Work Is Completed On Joint Sewer

Town Engineer Albert S. Blank of Belleville reported to the Town Commission Tuesday night the connection of the last link of sanitary sewer between the Franklin avenue extension and the joint outlet project at Mill street.

Hydraulic jacks were used to lay forty-two inch reinforced concrete pipe under a twenty-foot Erie Railroad embankment through seventy-five feet of solid rock. This was the first time the jack method was applied to concrete pipe in Essex County, the engineer stated.

The cost was $4,300, a saving of about $2,500 over the open-cut method, for which bids were received. Owen F. Langan, Inc., of North Arlington was the contractor.

Belleville High Drops A Listless Game To W. Orange

After Opening In Brilliant Style Blue And Gold Blows Up

The Belleville High basketball quintet dropped a 20-13 decision to West Orange, Tuesday afternoon, at the latter's court, in a somewhat listless game.

After opening the lid in the first quarter in brilliant fashion the Blue and Gold warriors could not keep the pace and West Orange easily overtook and passed them in the final half.

That sensational first quarter spurt on the part of the Bell-boys enabled them to get off to a flying 7-0 lead in the first few minutes of play, a margin which they kept to the end of the quarter. "Mac" Lamb, whose playing throughout the game was easily the most impressive of any Blue and Gold performer, led this spree. His contributions were two prettily executed field goals and a successful free throw for five of his team's seven points. "Stan" Goodrich added the other two points on a field goal.

West Orange, however, came back with a bang in the second quarter to almost even up matters, by outscoring the locals, 10-4. Miller of West Orange stood out in bold relief during this period, caging baskets from all over the court and from many difficult angles. At half time Belleville led by a scant 11-10 margin.

The entire next half was all West Orange, as the Bell-boys could not seem to get started, while West Orange was busily engaged increasing her hard-gained lead.

The second half was productive of but two points for the Bellevillites, both the result of foul tries. Their guarding game, though, was of a much superior grade, as they held the high-scoring West Orangettes to ten points for the half, the majority of which were the result of long shots. At the end of the third quarter West Orange soared into the lead by a 16-12 count and four points in the last period to the Bell-boys' one sufficed to bring the score to 20-13 as the final whistle blew.

"Paris" Presents An Anglo-French Entert Cordiale

Irene Bordoni And Jack Buchanan Head A Great Cast

"Paris," which comes to the Capitol Theatre next week, not only brings Irene Bordoni, the French favorite, to the screen for the first time but also marks the initial appearance on the talking picture sheet of her leading man, Jack Buchanan.

Buchanan is the idol of the British musical comedy stage. He has also been twice starred in New York in Charlot's Revue. He was chosen to play opposite Miss Bordoni because the role is that of an English musical favorite, and Buchanan is the outstanding star in that field. He is in fact, the perfect type for the role. When "Paris" was being cast, Buchanan was just finishing a sixteen months' run of a successful musical comedy in London. He received the cable asking him to join the Bordoni cast, and left the next day, making the journey to Hollywood from England in less than three weeks.

"Paris" is the screen version of Miss Bordoni's latest and greatest stage success. It is a First National and Vitaphone all-dialogue picture with singing and dancing, and presents the French star in a typical Bordoni role—that of a French stage star.

The very fine cast includes, in addition to Buchanan, Louise Closser Hale, who also played in the stage version of "Paris"; Jason Robards, stage and screen favorite who was a member of the original "Lightnin'" cast; Zasu Pitts, the screen character actress and Margaret Fielding.

Three New Schools On Football Schedule

Atlantic City, Passaic And Newark Central Are Features

Three new schools made their appearances on the Belleville High School schedule for next year, as outlined by Principal Charles L. Steel, Jr. Atlantic City, Central High of Newark and Passaic High compose this trio. The news broke this story exclusively, last week.

Of this group both Atlantic City and Passaic High are away from home games and the former in particular has aroused much comment and interest. The Blue and Gold eleven that makes the trip to the shore will without a doubt make the longest journey that a Bell-boy squad has ever made. The game with Central is the opening one on the schedule and will be played at home. As the Blue and Gold is again meeting East Side on Thanksgiving Day, the Central game gives them contests with two of the most widely publicized grid squads in the state.

To make room for these new faces it was necessary for the Belleville authorities to leave off the familiar names of Dover, Boonton and Ridgewood, who will not be met on the grid-iron this fall. Conflicting dates was the reason given for the Dover and Ridgewood omissions, while Boonton requested her contract be cancelled because of the much superior strength of the local team. These substitutions, by the way, give the Blue and Gold a schedule composed of seven Class A schools and a pair of Class B squads, with one open date.

To fulfill this formidable schedule Coach Carl Erickson will place on the field a team composed for the most part of veteran material. Almost the entire line, led by Captain Louis Gallaba, will be back and one outstanding member of the backfield, will also return. The heaviest loss on the team will be felt by the graduating of Paul Short and Paul Schwicker, backfield axes of last year, who received honorable mention on many all state teams.

The schedule:
September 27—Central High at Belleville.
October 4—Bloomfield at Bloomfield.
October 11—Passaic at Passaic.
October 18—Roselle Park at Belleville.
October 25—Open—Away.
November 1—Irvington at Belleville.
November 8—Atlantic City at Atlantic City.
November 15—West Orange at West Orange.
November 22—Orange at Belleville.
November 27—East Side at Belleville.

Notes

Sunday, 11 A. M.—The subject at Grace Church will be "At Corinth." Does the name of Corinth suggest anything to the average man or woman? Have they anything in common with that marvelous city of its day?

Sunday, 7:45 P. M.—Mr. McCombe will speak from the subject "Hiding in a Well." At first thought we will be inclined to say, what a peculiar place of refuge; in a well. What made him do it? Who was he hiding from? Well, you may find out by attending the evening service at Grace Church, next Sunday evening.

