

City and Park Board Opposed To State's Plan for Route 22

The City of Summit and the Union County Park Commission last week agreed to join forces in opposing state plans to locate the proposed new Route 22 through the Watchung Reservation in the vicinity of Glenside avenue.

The Mayor's Committee on Route 22 and the Park Commission met informally last Friday to discuss mutual problems created by the road plans.

Both parties expressed the feeling that the Watchung-Glenside avenue area will be favored by the highway engineers but that the exact location could be altered to serve the best interests of the Park Commission and Summit.

The Park Commission is concerned about whether the highway will be laid out north or south of Glenside avenue.

Victor R. King, Commission head, said that if the route cuts south of Glenside avenue, it will cut off the new Watchung Riding Stable from almost all of the bridge paths and will probably "obliterate" Boy Scout camping facilities.

"We feel," he stated, "that since the park has no room to expand, it is important to keep as much as possible, because the property will never be replaced."

Unofficially, it is reported that the state's present plans for the Summit section of Route 22 would bring the highway into Summit at a point north of Glenside avenue approximately 1,000 feet south of the intersection of Greenbriar drive and Oak Ridge avenue.

It would then cross Glenside avenue, either by overhead or underground pass, slightly west of the Watchung Stables and then proceed in the direction of Springfield along the Summit-Springfield line.

About 200 feet of the highway's 300-foot right of way would be in Summit. Advantages of this route is that the road would bypass most of the Commonwealth Water Company's Summit pumping station and well fields as well as most of the East Summit section.

Placing the highway north of Glenside avenue, however, would not be acceptable to Summit, former Mayor Maxwell Lester, Jr., chairman of the mayor's committee, said. Locating the road north of Glenside avenue, he claimed, would adversely affect one of the city's finest residential sections.

Mr. Lester, who also is a former Turnpike Authority commissioner, stated he had received letters from more than sixty people, as well as phone calls and conversations, regarding the disadvantages of placing the highway north of Glenside avenue. The main objection is that the closeness of the highway would adversely affect property values along Mountain avenue and Druid Hill.

Plumley Elected New Chairman of Area Red Cross

Ralph K. Plumley of 75 Norwood avenue, business manager of Kent Place School, was elected the new chairman of the Summit Area Red Cross chapter at the annual dinner meeting held last Thursday at Columbia School, Berkeley Heights.

Mr. O'Grady was presented with a barbecue grill in appreciation of his services and Mrs. E. G. Von Duhn was presented with a certificate noting her forty-year service with the local chapter. The award was presented by Mrs. I. C. Reese, chairman of volunteers.

Mr. Plumley, who is a former Turnpike Authority commissioner, stated he had received letters from more than sixty people, as well as phone calls and conversations, regarding the disadvantages of placing the highway north of Glenside avenue. The main objection is that the closeness of the highway would adversely affect property values along Mountain avenue and Druid Hill.

Seven, Including Five of Staff Seek Postal Job

Seven persons have filed for the oral Civil Service examination for Summit Postmaster. Five of the seven are present members of the Post Office staff, including Louis P. Ciullo, the acting Postmaster who received a temporary appointment pending the Civil Service test.

The deadline for filing of applications for the $7,000 job was April 22. The date the examination will be held has not yet been announced.

Those who have filed are Frank M. Allen and Robert M. Dunsmore, both of whom sought City GOP Committee backing for the vacancy last January but lost out to Ciullo. Staff members who have signed up for the test are Ralph I. Baldwin, Frank J. LaMagna, Frank J. Maroney, Joseph V. O'Mahoney and Ciullo.

Hugh S. Reed, a 31-year veteran staff member who had the support of a minority bloc of the GOP Committee when it made its selection last fall, did not file an application.

Ciullo and Reed were top men in the balloting of the City Committee to fill the vacancy created by the death of former Postmaster Theodore F. Van Dyke. Ciullo won the nod by a final 19 to 17 ballot and subsequently received the temporary appointment. However, the minority backing Reed immediately issued a statement protesting the vote, declaring that it did not represent "the majority of the thinking voters of Summit who believe that Postmasters should come from the ranks and not as political patronage appointments."

All applicants had to be at least one-year residents of Summit. Disabled veterans will be given a 10-point preference and other veterans a 5-point preference. Candidates also will be rated on their previous business experience. The names of the highest three eligible will be forwarded by the Civil Service Commission to the Post Office Department which makes the final selection. The Department's choice then must be nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

Street Fight Nets Heights Boy Fine, Loss of License

For his part in a street fight here April 20, David Leland, 15, of 35 Webster avenue, Berkeley Heights, last week was fined $300 and his driver's license for two years and put on a year's probation.

Leland, who was charged with loitering and disturbing the peace, pleaded guilty before Magistrate Albert H. Bierman in Municipal Court.

Four other youths were to have appeared before Magistrate Bierman on similar charges but their cases were postponed because of their lawyer's illness. A new hearing has been set for May 21.

Leland was among a group of juveniles and young adults who assembled at 12:30 a.m. on April 20 at Summit avenue and Union place and allegedly started a brawl with a group of Negro teenagers.

At a hearing held April 30 Joseph Martone, 18, of Irvington one of the youths involved in the fracas, pleaded guilty, but upon hearing Magistrate Bierman's sentence of a three-month jail term, a $300 fine and a two-year suspension of his driver's license, reversed his plea to not guilty and sought a postponement in order to appeal later with an attorney. Leland and another boy involved in the fight, Michael Pagnillo, 15, of 48 Broad street, entered similar pleas.

Belleville Boys Involved At that time two Belleville youths, John DeLaurentis and Kenneth Paton, also pleaded not guilty to a charge of knocking down a 16-year old Summit High student in front of the school on April 18.

The five juveniles involved in the melee were previously released into the custody of their parents pending action of the Juvenile Court at Elizabeth.

