

MARSHALLING THE FORCES — A drive to mobilize the city's black community to give financial aid to the Glenwood place housing project, was launched last week. Pictured before a model of the proposed $900,000 project, of which the city's private sector has been asked to contribute half, are Al Williams, president of the Tri-City NAACP; Mrs. Betty Cochran, a member of the Citizens Advisory Committee; Frank Dickens, Harold Coombs, a member of the Housing Authority, Thomas MacMaster, president of the Neighborhood Council; Woodruff English; chairman of the project's fund drive, and E. S. Olcott, chairman of the Housing Authority. (Wolin Photo).

Glenwood Pl. Fund Drive At $145,286

A total of $145,286 in cash and pledges toward the Housing Authority's Glenwood place fund drive for $450,000 was reported this week by Woodruff J. English, general chairman of the campaign.

He said cash and pledges on hand represent donations solicited through the advance, industrial, general and major gift divisions. Woodruff said the initial report from the divisions "are very satisfactory."

In his progress report, English said that "All things are good and we are counting on the support of the entire community to help us achieve our goal of $450,000 to take a major step in the elimination of substandard housing."

"We are now at the critical stage of the campaign with advance gifts, industrial gifts, general and major gifts division chairmen contacting their assigned prospects," English said.

The capital funds campaign is to raise one half of the estimated $900,000 cost of constructing a modern low-rental apartment complex to eliminate the existing inadequate housing on Glenwood place. The remaining half of the project's cost is being sought from the federal government under the low-rental housing program.

"We need volunteers and we will reach our goal if we have enough interested persons working with us to make the necessary calls," English said. "I urge all those who wish to participate in this worthwhile endeavor to contact campaign headquarters, 76 Summit avenue, or call 273-0711 and offer their services."

City Receives $36,000 HUD Planning Loan

In a telegram from Rep. Florence P. Dwyer to Mayor David E. Trucksess, the Housing Authority was informed last Friday of the approval by the Department of Housing and Urban Development of a loan of $36,000 to accomplish detailed preliminary planning for the Glenwood Place Project, as well as for other low income housing planned by the Authority.

At Tuesday night's meeting of the Housing Authority a resolution authorizing acquisition of land for the proposed project was adopted "contingent upon availability of funds."

The purchase would include Block 161, lots 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and part of 18, as well as Block 162, lots 13A, 14, 15, 16 and 16A.

Trucksess Declines Another Term; Bennett to Seek Seat; Lehr Will Run at Large; Ratichek Bows Out

Mayor David E. Trucksess, the city's chief executive since 1963, announced on Saturday before a meeting of the Republican City Committee, that he will not be a candidate for re-election in the June GOP primaries.

At the same time, Ward 1 Councilman Anthony J. Ratichek said he would not be a candidate for a third term on Common Council in the June Republican Primary Election.

Mayor Trucksess, who will be 65 years old on January 10, 1970, gave his reason for not seeking another term, the fact that he will retire at that time from his position with Bell Telephone Laboratories. His current term as mayor ends on December 31 of this year.

In declining another bid for the mayor's post, Trucksess asked the City Committee to consider incumbent Councilman-at-Large Elmer J. Bennett as a possible candidate in the June Republican Primaries.

Ratichek, in his refusal to seek another term on Council, gave as his reason recent added responsibilities in his position as an executive with Richardson-Merrell Inc., specialists in pharmaceuticals.

In the last several months, Ratichek, who is finance committee chairman of Council, has done extensive travelling for his firm. He added that with his new responsibilities, his time would be severely limited.

Who the candidate will be to vie for the soon-to-be vacant Ward 1 post in the GOP Primaries in June is still unknown.

Mayor Trucksess was appointed to Council on January 7, 1958 to fill the unexpired term of the late Mayor Ogden D. Gensemer who was elected the city's chief executive in 1957 and took office on January 1, 1958. He was elected to a full two-year term in November 1958 and was re-elected in 1961. At the end of 1963, while serving as council president, Trucksess became acting mayor following the resignation of Mayor Gensemer. Trucksess was elected Mayor for a two-year term in 1965 and re-elected in 1967.

Before his appointment to Council, Trucksess served on the Republican City Committee.

At Bell Telephone Laboratories, Trucksess is head of the power conversion systems department at the company's Whippany location. He is a past-president of the Union County Chapter of the Professional Engineers and in 1964 he received the New Jersey State Society's Engineering Award.

He has been a member of the Bell Telephone Laboratories technical staff since 1926 after receiving a B.S. degree from Pennsylvania State University. He has been granted over 20 patents and is the author of several articles published in technical journals.

Mr. and Mrs. Trucksess has been residents of Summit for nearly 30 years.

Ratichek was first elected to Council in 1963 for a three-year term and was re-elected to a second term in November 1966.

A resident at 23 Fernwood road, Ratichek is a graduate from Columbia College Engineering School. Before joining Richardson and Merrell, he was associated with Vicks Chemical Company where he was manager of their service operations. He was previously associated with Naugatuck Chemical Division of U.S. Rubber Company.

A former vice president of the YMCA, Ratichek also served as superintendent of the senior high department at the Central Presbyterian Church School. Ratichek is a member of Beacon Hill Club and the Chemists Club of New York City.

Bennett and Lehr to Seek GOP Primary Nod for New Positions

Councilman-at-Large Elmer J. Bennett of 76 Prospect Hill avenue, formally tossed his hat into the ring this week as a candidate for Mayor in the June Republican primaries.

His announcement followed Mayor David E. Trucksess' decision on Saturday not to seek another term as the city's chief executive.

At the same time, Ward 2 Councilman, Frank H. Lehr of 16 Myrtle avenue, said he would be a candidate in the GOP Primaries for the Councilman-at-Large seat now held by Mr. Bennett. Both Mr. Lehr's and Mr. Bennett's terms of office on Council end this year.

If both Mr. Bennett and Mr. Lehr win in the June primaries, the Ward 2 seat now held by Mr. Lehr will become vacant.

A resident of Summit since 1950, Mr. Bennett was first elected to Council in 1960 and was re-elected in 1963. In 1965 he was elected Councilman-at-Large and re-elected to that post in 1967. Since 1964, Mr. Bennett has served as President of Common Council.

Mr. Lehr, was first appointed to Council on March 20, 1962 following the resignation of the late Leo F. O'Connell. Later that year he ran successfully for the one-year unexpired term of Mr. O'Connell and was elected to a full three-year term in 1963. He was re-elected to the post in 1966. For the last four years, Mr. Lehr has served as Council President Pro-Tempore.

Home Shifts Up Slightly Over 1968

Moving permits for the first two months of the year are up four over the comparable period in 1968, the city tax department reported this week.

For the first two months, permits issued have totalled 40 as compared to the 36 reported during the same period last year. In February, the number of permits issued totalled 15, one more than the 14 during the same month last year, but 10 below the 25 in January of this year.

Permits issued to those moving within the Summit Area in February amounted to four, one below the five in February 1968, and five under the nine in January of this year.

Out of area permits last month totalled four, the same as in February of last year, but two under the six during January 1969.

Those moving out of state during February totalled six, one more than the five in (Continued on Page Two)

Schools May Suffer If Proposed Law Gets OK

The city's school system — and its economy — could be affected drastically if a proposed State Assembly bill reducing busing mileage requirements is adopted.

An amending bill, calling for transporting elementary public school pupils living one mile or more from school and secondary students, a mile and a half or more, has been introduced for introduction by Assemblyman Peter P. Garibaldi (R., Dist. 7A). Under present statute, elementary school youngsters must be transported if they reside a mile and a half or more, and high schoolers, two miles or more.

The Summit school system has no busing for students in any of its schools — and it was planned that way. The schools, both elementary and junior and senior highs, are located so that every pupil lives within the mileage currently stipulated in the New Jersey law.

Should the proposed bill be passed, every school in the city would be affected, particularly the central junior and senior high schools. In essence, the perimeters would be drawn in by one-half a mile and youngsters living in the "out-lying" areas would have to be transported.

Although the state picks up 75 percent of school transportation costs, it would be an inconvenient and expensive proposition for the city. The taxpayer would be paying, either directly to the community or to the state, the cost of busing. And the planning and laying out of bus routes — plus the problem of whether to let out bids for a bus company or buy its own vehicles — would take time and money.

Then, too, it could have an effect educationally. Many youngsters, now walking to and from school, enjoy the numerous after-school activities offered in the city's schools. In some cases, this could be curtailed.

Indianapolis Symphony To Play Here

The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra will present a concert in Summit High School auditorium tomorrow, at 8:30 p.m. This will be the final concert in the current Summit Community Concerts series.

Daughters Born To Sisters 2 Days Apart

It was the distaff side all the way this month for the Ensinger and Braunwarth families which were each blessed with the arrival of baby girls. Which isn't odd at all, except that Mrs. Ensinger and Mrs. Braunwarth are sisters, and the little cousins were born only two days apart, both in Overlook Hospital.

On March 1, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart M. Ensinger Jr. of 74 Elm street became the parents of Dorothy Ellen, who weighed in at five pounds, 14 ounces. Then on March 3, seven pound, seven ounce Susan Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. Braunwarth of 36 Evergreen road, arrived.

Mrs. Ensinger is the former Marjorie Ellen Pott, and Mrs. Braunwarth, her sister, Virginia Pott.

