Teen addicts offered new hope by local center

By PAIGE TUNSTALL

SUMMIT--A new treatment facility for teenage addicts opened Monday to offer a new approach for recovery: helping kids conquer addiction in the "real world" rather than the protective "cocoon" of a hospital, according to Dr. Robert Stuckey.

Too often, according to Stuckey, chief executive officer and medical director of the facility, teens free themselves of addiction in the sheltered environment of a hospital only to relapse when they return to the same old context of family and friends.

The trick to lasting recovery, Stuckey said, is changing that context--getting the whole family into therapy, and helping the patient create close, supportive relationships with people who have recovered from addiction.

The new facility, the first of its kind in the state, is neither inpatient nor outpatient--patients will spend most of their day at the center, but they will return to their families in the evenings.

The facility is run by the Adolescent Alcohol and Drug Treatment, Inc. (AADT). To date, AADT has worked with teens at the beginning and end of treatment, first recommending treatment programs and then working with them after treatment.

Fraction of usual cost

The facility will cost about a fifth of what typical residential treatment costs, according to Bill Coleman, AADT director. Whereas hospital treatment in the area costs up to $1,000 a day, the AADT program costs about $120 a day, Coleman said.

The schedule correlates basically with a school day, according to Coleman.

Facility is first of its kind in NJ

Patients will receive treatment, including academic instruction, but will go home at night, operating on a strictly structured plan developed with their parents.

"They will not lose that semester of school," said Coleman, "and it's really important that they not be penalized for being sick."

"It's like any other illness--they have to receive instruction if they aren't able to go to school," said Coleman.

'Cookie-cutter' approach rejected

"The reason recovery statistics for adolescents have been so dismal is that treatment was so poor--we've been working with stone age knowledge of adolescent problems, giving them treatments designed for adults instead of treatment designed specifically for them," Coleman said.

"You can't use the cookie-cutter approach with adolescents," according to Coleman.

Working in institutions, Coleman said, he's seen standardized treatment applied to teenagers--and he's found that in most cases, it doesn't work.

Instead, an individualized program works best to cure addiction, Coleman believes: "Individualized treatment is needed for any addict, but it's especially necessary for adolescents," he said.

How to trust again?

"If I'm an adult, I have some control over my environment--I don't have to go to the bar. But kids have to go back to school, usually the same school, and the first thing they're faced with is an old friend passing them a joint," Coleman said.

"Getting chemically free isn't enough--we have to change the people, places, things," Coleman said. "If a kid has begun cheating, stealing, lying--it's not just chemicals, it's his whole lifestyle that has to change."

"To treat kids with this disease it's absolutely essential for the family to be involved," said Coleman, adding, "How do you live with the kid after that--how do you trust them again, this kid who lied to you and pushed you away?"

"The little kids, the siblings, are amazing when they come in here. Often they've been traumatized, too--and little kids are very honest, they tend to tell it like it is," Coleman continued.

The winning team

Teenagers who have been through a number of treatments and keep going back to addiction become "treatment-wise," said Coleman.

"They'll do anything, whatever they need to say or do, until they get out of a program, and then they're back--boom--with the same old situation with parents and friends," according to Coleman.

Working with teens who have suffered chronic relapses into addiction is one of Coleman's specialties.

"Our philosophy is much different. Others tear down their defenses, and we try to use them," to incorporate them into the therapeutic process. "We say, okay, so even if your parents are no good, the teachers are no good, the cops are no good--if that's the case--how is what you're doing now working out for you?" said Coleman.

Dr. Stuckey said, "This is an aggressive program that really gets people down to honesty, but in such a way that they feel like the winning football team."

"There's no guarantees in treatment," Coleman cautioned. However, he believes the facility's new philosophies and new treatment format will work better than those that have been tried so far.

"It's a grand, almost insane gesture: we're trying to tell these kids the things they like best are going to kill them," said Coleman.

AADT currently sees from 10 to 20 adolescents a week for evaluation, according to Coleman, and has 54 participants in its relapse prevention program.

AADT has two full-time psychologists and one full-time psychiatrist on staff.

SUMMIT'S POLICE ATHLETIC LEAGUE wished local children "Merry Christmas" Saturday with a free showing of the movie, "Hansel and Gretel" at the Strand Theatre. Free hot chocolate and candy canes were given out, in addition to one free gift for each child.

Parents renew campaign for extended-day kindergarten

By PAIGE TUNSTALL

SUMMIT--Young parents in the city renewed their battle for extended-day kindergarten Thursday night, telling the Board of Education that we can't afford not to have such a program.

Last year, the board turned down a request for the extended-day class, citing budget caps and saying the school system simply couldn't afford the new program, which could cost as much as $150,000.

Dr. Anne Auerbach, who helped draft a formal recommendation presented to the board by several parents on Thursday, said, "We can't afford not to have it. It's the best thing educationally, and without extended-day kindergarten in the public schools, we're not going to attract young couples to the city, which doesn't help real estate values."

Auerbach said, "If parents can't have an extended-day program in the public schools, they're going to go to the private schools." Budget caps, she added, are based on the number of children in the school system, and will only become stricter and more prohibitive if enrollment in the public schools goes down.

Board member D. Anne Atherton said, "I don't think we can let the cap limit keep us from considering new programs...that's too simplistic."

The cap, Atherton said, "should make us carefully re-evaluate our priorities. But we can't be unresponsive to changing needs in society and refuse to consider new programs."

Atherton added, "To maintain our viability as a community, we've got to attract young families--it's our lifeblood."

Dr. Lucy Bogumil, president of the Summit Taxpayers Association, disagreed, saying, "Children can only absorb so much at one time. I feel it's probably better for the youngster not to be away from home so much."

Also, Dr. Bogumil said, "I feel there's already an imbalance in the expenditure of public monies that favors the school system. We're paying too much for too few."

The possibility of funding an extended-day program on a sliding fee scale or with an educational foundation is being considered by the board.

Children's needs

Dr. Auerbach, who worked as a school psychologist before going into private practice, said an extended-day program is preferable from the children's standpoint as well as for the community at large.

The extended program is desirable, Auerbach said, because:

- children learn at different rates, and the current two and a half hour program does not allow for flexibility in learning rates;
- children need more individual attention than the current program provides;
- children come to kindergarten with the experience of having been in pre-school for a minimum of three hours a day, and it doesn't make sense to cut time back rather than increasing it.

Also, Auerbach said, if lack of extended-day in public school means children have to go to private school, they won't be establishing friendships in their own neighborhoods. More children attending a public school kindergarten program would mean a stronger sense of neighborhood developing in each school district.

Survey shows split over need for extended-day kindergarten

SUMMIT--A survey performed last February showed a nearly even split between parents who favor extended-day kindergarten in the public schools and parents who don't.

The survey was performed by the External Assessment Committee of the Board of Education; the committee reports to the board on community needs, desires, and perceptions of the public schools.

According to Richard Fiander, superintendent of schools, an analysis of the survey's findings shows that of those with an opinion, 52 percent say an extended-day program is educationally beneficial, 48 percent say it is not.

The survey offered a demographic breakdown of opinions on extended-day kindergarten, including the following breakdown by school district:

Survey Population	Yes	No	No Opinion
Summit	667 (43.7%)	623 (40.9%)	235 (15.4%)
Brayton District	126 (40.8%)	135 (43.7%)	48 (15.5%)
Franklin District	159 (45.7%)	138 (39.6%)	51 (14.7%)
Jefferson District	71 (55.5%)	47 (36.7%)	10 (7.8%)
Lincoln District	140 (47.5%)	111 (37.6%)	44 (14.9%)
Washington District	98 (42.8%)	103 (45.0%)	28 (12.2%)
Unknown District	66 (33.8%)	80 (41.0%)	49 (25.1%)

Ruth Battaglini wins national honors for work at Overlook Hospital SUMMIT — If you happen to see a copy of the January 1986 issue of "Continuing Care Coordinator" magazine, you might recognize someone on the cover.

