California's Napa Valley.

Owner and chef Jay Dreicer presented a special menu for the event that was well received. Bill Henri, vice president and winemaker, was on hand to present the William Hill wines and guide tasters in their assessments.

William Hill came to his wine career by a strange route. As an investment counselor, a group of his clients were interested in agricultural properties and he undertook the necessary vineyard research. By the time his research was over he found a new vocation in a field in which he had no formal training.

His winery was started in 1976 in an old fruit juice plant. The William Hill Winery now owns about 1,500 acres. In keeping with Hill's first purchase, the vineyards are on mountainsides. The winery has holdings on Mount Veeder and in the Atlas Peak area. Hill's firm is going to break ground for a new winery in June and intends to have it operational in time for the 1987 crush. Production will be limited to two varietals: Chardonnay and Cabernet Sauvignon. The firm also has just purchased 300 acres in Sonoma County and plans to make sparkling wine there.

Henri, who joined the operation in 1980, believes in the importance of soil in producing fine wines. The winery has focused on this when acquiring vineyard lands. "Ideal soils are coarse, well drained and very deep," Henri said. Climate also receives considerable attention in the winery's choice of vineyard land.

According to Henri, the early wines of William Hill were made in a big, mouth-filling style. The firm now has moved toward softer, more accessible wines.

At the dinner we tasted 1984 Silver Label ($11.99), 1983 Gold Label ($15.99) and 1984 Gold label ($12.99) Chardonnays. The Cabernet Sauvignons included a 1983 Gold Label ($15.99), 1982 Gold Label ($19.95) and a 1980 Mount Veeder ($26.95). Henri also presented a barrel sample of the 1985 Cabernet Sauvignon.

For Chardonnays, the Gold Label is barrel fermented and aged on the lees for two to three months. The Silver Label is fermented in stainless steel, as are all Cabernets. Silver Label Cabernets receive eight months of oak aging. Gold Labels receive 15 to 18 months.

All three Chardonnays were clean and narrow with mildly varietal fruit flavors and an aggressive entry. The most forward of the three was the 1984. Each of the Cabernets had an abundance of rich fruit aromas and flavors. Both the 1983 and 1982 had soft tannins behind the nicely balanced fruit.

The 1980 was a bigger wine that appeared to be much further behind in its development. The ample fruit was masked by the tannins and gave a tight, austere impression with good structure. All three Cabernets should reward those who cellar them. The 1985 also showed good promise.

Judging by the enthusiastic comments of the attendees, our area could support many more wine events of this type.

Newest nutrition news analyzes diets

Americans eating better

In the past three years, Americans reduced their intake of sugary foods by 29 percent, bacon by 21 percent, and eggs and beef by 16 percent. Consumption of salty foods, and butter and other fats also went down. However, Americans ate more fruits, vegetables, poultry and fish during the same period.

Barbara Gibbons

If you've been avoiding salt and coffee, filling up on complex carbs and polyunsaturated vegetable oils — all in the name of health — the newest nutrition news has some surprises in store. Here are the latest findings from the nation's medical and dietetic journals.

Low-salt diets may not lower blood pressure, according to research in the British Medical Journal. A review of 13 trials showed that the pressure-lowering effect of limiting sodium was small and worked only on systolic blood pressure. The helpful effect was greater for older patients and those with highest blood pressure.

High-carbohydrate diets aren't for everyone, especially the 10 percent of the population with glucose-tolerance problems, states an article in the Journal of Nutrition. For those people, eating a high-carbohydrate diet only increases plasma-glucose levels, making them two to three times more likely to have coronary artery disease.

Can drinking coffee prevent cancer? A study reported in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute did not find that coffee caused disease. In fact, among those studied, the more coffee consumed, the less cancer of the kidney and colon, and the less non-melanoma skin cancer. No increase in cancer of the pancreas or bladder was found among those who consumed a lot of coffee.

Fat kids don't necessarily become fat adults, according to a study in the British Medical Journal. Few obese 36-year-olds were overweight at age 11, less than 25 percent, the study indicates. Childhood obesity was such a poor predictor of adult overweight that the authors emphasized encouraging good nutrition and exercise habits rather than focusing on the control of childhood overweight.

Weight loss lowers blood pressure among overweight children, the American Journal of Epidemiology suggests. Over 10 years, nearly 3,000 children were studied; overweight children who lost weight lowered their blood pressure. Overweight children who gained weight had a corresponding rise in both systolic and diastolic blood pressure.

Eating disorders may be an addiction, like alcoholism or drug dependency, and treating it that way is the latest strategy, reports Hospitals magazine. One center, which also treats alcoholics and drug addicts, has a 64-bed center for treating eating disorders and, although the "food" patients attend separate lectures and therapy groups, the treatment program is the same for all patients, including the 12-step recovery model from the Alcoholics Anonymous program. Bulimics and compulsive overeaters stay an average of 30 to 40 days; anorexics stay longer. Bulimia is the "binge-purge" syndrome. Initial follow-up studies show a 55 to 60 percent recovery rate, comparable to that of alcohol-and drug-abuse patients.

Some polyunsaturated oils add to breast cancer risk, and some fats carry more cancer risk than others, according to the Journal of the National Cancer Institute. Safflower, corn, olive and coconut oil were studied among rats with breast tumors. High-polyunsaturated-fat safflower-and corn-oil diets produced more tumors than high-fat olive or coconut oil diets. These results may explain why breast cancer rates are lower in olive-oil-consuming Greece and Spain despite those countries' relatively high-fat diets.

More evidence for olive oil: Studies discussed in the Journal of Nutrition for the Elderly show that when monounsaturated (olive, rapeseed or hybrid sunflower and safflower seed oils) replace saturated animal fats in the diet, total serum cholesterol and LDL cholesterol are lowered, while HDL cholesterol stays the same. Eating a lot of polyunsaturated (vegetable) fats may be unsafe, according to the article.

Keep good cholesterol up and bad cholesterol down with a low-fat, high-carbohydrate diet. That's the outcome of a study published in the Archives of Internal Medicine. Twenty volunteers were put on a low-fat, semi-vegetarian diet for three months that reduced their consumption of total fat, saturated fat and cholesterol, but raised their intake of carbohydrate. Plasma Low Density Lipoprotein (LDL, or "bad") cholesterol levels declined by 18 percent, but High Density Lipoprotein (HDL, or "good") cholesterol declined only by 7 percent. Triglyceride levels and body weight didn't change. One year after the subjects returned to a diet they selected themselves, their cholesterol levels still remained significantly lower than before the study began.

Fish oils may help prevent premature labor, reports The Lancet. Birth weights are among the highest in the world in the Faroe Islands, and a study showed that longer gestation is the reason why. Researchers think it's the islanders' high intake of fish oils which interferes with the body's prostaglandin production, preventing premature labor.

More calcium means lower blood pressure, indicates a study in the American Journal of Epidemiology. Calcium had more of a lowering effect on systolic blood pressure than sodium or potassium. Calcium also lowered diastolic blood pressure in women, but not among men.

How long until you like your low-salt diet? About three months, reports the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition. After the three-month period, patients continued to prefer a lower level of salt for the next 12 months.

It's the amount of fat, not which kind, that is implicated in colon cancer, reports the British Medical Journal. Patients with colon cancer, neoplastic polyps and a control group were analyzed for plasma cholesterol, triglycerides, HDL cholesterol and various types of fatty acids. No differences emerged among the three groups.

Woman wins spot in finals

Louise Claes of Lakewood will represent New Jersey at the 37th National Chicken Cooking Contest on May 14 in Jackson, Mississippi. Her recipe for Pear Chicken Flambe will compete with 50 other finalists. A $10,000 prize will go to the winner.

PEAR CHICKEN FLAMBE

3 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved, boned, skinned
⅓ cup chicken broth
1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
1 teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
2 green onions, thinly sliced, white and half of green parts included
2 medium pears, unpeeled, cut lengthwise
¼ cup brandy
⅓ cup whipping cream

In small bowl, mix broth and mustard; set aside. Sprinkle chicken with allspice and salt. In large frying pan, place butter and melt over medium heat. Add chicken and cook, turning, about 10 minutes or until brown on all sides. Sprinkle with onions and pour reserved broth over chicken. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Add pears, cover and continue cooking about 10 minutes, until fork can be inserted easily. Add brandy and ignite. When flame subsides, remove chicken and pears to a warm serving dish. In frying pan, add cream, bring to a boil and cook, stirring, until sauce is slightly thickened. Pour over chicken and pears.

Some offers restricted to military only

Dear Martin — Johnson & Johnson had a $9 refund offer. I found out about it when I received the refund form from another refunder.

I sent for the refund, and back came a rejection letter marked: "Offer good only in military commissaries and exchanges in the U.S.A., APOs and FPOs."

What does APO and FPO mean? — Dorothy Coy, Johnstown, Pa.

Dear Dorothy — APO stands for Army Post Office, and FPO for Fleet Post Office.

Many manufacturers make refund offers meant especially for personnel in the military service and members of their families. These forms are distributed in military commissaries and post exchanges. They also are found in magazines and newspapers that are read by service people.

Unfortunately, these military refund-offer forms occasionally get into circulation among civilian refunders who are not entitled to these special offers. When civilian refunders send for these offers, as you did, they receive rejection notices.

How do you avoid problems like this? Read the fine-print restrictions on the refund forms. Most military refund offers are marked to indicate that they are only to be used by people in the military service.

This is another good reason to make a practice of reading the fine-print restrictions on any refund form.

Dear Martin — What kinds of idiots design manufacturers' refund forms? Some are so poorly laid out that they are doing more to antagonize consumers than help sell products. For instance, a recent mail-in form for the "Glad Buy Two Get One Free" offer had less than an inch of space to write in my city, and well over an inch to write in the state — which is just two letters.

Thanks for any relief you can provide. — W.E. Thomas, New Stanton, Pa.

Dear W.E. — Just reading this should give you a little relief, since it is read by a great many of the people who make the offers. Maybe some of them will get the message.

Small refund forms with inadequate space for the address of the consumer have always been with us. Until manufacturers see the light, I recommend that you paste the itsy-bitsy form to a 3-by-5 card and print your name and address on the form (try hard) and in larger-size print on the card.