The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra was founded in 1930 and soon achieved national recognition. The orchestra has had only three conductors: Ferdinand Schaefer, its founder, led the orchestra until 1937; Fabien Sevitsky, under whom the group achieved major symphony orchestra status, was leader from 1937 until 1955; and Izler Solomon, who is the present music director and conductor. As early as 1951, Deems Taylor wrote an article in Holiday Magazine in which he listed the Indianapolis Symphony as one of the ten top orchestras in the nation.

Immediately preceding its visit to Summit, the orchestra will play at Carnegie Hall as part of the Festival of Visiting Orchestras, its third appearance at this Festival. In 1965, the first time the orchestra was part of the Festival, Winthrop Sargeant reported in The New Yorker, "It is surely one of the most magnificent orchestras in the country." Recently the Indianapolis Symphony was awarded a maximum challenge award of 2 1/2 million dollars from the Ford Foundation, and was able to meet the requirement of a matching grant from Lilly Endowment, Inc.

Izler Solomon, the conductor of the orchestra, began his musical career as a violinist. He won the National Young Artists' Contest in 1931 at the age of 21 and became concert master of the newly-formed Lansing Symphony Orchestra shortly thereafter. When the conductor of the group became ill and was unable to continue, Solomon assumed the responsibilities of full leadership. He later headed the Illinois Symphony, the Women's Symphony of Chicago, and orchestras in Columbus, Ohio, New Orleans, and Buffalo before coming to Indianapolis.

The program to be presented by the Indianapolis Symphony will be: Overture "The Roman Carnival," Opus 9, by Hector Berlioz; Symphony No. 4 (8) in G (Continued on Page Two)

Of special interest to people in Summit is the fact that a former school music teacher is now playing in the first violin section of the orchestra. Parents of students in the Summit High School who have played string instruments will remember Mrs. Eleanor Wolfson, who was the string teacher in the elementary and junior high schools during 1962-1963. For some years after leaving Summit she was a member of the St. Petersburg (Florida) Symphony Orchestra. She is now married to one of the associate conductors of the Indianapolis Symphony, Thomas Briceotti.

Members of Community Concerts are urged to be in their seats by 8:20 p.m., at which time members of neighboring Community Concerts will be admitted. Inquiries about membership should be directed to Mrs. M. Lachner, 273-2193.

Schools May

For instance, suppose a high schooler (living more than a mile and a half away) belongs to a drama club that meets or rehearses until 4:15 p.m. Under the proposed new set-up, he requires transportation. The school could not, of course, provide a bus that leaves for the area of his home every half hour. So, he might have a choice of taking an early bus and missing the drama club, or a late bus (say one around 5:30 for members of athletic teams), which would mean "hanging around" for an hour and 15 minutes.

Another ramification would be the cost of transporting students who attend private schools within a 20-mile radius of Summit. Because the city does not have to provide busing for its public school pupils, it is not required to comply with the present law regarding private schoolers.

However, if the amendment becomes statute, the school system would have to foot the bill for private school transportation, in addition to mapping out routes and receiving bids.

It is reported that there is mounting opposition throughout the state to Assemblyman Garibaldi's proposal.

In fact, a group in Summit has already officially opposed the amendment. On Saturday, the City Republican Committee adopted a resolution stating its objection. Copies will be sent to the county's legislators in Trenton.

Clark Bank Merges With SETCO Today

The merger of Clark State Bank and Trust Company into the Summit and Elizabeth Trust Company will become effective today, it was announced by Gavin Spofford, president of Summit and Elizabeth Trust. Spofford noted that holders of Clark State stock will receive .85 shares of Summit and Elizabeth stock for each share of Clark State. The two banks had combined assets of $170-million at the end of 1968.

"Implementation of the merger plan enables Clark customers to have access to a broader range of services and greater loan resources," Spofford commented. "Summit and Elizabeth provides customers with seven offices spread throughout Union County and the merger offers the bank an opportunity to take an active financial role in one of the county's greatest growth areas."

In celebration of the merger, orchids will be presented to female customers at the two Clark offices of SETO. Balloons will also be distributed to youngsters at the two offices.

The diversified parent interests were started in Delaware in 1892.

James Boyd has been elected president of the Neighborhood Council, Inc. Other officers are: vice president, Mrs. Oscar Dennis; recording secretary, Mrs. W. C. Riggins; corresponding secretary, Miss Elizabeth James; treasurer, W. C. Riggins; and coordinator for groups, Mrs. Lawrence Lyles.

The newly-appointed Neighborhood Aide for Summit is Mrs. Petrona McNair, who will act as liaison between the Union County anti-poverty office and UCAP.

The major project of the council is the Neighborhood Center. In existence for two years, the Center maintains a developing program and activities for all age groups, from pre-school children through, and including, adults. The Council is fully responsible for the program, assisted by FANS, an organization of friends and neighbors, which supplies volunteer help where needed.

Financial support of the Center comes from tax-exempt contributions from interested local organizations, industries and individuals. The funds are amplified by some money-making affairs, such as the successful three-day rummage sale last November, and they are administered by the council.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the council or of FANS is welcome. Contact either Mr. Boyd, 273-6973, or Miss Capitola Dickerson, FANS president, 277-2204.

Concert Will Benefit Neighborhood Council

The Men's Glee Club of Michigan State University will present music of the masters and contemporary selections at a concert next Thursday at 8:15 p.m. at the high school. The proceeds from the concert, sponsored by the Christian Involvement Committee of Christ Church, will go to the Neighborhood Council to support its youth work.

Filling out the evening will be classical selections, folksongs, spirituals, novelty numbers and contemporary selections. The 1969 tour includes such works as "Great and Glorious" by Franz Joseph Haydn, "Laus Regi" by Francis Poulenc, "Sam Was a Man" by Vincent Persichetti and "With a Voice of Singing" by Martin Shaw. Strange Owl Pays Unexpected Visit Since Summit is not considered owl country, would anyone know why a huge owl would have ensconced itself in the wooded area of upper Summit avenue for the last week to 10 days?

Residents living in the area of Summit avenue and the Morris and Essex Turnpike have reported seeing the bird periodically over the last week or so. The owl moves about and other birds are apparently afraid of it since they shy away when they spot him (or she). The bird's shadings blend into the foliage and he (or she) is not always easy to spot.

Longtime residents in the area say they cannot remember ever seeing an owl in Summit.

NEW BUILDING PLANNED - Bell Telephone Laboratories will add a new, five-story building to its research and development complex at Murray Hill, fronting on Mountain Avenue. The artist's rendering above shows the building concept, designed by Vincent G. Kling and Associates. A high, glass-paneled entrance, situated between diagonal walls which slope down to arcades on each side, gives the new building a contemporary look, while such features as twin, square towers and a sloped copper roof make it harmonious with existing structures. Expected to be completed in late 1971, the new building will contain 240,000 feet of assignable space and will provide a focal point for all existing structures on the campus-like grounds.

Bell Laboratories Will Add New Building at Murray Hill

Bell Telephone Laboratories will add a new building to its existing research and development facilities at Murray Hill, it was announced this week.

Expected to be complete in late 1971, the five-story structure will add approximately 240,000 square feet of assign-able space to the Murray Hill Laboratory. Most of this space will be used for additional laboratories and offices, a new centrally-located, dining facility, an enlarged technical library, and executive offices. One of 17 Bell Labs locations in ten states, the Murray Hill facility is also the company's administrative headquarters and has 3,900 employees. Bell Labs has been conducting communications research and development work at Murray Hill since 1941, when the first major portion of the current facilities was completed.

Bell Labs has selected an architectural concept designed by Vincent G. Kling and Associates of Philadelphia, who are proceeding with the development of final plans. No date has been established as yet for the start of construction.

The new building will be located between two existing large buildings and will be connected to them on three levels. The front portion of the new building will extend forward toward Mountain Avenue, providing a new main entrance and serving as a focal point for all existing structures at the Murray Hill Laboratory.

The building will be of reinforced concrete construction with a brick facing designed to harmonize with existing buildings on the campus-like grounds. The new building will have a sloped, copper roof, and twin, square towers. A high, glass-paneled entrance, situated between diagonal walls which slope down to arcades on each side, is contemporary in design.

A lofty reception and exhibit area with clerestory windows, mezzanines, and a cathedral-like ceiling will be located inside the entrance. Behind this area will be centralized dining facilities, including a cafeteria which seats 1,300.

The second floor mezzanine will contain Bell Labs technical library. Library offices will be located on the third floor.

Executive offices will be located on the fourth and fifth floors, overlooking the main entrance and landscaped courtyards. Laboratories and related offices and services will occupy the remainder of the building.

The visitors' parking lot will be located near the entrance of the new building and will be partially concealed by landscaping and screening.

The plant design and construction organization of the Western Electric Company, manufacturing and supply unit for the Bell System, will

More Queries Answered By Housing Authority

As the campaign for private funds to meet a substantial part of the cost of the Glenwood Place Project moves forward in the community, citizens are asking some additional questions that may not have been fully answered. In order to assist residents in considering their own role in this vital community project, the Housing Authority is providing further responses to these important questions.

The brochure entitled, "A Commitment to Summit's Future," contains a number of basic answers, and the Authority is hopeful that all residents will carefully read this material. In addition, the Authority covered further questions in the press during this week of February 3, and that material is being reprinted below for convenient reference. Additional questions include the following:

Q — What happens if the goal of $450,000 is not achieved?