The familiar face will be Ruth Battaglini, Overlook Hospital's Supervisor of Discharge Planning, who has been named runner-up Coordinator of the Year in the entire nation.

The Cranford resident has been involved in Discharge Planning for the past 13 years and will retire this month from Overlook.

Overlook has been in the forefront of hospitals providing nurse discharge planning in large part due to the efforts of Battaglini. A registered nurse and long-time visiting nurse with the Cranford Visiting Nurse Association, she was the first at Overlook to take on discharge planning as her full-time responsibility.

Discharge planning, the process by which the needs of hospitalized patients are assessed and their discharge to care at home is arranged, has been around a long time, explained Battaglini. "It was one of the many jobs performed by social workers on the hospital staff," she said.

"When I joined the Home Care staff at Overlook as the first Nurse Discharge Planner we provided service for about 25 patients a month who were discharged with some type of home care service. Our aim was to provide better patient follow-up after hospitalization and to increase the number of patients who were benefitting from the services offered by our Home Care Department," she said.

Also, "Discharge Planning was a one person department for seven years. Now, we have three full-time and one-part time nurse discharge planners and we review 800-900 patients per month," 500-600 of whom receive some form of discharge planning service, she added.

From simply offering visiting nurse services, Overlook's Home Care Department has evolved into a complex program of complete health care services, according to Battaglini. Those services include physical and occupational therapy, speech therapy, nutritional aid, home health aides, social workers, inhalation therapy, laboratory services, equipment, psychiatric nursing, interostomal therapy, bath service and IV therapy.

The biggest change in discharge planning over the years has been in the type of patient going home, Battaglini said. "In the Overlook service area, as well as around the country, the level of acuteness of care has increased dramatically," she continued. "Originally we planned home care primarily for patients recovering from surgery at home. Today, we service patients on respirators at home."

"From here, discharge planning can only go one way, up. Because of today's hospital stay and reimbursement regulations, home care and discharge planning will continue to expand and become more sophisticated as new services and treatments are done increasingly in the home. It makes sense to get people out of the hospital as fast as possible because they do better at home," Battaglini said.

As for her future, she plans to spend a lot of time with her husband, Michael, who is already retired, to travel a bit and have time to enjoy the grandchildren. Their two children are following Ruth Battaglini.

Ruth's lead into the health care field. Daughter Patricia is a nursing instructor studying toward a master's degree and son James is a thoracic surgeon at Henry Ford Hospital in Michigan.

Is your teenager smarter than his or her SAT score?

Probably. Even a case of the butterflies can affect your child's SAT score.

To do better, your son or daughter should prepare better. For nearly 40 years, Stanley H. Kaplan's test-taking techniques and professional educational programs have helped over 100,000 students prepare for the SAT. Many have increased their scores 150, 200, as much as 250 points.

Co-operative Nursery School offers parents an inside view

Two, three, and four year olds have delighted in going to the Co-operative Nursery School in Summit for the past 23 years.

Located at Summit and Whit-tredge Roads in the Unitarian Community House (but not affiliated with the Unitarian Church) the Co-op offers three, four and five-day morning programs.

It also offers an extended-day program for children who want to bring their lunches and stay until 2:30 pm on Wednesday, Thursday, and/or Friday.

The Co-op is unique among area nursery schools, since it offers parents an opportunity to help out in their child's class on a monthly basis. It's a way to meet a child's new friends and to see how he or she relates to the other children. Parents also have the option of paying an extra fee if co-oping is an inconvenience.

Besides offering young children the chance to play and learn, the Co-op offers special programs.

There are frequent cooking classes; there's also a monthly swim class at the YWCA and a weekly visit with the music teacher, Marlene Lipman.

Marlene helps the children develop important listening skills as she introduces them to different types of music. She often accompanies them on the piano or ukulele.

In addition to arts and crafts projects, outdoor play and storytimes, there are many school trips, such as a real train ride, a trip to a dairy farm and a special trip to the school director's house, which also happens to be the summer Camp River Bend in Warren.

The special joy of teaching young children is reflected in the enthusiasm of the school's director, Marianne Breene: "Nursery school gets more exciting every single year!"

Summit resident re-elected to board

SUMMIT — Local resident Mrs. Ruth Maehl was re-elected president of the Board of Directors of the Community Pre-School, Summit, at the annual election held recently.

Elected vice president was Mrs. Barbara Goldstein, while Rev. Franklin Fry and Mrs. Betty Forman, all of Summit, were re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Mrs. Maehl has been associated with the Pre-School for nearly a decade.

Formerly in charge of education at St. John's Lutheran Church, Summit, where the Pre-School is housed, she is currently a member of the library staff at Drew University.

Mrs. Goldstein, the parent representative to the Pre-School Board, is the mother of three sons. Her second son is now enrolled in the Pre-School.

The Community Pre-School, a member agency of the United Way of Summit and New Providence, provides pre-kindergarten education for students whose families might not ordinarily be economically able to provide such schooling. The curriculum emphasizes language experiences, as well as hands-on activities and trips to various locales.

In addition to classes for three and four-year olds, for the first time this month a class for both age groups was initiated in a two-day afternoon session because of increased need for the school services.

Red Cross drivers cover 52,000 miles

AREA — The Red Cross reports its year's activities have included:

- transportation service — drove about 52,000 miles transporting residents to clinics, to treatment centers and to doctor's offices;
- collection of 2,650 units of blood;
- fulfilling every request for blood from all residents — regardless of whether or not they had donated blood or would be able to replace it;
- a free weekly Blood Pressure Clinic at the Chapter House, and a free monthly clinic at the National State Bank in Summit and at the Franklin State Bank in New Providence.

Thousand dollar shopping spree delights local residents

The Summit Chamber of Commerce is pleased to announce that Carrie Gerber, a new resident of New Providence is the winner of the $1,000 shopping spree, grand prize in the Summit Open House Sweepstakes.

An additional 19 other winners will receive $100 gift certificates to stores in Summit.

During the Open House, thousands of area shoppers visited Summit stores.

Quality products, expert service, and a wide diversity are what Summit merchants strive for every business day.

"We're pleased so many of our neighbors joined us on Sunday," commented Chamber of Commerce President Peg Risse of Dorothy Hughes Inc., "We hope they and many of their friends and neighbors will visit Summit every weeknight," when most member stores are open to 9 pm (Saturdays, 5:30, and Sundays, noon to 5).

Other prize winners in the Open House Sweepstakes were:

Steven Kennedy, New Providence — $100 Gift Certificate, Paulsen Travel Bureau;
Mrs. Maxine Hirsch, New Providence — $100 Gift Certificate, Berlitz School of Languages;

Soroptimists offer scholarships to women

High school seniors, as well as women interested in returning to school, are eligible for two types of scholarships being offered by the Soroptimist International of the Summit area.

The YCA, the Youth Citizenship Award, is granted to a student in a secondary school in Summit, New Providence, Berkeley Heights or Chatham, the club's membership area.

Women in the same communities are eligible to apply for a TAP scholarship, the Training Awards Program, which is solely for women who are heads of households, single, and desirous of returning to school for further education.

Deadline for applications is Dec. 15. More information may be obtained by calling Capitola Dickerson, scholarship committee chairwoman, 277-2204.

