Thomas Fleming Is Selected By The Democratic Party

Thomas W. Fleming was born in Belleville thirty-five years ago. He has always been interested in affairs of a civic nature and has joined willing hand in all matters pertaining to the good of Belleville.

Mr. Fleming, who is business manager of the Belleville News, was born in a house owned by John DeWitt at Belleville and DeWitt aveues which house has just been demolished to make way for the continuation of Clinton street.

The candidate was educated in Belleville schools and high school, attending later New York and Newark business colleges. During the world war he was in France with the 644 Aero Squadron, having enlisted in June, 1917. He served eighteen months in France and holds a reserve officer's commission.

For four years Mr. Fleming was tax assessor of Belleville. He has been a leader in Democratic circles for many years and is at present secretary of the Belleville Democratic County Committee.

With his brother, John P. Fleming, he conducted a paint business in Belleville and later in Nutley for several years.

He is a charter member of Belleville Post, American Legion, and a member of Private George A. Younginger Post, V. F. W. For six years Mr. Fleming served as adjutant of the Legion and is its present commander. He actively lends a hand in all matters pertaining to veterans, especially the work requiring aid for disabled veterans and their dependents.

Mr. Fleming for the last nine years has been a member of the Memorial and Armistice Day committees. He has always given his services Memorial Day to transporting veterans of the Civil War in parade.

He is affiliated with Belleville Lodge of Elks and the Columbus Club. He is examiner for merit for Boy Scouts and deeply interested in scout matters. He intends to assist in the Community Chest Drive and has offered to provide a group of workers to canvas from the Legion.

Athletics have been the hobby of Mr. Fleming, who has starred as a football and baseball player.

From 1914 until 1917 Mr. Fleming was connected with the Post Office department. Until his removal of business from Belleville to Nutley he was a member of Belleville Rotary Club. Rules of that organization caused his resignation, inasmuch as his business had been transferred from the jurisdiction of the local club.

Mr. Fleming is an ardent booster of the high school football team. He engages in making the annual banquet to the squad a success and follows the team in all its games.

He is married and resides at 59 Bell street.

Catholic Women Meet In Two-Day Session

Belleville Is Represented At Newark By Miss Salmon

National Council of Catholic Women held a two-day session of representatives of more than 400 organizations for women of the Roman Catholic Diocese in Newark last Friday and Saturday.

A banquet at the Robert Treat Hotel terminated the event. The N. C. W. Camp at Lake Hopatcong, which was the first camp in New Jersey to fly the Big Top's colors and in which 874 girls registered this past summer, with Mrs. J. F. Conway of Jersey City, as chairman, stressed the need for more electric kitchen equipment.

Miss T. B. McFadden of Bayonne outlined a plan for a campaign for collection of data and records to perpetuate the Catholic Soldier in the World War. The Supreme Regent of the Catholic Daughters of America, Miss Mary C. Duffy, spoke on the Catholic youth movement. General publicity director of Catholic Medical Mission Board of New York, Rev. John Lynch made a plea for financial assistance for the women who give their all, in the leper colony. Miss Nellie Salmon of Academy street, president of the local branch of the council, with a number of her members attended the session.

Community Chest In Need of $16,000

With a quota set at $16,000 for its Community Chest, in which five organizations will participate, members of the Welfare Federation, which is sponsoring the idea elected Charles Granville Jones, as president, Wednesday night. Leon Berkowitz of Belleville Rotary Club who had been active in starting the chest had been acting as temporary chairman.

The following vice-presidents from each of the participating agencies were elected: Miss Agnes Wharton and Andrew L. Boylan, Red Cross; Alvah A. Buckley, Boy Scouts; Mrs. Mary Holden, Girl Scouts; Mrs. H. B. Vail, Community Service Bureau and Brigadier Hoffman, Salvation Army. John Banta was named treasurer, John Ray, campaign director and Mrs. E. B. Gregory, assistant director and Burton Colehaver, secretary.

President Jones said that he hopes Belleville folks will realize that the appeal is as much for sentiment as business. "When the townspeople feel that this group is working for the best that there is in it and from the heart, we will get the support we need," he added.

A special gift committee consists of Chairman Watson Curren, George Taylor, Theodore Sandford, Freeholder Joseph King, William W. Stewart, John DeGraw, James T. Boylan, Homer Zink, Peter Jannarone and Nathan Schwartz. The budget committee, which was chosen because of its lack of connection with any participating agency, consists of Edward Yerg, president of Belleville Rotary Club; Edmund A. Rung, vice president of the First National Bank of Belleville and Daniel Mellis.

Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy, Philip Dettelbach, Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Ray have volunteered to endorse a note for $500 to raise an emergency fund.

Because of participation of the Red Cross in the chest there will be no roll call this year, the chapter gaining recognition from a National standpoint of membership on the total allotted the chapter. Membership is based on each dollar given the Red Cross.

Thomas W. Fleming, commander of Belleville Post, American Legion, volunteered a team of workers from his organization.

Jolson Out-Jolsons Self With Davey Lee In "Say It With Songs"

Al Jolson, sings to the unseen millions in "Say It With Songs," Warner Bros. latest all-talking, all singing picture which comes to the Capitol Theatre, October 30 and 31.

As Joe Lane, radio entertainer, the star has many opportunities to sing—which he does not only for the broadcasting station, but from prison where he is sent as the result of an accidental killing.

Jolson does not resort to burnt cork in "Say It With Songs," since his audiences, supposedly never see him. Although he sings a group of songs that will be heard around the world, he plays the part of a man who considers himself a hopeless failure. "Say It With Songs" is the most tenderly emotional of all Jolson's stories.

As a special attraction on Friday night the management will put on an old-fashioned amateur night. Unique entertainment, is promised and all persons who think they have talent are requested to leave their names at the Box Office.

Halloween favors, center-pieces and decorations, new bridge prizes, china and pottery in unique designs. Guildhall Gift Shop, 328 Washington Avenue, Belleville. —ADV.

Homer Zink Picked As The Republican Standard Bearer

The Republican candidate for the General Assembly for the imaginary district comprising Belleville, Bloomfield, Nutley and Glen Ridge, is Homer C. Zink, of this town.

He was born in Newark on February 3, 1883, and educated in the public schools of that city, graduating from Newark High School (now Barringer) in 1901. He graduated from Princeton University in 1910, as an LL.B.

In 1906, he entered the government service, having been appointed to office by Dr. Herman Herold, then United States Collector of Internal Revenue in Newark. Mr. Zink was connected with that office for several years, under civil service, successively as deputy collector, gauger, cashier, and chief deputy collector in charge. He resigned in 1914 to practice law.

He was admitted to the bar in 1911, after serving his clerkship with Judge Newton H. Porter, whose partner he later became. He is now a member of the firm of Lindabury, Steelman, Zink & Lafferty, with offices in the Federal Trust Building, in Newark.

Mr. Zink has been a resident of Belleville for many years, and has displayed much interest in its civic affairs. He is one of the town's representatives on the Newark Council of Boy Scouts, a trustee of the Community Service Bureau, a member of the executive committee of the Red Cross and of the Student Loan Council, and has been active in several drives. He is vice president of Nereid Boat Club, and a member of the University Club, the Men's Club of Christ Church, and other Belleville organizations, as well as of the Princeton Club of New York, Lawyers' Club of Essex County, Down Town Club, Forest Hill Club, Newark Athletic Club, and a member of fraternal societies.

In 1926, he was a member of the Republican County Committee for the old First District of the Third Ward, losing in the following years to Floyd Bragg, now one of his warm friends. With this exception, he has never been a candidate for public office of any kind, although he has long interested himself in politics in a quiet way.

Mr. Zink lives at 26 Rossmore place, is married, and has four children, who are all in No. 3 school. He is very fond of bridge, and is considered one of the luckiest players in Essex County.

Legion Post Will Not Build Home

At Least, No Action To Be Taken This Year.

Belleville Post, American Legion, met Monday night at the Recreation House for its regular monthly meeting.

Routine business was transacted and the matter of purchasing land for the erection of a community home was discussed at some length, but it was decided to lay the matter over for this year, at least.

SEEN ON THE FIELD

We take this occasion to compliment the Belleville rooters on the fine support they are giving the high school football team. It looked like a "red letter" day for Belleville at the Ridgewood game last Saturday in which Belleville won, 13-0. There seemed to be as many Belleville fans as Ridgewood rooters and there was no mean number of the latter.

The Ridgewood band played bravely and well during the game. Why can't we have a good B. H. S. band for the next home game with Boonton, tomorrow?

