Organization of efforts on behalf of the $2,000,000 Overlook Hospital building program moved forward this week in two important phases in Summit, with the organization of a special business and professional committee for the building fund and the appointment of a chairman to lead the public campaign to be conducted here in April. Woodruff J. English, general chairman of the public campaign, reported that Penderennis W. Reed, of 43 Colt road, has accepted the chairmanship of the Summit campaign organization. Under Mr. Reed's leadership, teams of volunteer workers, consisting of both men and women residing here, are being enrolled to carry out the campaign next month.

Reed, Miller Will Head Local Groups In Hospital Drive

Meanwhile, following his appointment to the chairmanship of the committee, Thomas A. Miller, local building supply firm head, launched the activities of the business and professional committee. Its members, in advance of the public campaign, will call upon those engaged in business and professional work in Summit seeking subscriptions to the fund to expand Overlook Hospital and extend the scope of its scientific services. Members of the committee, which held its first general meeting Friday at the Suburban Hotel, are: Charles H. Ackley, Franz A. Bohne, Frank D. Connell, Richard L. Corby, Jr., John Davidson, Jr., Elmer G. Houston, Frederick C. Kentz, Jr., David Ludlow, Thomas A. Miller, Robert Peterson, Edward S. Stafford, William J. Thompson and Walter E. Truedell, Jr.

Emphasizing the area-wide scope of the public campaign which Mr. English will lead during April was the announcement that building fund campaign committees are being formed in the various municipalities whose residents depend upon the facilities of Overlook Hospital. In addition to Mr. Reed, serving as chairman for Summit, the following community chairmen have been named: John F. Betts, Jr., Short Hills; Mrs. F. C. Codding, New Providence Borough; Mrs. Paul K. Davis, Mountainside; Joseph L. Focht, Springfield; George R. Gibson, Chatham Borough; Charles K. Munn, Chatham Township; Joseph Mulholland, New Providence Township, and Armando Rossi, Passaic Township.

Proposed State Library Slash Will Cut Local Service

The Summit resident who last year asked the Summit Public Library for a book on the "breeding and raising of cows and dairy farming" and his neighbor who wanted a 1911 edition of The Handbook of the American Indian may find their throats for knowledge unquenched if Governor Dracoll has his way.

proposals is to drastically curtail operations of the State Library and to close the State Museum. The State Library, if the Governor has his way, will have its staff cut from forty to thirty, would lose a $10,000 fund for book allowances to schools and would have its book appropriation reduced from $35,000 to $28,000. All of this adds up to hardship for small communities such as New Providence and means tougher going for places like Summit.

acts as a central bureau for other libraries of New Jersey and lends books for special use to these libraries, making books in one library available to all libraries. Summit, for example, last year borrowed approximately 700 books from the State Library and at present has 49 state-supplied books on loan. These are to fill special requests for books made here but not included in the local library's collection. For instance, Summit had a request for two volumes that were printed in the Dutch language. Naturally such books are rare but they were supplied to the reader through the service provided by the State.

Mrs. Lillian Speer, Summit librarian, is most unhappy about the Governor's proposal and claims it will mean a much greater strain upon the local library's budget and greatly curtailed service to patrons.

"We do not have the funds to purchase the many special requests we receive," she said. "And if we no longer can obtain them from Trenton then it means that the local patron will have to travel to New York or Newark for his book."

Mrs. Richard L. Miller of Beekman road, a member of the State Library Advisory Board, says the "economic zeal of Governor Dracoll is laudable but the discontinuance of library and museum service hits the educational facilities of New Jersey for both school children and adults. There might be more justification for a percentage cut in all departments rather than such a heavy cut in the library service."

Mrs. Speer explained that if the proposal went through, the smaller towns with their small libraries would be harder hit than Summit. Towns like New Providence and Chatham with their libraries rely more upon the State service than Summit.

As for the State Museum, under the Governor's plan it displays and collections will be stored and the space used for offices. Besides operating the museum, called one of the best small museums in the country, the few staff members conduct a visual aid program for schools, churches and groups such as Summit's Film Council. Last year the museum filled 92,000 requests for films and slides that covered almost every subject from local views to zoology. The films and slides were seen by more than 4 million people.

Lions' Ceiling Projector Offered To Community

"Do you know of any bedridden patients who would enjoy the loan of a ceiling projector?" This is the question asked by Lillian M. Speer, librarian, in a letter sent Thursday to many Summit organizations, including the Red Cross, Overlook Hospital, the Welfare Department, and all of the ministers.

The letter goes on to say the Lions Club of Summit has placed in the Free Public Library such a machine "with a fine variety of films." A telephone call to the library, Summit 6-0830, giving the name and address of the person who would like to borrow the machine is all that is necessary. A Lions Club member will deliver the machine to the home and no obligation or expense is involved on the part of the patient.

Among the films available are the Bible, designed to be read as living literature; Van Loon, "The Songs We Sing"; Scully, "Fun In Bed"; Davis, "Tree Toad"; Biggers, "Chinese Parrot"; Ickis, "Feasttime for the Patient"; Phelan, "With A Merry Heart"; Hope, "So This Is Peace"; O'Brien, "50 Best American Short Stories"; Larier, "Best Cartoons of the Year"; and Rice, "The Omnibus of Sports."

The librarian also wrote: "This is a fine service which should help to pass many a weary hour for some person."

men is, at the present time, enrolling volunteer workers to serve as members of the local building fund committee. When the public campaign is launched during April, it has been fully announced, the committee members will call upon residents of the community in which they serve to share in the area-wide effort by making voluntary subscriptions to the fund.

The need for expansion of Overlook Hospital, it has been pointed out, is demonstrated by the fact that, within the last ten years, the hospital has been called upon to admit steadily increasing numbers of patients. In 1949, with residents of this area included in the total, the hospital admitted 4,498 patients exclusive of new born an increase of 40 per cent over the number admitted in 1939. The number of births rose by 104 per cent during the same period.

WE are the RED CROSS

THE RED CROSS is supported by voluntary contributions. Its great work of giving and sharing and serving could not carry on but for our continuing support.

It requires funds to keep a staff ready to furnish emergency assistance; it takes money to keep equipment in order.

Once a year the Red Cross must ask for funds. It needs our help. It counts on us.

Motor Vehicle Licenses Being Issued Now

Yesterday began the renewal season for New Jersey motor vehicle registrations and driver licenses. Motor vehicle agencies throughout the state are open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Monday through Friday and from 9 to 12 noon Saturday during the month of March for the issuance of 1950 tags and driver licenses. The new plates are buff with black numerals, the reverse of the 1949 plates.

No registration will be renewed unless the car has passed second inspection and the registration certificate properly stamped. Owners who have been issued duplicate certificates in place of those lost or stolen should have the certificate endorsed by the inspection station before attempting to renew.

No motor vehicle can be operated on the public streets after midnight, March 31 without displaying 1950 tags. However, plates purchased any time during March can be displayed on the vehicle immediately.

Motor Vehicle Director Arthur W. Magee urges car owners and drivers to appear at the agencies early. He said that those who wait until the eleventh hour may find themselves inconvenienced and delayed.

CALLING ALL CHRISTIANS AND THOSE WHO LOVE GOD!

With the beginning of Lent, the world greatly needs a mammoth demonstration of self denial and self control that will be in the spiritual realm what the A-Bomb and H-Bomb are to the physical world. Such may be called the G-Bomb in which God is all and in all. The Infinite Power of God working in the hearts of men can generate the most powerful force the world has ever seen.

