TAX ASSESSOR DAVIDSON ENTERS COMMISSION RACE

Will Work In Interest Of People For Continued Good Government

Tax Assessor James L. Davidson yesterday entered the Commission election race, scheduled to end on May 13.

Mr. Davidson, who took up the duties of Assessor following the resignation of W. G. Hunt, recently, is 45 years old. He and his partner Freeholder Joseph King, built up a large part of Belleville including Greylock and the Oaks sections.

He was superintendent of the Housing Corporation at Camden during the war. He has been active in all civic matters. His assessment duties were carried out efficiently and without fear or favor.

Mr. Davidson declares he favors continued good government for the taxpayers. He lines up with the present administration. Mr. Davidson, through his work, which is entirely in Belleville, is in a position to give full time to the job, if elected.

Regional Authority Is Needed Speaker Tells Rotarians

Herman B. Walker Speaks On Future Welfare Of This Section

"There is general agreement throughout North Jersey, at least, that some form of regional authority to plan and create public improvements and works of a regional nature is essential to the future welfare of the entire metropolitan district," Herman B. Walker, secretary of the State Regional Planning Commission, told the Rotary Club at its luncheon at the Nereid Boat Club house Wednesday afternoon.

"Criticism of the regional government bill presented by the Regional Planning Commission this year," said Mr. Walker, "has been entirely directed at details of the plan of government and its powers, rather than towards the fundamental idea that a regional authority is needed. Differences of opinion on these phases of the matter can be harmonized if representatives of all localities and interests concerned will approach the subject from a view point of regional rather than of purely parochial interest."

"Water supplies, rapid transit, sewers and meadows reclamation are the improvements vital to maximum and uniform development of the entire region. It is admittedly impracticable for each of the 211 municipalities in these eight communities to separately plan and build waterworks, joint sewers, sewage and garbage disposal works, and rapid transit systems separately. While Newark has made a splendid demonstration of the possibilities of meadow reclamation, it is not feasible for the forty acres of waste lands lying along Raritan Bay, the Kill von Kull, Newark Bay and the Hackensack River to be reclaimed and developed in piecemeal fashion by several counties and numerous municipalities. We have found the joint contract plan of intermunicipal and inter-county construction of public works to be cumbersome, tedious and difficult. In other metropolitan districts having similar problems, consolidation or annexation has been adopted or is urged for adoption as the way out, but in North Jersey it is politically impossible to bring about such consolidation, whatever might be the merits or demerits of such a plan."

"The regional government system which the commission has proposed, in its essentials, is wholly and solely the creation of a board of finance and public works to take over the planning, construction and maintenance of works and utilities which are needed by every section, and which are too large and far-reaching in their nature and extent to be financed and built by the counties or municipalities acting separately."

"Government always lags behind progress, and clings to old traditions and customs, while private business and enterprises make use of new methods, new tools and new machinery as fast as they are developed. In the North Jersey metropolitan district we need new machinery of government to take care of the regional needs of the entire district, just as we had to have new governmental instruments to create the interstate bridges and tunnels. There is no purpose and no reason for the proposed regional authority in any way trespassing upon any rights or powers which counties or municipalities now exercise. If the bill does not properly guard these rights it should be changed to do so. If it does not provide a proper scheme of representation, or fully protect the rights of both the majority and the minority, it can be and should be made to do so. All that is needed to make the plan acceptable to all sections is for representatives of all sections to get together with a determination to find a fair and equitable adjustment of these differences. Helpful, constructive suggestions, not mere criticism, are needed to bring about the adoption of a plan which will mean a new era of progress, development and prosperity for the entire region."

Winfield Declares 18th Amendment Will Be Repealed

Says Was Wrong Method In Stating Commission Platform

"I am personally of the opinion that the Eighteenth Amendment can be and will be repealed. It was the wrong method and is contrary to the genius of the Constitution. For a minority of sparsely populated states to hold a club over a majority of our citizens for long is unthinkable." Thus speaks H. W. Winfield, commission candidate who is against prohibition.

"But pending the repeal, some way must be found through which a legitimate demand for drinks, based on habit and custom, may be met. The fanatical extremist on the dry side cannot hope ever to secure an endorsement of his position from reasonable men."

"By such modification of the Volstead Act as shall restore to each State the right to face this matter in its own borders, a way out of the present miasma of corruption, hypocrisy and crime can be found. I am, for one, unalterably opposed to any return of the saloon."

"Home rule is more than a political shibboleth; it is a vital need under democracy. Let us never forget that 'that country is best governed which is least governed,' if intelligence and honesty prevail. Is it not possible to lift the question out of petty politics and the reign of lobbyists representing organized minorities, and let the people really speak?"

"My extremely dry friends will say that the last election gave such an opportunity. It did no such thing. It mixed prohibition with personalities, prosperity, religion and everything else. It would cost less to put on a bona-fide referendum of the whole country than it will to go on as we are. Let the professional drys and the professional wets be hushed into silence and let the man in the street and the woman in the home have their say."

"Plague on both your houses! There is a middle of the road! Real temperance; not prohibition!"

Elmer Hyde Enters The Race

Elmer S. Hyde who has just announced his candidacy for election to the Town Commission, May 13, will give a full statement in the News next week.

HILLTOP WAREHOUSE SITE CAUSES DOMESTIC STRIFE

"Tall trees from small acorns grow" is an old adage but a true one. By the same token great disasters spring from small troubles. A particularly fine illustration of this truism is the present situation in the hill section of Belleville known as the Hill-top.

The Belleville-on-the-Hill Association some three weeks ago planned to hold a card party on April 23 at the Recreation House. That is, the ladies planned to run it. Unquestionably, when the ladies, especially those who are members of this well-known organization plan something, it stays planned. They immediately set about betting prizes. So numerous and of such variety are the donations received that in order to keep them under cover a temporary warehouse was being built to hold them.

Owing however, to the Zoning Ordinance, which prevents the erection of such a structure in this section, several garages were commandeered while huddles were out in their cars bowing or engaged in other activities which huddles usually engage in. The result in hubby coming home and finding his favorite garage filled with sundry packages of various sizes and shapes he had to park his gas buggy in the cold, cold street.

And now we come to the sad part of the story. Not only must Friend Hubby give up his garage but he is also being drafted to transport the packages over to the Recreation House on April 23, the night of the Card party. And to fill the cup to overflowing it looks like he will have to taxi Friend Wife's many guests to the same place. Worra, Worra, as our friend Izzy Cohen says, It's going to be one big party where a spade will be called a spade and the Good Spirit help the husband who raises his wife's 3 spade bid and goes down after being doubled. 'Tis a sad tale, matd, but there it is.

Mission Set For St. Peter's From April 27 to May 11

The parishioners and friends of St. Peter's parish, will be delighted to learn the Apostolate Band of preachers, of the Arch-Diocese, of New York, has been secured to conduct a Mission for men, women and children of the parish and friends, Catholic and Non-Catholic, April 27 to May 11.

The priests in charge of the Mission, have been especially trained at the Catholic University at Washington, D. C., and selected and delegated by his Eminence, Cardinal Hayes, to conduct missions in the great Metropolitan district. In securing the learned and eloquent clergyman, the parish is unusually fortunate, for itself and spiritually.

Hollberg Outlines Campaign Plans

Refers To Work In Past As Member Of School Board

In presenting myself to the Electorate of Belleville as a candidate for the coming municipal election, I feel justified to do so for the reason, not alone of my long residence as well as my extended membership on the Board of Education, serving the town nearly nine years faithfully and punctiliously; as for the length of service I exceed the present incumbents who are seeking re-election on the strength of their record and experience for four or five years. As to my ability, I refer to the report in the Belleville News of January 24, 1930, recording the last meeting I attended. Everybody regretted the loss of a member whose "Acumen and intelligence has been valuable to the School System."

I assure you that, if elected, I shall give the same attention and effort that I have given to the schools.

While the present Commissioners are seeking reelection upon their record, they do not mention anything about future plans.

During my long term on the School Board I have had the opportunity to observe conditions throughout the town.

I will try to itemize them by the different departments: Finance — While there is a vast improvement considering former conditions regarding the functions of this department, I believe more ratables may be found taking large plots of land now assessed as acreage out of this category, provided it is not actually used for farm land.

Clerk's Department — This I believe should be more openly conducted, money could be saved by using modern machines, and so forth. Fire and Police Departments — I cannot form an opinion, it would require more insight and personal survey.

Street Department — While miles and miles of new streets have been laid the automotive traffic has been well taken care of, but the pedestrians' welfare, though they pay

CIVIC BODIES IMPLORE HIM TO KEEP WORK GOING AS FAR AS POSSIBLE IN ROAD DEPARTMENT

Carragher Alone His Statement Says

Hasn't Given Any Thought To Campaign, He Adds

"In six weeks the electorate of Belleville will choose five men to direct its affairs for the next four years."

"I am a candidate to succeed myself on May 13. I have deferred my announcement until now for the reason that I believe the people are bored beyond question with too lengthy campaigns," says Commissioner F. J. Carragher.

If a man's record has been in the interests of his constituents his entire public career is one long, grand campaign. I have never thought of a campaign during these four years, but my conscience on this resume of the record indicates my activities have always been on the side of those who foot the bills, therefore my brevity.

"I do not believe in closed corporations in Government. Neither do I believe in Government by conference where light never enters. Had I my way, I would have the Commission of every town sit in the middle of its largest arena with the entire populace as spectators and participants. Therefore, I am not amalgamating my campaign in theory or practice with any individual or group of individuals in or out of office."

My record must stand in the light as it has stood in action; alone and for one purpose. Service to those who were responsible for my place in the picture. I owe allegiance to no one but the citizens—to them only will I give an accounting. From this stand I shall not deviate.

I shall not sell the truth to serve the hour. This doctrine proclaimed from the portico of Monticello in the days passed, is with us yet. It is written in our institutions and I shall never mock it.

Belleville, like every town in Essex County, is facing a crisis. The crisis of bringing Government on a line with the success of profitable institutions. Research has given us this formula.

Co-operation is the soul of success; economy is the deciding factor, providing vision walks with it in the conduct of successful enterprise.

"I am sick and tired of our people, who are making a living, having to be strap-hangers morning and night. Their burdens must be eased. In other words, I can see Belleville united with Newark in five years by a subway of some character that will alleviate this condition. I wish I could see Belleville co-operating more fittingly with a state highway, sewerage, traffic, water power and water supply, together with other

Appropriation Will Last Only A While

Warns Board Of Seriousness; No Politics Involved

In order to keep as many of Belleville's unemployed in work as possible Commissioner Patrick A. Waters, director of Streets and Public Improvements, finds that the $20,000 appropriation for labor in his department will be expended before the year is out.

With a municipal election facing the board in May Mr. Waters says he wants it known that the appropriation will be used.

Not Politics

"I do not want anybody to think that for political reasons I am keeping the men on," he said. "It is very easy to lay off some men and make the appropriation stretch, but I feel it is the duty of this board to help the unemployed within its means."

"The $20,000 will last four or six months, into the term of the next board. I do not want the new board to think I squandered this money if I am not re-elected."