Soroptimist International is a women's service organization dedicated to bettering the welfare of all people. Locally, the organization has been responsible for outfitting two MEDIC units for Overlook Hospital, providing funds for the Summit First Aid Squad, providing and outfitting the Summit Police Dept. Crime Prevention Van, providing funds for needed equipment at the Summit Speech School as well as establishing the first cardiopulmonary unit at Overlook Hospital, Summit, among others.

commentary

Pulpit perspective . . .

Nobody's perfect—not even at Christmas time

By THE REVEREND
SUSAN E. NAGLE,
St. John's Lutheran Church,
Summit

I am as distressed as the next person by "I want" attitudes as Christmas approaches, and by the "you need" message of the media.

The message of Christmas is distorted to become a market event. Yet we often manage to escape that trap, and we do take delight in choosing and giving gifts to others.

There is a more dangerous distortion, though; dangerous because it is both subtle and painful — the distortion of sentimentalizing Christmas.

We are almost right in our desire to infuse this important season with peace, love and warmth. It's our way of responding to the sense within us of God's intention for us, and so we work extra hard at it. The more we work at creating a sense of God's peace, love and warmth, the more painful are our failures to capture it.

The phone call to someone far away blesses us with joy and delight, but the received returned to the phone's cradle brings a wave of intense loneliness.

The desire to give gifts that will light up someone's face is accompanied by tension about the mounting bills; the visit to a nursing home is followed by feelings of guilt by the visitor for other times when there wasn't time and of bitterness by those visited that only holidays seem to remind folks of their needs.

People look for time together — long, warm, glowing family time — yet no one stands still long enough even to catch each other's eye. Beautifully dressed, the congregation gathers in dim candlelight to hear a Christmas message and is jolted by the proclamation that this lovely babe has been born to die.

The reality of this world is that Christmas is often a sad time, because we struggled so hard to be like Christ — giving and loving. The accomplished fact of Christmas — the only fact that can bring us joy — is that Christ instead became like us.

The truth about ourselves and our inability will help us through the tough moments. Say this: "I will feel lonely when I hang up, because I'd so much like to be closer to you."

Or, "It's a small gift, but I could not afford what I would need to give you to show how much delight you bring me."

Or, "I wish I didn't let my life get so hectic; I'm sorry that I don't visit you more."

Or, "I do love you, you know, but I don't show it well."

When we are honest about ourselves, the wonder of the gift of Jesus Christ is more splendid, and our Christmas "carol" can even be a Lenten hymn:

What wondrous love is this, O my soul,

To cause the Lord of bliss

To bear the dreadful curse for my soul.

Christmas love can help rescue needy from vicious circle of poverty

Mrs. G. of Summit is a young mother of three small children. She migrated to this country seven years ago and the only living relative she has is her mother, who still lives in her country of origin.

Because of the life threatening physical abuse from Mr. G. toward his family, Mrs. G. was forced to divorce him. In the divorce settlement her former husband was to send support money for her three children. Soon after the divorce, Mr. G. disappeared. The process to trace his whereabouts is taking a very long time. Because her children are young, she can only work part time. Her efforts to bring her mother here to take care of her children so she can work full time have been delayed — lack of funds has brought about a truly vicious circle.

Mrs. G. and her children are depressed and lonely and need counseling to deal with the many losses in their lives.

Contributions to help the needy have a merrier Christmas may be sent to the Summit Family Services Association.

Chanukah, the Festival of Lights

SUMMIT — Why and how is Chanukah celebrated? Chanukah is called the "Festival of Lights" and recalls the historic victory of the Jewish people over the Greeks in 160 before the common era (B.C.E.). To the Jews, this victory meant the regaining of their independence and the right to practice their religion.

In 160 B.C.E. the Syrian-Greek King Antiochus ruled the Jews who lived in Palestine. He decreed that they abandon their belief in their God and worship the many gods of the Greeks. The Jews refused, and Judah, the Maccabee led them into battle. The Greeks were eventually defeated and driven out of Judea.

The Jews wished to relight the Menorah or candelabra in the Temple. Especially prepared oil was needed for this purpose. The Temple had to be cleansed of the Greek images and pagan practices and dedicated for worship. The meaning of Chanukah is dedication.

A small quantity of oil which was sufficient to keep the Menorah lit for one day was found. It would take eight days to replenish the supply. The Menorah was lit with the small jug of oil and miraculously remained lit for eight days. In memory of this miracle, Jewish families light candles each year for the eight days of Chanukah. This year the first night of Chanukah is Dec. 7.

A favorite food during this holiday is potato pancakes or latkes which are made in oil to symbolize the oil found in the Temple.

Children play with dreidles (square tops) which have the following Hebrew letters on their sides: N-G-S-SH, an abbreviation of the Hebrew words "Nes Gadol Hayah Sham," a great miracle happened here.

The Summit Jewish Community Center (SJCC) has planned community activities to help people celebrate the holiday.

Community Relations chairpersons Paulette Brown and Rena Klein will visit Jewish residents at the Glenside Nursing Home in New Providence. They will bring holiday food, light the Menorah, recite the blessings and sing Chanukah songs. Collages made of Jewish greeting cards will help decorate the residents' rooms.

There is an exhibit of traditional Chanukah items on display on the main floor of the Summit Public Library. This showcase was prepared by Judy Peskin, Community Relations Liaison and Susan Shapiro, SJCC vice-president. Most of the Judaica and Chanukah gifts can be purchased from the SJCC gift shop which will be open Wed., Dec. 4 and Sun., Dec. 8 from 10 am to noon.

The Men's Club of the SJCC has invited Jewish residents of Our House in Berkeley Heights to join in services and social events at the center for the last five years. Yarmicas (skull caps) and menorahs were presented to Our House, and they are invited to Chanukah services Fri., Dec. 6, 1985.

College students of congregants who will be celebrating Chanukah away from home receive menorahs, candles and dreidles from Youth Liaison Betty Krieger.

"We are trying to have the community at large understand the meaning and customs of the holiday. We also wish to help Jewish people away from home celebrate and enjoy 'The Festival of Lights,'" commented Judy Peskin.

Appalled

To the editor:

I am writing to you in response to your article on the Summit Planning Board's denial of Mr. Falzarano's application to renovate 417 Broad Street, Summit.

My husband and I are appalled by the board's decision. Mr. Falzarano is our neighbor. Last year he purchased the old white house at 245 Kent Place Boulevard. Most residents, I am sure, are familiar with the house because of its poor condition at the time he purchased it. Mr. Falzarano and his wife, Diane, have done an incredible job of restoring this house into one of the finest in town. Mr. Falzarano did not just modernize this house, but with his attention to detail and architectural background, has just completed a wonderful restoration of the structure.

I have often driven by those two buildings on Broad St. and commented on the deplorable conditions of them. I was so glad to see that the old aluminum clad building was demolished and that the other building was being redesigned, under the creative hand of Mr. Falzarano. I cannot believe a fine community like Summit would allow these buildings to remain in such hideous condition and would want light industry there.

The other possibility of the town taking Mr. Falzarano's property by eminent domain is fine, if it is done expeditiously. However, do we have the right to limit Mr. Falzarano from restoring this blighted building until our governing entity makes a decision? Do we want to look at this sight for two or three more years?

A joyful noise

To the editor:

Last Saturday night found the auditorium of South Orange Middle School filled with a large enthusiastic crowd listening to the Maplewood Glee Club.

This group is a men's glee club which has been in existence for about 40 years. Although we are known as the Maplewood Glee Club, the fact is that at least a dozen different municipalities are represented in the current membership, including Summit.

Speaking as a member of this group for the past 12 years, we say thank you from the bottom of our hearts to the people of this area who supported us. No musical organization can long survive without an audience and our group is most grateful to those people who traveled to South Orange to listen to us.