This G-Bomb will be set off when all Bishops, Priests, Rabbis, Ministers, Pastors, Rectors, church officials and laymen deny themselves the use of all products containing habit forming drugs such as coffee, tea, colas, chocolate, cocoa, cigarettes, cigars, tobacco, beer, wine, and whiskey. This "moving" of the soul will generate patience, generosity, courage, optimism, faith, hope, charity and a stamina that will enable the individual to stand high and survive amidst the trials and tribulations prevailing in the world today.

Just as the Geiger Counter can detect when an A-Bomb has been released so too will the cash registers in the stores selling additives detect the release of the G-Bomb. A six weeks' exhibition of freedom from slavish habits will convince even infidels and communists that there is a better way of life and one that will lead to happiness and peace.

Join the forces of construction and stop being a demonstrator of waste, fear, greed and hate—the latter leading only to sickness, accidents, strikes, poverty, crime and war. So mote it be!

1950 MERCURY TOPS ALL WINNERS IN MOBILGAS GRAND CANYON RUN!

OFFICIAL WINNER! Four-door Mercury Sport Sedan, entered by the Los Angeles Dealers Lincoln-Mercury Association.

1950 MERCURY WITH OVERDRIVE AMERICA'S "NO. 1 ECONOMY CAR"!

Sets amazing new gasoline mileage record for gruelling 751 mile Grand Canyon run as it outperforms 30 other entries from America's leading car makers!

YES, now it's officially-proven! Pound for pound, the big new 1950 Mercury IS America's most economical car!
For, in the 751 Mile Mobilgas Grand Canyon Run conducted by the American Automobile Association last week, Mercury delivered grand-prize winning gasoline economy—over a rugged course which ranged from Death Valley to 7000 foot icy mountain passes!
This remarkable economy—made possible by the combination of Mercury's thrifty, V-type, 8-cylinder engine and its gas-saving "Touch-O-Matic" Overdrive—came as no surprise to Mercury owners. For many Mercury owners had repeatedly reported gasoline economy far above average expectations.

Yet this unusual economy is only one of the many reasons why thousands of owners are now choosing Mercury. Many say it's the smartest-looking car on the road. Others claim it's the smoothest-riding, most comfortable, too! And all agree it's the biggest value for the money!
Drive Mercury yourself—and see!

You bet it's "better than ever"—MERCURY

Old Guard Holds Memorial Services

Memorial services were held Tuesday for two members of the Old Guard, who died within the last week, William V. D. Strong of Hawthorne place and Leslie E. Hatfield of River road, Millington, who was fatally stricken with a heart attack last Friday. Eulogies of the deceased members were given by their fellow associates in the Old Guard. Both were regarded as active members, who had contributed much to the organization. Mr. Hatfield was particularly active in the luncheon club, which meets Thursdays at a nearby eating place.

A letter was read by Secretary Leroy Baker from Mrs. Bullock, active in the Old Boys of Bristol, England, acknowledging receipt of packages sent overseas by the Summit Old Guard. She wrote her organization was planning an anniversary and that the clothing and food stuffs recently received would be distributed carefully.

Harry A. Marshall, wrote from Florida, that he and Mrs. Marshall hoped to be back in Summit March 10. They spent the early part of the winter in California and went to Florida a week or ten days ago. B.H.S. Baker, a member, wrote he had moved to Hackensack.

Russell P. Merrick and Jesse F. Vercoe were received into membership.

Following the business session three reels of moving pictures were presented by the Bell Telephone Company. These showed the manufacture of telephone equipment.

A toll of more than 100,000 lives has been taken by the Sicilian volcano, Mount Etna, since records have been kept.

The Faulkner Proposals
EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles describing the proposals of the New Jersey (Faulkner) Commission on Municipal Government.

New Jersey citizens and municipal officials would share benefits under the "home rule" provisions in the program of the State (Faulkner) Commission on Municipal Government.

Under proposals to be introduced shortly in the Legislature, municipalities adopting one of the three new modern forms of local government proposed by the Commission will be granted extensive powers of local self-government.

This will permit local problems to be settled locally, by the people most concerned—the officials and citizens of the municipality itself.

As the New Jersey Taxpayers Association points out, over the years the Legislature has passed a multitude of laws which restrict the operation of our municipalities. These mandatory laws—so-called because they dictate local regulations and spending—have made it increasingly difficult for local people to run local affairs.

The home rule proposals of the Commission's program would permit a municipality to organize and regulate its own internal affairs. It would also let local officials establish, alter or abolish offices and positions as necessary.

Whether in science, painting, music or literature one does not have to look far for examples of what we would call abnormal behavior. Why should this be? Probably because creativeness is usually the product of inner tensions, the doctors state.

Leonardo DaVinci, who was perhaps the greatest of all creative men, insisted that, in order to create, one had to be solitary. He demonstrated that it is difficult for a man to isolate himself from the regular run of people and at the same time remain in the pattern of behavior that most of us consider normal.

It is perhaps one of the greatest of paradoxes that most of the great artistic achievements which give so much joy to mankind were born in agony from lonely people who usually knew little of the commoner pleasures and satisfactions that make life worthwhile for most of us.

What's Progressive in Education?

As we all peer out furtively at the world today—in fear and trembling as the shadow of the A Bomb and now the Hydrogen Bomb fall across the world—it becomes increasingly evident that the trouble is not with things but with people. The evil is within us.

Wear a Smile

We're a bit excited over a coming event. Smile Week, we are told, begins on March 6 and during next week you are supposed to do a lot of smiling.

Herald doesn't even mention special weeks unless something strangely newsworthy happens in connection with them. But we have a different feeling about Smile Week. It's hard to see how the inveterate publicity-hungry manufacturer can make anything out of it.

Be Glad You're Peculiar

It's a common observation that most real geniuses are a little "cracked" in one way or another, from the average man's viewpoint, the Union County Medical Society says.

Whether in science, painting, music or literature one does not have to look far for examples of what we would call abnormal behavior. Why should this be?

Leonardo DaVinci, who was perhaps the greatest of all creative men, insisted that, in order to create, one had to be solitary. He demonstrated that it is difficult for a man to isolate himself from the regular run of people and at the same time remain in the pattern of behavior that most of us consider normal.

Current Comment

Future historians surveying the monumental achievements of medical science in the first half of the Twentieth Century may never even mention "adenosine-5-monomosphate."

Thus far, there has been no indication this inexpensive and readily available drug will be effective in curing predilection for illegitimate acquisition of greenbacks.

Rich "Poor Richard"

It's a nice to know that Ben Franklin's gift to the Town of Boston, so well planned in its day, hasn't proved a flop. Ben left Boston some $5,000, to be held in trust or loaned at interest.

Against State Library Cut
Editor, Summit Herald: To all New Jersey citizens, especially those who carry a heavy tax load, the current controversy over the Governor's budget recommendation, is of acute interest.

In a program of constructive economy his recommendation that the full time salaries of various cabinet members be increased 25 per cent and 33 per cent was a shocking contrast to recommendations that the State Museum be closed and that the appropriation and personnel of the State Library be cut.

And nowhere is the spirit more in evidence than at your Buick dealer's. For it's Spring Jubilee time with Buick. Time to trot out and show off all the gay and brilliant beauties of his 1950 line.

Through which the resources of the larger city libraries may be used by the State as occasion warrants. It is obviously impractical for all public libraries to have in their own collection all of the books they may need on occasion.

