APPRECIATION

William Judson Kirby

Life's a bully good game with its kicks and cuffs,
Some smile, some laugh, some bluff;
Some carry a load too heavy to bear,
While some push on with never a care,
But the load will seldom heavy be
When I appreciate you and you appreciate me.

He who lives by the side of the road
And helps to bear his brother's load
May seem to travel long and long,
While the world goes by with a merry song,
But the heart grows warm and sorrows flee
When I appreciate you and you appreciate me.

When I appreciate you and you appreciate me,
The road seems short to victory;
It buoys one up and calls "come on,"
And days grow brighter with the dawn;
There is no doubt or mystery
When I appreciate you and you appreciate me.

It's the greatest thought in Heaven or earth,
It helps us know our fellow's worth;
There'd be no wars or bitterness,
No fear, no hate, no grasping; yes,
It makes work play, and the care-work free.
When I appreciate you and you appreciate me.

CROWNING ACHIEVEMENT OF WORK BY
REV. E. J. FIELD IS SEEN IN PURCHASE OF PAROCHIAL SCHOOL SITE

Rev. E. J. Field, rector of St. Peter's Church, has just realized an ambition that has been uppermost in his mind since coming to Belleville a little over six years ago. It is the acquisition of another piece of property, which, in conjunction with other property owned by the church, will be used for the erection of a new parochial school. The need for a new school is very apparent, the present building erected over forty years ago, is now inadequate.

The property just acquired is the Dolan Estate situated on the north side of William street, immediately adjoining the Stanniar property, now known as "The Annex" which was purchased by the church about three years ago, and is the connecting link between the present school building and the Dolan property.

About five years ago, the McGuire Estate on the south side of William street, forming part of the property on which the Rectory stands and on which the Memorial Shaft was erected last year, was bought in by the church.

Until such time as work on the new school building is begun, the house on the Dolan property will be used as a meeting place for the various women's organizations.

The parish finances are in a healthy condition being free from all financial obligations.

William Davis was appointed a constable in the Second Ward.

Anthony Pascale, boy's director of the Belleville Recreation Commission, thanked the board for donating a trophy to the basketball league and invited members to a dinner tonight in honor of the winning team.

POLITICKS

ANTI-KAMNIA

Being the latest collection of political tid-bits, some good, some bad, gathered by this columnist as he travels, thither and yon, without benefit of censor of the publisher of this worthy paper or the present board of commissioners.

(Editor's note:—The views of this columnist are his own personal views and are not governed by the policies of the publisher.)

Sorry Folks I had to disappoint you last week. I promised you a column every week, but due to an order from the boss I had to spend about 8 days out of town. And you know I hate to disappoint the boss. I went. As our Semitic friends would say—"Business iss Business."

Walter Mathes Issues Platform
In To-day's Issue of The News

WALTER MATHES

About the only change in the political horizon this week is that Elmer Hyde who jumped out of the ring recently, jumped in at the request of his friends.

Walter Mathes, who has been an ardent worker on various drives and community projects, definitely came out with his petitions of nomination.

Mr. Mathes whose picture is in this issue was born in Brooklyn. He was educated in Belleville schools and has lived in town thirty years. He never held public office.

He is a member of Christ Episcopal Church, various lodges and for the last twelve years has been employed in the general offices of the Erie. He lives at 104 Little street.

Mr. Mathes declares he believes in giving attention to all sections of town as to upkeep and improvements. He also believes business in town should be supported where properly located.

Service to the people, efficiency and economy are his plans. "By service to the people," he says he means "recommendations that

Double Birthday Party
Held At Del Tufo's

A party was held last Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Del Tufo, 60 Brighton avenue, the occasion being the tenth birthday of Florence Del Tufo, and the sixth birthday of Joseph Lanzara, their nephew. Twenty kiddies were present and games were enjoyed until a late hour.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Del Tufo, and children, Florence, Marie and Beatrice; Mr. and Mrs. A. Lanzara and children, Joseph and Michael; Mr. and Mrs. D. Del Tufo, and children, Rosalyn, Helen, Edith and Joseph; Mr. and Mrs. N. Romano, and child, Gloria; Mr. and Mrs. R. DeFlores, and child, Ralph, Jr.; Mrs. M. DeFlores, Miss Helen DeFlores, Miss Florence Stevenson, Miss Louise Miscia, Miss Lena Miscia, Mrs. Harriet Moore and children, Mary and Harriet; Mr. and Mrs. P. Taylor and children, Ruth and Muriel Mc Brinn; Mr. and Mrs. T. Iacullo and child, Rose; Miss Gladys Anderson, Miss Mary Jane Figurelli, Miss Geraldine Delgro and Miss Cathrine Tulp.

Coupled with the explanation that Mrs. Conley handled her considerable interests through a checking account, came the explanation by Mr. Griffinger Friday morning that the account did not reveal the disposition of large amounts Mrs. Conley was known to have received. As an illustration, Mr. Griffinger pointed out that a $5,000 check she was known to have received before her death cannot be traced.

Mr. Griffinger denied a report that Mrs. Conley lost money to many persons and that a large sum had not yet been repaid.

The lawyer's efforts to put Mrs. Conley's estate in order follow the probate of her will. The interest of the detectives results from the almost complete dearth of clues by which her slayer could be traced.

INDORSE THREE

Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy and Commissioners William D. Clark and Patrick A. Waters were indorsed as candidates for re-election May 13 by the Soho Civic and Improvement Association at 85 Harrison street, Monday night.

ESTATE CASH
STILL MISSING

Lawyer Follows Out - of Town Leads To Find
Murdered Woman's Money

Clews that lead out of town were being investigated Monday night by Harry Griffinger, attorney seeking $12,000 in cash mysteriously missing from the estate of Mrs. Jerome C. Conley, as prosecutor's detectives made plans to confer with the lawyer.

After announcement Thursday of the amount missing, there came the announcement by the authorities seeking Mrs. Conley's slayer that there had been no money in the woman's apartment when she was strangled to death February 7. The business affairs of Mrs. Conley have been carefully scrutinized in an effort, so far unsuccessful, to trace the murderer.

Coupled with the explanation that Mrs. Conley handled her considerable interests through a checking account, came the explanation by Mr. Griffinger Friday morning that the account did not reveal the disposition of large amounts Mrs. Conley was known to have received. As an illustration, Mr. Griffinger pointed out that a $5,000 check she was known to have received before her death cannot be traced.

Twenty-Five Year
Button Given To
P. S. OperatorLocal Man Remembers How Iceicles Clung In Old Days

Michael J. Looby, who has spent some twenty-five years operating Public Service street cars, will be awarded his gold button this month.

Mr. Looby, who was born in the town of Athlone, Ireland, arrived in America in 1901, and got his first job with the Adams Express Company. Four years later he was appointed a motorman at the Montgomery Carhouse, Hudson Division, and he has been with Public Service ever since.

Mr. Looby was a regular member of the "Snow Crew" and recalls the early days of street car operation when there was so little protection on the plows for the operators that "you would have iceicles hanging down from your eyebrows." In 1915 Mr. Looby was appointed Station Master at Miller Street Carhouse, Newark, but later requested that he be restored to his former work and is now an instructor.

Mr. Looby is married and has three children. He lives at 27 Prospect place, Belleville.

Veterans Happy
Over Success In
Hospitalization

The Veterans of Foreign Wars have been successful in their fight for better Hospital facilities in New Jersey, for the treatment of veterans. Bids will soon be requested for an addition to the Government Hospital now under construction at Knollcroft, Somerset County, to make this Hospital large enough to treat one thousand bed cases.

It was originally planned to only accommodate four hundred bed cases.

HILLTOP RESIDENTS PROTEST AGAINST WAREHOUSE SITE

The residents of Greylock Hill and points south and west are up in arms. They are protesting what tends to be one of the worst malefactions that was ever perpetrated on any residential section in any community. And well they might. For right in the heart of the hill district which boasts of the finest array of one-family homes a certain group is planning to erect a warehouse. And to add insult to injury it is only to be a temporary structure. To say the least it will be an eyesore.

Authoritative information lays the source of the rumor at the feet of the Belleville-on-the-Hill Association. It seems that this organization is going to hold a card party on April 23 at the Recreation House. The prizes donated are so numerous and of such bulk that at the date of this writing six actions for divorce are pending as a result of six garages belonging to the spouses of the committee ladies being commandeered for prize storage.

Needless to say the friends of the Association will not be disappointed in the prizes for which they play cards by the sweat of their brow. For those that are esthetically inclined there is that dainty suit of red flannel underwear all done up with moth balls ready for winter storage. And for the Gourmets there is always delectable oyster fry frizzled with last year's grease which adds so much to the tang of the sea.

CIVIC LEAGUE OBTAINS EXCELLENT
TALENT FOR NEXT THURSDAY

Another mass meeting will be held by the Civic League for Continued Good Government, Thursday evening, in Elks' Home. An unusual entertainment program has been arranged with Nick Lucas, star of the motion picture, "Gold Diggers of Broadway," acting as master of ceremonies of the entertainment. Mr. Lucas has been able to arrange his itinerary so that he can be in Belleville on that evening and as his performance in "Gold Diggers" was one of the outstanding hits of the year, officers of the Civic League feel honored that he has found it possible to visit us.

Mayor Kenworthy, Commissioners Clark, Carragher and Waters will speak briefly on their platforms as they have more fully lined up programs to be carried out if re-elected. Commissioner James Gibson, director of Revenue and Finance, who will not be a candidate for re-election, will speak on his work with members of the Commission during the past several years and bring before the public some of the financial problems which have been faced by the present Commission.

Mr. Gibson has not heretofore made any public speeches regarding his work with the Commissioners and his remarks will prove of much interest to all townspeople.

Entertainment of an unusual variety will be presented with such artists as Arthur Darbo and Dennis Fogarty, radio artists of Newark; Charles Bruder, tenor, and Russell Jackson, baritone of Kearny; Baby Florence Porter, seven year old old prodigy of Newark who will present acrobatic dances; George Rummel, xylophonist of Kearny who will be accompanied by Richard Campbell also of Kearny. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Sheehan, vocalists and Miss Jean Tallman, violinist, accompanied by Eleanor Bacon Peck, all of Belleville will complete a most unusual and selective program.

The meeting is open to all townspeople and with the Town Commission election about five weeks off, the platforms of the Commissioners is of vital concern to everyone.

Manslaughter Charge
Against Truck Driver

Lyndhurst Man Held In Death Of Car Occupant
Two Weeks Ago

Samuel Delorie, 41, of 208 Paul avenue, Lyndhurst, was held for the prosecutor on a technical charge of manslaughter yesterday morning by Recorder George A. Fitzsimmons.

Complaint against Delorie charged that on March 13 he was the driver of an ice truck which upset at Belleville and Franklin avenues. The other occupant of the truck, Nicholas Giamerella, 23, of 233 Thon street, Lyndhurst, died the following day from a fractured skull in St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic.

Giamerella, Delorie and another occupant, James Ennis, 21, 706 Cedar street, also of Lyndhurst, were attended at Mountside Hospital following the crash. They were dismissed shortly after admittance to that institution, Ennis apparently being the worst hurt with a fractured right arm and injured hand.

Giamerella went home, lied down until six o'clock that night and when his folks attempted to arouse him, was unconscious. He was taken to the Passaic institution where he died the following day. The local authorities received no official report of the death and it was learned by them in a round about way. Pending an illness, which Delorie developed, he was not brought to headquarters until yesterday.

over a good many roads in the past week but it never ran over smooth pavements than in this little old town of Belleville.

As I expected the town would be in the throes of a hectic political campaign. And it is.

The town is seeing red or do my eyes deceive me. Steaming up Greylock avenue went an auto whose top was capped after the fashion of a circus chariot and emblazoned across the front visor a brilliantly illuminated red sign told the wide, wide world that here was a man who was sure of his tenets.

