Appeal Will Open With Dinner Next Thursday At Elks

Belleville's appeal for $16,000 with which to operate its Community Chest in which five organizations will take part is taking form. Monday the committee in charge reported a dinner is scheduled for Thursday evening, November 14, at which time workers and captains will be addressed by Stanley Nauright, who is connected with the speakers' bureau of the Newark Chest.

Further decision was reached to have a speaker at the Veterans' of Foreign Wars meeting Thursday evening in Valley Hose House, the Military Ball in the Elks, Home, Monday evening, at the Valley Improvement Association meeting, November 14, in churches for five-minute talks and in the Capitol Theatre, the Wednesday and Friday prior to the start of the campaign. William Stewart will speak at the Military ball affair.

"Underwriting Obligation"
Charles Granville Jones, chairman of the chest, urged Belleville folks to look upon the campaign as "underwriting an obligation." He said that "the honor of the town and its organizations is at stake."

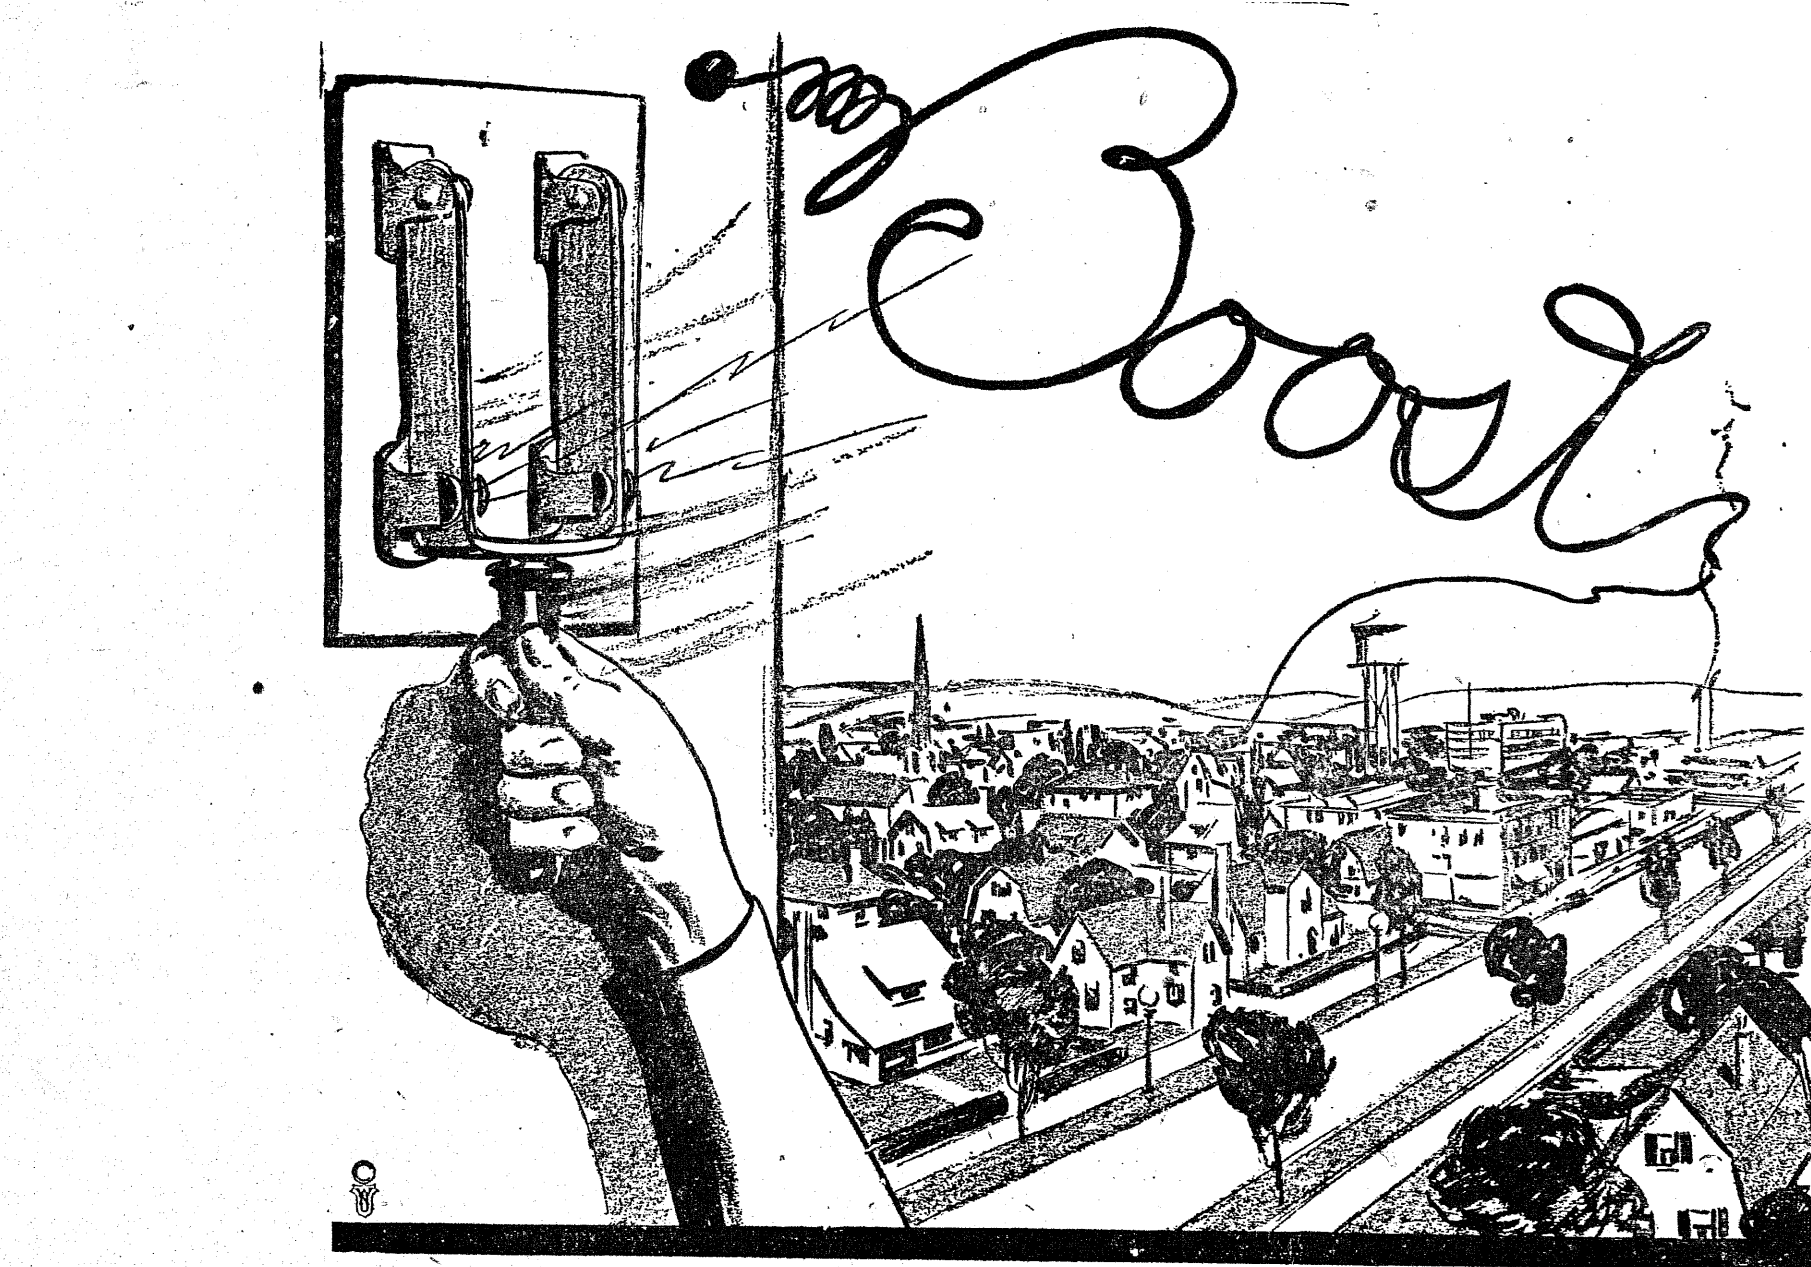

500 placards will be placed about town by the Boy Scouts who will benefit from the campaign with Girl Scouts, Red Cross, Salvation Army and Community Service Bureau. Plans also call for a banner to be placed across Washington avenue at some central point calling attention to the drive and its quota. Philip Dettelbach and Freeholder Joseph King have charge of this.

A total of 179 workers was announced at the meeting. Fifty more are required.

The Town Commission has passed a resolution endorsing the campaign and a proclamation will be issued by Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy, who following the commission meeting addressed the chest workers:

Mayor Kenworthy Speaks

The Mayor said: "No one questions the value of the organizations which will benefit from the chest. I personally have looked forward to such an organization for many years. I feel the time is ripe for it now. Especially worthy is the Community Service Bureau. In handling the same situation the Poor Department has been criticized. It has been said that politics would enter. This is not so. This work is handled under the State Laws and there may be no objection from local officials. The Community Service Bureau is the most valuable asset to the town. The reverse of the Poor in municipalities is most generally not amply paid and is invariably a man. Under the Service Bureau this work of family rehabilitation would be done by a woman, who is best fitted to understand such matters. If the goal is not reached this year it has been said we will pass it next year. If our people realize this appeal is to finance five such drives a year it will go over big. Let's go at this thing in that spirit and we will put across this year. Let us prove that Belleville when called upon can do things when it makes up its mind so."

This Small Amount Would Eliminate Five Drives A Year

Would you contribute one cent a day or $3.65 a year to see that the town cared for by the Community Service Bureau and the Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Red Cross, carried on their work? If each person in Belleville contributed $3.65 all these agencies would be cared for for one year. There would be no more appeals to the taxpayers to help them carry on their noble work.

Won't you help? This is not a question of money. It is a question of spirit. Belleville knows how to do it. Let's all put our shoulders to the wheel and show the outside world that Belleville can and will help its needy. Civic spirit grows like other municipalities.

The Community Service Bureau, especially will aid the needy. The Salvation Army has worked its way into deserving sympathy of all the world. The Red Cross, enough said and the character building of Boy and Girl Scout endeavors has been proven.

One cent a day. Would you give it to help? Certainly you would and so would we. That's why we are devoting this much space to a worth while appeal. Let's all help.

Court Sancta Maria Plans Anniversary

Banquet Will Be Held In St. Peter's Auditorium December 2

Court Sancta Maria, No. 61, Catholic Daughters of America, have made plans for the twenty-third anniversary of their institution by arranging a banquet to be held in St. Peter's Auditorium, December 2. Miss Jean Cogan, assisted by the Misses Helen Cogan, Teresa Salmon, Loretta Dunleavy, Mrs. John Westlake, Mrs. Maurice Conway and Mrs. George Hacker, who also arranged the annual communion breakfast are the committee in charge, with Miss Elizabeth Cousins, ex-officio.

A social followed the meeting with refreshments served by Mrs. George Barnett, Mrs. Patrick Gelschen, Mrs. Corwin Stickney, Mrs. John Lukowiak, Mrs. Thomas Lukowiak and Miss Helen Lukowiak. Miss Irene Wirtz, was presented an amber candy jar.

The installation committee, consists of Mrs. John Hudson, Mrs. George Barnett, Mrs. John Hurley, Mrs. Isaac Harker, Mrs. Francis Rhoades, Mrs. William Sullivan, Mrs. Patrick Waters and Mrs. Charles Kelly plan a gala event for November 12.

Belleville is about to step into a class with 356 other progressive cities in handling its charitable, social welfare, and character building work. This is to be accomplished through a Community Chest, so that a careful study of our needs can be made and the financial campaigns of the five organizations coordinated, these are the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Community Service Bureau, Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts.

This method means one campaign once each year instead of five separate calls for help. The minimum amount required to support these agencies for 1930 is $16,000.

We all admit that each of these organizations have a place in our economic life, without them we would be called upon to meet certain problems in a much more expensive way. It is our duty as American Citizens and residents of Belleville to get behind this movement; this is a civic obligation we cannot discharge without financial support.

From November 15 to 25 a campaign will be conducted to raise the amount required. A canvasser will call at your home sometime during this period. Remember there are five organizations appealing to you at one time. Decide now the amount you will give.

SYNOPSIS

Willie Durant, financial backer of a stranded musical comedy, is friendly with Nita French, the star, but refuses to put up any more money. He is unsuccessfully attentive to Kitty, the stage-struck check room girl, and has inveigled her father, Dad Malone, and her sweet-heart, Jimmy, to invest their life savings to gain a hold on the girl. Jerry Connolly, the manager, quarrels with Durant over the matter and takes a gun from him. The box-office is robbed. Joe, the detective, suspects Jimmy. Kitty goes to the prop room to search for a script and Durant follows her.

"Yes, but then we all have our little troubles," Durant sighed. "Oh, you! What troubles could you possibly have?" Sarah cooed, hanging on to Durant's arm with a vise-like grip. "You're just a great big naughty boy. Oh, I know why wealthy men become angels for shows. I read books."

"Do you?" Durant answered abstractedly.

He wasn't listening to Sarah's words. Instead, he was trying to think how he could shake off her hold and get away while Nita was on the stage. A vision of Kitty rose before his eyes. She was on her way to the prop room looking for a script, and the prop room would be deserted now. A cold, calculating gleam came into the backer's eyes.

"But I don't blame you," Sarah's voice came as though from a great void. "I'm liberal. I'm not like other girls. You've noticed that, haven't you, William, dear?" She didn't wait for an answer to her question, but only clutched his arm more tightly and sighed. "You saw me drifting into danger. You had too much respect for me to let it go on. I understand you perfectly."

"That's just dandy!" Durant nodded, not having the faintest idea of what the comedienne was talking about.

"Oh, I adore men of your type. Dreamers, vagabonds at heart," Sarah prattled. "Have you ever stood on a hill at midnight in the moonlight? You have, because I've seen you there, silhouetted against the moon. A black, stark, tragic figure, your face turned toward the peaks of the shimmering hills, waiting, something within you crying out for the beauty, the romance that never comes."

"That wasn't me. It must have been two other guys. See you later." With a sudden twist he wrenched himself free from the clinging Sarah and dashed across the stage behind the back drop.

At the door of the prop room he halted, looking in. He could see Kitty moving about the room, evidently seeking for the lost script. He smiled to himself and softly opened the door a little wider. He hesitated for a moment, his eyes roving over the girl's figure, the trim throat that curved so delightfully, ankles, the slender legs, the rounded little hollow in her throat. And the he stepped across the threshold.