Perhaps the Governor made these recommendations in an effort to discover how greatly the citizens valued these state aids. Comment on this action to the Governor or to the members of the Appropriations Committee now considering these matters can be considered one of the responsibilities of citizenship.

Columbia PTA to Hear College Professor Monday

TOWNSHIP—Plans were completed by Columbia School PTA executive board Monday for the meeting of the entire PTA body in the school auditorium next Monday at 8:15 p.m. to hear an address by Dr. Helen Storen, assistant professor of education at Queens College, Columbia University. Mrs. Stanley Eaton presided at Monday's executive board meeting.

12-Room Addition Worth $500,000

TOWNSHIP—Special features of the new Columbia School $500,000 wing are the domestic science laboratory, with its four stoves and lunchroom, the manual training room and the library. In addition to the 12 classrooms, the wing also sports a cafeteria and kitchen which serves close to 275 pupils daily, a combination auditorium and gymnasium with stage, showers and dressing rooms, administrative offices and modern, restful teachers' room. The two-story building takes care of most of the 17 homerooms and 490 pupils at Columbia. Of red brick construction and white trim, it adjoins the old building on the right which still houses the kindergarten and primary departments. Bulletin boards for the individual rooms line the walls of the two main halls and equipment throughout is modern. A culmination of 12 years work, the new wing was opened in September, 1949.

TOWNSHIP—According to a pre-meeting statement this week by a representative of the Township Committee, that body contemplated introducing last night an ordinance to inaugurate a sanitary sewer. Whether or not the action transpired was not learned at press time. The proposal as anticipated was a follow up of an information meeting conducted by the committee at Columbia School on February 14 with an estimated 350 residents in attendance.

Garbage Disposal

40 last year. During 1949 all street sign posts were painted. A full page report is devoted to the sewer department showing 43 new sewer connections made for which $4,834.09 in charges were collected. During the year 22,000 lineal feet of sewer mains were cleaned. Forty-six sewer stoppages were reported, nine of which it was necessary to dig up and repair. The sewer department will continue to use applications of copper sulphate to prevent tree root formation in the city's sewer mains. Recently the city received bids for the rehabilitation of the sewer pumping station which has served without alterations or improvements for a period of 25 years. Last year, 19 city streets were resurfaced, in addition to a number of state aid paving jobs being completed. Another page of the 13-page report goes into details about the maintenance and operation of various traffic lights throughout the city. A part of the report tells of injuries and sick leaves to employees in the ash, garbage and street departments. Eighty-one working days were lost to injuries, 194 because of sickness and 12 because of Navy leave. Two minor accidents were noted. Tabulations from the building inspector's records, shows new construction last year of $2,007,591 a new high for post-war years. Value of alterations last year amounted to $153,897. A total of all fees collected by the building inspector amounted to $8,885,700.

Local Attorneys Open New Office

Fred A. Lorentz and Joseph H. Stamler, local attorneys, have opened a Summit office in the Bassett Building. They will share a suite with City Solicitor Peter C. Triolo.

The attorneys, who are law partners, will continue their present office at Newark, but expect to devote a considerable portion of their time to the local office.

Mr. Lorentz, who has been a resident of New Providence for the last 12 years, is attorney for that Borough, and has been active in various civic enterprises.

Mr. Stamler is a resident of Summit, and likewise has been active in local civic affairs. He devotes a considerable portion of his time to matters affecting the manufacturers and producers of pharmaceutical products and to the druggists of the State, holding the position of counsel to the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association. This group consists of approximately 1,800 members located throughout New Jersey.

You watch men, women, children being carried from a burning building... or

You are riding across country... and suddenly you are in a strange hospital... crowded with the maimed and dying victims of a wreck... or

A surgeon is performing a major operation on your own small child... racing against heartbeats that grow fainter with each passing second.

What is needed most... needed quickly... needed desperately? Blood.

But, many times, there isn't enough blood available to everyone, everywhere, who needs it. That is why the goal of your Red Cross is to help make blood available to everyone, everywhere, who needs it.

More than thirty regional Red Cross Blood Programs now supply hospitals in areas having a total of more than 40,000,000 population. But there are nearly four times that many people in this country. We want to do more... to help more people... but we can't do it without your help.

Won't you give it? Money as well as blood is needed. The dollars you give now to your Red Cross can help save a life.

And... who knows... that life may some time be your own!

You, too, can help through should be given the necessary funds to continue this valuable educational service.

Be It Further Resolved that the Council requests:

1. That the Appropriations Board take immediate action to re-instate the Museum budget of $68,000 for operating expenses, including $35,000 for the Visual Education service.
2. That these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the Council and that copies be sent to the Governor and members of the Appropriations Board."

Cites Film Demand

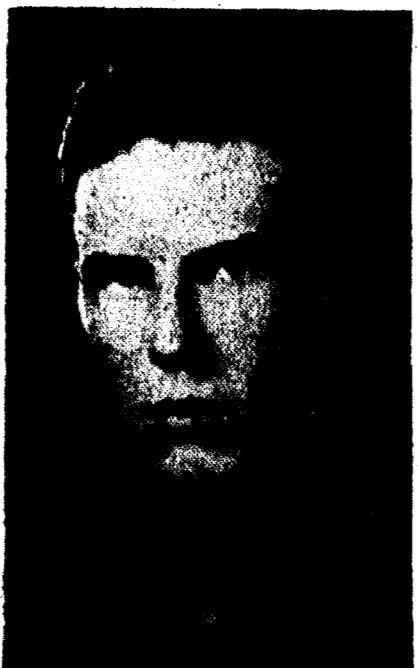

In opening the meeting Henry R. Ragatz, chairman of the Suburban Film Council pointed out that the increasing demands for educational films from all parts of the State made a central agency necessary for economical and efficient management of such a program. "The nature of the material calls for special attention. In servicing the collection and in providing a wide assortment of films the visual aid program of the State Museum plays a vital role in the educational program of the State. In the face of the growing use of films the elimination of this service would be marked retrogression on the part of a State otherwise known for progressive action."

Byron D. Stuart of Westfield, member of the Advisory Council of the State Museum and chairman of its visual aids committee in speaking of the work said. "In its film service alone, the Museum has furnished not only schools but adult groups with an important educational medium. The $2,465 requests for films from all parts of the state filled by the Museum in 1949 reflects this increasing demand. They came from the service clubs, Chambers of Commerce, League of Women Voters as well as PTA and school systems. While the Museum filled requests for films because of its comparatively limited resources, thousands of requests still had to go unfilled. But the opportunity to build the collection over the years would mean increasingly effective service."

Services Not Limited

Mrs. Gerald H. Winsor, president of the Summit Library Board in pointing out the value of the relationship between the Museum and libraries in the use of films emphasized that this was one educational medium in demand for everyone—and so not limited to the school system. In that connection she discussed a proposed bill which would provide state aid to schools on a county basis for visual aids programs.

Mrs. Winsor said, "This proposed bill has merit for the future in developing local centers for distribution but it would be valuable only as an adjunct to a central agency such as that provided by the State Museum. No local nor regional unit for film service in itself could provide a collection adequate for demands. The establishment of such units as adjuncts to the efficient system now in effect in the State Museum can, in time, mean broad use of educational films by all elements in the community. Because of the special qualities of films, both economy in service and wide use can be best maintained through statewide cooperation, building on the proved service now in existence."