And you aint seen nothin' yet as a feller says. We are to have a Kaiser in the lists for the town's gift as a candidate. May we say here, "Hoch der Kaiser" or should it be "Hock der Kaiser."

At any rate it will not be "Hock the town" as was almost our bitter experience in the past. That is not as long as our friends Kenworthy, Clark and Waters are in harness. And that is no idle boast.

Incidentally talking about friends we learned by the grapevine telegraph which is a popular means of communication everywhere where English is spoken that our jovial Mayor is to celebrate the anniversary of his birth.

April 10 is the day when that male offspring of the Kenworthy tribe gazed out on the cruel world and the child's name was Sam.

Even a political campaign will not brook interference of the Mayor's many friends—sh-sh-sh-lady friends—to throw a party on the afternoon of that day at the Elks' Hall.

variety. Rather it is that sort that will encourage every man, woman and child to confide and seek advice with no thought that he is obligated to Bill because of the advice.

He is a gentleman born, kindly-hearted, clean cut and with that air of decorum that can grace any affair or home or gathering.

And yet with all he maintains that dignity which is a necessary adjunct for a business man of his status.

His business training recommends him for the very important position of the Department of Revenue and Finance.

For the past 13 years he has been general plant manager of the Delaware Bleacheries, which is one of the largest plants of its kind in the east.

The contacts he has made in this capacity make him one of the outstanding candidates of the forthcoming election.

Locally he has been identified with every form of worth-while community activity.

He has served with credit on the Zoning Board of which body he has been a member for the past three and one-half years.

His service as chairman of the High School Football Banquet Committee is yet to be equalled.

A record such as this can hardly go unrewarded with the citizenry of Belleville and one which suggests to the writer that well known phrase most modern business houses use in answering inquiries regarding applicants for employment, "We cheerfully recommend him for the position you offer."

made a few brief remarks. Mrs. Heine was the next speaker and spoke on several subjects pertaining to matters of interest in the Federation among them being Legislation.

The speaker urged all the women to learn as much as possible about political methods. Moving pictures were also discussed and club members are invited to send Mrs. Florence H. Padelford, chairman of civics (motion picture division) their opinions of the pictures they have viewed.

In closing the speaker expressed the wish that the club women might keep their sense of humor with them at all times and to smile, and you will always get a response. Judging from Mrs. Heine's address her sense of humor is always uppermost.

A program of songs and instrumental music was arranged by Mrs. Charles S. Smith, program chairman and included cornet solos by Mrs. Arthur F. Thompson, of East Orange and soprano solos by Mrs. Edith St. John Walling. Mrs. Thompson, who was accompanied by Mrs. John Abell, chose as her opening number "Thoughts of Love" by Arthur Pryor.

Her next selection was "Dawn," by Pearl Curran, and the concluding number was "The Star," by James Rogers. Mrs. Walling, Mr. G. Allen Dobbins, accompanist, sang two groups of songs, the first group including "Open Thy Blue Eyes," by Massenet, and "The Winds in the South," by Scott.

In the second group were "Bird Songs at Eventide," by Eric Coates and "Down in the Forest" by Langdon Ronald. Both artists were very well received.

The guests of honor included Mrs. Heine, Mrs. Ogden, Mrs. Charles W. Beardsley, president of contemporary; Mrs. I. Lester Bedell, president of the Travelers' Club; Mrs. Walter Shaffer, president of the Study Club of Newark; Mrs. L. Crawford, president of the Allied Community Club;

Good-bye Stained Teeth

New Safe Treatment Bleaches Dark Teeth in Three Minutes

Dentists have discovered a new safe treatment which bleaches stains from teeth giving yellow discolored teeth a beautiful whiteness. It is called Bleachodent Combination, and consists of a remarkable liquid which cures or softens the stains—and a new kind of paste, which instantly removes the softened stains, and prevents new stains from forming. Simply brush the teeth with a few drops of the liquid—then use the paste—and even the darkest teeth are quickly whitened. Tobacco stains disappear after first few applications. Bleachodent Combination was first made for children's teeth to avoid the use of harsh gritty pastes which are so harmful to children's soft sensitive teeth. While Bleachodent Combination will instantly remove surface stains, do not expect it to remove stains caused by silver fillings, as these are below the enamel, and Bleachodent Combination is not intended to act on the enamel in any way. Fine for the gums. Bleachodent Combination is widely used and recommended. Costs just a few cents, and money back if not delighted. Get it today at all good dealers, such as:

more of a make-shift affair, as both outfielders and catchers were included in its personnel in McBride's quest for infield talent.

Dave Akers and "Dutch" King were other infield aspirants who displayed some fine early season form. Catching assignments were ably taken care of by "Turk" Byrnes, and Nick Bonavita, both letter men last year. Byrnes, however, received his letter as a third baseman, but he seems to possess all the needed qualities of a first class receiver and he is likely to get the call at that position.

During the initial part of this week the squad went out doors and practiced on the diamond at Number Seven School, where they continue to work out until the alterations to Clearman Field are completed. The squad, generally shapes up extremely well for the first week, and with the nucleus of six veterans, McBride seems destined to lead a winning crew of ball players.

Belleville Elks Top Junior Order Bowling Squad League Leaders Find Bills A Hard Nut To Crack

Displaying some of their best form of the season the Belleville Elks took two of three from the league-leading Junior Order quintet at the local alleys, Thursday night, in a Morris and Essex League match.

After dropping the opener by the slim margin of twenty pins the local Hello Bills hit their stride in the final two, winning both by goodly margins. A 922 team tally in the second provided them with a forty pin edge, while they climaxed their splendid performances fittingly with a gilt-edged even 1,000 total in the final game. This 1,000 tally earned for them no less than a 150 pin margin over their highly touted opponents, who occupy the top rung in the league ladder.

The high spot in individual performances was provided by Bob Whitten. Whitten for the past month has run into all sorts of poor "breaks" in the league and his sterling exhibition against the Junior Order pin-knights was a tonic to his mates and the many Elks' followers. Bob knocked over the maples for a pair of 200 tallies, a fine 202 in the first and a brilliant 222 in the final. His last count was the high water mark for the night.

Other double century scores were chalked up by Cliff Faust, who hit 214 in the second game; Billy Bechtoldt, with 202 in the opener; Bob McManus, with 215 in the last set to and Tom MacNair, who accounted for 215 in the closing tilt. McManus's 215 in the final was especially sweet as it followed two mediocre games, while Tom MacNair's 215 preceded successive games in the first two of 195 and 192 to give him consistency honors for the evening.

Weber, lead-off man for the visitors, was the only Junior Order pinner to hit 200. He did it twice accounting for successive scores of 203 and 207 in the first and second. Smejkal bowled 199 in the first to come the nearest to Weber.

The score:

Belleville Elks
Faust	161	214

New System On Public Links Will Save Golfers Long Waits

Partial adoption of the reservation system has been decided upon by the Essex County Park Commission for its public golf courses at Branch Brook and Weequahic parks.

The system, whereby players may reserve in advance the times at which they wish to begin playing, will be in effect Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. The details of the plan are being fully worked out now by the commission's course professionals and will be announced this week. David I. Kelly, secretary of the commission, stated.

Great care is being taken so as to make the system practicable and prevent it from reducing the number of players on reservation days.

Suggestion of the reservation system was made last year as the outgrowth of a controversy caused by long waiting on the first tees at the public courses. Exception to the "first-come-first-serve" system was taken by players who objected to waiting from two to four hours for a chance to start play.

The commission also made known its scale of charges for golf and tennis in the county parks.

At Hendricks Field, the new Branch Brook course, the charge will be fifty cents a game for one round of the course by each player. On the old eleven-hole course there will be a flat charge of fifty cents a day.

Players permits at $5 for the season, April 1 to December 31, will be issued for the Weequahic course. There, also, fifty-cent daily permits will be issued and $1 a day will be charged for guest tickets for players other than residents of the county.

To Use Turf Specialist.
The fee for tennis on the county courts will be ten cents an hour daily and fifteen cents for night playing on the four West Side Park courts equipped for that purpose.

The Park Commission has instructed ed A. M. Reynolds, chief engineer and general supervisor of the parks, to employ William Braid of Upper Montclair as a turf consultant in the care of the golf courses and lawns during the summer.

Hoople Club Loses To Milford A. A.

Good Sized Crowd Sees Locals Get Off To Poor Start

The Hoople Club bowling squad travelled to Milford, Wednesday night, and dropped two out of three games to the strong Milford A. A. before a good-sized crowd.

The Hooples, who at the present writing occupy second place in the local Legion circuit, were considerably off form against the Milfordites and it is expected that when they roll, them in a return match at a later date the tables will be turned.

The locals got off to a poor start, dropping the opener but came back strong in the second to take that one with ease. Hannan's fine 201 tally in this game was a big factor in producing the Hooples' fine team of $71, good enough to give them a fifty pin edge. The Milford boys took the deciding game only after a hard struggle.

Although Hannan was the only local boy to hit 200 during the match, "Red" Kant, captain and anchor man of the Hooples, was at his consistent best, with successive counts of 171, 186, and 170. James also rolled good, accounting for 170, 171 and 168 in his three games for the locals.

Ent and Hausman each rolled 201 in one of their games to take care of individual honors for the winners.

with Poell, who hit 203 in the final.

Two Represent Belleville Well In State Tournament

Tom MacNair and "Dutch" Faust represented the Belleville Elks in particular and Belleville in general ably and well, Saturday night, at the Llewellyn alleys in Orange in the state bowling tournament. Out of a huge field of entrants, which included the pick of the state's bowling experts, the stellar Faust placed seventh in the all-around singles with a 9 game total of 1788, an average of close to 199.

Not content with that fine record Faust later teamed up with MacNair in the two man event and the two placed ninth in that with a three game total of 1184. The individual feature of the local doubles team was Faust's sterling 249, one of the individual high water marks of the entire night. MacNair also hit 200 in one of the games, a fine 202 in the second. MacNair's other scores were 158 and 193, while Faust's others were 192 and 187.

The sterling quality of the two masterly exhibitions turned in by the Elk's pair of pin-knights can only be realized when the huge and brilliant field of bowling stars that were entered are considered. Close to 200, representing most of the larger towns of the state, toed the foul line at the start and the ease and frequency with which double century marks were rung up was a sure-fire indicator of their class.

Would Add Track To High School Sport

Sport Editor,
Dear Sir:
In a recent copy of the Belleville News there was an article referring to a fourth sport for the high school. I wish to suggest track, a sport in which Belleville in former years lead the state and so recently as 1928 Belleville has been represented by a running team which though green, did very well against strong opposition. My reasons for suggesting a track team are chiefly that it is easy to locate the runners by an inter-class meet (which I would suggest for early April) and the fact that many nearby schools have teams and tracks. How about giving Belleville a track team. There are lots of fellows interested and if an inter-class meet is held as I would suggest, I'm sure some real talent would be discovered.

Yours,
GEORGE BILLER.

PUBLIC SERVICE and TRANSIT

FACTS AND FIGURES from the ANNUAL REPORT OF PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATION OF NEW JERSEY

IN 1929, Public Service carried on street cars and motor buses a total of 655,484,666 passengers, an increase over 1928 of 12,350,485.

Public Service is operating 54 street car lines, using in the service 1,170 cars and 212 motor bus lines, using 2,325 motor buses.

During the year $8,530,343.09 was spent for capital improvements and additions, including the purchase of 293 new motor buses of the latest and best type.

The comprehensive system of local transportation maintained by Public Service contributes in full measure to the growth and development of the territory served.

The character of the community with its many separate municipalities, politically independent, but economically interdependent, requires adequate and convenient transportation facilities in and between them.

To meet this need Public Service has by coordinating street car and motor bus service, created a unique system of transit, which it is constantly improving and expanding to better and further serve the people of the State.

For the development of the more populous sections of New Jersey, local transportation facilities have been largely responsible, and they will play an increasingly important part as time goes on.

"No single service offered the people of the State creates greater benefits than the transportation system provided by Public Service."