"Civic organizations and others are imploring me each day to help our unemployed. Seventy per cent have been out of work months. We can not shut down now."

His colleagues agreed that as far as possible work should go on.

Complaint Lodged

Complaint against a cleaning and dyeing company for violating the zone ordinance was lodged by a lawyer, W. H. K. Davey, who said the concern which is located in Washington avenue near Little street has a factory in the rear of its main building where clothes are brought from Montclair, Glen Ridge, Bloomfield, and the Oranges to be cleaned. "This factory was never authorized," he said, adding "about one year ago the company applied for a permit to build an addition to the main building, whereas it built a separate building instead of an addition." Steam pours out of the side of this building, burning children playing in the adjacent yard and in it is stored benzine, naphtha and other cleaning fluids," he declared.

The matter was referred to Corporation Counsel John B. Brown.

Annual Social Affair Will Be Held On May 12th At St. Peter's Auditorium

More than usual interest is evidenced by members and officers of the Holy Name Society, relative to the annual social affair of the society, April 25, in St. Peter's auditorium.

The innovation socially will be the feature attractive to the young and the program of entertainers, will be the magnet attracting the more mature.

The committee in direction of the affair, is active in the ambition of producing an atmosphere of real enjoyment and an assurance of remembrance of an affair raising the standard of refined sociability. It is the desire of the committee to contribute to the fundamentals of real sociability, divorcing and all vestiges of the so-called up-to-date affairs, often contributing to the lowering of morality and causing suspicion in the minds of the parents.

The character of the entertainers will be a guarantee for an evening well spent and the program of music, an invitation for reputation. Thomas Lukowiak is president and ex-officio. John Hudson is chairman of affairs.

High School Notes

By JAMES REILLY

Much has come to pass in the high school in the last week. To begin with Mrs. MacGintie's home room has come through with another perfect score for attendance.

Freshman assembly was conducted by Robert Joiner and by Miss Walters. Margaret Spaulding sang a solo in her usual style.

As a result of the dance held recently under the auspices of the Senior class a profit of $30 was derived. Under the watchful eye of Principal Charles Steel the affair turned out to be a success. The dance was held by the Senior class as a means of obtaining additional money for its Washington trip.

Clearman field is being changed preparatory to the coming baseball season. The diamond is to be reversed so as to give a more spacious field to the players. Belleville boasts one of the finest baseball stadiums in the state and expects lots of support for the home team.

Senior assembly this week was conducted by Marguerite Wharton and Marion Wortman. The singing under the direction of Miss Wharton almost turned into a riot, so enthusiastic did the students become, but we hasten to say the trouble was quelled.

After much work, and a debit here and a credit there the financial result of the musical comedy has been obtained. The final profit after deductions were made was $421.05. Out of this amount $100 is to be taken to pay for a bass viol that was purchased at the beginning of the year.

Paul Schwieker has returned from Chicago, where he took part in the National Chorus. Paul says he had a fine time, but he admits the snow was a bit deep.

Give Pedestrians Highway Rights

By E. E. Duffy

Two million motor cars are being added each year to the automobile registration list, yet pedestrianism is still with us. This fact seems to have been lost sight of, although a few cities and other communities are giving the pedestrian the consideration he deserves. Los Angeles, for instance, has built some 40 pedestrian tunnels which permit foot traffic to pass under the jammed arteries. Such thoughtfulness, however, is rare.

In large cities many streets have been widened for motor traffic simply by cutting back the sidewalks. In some instances this has been a sacrifice on the part of foot traffic and right here it might be mentioned that more than half of the thousands of automobile casualties are perpetrated among the ranks of pedestrians. It is no more than logical therefore that the growing demand for sidewalks along rural highways be given immediate and constructive attention.

Supporters of rural sidewalks along highways, the most active being the American Society for Municipal Improvements, contend that sidewalks should be provided near rural schools and near cities, towns and villages along the way. So far only a few communities have given this matter any attention at all. Among the notables are Allegheny County, Pa., and Wayne County, Mich.

Unfortunately, few state highway departments are authorized to build rural sidewalks; the provision of this facility now rests for the most part with the local community. However, it is likely that when various states adopt indicated pavement programs some provision may be made for the installation of "country sidewalks, which add but little to the total cost.

The first question that arises is the practicability of spending money for such construction when so many miles of roads need paving. That, of course, is a question for the community itself to answer. Automobile accident figures are not growing any less; in fact, they are slightly increasing. Obviously, if money can be made available, where pedestrian protection is needed, there should be no hesitancy as to the course of action.

The ideal situation would be, of course, for state laws to be passed requiring the construction of a sidewalk along the pavement passing a schoolhouse or approaching a town, city or village. If it is felt that the state itself cannot do this, provision should be made permitting the local community to provide such a facility. Missouri passed a law as long ago as 1919 making it legally possible for sidewalks to be constructed as adjuncts to paved highways with the cost prorated to the property abutting on the road. Strangely, this law was not taken advantage of until 1928 when Jackson County let contracts for a sidewalk.

Police Seek Girl

Belleville police have been asked to search for Mary McGillis, 17, of 464 Cortlandt street, who disappeared March 13. According to the girl's mother, she was employed as a maid in Irvington. She left a note with the woman saying she was "leaving home and wouldn't return." The girl is described as being five feet one inch in height, weighs about 105, has dark brown straight hair, and when last seen was dressed in a tweed sports coat, black hat and brown shoes and stockings.

Communism Not Getting Very Far In United States

Mr. Gottlieb, However, Says Country Must Be On Guard

Although the amount of literature that is put out by the backers of the Communist movement is voluminous, and their efforts untiring and persistent, the propaganda is not going over very big, according to Theodore D. Gottlieb, speaking last night before the Republican Club of Nutley, in the Woman's Club. On the other hand, continued the speaker, unless patriotic citizens get busy, the "pink" condition will take on a more reddish hue.

Mr. Gottlieb, who explained that his opposition to Communism is a hobby with him, described in general the organization and the workings of the movement. He showed how the real Socialist party was split asunder during the World War and in its place grew up the thing which, carrying the corporate name of the Workers' Party of America, is beginning to take root here.

He said that the "Reds" use two methods of spreading their gospel: by boring in or boring from and by direct action. The former has its effect in colleges especially in the advancement of atheism and among the young people. Another example of the boring method, Mr. Gottlieb continued, is among the national guardsmen and the regular army. Representatives are working hard there and are taking as their slogan, "the army teaches you how to shoot, we will show you whom to shoot."

The speaker pointed out that not all of the so-called ignorant class are enrolled among the Communists. The proportion of native intelligencia of thirty-five per cent compares with the other sixty-five per foreign.

Mr. Gottlieb exhibited several pamphlets, publications and books, showing the kind of material that is being disseminated.

During questioning following his talk, he said that the Communists are making very little progress among the Negroes; that there exists direct connection between the Soviet government and the Communists in this country; that woman's clubs, fraternal organizations, labor unions, even churches are spawning ground of Communism. He added that the American Civilities Union, presided over by an intelligent young native born American, is the key organization in the United States and that funds are being provided by the American Fund for Social Service, better known as the Garland Fund, made possible by money given by a disillusioned young American millionaire.

He concluded by saying that the best method of opposing the Reds is not by the use of violence, that merely gives them a certain dignity, but by letting them rave on and quietly subdue them either by actual law or by ignoring them.

Active in the discussion following Mr. Gottlieb's talk were former Senator William H. Parry, William F. Hurley, Frederick Heistley, A. Theodore De Muro and Mrs. A. A. Robertson.

Recorder Charles Young, acting as president in the absence of Arthur R. Carr, announced the following committees for the year: legislative, Mr. Young, Mr. DeMuro, Edgar H. Bostock; membership, Chester A. Shannon, Mrs. Bostock, John Kenter, Mrs. M. A. Covington and Joseph E. Negra; Americanization, Mr. Young and Mr. DeMuro.

"WHAT shall I call him, Mr. Toastmaster?" whispered an aspiring social climber at Tuesday's American Home Banquet — "King Murat, or Joachim the First, or just Your Majesty, or—?"

King Joachim overheard the embarrassed questioner. "If you wish to be exhaustive, mademoiselle," he informed her, "you can say King Joachim of Naples, Murat erstwhile Marshal of the French Empire, Grand Admiral, Prince, and Grand Duke of Berg and Cleves—with the Grand Eagle of the Legion of Honor."

When Raphael began to heap abuse upon the madness of modern painting, Thursday night at the American Home Banquet, the hostess—that practical soul whom no amount of romantic contact can daunt—sided up to him and began her usual praise of modern heating. "There's modernism and modernism Mr. Raphael," she informed him. "You wouldn't be so scornful of a good warm modern radiator in your bedroom on a zero morning!"

"WHEE," exclaimed a guest at Monday night's American Home Banquet when Francisco Vasquez de Coronado told of financing his own expedition to find the Seven Cities of Cibola, "and $250,000 was some pile in 1540." "Si, señor, some pile," laughed the dark eyed Spanish conqueror, "but you see I married Dona Beatriz, daughter of Estrada. He was royal treasurer of New Spain, quite simple."

More than one husband was seen to cast a nervous glance at his wife's pearls and rings at the American Home Banquet on Wednesday night when Wilhelm Konrad Roentgen announced that his rays could discriminate between real and imitation jewelry. Fortunately, however, the German scientist had no X-ray equipment with him, so if there was a dark secret back of any husband's birthday gift no one at the banquet was any wiser.

MADAME MATHILDE DE MARCHESI, great singing teacher, tripped into the banquet hall Wednesday night, at the American Home Banquet, young and vivacious for all her nearly seventy years of teaching. She it was who taught Emma Calve, Sybil Sanderson, Nellie Melba, Lillian Nordica, Emma Eames, Anna Rodeke, and a host of others, so it wasn't at all strange that when she said she would give her recipe for success in singing, guests began straining their ears across the table for the real low down. But Marchesi's recipe was the cryptic words: "First, character; second, character; third, character."

PIERRE LA PLACE, in embroidered green taffeta dress coat and three-cornered hat, attracted considerable feminine attention Thursday night at the American Home Banquet. As he finished a long discourse on the solar system, one coy young thing looked up with wide, admiring eyes. "How wise you are," she murmured artfully. "It must be wonderful to be so learned." But the great Frenchman shook his head. "What we know, mademoiselle," he replied, "is little. What we do not know is immense."

"PERHAPS I had better not repeat the exact language," the tactful King Alfred replied Tuesday night at the American Home Banquet and when asked what the coxwain's wife said when he let those griddle cakes burn, "but the version that has come down through history is: 'Cas'n thee mind the ke-acks, man, an' doosen zee 'em burn?' I'm boun thees eat 'em vast enough az soon az tiz thee turn!"

young matron at Wednesday's American Home Banquet, who had just heard that the professor could see right through a pack of cards with his X-ray, "won't you come up to my house for bridge some evening?"

"SHE was too brilliant, got on my nerves," George I confided to a guest at Friday night's American Home Banquet who asked why he had his clever wife imprisoned in a castle. "Always witty and laughing," the monarch explained, "and I can't stand having clever people about me. . . But you, sir," he added courteously, "are quite good company." The guest hastily returned to his ice cream.