For the past 15 or 16 years, our club has awarded a small music scholarship to one of the senior students at an area high school. This activity has been made possible by the generous support of people in Summit, Maplewood and surrounding towns.

Again, we say thank you for helping us to make this possible. The music department of Summit High School will have details of how to audition for this sometime in early February. As in past years, the presentation will be made at our spring concert, which will be given the evening of the first Saturday in May.

Finally, we extend a cordial invitation to all men who like to sing to join us Monday nights at the civic house in Maplewood from about 8 pm to 10 pm. We regret we cannot invite the ladies since all our music is written for men's voices.

Once again, to the many people who supported our concert, we of the Maplewood Glee Club say — thank you and we pledge that we shall do our utmost to conduct our activities in such a manner as to merit our support in the years to come.

Burden's on public

To the editor:

For a crucial three-month period, the Summit school board has voted to permit any member of the audience at open public meetings only five minutes for questions or comments on the whole board agenda, this at the start of the business meeting. Another five minutes is permitted at meeting's end.

The printed agenda, it should be noted, usually has left empty what have turned out to be important committee areas or made them so general in wording that the public, in effect, would be denied, under this change, a chance to comment on board votes here ... until after the meeting, in five minutes allowed them individually.

This will be for a "trial" period of three months, covering — note — the yearly budget preparation. We have had a number of warnings that we can expect sharp changes in programs or related matters to adjust to the unusual salary increases recently negotiated by teachers and administrators.

Summit, incidentally, is one of just a handful of the state's school districts which cannot vote on its school budget and has an

Penny-wise approach cheats youngsters

To the editor:

Summit's failure to institute a full day kindergarten is a sad case of being penny-wise and pound-foolish. While the surrounding communities of Springfield, Union, Montclair, Maplewood and others have wisely chosen to give their students an opportunity for unhurried, in-depth learning, Summit provides half-day sessions only. Crammed with short work periods, clean-up chores, and dressing and undressing, too little time is left for real learning at a five-year-old pace.

As a former kindergarten teacher, I know that a longer day allows for a much richer curriculum, more individual attention, more music, art, field trips and ongoing projects. As a resident of Summit, I want that kind of quality education for my children.

If you agree, please show your support at the public Board meeting at the Franklin School on Thurs., Dec. 19 at 8 pm. For more information, call Anne Auerbach (522-0015) or Wendy Kolmar (277-6114).

Heather Pribula to perform in Garden State Ballet's Nutcracker

Heather Pribula of New Providence will perform in Garden State Ballet's professional production of "Nutcracker" Sun., Dec. 15 at 2 pm and 5 pm at Orrie de Nooyer Auditorium in Hackensack, and at Montclair High School Sat., Dec. 21 at 3 pm and 8 pm and Sun., Dec. 22 at 3 pm.

She will appear as a guest in the first act Christmas party scene and in cameo roles during the second act Kingdom of Sweets.

She is a student in the official School of the Garden State Ballet and is among 24 young dance students selected from the Ballet's three schools in Morristown, Newark and Rutherford, who will perform with the professional company, cast in the special roles for young people in the colorful holiday production.

The 50-member Christmas spectacle has been playing to capacity audiences during a 21 performance tour of the state. The tour has been made possible in part under a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

The famous Tchaikovsky ballet is based on little Clara's sweet Christmas Eve dream in which her beloved Nutcracker takes her on a magical journey through the land of the Snowflakes on to the Kingdom of Sweets where she is greeted by the Sugar Plum Fairy and her delicious treats.

Garden State Ballet's "Nutcracker" has been choreographed by Peter Anastos and is critically acclaimed as "... beautifully danced and luscious in color ... a tantalizing holiday dessert for the entire family ..." Anastos gained international prominence in 1984 as co-creator with Mikhail Baryshnikov of American Ballet Theatre's production of "Cinderella."

A special treat for this year's "Nutcracker" audiences is spectacular new scenery and magical effects designed by Emmy Award winner Zack Brown of New York.

Reserved seat tickets at $16, $14, and $12 may be reserved by phone, mail or credit card orders at the Garden State Ballet, 45 Academy St., Newark, 07102 (623-0591).

Tickets for the Hackensack performances are also on sale at Agel's Records, 35 East Ridgewood Ave., Ridgewood. Tickets for the Montclair series may be purchased at the National Music Shop, 600 Bloomfield Ave., Montclair, and Chris Parillo's Shop, 612 Valley Rd., Upper Montclair.

Tickets for all Nutcracker performances will be on sale at the theatre box office one hour before each performance.

THE NEW JERSEY BALLET returns to Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, to perform the "Nutcracker" with a cast of over 100. Performances begin 8 pm, Dec. 19 for a 17 performance run through Dec. 30. (Matinees at 3 pm) The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra conducted by Michael Pratt will accompany all performances at the Paper Mill Playhouse. Tickets are $15, $20, $22, and are available at the box office, 376-4343.

Summit Chorale to perform at St. Rose of Lima SHORT HILLS — The Summit Chorale will present its annual Christmas Concert, featuring new works by five leading New Jersey composers Sat., Dec. 14 and Sun., Dec. 15 at 8 pm at St. Rose of Lima Church, 50 Short Hills.

For this concert, the Chorale has commissioned the following compositions: "In Excelsis Gloria" for choir and organ by Wayne Dietterick; "O Magnum Mysterium" by Carl Della Peruti; "The Snow Lies Thick" for choir and organ by David Sampson; "Alleluia" for choir and percussion by David Stanley York; and "Noel Pastores," "I Laudate Dominum" for three choirs and organ by Paul Somers. The Chorale of M.U.S.I.C., Plainfield, will join with the Choral in the latter. Four other compositions by Messrs. Somers and York, as well as one by Jon Quinn, are included in the program. Unusual settings of twelve familiar carols plus the traditional sing-along round out the program.

Area residents participating in this performance are: C.Y. Haas, Heinz Roth, Robert Harrison, John Little, Laurie Ruben, Berkeley Heights; Eric Hiby, Gretchen Royce, Robert Grubb, Alice Barstow, New Providence.

Tickets at $8 (regular) and $6 (students and senior citizens) are available from Chorale members and at the door. They may also be ordered by phone at 464-3333.

Kent Place's 'Star' will rise Dec. 18 and 19

SUMMIT — Two identical Christmas programs will be presented by the entire Upper School student body of the Kent Place School Dec. 18 and 19, 8 pm at the United Methodist Church on DeForest Avenue and Kent Place Boulevard.

Dr. James Culver, chairman of the school's music department, will direct 237 voices in traditional holiday carols and a stirring candlelight procession.

In addition, the Chorale, a 70 voice choir, will render pieces by Bach, Britten, Praetorius, Willcocks, and Culver. Instrumental music will be provided by the Upper School Ensemble directed by Katherine Menafee Price.

Other works will feature vocal soloists Stephanie Hodde of Summit, Anne Ricket of Short Hills, Leslie Keith of New Vernon, Stephanie Arrouet and Kathy Prendergast of Morristown, Liz Lubow of Convent Station, Emily Barton of Westfield, Sloane Albright of Basking Ridge, and Joanna May of Madison.

The performance will be accompanied by Dr. Kenneth Hopper of Summit. They are free and open to the public.

STUDENT Heather Pribula of New Providence will perform in the Garden State Ballet's production of "The Nutcracker" this month.

Oak Knoll students to stage Christmas story

SUMMIT — The annual Christmas Concert at Oak Knoll School of the Holy Child will be given Thurs., Dec. 19 at 7:30 pm in the school auditorium.

The concert, which has been a traditional part of Oak Knoll's celebration of Christmas for over half a century, blends Christmas carols, music, readings, and colorful tableaux in telling the Christmas story.