Tuesday evening, at 7:45 P. M. The third meeting of the School of Religious Education was held. Doctor Booth and Mrs. Powers are fast making friends, by the mastery way, in which they present their subjects. This is a great privilege that the people of Grace Church are enjoying. If you have not enrolled for the course, there is yet time; as we have three more sessions. There is no charge for the course, as the Baptist State Convention bears the cost, in its desire to help the people of Grace Church.

Mr. McCombe was one of the speakers at the annual meeting of the Newark City Extension Society, Rev. Frank A. Anderson, of Orange, president, in Peddie Memorial Church, Newark, Thursday evening. It was an entertaining and interesting service, as the music was furnished by the foreign speaking churches of Newark; and leaders of the different nationalities spoke of their work among their own people.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. George Karrer represented the young people of Grace Church, at the dinner conference of the Young People's Federation of the East Association in Irvington, N. J. on Thursday evening. One of the features of the evening was a debate between the young people of Rahway and New Market. The subject of the debate was: "Shall all the denominations unite in one large church." The negative was upheld by the young people of New Market who won the debate.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Grace Church served one of their famous luncheons, under the able direction of the president, Mrs. George Wierick, Tuesday, at noon, to a large number, who appreciated the efforts of the ladies of this energetic society.

The Young People's Society of Grace Church have elected the following officers, to serve during the present year:

President, Mr. Percy Karrer; vice president, Miss Zeda Chaffee; recording secretary, Miss Helen Hageman; corresponding secretary, Miss Wene Eller; treasurer, Mr. Harry Schneider.

The standing committees appointed by the president will be announced later. The society is growing rapidly and is making a name for itself in the work of Grace Church. Their meetings are held every Sunday at 7 o'clock in Judson Hall.

CHRIST EPISCOPAL

Rev. Peter R. Deckenbach

The Right Reverend Wilson R. Stearly, Bishop of Newark, will administer the rite of confirmation to a class of seventeen, at the 11 o'clock service on Sunday morning. Evening prayer, and sermon by the rector at 7:45, topic: "Fear."

Meeting of the Young People's Fellowship and election of officers, at the parish house. A full attendance is requested.

The Ladies' Guild held its meeting yesterday afternoon at 2:30, in the Guild room, with the president, Mrs. Mary J. Lloyd in the chair. Plans were announced for the annual birthday party of the Guild, which is to be held on Wednesday evening, February 19. The organization will be 54 years old, on this occasion, and the collection of the birthday envelopes will take place. Mrs. Harvey W. Mumford, who is in charge of the arrangements, promises an entertaining evening, and hopes the Guild members and their escorts will attend.

tend, en masse. The rector and members of the Vestry have the refreshments in their care, which needs no further commendation.

This evening the progressive card party, and bean bag game will take place, under the auspices of the January Committee, of which Mrs. Harry F. Abbott is chairman, assisted by Mrs. M. F. Apperson, Mrs. J. F. Brown, Mrs. J. Brooking, Mrs. George Brink, Mrs. David I. Boyd, Mrs. Richard Breckinridge, Mrs. Charles Beer, Mrs. A. Q. Bagnall and Miss Mary Biller.

The members of the Kitchen Orchestra and bridal procession of the Girls' Friendly Society are scheduled to appear in their performance at the Alms House, Ivy Hill, tomorrow afternoon, for the entertainment of the inmates there. There will also be some special vocal and instrumental solos, and specialty dances added to the program. This entertainment has become very popular, and the Kitchen Orchestra has several other dates ahead.

Next Wednesday evening will be Rector's Night, at the meeting of the Girls' Friendly Society, and after Mr. Deckenbach's reading, the annual election of officers will take place. On February 12 the new officers will be installed, and the fourth birthday of the organization of Christ Church branch of the G. F. S. will be appropriately celebrated. Plans are also going forward for the dance to be held on Friday evening, February 7, and for the candle-light admission service, on Sunday evening, February 9.

Rehearsals for the "Parish Minstrel" are held on Tuesday evenings, at the parish house. The show will be produced on the evenings of Thursday and Friday, February 27 and 28. The Committee consists of Walter Gilby, chairman; assisted by William Beer, Sylvester P. Denison, Stewart A. McAlcaine and George E. Pratt.

A SKILLED painter works with his head as well as his hands.

Not a tool is touched until surfaces are critically examined. Exposure conditions must be considered. Proper formulas must be decided upon.

We take all conditions into account and then mix our paint from Dutch Boy white-lead to suit the job exactly. Such paint is tough, durable—does not crack and scale.

MOTOR PROGRESS

Year by year there is progress in the constitution of automobiles. Although we have not had recently any innovation so startling as balloon tires and four-wheel brakes, the makers are adding minor improvements constantly. The cumulative effect is great, for cars now run more smoothly and quickly, pick up faster, have additional power, give the rider new comfort and have an appealing beauty of line and color. Poor cars have disappeared. A purchaser can buy any make on the market and feel that he will get a full return on his investment.

There is progress in collateral lines, too. The Westinghouse Lighting Institute is showing a device which makes it possible to start and stop cars by speaking at them. An apparatus attached to a vehicle obeys instructions called to it through a microphone, and command to stop, go ahead, toot the horn or turn on the lights receive instant response. Also, a professor at Johns Hopkins University announces the invention of a catalyst which converts deadly carbon monoxide gas into the harmless carbon dioxide. Exhaustive tests in the trial trip of a car from Maryland to Mississippi have been entirely successful. The Westinghouse and Johns Hopkins contributions to the greatest agency of modern civilization show again how closely industry and science are linked. Indeed, the research laboratories of our great corporations have been one of the great factors in American business leadership.

NEW YORK FOR REST

Lord Rothermere, owner of newspapers in England, has just landed in New York to spend a week or two just to get a rest.

New York is not exactly the sanitarium that most people would choose for a rest. But for the wealthy visitor, it is not so bad. He can have rooms high above the din of the streets, so far removed that the clamor is subdued to a soothing murmur. Rush hours and crowded subways need not bother him. New York is not exactly a restful haven for the visitor who has to walk to reach a destination, but it is not so bad for those who can spend most of their time above the 20th story of one of the big hotels.