MAJOR JOHN POWELL refused fried chicken at Monday's American Home Banquet. "It reminds me," he laughed, "of my trip down the Colorado river. Without food for days, I asked an Indian for a handout. Stuffing down the last bite I exclaimed—'Excellent! Tastes like chicken, looks like fish; what is it?' The red man grunted 'Rattlesnake.'"

JOSEPH PRICE REMINGTON, fellow of the Chemical, Linnean, and Royal Microscopical Societies of London, was discovered in the kitchen Wednesday night at the American Home Banquet vigorously shaking a glass of milk and chocolate. "What kind of a druggist would I be," grinned the famous pharmacist. "If I couldn't make a milk shake?"

THE early signs of our modern practical era were hardly a blessing in her day, Margaret of Anjou declared Monday evening at the American Home Banquet. "Men had previously fought in sport," she explained, "but along about my day practical influences were beginning to be felt, and they started fighting in earnest. The result was most unpleasant."

MONSIEUR LA PLACE was uncommonly excited at Thursday's American Home Banquet, because the Hostess promised him he should visit the next day the American Radiator Company's Institute of Thermal Research, a modern laboratory carrying on the great scientist's researches in heat.

"DIO MIO," gasped Raphael Thursday night at the American Home Banquet as he gazed at one of the pictures shown him by a so-called modern artist, "a woman with only half a face!" "Certainly," replied the "modern," "That's economy. Both sides are alike, so we only paint one."

WHEN Moussorgsky, the great Russian composer, remarked at Friday's American Home Banquet that he did most of his composing away from the piano, one beleaguered apartment house dweller sighed,

"Sweet Christopher, I wish piano lessons could be taken the same way!"

Roses of the Battlefield

THE War of the Roses was by no means as romantic as its name, if you would believe Monday's American Home Banquet beautiful dinner guest, Margaret of Anjou. The war, between the English houses of Lancaster and York over which should occupy the throne, began during the reign of Margaret and her husband, Henry VI, a Lancastrian, and derived its name from an incident which took place shortly before the outbreak of hostilities.

One day while talking with a group of noblemen, Richard, Duke of York, broke a white rose from a nearby bush, saying: "Let those who are my friends do likewise." The Earl of Somerset thereupon proposed that the friends of Henry should gather a red rose. Two flowers became the emblems of the warring houses and were worn throughout the struggle.

When her husband fell ill Margaret, herself, assumed command of the Lancastrians and defeated Richard at Wakefield. Later she was forced to flee to France. After two unsuccessful attempts to invade England, she finally regained the throne in 1470, but a year later was again defeated and taken prisoner by Edward IV of York. After five years' imprisonment, the King of France obtained her freedom for 50,000 crowns, and she retired from the struggle.

Imperial Songbirds

MME. OLGA AVERINO was the first of two brilliant Russian singers, representatives of the old regime that was destroyed by the Bolshevik revolution, who have appeared on recent American Home Banquet programs.

Averino sang on March 18, on the birthday of the composer-Rimsky-Korsakov, who, in his lifetime, had attended the dinner at which her father's engagement to her mother was announced. The young and beautiful Averino, daughter of the former director of the Imperial Musical Conservatory in Rostov, now makes her home in America. Her concert appearances in New York this year have been the sensation of the music season.

HIGH SCHOOL SQUAD ON ITS TOES

Two Weeks Of Practice Complete at School 7 Baseball Field

After two weeks of intensive practice sessions at Number 7 School, the Belleville High baseball squad is rounding into splendid shape for the coming season.

The large number of veterans back from last year are especially showing lots of "form" and Coach McBride has visions of more than his share of victorials during the coming campaign.

Although it is much too early for McBride to arrive at any definite conclusions as to who is to play the various positions on the team, there is gradually getting to be some order out of chaos and leading aspirants are bobbing up for all positions.

From the form shown by his men during the past two weeks, Coach McBride makes the following rather hazy selections: "Turk" Byrnes, a veteran of last year, so far seems to have no opposition for the backstop berth. He handles himself like a veteran, can hit and has an arm of steel. This lad is expected to be a real star this year and there is no fear that the catching end will be able to take care of, with him back there receiving.

On the mound the regular twirlers will more than likely be Jerry Bonavita and Ralph Casale, both mainstays of last year. In addition to performing on the mound, Bonavita will perform at the initial baserunner, when Casale is working, for his big bludgeon will be needed by the locals at all times.

The leading candidate for the second base job is Nick DeJura, a veteran of two former campaigns. Nick has run into more than his share of hard luck in the past years and in this his final year in school he is expected to come into his own and play the fine game he is capable of.

At the shortfield berth will be "Mac" Lamb with absolutely no opposition. "Mac" last year proved himself to be one of the leading scholastic ballplayers and he is expected to more than live up to his brilliant reputation this year. "Mac" played second base on last year's team but he is more familiar with shortstop and he should prove to be the backbone of the infield at this post, his first love.

The question of who is to play third is probably more unsettled than that of any other position on the nine. At present Reynolds Golden has been showing up well at practice and he will more than likely get first crack at it. This lad was on last year's squad although not a letter man and should earn his spurs easily this season. There are other aspirants who are pressing him hard for the job, however, and there promises to be plenty of fireworks before the question is finally settled.

Intertowns Hold Final Practice

The Intertowns played the Imperial A. C. for its final practice Sunday afternoon at No. 7 School field. Cappy, who is captain and also pitcher, held the Imps well in check.

The Intertown team played errorless ball. L. Liguori, catcher, made numerous put-outs at home plate. He is one of last year's leading hitters, Cappy, who was relieved by Natale in the box pitched good ball. Cappy won ten out of twelve games. He also was fourth in the batting department. DeBrowski, at shortstop; J. Tuozolo, at third base; Natale and Riccardi, at second base; played errorless ball and proved effective at the bat. M. Vitello also played well in left field. S. Luzzi covered centerfield and T. Luzzi, right field.

Sunday, April 6, the Intertowns will entertain the heavier Washington Cubs at No. 7 School field. Cappy and Liguori will form the battery for the Intertowns.

The same infield and probably the same outfield that played against the Imps, will start.

The Intertowns' schedule is still incomplete and heavy midget teams desiring games should communicate with L. Luzzi, 14 Federal street, Belleville.

In the outfield there will be two veterans. Eddie O'Neill will fit nicely in the outfield picture, probably left field. This boy has all the makings of a real classy ball hawk and this year should be his year. In center field there will in all probability be another veteran, Nick Bonavita. Nick is a real steady ball-player and should show his worth on more than one occasion during the coming season. The leading aspirant for the other outfield berth is a budding star Riccio by name. Riccio should round out this really classy array of outer gardeners.

Nutley Collegiates Hand Bachelors The Season's First Loss

A strong Nutley Collegiate basketball quintet, which was in a class by itself, invaded Belleville high school gym, Saturday night, and administered to the Bachelors five its first defeat of the entire season, 51-34.

Led by Vince Spagnolia, well-known St. Benedict and Seton Hall performer, and Elmer Derick, six foot six center, formerly of Essex Prep, the Nutleyites were simply at the peak of their form against the hard fighting Bachelors and could have taken almost any team's measure in their Saturday form. The Collegiates, by the way were not the scheduled team to face the Bachelors but because of misunderstandings with the St. Mary's five who were scheduled Belleville was forced to book the Collegiates at the last minute.

In spite of the fact that their first defeat was a rather decisive one, the Bachelors played good ball all the way through, good enough ball in fact to have beaten almost any other combination but that one headed by Spagnolia and Derick.

The individual starring was left Parcells, who was high scorer for Belleville, with eleven points, as well as pivoting for a big percentage of his side's pass-work. Parcells shared the spotlight with Johnny Johnston, who tallied 9 points, and "Mac" McGuire, with eight. Several of McGuire's "shots" bordered on the sensational and he got a well deserved hand when he finally left the court at the end of the game.

Mrs. Lallaposa approached the glove counter in a fashionable department store.

"May I see some of your black kid gloves?" she asked the girl behind the counter.

"These aren't quite the latest style are they?" she observed, when the gloves were produced.

"Oh, yes, madam!" replied the other. "We have only had them in stock two days."

"Really. Well, the fashion notes in yesterday's paper say black kids have tan stitches and vice versa. I can see the tan stitches, but not the vice versa."

"Ah, madam," explained the girl gently, "you haven't quite understood. Vice versa is the French for one button."

As League Climax Banquet Is Held Town Officials Are Guests At Affair In Local Restaurant

As a fitting climax to a successful season the Belleville Recreation Basketball League held its first annual dinner Friday night at the Belleville Restaurant.

Tables were laid for forty including Mayor Kenworthy, Commissioners Clark, Carragher, and Waters. Each gave a short address praising the work of the league and commending Anthony Pascal for his splendid efforts in making the league a success. Henry Mason, president of the Recreation Commission, also gave a short talk.

The championship Bachelors were presented with a beautiful trophy known as the Commissioners' Trophy. To win permanent possession of this trophy a team must win the title three times.

Each member of the Bachelors was presented with a gold basketball.

Members of the Valley A. A. were presented with silver basketballs for finishing in second place. Players on the other teams were presented with miniature basketballs.

Individual prizes were given for the foul shooting tournament held some time ago. Jim Petrie was presented with a gold basketball for winning top honors, and Harry Metz received a silver basketball for taking second honors.

Members of the league presented Director "Tony" Pascal with a handsome gold basketball on which was inscribed his name.

Comets End Season By Winning 2 Games

The Belleville Comets ended the basketball season, by defeating the Koreans and Kapa Nesega Society Club of Newark, recently.

Burke's Colts Officially Take Legion Bowling League Crown

The Burke's Colts bowling quintet officially became the local American Legion bowling league's initial champions. Monday night, at Ferrara's alleys, although their actual winning of the honor took place several weeks ago.

Monday saw the Burke's take two of three from the El Club to make their final margin over the second place Hoople Club the decisive total of seven games. The feature of the Burke's two game win was the pin toppling of Gene Gelschen and Tommie Dunn, as it had been the better part of the season. Each had a pair of double century rounds and did more than their bit towards compiling the two 900 counts the Burkes registered. Their second 900 count however, in the final game was insufficient to top the inspired El Club who rolled an inspired 978 game as a team to salvage something out of the wreckage.

The Hooples, although out of the running for first place honors nevertheless secured their hold on second place by taking three straight from the Knights of Columbus. These victories gave them a final margin of four games over the third place Belleville A. A. outfit, who took two of three from the Parks. The A. A. who won third place in comparatively lay easy fashion must be especially recommended for the fine showing they made in the league, after having to forfeit most of their early games through the fact that their team was in the process of reorganization.

In other matches of the night the fourth place Moose Club took three from the faltering St. Peter's five, the Bachelors dropped three to the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Junior Order came out first in two of their three games with the Capitols. The feature of this final tilt was the fact that the Capitols rolled a brilliant 942 team score with a blind score included. Andy Caruso's high water mark of 249 was largely instrumental towards this remarkable accomplishment.