A — First of all, on the basis of information to date and the overwhelming response from all segments of the community, the Authority has every confidence that the goal will be met. If it is not fully met, the answer to the question depends upon the timing and availability of federal assistance. With federal funds obtained, the completion of the Glenwood project as presently conceived will be assured. What cannot be assured is that if the private drive falls short, there may be little opportunity to have funds available to use in conjunction with other governmental programs to make a significant start on meeting Summit's remaining problems of replacing obsolete, dilapidated dwellings in other areas of the community.

If the application for federal funds is disapproved and the private drive falls short (both assumptions being unlikely in the view of the Authority), it will then be necessary to develop alternate means of completing the project beyond the basic agreement of the city to match the private contributions.

Q — Why build this project in this area where land costs are high?

A — There is very little land available in Summit that would also be close to schools, shopping and transportation. These factors of convenience are of great importance to HUD in their approval of public housing programs. The Authority has been advised that any such project in a relatively remote section of the community (assuming that land was available) would probably be disapproved. Beyond this, if the replacement housing were built elsewhere, the dilapidated dwellings on Glenwood place would still remain, presumably be occupied by others (including non-Summit residents) and would have the effect of defeating the very objectives of the Housing Authority, namely to remove slums and blighted dwellings and to replace them with safe and decent housing.

Q — How many families and people are presently residing on Glenwood place, and will they all be included in this new project?

A — There are presently 36 families, comprising 105 people including 42 children, living in these old and obsolete houses. Depending on income levels, length of residence and other eligibility factors, the great majority of these people will probably live in the new apartments. For those who do not, the Authority has the responsibility to find other accommodations for them.

Q — After these apartments are completed, how will they be managed?

A — It is the intention of the Housing Authority to work with the residents in having them assume the responsibility to operate and maintain the new dwellings under basic rules and regulations that will be established by the Authority. It is planned that the residents will form a residents association, or similar organization, to help assure that the buildings are properly maintained and managed. The Authority will employ a superintendent who will reside in one of the new units, and will be responsible for operation and maintenance.

Q — What will the rent structure be in this new development?

A — Tentatively, the rents will be established in the range of $90 to $135 for one- to four-bedroom apartments, respectively, including heat. Some adjustments may be needed on an "ability to pay" basis, which will be worked out at the time that final decisions are made on who will be eligible to reside in these dwellings. Highest priority, of course, will be given to the qualified residents of existing houses on Glenwood place.

At the present time, a typical situation is a family occupying a two-bedroom apartment in a dilapidated condition and paying $85 per month basic rent. On top of this, this family pays an average of $30 a month ($50 a month during the winter) for heat, so that their monthly shelter rent is $115. A two-bedroom apartment in the new development will probably rent for $105 to $110 a month including heat.

Q — What is the Housing Authority doing about meeting other low income housing needs in Summit?

A — Major attention to date has been given to the Glenwood Place Project as the highest priority need. The Authority is keenly aware that there may be 60 or more seriously sub-standard dwellings in Summit that will need to be replaced. The Authority is presently formulating preliminary ideas on location, type and financial considerations involved in these future projects. There are also many new housing programs being formulated in Washington and Trenton which may very well have application to some of Summit's other housing problems. When sufficient progress is made on this further work, those developments will be announced by the Housing Authority.

New Program in Heights Aids Mentally Retarded

Mentally-retarded adults over the age of 18 years are receiving rehabilitation services in the Independent Living Program located in a building on the grounds of Runnells Hospital, Berkeley Heights.

The clients attending the program are provided with training in activities of daily living as well as coaching in basic social skills. Their schedule includes the learning of meal preparation and associated kitchen duties, household cleaning tasks, bedmaking, principles of personal hygiene and nutrition, elementary lettering, numbering and identification of colors; ceramics and other crafts, and other tasks which enable the clients to gain skills which would be needed for advancement into a workshop setting. The clients are able to gain gradual experience in the sheltered workshop which is located in the same building as the Independent Living Program.

Persons in the community interested in volunteering time would be welcomed. Especially needed at the present are volunteers who would be willing to give assistance in the making of ceramics. Interested parties who can donate one hour or more a week, should contact Mrs. Jordan, project director, at 322-6844.

Also needed are items which can be used for instruments in a rhythm band. Donations of bells, maracas, cymbals, wooden sticks (such as drumsticks), toy drums, or tambourines would be appreciated.

Anyone who would like to visit the program should contact Mrs. Jordan at the above number. The Independent Living Program is sponsored by the Union County Unit of the New Jersey Association for Retarded Children.

Air Force Captain Helps Kayo Cong

Captain John H. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Roberts of 15 Silver Lake drive, helped undo in minutes what it took the Viet Cong (VC) hours to accomplish in the Mekong Delta recently.

The U. S. Air Force fighter-bomber pilot participated in a two-ship F-4 Phantom strike against an enemy camp and storage facility located in rice paddies north of Quan Long.

The tactical fighter pilots destroyed or damaged 18 fortifications and three bunkers. Highlight of the strike occurred when they ignited a series of explosions, including two that sent spectacular fireballs 800 feet in the air. They had destroyed a large munitions cache that undoubtedly had taken the VC long hours to haul and accumulate in the middle of the delta.

Captain Roberts flies the high-performance jet fighter from Cam Ranh Bay Air Base as a member of the 12th Tactical Fighter Wing.

He received his A.B. degree from Washington University, St. Louis, in 1957 and was commissioned there through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program. The captain earned his M.B.A. degree at New York University in 1959 and is a member of Sigma Chi.

Robert M. Harris

Resident In High Post At Westinghouse

The appointment of Robert M. Harris of 12 Dale drive to marketing manager of the Westinghouse lamp divisions was announced today by Thomas W. Landrum, Westinghouse vice president and lamp divisions general manager.

In his new position Mr. Harris will be responsible for all marketing aspects for some 10,000 types of light bulbs manufactured by the divisions. He will make his office at the lamp divisions headquarters in Bloomfield. He replaces Howard J. Thomas, who was recently named fluorescent and mercury lamp division manager.

A native of Norwalk, Conn., Mr. Harris graduated from Oakridge Military Institute at Oak Ridge, N.C. Following two years of employment with the Firestone Auto Supply Co. in Norwalk, Conn., he joined the Westinghouse lamp division sales department in the Boston office in 1938. After spending four years as an agent for the Criminal Investigation Division of the U.S. Army during World War 2, he returned to Westinghouse in 1946 as a sales representative in the Hartford, Connecticut area.

In 1955 Mr. Harris was transferred to the lamp division headquarters in Bloomfield with responsibility for the sale of automotive lamps to petroleum companies.

In 1957 he was appointed marketing manager of the miniature lamp department. In 1962 he was named assistant marketing manager of the large lamp department and the following year he was promoted to residential lamp marketing manager. In 1964 he became special accounts sales manager, and in 1965 he was appointed northeastern region sales manager. He was promoted to division-field sales manager a year later.

Mr. Harris is a member of the Sales Executives Club of New York, the Union League Club, and the Essex Electrical League of N.J.

Central Church Continues With Lent Programs

Central Presbyterian Church will continue its Lenten program this week with Rev. Robert Stephens, D.D., preaching a series of sermons on the Book of Romans. This Sunday his topic will be "Set Free." The Children's Choirs will sing at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services.

From 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. there will be a continuation of the "Family Affair" programs, starting with classes for adults and children, then a pot luck supper, followed by family worship in the sanctuary. This is an informal event which the whole family can participate in.

On Wednesday, March 19, at 8 p.m. the fourth of the Lenten lectures will be given. Miss Martha Orrick who is on the staff of St. Clements Episcopal Church, New York City, will speak on "New Trends in Worship." No reservations are needed and everyone is invited.

The concluding lecture on March 26 will be given by Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary on "New Trends in Theology."

Abe Lincoln was also an inventor. He held a patent for a method of buycing boats over shoals. A waterproof fabric container was inflated and attached to sides of boats. It was not a great success, however.

Something's Cooking

By Sue Maloney

No wonder the Roman Empire fell. The only bread known to Roman soldiers were flat cakes made out of flour and water without yeast. They were of such poor quality that in the Middle Ages under the name of trenches, these hard flat cakes were used instead of plates. And how can any man maintain fighting strength on such weak sustenance.

What they needed was a hearty bread made with eggs, yeast, sugar, water, salt, shortening, flour and wheat germ such as White Bread Plus. But those faithful, industrious Roman wives obviously had matters on their minds other than their husband's diets.

White bread plus is easy to make. The addition of wheat germ gives the loaf a rich brown crust, imparts flecks of color to the dough, adds a nutty flavor and helps maintain freshness.

The more often one makes her own bread the easier the process becomes and the more addicted one becomes to a freshly baked slice of warm fragrant bread.

Since bread is supposed to rise better in moist weather, March is a perfect time to try making White Bread Plus. This recipe is advanced over the average bread recipes, such as the first one which appeared in this column several weeks ago, because it has additional ingredients and a bigger yield.

Besides being exceptionally nutritious, flavorful and finely textured, White Bread Plus is an economic foodstuff, too. One can make three loaves from a single envelope of yeast. And it freezes beautifully. Simply put the extra loaf or loaves in a plastic bag and place in the freezer. To thaw, remove the bread from the bag and in an hour it will be room temperature.

WHITE BREAD PLUS

Three 4 x 8-Inch Loaves
1 envelope dry yeast
1 tab. sugar
½ cup warm water
1 beaten egg
½ cup warm water
1 beaten egg
½ cup melted lard or shortening
2 cups lukewarm water

1½ teas. salt
½ cup sugar
8 cups sifted flour
8 teas. wheat germ

1. Dissolve the yeast and 1 tablespoon sugar in the ½ cup warm water for about 10 minutes. Stir to complete dissolving if necessary.

