IN BELLEVILLE, MAYOR SAYSHe Is Concerned In Progress Of Town But Feels It Should Come In Steady,
Normal Manner

"In presenting these brief talks Sunday afternoon, I am frank to admit that my main object is to further my cause in my campaign for reelection to the Office of Commissioner of the Town of Belleville. I will, however, attempt to discuss municipal subjects that in large part will be of importance to Tax Payers throughout the State.

"However, if I appear to boost Belleville, to a point where I may bore my listeners from other cities, I plead their indulgence, as I merely express what I honestly feel it is perfectly proper, as Mayor of our beautiful little town, that I should feel that Belleville has so much more to offer her citizens than the average small municipality in the Metropolitan area.

"Boosting Belleville is not new with me as I have steadily boosted her over a period of fifteen years, five of which I was President of the Board of Trade, one of which I was a member of the State Legislature, and four of which I have served as Mayor."

"Boosting and believing in Belleville has become one of my greatest interests in life. I realize that we have one of the most ideally located towns in the Metropolitan area, that

There will be a Civic League meeting at Elks' Home, Monday night May 5, at 8 o'clock. Speakers will be William J. Egan, City Clerk of Newark, and Louis Auerbach, Jr., President of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission. Entertainment will be furnished by McKee Browne Dancing School of Newark with wonderful acts of children in acrobatic dancing and fancy dancing. McKee and Browne from the Band Box Revue of New York will present an act taken from that show.

The four Commissioners backed by the Civic League for Continued Good Government will be present, Mayor Kenworthy, and Commissioners Clark, Waters and Carragher. This will be the only meeting of the League before election.

our progress has been marked by a steady healthy growth, and that the influx of population during the past few years represents that great middle class of people who take a genuine interest in their homes and in their city. I feel that we are on the eve of the most progressive period of our history and have a most natural desire to continue to do my part in properly guiding that progress, so that we may maintain our adopted slogan, "Belleville — The Most Progressive Municipality in Essex County."

"Last week I saw fit to chide our State Legislature for the adoption of Mandatory Laws that burden the municipal taxpayer with unjust taxes. Although I have received two letters from members of that body, taking exception to my caustic remarks, I am not fearful of impeachment proceedings, as I have been a member of the Legislature and know some of the inside workings and also know how much political expediency and party loyalty influence the votes of many of its members.

"Since last Sunday I have also been chided by one of my opponents for the extravagant expenditure of money in contracting for my broadcasting time over this station.

"I wish to assure my friendly enemy that he is unduly alarmed, as I find the cost surprisingly reasonable. Further than that, I heartily commend its possibilities to ambitious candidates, for is there not a likelihood that one of us may develop a real broadcasting voice, and that some station may figure us more valuable to the radio world than to our constituents back home?

"Some of us may, in fact, crowd for honors, our good friend Floyd Gibbons, and I hope the big boss of this station is now listening in.

"And by the way, speaking of candidates, if Belleville could have all those wonderful things that we are promised in the event of their election, Belleville would truly be a wonderful place in which to live, but the great difficulty would be, no one

Plane Crash Recalls

Mason's Warning

A few years ago when Henry Mason of Campbell avenue objected to high tension wires through Belleville as dangerous to increased flying hereabouts, somebody said he was crazy, the wires would never interfere with flying.

Last week's accident out over the meadows when occupants of a plane are said to have been instantly killed when a plane crashed into such wires was cause this week for Mr. Mason to reflect on his prediction. He wanted the tension wires in Belleville placed under ground.

Masonic Temple
Wednesday

A reception and dance will be given Everett A. Hicks, Sr., candidate for Town Commissioner, at Masonic Temple, Wednesday evening at 8:30. Prominent entertainers have been engaged.

George Cole of Belleville will render songs and "Billy" Hall's Country Club Orchestra will play.

Mr. Hicks and other prominent townspeople will speak. There may possibly be an out of town speaker, as well.

An invitation is extended to all to attend.

Friday night thirty of the forty-four executive members working in Mr. Hicks' behalf and representing each district in town attended a meeting in the candidate's home. Great enthusiasm was shown.

Mr. Hicks, who stands first, last and always for Belleville, spoke briefly.

Spring Moves Not
So Great Phone
Company Finds

Jerseyites are going to sit in larger numbers this Spring than last to watch the other fellow move, telephone moving orders received to date by the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company indicate. A comparison of orders filed now with the number on hand at the same time in 1929, indicates about a 30 percent drop in the number of moves. It is estimated that approximately 7,000 New Jersey telephones will be moved about the first of the month. Last year the number was about 9,500.

Although it is practically certain that there will be a general decrease in moving activities in the state, it is anticipated that the annual deluge of moving orders will call for the mobilization of all available installation forces in order that telephone transfers can be made without delays. Installers are preparing to work after hours, evenings if needed, Saturday afternoon and Sunday. Each move not only requires the transferring of equipment on the subscribers' premises but it also makes necessary a readjustment of central office equipment. The telephone moving will be done by appointment and subscribers are placing their orders in advance in order that there will be no unwarranted delays or disappointments.

To Provide Better Audition
For Talkies

The management of the Capitol Theatre have completed plans for the refurnishing of the theater. The entire house will be redecorated from the street to the stage in attractive colors. New carpets will be laid in the foyer, rear and aisles.

A new sound treatment on the walls will be covered with red and gold tapestry covering, also new draperies throughout the house. Experts have been engaged and have already made a survey to install a new ventilating system which will be the latest and best obtainable.

With these improvements Warner Brothers Capitol Theatre will be among the best houses for towns of the size of Belleville and one which will be a credit to the town.

Keiser Absent At
Junior Order Meeting
For Candidates

Twelve of the thirteen candidates for the Town Commission election May 13 spoke at a public meeting sponsored by the Jr. O. U. A. M., at the Belleville Masonic Temple on Tuesday night. The chairman, Robert Tyler, lodge counselor, regretted being unable to reach Forrest P. Keiser, the missing candidate, prior to the meeting. About 150 were present.

The candidates, in the order of their introduction, spoke in part as follows:

Paul J. H. Hollberg, former School Board member and chairman of its building and grounds committee, stressed the necessity of keeping politics out of the school system.

Walter Mathes, a resident of Belleville more than thirty years, briefly announced his intention to render service to the people. His father was formerly town clerk.

Commissioner Frank J. Carragher echoed the sentiment that "once you get politics into schools it's goodbye schools."

Everett A. Hicks Sr., forty years a Belleville Plumber, described incidents of his campaigning and claimed to know the needs of "the man in the street."

James L. Davidson, town tax assessor, described his present post as a "buffer" between the commission and the people.

Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy said the present board had displayed economy in expenditures, with a forty-four-point decrease to show for it.

POLICE PROBE
MYSTERY SHOTJersey City Man Found With Bullet In Right
Leg

Police are investigating a mystery surrounding the shooting Tuesday night of Joseph De Luci, 24, of 23 Broom street, Jersey City, in Belmont avenue, Silver Lake.

De Luci was walking along Belmont avenue when he suddenly felt a sting in his right leg, above the knee. He fell to the pavement and was taken to Newark General Hospital by four passing motorists, Gus Labby, Louis Corsi, both of 49 Belmont avenue, Samuel Marra, 127 Heckel street, all of Belleville, and Peter Travisono, 478 North Twelfth street, Newark.

Patrolman Gilman reported the shooting, details of which have it that De Luci had been driven to Bloomfield and Belmont avenue by a girl whose name De Luci will not divulge. He then left the car and walked in Belmont avenue intending to go to a nearby poolroom.

Police Sergeant Sullivan and Patrolmen Nourse who were detailed to the case found no other data.

'Depend On Davidson'
Is Slogan AdoptedThere Will Be Raising Of
Flag At Headquarters
Saturday

The James L. Davidson campaign is well under way with the establishment of official headquarters at the corner of Washington avenue and Essex street. Mr. Davidson's campaign manager, Frank L. Boyd, expressed his appreciation of the support given Mr. Davidson by a group who met at the headquarters on Tuesday evening.

Outlining his platform briefly, Mr. Davidson emphasized the following: Impartial Assessment — Equalization is the only fair basis of taxation. If the man responsible for proper functioning of the Department of Revenue and Finance favors one taxpayer, he is doing an injustice to every other tax payer in town.

Progress with Economy — Certainly progress should be in keeping with the town's revenue. It would be poor business, indeed, to withhold desirable progressive programs but poorer business to burden the town beyond our ability to pay. Acquiring improvements in proportion to our ratables will make for stabilized finance.

Dependable Service — Honest and efficient service. Voters have a right to expect promises made before election to be fulfilled; therefore I will make no promises except the one to render the most efficient and honest service within my power.

Logical Financing — I am opposed to financing over a period of twenty years for improvements which will be worn out within five or ten. It is not good business. Some one must pay and long time financing for short time projects places the burden unfairly.

Ample playgrounds for Children — By this I mean that there is sufficient exempt ground in the Town of Belleville to provide ample space for children in all sections of the town. It is not necessary to purchase additional play ground space when ground is available without expense.

Mr. Davidson is forty-five years old. He has been a resident of Belleville for twenty-two years during which time he has been in the building and real estate business as a partner of Joseph M. King, present Freeholder of Essex County. Mr. Davidson is a member of the Masonic Fraternity, Odd Fellows, President of the Board of Trustees of Fewsmith Church, Director of the Home Building and Loan Association, charter member of the Belleville Athletic Club and Belleville Rod and Gun Club. He was formerly a member of the Zoning Board and was appointed Tax Assessor in September, 1929.

MY STEWARDSHIP - - WATER

by- FRANK J. CARRAGHER

I promised an account of my stewardship to every man and woman who goes to the polls on May 13 to select his or her choice to run this Town for the next four years. Herewith I give you an introductory resume of my conduct as Director of Public Works for ten months, from May 1926, to March, the following year. I will deal specifically with the Water Department or rather certain phases of it.

If common sense had been applied, streets in process of paving would have been graded first. As a result of loose methods, trenches were dug through high banks, pipes laid, trenches refilled and then the banks graded off. You can imagine, Mr. Average Citizen, how uneconomical and impractical this proposition was. If the banks had been removed to normal level first, six to ten feet of digging above level and filling would have been eliminated and the pipes would have been laid at the proper level four feet instead of in some instances only fourteen and eighteen inches below the grade surface. I insist, my personal supervision of construction saved the Town considerable money and the Water Department useless leaks of all kinds.