On Saturday evening, April 26, the league will hold its first annual bowling banquet. Tickets for this affair are extremely scarce and any outsiders desiring to attend should file their orders early for the duceats with President Joe Williams of the Legion League.

PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATION OF NEW JERSEY

Corporate Organization of Public Service

FACTS AND FIGURES from the ANNUAL REPORT OF PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATION OF NEW JERSEY

Public Service Corporation of New Jersey controls through stock ownership

- Public Service Electric and Gas Company,
- Public Service Coordinated Transport,
- Public Service Interstate Transportation Company,
- Public Service Railroad Company,
- and several other companies organized for various purposes.

Each is a separate and distinct corporation, with a complete organization of its own. Such of the companies as are public utilities, are under the jurisdiction of the New Jersey State Board of Public Utility Commissioners which, under the law, regulates their rates and services on the basis of their individual operations and without reference to the operation of other members of the group.

Losses incurred by one company cannot be charged against the profits of another. Rates for gas, for electricity and local transportation are determined by the Commission, each on the basis of the cost of providing the particular service involved. The user of electric service, for example, cannot, through higher rates, be charged with any part of the cost of providing gas or local transportation. Each service must stand by itself in respect to operating costs.

The return which the law is supposed to allow each utility company to earn is based upon the value of the property it uses in serving the public and not upon its own capitalization or that of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey.

In 1929, Public Service Electric and Gas Company earned a reasonable return while the operation of Public Service Coordinated Transport resulted in a deficit.

Hollberg Outlines Campaign Plans

for the streets, have been ruefully neglected, as poor sidewalks everywhere are a stumbling block to many.

It seems incongruous to think that for many years a large section of our town has remained totally separated from the main body without any serious attempt having been made to open a connection, especially now that the canal has been dried up, it seems perfectly feasible if courageously attacked.

When promenading through the town you meet upon ugly spots and eyesores, I refer to the empty lots, overgrown with heavy shrubbery, made dumping places of all sorts of rubbish to the detriment of their neighbors on the avenue hidden by big signs. These places should be cleaned and kept clean by the town, if upon notice the owners neglect to do so, and the cost put as a lien against such properties. The cleaning of sidewalks should be treated in the same manner.

It should be made compulsory that every house display its number in a prominent manner.

The banks of the Second and Passaic Rivers, now eyesores, especially at the entry to the town should be parked. We should go hand in hand with the Essex County Park Commission.

In connection with the deepening of the Passaic River by the Government, I would suggest the erection of a public pier, with a double deck for recreation purposes, which on Summer days and evening would afford relief to many in the cool river breezes, a little good music to help pass the time, it could be used as a judges' stand at the boat races. Boating and refreshment concessions would help to defray running expenses.

Hospital — Our town is getting large enough to support a Hospital. A certain amount is now set aside for one or two beds in a Newark institution. The public very generously always voted funds for school extensions and improvements. For the Recreation Department, $10,000 is allotted I believe. I feel assured sufficient funds would be willingly voted by the citizens for a hospital. Under the supervision of the Health Department we could first acquire one of the many old mansions, with their lofty rooms, start a small clinic with a few beds, under the supervision of our local physicians and gradually increase our facilities. I believe this as much a necessity as our schools.

Bog — I have been unfairly criticized in the stand I took regarding the bog while on the School Board. In my opinion it is simply a matter of the Engineering Department of the Board of Commissioners to redeem this bog for ratables.

As a school site it is absolutely out of the question as there are two schools within the proverbial stone's throw; as an athletic field, it would simply be a duplication of one already existing and developed at great cost. It would be a question if the voters would ever sanction the expenditure for such duplication. My proposition is that the town engineer sound the depth of the bog, if found feasible to fill "Silver Lake section has been built upon a worse bog" it should be done so with ashes properly separated from garbage to avoid a nuisance and other fill from street and cellar excavations then reclaimed for residential purposes; if such filling is found to be not feasible, I suggest its cleaning; a lake created which would furnish recreation in Summer as well as in Winter.

Having thus given you a constructive platform, I wish to state finally that I am an absolute independent candidate, beholden to no one, I am not affiliated with any political factions, nor any fraternal or social organizations. I am therefore positively free to follow my own good judgment as has been my custom on the Board of Education heretofore.

My object is: To adhere to the policy of keeping politics out of our schools.

Very respectfully,
PAUL J. H. HOLLBERG.

I have not closed my eyes to their costliness, neither am I blind to their necessities being absolute. I will discuss from time to time in the next few weeks, these propositions. I will again insist that one hundred cents in value be given for every hard-earned dollar that comes to our tax window and in so doing, I don't care where it hits.

I reiterate again—alone I have stood and alone I am, with one boss, one conference, one solution, one end and to that I stand at this hour for the coming days of battle—my sovereigns, I salute you.

Scoring Figures Given Out By Recreation Basketballers

In scoring figures recently compiled the Bachelors gave ample reason for their winning of the Recreation League cup. They were far and away in the lead among the teams in scoring, registering the remarkable total of 366 points in their twelve odd games or an average of over thirty points per game.

The Valleys, who were second to the Bachelors in team scoring with a grand total of 274 points, produced the league's leading individual scorer in the person of Harry Metz, stellar pivot man. Metz was the only player to hit the century mark in the art of compiling points, registering 41 field goals and 19 foul shots for a 101 point total. Right on his heels however, were the scintillating Johnny Johnston of the Bachelors with 93 points and Bob Mutch of the Garnets with 87 tallies. Others well up in the individual scoring were Wink Wengel, and Joe Parcels, "Mac" McGuire of the Bachelors, Herb Mayes of the Valleys, Elmer Hosking and Jimmie Metz of the Wesleys, and Sal Pico of the Community Aces.

Another interesting angle of the figures was the fact the Valleys, who copped both prizes in the foul shooting tournament held recently, led the league in making good foul tries, gaining no less than 54 points by this method.

Social Recreation Service

By RECREATION COMMISSION

Judging from the reports of persons who have performed the tricks published last week, we are compelled to print two more that we feel are even more interesting. Simple, but yet so amusing!

We charge no fee for this correspondence course in home magic and if you desire further information kindly communicate with Anthony A. Pascal, Recreation House.

Magic Coin
Tell your friend that you are going to place a dime over the opening of a soda bottle, and that the coin will move up and down by your merely grasping the bottle. It sounds impossible, but, it is true!

Method: Place a moistened dime over the opening of the bottle (the bottle should be cold) and grasp it with both hands. After a short interval the coin will move up an down due to the reaction of the heat in your hands and the cold bottle and coin.

The Jumping Candle Flame
This trick can be performed anywhere, but when there are candles on the table, it make a good dinner-table trick.

The performer lights a match from the candle flame. Then blows out the candle. A moment later he holds the match above the candle-wick, and to the surprise of everyone, a portion of the flame leaves the match and jumps to the candle, where it immediately lights the wick.

Method: Watch the curl of thin smoke that comes up from the candle immediately after it has been blown out. Set the match so that the flame encounters this slender stream of smoke, and the flame will travel down to the wick in a most astonishing fashion.

Police Nab Three After Hold-up Of Local Lunch Room

Apprehension Comes As Stolen Car Is Spotted

About an hour after they are alleged to have held up a lunch wagon in Washington avenue, three young Newarkers were arrested at 4:15 Tuesday morning in a Montclair lunch wagon while they were having coffee.

Within a few hours three had been connected by positive identifications with the local hold-up or with like hold-ups since the middle of March in Nutley and Bloomfield.

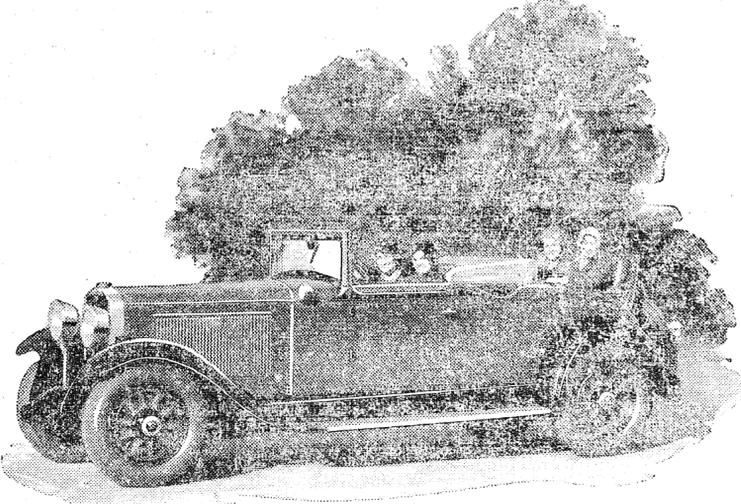

The chance arrival of two Montclair policemen and their recognition of the trio's car as one reported stolen led to their arrest and the possible prevention of another robbery.

The men gave their names and addresses as Anthony Santoli, nineteen, 105 State street; Joseph Cervone, twenty, 9 Boyden street, and Lawrence Mattie, twenty-three, of 6 Boyden street. Cervone at first gave his name as Joseph Russomana and his address as 44 Clay street.

On Santoli was found a revolver. Cervone was wearing a ring and watch which had been taken from the Belleville lunch wagon nightman. The Belleville victim, Edward Peterson of 1189 Broad street, identified Cervone and Mattie Tuesday morning as the pair who held him up.

The two hold-up victims picked Santoli out of line-ups later. The

Summer Charm With Winter Comfort

IN THE NEW NASH TWIN-IGNITION EIGHT CABRIOLET these fair drivers have found the ideal car for their all-year-round driving. The permanent top, with its snug, non-shatterable glass in windshield and windows, affording perfect protection, folds down neatly first was Carroll Niewinski, proprietor of a delicatessen at 231 Franklin avenue, Nutley. He was held up March 16 at 8:45 P. M. by a man, T. Dunn, who entered his store and asked for tea. The gunman took $65.

The other was Henry Paul of 60 Adams place, Bloomfield, night man at the High Grade Diner at 9 State street, that town. He picked Santoli as the man who early March 25 held him up and took $32. Paul had been forced to lie on the floor while the robber worked.

John Daubert, driver of a Habne and Company truck which was held up yesterday afternoon in the northern part of Newark but from which nothing was taken, arranged to go to Montclair and look at the prisoners.

Two in Hold-up.

Two men, one with a handkerchief partly concealing his features, entered Frank's Diner at 330 Washington avenue, and with a drawn revolver, ordered Peterson to lie on the floor behind the counter. They took what was in the cash register, about $35, and compelled Peterson to give them a silver watch and a gold ring. As they were about to leave, one of them reached up and took six packages of cigarettes from a shelf.

Peterson, without money, could not call police until a customer came in. By the time Patrolmen Gallagher Lukowiak and Burke arrived the men had escaped in a waiting car.

Sergeant Timothy Fleming and Patrolman Dugan of Montclair as they were walking past a lunch wagon in Park street, near Bloomfield avenue, noticed a parked automobile, the license number of which was the same as that of a car reported stolen in Newark Sunday night.

They walked into the wagon and saw the three young men. Mattie slipped out of a side door and hastened to the car, but Dugan slipped out after him and arrested him. Meanwhile, Sergeant Fleming with drawn revolver placed the two others under arrest. Patrolmen Miller and Damgen of Montclair chanced along and assisted in the arrests.