CHAPTER IX.

In the dimly lighted prop room where one dull yellow electric bulb hazily illuminated the mass of objects strewn about in haphazard manner, Kitty was hastily ransacking desks and cupboards, leafing through piles of books and magazines to find the missing manuscript. Chairs and dishes, mirrors, lamps of every size and description, straggling bouquets of dusty, artificial flowers, mingled in the gray shadows thrown upon the smudged, scaling walls.

Absorbed in her search, the girl did not hear Durant approach, but the sound of his voice brought her about face, a stifled cry of surprise on her lips.

"Hello, girl!" Durant clutched the half open door, steadying himself against it. "I've been looking everywhere for you. Need some help? I'm the best I'll help 'ever saw. The best I'll help that's me! Want me to help you?"

"No, thank you," Kitty answered shortly, "unless you know where a script of the play is. That's what I'm hunting for."

Her tone was sharper than she had intended it to be. Although she refused to admit it to herself, the sight of Durant swaying drunkenly against the door made her feel more than uncomfortable. She had been so sure of herself when she had suggested to Jerry that she lead Durant on in hopes of inducing him to keep the show from going broke. But now that she was alone in the room with him her confidence deserted her. And then she thought that her heart was about to jump right up into her mouth when she saw Durant slowly closing the door.

"Wasn't there something you wanted?" she faltered.

"There can't be, girl." The backer eyed her appreciatively, leaning against the wall panels. "I want you to stop high-hatting me."

Kitty flushed under his scrutiny. "Why, I'm not high-hatting you, Mr. Durant," she objected nervously, "I'm simply trying to mind my own business."

She realized exactly what the backer meant. She knew that he resented her rebuffs to all his advances, but right at present she felt in no mood to try to cajole him into doing anything for the show.

"It's that supposed to be a dirty crack I could tell you a few things, girl," Durant looked very wise and very severe. "If you're trying to tell me I'm not minding my own business I want to tell you something. I'm minding it so much—well, I could tell you how much. If I weren't minding my own business I'd have ordered 'n arrest before this." He watched the effect of his words upon the girl, and saw the shudder that ran over her body; the red that suffused her face.

"Why, what do you mean?" Kitty demanded. "I don't understand."

She was plainly puzzled by his statement. He seemed to be driving at something, though what it was she couldn't fathom. Perhaps, after all, she was thinking, he was just tight and didn't quite know what he was talking about. Even his answer brought no gleam of enlightenment.

"Oh, of course, you've no idea who robbed the box-office," Durant shook his head sarcastically.

"Certainly not," Kitty retorted. "I still don't see what that's got to do with the price of eggs."

"Oh you don't. Well for your information, then I'll tell you I know it was one of your crowd. Yes, sir, one of your crowd," he repeated. "You all know the show's through tonight, so somebody's feathering his nest."

Kitty stared bewildered, unbelieving. One of her crowd! Surely he didn't, couldn't mean—She felt as though she must know what was going on in Durant's mind.

"Are you referring to Jimmy?" Her voice was low, and her breath seemed to be stifled; her heart was pounding.

"Am I referring to Jimmy? I most certainly am referring to Jimmy! Wake up, Kitty, wake up! I know what I'm talking 'bout an' so do you. You know Jimmy pulled that robbery job as well as I do."

Kitty swallowed the sharp inhalation that caught in her throat. For an instant she swayed uncertainly and then caught hold of a nearby table, steadying herself. Jimmy—accused of the robbery! It couldn't be! It mustn't be so. She must do something to save him. She knew that he was innocent.

"Now, girl, stop this gaga baby act," Durant began weaving tipsily towards her. "Don't you realize how easy it'd be for you to save Jimmy a lot of trouble?"

He was smiling at her now, an insidious, inviting smile. Kitty's eyes narrowed. She began to see what he was driving at. She didn't doubt but that he was telling the truth when he said as much as said that he believed that Jimmy had committed the theft. And if he believed it, perhaps others did, too. So there was only one thing to do. She must extricate Jimmy from this predicament. If she were nice to Durant—"How do you mean?" she questioned thoughtfully. "How would it be so easy for me to save Jimmy trouble?"

"Drop the pose, Kitty. Be yourself! That's all I ask."

Durant paused, watching the girl intently. He could see that she was turning something over in her mind. And he knew now that she had grasped the idea he had intended to convey. If she liked Jimmy as much as he thought she did the rest would be easy. He was near enough now to reach out and touch her, but he wanted to be sure of his position. And so instead, he sat down on a sofa and lit a cigarette.

Notice to the public

SUPPOSE you are today paying 50c a tube for your tooth paste (and there are many very good dentifrices selling today at that price).

Suppose, like most people, you buy about twelve tubes during a year. Now if you knew that you could buy as good a dentifrice as can be made and still save each year the price of 25 loaves of bread or 60 bars of soap or 40 pounds of sugar or a box of fine cigars—could you conscientiously fail to take advantage of such an opportunity?

That is exactly what you do when you buy Listerine Tooth Paste at 25c for a large tube. Figure it out for yourself.

IF YOU WOULD LEARN TRAINING OF CHILDREN CONSULT THE STEELS

His mother, due to the lad's lack of excitement, called Mr. Steel into the house without any vocal gymnastics, who put the arm in splints, while the lad, who is only eight years old, underwent the pain with scarcely a wince. The boy is now learning to write with his left hand.

We give this story, not as a news item entirely, but as an instance of the training that the children of Mr. and Mrs. Steel receive in their home.

Mr. Steel, as well as his wife, believe in the development of the child in the child's own capabilities. Mr. Steel is a firm exponent of the case method of training children. This method, which is not at all familiar to most of us develops the youngster according to the possibilities of that boy or girl.

In the case of Charles 3rd, he had been trained from babyhood to endure pain and when brought to the test he was ready.

However, this story is about Charles L. Steel, Jr., principal of Belleville High School. Mr. Steel was born in Newton, N. J., thirty-five years ago and in his first school years attended a private school in that town. He was graduated from the Newton Grammar School and from West Philadelphia High School and Bethlehem Preparatory School.

He played football on the Newton High School team while still in the eighth grade of the grammar school and the first year of that high school. He also played right half-back on the West Philadelphia High School team where he was picked for the all-Philadelphia team. He played quarter-back at Bethlehem Prep.

He also was a member of the basketball, baseball and track teams of West Philadelphia High and of the track team at Bethlehem Prep, from which institution he was graduated in 1913.

He entered Muhlenberg College in 1914 during which time he was president of the Inter-collegiate Oratorical Society; was middle Atlantic states quarter-mile champion and played football for three years.

At the end of the third year at Muhlenberg the United States entered the war and Mr. Steel enlisted at the age of twenty-two years the day war was declared.

He entered the Medical Corps of the United States Navy and saw service at the front in the Aisne-Marne drive with the United States Marines in the first division of the United States Army.

He gave a quart of blood to a marine in a transfusion. It seems that Mr. Steel's blood is of the type that can be used in almost any transfusion. He was in France fifteen and one-half months and was in the Navy twenty-two months. Mrs. Steel served with the Red Cross as a nurse at a hospital at Nitro, Va.

Before leaving for France Mr. and Mrs. Steel were married by Mr. Steel's father, Rev. Charles L. Steel, of the Calvary Episcopal Church, Philadelphia, who lives at 312 North 41st street, Philadelphia. Mrs. Steel was Miss Gertrude Bahr Schultz.

The couple came to Belleville in 1919. The spring before they came, Mr. Steel completed his course at Muhlenberg College doing a whole year's work in five months. That summer he took charge of the children's camp known as Paradise Farm, at Downingtown, Pa., as a director. He has continued in this capacity each summer since then.

He began teaching physical training in Belleville High School in 1919. The next year he taught physics and chemistry. He served as vice-principal for four years previous to his appointment as principal in March, 1929.

He coached football for four years in the high school; baseball for one year; basketball, one year; track, three years, and the debating team.

He was commander of Belleville Post, American Legion in 1925-1926; chairman of the Boy Scout Court of Honor, 1928-1929; president of the University Club 1925-1926; president of the Hillcrest Improvement Association 1926-27-28; is chairman of the committee on H-Y in Essex County, president of the Recreation Commission; member of the New Jersey School Masters' Club, of the Belleville Elks, of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, and a director in the Impartial Building and Loan Association.

He is at present service officer in the American Legion. He is taking graduate work at New York University and has completed a course at Columbia University.

Mr. and Mrs. Steel have three children, Charles, whom we have mentioned, who is in the fourth grade at No. 3 school; Betty Ann who is seven years old and in the third grade the same school and John who is one and one-half years old.

AID FOR VETERANS IS RED CROSS PLEDGE

Service and Ex-Service Men Are Helped in All Problems.

Service to World War veterans in hospital, for able-bodied veterans, and for dependent families of both called for expenditures of $738,000 by the American Red Cross during the year just ended. In addition, Red Cross Chapters spent $1,963,000 in veteran relief, and also for men still in service.

Although eleven years have passed since the Armistice, there remain 25,500 disabled and sick veterans of the World War in hospitals, and the peak of the number who will require hospitalization is not expected by Veterans Bureau authorities to be reached until 1947. For these men the Red Cross must continue its service of providing recreation and comforts, according to James L. Fieser, vice chairman of the Red Cross.

"Under its Charter from Congress, the Red Cross is required to maintain service for veterans of wars and for the men still in the service," Mr. Fieser said. "The funds for this work come from the annual roll call membership fees. In addition to the sum spent in maintaining contact with the veterans, the Red Cross expended $308,000 in its service to the men still in the regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps. The society and a majority of its 3,500 chapters handle claims for these men for insurance, compensation and other benefits they are entitled to under the law, and also where necessary arrangements to provide for dependents of the men."

"Red Cross workers are maintained in forty-eight Veterans Bureau Hospitals, as well as in all regular Army and Navy hospitals, whose duty it is to supervise recreational facilities for the patients, and to provide small comforts. In the Army and Navy Hospitals, the workers also do social service for the patients. These tasks also are performed at all Army Posts and Navy Ports by Red Cross workers, and in addition Red Cross representatives to handle claims are established at the majority of Veterans Bureau regional offices."

Mr. Fieser urged that all citizens enroll in the Roll Call, from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to 28, in order to aid in supporting this work.

NEW CROPS IN FLOODED STATES BRING PROSPERITY

The introduction of new habits of planting, following the Mississippi Valley flood of 1927, has brought added prosperity to farmers in many of the Mississippi Delta counties, according to Red Cross officials.

Almost every cabin has a fine vegetable garden, whereas cotton formerly grew right to the doorstep, the Red Cross states. The home demonstration and agricultural agents have followed up the project inaugurated by the Red Cross, immediately after the flood of 1927, with very gratifying success. There is a large acreage in corn whereas formerly cotton was the one crop. Alfalfa has gained a firm foothold, and the growing of this crop is bringing good financial returns from the three or four cuttings each year. Live stock also is showing improvement due to these new crops.

Everything considered, the Delta sections which escaped a backwater problem in the Spring of 1929 are in a prosperous condition, as a result of the follow-up and rehabilitation by the American Red Cross.

RED CROSS HONOR FLAG GOES TO NEW HAMPSHIRE

The honor flag, given annually to the State which enrolls the greatest percentage of its population as member of the American Red Cross, went this year to New Hampshire. The decision was so close between New Hampshire and Vermont that it hung in the balance for a time. California ranked third in the honor list and Connecticut fourth.

A final tabulation of figures of the 1928 Roll Call showed a nationwide membership of 4,127,946. The banner rests with New Hampshire, where it is hung in the State House, until the 1929 Roll Call—held between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day—is completed and new figures available for the 1929 winner.

FIVE RED CROSS CAMPS HOUSE FLOOD REFUGEES

A total of 27,791 persons were maintained by the American Red Cross in camps or in their own homes in the three States of Alabama, Georgia and Florida, following the disastrous floods of early last Spring. Five camps were organized, of which four were in Alabama and one in Florida. Small temporary camps were set up in various places in addition to these, but the persons not sheltered in the five main camps soon were able to return home or to friends and relatives. Red Cross nurses were at all five camps, assisting the State health authorities in care of the sick and in inoculating against epidemics.

CALLS ON RED CROSS INCREASE; RESPONSE TO ROLL CALL URGED

Society's Activities Reach Millions Each Year—Chairman Payne Asks Generous Support in Membership.

Disaster relief work, service to disabled veterans and their families, public health work and its many other activities caused expenditures of $11,064,000 by the American Red Cross for the year ended June 30, 1929, according to the annual report of the organization.

This work by the Red Cross is supported by the annual Roll Call for members, which is held from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to 28.

Directing attention to the heavy expenditures by the Red Cross during the past year, and to the fact that the organization was called upon for assistance in 120 disasters in the United States and its insular possessions, Judge John Barton Payne, the chairman, said:

"The Red Cross is a volunteer society, supported by its membership and belongs to all of the citizens. While it is a semi-governmental agency in that the President of the United States is its president, and one-third of its governing board are representatives of Government departments, yet it receives no financial support from the Government."

"Funds for our work for war veterans and their families, for carrying on disaster relief, for our varied health activities, the life saving and first aid work and our many other activities, all are derived from the membership fee. The public is asked only once each year—at the Annual Roll Call—to join in this support of the Red Cross."

The Red Cross expended an average of $936,000 per year in the past seven years, in disaster relief work from its own treasury, statements show. The work for world war veterans also has caused heavy expenditures.

HEALTH PRESERVATION IS AIM OF RED CROSS

Society Employs Rural Public Health Nurses—Teaches First Aid and Life Saving.

A comprehensive, nation-wide program to prevent illness, and to save lives through proper nursing care and advanced methods of life saving and first aid is fostered by the American Red Cross.

The organization is the largest employer of rural public health nurses in the United States, through its Chapters. The policy of the Red Cross is to encourage its Chapters to extend the public health nursing service, where leadership in this field is not taken by some other agency in the community.

The Red Cross health and life saving campaign embraces the following: preservation of health through skilled nursing care; prevention of loss of life in accidents; prevention of illness through cleanliness in the home and knowledge of methods of home care of the sick and raising the standard of health and physical efficiency through proper nutrition.

During the year just closed, more than 42,000 certificates have been issued in the Red Cross course in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, and since the courses were inaugurated more than 500,000 persons have been taught; 149,000 children were instructed in proper eating through the Nutrition course; 46,898 individuals passed the severe Red Cross tests in Life Saving and 52,596 persons passed the rigid examinations in the First Aid Course.

This work is supported from funds obtained in the annual Roll Call Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day November 11 to 28.