Members of the Upper School Choir Club, under the direction of Nancy Ballato, will sing a variety of Christmas carols.

Summit students participating in the concert include Crissy Romano, who will play an Angel; Jennifer Pollock, Angel; Alexandra Chrobok, Shepherd; Mary Clare O'Mara, King; Melina Kalas, Joseph.

Behind the scenes helpers from Summit include Karen Pollock, Ann Hughesby, and Ann Marie Boyce, costume coordinator.

The public is invited to attend.

Students compose choral cantata for Kent Place Winter Holiday Concert

SUMMIT — Kent Place Middle School will feature a Winter Holiday Concert, Dec. 19 at 7 pm, in the school auditorium.

Featuring the year's best student compositions, the concert will include a variety of choral and instrumental pieces.

Other featured soloists performing in the cantata are soprano soloist Katherine Allen of Short Hills, and mezzo-soprano soloist Mary Clare O'Mara of Summit.

Admission is free, but tickets are available at the door. The concert will be held at the Kent Place Middle School, 100 Kent Place Road, Summit.

Vocal soloists include Jeanne Zenne, Diana Delaney, Meghan Edwards, and Ben Sachs of Summit; Erin Ladd of North Plainfield; and Victoria Miller of Morristown.

The concert will be at the United Methodist Church, at the corner of DeForest Avenue and Kent Place Boulevard. The program is free and open to the public.

Ric-Charles Choral Ensemble's Christmas concert set for December 21

Long, Ric-Charles Choral Ensemble will offer its annual Christmas concert at 7:30 pm, Sat., Dec. 21, at the sanctuary of St. John's Episcopal Church, Plainfield.

The concert program will feature a variety of traditional and contemporary choral works, including "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah."

The Ric-Charles Choral Ensemble is a nonprofit organization that has performed at churches, schools, public and private venues and in the community.

Princeton Ballet begins Nutcracker season

Banner campaign for female harriers

The good news is that the Summit girls' cross country squad enjoyed the finest season in its history this past autumn winning the Union County championship and finishing second in the NJSIAA state section title meet. The girls compiled a 15-1 record in dual competition, winning 15 straight meets after dropping their opener to Wayne Valley.

The better news is that Summit will return this team in its entirety next fall. The Hilltopper harriers are comprised of one junior, five sophomores, and a freshman. All of whom are three-season track athletes whose commitment to the sport lends every indication Summit will be an even more formidable club in 1986.

"This really is a super group of kids," lauds Coach Ken Kuebler, who guides the female cross country program in the autumn and the coed track operation in the winter. And the veteran mentor notes he'll be back as an assistant (working with the both the girls' and boys' teams) in spring track this year after taking that season off last term.

"These girls have put an enormous amount of time and effort into their running, and it was great to see them achieve the level of success we experienced during the past season," relates Kuebler. "And we have a chance to be even better next year."

Summit's top performer was sophomore Courtney Griffith, whose best time was a 19:20 excursion around Briant Park's 3.1 mile course. Griffith finished 6th individually in Union County and 7th in the state section meet.

Freshman Kathy Castles, whose top clocking was 19:42, ran second to Courtney most of the autumn, but the younger girl finished ahead of her teammate in the county and section championships, Griffith being hampered by a slight injury in both races. Castles was 4th in the county and 6th in the state section, and Kathy is clearly a young lady who should have a fine future in the sport.

Down the road, their coach projects different areas of emphasis for the team's two stars. "Kathy is taller with the stride and speed to be an outstanding middle-distance runner," predicts Kuebler. "Courtney, on the other hand, can simply run all day. The longer the race, the better suited she is."

The squad's most surprising performer was soph Ranjini Narayanamurti, who emerged as a solid number-three competitor and was challenging the top two by the end of the campaign. The other runners on this championship team were Meg Arnold (who co-captained the club with Griffith), Anna Schliemann, Tanya White, and Carolyn Button.

Some bright spots for gridders

Following what is acknowledged to be one of the more disappointing seasons in Summit's recent football history, veteran Coach Howie Anderson took time to point out a couple of the brighter aspects of the Hilltoppers' 1985 campaign.

The first person noted was senior quarterback Tom Chiego, the irony of which is apparent to the Summit mentor. "Going into the year a lot of people felt our one questionmark was at quarterback," recalls Anderson. "It was widely thought that if we could get adequate performance there, we'd be a great football team."

Certainly Summit's 5-4 record wasn't what its fans were envisioning back in August, but it turns out that quarterback was one of the few places where the Hilltoppers received better than expected production. "Tom really gave us as fine a year as we could have asked for," praises

Anderson. "He ran the offense effectively, and we threw the ball perhaps better than we thought we'd be able to." Certainly one impressive statistic from the Hilltoppers' campaign is that Chiego was intercepted only twice all season.

The coach credits senior tackle Andy Brode with enjoying as fine an all-around campaign as any Summit player. "We knew Andy was a quality offensive lineman," explains Anderson, "but he likely surpassed our expectations with his performance at defensive tackle. Over the course of the season, he probably was our most consistent player."

Offensive guard-defensive end Chris Jenks and tight end-linebacker Tom Bredahl are other fellows cited by their coach as contributing solid campaigns. Anderson also noted the work of split end-safety Tim Mackin, particularly for his efforts in the defensive secondary. While there were some other problem areas, no one was able to throw the ball with any consistency against the Hilltoppers, and their coach credits Mackin's effectiveness in the deep spot as a major reason.

Despite the fact this year's record was below what Summit partisans had anticipated, Anderson sounded a note of encouragement towards next season. "Our junior class is a group with particularly fine football credentials, and several of those kids weren't quite ready to put together the sort of performance we had hoped for," said the veteran mentor. "But there's no question in my mind these are quality players who we'll be returning next fall. This season's experience could be a benefit in helping them understand what it's going to take for us to win a year from now."

Not like on TV

SUMMIT — The 1985-86 Recreation Wrestling Program is underway, but all Summit boys in grades three through eight who have not already signed up are encouraged and welcome to participate.

Practices throughout December are held Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday mornings in the Wrestling, Weight Room behind the gym at the Senior High School.

While many individual and team wrestling honors have been won by local wrestlers, the Recreation Department program emphasis, particularly for novice wrestlers, remains on conditioning, development and knowledge of the sport.

The program teaches the rules and moves involved in U.S. Scholastic style wrestling which in no way is to be equated with the professional wrestling appearing on TV.

First and second year novice wrestlers practice 6 to 7 pm Wednesday and Thursday and 9 to 10 am Saturday. The older and/or more experienced wrestlers practice after the novices. Parents are welcome to attend all practices.

After conditioning, training and practice in December, the Recreation Department-sponsored teams wrestle competitively during January and February in three leagues, and also in area tournaments, based upon grade, weight and mat experience.

The fifth through eighth graders wrestle in the 14-team Union County League. The third through sixth graders also wrestle in the 22-team Union and Somerset County Central Jersey League. Novice wrestlers third through fifth also wrestle in a separate schedule during February in a less competitive yet developmental league.

The rules of scholastic (high school) style wrestling reward individual skill, but penalize unsafe holds, moves, and falls.

The scholastic style sport can be taught two ways. One develops winners; the other to encourage and develop wrestlers.

The local program combines the two approaches, tempering competition with good sportsmanship and general enjoyment of athletics.

Applications are available at the Edison Recreation Center.

Smythe-Volvo at 3-0; Turner & Scheppe, 2-1

SUMMIT — Smythe-Volvo brought its Division B record to 3-0 with a 60-43 win over Celanese, and Scheppe Land-scaping edged Turner 91-90 to leave both teams tied for the A Division lead at 2-1.