2. Meanwhile sift and measure the flour.

3. Pour the dissolved yeast mixture in a large bowl and add 1 beaten egg and 1 cup water (of the two required).

4. Pour in the melted lard or shortening. Then add the second cup of lukewarm water. Stir in the 1½ teaspoons salt and the ½ cup sugar.

5. Add 4 cups flour and 4 teaspoons wheat germ to the liquid mixture. Beat with electric beater until well mixed.

6. Add the next 4 cups flour and 4 more teaspoons wheat germ, mixing with a spoon or hands if the mixture becomes too stiff.

7. Turn the dough out onto a floured board and cover with a towel for 15 minutes. This resting period allows the gluten to develop making kneading easier.

8. Knead the dough on floured board adding more flour as necessary for 10 minutes. At the end of the kneading period the dough should be shiny and relatively free from sticking to the board. Tiny air blisters will be forming beneath the surface.

9. Place the dough in a large greased bowl and cover with a damp towel. Set the bowl in a warm place and allow to rise for 2 hours.

10. Punch the dough down and let it rest for 10 minutes under a towel.

11. Divide into three even pieces and roll out with your hands. Roll the dough into a jelly roll. Place in a greased 8 x 4 inch bread pan, making sure short ends contact the sides of the pan.

12. Set the three bread pans, covered with a towel, in a warm place and allow to rise for 2 hours or until doubled in bulk.

13. Turn the oven to 375 and bake the bread for 30 minutes. Remove the loaves from the pans immediately. Brush the tops with butter. Allow the loaves to cool

There's a new thing:
like the way you feel about yourself
like the way you dress.

It's definite.
it means that you can think the way you want to take the way you want to
...and dress the way you want to.

That's important
it means you're ready for the new things that are happening in clothes.
You've been ready for some time
...waiting

Now... Saturn is here.

What's the catch? There isn't any.
$1799* is the suggested retail price at the port of entry for the VW sedan.

The price includes the Federal excise tax and import duty.

It also includes the built-in heater/defroster, windshield washer, electric windshield wipers, outside rearview mirror, padded dash, front seat headrests, and seat belts front and back.

Not to mention the new electric rear-window defogger and the new ignition/steering lock. (When the key is removed, the steering wheel is locked in place.)

It's the price of the real thing, not a stripped-down economy model.

What else do you have to pay?

The charge for transporting the car from the port of entry. The dealer delivery charge. And local sales tax.

There is one optional that makes a lot of sense. The automatic stick shift. (It eliminates the clutch pedal.)

Well, that's it.

Unless, of course, you count the cost of gas and oil it takes you to get here in your present car.

United Fund For Large Businesses Organized

Formation of a county-wide United Fund organization, designed to improve fund raising efforts for all agencies serving Union County communities, was announced today by Christian A. Hansen Jr., manager of the Bayway Plant of Enjay Chemical Co. in Linden and chairman of the activation committee of the new Commerce and Industry United Fund of Union County Area, Inc.

The new organization will solicit businesses in the county with 200 or more employees, budget for county-wide or multi-community agencies and allocate contributions from industry to local funds for local agencies.

The all existing funds, all of which have approved the plan, will continue local operations. They will solicit smaller businesses, professional people and individual residents of the areas they serve and budget for local agencies.

Immediate goal of the Union County Area fund is organization of a campaign next fall to solicit contributions from large businesses and their employees on an in-plant basis.

Extension Approved

A two-month extension for flood rehabilitation construction projects, resulting from last spring's heavy rains, has been approved by the National Office of Emergency Preparedness and the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development. The extension, to May 1, was granted because severe winter weather conditions have delayed the projects in the northern part of the state.

Construction projects are being undertaken in New Providence and Berkeley Heights, which received federal aid for flood damage.

Feted On Retirement

Howard N. Guthrie of 44 Oak Ridge Avenue was honored at a retirement dinner given by the American Express Company and fellow workers on February 28 in New York City. Guthrie ended 20 years of employment with the company as a foreign travel representative and counselor. He attended Brayton School and Summit High School and is a member of the Central Presbyterian Church.

Attend Conference

Two Summit High School students were among 78 participants in the second annual Creative Writing Conference held March 1 at Union College, Cranford. Included in the conference were Carla Anderson, 182 Mountain Avenue, and Debi Good, 49 Rowan Road.

"The prospect for acceptance of our program is bright," Hansen said. "Our activation committee includes representatives from major employer's, organized labor, participating agencies and the existing United Funds. This indicates we can count on support from leaders in United Fund activities, and we firmly believe the public will welcome the benefits we anticipate."

Hansen listed the benefits resulting from a county-wide program as follows:

Greater incentive for large businesses to make substantial company contributions, because part of their contributions will now go beyond local fund areas into other communities where their employees reside; Increased giving by individual employees to company in-plant solicitations because the communities where they live will benefit as well as those where they work;

Growth of payroll deduction plans among companies, so that employees may budget their contributions;

Greater convenience for county-wide or multi-community agencies because they will deal with one budget committee instead of several;

Broader service and solicitation in communities which now lack a local United Fund.

Hansen emphasized that local agencies not dealing directly with the county-wide fund will be protected against a loss in financial support through allocations made to the local funds which support them.

Local United-Funds which have voted to support the county-wide program include those serving Berkeley Heights, Cranford, Eastern Union County, Mountainside, Plainfield, Rahway, Scotch Plains, Springfield, Summit-New Providence, Union, and Westfield.

Stony Hill Players To Perform Locally

The Stony Hill Players of Berkeley Heights will present their second annual play for children, "The Seaside Pirate," at Summit High School on March 29 at 2 p.m.

Proceeds will benefit the Union County Unit, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children.

Rummage, Bake Sale

A rummage and bake sale, sponsored by the Cat Placement Association, will be held March 27 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Elks, 121 North Washington Avenue in Dunellen. Pre-Easter clothing, planters and Easter baskets will be among the features.

Junior Club Aids Medical Relief Program

The Junior Fortnightly Club is currently working to support Project CONCERN, a project of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Project CONCERN is an independent non-profit medical relief program to provide medical assistance and medical education to those in need and encourage self-sufficiency. Working toward this goal are over 150 doctors, dentists, nurses, pharmacists, technicians and volunteers, representing a staff from more than thirty four nations. Project CONCERN has expended since its inception in 1961 to Hong Kong, South Vietnam, Mexico and remote areas of Tennessee.

Dr. James Turpin, founder of the program, has completed studies in the field of theology as well as medicine. He began project CONCERN through his own church adult group and his endeavors have led to recognition of both Project CONCERN and Doctor Turpin before the House of Representatives.

The Summit Junior Fortnightly Club has already sent 120 hygiene kits needed for Project CONCERN's hospitals and clinics. The hygiene kits consisted of a toothbrush, toothpaste, wash cloth, soap and comb and were enclosed in handmade draw string bags. This month the Junior Fortnightly Club members will make other items for shipment to Project CONCERN. These items are: hospital bandages made from discarded white sheets, bean bags, decorated plastic coffee can lids to be used as "flying saucers", and stuffed animals.

Mrs. Raymond Ellison, chairman of the international relations department, has organized the contributions to the program. Anyone wishing to learn more of the program may inquire by contacting Mrs. Ellison, at the Fortnightly Clubhouse, 214 Springfield avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. U.S.A.-1969

By MABEL G. STOLTE County Home Economist

Do we listen to, or read statistics about, our population's changes and the state of our nation each week and then promptly forget about them? What do all these figures mean to us?

Have we ever learned how to analyze the figures and decide how they really will affect our lives? Some government statistics have been analyzed by the Institute of Life Insurance. These facts can provide us with some "food for thought" concerning the challenges homemakers and their families face in this and the next few years.

Did you know there aren't quite as many small children around America's neighborhoods anymore? At least not in comparison to a few years ago. Today, the nation has about 19 million children too young for school (under five). They represent only nine per cent of the population. At the start of the decade (when there were more than 20 million toddlers) 18 per cent of the population was under five.

An awful lot of time is spent discussing and trying to solve the problems of youth. And with good reason: all those babies born in the late 40's and 50's are growing up. In fact, today more than one-fourth of the total population—more than 52 million youngsters—are in the five-to-17 year old age bracket.

It takes more money to maintain a family when the children are out of diapers and growing up. That's one reason why so many two-income families have been cropping up. (There are 16 million wives in the nation's working force. In addition, there are more than three-and-a-half million people—mostly men—who hold down two jobs.)

N.J. Proud of its Role In Revolutionary War

New Jersey, very proud of her exceptional role in the Revolutionary War, has written significant chapters of American history accentuating the State's important relationship to the feats of George Washington. Committed to this noble heritage, the State commemorates many landmarks visited by Washington to historically preserve the colonial scene in New Jersey for present and future generations," commented Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development in a recent tribute to Washington.

One of the functions of the Conservation Department's Historic Sites Section is to better acquaint visitors to the Garden State and citizens of the State with New Jersey's rich historical endowment and to observe early colonial architecture and furnishings found at many historic sites dotting the state.

The Revolutionary War broke out savagely and gloomily over New Jersey in November 1776 when Gen. George Washington marched on a forced retreat across the state. Here are some prominent landmarks that historically link Washington to New Jersey.

Washington Crossing State Park, situated eight miles north of Trenton, was established as a memorial 734-acre park in recognition of the famous event best known to all. When Washington crossed the ice-choked Delaware River on that chilly Christmas night in 1776, he plotted the boldest march in war strategy that played a vital role in winning independence.