This week's Smart Shopper Award goes to Laurie Schrum of Spring Lake, N.C., an Army wife: "My husband is in the Army, so I am able to shop at the base post exchange. The prices there are often better than they are in civilian stores. On Monday and Tuesday, the exchange offers double coupons up to a dollar. I had three dollar coupons good on Alberto hair products. I picked up three cans of Alberto hair mousse priced at $2.19 each. When my dollar coupons were doubled, the cans were only 19 cents each. When I came home, I found a $1 Alberto refund offer. It was a wonderful day!"

Ann Landers

Test senior drivers

Dear Ann Landers: "The Fink in San Diego" made me write my first letter to a newspaper. I have been involved in two auto accidents in the past dozen years. Both drivers were elderly. Both had been drinking. One left the scene of the accident. Neither incident, however, matched the horror of the one that occurred this past week.

My elderly mother and her sister were walking on the sidewalk along a busy city street. A car careened onto the sidewalk and hit my aunt. Mom somehow jumped out of the way. Aunt "Sara" was caught under the car and dragged off. An alert passerby forced the driver to stop. He backed up and dropped the body, then proceeded to take off. Other cars blocked his way. The police put him in handcuffs and took him to the station.

By some miracle, Aunt Sara survived. She will be in the hospital for many months.

The driver was 85 years old. He couldn't see over the hood in broad daylight. He couldn't differentiate between the street and the sidewalk. Yet he has a valid driver's license.

My mother is a nervous wreck. She may never get over it. My aunt, much younger, is a fighter. She will take up Fink's cause in Canada, and because she vacations in Florida, she will make waves down there, too.

I intend to join her and Fink in their efforts. We are going to lobby for mandatory testing of drivers over 70 and we shall fight for transportation alternatives so old people won't lose their mobility when they lose their licenses.

The insurance companies come down hard on young drivers. Undoubtedly there are careless young people out there, but I believe it's the older incompetent ones who are making the streets and roads unsafe and causing untold misery for the rest of us.

God bless you, Fink, for sticking up for my rights. You will never be forgotten by this family. — C.M. in Ontario, Canada

Dear C.M.: Thanks for cutting us in on your plans. They sound great. Go, go, go!

Write it right

Dear Ann Landers: I am a "nixie" clerk in a large post office. "Nixies" are pieces of mail with a wrong or incomplete address, or no sign of sender.

It is sad when a letter ends up in the dead-letter office. It may be a mortgage payment, a postcard to a sick friend or a letter from a child on vacation saying, "I love you, Grandma!"

The most frequent offense is leaving off the state. For example: There are seven Greenvilles in the U.S.

Another problem: Foreign mail that bears the name of the city (Stockholm), but no Sweden. At least 100 postcards a day are dead-lettered because the name of the country was omitted.

As a favor to the public, will you please remind them to be more careful? — Weary of the Slip-Shod (Texas)

Dear Weary: Thanks for singing my song. I'm something of an authority on half-baked mail. We receive in our office hundreds of self-addressed envelopes that have no state, no ZIP codes and insufficient postage. People complain daily because they haven't received a reply or a booklet, when in fact they gave us an incomplete address or none! I hope your letter makes an impression. I am — Frustrated in Chicago

Let your love shine

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Heloise

Squeeze the ketchup

Dear Heloise: We recently bought a squeeze bottle of ketchup. For refills, we bought the larger glass bottle in order to save money. However, it was very time-consuming to have to funnel ketchup from the large bottle to the other.

My husband, Gene, saved the day!

He put the ketchup into a zipper plastic bag, making sure the bag was securely closed.

He then snipped off a little corner at the bottom of the bag and squeezed the ketchup into the bottle.

Terrific! No muss, no fuss! — Sandra Goddard

Clever husband to come up with such a clever hint. Those squeeze bottles of ketchup, mustard, etc., are great to use and refilling them with a more economical size bottle would be a worthwhile money saver.

Hug your husband for us for a neat hint. — Heloise

Tough nut to crack

Dear Heloise: Perhaps this hint will help others who, like me, struggle with twist-on bottle caps such as those on vinegar bottles.

A nutcracker is the answer! It unscrews the bottle caps with ease! — H.G.

Bacon freezes well

Dear Heloise: We enjoy bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwiches. So whenever I fry bacon, I cook an extra few slices and put them on a plastic freezer bag, then into the freezer. They are ready for the next BLT. — Louise Brownell

And, no messy pan to clean! — Heloise.

Soften hard cookies

Dear Heloise: Cookies sometimes become too hard for me to eat now that I have dentures. So, I fold a dampened paper towel, place it on a plastic coffee can lid so it won't touch the cookies and put it in the cookie container.

The cookies absorb the moisture and are softened so that I can easily bite into them. — D.H. Davis

Cuban dish hard to pin down

By LINDA CICERO
Knight-Ridder Newspapers

Q. I knew a woman who had a recipe for Cuban chicken with rice. It was delicious, but she moved away, and I haven't been able to contact her. If you have such a recipe, I hope you will find it worth printing, because a lot of people out there are chicken lovers.

Q. I am a native of Hialeah, Fla., and grew up in a very Latin culture. Cuban food has always been one of my favorites, and I would love to be able to cook it at home for my Latin boyfriend. I have checked the major local bookstores and have not been able to locate a real Cuban cookbook. Can you help?

A. Unfortunately, there are not many cookbooks written in English that give authentic recipes for Cuban dishes. You'd think a clever entrepreneur would have stepped in to fill the void, particularly now that Caribbean cooking has been dubbed the "in" cuisine.

But the only Cuban cookbook I've turned up that I'd recommend is a specialty book themed to dinner parties, "Secrets of Cuban Entertaining," by three Florida writers, Rocio Lamadriz, Piedad Robertson and Olga de Zaldo. Unfortunately, it is not widely distributed. Plus, though you'll find a lot of traditional recipes, the book really isn't geared to novices at cooking or at those who don't have some familiarity with Latin ingredients. And no, there is not a recipe for Cuban chicken and rice.

Miamians take a dish such as "arroz con pollo" (chicken and yellow rice) for granted. You kind of make it by instinct, or follow the directions on the back of a package of yellow rice. There's also not a lot of impetus for making it at home, because it is so good and inexpensive at restaurants. But it's hard to come up with a recipe for our New Jersey reader and others who appreciate Cuban food but don't know much about how to prepare it. We were wrong.

In "The Complete Book of Caribbean Cooking" by Elisabeth Lambert Ortiz (Ballantine, $4.95) there's a recipe for arroz con pollo, but it's a hybrid of the Cuban, Puerto Rican and Dominican versions of the traditional Spanish dish, a little too gussied up to fly as authentic here.

At any rate, I begged a recipe from Cuban-American friends who laughed at the idea anyone would need a recipe to make it. You may want to use olive oil in place of the lard (I do), but lard — or even chicken fat — is more authentic. Theoretically, you would make the dish with saffron, but it is so expensive that most home cooks (and, I'll wager, a lot of Latin restaurants) substitute bijol. Bijol, also known as ground annatto seed or achiote, gives the dish the same distinctive yellow color as saffron and a fragrant flavor that's not as subtle as saffron but does the job. Check Latin and Oriental markets for it. If you can't find sour orange juice, substitute 1 tablespoon lemon juice mixed with 1 tablespoon orange juice. Some people garnish the dish with asparagus tips and hard-boiled eggs in addition to the pimiento and peas.

ARROZ CON POLLO

1 fryer chicken, about 3½ pounds, cut into serving pieces
¼ cup sour orange juice
3 cloves garlic, crushed and minced
2 teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons lard
1 large onion, chopped
1 large bell pepper, chopped
2 cups long grain rice
4 cups chicken broth or water
1 bay leaf
4 or 5 strands saffron, or 2 teaspoons bijol
1 16-ounce can tomatoes, chopped
1 10-ounce package small peas, defrosted
1 4-ounce jar or can whole pimientos, drained and sliced
3 tablespoons dry sherry

Place the chicken in a single layer in a glass dish. Mix the sour orange juice with the garlic and salt and sprinkle over the chicken. Let marinate 30 minutes and drain, reserving any accumulated juices. Melt the lard (or heat oil) in a paella pan or deep, heavy, ovenproof frying pan and brown the chicken lightly on all sides.

Remove chicken from the pan and saute the onion and pepper over medium-high heat just until onion is transparent. Stir in the rice, coating the grains with the oil. Add the chicken broth to the pan, stir, then add bay leaf, saffron or bijol, tomatoes and reserved marinade. Bring to a boil and cook 5 minutes, then return chicken to pan, stir, cover and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes, or until rice is tender and chicken is cooked through. Just before serving garnish with peas and pimiento and heat through; if desired, sprinkle with sherry. Serves six.

Q. At a Christmas dinner in 1985 I tasted a poppyseed Bundt cake made from a yellow cake mix, adding sour cream among other things. Since then, I've been trying to locate this recipe. Please help if you can.

A. I couldn't find a recipe, so I experimented, using part of a "scratch" recipe for a poppyseed cake and the standard instructions for making a sour cream pound cake from a cake mix. It turned out fine. If you like a cake that's less rich, skip the filling-topping and drizzle the cake with a cinnamon glaze.