Smythe had three players score in double figures as the winners definite height advantage put Celanese down. Sheldon Green led with 18 points, and Rich Boyd and Dave Poole followed with 14 and 10 points each. Mike Hooper accounted for 16 of Celanese' 43 points.

The middle two periods were frustrating ones for Celanese, as they could score only six points in each period. Smythe stretched a one point lead to a 47-27 bulge after three quarters.

Jay Green mounted a 37-point offensive effort for Scheppe to lead his team to the hard fought one point win over Turner. The score remained close throughout as both teams were tied at 21-all after the first quarter and Turner holding a two point lead at the half. At the end of three periods, Turner still held the two point edge. Green's three field goals and pin-point accuracy from the foul line won it as he added eight free throws.

Victor Thomas scored 22 points to help green, and Mickens had 13. Nolan, Shehadi and Burnen had 26, 21, and 18 points respectively for Turner.

X-Chubb brought their record of two wins and one loss with a 58-56 win over Airco. X-Chubb was down by a 32-36 score at half-time as Clarence Settles and Ken Miles scored 12 and nine points respectively in the half. X-Chubb turned it around by out-scoring Airco 16-10 in the third quarter, and adding a two point advantage in the last quarter. Dave Sottili scored 18 points for X-Chubb, and Shawn Kelly, and Larry McClain chipped in with 12 points each. Settles was highscorer for the game with 24 points and Ken Miles had 15 points for Airco.

Setco put it all together with a ringing 88-61 victory over Shearson-Leahman to notch its first win.

Chris Sloan took matters into his own hands by scoring 13 points in the first quarter to lead Setco to a 25-12 lead at the end of the period over Shearson-Leahman.

Sloan then turned his attention to running the attack and added eight points over the last three quarters to finish with 21 points.

Setco dominated the first half play out rebounding and outscoring Shearson-Leahman 53-22.

All 10 Setco players entered the scoring column with Jay Bayle having 14 points and T. J. Lambourn 10 for Setco. Jim Brophy did yeoman work for the losers as he accounted for 31 of his team's 61 points.

HOW MANY POLICIES?

You want to protect your family and your property from any risks and hazards that might affect your home, but how many policies do you need? For instance, you can purchase a standard fire policy to insure your home and its contents against fire and lightning only. Protection against burglary and theft is also important. Maybe you'd like a separate policy for this risk, and another to protect you against injuries suffered by visitors on your property or property damage you may cause to others.

This is just a partial list of individual coverages you may want to consider. You can get all the protection you need, but it means you will have several premiums to pay. However, why have a lot of policies when one will do? A better approach would be to get all the protection available to you through a homeowner's policy. This is a package type policy that can meet those and many other important needs for protection. Discuss it with our office. It makes a lot of sense and is what is recommended for most homeowners.

'Microcomputers, Part II' to be offered at New Providence High School

NEW PROVIDENCE — "Microcomputers in Education - Part II" will be offered by Jersey City State College on Tuesdays, 6:45 to 9:45 pm, at Salt Brook School, beginning Jan. 14.

The course will be taught by Dr. Mitchell E. Batoff. According to Batoff, the course will involve the real-world applications, and the implication of each, for the K-12 curriculum. Upon successful completion, three semester hours of graduate credit will be granted.

The offering is intended to follow "Microcomputers in Education - Part I," taught this past semester. Although Part I is a prerequisite, experience with computers and permission from Dr. Batoff satisfy the prerequisite.

To register, contact Robert G. Gorton or Mrs. Carol Wilson at the Board of Education, 340 Central Ave. or call 464-9050.

Registration will be accepted until the second class session. Enrollment is limited to 12 students.

Tuition is $250.50, payable to Jersey City State College, and not required until the second or third class. Books are extra.

Board to consider citizens advisory council

NEW PROVIDENCE — The formation of a permanent Citizens' Advisory Council to the Board of Education will be up for discussion at the board's meeting Thurs., Dec. 19, 8 pm at Hillview School.

The proposal for the council was signed by over 70 citizens and presented to the board.

As an advisory body to the board on projects mutually agreed upon, such a council might:

- collect and organize information relevant to a specific project;
- identify community needs and expectations relative to the project;
- investigate appropriate models and methods; and

- report information and/or make recommendations to the board.

Representatives have offered to meet with the board, or individual members, to discuss this approach to involving local citizenry in the educational process.

Eight NPHS seniors nominated as GSDS

NEW PROVIDENCE — Eight New Providence High School seniors have been nominated as Garden State Distinguished Scholars. They are Michael Abadir, Charles Behre, Joseph Bernardo, Lawrence Chang, Daniel Chasek, Oreta Dembaugh, Craig Gotsill, and James Uanis.

About 2,783 New Jersey seniors have been nominated as Distinguished Scholars. This represents less than three percent of the state's secondary school seniors. The average SAT combined score for these students is over 1200, with verbal scores averaging 600 and math scores 670.

The Distinguished Scholars Program provides for a $1,000 annual scholarship award for up to four years of undergraduate study at a New Jersey college or university and is renewable as long as the student maintains satisfactory academic progress. The object of the program is to encourage New Jersey's scholars to attend New Jersey's 56 colleges and universities.

PTA garners $2,500 from raffle

BERKELEY HEIGHTS — The Governor Livingston Regional High School PTA raffle drawing Dec. 2 was won by local resident John Greig.

Greig won a weekend for two at the Essex House in New York City and theatre tickets.

Second place winners were local residents Mr. and Mrs. Lesser, who won brunch and a show for two at Neil's New Yorker, Mountain Lakes.

Third place winner was local resident Mrs. Shirley Cino, who won a dinner for two at the Chanticleer Chateau, Warren. All prize winners have time and date of choice.

Proceeds from the raffle were in excess of $2,500. The money will be used for scholarships and student enrichment programs.

Father Derbyshire of Little Flower Church, Berkeley Heights, meets with Mike Lozowski of the Berkeley Heights-New Providence Jaycees to examine gifts collected in a recent toy drive. Bruce Lorenz and Joe Galioto, below, of The Image Maker, Berkeley Heights, collected almost 100 gifts in their annual drive; they donated them to the Jaycees, who, with Little Flower, will distribute them to needy children in shelters in Elizabeth and Newark.

NPHS Music Department to sponsor concert

NEW PROVIDENCE — The annual December Concert of the New Providence High School Music Department will be presented at 8 pm Dec. 18. There is no admission charge for this concert that will feature many differing types of instrumental and vocal music.

The Saxophone Ensemble and the Flute Ensemble, directed by Mr. Grossman, will perform Ballad and Waltz by Williams, Yoder, and Jericho, and Canon by Pachelbel. The Boys and Girls Ensembles, directed by Mr. Ailster will sing compositions including, Come Let Us Start a Joyful Song by Hassler, Home Again by Strommen, Silver Bells by Livingston and Evans, and Depart in Peace by Grier and Everson. The Concert Band, directed by Mr. Eicher will start with The Budapest Carol by Forsblad, followed by Pavanne by Gould, Themes From The Nutcracker Suite by Tchaikowsky and Christmas Music For Winds by Cavacas.

The concluding portion of the concert will be presented by the high school choir. The Choir, directed by Mr. Ailster will process to the traditional arrangement by Ideo by Holst. The Choir will then sing selections that include Glorificamus Te from the Gloria of the Mass by Butler, Celebration by Grier and Everson, and Smile On Your Brother by Lucas. The Hallelujah Chorus from the Messiah by Handel will round out the music for the December evening concert. As is traditional, the chorus will be performed by the Choir and Choir graduates.