Memorial Field Courts Open to Ice Skaters

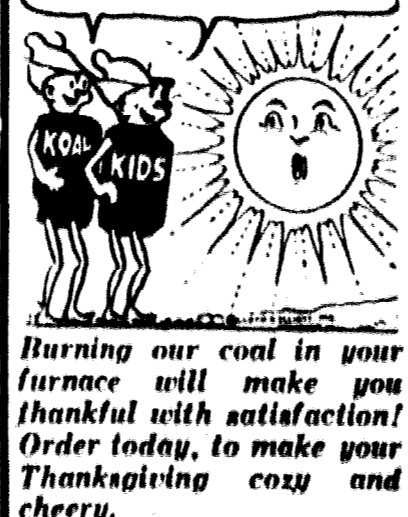

The appearance of the cold weather has brought skating to Summit. The Board of Recreation stated this week that the tennis courts at Memorial Field are now being used for skating. Since last November the courts have been flooded awaiting a cold spell.

Night skating is possible, for two flood lights have been erected on the fence to illuminate the rink.

Because of the uncertainty of the weather, the Board suggests that persons desiring to skate call the Board office (Summit 6-2932) for the latest report on ice conditions.

Disaster, Large Or Small, Finds Red Cross Ready

"It can happen here! Fire, epidemics, wrecks brings disaster . . . swift and unpredictable . . .", declared Randolph H. Turgeon, chairman of the disaster and preparedness relief committee of the Summit Chapter, American Red Cross.

"The Red Cross prepares for fighting disaster as an army mobilizes for battle," he continued, "and your Red Cross chapter has its own disaster preparedness committee made up of local citizens, ready, willing, and able to go into action at any time of the day or night."

Mr. Turgeon explained that technically, a disaster is any situation which plunges numbers of people into helplessness and suffering. As a result they may need medical care, food, and clothing along with shelter and other basic necessities of life. The local committee must pick locations for shelters, learn where food can be secured quickly and how it can be prepared to feed a refugee group; and to avoid any epidemics, and care for accident cases, medical and nursing care must be provided.

Emphasis in 1949 was placed on two phases of disaster work, re-organization of the committee and training committee personnel. Mr. Turgeon succeeded Nicholas Husey as chairman and Mrs. T. A. Miller was named alternate chairman; Mrs. W. W. Schormann and Mrs. Palmer J. Lathrop were appointed vice-chairmen.

Mrs. E. T. Reynolds was named clothing chairman and R. Peterson was re-named chairman of purchases.

During the last year the committee staffed an emergency first aid tent at the Memorial Field July 4th celebration and furnished coffee, with the motor and canteen branches, to firemen at the recent Desert Village fire.

Another important branch of the local Red Cross is the production and supply service. This committee, headed by Mrs. E. E. Dreger of 23 High street, consists of volunteers who make articles for the various veterans' hospitals and other institutions.

Last year Lyons Hospital was presented with sixty pairs of nylon curtains made by the group and the children at Bonnie Burn were given 12 pairs of pajamas. A current project is the manufacture of men's pajamas for Bonnie Burn.

An afghan knitted by the workers and assembled by Miss Earle, 138 Mountain avenue, was given to veterans at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C. Mrs. Noah Davis, 47 Hawthorne place, and Miss Mary Dean, 114 Morris avenue, made many of the afghan squares. The wool was given by A. C. Baker & Son.

All in all, about 1500 useful articles were made last year by the group.

Resident Tires of Remote Jackpots; Starts His Own

Summit area residents are being given the opportunity to win a new 1950 Chevrolet sedan, according to a statement issued by Joseph Bildner, of this city, president of Kings super-markets.

Bildner stressed the important fact that the Chevrolet will be given away to a North Jersey resident, and is not part of a national contest. The contest is being conducted in all Kings markets starting today.

"This is the easiest contest in history," Bildner said. "No box tops to save, no letters to mail in, no limericks to compose. I'm giving away this car simply because I'm tired of hearing someone I never heard of, away out in Podunk, win several thousand dollars' worth of nonessential prizes. I want someone in North Jersey to win a gift they can always use."

Free entry blanks can be obtained simply by visiting the nearest Kings super market. No purchase is necessary and contestants need not be present to win.

"Little Men" to Be Shown for College Benefit

"Little Men", based on the old favorite of American literature by Louisa May Alcott, will be shown Saturday in the Summit high school auditorium at 2 p.m. for the benefit of the Mount Holyoke College Fund.

The leading players are Kay Francis, Jack Oakie and Jim Lydon. The scene is an old-fashioned boys' academy in New England. A new boy with many sharp tricks temporarily upsets the happy life of the school but in time learns to enjoy and contribute to it.

The two shorts to be shown in this program are "Crystal Ballet" and "Hill-Billy Hits."

Individual tickets may be obtained at the door. Series tickets are being sold at Eastman's Book Store in Summit.

Discarded Pup Gets Cash Gift But No Home

"Cast-Off," the two-month-old pup found by the Morris Turnpike roadside whose picture was in the Herald last week, has received a fair amount of attention since the story appeared—but as yet, no home. The pup still remains a temporary guest at the home of Mrs. Frank L. Hughes, 40 Ox-Bow lane.

Mrs. Hughes received a letter containing a cash contribution for the care of the dog and several persons have made inquiries both to the Herald and the Summit Animal Welfare League as to the pup's condition and future. The future, by the way, is bleak. If the dog is not "adopted" within a few days he will be humanely disposed of.

The letter containing the money said in part:

"Please accept the enclosed toward the expense of the kindness you are showing the pitiful puppy. He may need some medical attention as well as good food to make up for his terrible misfortune.

I trust the Heavenly Father will deal with the people who did that cruel thing. How can they get into their comfortable beds at night and know the poor little puppy was trapped out in the cold. A little dog feels the cold so very much.

May I beg you to do this—unless the little dog is assured of a kind home, have a veterinarian put him to sleep. There are so few kind homes."

"Electrocuted" Youth Discharged from Hospital

A 21-year-old youth who was saved by quick police action from death by electrocution returned to his home early this week from Overlook Hospital where he was treated for chest burns and shock. He is Jay H. Hays of 11 Wentworth road.

The near tragedy occurred on February 21 when Hays touched electric wires in a room flooded with water from a broken pipe. Hays was assisting Edward J. Daum, a New Providence plumber, whom he had called to the house to fix the pipe which broke after freezing. When the accident occurred the boy's mother, Mrs. Harold J. Hays and Daum, shut off the electricity and Daum phoned police. Patrolman Raymond W. McTernan, Patrolman Aloysius Duffy and Sergeant Edward Traylor answered the call and applied artificial respiration before the hospital ambulance arrived.

Proper Fitting Shoes Essential

A poor fitting shoe can affect posture, his walking habits and his bone structure. So choose at the top of the list...

Since children's feet increase in size so rapidly, it's important to check the shoes your two-to-five-year-olds are wearing every four to six weeks...

If there is less than one-fourth inch space from the toe to the front of the shoe, discard the shoes. It is poor economy to permit a child to wear shoes which are too short because short shoes may do permanent damage to the foot.

Unfortunately, shoes don't fit in the class of hand-me-downs. Foot development is different for each child. Therefore, shoes worn by one youngster will take on the shape of that particular foot—and that may be quite different from the shape of his younger brother's foot.

For the child over five, continue to check his shoes at least every two or three months. Sometimes it is more practical and economical at this stage to buy shoes of medium quality, rather than the best, because growth factors are more important than durability.

Be sure the child is standing with full weight on both feet when he is being measured for shoes. Here are points to consider when you buy shoes.