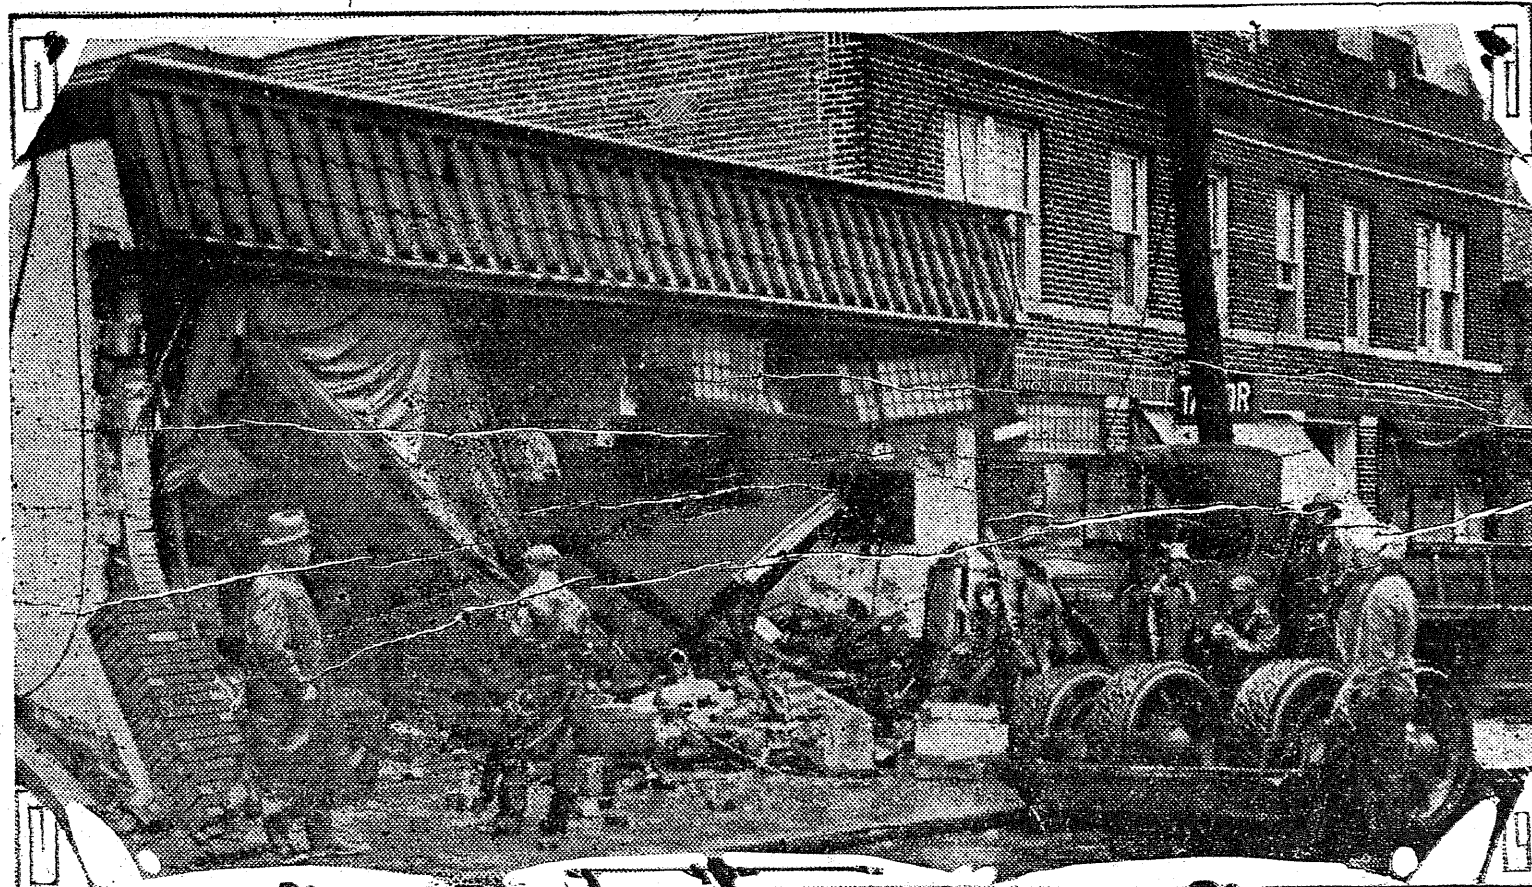

William E. Short, father of the famous Paul, of the local gridiron team, certainly deserves a lot of credit for raising a son of Paul's type. Quiet, unassuming, never swell-headed, and with a generous amount of common sense that stands him in good stead on the football field and will get him far in life. By the way, Mr. Short's voice was in good working at the game.

Phil Taylor, genial caretaker of Clearman Field, drove the Belleville News representatives to the game in his car. This being the case, of course, we have to mention him at the tip of the list. Bob Anderson, cop, instructed the genial Phil in the rudiments of driving on the way to the game. You may rest assured it was a merry ride. The News representatives were Jim Reilly, Arthur Bioemcke, and Eddie Taylor.

Good-bye Stained Teeth
New Safe Treatment Bleaches Dark Teeth in Three Minutes

Dentists have discovered a new safe treatment which bleaches stains from teeth, giving yellow discolored teeth a beautiful flashing whiteness. It is called Bleachodent Combination, and consists of a remarkable liquid which cures or softens the stains—and a new kind of paste, which instantly removes the softened stains, and prevents new stains from forming. Simply brush the teeth with a few drops of the liquid—then use the paste—and even the dulllest teeth are quickly whitened. Tobacco stains disappear after first few applications. Bleachodent Combination was first made for children's teeth to avoid the use of harsh gritty pastes which are so harmful to children's soft sensitive teeth. While Bleachodent Combination will instantly remove surface stains, do not expect it to remove stains caused by silver fillings, as these are below the enamel, and Bleachodent Combination is not intended to act on the enamel in any way. Fine for the gums. Bleachodent Combination is widely used and recommended. Costs just a few cents, and money back if not delighted. Get it today at all good dealers, such as:

On With The Show

By ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1929, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"ON WITH THE SHOW," is the first 100% natural color, Vitaphone picture. It is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Willie Durant, financial backer for the stranded show, "Welcome Home," is friendly with Nita French, the star, but refuses to put up any more money. He is unsuccessfully attentive to Kitty, stage-struck check room girl, and induces her father, "Dad" Malone, stage doorman, and her sweetheart, Jimmy, head usher, to invest their life savings. Jimmy suggests robbing the box office to pay salaries. Jerry Connelly, the manager, accuses Durant of allowing the show to go broke in order to gain a hold over Kitty. They quarrel, and Jerry takes a revolver from Durant. The box office is robbed. Joe, the detective, suspects Jimmy.

CHAPTER VII—Continued

As soon as the detective had vanished into the corridor the manager turned his attention to Jimmy. He was determined to get the real truth boy he admitted that his actions had he had to admit that his actions had certainly been suspicious. Of course, Jimmy was sore at Durant on account of the older man's attentions to Kitty, and he had made that suggestion about holding up the box-office. Of course, with his own money and that of Kitty's father tied up in the show, he had plenty of reason, if such it could be called, for attempting this trick.

"Now, look here, Jimmy," the manager began. "I kept Joe off you to give you a chance. I like you and Kitty, but I like this show better. Now, come across with that dough and I'll cover you. But if you don't come across, I'll bust your neck."

"Jerry, I keep telling you I never done it," Jimmy looked piteously at his interrogator. "Honest, I ain't got the money."

"Well, where is it?" Jerry insisted.

"How should I know? I—" Jimmy stopped suddenly and stared, a dawning light of distrust and doubt registering plainly on his face. "Say, how do I know you didn't take the money yourself. I wouldn't be surprised if you was trying to cover up what you have done."

"Another crack like that and I'll slap you silly," Jerry shouted. "Why, you mug, you, can't you see I'm trying to get you out of a hole? You ought to be tickled pink. If I didn't need that cash so badly I'd turn you over to Joe and let him do his work, but for the sake of Kitty I'm being decent to you so you'd better—"

Jerry whirled about, as Kitty came up behind them. "Well, what is it?" he barked.

"It's Jimmy," Kitty announced. "Sam Bloom wants to see you in the box-office." She turned to the boy.

"What's he want?" Jimmy asked sullenly.

"Go on out and see," Jerry pushed the usher towards the stage box. "And remember," he called after him, "my offer stands until you come back. Get me?"

"Sure, I got you," Jimmy nodded.

"And don't forget to come back, either."

"I'll be back, all right," Jimmy nodded significantly. "And don't you go catching any trains to Canada while I'm gone."

The manager watched the boy go, a deep scowl furrowing his forehead. He hadn't got much further by questioning Jimmy. His eyes narrowed as he considered the various aspects of the situation. He thrust his hand deep into his pocket and his fingers tightened as they bumped against the cold steel of the revolver that rested there. He jumped nervously, startled at the sound of Kitty's voice.

"Jerry, they don't suspect Jimmy, do they?" Kitty breathed anxiously.

"Er—why, what put that silly notion into your head?" Jerry answered, trying to appear at ease.

"Oh, I don't know, everything is so mixed up. It's all a terrible mess. I've been trying to think of something that I could do."

"There's nothing you can do, Kitty."

"I'm not so sure about that. Maybe there is. This is a terrible thing to have happen. I've got to think about Dad and Jimmy both. It'll be awful if Dad loses all his money. I really don't mind so much, but I just couldn't bear to have anything happen to Dad. And I've been thinking there might be a way out for everybody, and that's what I wanted to talk to you about."

"Yes, well, what is it?" Jerry questioned skeptically.

"It's about Mr. Durant."

"Well, what about him?"

"It's this way, Jerry. I—well, I don't know exactly just how I can explain to you," Kitty hesitated. "but you know Mr. Durant has been sort of—I mean, he's been trying to be nice to me. I haven't paid any attention to him, because I don't like him so very much, but after all he has got money and he's the backer of this show. I was thinking maybe I could get him to help. Oh, I know what he wants—and so do you."

Jerry half checked a cry of amazement. "Now, look here," he seized the girl by the shoulders and shook her. "You forget all that rubbish. There aren't many sweet kids left and you stay that way. Get me? This show'll get along somehow without you making a blame fool of yourself. And if it doesn't it won't be the first show to go to the storehouse because the angel fell down on the job."

"Oh, but Jerry!" Kitty drew herself up to her full five feet, two inches and declaimed dramatically. "I might be able to make a slave of him without even letting him touch me."

"Where did you read that?" Jerry snorted. "It sounds like a line out of 'East Lynne.' Tear up the papers and give me the che-ld, snarled the villain."

"Oh, but Jerry, I'm serious," Kitty's eyes widened and she stamped her foot impatiently.

"Well, don't be serious," Jerry advised.

"Something's got to be done, and I've got to do it," Kitty argued. "I'm sure I could get what I want out of Durant just the way I said."

"The extent of your self-confidence is exceeded only by my big feet," Jerry retorted.

"Now, all joking aside. I know how these gold-diggers work," Kitty looked very wise. "I haven't been around a theatre for nothing. Why just last night I heard a couple of them, Says one, 'Lend me your lipstick, darling. Say, how's your new oyster?' Says the other, 'Looks like there's a pearl in it—he's promised me a Buick.' 'A Buick!' says the first. 'Listen, darling, if you drive up to my place in anything less than a Lincoln consider yourself a parcel and come in the back door.' Yes, sir, Jerry, I know how that racket works."

"Forget it, kid," Jerry shook his head. "Start pulling any gags like that around here and I'll—I'll make your Dad spank you. Just listen to that." He waved his hand toward the stage, where voices were lifted in dialogue. "What do we care for money?"

Kitty had to laugh as she listened. "Cynthia, darling, here's another trifling engagement present." She could hear Harold Astor speaking his lines. "Buy yourself a Rolls-Royce or a string of pearls."

"Oh, sweetheart, such generosity," came Cynthia's reply. "You've already given me so many magnificent presents."

"It's nothing. There's an inexhaustible supply where this comes from. Ah, here's Bertram with the tea. Now, if you don't mind I'll saunter down to the stables and look over the horses."

CHAPTER VIII

Harold made his exit into the wings, but as soon as he left the footlights his nonchalance deserted him. He gazed about frantically, and the moment he spied Jerry rushed to him, pulling a crumpled telegram from his pocket. Thrusting Kitty aside, he straightened out the yellow paper and held it in front of the manager.