SIX MILLION CHILDREN IN JUNIOR RED CROSS

The year 1929 marks the tenth anniversary of the founding of the American Junior Red Cross. There are now Junior Red Cross societies in forty-one nations, all pledged in the common cause of service to their fellows.

Membership in the American Junior Red Cross in the United States and insular possessions is 6,878,000, and is largely through grade and high schools and private schools. The organization is governed by the boys and girls. One of its chief features is conduct of international correspondence with schools of other nations, through exchange of albums and small gifts. The American Juniors sent 85,000 Christmas boxes of small gifts to children of many nations last year.

The American Junior Red Cross gained 349,171 in membership last year.

Fifty-one nations belong to the League of Red Cross Societies, and are prepared to carry on health, disaster relief and life saving programs all around the world.

LABOR HEAD URGES SUPPORT OF RED CROSS

"Invariably it is the masses of the people which suffer most when disasters occur," stated William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, recently.

"Because they suffer most and because of their helplessness, the ministrations of the Red Cross organization take on added significance and importance. No doubt many lives among these particular groups are saved through the prompt service which this organization gives."

"Because the American Federation of Labor appreciates this fact, we have supplemented the appeal of the American Red Cross at each Roll Call period for memberships from the great mass of working men and women and their families."

"The continued service of the American Federation of Labor in this most humane and unselfish work will be most cheerfully rendered."

Mr. Green is a member of the Board of Incorporators of the American Red Cross.

NURSES ENROLLED WITH RED CROSS FOR SERVICE

Enrolled with the Nursing Service of the American Red Cross at Washington are 49,000 nurses, qualified under the society's regulations, who may be summoned to service in time of disaster or other emergency. From the Red Cross enrollment were assigned 20,000 nurses in the World War. These Red Cross nurses are the standing reserve of the Army and Navy Nurse Corps of the United States, and are also called upon for service in other governmental health services.

Little St. Eustatius Island in the Dutch West Indies gave refuge to American ships during the Revolution. The hurricane of last September struck the island, causing heavy loss. The American Red Cross was glad to send a small cash relief fund in remembrance of the historic friendship of the island folk for this republic.

RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS PRINT BOOKS FOR BLIND

One of the most appealing services that is carried forward by women volunteers under the American Red Cross is that of transcribing popular and scientific books into Braille for reading by the blind. This work was started at Evergreen hospital, where blind veterans of the World War were sent after the Armistice.

The Red Cross now has 1,155 volunteer Braille transcribers, and last year they produced 442 titles in 1,849 volumes, or 175,000 pages of Braille. The majority of the books go to the Library of Congress and public libraries throughout the country, although some of the books go to schools for the blind and, in a few instances, text books are transcribed for some individual scholar in order to help him complete his course in some study.

The work is supported from the Red Cross Roll Call for members which occurs each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

AIRPLANES DROP TONS OF FOOD DURING FLOOD

Army, Navy and Alabama National Guard airplanes delivered twenty-five tons of supplies furnished by the American Red Cross to flood refugees who were completely cut off from any other aid, during the serious floods in four southeastern States early this spring.

The three services made an average of fifty flights a day, delivering medicine, food, clothing and blankets. Most of the supplies were dropped to the refugees who were isolated on hill tops and high ground, by the flood waters.

Naval aviators made a total of 115 flights during the flood period, embracing 15,000 miles. Observation planes also reported by radio where marooned refugees could be located, and a magnificent program of co-operation with the Red Cross relief forces was carried forward by all three aviation services.

HOMER C. ZINK

BOY, 3, "TAKEN FOR RIDE" ON TROLLEY

Bobby Scott, 3, is swearing off accepting invitations to go riding with strangers now that he is safe at home, 64 Beverly Street. Police are trying to determine whether his presence alone on a trolley Tuesday meant an attempted kidnaping, or the thoughtless act of someone who placed him aboard for the ride. At any rate, he ended in Belleville.

Meanwhile Bobby had been missed at the Scott home and the father, Charles A. Scott, started a search. Police told a boy answering the description of his was in Belleville and within a short time father and son were reunited.

That seems to square matters on police records, but those who investigated both in Belleville and in Newark still would like to know how Bobby came to be on that trolley.

Mr. Lloyd Gives Some Facts On Zoning

Editor, The News:

In view of the discussion now being conducted in some quarters of this town, for a revision of the existing Zoning Ordinance, it is well that you should have the following facts to aid you in the consideration of this matter.

The zoning principle was adopted some years ago owing to the necessity of protecting property owners from indiscriminate and destructive developments, and represents the public interests as opposed to the former private interests where any property owner could develop his own particular piece without reference to its effect upon the welfare of the community.

Carrying on this movement, the officials of our Town called into consultation the leading zoning expert of the country, and under his direction there was prepared a scientific and comprehensive zoning ordinance and map, which zoned the Town into proper locations for one and two-family residences for multiple family and apartment houses, for business and for industry. This provided for every legitimate growth of the Town for many years to come and is still in force. This zoning ordinance was prepared in 1923 and was adopted by the Board of Commissioners after exhaustive public hearings, in which little or no opposition was shown by the citizens, proving that it was a matter they desired for their protection.

The Courts of the State of New Jersey then showed an inclination to doubt the constitutionality of the zoning principle, which resulted in the submission of an amendment to the Constitution of the State of New Jersey, legalizing the zoning principle.

In 1928 the Legislature of the State of New Jersey passed an "Enabling Act" which put into effect the legal rules to be applied in the zoning principle, and specifically legalized all existing zoning ordinances.

The Constitutional Amendment referred to above was adopted in the election of November, 1927, by the people of the State of New Jersey, by the greatest majority ever given to an amendment to the Constitution. The people of the Town of Belleville gave the unequalled majority of five to one, showing their desire for the protection of their homes by the zoning principle.

Among the regulations of the 1928 Enabling Act was the formation in each municipality of a Zoning Board of Adjustment, to whom would be referred for final decision, subject only to a review by the Courts, of any modification desired of the zoning map or ordinance, subject to the requirements of the Enabling Act which were very explicit in the protection of the "public interests" in such matters.

In our Town a Zoning Board of Adjustment was appointed consisting of five members, who have given the zoning question a thorough and careful study in an official existence of over three years, and I do not recall that any of their decisions have been reversed by the Court. They are fully familiar with the subject and are an unusual highly spirited body of citizens.

In the early part of this year there was a movement started to modify or revise the zoning map, which was properly referred to this Zoning Board of Adjustment for their study and recommendations. They unanimously reported that the existing zoning map and ordinances were sufficient for the protection of the "public interest" and should not be revised or modified, and their conclusion in this matter should be upheld, as they are more conversant with the whole question than any other public body in this town.

In conclusion the fact is irresistible that the present zoning ordinance and map does not need revision or modification, except in such individual cases as may come eventually before the Zoning Board of Adjustment for their action. Any attempt to do otherwise at this time is dangerous to every home owner in our Town and may result in destruction of the property values.

Very truly yours,

JOHN C. LLOYD,
25 Lloyd place.

FIRE DESTROYS TAVERN DATING BACK TO 1863

Belleville Gardens, Old-Time Hostelry, Wrecked In Early Blaze

Fire of undetermined origin early Saturday destroyed the historic structure at Main and Mill streets, Belleville, which housed Belleville Gardens, a cabaret, and which formerly was the old Belleville Hotel, a hostelry which dated back to 1863.

The interior was rufed. Band instruments, a broadcasting apparatus, furniture, rugs and other equipment, valued by the proprietor at $30,000 and said by him to be practically uninsured, were consumed. The fire is believed to have started in the middle of the capacious frame building and to have attacked first the stairway from the first to the second floors.

Tradition has made the place one of New Jersey's historically famous places. It was established seven years before the beginning of the eighteenth century and was even then a hotel.

Secret Tunnel

To provide a means of escape from Indian attacks, according to tradition, an underground passage was built leading to the Passaic River some 200 yards away. This passage, it is said, was used during the Revolutionary War to transport American troops in secret. Another legend not authenticated, has it that Washington once spent a brief period in the hostelry. It was operated as a hotel until within the last few years.

The fire was discovered at 5 o'clock. The roadhouse's festivities had ceased for the night three hours earlier, and at 3 o'clock its proprietor, Harry Settel, went to New York. Settel was the only person who lived in the building.

The flames gained headway rapidly so that the building was burning fiercely when the firemen arrived. Despite their efforts the fire rendered it only a shell with walls and roof standing, but completely burned within.

Bought for Factory Annex
Wallace & Tiernan, Inc., makers of chlorine control equipment, bought the entire property several weeks ago to provide for enlargement of their present plant, which adjoins it. Settel remodeled the old hotel two years ago and had made the roadhouse popular.

A good jazz band, a revue which included a generous number of entertainers, and other attractions were installed. Chris Pender was master of ceremonies. Programs were broadcast nightly by station WAAM. The station's microphone and other equipment were destroyed.

Settel said he did not know what his plans would be. His lease had still one year to run and the present owners, he said, had agreed that he might continue the establishment.

The plot on which the building stands is large, being about 400 feet by 300. A part of it is to be taken by the State Highway department for the construction of Route 21. It would not have interfered with the roadhouse.

More than half a century ago the hostelry flourished on patronage of travelers from and to New York and boatmen and boating parties on the Passaic. Main street was then actually as named, in Belleville, and horse cars ran past the point to barns and pasture north of the Belleville bridge.

Records are not clear on who built the original building, as a home-stead. From 1858 an ownership is traced through Alfred T. Condit, who sold it that year to John VanSenselaer. He willed it to his children, James Hardman of Belleville bought it in 1885 and sold it to George Quayle in 1893. Mrs. Helen Hank purchased it in 1912 and sold it to Millard Leavitt. Mr. Dorff bought it in 1926.

SCOUTS MOBILIZED FOR SERVICE WHEN AUGUSTA, GA. LEVEE BREAKS

Program Of Mobilization Practised By Boy Scouts On Anniversary Week Each Year Is Successfully Used In Time Of Real Stress

When the levee outside of Augusta, Ga., broke on September 30 and submerged the lower section of the city, Boy Scouts were hastily mobilized and reported for duty. They carried sandbags to patch the levee, directed traffic away from the submerged areas and aided people whose homes were stricken by the flood.

Levee Breaks
Augusta's main street runs parallel to the river just two blocks south and is protected by a levee which is about 20 feet above the main street. The levee was built to take care of water to the height of nearly fifty feet. On September 30, after the heaviest rain-fall in the history of Augusta, the river rose to its greatest height and was within one foot of going over the levee. The cry at the time was not alarmed as it was felt to be safe but a break occurred some two or three miles east of Augusta and this caused the entire lower section of the city to be submerged. The water reached within two blocks of the business district.

The Boy Scouts were immediately mobilized by Scout officials under the mobilization plan practiced every year during Scout Anniversary Week in different parts of the United States. The Scouts patrolled the submerged areas and worked late into the night with boats moving the inhabitants to higher grounds. They were commended highly for their work. Most of them stayed on duty from three in the afternoon until one that night without any relief.

The city was back to about normal on the following Monday afternoon and the river receded to its original banks when another downpour or rain deluged the city and more than nine inches of rain fell. On the following day the situation again became alarming and special editions of the newspapers were given out stating that the city was to be flooded. A near panic followed. That night the Scouts were mobilized again and served for twelve hours, putting sand bags on the levee to hold back the tremendous pressure of the onrushing water.

Restrict Traffic
The Scouts were used on the following day for restricting traffic in order that trucks carrying sand bags might have the right of way and these boys served continuously for six hours. That night the Scouts served as orderlies all night delivering messages, and Thursday they were again on duty as traffic officers and worked with the Red Cross. The Scouts also played a large part in assisting those people who were residents of the flooded area.

In reporting the incident to the National Headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America, J. Rucker Newberry, Scout Executive of Augusta, Ga., said, "I give you this information merely to show you that the Scouts of Augusta lived up to the example set them by other Scouts in sections of the United States that have been flooded in the past."

OLD COINS
Old Spanish coins bearing a mintage stamp of 1782 have been picked up by Boy Scouts at summer camp near Monument Lake, Colorado. These old rusted coins will be a treasure for coin collections. A few, given to Gilbert Sanders of the local Boy Scout Council at Trinidad, Colorado, will probably be presented to the Kit Carson Museum.

First Phone Engineer Completes 30 Years Of Service With Co.

To E. H. Clarke of 75 Lenox avenue, East Orange, belongs the distinction of being the first New Jersey Bell Telephone Company engineer to complete thirty years of telephone service.

A gold service emblem was presented him last week at Telephone Headquarters, 540 Broad street, Newark, by W. G. H. Whitaker, Chief engineer of the company, and he was the guest of honor afterward at a luncheon at the Newark Athletic Club. Among his associates in the business who attended the luncheon was G. W. McRae, vice president and general manager of the telephone company, who extended his congratulations to Mr. Clark on completing a period of service spanning considerably more than half the life of the telephone industry.

Lineman's helper in Elmira, N. Y., was his first telephone job in 1899, and progressive experience through various phases of telephone plant and engineering work equipped him to become engineer with the New York Telephone Company, specializing in the preliminary planning work upon which telephone plant extension is based. He is now in charge of the preliminary building plans division of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company's engineering department.

AIR INDUSTRY GAINS HEAVILY IN NEW JERSEY

New Jersey's response to the constantly increasing demand for improved aeronautical facilities finds approximately $7,000,000 already invested in airports, schools and allied industries throughout the state and a further state-wide program of expansion proposed that should increase this amount by a third before the expiration of another year, according to a survey just completed by Charles R. Dunn, President of Atlantic Air Service, Inc.

The recently opened airport at Caldwell and the enlargement expenditures at the Westfield Airport which is completing a new building program that will give this latter field four 2,000-foot runways, are included in the survey, Mr. Dunn said.

Major improvements were reported at more than a dozen airports including Newark Airport, Hadley Field, Teterboro, Caldwell, Westfield Airport, New Brunswick, Princeton, Morristown, Spring Lake, Keyport, Hanover and Pine Brook. Many smaller communities were found to have either entered into plans for municipal fields or already in the process of constructing new fields.

"Wherever construction of a new airport or the betterment of an established field is under way, we have found the builders following out the most improved suggestions of the Department of Commerce and a decided trend away from the old idea of simply designating a few unplowed acres as an airport and letting it go at that," Mr. Dunn said.

"At Westfield four 2,000-foot runways 500 feet in width are being completed under Department of Commerce specifications which will be so constructed and drained that ships may land or take-off within thirty minutes after the hardest rainfall. Builders at this field also followed out the suggestions of aeronautical experts in selecting an airport site where the surrounding terrain would be most suitable for student flying.