POPPYSEED SOUR CREAM CAKE

¼ to ¾ cup (to taste) poppyseeds
1 8-ounce container sour cream
4 eggs
1 cup vegetable oil
1 3¼-ounce package vanilla instant pudding
1 box yellow cake mix without pudding

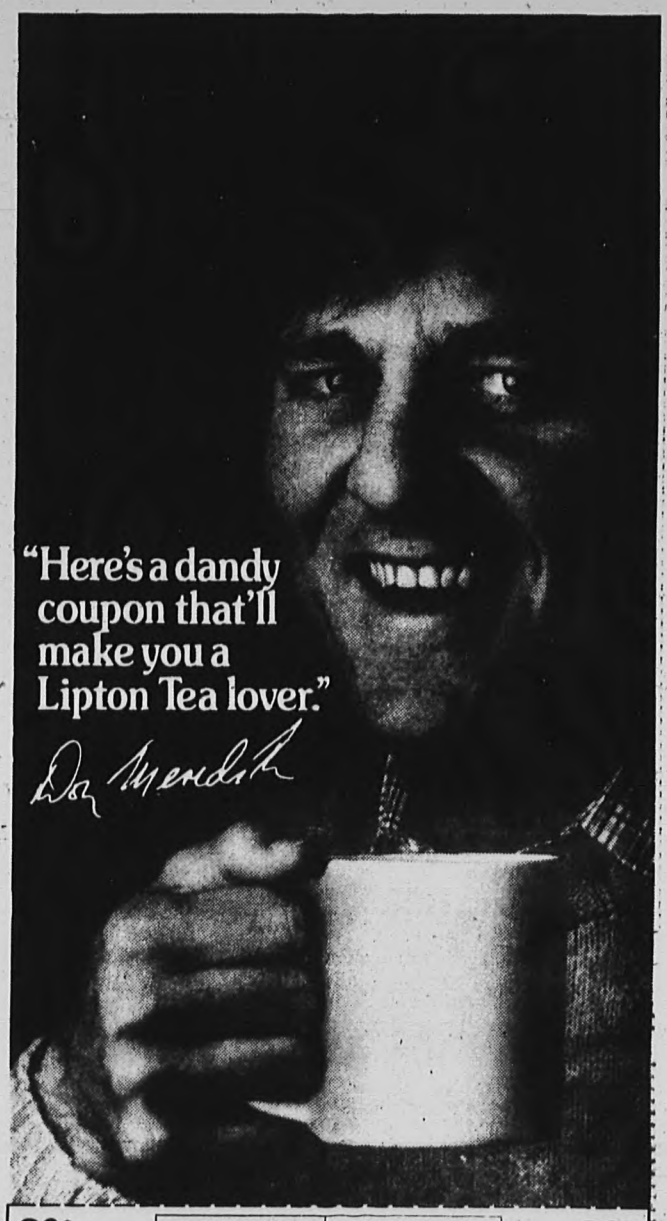

Filling:

1 cup sugar
1 cup sour cream
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon flour
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Stir poppyseeds into sour cream and let soften 6 to 8 hours, or overnight. Beat together sour cream, eggs, vegetable oil and pudding mix. Add cake mix and stir just until well combined. Pour into greased and floured tube or Bundt pan, spreading batter evenly. Bake 50 to 60 minutes at 350 degrees, or until cake tests done. Cool right-side up for 25 minutes, then remove from pan and cool completely. If desired, split cake horizontally in two and fill. Serves 12 to 16.

To make filling: Combine sugar, sour cream, egg yolks and flour in a medium saucepan and cook over medium heat until thick, about 4 minutes. Stir in vanilla and cool slightly, then fold in chopped walnuts. Spread between layers and on top of cooled cake.

Pianist saves best for last in concert

By JOSEPH J. SZOSTAK
Correspondent for The Register

Review

WEST LONG BRANCH — The name Menuhin has a magical ring to it and like a bell calling worshipers to service, it drew an overflow crowd to Pollak Auditorium on Saturday evening, about thrice the usual size of "Monmouth College: In Concert" audiences.

Unfortunately, the audience would have to wait until the end of Jeremy Menuhin's piano recital for some musical magic to take place. A re-shuffling of his program allowed Menuhin to save the best he had to offer for last — Claude Debussy's "Estampes" and "L'Isle joyeuse."

Taking his cue from the word "estampes" (images printed from engraved copper or wood plate which set the image in strong perspective) Menuhin performed "Pagodas" with a light percussive quality, making the clarity of rhythmic patterns paramount. Menuhin's portrait of an oriental city of pagodas concentrated more on the life tempo rather than the din in the air or the play of the sun on golden roofs.

The clearer-than-usual-impressionism may also be attributed to a hangover of generous flutter-pedalling which Menuhin used abundantly in preceding pieces for clarity.

"Evening in Grenada," in the rhythm of a habanera, was atmospherically more Debussian and very Iberian for a composer who never set foot in Spain.

In "Gardens in the Rain," Debussy returned to France, using segments of two of the nursery rounds most popular with French children. Menuhin treated his audience to dramatic and exciting washes of pianistic color which emanated from opposing registers of the instrument.

One of Debussy's most extroverted and orchestrally conceived compositions, "The Joyous Isle," lived up to its name. Menuhin served up the vivacious rhythms and harmonic color with exuberance and panache, the finale boisterously brilliant. The rest of Menuhin's program leaned more towards the lackluster with the exception of Mozart's Sonata No. 17 in D Major, K.576.

The pianist's solid technique allowed him to clearly articulate the jolly and ebullient opening Allegro, keep the accompaniment of the linear arioso in the Adagio appropriately balanced and perform the flashy, rippling variations of the Allegretto with stylistic reserve.

Franz Schubert's Posthumous Sonata in C Minor is a ponderous work. Lacking Beethoven's intensity, Schubert's grave statements tend to sound melodramatic and the abortive phrases neurotic. In the whole of the opening Allegro, the development section with the juxtaposition of thematic bits proved to be most interesting.

Menuhin did little to fan the flames of Romantic fire. The reading of both the Schubert and the Chopin sounded close to Mozart.

Chopin's Ballade No. 4 in F Minor, Op. 52, was devoid of dramatic sweep and especially disappointing. Although successful in his pursuit of the climax, Menuhin seemed to lack either the daring or the strength to cap things off upon reaching the summit.

History group plans lecture

RUMSON — The Monmouth County Historical Association's American Decorative Arts Lecture Series resumes March 6 at 8:30 p.m. Stephanie Grauman Wolf, co-director of the Philadelphia Center for Early American Studies at the University of Pennsylvania, will speak on "Living it up in the 18th Century: The style of life among the rich and famous."

Lectures will be at the Rumson Country Day School, Bellevue Avenue, and will be followed by a reception to meet the speaker. Tickets will be available at the door for $7 per person or in advance by subscription for $15 for members of the association and $18 for non-members for the remaining three lectures.

Bridge

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Textbooks tell you to play low as second hand, partly to avoid wasting a high card and partly to make your opponent guess where the high cards are. Sometimes the textbooks are right, sometimes not.

South took the king of hearts and led the jack of spades. Expecting declarer to lose a finesse to East, West automatically played low; and there went the defense.

East won the queen of spades and returned a heart, but declarer won and led a second spade. Now West captured only low cards with his ace. Declarer had two spade winners in dummy and seven in all.

SHOULD PLAY ACE

At the second trick, West should play the ace on South's jack of spades. This is a simple case of covering an honor with an honor, although covering with an ace is unusual. East now keeps his Q-9-7 behind dummy's K-10-8, and declarer gets only one spade trick.

Declarer could make the contract legitimately by winning the opening lead in dummy and setting up clubs, but it's hard to argue with success.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold: ♠J 6 ♡K Q 6 ◇7 4 2 ♣J 5 4 3 2. Partner opens one club, you raise to two clubs and he rebids two hearts. The opponents pass. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three hearts. Partner is interested in game, and your raise of his second suit will encourage him. He will know you lack four-card heart support since you didn't respond one heart originally.

BY STELLA WILDER

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4

Born today, you are an idealist at heart, yet you have the ability to look at life and its situations from a realistic perspective; rose-colored glasses are not for you. You are a highly talented individual, and it is likely that you will never limit yourself to any one activity.

Also born on this date are Knute Rockne, football legend; John Garfield, actor.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

THURSDAY, MARCH 5

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) – Gather your forces together early in the day for best results later on. Avoid midday decline in energy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) – You may have to go out of your way today to give assistance to a family member in need.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) -- Be prepared to bear an extra burden -- at least during the first part of the day. Do not neglect routine duties

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) -- Finances assume prominent place in today's picture -- though there is much else to tend to before nightfall.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) -- An optimistic approach is advised today. Show of strength in the face of opposition proves beneficial.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) -- Your judgment is keen today, though you would be wise to rely more heavily on intuition at this time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) -- Take the reins today, and do not give them up until you have proven what you can do to higher-ups.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) -- You were best to soft-pedal romance today -- unless you are willing to dig deep in search of answers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) -- Big changes are in store, but your focus should be on present responsibilities. Don't jump the gun!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) -- A day during which you can rest comfortably, secure in the knowledge that you are in control.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) -- Silence is golden today -- until late in the afternoon, at which time you must beware of unspoken messages.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) -- Analytical approach is advised today. Problems that stem from recent indecision can be solved at this time.

Syrup

■ Maple syrup can be used as a glaze for cakes, breads or cookies. Or it can be put into baked beans. Ducks can be glazed with it, too.

■ Maple syrup can be condensed into a thick syrup for ice cream by cooking over low heat until thickened. Add almonds if you like and serve it on ice cream.

■ One way it is served at the Sucrerie is simmered and turned into maple taffy. Cook it slowly to 222 degrees, then immediately pour it onto some clean (and we emphasize clean) snow where it should harden into candy.

MAPLE-GLAZED CORNISH HENS

Makes six servings. Preparation time is 30 minutes. Cooking time is 30 minutes.

- 4 cups diced cored apples
- 4 cups cubed stale bread
- 2 cups dark raisins
- 2 eggs, beaten
- ½ teaspoon freshly ground nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon ground cloves
- Salt, pepper to taste
- 6 Cornish hens
- Softened butter
- Paprika
- Pure maple syrup
- Cognac or brandy, if desired

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Mix apples, bread, raisins, eggs, nutmeg, cloves, salt and pepper in large bowl. Rinse hens; pat dry. Stuff cavity of each hen with bread mixture. Truss openings. Tuck wings behind the hens' backs.

Put hens into large roasting pan. Smear generously with butter and sprinkle with paprika. Bake, basting often with pan juices, until leg wiggles easily, about 30 to 40 minutes. Brush heavily with maple syrup during the last 10 minutes of baking for a nice golden glaze on the skin. If desired, warm a small amount of Cognac or brandy and pour over hens; carefully ignite. Serve when flame dies down.

OLD-FASHIONED BAKED BEANS

Makes eight to 10 servings. Soaking time is overnight. Preparation time is 20 minutes. Cooking time is six to seven hours.

- 4 cups dried beans, such as kidney or navy
- Water
- 1½ pounds salt pork, cubed
- 2 whole medium onions, peeled
- 1 tablespoon dry mustard
- 2 cups packed brown sugar
- 1 cup light molasses
- 1 cup pure maple syrup
- Salt to taste
- ½ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 1 teaspoon summer savory

Rinse beans. Soak beans in large bowl with cold water to cover overnight. Discard any beans that float. Drain beans; discard soaking water. Put beans into dutch oven; add fresh cold water to cover. Simmer, covered, over low heat for one hour.