"Look, Jerry, read this," he pointed to the telegram. "This is terrible. It's another wire from mother."

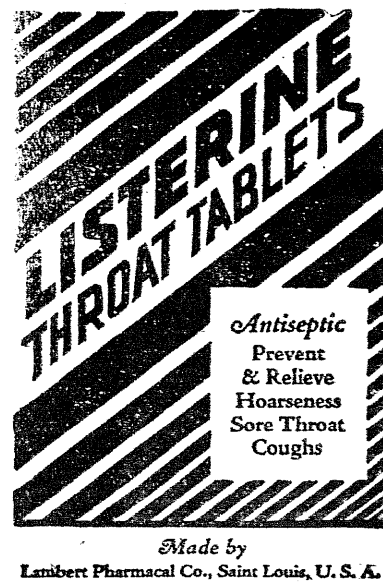

"Well, what's the matter now," Jerry sighed.

"Can't you read?" the juvenile demanded. "There was a mistake in mother's last wire. She's not down to her last ten dollars—"

"Good; maybe we can borrow some money from her," Jerry's face lighted up.

"Oh, please be serious," Harold moaned. "She's down to her last ten cents. That was the mistake. Jerry, I've simply got to send her some money. My nerves are terribly shaken. I missed two cues that last scene and I'm due back on in a minute. I'm not asking for much—two weeks' salary is all I need."

The Children's Corner

Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

A VERY OLD ART

The big touring car in which the children and Uncle Fred were riding came to a stop and they made their way on foot to the Indian camp where they would meet Sally Owl who made pottery for the reservation. Sally Owl could speak very good English. Uncle Fred had said, so the children could understand all the interesting things she had to tell them.

Sally Owl was delighted to meet the American children and she smiled her brightest Indian smile as she bowed to them. "I tell you how pottery made," said Sally Owl. "Very easy."

First she took some large lumps of hard clay and with a rude stone instrument she hammered and pounded until the lumps of clay had quite disappeared and in their stead was a big pile of soft powder.

"Now I put in water," said Sally Owl, kneading the water into the clay powder—with her feet. "Pure clay no good," said Sally Owl when she had finished this. "I put in some powdered shell and rock to keep from cracking or shrinking, and maybe a little sand."

When this was done, the next step was to make that pile of moistened clay dough into the pretty shapes of real Indian bowls and vases. "Indians do this for hundreds years," said Sally Owl, moving her quick fingers gently but firmly over a clay lump and gradually changing it from a round unlovely thing into a small graceful bowl like those the children often used for their cereal. Other bowls that Sally made were not entirely shaped by her fingers. She used pieces of gourd shells, shallow woven baskets or scooped out pieces of wood to shape them as she wished.

"No done yet," said Sally Owl. "Now I make them pretty. See!"

And before the children's wondering eyes, she took a piece of fabric that looked like an old flour sack, and gently wrapping the fabric around a bowl, she pressed it into the soft clay by means of cords wound round and over it in fancy designs. When she cut the cords after a minute or two, and again unwrapped the fabric, lo and behold there was a very lovely pattern clearly imprinted. Sally Owl laughed as she saw the children's surprised faces.

"Is it not easy?" she said. "Some tribes do not make their pottery pretty that way, but in others. Some in long ago times, used their finger nails to make the pictures, some big sharp pointed tools or spoon-like things or funny things called discs but I—I like to make them pretty with my cords and cloth. Tomorrow, when the bowls are dry, I show you how to put the color on. Will come tomorrow!"

"Oh yes," said the children eagerly. And when the sun came out next day the children were again at Sally Owl's.

Sally Owl took a large smooth pebble, and picking up one of the bowls she had made, which was now dry, began rubbing it quickly and lightly with the pebble. This she kept up for nearly half an hour, to polish it. "Now," she said, "we paint it." She had a paint brush made of horse hair and some paint that was a mixture of red clay with juices from berries and herbs added to give different shades. It was not long before Sally Owl had made her bowls very beautiful with soft rich tones of reds and oranges and greens and browns.

The next step was the baking process. Just as her grandmothers had done before her, Sally Owl, suspending her bowls one after the other in a shallow pan by means of a wooden tripod of poles tied together with vines and cords, over a low but very hot bed of coals, began to bake them slowly. "This our way," said she with that same merry twinkle in her

FUN WITH PAPER FOLDING

Tiny inch squares of purple colored paper and some green paper are all you need for this lovely hyacinth. The dotted lines show you where to make your folds in the squares and when you have folded both corners and center as they tell you to, the completed fold makes one of many petals for the flower. Make a lot of these and cut

THE GAME OF TWIRLS

This game requires quick thinking and running. Copy this diagram of the twirl, making it about six inches in diameter, then from it as a pattern make as many as ten. Cardboard that is pliable is the best to use. Color the twirls different colors and place on each a different number. These are for scoring. The captain, chosen by your players, throws all the twirls into the air, cutting them through the air towards the other players who are lined up at a given distance away. The one who catches the greatest number or whose total score is highest wins the game. The game is most fun played out of doors on a windy day.

eye, "other tribes do other ways. Some dig hole in ground and cover fire carefully so direct heat will not strike clay bowl; some put bowls in heap of coals and cover all over with red hot ones and leave long time! Firing, white people call it. Now pottery all ready for market!"

"Oh," sighed the children. "Isn't it wonderful? But they thought it still more wonderful when Sally Owl gave one bowl to each to take away for keeps."

a long green stem and leaf and you will make the hyacinth cluster. It is very pretty and lots of fun. Then a larger square (about six inches) of heavy waxed paper or brown paper will make first, a drinking cup, and next, if a much larger square (about twenty inches) is used, a handy sack to carry things from the woods. Here again the pictures tell you where to make the folds.

Little Theatre Group Holds A Meeting

The Little Theatre League organized by C. T. Roraback of Belleville, had its third meeting Thursday evening at the studio of the musical director, Henry Feustel at 6 Union avenue, Irvington.

The meeting was called to consider the names of new applicants. A new and original method is used for determining the talents of the new members. Instead of giving them the regular try-out methods individually they will be given a part in a scene with some one else, purely a stunt to bring out the best and do away with self-consciousness.

The question of plays was brought up and several considered. Every opportunity will be given the local writers, and every play or sketch submitted will be considered and either accepted or returned. Here is a chance for those who feel that their talents run to literature.

They have a band of their own, glee club and what not. Various parties have been enjoyed by the members. Miss McGinnis, history instructor of the High School, has turned the corner of her home room into a veritable picture gallery for her students. Most every time there is a cluster of students viewing these pictures with dignified interest.

Much thought is held for the Freshman, for with all the wild plans that are to be heard woe be unto the Freshman who ventures beyond the walled areas.

At the Friday morning assembly Principal Steel introduced to the students a Mr. McMann, champion rifle juggler since 1919 of the United States Marine Corps.

Question Is Raised On Field Pieces On Property Of Schools

Some Members Feel That War Would Be Taught Children

Whether the three captured German field pieces which Congressman Fred Hartley, Jr., has procured for the joint committee of Belleville American Legion and Private George A. Younginger Post, will be placed on school property is problematical.

Although the school board could reach no agreement in this connection Monday night at a regular meeting further discussion of the board members and joint committee will take place.

Two members of the board James L. DeRosset and Paul J. H. Hollberg voiced objection to placing the pieces on school property, Mr. Hollberg declaring it not appropriate and Mr. De Rosset seeking "peace at any price."

The question was raised as to whether the pieces on school property would not bring war thoughts too close to the minds of children.

"It would be a symbol of vengeance, an emblem of victory," said Mr. De Rosset.

President John P. Maher said he has the fullest faith in present peace plans and something must be done to commemorate the "sacrifice of our boys." He added he sees no reason why suitable inscriptions on the pieces would not be valuable from a historical viewpoint. Events of the war are chronicled in history books, he said.

Watson Current declared he does not condone war but sees no harm in the placing of the pieces.

George Cole represented the veterans. He said they would like to locate the pieces at Washington avenue and Greylock parkway, on a triangular plot opposite No. 10 School at Belleville and Franklin avenues and at School No. 1, Cortlandt street.

Business Manager James J. Turner and the Building and Grounds Committee were authorized to look into the cost of placing the high school swimming pool in proper condition.

The resignation of Miss Josephine Boltina as a teacher was accepted.

By a vote of twelve, to none opposed, the board was authorized by taxpayers to spend $9,000 to acquire land adjoining School No. 2 in Soho section for extension of that school.

St. Peter's Dramatic Club Has Rehearsal

St. Peter's Dramatic Club met last night to rehearse for their annual production which will take place at St. Peter's Auditorium, November 5.

The St. Peter's Dramatic Club composed at present, of nearly sixty young men and women, is to be congratulated for the work it has been doing during the past few years. Size is not always an indication of success but it is worthy of note that the attendance at their meetings as well as their program of entertainment, already having been worked out, speaks well for the continued interest manifested by all.

The two most prominent events being worked out at present are the Halloween social for the members exclusively in November to be followed a few nights later by the Musical Review, November 7 and 8. While it is a little early to secure more information that would be of any interest to the people constantly reading this paper, the club correspondent feels that within a week's time an up-to-the-minute resume of the performance of their features will be forthcoming and will of course be printed for the benefit of all.

Epworth League At W. M. E. Church

The attendance mark of fifty was nearly reached last Sunday at the evening devotional services of the Epworth League of Wesley Church. Forty two were present and from all indications of enthusiasm the fifty mark will be reached this coming Sunday. Miss Bernice LeCompte gave an absorbing talk on the subject: "How Shall We Choose Our Friends?" Next Sunday evening a general discussion will take place on "What Shall We Do On Sunday?"

Monday evening the regular monthly meeting of the league was held. President Leonard Memmott tendered his resignation due to the time which he is devoting to the Intermediate Department of the Sunday School as well as many other activities connected with the church.

This was accepted with regret as was likewise the resignation of Ruth Allaire as head of the fourth Department due to evening school work. Everett B. Smith was unanimously elected as President and spoke upon his belief in the continuance of the growth of the League and touched upon several means for the development of the group.

Martha Davenport was unanimously elected to take over the duties of the Fourth Department, that of social service worker. Miss Gladys Lindbloom was elected as assistant secretary and Alan Crisp was elected to assist in the Third Department which has charge of the recreational activities.