THE PASSING OF AN ERA—Bits of rubble are all that remain of the venerable granite horse trough that for years graced the "island" at the Summit avenue end of Union place. Last Friday city crews demolished the familiar relic of a bygone era with air hammers in order to launch a civic beauty project that includes re-landscaping the Union place island with shrubbery at an estimated cost of $700. Roots of the tree were periled but it is hoped that they were not severely damaged. (Wolin photo)

Civic Beauty Drive Junks Union Place Horse Trough

A relic of old Summit—the stone horse trough on Union Place—last Friday became a casualty of a civic improvement program to beautify the street by redesigning the "island" near the Summit avenue end of the street.

The trough, which was broken into small pieces by air hammers, was removed by city workmen upon the request of the "Keep Summit Beautiful" Committee, a group of women headed by Mrs. John M. Mackie who have launched a program to not only keep the streets litter-free but to dress up downtown areas.

The Union Place island will be redesigned and given new plantings at an estimated cost of $700. Work is scheduled to begin this Monday under the direction of John Jennings, landscape architect. A move also is underway to encourage store and office occupants on the street to put up window boxes of flowers or plants.

The ancient horse trough was considered an "eyesore" as well as a traffic hazard, according to city officials. The large stone trough is believed to have been erected during the early part of the century for the convenience of commuters who made the trip to the Lackawanna station in their carriages. Local records do not give the exact date of its construction.

According to a spokesman of the "Keep Summit Beautiful" Committee, the suggestion to raze the horse trough was made by the Summit Area Chamber of Commerce and passed on to city officials by the improvement group. The Chamber, it is said, felt that the trough and civic progress were out of step.

The city's civic group also suggested to having "Don't Be a Litterbug" signs attached to street trash receptacles. Members of the committee are Mrs. Mackie, chairman; Mrs. Harold S. Bell, Miss Eleanor Bennett, Mrs. Henry C. Dearborn, Jr., Miss Capitola Dickerson, Mrs. Winthrop J. Lenz, Mrs. J. W. Nichols, Mrs. Robert A. Potter, Mrs. H. E. Walton and Miss Frances Waterman.

7 Local Youths Await Robbery Action by Court

Seven local boys, ranging in age from 15 to 17 were awaiting action by juvenile authorities this week on charges of stealing auto accessories from parked cars and automobile stores.

All were arrested last week and later released into the custody of their parents.

According to Detective Sgt. Thomas Finneran, most of the thefts were carried out over the last month and were committed during the early evening hours from cars parked in public lots. Loot from the parked cars included hubcaps and fender skirts. Spark plugs, several carburetors, tools and spotlights were taken from stores, police said. Among the stores broken into was Quality Auto Parts at 25 Summit avenue which was destroyed by fire in February.

Police added that almost all of the accessories were recovered but that some of the equipment had been sold by the boys. It was also learned that at least two of the victims of stolen hubcaps were policemen whose cars were parked near the Hotel Suburban during the Politemen's Benevolent Association dinner-dance on April 30.

Low-Cost Home Project Gets Green Light by Court Ruling

The Summit Civic Foundation, Inc. was given the green light on Monday by Superior Court Judge Walter L. Hetfield when he ruled that it was within the legal rights of the City of Summit to appropriate $16,500 for construction of a street that will give access to the Foundation's low-cost home project off Weaver street.

Boom Kept Alive As April Building Reaches $467,500

With an additional $467,500 in new construction reported in April, first third-year totals now stand at $3,820,700, or $3,130,700 more than during the first three months of 1957, the building inspector's monthly report revealed last week.

New construction to date is now $481,894 more than was racked up throughout all of last year when building permits reached $2,648,808. Last month's figure represents an increase of $287,500 over April 1957, but a $2,699,500 decrease from March of this year. The all-time high in new construction, $5,379,979, was set in 1956.

Accounting for $324,000 of last month's totals was a permit issued to Martin Leuy for construction of a new luxury apartment at 11 Euclid avenue, across from the Beacon Hill Tower apartments now under construction.

Other new building permits were issued J. W. Swenson and Son, 221 Broad street, $17,000; Garden State Builders, 41 Drum Hill road, $25,000 and 44 Drum Hill road, $24,000; Hage Brothers, 25 Sherman avenue, $25,000; Wellmore Builders, 18 Drum Hill road, $20,000; Ben G. Veronica, 30 Lafayette avenue, $14,000, and Quality Auto Parts, 25 Summit avenue, $18,500, to replace a building leveled by fire last March.

Alterations Done With new construction running well ahead of last year, alteration permits took a sudden downturn during March. Permits issued last month totaled $55,805 as compared to $99,160 racked up during April, 1957. Totals for the first four months of this year stand at $136,430 as against $150,818 during the first third of 1957.

Accounting for more than half of last month's figures was the Becker Construction Co. for alteration work at Summit Federal Savings and Loan Association at 393 Springfield avenue in the amount of $35,000.

Other alteration addition permits were given to S. E. Church, 36 Laurel avenue, $2,000; Frank Olive, 111 Whittridge road, $1,000; G. P. Turner, 424-436 Springfield avenue, $1,900; V. Cipriani, 92 Summit avenue, $250; W. N. Denick, 573 Springfield avenue, $750; A. Kanter, 267 Broad street, $550; Edward Monks, 55 Baltusrol road, $600; Theobis, Inc., 19 Greenbriar road, $2,500 and Sally J. Curtis, 19 Shadyside avenue, $900.

Also Residence Construction Co., 130 Hobart avenue, $325; J. W. Swenson and Son, 78 Blackburn road, $500; L. D. Mallasi, Jr., 30A Broad street, $300; Dorm An Construction, 28 Webster avenue, $1,000; Arch Construction Co., 35 Fernwood road, $2,600; Peter Triolo, 32 Fairview avenue, $600; M. Sclessa, 201 Summit avenue, $1,500; J. J. Keele, 12 Manor Hill road, $900; Plymouth Homes, 46 Glenside avenue, $1,670 and Armand Grasso, 12 Miele place, $850.

Mrs. Richard Newman, foreign trade chairman of the state League of Women Voters, will address the New Providence League's meeting on foreign trade on Wednesday evening, May 21, at Lincoln School auditorium at 9:30 p.m. League members, husbands and guests are cordially invited to attend.

Local Man Nabbed Driving 100 mph on Way to Work A Summit man was arrested early yesterday morning for traveling 100 miles per hour on Morris and Essex Turnpike because he was fearful he might be late for work.