Our Town Yard was a storehouse for water fittings I knew would not be used for years to come and some would never be used. I abolished the double carting problem. The material formerly was delivered to the Town Yard and then the job. In other words, we paid as we went, using the material as required and eliminating duplicated expense. An example of this inefficient method lies in the fact that two carloads of material ordered before I assumed responsibility for the direction of this Department, through diplomacy I was able to cancel one of these cars but found obligations in the way over which I had no control, made the delivery of the other car mandatory.

Bills arrived for lead pipe at seventeen and one-half cents a pound. I refused to O. K. them on the ground that we were five cents per pound overcharged. In one instance I received a credit for my complaint for $64.10 on a bill of $224.35. In other words a saving of twenty-seven per cent. I am unable at this time to properly estimate the losses of these items previous to my taking over the Department, but I can account for thousands of dollars in this direction that have been saved as a result of my insistence of Belleville paying market prices.

There were one hundred water gates not specified in the plans on record in the Town Hall. The function of a gate is to turn off water in the event of a break or raise the pressure in the event of a fire, an illustration in question is an episode in the Belwood Park section where I was summoned one night personally and saw hundreds and hundreds of gallons of water gushing over the highways while we were trying to locate the position of the gate. This condition has been corrected as far as I have been able to ascertain. I estimated in 1926 that waste for leaks amounted to ten thousand dollars. Engineers claimed one leak had been flowing for four years.

March 28th, 1927.

Mr. Frank J. Carragher, Director,
Department of Public Improvements,
Belleville, New Jersey.

Dear Mr. Carragher:

We were pleased to receive your letter of March 25, wherein you inquire as to the service we have received from the Water Department of the Town of Belleville.

In regard to this we would say that this Department has given us the best service ever since we have been located in the Town of Belleville, and particularly so since we have been located in our new plant at 323 Cortlandt Street.

Only a short time ago we had some trouble with the leakage of old connections in the front of our property and upon reporting same they were immediately attended to, for which we thank you.

We frankly believe that this particular Department has done all that is possible in order to assure us of continued service at all times.

We deeply appreciate your interest in same and remain,

Sincerely Yours,
THOMSON MACHINE COMPANY

President.

ETP/AEC

In the reading of water meters, system was absent. Field books were lost. As a result of this intolerable situation I insisted that the meters be read once a month by competent men and that copies of the same be placed in the Town Hall in order that records would be verifiable and available from more than one source. I am sure my methods were businesslike for they produced favorable comment from citizens and industrial plants in this Town. The achievements under my direction in this Department were favorably commented upon with written testimonials by the following manufacturers:

WALLACE & TIERNAN
FEDERAL LEATHER COMPANY
LYON STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY
HANLON & GOODMAN & COMPANY
GAYROD CORPORATION
WESTINGHOUSE LAMP COMPANY
NAPIER HAT MANUFACTURING COMPANY
COLONIAL LAUNDRY
VAN CRULLER COMPANY
L. SONNEBORN & SONS
A. M. LEACOCK CO.
EASTWOOD WIRE MANUFACTURING CO.
RARE METAL PRODUCTS COMPANY

An example of these letters came from the Thomson Machine Co. I quote it in full to indicate the spirit that generalized the entire correspondence which many citizens, too numerous to mention concurred in.

I insisted upon the personnel of the Water Department being ever conscious that we were all working together for the citizens—that consideration, courtesy, patience, kindness, explanatory obligations were always essential. I received cooperation in the fullest measure along this line from the majority in the Department. I always feel glad to have had the opportunity to direct this Department for as a result of my association with it, economy, efficiency and results have been of permanent good to those who carry the burden of keeping this commodity ace high.

This is my record. No man can deviate from it. Copies of these statements are found in the official minutes and in the bills that have been paid by the Director of Revenue and Finance. I cannot challenge anyone to contradict them because I have too much respect for the good sense of anyone who might propose to try.

I will continue this supplement next week by giving you an account along other lines in order to have you know that I have kept my word in giving you one hundred cents in value for every dollar I spent belonging to you. I propose a continuation of this policy and I know my proposal will meet with approval.

Paid for by Joseph Carragher, Campaign Manager.

BELLEVILLE HIGH PLAYS WOODROW WILSON

A large crowd is expected on Saturday afternoon at Clearman field to witness the Belleville High School squad play their second game of the season against the scrappy Woodrow Wilson High nine of Weehawken. This tilt will inaugurate a Saturday game schedule for the local high school team that will continue in almost unbroken succession through the first week of June.

Jerry Bonavita, who, with Casale, is rated as regular hurler, will in all probability take the mound against the Weehawken outfit and is expected to make a good job of it. In two previous seasons of high school ball Bonavita has piled up an imposing total of four straight wins against Woodrow Wilson and he is expected to make it five in a row Saturday.

"Turk" Byrnes, who has been playing a "whale" of a game in practice, will receive Bonavita's slants, with "Dutch" King appearing in the role of alternate.

The starting infield will be made up of either Paul Schiewer or Dave Aker at first, Nick DeJura guarding the second base, the ever reliable "Mac" Lamb at the shortfield berth and Joe Chrystell cavorting around the "hot corner." Reynolds Golden will be ready to rush into any breach that may appear in the regular cast.

Two of the three outfield assignments will be able taken care of by Nick Bonavita in left and Eddie O'Neil at center. The remaining post is more or less of an open proposition with Schiewer, Riccio and Aker all ready and fit for duty.

During the last few weeks of practice Coach McBride has developed a pair of pitchers, who may prove handy during the coming campaign as relief hurlers or even in the role of starters.

These mound artists are Boschman, a freshman who has all the earmarks of a real comer as a pecker, and Catalano, who possesses a sharp-breaking hook, which coupled with fair to middling control, has him stand out as a real prospect.

The team taken collectively shapes up as a well-drilled snappy bunch of players and should give any high school team a real battle. They will be on their toes especially tomorrow afternoon to continue the Indian sign they have over Weehawken before a large audience that is expected to be on hand.

DR. C. E. VAIL OF MIRAJ, INDIA, SPEAKER AT MEN'S CLUB, MAY 13

Members of Fewsmith Men's Club are elated over securing Dr. C. E. Vail of Miraj, India, to speak at their meeting on Tuesday evening, May 13. Dr. Vail is famous for his work among the lepers in Miraj. He is President of the American Presbyterian Hospital Medical and Leprosy Relief Association.

F. G. Stimson will be in charge of the meeting. Mr. Stimson has arranged for election returns to be posted from time to time during the evening in order that the progress of candidates may be followed.

Ladies are invited to attend this meeting and hear Dr. Vail tell of his work among the afflicted of India. Fewsmith is one of the few groups to be honored by Dr. Vail as he has spoken before only two other church organizations during this trip to America.

Woman's Mission Starts Sunday At St. Peter's—Second Week For Men

The promised spiritual and literary treat by the Fathers of the Apostolate Band of New York City, will be introduced next Sunday and will continue for two weeks. The first week will be reserved for the men. The missions are at St. Peter's.

The time of Mission is consecrated to the spiritual good of the people, anxious for advancement spiritually, incidentally, conducive to literary enjoyment, because the priests assigned the Mission are especially trained in things literary and spiritual. At the several masses next Sunday the Fathers will be introduced and personally present the program of Mission activities.

It is the desires of the Fathers of St. Peter's to have all members of the parish to make the spiritual retreat—the Mission—realizing the personal and community advantage gleaned.

The spirit of fair-play in the town permits the visiting priests to invite non-Catholic friends to attend, with the assurance of justice and appreciation for the guests. The sense of security, so much desired, and the ideal of perpetuity of Government, much more wished for, is substantially predicated upon the tone and practice of morality, in a great measure the result of recollection suggested by the voice of conscience, actuated by the voice of those carrying the commandments of God for inspection and fulfillment.

'Depend On Davidson' Is Slogan Adopted

Heve him well qualified to carry out the duties of a town commissioner. Among his supporters is the present Commissioner of Revenue and Finance, Mr. James Gibson. Mr. Gibson is not seeking re-election owing to pressure of business and ill health. The trite expression "Actions speak louder than words" has been applied to Mr. Davidson by those who know him best and many have said that his slogan "Depend on Davidson" is characteristic of his capabilities, being a campaign slogan as well.

At 3:30 Saturday afternoon there will be a flag raising with appropriate ceremonies at Mr. Davidson's headquarters. Speakers and music will provide an interesting afternoon which will mark the beginning of an intensive campaign throughout the town. Citizens are invited to visit the headquarters any time during the afternoon and evening on Saturday.

KIDDIE-CARRAGHER PARTY SET FOR CAPITOL THEATRE TOMORROW

The management of the Capitol Theatre in conjunction with Commissioner Carragher have arranged a special Kiddie show at the Theatre on Saturday morning from 9:30 to 10:30. This performance is primarily for the Orphans of the town and those children who would not otherwise be able to go to the movies.

The commissioner will be the host to every boy and girl in Belleville who cares to come to this little informal party. A Mickey Mouse feature will be screened and radio stars of prominence will entertain. Peanuts, hats and souvenirs will be part and parcel of the fun. Every boy and girl under fifteen years of age is invited.

Tickets will be distributed at the theatre from 3 to 6 p. m. today and at the Commissioner's home, 22 Cortlandt street, from 7 to 8 p. m. tonight.

The following is the official invitation from the Commissioner: "To the Boys and Girls of Belleville: Greetings. For some time I have wanted to have you as my guests to see the real kid talkies of Hollywood. I am counting on you, therefore, to be present next Saturday morning at 9:30 at the Capitol. We will provide everything to make the morning a memorable day. Until then, sincerely yours, FRANK J. CARRAGHER

INDIFFERENT PROSECUTION IS BLAMED FOR LOW AUTOMOBILE INDICTMENTS

"Indifferent prosecution" is blamed by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, Harold G. Hoffman, for the low percentage of indictments in automobile manslaughter cases in the State of New Jersey.

In a letter to the Commissioner, A. Edmund Williamson, Executive Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and Civics of the Oranges and Maplewood, stated that the Safety Committee of that organization were of the opinion that it would be advantageous if an enactment were undertaken to define automobile manslaughter and automobile assault and battery, with appropriate penalties, so as to make punishment for those crimes enforceable from a practical standpoint, and to segregate them entirely from the charge stead Act would result in lower taxes and would morally benefit the people.