Bachelor-St. Mary Tilt Furnishes Sport Highlight Tomorrow Here

The championship Bachelor and St. Mary's basketball games will go to the post, tomorrow night, at the Belleville High gym, in the best possible condition, fit and ready for an expected hard struggle.

The Belleville champs will probably line-up with the peerless Wengel-Johnston combination at the forward positions, "Pat" Dunn, pivoting, and inimitable "Snooky" Parcells and the flashy "Mac" McGuire at the guard posts. Jim McCabe will be held in reserve and will likely see plenty of action. This combination will be ably opposed by a Nutley squad that is right in its stride, headed by such capable performers as Alex Baykowski, Jimmie Sentner, Ame Barbata, Ray Englant, and "Rosy" Ryan.

There will be dancing before and after the game, which will be the climax of both towns' court activities for this season.

Belleville High Schedule Is Toughest One In Years

The Belleville High basketball team faces one of the hardest baseball schedules, this year, that it has been called upon to play in quite a while.

In the recently announced schedule, issued by Mr. Kittie, faculty member in charge of arranging athletic contests, there seems to be plenty of stern opposition. This year's squad, however, after only a week's practice looks as if it will experience little difficulty in fitting itself for the opening game with Columbia High of South Orange at Belleville, April 22. Other expected hard tussles listed are the championship Irvington High nine, Boonton's classy array of sluggers, Kearny, Orange, Hackensack, Englewood, and others.

The line-up of games incidentally includes one oddity that ought to benefit the local boys no little. This is the fact that their first four games are at home; which may possibly enable them to hit their stride early and set a pace that will be hard to stop.

The locals have carded, incidentally, in their fourteen game schedule eight home games and six away, with one open date sandwiched in. The schedule:

April 22, South Orange, home; April 26, Weehawken, home; April 29, Kearny, home; May 3, Clifton, home; May 5, Orange, away; May 9, Irvington, away; May 13, Boonton, away; May 17, open; May 20, Glen Ridge, home; May 23, Weehawken, away; May 24, Hackensack, home; May 27, Kearny, away; May 31, Irvington, home; June 3, Orange, home; June 7, Englewood, away.

Moose Lodge Trims New Brunswick Boys

Return Match Will Be Rolled At Elks' On April 6

Belleville Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose bowling team, made a trip to the New Brunswick Lodge of Moose, Sunday, and were engaged in a special bowling match of a home and home series. The Belleville boys made the first match by winning two of the three games after a hard battle.

The home boys had a fine group of rooters along with them, as a special bus was hired for the occasions.

Some fifteen or twenty women of the Mooseheart Legion, Chapter No. 516, were the chief rooters. Refreshments were served after the games. There was dancing and entertainment, and the members of Belleville Lodge were given a great time by the boys of New Brunswick Lodge.

The New Brunswick boys will visit Belleville on Sunday, April 6, to play the home boys in a return match and assured us they will even things up. The match to be rolled on the the Belleville Elks' alleys at 3:30 o'clock.

So all out, boys, to give the boys from New Brunswick as good a time as they gave us.

Social Recreation Service

By RECREATION COMMISSION

How many times have you been sitting in your parlor, supposedly, to be entertaining your friends and you could not think of a thing to do? Yes, you played bridge last night and the night before, but that too, has become dry. Thus, what shall we do next?

As a remedy for such a situation we offer a few parlor tricks that require little or no practice or paraphernalia. They are simple, interesting and fascinating to the observer.

In the performing of these tricks we suggest two vital points to be remembered. First, never explain how a trick is done; and second, never repeat the same trick unless it is suited to repetition.

1.—Totalling Twenty. Tell a person to write down five odd figures in a column and add them up to total twenty.

As twenty is an even number people who try it soon will give it up.

Here is the method: Put down 13, 5, 1, and 1. Add these numbers and the total will be 20. But these are only four odd numbers. That is true, but there are five odd figures; 1, 3, 5, 1 and 1.

2.—Telling the Total. Let a person write down a row of six figures. Then write something on a piece of paper and lay it aside.

Another person writes six figures beneath the first row. Then you write a number of six figures. Another person obliges you with a number of six figures, and you do the same. When the sum is added, a total is reached. Your paper is unfolded, and there is the answer.

Method: Note the first number written. Add to it 2,000,000, and subtract 2. That is what you write on the piece of paper. Just put down 2 less than the number written, and put a figure 2 in front of it!

When the second number is written, you write your number. Just add enough to make each figure total 9.

When the fourth row is written, you write the fifth, and make the fourth row total 9 for every figure. That will bring your answer.

Example: A person writes 347-628. On your paper write 2,347,628. First row 347,628. Second row 312,799. Your row 687,200. Fourth row 810,204. Your row 189,795.

Total 2,347,626

Inimitable Joe Williams Issues Baseball Call For Legion League

The coming of Spring was definitely decided recently when President Joe Williams of the Belleville American Legion Baseball League made an important announcement amid the rapidly approaching baseball season.

This announcement is that there will be a meeting of all ball teams desirous of entering this year's Legion League race. The get-together affair will be held at the Town Hall, Wednesday evening, April 2, and representatives of all the prospective clubs in both the junior and senior leagues are urged to attend.

For the benefit of the uninitiated it may be repeated that contrary to the policy of last year the local Legion post will sponsor two leagues. The senior league will be similar to last year's with the number of clubs entered being restricted to six and possibly eight.

The new league for the younger fellows will have an age limit of twenty years and will in all probability be a six team affair.

Valleys Are Second In League Due To One Point Victory

In a hectic, thrill-cramped battle, Thursday night, the Valleys eked out a narrow 18-17 margin over the Garnets at the local high school gym, to give them second place honors in the Recreation League.

The play-off was the close and hard-fought struggle expected of these two squads, who only a couple weeks previously had fought it out to an equally close 17-16 decision.

At no stage of play did either team hold a decided edge over its opponent, as first the Garnets and then the Valleys took the short-lived lead. With this sort of ding-dong battle going on for the better part of the first three quarters, the Garnets opened the final quarter holding a two point margin. Mainly due to the especially brilliant efforts of Jim Petrie, stellar forward, however, the Valleys suddenly came to life and with a flurry of accurate long shots soon forged into an 18-15 lead, with about two minutes to go to the end of the game.

Playing strictly defensive ball at this stage, the Valleys retained this slim edge until about twenty seconds of play remained. Then, with the whistle already on the timer's lips, Bob Mutch, who played a good all-around game throughout for the losers, suddenly emerged from a skirmish under the basket and tossed in a fine short heave from an extremely difficult position. The final whistle blew as the ball was in the air and the game was so close and the lead so ever changing that many of the fans present were under the impression that Mutch's heroic effort had turned the tide of battle but it was not to be.

Despite the fact that the Valleys' win was clean-cut and deserving, a glance at the box score serves to show that the Valleys' unerring accuracy at foul-shooting was easily the deciding factor in the final analysis, which gave them the one-point margin. The Garnets actually outscored the Valleys from the field by the somewhat decisive margin of six field goals to four, but the Valleys made good no less than ten foul tries out of a possible twelve. The Garnets were successful in five out of twelve. Therein lies the story of the Garnet defeat.

In addition to the scintillating Petrie, whose seven point total was high for the night, Herb Mayes, Harry Metz and Art Bloemeke also starred on the defense. Metz accounted for four points, while Mayes and Bloemeke produced three.

In defensive work Herb Otto's shining play as usual stood out in bold relief. He held the sterling shooting Hart Campbell without a point, while pivoting on most of the winners' passing attack.

Bob Mutch and "Sonny" Dingle were the shining lights for the hard-fighting Garnets. Mutch scored six points, four of which were made on two of the prettiest shots this writer has ever seen. Dingle ran him a close second in scoring honors with five and his all-around play was brilliant throughout. Vic Ackerman and Nap Prior played their usual steady and efficient guarding games, while Hart Campbell's floor work was of high order.

The score:

Petrie, f.	2	3	7
Mayes, f.	0	3	3

The Versatile Tomato

If the canned tomato were an actor, critics would be lauding him to the skies, praising his versatility. For the well-known canned tomato now appears in new guises.

For instance, consider up-to-date tomato sauce. Put up in 8-ounce cans, it is evaporated until thick and then highly seasoned, ready to be used as a sauce or in a made dish.

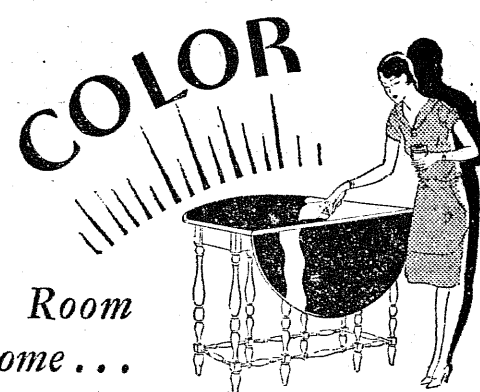

To make a tomato omelet, chop a small onion and half a green pepper fine and sauté in a tablespoon of butter until tender but not brown. Add contents of a can of tomato sauce, one-half teaspoon of sugar, salt and pepper and three tablespoons of chopped ripe olives. Heat to boiling and pour over the omelet before folding it.

Tomato paste, is a further evaporation of tomatoes—in fact it is so thick that its consistency re-

Many Other Varieties

Of course there are other tomato products on the market. Puree tomato juice is put up all ready for use in aspics or cocktails. There are strained tomatoes and tomato puree. Tomato soup varies in consistency; some are thin, others so thick that they may be used as a meat sauce just as they come from the can. And the good old favorite, plain canned tomatoes, still retains its leading place in our market.*

THOSE BRUSH FIRES

One of the sure signs of spring shows itself very clearly on the call book in fire headquarters. It is simply stated—"brush fires at so and so." But that sign of the arrival of the forerunner of good times also points to a danger. And it is really a danger that can very easily be avoided with just a little forethought.

The brush fire is after all, in most cases at least, but the result of carelessness. At this time of the year, the fields and vacant lots are beginning to lose their winter covering of wet. Drying out in the early spring sun, they are an easy prey to the god of fire. And we, with a desire to make spring cleaning, burn our waste and trash either on or near those fields. Then along comes one of those March zephyrs. Zip! A bit of burning trash is carried off and despite itself very willingly on some untouched bit of dry grass. In only a short space of time that little bit of burning trash has caused a large fire.

The burning of trash is certainly commendable. But there are precautions that should be taken. For example, it is an easy matter to anchor the things to be burned. Or, better, procure one of those fire containers, they are not over-expensive, and the trash can not get out. Or, again, the cellar furnace is perfectly willing to receive that paper and other things you desire to destroy. It will not do any particular harm to your furnace fire.

We know that the local fire department will welcome any help that they can obtain from the townspeople in this matter. For with them these days, it is just one brush fire after another. Of course, they do not mind work, but there really are not sufficient hours and men to go round.

Let's help the firemen. We are then helping ourselves, all looking to the same thing—preventing serious fires.

A FAMILIAR YARN

Times change but while everything else in this transformed world seems different, the stories that come out of the baseball training camps in the South have the old and delightfully familiar ring. From Texas, for example, came a yarn recently about a new pitch developed by one of the Giant twirlers, "a sort of screwball that wafes up to the plate slowly and with very weird twists."

Small boys have been reading about that "new" variety in curves for a generation. It is a sensation of every spring. But somehow or other, it gets lost in the journey northward and no spectator ever sees a batsman hitting vainly at a ball that loops the loop around his bat. But we shall probably continue to believe that some day we are going to see that acrobatic and gyratory curve.

EMPLOYMENT CONDITIONS IMPROVING

The general report is that employment conditions are improving all over the Country. Spring is here and favorable weather, together with the effort which is being made everywhere to keep construction going, is rapidly taking up the slack in the employment market.