The shoes should be wide at the base of the heel to provide a good foundation for walking. They should fit snugly at the heel to prevent slipping. The shoes should be so balanced that they permit the child to stand naturally—feet parallel, toes straight forward, and weight properly distributed.

Balloons! Balloons! Balloons galore! You can have them for parties without all that blowing and blowing until your cheeks just about burst. All you have to do is at the blower attachment on your vacuum cleaner puff them up.

For a rich sauce to accompany the many fish dishes you'll be serving during Lent, just combine 1/2 cup real mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley and 2 tablespoons chili sauce. No penance at all.

Did you know that egg water is good for plants? Well, it is. Why? Cause it contains lime. So, whenever hard or scabbed eggs are on your menu, save the water and pour it on your plants. You may be dubbed "The Lady with the Green Thumb."

Learn Lesson From "Granny on Hair Care"

Grandmother—that paragon of virtue—did not know the inside of a beauty salon, but if we can believe the stories we read and hear about her and her girl friends, her hair was a shining, glowing crown of glory.

Brushing the hair to keep it "alive" makes sense. The hair is a natural place for particles of dust, dandruff, and oil to accumulate. The scalp literally cannot breathe with the coating of oil and dirt covering it.

In this day of permanent and beauty-salon "sets" once in ten days, too many of us, in our mis-directed urge to keep our wave, neglect the daily care of the hair.

If you want your permanent wave to live out its life looking lovely with those deep, soft, fluttering waves—take care of it. Brush it vigorously every day with a rolling, vibrating motion to keep the hair and scalp clean and full of vitality and polish your tresses to a glorious sheen.

We think the choice of hair brush important. Use one with stiff bristles that can be washed often.

To get the full benefit of brushing, place the side of the brush against the scalp and with a twist of the wrist, roll it so that all the bristles sweep the scalp and pick up a layer of hair to be cleaned and polished. Now vibrate the brush from scalp to hair tips, and repeat the same upward and outward movement, layer by layer, until the hair has been brushed away from the scalp.

If your hair is dry, be doubly conscientious with your daily brushing and wait a full two-weeks before shampooing. If your hair is oily, brush your hair daily to help regulate the flow of oil from the oil ducts, but wash your hair more frequently—about once a week.

A Stitch Saves a Mend

A tiny hole or a tear can make a garment or a household article practically useless. A well-done mend can make it like new again. Such is the magic of the art of mending...

What is a well-done mend? It may be any kind of patch or darn... chosen to suit the material and the damage to be repaired.

A stitch in time will save a mend later on. Check all ready-mades before they are worn or used. Often there are weak spots in ready-mades, which if neglected can end in needless wear and tear...

the article, you can save a bigger mending job later on.

Look over clothing, bedding, towels, linens regularly with an eye to needed mending. If you catch breaks before they grow, you'll cut down a lot on mending time, the damaged places can be mended more easily and will show less.

Keeping a mending basket handy. This may be a basket, box, bag, or large drawer... any place where you can keep mending supplies together.

Shape of the patch to be mended. A bad snag naturally calls for a different type of mend than a slanting cut or a straight tear.

Material. Does it have a nap or is it smooth? Is it light or heavy in weight? Is it washable or must it be dry-cleaned? Does it fray?

Size of the hole. Some mends are more successfully done on a small scale, others on a large.

Where is the hole? Is it in a spot that will be strained constantly during use? Or is it in out-of-the-way place? This makes a difference in how strong the mend must be.

Run the mend to the break. Here are points to think about when you are deciding which darn

Bit-by-Bit System Suggested for Spring Cleaning

Start your spring housecleaning now and do it by degrees. Such a system is much better than wearing yourself out trying to clean the house from top to bottom in a week or two.

If you use the bit-by-bit system, now is the time to start so that you can end with a grand flourish around the last of April in time to enjoy gardening and May outings.

First, make a list of repair jobs that have to be done. You'll probably want to do some of the jobs yourself like fixing the curtain pulls, putting up new closet hooks, and re-lining your cabinet drawers.

Decide what you'll buy this spring. It's a good time to select draperies, curtains or bedspreads. However, store them until spring is really here.

How is your cleaning equipment supply? Better have spot remover, polish, and the like on hand so that when you're in the mood to clean cupboards, bureau drawers, china and linen closets, you won't have to run out and buy supplies.

Around the first of April you'll want to clean the kitchen and bath, re-flooring and painting where necessary. After you've cleaned the walls, woodwork and floors you are ready to trot out wash curtains and maybe a new flowering plant.

Next you'll scrub and spray closets and blanket chests. Air or clean winter woollens and other clothes before you store them.

Next time you're baking, try one of the orange juice flavored desserts given below.

Next you'll find the next routine easier. All you do is look over bric-a-brac, magazine stands, lamps and what not. Discard some, store others, and clean and polish those you can't live without.

THE CLOTHESLINE

By Muriel W. Shonnard

Since a head is more or less egg-shaped, the number of degrees of slant a hat may assume when worn on lady's head reveals the points of the compass.

Last season they clung persistently to the back of the head; the season before, many were designed to be worn completely covering the right ear, leaving the left one exposed so an escort could whisper into it.

If you use the bit-by-bit system, now is the time to start so that you can end with a grand flourish around the last of April in time to enjoy gardening and May outings.

Of course there is no law (page Congress) compelling women to wear hats in the manner planned by a designer, but a chapeau designed to be worn level with the eyebrows will look slightly peculiar, worn tilted sideways or on the back of the head.

Temperamental objects, hats. They want to be worn "just so." After all, they've only two parts—a crown and a brim—so it is only the relative proportion and shape of these parts that are capable of manipulation and the controlling force in that manipulation is the manner in which the hat is to be posed on the head.

"12 O'Clock High"—Bombing and Morale

By PAUL PARKER
World War II seems to be providing ample material for the movie-makers in Hollywood.

Following close upon the heels of "Battleground," which tells of the earth-bound G.I.'s during the recent conflict, "12 O'Clock High" takes to the "wild blue yonder."

It is the story of the 8th Air Force and their desperate attempt to prove that daylight precision bombing would work.

The problem posed in this film is: given a tough objective how can you get the most out of your men. To us, at least as portrayed in this film, this was principally a military problem and not one which would concern the civilian.

daylight bombing's measurably shortened the war.

But "12 O'Clock High" is more than just the story of the fight to prove the effectiveness of daylight raids on Germany.

The problem posed in this film is: given a tough objective how can you get the most out of your men.

almost uniformly excellent acting and casting, we failed to see that it wound up with any very definite conclusions on the subject.

When Gregory Peck takes over the bombardment group he attacks the problem of demoralization by being in an old army term "strictly G.I."

But and here's the twist, as the morale of the group goes up, the commanding officer (Peck) more and more identifies himself with his men.

But, and this may be the point of the film, although we are not at all sure, the men whom he has trained step up to take his place and the group goes on to successfully achieve its missions and to prove the value of daylight bombing.

Perhaps the fault in this somewhat misty interpretation lies with us, but we felt that it was told in an indirect and at times diffuse fashion. There are some exceptional scenes of air battles over Germany, taken during the war, which are included in the film.

DONALD DUCK, not to be confused with the movie star, crossed up his owner, Mrs. Daniel Vernon (above) when he turned out to be Mrs. DONNA DUCK with an instinct for laying eggs—and not movie ones.

'Male' Duck Lays 136 Eggs in 136 Days

The goose that laid the golden egg has become famous in folk lore. But that fabled goose takes a back seat to a certain duck—at least in the eyes of the Vernon family, 103 N. Passaic avenue, Chatham.