The Mc Konkey Ferry Museum in Washington Crossing Park symbolizes the building in which the general rested after the memorable river crossing and before the march to Trenton in the early morning hours of December 26, 1776.

"Learning that the Hessians were dozing drunkenly following a Christmas celebration in Trenton, the Continental Army of 2,400 men crossed on their nine-hour crossing and captured Trenton. This event is recorded in history as the "turning point" of the Revolution.

The Trenton Battle Monument is a granite memorial located on the spot where American artillery made its surprising and smashing attack on Trenton on December 26, 1776. This victory gave new hope to the American dream of severing its ties with Britain.

The Princeton Battleground commemorates the site where Washington scored another decisive victory in early January, 1777. On "Drumthwaet's" soil, an estate located on the Princeton battlefield, some of the darkest days were fought that turned the tide towards a favorable issue for the American cause. Gen.

Washington reviewed his troops before the Battle of Trenton from "Drumthwaet's" front porch. American and British casualties lie buried in a common grave on nearby Princeton Battleground.

The big rambling Wallace House in Somerville, dating back to 1731, was the winter home of George and Martha Washington during 1778-79 while the general was commanding his troops. Visitors to this historic museum, restored as it was during Washington's time, will see authentic furnishings of the Revolutionary era.

The Washingtons visited the Old Dutch Parsonage when they stayed at the historic Wallace House across the street. Built by the Congregation of the First Reformed Dutch Church in 1731, this quaint antiques home was erected with brick imported from Holland.

The Continental Congress rented "Rockingham" for Washington when he was invited to attend the Congressional sessions held at Nassau Hall in Princeton from August to September of 1783. They were awaiting the signing of the peace treaty with England during this convening.

The general composed his "Farewell Address to the Armies" in "Rockingham's" blue room, used by Washington as a study. He then stepped onto the adjoining second floor balcony and delivered it to the assembled troops. This historic site is located in Rocky Hill on Route 518.

Erected about 1750, "Boxwood Hall" was the home of Elias Boudinot who played a spirited role in the Revolutionary War and was esteemed as an American patriot and statesman.

On April 23, 1789 General Washington and his party stopped at Boxwood Hall en route to New York for his Presidential inaugural. Mr. Boudinot, serving as chairman of a committee assigned to insure Washington's safety from Philadelphia to New York for this historic event, offered his hospitality at "Boxwood Hall" before the distinguished group embarked on a barge from Elizabethtown to New York.

"This is just a part of the story of New Jersey's leading role in the Revolutionary struggle. General Washington and his armies spent more than a quarter of the war on New Jersey soil. I am proud that the state has honored Washington by preserving historic sites, significantly illustrating New Jersey's noble heritage," further noted Commissioner Roe.

For information on State historic sites administered by the New Jersey Department of Conservation, write to the Historic Sites Section, P.O. Box 1889, Trenton, New Jersey 08625.

REACH FOR THE STARS—Astrology will be the theme of the annual spring luncheon and fashion show of the Junior Fortnightly Club to be held at the Chanticleer in Millburn on Wednesday. Miss Eileen Shea, fashion show commentator and director, and Mrs. Leslie LaNieve, fashion show chairman, are in the rear. Fashions will be by Bonwit Teller.

New Art Gallery Opening At The Mall
Saturday will mark the addition of a comprehensive new-art gallery to The Mall at Short Hills. Occupying an entire wing of the Schulz and Behrle store there, the gallery will display modern, contemporary and traditional work in oils, watercolors, pastels, etchings, acrylics, lithographs and graphics, and sculpture in stone, wood and metal.

Vision and Hunting Go Hand in Hand for Safety

Hundreds killed! Thousands wounded! Hunting season arrives and once again these headlines make the news. But this time the statistics do not refer to game—they refer to people.

Although it is necessary to pass a vision test in order to get a driver's or pilot's license, virtually anyone can get a hunting license without demonstrating any form of visual qualification to carry a gun. It is each hunter's responsibility, then, to decide if his eyesight is good enough for safe hunting.

Too often the man who wears glasses in most of his other activities will refuse to wear them when he goes hunting, claiming that they "get in the way" when he stalks his prey. Unfortunately, the only thing that might "get in the way" is a fellow hunter mistakenly identified as a running deer.

In addition to clear, sharp eyesight, the hunter must also possess adequately wide fields of vision. Central, straight-ahead vision is used to look right at things, to study game in detail. Side vision tells where to look next. You spot the game first, using your whole field of view, then you center on it using field glasses to make it look bigger.

For years the color red had been considered the "safe" color, protecting the hunter from becoming the victim of mistaken identity. According to the New Jersey Optometric Association, however, studies have now proven that red is one of the most dangerous colors, with very poor visibility.

Golden yellow was shown to be the most visible of all colors, followed by green, plaid, red and blue. In a careful study, typical deer terrain was used as a testing background. Teams of both color-blind men and men with normal color vision were badly confused by red, but yellow was easily seen even by the color-blind teams. Since statistics show that as high as ten per cent of the male population is color-blind, this means that of the millions of men who apply for hunting licenses, several thousand will be color-blind. With this in mind, color studies in relation to hunting take on even greater significance.

Here are several questions every hunter should ask himself. Is the target blurred? Do my shots go to the right or left of where I'm aiming?

Old Guard Speaker
"Plant Something. It's Spring" will be the subject of a talk by Eric H. Peterson, Union County Agricultural Agent, when he addresses a meeting of the Old Guard on Tuesday at 10:30 p.m. in the YMCA.

Am I slow in noting things moving in from the sides? Am I having trouble distinguishing colors? Do I frequently misjudge distance? If the answer to any of these questions is "yes", you may have faulty vision.

Judging a moving target in a split second, against a variety of backgrounds (bright field or deep forest shade), and under all sorts of conditions (rain, shine, dusk, dawn, clear, cloudy) taxes a hunter's eyes to the utmost.

Oak Knoll School to Host Special "Do-It" Program on Creativeness

Student representatives from 40 area high schools will encounter "art as a social experience" at Oak Knoll High School on Sunday, March 23, from 12:30 to 5 p.m. The varied events of the afternoon are being sponsored by members of the senior class at the school and students from St. Benedict's Preparatory School, Newark.

The program, which is designated a "Do It," will provide students with an opportunity to explore the realm of their own creativity. They will do this by attending and participating in workshops in painting, film, poetry and music.

Ned Mackoud, editor of the University of Vermont's newspaper, "The Cynic," will give the keynote talk at 1 p.m. in the school gymnasium. He will emphasize the many ways today's young people are able to express social awareness through various art media. Following his talk, the students will select the workshops in which they wish to take part.

Jon Plaut, Summit Herald film critic, will be in charge of the film workshop. He will comment on film making and will lead the discussions which will follow the screening of two original films.

William Holub, editor of the St. Benedict's Year Book, and Miss Jean Cain will be chairmen of the "Paint in" for those interested in a modern art happening.

During the session on music the participants will join James Ajello in writing lyrics and music for an original song. The students will also interpret and sing folk ballads.

Miss Mary Gilliland, editor of "Undercurrents," the Oak Knoll student publication, will head the poetry workshop. Participants will read and analyze their own poetry as well as that of today's protest poets.

Later in the afternoon the entire group will meet in the Oak Knoll "Coffee House," in the school cafeteria for refreshments and a social hour.

Miss Anne Markey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Markey Jr., 36 Colt road, is serving as chairman of the program committee for the event. Miss Regina Yoa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Yoa, 197 Ashland road, heads the refreshment committee.

Sister Moya Gullage, chairman of the Oak Knoll English department, is moderator of the day.

EXHIBITING—Recent works by Mrs. Paul R. Wickliffe of 2 Parkview terrace are on view in the Art Department at Drew University in Madison under the sponsorship of the university's Artists' Club. She is exhibiting a series of paintings in oil and collage. Mrs. Wickliffe is a member of the Summit Art Center and the Morris County Art Association and has had three one-man shows in Summit. In 1968 she won the Robert Simmons Award at the State Juried Show at the Art Center of the Oranges and last summer won the International Gallery Award at the Mennen Show. (DeMaio photo).

Authority On Hearing Impairment To Address Speech School Session

Mrs. Kathryn O'Connor, Education Consultant of the Alexander Graham Bell Association at the second annual meeting of the Summit Speech School Association on Sunday. The association, which includes parents of students, volunteers, the Board of Directors and Advisory Board, will meet at 3:30 p.m. at the Wallace Medical Education Center at Overlook Hospital.

Following the business meeting, other guests have been invited at 4 p.m. to hear Mrs. O'Connor and remain for a reception. Guests will include audiologists, professionals in speech and hearing and educators and legislators who are concerned with the need for better facilities for hearing-impaired youngsters.

During the past year, Mrs. O'Connor, who has taught the hearing-impaired from nursery school to high school, has spoken to many parents' groups throughout the United States. The Alexander Graham Bell Association for the Deaf is a highly respected non-profit organization founded by Bell to promote the teaching of speech to the deaf. It is recognized as the top authority on education of the hearing-impaired, and all of the leading professionals and educators in this field belong to the association.

Mrs. O'Connor plans to arrive on Friday in order to observe the Speech School during classes and to visit also Bell Telephone Laboratories. Part of her job is to report new advances in science which show promise of helping the hearing-impaired.