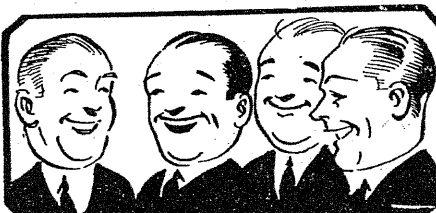

"With no obstruction of any kind surrounding the field and no commercial air traffic to disconcert the student flyer, fields such as the Westfield Airport will go a long way toward perfecting the human element in the flying industry."

Mrs. Mary Murray

Mrs. Mary Murray, wife of Michael Murray of 49 Irving street, Newark, died October 28, and mass and burial was in St. Peter's.

Mrs. Murray who lived at William street for a number of years before moving to Newark, was the mother of Michael Murray, Jr., who died in service at Texas during the late war, and John Murray, Jr., another son. Surviving are, Misses Cella, Margaret, Mae and James, Daniel, William, Joseph and Edward Murray.

By EDDIE TAYLOR

The kaleidoscopic colors at the Halloween party of the Belleville High Eleven given by the Senior class were displayed in a variety of costumes. Nearly every one knew every one else. We had a difficult time getting the names as most of those present were in costume with masks, but we did our best.

Jim Reilly substituted in obtaining the names of those at the dance.

The football team was represented by every member. They all clung to the balcony or stood in the hall. However, there was one exception. This was Paul Schiewer, who appeared in artist costume and danced continuously.

Joe Evangelista cut caper by throwing cap around the lunch room, while refreshments were being served.

Miss Walters of the high school faculty came in a gypsy costume, and Miss Vander Veer in a black and gold costume.

The following won prizes at the dance: Best dressed boy, Curtis Melick; best dressed girl, Doris Geiger; funniest, Harry Boyd; most original costume, Jim Reilly.

Jean Tallman and Curtis Melick led the grand march, in which about 150 participated.

Fritz Plenge and Homer Estelle of the football squad danced after the march.

Marjorie Davis was there with the "girl friends."

The following young men appeared without costumes: Louis Evangelista, Victor Green, Frank Christell, James Casey, Jack Meade, Port Standler, Irwin Castle, John Worthington, Herbert Smith, Joe Degelo, James Petrie, Howard Lawrence Schreyer, Willard Freeman, Eddie Deterle, Richard Bruegman, Bernard Close, Dutch King, Robert Sprole and Richard Owen.

James Lynch, Jr., was a master of ceremonies. He is vice-president of the senior class. George Haslam, worker-hard in getting refreshments ready. The ticket collectors were Robert Deussler, Alexander Nucchi, Richard Peterson and Robert Jackson.

The judges were Miss Elberta Schenck, Mr. Folsom, and Miss Kellerman. Miss Elizabeth Tempest sat in one corner of the gallery and told fortunes.

A very real-looking bell-boy was impersonated by Miss Ida Phelps, a very diminutive lassie.

Dorothy Hall made a good appearance as an aviatrix; as did Dorothy Gardner as a slave girl; Ruth Elbera in a heart costume; and Emily Murray in a gypsy costume.

Others who were present include Marion and Anna Lukowiak, Marion Naylor, Eleanor Wernuth, Grace Hopper, Natalie Siegler, Florence Melick, Edythe Fobert, June Young, Alice Compton, Carol Chambers, Evelyn Moran, George Brown, Helen Hageman, Elaine Curran, Virginia Crockett, Marjorie Haslam, Regina Lynch, Elsie Gibson, Ruth Williamson.

Mildred Pruden, Nancy Miller, Clara Broadhead, Eleanor Robinson, Viola Sautter, Molly Thatcher, Ethel Miller, Sarah Ross, Roma Heywar, Florence Lee, Beatrice Bloemeke, Florence Carron, Anna Brady, Muriel Bailey, Filomena Callicchio, Grace Gimbel, Cecile Haslam.

TELLS DANGERS OF PROSPERITY

Larger Interests At Stake, Says Professor At Nutley Church Anniversary

Professor Oscar Helming, professor of economics at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., spoke Sunday morning in St. Paul's congregational Church, Nutley, on the occasion of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the church and the tenth of the pastor Rev. Robert C. Falconer, which is being jointly celebrated.

The speaker dwelt particularly on the relation of economics to religion stating that America, the most prosperous country in the world, lost sight of the fact that there were other fundamental interests more important than the pursuit of prosperity measured in terms of money.

"While money controls the production and power of business," he declared, "it should synchronize and avoid the confusion of merely making it a means to an end. Man does not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." It is literally true that man lives by bread as a primary need, but while nature is prolific she does not part with her gifts except by human effort. When there is not enough for economic needs, discontent and revolution follow.

"Today the church has not quite found out the relation of religion to economics, and I do not think it is the business of the church to suggest methods of remedy. Such a program is for experts.

"The church has a more important job, that of keeping the business man under the influence of what is moral, if he will have the sense to see it and the church the ability to show him. It is not a question of making more money but a better way to do it, the finding of more humane and reasonable methods. But more emphasis on faith and not in industry. Industry today is making a type of people which the church can help. Economic forces make good servants and bad masters.

"The voice of God is heard in all ways, in music, literature and art, but mainly through people. You are the person in whom democracy is shown.

"Liberty and Justice
"Wherever Jesus went the effect of His personality was felt by people and this is the explanation of the incarnation, when the Word was made flesh, for the will of God and divine choice is in all."

The speaker discussed the attitude of the mass of people toward liberty and justice. Liberty he said, did not mean that a chosen few had risen to a plane of privilege with no interference from government of public. The attitude toward people attempting to rise in life must be one of sympathy and cooperation instead of unreasonableness. The philosophy of life must be embodied in the Word of God become flesh in every institution we build.

"The voice of God will lose its vitality in religious appeal if we put emphasis in our thoughts and lives that salvation depends on the Word being made flesh."

Rev. Gustavus A. Hulburt, recently pastor of Brown Memorial Church, Baltimore, spoke briefly at the evening service. His text was, "Our God the Lord and Father of us all." He spoke of the need of a personal God and the need of God behind our lives, without which, he said, everything would tend to chaos.

Two other former pastors of St. Paul's spoke Tuesday night. They were Rev. James Fairley of White Plains, N. Y., and Rev. Henry J. Condit, director of the New York Conference of Congregational Churches.

legislation creating the Board of Regents ranks among the most important laws that have been passed recently by the Legislature. The law specifically directs the Board of Regents to determine what the state's needs in higher education are and directs the board to contract on behalf of the state with such institutions that it utilizes for the purpose of higher education and to make appropriations to the institutions utilized for this purpose.

"The municipal university will probably come in New Jersey and will undoubtedly fill an important place in the scheme of higher education," the commissioner asserted.

Dr. Elliott in amplifying the subject of junior colleges said: "One means of supplying higher education to meet the needs of large numbers of the youth of our state is through the organization of junior colleges. Opportunities for cities when they desire to organize public junior colleges with proper restrictions as to enrolments and standards should be afforded. Such junior colleges will offer higher education opportunities near at home and if properly organized will afford a large variety of courses, the two-year college content of which will prepare for many positions in the various professions and in business and commerce. Costs of higher education when distributed in this way would be divided among state aid, relatively low fees for the student, and some municipal contribution."

The president, W. Burton Patrick, superintendent of schools, Orange, presided and other discussion leaders were the following superintendents: Clifford J. Scott, East Orange; James E. Bryan, Camden; Ira T. Chapman, New Brunswick.

"Booz" or "Booze" What's The "Diff" It's All The Same

In these times of prohibition the word "booz" is, of course, well known. At first the word signified liquor in particular, but now practically any drink of intoxicating value is known by the guttural hard-sounding word, "booz."

Very few know where the word originated. During the time of the presidential campaign of William Henry Harrison many schemes were concocted to further that gentleman's presidential ambition. He, it seems, was born in a log cabin. His press agents clutched this piece of information, nursed it in their respective bosoms and brought forth to the light of day a whiskey bottle, for whiskey was a popular drink in the heyday of "gentlemen."

The bottle was shaped in the form of a log cabin with the neck of the bottle for the chimney. On the face were moulded three windows and a door and at the top was a steep roof. The bottles became famous all over the country and are much prized now as souvenirs.

After election came a man, who saw his opportunity and grasped it. He bought the copyright to the log cabin design and had stamped on the roof "E. C. Booz, Old Cabin Whiskey," for his name was E. C. Booz. When customers asked for a bottle of the Log Cabin brand they simply said gave me a bottle of "Booz." Hence we have the word in its present day form and to all intents and purposes it means the same thing.

Nutley's Triumph Gives Them Prestige In Title March

Maroon And Gray Players Overwhelm Kearny High, 25-0

The Nutley High School football team remained in the running for the state championship by crushing Kearny High School's gridgers, 25 to 0. Saturday afternoon on the Hudson county school's gridiron.

Each week the maroon has been showing more class and seemed to have reached its heights against an inspired Kearny aggregation. The hard running quartet of "Zuma" Senter, Hank Stager, Captain Wallace and Alex Baykowski showed to advantage and once under way carried the ball deep down into Kearny territory, and although the Hudson countyites graced they could not thwart the final efforts of the Maroon.

On the other hand the Kearny crew had little to show in the way of an offences, although in the second period Thompson and Oldfield got away to several short gains to give their team life. But they never got within the danger zone. This was were able to penetrate the strong Nutley forward wall for six first downs, but could never get them together.

The contest was hardly under way before the first of the four touchdowns scored by the Maroon had been chalked up. Receiving the kickoff, the tackle thrusts of the Stamford clan added yardage. "Zuma" Senter broke through for a 25-yard plunge, the final chalkline being his stopping point. Jones kicked the goal and Nutley was leading, 7 to 0, before the spectators had a chance to take their seats.

The Kearny team braced temporarily and compelled the Maroon to kick. On a fumble Alex Baykowski recovered and shortly thereafter got on the receiving end of a forward pass hurled by "Hakk" Stager to tally another six-point and raise the score to 13 to 0. Content with this count, the Nutleyites began to experiment without results, as the Fogarty outfit seemed to have found themselves, and there was no more scoring for the rest of the half.

Nutley started the second stanza by carrying the ball down the length of the field to the three-yard mark, where they were held for three downs. Jones, who had been injected in the contest in place of Wallace, found an opening on the left side of the line and went over for a score. He failed in his effort to negotiate the extra point through the drop-kick route.

Another touchdown was added in the final period when, after a series of line plunges, coupled with a forward passing attack that brought the ball deep into Kearny territory, Baykowski wiggled over the line for his second tally of the day.

Thompson and Oldfield scintillated for the homers, while Lugsz, Crawford and Senter were the shining lights for the victors.

Doings in the Field of Sports

This Whirl Of Sport

By Arthur Bloemeke

Following the individual successes of the churches last year, under various names, the Fewsmith church basketball team, sponsored and coached by Charles "Sonny" Knowles, are organizing a league among the churches of the town, which will probably include six teams.

The Wesley church has already signified its intention of entering the proposed league and it is probable that the other churches in town will fall in line with the splendid idea. The teams, which will probably enter, include Belleville Reformed, St. Peter's Grace Baptist, Christ Episcopal, Fewsmith Memorial Presbyterian and Wesley Methodist.

This is the first attempt at uniting the churches in a basketball league and will probably bring about greater co-operation in this phase of community life.

The instigators of this progressive move deserve unqualified credit for the difficulties are many in the formation of a league of this kind, not the least of these being the securing of suitable courts for playing purposes.

The Wesley's and the Fewsmith's are the only two teams having courts of their own at the present time, but there is some chance of the other teams using these courts on which to play their games or finding courts of their own.

Last year, several of the churches had teams that were of high calibre and the other churches have material which should shape up well in the proposed league.

Belleville High School has turned out many a well-equipped athlete, who have gone to higher institutions of learning and made names for themselves. We refer especially to Bill Chapman and Tony Pascal, who played on the Muhlenberg College football team as star attractions.

They made this college team, largely due to their knowledge of the game, learned at Belleville High School under the guidance of Coach Charles L. Steel and Russell Gaston.

Now along comes a more recent graduate, who has secured a berth on the Muhlenberg team, playing his first full game on the varsity eleven last Saturday against Lehigh. And although Muhlenberg was defeated 28-7, Tony Parillo, the lad to whom we refer, was a bulwark of strength for the Allentown team.

Parillo, who plays left guard, was all-state tackle in 1927 on Gus Falzer's mythical football eleven. Parillo was one of the best bets Muhlenberg had on the freshman football team last year, playing nearly every game.

Time after time Lehigh threw its husky halfbacks and fullbacks against Parillo in the game Saturday in an effort to weaken his great defensive work, but notwithstanding this terrific onslaught, he lasted the entire game, with plenty to spare.

But basketball and football are not only sports that are taking the public eye at this time. Bowling, which is just as strenuous, and in addition requires a nicer eye and a better judge of distance, has its many local followers.

In addition to the local Elks, who are represented in two of the strongest leagues in this section, the three loops now bowling on a completed schedule are the Manufacturers, the Church and the American Legion, all strong circuits and of great public interest.

Boys Do You Wish To Play Basketball?

That question can be directed at individuals of 120 pounds or less and the working group. That is, there are two leagues in town being organized, one for the former group, and one for the latter.

Following last week's notice in this paper four teams have expressed their desire to become members of the working group. But, before a well-balanced and desirable league can be formulated at least four more teams are needed. Therefore if your team has not already sent in its application, kindly do so immediately.

The response to the 120 pound group has been rather meek and unless at least eight teams act upon the matter, we will have to give way to another division. So all you grammar school youngsters get busy and send in your applications.

Address all communications to Anthony A. Pascal, Recreation House, Belleville, or call Belleville 3142.