A NOTABLE OFFER

The Popular Science Monthly, by its offer of a prize of $10,000 for scientific accomplishment, proves that it encourages in a practical as well as a theoretical way. This is the largest offer ever made in America for this kind of achievement.

That the reward is to be given for accomplishment in about any line of work is shown by the fact that all scientific workers, professional and amateur, academic and commercial, are eligible. That is a pretty broad field of operations from which to select the winner; but as 24 leaders in American Science will serve as a jury, the choice of the fortunate individual will be on broad lines. Ten thousand dollars is a neat sum to be obtained by somebody for a year's work.

The prize will be given for the first time in September, 1930, and will be continued yearly thereafter. It is a generous contribution to the benefit of the entire community.

WHY NOT FATHERS, TOO?

Someone has come to the rescue of the fathers. A committee of the House of Representatives in Washington is considering amendments to include fathers as well as mothers of veterans who lost their lives overseas in the pilgrimage sponsored by the government to the battlefields and cemeteries of Europe.

There are obvious reasons why some restriction has to be made in the number of those who are to be sent abroad this year. But it does seem reasonable, to permit fathers as well as mothers to go.

A GOLD SHORTAGE

Professor Irving Fisher predicts a gold shortage within three years unless the nations get together and make some agreement about limiting production. He believes that the low price of gold, which merely means the higher prices of commodities, will discourage gold mining and that we shall have to cope with a gold shortage unless some precautionary measures are taken.

This is a subject which can only be adequately discussed by students of economics and the chances are that experts in this field would differ as sharply as experts do in other branches of learning. Offhand one would surmise that an increased demand for gold would result from the tremendously complex society of our time, a demand sufficient to prevent an acute shortage. But Professor Fisher is a recognized authority upon this problem. His warning is one that is not lightly to be disregarded.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS PASSENGERS MADE LIABLE

The British Parliament has recently enacted sweeping changes in traffic laws aimed at safeguarding human life on the highways. It abolishes the speed limit for private cars; requires compulsory liability insurance; prescribes drastic penalties for drunken driving and makes the persons in a car operated by an intoxicated person accessories and liable to the same penalties as is the convicted driver.

This is a change which should be made in our own laws intended to prevent intoxicated persons from operating a motor car. It we had such a law few persons would want to run the risk of going to jail for riding with an intoxicated driver. In many instances it would result in prohibiting the intoxicated person from being allowed to drive.

TOURIST PRICES

The cost of living has risen in France since the first of the year. It has been particularly so in the case of street car, bus and taxi fares have been raised and rents have shot skyward. Food is also dearer, at the markets as well as in restaurants.

If this tendency keeps up through the year, it is going to deflect a good deal of the American tourist rush to other European countries. The vacationists who have to be careful about expenses have been avoiding England, Holland and Switzerland and spending most of their time in France, Italy and Belgium, where living is much cheaper. The popularity of France, not only Paris but the provinces, has been one of the most astonishing developments in tourist traffic since the war. Some of the other countries which have been grumbling because we do not call on them will get more of our money this summer if French prices continue to mount.

Leap Saves Driver As Truck Overtakes

A seven-ton truck loaded with bakers' supplies turned over Monday night at Belleville avenue and William street, when the machine skidded to avoid an automobile police car say was driven out of the line of cars ascending Belleville avenue hill. Oscar Carroll of 210 Franklin street, Bloomfield, driver of the truck, escaped injury by jumping as it toppled.

Carroll said he would make a reckless driving complaint against Benjamin Ginsberg of 289 Weequahic avenue, Newark, driver of the auto. The truck driver said he avoided a collision by trying to turn into William street which is nearly at the foot of the hill, but the truck struck the curb.

Soon after the accident the town truck, while spreading sanders on the hill, was sideswiped by a skidding automobile.

Want Train To Stop In Park

A petition sponsored by the Belwood Park Improvement Association of Belleville is being circulated in the Belwood Park section, requesting that the Erie train leaving Jersey City at 5:34 P. M. stop at Belwood Park Station. At present there is no train out of Jersey City between 4:22 P. M. and 5:52 P. M. making that stop.

Some months ago the voting district in the Belwood Park section was divided. All residents south of Smallwood and Arthur avenues are required to vote at Montgomery School. The association is petitioning the County Board to put the voters back in the Belwood Park district and allow them to vote at No. 10 School with residents north of the present dividing line. The petitioners point out that the Erie Railroad or Second River would be a natural boundary.

Recreation House Meetings Called Off

All meetings scheduled for this week at the Recreation House, have been postponed due to repairs. Hard wood floors are being laid and several partitions are being removed. Renovation also includes a new heating plant, redecoration of interior and repairs on the roof and outside masonry. The grounds are being enclosed with a wire fence.

Testimonial Dinner

Everett B. Smith of 82 Rutgers street will be tendered a testimonial dinner at the Newark Y. M. C. A. next Friday evening by the Y. M. Bible Class of Wesley M. E. Church. The speaker of the evening will be John B. Brown, town attorney.

The other guests of honor will be W. Brand Smith, Rev. Edgar M. Compton, J. H. Boice. Mr. Smith is a recent graduate of N. J. Law School and was sworn into membership to the bar before the supreme court in Trenton, on Thursday, January 30.

Mr. Smith is president of the Y. M. Bible Class and the Wesley Epworth League. Enthusiasm among Mr. Smith's wide circle of friends is at a high pitch and a large attendance at the dinner is anticipated. The committee in charge consists of Allan Crisp, chairman; Horace Baldwin, Lawson Shriver, and Irving Weyant. Reservations may be obtained by communicating with Allan Crisp, 160 Hornblower avenue. The dinner will be served at 6:30.

Finds Buses Inconvenient

Place my name on record as being in favor of having the Jersey City-Montclair Bus Company stop in Belleville to pick up passengers. I have a daughter attending the Teachers' College in Montclair and we find the present way to get to Montclair by three buses most inconvenient.

Mrs. Harry C. Walker, 25 DeWitt avenue.