Heat oven to 325 degrees. Stir remaining ingredients into beans. Add water if needed so beans are covered by water. Bake, tightly covered, until beans are tender, about five to six hours. Stir often during baking. If bean liquid is too thin, uncover the pot during the last 1 hour of baking. If beans are too dry, add water as needed.

MAPLE SYRUP PIE

Makes one 8-inch pie. Preparation time is 30 minutes. Baking time is 30 minutes.

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup pure maple syrup
- ½ cup water
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- 1 8-inch unbaked pie shell

Heat the oven to 425 degrees. Melt butter in medium saucepan under medium heat. Stir in flour. Cook and stir until flour browns slightly. Stir in maple syrup and water. Cook and stir until mixture thickens. Remove from heat; let cool. Stir in nuts.

Pour mixture into pie shell. Bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 350 degrees. Bake until crust is golden and filling is brown, about 20 minutes. Cool on wire rack. Serve at room temperature with a dollop of whipped cream if desired.

Seraphs roll past St. Pius

By JIM HINTELMANN
The Register

Seraphs 61
Bruins 49

MIDDLETOWN — Mater Dei boys basketball coach Keith Glass admits that his team didn't play one of its better games in last night's 61–49 NJSIAA South Jersey Parochial "B" triumph over stubborn St. Pius X of Piscataway but he was happy to accept the victory.

"We didn't play well but they played great," Glass said. "They made some great shots while we missed a lot of layups and foul shots, but you have to give St. Pius some credit for that. "We didn't play very smart but we did what we had to do to win," Glass said. "This was a big win for us."

St. Pius (14–10) hung tough with the Seraphs most of the game and the final score was no indication of the type of game it was.

"St. Pius is a good club," Glass said. "They're better than several of the teams we saw. They had three good kids."

The Bruins fell behind 31–23 in the opening minute of the third quarterbut Terrence Stokes led a St. Pius comeback that saw the Bruins go in front.

"We thought they would be good," Mater Dei's Vaughn Abel said. "But from now on everyone is going to be real tough."

A jumper and two foul shots by Stokes gave the Bruins a 39–38 lead, but Mater Dei's John Ferrara scored from underneath and was fouled. He missed the free throw with St. Pius rebounding, but Jeff Daiker stole the ball and scored at the buzzer for a 41–38 lead.

"They kind of surprised us," Mater Dei's Kevin Bott said. "We got a little down on ourselves.

"We missed a lot of easy stuff that we normally make," Bott said. "That could have broken the game open. But this is the state tournament and a win is a win."

Rich Downey's jumper to start the final quarter got the Bruins to within 41–40, but Abel, freshman Chris Yetman and Bott each dropped in two free throws for a 47–40 lead.

St. Pius, however, kept battling back and three free throws by Scott Adams got the Bruins to within 51–47 with 2:20 remaining.

"We came in 14–9 and our kids played hard," St. Pius coach Pete Hansen said. "They were 22–1 and have a great ball club but I can't say enough about the effort our kids made. We saw them a couple of times and knew that Daiker and Bott were the kids to stop."

Daiker hit two fouls shots, but Adams scored from in close to make it 53–49 with 1:58 left before the Seraphs scored the last eight points the game.

Bott and Daiker both put in a pair of free throws, and Yetman and Daiker scored layups.

"I think we got tired and lost our composure at the end," Hansen said. "That was because of the overall pressure they put on us throughout the game. Offensively, we got a little excited and a little confused, but we have young ball club and that can happen."

Mater Dei led most of the first half with the score last being tied at 10–10 but Abel and Bott both dropped in jumpers for a 14–10 Seraph lead.

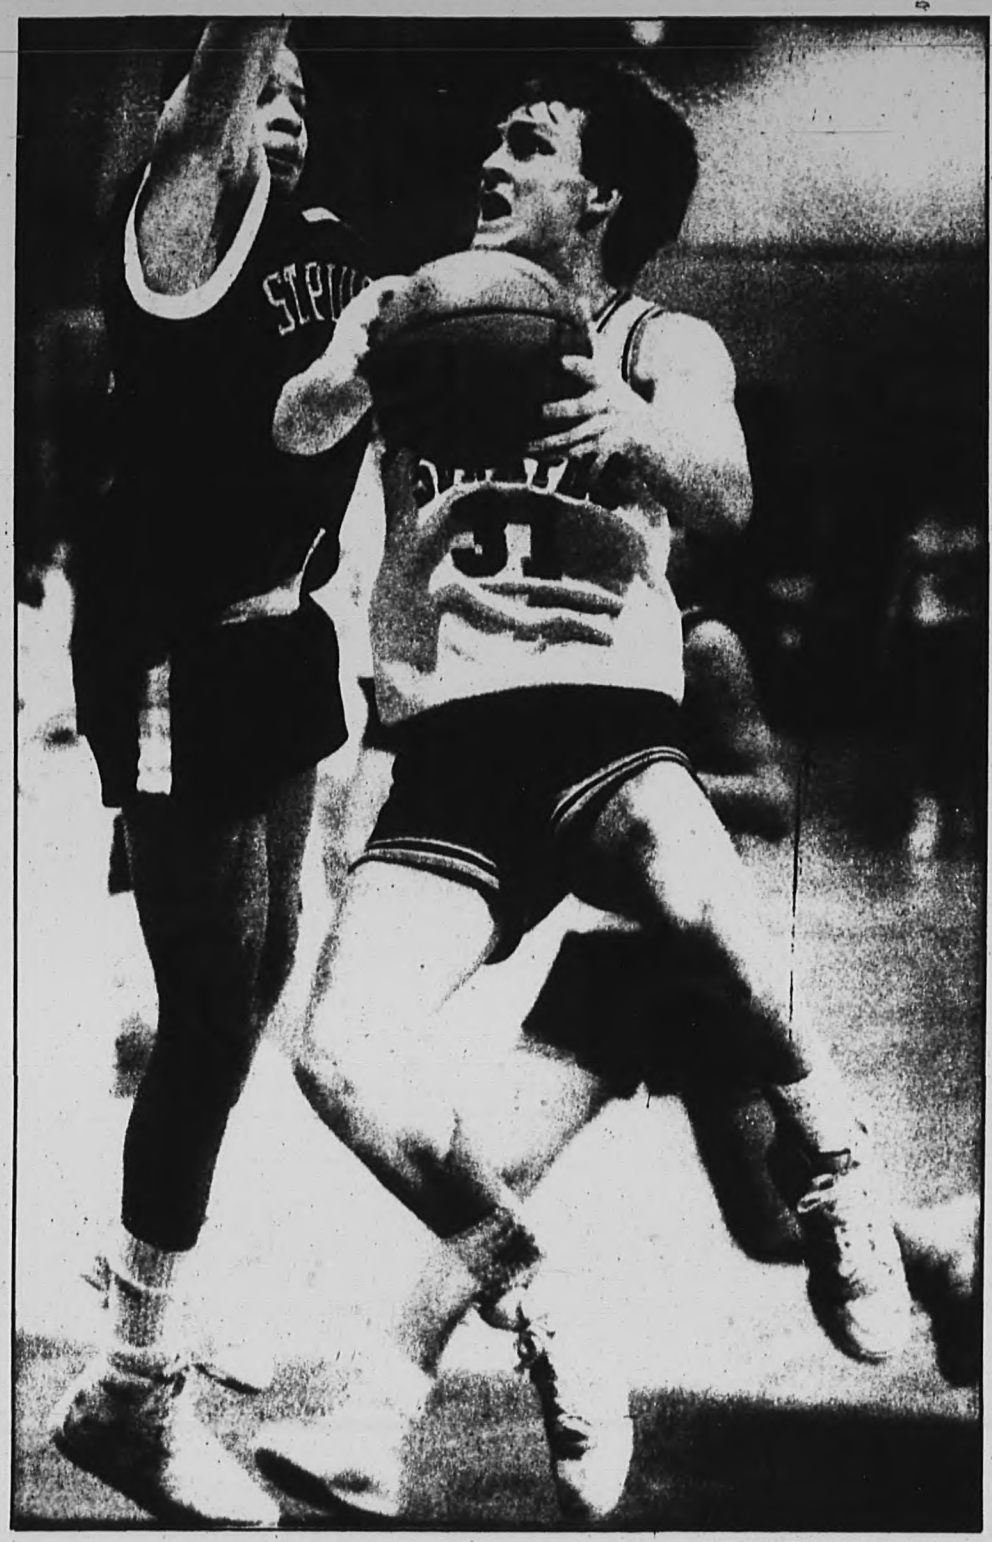

Daiker scored five baskets in the second quarter to help Mater Dei boost its lead to 30–23 at halftime.

Daiker finished the 24 points, Ferrara added 11 and Abel 10 for the Seraphs who will play St. Joseph's of Hammonton Saturday afternoon at Lakewood High School. Game time is 5 p.m.

St. Joseph's upset Gloucester Catholic, 58–54, in its first-round game last night.

Stokes scored 18 points and

Gymnast returns to action

By JONNI FALK
The Register

SAN ANTONIO — Stacey Gunthorpe of Freehold returned to gymnastics action here over the weekend by taking first place in two individual events and battling to the end for the all-around championship.

Gunthorpe, the 16-year-old Olympic hopeful, finished first in the vault and floor exercises, but a fall on the uneven bars, her last event in the all-around championships, placed her seventh in that category.

Gunthorpe, who has been idle since she was the top-scoring American gymnast against the Soviets last April, made her return in the Broadway Dodge-Alamo City Women's Gymnastics Classic, a meet which involved most of the top performers in the country.

One of the prime teams at the event was that of Bela Karolyi, with whom Gunthorpe trained before moving to GO Gymnasium, operated by Gizi Oltean, a former associate of Karolyi.

Karolyi's team provided the all-around winner, Kristie Phillips. Phillips actually tied with Doe Yamashiro of SCATS with a 38.4 total but was declared the winner because she had the higher individual event score, a 9.75 in floor exercises. Phoebe Mills of Karolyi's was third with 38.15.