After the trio had been taken to the Montclair Police Station, Peterson, with Chief of Police Michael Flynn and Patrolman Robert Anderson arrived. Peterson picked Cervone and Mattie out of a line-up as the men who held him up.

Former Employer Lauds Elmer Hyde

March 28, 1930.

Editor News:
I have just heard that Mr. Elmer Hyde is a candidate for the position of Commissioner in your town, and would like as his former employer, and a man who has known him for many years to say a word in his behalf.

He came into my office as a little boy back in 1913; was with me until 1918 except for a year that he was in the army. Since 1918 he has been in business for himself and has been very successful. I have had every opportunity of judging him both as man and boy, and can without fear, state that he has been clean in his living and clean in his thinking at all times. I know that whatever duties are placed upon him, he will perform them conscientiously and ably, and that the best interests of his town will be always the deciding factor.

Very truly yours,
H. T. E. BEARDSLEY.

This Whirl Of Sport

By Arthur Bloemeke

Not satisfied with having one of the best bowling teams that Belleville has ever seen, the local Elks have taken to baseball and how! Always accustomed to doing things on a big scale, they have gone and secured last year's pennant winning Capitoll nine to represent them on the diamond this season.

At the close of last year's American Legion League campaign the Capitols as a team expressed their dissatisfaction with the club they represented and "Tommy" Dunn, the spokesman of the crew, declared that they would under no circumstances appear under the name Capitoll this season, but would represent some other organization. Rumor was rife all through the winter, with everyone interested speculating on who the lucky organization would be.

The rumors, however, came to an abrupt halt, at the start of this week with the official announcement at the Elks' headquarters that the former Capitoll squad had agreed to appear under their banner during the coming American Legion League campaign.

With the news of the change came the further announcement that the new Elks' squad would probably travel on Saturdays and Sundays and most of the leading semi-pro nines of the vicinity are included in the proposed itinerary, including possibly the strong South Orange and East Orange squads.

The members of the Elks' combination will be back practically intact from last year. There will be one new face, however, that, is new to the league although he saw service on the Saturday team last year. The newcomer is "Butch" Kastner, hurler extraordinary, who will curve 'em over in the place of Jimmy Malack, who will be busy serving 'em up in the New York-Pennsylvania League.

The remainder of the Elks' personnel includes Gene Gelschen, catching; "Lefty" Kintzing, pitching and playing the outfield; Charley Schleckser, first base; Tommie Dunn, second base; Joe Flynn, shortstop; Johnnie "Unk" Malack, third base; Jimmie Dunleavy, outfield; Willie Klemz, outfield and Jimmie Dunn, outfield. That certainly is a formidable gang and it looks classy enough to repeat its bunting winning of last year.

From reliable sources, however, comes the report that other teams in the circuit are strengthening up considerably and the managers prophesy anything but pleasant surprises for any of the leading teams in general and the Elks' in particular.

At the Recreation Basketball League banquet, Friday, several of the commissioners present expressed the hope that the day was not far distant when Belleville could have set aside for the youth of the town, playgrounds where they could give vent to their baseball longings and aspirations. At the present writing there is hardly a baseball diamond worthy of the name were the "big" teams can get together in that necessary factor towards America's baseball practice, the sandlot diamond battle. Of course there is the local county park, but its possibilities are too limited to permit of much benefit to the town's youth as a whole. A few vacant lots are all that are needed to satisfy this need and if the town could see its way clear to provide these, its service to Belleville's boys along recreational lines would be manifold.

These problems of sandlots and baseball is hardly a recent one, but it is one that requires more and more attention with every passing year. It is certainly pleasing to note the favorable attitude the present commission has adopted towards this necessary recreational policy.

In a letter addressed to this department and published in last week's issue George Biller made some very interesting comment on a recently published article apropos a fourth major sport for Belleville High. The crux of his letter was that he thought the four sport idea a good one and that track was the logical fourth sport, in addition to football, basketball and baseball, the three now in vogue.

We were more than pleased to hear from one of our readers upon this subject and would like to hear comments from more.

The personal views of our readers are always welcomed and desired for they are the gauge by which we measure public opinion. So let's go, you letter writers, and let's hear some more about this four sport idea.

WE NOW PRINT ON THIS MODEL "A" HIGH SPEED DUPLEX PRESS

Keeping step with the progress of the community THE NEWS, published in the interest of community advancement, announces today the installation of a new Duplex Web Perfecting press which will enable the NEWS to serve the people of Belleville and Nutley with a home newspaper in the most efficient manner possible. The installation of this equipment makes the NEWS probably the best equipped weekly paper in this section.

For some time past the NEWS has given a great deal of time and thought toward improving the paper and its service, and it was found that one of the greatest business needs of the office was a printing press that would step the printing process of the paper up from the past to the present era. With this in view, the Duplex Web Perfecting Press of the latest model, a picture of which appears above, was purchased and installed.

This press, manufactured by the Duplex Printing Press company of Battle Creek, Mich., is absolutely the last word in printing press equipment in daily as well as weekly newspaper offices in towns and cities having publications of around 5,000 circulation. It is a marvel of precision with its many special features for production and adjustment. J. G. Dannenfeld of the Duplex company was in Belleville last week installing the new press.

With this new press the NEWS is ready to serve the most fastidious dreams of the public with regard to a newspaper.

What The Press Will Do

The press prints two, four, six or eight pages direct from the roll at a speed of 3,500 papers an hour, all in one operation, delivering the papers folded, ready for addressing at the completion of its performance. This is in direct contrast to the capacity of the former cylinder press which printed four pages at a time at a speed of 2,000 an hour. Sheets of paper instead of the roll were used in the former method, and this meant that the paper had to be fed through the press, sheet by sheet, twice, in order to be printed on both sides. Then the sheets had to be carried to a hand folder where again, sheet by sheet, they were folded for the mails. It can be readily seen that in the printing of the paper now, much labor and time will be saved.

Means Best Possible Plant

The quality of the paper is greatly improved by the use of the new equipment. The Duplex turns out a beautifully printed page with perfect impression and perfect ink distribution. Every line of type stands out evenly and clearly. Every paragraph can be easily read.

In order to install this monster press in the local plant it was necessary first to reconstruct a large concrete foundation. Work in preparation for the installation has been going on for a month and with this issue THE NEWS printed on the Duplex, everything in connection with the change has been practically accomplished. Willard Wharton constructed the foundation; Raymond Donnelly did the electrical work and Joseph Raser, the trucking.

When all is completed, it is safe to say the NEWS will be one of the best equipped newspaper and job printing plants in any of the smaller towns of this section, if not in the entire state.

How The Paper Is Produced

The Duplex Web Perfecting Press is a marvel of mechanical skill, and the many functions it performs in one operation are interesting to watch. The huge roll of paper will be noticed at the extreme right of the above picture. If unrolled this paper would reach a distance of about three miles. The paper is threaded over the web and across the bottom of the press to the left, passing over the bottom bed where the type forms for four pages of the paper first come in contact with the moving paper. Going to the extreme left of the press it is carried by rollers to the top, where it starts again to the right. In the picture the four pages printed on one side on the bottom form can be seen. The paper then passes over the upper bed of forms, and the reverse four pages are printed.

The printing is thus completed, but the press has not completed its work. Still traveling to the right the paper passes over a cutter which separates each individual newspaper and traveling on it is gathered and enters the folder, which with almost human intelligence folds, cuts and trims the paper and passes out the finished product in the chute to the extreme right ready for delivery.

Four and six pages are printed in the same manner. The serrated edge, found either at the top or at the sides of a newspaper are a sure sign that it has been printed on a press of this nature, and these are found only in the more modern and up-to-date offices of the country.

Like everything of a civic nature, THE NEWS needs the co-operation of the people of the community. The paper is your means of expression on all matters of public interest and THE NEWS once more desires to remind you that it is here for the purpose of serving in any sense that will build for the progress of the community, and its columns are always open for community news or to those with constructive and progressive ideas and ideals.

THE NEWS staff appreciates the hearty co-operation which it has always had in the past from the community and enters upon its new era of service and usefulness with high hopes and aspirations.

YOU CAN HELP

Coleman Cox

Wouldn't this old world be better, If the folks we meet would say, "I know something good about you?" And then treat us just that way? Wouldn't it be fine and dandy, If each handclasp, warm and true Carried with it this assurance, "I know something good about you."

Wouldn't life be lots more happy, If the good that's in us all Were the only thing about us That folks bothered to recall? Wouldn't life be lots more happy, If we praised the good we see? For there's such a lot of goodness In the worst of you and me. Wouldn't it be nice to practice That fine way of thinking too? I know something good about you. You know something good about me!

ON WITH THE SHOW

By ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1929, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. "ON WITH THE SHOW," is the first 100% natural color, Vitaphone picture. It is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Willie Durant is financing Nita French, an actress, in a musical show, but refuses to put up more money. Jerry Connolly, the manager, accuses Durant of being untrue to Nita, the stage-struck check room girl, and inducing her father, Dad Malone, and her sweetheart, Jimmy, to invest their life savings to gain a hold over her. The box-office is robbed. Nita refuses to finish the performance unless she gets her salary. Kitty goes on in her part and Jimmy informs Nita of Jerry's accusations against Durant. Dad Malone confesses to theft, but Nita forces Durant to sign over the show to Kitty, Jerry and Jimmy.

CHAPTER XVI—Continued

Surprise, astonishment and delight flooded the faces of Jerry, Dad and Jimmy, as they gathered round to inspect the papers that the manager unfolded. Sam Bloom and Joe both leaned over the others' shoulders to get a nearer glimpse of the deeds. It all sounded too good to be true to Jerry. Even though he hadn't a penny to pay salaries, he still owned half of the show. Dad was on of trouble and Kitty and Jimmy would have their chance. Already the manager's mind was actively considering to whom could go to raise money to keep the show on its feet. The box-office receipts for tonight would tide them over if he could get Sam Bloom to wait a little longer for payment on the scenery.

"Oh, yes, and here's Willie's check for five grand. Once more Nita's voice interrupted his thoughts and brought his head jerking upwards. "It's a loan, Jerry. You can take as long as you like to pay back on that cheese sandwich. That was fifteen years, says you, but it's all right. Go to it, baby, I'm all for you."

"Say, this is wonderful." For the first time since he had concluded his story about the robbery Dad Malone spoke. There were tears in his blue eyes and he was grinning foolishly.

"Wonderful!" Sam Bloom exclaimed. "Durant loaning money to him! That ain't wonderful! That's a miracle!"

Jerry took the check that Nita handed him without a word. He was too stunned to speak. The impossible had actually happened.

"It won't bite you, Jerry," Nita laughed, noting his paralytic silence. "It won't even bite back at you. I'll admit Willie's signature is a bit uncertain. There may be a little blood on it, but it's good. I got that out of him during his last minutes just after the bottle struck him."