The American people, following a period of unexampled extravagance and speculation, are going back to work. Industries which have been in the doldrums will soon be running on full time. The period of easy money making has passed. Thousands of people have learned by sad experience that wealth and prosperity can only come from hard work and thrift. Fortunes will be made for some time in the future only by those who are prepared to work. Real effort will be rewarded, as it usually has been, and with the devotion of all the people to these ideas this Country cannot long be afflicted by the unemployment of any considerable number of its people.

:O:

THE 1,000-FOOT LINER

The race to see which country shall build the largest ocean liner suggests the competition in New York to erect the highest skyscraper. It is known that plans for some of the tall structures that are now changing the Manhattan skyline were successively altered, even after construction had begun, in the light of news of competitors' intentions.

According to word from London, the White Star Line has adopted an entirely new set of designs for its giant Oceanic, which is to be of 65,000 instead of 60,000 tons, as originally planned. It will be the world's first 1,000-foot vessel. The Majestic, now the longest, is 915 feet. The Leviathan is 907, but the Leviathans II, and III, to be built by the United States Lines, will be 965. The change of plans for the Oceanic follows so closely upon the announcement regarding the Leviathan twins as to be significant. But this is one form of competition in ship-building which need excite no alarm. It is indeed, a novel and refreshing experience for American shipyards to be regarded as formidable competitors for first honors on the sea.

:O:

FREEDOM OF THE AIR

Under old English law a landowner could claim possession to the air above his property as far as the heavens and theoretically the right still holds. In this new era of airplanes such possession has practically been set aside. However, sooner or later it will be necessary to define by law how much of the air above the earth the property holder may reserve for his own use and how much like the oceans is free to all for navigating airways. Otherwise some skyscraper may trespass on the public domain.

RADIOS ON TRAINS

Have our radio folk been sound asleep, that France should have beaten them to the newest in radio services? The French state railway has announced the inauguration of what is to be the first train in the French republic to be equipped throughout with radio phones, with individual ear-phones for each passenger. It is intended to extend this service shortly to all other passenger cars of the state line, so that for the price of his railway fare one will be given both transportation and entertainment, the latter not by way of magna vox yelling program that many may not care to hear, but programs discreetly distributed to the ear of each and thus easy to be avoided by those who prefer silence or have other matters to attend to. Such a system on some of the long, weary runs of our continent-crossing American railroads would be a blessing. The first French train, mentioned above, will operate between Paris and Le Havre.

Jokes

"I'd like to go to a funeral this afternoon, sir," said the office boy.

"Oh, you would, would you?" the chief heartlessly replied. "Well, you won't."

"No, sir; I know I won't," the boy murmured resignedly. "But I would like to all the same."

Something tragic and appealing in the youthful voice led the chief to ask: "Whose funeral?"

"Yours, sir," said the boy.

Considering the short time the maid had been in this country she had been quick to master a new language, but once in a while encountered words that were puzzling in their import.

One morning the master of the house came down to breakfast and found that some flies had gotten into the room. He called the maid.

"Hilda, please bring me the fly swatter."

She looked undecided. "Bring you what, sir?"

He repeated, "Fly swatter."

Hilda nodded, went away and soon returned with—a glass of ice water.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By BOYCE BROGDON

Here's a bit of news for the boys. A revival of the famous lost art of making goo-goo eyes is predicted by Miss Dora Mamma, who is a telephone switchboard operator for the Colonial Airways. She declares that flirting flappers this summer will revert to old fashioned tactics in vogue fifteen years ago.

The recent crash in Wall Street is blamed for the return of these naive tactics. And this is how Miss Mamma who comes from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, figures it out.

Money is tight and girls who flirt will be forced to proceed in a primitive fashion. When the market was good and people had plenty of money it wasn't necessary for girls to make eyes at anyone.

"There has been a big swing back to simple life," Miss Mamma says.

"No more paper profits. No more wild extravagance. That's why the girl with the goo-goo-goo eyes is coming back. She will have to mope and moon and say it with her eyes if she expects to get anywhere this summer."

O boy, what a swell time we will have at Coney Island this summer. Just pick out a real hefty looking blonde or brunette, or if you prefer an auburn-haired girl, attract her attention and watch her roll them eyes.

I wouldn't be a bit surprised if the boys began this lost art themselves. If they should see a nifty girl that's just a bit slow in making these goo-goo eyes. I believe it might work out to advantage if the boy would start rolling his eyes at the girl in question.

Last Thursday I decided to take a rip on the subway. After standing on the platform waiting for the train for some five or ten minutes it finally arrived. I was shoved in the train by colossal force and pushed up against a laborer who smelled of perspiration, tobacco juice and halitosis. I regretted not having a piece of gum to offer him.

After several leaps and bounds the train arrived at Times Square, as it usually does. I strolled over to one of the many cigar stores and procured a pack of my favorite smokes, looked at my Dollar Ingersol and saw that it was only 4 p. m., and as I wasn't due at the office until 5, I took a leisurely ramble up Broadway.

After meandering for a few minutes I stumbled on this bit of gossip: Two girls were talking. One of the girls was telling the other that she had lost her job and had looked everywhere for another, but met with no success. "Well, dearie, I believe if I were you I would go home." "That's just what is worrying me. You see, I left home without the consent of my parents, and after I landed on Broadway and found a job, I wrote home about my success. Mother and Dad have told everyone about my success at home and my personal pride keeps me from returning home now since I lost the job." "That's alright, dearie, but when one gets hungry she'll have to swallow her pride."

These lines were found in the Tempest, by Shakespeare:

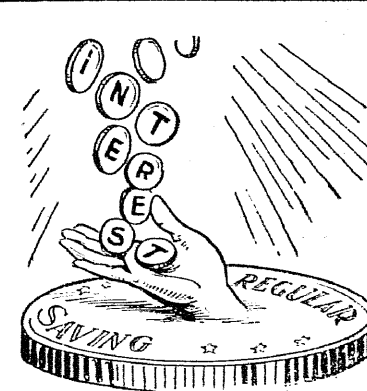

There was a young person named Tate,
Who went out to dine at 8:08
But I will not relate
What the person name Tate
And his tete-a-tete ate at 8:08!

It is reported that Eddie Cantor lost a small fortune in the recent Wall Street crash. But what if he did? Wasn't he the wise guy? He wrote a book, called it "Caught Short" and cleaned up a Million.

Here's another unique sign that is hanging outside of the Wigwam of a theater ticket speculator, it reads: "Fifty Million Frenchmen" "Strictly Dishonorable" "Sons o' Guns."

New Uses For Familiar Vegetables

By CAROLINE B. KING

THE housewife who has a garden to draw upon for her vegetable supply has a gold mine at her command if she did but know it, for in the fresh green things from her garden patch lie all the rich vital qualities her family require for their well being.

String beans, cabbage, carrots, chard, lettuce, contain Vitamin A. Asparagus, beans, cabbage, carrots, lettuce, peas, white potatoes, string beans and tomatoes are rich in Vitamin B. Vitamin C is contained in beets, cabbage, carrots, lettuce, peas, potatoes, string beans and tomatoes. Escarotte, spinach and tomatoes are rich in iron; beans; carrots, cauliflower and onions contain lime, and asparagus, cabbage, carrots, celery, lettuce, onions, potatoes cooked in the jackets, squash and turnips are all valuable because they supply the roughage or bulk the body needs to keep it in good condition. Home canning of tomatoes affords an opportunity to select fully ripe and choice fruits.

When one realizes what a wealth of healthful qualities these easily grown garden vegetables contain, it would seem impossible to serve too many vegetables. One may begin the meal with a vegetable appetizer, and finish it with a dessert salad made of vegetables, and all the way through the other courses deliciously cooked hot vegetables of all sorts may be served as main dishes, as entrees or in any other form one wishes.

Tomato Juice Cocktails are extremely good. Make them by straining canned tomatoes through a coarse sieve, pressing lightly. To three cupsful of pulp add the juice of half a lemon, 1 tablespoonful of sugar, salt, pepper, and paprika to taste, and if desired a mere whiff of celery salt. Put in the shaker half filled with crushed ice and shake vigorously, strain into cocktail glasses and serve with tiny sandwiches of wholewheat or graham bread.

Scalloped Egg Plant is a tempting main dish or entree. Cut a large egg plant in slices about half an inch thick, pare them and place in salt water for a few minutes, then rinse and cut in cubes, cover with boiling salted water, cook till tender and drain well. Chop one small onion and saute it in 2 tablespoonsful of melted butter, add a tablespoonful of chopped parsley and a cup of milk and simmer till thick, adding 1/2 teaspoonful of salt and pepper and paprika to taste. Add the egg plant and turn into a buttered baking dish. Cover with bread crumbs, dot with butter and bake a nice brown.

Cucumber Salad with Pineapple: Add 1 1/2 cupsful of boiling water to a package of lemon flavored, sweetened gelatin, and stir well, set aside to cool. When beginning to thicken add a tablespoonful of vinegar, one cupful of cubed cucumber and a slice or two of canned pineapple finely shredded. Season with paprika and a little salt, turn into small molds, chill well, and unmold on lettuce leaves. Serve as a dessert salad with cream cheese balls and wafers.

Warns Mothers

MOTHER'S PET

CHICAGO.—"Back seat drivers" who ply mothers with free advice cause as many fatal accidents with babies as those who try to direct the operation of automobiles, Esther Ackerson Fischer, noted dietitian declared in an address here.

"It is a hardy baby that can thrive under the remote control treatment of neighbors and friends," said Mrs. Fischer. "Such advice may be given with the best intentions in the world, but neighbors and friends are notoriously bad physicians. Babies grow so rapidly that they frequently change in the course of twenty-four hours. What is good for them at one age may not be advisable a little later. The baby's health program should be adjusted to meet its constant physical changes and this program should be supervised constantly by a proficient doctor."

"Let a good doctor take the wheel and the infant's trip through babyhood is usually a healthy, prosperous journey."

Church of the Annunciation, Cradell, N. J.

The Young People's Fellowship had supper at the parish house on Sunday evening at six o'clock. The boys prepared and served it, and the girls cleared it away. The Rector was the guest of honor and after ward the members attended church service in a body. Rev. Charles P. Tinker of Grace Church, Nutley, preached. The Y. P. S. are having a campaign for new members which will continue through April. Robert Geller is captain of the Red Team, and his lieutenant is Andrew Mc Master, while Arthur Bennington captains the Blue, and Edgar Williamson acts as lieutenant for him.

Rehearsals are progressing for the Lenten Presentation of "The Vigil," under the auspices of the Girls' Friendly Society, for the benefit of the Candidates, to be held at the parish house, on the afternoon and evening of Friday, April 11, at 4 o'clock and 8 o'clock.

Wednesday evening, in addition to the paper flower making under the instruction of Mrs. Frederick S. Ford, Miss Lillian Edwards initiated a group into the intricacies of bead work, making boutonnières. Another business meeting to further discuss the National Budget was held. Miss Bertha Mumford, for the older members, and Miss Alice Miller for the younger ones, are the appointed representative members of the G. P. S. National Auxiliary Council.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Guild was held at the parish house, yesterday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Mary J. Lloyd presided.

The April Committee Luncheon at Borden's Farm Products Company's plant, Newark, will be held on Thursday, April 10. Mrs. George H. Hildebrand and Mrs. Robert H. Minion are co-chairmen, assisted by Mrs. Ernest Harris, Mrs. Charles A. Hodapp, Mrs. J. W. Haworth, Mrs. William V. Irvine, Mrs. Frederick Idenden, Mrs. Joseph Joule, and Mrs. Joseph R. Kingsland.

The Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. Edward Nelson, president, hopes our congregation and friends will reserve the evening of Monday, April 7, for the "Kaffee Haag Lady." Mrs. H. W. Morris of Hillside, N. J., who comes to entertain us in English and Scotch monologues. A silver offering for funds to meet the auxiliary's annual budget appointment, will be received. Kaffee Haag and home-made cake will be served.