Last year the Vernons, through a roundabout transaction, suddenly found themselves thrust into the position of foster parents to a one-day-old duckling. The Vernons at first presumed the duck to be a male and, blissfully unaware of what the future held in store, evicted a pet rabbit from a box in the back yard and installed the duckling in its new home.

After reaching maturity the duck, in indisputable fashion, identified itself as a she, not a he, by laying one egg. Since that time, the duck has laid one egg regularly each day including Sundays. The total was 136 eggs out of 136 days at press time.

Needless to say, this capacity for delivering eggs on a regular daily schedule has been a source of amazement to the Vernons. And Miss Quackie, as the duck was named, apparently has secured for herself a firm niche in the hearts of the Vernon family. Especially Linda, age 10, who claims that she never will be able to eat duck again.

Now that Miss Quackie has established herself in the back yard, she makes her wishes known in no uncertain terms, according to Mrs. Vernon. One of her favorite tricks, she says, is for the duck to stand under the kitchen window and "make awful sounds" until water is brought out for her bath.

"And the cats in the neighborhood have learned to watch out for the duck on the road, too," Mrs. Vernon says. Upon one occasion, at least, a minor traffic jam was created on Passaic avenue when Miss Quackie decided to make overtures to a truck which was coming down the road.

"There was the duck in the center of the road bobbing its head up and down at the truck. Of course the truck stopped and so did all the other traffic. Eventually the duck left the center of the road and traffic resumed," Mrs.

Vernon recalled.

The family from time to time has sampled the daily quota of one egg furnished by their prolific duck.

"They are very good, almost like chicken eggs—only the yolk is bigger," Mrs. Vernon says.

Miss Quackie, it would seem, is the perfect guest. With an egg each day, she pays her way.

Astronomy for the Amateur

If you assume the usual astronomical orientation when you look at the stars—that is, facing the south, with the east on your left and the west on your right—over your left shoulder will come peerings of the best known constellations in the heavens. That will be the Great Bear, Ursa Major, swinging south from his winter sojourn beyond the North Star.

The association of bears with the north still persists in the name we give the northernmost portions of our earth. The Greek word for bear is 'arktos.' The 'arctic' is the land of the bear. We shall meet a star soon called Arcturus—the Bear Keeper, who follows closely upon the heels of Ursa Major. It was only in astronomically recent times, too, that this constellation began its association with bears.

The Babylonians, who began the assembling of many constellations, did not link the group we know of as the Great Bear with anything like that animal, and in the early Arabian astronomical literature, the seven brighter stars that make up what we call the Big Dipper were known as the Mourners. Later, however, the bears crept into the picture, the Greeks took them over and we have kept them. Almost all of the stars in this constellation bear names that relate to portions of a bear's anatomy.

First star of all in Ursa Major is a rather faint one, leading the constellation in its march to the south and west. This is Muscida, the Nose of the Bear. Its designation is Omicron Ursa Majoris. Below it is a very faint group of three stars whose position might be likened to the fore feet of the Bear.

Behind Muscida comes that part of Ursa Major which is known to almost everyone in this country as the Big Dipper. This is made up of seven stars, four of which make the bowl of the Dipper and three the handle. The two leading stars in the Dipper—those that form the front of the bowl—are also known as the Pointers, for they lay out a line which, if followed to the north, will fall very close indeed to Polaris, the North Star. These two stars also provide a sort of celestial yard-stick, for they are just about five degrees of arc apart; about ten times the diameter of the full moon as seen from the earth. These stars are very nearly equal in brightness, differing by only one-fifth of a magnitude! The northernmost of the two is the brighter. Its name is Dubhe, and the word is part of an arabic phrase that means the Back of the Great Bear. The word Dubhe itself means Bear. The other star of this pair is called Merak, which in arabic, the Loins (of the Great Bear). These two stars are Alpha and Beta, respectively of Ursa Major. Ursa Major, by the way, is one of several constellations in which the stars are lettered according to order of position rather than by order of brilliance.

If we go on around the bottom of the bowl to the east, the star is in the lower corner, opposite Merak, is Phad, Gamma Ursa Majoris. It is just about as bright as the other two. The upper rear corner of the bowl of the Dipper is considerably fainter. It is Megrez, Delta Ursa Majoris. Phad means the Thighs and Megrez the Root of the Tail of the Bear.

Here the bearish quality of the names of the stars in Ursa Major stops, and we begin to get traces of the older order. The first star in the handle of the Dipper is Alloth. It is the brightest star in the constellation. Alloth is a word which has been a puzzle for centuries. It is actually a corruption of the ancient arabic names for Capella, a star in Auriga, whom we met about a month ago. Next out beyond Alloth is probably the most interesting star in the Great Bear. This is Mizar, Zeta Ursa Majoris. Mizar is the first star which is not a double star to the naked eye, but which was found to be a double when seen through a telescope. If your eyes are very good, and if the night is unusually clear, you should see, when you look at Mizar, a second star very close to it, just about far enough away so that your sight can separate the two of them. This is not the second star of the Mizar double, but another star entirely. It is a test of good eyesight to be able to see Mizar and Alcor, which is the name of this second star, as two separate bodies. The word Mizar means the Veil, and Alcor means the Friendless One. More recently, the Arabic called it The Rider, from its obvious position near Mizar.

The last star in the handle of the Dipper has the distinction of having two names. One is Benetnash, which was at one time the arabic name for the entire constellation before the bear got into the picture. Benetnash means the Daughters of the Bier. Believe me, there was no punning on the part of the Arabs between Bear and Bier, for the similarity of sound does not exist in arabic. The other name of this star is Al Caid, which is The Chief (of the Daughters of the Bier). Benetnash is Eta Ursa Majoris, and is next to Alloth in brilliance.

Ursa Major is one of six constellations which never set from this part of the earth. They are so far north that they seem to circle the North Star without ever disappearing below the horizon. If you have an unobstructed view of the entire northern horizon, you can see Ursa Major somewhere up there at any time of the year. In the winter, it is at what is called its northern culmination, very near the horizon beyond and below the North Star. In the spring, it moves to the east and seems to dive down toward the south where it spends the summer. Autumn finds it well to the west, some up, making for its winter home.

Green Leaves Rich in Vitamins Easily Grown at Home

Home gardeners have a wonderful opportunity to enjoy tasteful, tempting salads all summer long. The fact that green, leafy foods stand at the top of the list which nutritionists say you should eat daily, may be ignored, if you feel that way about nutritionists.

Healthful they may be, but salads also stand high with gourmets. Many a popular restaurant gained its reputation by specializing in a fine tossed salad with well-mixed dressing. This is a man's dish, and much more suitable than cooking as a specialty.

The dressing is important, but this discussion is about the green leaves which you can grow all summer long, and pick fresh just long enough before the salad is eaten for the leaves to be washed, dried and chilled.

Lettuce starts the list, and not the tight, white, head lettuce of commerce. Any salad chief will tell you that it is tasteless and "does not take the dressing well." What he prefers, if he can get it, is cos lettuce, also called romaine, which catalogues list in several varieties.

Loose heading varieties are also excellent, with Bibb or limestone lettuce possibly a favorite. You can grow this in the early spring, and fall, but it goes to seed in hot weather. Leaf lettuce is also excellent in salads, and can be grown for a much longer period than the heading types. Use leaf lettuce as soon as leaves are two inches and as many as four sowings may across, but be sure to thin out plants, so that they will mature. Endive comes in two types, broad and curly leaved. Both have a distinctive flavor. They stand both hot weather and frost. A late sowing should always be made to mature in the fall, when frost improves the flavor.