William H. Williams, zoning board member, anticipated substantial progress of the town in the next four years and said the imperative need was for men of vision to plan development.

Elmer Hyde declared any man who attempted to use the public school system for his own advancement dug his political grave.

Samuel Figuerelli, former recorder, who attended the meeting at the close of his mass-meeting at the Elks Club, said briefly he believed a man of legal knowledge would be an asset to the town.

Interchange Of Electrical Energy Effected By Two Big Concerns

Interconnection has been completed between the electric systems of Public Service Electric and Gas Company and New Jersey Power and Light Company enabling an exchange of electric energy between the two companies an insuring continuous service in face of any emergency.

The interconnection was made possible by the construction of seven miles of steel tower transmission line extending from the Roseland Switching Station of Public Service to the West Wharton substation of the New Jersey Power and Light Company. At Roseland the line is connected, by means of transformers with a capacity of 45,000 kilowatts, to the Public Service transmission system.

The primary purpose of this line is to permit one company to render assistance to the other in event of breakdowns in transmission lines or generating stations, thus preventing interruptions in service to customers of either company. The interconnection will also result in economy of operation of generating stations. It is probable, also, that through the connections of New Jersey Power and Light with hydro-electric plants in New York State that a certain amount of additional energy will be made possible to Public Service if and when needed.

THE GARDEN-PARTY FROCK

All the picturesque charm that the fashion law allows a young woman of to-day — which is considerable — has been incorporated into this summer frock. The molded bodice crosses over in surplice effect with a beautifully scalloped cape-collar, which ties at the left side in a streaming bow. And the full, gathered skirt shirred at the waist, reaches a length that seems to have been especially created for it. This would be lovely in any number of materials — printed, voile, printed cotton net, batiste, organdie. The pattern also provides for uneven hemline. Excella Pattern No. 3154, Sizes 12 to 40, 25 cents.

Phone Men Make Short Work Of Job On Number Changes

Telephone men changing number cards on telephones here, in preparation for the modified number plan to go into effect in June, are making short work of the job.

About the only difficulty the force of installers has encountered, according to C. R. O'Neill, manager for the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, is that some of the men are evidently being taken for salesmen when they appear at the door, and their knocks on the door and ringing of doorbells goes unanswered on that account. The radio running full blast inside is often a convincing indication that someone really is home.

"When our installers have to make more than one trip to change the cards on a telephone, the proceedings are slowed up just that much," Mr. O'Neill said today, "and sometimes involves having our business office call the subscriber to arrange for an appointment for the installer. But the seven men who are doing the work here are keeping up to schedule despite setback like that. They have changed the cards on 997 telephones so far, of the total 3,695 in the district, and expect to finish up April 28."

Figurelli Takes No Chance On Papers So He Reads Speech

Former Recorder Samuel Figurelli addressed between 400 and 500 at Elks' Home, Tuesday evening, reading a speech, something he had "never done before" because the newspapers are not so hot, so to speak.

"Of course, we must not be unmindful of the fact that what a newspaper prints is simply the thought of the one person who inserts the particular article and who more or less is partial. This is done for reasons of his own. I am glad to say that all papers are not alike."

He criticized the Mayor for getting on the Second River Joint Meeting at $25 a meeting, told that the board had paid for some kegs of damaged nails and had not tried to have the nails refinished nor had the board received the nails after paying the bill. Further, he shot at the Vermeule proposition in that about $8,000 was all the town had recovered.

"My Bell Rang!"

You've been disappointed, too, when you've answered the telephone and found no one on the line. Whoever called you hung up before you reached your telephone, and when he did that the connection was taken down and there was no way for us to tell you where the call came from. This happens 16,000 times a day in New Jersey.

You can improve your service quite a lot by answering as promptly as you can, and by giving the person you call time enough to answer.

Incidentally...

With an extension telephone handy in the upstairs hall, or perhaps in the bedroom, you can answer much more quickly, for you save all that running around to get to the main telephone.

LONE SCOUT WINS SCHOLARSHIP FOR JOURNALISM AND PRINTING

Otis H. Chidester, Publisher Of Two Country Newspapers To Continue Studies At Buffalo State Teachers' College

Otis H. Chidester, lone scout, and editor of the Windsor Standard and the Harpursville-Nineveh Standard, Southern New York State newspapers, has been notified by the New York State Department of Education at Albany that he has been awarded a $1,000 scholarship in Journalism and Technical Printing at the Buffalo State Teachers' College. The scholarship is given for outstanding work in Journalism and Printing over a period of five years previous to its being awarded.

Chidester was recommended for the scholarship by the principal of the Binghamton Central High School from which he was graduated in 1924.

With other recommended students Chidester was given a rigid examination and those who obtained excellent standings were interviewed by a committee from the State Department of Education, who selected the winners.

On graduating from the course at the State Teachers' College, Chidester will be given a life certificate to teach Journalism and Printing in the High School of the state. Mr. Chidester graduated from the Laurel Hill Academy of Susquehanna, Pa., in the class of 1923 and was a post-graduate of Binghamton Central High School, class of 1924.

PREPAREDNESS

The story of a Scout Troop that did not take part in the Anniversary Week ceremonies of the Boy Scouts of America and could not re-commit themselves to the Scout Oath and Law on the evening of February 8, because they were making a practical application of the things that they had learned in Scouting, has recently come to the National Office of the Boy Scouts of America. These Scouts, of Troop No. 76, of Standardville, Utah, while their brother Scouts were repeating the words of the Scout Oath and Law in other parts of the country, were working with the rescue squad in helping to rescue a group of miners caught in the mine at Spring Canyon.

The Salt Lake City Tribune in commenting on the work of this Troop said, "Troop No. 76 is not the largest, but ask any of the men who go under the hills if there are any finer, for the lads have been working 12-hour shifts and here is what they have been doing: Carrying messages to various homes from the company's office, serving as call boys, awakening the resting men who are making up the rescue shifts, visiting homes in which many stricken families require assistance, such as packing water, fuel and wood."

NEW CAMP

A gift of a 70-acre camp site has been made to the Boy Scouts of Wisconsin, N. C. by Herbert Harris of that city. The camp which is now under construction, will be named Camp Charles in honor of the deceased brother of Mr. Harris.

but—you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

And this is one time when the Belleville voters will not be fooled. They are not going to saddle on themselves an expenditure which though warranted and a necessity is just as efficiently handled and in a more economical manner through the efforts of the Mayor and his colleagues by their contacts with Newark Memorial, St. Michael's and St. Gerard's Hospitals of Newark.

In the writer's humble opinion any candidate for office advocating a program of this nature should be catalogued in one of two classes. He is either not aware that the town is getting the service he is advocating at the lowest possible cost in which case he is not up on town affairs. Or he is currying favor for the purpose of getting votes by presenting the proposition in an unfavorable light and not "letting the voters in on" the real facts.

In both of the above cases the candidate is not the proper kind of man for a commissioner in Belleville.

Incidentally this is not political "mud-slinging" but the straightforward statement of a fact as it should be presented.

We are happy to state that thus far the campaign has been free from that nauseating practice commonly referred to as "mud-slinging."

There is very good reason for this. The three board members who are seeking re-election to wit: Waters, Clark and Kenworthy have conducted their administration in such a manner that the average voter would not pay any attention to this practice.

An attempt or rather an advertised attempt which smacked of "slinging" was made in the announcement of the meeting at Elks' Hall on Tuesday night.

The subject of the meeting was labelled "The Other Side of the Story." It really was a misnomer. The writer was present part of the time and to his humble way of thinking there was nothing tangible presented.

It was a brave effort nevertheless, but the subject matter failed to awaken the interest of the four hundred odd people present who were chiefly made up of friends of the administration.

Not a salient was presented which could be construed as injuring the present board.

If anything the candidate made an "impassé" in charging that the same statement and would have been justified in doing so.

In the present day people are thinking in terms of qualifications and names mean little or nothing. America's story of progress lists names of every race, creed and color. No aspersions are cast on a man because of a foreign name.

Indeed the candidate can easily allay his fear that because of his name or race, people will vote against him. The writer is himself the possessor of a foreign name and because of it can feel for the candidate and would undoubtedly give him what little support he could muster. But—and thereby hangs a tale.

We are perfectly willing to wager on the prediction of this paper. It has earned the confidence of all its readers, and the board of commissioners as well.

Nutley's line on the north, from the easterly portion of the town bounded by Passaic of famous by-gone days, to the west where the eye evasions the skyline of the beautiful Orange Hills the clarion call has gone forth to return to office—Waters, Kenworthy and Clark.

And on May 13 that call will be answered in the ballot box with an avalanche of affirmative votes. Too-de-loo until next week.

Capacity Crowd Expected May 3 At Local Dance

Pre-election Affair Of Bell Boys Set For Elks

A capacity crowd is expected at the Belleville Elks' Auditorium on Saturday evening, May 3, the occasion being the pre-election dance by the Bell-Boys' Social Club.

An attractive angle to this affair is that social and political activities will combine to insure an evening of enjoyment for all those who attend.

Practically all of the candidates have announced their intentions of being among those present. This will give the citizens of town an opportunity to offer their well-wishes and support to their respective favorites personally.

The dance promises to be one of the outstanding social events of the season. Music will be furnished by Richardson's Virginia Pals, a group of colored melody-makers, who are rapidly becoming popular in the Metropolitan area.

Court Observes "Weber Night"

General Phil Kearny, F. of A., Held Affair On Wednesday

"Weber Night" was held by Court General Phil Kearny, F. of A., Wednesday night in honor of Grand Chief Ranger Herman Weber of Passaic. There was a delegation from Passaic and a degree team from Court Ironbound of Newark to initiate five candidates.

State officers who attended are: William Jobs of Jersey City, financial secretary; Charles Bill of Newark, grand treasurer, and William McCoy of Belleville, past grand chief ranger. There was entertainment and refreshments.

The committee in charge comprised Jeremiah Lombard, chairman; Fred Noonan, Edward McFadden, Joseph Dolan and Thomas Lally.

Public Service Showed Satisfactory Results During Year Past

In connection with the annual meeting of the stockholders of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, held recently in Newark, President Thomas N. McCarter issued the following statement:

"Notwithstanding the let-down in industry generally toward the close of last year, Public Service Electric and Gas Company operations showed satisfactory results for 1929. In both the gas and electric fields the company is continuing to do exceptionally well, better in fact than seems to be the case in other sections of the country. Demand for electric energy and gas for industrial and domestic purposes is holding up well and the outlook is encouraging.