The driver, Herman L. Edwards, 27, of 19 Park avenue, who operates a street sweeper for the Borough of Chatham, was chased by local police at 2:15 a.m. yesterday and finally stopped by a Chatham road block requested by the Summit police. Edwards was driving a 1950 Packard car.

Police said that Edwards had a previous suspension on his driving record. His car was spotted by Patrolmen Charles Carbone and Lawrence Finnegan.

With the approach of the summer vacation, the Summit Kiwanis Club will soon launch a project for the purpose of helping boys and girls secure summer employment.

According to Russell T. Kerby, Jr., president, the local club will publish a "situation-wanted" directory in the June 19 edition of the Summit Herald. Any Junior High, Senior High or college student who will be available for some form of summer work will be eligible to use the directory which will include such categories as baby sitting, household help, stock clerks, messengers, mechanics, gardeners, etc.

Local school students interested in utilizing the directory should contact the principal of their respective school. Applications for local students attending out of town schools and colleges will be made available soon.

The advertisement will be limited to three or four lines and must contain pertinent information regarding the type of employment sought.

A new type of insurance, covering errors and omissions made by architects or engineers, is drawing support from a number of professional societies.

THUNDERBOLT! — Although no one was injured and there were no cars underneath, the stately tree shown above in a horizontal position nevertheless raised havoc last week when it suddenly toppled over after standing for years on Locust-drive near New England avenue and Tulip street. The tree snapped electric and telephone wires and tied up traffic for about two hours before it could be removed. Area residents were without power for about an hour while utility crews rushed to make repairs. (Wolfin photo)

Red Cross Lerts Swim Class For Instructors

During the week of May 19 to 23 the YMCA pool will be the scene of the Red Cross water safety instructor's course sponsored by the local chapter. Norman C. Buehler, first aid and water safety representative of the American Red Cross, will conduct the training program, starting at 7 p.m.

Fifteen hours of intensive work on swimming skills and teaching techniques will be presented during the week long program. Present water safety instructors may renew their certificates by completing this course. New instructors must have completed 15 hours of preliminary training in water skills prior to admission.

National Aquatic Schools, sponsored by the Red Cross here in June, provides another opportunity for water safety instructor training. Senior life savers, 18 years of age, can enjoy ten days of concentrated training at a beautiful camp site for the nominal cost of $50, less transportation. Swimming, life saving, boating, canoeing and many associated activities make attendance at an aquatic school a memorable and valuable experience.

For further information call the Summit Area Red Cross, CR 3-2076, or G. G. Lavery, chairman of water safety, CR 3-5229.

Local Boy Scout Executive at National Meeting

Daniel M. Kreider of 24 Prospect Street is in Chicago this week attending the annual meeting of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America as a representative of the Watchung Area Council. During the last year Mr. Kreider served as the Scout Commissioner for Summit, New Providence and Berkeley Heights and he was recently appointed to the executive board of the local council as the Explorer chairman.

On today Mr. Kreider will receive information on a new and carefully developed Exploring program which has been designed to capture the interest and imagination of high school age boys. The new program not only contains those things in which teen-agers themselves are interested, but it also provides training in what adults believe will help them become intelligent, participating, productive citizens of our community. Of particular importance is the fact of the program's appeal to reach teen-age boys who have never been associated with scouting.

Upon his return to Summit, Mr. Kreider will be responsible for launching this new program in the Watchung Area Council which covers some 700 square miles in Union, Morris, Middlesex and Somerset Counties. Assisting Mr. Kreider in this work will be Lowell Hansen of 128 Mountain Avenue, Murray Hill, who is the district scout executive.

and boating, and gives a brief history of garden displays. Copies are available from the public information department, Union County Park Commission, P.O. Box 275, Elizabeth.

Registration for Kindergarten Starts May 21

Registration of all children who will enter kindergarten on September 8, the beginning of the fall term, will be held at elementary schools on May 21 and 22 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. each afternoon. Robert V. S. Reed, superintendent of schools announced this week.

The early registration is urged so that school authorities can have a more accurate estimate of kindergarten needs for the coming school year.

Board of Education requirements are that a child must be five-years of age on or before November 30, 1958 to enter kindergarten in September. Parents are requested to bring birth certificates for children being registered. Also, the state law requires that the child present a certificate of vaccination before being admitted to school.

If there is any question concerning the school district in which the child resides, parents are asked to call the superintendent's office at CRestview 3-3023.

WHEN EDUCATORS GATHER—Among the highlights last Thursday night during the Summit Teachers' Association annual dinner at the Hotel Suburban was an address by Dr. Frederick Hipp, second from right, executive secretary of the New Jersey Education Association, who called upon more than 200 public school teachers and guests to "spread the word that America gained strength through its own form of education." Shown above with Dr. Hipp are, from left to right, Holmes Cliver, Senior High school teacher and Union County representative to the New Jersey Education Association; Robert V.S. Reed, superintendent of schools; Dr. Hipp, and Morton Ashman, Senior High School teacher and president of the Summit Teachers' Association. (Wolin Photo)

Change of Name Considered By Baptist Church

Members of the First Baptist Church will vote on May 28 on a proposal to alter the church organization along more inter-denominational lines by affiliation with the Congregational Church and changing the name from the First Baptist Church of Summit to Christ Church, Summit. Under the proposed reorganization the church would not drop its affiliation with the American Baptist Convention but would have an additional affiliation with the Congregational Christian Churches. The plan has been under study by the church for the last four years and has the approval of the executive council, board of deacons, minister and committee on denominational relationship.

It was pointed out that the First Baptist Church has long termed itself an inter-denominational Christian fellowship and has had an open membership policy since 1934. Baptists now represent slightly less than half of its membership, the remainder being made up of Presbyterians, Methodists, Congregationalists and others. The church has about 600 members representing 14 denominations.

Dual affiliation with the Congregational Churches will mean that the church will be a full member of both the American Baptist Convention and Congregational Christian Churches and will continue to exercise full independence and authority over internal affairs and property.