Joining Mrs. O'Connor in the receiving line will be James Donovan, president of the Parents' Group of the Speech School; Fred Grafe, president of the New Jersey League for the Hearing Handicapped; members of the school's Board of Directors; Mrs. P. D. Gold, president; Edward E. David, vice president; Dr. Arthur L. Terr-

Mrs. Hobart Ramsey, Dr. Charles E. Langard, Mrs. Louise Van Wicklen, Mrs. Walter Finnegan and Mrs. W. D. Crawford, administrator.

The Speech School, which opened in the fall of 1969, is a non-profit pre-school for hearing-impaired children, located in a house provided by Overlook Hospital. The first school of its kind in New Jersey, it was begun as a project of the Junior League.

The league provided funds for buying initial equipment, for paying operating costs and provided volunteer teacher assistants for the classrooms.

Currently, large numbers of community volunteers are also assisting at the school, as well as members of the Pioneers of Bell Telephone Laboratories.

Since seating is limited, anyone interested in hearing Mrs. O'Connor may phone the school 277-3353 for information.

BY JON PLAUT

One of the most encouraging signs of the visual maturity of our motion picture audience has been the success of Stanley Kubrick's "2001: A Space Odyssey".

The first reviews of this epic film about man, space and evolution were at least somewhat negative, although admiring. Later on, what is called the secondary press (the popular magazines, journals, literary reviews, and weekly critics) restored the reputation of the picture. It is usually these first line newspaper critics, however, who make or break a new film. That this did not happen in the case of "2001" is a tribute to Mr. Kubrick's following and the great word of mouth campaign that stimulated thousands upon thousands of the younger people (16 to 30) who make up the majority of the motion picture audience to see it.

My intention is not to again review this film. Last summer I spent two columns of my own on "2001" and asked a young film maker, Susan Crawford, to do a third. In summation of those columns, I just might say that although I did not think "2001" to be a perfect film, I did find it visually magnificent, profound on many levels and highly imaginative in both conception and execution.

There are two ways to write about films. One can review: that is, make the assumption the reader has not seen the film and emphasize whether or not he should see it, while working in criticism where possible. The other is to criticize: that is make the assumption the reader has seen the film and enter into a dialogue with him about it.

"2001" gives that rare opportunity for the critic engaged in reviewing (that is, me) to criticize, because the film has been around a long time now and most people have either seen it or are familiar enough with it to make certain assumptions essential to critical analysis. With that as an introduction, and making the assumption that the reader knows something about "2001: A Space Odyssey", I would like to analyze the brilliant ending of this most unusual film.

The ending both in terms of narrative and philosophical content begins at the conclusion of the trip through space. That trip, having been visually extremely exciting, has the effect of opening our minds to grasp a new consciousness. From the trip the remaining earth man lands in a high renaissance room, which reflects the elegance and refinement of that high point of Western man, the earth man's life cycle from that time on is accelerated both for us and for him. He is the end of our evolutionary period and has passed through time and space to reach the beginning of a new era.

At the very conclusion of his life cycle this man in his renaissance magnificence reaches out to the unknown, as represented by a slab, to produce the next step in the cycle of history. That next step is a space fetus having relationship to both the man and the extra-dimension (the slab) we cannot yet understand. It is an exhilarating moment in motion picture art. The comparison to Michelangelo's Adam reaching out to touch God is brought to mind.

It is important not to tie down the meaning of this slab too far. The slab may be merely an expression of the unknown to some of us, it may be God to others or just some type of communication from outer space. It is not necessary or desirable that we agree as to this. It is important that we understand that the slab which earlier in "2001" has taken the cycle from ape to man and then from man around his own earth to man in space, now at the conclusion of "2001" leads man on the next step in his destiny from the pinnacle of his own civilization, as represented by renaissance art and architecture.

That Kubrick celebrates all of this in visual terms, dialogue having been discarded, is what makes this film such a complete achievement. Perhaps, the most exciting thing of all is that where "2001" has succeeded with the public is just at this point of its visual dynamism.

Stanley Kubrick has proved once again, and perhaps more convincingly than anyone before, that being profound and being verbal or literary in the Western sense are not necessarily equivalent in film.

Dr. Ruhl Replies

Editor, Summit Herald:

The Editor of this newspaper, Mr. Norman Rauscher, has attempted to discredit my statements concerning the communist-dominated organization called SIECUS, and the influence of SIECUS in the proposed Summit sex education courses. This he did in the lead editorial of the March 6 issue of this paper by conveniently ignoring the main issue, and by using tactics identical to the anti-anti-communists (sic) who cry smear and innuendo when the facts are presented.

The main issue is: Is SIECUS a communist-influenced or communist-dominated organization or is it not? For, if it is, and the Summit Board of Education and the Summit Lay Committee are using this group as a consulting agency, knowing that it is communist-dominated, then most assuredly their action in this respect should be questioned by every patriotic and civic-minded taxpayer in Summit! Do I have to remind the good people of Summit that we are actively fighting Communists in Vietnam with the death toll of American boys reaching almost 500 weekly recently?

Obviously, Mr. Rauscher and the Superintendent of Schools must feel that there is little or no truth in my allegations concerning SIECUS, since neither they, nor anyone else, have challenged these allegations. It would seem that these people prefer to act like ostriches with their heads in the sand — trying to make believe that the problem of Communism doesn't exist!

Perhaps Mr. Rauscher has conclusive evidence to show that my statements made in the recent letter to the editor, and on my taped weekly telephone messages on Let Freedom Ring (273-0369) are nothing but lies. If such evidence exists why does he not come forward with it to settle the problem?

Mr. Coit was offered a reward of $500 if he could produce such evidence. To date I have not heard from Mr. Coit. Perhaps in these days of inflation $500 is too paltry a sum to bother with. If this be the case, I will make the offer a bit more interesting. I am now increasing the reward to $5,000. This will include not only Mr. Coit, but also Mr. Rauscher and anyone on the Summit Board of Education and the Summit Lay Committee. This offer will stand for 60 days.

Someone has said "It's time to put up or shut up." Mr. Rauscher should cease from describing hard fact as "emotion". He should fulfill his responsibilities to the people of Summit by disproving the statements I have made rather than by smearing me. If my statements are proved to be false, then I am the loser — not the people of Summit. But! If the statements are true, and the people of Summit continue to ignore the truth and become more deeply involved with SIECUS, then we all are losers — including our children.

As I have said before, I am not against sex education when it is given at the proper time and in the proper manner and place. I am against the exploitation of sex education for ulterior motives. I am charging SIECUS with exploitation! The people of Summit should be permitted to examine this charge in detail before making any decisions about adopting SIECUS's proposed programs. This is only common-sense! It is not "emotionalism!"

Supports Project

Editor, Summit Herald:

The other day I was talking with a neighbor on Knob Hill drive, who was giving very thoughtful consideration to how much to contribute to the Glenwood Housing project. I told him simply that this was the most significant charitable opportunity I had ever experienced personally, since one dollar here should do the work of a thousand if not a million without exaggeration. It's hard for all of us to find the money, what with high income taxes, high property taxes, country club dues, high expenses for multiple cars, college education expenses, etc. If the Summit fund drive is a success, it will be imitated in thousands of communities all over the country. Summit is not looking for fame or notoriety; the word will get around. This is really not a chance to be proud of Summit; it is a chance for all of us to be proud of ourselves. The target of this single campaign is not $450,000; the goal for Summit is human rights everywhere.

William E. Catterall,

Drama Review

'Amphitryon 38' Takes To Boards at Playhouse

Middle class values shall triumph. Or do they?

The ways of the gods are merciful. Are they?

The virtuous woman shall remain in the ascendancy. She does.

And such are the themes of "Amphitryon 38," currently on the boards at the Playhouse, as its 173rd production.

Set in ancient Thebes, the play revolves around the desires of Jupiter to establish relationship with a mortal woman, Alkmene, who describes herself as an ordinary middle class housewife, and who utters such sentences as "Get on with your war. I have work to do. Do you think this house runs itself?"

Pat Edwards, as the middle class housewife, disports herself well, both in relationship to her husband, Amphitryon, as played by Playhouse perpetual Jack Pyle, and to Jupiter, well-played by Jack Richardson, who appears, both as god and mortal.

Additional comic relief for this slightly farcical presentation is supplied by Mark McWhiney as Mercury, messenger of the gods and for his father, Jupiter.

Rounding out the cast is Jean Brinkman as Leda, queen of Sparta and a previous conquest of Jupiter's; as well as Dick Schultz, who is a mighty trumpeter, when he can get the one-note horn to perform as he wishes.

This is a one-set play, with a prologue set in the clouds, which is not so well portrayed as the earthly scene, where lighting is used very effectively and where the addition or elimination of drapery sets the mood of the act.

The costuming was handled well, and undoubtedly required the research which appears inherent in its authenticity.

Again under the very capable direction of Marjorie Jefferson, this production is fast-paced and well it must be lest it become bogged down

The Mayor's Decision

With the announcement last Saturday that Mayor David E. Truckess will not seek another term as the city's chief executive, residents will bid farewell come December 31 to one of the most dedicated, hardworking and capable Mayors Summit has ever had. We are sorry to see him decide to bow out, but all good things eventually come to an end.

In his more than 10 years as a Councilman from Ward 2 and as Mayor, Summit has undergone great change. The Mayor was on hand to see the completion of the new Senior High School, the construction of new additions to all seven elementary schools, the building of Tatlock Memorial Field, the opening of the Municipal Golf Course, the establishment of the Housing Authority and the attempt now to rebuild Glenwood place, as well as many more projects all aimed at making and maintaining Summit as an ideal place to live, work and play.