A mock trial was a feature of the evening followed by refreshments. Twenty-three were present.

Veterans Withdraw Request To Place Guns At Schools

Rather than embarrass the Board of Education, some of which objected to placing captured German Field pieces on school grounds, the joint committee from the American Legion Post and Veterans of Foreign Wars has decided to withdraw its request for the school locations. One of the pieces, which were given Belleville through efforts of Congressman Fred Hartley, Jr., will be placed Armistice Day evening with appropriate services at Greylock Parkway and Washington avenue.

Suppose, like most people, you buy about twelve tubes during a year. Now if you knew that you could buy as good a dentifrice as can be made and still save each year the price of 25 loaves of bread or 60 bars of soap or 40 pounds of sugar or a box of fine cigars—could you conscientiously fail to take advantage of such an opportunity?

That is exactly what you do when you buy Listerine Tooth Paste at 25c for a large tube. Figure it out for yourself.

FURTHERING OF WORLD PEACE GREATEST RESULT OF JAMBOREE BARCLAY SAYS ON HIS RETURN

Proud Of American Delegation And Leaders At Greatest Conclave Of Scouts; Last Of Official Jamboree Scouts Return With Leader

Still thrilled with the part that the Boy Scouts of America played in the greatest gathering of boys in the history of the world, Lorne W. Barclay, Executive Officer of the American Contingent of the World Scout Jamboree held at Birkenhead, England, last summer arrived in New York aboard the "Adriatic" on September 30 with Scout Goddard Light of Detroit, who was the last home-comer of the 1,300 Boy Scout Argonauts who sailed away in July for the World Jamboree.

No Disorder

The World Scout Jamboree has done much to further international understanding among boys of all nationalities according to Mr. Barclay. "As Executive Officer of the American Contingent I did not see or hear of one case of disorder or even of an international misunderstanding in any of the camps, although there were Scouts present from more than seventy different lands including the protectorates of the British Empire. The boys chummed with one another during the entire duration of the Jamboree. We had planned ways and means of getting them to visit but we didn't have to use them. It seemed to be the natural thing to do," he said.

Proud of Americans

"I was very proud of the American delegation and all of the leaders. Every American who saw the contingent thrilled with pride at the high standards of excellence set by the American Scouts in every endeavor. It was our good fortune to lead in the parades and pageants because of our Alphabetical designation "America" which placed us at the head of the line. That was the reason we were always first. The Jamboree was probably the largest demonstration of unified world brotherhood that the nations of the world have ever witnessed and a foundation was laid for international good will that should bear much fruit in the years to come.

"Now that I have arrived at home the one thing that remains in my mind is the fact that America must make her own case for international peace before the bar of the world. We should not argue any longer about the supremacy of America but should concentrate on achievement and brotherhood. A citizen ready for service and willing to extend the hand of fellowship is the greatest guarantee that the world can have of a nation's readiness to share the responsibility of international peace and good will."

Goddard Light Returns

Goddard Light, sixteen, a member of Troop No. 8 of Detroit, the homecoming Boy Scout, never saw the Jamboree but had, as he expressed it recently a "wonderful time," abroad. Light contracted diphtheria on the way to Europe and on landing at Liverpool was rushed to a hospital where he was ill for nearly two months. His life was at one time despaired of. As he recuperated he was visited by many of the leading dignitaries of the Jamboree, including Lord Robert Baden Powell, who invited him, when he should be out of the hospital to visit at Pax Hill, Lord Baden-Powell's place outside London. Light spent three days at Pax Hill and then was driven down to London in "Jam-Roll" the famous Rolls Royce presented to Lord Baden-Powell at the Jamboree by the Scouts of the world. He spent several days in London and then found his way to Paris where he saw the Tomb of Napoleon, climbed the Eiffel Tower and did all of the other things that a young American boy in Paris would like to do.

AID AT DEDICATION

When the City of Danville, Ill., dedicated the new airport established through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, Boy Scouts were asked to undertake the maintenance of traffic on the field, the direction of the and the maintenance of a First Aid Tent on both days—a Saturday and Sunday—during which the dedication ceremonies took place. Over twelve thousand persons visited the field on two days and the Scouts faithfully carried out the tasks assigned to them. Traffic was kept on the move due to the thorough cooperation of the public with the Scouts. Three calls only were made on the First Aid Tent which was maintained by boys from Troop No. 4 but service was rendered in case. During the celebration one plane crashed, without, however, casualties to either passenger or pilot. Scouts surrounded the plane and protected it from curious spectators and souvenir hunters. The boys received much praise for their efforts.

Mathematical Science Is Source Of New Hupp 8 Style Theme

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 17.—Moving pictures, mathematical science, sports and the animal kingdom—all played conspicuous parts in originating the body and decorative design of the new 1930 Huppmobile 100 Horsepower Straight Eight.

These startling facts are revealed today by the Hupp Motor Car Corporation in response to a widespread demand for information on the source of the new car's striking design.

In designing the new car, Hupp engineers believed that the motor buying public wanted a car sufficiently individualistic as to be entirely new, yet still not appear freakish in appearance. The influence of the moving picture industry, they reasoned, had brought new tastes and new ideals in art and design to millions. The best of American and European directors and stage designers had given new impetus to modes in America.

With popular tastes so greatly elevated, why not bring to motorists the same discrimination in their motor car that was used in their home? Thus did the influence of Hollywood enter into the new car.

Geometry Furnishes Theme
Agreed that popular taste demanded something new and different, the designing engineers turned to the source of the fundamental design.

Uniformity of motif had been determined upon—a single theme should subtly dominate the new car and all its fittings.

The engineers realized that every possibility had been exhausted from the animal and vegetable kingdoms—the source of all automobile design since automobiles were first introduced. There was no newness, no freshness left. The design must come from elsewhere.

Mathematical science furnished the answer. Geometry dealt primarily with lines, angles and solids. It was essentially a science of simplicity. Alone, the engineers decided, a single, flat plane was of small decorative value. But in composition, with one plane superimposed upon another, there appeared an integral design. This new design was not only vividly beautiful, but it was easily adaptable. It could be used throughout the car.

And thus did the obsolete designs originating in the animal and vegetable kingdoms disappear to be replaced by a simple innovation from the scientific world.

Throughout the car is this design apparent. It appears on the bumper attachments, on head and parking light rims and on the face mountings of the latter. The radiator cap has the same design, while the radiator emblem carries three superimposed triangles. Even the door handles bear the same superimposed bars of facets.

Interiorly, all fittings bear this modernistic motif. One of the first lady purchasers of the new car remarked that this new design theme reminded her of the baguettes used in decorating the finest and most exclusive jewelry.

Among the interior fittings bearing this design are included steering wheel spokes and center, instrument panel, instrument board openings and lamp, instrument board proper, accelerator pedal, all interior hardware, windshield control crank, rear quarter lights, dome light switch plates, garnish mouldings, robe rail attachments and foot rail brackets.

Wherever possible this single decorative scheme has been utilized to create a unified and symphonious whole.

In body design the new 1930 Huppmobile Eight likewise presents a distinct innovation. In it Hupp engineers have again taken a page from mathematical science.

Instead of the conventional bulkiness of straight flat backs and abbreviated visors, a new note in lines and planes is used.

On the Sedan and Town Sedan the windshield visor has been lengthened. It is no longer rudely chopped off. Instead it is gracefully extended, with the center line being smartly peaked. The effect of this new line is to almost imperceptibly divide the body into two similar planes.

This median line is more noticeably emphasized in the rear of the bodies. Here the median line is picked up at the rear of the roof top and extended downward through the rear quarter panel. To even further carry out this median line effect the lower edge of the single rear quarter panel has been smartly flared to the rear to complement the rear fender sweep.

Sports influenced the design of the new Huppmobile Eight particularly in the Coupe and convertible Cabriolet. The sloped rear decks of these two cars followed in general lines the tapering hull of speed boats while the median line extends downward to the end of the rear deck, another curved moulding line swings together on the deck from the body head on either side of the car. Although visorless, the front roof coping of these two models are smartly extended to a brief point.

The origin and development of the new car, the company states, marks the culmination of an industry-wide search for a new yet not radical departure from conventional body design, and incorporates the best efforts of the modern school of art and decoration.

Motorists Versed In Finer Points Of Automobiles

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 24.—America as a nation of mechanical students, versed in the finer points of modern engineering and highly appreciative of every advanced step and economic development made by the automobile industry, unrolled itself strikingly before officials of The Nash Company today.

The significant alertness and understanding of present day motorists was instantly apparent when C. H. Bliss, general sales manager, made a final analysis of the written comments which have poured in from every section of the country following introduction of the new Nash Twin-Ignition Eight and the Twin-Ignition Six and Single Six—its companion cars of the company's "400" Series for 1930.

Contrasting vividly with the public interest which a few short years ago centered in relative car speeds, "looks" and obvious features, the wide range of intelligent approval and comment which has come to Nash on the new car announcement tide and in reply to the thousands of personal letters addressed by President C. W. Nash to owners of his original "400" Series cars, have engineering advancements, motor refinements and performance superlatives as their major subjects. Not one of the many mechanical advancements, such as dual manifold as adapted to twin-ignition operation in the New Eight, perfected cable operation of the new internal four-wheel brakes, integral counterbalancing of the new nine-bearing crankshaft and co-ordination of appointments and equipment to the individual needs of all of the new cars, has escaped the expert public eye.

"Good looks and ample speed are essentials taken for granted by the majority of motor-minded people who have joined in this hearty response to the latest Nash achievement," Mr. Bliss declared. "It is both gratifying and a mark of the times to note that both men and women motorists who turned out in record numbers to see the new Nash line looked deeply under the hood and into every new engineering feature after approving the advanced quality in appearance, body lines and appointments that form the first impression of the '400's' for 1930.

In a number of cases the introduction audiences made a point of the Nash merchandising policy which reduced prices on the original "400" Series far in advance of new car introduction in order to eliminate owner loss through depreciation. One comment pointed out that, irrespective of the wonderful mechanical and appearance achievements in the new cars, a big feature is the fact that Nash has not depreciated the investments of present Nash owners by this introduction.

"We feel that the greatest public and merchandising advantages of this new and perfected Nash line lies primarily in their unmatched engineering and performance achievements and that exclusive features should give our organization an opportunity to secure a much greater volume of business during the coming year than was enjoyed last year. All of the comments we have received indicate that another sweeping success is in store for the Nash business family."