On Sunday evening, April 27, at the evening service the annual spring collection of the "Blue Boxes," the United Thank Offering, of the Woman's Auxiliary will be received. On that evening also, the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will sponsor "Family Night," which is so much enjoyed, whenever taking part in the service, will be heard again on this occasion. So we have a three-fold interest in this particular Sunday evening service, and can be assured that our Rector will have something of special import for those present, and it is earnestly hoped that every seat will be filled. The men of the church have been giving of their time, strength and talent, during the first three evenings of this week, in making the parish house more attractive in a dress of new fresh paint. The Guild room, Club room, Vestry room and halls are newly decked, the upper floor having been done several weeks ago. The slogan was "Perfect Painting Parish House."

Arrangements are being made to have the New Providence, N. J. Grammar School Band give a concert under the auspices of the Altar Guild on Friday evening, May 9, at the parish house. This band is taking part in the Music Festival, being held at Madison Square Garden, on Saturday.

The famous Tom Noonan of Chinatown Mission will preach at the Tabernacle on Monday night, May 5. This will be a great opportunity for you to hear this famous man give his wonderful testimony. The meeting will be held under the auspices of a union of the Daughters of Liberty.

CHURCH LOYALTY CRUSADE

"Symphony Day" will be featured next Sunday, March 31, as the fifth of the Church Loyalty Crusade week.

In practically all of the 91 Presbyterian Churches and the several co-operating denominations to the Newark and Morris-Orange region, the place of music in church worship will be emphasized.

"The Glory of Loyalty" has been announced as the general theme, with the ministry of music stressed at the morning services of worship. "Old Hymn Night" will be featured at evening services, and pastors have sought during the past weeks to learn of favorite hymns, that they may be given special rendition.

With congregations unified, and given a new spirit of optimism and progress evidenced through the discovery of permanent church methods and latent workers, the Crusade Churches are reaping rich spiritual blessing from the crusade.

Reports from 35 Sunday Schools, received at Crusade headquarters, showed an attendance of 5,467 on the Sunday before the Crusade started. On the first Crusade Sunday, March 2, the attendance in the same schools jumped to 7,414 or 36 per cent increase; on March 9, 7,837 or 43 per cent increase; and on March 16, attendance was 8,061, or 48 per cent increase.

Enthusiasm in young people's organizations has also been manifested, as Young People's leaders have gathered in each of the Crusade districts during the past week at Super-Round-Table-Conferences.

Through the use of the Crusade program, many organizations have taken on a new lease of life, have doubled and trebled their numbers, and many young people's societies have been re-organized and now show a healthy condition.

Miss Ethlyn F. Johnson, an associate Crusade director, arranged the Young People's Conferences, and presented "Decision Day" plans to the various groups.

With the new spirit which has been aroused in congregations through the Crusade, attention is now being turned to the formulation of plans for the extending of the friendly invitation to the thousands of people who have been brought in to contact with the churches during the past weeks. For this purpose, careful organization of workers is being made in each local church, that the week of April 6 may be observed as Friendly Invitation Week of the Church Loyalty Crusade.

With this important part of the Crusade program, plans have already been made for Evangelistic Workers' Instruction Meetings in the three Crusade districts. The Newark meeting is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, April 6 at the Roseville Presbyterian Church; the western district of Morris-Orange Presbytery, also on Sunday afternoon, April 6 at the First Presbyterian Church, Madison; and the eastern district of Morris-Orange Presbytery, on Friday evening, April 4, at the First Presbyterian Church, South Orange.

During the past week, Dr. George G. Dowey, general Crusade director, has addressed large gatherings of Sunday School superintendents and teachers in each of the districts, on the subject "The Sunday School Teacher—His Make-Up and Method."

Stressing the Sunday School teacher's motto: "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth," Dr. Dowey in his own inimitable and powerful manner revealed to his audiences, points in developing teaching personality, in making Sunday School instruction more interesting and attractive, and in holding the attention of pupils, thus gaining greater results.

Dr. Dowey stressed the facts that in Newark Presbytery in 1904 there were 107 Sunday School members to each 100 church members. In 1929 the ratio was 60.9 to 100. From 1927 to 1929 there was a 10 per cent decrease in Sunday school membership.

Quotation From President Hoover's Speech on Scouting

"The idea that the Republic was created for the benefit of the individual is a mockery that must be eradicated at the first dawn of understanding. It is true that many of our schools have recognized this obligation. It is true that our teachers are guiding our children in the first steps of democracy, but I know of no agency that can be more powerful in support of this purpose than the Scout movement.

"If we look over the Republic today we find many failures in citizenship—we find many betrayals of those who have been selected to leadership. I cannot conceive that these failures would take place if every citizen who went to the polls was a good 'Scout,' and every official who was elected had ever been a real Boy Scout.

"I give you a powerful statistic. There are about one million Boy Scouts in the United States. There is raw material for ten million more."

REAL FIRST AID

While hiking in Rubio Canyon, California, recently, Eleanor Beach, 13, 1367 West Thirty-eighth place, Los Angeles, slipped on the trail, fell on a boulder and fractured her right leg. She was hiking with a party of high school girls in charge of Miss Alice Steward.

Coming to her rescue, W. T. Porter, Scoutmaster of Troop No. 10, Boy Scouts of Pasadena, splinted the leg with yucca from the mountain-side. He then carried the little girl down the steep trail and placed her on the street car bound for Pasadena.

Praise for the expert first aid treatment given the injured girl by Scoutmaster Porter was voiced by Dr. H. Hatfield, emergency hospital physician.

"Porter's emergency treatment was so successful that the child did not know her leg was broken until we told her," Dr. Hatfield said. "The splints were applied in such a way that she experienced almost no pain."

Porter was spending the week-end at Camp Huntington with Boy Scout Troops, when called to the scene of the accident.

PAINT SIGNS

Boy Scouts of West Orange recently did a Good Turn for their community by painting twelve danger signs to be put at heavy traffic street intersections by the Chamber of Commerce and Civics of the Oranges and Maplewood. The work was done under the supervision of Earl D. Gardner, Scout Executive of West Orange, N. J.

GOVERNOR A SCOUT

In celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the Boy Scout Movement and its recognition of the achievement of the Boy Scouts of his state, Governor Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois was inducted into the ranks of the Chicago Scouts. While Governor Emmerson pledged himself to do his best "To do my duty to God and my Country, to obey the Scout Laws and to help other people at all times," more than 2,000 other Tenderfoot Scouts joined in the Oath with him. The Governor was given his Tenderfoot pin and instructed in the duties of a Scout by Colonel Noble B. Judah, former Ambassador to Cuba and a member of the Advisory Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Before the ceremony of taking the Oath, Governor Emmerson paid a splendid tribute to Scouting.

"To my mind no Movement of the century has greater possibilities for permanent good than the world-wide Boy Scout Movement," he declared. "We can have good government in this country only if we have good citizenship, and good citizens are not made in a day. Of all national assets," Governor Emmerson continued, "none can be placed higher than the youth of the land."

GOOD TURNS

Five hundred phonograph records were collected from the citizens of Laramie, Wyoming, by the Boy Scouts of that municipality recently, and sent as a gift to the United States Veterans' Hospital at Sheridan, where the ex-soldiers recently were the recipients of two fine phonographs, the gift of the Albany County Post No. 14, American Legion Auxiliary.

AID MOTORISTS

Approximately 50,000 tacks, nails and other sharp metallic objects were removed from the streets of Douglas, Arizona, by the Boy Scouts of that locality as a Good Turn to motorists. The boys did not rely entirely on their eyes in clearing the streets, but dragged them with magnets also.

COLLECT TINFOIL

Boy Scouts throughout the State of Washington recently worked with the Shriners in collecting tinfoil for the benefit of the Orthopedic Hospital in Seattle. The tinfoil collected by the Scouts was sold by the Shriners and the money turned over to the hospital for its use.

TRAFFIC SQUAD

Boy Scouts of Bend, Oregon, have organized a Junior Traffic Patrol to handle traffic near the schools of the city and to aid children in crossing streets. The plan, approved by City Officials, calls for 24 Junior Patrolmen. Eagle Scout Norman Gilbert has been named captain of the junior patrol and he will work under the direction of Police Chief P. A. Thomas. The Scout Patrolmen will wear Sam Brown belts while on duty.

BOY SCOUTS AID CONGRESS IN SEARCH FOR OLD RECORDS

As a service to the nation, Boy Scouts in every part of the country are working with the joint printing committee of Congress of which Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire is the chairman, in preparing a revised edition of the biographical directory of the American Congress. The Boy Scouts are searching for data pertaining to the members of Congress from their home districts.

The committee has asked the boys to delve into old newspaper files or search through biographical records of the county to find out everything possible about each of the members of Congress.

Already, hundreds of pages of manuscript have been forwarded to Washington by Boy Scout Troops, but the job is a gigantic one and some time will elapse before the Boy Scouts finish their work.

UNKNOWN SCOUT RESCUER

A Boy Scout about sixteen years old who declined to tell reporters his name, saved two men from death in a fire in a three-story apartment at No. 433 Clermont Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. recently. The blaze began in the first floor apartment and quickly spread to the upper floors. The Boy Scout discovered the blaze and turned in an alarm. He then entered the building and found Joseph McLoughlin, thirty, and John Raschau, sixty-eight, tenants of the third and second floors, lying unconscious in the first floor hallway. He dragged both to safety. An ambulance surgeon from Jewish Hospital treated the men.

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

Finding an unconscious man lying on the curb at Morris Cove, Ct., three young Scouts, Howard Chamberlain, Alphonse Palmieri and Harry Carrano, who were returning to their homes from the skating pond, carried him into a nearby store and applied artificial respiration. They immediately sent for a doctor but before the doctor had arrived they had brought the man to consciousness.

FIGHT RATS

Working with the Civic Service Committee of their community, Boy Scouts of Lewistown, Montana recently made a survey of all vacant houses, garages and warehouses throughout their community and determined those infested by rats. A report was made to the city officials and efforts were made to exterminate the rodents.

On Monday evening through the courtesy of the Public Service Corporation and Mr. E. H. Robnett, assisted by Martin Higgins, the Boy Scouts of Belleville had an unusual treat.

They were given a two-hour entertainment of "The Public Servant of a Great State." Aerial views were shown of Public Service properties and industries, the automatic machinery that has been installed to handle their coal, coke, and so forth. The boys were shown how gas, coal, and electricity is manufactured; how the 30,000 people they employ are kept busy.

In addition Mr. Robnett showed the interior and methods followed in such large plants as the Wagner Pie Co., the Mountain Ice Co., the Nairn Linoleum Co., the Driver Harris Wire Co., and others.

Following this the Scouts were taken on a steamer from New York down the coast to the Panama Canal.

through the canal and down the west coast of South America, seeing sea taxis, canary birds and other items of interest.

As a climax they were shown how "Charlotte the Cat" lived nine lives. One hundred and fifty-four of the Scouts took advantage of seeing these educational pictures and from the cheers given Mr. Robnett at the end they had appreciated his effort and time in trying to give them something worth while.

On April 7, through the courtesy of the New York Times, our Scouts will have an opportunity to see and hear about Byrd's Flight and his discoveries in the antarctic. This will also be given at the Pewsmit Church at 8 o'clock that evening and all Belleville Scouts and their Scoutmasters are invited.

The Regular meeting of the Belleville Unit B. S. A. Council was held last evening, March 27, at 8:15 at the town hall. At this meeting all the Scoutmasters and Troop Committee-men were invited to be present.

Good Home Garage Is Investment In Auto Efficiency

Depreciation Decreased By Safe, Weather-tight Building

By WYATT BRUMMITT

A car is known not so much by the company it keeps as by the way it is kept. Many a good car, starting out from a reputable factory, with plenty of solid, well-earned reputation as its birthright, has gone to an early junk pile merely because its owners failed to give it a proper home. It may have been allowed to stay out by itself all night, losing its lustre and good looks, unprotected from the weather. Or it may have had the scant protection of a shack-garage, disreputable in appearance and crammed with fire hazards.