Reed to offer 'Melody of Literature'

"The Melody of Literature" will be performed at Salt Brook School, New Providence, Thurs., Dec. 19, 10 am.

In this Cultural Arts assembly, Ms. Fay Reed, performer, will explain to her audience through a diverse musical program that includes folk, popular, legitimate, and even operatic selections that "great literature makes everyone think."

Goals of the program include stimulating every young student to read more.

Reed's ventriloquist's dummy, Henry, accompanies her to every school.

Funds for this assembly are provided by the Salt Brook School Parent Teacher Association.

Christmas recordings are available at Memorial Library

NEW PROVIDENCE — Added to holiday cheer at Memorial Library are 11 new recordings of Christmas music, making a total now of 100 LP's from which to choose. Recordings are available on a seven day loan basis to library patrons.

Christmas trees in both the adult and children's departments are gifts of the season presented by the Woman's Club of New Providence. Members of the club also decorated the tree near the main front entrance.

A display case customarily maintained by the club shows for December a colorful assortment of shopping bags from many lands.

Friends of the Library representative Lynn Celler took charge of a Children's Christmas craft party at which tree ornaments were made.

Elaine Fuschetto of the library staff designed and constructed the sleigh and Santa surrounded by Christmas books on the big bulletin board.

Completing the display of seasonal books are those selected by Betty C. Proctor, library director, for the special shelves she prepares each month. She has added December back issues of magazines offering decorating and food ideas for the holidays.

Faith Lutheran Christmas events are set

The Faith Lutheran Church at 524 South St., Murray Hill, will offer the following holiday events:

- Dec. 18, 7:30 pm: A recital of Advent music under the direction of Kevin Mensch, Minister of Music.

- 8 pm: Service of Light. This moving and symbolic service brings mid-week advent worship to a close.

- Dec. 24, 5 pm: Children's Christmas Service, particularly geared toward younger children; this worship time enables an appreciation of the true meaning of Christmas.

- 8 pm: Candlelight Communion. This service of carols and the Word, shares God's meal as we celebrate the birth of the Christ. Liturgical choir and instrumental music.

- 11 pm: Candlelight communion with the Motet choir and instrumentalists; a rich service of carols and the proclamation of the birth of the Messiah.

- Dec. 25, 10 am: Festival Eucharist, to celebrate the birth of the Christ.

Coach reflects on NP grid campaign

By ART POLAKOWSKI
By New Providence standards the 1985 football edition of the Pioneers won't go down as one of the great teams in the school's history, but overall NP enjoyed an autumn that might be regarded as one of over-achievement.

Coach Frank Bottone's squad finished with a 5-3-1 record and was certainly very much in every game it played. The NP schedule was a succession of tightly-contested, low-scoring affairs.

"We're fairly satisfied with what we accomplished," summarized Bottone in reflecting back over the campaign this week. "We were an inexperienced team in many areas, and it would have been a surprise had we made it back into the playoffs for the fourth straight season." As it was, New Providence missed a playoff berth by only a fraction of a 'quality point', a calculation made a day after the Pioneers 'upset' a Roselle Park team which secured one of those Group I slots.

weekend. Tiboni was also selected as the squad's defensive MVP, while junior halfback Mike Liberato earned that honor offensively. Liberato's 870 yards rushing represented an extremely large percentage of the Pioneers' attack.

Most of New Providence's accolades came on the defensive side of the ball. "Our defense played well in every game," praises Bottone. "No one was able to move the ball against us with any consistency."

Besides already-noted linebackers Kaiser and Tiboni, Bottone cites tackles Jamie Cramer and Gary Barton and ends Rick Stumpf, Rich Johnson, and Barry Marshall as the other stalwarts among the inside defenders. The veteran mentor also lauds the work of monsterback Craig Horan and cornerbacks Gary Abrams and Kevin Earley.

"Kevin received our most improved player award," reports Bottone. "He emerged as a senior to give us a great season." Besides his split end and corner-back play, Earley was as fine a punter as the Pioneers have owned in recent years.

Offensively Bottone noted the efforts of Cramer, Barton, and Santos Guzman on the blocking line. "We were able to move the football well at times, but overall we didn't have the sort of year we had hoped for offensively," conceded the NP mentor.

The veteran coach expects to improve that aspect of New Providence's performance next year. "We'll be a more experienced team offensively," explains Bottone, "and potentially we think we'll be better at a couple of the skill positions."

NP gals ran to state title

By ART POLAKOWSKI
New Providence earned the first statewide team track championship in school history this season when the girls' cross country squad captured New Jersey's Group I crown.

"There's no question it's the highlight of my coaching career," enthuses veteran mentor Rod Peterson, who's been handling cross country (girls' and boys') and girls' track at NP for the past 13 years. "Not only the fact that it's the most prestigious championship we've ever earned, but also because of the kids who accomplished it."

This is a group of young ladies about whom their coach can't say enough. "I've never enjoyed working with a team as much as I do with this crew," relates Peterson. "This was as dedicated and as team-oriented a group of girls as you could ever hope to meet."

Back at the beginning of the autumn the Pioneer runners decided on adding early-morning workouts to their normal afternoon activity. "They were out there faithfully every morning at 6:30 putting in some miles before the start of the school day," recalls the New Providence coach. "At that time I don't think we were thinking in terms of the state championship, but these youngsters were committed to producing the best possible season."

The reality of winning Group I didn't emerge until the announcement of the 1985-86 NJSIAA size classifications when the Pioneers discovered they wouldn't have to deal with Bernards in the state finals. Generally regarded as owning New Jersey's premiere harrier program, Bernards had won the Group I crown as far back as anyone can remember and was regarded as a certainty to take it again this autumn.

Junior Katie Moran ran an exceptional race in the state finals to take 5th place individually. Normally NP's third gal, Moran finished a slot ahead of number-2 competitor Patti Giusti who finished up an outstanding career field, the squad Peterson was most concerned about heading into the meet at Holmdel Park. "But we got some outstanding performances down there," reports the coach, "and we took the team crown fairly comfortably."

NP star Lori Carpenter finished second individually to cap an exceptional junior campaign. Carpenter logged an 18:34 on the Pioneers' (approximately 2.95 mile) home course to snap her own school record. "There's no question Lori's the finest female runner in New Providence history," states Peterson.

Junior Katie Moran ran an exceptional race in the state finals to take 5th place individually. Normally NP's third gal, Moran finished a slot ahead of number-2 competitor Patti Giusti who finished up an outstanding career for the Pioneer harriers.

Sue Nell was the other senior who competed in the state finals, and she finished 19th. Karen Pavlidis, normally the squad's fifth runner, was ill that day, but sophomore Elaine Messina picked things up to provide the necessary points in that position.

Carpenter, Moran, and Messina return next autumn, but Peterson must replace graduated seniors Giusti, Nell, and Pavlidis. "We're looking towards a couple of present 8th-graders to step in and maybe help us right away," projects the New Providence coach.

A HERO IS no braver than an ordinary man, but he is brave five minutes longer. — Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Lombardo led gymnasts

By ART POLAKOWSKI
Lisa Lombardo captured Union County's individual title in the balance beam competition to highlight the Berkeley Heights gymnastics campaign this past fall. Coach Cyndie Manto's squad completed its dual-meet schedule with a 5-3 record and qualified three gymnasts for the NJSIAA state section tournament.

Lombardo, a junior, was the team's best all-around competitor. "Lisa is one of the better gymnasts our school has had," praises Manto who completed her third season at the varsity helm. "She's begun to acquire the confidence to go along with her considerable talent."

Senior Meg Harvey and junior Kris Murphy were the other Highlanders to make it to the section meet. Harvey qualified in the floor exercises, while Murphy competed in both the vaulting and uneven bars. Lombardo, meanwhile, qualified in all four contested events and as an all-around competitor.