Open House to Feature Student Work Exhibit

The traditional year-end open House will be held at Lincoln School next Wednesday, May 21, from 7 to 9 p.m. Samples of the children's work for the year will be on view in each classroom, as well as special projects. Of special interest will be a display of sewing projects and science projects in the school cafeteria.

Bomb Tests Show Many in City "Dead" from Fallout

Although Summit was outside the "blast-damage" scene during last week's hypothetical bomb-dropping on Stirling, fall-out was sufficient enough to be lethal to a considerable part of local residents, H. G. Wehe, Summit RADCHEM coordinator reported this week.

The exercise included the dropping of a four-megaton (4,000,000 tons of TNT blast equivalent) bomb at the Whiteside Bridge, a two-megaton surface burst at Philadelphia and a one-megaton blast at Stirling as well as several fire kiloton bombs distributed in the state.

Of these bombs, the one of greatest immediate concern to Summit was the drop at Stirling. The bomb of next greatest danger to Summit was the one that fell at Philadelphia because of its high intensity fall-out.

According to Mr. Wehe, the fall-out traveled at about 50 miles per hour with the fallout from Stirling passing directly through Summit. Radiation, it should be noted is measured in roentgens per-hour and that a dosage of from 600 to 750 roentgens absorbed by the body in a short period of time is lethal to human beings. Within five minutes after the explosion, radiation intensity in Summit rose to 3,000 roentgens per hour.

Affects Felt in Few Hours

Persons in the out-of-doors during the 3000-roentgen per hour scene would receive a lethal dose of radiation within 12 or 15 minutes of exposure. These people would sense nothing wrong immediately, but would within perhaps a few hours feel nauseated, develop diarrhoea, which would become bloody. There would also be a marked change in the blood and infections would develop which, with other factors, would cause death within a few days, with a few persons lingering for perhaps ten days to two weeks.

People in Summit who heeded the air raid warnings and were in basement shelters when the hypothetical fallout arrived, were better situated to withstand the gamma radiations. In the first floor of an ordinary house radiation intensity is generally reduced by one-half, while in the basement it is reduced by 10.

Mr. Wehe said that such shelter was insufficient protection in high-intensity fall-out areas, but could save many lives at the edges of the pattern. In a home bomb-shelter protected by about two feet of concrete of three feet of earth, the radiation can be reduced as much as 1,000. This is considered good protection outside of the primary blast area.

Radiation Would Kill Many
Since many local residents have not yet equipped their homes with adequate fall-out shelters, hundreds of people in the high intensity area would die of radiation sickness.

The situation would also be hampered by a lack of police or fire protection and RADCHEM monitors making radiation intensity measurements. If a fire broke out, it would rage unchecked because it would be suicide for firemen or anyone else to be outside for as long as 15 minutes. So-called "protection clothing" actually gives no protection against gamma (X-ray type) radiation, since about two-feet of concrete or two and one-half inches of lead are required for good protection and this amount of material cannot be worn as an armor.

Because of inadequate protection, a considerable amount of Summit residents would have to evacuate (with outside assistance) as soon as feasible or with due regard to danger to rescue workers. Time would be needed for radioactive decay before any evacuation could be started.

There would also be tremendous problems of obtaining uncontaminated water and food and of decontaminating personnel, buildings and areas. Without thorough decontamination, parts of Summit could not be permanently reoccupied for several years.

Another urgent problem to be considered is that of a safer location for the Control Center, which theoretically became uninhabitable almost immediately after the Stirling bomb.

On the positive side, the city is making good progress toward achieving some defense against radiation through the Civil Defense Council. The city now has 20 RADCHEM monitors, consisting principally of local scientists and engineers, recently trained by Summit and Union County jointly in the use of radiation detection and measuring instruments. At present there are two persons, Dr. D. E. Hudgin and Mr. Wehe, who have had experience in fall-out prediction and mapping. In another month the number will probably be raised to 18. The course is given at the White Laboratories, Kenilworth.

Area Girl Scout Leaders Attend Westfield Parley

The Senior Girl Scout Leaders' Institute at Westfield presented by Washington Rock Council in cooperation with neighboring councils, was represented from Summit last week by Mrs. Gordon Hubert, Mrs. G. L. Van Sant and Mrs. Karl Thomason of Troop 15; Mrs. W. C. Kleinfelder, Troop 11; and Mrs. Geo. Klemsler, Troop 45.

The Mariner Troop Leaders' discussion group at the afternoon session was conducted by Mrs. L. Holden, former Summit Mariner leader, and Mrs. Robert Cowen of 15 Madison Avenue. Mrs. Cowen, a Mariner leader in the Millburn Council, also described her experiences with Mobile Camping at the Institute's evening session.

tions, including Duke University Alumni Association's New York chapter, of which he is a vice president; Sigma Chi's New York chapter, which he serves as a director, and the Hillview School's P.T.A.

In the Jaycees, Mr. Grob served twice as chairman of their fund-raising committee, as social committee chairman, and as a director.

Mrs. Ernest T. Brown, educational representative of the Union County chapter, American Cancer Society, was principal speaker at the Jaycee meeting.

Woe to the Litterbug
 It is more than satisfying to note that the city is on the verge of adopting a realistic approach to an anti-litter campaign.
 In the light of the old law, a careless toss of a candy wrapper could net the offender as much as a $50 fine, the same penalty as is accorded more serious offenses. We are glad that the city has finally become realistic in its campaign against litterbugs by reducing such fines to $1.
 Although Summit is by nature a neat and clean community, people at times are wont to be untidy. Evidences of this can be seen in the business district where wads of paper, debris and other forms of refuse are constantly in evidence.
 Even though the city's streets are well-dotted with litter baskets, it is easier at times to dispose of waste matter by carelessly tossing it from a car window or from overburdened pockets.
 While the proposed $1 litter fine is nominal enough, the inconvenience of answering such a summons will undoubtedly make many litterbugs think twice before tossing.
 At the same time we give full encouragement to another pending law which would heavily fine those who deliberately flout the sanitary laws by permitting garbage and other refuse to collect around property. Such actions are not only unsightly, they also give rise to a health hazard as well.
 Summit is not particularly noted as being especially untidy in appearance but careless and unthinking people could make it so without constant vigilance. We hope local authorities, armed with a new law, can "Keep Summit Clean."