Want Basketball Games

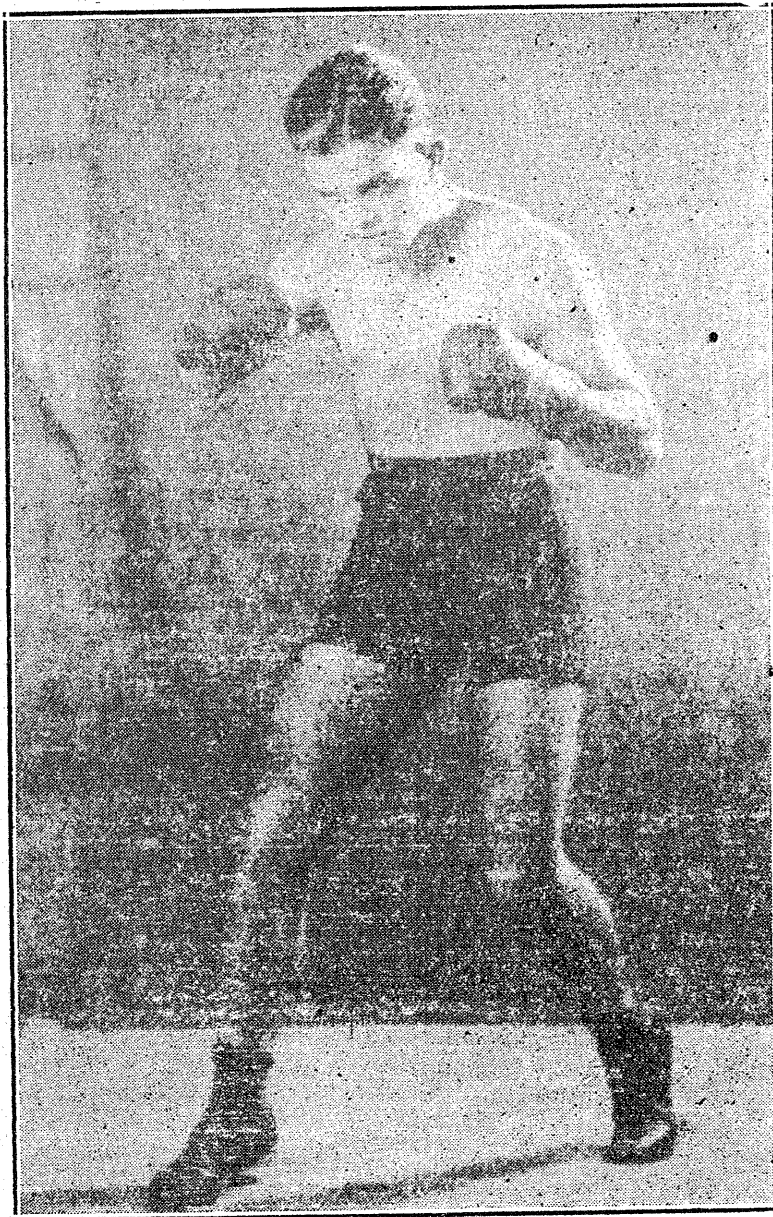

The Pioneer Athletics have organized for the coming 1929-30 basketball season and are in search for games with light senior teams in Belleville.

Teams wishing games may arrange them by writing to Walter Goley, 314 Fulton street, Elizabeth, N. J., or phone Trinity 1115 between 7:30 and 8:30 P. M.

Louis Perez Is Out Of Boxing Game With Injury

LOUIS "KID" PEREZ

Louis "Kid" Perez of 63 Holmes street, known in the prize ring as the "Cuban Shiek," is out of the boxing game for quite some time due to an injury to his hand received in his last fight. His right hand was hurt severely in fighting Alex Touraine when a blow to Touraine's head caused the ligaments in the member to be torn.

Perez is not sure how long he will be forced to stop fighting. It may be all winter, he says, but it won't be any longer than necessary.

He has been fighting in the light-weight division throughout New Jersey and New York. He is considered one of the scrappiest and most aggressive fighters in his division and would have won the fight against Touraine but for this injury.

The injury has caused the cancellation of three fights that Perez had booked for this winter. One of the bouts was with Jack "Kid" Berg of England, European champion of the light-weight division; another bout was with Eddie Reilly, formerly amateur light-weight champion of New York, and with Micky Doyle of Brooklyn.

Intertowns Still Hold Lead In League

The Ints are leading the midget league by one game. Sunday will be seen great action at Yantacaw Park as the Ints will try to make it their second victory over the Red Wings and the Cubs will meet the Questions.

The Question-Cub games is expected to be close. The Ints defeated the Red Wings in the first game of the league by a 12-6 score. The Reds have been the 'only team to cross the Ints' goal line.

Santamassimo, Question's star ball carrier, now leads the league in points scored, followed by Jack Tuozzolo. The Int's line has proved so far to be the best line among the league teams.

Belleville High Grid Squad Overcomes Irvington Team 12-7

Continuing their steam-rolling tactics, which enabled them to crush easily three previous opponents, the Belleville High football squad defeated Irvington, 12-7 Election Day at Olympic Park.

Led by "Ook" Anderten, who made a substantial gain almost every time he took the ball, the local backfield displayed a strong game, both on the offense and the defense. The two Pauls, Short and Schiewer, played in their usual steady form for the Bell-boys, while "Turk" Byrnes completed the brilliant work of the quartet with several long runs, as well as providing some exceptional interference.

As if in anticipation of their hard tussle with Dover next Saturday, the Blue and Gold Warriors, after scoring two touchdowns in the first half, were content to play a mere defensive game and protect their slim margin. Their defensive work was particularly scintillating in the last two minutes of play, when, after Irvington had made a steady march down the field to the local fifteen yard line, the Belleville forward wall held before the Campdowners' line bucks, a blocked aerial on the fourth down giving Belleville the ball and averting disaster.

Getting off to their usual auspicious start, the Golden Horde marched down the field for a touchdown in the opening minutes of play, after Short had intercepted Weiner's attempt at an aerial in mid-field. A sixteen yard off tackle smash by Anderten and a twenty-five yard end run by Short were chiefly instrumental in placing the ball on Irvington's six yard line, from where Short who is at present among the leading point scorers of the state, darted off tackle for the initial Blue and Gold six-pointer. D'Elia's attempted drop-kick for the extra point was blocked.

With "Red" Weiner, Irvington's ace, carrying the pigskin a greater part of the game, the Campdowners also tallied in the first period. After Belleville had scored its touchdown the oval was centered in mid-field, when Short attempted a punt on his own thirty-five yard line. The strong wind, however, spoiled the kick, causing the ball to roll to Belleville's twenty yard line where Irvington gained possession of it. On a series of four line plunges, Weiner took the ball over the line for the losers' lone touchdown. A place kick by the same Mr. Weiner added the extra point, to give the Irvingtonites a short-lived lead.

Early in the second quarter, the Bell-boys threatened the Campdowners' goal, mainly due to the efforts of Schiewer, who made a brilliant forty-five yard run through tackle, after the line had opened a beautiful hole for him. His efforts went for naught, however, as Belleville lost the ball on downs a moment later.

Toward the middle of the quarter, Belleville opened another sustained drive to register their second touchdown of the afternoon. With the ball deep in Irvington territory, Weiner elected to kick and Byrnes took the resulting punt on the fifty yard line and squeezed and squirmed his way through almost the entire Irvington team for a splendid forty yard gain. A trio of line plunges netted the score and Belleville's margin of victory, Schiewer carrying it over on a center rush. Short's attempted drop-kick for the additional point was low and unsuccessful.

At the end of the first half Belleville started another march down the field, which the whistle cut short on Irvington's ten yard stripe.

Both sides waged an even battle throughout the entire third quarter, the ball see-sawing back and forth, with neither team showing any superiority.

Galluba, who was easily the outstanding lineman for the Bell-boys the entire afternoon, provided the defensive gem of the quarter, when he blocked an attempted aerial by Weiner, which was recovered by O'Neil, Belleville end, while the ball was still in the air, on his own thirty-three yard line.

Irvington outplunged the local squad considerably in the final period, but seemed to lack the scoring punch, as the Belleville line rose to the occasion with an admirable display of strength. Near the end of the game, Irvington made a last desperate attempt to tally, carrying the ball to Belleville's fifteen yard line on a steady drive down the field. Galluba again came to the rescue.

Visit College Men

Several young men from this vicinity visited Tony Parillo of Belleville and Joseph Milano of Newark, students at Muhlenberg College, over the week-end. The young men witnessed the Muhlenberg-Lehigh game and stayed over night in the college dormitories.

They were Norman Leach and Edward Taylor of Belleville, William Helwig of Irvington, Edward Siedler, Harold Ruppel and Clarence Smith of Newark. Tony Parillo played almost the entire game at left guard for the Muhlenberg team.

Belleville Legion Bowling Loop Opens In Auspicious Manner

The Belleville American Legion Bowling league inaugurated its 1929-30 season, Monday night, at the North Newark Bowling Academy, in highly successful fashion.

After the brief opening program the pinners set to work, with a resulting set of six matches that could not be duplicated for excitement and action.

Taking three in a row for a clean sweep seemed to be the order of the night for the winning teams, the entire six winning in this impressive fashion. This sextet, who at present occupy the top rung of the league ladder include the Moose, Burke's Colts, Hopple Club, El Club, St. Peter's and the K. of C. who incidentally won their set over the Belleville A. A. by forfeit.

The Burke's Colts, who easily defeated the V. F. W., captured most of the individual honors of the evening, three of the four 200 scores rolled falling to members of their aggregation. Tommie Dunn, ace of the Burke's pin-knights, garnered high scores of 206 and 212, to turn in the best individual performance of the night. Schlecker of Burke's with a 223 score and Garrison of St. Peter's with an even 200 score were the other "near perfect" bowlers.

Those on the committee are Howard Wilson, Marjorie Garruto, Josephine Garruto, Frances Pier, Ernest Kelley, Alice Paddock, Helen O'Neil, Marjorie Ferrara, Frank Huber and Susie Leto.

Clintons Prepare For East Orange Stars

The Clinton A. C., strong local senior football squad, remained idle last Sunday due to inclement weather. The scheduled game for that day with the Bloomfield F. C. will in all likelihood be played off at a later date.

Coach Sullivan, Clinton mentor, ordered a strenuous workout for his charges Election Day and the results were gratifying. "Bungo" Gorham, star back, who had been forced to the sidelines because of an injury received in a previous game with the Grove A. A., reported for practice and will probably start against the East Orange Stars, next Sunday's attraction at Belleville Park.

The East Orange aggregation boasts of former high school stars, among whom are Fesco, former East Orange high back, and Fitzpatrick. West Orange's star half back last year, Carmine, well-known amateur player in East Orange, will also start for the visitors.

The starting lineup against the Stars has not been decided upon by Coach Sullivan, but it will probably be one of the best that has taken the field for the Clintons this season.

Everything points to a successful year for the local squad and to climax the season Manager Nowakowski is endeavoring to have the Seneca A. C. of Long Island, the only team to defeat the Clintons in three years they have been organized, play the Belleville boys at Belleville Park on Thanksgiving Day. It is this Turkey Day classic is arranged the Clinton followers will be assured of a rare treat, as the Senecas have strengthened their team in several departments this year and have yet to receive their first defeat.

"Lawyer" Fined $250 In Belleville Court

Law Clerk's Punishment Is Suspended After Lecture

Recorder George Fitzsimmons does not intend to have law clerks practicing as lawyers in his court. He Monday night fined one $250, but relented and suspended sentence after giving the clerk a stern lecture. Joseph Delesso, said to be a clerk in a law office at 60 Park place, Newark, was the offender. Several months ago, the recorder said Delesso appeared before him as attorney for a transgressing motorist. After the hearing Fitzsimmons became suspicious and investigated. He learned, he said, that the young man had failed the bar examinations four times.

When Delesso appeared Monday night as attorney for Anthony Tulucci, 48, of 42 Gerald street, the recorder remembered him. Tulucci was released in $1,000 bail to appear today in answer to the charge that he beat his wife severely about the head with a bottle.

To Rule On Rail Accident Case

Corporation Counsel Asked To Fix Blame For Lack Of Bumper

On the suggestion of Commissioner Frank J. Carragher the Town Commission has instructed Corporation Counsel John B. Brown to give an opinion next week on whether the Erie Railroad or the Public Utilities Commission should be blamed for the lack of a concrete bumper at the end of a siding at the Schuyler street station.

"I want to give warning in time and place responsibility for this neglect of duty," Mr. Carragher said. "There is only a railroad tie at the end of the siding, where plans called for a concrete bumper. It's the most dangerous trap in town. It was a miracle no one was killed when a coal car toppled over the eighteen foot embankment."

The board supported Mr. Carragher on his motion that the Board of Freeholders be requested to remedy the conditions of the Cedar Hill portion of Belleville avenue. Tar between the paving blocks should be burned out, the commissioner said, and replaced with cement, to prevent skidding of motor vehicles when the pavement is wet.

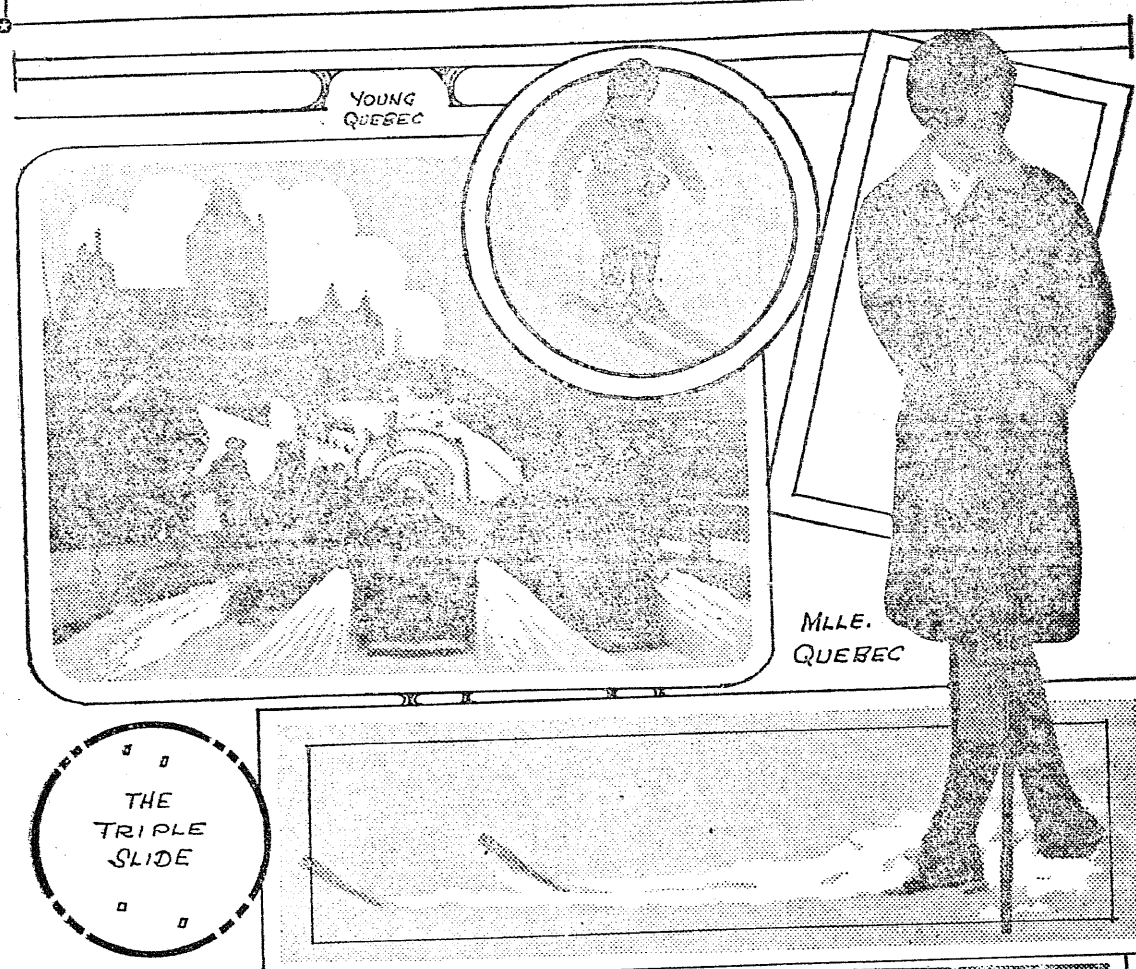

AGED MAN HURT BY AUTO

George Potts, eighty-one, of 260 North Belmont avenue, is in the Mountaineer Hospital in a serious condition after being struck by an automobile at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning at Franklin and Harrison street, Bloomfield. An X-ray showed he suffered six broken ribs.