Karen Campano, Amy Kraus, Jill Alber, and Janine McDermott rounded out Regional's seven-girl squad. Campano is a graduating senior, while sophomores Kraus and McDermott and freshman Alber will return for the 1986 season.

Holiday flower arrangements to be topic

SUMMIT — The Reeves-Reed Arboretum's holiday event, "A Flower Extravaganza," will feature a demonstration by celebrated New York floral designer Barry Ferguson on Wed., Dec. 18 at 10 am at St. John's Lutheran Church, 587 Springfield Avenue.

Ferguson's holiday arrangements will be auctioned immediately after his demonstration. At noon, luncheons will be served in area private homes. Reservations are required. All proceeds will support arboretum programs and grounds enhancement, according to Co-Chairwomen Mrs. Jon Corzine and Mrs. David Smith of Summit.

Called "a master floral designer" by the New York Times (1/23/82), Ferguson annually creates the flower displays for the New York Winter Antiques Show in the Park Avenue Armory.

Renowned for combining his theatrical and botanical interests in dramatic use of common plants, woodland materials and exotics, Ferguson has been involved in such major openings as the South Street Seaport Museum and Tavern-on-the-Green in Central Park. A horticulturist, he has also worked in landscape design and was responsible for plantings in New York's Greenacre Park.

Born in Wellington, New Zealand, Ferguson studied botany at Victoria University College. In 1962, he embarked on a global tour of plants and gardens, ending in London where he became a manager with the royal florist, Constance Spry. Moving to Scandinavia in 1964, he co-founded and was artistic director of the professional Scandinavia Theater Company.

Ferguson came to the U.S. in 1969, worked as a designer and resident horticulturist and, in 1973, established his own business, J. Barry Ferguson Flowers, Ltd., currently in Oyster Bay, L.I.

Admission to "Flower Extravaganza" is $15 per person for the demonstration and luncheon. For those wishing to attend in a group, seating will be arranged together where possible. To receive a reservation invitation, call 273-8787.

Burgdorff addresses women business owners

SUMMIT — Jean T. Burgdorff of Summit, founder and president of Burgdorff

Jean Burgdorff.

Realtors, a major NJ real estate firm, recently participated in the Eighth Annual New Jersey Women Business Ownership Conference at the Parsippany Hilton Hotel.

More than 850 business owners, corporate representatives, professionals and women thinking about starting a business gathered for workshops in a range of topics — for example, "Successful Planning and Marketing Your Products and Services."

Burgdorff was a featured speaker in the seminar on "Negotiating Skills."

The first conference was held in 1978. It has grown to attract an ever larger audience and increased support from the corporate and government communities.

Burgdorff, a nationally recognized industry figure, has accumulated an impressive list of credentials since founding her company in 1958. She served as national president of InterCommunity Relocation, president of the New Jersey Chapter of Certified Residential Brokers, and director of the New Jersey Association of Realtors.

She currently sits on the Advisory Board of Equi-Net, a national broker network to which Burgdorff Realtors belongs. When the company celebrated its 25th anniversary, she was recognized by Governor Kean for her achievements as an entrepreneur.

Headquartered in Summit, Burgdorff Realtors today has 13 offices throughout north-central New Jersey and about 200 sales representatives.

Hotel names new food and beverage director

SUMMIT — Leet Zwepink has been named Food and Beverage director for The Summit Hotel, according to Robert R. Hansen, general manager of the 150-room Tudor facility.

Zwepink's responsibilities include supervising the selection and presentation of food in the hotel's new Hunt Club restaurant, and arranging banquets, meetings and other special functions. He will also direct the food and beverage staff.

"This is a challenging opportunity for me," says Zwepink. "With the recent completion of the hotel's restoration project, it is like working with an entirely new property. The re-opening of the Hunt Club restaurant and the upgrading of catering and banquet facilities make it an especially exciting venture."

Previous to his position at The Summit, Zwepink was with The Amway Grand Plaza Hotel in Grand Rapids, Michigan, where he assisted the food and beverage and housekeeping directors.

Zwepink came to the U.S. from The Netherlands, where he received his formal food and beverage training. He holds a B.A. in International Hotel Management and a Masters in International Business, from Florida International University.

Zimmerman is president of investment counsel association

Edward W. Zimmerman.

Edward W. Zimmerman of Summit has been re-elected president of the Investment Counsel Association of America.

The association, founded in 1937, represents 125 of the leading investment-counsel firms in the country. ICAA member firms manage in excess of $150 billion of investment portfolios of individuals, trusts and of institutional accounts.

As a professional association, much of the work of the ICAA relates to setting and supervising standards of practice of its member firms. The ICAA also sponsors a test of professional knowledge and analytical skills that leads to accreditation as a Chartered Investment Counselor.

A graduate of Yale and the Wharton Graduate School of Business, Zimmerman is a partner in the investment counsel firm of Stein Roe & Farnham, New York and Chicago.

Moeller attends health conference

Kathy Moeller of Overlook Hospital, Summit, attended the annual conference of the North Atlantic Health Sciences Librarian (NASHL) Oct. 27-30 in Newport, Rhode Island.

The conference featured discussing the economic picture of the health care field.

NASHL is an association of libraries and librarians from hospitals, universities and agencies with an interest in the health sciences.

MAKING PROGRESS — Roger Mehner, right, chairman of the Summit Jaycees, recently presented a donation to the Summit Area YMCA for its Second Century Campaign. The check was accepted by YMCA General Executive Kenneth W. Pearl, in making the presentation, Mehner said, "The Jaycees are pleased to be part of the Y's planning for a renovated and enlarged facility to better serve the men, women and children of the Summit area." The Y plans to add a second swimming pool and a new and expanded gymnasium, and to offer renovated locker rooms and facilities. For more information about the Y's plans and how to help, contact Campaign Manager David Guthrie at the Y, 273-3330.

Schoch becomes Chief Financial Officer of Burgdorff Realtors

SUMMIT — Ruth L. Schoch of Summit has been appointed Chief Financial Officer of Burgdorff Realtors.

She is responsible for accounting, budgeting and data processing functions.

Schoch will also administer Burgdorff's bridge loan program, which enables home buyers to use the equity in their current home to buy a new home.

Schoch's experience encompasses multiple financial duties including auditing, budgeting and consulting. Her prior employers include DuPont, Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. and AT&T Communications.

She received her bachelor's degree in accounting from Rutgers University, New Brunswick, and an MBA in financial management from Drexel University, Philadelphia.

Mary Ellen Casey marries Michael Vecchia

Mary Ellen Casey, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Casey of Gillette, was married on Oct. 12, to Michael Vecchia, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Vecchia of Summit.

The double ring ceremony at St. Teresa's Church, Summit, was performed by the Rev. Donald Cialone. A reception followed at the Twin Brooks Country Club, Watchung.

Nancy Casey of Gillette, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Patti Ostrander of Verona, Mary Jo Casey of Annandale, Debbie Kurschus of Summit, and Kathy Vecchia of Chatham Township. The bride's nephews, Keith and Bobby Casey, were ringbearers. The bride's niece, Kirsten Ostrander, was the flowergirl.

Thomas Hess of Summit, served as the best man. Ushers were Louis Vecchia of Chatham Township, Jim Casey of Annandale, Eric Kurschus of Summit, and George Lioudis of Summit.

The bride graduated from Watchung Hills Regional High School, Warren, and The Stafford Hall School of Business. She is employed by AT&T Technologies, Inc.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Summit High School, Summit, and Union College. Mr. Vecchia is employed by Summit Food Market.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will reside in Chatham Township.