Current Comment
Nightmare Alleys
 (Cleveland Plain Dealer)
 The billboard bogey—and the question of advertising signs belong along new federal interstate highway system—is noising under the congressional tent flap again.
 A year ago this argument missed reaching the Senate floor by one vote. Then the idea was to penalize states allowing cluttered-up scenery. Tactics have been changed. Anti-billboardites now think they'll catch more flies with the honey treatment rather than vinegar. They propose incentive payment (by tacking on 1/4ths of 1 per cent to the federal 90 per cent cost-sharing formula) for states instituting bans.
 Such an arrangement might add $210,000,000 to costs of the entire road program, and about $12,000,000 in Ohio alone. Would such an imposition, if indeed it can be made effective, be worth it?
 Some think it a safety measure to eliminate signs. A Minnesota Highway Department survey showed where "the greater the number of non-official signs at intersections, the higher were the accident rates." Yet similar studies in Iowa and Michigan allow absolutely no connection between billboards and crashes. They might even be beneficial, it was indicated by alleviating highway boredom.
 So it comes right down to a matter of balancing property rights vs. aesthetics.
 The current Senate hearings have laid particular stress on the property rights aspects. But it has also been made abundantly clear that without the new roads, that alleged right would never exist anyhow. Land owners would be getting a free ride at taxpayers expense. Besides, the majority of the public has no inclination to be a captive audience for advertising of any form.
 At one time the Plain Dealer felt the billboard battle should best be fought out within each individual state, as a matter of states' rights. We were wrong. It is now plain that states intend to do little or nothing, since in a year only two—Virginia and Maryland—have essayed legislative action.

Be Kindly to Leprechauns
 The Irish government finds itself in a most ticklish situation regarding the proper respect for the leprechauns, considered by many the most notable inhabitants of the Emerald Isle.
 Twenty employees of the State Land Commission have flatly refused to build a fence at Belmullet in County Mayo because they insist that the area is inhabited by leprechauns and should not be disturbed or desecrated.
 We think the best way out of the dilemma is to build a fence that detours the "fairy land" so that native superstitions are not violated. It is foolish to disturb custom and local folklore.
 In America we too have many charming and fearful superstitions that persist no matter how learned and sophisticated we become. We know that trouble comes in threes and our minds are not relieved until the third bit of hardluck has struck the household.
 And what sensible bride would venture up the church aisle without "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue"?
 It is luck to find a penny and you are blessed by good fortune for the remainder of the day if you should retrieve a straight pin lying on the floor. Only the most daring non-conformist would fail to toss salt over his left shoulder after he topples the salt shaker on the table, and only an idiot walks under a ladder.
 We also believe firmly in ghosts, elves and kind fairies. There is something diverting in such a belief. When a child with a missing tooth finds a shiny dime (or is it a quarter these days?) under her pillow she faces the world with new strength and confidence. There is also something comforting in old wives' tales and homely remedies for sundry ailments. They add color to life. Dreaming of things we know will never happen give renewed hope to carry out everyday hum-drum routines in contentment.
 No, the Irish government should respect the leprechauns. Fences can be built any old place but "little people" are particular where they make their homes and should not be disturbed under any circumstance.

Stop Worrying
 (Springfield, Mass., Union)
 Turn to the medical column of your favorite newspaper and the chances are very good that the article will be one cautioning you against worry and fretting. Yet even though they recognize the fact worry menaces the health of the average American our newspapers do nothing to alleviate the situation.
 Just turn from the medical column back to the front page and you're sure to find one or more of the following in bold type: "A-bomb could level entire state, expert asserts"; Credit buying menacing prosperity, says banker"; Russian planes superior to ours, Air Force officer reveals"; Man who misapprehended name on income tax return given five years."
 Wouldn't it be far less nerve wracking if they ran headlines something like this: "A-bomb a flop, expert admits, could not even light a cigarette." Or they could cheer you up with some of these: "Credit buying key to our prosperity, banker asserts"; "Russia seeks peace and not propaganda, expert reveals"; Man who did not file income tax return for 15 years let off with warning, everybody makes mistakes, judge says."
 Of course, there wouldn't be much truth in these stories, but the reader would be expected to bear in mind that they were designed for his comfort and well-being. They would keep his living, mentally at least, and until reality caught up with him, in the good old days for which he is always yearning.

 Assuming the presidency in March, 1946, Mr. Day continued in that capacity after the company's name was changed to Nestle's Chocolate Company, Inc., on Jan. 1, 1951.
 Nestle's Chocolate Company later became the Nestle Company Inc. Mr. Day was elected vice chairman of the board of the concern in 1953 and chairman (Continued on page 7)

Destruction Is Deplorable
 There are many persons who insist that the past is dead. Anything of another era should be tossed on the junk heap. Such people mean well but in waving their banner of progress they often tread upon the toes of those who look fondly upon the past.
 We think a bunch of progress-banner wavers were very effectively at work last week when city laborers completely demolished and forever obliterated one of Summit's links with a by-gone era. We are speaking about the old stone horse trough that for years graced the Summit avenue end of Union Place.
 Progress is inevitable. It is also fine-up to a point. But when progress takes the form of sweeping destruction of landmarks—even though they have outlived their usefulness—then a form of vandalism creeps in to such acts of progress.
 The horse trough was an anachronism in this day of automobiles. We'll even concede that it represented a traffic hazard as it stood in the center of Union Place. But those are not good and sufficient reasons for breaking it up into small pieces with an air hammer.
 The old stone trough was, in its way, a thing of beauty. It was a relic of old Summit. It could have been removed to some other city-owned site and used as a flower urn or just placed there so that in the years to come grandfathers could explain its use to grandchildren who probably can not imagine that horses once ruled Summits streets.
 Today there seems to be a mass compulsion to bulldoze, pave, smooth out, uproot and modernize. There are many trite and much-used quotations we could invoke to bolster our point, but we will refrain. Look in any collection of poetry, in a hundred essays, in countless books on conservation and you will find them.
 Destruction is the easiest thing in the world. To preserve the past needs imagination, understanding of the values of by-gone days that are so valuable to our heritage even though they may be intangible and a bit obscure.
 The fact remains that Summit has lost a landmark. Not in our lifetime, nor in the lifetime of future generations, will it or can it be replaced.
 It would be well if in the future the city thinks twice before it proceeds to ruthlessly remove relics in the name of progress. Removal is permissible, destruction is deplorable.