Eugene M. Cook, of 16 Willett street, Bloomfield, the driver of the car, who was paroled on a charge of automobile assault, told the police Potts stepped from the curb in front of his car.

All Aboard for Old Quebec, the Winter Sports Paradise!

Devotees of winter sports throughout the country are sharpening their skates, oiling their skis and overhauling their sports equipment generally in preparation for the arrival of Old Man Winter, with his snow and ice, which bring sparkle to the eye and a ruddy glow to the cheek.

Quebec, Canada's quaint little city perched high above the broad St. Lawrence, has always enjoyed an enviable reputation as the center of winter sports in North America, and enthusiasts from all parts of the United States, Canada and even from overseas gather there in increasing numbers annually to avail themselves of Quebec's unrivaled facilities for skiing, skating, tobogganing, curling and all the other pursuits which keep their adherents healthy, sharpen the wits and add zest to life.

During the winter season, which usually extends from shortly before Christmas until well into March, every train arriving in Quebec is thronged with joyous, care-free folks who can hardly wait to experience the thrill of zipping down Quebec's famous toboggan slide, extending from the Citadel along Dufferin Terrace past the hospitable Chateau Frontenac, or to put on skis and glide swiftly over the numerous hills of the Quebec countryside, or to don skates and skim over the well-kept rinks or lakes for which the province is renowned.

Then, too, there are snowshoe tramps across the Plains of Abraham, where Wolfe and Montcalm battled to the death, expeditions to Montmorency Falls and the nearby Isle of Orleans across the ice bridge, and many other places to visit and things to do to ensure a jolly good time.

One of the outstanding events of Quebec's winter season is the Eastern International Dog Sled Derby, an epic of the snows which is annually attracting more attention in the sporting world. The course, 120 miles, is covered in three days, and the races are usually held the third week in February. The Fete de Nuit, another attraction held early in February, is most spectacular. Hundreds of snowshoers storm the Citadel on the Heights of Quebec in an effort to take it from its defenders. A colorful torchlight parade through the streets follows the mock siege. Quebec, with its old world atmosphere, is particularly charming when blanketed with huge drifts of snow.

Modern Girl Not Brainless Flapper

Says Woman Member of Congress

Mrs. McCormick Believes Modern Tendency Is Toward Serious Side of Life, Forsaking Fads.

By MABEL LOVE

AMERICAN girls have begun to back-track toward sanity in matters of health, matrimony and intelligent preparation for a useful career in life.

This is the opinion of Ruth Hanna McCormick, Congresswoman-at-large from Illinois, a daughter of the once politically powerful Mark Hanna, and one of the country's leaders in the feminist movement.

Herself a mother of three children, one of them a girl of sixteen, Mrs. McCormick is peculiarly fitted to express an opinion on the youth of today.

Her far flung interests, which include the management of an immense farm in Illinois and operation of a large metropolitan newspaper, give Mrs. McCormick a slant on life that is always fresh and broad enough to encompass the viewpoint of the younger generation in which she is keenly interested.

"The modern girl," said Mrs. McCormick, "is beginning to think in terms of public service. She is convinced as never before, that a healthy body is the best means of conserving her energy in order that she may successfully cope with complex problems."

Mrs. McCormick cited the passing of the once popular craze for a boyish figure, gained a majority of times only after good health had been sacrificed as an example of the new thought.

Know A B C's of Diet
"The straws of fashion are blowing in the right direction," she said, "and girls no longer shun the foods so necessary to their best development. Frequently the young girl inquires 'what shall I eat to keep me in the best physical condition in order that I may get the most out of life?'"

"And the answer is that they should have balanced diets containing sugars, starches, proteins, fats and the A. B. C. of nutrition, the vitamins, A, B, C, D and E. Among the most important foods are those which supply heat and vitality to the body, namely, the sugars and

SOLDIER SONGS

The popularity among veterans of the World War of a new book, "Songs My Mother Never Taught Me" will depend largely upon the omissions that the authors and publishers have deemed it expedient to make. For the war songs most enthusiastically sung by soldiers were not of the stamp of "A Long, Long Trail Is Winding" and "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

One would not belittle those two sentimental ditties and others of their innocent kind. They were popular and served a good purpose. They could be sung anywhere, at any time. But one submits that the war songs of greatest value were those which served as outlets for stored-up resentment against a cold discipline, for accumulated emotional energy and for hardship-born desire to paint the whole wide world red. These were the real safety-valve songs. They prevented more riots and sweetened more tempers than all the saccharine ballads ever composed.

There comes to mind, for example, a black, wet night in a wood just behind the front. Men who are dirty, hungry, exhausted and disgruntled lie or sit about on the ground. Tired horses are tethered to trees, and scattered through the neighborhood there is an amazing jumble of harness, guns, caissons, park wagons and miscellaneous equipment that constitutes a more intricate assembly problem than a thousand Humpty-dumpty that have fallen off walls. The Captain, who happens to be a most unpopular commanding officer by reason of his harshness, lifts up his voice in the murk and announces that the outfit will at once harness and hitch and return to the front.

A wail and curses go up. Mutiny is in the air. Then out of the black night comes a mocking voice singing the first bar of a dubious song, the words of which constitute a blasting indictment of the Captain himself, without reservation or equivocation. The whole battery chimes in, gloriously insubordinate, and shouts out its defiance to the ultimate epithet.

A pause. But there is no roar of indignation from the old man. A broad grin is on his face. He may be a hard taskmaster, but he knows his psychology. And half an hour later the outfit is miraculously on the road, as shipshape as if it had just pulled off the parade ground at high noon of a fine summer's day.

No anthem would have harnessed and hitched that battery, or even tempered its bitterness. So let's have the real war songs. The veterans, some now bald, some now fat, will fill in the blanks it may be necessary to leave in anticipation of the censor.

THE SUNSET OF LIFE

There has been a great deal of discussion about the supposed increase in the "span of life" in recent years. Dr. Louis I. Dublin, the accomplished statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, who is perhaps the leading authority on the subject, now tells the American Public Health Association, in session at Minneapolis, that the "span of life" really remains stationary, but that the "expectation of life" has increased. The distinction at first seems to be vague, but it is really plain enough. At any particular point in your life, up to, say, the age of 70, you may now reasonably "expect" to live longer; but at or about that age your structure will wear out and you will break down, very much as your grandfather did. In a population of 120,000,000 in the United States, there are about 700,000 who are over the age of 80. That is to say, your "expectation" of life after that age is only about six-tenths of 1 per cent. No larger proportion of veterans of the Civil War, for example, will reach the age of 100 than of the Veterans of the Revolutionary War. Twenty years have indeed been added to the average age by sanitation and better circumstances of life, but to get the average fact has to be considered that fewer people die young.

Thus says the statistician. In the meantime, he does not deny that the octogenarians and the nonagenarians are at least having a better time than such old fellows had 50 or 100 year ago. They are living, in increased ease and comfort. To them that must be the main thing.

Old age has become better worth living. If the breakdown is inevitable, it is at least easier.

EDISON'S STAGE FRIGHT

Those who listened to the Edison speech over the radio at the Ford banquet and heard the aged inventor suddenly end his speech with a faltering sob felt the aged inventor had collapsed at the microphone.

But Mr. Edison explains the puzzling incident by saying that as he neared the end of his speech he suddenly found himself unable to pronounce the last few words. He summoned all his will power in vain, but could not finish. He attributes his vocal breakdown to a sudden attack of stage fright, which robbed him of speech for a moment.

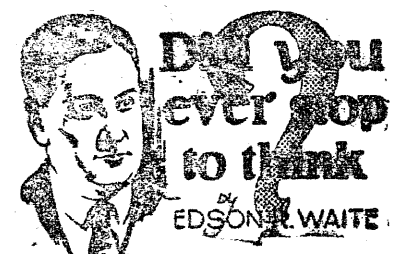

Mr. Edison's case is not unusual. Stage fright in acute form is a paralyzing thing.

BEAUTIFYING THE ROADS

Much is being done these days to beautify the highways, and much can be done. State Governments are interested; they want to do what they can to counteract the ugliness of billboards and hot dog stands. Billboards we hope some day may go. As for the eating places and the filling stations, they serve a good and worthy purpose, and perhaps when the governments have done their work of beautification satisfactorily the owners of roadside stands will get into the spirit and do their part to help the cause along.

What many of the states are doing consists of planting rows of trees along certain barren stretches of road, removing thick growth that conceals vistas, covering up cuts and embankments with grass and bushes. Visitors to Europe come back with stories of the beauties of the roadside there; countries like England and France seem immense gardens or parks. We do not want to imitate, of course; we do not want to ape France, for instance, by planting long rows of poplar trees. We could never hope to have the same effect. New Jersey could work along the line of preserving and enhancing her natural, informal beauty. And, after all, there is nothing prettier and lovelier than the New Jersey country landscape at its best.

There are some philanthropic people who would like to see fruit trees grown along the highways—a combination of beauty and utility that suggests the spirit of ancient Greece. The hungry traveler could eat of the fruit and pass on refreshed. Things do not work out in that ideal way in America. We saw in the New York Times a letter written by a wealthy benevolent citizen of that state! He tells of the long rows of fruit trees he once planted along a certain highway. Crowds came during the fruit season; and in the scramble to "beat the other fellow to it," limbs were broken off and the trees rendered unsightly. He had them removed and, still hopeful, had pine trees planted at great expense in their places. But a similar thing happened—the trees were chopped down by the wholesale at the Christmas season. And this man's experience, we fear, would be the experience of any other who would be inclined to do likewise. It is not wise apparently to make beautification a temptation as well.

Citizen Cites

Second thoughts may be best, but they usually arrive too late to turn the trick.

What the road to success needs is more service stations.

A fool and his money are soon married.

It is the man who is on the run who gets the world's kicks.

A tight shoe is one thing that makes you acknowledge the corn.

You can usually judge defaulting employees by their disappearances.

Every time is train time at a railroad crossing.

Advertising is the oil that lubricates the marching of business.

It is all right to leave foot prints on the sands of time, provided they point the right way.

People who suffer in silence rarely forget to mention it afterward.

A hypocrite is a man who pretends to believe and sympathize when you claim symptoms like his.

Living the simple life is always attractive—to those who don't have to live it.

The man who sits and waits for success to come to him is sure to win the endurance test.

Most trains of thought never get us any place.

A MINISTER'S FAREWELL
"Brothers and sisters, I come to say goodby. I don't think God loves this church because none of you ever die. I don't think you love each other because I never marry any of you. I don't think you love me because you have not paid my salary. Your donations are moldy fruit and wormy apples, for 'by their fruits ye shall know them.'"
"Brethren, I am going away to a better place. I have been called to be chaplain of the state penitentiary. 'Where I go you cannot come, but I go to prepare a place for you,' and may the good Lord have mercy on your souls!"

Judge (after charging jury)—"Is there any question that anyone would like to ask before considering the evidence?"
Juror—"A couple of us would like to know if the defendant boiled the malt one or two hours, and how does he keep the yeast out?"

"I can't do a thing with Parker," said the manager. "I've had him in three departments, and he does all day long."
"Put him at the pajama counter," suggested the proprietor, "and fasten a card on him with these words: 'Our pajamas are of such superior quality that even the man who sells them cannot keep awake.'"

Wasey—Did you do much reading while you were on your vacation?
Gamble—Yes, a whole lot.
Wasey—What did you read?
Gamble—Mostly signposts, and route numbers.

The marriage was one of the big events of the week. But everything did not go too well.
"Yes," said Marian, "She was furious about the way her marriage was reported."
"Why, did it allude to her age?" asked Grace.
"Indirectly. It stated that Miss Brown and Mr. Wallace were married, the latter being a well-known collector of antiques."

Ichabod—I certainly regret the passing of long hair and hair pins.
Cranium—How come?
Ichabod—Well, when my wife had her mouth full of hairpins she could not bawl me out!

Old Lady (to druggist)—"I want a box of canine pills."
Druggist—"What's the matter with the dog?"
Old Lady (indignantly)—"I'll have you know my husband is a perfect gentleman."
The druggist put up some quinine pills in profound silence.

Earth and the Senate.
200 American Dialects.
Senator Nye, in a Hurry.
A Million-Year Machine.

THE earth turns on its axis, about 1,000 miles an hour, 25,000 miles in twenty-four hours. Because of its size, the earth's motion is slow.

At the same comparative rate of speed you could not detect any motion in a cart wheel, revolving once in twenty-four hours.

However, as President Hoover justly complains, there is something slower, and that's the Senate's motion on the tariff.

It has been considering a tariff bill, as the President says, "since June, with fifteen schedules to work out, and has not yet completed schedule 1."

Dr. Greet teaches English to girls at Barnard College and proves, with his phonograph, that there are two hundred American dialects, between the two oceans, the Great Lakes and the Gulf.

At least all Americans understand each other.

It is not so in France. There a peasant from Brittany cannot understand another from the Midi.

The number of the American dialects reminds you of a beautiful poem about the soldiers each remembering a different name, but "all sang Annie Laurie."

Americans may speak 200 dialects, but they all understand each other when they talk about the dollar, which is a sort of national "Annie Laurie."

Senator Nye, of North Dakota, wants Wall Street and "all speculation sifted." What's more, he wants a remedy ready by February 1.

That's a short time for so big a job.