"Gosh, Nita," Jerry finally found his voice, and it seemed as though the blood was rushing once more through his body, and not congealed in his veins, as it had been. "You're the best scout—"

"Don't get goosy," Nita patted the manager's hand that was gripping hers in a sort of strangle hold. "Nita, I can't start to tell you how much obliged we—"

Jimmy blurted out. "Never mind telling me," Nita advised. "You wait and tell Kitty the good news."

"I'll say I will!" The boy's eyes were shining as he went into the wings as far as possible to be the first to greet the girl when she came off the stage.

"I knew something would turn up." With his one free hand, Dad was trying to wipe his eyes. "That's too bad—just too bad," the detective snapped, "but you're still under arrest. You ain't—"

Joe was interrupted by a muffled sound of scuffling footsteps padding across the back of the stage. The little group turned to see what was happening. There came two attendants in white uniforms bearing a stretcher. What was on the stretcher was covered over by a blanket.

At the rear of the procession was evidently a doctor, carrying his inevitable little black bag. "Well, here goes my little Willie home to his own beddie, and his Ovaltine." Nita shrugged her shoulders as the parade went past.

"He won't want to press the case against Dad, will he?" Sam questioned thoughtfully.

"He couldn't press a pair of pants," Nita snorted. "Take that jewelry off the old boy," she turned on the detective, pointing to the handcuffs that bound him to Malone. "Turn him loose."

"Well, I don't know now," Joe hedged.

"Go on, slip the cuffs off him, or I'll lose my temper again and make you wear 'em for nose rings," the actress ordered. "There goes what's left of Willie after I told him what to do and he didn't do it." She hurried after the stretcher as the detective reluctantly took the key to the handcuffs from his pocket and unloosened the bracelets.

"Wait a second, boys," Nita called to the stretcher bearers.

She caught up to the group just as they reached the stage door. Without a word she put her hand experimentally along the side of the stretcher and then reached underneath the blanket and brought out a bottle. "I kind of thought you'd try to get out with this, you worm," she addressed the battered figure beneath the coverlet.

"Aw, Nita, please—please," came the muffled voice from a bandaged head that looked like a great white pillow.

"It's all right! Mamma wouldn't hit her little darling now," Nita soothed. "But he must hurry and get well because when he does Mamma's going to kick the tar out of him again just for good luck. Take him away, boys."

She motioned to the stretcher bearers to proceed on their way. "Tell him bedtime stories, but don't put him in the garbage wagon by mistake. I may need him later."

The doctor shook his head helplessly as he headed for the door with his grinning companions. As he glanced back he saw Nita pulling the cork and then tipping the bottle up to her mouth.

CHAPTER XVII

Standing in the wings between numbers, Jimmy told Kitty everything that had happened. The girl laughed and cried and laughed again, dabbing frantically at her make-up. It all sounded like a fairy tale with an unbelievably happy ending. Dad was free; everybody would be paid; the show would go into Broadway with Kitty in the leading role. There seemed to be nothing more to worry about, and the thought was a blessed relief after the strain of the evening.

That a few short hours could so change one's entire life seemed beyond reason. Kitty felt like pinching herself to see whether she was awake. And she was afraid that if she did pinch herself she would find that everything was all a dream. "KITTY MALONE in 'WELCOME HOME!'" She could visualize the brilliant lights in front of the theatre that would proclaim her a star.

"Gosh, what a break!" Kitty breathed excitedly. "Are you sure it's all true, Jimmy? Do we really own part of the show?"

"Part of it!" Jimmy exclaimed. "Why, we're half owners, and besides that, Nita made Durant give Jerry five thousand bucks. Gee, you'll be packing your trunks to go to New York tomorrow."

"Yes, I suppose so," Kitty sighed luxuriously. Her deep blue eyes sparkled with the joy that she knew was hers.

Jimmy looked a little crestfallen. A little sad. He took the girl's hand and gazed at her longingly.

"If you do go away promise me you won't forget me," he pleaded.

"But, Jimmy, you'll be going with me and so will Dad, if he wants to. Remember you own part of this show."

"I know, but there'll be a lot of other guys crazy about you, and maybe you'll like someone else better than you do me."

For an answer Kitty simply threw her arms about the boy's neck and kissed him. They clung closely to each other until Joe Beaton, the comedian, and the Dorsey twins fell over them making their exit.

"Get out of my way," Beaton grumbled. "This darn opera's driving me crazy. Everything's all wrong. I can't even come off the stage without stumbling over mobs of people." Still grumbling, he went on his way, heedless of the little surges of laughter that came from the boy and girl.

"You two are always in corners sniggering over each other," Berta moaned.

"Why don't you get a Ford coupe?" Betty suggested.

"You're only jealous," Jimmy laughed, his arm about Kitty's waist.

St. Peter's Bowlers Take 2 Out Of 3 From Fewsmith

Rolling in superlative form the St. Peter's Church bowling quintet took two out of three from the strong Fewsmith Memorial pin-knights, Thursday night, at the losers' alleys.

The match, the final one of the regular Church League schedule, served to pull the Fewsmith boys down a peg in the league standing and created a triple tie for the coveted first place position. At the present writing, Fewsmith, Grace Baptist and Montgomery are all tied for top honors, necessitating a play-off in the very near future. The triple tie for first place served as a fitting climax to the church loop's most hotly and closely contested league season.

Not One —but Three Degrees of Refrigeration are Offered in Kelvinator and in Some Models Four

ALL refrigerators supply cold for food preservation. Kelvinator supplies three degrees of cold, all automatically regulated, by which foods not only are preserved but preserved under conditions that will improve their flavor and make them more palatable.

For general food preservation, a temperature under 50° is maintained. Meats stored in this compartment are more tender, better tasting, green vegetables are crisp and fresh as when newly picked... there is the lower temperature for making ice cubes and freezing desserts... and another compartment with a still lower temperature where ice cubes are made and desserts are frozen in remarkably short time.

In some Kelvinator models, there is a cold storage compartment where meats, poultry and other perishable foods may be kept without deterioration for long periods, in the same manner in which meats are kept fresh in dealers' large Kelvinator commercial boxes.

Kelvinator cabinets from $215 upward installed and serviced free for one year—with the cold storage compartment $395 upward. Purchase may be made in divided payments at a small increase in prices.

The English players adopted the Informatory double some time ago, but they are still more or less inexperienced in their use of this interesting convention. As a result many articles devoted to this convention are written by their best players and many of them are most interesting. Here are some extracts from one of the best that contains mighty fine advice for our own players to follow:

"Have you ever realized how often players think that an 'Informatory Double' has been successful when in fact it made no difference? Z bids 'One No-Trump'; A doubles, Y says, 'No Bid'; B, 'Two Spades,' and makes game. A pats himself on the back in self-congratulation for his double; he does not realize that even if he had said 'No Bid' B would still have bid 'Two Spades'. In the majority of cases where a player doubles 'One No-Trump,' and his partner makes a bid which achieves contract or even game, the partner would have made his bid without the encouragement of the 'Informatory Double.'

"The writer suggests extreme caution in the double of 'One No-Trump,' if Z deals and bids 'One No-Trump,' and A holds a 'No-Trump' hand, he should, in the majority of cases, pass in the hope either that B will make a bid if his hand justifies it, or that if B passes, A's cards will prove sufficiently good to prevent Z from making game. The use of the 'Informatory Double' by A depends upon (a) the score, (b) the nature of A's hand and (c) his knowledge of Z.

"If Z Y are 20 or more up in rubber game, or even in any game, and Z bids 'One No-Trump' and A holds a 'No-Trump' hand, A should double. The score is of importance, for Z wins the game if he makes his contract. A should, therefore, definitely command

B to bid, even though B's cards are useless, and the side may fall. But A should be sure, before doubling, that he has a 'No-Trump' hand. The test question to put to himself is, 'If I had been dealer, would I have bid 'One No-Trump' on this hand?'; and if the answer is 'Yes,' let him double.

"There are occasions when the nature of A's hand justifies him in doubling Z's 'One No-Trump,' irrespective of the score. It is impossible to deal with this in a short article, except by means of an example. Z bids 'One No-Trump.' A's hand is Spades, A, Q, x, x; Hearts, K, J, x, x; Diamonds, Q, 10, x, x; Clubs, x. The first thought that comes into A's mind is that Z's 'No-Trump' hand consists chiefly of a long and solid suit of Clubs, and if this is so, A cannot be sure that by lying low he can save the game. He should therefore double in the hope that B will bid 'Two' of one of the major suits. Readers will doubtless grasp the idea which lies behind this example.

"But in every phase of the game knowledge of one's partner or the opponents is of the utmost importance. Can you not all call to mind one or more players concerning whom, when he bids 'One No-Trump,' you know that he will deliver the goods. He holds an 18 carat 'One No-Trump' hand. On the other hand, you can visualize some whose 'One No-Trump' has often not much gold and a lot of alloy. You can have a gamble on a fellow of the latter kind; in the rubber game he may be taking a chance and if his partner holds nothing and you and your partner have good hands, a double of 'One No-Trump' left in may yield you 300 or 400 above; and is there any more enjoyable moment in the game than when you penalize the dealer in this way?"

No score, first game. (1) Suppose Z bids one spade and A bids one no trump. What should Y bid? (2) Suppose Y bids two hearts and B bids three diamonds, what should Z bid? (3) Suppose Z passes, A bids three no trumps and all pass, what should Y open? (4) Suppose Y opens the three of spades, what should Z play?

Solution: Y's bid of two hearts with this hand is correct, but, if made, Y should determine to help his partner's spade bid on the next round. Bid in this way, Z is given the choice of a try for game in hearts or spades, whichever suits his hand the better. If B bids three diamonds, Z should bid three spades. His hand is so strong that he can afford to rebid despite Y's denial. Whether Z bids three spades or passes, A should bid three no trumps. Y is now in a position where he can do one of two things: either bid four spades or pass in the hope that he can defeat the three no trump bid. Some players might double three no trumps, but such a double is a gamble and can hardly be considered sound. Needless to say, Y Z can make four spades or can defeat the three no trump bid by five tricks.

Suppose Y passes the three no trump bid. What is his proper opening? With three spades to the queen, Y should open the tray of spades and Z should play the king. A should win this trick and lead the queen of diamonds. Z should win this trick, lead his king of clubs to indicate his re-entry and then lead the deuce of spades. Y must win the next two spade tricks and place Z in the lead with a club. Y Z thus must win nine tricks.

Suppose, however, that Z, when Y led the tray of spades, refused to play his king. A would win the first trick with the jack and thus be able to make his bid. The lesson to draw from this play is: "Never finesse against your partner." The foregoing represents the different bidding and play at duplicate. You can figure out for yourself the tremendous differences that resulted.

Answer to Problem No. 13

Hearts—A, Q, 5, 3, 2
Clubs—Q, 3
Diamonds—7, 5
Spades—K, Q, 9, 5

No score, first game. Z dealt and bid one club, bid one heart. Y passed and B bid two diamonds. (1) If Z now bid two spades, what should A do? (2) If A and Y passed, B bid three diamonds and Z passed, what should A now do?