Ed's Note: The News started a controversy on the buses and welcomes comment.

Not Size— But Growth

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of our five year telephone construction program of $160,000,000 is not significant for its size but for the evidence it presents of this Company's ability to grow with New Jersey's needs.

In the telephone business probably much more than in any other important industry or utility, except transportation, ability to meet increasing demand is as vital as any process in giving good service.

A telephone system which did not grow fast enough to permit you to talk to your new business connections, your new neighbors, your new friends, even though perfectly operated, would be of decreasing value to you and would soon prove as useless as a fine automobile that could run on only half of the streets.

This is why we emphasize our expansion plans. They are as much a part of your telephone service as the installation of your telephone or the switching of your calls.

This is why not only reasonable earnings but our position as a constituent Company of the Bell Telephone System are of vital importance to your service, for the ability to finance expansion is the first of all requisites of growth.

Chester I. Barnard.

Backs Vets Drive

Editor, News:

Our local veterans of Private George A. Younginger Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars are trying to secure a home in Belleville. The plans originally made for raising the money for this purpose had to be changed on account of the Community Chest Drive which developed suddenly and swept the town. The veterans did their part in this drive even though their own chances of success were diminished by the large movement. It is no more than right that those who went to the firing line for our country should have the support of all good citizens and I trust the veterans may be fully successful in this enterprise.

Sincerely yours,

SYNOPSIS

Willie Durant is Broadway Nita French, an actress, in a musical short, but changes to get up a more musical. Jerry Campbell, the manager, secures Durant at a banquet to Kitty, the stage-struck check room girl, and inducing her father, Dad Malone, and her sweetheart, Jimmy, to invest their life savings to gain a hold over her. They quarrel, and Jerry takes a revenge from Durant. The business is robbed. Both Jerry and Jimmy are suspected. Durant is unimpaired. Kitty and Jimmy hit him. Then Nita refuses to finish the performance unless she gets her salary. Without Jerry's knowledge, Kitty goes on in Nita's role.

"Well, well, we do?" Pete demanded. "Ring down?" Jerry stopped, staring into space. Ring down! That would be the end of the show. Ring down! Goodbye, Broadway! The end of all his hopes, dreams and aspirations. Goodbye to his first chance as a producer. A flop! He was a flop! Like sudden flashes of lightning, the thoughts zig-zagged through his mind.

"No, by thunder," he exploded.

"We won't ring down! While there's life there's hope. That part'll be played if I have to go out there and play it myself. Let anyone tell me where to get off, well I should say not! Tell Harold to stall—ad lib—move the furniture—do anything for a couple of seconds. Now get the—get out of here quick!"

He gave Pete a shove that at most sent the carpenter reeling. He ran into the wings, signaling to the juvenile to play against time. From the other side of the footlights came slight sounds, the rustling of programs, whispers, a noisy cough. The audience was growing restless. Then he had a brilliant idea.

"Sing it yourself," he called in a stage whisper, attracting Harold's attention. "Sing it yourself. Get started on it. Nita'll be out in a few minutes."

Slowly Harold grasped the situation. He walked unsteadily towards the footlights and nodded at the orchestra leader. The music came. He gave him his cue. But his voice seemed to stick in his throat. Could he remember the song? Panicked, he gripped him. He broke out in cold perspiration. From the wings Jerry was shouting at him. The audience was thinking. Then he began to sing. Finally, the words sounded as though they came from a far distance.

"You're my ideal since childhood You're the one dream that remains."

And now I feel as a child would Through all the gladness and pain."

Jerry gave vent to a low sigh of relief. He drew aside the top monitor the slightest fraction of an inch and peered down at the audience. Slowly the people were settling back into quietness as the juvenile began to sing. The wait was covered for the moment. He rushed back to the actress and fell on his knees before her.

"Look, Nita, I'm on my knees to you," he pleaded. "Please, please, don't make me ring down."

"Next week Uncle Tom's Cabin with real bloodhounds!" Nita's lips curled.

Jerry rose to his feet wearily. He had done everything he could do. It was only a question of time now until he would be forced to ring down. The members of the cast were gathering about, signaling he was wanted at this newest development.

"Nita won't go on unless she gets paid. . . . She thinks Jerry pulled that robbery. . . . Have they found out who did it? . . . Well, I guess we'll be paid yet. . . . Nita's a poor sport. Say, a girl's gotta eat. . . . They whispered among themselves as though afraid to speak out loud. "Nita, can't you see what you're doing?" Jerry began again desperately. "You're holding up the whole show. Everybody else is willing to go on. I'll pay your salary. Don't worry about it. I swear I'll pay it!"

"Cold cash and nothing else but is what this baby's going to get," Nita spoke quietly.

"Oh, Lord, why didn't I have an understudy up in your part," the manager moaned. "I never thought I'd pull a stunt like this after all these years!" He bowed his head in his hands.

"If a star of hope still gleams Darling while it gleams Let me have my dreams."

Harold was finishing the chorus of the song number in that same frightened wailing voice. The words beat frantically on Jerry's brain. He couldn't stall any longer. He was at the end of his rope. Here was the big second act finale, the crux of the whole show, and no leading lady out on the stage, and the juvenile going up in his lines.

"You gotta ring down, Jerry," Pete shuffled up to the manager, sorrow stamped on his hardened face. "Sure, it's tough, but ya can't help it. De customers is gonna give us de boidie in anudder minute. Harol' can't stall, he ain't got no brains."

The tears welled up in Jerry's eyes. Pete was right. He might as well give in to the inevitable. "Go on, ring down!" His voice was choked and thick. "I'm ticked."

Slowly the head carpenter shuffled away to obey instructions, but even as he moved, the sound of hurrying footsteps caught his ears and in another second Jimmy had burst breathlessly into the midst of the group.

"Wait a second, Pete!" Jerry jumped to his feet, signaling the carpenter. "Where's your brother?" He caught hold of the boy, fairly shaking him in his excitement.

"I didn't call him," Jimmy gasped.