The Malay, in his breech clout, bets on cock fights.

The proud Red Indian piles up his shirt and blanket, bets them on a pony race, standing in dignified nudity.

Two ways of getting something. One is to work, the other, to gamble.

Ninety per cent of human beings prefer the gambling way.

That will be changed a good deal later than February 1, 1930.

Daniel Guggenheim and his son, Harry S. Guggenheim, recently appointed American Minister to Cuba, have wound up their admirable work for aviation with an additional gift of $500,000. They had already spent $4,000,000 encouraging new flying ideas, the establishment of a school of aeronautics, and other intelligent flying promotion.

The people are indebted to the Guggenheims, father and son, for this work. Big fortunes justify themselves by doing big things.

The Pacific Relations Conference opened in Kyoto with two unpleasant notes.

There were Chinese attacks on Japan and her policies. And the Japanese Viscount Shibusawa, of Japan, said the wound caused by American exclusion of Asiatic emigration, "so needlessly reflected on our national honor, is still open, and will remain open until the matter has been rightly settled."

That wound may be open, but it should not be. There is great respect for Japan in this country, and our exclusion programme is practically a confession of inability to meet Japanese competition here at home.

Incidentally, the United States exclusion laws are no more severe than those enforced by the British Government in Canada, less severe than those in force in Australia and New Zealand.

And Japan says little about exclusion of Japanese immigration by her recent ally, the British Empire.

New York's hospitals own $1,000,000 worth of radium, 16 grams, which wouldn't occupy much space on the tip of your finger.

That is a good investment. $1,000,000 worth of the finest machinery that men ever made would wear out ten thousand times with that radium still working, sending out electrons from its millions of atoms at frightful velocity, penetrating and destroying germs of disease, deadly to men, without proper precaution.

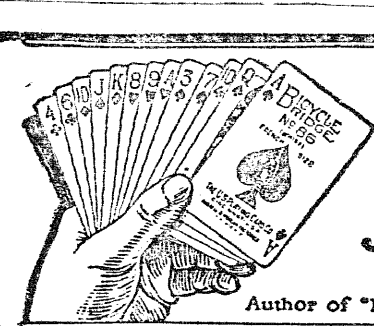

A million years will pass. New York will disappear. Oceans and continents will change their places. And the tiny particles of radium will still be at work.

In Paris, where American fools spend their money and wise Americans study French efficiency, those that seek to please the fools have invented something new. Finger nails are to be dyed emerald green, in keeping with emerald jewelry, now fashionable, and other nails will be dyed sapphire blue.

The colors will be in keeping with the painted faces of some modern women.

The most important financial news, nothing to do with Wall Street, tells you that New Jersey, first among the States, has absolutely wiped out the gypsy moth.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1929-30 by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright, 1929, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 5

In one of our preceding articles, a very interesting hand was given that was played at an Auction Bridge Tournament at Chicago and the statement was made that none of the experts made game on this hand. In the analysis given, a number of ways of playing the hand were considered, some of which scored game and some of which did not.

Hearts—J, 10, 9, 2
Clubs—J, 9
Diamonds—10, 7, 6, 4
Spades—A, Q, 10

Hearts—8
Clubs—A, 10, 8, 5
Diamonds—A, K, Q, J
Spades—J, 6, 4, 2

Hearts—K, 7, 5, 4
Clubs—K, 7, 6, 4
Diamonds—9, 8, 5, 3, 2
Spades—none

Hearts—A, Q, 6, 3
Clubs—Q, 3, 2
Diamonds—none
Spades—K, 9, 8, 7, 5, 3

No score, first game. Z dealt and bid one spade. A bid one trump, Y bid two spades and B bid three diamonds. Z bid three spades, A bid four diamonds, Y bid four spades, B and Z passed. A doubled, all passed and A opened the king of diamonds. How should Z plan the play of the hands?

Solution: "I believe the hand can make four and game by the declarer trumping the first diamond lead and then leading a small club. If second hand passes, play the nine of clubs in the dummy, the trick being taken by the king in the fourth hand. (It makes no difference if second hand takes with the ace). Presume the fourth hand then leads a diamond which is trumped by declarer, who makes another small club lead which is taken by the ace in the second hand. Then a third diamond lead which is trumped again. Declarer then leads a trump which trick is won in the dummy by the ten spot. Dummy then leads the jack of hearts and then the ten of hearts which is trumped by the second hand. Presume this hand to then lead the fourth diamond which is trumped by declarer who then leads the king of spades, overtakes in the dummy, exhausts trumps, and plays hearts and finally the good queen of clubs. Defense has three tricks, two clubs and one trumped heart. How about it?"

One of the interesting phases of Auction that appeals to most players is a comparison of one's own game with that of players of other sections or countries. A tournament has just been conducted in England in which the following hands were submitted for competition. Figure out the correct bid in each instance and compare your results with the analyses and the awards of the Judges in the English competition that will be given in the next article. Such comparison should be most interesting.

Z is always the dealer and the other players sit around the table as follows:

Y B
A Z

1. Z Y 18; A B nil in rubber game, where Z bids "Two Spades" and A and Y say, "No Bid," what should B say, holding Spades, 8, 6; Hearts, A, 10, 9; Diamonds, A, K, 4; Clubs, A, K, Q, J, 4?

2. At love all in the first game, where Z says "No Bid"; A, "One Heart"; Y, "Two Clubs"; B, "Two Spades"; holding Spades, J, 10, 9, 6, 5; Hearts, 9; Diamonds, A, K, 9, 5; Clubs, A, 10, 7?

NOTES

Sunday morning at the Grace Church, Mr. McCombe will have for his subject "The Inheritance." The evening service at 7:45 P. M. will begin with a song service. Have you heard the people of Grace Church sing? If you have not you have missed a pleasant evening. After song service, the pastor of Grace Church will speak on "He Said It." You know the man. The one that meets you and entertains you with scraps of information that may or not be true. Of course you are told in confidence; but the birds of the air are listening, and what you are told—Sub Rosa—is soon public property, and another innocent victim is added to the list. Come out Sunday evening and see if you recognize this man.

Tuesday evenings the pastor of Grace Church will discuss the Church Covenant, during November. Come and ask any question you may have in mind in regard to the covenant. Mr. McCombe will be pleased to answer any and all questions at these meetings. The meetings will begin promptly at 7:45.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Grace Church will meet Thursday afternoon in the Ladies' Parlor. Grace Church is justly proud of this devoted band of women. Under the able leadership of Mrs. George Wer-ick, time and talent is devoted to the building up of the general interests of Grace Church. Today, what would the churches be without the consecrated abilities of these noble women? Every pastor in Belleville knows what a wonderful help his woman's society is to the church; and the minister of Grace Church is no exception.

Grace Church is evidently getting there if the attendance at the Sunday services are any indication. The stormy weather of last Sunday did not prevent large audiences from attending both services, to give encouragement to the pastor, in his effort to make Grace Church a leader in the community. The pastor of Grace Church in his quiet way is endeavoring to build up a church that will be an honor to the community; and invites all without a church home to worship with us.

The Young People of Grace Church are energetic and their meetings are full of "pep" Sunday evenings. Many of them are giving themselves with fidelity, to the part which they take in the play; that is to be given sometime in December. Mr. Herbert Wells who is directing the play says, "That the spirit shown by the young people, in practice, gives evidence that it will be the best play that has yet been given under his direction." Watch the News for full particulars.

SUNBEAMS

Sunbeams, a Junior Branch of the International Sunshine Society, will hold its first doll show, doll furniture and doll dishes show at 31 Bell street Saturday afternoon.

There will be awards in the way of ribbons for dolls—the prettiest, funniest, largest, smallest, oldest, newest, most original, and the doll with the cleverest design in the way of costume.

Doll furniture, and doll tea-sets will receive ribbons for the prettiest, oldest, newest and smallest.

Bernice and Helen Ruff are coaching the dancing, and there will be a tap dance by Janet Smith, up-to-date dancing by Janet Dear, waltz clog by the Ruff sisters—this is their specialty—and a recitation by Lorraine Ransom.

Miriam Rosenblum is in charge of tickets.

Proceeds will go for Thanksgiving cheer for those in dire need. The next meeting of the Branch will be held at 31 Bell street November 14, at 8:30. It business permits there will be singing after the meeting. The children never seem to lose interest in those less fortunate, and are now anxious to piece quilts for the Blind Kiddies in the Arthur Home in Summit. They will do all the cutting of blocks, piecing, and later on will be taught to quilt. More than forty children between the ages of three years and eleven are in attendance, and more are joining at every meeting. The Senior Branch is very proud of its Juniors and the good work done.

The consistory of the church has set aside the month of November to gather pledges to wipe out the indebtedness of the old church incurred during the renovation. We appeal to all friends of the church and all citizens who like to see the church of Revolutionary days stand as a monument of the early days of our country's history. This debt is only four thousand dollars, but the consistory desires it wiped out by December 1.

November 15, 8 P. M.—The Consistory will meet in regular session.

REDEEMER LUTHERAN

Broadway at Carteret street, Newark
Paul F. Arndt, pastor

10:30 A. M.—"How Blessed Are the Sheep of Jesus—" No evening services and no Sunday School this Sunday owing to the celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of Luther's Catechism which will be held in the Elliott Street School Hall at 3:30 P. M.

Lutherans of the Synodical Conference in Newark and adjacent cities are making elaborate preparations for a fitting celebration of two great events in the history of the Lutheran Church and Protestantism: the 400th anniversary of the Diet of Spire and of Luther's Catechism.

At the Diet of Spire the Lutheran princes upheld the principle: "In matters of conscience the majority has no power over the minority." This principle was upheld over and against the Catholic party which insisted on the enforcement of this principle. For this act the Lutherans were denominated Protestants. Thus Luther wrote his catechism because he saw the great need for thorough and systematic instruction in the chief parts of the Christian faith. It was an immediate success and its popularity has continued down to the present day. Lutheran churches still use it as a text-book in religion, it is said.

The catechism is written in simple language, has a deep devotional note and is free from any polemical element, and is of rare literary excellence.

The celebration is to be held Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Elliott Street School Hall, Summer avenue and Elliott street, Newark. A mass choir and a children's chorus will render special selections. Dr. W. A. Maier of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo., an outstanding speaker of the Lutheran Church, will deliver the chief address.

Baptist Society Honors Local Italian Church

The Italian Baptist Church, Silver Lake section, was given a silver cup by the Baptist Home Mission Society at the session of the New Jersey Convention in Atlantic City last week. It was given in recognition of outstanding achievement among the Italian churches operating under the society in this country.

Organized fifteen years ago as a mission of First Baptist Church of Bloomfield, the church became self-supporting several months ago and is the only independent Italian church in the United States operating under the society.

The trophy, presented by Rev. Dr. Frank Smith, secretary of the society was accepted by Rev. Benedetto Pascale, who has been pastor from the start.

The ceremony of acceptance included a short exercise called "The Model Church," given by the male quartet of the choir, composed of James Petrucci, Thomas Discepoli, Rocco LeBond and Louis Calabria. Mr. Petrucci recited and Mrs. Pascale, wife of the pastor, accompanied the singing.

The church also was given the cup offered for the largest representation at the convention in proportion to numerical strength and distance traveled. The cup was displayed Thursday night at the mid-week prayer service of the church.

Young people's clubs of the church held a Halloween social Friday. Prizes for costumes and games were given.

Friendly Playground, conducted with the cooperation of the Belleville Recreation Commission, is still open. Volunteer leaders from the church have been in charge since the close of the regular playground season last August.

A decorative arch between the playground and the parsonage has been completed. The structure was the gift of members. It marks the beginning of preparations for the fifteen-year jubilee.

"Touchdown" Talk Before Bible Class

The topic for next Sunday morning's talk at the Everyman's Bible Class will be "Touchdown." Rev. Edgar M. Compton is to be the speaker.

The attendance last Sunday was very good and the talk by Leonard R. Memmott on "Trading Today for Tomorrow" was much enjoyed.

Wesley M. E. Church Bazaar Offers Exceptional Affair Thursday And Friday

The Wesley Church annual fair and Bazaar has once more rolled around and it is said that plans are plentiful to make this year's affair the largest ever attempted. It will be held on next Thursday and Friday evenings, November 14 and 15. The official opening will be at 2:30 on Thursday afternoon when all booths will be ready following three or four days' preparation. That evening a regular dinner will be served beginning at 5:30 and will be a treat especially at the attractive price of eighty-five cents. The Ladies' Aid Society, the Young Women's Auxiliary and the Women's Missionary Societies will have general supervision of the dining room. Friday evening a cafeteria supper will be served with an imposing variety of edibles to choose from.

A letter describing the fair in brief has been widely circulated among all church members and associates to acquaint all with the purchasing possibilities and the good time and good fellowship and association which always make the affair a well-thought-out undertaking.

Rev. Compton expressed extreme satisfaction with the progress made and the hearty cooperation of all to make the fair a deserved success.

A committee composed of John De Graw, president; Burton Colehamer, secretary; L. G. Davenport, treasurer, and Frank Siegler, general chairman are cooperating with the chairman of the various societies and organizations, who form the general committee. The chairman of each society and the work they will undertake are as follows: Mrs. W. H. Bradshaw and Mrs. W. Wakefield of the Ladies' Aid Society in charge of Fancy Goods, Aprons, the White Elephant, 25 cent table and collecting pennies, which is a pastime all its own; Mrs. LeRoy H. Bunnell, the Young Women's Auxiliary, charge of candy sales and the popular 10 cent booth. The Women's Missionary Societies will aid the Ladies' Aid Society; Mr. J. Henry Stier, with committee, will represent the Sunday School which will have charge of promoting sales of all toys of various shapes and sizes. Miss Martha Davenport is chairman for the Epworth League which will display attractive handkerchiefs in a special booth. Chester Kraft is chairman of the booth where the 3B's will hold forth, selling grab bags and conducting the Marriage Court which is usually very busy as well as the "Cop."

There will be a particularly interesting haven for all seeking fine presents for the men folks at the Men's Shop, to be conducted by the combined forces of super-salesmen of the Men's Club and Everyman's Bible Class under the chairmanships of John Ray and William H. Bradshaw.

The Wemec Dramatic Club will have charge of the Fortune Teller's tent under the direction of John Carrough and where the lines of the hand will tell all and you may know just what to expect in the future for the modest sum of ten cents. The Fortune teller might also suggest that the caller see the coming production of the club on November 22 at the high school and which will be

International Faith Has Been Placed In Nash Company

Kenosha, Wis., November 8.—C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motors Company, reviewed one of the most striking expressions of international confidence that has come to him in his long and successful manufacturing career, today.