The growing practice of making the garage a part of the house insures a longer, more self-respecting life for the motor car. Too, it adds to the convenience and usefulness of any automobile. It eliminates the bother of trekking out back in bad weather and the need for extra plumbing and heating installations which are necessary if a back-yard garage is modernized.

Present-day architects have evolved many ingenious plans for incorporating the garage on the front or side of a home, thereby leaving the space behind the house free for gardens, lawns and other landscaping features which can be enjoyed in privacy by the family.

Naturally, building the garage as a part of the house puts added importance on the need for sound, fire-safe construction. Most building codes require adequate fire-stops between the garage and the house proper, but if the entire house is built in the modern fashion, fire-safe throughout, this detail will be automatically taken care of.

In any event, the accepted fire-safe materials are concrete (for the floor), concrete masonry (for the walls) and either slab concrete or cement plaster on metal (for the ceiling).

In many instances, it may be impracticable to incorporate the garage within the house. Attention then is focused on building the garage as a separate unit. Another element then enters the problem, for the garage must be designed architecturally to harmonize with the rest of the property. Modern stucco for the exterior finish, colored and textured to conform with the architecture of the house, may be relied on for satisfaction, particularly if the garage walls are constructed of stable, non-warping concrete masonry. Cement-asbestos shingles or concrete roofing tile complete the fire-safety which is essential.

A car given inadequate protection in a poor garage depreciates as rapidly as it would were it constantly on the road. As an investment in utility and pleasure, the motor car cannot wisely be allowed to depreciate while not in use.

Here and There (RADIO) On the Air

His Strad And Voice All Obolensky Saved

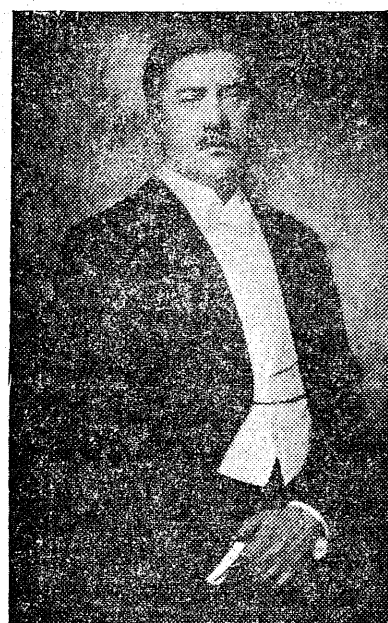

Princely Singer To Be Heard As Guest-Artist On N. B. C.

The guest-artist for the American Home Banquet program, on March 28, will be Prince Alexis Obolensky, noted basso, who will sing an aria in honor of the birthday of Modeste Moussorgsky, possibly the greatest composer in the history of Russian music.

Prince Obolensky has had a very colorful career. His father, Prince Alexander Obolensky, was vice-president of the Imperial Russian Musical Society, which established the first conservatories of music in Russia. Leopold Auer, Rimsky-Korsakoff and other noted musical high-lights were frequently visitors at their home. His family owned a great number of mines and glass factories in the Ural Mountains. After the serfs and workers were emancipated, his father established schools and singing societies for them, so that the peasantry belonging to the Obolensky family was generally ahead of the rest of the countryside in culture.

At the time of the Revolution, these serfs were given control of the Soviet and because they had always been ruled by an Obolensky, they elected Prince Alexis and his elder brother as head of the works. When the second revolution was running rampant, he fought in the White Army, under General Deniken, as captain of artillery. With the routing of the White Army, and his estates confiscated, he fled with his wife (who was born Princess Troubetzkoy) and five children to Constantinople, then to Paris. All that remained of his former wealth and possessions was his Stradivarius and a string of pearls belonging to his wife.

In Paris, a new life was to start. Prince Alexis had sung in Russia in various efforts and was the possessor of a big, rough, untrained voice. Fate eventually led him to Nellie Melba, who saw in his untutored voice the making of an operatic basso. Henry Russell, director of Melba's Australian Opera Company, took Prince Obolensky to his farm to train his voice and when Melba returned two years later, and heard him sing, she ordered a concert hall as the best place to show the progress of her protegee. In 1923 and 1924 he made a world tour, with Dame Melba and began singing leading roles with her.

Today, Prince Obolensky is much sought after for radio and concert work in the land of his adoption, America.

Grand Jury Panel For Essex Drawn

The panel for the first half of the April term, Essex County Grand Jury, was picked before Chief Justice Gummere in the Hall of Records Saturday morning. G. Willard Wharton of 228 Little street, this town, was among those listed.

$10,000 Verdict

A $10,000 verdict was returned last week by a jury before Judge Smith for Mrs. Susan Hicks of 87 New street, in a $50,000 suit brought for the death of her husband, Charles A., in an accident in Union avenue, August 5, 1927.

The defendant, who was not represented at the trial, was John L. Codomo, formerly of Belleville avenue. Codomo, according to Harold A. Miller, who represented Mrs. Hicks, has not been located recently despite search.

Mrs. Hicks charged that a car driven by Codomo was speeding in Union avenue near Wilson place when her husband, a carpenter, attempted to cross the street at dusk. There was no warning, she said, and her husband was struck and instantly killed.

We Have With Us Tonight

An original drawing by Carl E. Schultze in which he portrays this week's guests at The American Home Banquet, a National Broadcasting Company presentation, sponsored by the American Radiator Company.

The handsome Madame Roland was noted for early rising as well as uprisings. At Monday's American Home Banquet the distinguished French states-woman said she often rose at five in the morning to read Plutarch. Archly she asked her fellow guest, President Madison, if he could imagine his Dolly studying that early. "No," replied our little president, shaking his head. "Dolly wouldn't get up at five o'clock to read Plutarch or any other book," and added under his breath, "Thank Heaven."

"Ha," chuckled Sir Anthony Van Dyck Friday night, at the American Home Banquet. "It's a real pleasure to be a guest at a dinner instead of a host. I used to invite my royal models to dinner so I could study their faces in a natural, relaxed mood. It was a great idea for art, but poor for the pocketbook. Why, some of those princes could eat an entire roast pig. It used to cost more to feed them than I could get for painting them."

John Calhoun was a true exponent of real Southern hospitality. Whoever stopped at the Calhoun plantation, he remarked during dinner Tuesday evening, at the American Home Banquet, was welcome to pass the night. One thing the courteous host would not stand for, however, was irreverence. Once a rude guest refused to attend family prayer, "George," said Mr. Calhoun to a servant, "saddle the gentleman's horse and let him go."

Someone started a rumor Thursday night at the American Home Banquet that Henrik Ibsen was a leader of the Dress-Reform-For-Men League and the Social Reporter was busy scribbling away when the lion-headed little dramatist got wind of what was up. "My dear young lady," he raged, tearing notes from her hand, "the reason I went without underwear and socks back there in Norway was economy, not fashion."

The veiled lady of the East who was the dinner guest of Sir Richard Burton Monday night at the American Home Banquet was curious about the freedom of American women. The Hostess explained that until recent years women have been practically enslaved by household tasks—but that modern inventions such as electric contrivances and automatic hot water supply have freed her for a variety of new interests.

That intrepid punster, the Reverend Mather Byles, said Monday night at the American Home Banquet that the greatest consternation caused by his wit, the more successful he always thought it. He told how he once called the servant girl, crying "Quick! Run up-stairs and tell Mrs. Byles that Dr. Byles has put an end to himself." A few minutes later, when the agitated wife and her daughters came rushing into the studio, they found the whimsical Doctor prancing around with a cow's tail pinned to his coat!

Out of deference to both Leif Ericson and Amerigo Vespucci, the fish course was omitted at Tuesday's American Home Banquet. "If all the fish I ate on my various voyages were placed end to end," remarked the Italian explorer, "I wouldn't believe it."

What a nerve that man Bach had. Three guests overheard him growling about the noise when the orchestra played jazz Thursday night at the American Home Banquet, and when he was reminded that his twenty children used to practice on twenty different instruments, he merely replied: "Twenty Bach babies, an hour apiece for practicing, that left four hours to sleep. Not bad."

"Of course I don't like automobiles," Rosa Bonheur, the famous painter of animals, declared Friday night at the American Home Banquet, "but I would much rather see them hauling lazy humans about than have the beautiful horses over-worked as they were in my day."

Signor Amerigo Vespucci was flattered to learn Tuesday night at the American Home Banquet that his name has become a trade-mark for thousands of products in universal use, as well as the name of a continent. Even the heating system which supplies such wonderful warmth to the banquet hall, the hostess informed him was "American."

"The who-sits-next-to-him didn't bother Dolly and me," said President James Madison at Monday's American Home Banquet. "We went on the theory everyone was equal, and our only rule was ladies before gentlemen."

Mme. de Lafayette, a charming lady with pearls in her hair and a velvet train, had not forgotten her reputation for frankness. "Two hundred and ninety-eight tonight," she smiled sweetly to a guest who had the temerity to ask her age at Tuesday's American Home Banquet.

Witches in plumed caps, laced aprons and red stomachers! That's what Edmund Kean said they wore in Macbeth when he first went on the stage. Later, he said, they were more appropriately costumed, and appeared with glittering serpents coiled about their bodies and attended by spirits.

Sir Richard Burton, who fought some exciting battles in India, proved that his wit was just as sharp as his sword. "How do you feel when you kill a man, Sir Richard?" a doctor who was a guest at Wednesday's American Home Banquet asked him. "Oh, quite jolly, doctor," replied the Englishman, "and how do you?"

"Pretty soft," sighed a debutante as the veiled lady walked past Wednesday night at the American Home Banquet. "It doesn't make any difference whether her nose is powdered or not."

Old Amerigo Vespucci told a guest Tuesday night at the American Home Banquet that he was engaged to be married before his first voyage, but did not actually marry until after he had made the trip. "You wanted to be sure how much courage you really had, first—eh?" chuckled Leif Ericson with a playful poke in the ribs.

Guests at the American Home Banquet on Friday, March 7, heard Ferruccio Corraetti, who is now appearing in this country, sing the Prologue of his old friend Leoncavallo's opera, "I Pagliacci."

A Great Grandfather on The Air When Alexander Graham Bell arrived at the American Home Banquet on the night of March 3, there was one little chap whose eyes were shining brightly. For, you see, his name is Alexander Graham Bell, too, and he is the great grandson of the famous inventor.

The Toastmaster of the American Home Banquet knew who was listening in, for he had received a telegram that afternoon. "Dear Sir," it read, "I understand you are having Alexander Graham Bell as your dinner guest this evening. I am a little boy two years old and am Mr. Bell's great grandson for whom I am named. I shall be listening in tonight and will look forward to hearing about my great grandfather." The telegram was signed, Alexander Graham Bell Grosvenor, 2901 Woodland Drive, Washington, D. C.

If you remember, Mr. Bell was a little late that evening at the American Home Banquet, and the Toastmaster seemed a bit worried. He didn't want Alexander Graham Bell Grosvenor to be disappointed. Nor was he, for Mr. Bell, accompanied by George Pullman, the inventor of the Pullman car, arrived in due time and another birthday party in the great dining hall of the air became a success.

This was the week the American Home Banquet hall resembled

Alumni Week at the Explorers' Club. Tuesday night a tall giant with frost in his beard and a shrewd little Florentine merchant wandered about the hall and argued over the discovery of America. These boys told some tall tales (an old explorers' custom, we understand,) but we noticed that most of the scholars present listened with their tongues in their cheeks.

Leif Ericson would have you believe that he discovered America 500 years before Columbus. Some authorities seem to agree that the sturdy old Norseman did reach the new world, but just where he landed remains a question. Some say Labrador, others that it was further south and still others that it was not on the mainland at all, but along the coast of Newfoundland.

Amerigo Vespucci, who mingled a love for adventure with a soft eye for the West Indian trade, told reporters he made four voyages and on the first reached the mainland eight days ahead of John Cabot. Historians accept the last three voyages, but are highly skeptical regarding the first. The canny old Florentine was shrewd enough to get his story in print first, however, and it was the sixteenth century printer, Waldseemüller, who suggested that the new land be named America in his honor.