"What!" Jerry shrieked. "You didn't call him?" His hands held helplessly to his sides. He sat down abruptly, staring at the usher.

There was nothing more to be done. Even while he had been telling himself that everything was at an end he had still had the faint hope that Jimmy might have been able to borrow enough money from his brother to tide them over. And now that last faint hope had vanished into thin air.

"You're my ideal since my childhood You're the one dream that remains."

"What the—?" Sam Bloom came to sudden attention as the voice of a girl floated high and clear out of the wings.

"Well, I'll be a—" Pete's jaw dropped.

"It's Kitty!" Jerry's voice came in a husky whisper. He started up, his hand clasped to his head, believing, unbelieving.

"And now I feel as a child would Through all the gladness and pain."

"I'll kill her! I'll kill her!" Nita was on her feet crying hysterically. "Just let me. Just let me. . . . Simultaneously Pete and Sam seized the actress, covering her mouth with their hands, as Kitty Malone, the erstwhile checkroom girl, walked demurely out on to the stage. From beneath a concealing drape of glittering rhinestones red curls peeped to caress the fresh pink cheeks, and set off the deep blue of the eyes. The scanty costume, an evening gown of palest opalescent sequins, revealed to perfection the lithe young figure that bore the outward semblance of Nita French.

With an audible gasp of relief the juvenile seized the girl and together the two went into the waltz routine. From the wings the cast stared in astonishment as they saw Kitty take up the leading role as though she had rehearsed it for months.

"Personally plus!" Jerry's pertinent comment broke the tense, backstage silence.

"Let me get my fingers on her," Nita was clawing frantically at the man who held her. "I'll teach her a thing or two, the little sneak. That's my part and nobody else is gonna step into it without my say so. Think she can act, does she? I'll scratch her eyes—"

"For the love of Pete, take her away!" Jerry whirled about, and caught the kicking feet of the actress. "Carry her back to her dressing room," he commanded, motioning to Sam and Pete, who held her arms.

Without more ado the three men hurried the squirming figure across the rear of the stage and deposited her at her dressing room door.

Republican Club Long Inactive, Gets Together Again

The Belleville Republican Club organized Wednesday night in the Elks' Home, electing Floyd Bragg, president; Freeholder Joseph King, vice president; Lawrence Keenan, secretary; F. J. Weir, treasurer; counsel, Assemblyman Homer C. Zink and membership, William G. Hunt. John Ray has charge of publicity.

A committee consisting of Mr. Zink, Mr. Keenan and Herman Schwicker will draft a constitution and by-laws for a meeting which is planned February 6.

The club functioned about six years ago and has been inactive since. Its aims are not to endorse any particular candidates for the May municipal election, but to further progress of the party in town and consolidate warring elements.

Ice Closes Yonkers Ferry; Reopens March

The Alpine-Yonkers Ferry operating on the Hudson River between Alpine, New Jersey and Yonkers, New York, suspended yesterday on account of severe ice conditions caused by the cold snap.

The closing, while being somewhat unexpected at this time, marked the termination of the longest season in the history of ferry service at Yonkers for one season.

The ferry service will remain closed until March 1, at which time the Ferry expects to open on its regular normal schedule, that is operating on a 15 minute headway between 6 A. M. and midnight.

"How fast can you run?" the humorously inclined bellboy of a New York hotel asked the country lad who was on his first visit to the city.

"Well," replied the lad bashfully, "not very fast, I guess."

"How fast is that?" asked the bellhop, winking at some of his friends who had gathered to see the fun.

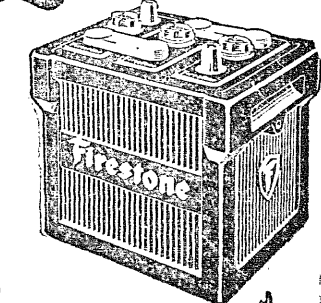

"Well, now seeing as you've asked me, the fastest I ever run was one time last summer. You see fellows, 'twas like this. I took my gun one morning and started out to get some game. I hadn't any more than stepped out of the house before I saw a woodchuck sitting by his hole on a hillside. So I fired at him."

"But I'd heard tell that a woodchuck might drop back into his hole when you hit him. So having that in mind, I threw down the gun as soon as I'd shot and started for the woodchuck. Well, fellows, I'd have got him but just as I stooped over to grab him by the hind legs the shot I'd fired hit me in the back."

High School Notes

By JAMES REILLY

The story of Byrd's expedition was recently brought to Belleville High School by H. K. Tuttle, representative of the New York Times.

Stretched across most all of the auditorium platform was an oil painting of "Little America" made by the New York Times' art department.

Mr. Tuttle proceeded to tell that it is expected Byrd's party will have to stay in Antarctica another eight or ten months, because the huge ice pack, which is three hundred miles square, has not moved as had been expected. Antarctica is a dead continent about the size of the United States and Mexico.

The temperature at "Little America" is generally seventy degrees below zero. The terrific cold is bad enough, but what makes it worse is the wind, which attains a velocity of 100 miles an hour and even more.

The forty-two members of the expedition venture daily into this frigid waste, where no form of life exists, in the interest of mankind.

The wireless is one of the most important of all the things taken to "Little America" because, by it the men at the South Pole region remain in daily contact with the world in general.

The Byrd expedition is the first in history to have a newspaper correspondent to go with it and cover the proceedings. The correspondent in this case is Russell Owen of the New York Times. To date he has sent to the Times' radio station in New York, many thousands of words concerning most everything in connection with the expedition.

The scientists, of which there are a few, find it necessary to work in the dark, because of the magnetic influence in that region, and when there can be no light, there can be no heat, thereby making their lot doubly hard.

Laurence M. Gould, leader of the geological party goes with his men in the regions surrounding "Little America" with dog and sled in search of things that would be new to the geological world.

The dog sled forms a main part of the traveling equipment in the expedition. The dogs when not used, are so fixed so that they cannot fight with one another. The other mode of travel is by air craft, of which there are two—a large tri-motor and a smaller plane.