Mr. Ratichek's Decision

At the same time Mayor Truckess steps down as the city's chief executive, Ward 1 residents will also bid farewell to Councilman Anthony J. Ratichek, who declared this week that he will not seek a third term.

Mr. Ratichek cited added business responsibilities as the reason for declining another term on Common Council.

During the nearly six years Mr. Ratichek has served on the city's governing body, he has carried out his responsibilities as its finance committee chairman with the kind of adroitness that makes Summit's tax rate the envy of many surrounding towns.

His foresight, an eye toward

For this, we shall be eternally grateful to Mayor Truckess for his very fine stewardship of the city's affairs during his terms of office.

The Mayor inherited a legacy of fine efficient city government, and we know his successor will be bestowed with the same legacy when the Mayor steps down.

Summit has always had the fortune of having as its chief executive a man of dedication, ability and the utmost integrity. Mayor David E. Truckess stands high in this tradition and we are grateful that he has been our chief executive during Summit's time of change and growing pains.

Upon his retirement from public office and from his position at Bell Telephone Laboratories, we wish Mr. and Mrs. Truckess, the city's First Lady, a long, happy and healthy life together. Their devotion to the affairs of the city for these many years, more than merits it.

providing Summit residents with top value for its tax dollar, has maintained the city as an enviable place to live.

Although this year's tax rate will increase by a little over 5 per cent, it is much less than it could have been. We feel this is due largely to Mr. Ratichek's dedication in trying to lessen the burden of the already harried taxpayer.

Mr. Ratichek's contribution to Summit will be remembered long after he leaves the affairs of the city to the men or women who follow him. Summit has been made richer by his having faithfully served it. We wish him all the success in his future endeavors.

Decline of the Farm

In ten years the number of agricultural workers in the United States has dropped 35 per cent. We haven't been able to keep the boys down on the farm.

From the rocky farmlands of New England to the fertile fields of this state, through the hay and pasture belts to the land where the corn grows tall and the wheat regions, farmers are quitting the land for pastures not greener but probably more exciting.

At the time of the Battle of Lexington we were a nation of farmers. But that has now changed. The farm population has declined four million since 1960. Once it was estimated that one-fifth of our population lived on farms. If that held true today we should have about 35,864,635 farmers. The figure now is about 11,500,000 and continues to drop.

Fifty years is a comparatively short time but what changes it has brought. Fifty years ago in New Jersey and of course, New England, it was possible to find any number of farms to visit. A good percentage of our relations still lived on farms. The farms were owned in the family for generations and passed on from father to son since the Revolution.

There are farms in New England and this state on which our ancestors built log cabins after they had quite literally walked there from the more settled parts of Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Why did they leave areas already cleared and farmed for a new wilderness? Because, like Mount Everest, "it was there" and also the word had spread that the soil was more fertile.

Some of these farms still existed when we were children but they are fast disappearing. We can recall when we first came to Summit there were numerous farms in Berkeley Heights, Basking Ridge and other nearby communities. They are now home developments.

As many know, farming is not easy, nor is it especially profitable, especially if it be a small farm. Farming means dawn to dusk physical labor even with motorized equipment. It means earning a living at the whim of the elements. A farmer must be dedicated to his land but more and more of the farm youth leave that land for the 9 to 5 job with a year-round assured income.

Although there are still many acres of farmland in the United States and in New Jersey, and many fine homes and buildings on them, we are no longer a nation of farmers.

Council Comment

The Council was quite pleased with the attendance and the response of citizens at the public hearing on the municipal budget at the Council meeting of March 4. The views expressed and the objections raised by the members of the Summit Taxpayers Association and others to the increasing costs of municipal government and the subsequent rise in taxes were welcomed as these matters have been a major concern of the Mayor and Common Council for many years.

The questions asked by the citizens indicated that the published budget had been carefully studied—another major accomplishment which in the past years has not been the case. The question of how high taxes can go in the next five years and still be acceptable to the home owner is a hypothetical question to which there is no definite answer. Such an answer if it were possible would depend on the extent of inflation, the present unsettled world conditions, the extent of demands for increased wages and fringe benefits, and many other imponderables that even Solomon in his infinite wisdom would have difficulty in foreseeing. The only logical reply to the question is that the finances of the city will continue to be carefully scrutinized by the Mayor, the Council and with the taxpayers assistance, we can be further assured we will get our money's worth.

Perhaps, at this time the general public should be made aware of the study and preparation that precedes the introduction of the annual Municipal Budget. The procedures by which the Board of Education Budget is adopted are not covered by this Comment but will be discussed in our next Comment.

First, the salaries and wages are determined by the Council based on the advice and recommendation of a salary consultant. Since 1964 when the salaries of all the City employees were reviewed and job classifications and specifications established, the City Treasurer each year accumulates data on salaries paid in comparable municipalities and industries, forwards it to the salary consultant who in turn evaluates the data and recommends to the Council the salaries for the coming year.

The salary procedure allows for appeals each year, a sort of grievance procedure, which permits individuals who are not satisfied with the consultant's recommendation to take his case directly to the personnel committee of the Council. The Departments and Boards are advised of the proposed salary treatment and in December of each year a salary ordinance is introduced and adopted after a duly advertised public hearing has been held. After the adoption of the salary ordinance there is no further hearing on salaries and the next year's budget automatically includes the new salaries, effective January 1.

In October of each year all departments and boards are requested to begin preparation of their respective proposed next year's budget and to furnish a list of expenditures and budget appropriations as of October 1. Actual expenditures for the previous two years are listed. The completed budget requests are forwarded to the Executive Secretary by the early part of November. These are then consolidated by the Executive Secretary and referred to the Public Finance Committee of the Council. The Public Finance Committee reviews all budget requests and if changes are deemed appropriate meets with the affected Board or Departments to discuss the proposed changes. This consolidated budget then is presented to Council for review in its entirety.

After Council has given its tentative approval the appropriation budget is reproduced, distributed to all civic groups and individual citizens and an open informal public meeting and discussion is held the early part of January. Any changes developing as a result of this informal meeting and discussion can be and are made prior to the formal introduction of the budget. The budget is then forwarded to the auditor who puts it in the form required by state law and it is formally introduced and publicly advertised in the early part of February. By state law 28 days must elapse between the time of introduction and the date of the public hearing and 10 days must separate the publication in the local newspaper and the hearing date.

In summary, many checks and balances are in effect to evaluate the salaries and requests of the Municipal Departments for appropriated funds. However, the inquisitive, critical and vocal questioning of the Council by the taxpayers at public meetings and hearings is the best and most effective control of governmental spending.

The Playhouse group, which is suffering from a shortage of active participants, again shows that good amateur theater can be seen on home grounds.

Now that the ancients have been taken care of, albeit in a modern manner, let the playreaders start turning to the new and the modern theater again to explore the possibilities of experimental production or even the products of local talent for next year's production of "A Shot in the Dark" is next to be seen during the week of May 18.

Breaks Just Didn't Come For Hilltopper Cage Team

Last year was a bleak one for the Summit High basketball team, but no one really cared. The Hilltoppers struggled to a 5-14 record, but everyone was coming back from the leading scorer to the manager, and Summit fans gleefully predicted they would have a Suburban Conference powerhouse on their hands the next year.

Well, the next year has come, and gone, and the Summit fans are still waiting. The Summit cagers won three of their first four and three of their last four, but somewhere in the middle something went wrong, and the Hilltoppers finished the year with a 10-10 mark, a number of critics and frustrated fans, and another bright outlook for next season.

There were many unhappy people in Summit, but the unhappiest had to be Summit coach Lee Ammerman. Once Summit shipped, nothing he tried could get them back on the winning track. The three classes playing together this year had the talent as freshmen they lost a total of five games between them. But this year they could not win the close ones. When they won, they won big, by an average of 16 points. But when they lost, it was close, by an average 6-point spread. And the cause for most of these losses could be pinpointed in one quarter, when Summit would fall just far enough behind to make it impossible to catch up.

Ammerman's critics thrived on these losses. One said, "With the kind of offense he's running they should be shooting at peach baskets." Another blamed his failure to settle on any particular starters, thereby failing to establish confidence in his regulars. Ammerman saved face by finally turning around the tailspin and saving Summit from a losing season, but unless he regains the faith of his players by next season it may be another long winter.

The mainstay of the team this year was senior Clark Daggett, who led the team in scoring with a 13.6 average, and had 50 assists besides, another team high. The 5-10 guard with the long overhead jump shot was the most consistent player on the floor despite a slight midseason slump. He led the team with an 81% mark from the free throw line, and shot 42% from the floor, an impressive figure considering the length of most of his shots.

Ammerman developed two strong forwards out of underclassmen. Bob Stiner, a big 6-3 junior, averaged 9.6 points a game and led the team with 129 rebounds. Mike Mahoney, only a sophomore, showed great promise scoring 8.7 points a game and grabbing 100 rebounds. Besides that he had 23 steals and 50 "hustle plays" a special defensive category.

The development of 6-6 sophomore center Charlie Ebron was a slower and more excruciating one for all interested, which included both the critics and the loyal fans who came every Friday night to heckle/cheer the Summit team. One could see his improvement over the season, but you could count the number of games in which he was really effective on one hand. Still, he led the team in offensive rebounds, and was second overall with 114. His 5.7 scoring average includes several shutouts early in the season and a high of 17 against Chatham.