"As to the transportation end of the business, the company is confronted with a situation which needs adjustment. The transportation problem is one that vitally affects the interests of all New Jersey people and for its solution the co-operation of the State and municipal authorities, as well as those who use the service, is essential. In this way a permanent result founded upon sound and economic lines can be worked out and the problem settled."

The following directors were re-elected for a term of three years: Thomas S. Gates, Garret A. Hobart, Alfred L. Loomis, Thomas N. McCarter and John E. Zimmermann.

Directors of forty-five underlying companies were also re-elected as follows: Samuel T. Bodine, Thomas S. Gates, Alfred L. Loomis, Thomas N. McCarter, Uzal H. McCarter, Landon K. Thorne, Edmund W. Wakelee, Percy S. Young and John E. Zimmermann.

Boy Hurt

One of seven Belleville boys riding in an old, unlicensed automobile in Mill street, Sunday night, suffered a fracture of the right leg and lacerations of the face and head when the car went through a fence at the Belleville Copper Rolling Mills and plunged fifteen feet into a foot of water in Second River. The lad hurt was Raymond Murphy, thirteen, of 20 Smith street. He was taken to St. Michael's Hospital.

Thomas Dunleavy, fifteen, of 10 Smith street was driving the car. Four boys riding on the run-boards leaped when the car hit the fence. The riders, in addition to Murphy and Dunleavy, were Walter, James, and Edward Murphy, brothers, of Raymond; William Cosgrove, fourteen, of 18 Smith street and Francis Connelly, thirteen, of 19 Smith street. Connelly's older brother, Thomas, is owner of the car.

The boys who plunged with the car were hauled out by John Svella and Henry Cobb, colored, of 806 North Sixth street and 46 Somerset street, both of Newark.

The police ambulance was in slight collision with a car driven by F. L. Robinson of 40 Mertz avenue, at Belleville and Union avenues, on the way to the scene of the accident in which the boys figured.

Good Drivers—and Others

THE difference between good and bad driving depends almost entirely on the amount of thought and concentration the driver puts into it.

Almost invariably bad driving is the result of thoughtlessness and inattention. As a rule the new driver is more careful than the experienced one. His inexperience fills him with the full significance of his responsibility and the danger of driving.

On the other hand, the experienced driver becomes careless or, to put it more gently, over-confident of his ability. He or she may display this overconfidence by engaging in conversation or by looking at the scenery while driving. Driving a car requires the full attention of the driver, particularly in these days of heavy traffic.

I don't know why it is, but it seems that I am always running in to the bird who stays in the middle of the road when he should be over to the right. He is the cause of many accidents and should be warned by any well-meaning driver, and certainly by law enforcement officials, that he is a nuisance and a menace. Then there is that other motorist who speeds up to rush across a road just as the light is changing. It would be a real pleasure for me to tell him just exactly what I think of him.

These two examples of bad driving are direct results of thoughtlessness and recklessness and I am making it my duty to stop and talk to this sort of motorist just as a matter of motoring education. In the last year, I have talked to about twenty transgressors of this type and only once has the recipient of my remarks become angry and told me to mind my own business. As it happened, I followed this driver and it was only five miles from where I first encountered him that I found him in the arms (literally) of the law. I took the trouble to add my complaint to those already lodged and I really believe he will be a better driver when he gets his license back.

It is true there is a multiplicity of driving regulations and it is equally true that it is almost impossible for the average individual to keep track of all of them. But rules of common courtesy should not have to be remembered. They should be habitual. Yet if they were observed on American highways, driving conditions would show a vast improvement overnight. And such an improvement would not only net greater peace of mind for all motorists but it would save hundreds of thousands of dollars annually as a result of fewer accidents.

nect Baltimore and Washington, D. C., Dallas, Texas, is surrounding itself with a 40-foot concrete by pass route several miles from the city.

Thirty-five miles of pavement on this Northwest Highway have already been built or let to contract.

Seattle and Tacoma, Washington, will this year be joined for the most part by a "double-barreled" concrete pavement. Down in North Carolina, Charlotte and Gastonia motorists hurry between the two cities over a forty foot pavement seventeen miles long. Relocation, better handling of curves and more space has reduced the motor time between the two cities from one hour and thirty minutes to about thirty-five minutes.

As yet this country need not fear that the building of wide pavements is promiscuous. The traffic volumes between Detroit and Chicago, Chicago and Milwaukee, Dallas and Ft. Worth, Detroit and Toledo, New York and Boston, and elsewhere, certainly warrant forty-foot pavements all the way.

Traffic surveys reveal that almost without exception traffic volumes immediately gain when smooth pavements are built, when parallel roads are paved, and when wide pavements are built or narrow pavements widened. Traffic facilities constructed ten years ago are hopelessly inadequate today. The least that a community can do is to provide wide rights-of-way now, so that if present finances do not permit wide pavement construction there will be room to expand in the future.

So far building wide roads adjacent to cities has not been accomplished at the expense of rural road building. Cities contribute large amounts of money to state road building funds through gasoline taxes and license fees, and in too many instances they have not been getting their just desserts in both road mileage and width.

However, activity throughout the country indicates that only those communities that wholly lack progress will be without comparatively ample traffic conveniences at the end of the next decade.

No Sunday Ball At School Grounds

Sunday use of Belleville school playgrounds was prohibited by resolution of the Board of Education Monday night, due to complaints of residents. Complaint was directed particularly at School No. 5 grounds, which are considered too small for baseball, with the result many windows have been broken in homes. Noise was another factor.

Mrs. Judson K. Stickle, who was welcomed back to the board after spending several months in the South convalescing from illness, voted against the measure because she had not had time to study it.

On request of the Grammar School Athletic Council, the board granted four trophies for winners of senior and junior baseball and volleyball teams.

James J. Turner, business manager, reported Mrs. Marie Wall of Nutley, who resigned last year as teacher, due to ill health, had appealed to the state board for reinstatement, claiming she was forced to resign when refused a leave of absence. Mr. Turner said Assemblyman Homer Zink of Belleville, as reply this week. The board saw no reason to reconsider the resignation.

The resignation of Miss Margaret Shawger, teacher at No. 5 School, effective in June, was accepted. She will teach in Orange High School. Her father, James G. Shawger, is principal of No. 4 School.

The following teachers were appointed: Misses Geraldine Kaufman, Lucille Beatty, Harriet James, Margaret Watters and Rosemarie McKinley. Miss Rose Miller was appointed clerk.

GIVE ATTENTION TO WIDE ROADS

Freedom From Burden Of Traffic Ills Indicated By Current Pavement Progress

At last effective attention is being given to the construction of wide roads and parallel roads. While the movement has just begun, the necessity is fully realized and slowly but surely the motorist in congested areas is being given relief.

For example, Illinois, with rural road construction now well under way, will in the next three years spend $22,500,000 in and near Chicago in road widening, in building 40-foot pavements, and in constructing parallel relief arteries. The Michigan state highway department is now working out a plan with Detroit to widen state routes leading through the city.

A 40-foot pavement will soon con-

Girl Scouts Busy With Easter Rabbit

Filled Fifty Baskets With Candy Eggs And Marshmallows

Miss Edith Binnis and the Girl Scouts were extremely busy helping the Easter Rabbit last week.

They filled fifty baskets with candy eggs, a marshmallow chicken and a cardboard rabbit and turned them over to the Community Service Bureau for children of Belleville.

They also made 180 cards of large eggs of green cardboard, with a downy yellow chicken attached for the children in the Isolation Hospital bearing "Greetings from a Girl Scout." The children there can have no candy.

Patrol 3, of Troop No. 7, presented Local Headquarters with a luncheon set service for six. This makes a very attractive addition to the equipment, and will be appreciated greatly at the next "feed."

Troop No. 4, meeting at Christ Church, presented the Home for Crippled Children in Newark with thirty Easter baskets, each given by a different girl, who fixed it at home. "Some baskets," said a little bird.

There is a new Troop in town. Troop No. 10, which will meet in School No. 10, on Thursday afternoons right after school in the gymnasium. Girls over ten years will be welcomed.

Troop No. 7, recently added a fish globe on a stand to the meeting rooms in local headquarters. Troop No. 6 also presented a large square aquarium. Both will be tenanted very shortly.

The Hostess Class has changed its meeting to Wednesday afternoons. This group under direction of Mrs. Mary T. Holden will hold an outdoor picnic next week. Patricia Hannan, Carrie Burns, Gladys Reyle, are the Committee Members who are planning for this event.

The Girl Scout Council will meet next Thursday evening, May 1, at headquarters, 338 Washington avenue.

Woman's Club Notes

The Exhibition of Creative Art held at the Belleville Woman's Club last Wednesday and Thursday under the direction of Mrs. W. D. Cornish, art chairman, was a most interesting event. Mrs. Lionell Phillips was in charge of the tea room. The exhibition included china painting, hooked rugs, embroidery and a number of many other beautiful articles which were much admired. There was also a poster contest for "Clean Up Week" which was won by William Bennett, a student in the local high school.

The bridge party given at the club house Monday afternoon was one of the largest held this year. The hostesses included Mrs. James R. Irwin, Mrs. A. S. Miller, Mrs. Norman Cooper and Mrs. P. K. Mase. The acting card party chairman was Mrs. J. Harry Hardman.

Monday, April 28, will be given over to the music department, Mrs. LeRoy Bunnell, chairman. Mrs. Bunnell will have as the artists for the afternoon Mrs. Ruth Ludlow Yost, violinist; Muriel Bunnell Dunn, pianist and Marion Struble Stager, contralto. Belleville devotees of beautiful gardens will be interested in the talk to be given by Mrs. Robert E. Rucker, of Hillside, N. J. With such a varied and unusual program a large attendance is anticipated. A cordial invitation is extended to all women of Belleville. Refreshments will be served by the music department, the members of which are Meses. A. S. Blank, Frank Brohal, John B. Brown, E. M. Compton, Dudley Drake, Charles S. Smith, W. Y. Strange, W. H. Stone, J. V. Thetford and George W. Weeks.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Directors at the club house Friday afternoon, May 2, at 2:30. The annual convention of the N. J. State Federation of Woman's Clubs will be held at Atlantic City, May 7, 8, 9, and 10, and the delegates from the local club will be Mrs. R. Clifford Whitfield, president, Mrs. Charles S. Smith, first vice president; Mrs. J. J. Schaffer, second vice president, and Mrs. W. P. Adams, Federation Secretary. Mrs. Charles Kelly, Mrs. Frank Brohal and Mrs. W. H. Williams will also attend.