It appeared in the form of a report on overseas orders for hundreds of the new Nash "400" series cars, which were introduced a month ago, and none of which had been seen in any of the foreign countries at the time the urgent orders were filled.

Among the significant "sight-unseen" demand was an order for new Twin Ignition Eighties, Twin Ignition Sixes, and Single Sixes, worth approximately a half million dollars at retail, for distribution in the Argentina territory, where a few short years ago transportation ran to the tow pony and ox cart. It was accompanied by a note of appreciation for the mechanical and appearance advancements in the new cars as revealed by preliminary drawings and description.

Another example was a big order for cars from Belgium where there is being prepared a Nash showing for the coming Brussels automobile show, and where confidence is expressed in the instant popularity of the new Nash models in Europe.

Export officials reported many other orders of like nature received from distributors in all parts of the world.

"Mail orders have built many a gigantic business institution, but few people care to buy their automobiles exclusively through the study of drawings and descriptive matter," said C. H. Bliss, sales manager, after checking over the over-seas demand and the shipments which are going forward as rapidly as Nash production permits. "We all feel that this pressing demand from foreign countries, appearing before our dealers have even seen the new cars, is a highly satisfactory expression of foreign confidence in Nash products and in American industry generally, and that it forecasts another year of good Nash business."

Paul Dowe and Bernice La Compte conducted the Junior assembly of last week. Paul led the students in prayer and Bernice La Compte was director of the singing.

Miss Helen Hollberg, German teacher has formed a German band in the High School composed of Irving Kirschnier, saxophonist and director; Charles Cummings, violinist; Norman La Bar, pianist; Wilbur Lorenze, trumpettist, and Willie Davis, drummer. The band played for the first time on Junior morning, last week, an "Indian" selection and by the applause that followed it is to be taken that they performed well.

Captain Crossbones and his band of pirates have been reported being in Belleville and don't forget citizens and students, Miss Walters' promise of unusual entertainment in the near future. Who knows? Perhaps there is some connection.

According to all reports "Egbert" and "Cuthbert" of Belleville High fame are soon to be annihilated. Billie Gray is a popular man at Belleville High, in fact he has been called upon by most all the teachers to stay in every night.

Benjamin Minifie of the class of 1929 is a Freshman at Lehigh. He returned home last Friday afternoon to spend the week-end with his family for the first time in two long months. Bonnie is a regular on the freshman soccer team, and not being content by having accomplished so much he has also gotten himself the job of a reporter on the "Lehigh Brown and White." Benjamin will have it known that he is no back number.

On rainy days, after school, there is to be noticed a strange odor from the confines of the gymnasium. Small wonder Coach Erickson is holding skull practice with the football squad.

For the last two weeks all the United States has been commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the incandescent lamp.

Charles L. Steel, principal of Belleville High School, arranged for a Mr. Holmes of Nyack, to talk of the achievements of Edison to the student body. Mr. Holmes said that Edison was of an inquisitive nature, thereby making possible all of his wonderful inventions. Another term was "bunk of curiosity," which means about the same thing, he added. He said the electrical wizard has obtained over 1,100 patents.

As many know Mr. Edison is deaf. This he attributes to the fact that as a boy while working on the Grand Trunk Railroad an impatient conductor grasped him by his ears while he was standing on the ground and lifted him on to the train. Mr. Holmes spoke of the faithfulness of Edison, how each week part of his meager earnings went to his parents.

Of Edison's many inventions the storage battery is but a small part, even though it took 50,000 experiments to produce it and even then it was not perfect, he said. As part of his subject Mr. Holmes showed the evolution of the lamp. The first he showed was but a large piece of wood, which he said was prehistoric man's only means of illumination. The next to be shown was a two-handled urn resembling incense burners. This he said had been dug out of the Babylonian ruins and was 8,000 years old. Another was the type of lamp that came over on the "Mayflower." The last one was a "Paul Revere" lamp which derives its name from the fact that it was the kind used at the time that Paul Revere had his merry escapade.

Many of the old lamps consisted only of a candle and holder, of the candles there was but one kind, and that was tallow; but of the holders there were many. A well known one was the "Hog Scraper" candle holder, and as might be guessed, the farmer used it to scrape the bristles off of the hog's back. Years ago one of the many duties of the housewife was to make the candles that were so necessary. The candle molds that had to be made by the village blacksmith were made in groups of six, twelve, thirty-six and seventy-two. Mr. Holmes finished his display by lighting one of the latest type incandescent lamps, and it shed its brilliance over most all of the auditorium platform.

Tony "push 'em up" Parilla, Belleville High graduate and former football star, is a Sophomore at Muhlenberg college and played the entire game last Saturday against Lehigh. Tony was a mountain of strength at the position of left guard and played a stellar game according to Eddie Taylor who witnessed the game.

West Point Trip

The lucky members of the high school football squad who made the trip to West Point last Saturday are: Paul Short, captain; Paul Schwieler, Alfred Anderson, James Byrnes, Fred Plenge, Robert Jackson, Jerry Bonavita, Homer Estelle, Louis Galuba, Morris Udansky, Tony D'Elia, Harold Bade, Harold "Butter" Brand, Ralph Casale, Thomas Mullin, Charles Plenge, Joseph Roberti, William Brumbach, Harry Brumbach, Nick DeJura, Edward O'Neill, Stanley Goodrich, John Ryder, Tony Pascale, William Griffin, Lloy "Milo" Salters.

Those who offered their cars to take the members of the football squad on the trip are Henry Haffner, Paul Schwieler, Paul Short, Coach Erikson, Charles Steele, Chuck Plenge, Elwood Ferguson. As a group the cars left late in the morning and proceeded on their way until they reached Haverstraw, where they stopped and ate. On reaching West Point they sought out Major Tate who took them about the grounds and finally went to see the Army team beat South Dakota, 33-0. Meanwhile the entire group got thoroughly drenched. They all reached Belleville safely a little before eight o'clock. The entire day was a pleasant one for all and the only disappointment was the fact that they missed the dress parade.

The annual Hallowe'en party of Belleville High School, which was given by the Senior class of 1930, turned out to be a huge success. The gym looked very picturesque with all of the decorations that had been made and hung about. The entrances were all gaily designed with the colors of orange and black, and overhead were countless balloons fastened to twisted streamers which were intercrossed the whole length of the gym. Over all reigned a feeling of comfort and good cheer. On the gym floor had been placed lounges, chairs and benches for those who wished to relax between dances and for those who made dignified efforts to conceal their identity.

Among the numerous characters were the ever present clowns, Russian costumed in all colors, military men of high rank, fastidious French maids, hoboes such as had never been seen before, salt-crusted mariners of the deep accompanied by feminine tars of the blue, colored folks of all sizes and dimensions, pretty girls with red and white heart costumes, French pierrots in black and white suits, horrible pirates with cutlass and pistol, old fashioned ladies dressed in lacy colonial costumes and shimmering silver colour wigs, "Al Jolson" of real aspect, straw headed toilers of the soil, haughty spanish ladies, original costumes of all sorts, rah-rah girls, maculine ladies, dutch girls, devils with cotton stuffed horns, tall and burly lumberjacks, but one marine and one aviatrix, little girls with big bows, black quid Chinamen, distinguished gentlemen with lace edged masks, sleek visaged bedabbed redskins, brilliantly dressed gypsies, and last but not least the Freshman who promiscuously thrust themselves upon most everyone in an effort to conceal their persons from the vengeful sophomores.

The schedule of the high school hallowe'en party as given by Jimmy Lynch, master of ceremonies was as follows: "Paul Jones dance 9:30; the grand march, 10:30; prizes to be given after, and finally the lucky number dance.

The judges were Mr. Folsom, Miss Keller and Miss Schenck and after much selecting and many huddles, Curtis Mallick was chosen as being the best dressed girl; Doris Geiger as the best dressed girl; Harry Boyd, funniest; and ye scribe as most original.

The refreshment end of the party was well taken care of by George Haslam and Dorothea Snider. There was to be had delicious cider and cakes of all kinds.

The party broke up at 11:45. Naturally we take it for granted that everyone hurried home and tried to store up all the funny events of the evening, so as to be able to recall them on Monday morning and chide the luckless members of the happenings.

P. S. Informs Town Of Bus Line Changes

Would Extend And Cut Out Two And Re-Route Another

Plans of the Public Service Corporation Transport to extend two bus lines in Belleville, re-route another and abandon two lines were submitted by the company Tuesday night at the Town Commission meeting and the changes concurred in by the board.

The principal change will affect the Nutley-North Newark line. Instead of operating over Verona avenue, Newark, to and from North Newark terminus the route will be in Broadway, Newark, to Washington avenue, to Joralemon street to Franklin avenue and thence to Nutley, as at present. The present route is from Verona avenue to Union avenue, to Belleville avenue to New street to Joralemon street to Nutley.

In connection with this change the present Bloomfield-Nutley line will be discontinued. To provide Nutley-Bloomfield service, however, the Watessing line will be extended from its present terminus at Belleville and Bloomfield line in Joralemon street to Franklin avenue, there linking with the Nutley-North Newark route. Elimination of the Berkeley line in Bloomfield is planned by extension of the Grove street-Cross town line on which thirty buses will be added. From Bloomfield avenue and Grove street this change would benefit Belleville by a new route in Franklin street, Harrison street, Willet street and Belleville avenue. This line would then continue to Broad street, Bloomfield to the D. L. & W. Railroad. The Affiliated Improvement Association of Belleville fav-

Shepard Bill

Corporation Counsel John B. Brown reported that inasmuch as the town had requested "profiles of grades which are crossed by the Erie tracks" in Belleville and former Town Engineer Frank T. Shepard had given "data and blue prints indicating present and previous elevations of tracks at points where crossed by Belleville streets" it would not be legal to pay Shepard $100 which the board had agreed was the amount it should pay to have the work done. A week will be taken to get the information desired at which time it is expected Shepard will be paid.

Brown added the Engineering Department of the town had "unearthed from the archives drawings which purport to be profiles of grades of streets" but are not certified by anyone. He said that if Shepard certifies them he will recommend he be paid.

The drawings show six street crossings, five of which are not certified. One map is dated sixty-six years ago Monday, November 4, 1873 and bears the signatures of the old town committee. This map covers the Holmes street crossing. John Eastwood and Theodore Sandford are two of the signers.

New Jersey Chapter K. of C. Arranges For Charity Ball

Annual Affair Will Be Held This Year At The Mosque

Foremost among the social events of Northern New Jersey each season is the annual Charity Ball sponsored by New Jersey Chapter No. 1 Knights of Columbus. During recent years this affair has appeared on the calendar as a pre-lenten event and at a time when ninety percent of the larger organizations were attempting similar affairs. To avoid these conditions which were detrimental to all, the committee decided to change to Thanksgiving evening, November 27, and again engaged the two large Mosque Ball Rooms on Broad street, Newark.

The entire proceeds from this affair are devoted to the hospital, home relief and tubercular relief work carried on by the Chapter. In an effort to enlarge the charitable activities of the Chapter, nothing has been left undone by the active committee to insure an increased revenue from the ball this year. The sixteen councils affiliated with the Chapter are all cooperating with the general committee as is a large committee of prominent ladies under the leadership of Miss Mary C. Duffy, Supreme Regent of the Catholic Daughters of America.

Theodore W. Osbahr of Montclair is general chairman of the committee. Assisting him are P. E. Flynn of Newark, secretary; Christian Guttman of Kearny, treasurer; Printing Committee, P. E. Flynn, Bernard W. Dann, James Specht; prizes, William J. Browne, Andrew C. Nilan, James T. Owens; music, James T. Owens, James Specht, John Walsh; badges, P. E. Flynn; publicity, Thomas J. Sheridan, P. R. Guinan, Andrew C. Nilan; boosters, Robert A. Brady, Thomas J. Sheridan, Dennis K. Kelley, Joseph P. Conroy, P. J. Caffrey, W. J. Browne; table reservations, Dennis P. Kelly, and policy, Theodore Osbahr.

The officers of the Chapter are, chairman, James McMahon of Montclair; vice chairman, Bernard W. Dann of Bloomfield; recorder, Harry Yater of Montclair; treasurer, Christopher Guttman of Kearny.

MISS GERTRUDE CLAIRE KORN WEDS JAMES LEO WATERS

The wedding of Miss Gertrude Claire Korn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Korn of 139 Stephen street, and James Leo Waters of 26 Bayard street, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Waters, took place at 11 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Peter's Church, Rev. Edwin J. Field, pastor, officiating. Palms, roses and chrysanthemums decorated the altar.

Reginald Ball of Paterson, organist at St. Peter's, played. Miss Estelle Decker of Newark was the bride's only attendant. Hugh J. Waters, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride wore a golden brown transparent velvet frock with rhinestone decorations. Slippers and hat were of the same shade. She carried bridal roses. Miss Decker wore blue transparent velvet with hat and slippers matching. Her flowers were sweet peas.

A reception at the home of Mr. Water's brother, Commissioner Patrick Waters of 28 Bayard street, was attended by relatives of the two families from Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, Pa.; Trenton, New York, Brooklyn, Belleville and Newark. Autumn leaves and yellow chrysanthemums comprised the decorations.

School Board Plans For More Seats For Future Football Tilts

Belleville Board of Education plans to erect 1,500 additional seats at Clearman Field for the benefit of football fans. The seats which will be in pyramid form of a permanent nature will be placed in time for Saturday's game with Dover. This was announced Monday night by Business Manager James J. Turner at a board meeting. The News last week told of these plans.

Without any action board members expressed disapproval of the two-year Junior College plan, as discussed last week at a meeting of school superintendents in confab in Newark Normal School. Superintendent George R. Gerard outlined the plan, but it was deemed by most of the members a needless expenditure of public money for higher education. It was felt colleges should be maintained otherwise. Mr. Gerard expressed the idea "that five years from now there will demand for the junior college as there is for high school today."

A request of Boy Scouts to hold weekly meetings in No. 10 Public School was granted with the stipulation the boys pay the customary rental charge of $5 to cover overhead charges.

KNOW YOUR ONIONS IS THE FALL WORD TO HOUSEWIFE

You have to know your onions this autumn—and likewise your broccoli, cabbages, and Italian squash!

Combined in new and unique ways with cheese and piquant sauces, the old vegetables of summer become complete foods, energy-building and delicious. What has been just a side dish for summer may, with a dash of the right cheese, easily become the piece de resistance of the autumn luncheon or dinner.

Try dressing the ordinary spinach, peppers, or cauliflower according to one of the new recipes just evolved and tested by Marye Danhke, in the Home Economics kitchen of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation.