When Commander Byrd recently made his epochal flight over the South Pole he made himself known as the only man who has ever crossed both poles.

On starting from "Little America" with a companion in his huge tri-motor plane, Byrd took hundreds of pounds of equipment with him consisting of food and other necessities in case of a forced landing. When approaching the Axel Heiberg glacier the two men knew that their man-made bird would not ascend over this obstacle with all of its weight, therefore they threw out one-third of their food supply at two different periods, which enabled them to accomplish their mission and return in safety to "Little America." The temperature at the south pole was fifteen degrees below zero at the time of crossing.

In connection with this story G. R. Gerard, Superintendent of Belleville Schools, related to Belleville High School students his meeting Commander Byrd. Two years ago on returning from the National Superintendents' Meeting, Mr. Gerard had not deemed it necessary to buy a return ticket by rail. On arriving at the station he found that in order to make his return trip he should have to occupy one of the small bench-like seats at the end of a car. This he did, and finally shared it with another gentleman. In the newspaper which he was reading was a page on Commander Byrd and his recent flight to Washington, and on the same page a large likeness of Byrd. Mr. Gerard looked at the picture in his paper and then at the man beside him and asked him if he and the picture were not the same man, to which his companion replied that he was. From then on the two enjoyed a pleasant chat, which Mr. Gerard says he will never forget.

Mrs. R. Tannehill recently came to B. H. S. in the interest of the New Jersey State Medical Society on the accomplishments of medical science. Her talk was interesting and shed a new light on the medical world.

REASONS

Gives you all the news obtainable with a staff of writers who gather personal and social news—the kind you want.

It is Not A Belleville Newspaper In Name Only—It Is Printed In Belleville By Belleville Folks.

It caters to local folks and neighbors and is not one-sided in its treatment of news.

The majority of its news is local and it gives credit to the Town by naming the newspaper after Belleville. That is not the case with other publications, who disguise under another name, and carry very little news of the town.

IT IS NOT A CIRCULAR

People who want the News must buy it. If merchants purchase copies of the News and circulate them among their patrons they are paid for—they are not free. Advertisers are thus assured that the News is read and no copies are found blowing around the streets, in hedges, lawns or at vacant houses.

THE EDITORIAL POLICY

of the News is not biased. It criticizes, suggests, commends as the accurate facts warrant. It uses no syndicated editorials or articles which are written for "hick" town publications.

It is a newspaper for everyone—its readers contribute news, letters and local articles—it is their only local newspaper.

RURAL SCOUTS PLAN BIG PROGRAM OF SERVICE TO NATION FOR 1930

War On Harmful Insects And Extensive Planting Of Useful Trees Among Things Country Boy Scouts Plan Says O. H. Benson

A comprehensive outline of the things that members of the Rural Scout Division of the Boy Scouts of America will do during the coming year to be of service to the nation has been made public by O. H. Benson, Director of Rural Scouting. These Rural Scouts whose homes are on farms and in country sections of America have planned a great conservation program. Their most extensive efforts will be in the planting of useful trees, the fighting of insect pests, and in efforts to conserve in as great a measure as possible, the bird life of Rural America.

Ten Ways
The following are ten ways in which the Rural Scouts will render national service during the year 1930:
By planting of nut trees, black walnuts, shagbark and shellbark, hickory, butternuts and other important nut trees, characteristic of the type grown in the Scout's own locality and shade trees and flowering shrubs along public highways, thus making the roadways of America more attractive and interesting.

By helping on a national basis to eliminate all ugly places, rubbish and other unsightly objects along the public highways, and by cooperating with the Federal Government in the destruction of wild barberry in localities and sections where barberry is the cause of grain rust and in the corn borer control work and prevention.

By helping in the Mediterranean fly control and prevention of its further spread in Florida and other states where it may be found at any time, and by aiding in the destruction of codling moths, not only in orchards but in trees and shrubs among highways, adjoining fields, forests and farms.

They will assist in the prevention, destruction and control of the Japanese bean beetle, which is playing havoc in many states, making absolutely impossible the production of beans.

Eight Fires
The Rural Scouts will also give assistance in the fighting of forest fires and in making available trained Scouts for rural fire squads and departments, and in the development of First-Aid and Mobilization programs to help in time of disasters, due to fires, storms, tornadoes, floods, cyclones and other great catastrophes common to this continent. The plan of Boy Scouts of America is to work up a project with the various local, state and national agencies involved to render aid in carrying out the development of the project under government, county or state control.

They will also offer service, spread information, and be prepared to give First-Aid at local, state and national conventions, fairs, expositions and public gatherings of farmers and their families.

BIRD HOUSE CONTEST
In a recent state-wide contest for the building of bird houses, conducted by the New Jersey State Audubon Society, the Boy Scouts of the North Bergen County Council, Boy Scouts of America, carried off every prize offered.

There were approximately 300 entries from all parts of the State and comparatively few from Bergen County. The rules of the contest stressed that skill, workmanship and ingenuity in design would avail nothing unless the product was a practical bird-house, and it was on that basis that the awards were made. The prize winners from Bergen County were declared not only practical but also artistic and well constructed. The winners as announced by Beecher S. Bowditch, Secretary of the New Jersey Audubon Society were: First prize, Louis Bernard, Troop 14, Hackensack; second prize, William H. Rankins, Troop 85, River Edge; and third prize, Ralph U. Whipple, Troop 5, West Englewood.

The first place winner, Louis Bernard, constructed a blue bird house; William Rankins, who placed second entered a Flicker house and Ralph Whipple's entry which won third place, was a wren house.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Unit, B. S. A. Thursday, plans were made for the celebration of Boy Scout Anniversary Week, which is from February 7 to February 13. A "Stimulating Interest" committee consisting of Robert Anderson, chairman; John J. Dailey, John Ray and Dr. E. C. Reock, was appointed to select three prizes to be awarded to the Belleville Troops for the best dressed Scout windows.

On Tuesday, January 28, Dr. John Baker, delivered a splendid talk to the Scouts of Troops 4 and 89, on the value of chemistry, which the boys appreciated and absorbed as indicated by the questions asked.