New.. FEATURES OF THE Ford Truck

One of the first features of the Ford truck to impress you is its rugged strength. At the front end, for example, the special Ford design transverse spring is heavier than formerly, with wider leaves. The new front axle, a chrome-alloy forging, is twice as strong as before. The front radius-rod is heavier, and the king-pins, wheel bearings and thrust bearings are larger.

Likewise, the front brakes have been made stronger, the drum diameter having been increased from 11 to 14 inches, the same as on the rear wheels. This provides a high degree of safety.

A feature of the Ford truck which you will find convenient and economical is the new wheel and tire equipment. Dual rear wheels can be installed at small additional cost. With the dual equipment, balloon tires of one size are used throughout, so that all six steel disc wheels and tires are interchangeable all around. Only one spare wheel and tire need be carried.

Other new features of the Ford truck which add to its reliability and performance are the 4-speed transmission, which gives a wide, flexible range of speed and power, and the new spiral bevel gear rear axle. The axle-shafts are heavier than formerly, and because of the three-quarter floating design of axle construction, they serve only to turn the wheels, without carrying any of the weight of truck or load.

Your Ford dealer will be glad to show you these and many other features which make the Ford truck such a remarkable value.

Grapefruit Must Not Be Cored, The Experts Say

Correct preparation of grapefruit should follow these simple rules.

"THE mangling a grapefruit gets in a cheap restaurant is a sin against a noble vegetable," according to an editorial in a recent issue of the Atlanta Journal. The writer deplored the fact that many persons do not understand how to prepare the fruit so that it may be easily eaten and its fine flavor fully preserved and enjoyed.

A dietitian, agreeing with his diatribe on the desecration of our national eye-opener, offers the following simple rules which, if followed, will lead to greater enjoyment of the fruit.

1. If the fruit is desired cold it should be chilled whole in the refrigerator. Keep it whole in the refrigerator over night. If it is first halved and then kept in the refrigerator to chill, much of its fine flavor and aroma are lost. Never cover the edible part of the grapefruit with ice when serving it.
2. Do not halve the fruit until immediately before it is ready to be eaten.
3. Scoop out seeds without cutting into the membranes, which separate each section of fruit, or into the white pulpy substance at the center.
4. Never core a grapefruit. This not only spoils its appearance, but also its flavor.
5. Do not run a sharp knife between the meat and the outside rind. Loosen the meat in each segment without cutting into the white substance of the membrane, just enough so that it may easily be scooped out with a spoon. After a properly prepared grapefruit is properly eaten a complete skeleton of the halved fruit will remain.

6. Use sugar sparingly. (Incidentally, many grapefruit connoisseurs use a dash of salt and no sugar at all.)

In the preparing of grapefruit the important thing to bear in mind is that the white pithy substance in the rind and in the core, as well as the thin membranes which surround each segment, secrete bitter substances which are released excessively when the fruit is cut in many places. When a grapefruit is mangled or excessively cut up, it is inevitable that the meat will become tinged with these bitter juices. Furthermore, pieces of the bitter pith and membrane adhere to the meat and are taken into the mouth.

These rules are not offered to make a polite art of grapefruit eating but rather to increase the palatability of the fruit. Those who have been accustomed to mangled grapefruit will find new pleasures in the taste of grapefruit if they will observe these simple instructions.

FAVORITE RECIPES OF A FAMOUS CHEF

As Told to Anne Baker
By ROGER CRETAUX, Chef,
The Roosevelt, New York City

Spaghetti Imperial—Heat one fourth cup salad oil in a saucepan. Add two medium-size chopped onions and two tablespoons chopped green peppers. Cook until half tender. Then add one pint canned tomatoes, one teaspoon salt, and one and a half lumps of sugar. Cook slowly until the onions and peppers are done, and the sauce is reduced by about one-third. Have ready one-half pound cooked spaghetti. The spaghetti is cooked by dropping it in rapidly boiling, salted water and cooking until tender. Place the spaghetti in a heated dish. Pour the sauce over it, and grate over the top, two ounces of Parmesan cheese.

Roger Cretaux

Stuffed Cucumbers—Cut three medium-size cucumbers in half lengthwise, and cook until tender in salted water. Scoop out the centers, and fill each half with a mixture consisting of three cups cooked rice, one cup chili sauce, one tablespoon vinegar, one tablespoon sugar, two tablespoons tomato ketchup, one teaspoon paprika, salt and pepper to taste, and one large onion which has been chopped fine and cooked in melted butter. Serve immediately, being sure that the portions are very hot.

Accident Tourney Opens

Odds Up on Sliver-proof Glass Chariots

Milk Fed Pedestrians Bring Good Prices

By E. W. Melson

DOUBLE BREASTED suits of cast iron, lined with chrome soft leather, will be worn by the well dressed motorist this spring. We have had our ear to the ground. Paris advises decreeing knickers will be entirely ignored, if not openly snickered at, by the 26,634,210 car owners who will take the road this spring prepared to avenge dents in the radiator, abrasions of the fender and contusions of the gas tank, suffered in last year's road tourney.

The jousting this year will be very gay and jovial. Cars will be matched by weights, and all collisions will be carefully refereed by cheering spectators, selected for their agility, who will report round by round to the Workmen's Compensation Bureau. No head on gouging will be permitted except by cars equipped with scoter-proof glass and caterpillar tires. Armored tanks are taboo, except by agreement between the contestants. Tanks are too safe for the drivers and last year's accidents from this source were so low as to be laughable.

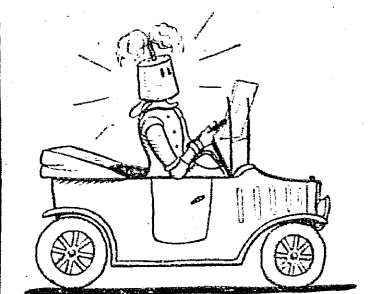

The prizes to be awarded by the casualty companies this year are about the same as last:

Complete Dislocation Right Elbow	$50.00
Partial Fracture Floating Rib	25.00
Well Mashed Toes (Large or Small)	12.50
Shin Bruises from Cranking	8.95
Kicked by Horse	4.75

Bookmakers are quoting heavy odds on cars equipped with shatter-proof glass. In last year's jousting many contestants were unseated by flying slivers. This year, those who are still driving old style cars may obtain asbestos umbrellas from the State Conservation Commission. This umbrella, invented by a Yugoslavian cab driver, will stand a heavy shower of glass and permit its owner to compete with newer jousting cars fitted with splinter-proof glass.

The contest will run from April until October and will be under the auspices of the Adhesive Tape & Plaster Association and the Auto Accessory and Garage Repairmen.

Pedestrians are looking forward with eager anticipation to the yearly festival. Their suits will be made of special alloy. Casualty companies have announced that they will pay $5,000 for the hands and feet of choice, milk fed, pedestrians, or $2,500 for either leg. There will be prizes for all and the winner on points will be given a steel engraving of Mussolini on his horse. Chambers of Commerce are urged to get behind this movement and have a Mardi-Gras in every community.

A RECORD WE ARE PROUD OF

Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy, in seeking reelection to the town commission May 13, has much to offer the town.

Among other things, of having lived up to all his promises of four years ago, the Mayor has carried Belleville's fair name far in National and State affairs.

Let us go back a few years and see what big problems the Mayor has been in. Let us be fair. Here are a few in which the Mayor led:

President of the Board of Trade.

Leader of the Essex Delegation in the State Assembly.

Chairman Motor Vehicle Taxation, State Legislature.

Chairman Special Commission, Tax Relief, State Legislature.

Vice Chairman Second River Joint Meeting.

Chairman Essex County Mayor's Committee.

Member Executive Board New Jersey State League of Municipalities.

The net result is what counts. The Mayor has not been selected for these jobs just because he would take them. There must be some good reason why the Mayor gets this recognition. There must be something about him that commands respect in the county, state and nation. It must be a will to do things. It must be that he serves with ability or he wouldn't get these assignments, time after time.

BACK TO TOLLS

A group of New York promoters is trying to get permission to build a $200,000,000 road from the Bronx to New Haven for the exclusive use of automobiles. With tolls fixed at $1 per person, they believe that the scheme would be profitable—and it would, provided a sufficient number of customers could be induced to see the advantage of such a highway. Twenty million a year would do.

This proposition would probably require the authorization of the Legislatures of New York and Connecticut, for much land would have to be condemned in order to build the road, and the right to collect tolls would have to be granted. This toll feature is harking back to the old days when most good roads charged the people for the use of them. Tolls have been going on the way of the horse for, lo, these many years. But the right given motor car drivers to speed at any rate they choose may revive them.

PATENTS FOR PLANTS

Thomas A. Edison sponsors a pending bill in the Senate to grant patent rights to breeders of new varieties of fruits, flowers, plants or shrubs. Thus plant breeders and experimenters would have the same control over their discoveries as mechanical and chemical inventors now have. Had such a law been in effect during his lifetime Luther Burbank would have died a very rich man.

TALKING ALL ALIKE

Barrett H. Clark, New York critic, has been telling a North Carolina audience that American speech is being too much standardized. Probably Mr. Clark is right in deprecating this. It does take away some of the distinction of localities when the little oddities of pronunciation and accent are all ironed out.

But what can be done about it? The automobile is making everyone travel. The radio breaks down sectional speech. The difference between the talk of the New Englander, the Southerner, and the man from the Middle West are bound to grow less and less. It probably is regrettable, but how can anything so inevitable be halted?

SOME SYSTEM

It is no wonder the Veterans' Bureau in Washington is swamped in red tape. Representative O'Connor of New York told the House the other day that he found, on visiting the Veterans' Bureau, that many of the files on a single case were three feet thick. He intimated that something must be wrong with a system which requires a three-foot file of documents on a single case.

Also, it costs the Veterans' Bureau an average of $200 per case to examine a veteran for compensation, but it costs the Pension Bureau only $10 per case to examine an applicant for a pension.

MINDING HIS OWN BUSINESS

The closing lines of Calvin Coolidge's article in the May Cosmopolitan telling of his year since leaving the Presidency, has the crisp, snappy Coolidge tang. "I should like to be known," he says, "as a former President who tries to mind his own business."