As a result of her score in all-around, Gunthorpe qualified for the individual championships in vault, floor and balance beam. She took first in the vault with 9.7 and first in floor with 9.75, but slipped to sixth in beam because of a fall.

During the all-around competition, held on the first day of the meet, Gunthorpe finished the second round in second place after scores of 9.45 on the beam and 9.55 in

Wrestlers looking forward to chance to win state titles

By FRED SIEGLE
The Register

The quest for individual titles in the Region 6 wrestling tournament will begin tonight at 6:30 at Brick Memorial High School when the unseeded competitors meet for the right to face the district champions on Friday.

Steve Rivera of Manalapan, Howell's John Gagliano, Sam Cole of Long Branch and Middletown South's John Fagan and Doug Card received the No. 1 seeds in their weight classes for the tournament.

The wrestlers in the tournament are hoping to advance to the state championships, to be held next week in Princeton. The top three individuals in each weight class advance to the state meet.

For the top seeds, winning a Region title is only a step in the direction of their ultimate goal: to be state champion.

Rivera, who was state runnerup in the 101-lb weight class last year, feels he can win the title this year. Although he is 21–3 on the year, Rivera is undefeated in 101-lb matches.

"It's my turn," he said. "My chances are definitely looking good. The guy who beat me last year now wrestles at 115, so I don't have to worry about him."

However, Rivera is not looking past the Region contest. He expects one of his toughest contests will be against Tony Nash of Brick Memorial. Nash beat Rivera earlier this year in the Neptune Classic. However, he beat Nash several times last year.

"His turn to beat me came this year, now its back to my turn," Rivera said.

Harry Grasso of Ocean was seeded second at 101 lbs and may be Rivera's opponent in the final.

Gagliano, who won the region title at 101 pounds last year, is seeded first at 108 now. He expects his toughest competetor to be Vin Santaniello of Brick Memorial, who received the second seed.

Gagliano narrowly beat Santaniello in the final at Neptune.

"He's really tough, especially when you consider that he's only a freshman," Gagliano said. "But I think I'm a lot stronger now then when we first met."

Cole, at 27–0, is one of six undefeated wrestlers in the tournament. He is on his way to defending the state 115 pound title he won last year. He is not a defending champion in the region, though, having lost in the final.

Among the wrestlers he may meet are District 22 champ Brian Copeman of Middletown North, who is seeded second, and Manalapan's Todd Thompson, the District 21 winner who is seeded fourth. Ted Kacendes of Ocean must also be considered a threat to reach the 115 final. He was beaten by Cole 5–0 in the District 23 finals.

Fagan, the state runnerup at 122 last year, is also seeking his second Region crown. At

More trouble for Miami

Stubbs accused of simple battery

CORAL GABLES, Fla. — Coach Jimmy Johnson has dismissed a starting lineman from the team, barred all visitors to the players' dormitories and warned his University of Miami football players that he will deal toughly with disciplinary problems this year.

Johnson's warning came in a closed-door meeting Monday before the scheduled start of Miami's first spring practice, which was rained out. It followed a new wave of team problems, one of which involves Danny Stubbs of Red Bank, a defensive end for the Hurricanes who is rated a sure-fire No. 1 draft pick next year.

Stubbs, who will be a fifth-year senior during the 1987 season, will remain on the team while a charge of simple battery against him is investigated, Johnson said.

"You've got to look at the seriousness," Johnson said.

Matt McCloskey, who was previously dismissed from the squad for disciplinary reasons, was charged along with Stubbs.

The two men allegedly tried to crash a private party on campus late Saturday. When dormitory supervisor Ann George, 29, tried to prevent their entry, according to the campus police report, the two men allegedly assaulted her. She told campus police that McCloskey grabbed her by the throat and pushed her, and that Stubbs grabbed her from the rear "in a choke hold fashion."

The incident is the third police report to have been filed on Stubbs, who holds the Miami sack record, in the past two years. He was accused of trespassing in 1985 and petty theft in 1986.

Johnson didn't make public the details of new disciplinary rules except the ban on all visitors. When a player asked in the meeting if that included tutors, The Miami Herald reported Tuesday, Johnson boomed: "That includes EVERY-BODY!"

Hall snubs Scooter, Dandridge voted in

By FRED GOODALL
Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla. — Ray Dandridge, a slick-fielding third baseman in the Negro Leagues who never realized his dream of playing in the major leagues, was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame yesterday by the Veterans Committee.

Dandridge was the only candidate to make it as the committee again passed up Phil Rizzuto, Leo Durocher, Tony Lazzeri and others old timers who were thought to have a chance at election.

"I never thought it would come after so many others went in and I kept missing," said Dandridge at his home in Palm Bay, Fla. "I thought they had forgotten about me."

Dandridge, 73, starred in the Negro Leagues in the 1930s and 1940s but was considered too old to be added to a major league roster after Jackie Robinson broke the color barrier with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947.

RAY "SQUAT" DANDRIDGE

Irvin, who along with Roy Campanella, led the push for Dandridge's selection compared the Palm Bay, Fla., resident's fielding skills to those of Brooks Robinson, the former Baltimore Orioles infielder.

"He was a natural third baseman because he was short, stocky and quick as a cat," said Irvin, a Hall of Famer himself.

Knicks down Jazz

Knicks 99
Jazz 86

NEW YORK (AP) — Reserves Louis Orr and Trent Tucker combined for 20 of New York's last 31 points as the Knicks rallied to defeat the Utah Jazz 99–86 last night, snapping a five–game NBA losing streak.

The Knicks, who fell behind early in the game, tied the score at 77–77 on Orr's basket with 9:49 left.

Orr, who finished with 12 points, all in the second half, combined with Tucker, who finished the game with 19, to pace an 11–4 New York streak over the next 3½ minutes.

Utah closed to within 92–84 on Darrell Griffith's jumper with 2:28 left, but the Knicks outscored the Jazz 7–2 to finish the game.

Patrick Ewing and Gerald Wilkins scored 20 points each for the Knicks. Karl Malone led all scorers with 26 points, and Griffith added 20.

Wilkins, Hawks hold off Pacers

Hawks 109
Pacers 108

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Dominique Wilkins, who scored 30 points in the Atlanta Hawks' 109–108 NBA win over Indiana last night, sometimes is ignored by Coach Mike Fratello.

"A lot of times, I tend to overlook Dominique," Fratello said. "I ask so much of him that sometimes I forget to compliment him. He's the franchise player, a great person and I'm thankful that he's on this team."

Wilkins scored nine of his points in the fourth quarter as the Hawks held off a late Indiana rally, and guarded Chuck Person as he missed an 18–foot jumper in the final seconds that would have given Indiana the victory.

"There's no way that I'm going to let him (Person) get to the basket on this one," Wilkins said of that final shot. "If he's going to beat me, he's going to beat me from the outside."

Outside shooting was the Pacers' trouble, coach Jack Ramsay said.

"We only had them for eight scores outside. The rest were in the paint," Ramsay said. "That's too many."

"I think Chuck could have taken more time in creating something for himself or for someone else, but that comes with experience," Ramsay said. "That didn't lose it for us. That was just an opportunity to win."

The Hawks, leading 96–94 with seven minutes to play, scored nine straight points, including five by Wilkins, opened a 105–94 lead on a Kevin Willis layup with 4:49 left.

The Pacers scored the next eight points to cut the margin to three on a three–point play by Steve Stipanovich that made it 105–102 with 3:31 to play.

Wilkins hit a 15–footer, but Stipanovich countered with three free throws and Herb Williams added one on the next two possessions to cut Hawks' lead to 107–106.

Wilkins connected on a 12–footer along the base line with 50 seconds left, but Indiana again cut the margin to one on a slam dunk by John Long nine seconds later. The Pacers had the ball and a chance to win with 11 seconds to go, but Person missed an 18–foot jumper.

Willis added 21 for the Hawks.

The Pacers were led by Person's 31 points, 15 of them in the fourth quarter. Williams added 26 points.

Bulls 114, Clippers 80

CHICAGO — For the first time this year, the Chicago Bulls blew an opponent off the court.

The 34–point victory margin, a shellacking of the Los Angeles Clippers, was the Chicago's biggest winning margin since beating Houston by 53 points on Feb. 2, 1983.

"But, remember, we have to play the Clippers again in Los Angeles (March 19) and they're a much better team at home," said Michael Jordan, who scored scored 30 points in the three quarters. He scored 18 in the second quarter, and Chicago coasted the rest of the way.

"Not only did we possess that killer instinct for the first time this season, but we matched last year's victory total — 30 — a victory in itself," Bulls' Coach Doug Collins said.

"With 26 games still to go, I'm hoping this team will pick up on its past mistakes," Collins said.

Perry powers Temple to tourney final

Owls 84
Hawks 68

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tim Perry and eighth–ranked Temple showed St. Joseph's why two chances are better than one.

Perry grabbed eight offensive rebounds and the Owls finished with 21 to defeat St. Joseph's 84–68 last night to advance to the championship game of the Atlantic 10 Conference basketball playoffs.

"We knew we could win if we could stop their second shots, and we couldn't do it," St. Joseph's Coach Jim Boyle said. "Perry is so quick. He dominated. He's the key to their team."

Perry finished with a career–high 24 points, and 11 rebounds and seven blocked shots for Temple, 30–3.

"I was expecting a very physical game, and I was prepared for it," Perry said. "It seems I was getting more shots than usual, and the guards were getting the ball in to me."

Temple Coach John Chaney said he would wait before lavishing praise on the 6–foot–9 junior.

"He's been improving all along, but I don't want to get into the adjectives yet," Chaney said. "I'm not surprised at what he does and his basketball is still in front of him."

While Perry controlled the boards, Nate Blackwell scored 14 of his 25 points during a 6½–minute Temple surge in the second half.

Leading 49–45 with 13:48 to play, Temple went on a 19–5 run to build an 18–point lead with 7:16 remaining. Blackwell scored 14 points during that streak, and had a string of 11 consecutive points during one stretch.

Blue tested positive for cocaine three times last year

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Vida Blue, who abruptly retired a day before the start of spring training last month, tested positive for cocaine three times last season while pitching for the San Francisco Giants, according to a published report.

Both the Giants and A's, who signed Blue to an estimated $300,000 one–year contract on Jan. 21, said they were unaware of the tests. The San Francisco Examiner reported yesterday that the tests were required as part of Blue's 1984 conviction for cocaine possession.