On Sunday evening, February 9, some of the churches will have special services in honor of their Scout Troops. The boys will take part in the services and a speaker will address them.

Next Friday evening a card party will be held at the home of Mrs. Catherine Kelly, Howard place and Dow street, for the building fund of St. Peter's Church.

Miss Viola Kroehl of Joralemon street, is one of the alumnae of St. Vincent's Academy arranging for the subscription supper-dance which will be held at Elks' Home, Newark, on February 7, for the benefit of the scholarship fund. Miss Kroehl is also one of the vice presidents.

Miss Mary Salmon, of Academy street will be hostess February 10 to the Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H. Division No. 5, at St. Peter's Annex. All card games will be played with special games for non-players.

Miss Grace Hood, William street, entertained at cards last Monday for A. Girardot, Montclair; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shaw, Nutley; Misses A. Messina, Margaret Connolly, Dorothy Brenner and Clare Van Ceisen.

Golden Letter Winners
Winners in the "J" contest last week are Jennie Bostak, 57 Ralph street, Edith Joiner, 333 Main street; Pauline Lawing, 109 Ralph street; John Antonik, 135 Ralph street; Donald Frazer, 507 Washington avenue; Eleanor Deck, 325 Joralemon street; John Leebel, 302 Greylock Parkway; Nicholas Feury, 293 Greylock Parkway; Warren Glenney, 382 Washington avenue and Philip Miller, 27 Minker place.

Garnets Take Second Place At Expense Of Wesley Ball Passers

Bachelors Easily Cinch Hold On Top Rung Of Ladder

In a close, fiercely contested struggle for court supremacy the Garnets went into undisputed possession of second place in the Belleville Recreation League, gaining a 21-20 victory over the Wesleys Thursday at the Belleville High gym.

The Valleys handily overcame the scrappy Unions in a battle for fourth place in the second game of the evening. The third game witnessed a one-sided Bachelors' triumph. The league-leaders won over the Panthers just about as they pleased, the final count giving the Bachelors a 36-7 margin of victory.

The clash between the Garnets and Wesleys was a real hum-dinger, the issue being ever in doubt as these two evenly matched squads gave all they had in an effort to cop the coveted second position in the league standing.

In the initial half the defenses of both teams were well high impraguable, with the result that each side resorted to more than the usual amount of long distance shooting. "Bob" Mutch, lanky center of the winners, was particularly adept at this style of play, caging two beautiful long heaves in the opening half.

With the lead ever changing hands the half finally ended with the Garnets in possession of a meagre 12-11 margin. In addition to Mutch, "Nap" Prior also starred on the offense for the Garnets during this period.

The second half proved to be but a reproduction of the first, as both teams threw caution to the winds in their efforts to win the verdict. In this period, though, the winners held a slim edge throughout and with but a minute to go led by a 21-18 count.

Elmer Hosking, star forward of the Church quintet, brought hope in to the hearts of the many Wesley rooters with a nicely executed follow through basket to bring the count to 21-20. This served to only make the score a bit closer, however, as the Garnets resumed their defensive tactics to keep the score the same at the final whistle.

Jimmie Metz, towering pivot man of the Wesleys, was high scorer for his team with a seven point total, closely followed by "Sonny" Hosking with six. Eldridge Jacobson starred on the defense, as well as accounting for four points for the Methodist boys.

Mutch collected eleven points for the Garnets for high scoring honors of the game, while Prior also featured with a six point total.

In the second game of the evening the Valleys found the Unions easy pickings, winning out finally, 22-8.

The Valleys walked away to a 7-2 lead in the first half. In this half close guarding predominated with the resulting lack of large scoring.

The second half, however, was more productive from a scoring standpoint for both sides, the winners outscoring the Union, 15-6, to take an easy decision.

Although the issue was never in doubt, the hard-fighting Unions were always in the game and made the Valleys fight for every point.

The Valleys, who are now resting in fourth position in the league standing, seemed at the peak of their form, caging several brilliant baskets, as well as showing some exceptional floor-work.

Captain Herb Mayes of the Valleys was scoring ace of the game, registering seven times. Jim Petrie and Harry Metz, with six and five points respectively were also effective in a scoring way for the Valleys. Herb Otto was the defensive stand-out for the winners.

Abramson, center of the Unions, was the whole show for the losers, accounting for five of his side's eight points as well as scintillating on the defense. Speckman registered the only other field goal for the Unions.

The Bachelors easily cinched first place in the initial half of the league's schedule with their overwhelming 36-7 victory over the Panthers in the final game of the night.

From the time that Wengel tallied the initial field goal of the game from the foul line to the final whistle the Bachelors were in complete command of the situation and seemed to get better as the game progressed, despite the fact that they were minus their star, "Snooky" Parcels.

Throughout the entire first half, the Bachelors did not permit a single Panther player to penetrate their smooth working defense, as they held the losers to a single point, the result of a free throw by Phelps. While holding the Panthers in such complete subjection the league leaders were ringing up a commanding thirteen point total.

The real scoring spree of the Bachelors did not take place, however, until the final half, when the winners completely submerged the Panthers under an avalanche of field goals.

As in the first half, Johnston, Wengel and McGuire were the offensive geniuses, scoring almost at will, in this period. During this session Perry of the Panthers broke through to tally the only field goal registered by the losers. It was a pretty under the basket shot.

Johnston, McGuire and Wengel headed the Bachelors scoring column, with twelve, eleven and nine points respectively, beside being the chief exponents of the art of passing.

Although held scoreless, "Pat" Dunn of the Bachelors seemed to be the key-man of the winners' defense and more than once prevented a Panther score.

Phelps was the scoring stand-out for the Panthers, accounting for three successful tosses from the fifteen-foot stripe.

Belleville Elks' Pin Knights Take Two Out Of Three From Englewood

With Cliff Faust and Billy Bechtoldt showing the way the Belleville Elks' pin-knights took two out of three from the high flying Community Club of Englewood Thursday night in a Morris and Essex League match at the local alleys.