And These Men Went To Africa On Wednesday night at the American Home Banquet Sir Richard Burton and David Livingstone swapped tales of darkest Africa; and the scholars took their tongues out of their cheeks, for this pair had the proof! They were in Africa at the same time, incidentally, but never met; which only goes to show that, although the world may be a small place, Africa without railroads or radios was a pretty big one.

In fact, even Livingstone, who knew that continent better than any white man before him, vanished for two years and it took a special expedition, headed by H. M. Stanley, to find him. Livingstone began his African career as a medical missionary and soon won the confidence of the natives. When he finally died, in the little village of Tshitam-bo, it was the natives who buried his heart under a tree, and later arranged to have his body taken to its final resting place in Westminster Abbey.

Burton, who lived as colorful a life as any he wrote of in translating "The Arabian Nights," did not have such an easy time with the black men. He was the first European to penetrate the country of Somalis, but his companion was killed and he himself wounded in the venture. Undaunted, he later traced a native rumor about a great lake in the heart of Africa to its source and discovered Lake Tanganyika.

American Home Banquet Guests In Literature Modern biography has come to life! Truth is stranger than fiction, and often more interesting.

The American Home Banquet programs have focused attention upon dozens of delightful and sometimes stormy individuals who have played their parts in the history of past ages. Before the microphone they live and breathe again, vivid, and carefully authenticated reincarnations of their former selves.

Owing to the limits of time, however, only their outstanding achievements and a few of their more interesting foibles can be crowded into the banquet hour. Nightly the Toastmaster must rap his gavel for the second guest long before those in the hall have had their curiosity half satisfied about the first.

Fortunately, the trend of literature is toward intimate biographies written in flowing, narrative style with facts as their basis. There are hundreds of fascinating life stories in the book stalls at shops and libraries. Reading about American Home Banquet guests is now a pleasant pastime.

Every evening at 6:30 The American Radiator Company brings to you The American Home Banquet.

Benefit Card Party

A group of friends gave a benefit card party and dance Tuesday night at the Moose Home, Washington avenue, for Mrs. Paul Bohrer, widow of the Belleville man who was one of two victims of the fatal shooting by William Gimbel in the latter's hold-up of an A. and P. store in Belleville, January 16. Gimbel was given the death sentence at his trial. Mrs. Bohrer is the mother of four young children. Music for the dance was furnished by an orchestra conducted by Theodore Bohrer.

Fashionable Women of World Learn Modes at Same Time

All roads of fashion lead from Paris, it seems. And now Main Street is just as close to the style center of the world as Fifth Avenue.

If it's whispered along the Rue de la Paix, it will be shouted from Main Street the next moment, according to the newest plan of consolidated buying inaugurated by Montgomery Ward & Co.'s fashion and style service.

The recently completed plan of consolidated buying of all wearing apparel for both men and women in New York City will enable the mail-order and retail store house to give up-to-the-minute fashions to all parts of the United States simultaneously with their appearance in New York, according to D. I. Webb, vice-president and general merchandise manager.

"The consolidation of our so-called 'Group A' buying in New York City," Mr. Webb said, "makes it possible for Montgomery Ward & Co. to give customers in all parts of the nation immediate accessibility to the latest styles in wearing apparel for men and women.

"Our buyers abroad send styles direct from the fashion originators of the world to our New York clearing house of fashions. The New York office, with no delay, sends them on to our branch plants and to hundreds of our department and retail stores scattered throughout the nation."

"The textile group commodities which are affected by the new consolidated method of buying include frocks, gowns, and wraps for women, millinery, lingerie, shoes, and accessories, men's suits, coats, and haberdashery, and piece goods. Fabrics, colors, style trends and fashion hints are made available to people all over the United States at the same moment that they are being featured on Fifth Avenue."

"Our fashion experts are constantly in touch with developments in Paris and other notable European style centers, as well as with New York and other domestic centers."

RADIO HAS 25 COSMIC ELEMENTS

McMurdo Silver, radio manufacturer, shows chemical elements in receiver to Emily Kustka and Catherine Cavanaugh.

A third of the chemical elements which make up the heavens and earth are required to build a radio receiving set, it was pointed out today by McMurdo Silver, president of Silver-Marshall, Inc. Twenty-five of the known eighty elements play parts in the drama of radio, the manufacturer said, in outlining the complexity back of the process by which the housewife gets music from the air by a twist of the wrist.

Molybdenum, tungsten, thorium and cesium are some of the rare actors in the intricacies of vacuum tubes, while magnesium has the special role of flashing the tubes during the process of exhaustion, he pointed out. Silicon has such diverse duties as refining the steel in transformer laminations and forming a constituent of the glass bulbs of tubes and dial lamp. Hydrogen, oxygen and carbon are in all the organic compounds, from the cabinet wood to the cotton insulation on coil wires.

"Radio sets utilize larger quantities of iron than of any other element," said Mr. Silver. "The chassis, the steel transformer laminations and the wire of the screen antenna are some of the major parts based on iron and its compounds. Shakers of the burden of iron are cadmium which plates the chassis, manganese as an element in steel, and tin which plates the soft iron wire in the antenna mesh. Condenser plates are of aluminum."

"The greater part of radio wiring is copper, but fuse wires are of a bismuth alloy and the resistance wire contains chromium. Sodium, nitrogen, calcium, zinc, lead, antimony, phosphorus and rare elements whose presence we have not proved, play small but essential parts in the building of Silver radio."

French Egg Dishes Will Help Give Greater Variety to American Meals

By CHARLES SCOTTO, Chef,
Ambassador Hotel, Park Avenue,
New York City

THE number of different and appetizing dishes that can be prepared with eggs as the principal ingredient is almost infinite. The housewife who sticks too closely to the traditional American ways of serving eggs is depriving herself and her family of many delicious departures from the ordinary routine.

CHEF SCOTTO

The French, past-masters of the culinary art, have applied their art to the humble egg with results that delight the epicure. Their recipes, unfortunately, are not so well known in this country as they should be, but here are three which may help the American housewife to introduce greater variety into her menu.

Scrambled Eggs Tartuffe—Simmer for five minutes, two cups of canned tomatoes to which have been added two teaspoons sugar.

Fry a slice of onion in four tablespoons butter. Remove the onion. Pour in the tomatoes to which have been added one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, and six eggs, slightly beaten. Cook in the same manner as scrambled eggs.

Omelette Pont Neuf—Beat separately the yolks and whites of three eggs. Add to the yolks, three tablespoons milk, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one tablespoon powdered sugar and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Put one and a half tablespoons butter in a hot omelette pan. When butter has melted and covered the pan pour in the mixture and cook rapidly over a hot fire. Fold, turn out on a hot platter, and serve immediately.

Eggs Espagnole—Put a can of tomatoes in a frying pan, straining off some of the juice. Thicken with cracker crumbs. Slice fine three small green peppers and one medium-size onion. Mix in with the tomatoes. Add one teaspoon butter, one teaspoon sugar, and pepper and salt to taste. Let simmer gently until peppers and onions are done. Pour into a shallow baking dish. Then carefully break on top of the mixture, from four to six eggs. Brush with butter, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place in a hot oven and serve as soon as the eggs are done.

FRUITS FOR FROSTY DAYS

JUST in between the mid-winter desire for rich pastries, and the summer urge for fruit desserts, there come some frosty days when we don't know just what we do for dessert. Try combining fruit and pastry, and make some of the newer pies and tarts and charlottes that are good both for your health and your pocket-book.

Did you ever go into the French bakery, just around the corner, to buy a little of this and a little of that, and find that your few pastries had cost more than your porterhouse steak? And the next day when you went into the kitchen and made your own pastries, did you discover that there was plenty for two pies instead of one and that the extra crust made a whole dozen of tiny little tarts to tuck away for luncheon another day? That's economy.

Economical and Good

If fresh fruits soar in price a bit beyond your budget, you will find canned fruits quite as delicious, with two real advantages—first, that the fruits are always healthful because they have been gathered at the correct degree of maturity, and second, that it's always strawberry time on the canned foods shelf.

Suppose we take advantage of the pep that's in the air these frosty days and see what we can do with a sack of flour, a few cans of fruit and the other "makings" of pastry goodies. We'll pass up grandmother's apple turn-overs and the old-fashioned pies, and try some brand new fruit pastries recently evolved by an expert dietitian. The first one that passed the test as 100 per cent O. K. is Grape-fruit Pie: Scald one cup milk in a double boiler. Mix one cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt and one-third cup flour; add to the scalded milk. Stir until thick and creamy. Cook ten minutes, covered. Add two slightly-beaten egg yolks and one tablespoon butter. Stir. Add one-half cup canned grapefruit syrup and one tablespoon lemon juice. Allow to thicken again, then cool and pour into previously baked crust. Cover with meringue made of the two egg whites, three tablespoons confectioner's sugar and one-half cup moist coconut. Brown in a slow oven, 300 degrees, for fifteen minutes.

Cranberry Ice Box Cake: Put the contents of a No. 2 can of cranberry sauce, one-half cup seedless raisins, one-third cup chopped nuts, ten chopped dates and one-third cup water in a sauce-pan, and heat slowly and carefully until the cranberry sauce is somewhat thick. Put alternate layers of sliced sponge cake and cranberry mixture in a buttered mold, finishing with cake. Pack down well and let stand overnight in the ice-box. Unmold and slice. Serve with cream or any desired sauce.

Attractive Desserts

Pear Pastries: Cut plain or sponge cake in squares and split in half-inch layers. Put two layers together with icing, jelly or jam. Cook contents of one can of pears in a thick syrup made of one-half cup pear syrup and one-third cup sugar, basting often as the pears cool, to glaze them. When cool, place a half pear on each piece of cake and pipe around edges and sides with whipped cream.

Apricot Raisin Charlotte: Remove crusts from eight slices of bread and spread liberally with butter. Crush the contents of a No. 2 can of apricots, retaining the syrup as well as the fruit. Add two tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons lemon juice and one slightly-beaten egg yolk. Bring to boiling, stirring constantly. Cook until slightly thickened. Then put alternate layers of bread and the hot fruit mixture in a deep dish. Press well and place something heavy on top. Let stand several hours in the ice-box. Unmold, cut in wedges, and serve with cream.

The First Spring Vegetables

By CAROLINE B. KING

NOT so long ago but that most of us can at least remember hearing of it, the spring was ushered in by a course of sulphur and molasses, sassafras tea, slippery elm bitters or some other unpleasant mixture, regarded by grandmothers and mothers of those days as necessary potions for purifying the blood and eliminating the poisons accumulated in the body through the long, hard, unhealthy winter season. Nature must be assisted in her spring cleansing of the system, thought these worthy ancestors of ours, and it was through such concoctions that they essayed to give her their aid.

How different are things today! In place of the drugs and the bitters and the distasteful doses so popular with our grandparents, we modern housewives rely upon fresh green vegetables for our regulators and our tonics. Where they resorted to the drug store or the herb-woman, we go to our gardens and from their abundance derive health and zest and good nature. The sunshine and the soil and the fresh air have furnished our green garden things with all the qualities the body requires, and when we prepare a tasty vegetable dinner for our families, we may rest assured that the results of our efforts will be far more efficacious and lasting than were those that followed grandmother's spring tonics.

It is well to remember, that every one requires certain changes in diet as the spring approaches—both from the standpoint of appetite and of health. The palate turns with distaste from the heavy meals of the cold weather, and demands something more delicate, more piquant, more appealing. This is Nature's way of demonstrating to us that iron, or phosphorus, or lime, or some other quality not present in our winter foods is necessary, if we are to keep alert and strong and well.

The first spring vegetables supply all these and more—asparagus, cress, lettuce, radishes, early cabbage, beet tops, spinach, green onions, are all splendid sources of minerals. Rhubarb, too, is excellent—serve it simply stewed or baked for breakfast and make it into some delicious tempting dessert for dinner. As for the vegetables, here are several new and especially appetizing ways for preparing them.