"Public Servant Of A Great State" At Wesley M. E. Church

"The Public Servant of a Great State," an interesting motion picture, will be shown at Wesley M. E. Church on Monday evening, under the auspices of the Wesley Men's Club, at 8:30 sharp.

Many of the scenes in this picture were taken from an aeroplane flying at different altitudes above Newark, Camden, Paterson, Jersey City and other population centers in New Jersey and give unique views of the State's cities.

Among the many pictures shown are views of the inside of Kearny Station, the latest and largest of Public Service's five electric generating stations, showing the equipment and important operations necessary to produce 260,000 H. P. of electric energy.

The method of manufacturing water gas used at the new Harrison Gas Works, one of the largest and most efficient water plants in this country, is depicted, and interesting pictures of the Camden Coke Plant, showing night and day operation in the production of coal gas and coke are presented.

The growth and development of the Public Service transportation system, especially in the field of the motor bus, has been graphically illustrated by pictures of bus operation, as well as of the plant and equipment necessary to maintain and operate its fleet of over 2,000 buses.

Memorial Service Was Held Sunday For Rupert Mills

There was an overflowing audience at the memorial service in honor of the late Undersheriff Rupert F. Mills, Sunday afternoon between 3 and 5 in the Newark Elks Lodge Room.

Mr. Mills, who was Republican candidate for sheriff, was drowned July 20 in Lake Hopatcong when he became exhausted in trying to save Louis Freeman after their canoe upset. Mr. Freeman was rescued.

State Senator Wolber delivered the eulogy. Judge Walter D. Van Riper talked in behalf of the county. Captain George P. Dougherty, chaplain of Essex Troop, described Mr. Mills' life as a soldier. Rev. Matthew Toohey, chaplain of the police department, opened the service with a prayer and Rabbi Solomon Foster brought it to a close.

Uniformed Ushers
Essex Troop supplied ushers in uniforms and provided vocal soloists. Harry E. Huelsenbeck, son of Harry L. Huelsenbeck, who succeeded Mr. Mills on the Republican slate and who has been active in arranging the memorial, played the organ. The bugler of Troop A, which Mr. Mills commanded, sounded taps.

The services were planned by the Essex Troop Post 160, American Legion. Philip Klein, president of the association, acted as chairman of the committee. The association has 1,200 members and all received notices to attend. The services were opened to the public and from 3:30 to 4:45 P. M. it was broadcast over WGCP.

Musical Program To Feature Sunday At Wesley Church

Ten-Year-Old Evangelist Is Scheduled For Sunday November 3.

An elaborate musical program will feature the Sunday morning service at Wesley M. E. Church at 10:45. Rev. Edgar M. Compton will deliver one of his usual stirring messages. As usual the Sunday School session will be at noon, Epworth League devotional meeting at 7 o'clock and evening service at 7:45.

An evening of special note will be on Sunday, November 3, when Helen Smith, ten-year-old evangelist, who has addressed large audiences wherever she has appeared, will be the guest speaker of the evening under the auspices of the Epworth League. Miss Smith, who resides in Brooklyn, has spoken on many occasions at the Newark Tabernacle, Bloomfield avenue, and is known throughout the metropolitan area. It will behoove everyone to take this opportunity of hearing one of the youngest evangelists in the country and her interesting message.

Last Sunday morning Rev. Compton spoke on "I am the Light of the World," and during the address fittingly spoke of the achievements of Thomas A. Edison on the anniversary of the celebration of the completing of the first practical incandescent lamp. Girl Scout Troop No. 3, accompanied by Mrs. Holden, scout commissioner of Belleville, were welcomed at the service. The scout oath, salute and laws were given and all sang "America." Miss Jean Tallman, accompanied by Miss Wurmthman, organist, rendered a violin solo, "Traumeri," by Schumann. At the evening service a choir of fourteen aided in the musical service. Mrs. C. Wellington Phillips rendered a violin obligato. There were likewise pleasing vocal solos, both morning and evening.

Tuesday of next week, the fast growing and lively group known as the Young Women's Auxiliary have planned for a fine Halloween party with all decorations and festivities surrounding such an affair. A large attendance is expected.

Committees are at work planning for the annual church fair which will hold forth for two days, November 14 and 15, and which promises to be on a larger scale than ever before.

2 Adventurous Boys Found By Patrolman

Runaways From Lodi Orphanage "Wanted To See World"

Leo Kozak, 12, and his brother Paul, 7, not only are of adventurous dispositions, but they have highly developed imaginations, as the police discovered Sunday.

Patrolman Lukowiak found the lads wandering along Washington avenue, Sunday morning, and asked them where they were going. They told him a pitiful story.

On Friday, they said, they went with their mother to witness the burial of their sister in Ridgeland Cemetery, Delaware, and became separated from her. Lost, they said, they roamed about, sleeping in the woods Friday and Saturday nights.

The police doubted this tale, because the boys' clothing looked too fresh and their faces showed no evidence of hunger. The lads finally admitted they had run away from the Immaculate Conception Orphanage, Lodi, Sunday morning and were on their way "to see the world."

The brothers were turned over to the Lodi police, who escorted them back to the orphanage.

FLOOD CONTROL COMMISSION PLANS FOR PERMANENT RELIEF IN THE PASSAIC VALLEY

More than 400 invitations mailed to Mayors, Councilmen, Boards of Freeholders and County Engineers in Essex, Hudson, Bergen, Morris, Union, Passaic and Somerset counties have been accepted to attend the Flood Control Conference to be held in the Municipal Building at Montclair, tonight, at 8 P. M.

The many municipalities of Northern New Jersey situated in the flood area have shown extraordinary interest toward this conference to be held at Montclair when all data and information from the various Cities, Boroughs and Townships will be discussed.

An excellent opportunity will be given to all who have any ideas as to the best means to overcome this serious problem and as to the best method of financing it. It will be well for a representative of the official family of every municipality in Northern New Jersey to be present at this conference so that a thorough understanding may be arrived at and proper legislation secured at the next session of the Legislature.

Unless the flood waters of the Upper Passaic are harnessed recurring disasters may be looked for and aside from the loss of life and property, paralyzed industry and suspended traffic, the question of growth and

SAYS COMMISSION DELUDED BY SPACIOUS ARGUMENT FOR ZONE REVISION COMMITTEE

Dear Sir:

The Resolution now being acted upon by the Board of Commissioners of the Town of Belleville, empowering the Mayor to appoint a Zoning Revision Commission, is the beginning of another attempt, others having failed, to nullify the vote of the people in favor of the Zoning Amendment to the Constitution, which they adopted by an enormous majority, feeling in which they were protecting their property from the invasion of depreciating buildings.

The commissioners whose vote enabled the resolution to pass its first reading, have by spacious argument again been deluded, as they were in the case of the factory in the Bellevue Park section. All of which will appear in due course.

The motives behind this movement are to attempt to throw open the entire residential section of one and two family dwellings in Belleville for development by tenement houses, mis-called "apartments." If it suc-

Shots Fired In Chase, Trio Quit Car, Escape

Sergeant John Somoracki of Nutley, while making his rounds early Saturday morning, noticed a car with three occupants turn into Wharton avenue from Passaic avenue. Suspicious, Somoracki followed the car, which went through Wharton avenue to Kingsland road.

The car stopped in Kingsland road near Washington avenue and three men jumped out and fled across the golf links which border Kingsland road near Washington avenue.

Somoracki fired two shots into the air but the three escaped. Somoracki notified headquaters and Patrolmen William Wallace, William Johnson, Thomas Lorenzo, Edward Neidzinski and Peter Somoracki searched the neighborhood, but were unable to trace the trio.

The car was taken to police headquarters.

Several hours later Frank Sankovick of 341 Gregory avenue, Passaic, claimed the car, which he said was stolen in Passaic the night before.

"Once" There Was Wemec Dramatic Club Forthcoming Play

"Once There Was . . ." has everyone guessing it seems, as to just what this play, selected for the fall production of the WEMEC Dramatic Club of Wesley M. E. Church, is all about. It is known to be a romantic comedy and consists of a prologue, three acts and a short epilogue, and following this the guessing begins. Thus it might remain a "mystery" play as well, but that would be leaving too much in the dark. Accordingly some of the background of the play will be interesting to note.

The setting for the prologue is a room in an Italian palace in Rome. The action of the remainder of the play takes place in a comfortable though straitened village home in Indiana. The author of this play, Juliet Wilbur Tompkins make the most of the ways of rural townfolk in bringing an abundance of comedy and wit before the audience as well as injecting a pleasing romance which threads its way throughout.

Those who witnessed the first production of the Club "Kempy," three years ago, will recall the possibilities of a play with a rural background and under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Tempest there is considerable progress being made at regular rehearsals several times each week.

All business committees are not only reporting progress but are showing an amount of zest which augurs well for this side of the coming production. The ticket chairman has let it be known that over three hundred tickets have been sold outright to date. The Club members are making an effort to sell the tickets far in advance in order that all may reserve the evening of November 22 for this fourth production at the High School. This year the reserved seats will be on sale at Kristenson's much earlier than usual, purchases or exchanges being made possible on and after next Saturday November 2.

Local Man Composes New Patriotic Song

A new song, "All Hail the Starry Banner," was sung for the first time at Grace Baptist Church Sunday evening by Mrs. Elizabeth Buchanan. She was accompanied by George Ennis, pianist, and George Snodgrass, violinist. The song was sung from manuscript and was well received. The writer of both the words and music is John Murray, who lives at 123 Bell street.

The song is written in four-four time and has a range of one octave from D to D. The composer intends to have it published in the near future. Patriotic organizations who desire to hear it may communicate with the writer or Mr. Buchanan, 279 Greylock parkway.

The words of the first two verses and chorus follow:

1. All hail the Starry Banner
O'er mountain, vale and sea
The Emblem of our Nation
Of home and liberty.
George Washington and Lincoln
Were heroes brave and true
Who fought for you "Old Glory"
The red and the white and blue.

Chorus—

All hail the Starry Banner
O'er mountain, vale and sea
All hail the Starry Banner
And the home of the brave and free.
2. All hail the Starry Banner
The flag that made us free
No traitor shall assail thee
To none we'll bend the knee.
We love to see thee floating
The stars and stripes on high
We love you now and ever
We'll love you till we die.
The flag that made us free

BELLEVILLE AND THE ERIE

Possession by a municipality of such leverage as Commissioner Carragher of Belleville believes that town can apply to the Erie Railroad, should be an important factor toward securing co-operation from the company in town betterment, or at least toward preventing the creation of a nuisance, says the Newark Star Eagle.