Giants spokesman Dave Aust said yesterday from the Giants' camp in Scottsdale, Ariz., that the failure of probation officials to notify the Giants of Blue's repeated violations was "strange."

"We all along assumed that if anything came of his probation, they would alert us," Aust said. "I don't know why they wouldn't."

Documents filed in U.S. District Court in San Francisco showed Blue violated probation four times last year. The 1971 American League Cy Young Award winner tested positive for cocaine on July 11, Aug. 6 and Sept. 3 and had another unspecified violation, the Examiner said.

Blue's two–year probationary period was extended for two years last March 27 as a result of the first violation, according to the newspaper.

Blue, who said in a statement last month he was retiring "while I am still in good health," has failed to return repeated telephone calls from reporters. He has not commented on newspaper reports citing drugs as the reason for his retirement.

The 37–year–old left–hander signed with the A's on Jan. 21 for an estimated $300,000. He was 10–10 for the Giants last year with a 3.27 earned–run average and had been projected as a starter for Oakland. His career mark is 209–161.

> "I knew nothing about it. He always showed up, did his work. I know Roger (Craig, Giants manager) and his coaches didn't see any signs of it."

> Al Rosen
> S.F. Giants president and general manager

Al Rosen, Giants' president and general manager, said he was shocked about the tests.

"I knew nothing about it," he said. "He always showed up, did his work. I know Roger (Craig, Giants manager) and his coaches didn't see any signs of it."

Sandy Alderson, A's vice president of baseball operations, also said he was unaware of the testing.

Federal officials apparently are not required to disclose the testing to a player's team or to major–league baseball officials, according to the Examiner.

Richard Levin, a spokesman for baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth, said, "There's no connection with our office and his (Blue's) federal probation."

Former Commissioner Bowie Kuhn suspended Blue for the 1984 baseball season for possessing cocaine while a member of the Kansas City Royals. He served 81 days at the Federal Correctional Institute in Fort Worth, Texas.

Favorites breeze to victories

By JOEY HOLLEMAN
Associated Press

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. — Top seeds Martina Navratilova and Ivan Lendl headed a field of tournament favorites that advanced yesterday at the $1.8 million International Players Championships.

Navratilova blitzed unseeded Nathalie Tauziat of France 6–1, 6–1 in 53 minutes to earn the first spot in the women's semifinals.

Lendl dominated 16th–seeded Brad Gilbert 6–2, 6–2, 6–4 to reach the men's quarterfinals.

For ease of victory, however, they had nothing on Jimmy Connors and Steffi Graf.

Connors, the No.6 men's seed, destroyed Johan Carlsson of Sweden 6–0, 6–1, 6–0 in 64 minutes in the afternoon. Graf, the No.3 women's seed, beat Lisa Bonder 6–0, 6–1 in 36 minutes in the lone night singles tennis match.

One day after rain had forced the postponement of nearly the entire schedule, the International Tennis Center was devoid of rain and major upsets yesterday.

In women's play, second–seeded Chris Evert Lloyd and fourth–seeded Hana Mandlikova and sixth–seeded Helena Sukova, both of Czechoslovakia, moved into the quarterfinals.

In early men's play, fourth–seeded Yannick Noah of France and ninth–seeded Miloslav Mecir of Czechoslovakia claimed fourth–round victories.

In the tightest match of the day, fifth–seeded Mats Wilander of Sweden outlasted 12th–seeded Tim Mayotte 3–6, 6–3, 7–5, 6–7 (4–7), 6–4 in a 3:51 match that started at just before 4 p.m. and ended just minutes before Graf's match, which had started three hours later.

The only upset of the day was scored by Jay Berger, of nearby Plantation, who tripped 10th–seeded Andres Gomez of Ecuador, 6–3, 3–6, 6–4, 6–4.

The other surprise men's quarterfinalist is Derrick Rostagno, who got through the first round in a walkover when third–seeded Boris Becker came down with a stomach ailment and had to pull out of the tournament. Since then, Rostagno, a former Stanford player from Brentwood, Calif., has made his own breaks, including his 6–4, 6–7, 6–3, 6–4 victory over unseeded Robert Seguso in the fourth–round yesterday.

Lendl, who has struggled a little in the early rounds, said he mysteriously found his stroke Monday during a workout with his coach, Tony Roche.

"Yesterday when I was hitting with Tony, I starting hitting the ball as well as at the Masters and even at the U.S. Open," he said. "I don't know why but I felt really good."

After her easy victory over Tauziat, Navratilova pronounced herself ready for a rematch of her dramatic U.S. Open final victory over Graf.

"I'm psyched up," she said of a possible semifinal showdown here with Graf, who recently moved up to No.2 in the world rankings. "I'll be ready from the first point on."

In the past, Navratilova normally hasn't been so excited about a match unless it has been in one of the Grand Slam events or against Lloyd.

"As great as my rivalry with Chris has been over the years, it needs some new blood," she said. "I think Graf has put a bee in the bonnet of both of us. She is making everybody work harder."

Graf was in a light–hearted mood after her demolition of Bonder.

"I feel sorry a bit for the people coming for the matches, especially when there's only one singles match at night," the West German said. "But what should I do."

Carteret 64, Shore 47

CARTERET— Corey Lowe scored 17 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to lead Carteret to a victory over Shore Regional in Central Jersey Group II boys action.

Carteret will next play tomorrow at top seeded Asbury Park.

Lowe had 10 of his points in the first period as Carteret took the lead to stay.

The Ramblers pulled away with a 20-10 final quarter. Bob Butynes scored all nine of his points in the final stanza.

Jim Hart with 15 points and Mike Medvitz with 11 points also placed in double figures for the Ramblers.

Shore, which concludes its season with a 13-11 record, was led by Mark Pallotta's 19 points. Joe Centanni added 16 for the Blue Devils.

Perth Amboy 79, Marlboro 72

PERTH AMBOY— Perth Amboy used a pressing defense to pull away from Marlboro in the third period and win the Central Jersey Group IV clash.

The Mustangs managed to stay within four points of the Panthers in the first half, but Perth Amboy opened the third quarter with a 8-2 run and Marlboro could never really recover.

Tony Valentin and Marshall Gordon, who had 24 and 22 points respectively, each had eight points in the third stanza.

Ray Stewart and Mike Stewart chipped in with 14 and 10 points apiece.

Marlboro, which ends its season at 9-13, was led by Keith Goldstein's 27 points. John Famolari had 22 for the Mustangs.

Hunterdon Central 47, Manalapan 45

ENGLISHTOWN — Joe Silbersthorne hit two free throws withh 18 seconds left in the second overtime to give Hunterdon Central a victory over Manalapan in first-round NJSIAA Central Jersey Group IV boys basketball yesterday.

R.J. Kane scored 12 points and Matt Dunleavy 11 for the Braves (14-9).

Middletown North streaks to victory

North 51 Ridge 42

MADISON TOWNSHIP — Middletown High School North pulled away in the fourth quarter to upset Cedar Ridge, 51-42, in girls NJSIAA Central Jersey Group IV basketball action last night.

The Lions (13-9) will travel to third-seeded Edison Township tomorrow night at 7:30. Cedar Ridge closes out its season at 17-7.

The first three quarters were tight with North holding a 26-25 lead going into the final quarter. Nina Rozzo and Donna Marotta took charge in the fourth quarter with seven points each as the Lions outscored the Cougars, 25-17.

"Once we got a five-point lead, Cedar Ridge pressed and we were able to get free for layups," North coach Ed Jones said. "We also made a lot of free throws."

Nancy Deaney, a six-foot sophomore, grabbed 14 rebounds for the Lions. North dropped in 9 of 15 free throws in the final quarter.

Marotta scored 13 points and Rozzo 12 for the Lions, but Cedar Ridge's Tracey Robinson led all scorers with 23.

Manalapan 45 Madison Central 25

MANALAPAN— Manalapan used a strong defense to easily defeat Madison Central in a Central Jersey Group IV girls matchup

The most points Madison Central scored in a quarter was the nine they scored in the last period.

Manalapan coach Garth Shelhamer credited his team's offensive rebounding

"We got strong offensive rebounding by Kim Martz. she had at least seven offensive rebounds," Shelhamer said.

Martz scored 11 points to lead the Brave attack. Cindy Gilbride added 10 points.

Madsion Central was led by Regina Rossano's 16 points.

Manalapan will host Hunterdon Central at 7:30 tomorrow night.

Monmouth Reg. 57, South Plainfield 27

SOUTH PLAINFIELD— Linda Hayes had 23 points and pulled down 17 rebounds to lead Monmouth Regional to a rout of South Plainfield in Central Jersey Group II action.

The Golden Falcons will next play at top seeded Holmdel at 7:30 tomorrow night.

Stacey Hayes added 19 for the Golden Falcons. 11 of her points came in the last quarter.

Linda Hayes had nine of her points in the first period as she helped the Golden Falcons get out of the gate fast. Monmouth led, 17-8, after one period.

Hunterdon Central 56, Middletown South 30

FLEMINGTON— Adirenne Van Nuys scored 24 points to lead Hunterdon Central to a easy Central Jersey Group IV win over Middletown South.

"Van Nuys is an excellent center," Eagle coach Patrice Murray said. "We doing a pretty good job on her until our center Stephanie Martin went out in the third period with an ankle injury," Murray said.

Martin, although going scoreless in the first half, had nine rebounds and six blocked shots in the first half.

Murray also indicated that the pressing defense the Red Devils employed was a factor. "They really hurt us with the pressure," Murray said.

The Eagles had 16 turnovers in the game.

Middletown South was led by Jessica Bergman. She had 19 points including all 10 of the Eagle's points in the fourth period.

The Red Devils will next play at Manalapan at 7:30 tomorrow night.

Wrestling

27-0, he has gone through the year with little competition. However, that all changes when the Region tournament starts.

"The toughest match I've had was against Chuck Troutman of Lenape in the Neptune Classic," he said. "He got hurt and wasn't able to continue. I figure I'll meet him again somewhere in the state tournament."

"John hasn't been tested all year, but I don't think it will hurt him when the competition gets better," South coach Tom Erbig said. "He hasn't been tested because he is so awesome. He's wrestled good guys, he's just that much above them. He will be tested in the regions, though."