This shows quite conclusively that Mr. Coolidge is done with politics and done with office holding.

All this speculation about his political future has always seemed, to those who know Mr. Coolidge, as utterly futile. In brushing it all aside with the single declaration that he has honors enough, Mr. Coolidge has, we hope, put an end to all this idle gossip. He is out of the political picture and ought to be allowed to live his life according to his own philosophy.

LUCKIER THAN CRUSOE

From Trinidad, the nearest island to Tobago, where Robinson Crusoe lived for so many years, comes a tale that would have seemed startling enough to that most famous of all shipwrecked mariners. Six American sailors starting on a fishing trip from St. Thomas were caught in a gale and blown to an uninhabited island. Two days later they were seen by an aviator sent out to locate them; were given food and drink, and were brought back safely in the airplane. What a fantastic yarn Robinson Crusoe would call that actual story of this age.

Frances—You're the last man I expect to marry.
Irving—How many are ahead of me?

Hutsiniller—Do you tell your wife everything?
Hassenpfeffer—It isn't necessary. She knows everything.

Mose Melonwater went for a ride in an airplane. When he came down he said to the pilot: "Thank yo' boss, fo' dem two rides."

"Two rides?" said the aviator.
"You've only had one!"
"No, sah," exclaimed the negro. "Ah had tow—mah fust and mah last."

Jimie—Grandma, if you'll go to the races with me some day I'll bet on you.
Grandma—Bet on me! Why Jimie, what do you mean?

Jimie—Papa says you can talk faster than a horse can trot.

"The facial features plainly indicate character and disposition," said the knowing one. "In selecting your wife, were you governed by her chin?" he asked.

"No," replied the timid soul, "but I have been ever since we were married."

Myers had a bad day at the office which made him cross and irritable, so he decided to go home early. A friend on the street accosted him. "Where are you going, Myers?"

And Myers savagely replied: "I'm going home, and if my dinner's not ready I'll raise the Old Nick and if it is I won't eat it."

Charles F. Scott, former member of Congress and editor of the Iowa (Kansas) Daily Register, says: "Competition now is between towns rather than between individuals. With an automobile in every home and good roads in every direction, the man on the farm does not say to his family as they get ready for the regular weekly trade trip, 'Let's go to the Brown Store or the Green Store or the Blue Store.' He says, 'Let's go to Square Town or Whoop City or Welcome Center.'"

"And whether they go to the one or the other of these towns will depend very largely upon the impression the family has received through the local newspapers. If the newspaper from one of these towns comes to them every day filled with attractive advertisements in every line of merchandise, and if editorially and in its local department the newspaper is a live wire, creating the impression that something is always going on in that town, there is where the family is going."

"On the other hand, if it is conceivable that a newspaper should go out from any given town day after day without any advertisements at all for a period of six months, grass would be growing in the streets."

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By BOYCE BROGDON

A couple of years ago a nice little blonde came to Broadway from Virginia. Of course, she had her own ideas of Broadway and immediately set out to put them into force. She would show the folk back home what a big star she could be.

After making the rounds, she found, to her sorrow, that there were hundreds, yes, thousands of other pretty blondes looking for work, with probably more Broadway experience than herself. Well, she just wouldn't go home, she'd get along some way. Came a time when she met a nice middle-aged Greek. We'll call him Gus in this little story, for really his name doesn't mean a thing to you. Gus had money, and he had friends, lots of them. Through his friends he landed the little blonde in a swell night club. She became very popular with the younger set immediately.

I forgot to tell you, however, that Gus was a professional gambler. He soon fell madly in love with the little Virginia girl, and showered her with many gifts of fine clothing and many lovely gifts of jewelry.

They were married. Gus quit gambling, that is, to a certain extent. Gus was really and truly in love with her, and was so jealous of her that he would seldom let her out of his sight. He was a good provider and a wonderful husband. He gave her everything that she could want. They had a nice apartment on Riverside Drive, and seemed to be very happy.

Gus went into business for himself, and was forced to work quite late at night. This gave his young bride too much freedom and she began to frequent the dance halls and night clubs. She met a handsome young man who had the usual Broadway line. "Cutie, come with me," said the young man, "and I will place you before the footlights in no time." Such persuasions finally got the best of the small town girl, she was completely swept off her feet. She eloped with the young man.

She finally landed in one of Broadway's largest play-houses, but not, as you may suspect, before the footlights. . . . she is now a scrub-woman.

This country is no good. It's going to the dogs. Not a chance for an honest man to earn a living.

I'm out of a job, and nothing to do. Ever hear that? Well, it's all true—except that—there is less unemployment in the United States than anywhere else in the world.

There ought to be less talk about honesty and more about industry. And the man who's always prattling about no work, ought to be thinking about doing some hard work.

A New York Broadwayite, one of those wise lads who practically invented Manhattan, was showing an outland friend the sights of the hamlet. About three in the morning they dropped in at a night club. As they were imbibing their six-dollar ginger ale the hostess paused at the table and fixed a fishy eye on the urbanite. "Get out of here!" she commanded brusquely. "I don't like you."
"See?" said the New Yorker proudly to his friend. "See? They all know me here."

This story is told in England of the American stenographer at Geneva, who during the big conference approached George Bernard Shaw and asked the famous author for his autograph.
Rather grudgingly G. B. S. said he would rather not.
"Why," demanded the American flapper, "can't you write?"
"No," snapped G. B. S.
"Well, then, just mark an X on the line there," she smiled, whereupon Shaw grinned and signed his name.

THE DELIGHTS OF ESSEX

Essex is a county of England so near to London that no visitor in the city should fail to explore the delights of its countryside. There is Chelmsford, first inhabited by the Romans; Chigwell, the scene of Dickens' "Barnaby Rudge;" Colchester with its fine Roman remains and famous Oyster Feast; Epping Forest whose glades of gnarled oaks are haunted with old legends; Greenstead's old log church where rested the body of St. Edmund in 1013; Thaxted's "Cathedral of Essex," and Waltham's Abbey of Norman days. One writer has said, "Ruined abbeys with interest for the antiquary romantic homes, many of them moated still; old coaching hostleries where in our forefathers made merry; old-fashioned and oddly-built towns, and pleasant pastoral scenes varied by wind-swept heaths and gorse-sprinkled commons." This is Essex.

THE CENTER OF PARIS

Why does such a large proportion of the population of Paris spend its leisure hours along the quays that border the Seine? People wander among the book-stalls looking for old prints and rare volumes; they stand leaning over the parapet to watch the indefatigable fisherman who never catches anything; they look on at any construction work going on, and see the barges of great wine casks being unloaded opposite the Vase Market. The Seine is indeed the center of Paris, and visitors are wise when they follow the Parisians in enjoying its varied sights.

VIEWS OF WILD WALES

One of Europe's most enchanting motor trips is in wild Wales. Go from Llandudno County or Deganwy through Trefriw and Llandwst to Bettws-y-Coed, thence along the Holyhead road past the Swallow Falls and Capel Curig, under the heights of Tryfan to the gorge of Nant Ffrancon. Of the views at Deganwy somebody said, "If I were doomed to spend the rest of my life behind a single window, I would have that window in breezy, sunny Deganwy." Trefriw Spa not only has the richest sulphur-iron springs known, but at the junction of the Crafant and Conway valleys, it has a perfect combination of mountain, lake, river, and woodland scenery. At Bettws-y-Coed, of course, we have an artist's paradise which is often called "the prettiest village in Europe."

A PICTURE OF DALECARLIA

Sweden has much to offer its visitors, but its most beautiful gift is a trip to Dalecarlia. Picture it if you can. Rosy-cheeked country lassies and merry swains, gorgeously arrayed in costumes of traditional design, dancing the picturesque folk dances on the village greens to the plaintive music of violins and accordions. Children tumbling in daisy fields between groves of shining birches. Red cottages trimmed in white; herds of goats and cows trailing into ancient barnyards; quaintly curved boats rippling the surface of the lake; and deep in the pine woods the glowing "heaps" of the charcoal burners. This is Dalecarlia.

THE ROADS OF SPAIN

Spain is a tempting country for the motorist. There are to be found hundreds of miles of beautiful roads rivaling any in Europe, and always there are new highways under construction. And such road building! Over wide hot plains and difficult mountain passes and following precipitous rivers they are smooth and broad and made to last forever. What if it is necessary to pass a hay cart drawn lazily by four mules in tandem? It is not necessary to waken the driver from his nap, for al-

Commissioner Carragher has no college degrees, but he has an abundance of good, common sense, together with an alert and active mind, and when he knows he is right, he will move heaven and earth to reach his objective.

His courage has been tried many times and never found lacking. He seems to thrive and grow younger campaigning in the interests of justice, and the more obstacles thrown in his way the harder he fights. We all know he can stick by his guns no matter how hot, furious or heartbreaking the fight may get.

Carragher by his honesty, sincerity, sympathy, capability, common sense and courage has become Belleville's grand old man. He has so endeared himself to the people that every one seems to feel a little tug at their heartstrings for him.

This is probably the last campaign this old gentleman will wage in politics. He has given the best years of his life in the service of the people. Let us all rise up and carve a final glorious indentation on his career by sending him back to the field of battle high man again. When we have called on Carragher he has never deserted us. Let it not be said that when Carragher called on us May 13, in the year of our Lord, 1930, we were found wanting.

Party For Clark Opens Campaign

The campaign of William D. Clark, director of public safety, for re-election to the town commission on May 13 was launched Friday night with a surprise party by a group of about thirty friends. The party was held at Mr. Clark's house, 121 Floyd street, and the report of a committee which had completed a house-to-house canvass was received.

Jack Rainee was named as campaign manager for Mr. Clark, and it was decided to open the campaign formally Saturday.

could afford to live there.

"I am as much concerned as any in the progress of our town, but feel its development should come in a steady, normal manner, at all times in keeping with finances available. Such a growth has been experienced during the past four years, through sound, careful and conservative management.

"However, I am just as much concerned in reducing our taxes as in continuing progress and have reason to believe that this can be done.

"In the town of Belleville we have a total area of slightly over two thousand acres, but of this total acreage, one eighth is exempt from taxation.

"During the past few years the County of Essex has acquired over two hundred and fifty acres of land for county purpose. We have within the boundaries of our town not only an Isolation Hospital, but a public golf course, spreading over an area of one hundred eighty-five acres. Then we have our County Park and the property acquired for a Boulevard along the Second and Passaic Rivers. I offer no objections to the tax exemption of Park Property, as parks are largely enjoyed by local residents.