Brownie Troop Graduates at Fly-Up Party

The ceremony climaxed an eventful year for the girls under the direction of Mrs. A. W. Speyers, assisted by Mrs. Holt. They completed two service projects; the making of stuffed monkeys for the children's ward of Overlook, and serving during lunch hour as waitresses and kitchen help for the Washington School Country Fair. Two hikes at Watchung were included in their program, one in the fall and one in the spring. The major part of the time was taken up in learning the Tenderfoot requirements.

Clubs Plan Bird Walk in Jockey Hollow Park
Members of the Summit Nature Club join the Chatham Nature Club on a plant and bird walk at Jockey Hollow on Sunday, May 18. The group will be met by Conrad Ogden at the Fairmount School, Chatham, at 7 a.m. Mrs. Melvin Weig of Morristown Nature Club will be the leader. The walk will begin at the parking lot near the picnic area on Jockey Hollow Road.
The group will walk along the nature trail observing the spring flowers and birds in the vicinity. Due to the rainy and cool weather during early May, the migration of the spring birds has been slower than usual through the second week of the month. It is quite possible, therefore, that the third week, known to be annually the height of the migration, will bring a spectacular number of transient birds to this area.
The Nature Club welcomes the public to its field trips.

Buildings are ready to go up on Weaver Street—modern homes replacing condemned, substandard dwellings—to eliminate an unhealthy condition.
More money is needed to finish the job—higher building costs and other expenses require more down payment.
Additional amount required—$35,000.
You will recall that last year the Summit Civic Foundation—a non-profit corporation—was created to carry out the plan of the Mayor's Committee to provide replacements for substandard housing. Citizens have invested over $80,000 in the Weaver Street project—the land has been purchased—building plans are complete. Mortgages on the units for $210,000 will be obtained.
We are asking the people of Summit to invest this sum—not to contribute. By doing so, they'll add the final brush strokes that will finish the Weaver Street housing picture. Will you help now?
You can invest by buying notes for $100, $500, or $1,000. Interest rate of the notes is 3%. They mature in thirty years.
For further details on purchasing notes, contact any member of the Finance Committee or trustee of the SUMMIT CIVIC FOUNDATION.

Washington PTA Group To Study Gifted Child

An informal review and discussion of the book, "The Gifted Child", a publication of the American Association for Gifted Children, will be the program for the "More-Able Child Study Group" of the Washington School PTA Monday at 9 a.m., at the School.

Mrs. Saunders E. Jamison, a member of the group, will present the review and answer questions.

Another meeting of the "More Able Child" study group, in conjunction with the kindergarten-first grade transitional study group, was held at the school last Monday night for a joint discussion of the school report-card and parent-teacher conference system. The group was led by Mrs. George Naimark, PTA vice-president and study-group chairman.

All Washington School parents are invited to attend and no formal registration is required.

A Correction

In last week's edition of the Herald regarding the new public school workshop to help identify the talented child, it was inadvertently stated that Dr. Albert I. Oliver, Jr., associate professor of education at the University of Pennsylvania had five years of teaching experience. Actually Dr.

Oliver has had 25 years of experience and is considered a leader in the field of instructing the gifted child.

One of Trinidad's tourist attractions is Pitch Lake, 116 acres of asphalt at LaBrea Point, 28 miles from the capital, Port of Spain. The lake looks something like a wrinkled elephant hide, its folds filled with water. It contains prehistoric bones and fossils.

Fortnightly Unit To Visit Two Historic Homes

The final event for members of the antiques department of the Fortnightly Club has been planned for Thursday, May 22. The group will leave the clubhouse promptly at 10 a.m. and will travel by bus to Tarrytown, N.Y.

Points of interest to be visited are "Sunnyside," the home of Washington Irving and Philippe Castle at North Tarrytown. Both these mansions have been carefully restored to show the important role they played in American history. Philippe Castle, built in 1683, has unusual furnishings of the early dutch period. Small buildings to be visited on the grounds include a smoke house, slave cottage, grinding mill and an old Dutch church.

The interior of "Sunnyside" is a blend of Spanish, English, Italian and Dutch which reflects the varied tastes of Irving. Visitors are shown his library and study where he wrote such famous stories as "Rip Van Winkle" and "Legend of Sleepy Hollow." Members are asked to bring a box lunch. Soft drinks will be available on the grounds. For reservations and further information call either the chairman, Mrs. Henry Tyler (CR 7-2868) or Mrs. Kirtland VanCourt (CR 7-1586.)

Summit High Nips Caldwell But Bows to Chatham 8-1

The Summit High School baseballers traveled to neighboring Chatham last Tuesday afternoon, and absorbed their third loss of the campaign by a tune of 8-1. He was unable to use either of the regular hurlers, Schieppe or Kubach and had to start sophomore Bob MacArthur. In the first two innings MacArthur showed signs of nervousness, but settled down to pitch effective ball. The showing by MacArthur gives the Hilltoppers another hurler for two more years. He struck out six and walked six, showing a good assortment of pitches. Summit scored their only run in the third inning, with Tony Cardone blasting a long single to left, followed by another single by Dick Connell, with Cardone scoring as the pitcher allowed the throw in to get away. Summit's other run was scored without the benefit of a hit as Tom Prior was hit by a pitched ball, advanced to second on a passed ball, and then scored as the shortstop booted an infield throw on Kubach's grounder.