Card has compiled a 24-1 record at 158 pounds this year. He may meet number two seed Shawn Harewood of Long Branch in the region final.

For the wrestlers who didn't get the number one seeds, reaching and winning the region final is the number one priority.

"Right now, my goal is to be in the final," Scott Walters, Middletown South's 129-lb wrestler said. "I'll worry about the states after that."

Other wrestlers who were seeded second in their class are 135-pounder Pat Keefe of Raritan, undefeated Brian Jones of Rumson at 141, his teammate Andy Mauntner at 148, Ode Pritzlaff, Middletown South's standout 170-pounder, and heavyweight Tom George of Long Branch.

Capitals slip by Devils

Caps 3
Devils 2

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Washington's Pete Peeters stopped 32 shots in posting his ninth straight goaltending victory last night, a 3–2 NHL triumph for the Capitals over the New Jersey Devils.

Washington, which has won six consecutive games and seven of eight since the All-Star break, went over .500 for the first time since October 28. The Capitals are 29–28–8.

The Devils have not won at Washington in 18 tries, going 0–17–1 since the franchise moved east from Colorado. They last won at the Capital Centre, as the Colorado Rockies, on March 2, 1980.

Mike Gartner extended his consecutive game scoring streak to seven with a backhander at 11:54 of the first period. Gartner, who had a nine-game streak snapped on Feb. 4, has the longest and second-longest streaks of the season. Mario Lemieux of Pittsburgh and Winnipeg's Gilles Hamel have also had seven-game streaks.

Gartner's goal, which gave Washington a 2–0 lead, was his 35th of the season. Gartner, who has scored 25 in the last 20 games, has reached the 35-goal mark in each of his eight seasons in the NHL.

John Blum scored Washington's first goal, 4:38 into the game. It was his first goal since Feb. 25, 1986. Michal Pivonka made it 3–0 with 18 seconds to go in the second period.

New Jersey, winless in its last three games and last in the Patrick Division, got back into the contest late in the third period. Aaron Broten broke Peeters' shutout bid at 12:25, scoring his 18th goal of the season, and Doug Sulliman got his 24th at 13:47.

"Every time we play New Jersey, it's the same story," Washington Coach Bryan Murray said. "They work hard, they don't quit, they almost wait you out.

"It was a home game we had to win," continued Murray, whose team plays at division-leading Philadelphia Thursday night. "Today it was more important than the Flyers game."

The Washington victory, combined with a tie in New York between the Boston Bruins and New York Islanders, moved Washington into a second-place tie with the Islanders. The Flyers stand 15 points ahead of the tied teams.

Flyers ice Sabres

Flyers 4
Sabres 2

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tim Kerr scored his 46th goal of the season with 7:43 left in the second period to lift the Philadelphia Flyers to a 4–2 NHL victory over the Buffalo Sabres last night.

The Philadelphia victory broke a string of five home losses to the Sabres dating back to Oct. 14, 1982. The Sabres, who own the league's second worst record, dropped their third straight.

Kerr put the Flyers ahead 3–2 when he took a centering pass from Dave Poulin and lifted a shot over the glove hand of goalie Tom Barrasso.

Philadelphia's Mark Howe rocketed a shot past Barrasso with 4:43 gone in the final period to give the Flyers' two-goal cushion. The goal, coming off a drop pass from Poulin, was Howe's 500th NHL point.

The Flyers scored 3:14 into the game when Kjell Samuelsson ripped a blue-line shot through the legs of Barrasso for his third goal of the year.

Buffalo answered back 1:41 later when Don Lever scored his first goal of the season to make it 1–1. Lever scored when he slid into the goal with the puck after taking a centering pass from Ken Priestlay.

Peter Zezel put the Flyers back on top, 2–1, when he tipped in a Doug Crossman shot at the 16:13 mark for his 31st goal of the season.

The Sabres tied the score again when Mike Foligno scored his 21st, banging in a loose puck sitting in front of Flyers goaltender Ron Hextall.

Bruins 4, Islanders 4

UNIONDALE, N.Y. — Mikko Makela's second goal of the game, with 45 seconds left, rallied the New York Islanders to a tie with the Boston Bruins.

New York had pulled goaltender Kelly Hrudey for an extra attacker and Makela put in a backhander after picking up the rebound of a shot by Mike Bossy.

Ken Linsemn scored twice, including a third-period goal that gave Boston a 4–2 lead before Makela got his two goals to force the tie.

Penguins 8, Nordiques 1

QUEBEC — Randy Cunneyworth scored four goals and Mario Lemieux added two as the Pittsburgh Penguins routed the Quebec Nordiques.

Cunneyworth, who had a three-goal game earlier in the season, tied the game 1–1 with his 21st goal at 4:53 of the first period. Basil McRae had scored for Quebec 1:57 into the game.

Whalers 5, Red Wings 3

HARTFORD, Conn. — Ron Francis scored two goals and assisted on two others Tuesday night as the Hartford Whalers ended a three-game winning streak by the Detroit Red Wings.

The Red Wings faced pesky forechecking by the Whalers and weren't able to get their offense on track until the final period, when they scored twice.

Blues 4, Maple Leafs 3

TORONTO — Blues defenseman Rob Ramage scored two goals and goaltender Rick Wamsley made 36 saves in a St. Louis victory that seriously damaged the NHL playoff hopes of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Leafs outshot the Blues 39–18 overall.

Clements says SMU board knewof payments to players

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said yesterday when he headed the Southern Methodist Board of Governors, he and other board members were aware that payment commitments had been made with SMU football players.

He said they had discussed whether to honor those payments.

It was the first time that any member of SMU's governing body had acknowledged knowing of cash payments, which were cited last week when the NCAA hit the school with the stiffest penalties ever imposed against a football program.

"We made a considered judgment decision over several months that the commitments had been made and in the interest of the institution, the boys, their families and to comply with the NCAA, that program would be phased out and that we would comply in a full sense of integrity to all the rules and regulations," Clements said in response to questions at his regular news conference.

He said the decision to phase out the payments was made in August 1985, but he did not say over what period of time the phasing out of payments would be made and was not available for further comment later.

In imposing sanctions last week, which included banning football entirely for 1987, the NCAA said payments continued through December 1986.

SMU officials said last week, after the penalties were announced, that there was no evidence to indicate university board members were involved.

Clements was chairman of the SMU Board of Governors, but resigned his post before being sworn in as governor in January.

The Dallas Times Herald reported yesterday that sources close to the athletic department said the "power structure" of the university, including Clements, decided to honor payment contracts to football players.

The newspaper said the decision was made by Clements and some SMU board members at a meeting that took place after the school was placed on three years probation in August 1985.

Questioned about the matter at his news conference, Clements said, "... There was a decision made that we would phase out and eliminate in due course all of these arrangements that had been made in the recruiting of certain athletes at SMU."

Clements said the decision was made with the understanding SMU football would "return to a program of absolute integrity. That we gave that pledge to the NCAA and we also had commitments from the athletic director (Bob Hitch) and Coach (Bobby) Collins that they would abide by that decision. And that we would return to an absolutely clean program at SMU, so yes, we did."

Asked about the existence of actual "contracts" with players, Clements said, "I'm not sure there's any such thing as a written contract. I never saw such a contract. And I have never paid a player five cents nor have I ever recruited a player in athletics. I've never done that."

South Carolina hoop put on probation

By RICK SCOPPE
Associated Press

COLUMBIA, S.C. — South Carolina's basketball program was placed on two year's probation yesterday for NCAA rules violations, the most serious being a "well-organized and well-executed scheme" in which players sold complimentary tickets to boosters.

South Carolina also was banned from postseason action by the NCAA because of rule violations under former Coach Bill Foster from 1982 to 1985.

Foster, who resigned after the 1985–86 season and was replaced by George Felton, is now coach at Northwestern. Foster didn't return telephone calls made to his office, but during the weekly Big Ten teleconference call, he said: "I've not heard anything. I cannot comment. I am on the road recruiting."

University President James B. Holderman said the school wouldn't appeal the NCAA's decision.

At the end of the first year of probation, the school can ask the NCAA to rescind the second year's penalty, something Holderman said the university plans to do.

"None of us like to get a report card which gives us some ... suggestion of things we've done wrong," Holderman said at a news conference at which the report was released.

"But I think in all fairness, the report deals with us with equity and deals with a problem with a great deal of fairness. That's why I've indicated we have no ... desire to appeal the matter. We'd like to put it behind us."

Other violations outlined in the 8-page report from the NCAA Committee on Infractions included:

— The loan and lease of automobiles to several possible recruits and players.

— Transportation, meals and lodging being provided for possible recruits and players.

But the committee said the "most distressing and serious" violation was the scheme set up and run by members of the coaching staff in which players sold their complimentary tickets at face value to boosters. A basketball ticket costs $7.

The players didn't "have contact with the ticket purchasers and received remuneration for their tickets directly from a member of the men's basketball coaching staff," the report said.

"Ticket purchasers neither negotiated nor passed money directly to the student-athletes, but rather arrangements for the sale of the tickets were handled by members of the coaching staff," the report said.

The report didn't identify the coaches, players or boosters who took part in the scheme and the univertsity declined to release the names during the news conference.

The committee said the scheme was a "willful and reprehensible violation" of NCAA rules. But the six-member committee also noted that without the university's help, much of the information about the scheme would have gone undiscovered.

University officials met with NCAA officials on Valentine's Day to go over the school's seven-month in-house investigation into allegations of rule violations during Foster's tenure.

Texas Tech hit with one–year probation

MISSION, Kansas (AP) — The NCAA yesterday cited Texas Tech's football program for 13 recruiting violations and placed the Red Raiders on probation for one year.

The NCAA stipped the school of three scholarships beginning in the 1988 season.

Texas Tech will be the third of nine SWC schools on probation. Texas Christian University also is on probation.

Tech's probation begins after the expiration of a 15-day appeal period or as soon as the school announces it does not intend to appeal.

Gymnast

the vault. When leader Mills messed up her balance beam routine, Gunthorpe temporarily moved into first with a 9.75 in floor exercises.

However, she tried a Jaeger release move on the uneven bars, the final event, missed it and lost her rhythm for the rest of her routine. She received an 8.6, and that dropped her into seventh with a 37.35 total.