"But the Soho Hospital and the County Golf Course offer their facilities to twenty-one other municipalities, and I feel that these municipalities should in part reimburse Belleville for the loss of closed to one million dollars in rates. This loss of rates has caused several points increase in our tax rate over the past few years.

I feel we are especially entitled to some relief from the County for the loss of that land acquired by the Park Commission for a Golf Course, for not only are all residents of Essex County permitted to play, but golfers from any other section may enjoy its pleasures.

And let me say right here, that while the hospital facilities are offered free to Essex County residents a fee is charged for the use of the golf course, and players from outside the county, pay double the amount charged Essex golfers.

"Many thousands of dollars go into the coffers of the Park Commission during the season, and not one cent comes back to our municipality.

"We offer to these County Properties fire and police protection and the use of our roads in the same measure as enjoyed by the local taxpayer who is paying the bill, while the rest of Essex County is on the free list at our expense.

"I maintain that, inasmuch as the golf course is used for revenue raising purposes, the Park Commission should be obliged to pay taxes in some form to our municipality.

"The thought of a rebate to the municipality is not new, as such a plan is already in force in Hudson County, where Secaucus receives many thousand dollars each year from the county to offset loss of rates through the acquiring of much land for county institutions. In Essex County, Cedar Grove each year receives a substantial rebate, to offset her losses from the same source.

"What is fair to these towns is fair to Belleville, and if re-elected to the office of commissioner in the coming election, I shall attempt to interest all other municipalities in the state with a like situation, to the end, that proper amendments may be offered the Legislature next year, so that this unfair burden may be lifted from the shoulders of the municipal taxpayer.

A Big Help
"And speaking of State Government, I desire at this time to offer public praise to Governor Larson, who has just appropriated $40,000 for the use of municipalities in engaging experts to represent us in the coming hearing on the proposed increase in fares by the Public Service Coordinated Transport.

"And while it is much easier to have some one else say nice things about you, may I at this time inform Belleville taxpayers that this was made possible through the suggestion of your Mayor at the last meeting of the Executive Board of the New Jersey State League of Municipalities. Your Mayor pointed out that in years past, it had been the practice of Newark, Irvington, Jersey City, Belleville and a few other municipalities to pay for such services in various hearings before the Public Utility Commission, while close to three hundred municipalities enjoyed whatever benefits we received.

"Your Mayor moved that a committee appear before the Joint Conference Committee and the Governor and demand that the State pay for expert testimony in the future. This was done, with the result that Governor Larson saw the justice of such demand and immediately appropriated $40,000. Thank you, Governor.

"And I am sure you Belleville people feel some little credit is due your Mayor. And as blushes cannot be noticed over the air, I might remind you Bellevillites, that this is your Mayor speaking.

In the heat of the campaign I am not losing sight of the duties of my office, and if Belleville folks see little of me during the contest, it is because I am attempting not only to conduct a Campaign for re-election, but at the same time giving as much time as possible to the duties which are already mine.

"Next Sunday I shall again go on the air at the same hour and shall attempt to discuss municipal problems not only of interest to Belleville, but to most cities in the State.

"The boss here has been most generous in permitting me to exceed my time, and as a tip to my friendly enemies, in the event you decide to take advantage of the possibilities of broadcasting, don't forget to say a kindly word for the station over which you may be speaking. I thank you.

Good-bye Stained Teeth

New Safe Treatment Bleaches Dark Teeth in Three Minutes

Dentists have discovered a new safe treatment which bleaches stains from teeth, giving yellow discolored teeth a beautiful blushing whiteness. It is called Bleachodent Combination, and consists of a remarkable liquid which cures or softens the stains, and a new kind of paste, which instantly removes the softened stains, and prevents new stains from forming. Simply brush the teeth with a few drops of the liquid—then use the paste—and even the duldest teeth are quickly whitened. Tobacco stains disappear after first few applications. Bleachodent Combination was first made for children's teeth to avoid the use of harsh gritty pastes which are so harmful to children's soft sensitive teeth. While Bleachodent Combination will instantly remove surface stains, do not expect it to remove stains caused by silver fillings, as these are below the enamel, and Bleachodent Combination is not intended to act on the enamel in any way. Fine for the gums. Bleachodent Combination is widely used and recommended. Costs just a few cents, and money back if not delighted. Get it today at all good dealers, such as:

CARRAGHER BOOSTER

Editor The News:

Might I seek the use of your publication to express my opinion regarding the candidacy of Director Frank J. Carragher for re-election to the Belleville Commission.

I have discussed with a wide range of our citizens the chief topic of the day—the coming municipal election. There seems to be a great assortment of tickets and line-ups, but every one has Carragher on it. This man seems to have an almost uncanny grip on the heartstrings of the people. A grip cemented so strongly that no force, power, politics, or what have you can weaken. There are many reasons advanced by the voters who are choosing him, and I think any of them are sufficient unto itself.

Carragher is sincere. His whole make-up is one of sincerity. He will not stand for any "Tom-follery," and if he says a thing, you can depend on it. He may not always agree with you, but if he thinks you are being wronged in any way, or that your cause is a just one, he will go to the front and fight in your interests. He takes everyone's troubles unto himself and makes them his own. I know of no man who is as easily approached as Commissioner Carragher. He stops and talks to everyone on the streets; even the little children take their difficulties to him. If there is a problem bothering any citizen he goes to 22 Cortlandt street with it. If the family happens to be at dinner, then you must sit down first and have a cup of tea. The whole family make you feel so at home, and the Commissioner is so sympathetic that you just unburden your troubles to him. His greeting seems to be when you meet him there not "how are you" or "hello," but rather, "what can I do for you?" High hats are conspicuous by their absence, and there is a prevailing air of ease and hospitality.

Regrets Passing Of Historic Hotel

Vincent Walsh Thinks The Town Should Have Acted

130 Hornblower avenue, Belleville, April, 1930.

Editor The News:

May I ask permission to use a space in your columns, in order that I might express the enclosed message to the people of Belleville. It is entitled "A Road and an Industry Removes a Famous Historic Shrine."

It is with the most bitter surprise for me to learn of the destructive removal of the Belleville Hotel or properly called the Van Cortlandt's Mansion. I was always under the impression that the Belleville people were a lover of their historic places which are greater than all the others in New Jersey.

Apparently it seems not so, since they are seeing and having their most historic of all Belleville's and

New Jersey's shrines destroyed. Must it thus be so?

The removal and the destruction of the Belleville Hotel should arouse every citizen of Belleville. The effects of the loss of the first and the oldest historical building in Belleville will be keenly felt as the years go on. The loss of this valuable historic shrine will be acutely felt by the residents of our town, as well as by all throughout New Jersey.

The result of the razing of this historic building will also be noticeable. It signifies the robbing of Belleville of the greatest and of the most important shrine of history that she will ever contain. Not only that but as time goes on, since no means were taken to save this building, there will no historic buildings in our town, for the simple reason that if this famous historical shrine, the Belleville Hotel, is being destroyed what chances will there be to preserve the other historic buildings which have not one fifth of the historic value or interest of the Belleville Hotel? Therefore, in allowing the destruction of the greatest there never will be any efforts to save the insignificant places of historic interest within our town. In the tearing down of the Belleville Hotel we are lessening the historical prestige of our town which holds the distinguished honor of being an "outstanding place of historical interest to America." Can we so afford to minimize our glorious record of holding the enviable honor of being authentically confirmed as "The outstanding place of historical interest to America?" We shall lose this honor since we did not protest against the absolute destruction of Belleville's and of New Jersey's historical greatness, the Belleville Hotel, and again since we do reveal and manifest a consistent and a continuance indifference as shown towards Belleville's history and historic places of interest.

Why should the Belleville Hotel have been conserved? Let us first consider its age. Built in 1683 when New Jersey was little known and when Belleville's silence was broken by the war-hoops, yowling and beatings of the tom-toms of its natives—the Indians. Even these savages at numerous times attempted to destroy it, but all that remains of their attacks are the scars they inflicted upon the building. It endured the Indian attacks, the British depredations, and the ravages of time itself, but it is falling in disgrace on its 247 birthday. Secondly, its historic value to our town and state must be taken into consideration. As for its historical value often has been told of it by those who dearly love Belleville and its justly famous history. Historical happenings are as recorded by those who dearly love Belleville and about this Mansion. Those historic events of the Indian Days, the French and Indian Wars, the Revolutionary War, as well as the early Colonial days took place before this very building which we call "The Belleville Hotel." George Washington, as is authentically known, was entertained, dined, and had lodgings there for the entire night during his famous retreat through New Jersey in 1776. At one time this Mansion and its estate was the scene of that renowned Revolutionary battle, the Battle of Second River, as was fought between General Wayne of the American Troops and the British Regulars, Tories and Indians. Again this Mansion was considered on the very frontier of the western border, so that all seeking the wide and open places looked upon this building as on the end of the known West. These are but a few of the many historical happenings as are so closely connected with this aged Mansion. In the preservation of this mansion Belleville would have gained more publicity as the Belleville Hotel would have been an attraction of worthy interest to all lovers of history as they went through Belleville.

It was the duty of each and every citizen of Belleville as well as the duty of all Belleville combined to absolutely prevent the total destruction of such a valuable, historic shrine. Enduring nearly three centuries, must this venerable structure be disgraced by being torn down? It is surely detrimental to Belleville for her to not only lose this shrine but still more because she made not the slightest effort to protest against its devastation. Belleville has little to offer to favorably impress visitors and other new-comers; yet she is destroying the forces which can attract and make our town better known—the historical spots of nation-wide fame as are situated in our town.

All the patriotic organizations of the town such as the G. A. R., Elks, American Legion, and so forth, should have combined their solemn and sincere efforts for the preservation of this most historic shrine, the last greatest shrine that Belleville contains. An urgent appeal is made to these organizations to prevent this Mansion from being forgotten. One suggested plan might be the erection of a tablet, plaque, or even a sign telling of this Mansion. Thus the tablet, plaque or sign would accomplish three achievements: first, marking the site of this historic Mansion; second, informing future generations of the knowledge of the history of the structure and third, making Belleville better known to all.