Doyle Clinches Pin Flag By Sweep Over Chaffee

Alice Gavin rolled a spectacular 367 series to spark Doyle Furniture to a three game sweep over Charline Drugs last Wednesday evening at Echo Lanes, Mountain-side. Doyle clinched the Summit Women's Recreation Bowling title by taking their series with Charline's, with four of the five bowlers having better than 423 series. Alice Gavin (367) rolled a 212 in the opener, then followed with a 216, with other top series rolled by Tobi Hoening (43), Flo Pacuita (436), and Mary Gemaldi (473), with Pearl Petescia's 478 series the top effort for Charline Drugs. All five CIBA pinners rolled better than 400 series to gain an easy sweep over Balish. Harriet Abearn (471), and Velma Curry (471) had standout series for their respective clubs. In other series, Twill gained a 3-game forfeit win over Chubb, with Doris Kuzman's 485 and Mickey Granata's 470 series the top effort.

Ashwood Esso won the odd game of their set with Ray Niede. De-operators with Frieda Knapp posting a 462 series, narrowly missing a 200 in the final game. Celanese won three from the Hilltoppers with Ann Fonzio rolling three steady 153-152-157 games for a 453 pinfall.

City Yards Can Be Beautiful

Most city back yards are so compact that an exquisite planting can be maintained at very little cost.

Often, too, the owner of a backyard protected by walls or buildings from severe winter cold and wind can grow plants that only grow in climates somewhat further south.

In planting the city back yard one usually needs: (1) shade, (2) small lawn, (3) flowering and evergreen shrubs. It has been found that many of our most striking flowering trees will flourish in the city back yard. The flowering crabapple, for example, will produce both flowers and shade.

Soil conditions in the average city back yard can be managed easily — permitting acid-loving plants, in areas where alkaline soils predominate and vice versa, as desired.

To get the most benefit out of the back yard planting, it should be carefully planned. The range of plants that will flourish in metropolitan back yards is a very wide one, offering an opportunity to indulge in many colorful species, even espaliered plants that will bear fruit. City back yard planting can be a healthy hobby whose lovely results add a fascinatingly new recreational feature to most urban family life.

Sound Spray Program Will Save Your Elms

With an efficient spraying and maintenance program, communities and home owners need not fear losing their stately and valuable elm trees, according to the National Arborist Association. Without a sound program, however, they face this danger, it is said.

Dutch elm disease, a fungus, was introduced into the United States prior to 1930, and it has, to date, spread west of the Mississippi River. It is said to have been discovered in 1930, by Charles Irish, noted Ohio arborist and tree expert. As deadly as the disease is, it would cause little concern if it were not for its insect carriers, principally two elm bark beetles. By controlling these beetles the disease itself is controlled.

Abandonment of elms to the disease would cost the country, according to one estimate, a total of 15 billion dollars just for removal and burning of the dead

What Happened to the Vine-Covered Cottage?

Has the vine-covered cottage disappeared with the horse and buggy and all those other nostalgic remembrances? Many modern houses, sitting out in the sun, devoid of natural shade, often could use vines to cool the walls of the house, making it five to ten degrees cooler inside during the summer months. And in the winter, when the vines have shed their leaves they allow the sun through to warm the house.

Vines can be used to advantage in many locations about the property, according to the American Association of Nurserymen. The side of a porch toward the sun can be shaded and cooled, made glare-less and comfortable. Outbuildings on the property can be beautiful with vines. They can make excellent screening devices, and they are a lovely sight when trained along wire or wooden fences, along stone walls, on upright posts, pergolas, or other structures.

Climbing roses, while not strictly vines, can be trained to serve similar purposes, and provide a mass of color—red, pink, white, or yellow.

Vines may be grown for their strikingly lovely flowers, colorful fruits, or foliage. They also are excellent on steep banks to control erosion, or as ground covers. They may be evergreen all year, or deciduous.

Try any of the following vines, for special purposes as recommended by your nurseryman.

Akebia—fine for dainty foliage, flowers purple, fairly small, in clusters.

Ampelopsis—not dense as foliage screen, chief interest is colorful berries in fall, usually yellow.

Aristolochia, or Dutchman's Pipe — large leaves, popular for many years, chiefly a foliage vine.

Bignonia, or cross-vine—flowers orange-red, up to two inches long, won't stand temperatures much below zero.

Campsis, Trumpet-vine—chiefly for flowers, orange to scarlet, in mid-summer.

Celastrus, or Bittersweet—good for planting on steep banks, yellow and red berries. The American Bittersweet is one of our most ornamental vines. Seek advice of your nurseryman for its location.

Modern industrial plants have gone in for landscaping in a big way. The companies find that their relations with the public and community are much improved. Zoning regulations in the better neighborhoods often are relaxed for attractively landscaped factories. Better workers are attracted to landscaped plants while they also make good neighbors. Good landscaping is good business.

Modern home improvement should start with one's land. The costliest mansion surrounded by bare and eroded soil is a depressing sight. By comparison a four-room house on a beautifully landscaped plot can provide a lovely setting for more beautiful and gracious living.

Natural beauty on the land has no limitation of wealth, rich or poor can achieve it. The principal requirement is an appreciation of the land on which the family lives and what it can do for those who treat it kindly by planting and maintaining it.

From the appearance of their land comes first impressions of the family who live there. Healthful outdoor living, entertainment and exercise; tree-ripened fruits and berries; flowers; welcome shade, all come from planted land. Coming home from a hard working day to a cool and lovely gardenlike property can be a peacefully proud and spiritually uplifting experience. Landscaping also can be a sound investment, the trees and shrubs growing in value from year to year, increasing up to 25 per cent or more, while the cost of the improvement can be deducted when figuring capital gains taxes, if and when the property is sold at a profit.

Success in landscaping the property requires, as in everything else, a sound approach.

1. Sit down and figure out what you wish to achieve—outdoor living, armfuls of flowers, tree-ripened fruits, cool shade, play areas. It may be a combination of all.

2. Start with a plan to achieve what you wish. Where you want

Clematis—lovely purple, white, blue pink flowers depending on species or variety, fine in alkaline soil. Some varieties can withstand cold winters.

Euonymus fortunei, or Winter-creeper—a clinging vine, foliage evergreen, where temperature does not drop more than ten degrees below zero.

Euonymus fortunei, or Winter-Euonymus — vigorous - growing ground cover, scarlet berries in fall.

Hedera, or English Ivy—foliage evergreen, clinging, leaves about four inches in length.

Hydrangea petiolaris, or Climbing Hydrangea — flowers large white, excellent against old walls, leaves lustrous.