Reduced from a starting job at center last year to a secondary role this year was senior Wayne Tucker, whose disappointing statistics show the letdown. He averaged only 4.9 points a game as compared to 7.9 last year, and his rebounding suffered a similar drop. His hustle and floor play, however, earned him the defensive trophy for most points on the defensive evaluation chart, largely on account of his strong early showing. But Ebron and Tucker together averaged only 11 points, and it was this lack of scoring punch at center that so often hurt Summit in its close losses.

The other guard spot was filled by either senior Warren Moore (4.7 ppg) or junior Rich Graef (2.9). Moore was a smooth quarterback and a quick-handed ballhawk and Graef an aggressive player at both ends of the court, but neither played enough to score consistently.

Summit started off the season with several tremendous defensive efforts. The Hilltoppers held Roselle Park to single figures in each period to take the season opener 48-22. They suffered a lapse, losing to a strong Livingston team 63-52 despite 20 points by Clark Daggett in a game marred by the personal fouls, but came back with a 48-28 rout of Passaic Valley. Rich Graef had 15 points and Wayne Tucker 10 as Summit routed arch-rival Berkeley Heights 63-44 to make their record 3-1.

Then came what proved to be the turning point of the season. Summit traveled to Chatham Township to take on the Gladiators that Friday night in December. The Gladiators had just upset a powerful Chatham-Boro team, but no one took them too seriously. That is, until Steve Burton scored a layup with 30 seconds left to give Chatham a 47-46 victory. Chatham Township has, of course, since gone on to greater things, but Summit never recovered.

As witness, take the Suburban Conference opener that next week. Only some last minute heroics by Steve Schroeder saved a 40-37 victory for Summit over a poor Madison squad. Caldwell then blew Summit off the court 63-52. Bob Stiner was off to a slow start, Wayne Tucker had cooled off, and neither of Summit's sophomores had come into their own.

Like an oasis was Summit's 57-44 shellacking of Chatham Boro. Charlie Ebron scored 17 points while holding Chatham star Charlie Miller to 10. Daggett had 16, and Stiner 13. But the one big victory failed to turn Summit around.

Summit fell behind Verona 20-3 at the outset, then outscored the eventual conference champs for the rest of the game only to lose at the end 63-60. Bright spots were Stiner's 21 points and Graef's 15.

The Hilltoppers stayed just above the .500 mark with a 65-53 beating of last-place Millburn. But Ebron was back in hibernation, and Graef would never score double figures again.

New Providence and Cedar Grove were the next teams to join the parade of last-second wins over Summit. The Pioneers won 57-52, and Cedar Grove 47-41, making

IN ROLLINS CREW - Sandy Duncan of Summit, at right, is a member of the Rollins College crew for the fourth season. He is among nine returning lettermen who helped Rollins post a 7-1 record last season and win the Florida State Championship. The Winter Park, Fla., crew, which is coached by Jim Lyden, has five dual races scheduled and five multi-shell regattas. Shown with the Summit rower are John Jenks of Philadelphia, Pa., left, and Dave Nix of Sewickley, Pa.

Summit's record 6-6. For the rest of the season it was Daggett, Stiner, and Mahoney doing the scoring, with Ebron helping occasionally. Summit crushed Madison 73-39 to start round two of the Suburban Conference race, but Caldwell outscored Summit 27-8 in the second quarter of their second meeting, and Summit's late rally was stopped by the clock as the Hilltoppers lost 60-57. Daggett had 22, and Stiner and Mahoney combined for 24.

Verona ran Summit to death and Chatham bored them to death, but the results were the same, as the Hillbillies won 72-62 and the Eskies came out on top 40-34. Then came what had to be Summit's worst game of the year, as winless Millburn almost beat the Hilltoppers, losing by only 68-67. Mahoney, Daggett, and Stiner combined for 44 points.

Daggett scored the individual high for the year, 26 points, the following Friday night against New Providence, but no one else even got double figures, and Summit was beaten 70-66. Now the Hilltoppers were 8-10 with only two games left.

Somewhat Summit salvaged something of their season. Suddenly realizing they were headed for a losing record, they routed highly-favored Cedar Grove 70-47, with four men scoring in double figures, and Daggett and Mahoney each had 21 in crushing Passaic Valley 85-68.

But the brightening season ended there for Summit, in sixth place in the Suburban Conference, for their midseason slump had disqualified them for the state tournament.

The team's one redeeming factor is its youth. Both Stiner and Mahoney will be scoring in double figures next year. Ebron's best games were his last, indicating he will be ready next year to go all the way. With the only other "big men" in the conference graduating, Ebron could be the key to a conference title.

The loss of Daggett at guard will be compensated by a more balanced attack. There were three other juniors who saw only limited action: Jim McCullough at guard, and Al Kimbrough and Steve Schroeder at forward. McCullough should join Graef in the backcourt. Kimbrough saw more action as a sophomore than he did this year, but is a fine rebounder and will be a factor next year. Schroeder will be going on to other things—don't look for him on the court.

Dead basketball seasons are like ghosts; they are hard to bury and have a tendency to come back and haunt you. Coach Ammerman is lucky—he gets a second chance with the same personnel. Another poor season is a frightening possibility, but there is more than a ghost of a chance that Summit will at last hit the proverbial jackpot.

Philadelphia Eagles Bow to Summit Five

SUMMIT - A late fourth-quarter spurt by the Summit All-Stars enabled the Summit outfit to defeat the Philadelphia Eagles basketball team, 78-60, before a packed gym in Summit High School.

The game, sponsored by the young people of the Neighborhood Council, was staged for the benefit of the Glenwood Housing Project.

The Eagles roster was dotted with such luminaries as John Mallory, Randy Beisler, Jim Nettles, Nate Ramsey, Harold Wells, Gary Ballman, Lane Howell, Dave Graham, Cyril Pinder, Izzy Lang and Dick Hart.

The Summit All-Stars were hampered at the outset by the size of the floor and the "stout" defense of the Eagles. Coach Red Ahern used his twelve All-Star performers to advantage in attempting to outrun the taller Eagles.

The Summit outfit managed to overcome an early Eagles' lead to assume a 33-31 edge at halftime. Neither team managed a sizable lead, until All-Stars, ahead 61-56, off 12 straight points.

Rodney Mitchell Summit with 13 points. Joe Gulbin had 11 points and Geri Holmes 10. Izzy Lang topped the Eagles' scoring with 11 points. John Mallory had 10 and Gary Ballman had 10.

Several members of the YMCA Boys' Swim Team placed in the Northern Sectional Championships last Saturday.

At Ridgewood in the 11-12 meet, Steve Korbel tied for 4th place in the 50-yard freestyle, Chuck Wiebe tied for 5th in the 50-yard backstroke and Spence LeCraw tied for 5th in the 50-yard breaststroke.

The meet was won by Ridgewood YMCA. Summit Y was 4th.

Charline Upsets Balish

SUMMIT - Charline determined to keep its one-game lead over P.A.L. for the second-place trophy, upended Balish the league champions, 97-94, in overtime in the Recreation Men's Basketball League.

Florczak proved the big man for Charline on defense and offense, scoring a season high of 33 points. Charline jumped off to a 13-5 lead and forced Balish to play catch-up all night.

After the score was tied in regulation time, 79-79, Balish lost an important cog in its defense when Konzelman fouled out. Johnson and Florczak scored the key baskets in the overtime session.

Johnson with 17 points, Langheld 15, Carter 12 and McGrath 11 were the principal point contributors for Charline, behind Florczak. Eckholm had 23 points for Balish with Lonnie adding 19, DiParsi 20, Piccolo 14 and Konzelman 11.

The Has-Beens also won an overtime affair, downing Chubb & Son, 108-107. Crosby and Gulbin, two of the league's all-stars, each scored 33 points in turning back a strong challenge from Chubb & Son.

The hard-driving layups of Green and Collette, who had 34 and 33 points respectively, provided the momentum which kept Chubb in the ball game. Collette had tied the game, 89-89, as he calmly sank two foul shots in the waning seconds. The lead see-sawed in overtime, until Crosby, operating from a low post, banked in the winning points on an overhead shot.

The league standings:

| | Won | Lost |
|-------------|-----|------|
| Balish | 9 | 4 |
| Charline | 7 | 4 |
| P.A.L. | 6 | 5 |
| Has-Beens | 5 | 6 |
| Chubb & Son | 1 | 17 |

Pirates Take Division Title In Minor Loop

SUMMIT - Two final games were played in the Franklin Division of the Recreation Minor League last Saturday. The first game was the consolation final and matched the Lions against the Jayhawks. The Lions barely won over the Jayhawks in overtime, 45-44.

Mahoney scored 19 points and Cotterell 17 for the Lions. Gianis made a great effort for the Jayhawks, running up 25 points.

The Franklin Division championship game matched the Pirates and Tigers in what proved to be a defensive game. Leading by three points at the half, the Pirates came on in the second half to run up a convincing victory, defeating the Tigers 27-18.

Paxon paced the Pirates, scoring 13 points. The Pirates will meet the Washington Division champion Mustangs on Saturday at 10 a.m. in the Edison Recreation Center.

Hawks Shock Pistons, 73-65

SUMMIT - The Hawks of the Recreation Intermediate Basketball League, who finished next to last in regular season play, now find themselves in the playoff finals as they put down the Pistons, 73-65, in the semi-finals.

The Pistons appeared over confident in the first half and found themselves on the short end of a 42-24 score at the half. The Pistons regrouped in the third quarter and steadily gained on the Hawks but there just wasn't enough time.