When residents of a section along the railway objected to a lease by the company of property which would be put to unsightly use, the commissioner may have delineated the cure when he commented with concise significance: "All the Erie's tracks in Belleville are above the street grade; it would cost the railroad $50,000 to lower the tracks; all we have to do is to tell them this; then watch the tanks (the cause of the objections) disappear."

That kind of logic is cold and hard and perhaps a bit brutal, but there are times when it is the only kind that can be effective. If the facts be as the commissioner construes them, the company may be inclined to build up a good reputation better than it has as a good neighbor, the paper concludes.

THE NEW BIOGRAPHY

When biography jumped into first place in the non-fiction book lists is was often prophesied that it would not stay there long. Yet that was several years ago, and biography is still going strong. Glancing through announcements of new books, we find studies of Frederick the Great, Queen Elizabeth, Alexandre Dumas, LaFayette, Carry Nation, Steinmetz, Weir, Mitchell, Marie Antoinette, Daniel Webster, Lorenzo the Magnificent, Jefferson, Sam Houston and a dozen others.

Most of these are done in the new manner, writing the story of a man's or woman's life as though it were fiction, playing up the startling or fantastic at the expense of the dull. It makes exciting reading. But does this new biography give as true a picture as the old-fashioned and less sensational sort? More people read it, but is it a gain to have more readers if they have a warped viewpoint?

THE IDEAL EXECUTIVE

The chief quality of the true executive is his ability to attract real talent to his aid. A man who can associate with himself the best men in their line is the successful executive. In order to attract the best men, he, himself, must have an attractive personality. He must be able to associate with men in such a manner as to make them happy. Most men who have proved successes as executives are not the hardest working men or the most given to detail, but rather the men with whom and for whom an organization will work comfortably.

A USEFUL CONTEST

While not so spectacular as many other aviation developments, the public will be interested in the gratifying response to the invitation to enter a safe-aircraft competition, sponsored by the Guggenheim Fund. The list has closed with twenty-five entries accepted and five pending. The prize offers of $150,000 are generous enough to prompt aircraft manufacturers of the United States, Great Britain and Italy to compete.

The chief prize of $1,000,000 is for the airplane showing the greatest advance in aero-dynamic safety without loss of efficiency. Since there is certainly nothing in which the public and the industry should be more concerned, the tests, which close October 31, will be followed both in this country and abroad with hope that inventive genius will prove able to meet the present greatest need of aviation—safety.

Progress has been made in developing planes of tremendous speed. Lifting power has been steadily increased and range of flight extended, so that with refueling flights across the continent are made without serious difficulty. Pilots have become more skilled and the country is now dotted with landing fields. But the tragedies of the air are still so shocking as to constitute a big stumbling block to making the public "air-minded."

This can come about only by demonstration that air transportation need not be hazardous as frequent disasters now show it to be. If the Guggenheim contest can point the way to solution of the safety problem it will give the greatest possible impetus to aviation.

An old physician, now gone to his long rest, used to say, "Nature will not have her toes stepped on too many times without taking revenge." How often we think of his words in these days of action and endeavor when the body is driven far beyond its strength and every nerve is strained to breaking point. The dear old doctor of another day plodding along in his chaise or sleigh knew little of the mad traffic of this strenuous generation. But his experienced vision read the truth and the prophecy aright. We heard a man say that he never took a vacation. He looked it. His face was drawn and lined with care. His eyes peered through thick-lensed glasses. His nervous hands picked and clutched like talons at his task. He had never taken a vacation of an hour or a day. Nature had not forgotten and in some fatal hour she would exact terrific toll. "She will not have her toes stepped on too many times without taking revenge."

We who are acquiring wealth, honor or fame at the expense of our long-suffering bodies must some day pay the price. There are so many beautiful things in the world to see; so many wonderful sounds to hear. If we do not use this marvellous sense of eye and ear in the twenty-four hours we have lost that day. No one is so foolhardy as the man who never takes time for happiness thinking that he will have opportunity to seek it after awhile. If we really wish to be kind to Nature we must be happy and in order to do so we must mix our work with a little play. By that we do not mean to be foolish or reckless or extravagant. But just to give those tortured nerves a little relief, that aching head a different thought, that weary body a welcome relaxation. So doing you will find health and success instead of paralysis and nervous evidences of the revenge which Nature takes on those who dare to step too often on her long-suffering toes.

Harry Brown, Editor of the Gainesville (Florida) Daily Sun, says: That the newspaper publisher guilty of encouraging further excess competition among retailers in the hope of creating fresh sources of advertising is not using common sense. The average small merchant cannot see the value of advertising because of the limited and more or less fixed scope of his patronage territory.

In one Florida town of about ten thousand population there were at one time sixty grocery stores. Changed conditions have reduced the population of that community to eight thousand, but now there are only fourteen grocery stores. When there were sixty the local newspapers carried not more than four of five grocery advertisements; today, with the fewer number of stores, nine and sometimes eleven grocers are using space and without foolish and wasteful cutting of prices.

From the newspaper angle, publishers are better off in communities where ruinous competition does not prevail. Half-starved merchants cannot be expected to develop into profitable advertising patrons.

Citizen Cites

It's the bachelor who gets a loud laugh out of some poor married man's moan about back-seat driving.

"Marriage," said the philosopher, "is like a railroad sign. When you see a pretty girl you stop; then you look, and after you've married, you listen."

There are few things in life more difficult of accomplishment than for a girl to look intellectual while she is chewing gum.

Some of the world's most beautiful air castles have been built by men who knew nothing of carpentry.

The only people who refuse to hear the other side are those who know it all and those who don't want to learn.

It costs a lot to keep the children in college, but it's worth that much to shift the responsibility for four years.

People who ask foolish questions should not be particular about the answers they get.

Don't be content with doing only your duty. Do more than your duty. It is the horse who finishes a neck ahead who wins the race.

Nothing makes a calamity proper so angry as to have his forecast fail to come true.

Happiness is the halfway stop between too much and too little.

Scout Troops Hold Court Of Honor

In a colorful, hour and a half program last Friday evening at the high school auditorium, the various local troops of Boy Scouts staged their district Court of Honor.

With Charles L. Steel, Jr., principal of the local high school, presiding, the Scouts opened their program right with some fellowship singing led by John Ray, accompanied at the piano by Benjamin Cullen.

The formal presentation of colors then followed, after which Frank Holmes, Scoutmaster of Troop No. 89 of the Belleville Reformed Church, led the huge Scout representation present in their Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and the repeating of their Scout oath and laws.

As if in proof of Scout harmony and cooperation the next number on the program was a saxophone duet by Scouts George Price and Charles Cummings of different local troops. They were accompanied at the piano by Willard Thatcher. This pleasing feature ended Part 1 of the program. The second part consisted of an Arch of Achievement Ceremony, in which members of various troops were rewarded for their valor, industry and other meritorious contributions to scout life. This section, incidentally, was the main feature of the program.

The presentation of Eagle awards headed the list of awards for the recognition of achievement. To be an Eagle Scout is the aim and ambition of every true Scout and the three recipients of this high award received the admiring glances of the many Scouts present. Edward Yerg, president of the Belleville Rotary Club, made the presentations to Robert Dussler, Troop 4, William Brumbach, Troop 4, and Alfred Cocks, Troop 50.

Next on the list were the Life awards formally presented by Thomas W. Fleming, Commander of the local American Legion post to Alfred Cocks and William Brumbach, who had previously received Eagle awards, as well as to Charles Smith and Clark Albery.

John P. Maher, president of the Belleville Board of Education, closed the second section of the program with a presentation of the Star award to Thomas J. Gaffney.

The initial feature of the third and final part of the program was a troop demonstration staged by members of Troop 4.

After this delightful exhibition Assistant Scoutmaster Carl G. Hock of Troop 50 was presented with a ten year veteran award, emblematic of the Boy Scouts' appreciation of his faithfulness. John Ray next attended to the presentation of the Merit Badges to the numerous deserving members of the various local troops.

As a final "dessert" William Tiley a likable entertainer, amused his appreciative audience with a fifteen minute skit.

Promptly at 9:30 taps was sounded to the retiring of the colors.

The Court of Honor then broke up with every Scout leaving, secure in his belief that it was the best ever.

Corbin D. Lewis From Hill Gives Sidelight Of College Freshman

Corbin D. Lewis of 27 Tiona avenue, president of the Hillcrest Tennis Club when interviewed this week, gave us an interesting sidelight of the effect of college on a freshman.

He said, "You are part of a new world—a world of greater freedom. You are rather stunned by the change. Humanity has suddenly contracted from the globe to the college campus."

"At the first meal in the commons you look inquiringly around at the people. The thing that strikes you is how dreadfully commonplace they all look. Here is a fellow making an unsuccessful attempt at raising a moustache; and another with his napkin still unfolded telling of his experiences in high society; the fellow with a cackle laugh seems to be tremendously moved by some ordinarily unlaughable joke; and a young chap with few hairs on his head, and a grouchy fellow sporting a celluloid collar, and an aimless looking individual wearing those heavy tortoise shell glasses as a camouflage for intellectuality.

"Then a trip around the class rooms reveals the un-ending stock of grating peculiarities that belong to the professors. One with a shrill piercing voice, one with an almost pitiless laugh, and still another with a "one department" attitude."

Mr. Lewis was sure that the average freshman instinctively becomes accustomed to these people and discovers that they are really not so bad. In a lighter vein he declared that the freshman realizes that the human species is ugly and that a collection of strange, new human creatures is just as curious as a zoo full of armadillos, condors, parrots and polar bears. And then he laughingly said, "You look in the glass and find that you are one of them."

Ruth Rhoem was among a galaxy of fair debutantes.

John Marwede was greedy. He was seen escorting two beauties to the stands. Two, no less.

Les Armour, recent football star of Lebanon Valley College, in home from there permanently. He will attend Newark Prep school this winter. A collegiate hat decked his scone.

Charles Smith came with a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith. His son is better known as "Sonny."

James Lynch road to the game with his father, James Lynch, Sr., James, Jr. is the lad with the goggles.

The five Belleville cheer-leaders, who worked very strenuously, were Jack Smeltz, Lawton Cox, George Biller, Ina Belle Collins, and Viola Sautter.