Solution: (1) A should pass the two-spade bid. His hand is too weak to justify a rebid at this stage. (2) If B should bid three diamonds, however, and Z passes, A's position is entirely different. Such a bid by B should indicate a set-up diamond suit and something on the side. The fact that Y could not assist Z's club bid and that Z wasn't strong enough to rebid makes it probable that A B have a stopper in the club suit in their combined hands. A is justified, therefore, in bidding three no trumps. All passed and Y opened the jack of clubs. B's hand was as follows:

Hearts—K, 7
Clubs—10, 8, 5, 2
Diamonds—A, K, Q, J, 10, 9
Spades—4

Needless to say, A B scored four odd at no trump and thus gained over those players who played the hand at diamonds. There is no game at diamonds; in fact, A B can score only two odd. Y Z will make the ace king of clubs, ace of spades and two trumps as Y held the eight six of diamonds and was thus able to overtrump A twice. The hand is a good example of clever deductive bidding.

Why Hero Portrayed By Barrymore Was Called "Gen. Crack"

John Barrymore Appears At Capitol Theatre Next Week

Nicknames usually find their beginning in some physical eccentricity or as the result of some novel incident, but the name "General Crack," the title of John Barrymore's first all-talking Vitaphone starring vehicle to be seen Monday next at the Capitol Theatre, had an original source.

The Barrymore hero, as the rightful heir to a dukedom, bore the high-sounding name of Christian Rudolph Augustus Christopher Kettlar. The first letter of each name combined, spells "Crack."

Marian Nixon and Armida have the leading feminine roles in support of Barrymore in "General Crack," while Hobart Bosworth, Lowell Sherman, Jacqueline Logan, Otto Matieson, Andres de Seguro, Douglas Gerrard, Philippe de Lacy, William von Brinken, Theodore Lodi and others have important parts.

Alan Crosland directed from Walter Anthony's adaptation of the George Preedy novel. A number of the master scenes in General Crack are in natural color.

"Tom" MacNair Now Elks' King Pin

All hail Tom MacNair, new kingpin among the Elks' bowlers! In a convincing display of the fine points of the art of bowling, Thursday night at the local Elks' alleys good ol' Tom who has rolled anchor on most of the Elks' winning combinations, won the Hello Bill championship and as such will have his name inscribed on a tablet under those of Charley Waldie and "Dutch" Faust, winners in former years.

MacNair was at his superlative best, Thursday, and averaged well over 200 in rolling up his three game totals of 214, 202, and 213. This trio of double century efforts, gave him two firsts and a second to give him a huge margin over Bill Buttons, reposing in second place.

ner-up position for himself accounted for a pair of seconds and a fifth, a brace of 204 tallies in the first and third games enabled him to come in second on both occasions.

Bill Bechtoldt came in third just nosed out by Buttons. His 237 score in the second game was easily the high spot in single game performances but two ordinary counts of 163 and 184 in the other two forced him to accept the third position.

After getting off to a poor start, Bob Whitten came back strong in the final two, ringing up an even 200 and 190 in those games, to give him fourth honors. "Dutch" Faust had an off-night and came in fifth, while Charley Waldie and Bob McManus brought up the rear. Waldie's badly injured hand proved a severe handicap to him throughout the tournament and prevented him from capably defending his laurels as 1929 champion.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"UNREALITY" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 6, 1930.

The Golden Text is: "Remove far from me vanity and lies: give me neither poverty nor riches; feed me with food convenient for me." (Proverbs 30:8.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore." (Psalms 121:8)
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Stand porter at the door of thought. Admitting only such conclusions as you wish realized in bodily results, you will control yourself harmoniously." (p. 392.)

Last Sunday evening the beautiful and impressive rite of baptism was given to a husband and wife. As one witnesses this impressive rite he is carried back to the time of the beginning of the Christian Church. In these days when so many new things are invented and introduced into church worship it is refreshing that once in a while we can for a moment forget the modern things and enjoy a glimpse of the Ancient rites that have done so much for our religion.

Sunday many of the former friends of Grace Church and residents of Belleville were seen in the congregation, among whom were Mrs. M. Hayes of Belmar, Mrs. Ernest Reed of Newark, Mr. and Mrs. Jellings of New York, Mr. and Mrs. I. R. McCombe, Jersey City, and Doctor and Mrs. White, Jersey City. Meet your old friends at Grace Church.

The Men's Club is taking on new life. The officers are doing all in their power to make things attractive. Boys under 16 years of age are not allowed to frequent the alleys during the evening hours. The men are much pleased at this new order. Any man who delights in bowling will find a hearty welcome awaiting him at the Grace alleys. The new officers are, president, Mr. Charles Thomson; vice president, Mr. Howard Ryer; secretary, Mr. George Karrer and treasurer, Mr. A. Arnold. The president will announce his committees at the next business meeting of the club.

Ruskin, the great painter, says: "Degrees infinite of lustre there must always be, but the weakest among us has a gift, however seemingly trivial, which is peculiar to him, and which, worthily used, will be a gift to his race forever." How many people excuse themselves from doing work in the community or the church because they say that they have no ability. Such would do well to think a little about the thought expressed by the great painter Ruskin, as to ability.

The Tuesday Fellowship meeting is meeting a real need. New faces are seen at this service and many have expressed the help that they are receiving. Any man or woman, young or old, that will do a little serious thinking will find food for thought at these Fellowship meetings every Tuesday evening. Any one coming will be given a hearty welcome by the minister and officers of Grace Church.

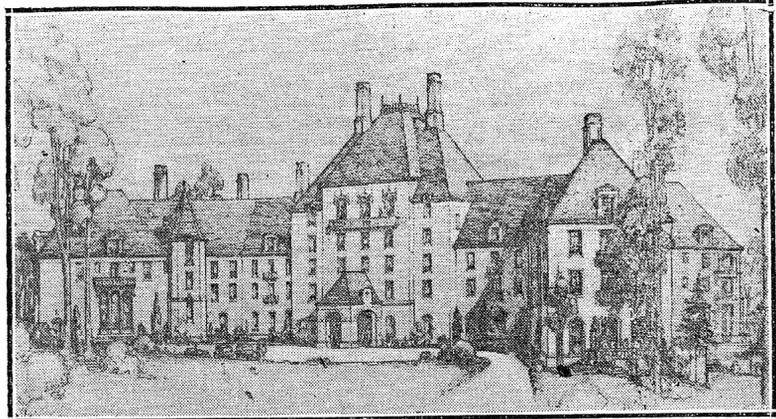

It was a happy crowd that left Grace Church Friday evening by automobile for Rahway. The Baptist Church in Rahway was crowded with young people. The speaker of the evening Prof. W. A. Barris, of Montclair Academy gave an inspiring address and one which the young people enjoyed. The refreshments at the close of the meeting served by the young people of the Rahway church went to the right spot and all were delighted with the "feed." Those who made the journey were Mr. P. Karrer, Mrs. G. W. McCombe, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Blair, Miss Annadel Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. George Karrer, Mrs. Howard Ryer, Miss Edith Chaffee, Mr. John Stoddard, Miss Irene Eller, Miss Helen Hageman, Miss Gwendolyn Bennett, Miss Ida Bruegman, Mrs. Elwood Russell, Mrs. Elmer Hyde, Mrs. Charles Thomson, Miss Jessie Kraeutler and Miss Grace Eller. All enjoyed the affair.

The Philathea Bible Class of Grace Church will hold a Sock Social in the Social Hall of the church. Many surprises are being planned for the evening and all who come are assured of a good time. The affair will start promptly at 8 P. M. Come and do not forget your sock.

The power of the laborer must be equal to the power required for the task, or his labor will conquer nothing. Set an ass to carry an elephant's burden, and his back will be broken. The man of few brains cannot do the work of the man of many brains. Each doing according to his ability will make the community richer and better for his efforts.

Monday evening in the Social Hall of the church, the cast of the minstrel show met as guests of Mr. Elmer Hyde, at a splendid supper especially prepared for the occasion. After satisfying the inner man the rest of the evening was given to after dinner speeches. Mr. Stuart McAliese was toastmaster and handled his work as he always does in good style. Among those who spoke were Rev. G. W. McCombe, the pastor of the church, Mrs. Charles Thomson, the president of the men's club; Mr. Harry Ransom who deserved great credit for the hard work which went a long way to making the show a great success from every point of view. Mr. George Ennis, the man who put life and spirit into the music of the production; Mr. George Karrer, secretary of the club and Mr. Elmer Hyde, who has spent much time and energy to make this an event that would be long remembered. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Helen Hageman, Miss Madeline Thomson, Miss King and Miss Aletha Struble. Each of the ladies was presented with a beautiful carnation. It was a great event. Everybody was happy in the thought that they pleased all who came to the show, and that the triumph of this year was greater than ever. Plans are now under way for another triumph next year. Resolutions of regret were passed at the absence of Mr. Clarence Van Dusen and Mr. Raymond who were a tower of strength in the musical part of the production. It was ordered that resolutions be drawn up expressing the

Christian Science Sanatorium in California

SAN FRANCISCO: Under articles of incorporation already filed with the Secretary of State of California, permanent trustees took over on March 26 the ownership of the property and buildings which are to accommodate the Christian Science Benevolent Association for Pacific Coast. The Association, which will open its doors to guests about the middle of May, was established in accordance with Section 8 of Article I of the Manual of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The Benevolent Association for Pacific Coast is the third large charitable institution established by The Mother Church, totaling an investment of over $4,000,000. The Christian Science Benevolent Association, located in Chestnut Hill, Mass., was chartered in 1916, and The Christian Science Pleasant View Home, located in Concord, N. H., in 1925. While all three of these corporations are independent from a legal point of view they are under the control and supervision of The Christian Science Board of Directors. The California property, known as Arden Wood, is a thickly timbered, 16 acre, piece of rolling land situated on the edge of San Francisco, its general location being between Twin Peaks and the Ocean. The Sanatorium is sheltered from the prevailing winds by the hill which forms the principal topographical feature of the property. No public roads or ways cross it, but paths will be arranged extending from the Sanatorium through the woods, making a feature of a small ravine which runs along the east boundary. The Sanatorium, designed by Henry H. Gutterson, Architect, is of steel and reinforced concrete done in a modernized Beaton style, with high central pavilion, tall classic

French windows and steep-sloping, red tiled roof. It will contain accommodations for 120 guests and associates. Within the last few weeks a substantial piece of property jutting into the principal tract, formerly held by the city of San Francisco for school purposes, has been purchased and secured additional quiet and freedom from outside disturbances. The Board of Trustees of the San Francisco institution will be in constant touch with The Christian Science Board of Directors as are the Boards of the two New England institutions. The three Trustees of the new corporation are Mrs. Gertrude M. Glass, George D. Greenwood, and Marvin R. Higgins. Wilson D. Clark has been appointed Manager-Treasurer. All of these officers have been actively interested in Christian Science work for many years.

thanks of the cast and signed by the president and secretary of the men's club and forwarded to Mr. Van Dusen and Mr. Raymond.

Tasty Vegetable Recipes For Cold Weather Menus

By CHARLES SCOTTO, Chef, Ambassador Hotel, Park Avenue, New York City

DURING the winter months when, unless the budget is extremely elastic, there is a real restriction in the choice of fresh vegetables, the conscientious housewife who would avoid the reproach of monotony must be ever on the alert for new and delicious ways of preparing those vegetables which her purse can afford.