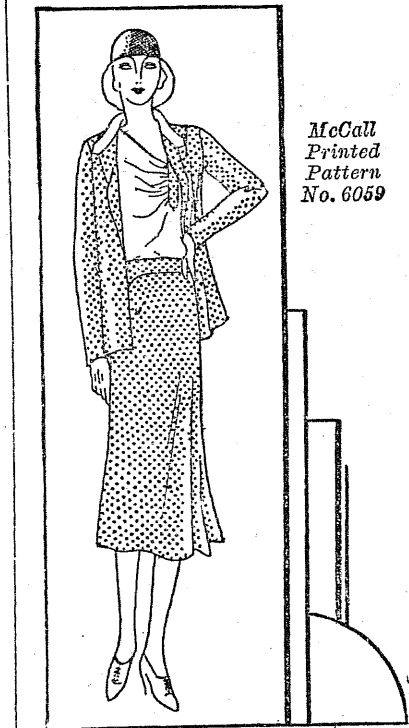

Asparagus in Brown Sauce: Shred 4 slices of breakfast bacon, and fry until crisp. Wash and cook one bunch of asparagus in salt water until tender. Drain a cupful of the liquid from the asparagus onto the bacon. Add ½ small onion diced very fine, 2 tablespoonsful of vinegar, ½ teaspoonful of salt and ½ teaspoonful of paprika. Mix well and add the asparagus carefully. Cover skillet long enough to heat the asparagus thoroughly. Serve hot.

Spring Lunch Sandwich: Three slices of wholewheat bread are required for each sandwich. Butter one slice and on it spread a layer of cream cheese and cover generously with grated carrot. Place a second slice of bread and spread with chopped water cress which has been mixed generously with mayonnaise. Butter the third slice and place it buttered side down. Serve on a plate garnished with red radishes.

Spring Vegetable Shortcake: Make large round baking powder biscuits and bake lightly, then split, butter well and spread the lower halves with creamed asparagus tips, creamed peas, or carrots and peas creamed together, or any other delicate green vegetable dressed in cream sauce. Put the tops on the biscuits, crust down, butter and spread with the creamed vegetable. Sprinkle with paprika and serve hot.

Softly-Styled Suits Are Smart

One's Spring wardrobe must of course contain at least one of these definitely new style highlights, and we mean, naturally, the softly worked suit! Dressmaker touches have become so much a part of the new vogue that they are considered indispensable, particularly in our new suits. These charming notes of femininity add so much to the mode that one hardly recognizes the suit in its new guise!

McCall

The model shown, effectively features many of these touches. Note the blouse is tucked-in and is softly drawn to the left with a piece of the suit material. The skirt flares in the approved manner, that is, the flares begin rather high, and give a more or less straight appearance, not the very sudden widening of a few months back! A suit of this type becomes an old friend in service, practicality and smartness.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

CHILDREN who dislike milk may be converted to looking upon it as an ambrosial beverage if it is flavored with a little vanilla, and a teaspoon of sugar to a glass. In addition to its flavoring qualities, sugar is a quick source of the enormous amount of energy expended by the active child.

Vitamins are essential to health. Prolonged cooking and too much water cause both vitamins and flavor to vanish from vegetables. Many vegetables can cook in their own juice if given the right start. String beans, cabbage, cauliflower and spinach require no more than a fourth to a half cup of water to start them steaming and releasing their juices.

The Popular Pea

PEAS are almost universally popular. Some of us high-hat the odorous onion, others snub the simple spinach, while still others feel inferior in the company of the aristocratic artichoke. But whether we aspire to artichokes or cotton to cabbages, everyone seems to like the personality of peas.

Peas and their Pals

Incidentally peas are very good mixers, and in case you have been serving them in a solo dish, try these new orchestras:

Peas with Fresh Tomatoes: Cut three or four firm tomatoes in sections and sauté gently in three tablespoons butter until soft. Season well, add contents of a medium-size can of peas. Heat and serve.

Pea and Ham Roast: Mix lightly together one and one-half cups pea pulp (fresh or canned), one cup soft bread crumbs, one-half cup chopped walnuts, one-fourth cup butter, one beaten egg, a little salt, pepper and onion juice. Put into a buttered baking dish or loaf pan, and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 30 to 45 minutes until set and brown. Serve with two-thirds cup hot canned tomato soup, undiluted.

Dumplings with Peas: Sift two cups flour, one teaspoon salt, four teaspoons baking powder, and cut in one tablespoon fat. Add three-fourths cup milk, drop by spoonfuls on a greased steamer and steam twelve to fifteen minutes. Remove to a hot platter and surround with alternate piles of peas, using a No. 2 can of peas, in highly-seasoned white sauce, and buttered carrots.

THE QUALITIES OF LEADERSHIP

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers
Association

Leadership and success, in a general way, are synonymous. They are both founded upon simple codes of thought and action upon the realization that he who wins the laurels must be a doer, not a waiter, that application of energy, not time or luck, is what counts most. A rabbit's foot is a poor substitute for horse sense.

John G. Lonsdale

Both success and leadership, if they be of the highest quality, are the result of service to humanity. Service has been aptly described as "the supreme commitment of life." Analyze the lives and times of all great leaders of history and you will find that those whose names are enshrined in the hearts of their countrymen are those who sought to render a needed service to the populace.

Leadership, like success, need not, however, be international or national to achieve great results. There is room for each of us to be a leader in his community, in his work, in his church, and in various organizations.

One of the indispensable qualities of leadership is the ability to persist steadfastly in the face of discouragements. If George Washington had not possessed the quality of persistence, he and his soldiers would never have survived the hunger and privations which were theirs at Valley Forge.

We have too many young men and young women these days saying a job cannot be done. Too many spend their time explaining why a thing can't be done, instead of saying, with firm resolve, that it can be done, and then going out and doing it. Anything that ought to be done is capable of being done. And anything worth doing at all is worth doing well. The fellow who handles a little job in a big way is always on the road to greater fields.

BANKERS STUDY CHAIN BANKING

The Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association has been specifically instructed by the general convention of the association to study and report on chain and group banking developments, and also on the proposal of the Comptroller of the Currency for an extension of branch banking in the national banking system, to permit those banks to conduct branches in the trade areas surrounding their locations.

R. S. Hecht, President Hibernia Bank and Trust Company, New Orleans, Louisiana, is chairman of the commission. The members are: George E. Roberts, Vice President National City Bank, New York, N. Y., vice chairman; Nathan Adams, President American Exchange National Bank, Dallas, Texas; Leonard P. Ayres, Vice President Cleveland Trust Co., Cleveland, Ohio; Frank W. Blair, Chairman of Board Union Trust Company, Detroit, Michigan; Walter V. Head, President Foreman State National Bank, Chicago; W. D. Longyear, Vice President Security First National Bank, Los Angeles, California; Walter S. McLucas, Chairman of Board Commerce Trust Company, Kansas City, Missouri; Max B. Naim, Vice President Citizens National Bank, Bowling Green, Kentucky; Melvin A. Traylor, President First National Bank, Chicago; Paul M. Warburg, Chairman of Board International Acceptance Bank, New York, N. Y.; O. Howard Wolfe, Cashier Philadelphia National Bank, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Gurden Edwards, American Bankers Association, New York City, secretary.

SECTIONS WHERE SAVINGS DECREASED

A regional analysis of the drop in the nation's savings deposits in banks, as recently reported by the American Bankers Association's Savings Bank Division in its annual compilation for 1929 showing the first recession in national savings in the twenty years during which it has published this data, reveals that all sections except the New England and the Pacific States groups recorded losses.

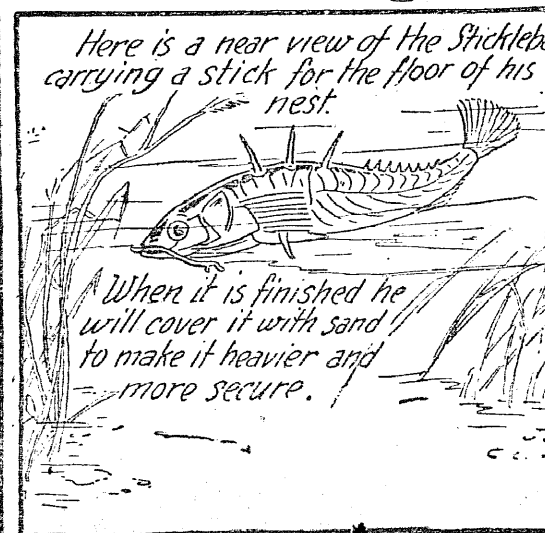

The published figures showed that on June 29, 1929, the total savings deposits in banks and trust companies of continental United States stood at $28,217,656,000, which was $195,305,000 below the similar total for 1928, when there was an increase of $2,300,000,000.

The regional analysis by state groups discloses, however, that the six New England states as a group gained more than $88,800,000 in savings and 152,984 in savings depositors, while the seven Pacific states as a group gained over $79,000,000 in deposits and nearly 278,000 in number of depositors. The gains in these two sections, however, were smaller than the gains recorded there for 1928. The sections which showed losses are the Middle Atlantic States, Southern States, East Central States and the West Central States.

DAD AND I In the Animal Kingdom

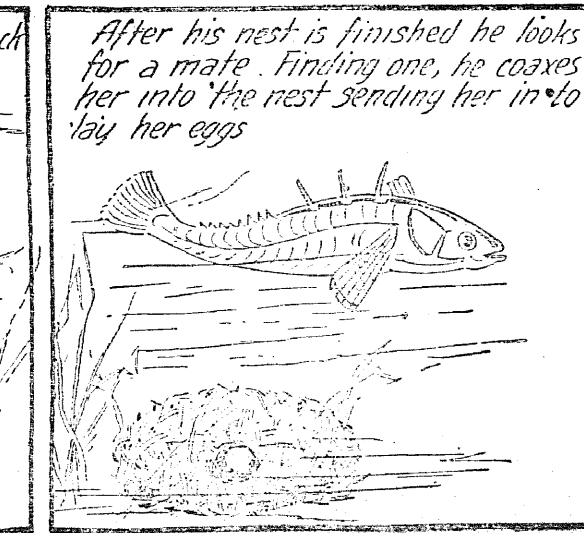

What is the name of the fish Dad?
River Stickleback. He's a clever little fish. When making a nest, he first hollows out a foundation in the bed of the river and then builds it up with grass, weeds and sticks, gumming them together with the sticky substance on his body.

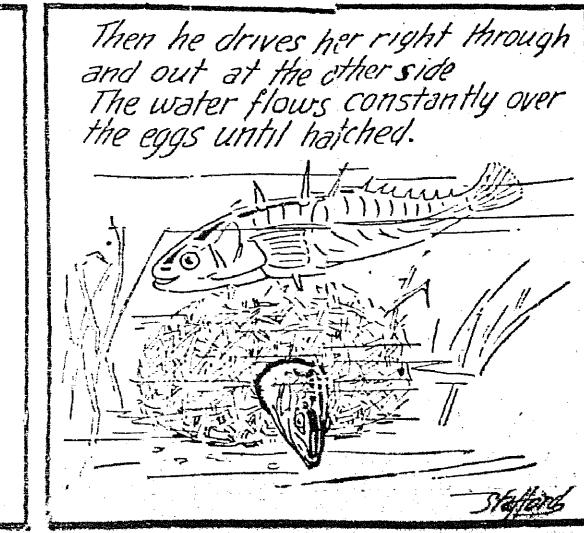

Here is a near view of the Stickleback carrying a stick for the floor of his nest.

When it is finished he will cover it with sand to make it heavier and more secure.

After his nest is finished he looks for a mate. Finding one, he coaxes her into the nest sending her in to lay her eggs.

Then he drives her right through and out at the other side. The water flows constantly over the eggs until hatched.