Because of her injuries, knee and foot, and the long period of rehabilitation, Gunthorpe competed with watered-down routines. Her floor routine was new, but even that did not have some of the complexity it will have when she is fully recovered.

Oltean had said before the meet that she did not feel that Gunthorpe was completely ready to return. The coach expressed satisfaction with Gunthorpe's performances after it was over, however.

She said she was particularly delighted at Gunthorpe's results, despite the misses on bars and beam, because the other top gymnasts there had thrown their best routines at the judges.

Oltean noted that Gunthorpe's 39.25 total score against the Russians last year is still the highest score by an American in an international meet since Mary Lou Retton was competing.

Immediately ahead of Gunthorpe in the all-around standings were Julissa Gomez of Karolyi's with 38.10, Shelley Schearrer of SCATS with 37.70, and former Olympian Michelle Dusserre of SCATS with 37.45.

The two individual championships not won by Gunthorpe, the beam and bars, were taken by Yamashiro.

Gunthorpe will be in action again this weekend in the qualifying zone meet in Austin.

How to read N.Y.S.E.

The abbreviation of a company's name is followed by the current annual dividend per share. Unless otherwise noted, rates of dividends are annual disbursements based on the last quarterly or semiannual declaration. The PE (price-earnings) ratio is calculated by taking the last closing price of the stock and dividing by the earnings per share for the latest four quarters. Stock prices are given in dollar amounts. For example, 32½ means $32.50. Last refers to the day's trading prices. Chg. is the difference — plus, minus or no change — between the day's last reported price and the previous closing price.

May signal recession

Indicators drop 1% last month

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The government's main forecasting gauge of future economic activity fell 1 percent in January, the biggest nosedive in 30 months, the Commerce Department reported yesterday.

The steep drop in the Index of Leading Indicators was seen by some economists as an ominous sign that the economy could be teetering on the verge of a recession. But other analysts cautioned that the big January setback should be viewed as more of a correction after a large December advance.

The 2.3 percent rise in December and the 1 percent drop in January represented the biggest two-month swing in the index in more than 36 years.

Analysts attributed much of the volatility to a temporary surge in spending at the end of 1986 as businesses and consumers rushed to buy new autos and capital equipment to qualify for expiring tax breaks.

The open question, however, is how much will the new tax law depress economic activity in 1987.

Jerry Jasinowski, chief economist for the National Association of Manufacturers, said the January leading index report "conclusively demonstrates that economic activity is falling sharply in the first quarter of 1987."

He said business investment spending is being held back by the loss of tax benefits at the same time consumer spending, because of high debt burdens, is weakening as well.

"There is some risk of a recession in 1987, due to falling capital formation and the weak consumption activity," Jasinowski said. "But it looks like trade improvements and positive inventory numbers will bail us out."

The leading index, made up of dozen forward-pointing economic barometers, is designed to forecast economic activity six to nine months in the future. Three consecutive monthly declines in the index can, but not always, be the signal of an impending recession.

Irwin Kellner, chief economist at Manufacturers Hanover Trust in New York, cautioned against reading too much in the one-month decline, which he said was primarily a reflection of buying patterns influenced by the changing tax law.

"I wouldn't begin to worry about the onset of a recession. The conditions that normally pop up before a recession are not present," he said.

Kellner forecast that the economy, as measured by the gross national product, would expand between 2 percent and 3 percent this year, matching the weak growth of the past two years.

The Reagan administration is forecasting a pickup in growth to around 3.2 percent this year, pinning its hopes for a rebound on an improvement in the country's record trade deficits.

"The best tonic for the economy right now would be a pickup in net exports," Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said in commenting on the January plunge in the leading index.

In another report Tuesday, the government said sales of new homes fell 6.8 percent in January.

Stock market closes slightly higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market inched higher yesterday, buoyed by strong gains in oil issues in an otherwise lackluster, directionless session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 6.05 to 2,226.52.

Gainers outpaced losers by about 9 to 8 on the New York Stock Exchange, with 811 up, 719 down and 419 unchanged.

Big Board volume came to 149.24 million shares, against 156.68 million in the previous session.

Oil stocks held center stage as oil futures contracts became firmer. Prices for oil were boosted by traders' speculation that Saudi Arabia was leading a drive among members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to reduce production and refrain from discounting the crude they sell to support prices.

Among oil stocks listed in the Dow industrial average, Exxon was up 1½ to 80⅛, Chevron was up 1⅞ to 50¾, Texaco was up ¼ to 34, and Du Pont, which owns Conoco, was up ⅛ to 100⅛. Mobil was up 1 to 43¼ in active trading while Atlantic Richfield rose 2⅜ to 68½.

But despite the rise in oil issues, most traders described market activity as being stalled following two months of sharp gains. Some analysts said the market could become more motivated with the release of further data showing where the economy may be headed, and to a lesser extent, after President Reagan addresses the nation tonight on the Iran-Contra affair.

Analysts said two government reports on the economy released yesterday did little to stir the market.

Rumson man to get Monmouth College award

WEST LONG BRANCH — Robert A. Beck of Rumson, immediate past chairman and chief executive officer of The Prudential Insurance Co. of America, will receive Monmouth College's 1987 Distinguished Business Leader's Award.

Rocco J. Marano, president of Bell Communications Research, will make the presentation April 22 at the annual award dinner in Wilson Hall at the college.

The award is conferred annually for distinctive contributions by an individual to the state and nation through a career in business and corporate leadership.

Beck, who at his retirement in February was designated Prudential chairman emeritus, will be the fourth recipient of the award.

Robert A. Beck: award winner

The previous recipients are Dr. Ian M. Ross, president of AT&T Bell Laboratories; Robert H. Miller, a world leader in the fragrance industry; and Orin R. Smith, president, chief executive officer and a director of Engelhard Corp.

Beck had been with Prudential since 1951, starting his career as an agent and rising to executive posts with the company in Cincinnati, Jacksonville, Fla., Newark and Chicago before being elected the company's 12th president in 1974. He was elected chairman of the board and chief executive officer in 1978.

Beck's tenure as chairman was marked by aggressive growth and diversification that turned The Prudential into a major player in the financial industry.

A graduate of Fordham and Syracuse universities, Beck has been a staunch supporter of the private higher education sector. In recognition of his role in education and in civic affairs, Monmouth College at commencement in 1979 awarded him an honorary doctor of humane letters degree.

Marano, who was president of New Jersey Bell before leaving in 1982 to begin planning and organizing Bell Communications Research, is a member of the New Jersey program of the Partnership for New Jersey.

Tickets are $150 per person. Tables for 10 are $1,500. Patrons' tickets are $2,500; benefactors', $5,000, both including tables for 10.

Information about reservations may be obtained from Christine Burke in the Development Office at the college, (201) 571-3485.

GAO: S&L insurance fund needs $25 billion infusion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fund that insures savings and loan association deposits is technically insolvent and requires a quick infusion of at least $25 billion, the General Accounting Office said yesterday.

Frederick D. Wolf, director of accounting and financial management for the congressional auditing agency, said a preliminary audit of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. concluded that the fund should sock away $8 billion to reimburse depositors of insolvent S&Ls.

"When this amount is deducted from FSLIC's reserves, FSLIC would have a deficit of over $3 billion as of the end of 1986," Wolf told a House Banking subcommittee. "Clearly, such a fund balance cannot handle the real liability FSLIC now faces."

While the loss reserve, known as a contingent liability, would render the fund technically bankrupt, it does not have an immediate effect on depositors.

The failing S&Ls are being kept open by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board although their losses of some $6 million a day ultimately will add to the amount the fund will have to pay out, Wolf said.

But the troubled thrifts will have to be closed at some point, he said, and the insurance fund will need the money to ensure depositors do not lose money.

Wolf said as a first step toward recapitalizing the FSLIC, Congress could enact a proposal sponsored jointly by the bank board and the Treasury Department that would raise pump $25 billion into the fund over the next five years.

But it also would require the continuation of special assessments on S&Ls or the liquidation of assets from failed thrifts. And if the industry were to decline further, the fund would still run short, he said.

"The emergence of further problems is a definite possibility," Wolf said. "Therefore, the Congress should recognize that enactment of this legislation will not necessarily preclude the need for an additional infusion of capital at some future time."

Wolf also suggested that Congress consider limiting the ability of S&Ls to enter into the high-risk ventures that many blame for the industry's decline.

Wolf's contention that the fund was insolvent was vigorously disputed by the president of the U.S. League of Savings Institutions, William B. O'Connell.

'Patience exhausted'

House committee leader stresses trade bill need

By ELLEN WARREN
Knight-Ridder Newspapers

WASHINGTON — The chairman of the House committee writing a new trade bill told America's trading partners yesterday that "our patience is exhausted" and he said tough legislation is needed to end "ducking" on the issue by the Reagan administration.

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, called for "legislation that is so strong that it must be taken seriously" by nations that prevent their citizens from buying American goods while their sales to this country are uninhibited by similar trade barriers.

In a nationally broadcast speech at the National Press Club, Rostenkowski said trade legislation making its way through Congress must tell those countries that "we have been overly generous" in giving them time to correct trade imbalances.

"Well, the time is up. Our patience is exhausted," he said. "The time for action is now. Our government has a clear responsiblity — which it has ducked in recent years — to guarantee such fairness."

His sold-out luncheon audience of lobbyists, trade association representatives and others affected by the pending trade bill also heard Rostenkowski urge establishment of a new Cabinet position, a secretary of international trade, so the U.S. trade message will "be delivered by a single messenger.

"In past months, the president's advisers have been unable to sing in harmony," he said. "When one Cabinet officer is the good guy while a colleague is the bad guy, we can hardly be surprised if our trading partners don't get a clear message ... After watching this intramural ballet through several administrations, I've concluded that the current system simply doesn't work."

Although he indicated he endorses "modification" of that part of the proposed trade legislation that critics view as protectionist, Rostenkowski said that "I warn my listeners not to misjudge my conciliatory message on this question. Congress shouldn't settle for anything less than effective action."

"Many nations with the largest trade surpluses have the most formidable barriers ... The current situation is clearly intolerable. It is only reasonable to ask the nations that have denied us access to open up in return for continued freedom in the American market," Rostenkowski continued. He brushed aside a question about America's own trade barriers.