Corn salad has a fresh and spicy flavor which makes it a welcome ingredient of the bowl salad, and is grown easily in spring and fall. Curled garden cress thrives with ordinary garden culture and imparts a pungent flavor to the bowl salad. Watercress is highly prized and easily grown where there is a good supply of fresh water to keep it constantly moist.

Chervil is an aromatic plant somewhat resembling parsley but superior in flavor; and can be used both in the bowl salad and as a garnishment for meats. Like parsley, the seed is slow to germinate. Sow it with a few radish seeds to mark the row.

Chives is a most useful salad vegetable. It is a cousin of the onion of which the leaves are used. They have a delicate onion flavor, just enough to season the salad. Chives grow from seed easily, and a plant lives many years. It bears an attractive lavender flower and is often used as a border along the garden path.

At least two sowings should always be made of these leaf vegetables, one in the spring and one in midsummer for the fall crop; soon as leaves are two inches and as many as four sowings may be made with good results.

Exposition Features U. N. Work

THOUSANDS OF PERSONS from all over the world are expected this year to visit the International Exposition at Port-au-Prince, Haiti, to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the founding of that city. The exposition features a special United Nations exhibition, dramatizing the activities of the world organization. Above is one of the U. N. pavilions under construction in the Haitian capital.

A PIECE OF YOUR MIND

By KARL PLATZER, Psychologist

KARL H. PLATZER
Psychologist

The masthead above the column this week should be a white flag. I surrender.

It all started innocently enough when I wrote an article intimating that it was not unknown for a husband to come home and take out his troubles on the wife. Husbands began protesting. Just to show fairness, I ran a column listing some of their complaints. Then the wives began answering.

The battle has to stop somewhere, so let it come to an end here. I suppose all wives know what their chief complaints against husbands are, and by this time they've probably let their husbands know, too.

Actually, many of us, whether man or woman, have a wrong attitude about marriage from the beginning. We are determined that we will make it a fifty-fifty proposition, and we pride ourselves on our willingness to go half way. The husband or wife must be prepared at times to go, not fifty, but one hundred per cent of the way. Otherwise the marriage can't be kept going.

It is customary to speak of marriage as a partnership, as if it were a business of some sort. In a business partnership, clearly defined duties can be laid out. One partner may do the buying, the other the selling. One partner will have certain hours, the other will come in during other hours.

Marriage, however, is not a business. It is not possible to lay down clear areas of limited responsibility. The husband who says, "My job is to go to work and bring in enough money to support you; anything else is your job," is trying to turn a personal relationship into a business one. The wife who says, "I take care of the children and the house all day; they're your job after you come home," is attempting the same thing.

Marriage is an effort to accomplish both individual and collective aims. Selfishness on the part of any individual hampers that goal. There can be no weighing out of the tasks to make them evenly assigned. What one does, he does to help keep the family unit going. In achieving that goal he helps himself.

It is true that on occasion a husband or wife may be found who takes advantage of his mate. Where this is so, it is frequently found that the other person's attitude may have begun it originally. Nothing breeds selfishness like selfishness. Where a wife becomes convinced that her husband is only taking advantage of her desire to keep the family unit vigorous, she will begin to think of herself. She will spend more money on her personal adornment, find more social pleasure outside the home. The same is frequently true of the husband.

GIVE YOUR WOOLENS PROPER CARE

The woman who would look as beautifully dressed all winter as she does on the first brisk-weather day must well understand the "brush and hanger" technique. She need not spend long hours working on her wardrobe or whisking it in and out of the pressing room. Thoughtful attention after each wearing is the basis of correct care for winter clothing.

Here are a few common-sense rules that are easy to follow and important for the long life and beauty of wool apparel.

Give wooleens plenty of room: Never jam your wooleens tightly into a closet. They must have room to "breathe" and keep their shapes.

Use well-shaped hangers: Wide-shouldered ones which allow the garment to hang in natural folds should be used for suits and coats. Brush wooleens thoroughly: This should be done after each wearing with a firm-bristled brush paying particular attention to pleats and fur-trim.

Take care during wear: Save wear and soil on the neckline by heavy suds on the wash water. Use a second suds if it is necessary to remove all the soil. Squeeze suds through the wool by hand. Pounding and rubbing will cause injury to wool. Rinse thoroughly several times. Squeeze by hand. Dry on a drying frame or laid flat on a turkish towel or paper. Dry in an airy, shady place—never near heat.

Pressing wooleens: Use a well-padded, smooth board. Use a moderately hot iron. Use a damp cloth. Use a light touch with the iron. Do not hold it on one place until the material dries to avoid shine. Pin pleats in place and draw buttonholes together before pressing.

Washing wooleens: Water for both washing and rinsing should be lukewarm around 90 to 100 degrees. The water should feel cool to the hand. Avoid any abrupt change in water temperature. Use plenty of neutral soap or one of the good wool detergents. Keep a

THE WORLD AT ARMS' LENGTH

Nature designed our eyes for viewing large, distant objects in natural light.

But so much of our modern world of vision is close up—within arms' length, and for the most part under artificial light. Be on your guard for symptoms of eye strain—perhaps no greater than vague discomfort, afternoon fatigue or uneasiness.

If you have any doubt, consult your Eye Physician (M.D.). As a part of our friendly service, we shall be glad to furnish the names of Eye Physicians convenient to you.

By GREGORY HEWLETT

Everyone, or perhaps it's 99 out of every 100, will agree this week on the No. 1 item in the world news parade—the British election. Here in this country, where we go for the sensation in a large way, even the Dr. Sander trial took second billing to the Labor vs. Conservative heavy-weight battle across the sea.

The results, of course, are well known by now. The Labor Party, which took over the government five years ago after winning 393 seats in Parliament to 213 for the Conservatives, had its margin cut to almost nothing. With four contests undecided. Labor had 315 seats, the Conservatives 294 and the Liberals eight. Assuming the latter two voted together, that would mean only a slender 13-vote margin for the exponents of nationalization.

Most of the observers we've read or heard have emphasized the dramatic "defeat" of the Socialist regime—and are already counting the days until the collapse is complete. That's a good line... because it's what most of us want to hear. But it isn't quite as simple as that.

True, Labor lost ground, a lot of it. But a study of the popular vote shows that more British subscribe to the Labor policies than did in '45. Surprising? Well, the breakdown shows 13,218,000 Labor votes last week, compared to 11,963,000 five years ago!

Not has the percentage of people for Labor gone down to any appreciable degree. In 1945, the Laborites took 47.9 per cent of the total popular vote; this time they got 48.2 per cent!

Why, then, the big loss in Parliamentary seats? One reason is that the Conservatives upped their popular vote by an even greater extent—from 9,851,000 to 12,409,000 and from 39.9 to 43.4 per cent. Another reason is that MPs are elected by districts, similarly to our representatives in Congress, and thus there is no direct relationship between vote and district results.

There's another and more significant reason why we're not in the mood to go overboard in cheering a Conservative victory. That is that there is no great difference in party platforms—no more than there is between the Democrats and Republicans in this country.

Little Difference
What we mean is that even a real Conservative triumph, with Winston Churchill back as prime minister, wouldn't suddenly stop the Socialistic trend in Britain—wouldn't even backtrack on the nationalization of medicine. What the Conservatives promised is just about what the GOPs have been promising here—that they'd run the same kind of a show... but do it better!