Joe Evangelista brought his trick handkerchief with him. This consists of a small and very dirty silk handkerchief attached to an elongated, heavy chain, the type which is usually fastened around the neck of a dog.

Mr. Folsom and Mrs. Van Derveer represented the high school faculty at the game. Principal Charles L. Steel, Jr., was away witnessing the Pennsylvania-California contest.

Charles Bakalian, Eddie Vance and Dick Enright represented the Tau Epsilon chapter of the Phi Sigma Chi of Belleville.

John P. Maher was active before the game in seeing that news representatives got passes. He attended the game with his son, John, Jr.

The Burke's Colts are unanimous in their opinion that "Mull" Travers certainly likes publicity. We haven't missed his name for six weeks.

The Lamb Trio, Art, Dave and Mac, did not perform at the game because they are not the far-famed trio of the early morning WJZ program. We also saw Russell there.

James Casey's red hair was displayed gloriously to the breeze.

Bob Cole had his mascot, a small Boston bull, decked out in a golden jersey. The dog attracted much attention at the game.

Marion and Elizabeth Wortman are still tanned from their summer at Budd Lake.

Jay Suderly and "Bus" McCarthy, elite members of the Panther tribe, rooted strenuously for Belleville.

Tom Van Over represented the seventy pound Preston football aggregation.

Mike Hummel was given a hearty raspberry by the Belleville rooters, who recognized him from a previous game.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Fleming represented the younger married couples.

Charles Knowles drove his new Ford sedan in style to the game.

Fritz Baureis came with the same girl to the second game in succession. Good work, Fritz, keep it up!

Florence D'Elia and Virginia Short have brothers on the team. They saw their illustrious fraters do good work.

The police department was represented by Ray "Square" Demgard, Harry Scott, Jimmy Anderson and the above mentioned "Bob" Anderson.

Lloyd "Milo" Salters watched the game sadly from the sidelines because he was not in uniform.

Robert Haythorne and Bill McKnight promised to have a good band out for the Boonton game, being members of the local high school band.

Russell Gaston, former Belleville High mentor, was the head linesman at the game.

Henry Haffner added class to the Belleville contingent with his Packard.

James L. DeRosset, a member of the Board of Education, cheered lustily.

Patrick Burns and "Red" Kent represented the Hoople Club.

The following couples were present: Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Armour, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wortman, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Schreyer, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Berry and Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Blank.

The young men present were: Gerard Rhoades, Joe Degelo, Cecil and George Haslam, James Lynch, Billy Gray, John Bakalian, Walter Williams, James Kinneally, Victor Green, Irving Weyant, Art Dopf, Fred Landers, Francis Phelps, Howard Schreyer, John Dear, Bob Shriver, Harold Ford, Sylvester Taylor, Charles Perry, Bob Geller, Watson Current, Jr., Percy Karrer and Ray Weyer.

The young ladies present were: Marjorie Davis, Marjorie Haslam, Regina Lynch, Beatrice Vogel, Edythe Fohert, Ruth Lloyd, June Young, Helen Peck, Marguerite Wharton, Margaret Nourse, Maude Kelsall, Edith Pesveye, Ruth Heller, Eleanor Jamouneau, Grace Harvey, Helen Leiss, and Edith Minard.

Some of the men present at the game were Billy Wells, Pat Dunn, George Cole, George R. Gerard, A. B. Williams, Cecil Gerard, Ray Mertz, Edgar King and Larry Sturchio.

The Menlo Park Lamp

By making the incandescent electric light possible, Thomas A. Edison started the electrical industry on its road of usefulness.

LIGHT'S GOLDEN JUBILEE

Celebrating FIFTY Years of Progress

SERVICE!

Fifty years ago at Menlo Park in this State of New Jersey, Thomas A. Edison, after a long period of intensive experimentation, produced a commercially practicable electric incandescent lamp.

Taken with his development of a workable system of electrical generation and distribution, Mr. Edison's invention was the foundation stone upon which has been reared the stupendous structure of today's electrical service with its universal benefits.

There is no one of us who has not profited, whose life has not been made easier and whose opportunity for enjoyment has not been broadened, because the genius and untiring energy of Thomas A. Edison started on its way to successful accomplishment an industry whose record of achievement is an important part of the history of American economic development.

The tribute that the entire world is paying to Mr. Edison on the occasion of Light's Golden Jubilee is a well merited recognition of the service that this great inventor has performed for mankind.

Doings in the Field of Sports

This Whirl Of Sport

By Arthur Bloemke

As if mindful of every football fan's craving for variety, the Belleville High grid machine, fresh from an artistic triumph over Roselle Park the Saturday before, in which skillful and strategic football tactics were the order of the day, handed Ridgewood a 13-0 trimming last Saturday in as thrilling a contest as any one would want to see.

Get the picture—The ball on Belleville's twenty-one yard line in Ridgewood's possession after a steady march down the field. The Belleville line holding as it never did before, grimly aware of Short's heart-breaking, disallowed touchdown, made after a brilliant 60-yard run but a moment before. A few seconds left of the half, every member of the Bell-boy cast tense, alert, waiting to seize any slight opportunity that there might be offered. It was a perfect setting for what followed.

Then came the break—Jennings, Ridgewood back, who had been the main cog in his team's irresistible march down the field a minute before, decided to throw a forward pass. The result of his decision was a spiral into the waiting arms of Short, who promptly galloped seventy-nine yards, almost the entire length of the field, for Belleville's initial touchdown. A few sub-titles and this would be a perfect nucleus for a movie thriller.

Other thrills were also in abundance to add zest to the pleasant afternoon spent by the many Belleville rooters in attendance.

Out of all this dash and spice of Saturday emerged one heroic, golden clad figure, the squire of all eyes. Capt. Short, Der Paulie to his many friends, added to his laurels in great fashion against the Ridgers and if he is not given at least honorable mention on the mythical all-time eleven, many fans hereabouts will have cause for wonder.

An unofficial check-up of his ground gaining Saturday reveals the fact that he advanced the pigskin 279 yards during the course of the game, exclusive of his running back of punts, for an astounding average net gain of twenty yards every time he took the ball. Added to this ball-carrying de luxe were the fine punts he got off time after time, several times up against his own goal line. His scoring of Belleville's lone two touchdowns gives him a total of twenty-four points so far this season to put him well up in that department of play.

It was a great day for Peerless Paul and served as fair warning to the remaining teams on Belleville's schedule, who have to buck against this shifty back.

Tomorrow afternoon the huskies of the local institution of learning will stack up against a better-than-average Boonton squad. Belleville's 2-0 setback at the hands of this school to spoil an otherwise perfect season a few years back has not yet been forgotten and the Bell-boys will be out in full force to add them to their growing list of victims and incidentally make it three straight.

In Boonton, however, they most certainly will have no set-up and with the addition of Frank Makosky, who finished the past baseball season with the Washington Senators of big league fame, Boonton will have one of the best backs in the state to pit against the Blue and Gold grid machine.

Though not particularly impressive in playing a scoreless deadlock with Woodrow Wilson High of Weehawken in their last start, Boonton is sure to be tough and a real battle is expected between the two tomorrow afternoon at Clearman Field.

An interesting angle of Belleville's enthusiasm for football was provided last Sunday afternoon at Belleville Park, as the Clintons defeated the Unions, 3-0.

Two thousand followers of the Collegiate Sport overflowed Belleville Park to witness the Clintons' inaugural home battle for gridiron supremacy.

The Clintons are a senior team, one of the best in this section, but a senior team nevertheless, playing football purely for the sport of it. Who, even in his wildest dreams could have conceived of a 2,000 turnout blocking traffic for blocks around to see an amateur team, other than a colosseum, in action.

An interesting comparison is afforded when it is found that the Clinton C. C., playing the best teams in professional ranks, consisting of college stars, draws an average of 5,000 fans, at their games. The vaunted Orange A. C., of national repute, averages 10,000 fans per contest.

Traffic Jammed By Cars Of Fans

Clinton's Eke Out 3-0 Victory From Unions Of Arlington

Parking of automobiles in Belleville avenue, a county highway, by persons who attended a football game at Belleville Park Sunday, created a "bottle neck" in the thoroughfare, according to Police Chief Michael Flynn. Police will restrict parking to the park side of the street next Sunday, he said.

It was estimated 2,000 attended the game, in which the Clintons of Belleville defeated the Union A. A. of North Arlington, 3 to 0. Howard Irving, guard, sent a thirty-yard drop-kick over the goal posts. The Clintons and the Grove A. C. of Irvington will play next Sunday.

The Clintons opened up brilliantly receiving the kick-off on their own thirty-yard line and advancing it to the Union's twenty yard mark on a series of cross-bucks, before they were stopped.

After several penalties had been netted out to the Clintons, sending the pigskin back to midfield, the winners regained possession of the oval and started down the field in a belated rush, as the initial quarter ended.

At the start of the second quarter with the ball in their possession on Union's twenty-yard stripe, the Clintons made three fruitless attempts to break through the strong line of the losers. With every one expecting a forward or end run on the next play, the Clintons crossed them up nicely. Irving, drawn back from his guard position, received the ball from center and calmly drop-kicked the Clintons' three point total to give them the lead and the game. The kick was nicely executed, despite the fact it was made from an extreme angle.

For the remainder of the game Mallack, Proven and Howley, Coach Sullivan's best ground-gainers, ripped the Union line to pieces on several marches down the field, only to have the Union forward wall tighten and hold for downs in the shadow of their goal posts.

A feature of the Clintons' attack was the splendid manner in which they advanced the ball on several trick plays, which completely bewildered their opponents. One play, in particular, in which Hughie Clark Clinton's star end, zig-zagged his way thirty-five yards down the field, was especially effective.

The Clintons, though lacking the scoring punch in the final half, were deep in Union territory a majority of the times.

Next Sunday afternoon the Clintons will meet the Grove A. C., Irvington's cracker-jack senior eleven, at Belleville Park in their second game of the home season. Another large crowd is expected to witness this promising battle.

Belleville Seconds Down Bloomfield Second Squad, 14-0

The Belleville junior varsity eleven travelled to Bloomfield Monday afternoon and administered a convincing dose of whitewash to the state champs' understudies, 14-0.

The Belleville scrubs, led by "Moon" Mullens, husky center, who captained and did the punting for the locals, and Nick Bonavita, the Blue and Gold's chief ground-gainer, completely submerged the Bloomfield craft with a splendid mixture of line plunges, end runs and forward passes that left the Bloomfield scrubs completely bewildered.