A keen eye for new recipes, and a willingness to take the little extra trouble which any departure from the routine entails, will easily solve the problem of lending variety to the menu, for the different dishes that can be prepared with the standard winter vegetables are almost infinite in number. So far as achieving supreme tastiness is concerned, much depends upon the seasoning, and in this connection, a seasoning secret of Continental chefs is well worth knowing. A dash of sugar added while cooking restores and "points up" the original flavors which winter vegetables frequently lose in storage or during transportation.

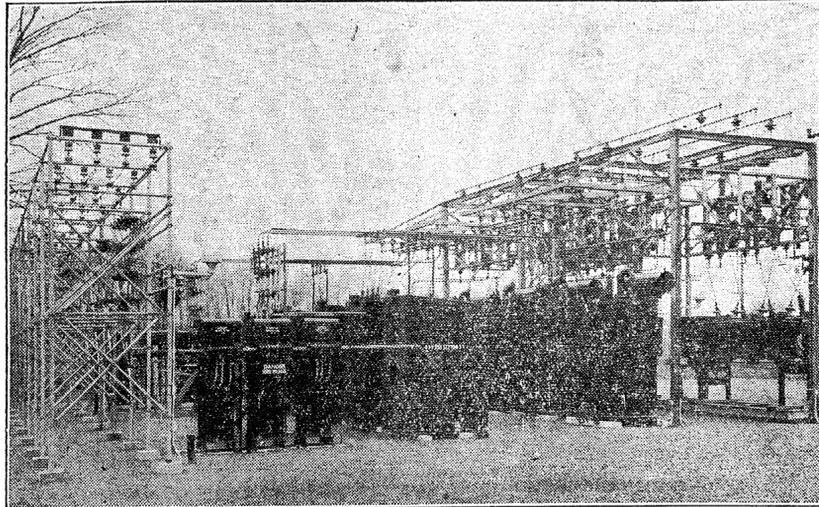

CHEF SCOTTO

Beets a la King are a tasty variation from the usual. Boil five medium-size beets until tender. Peel and slice them. Add one tablespoon flour to one tablespoon melted fat and cook until bubbly. Then add slowly a cup of cold water and stir until smooth. Add three tablespoons vinegar and remove from the fire. Stir in three tablespoons cream, one-half teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar and one-quarter teaspoon paprika. Pour over the beets and serve very hot.

Carrots Lyonnaise—Melt a piece of butter the size of a walnut in a frying pan. Add a finely chopped onion and cook until the onion begins to brown. Stir in one teaspoon of sugar. Add carrots which have been cut into one-inch strips and cooked until nearly done. Cook without browning for about five minutes. Add salt and pepper to taste. Cover, and just before serving sprinkle with finely chopped parsley.

Spinach a la Bourgeois—Cook, uncovered, in boiling, salted water, one peck carefully washed spinach. While cooking add one-fourth teaspoon soda and one teaspoon sugar. Drain and chop fine. Add one-third cup butter, three-fourths teaspoon salt, and heat again. Press into buttered border mold and keep warm until time to serve. Then remove to hot platter and fill center with well-seasoned, diced, cooked beets. Pour one and a half cups white sauce around the mound, and sprinkle with minced hard-boiled egg.

OUTDOOR SUBSTATION COMPOSED OF UNITS AND NEEDING NO OPERATOR IS NEW DEPARTURE IN ELECTRIC INDUSTRY

A NEW type of electric outdoor substation in which the "unit" principle is applied and which requires no operator is shown in the above picture. The substation is composed of a number of individual units which are assembled to furnish the initial capacity required. As increased demands are made on the substation for service, additional units may be added.

Automatic operation of the equipment is an important feature of this substation. The supervisor at the nearest Public Service distribution office is informed at all times of the correct performance of the apparatus by an ingenious indicating system utilizing the telephone wires.

Public Service engineers have played an important part in the development of this new type of substation, the first one of which is now in service in Westwood, Bergen County. Construction work will start soon on two other similar substations, one at Piscataway in the Central Division and the other at Woodbury in the Southern Division.

These stations are designed for use in areas where the load "demand" is comparatively light, and in which rapid growth is expected but in which it is impossible to accurately determine the center of the load. When the "load center" is positively known in a locality a permanent substation is installed. The use of the "unit" type permits the expansion of capacity until a permanent substation is required whereupon the units can be easily transported for use in a new location.

A MODERN QUAKER

Demure, picturesque and dainty—the frock above suggests the silhouette of the charming Quaker girl of old and is typical of the new demand for something pretty. The short and tight surplice bodice, the long, full skirt gathered at belt and dipping at back accent this same effect. The cape collar, short in front and long in back, is the perfect complement to this silhouette. Paris has revived the use of flowers for trimming and the boutonniere shown here to finish the closing of the bodice is very apt. This frock is exquisite when made of pastel flowered organza.
Excella Pattern No. 3154. Sizes 12 to 40, 25 cents.

Eating, Driver Hears Someone Take Truck

Vehicle And Contents Taken In Town Recovered By Kearny Police

A truck and load of steel tile, valued at more than $6,000, stolen in Belleville early Tuesday morning, was recovered twenty minutes later in Kearny by Detectives Thomas Berry and Theodore Flanagan. Kearny police received a telephone call from the Belleville police at 2:15 o'clock and shortly after the detectives discovered the vehicle at the bottom of an embankment in Passaic avenue, just south of the West Arlington Station of the Erie Railroad. The truck was wrecked, but the material was not damaged.

Thomas W. Wright of 34 Smith street, Belleville, driver of the truck had gone to his home at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning to eat, leaving the truck parked at the curb.

Wright said, while he was eating he heard the motor start and rushed out, chasing the truck down William street until he saw it turn south in Washington avenue. He notified police. Sergeant James Hannan flashed an alarm to police of surrounding communities while Sergeant Leighton and Patrolmen Burke, Lukowiak and Spatz scoured Belleville.

The driver eluded pursuit evidently by turning on his tracks down Mill and Main streets and across the bridge to Kearny.

Victor Lutgens of 45 Bell street, Elizabeth, owner of the truck, told the police he had recently been having trouble with the drivers' union.

Wright said he would make complaint against a former driver, who he said, had tried various times before to "get" him or the truck. Signing of the complaint awaited word to police from the trucking company.

Several accidents of a similar character have happened at the same place in Arlington in recent years and the police are undetermined as to whether the vehicle was deliberately wrecked or went over the embankment by accident. Further investigation is being made.

Fresh Garden Things and New Ways to Cook Them

By CAROLINE B. KING

IDON'T know of anything that has a greater power to thrill me than the sight of green peas and tender lettuce maturing in the garden. How anxiously I wait the day when the first "mess" is ready for the table, and how eagerly I gather and prepare the delicious succulent things.

Vegetable dinners are becoming more and more popular as housewives are learning the deliciousness of fresh garden vegetables. Most women now know that it is a mistake to over-cook any green vegetable, or to cook it in too great a quantity of water. If the fresh flavor and all the vital qualities with which our good green vegetables are blessed are to be preserved—an open kettle, just enough slightly salted water to cover and a short cooking period are required.

Salt added to the water in which green vegetables are cooked sets their delicate color; a few drops of lemon juice added to the water when cauliflower or white turnips or celery is being cooked prevents the vegetable from darkening and a tablespoonful of vinegar will intensify the red of beets or the gold of carrots.

Lettuce and chicory are usually served as salads, but they are both very tasty when cooked lightly and dressed with a cream sauce in real French fashion.

Minted Carrots are delicious additions to a vegetable dinner. Wash clean and scrape lightly eight to ten young garden carrots. Cut them in inch pieces and boil till just tender in a small quantity of water. Drain and add 4 tablespoonful of vinegar, 2 tablespoonful of sugar, 1 tablespoonful of butter and a sprig or two of fresh mint. Cook gently five minutes, remove the mint before serving.

New Peas with Bacon may be served as the main dish for dinner. Shell and cook fresh garden peas in as little water as possible, adding ½ tablespoonful of salt. Drain and cover with a nicely seasoned cream sauce. Meantime cut six to eight slices of bacon in small pieces, fry crisply, drain and sprinkle over the peas. Serve at once.

String Beans au Gratin are extremely good. If the beans are gathered while still young they will be very tender and stringless. Wash and prepare them in the usual way and cut in half inch pieces, boil in salted water, till almost tender, then drain and arrange in a baking dish in layers, seasoning each layer well, and covering with grated cheese. Top with bits of butter and pour two or three tablespoonful of rich milk or cream into the dish. Bake to a delicate brown and serve in the same dish. For variety a little grated onion may be added.

Grecian Influence Asserts Itself In Evening Wear

From the Grecian, it's only a step to the Directoire which of course was an adaptation of the ancient Greek, and a lovely and fascinating style it was, too! Charming ladies wore high waists and very long skirts, using the famous draperies of early Greece as their inspiration for their own times. And now we come along in our own Twentieth Century and copy the Directoire, using the chic ideas and modernizing them to our own times with superb results.

The lovely evening model illustrated here . . . does it not recall bygone days of romance and intrigue? The graceful folds of its long skirt, the higher waist, and the bolero all are reminiscent of charming olden styles.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

ESPECIALLY during the winter, vegetables are likely to arrive in the kitchen a long time after they have been picked. A little sugar added to the water while boiling will help to restore the natural sweetness they have lost.

An easy way to shell pecans is to pour boiling water over the nuts, and let them stand for about a half hour. Then, when the shells are cracked, the nut meats can be removed with no trouble at all.

Correct measurements are essential for successful cookery. Read recipes carefully. Remember that one cup of chopped nut meats, for instance, and one cup of nuts, chopped, are two different quantities, just as are one cup of whipped cream, and one cup of cream, whipped.

Phone Company Appropriates $860,000 For More Facilities

Asparagus Tips

THESE are more than asparagus tips—they are tips on asparagus. Ever since the ancient Romans tipped us off to asparagus we have been seeking new ways to use both the tips and stalks of this delicacy, although so far we haven't utilized the seeds for food purposes as they do in some parts of Europe. Because the delicate flavor of fresh asparagus is quickly lost by exposure to air and sunlight, thus darkening its color and rendering its fibre less tender, many prefer the canned product.

New Way with Asparagus

The very newest asparagus recipes you will want to try are: French Fried Asparagus Tips: Drain one one-pound square can of asparagus tips, saving the liquor for a soup. Beat one egg slightly, add two tablespoons water, season to taste with salt and pepper. Dip each stalk of asparagus in fine bread crumbs, then egg, then crumbs again and fry in deep fat. Drain on brown paper and serve. This serves six persons.

Asparagus, Pear and Cheese Salad: Arrange lettuce on individual plates. Cut two fresh or canned pears in halves lengthwise and place like petals, radiating from center. Place a whole stalk of asparagus between each section of pear, making a flower. Around the center of each pear section put a long thin strip of pimiento. In the center of the flower put a sma" ball of creamed cheese rolled in minced parsley. Four French dressing over all.*