Although that is true, generally speaking, we look for a slow-down in the march of Socialism over there in the months ahead. With no big majority, the Labor government knows well it is on shaky ground and it's unlikely it will risk a test on anything but a most serious policy matter. That may come soon, or it may be postponed for a long time. It will be interesting to watch.

Most important to us and our government is the effect of the narrow election margin on Britain's position in international affairs. As in domestic matters, the Labor government will have to be cautious in its foreign dealings—and other countries will look with suspicion on it. It's going to be tough sledding—on both sides.

House Misses Beat
Down in Washington, meanwhile, the House missed another golden opportunity to show the rest of the world that this free land means business in outlawing discrimination based on race, color or creed. Our representatives adopted a Fair Employment Practices bill, it is true, but they tossed out the version that set up powers of enforcement and adopted instead a watered substitute which gives the FEPC the authority only to investigate, educate and recommend.

The vote to put aside the administration measure was 221 to 178, this coming at the end of a torrid 15-hour session that ended at 3:14 a.m. The next day, the substitute proposed by Rep. McConnel, Pennsylvania Republican, was adopted, 240 to 177.

New Jersey's position of leadership in this field was reflected in the vote of the N. J. delegation. On the first of the two crucial votes, only three of our group—Auchincloss, Towse and Widnall—were against the stronger bill. On the losing side were Democrats Adonizio, Howell, Rodino, Norton, and Hart and Republicans, Case, Kean, Canfield, Hand and Wolverton. Rep. Eaton was not recorded.

Family Life Today

"But, Father, if Bill and I don't go steady, I won't be able to go to any of the school activities, and there is the football game next week and the prom! Please let me, Father! Everybody at school goes steady," Sally explained tearfully.

Father and Mother are naturally concerned about 16-year-old Sally "going steady" in high school. Bill is a nice boy, but it is the problem of going steady that worries them. Actually it worried Sally too. She likes Bill, finds his company enjoyable; and it is good to know there will be no anxious waiting by the phone before school affairs. But there is Jack too—and he is so attractive. Sally meets this problem by planning ahead to later in the year when perhaps she and Jack will be "going steady."

Parents often become needlessly alarmed by the high school "going steady" problem. Often it is a very elastic term—meaning one week or one month approximately. The high school custom must be considered—and this is the most important consideration. If "everybody" in that particular school "goes steady," it is really necessary for your youngster to conform.

This is the time of life when each adolescent must do what the others are doing—or be miserable. Nothing is more tragic to an adolescent than to be left out! The standards are set not by adults, but by the teen-agers, and this is really a part of the adolescent search for independence—the struggle for release from parental authority.

This is the time for wise, understanding parental guidance—not for rigid authority. It is well to remember that the adolescent has as much need for security as the younger child. It is the different approach to it which is confusing—and the apparent conflict with independence. But it is even more confusing to the adolescent than to the adult.

Perhaps Sally's parents insist on being firm. They are right when they say a 16-year-old girl is too young to be going steady. How-

Turn Thumbs Down on 'Message' Films

Movigoers Like Musical, Comedy Best, It Is Said

By Jane Bartels

Light entertainment—not education or spiritual uplift—is sought after most by movigoers in this area. A survey of motion pictures of the past year shown in theaters in South Orange, Maplewood, Millburn, Summit, Morristown, Linden, and Union, reveals that comedies top the list of box office hits in each town.

The local preference for comedy films is a distant departure from U.S. taste as a whole. VARIETY'S national list of the ten biggest moneymakers for 1949 included three serious, or so-called "message" films, PINKY, which dealt with inter-racial problems, SNAKE PIT, a psychological drama, and JOAN OF ARC, a religious-historical production. Most local theater owners who showed these pictures found that they did not draw nearly the crowds who would come to see a Bob Hope comedy or a musical. Theater owners in some of the towns polled, knowing from past experience the preferences of their patrons do not attempt to book films of this type even when they have been acclaimed by movie critics.

Although the survey revealed a general preference for light comedy and musicals, it also turned up at least one exception to the general opinion among theater managers, that the public will go to see a comedy, good or bad, in preference to even the better serious films. Al Graziano, manager of the Plaza Theater in Linden, one of North Jersey's biggest industrial towns, asserts stoutly, "People, in general, aren't stupid. They like comedy, but if I show a really good movie, whether it's a comedy or a serious picture, it will draw crowds."

"Movigoers Surprise You
In contrast to Graziano's statement, a theater owner in another community, who did not wish to be quoted by name, said: "Movigoers around here surprise you. This town has a very high percentage of college graduates, and practically all of them are white collar workers, but lightweight ever, if this is the custom at the school, and they forbid Sally to go steady, they will be doing serious harm which may have dire consequences for Sally's later life.

When everybody is going steady in school, it means actually "everybody in the crowd" leaving can't go steady, she loses her position in the group and automatically becomes one of the undesirable on the outside. She is left out of activities, has no position, is made to feel inferior. Her friends, of necessity, must be drawn from the "undesirables."

movies are about the only kind they'll come to see." The way I figure it," he added, "they just don't want to be disturbed or upset. They think pictures like SNAKE PIT too depressing, and they also avoid controversial pictures like PINKY or LOST BOUNDARIES."

Most theater owners appear to count heavily on a big star attraction only undercircumstances. When Sally tion to bring people to the movies, Madeleine Palmieri, assistant manager of the Community Theater in Morristown, says that Cary Grant, Bob Hope, and Bing Crosby are sure drawing cards among the men stars, and June Allyson seems to have a clear edge over other women leads in packing them in.

Linden's Plaza Theater manager, Al Graziano, insists however that he does not find it profitable to use star attractions as the basis for making his theater bookings. "People around here know a good product," he says. "They aren't fooled by a big name in a poor picture. Even if I show a star like Bob Hope in a no good picture, I lose money on it."

Special Category
In a special category are the movie preferences of children and boys and girls in their early teens.

All theater owners agree that this group likes Westerns best, followed by comedies of the slapstick variety, followed by cops and robbers melodramas. All theaters queried except the Community in Morristown cater to them with a special Saturday afternoon show which includes two full length features, an episode from a Western serial, and as many as six cartoon shorts. Some theater owners in cooperation with local merchants, also throw in a giveaway game of some kind to add to the Saturday afternoon matinee.

Arthur Jacks, assistant manager of the Strand Theater in Summit, which caters almost exclusively to the popcorn and bubble gum group, leaving the general trade to its sister theater the Lyric, gave the following ten billings as the most successful of the year at the Strand. Surprisingly the list is headed by JOAN OF ARC, but after that it runs true to form, cowboys, codemings and cops and robbers. JOAN OF ARC is followed by SO DEAR TO MY HEART and STATIONS WEST. Next comes FIGHTING O'FLYNN and DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND, followed by STREETS OF LAREDO and THE STRANGE MRS. CRANE. EL PASO and THE MUTINEERS ran just ahead of RED PONY and "MESSAGE" FILMS seem to have little appeal for agers. Above a scene from "Lost Boundaries," one suburban audiences, according to local movie man- of the "message" films of the past year.

AMAZON QUEST in popularity. The remainder of the list included RACE STREET and GEM SMUGGLERS; SOUTH OF ST. LOUIS and FIGHTING FOOLS; AFRICA MURDER. Abbot and Costello, SCREAMS and HIDEOUT; and Roy Rogers, and Gene Autry, according to Mr. Jacks, are naturally the star attractions at the Strand.