The Bell-boys lost no time in showing their superiority, scoring their initial touchdown, a few minutes after the opening whistle.

After a steady parade down the field the local boys tallied easily on a twenty-yard dash around right end by Bonavita. Griffin tallied the extra point, easily, on a straight line plunge.

During the second and third quarters, the Blue and Gold gridders resorted to an aerial attack with varying degrees of success. Robert, shifty Belleville quarterback, was the main cog in this attack, displaying pleasing ability in hurling spirals. With the ball in Bloomfield's territory throughout it seemed but a question of time when Belleville would again score.

The Bell-boys' big chance came at the beginning of the final quarter and Bonavita toted the ball around end for ten yards to register his second touchdown of the affair. A prettily executed pass, Robert to Bonavita, made good the try for the additional point.

Still not satisfied the Belleville scrubs again got possession of the pigskin and on a group of line plunges advanced the ball to Bloomfield's five yard line, only to have the whistle prevent the locals from scoring an inevitable third touchdown.

The Belleville Jayvees, off to a good start, will tackle the second teams of other high schools hereabouts in the near future, while they have a game pending with the Nutley scrubs for Armistice day.

Plans Arranged For Armistice Night Ball

A military dance has been arranged for Armistice night, at 8:30 at the Elks' Home. Congressman Hartley will formally present the three captured German field pieces to the town and they will be accepted by Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy. The Mayor will also present the cups won during the day to the contestants in various events.

Entertainment will be furnished by Mrs. Augustella Ford and her three daughters, Helen, Celeste and Bettie, who are radio artists of prominence having sung over stations WOR, WAAM, WAAT, WGCP and WPOH.

Harry Rothwell will be their pianist and will also sing. Belleville's own singer, George Cole, will render popular selections.

The committee in charge are Robert Anderson, chairman; Mrs. Brink and Arthur Mayer.

U. S. S. Newton Five Wins First Fracas

The U. S. S. Newton Five of Jersey City in its first practice of the season played the Cyclone A. C. composed of ex-high school players from Jersey City and defeated them by the one-sided score of 38-16.

The U. S. S. Newton on "Navy Day" night will oppose a team known as the Cozy-Rest A. C. from Union City, N. J. The Cozy-Rest team is one of the leading teams in the state and if the sailors should beat them that would put them in line for the title as champions of New Jersey of their class.

The Cozy-Rests boast of such players as "Matty" Begovitch, formerly of Demarest High and all-state center last season; "Abe" Galinsky and Sammy Stein, also of all-state fame a few years ago and other stars.

The Newtons will offer their usual lineup of "Ed" Hickey and F. Smith, guards; Van Voorhis, center; Tytus and Frantes, forwards, with Gretzinger, Balinsky and Scout in reserve.

The U. S. S. Newton still has a few open dates for teams in the 160-170 pound class that wish to meet them, and as yet have had no answers to their challenges in the vicinity of Belleville. Nutley and Passaic. Address all challenges to H. Van Voorhis, 239 Overlook avenue, Belleville.

St. Peter's Bowlers Look For Success

And If You Don't Believe Bowling Is Some Game, Read This

The bowling season is in our midst again and bowlers are taking a smack at the old wooden headpins. Truly, bowling is one of the great indoor sports. Of course it is not necessary to be an A-No. 1 athlete to master the game. The idea of course is to leave the ball after a short run and release it from your hand at the right time and then have a prayer on it so it won't glide out to no man's land. As Howard Freeman remarked in the News "A bowling bozo, fat and fifty with a good eye can beat the lithe young man of twenty whose aim is not so accurate."

As we well know the American Legion having successfully handled the Baseball League during the past summer, has formulated plans for a Bowling League and the St. Peter's Dramatic Club, having made a very good showing in the baseball field, will trot out a formidable five-man aggregation to do or die.

Billy Buttons who was a "wow" on the baseball team, especially when it came to giving the boys a thrill with the old willow, will be one of the bright stars on the Dramatic aggregation, and not far behind him will be Rannie Garrison who needs no introduction to the people of Belleville in the bowling field. Rannie is also one of the bright luminaries with the little black agate.

The third man no doubt, will be John Flynn, whom we are told also throws a wicked outcurve down the alley. If John gets steamed up on the alleys as he did in some of the ball games during the summer there is no doubt but what they will win many a game. The fourth and fifth men are still to be named but with this trio signed up the St. Peter's boys will certainly be a hard aggregation to beat.

Belleville Legion Bowling Loop Holds Its Second Session

Tuesday evening the Belleville American Legion Bowling League held their second meeting of the season at the Town Hall. The purpose of the session was to further arrangements for the bowling league.

It was decided by a unanimous vote of the representation of the clubs present to allow the Belleville A. A. to join the league and make it a twelve team affair. With the entrance of the Belleville A. A. the League members decided to close applications for entrance into the League.

A three-man schedule committee consisting of T. Dunn of Burke's Colts; O. Lawson of the El Club and J. Hood, representing the V. F. W. was picked by president Joe Williams to cooperate with him in arranging a bowling schedule.

The foul line question was brought up next for discussion and after many arguments pro and con, it was voted that the question be laid over till the next meeting, Tuesday evening.

The interesting session then closed with a general discussion of League financial matters, including the paying of various fees, required of the clubs entered in the League.

Doggy Dog Chases Catty Catty; Fireman Carr Makes Rescue

The first day as a new fireman for Michael Carr of 225 Stephen street was marked by a rescue. It occurred this way:

A dog of the most doggy kind suddenly became imbued with a desire to chase, I say chase, an animal of the opposite species, a feline, namely a cat of the most catty kind.

Forthwith said dog pursued said cat with fratricide intent, whereupon and behold, the latter jumps down a storm water sewer safe, safe at last. The carnivorous animal, the dog, I say, scampers around the hole which is located at the corner of Washington and Division avenues attracting the attention of Fireman Carr by his barks.

The fireman going to the aid of the feline, orders the dog off, jumps down the hole and rescues a much bedraggled pussy.

Belleville Victorious Over Ridgewood By 13-0 Margin

Led by Captain Paul Short, who made two brilliant runs of seventy-nine and sixty yards respectively, as well as being on the receiving end of a forty-yard pass, hurled by Schwieker for Belleville's final tally, the Golden Horde of Belleville High handed Ridgewood's crack eleven an artistic 13-0 pasting on the latter's field, Saturday.

Although threatened several times by the Ridgewood stalwarts, who put up a game battle, the Blue and Gold warriors were masters of the situation.

The first quarter, though devoid of scoring, was all Belleville and it seemed but a question of time before the Bell-boys would register a touchdown.

Short made a magnificent sweeping end run of sixty yards, crossing the goal line easily, behind excellent interference, in the second quarter. The interference must have been too good, however, in the eyes of the officials and Short's brilliant work was rendered null and void due to holding on the part of a Belleville player, with a fifteen-yard penalty resulting.

After that heart-breaking play both sides resorted to punting, with Ridgewood finally receiving the oval on Belleville's forty-eight yard line, due to an interception of a forward thrown by Schwieker. Ridgewood suddenly found holes in the Blue and Gold forward wall and marched down the field to Belleville's twenty-one yard mark on a short series of smashes at the line.

Then came the impossible! Not gaining anything through the center of the line in two tries, Jennings, Ridgewood quarterback, tried a forward pass with disastrous results.

Short, ever alert, intercepted the toss and swept around left end shaking off tackle after tackle through the entire Ridgewood team for seventy-nine yards and touchdown. On the try for the extra point the pass from center was fumbled, but Schwieker was on the job and recovered, crashing through center for the point.

Coach Erikson, with the game in the bag, started to send in his second string men near the end, several of them receiving their first baptism under fire. They succeeded in holding Coach Stratton's boys for the remaining few plays of the struggle.

Though lacking some of the finesse of attack displayed in previous Belleville games this season, the contest

Intertowns Tie Wildcats

The Ints played a tie with the Wildcats in the second game of the Midget League.

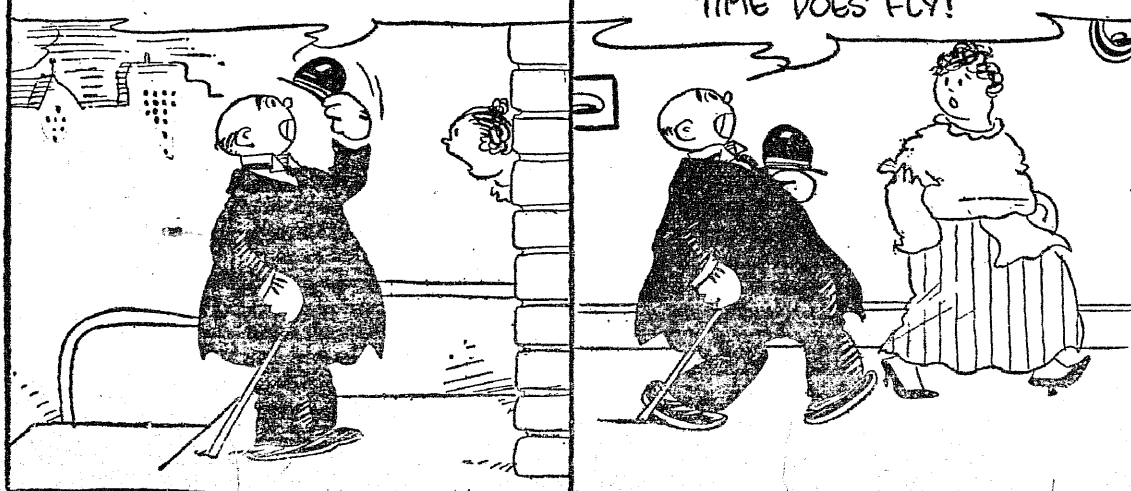

The Wildcats with the help of several players from the Washington Cubs held the Ints scoreless although the Ints threatened to score three times. Although out-weighted the Ints started the game by carrying the ball to the five yard line. They lost the ball on downs. The opponents however failed to reach the Int's forty yard line but proved able on the defense. An injury to Cappy in the second quarter put him out of the game.

The team substituted Luzzi who could not equal Cappy's line plunging. The work of S. Liguori, Cappy and Fred Tuozzolo featured for the Ints and Tubby proved effective for the Wildcats. Riccardi's injured leg also kept him out of the whole game. The Int's line is expected to be made stronger by the shifting of several line men when they stack up against the Questions, Sunday.