Jasminum, or Winter Jasmine—flowers clear yellow, about one inch in diameter. Best against warm walls, in climates where temperature drops to five or ten degrees below zero, not hardy in colder climates.

Lonicera henryi — flowers yellowish red, foliage semi-evergreen; used as ground cover on rough ground. Lonicera halimifolium, with small, lilac-purple flowers is valued as a ground cover for poor soils, has bright red berries in fall.

Parthenocissus, or Virginia Creeper—brilliant red foliage in fall, will stand cold weather.

Rambler roses—climbing to 20 feet, flowers single, or double, in clusters, white, pink or red in color.

Grapes—these plants make excellent coarse vines, valued chiefly for fine fruits. They also, in some cases, have excellent foliage for shade. They should be trained on an arbor, or along an open-work fence.

Well-Fed Lawn Chokes Weeds

A thick healthy lawn is the best weed-killer, according to experts of a fertilizer company who have come up with simple, helpful hints to take the chore out of weeding.

Beyond a doubt, they say, rule number one is to maintain a healthy lawn. The reason? Weeds, like other plants, need plenty of sunlight to grow, and thick grass keeps weed seeds in the shade.

Regular fertilizing of a lawn keeps the grass green and thick and helps choke out weeds. Another point—weeds tend to grow fast during the hot summer months, so at this time of the year it is best to let the grass grow to 1½ to 2 inches.

Raise your mower blades, a simple adjustment. If you have a lot of weeds, catch your grass clippings with a catcher to keep from sowing new weed seed.

Here is a good three-step plan for a beautiful lawn:

1. In early spring, fertilize your lawn. This is the time of the year when the grasses are just beginning to grow. Give them the nourishment they need to make that turf really thick before the weeds start to grow.

2. During the summer months, give your lawn a weed killer treatment. Kill off any weeds that did get started and give the grass that extra shot it needs to keep it green under the hot sun.

3. In early fall, give it another good fertilizing.

ing to grow. Give them the nourishment they need to make that turf really thick before the weeds start to grow.

2. During the summer months, give your lawn a weed killer treatment. Kill off any weeds that did get started and give the grass that extra shot it needs to keep it green under the hot sun.

3. In early fall, give it another good fertilizing.

Plans Set for Annual Boro PTA "Family Day"

New Providence — Plans have been finalized for the annual PTA Family Day celebration Saturday at the Lincoln School Playground, according to co-chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Warren Darling.

A "Mardi Gras Parade" will open the day-long festivities at 9:45 a.m., featuring kindergartens, first, second and third grade marchers from Hillview and Lincoln schools.

The day's activities will include field events, rides, games, a tug-of-war and many other competitive contests. Final event will be

Two annual school games between students of Lincoln and Hillview schools.

Ed "Pop" Lieder, chairman of field events, has named John Castle, Leo Kelly, Robert Spindler and Frank LeBart, fathers of Hillview students, and William Meins, Howard Kucher, Donald R. Young and William Fine, Lincoln parents, as judges and supervisors of the sprints and races.

Members of the police force have set up plans to speed up parking and traffic movement and the Rescue Squad will be on duty in case of emergencies.

There will be two special performances in the school auditorium—Professor Allen Finkensauer and his magic tricks, plus a selection of movie cartoons. The shows will be at 11:15 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Need for More School Space Cited by Heights Lay Group

Berkeley Heights—The Lay Committee for Education Monday reported to the Board of Education that an additional 11 classrooms will be needed by 1960 and recommended that action be taken to provide the space in time for the 1959-61 school term.

The added rooms, according to the committee, will raise total classrooms to 62, enough to adequately handle the anticipated enrollment of 1,600 students two years hence.

The committee reported there are now more than 1,300 students in the system and predicted close to 1,500 by next year. On completion of the Mountain Park school, scheduled for September, the total classrooms will amount to 51.

Harry Maslow, school architect, reported that construction on the school may be stopped completely by next week as a result of the construction workers strike. He told the board the school is already three weeks behind schedule because of bad weather and the strike, which started two weeks ago. The laborers' strike has necessitated reducing the carpenter force from 14 to six.

In other action, the board again awarded the 1958-59 school bus transportation contract to Robert Thompson of Plainfield avenue.

Borough Weighs Width of Road To New School

New Providence—The Board of Education Tuesday said it favored a 36-foot width on the proposed construction of Balcum road to the new high school.

The Borough Council according to Superintendent of Schools Allen Roberts, is planning to accept separate bids in June on construction of 30 and 36 foot widths to determine comparative costs. The school board, from a safety standpoint, favors the wider road, particularly in view of the fact there will be no pathways for the students.

High School Chairman William Braunwarth was asked to contact the council to try and arrange a meeting with borough officials to determine plans for use of adjacent municipal property and establishment of traffic patterns and entrances and exits to and from the school.

Mr. Braunwarth reported that construction on the high school is progressing according to schedule although the laborers' strike has caused the piling up of debris around the building site.

In his report to the board, Mr. Roberts said all academic classrooms are completed and that equipment is being moved into the science rooms and the lunch room kitchen. Painting, plumbing, heating and ventilating and electrical work is proceeding at such a rate, Mr. Roberts said, that he fully expects all union contractors to be out of the school by July 1, which will enable him to move in the entire summer maintenance and office staffs.

The board approved Mr. Roberts' recommendation that five men teachers be hired during July and August at $75 per week to help put the high school in shape. They are James Burnett, Fred DiMuccio, Elmer Van Gilder, Herbert Mesnick and Charles Mantler.

The board also approved the expenditure of more than $16,000 for school equipment and furniture. Contracts were awarded to the following:

Atkins & Company, Inc., Summit, $6,301 for equipment and furniture for the industrial arts department; Colonial Furniture Co., Newark, $5,648 for furniture for guidance areas and administrative rooms; L&L Surgical Supply, Inc., Newark, $1,878, for furniture and equipment for the medical suite; Newark Wire Works, Newark, $650 for wire mesh for the receiving room and Fred Medart Products, Inc., Hartsdale, New York, $1,280 for 858 locks for locker rooms.