Faust compiled successive scores of 198, 201 and 185 for the most consistent bowling performance of the night. Bechtoldt was not far behind with tallies of 201, 184 and 189.

After winning the opening set-to by a comfortable margin the local Hello Bills accounted for a brilliant 947 team score in the second to win that game in easy fashion. Their efforts to make it three in a row, however, proved fruitless, as the Communities nosed them out by a matter of a mere ten pins in the final joust. This last game was easily the most thrilling and hotly contested of the match.

Bob Whitten of the local boys, although responsible for the high individual mark of the match, a fine 222 count in the second game, fell far below par in the other two games when numerous unlucky "splits" proved his undoing.

L. Huckin, anchor man of the losers, pressed Whitten close for individual honors, hitting 221 in the second game. Jim Elliott, one of the most feared rollers in the circuit, accounted for the only other score the Englewoodites made.

The Score:

Belleville Loses Close Fracas, 18-14 To Orange High 5

First Of Series, However, Went To Blue And Gold

In a return court tilt with Orange High at the Orange court the Belleville High netsters emerged second best Friday night, being on the short end of an 18-14 score. In an earlier tussle the Blue and Gold aggregation walked away with a 22-20 verdict.

Although the Golden Tornadoes lead at every stage of play, the Bell-boys were always but a step behind and a constant threat, in a really thrilling and hard-fought struggle.

Orange got the jump on the local squad by getting away to a 5-1 lead at the end of the first quarter. During this period the localities seemed to have the superior passing attack and general all-around pass-work, but they could not seem to get "set" for their shots.

In the second half, which was featured by close guarding on both sides, the Belleville squad outscored the Orangeites, 4-2, displaying a superior brand of play both defensively and offensively. This good work, however, was off-set by the Orange boys' early lead, which enabled them to hold a 7-5 margin at half time.

The third period proved to be the closest and hardest fought of the game. Each team tallied six times and were as evenly matched as two basketball squads could be. Stanley Goodrich, leading scorer of the Blue and Gold, made his presence felt in this period by sinking several pretty short shots.

It was Orange's turn, though, in the final quarter and with the aid of some nice floor-work and accurate shooting they sewed up the game, although Belleville threatened in the closing stages. Orange rose to the occasion and retained their four-point margin, to finally win out to the tune of 18-14.

"Stan" Goodrich, lanky center of the Bell-boys, scored nine of his side's fourteen points to lead the field in that department. He also played a nice floor game, besides setting the tap from Walker, his six foot four rival pivot man. Paul Short, who acted as captain, turned in the only other field goal registered by a local player. "Mac" Lamb, though below his usual high scoring standard, was a marvel on the defense for the blue and gold, breaking up play after play of the home quintet.

Mericle, star forward of the Orangeites, featured the winners' high powered offensive with a seven point total. Pennington was next in line with five tallies. Iallaggio, captain of the Orange clan, was the defensive genius.

As a preliminary game the Belleville Jayvees nosed out the Orange seconds, 11-9, in an interesting tussle.

The score does not serve to indicate the superiority of the Belleville team at all departments of the game. The Blue and Gold went into the van from the start on a pretty field goal caged by Ray Smith and were never headed.

The above mentioned Smith showed the many fans that packed the Orange gym that Belleville is certainly looking to the future. He played a bang-up game, tallying six points as well as guarding to perfection and seems like a very likely candidate for next year's Blue and Gold varsity. Jerry Bonavita, the pivot man of the Belleville defense, and "Turk" Byrnes also featured for the Jayvees.

Lucchiello, Montross and Sullivan evenly divided the scoring for the Orange seconds.

This Whirl Of Sport

By Arthur Bloemeke

Last night the Belleville Recreation Basketball League began its final half of play at the Belleville High gym.

Although that great Bachelor combination of Wengel, Johnston, Parcels, et al, looks like a good bet to repeat its first half win in this half, at least three of the other teams in the league should make them battle every inch of the way for the coveted position.

The Garnets, in particular, stand out as the team the Bachelors must beat in order to make it a clean sweep. The Garnets, headed by peerless "Bob" Mutch, lost but a single game in the opening half and that a close one to the Bachelors. They should do as well and possibly better during the coming half.

The Wesleys, who finished the past campaign in third place, always placed an impressive looking squad on the court, led by the infatigable "Sonny" Hosking and Jimmie Metz, one of the league's leading scorers.

After coasting along with the Bachelors in a race for first place at the loop's outset by virtue of four victories with nary a defeat, the Wesleys seemed headed for no worse than second place with a good chance for first. They struck a snag, however, at the one point where they least wanted it, in their all-important game with the Bachelors. A rather dismal showing against this powerful quintet ended their hopes for first place and a subsequent one point defeat at the hands of the Garnets relegated them to the third berth in the league standing. They still are constant threats to the leaders, nevertheless, and should give them plenty of trouble during the present half.

The fourth team, the Valleys, were the disappointment of the league during the first half, when they finished their campaign with a quartet of victories and three defeats to take fourth place.

At the start of the league the team seemed headed for championship heights, but something failed to click along the way and necessitated their being removed from serious titular consideration during the first bracket.

This squad, though, with such well known local performers as Harry Metz, Jimmie Metz, Herb Mayes, Herb Otto, etc., has plenty of potential strength, power that may assert itself any minute. This threat serves to make this squad ever dangerous on paper and enhances their chances of being "up there" at the finish.

The remaining teams in the circuit, the Panthers, the Community Aces and the Unions did not show enough in the first half to warrant their being given any serious thought for first place. Any one of these squads is capable of breaking into the first four of the loop, however, and of ruining the championship hopes of any one of the pennant candidates.

If the dope runs true to form and the Bachelors cop the second half as well, they will be awarded the championship of the league without a dissenting voice.

If, however, another team proves successful in its titular quest, the Bachelors must play this second squad in a series of games for the league championship.

If present plans materialize, the winner of these games will, in all probability engage the winner of the Nutley Church League in