The Belleville Hotel, the greatest of all historical buildings, was well worth the expense to Belleville for its preservation and conservation. Anyone who would have opposed its preservation and protection, could not have been a loyal citizen to Belleville. In its condition, long after the fire, the Belleville Hotel was in a very conservative state and capable of standing for another 200 years. It should have been conserved so long as the Park and State Highway was proposed along the banks of the Passaic. Its destruction, without the slightest objection or opposition on the part of the Belleville people, brings discredit upon our town as well as upon us all as individuals. Alas! What ignominy.

Progress would not have been hindered by keeping the Belleville Hotel where it now stands. Very easily did the State Highway Commission so change their plans as to have State Highway Section 5, Route 21, pass the historic building without destroying it. It may be stated by some that the Belleville Hotel was so destroyed to aid progress. But is it so? The State Highway Commission proved that the conservation and preservation of this Mansion would not have hindered progress. The road (State H. 21) at first threatened the mansion with destruction but later was changed so as to spare the 1683 mansion.

Messrs. Wallace and Tiernan and their company would have been noble enough to head the slightest call for the preservation of the most majestic of all historical buildings and would have been more noble and patriotic to allow this building to be purchased by those who would have made an effort to save the renowned historic shrine for the glorification and exaltation of Belleville. Since not the smallest degree in interest was shown, so did the building perish and so did Belleville deprive itself and all New Jersey of the most antiquated mansion in all of New Jersey and in other adjacent states.

The Park, along the Passaic River, would have been more enhanced and beautified by such an historic mansion included within its property. Behold the interest that would be shown towards the Mansion by the people as they passed along State Highway 21. Consider the publicity Belleville would gain because of it. In truth, it would be to Belleville what the Washington Headquarters are to Morristown.

Even the Washington Headquarters at Morristown were threatened as is the Belleville Hotel, but the people of Morristown had enough civic pride in their town so they purchased the Headquarters when they were to be torn down years ago. Look at them today. They are the pride and joy of all Morristown and of its citizens, attracting people from every state in the Union. So have the people of Morristown proven themselves well worthy of the name of Americans, all because they saved that historic house for us. What would have Belleville done? The answer is known to us all. Has not Belleville stood by and its citizens seen a more noble and a more ancient building destroyed—more historic than the Morristown Headquarters, our town allowed the Belleville Hotel to be destroyed without a single objection. Has Belleville no civic pride? Where, oh where, is Belleville's civic pride?

Belleville, is there no one to venerate and esteem you and your town and your noble of all places? Listen to what Belleville says as she bitterly reproaches us by saying: "Truly there is a definite lack of interest in my historic past as well as in dear historical shrines pertaining to the history of our country and state."

"No one seems to care about my grand and historic significance." "I, Belleville, holding proudly the enviable honor of being an outstanding place of historic interest to all America, am little known even by my own people." How sad; yet how true!

The gem of all Belleville's historical places, the Belleville Hotel so closely connected with the important historical happenings from 1683: the Indian Days, the French and Indian Wars, the Revolutionary War and so on up to our present day, is not even known to three-fourths of the Belleville people.

If you are interested in Belleville, it is a solemn duty on your part to view the remains of this once truly remarkable mansion. The location is as follows: in the south eastern section of Belleville, on the junction of Main and Mill streets, very near the mouth of the Second River, two blocks east of Washington avenue and Mill street. See the Van Cortlandt Mansion's ruins today; then shall you reveal your civic interest in your town.

May the passing of this historic Mansion arouse an intense interest in our town's justly famous history. May its removal be compensated by a strong desire on the part of the Belleville populace to have Belleville's history better known to all by the erection of inexpensive yet suitable markers at all of the historic points on interest such as at the battlefields of Schuyler Heights on Main street and Second River at Mill street, and so forth.

Let us show a deep appreciation for Belleville's glorious and Nation-wide famed history; the Belleville that gave to the world many new objects.

I do regret the tearing asunder of such an aged mansion, so rich as it was in historic events, such as can only vividly recall to us the Nation's and state's historical happenings as were so deeply centered in this Mansion. We in Belleville are now aware that our town has enormously depreciated historically because of the degradation of the oldest historic structure in the states of New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Delaware. What a deprivation.

This lesson should teach us to have a deep appreciation for Belleville's glorious and justly famous history that is Nation-wide in fame, Belleville that gave to the world the first wire for the telegraph; that gave to the Americas the first steamboat (Fitch's), that gave to America the first steam engine and a host of other international famous objects. With an appreciation and a better understanding, can only result in the saving of the other historical places for future generations and for the appropriate glorification of Belleville, "The outstanding place of historical interest to America."

In conclusion I might say, that of all places that are famous for their historical settings Belleville is one of the foremost in our country. Shall the Belleville people cast aside their greatest asset to our town's civic welfare? Shall they throw aside their most precious asset, being one of the country's most historic places? Show your interest in your town's historical places of interest. Make our town better known.

Sincerely yours,

VINCENT WALSH.

Editor The News:

Who will be elected? This is the most popular question of the day in Belleville. Opinion seem to be divided, and there are some who appear to be a little stronger than the others.

There is one candidate, however, who has a decided lead on the entire field. The people are certainly in favor of the return to office of Commissioner Carragher. There is no doubt of this man's popularity and every one I meet says "I am going to vote for Carragher." There are some who have not selected their other men, but they have already decided that Carragher deserves another term on his record.

I meet a number of people in my section of the town who are struggling to pay off their homes, and who feel that there should be one man on the Commission who is interested in keeping the taxes at a rate that they can pay without breaking their backs.

There is no pleasure or advantage in owning a home if every time the tax bills come out the owner must pay every cent he has saved during the year to the town.

At my place of employment I meet citizens from all sections of Belleville, and they tell me that the sentiment in their respective neighborhoods is also strongly for Commissioner Carragher.

There must be some reason for this man's popularity with his fellow-townsmen, and I think the answer is that the people feel Commissioner Carragher is heart and soul for their interests. He takes his job seriously and spends almost his entire time at the Town Hall, keeping his department in proper order.

After all the political propaganda is over, the fellow who pays the bills will mark his X along Carragher's name, not only because he likes Carragher, but because he wants a stand-up representative who will not take a backward step when the interests of the people are at stake.

AND A DEBIT

Editor The News:

Among the window, automobile and poster advertising of the aspirants for the office of Commissioner is one "Carry Carragher."

It would seem to the writer that Commissioner Carragher has served the Townpeople as best he knows how, and much credit is his due to his strenuous efforts, but as changes occur from time to time in many town and city offices would it not be possible to see how the new Board of Commissioners would shape up without the services of one who has brought the idea to the forefront in various elections that he is "for the people," so to speak, regardless of many others in the race who feel that they can represent all fairly but do not wish to appeal in this manner. Looking around at other towns, it would seem that it has not exactly been necessary to have included in the Commission or governing body, a member or members who appeal to the members of their community on the aforesaid mentioned basis.

There is also another question of the advantage to be gained by a Community if one or two members tend to vote negatively or refuse to vote on many questions or ordinances. This would seem to hold up the progress of Town business, and to indicate an amount of indecision. It seems that there is sufficient time to discuss many questions, and amicably, before the Tuesday evening meeting.

Incidentally, why doesn't a certain candidate who is "all wet," confine his political aspiration to the topic of current town interest (alluding to Town election), rather than to something which is all very entertaining, but hardly applicable to a local campaign, especially to a majority who take their town elections seriously. Yours truly,

"A VOTER."

P. S.—The articles appearing over the signature of "Anti-Kamnia" are very interesting and informative.

ON POLITICS

Editor The News:

In reference to the coming commission election, here is the situation as I understand it.

There are thirteen men applying for five positions on May 13. The employers are the citizens of Belleville.

I am a tax-payer and for that reason I am going behind all politics, propaganda, goodfellowship, promises, and getting down to earth. Five men are to be entrusted with the pocketbooks of every taxpayer in Belleville. Upon these men will depend, to a large extent, the rate of rentals and the value of real estate in Belleville for the next four years. If our taxes continue to increase, rents will be higher and property values will fall because no one wants to purchase real estate in a town where the tax rate is so exorbitant that it amounts to a confiscation of private property.

The very foundation of our government rests on the question of taxation. We would, in all probability, still be governed by the English King and Parliament if our ancestors were not taxed to the point when they rose up, bled and died so that they and their posterity might be unshackled from this awful monster—taxation.

For years we have been bled by politicians. The only time we are thought of is on election day when there seems to be an epidemic of hand shaking and jolly good fellow-ship. What we need in Belleville is not political platforms, but another Declaration of Independence, another ringing of the Liberty Bell, and another taking up of arms on May 13 to fire ballots instead of bullets.

"Mr. Justice and Fairplay," I see, is using the radio to broadcast talks not only of interest to the people of Belleville but to the electorate of our state. He talks of the failures and shortcomings of our state legislature and places the blame on it for our high taxes. Why can't he inform us on our own town affairs and place his finger on Belleville's sore spot. Let us clean our own back yard before we attempt to clean the State's front lawn. Let him tell us what he did to lower taxes in Belleville for four years and stop camouflaging by passing the buck.

His birthday party was a huge thing, and there was much publicity derived from the same. It reminds me of my childhood days when we all felt sorry for the kid who was born on February 29, and only had a birthday every four years. Candidates seem to have the same misfortune but he, with his usual good luck, had his fall during the month preceding the crucial thirteenth.

Then we have our fearless director of Public Improvements who at this late date, and by the way, just before election, takes the unemployed ones of the town into his heart and gives them all a broom and a banner. I wonder if the men think this good Samaritanism will last forever and do they know that the town would go bankrupt if the present expenditures were continued for very long.

We need not fear the old gentleman who has endeared himself to us all by his honesty and courage and who is always ready to mount his steed and shout "The British are coming, the British are coming."

I notice in the public press an article on clean up week, which says in part "Citizens of Belleville, Clean Up Week is your chance to get rid of the useless trash and rubbish. Place rubbish and trash in containers on the curb line and extra wagons will be furnished to remove it." The Public Safety Commissioner's idea is a commendable one, but I think he should change his date from April 14 to May 13, when I am sure he will get the cooperation and assistance to make Belleville better, brighter, cleaner and more healthful.

Yours for sincere government,

THOMAS C. D'AVELLA.

ARTICLE No. 29

"Never lead away from a king" is a fair rule, generally speaking, but sometimes the rule must be broken. As an example, take the following hands:

Hand No. 1
Hearts — K, 10
Clubs — K, 7, 6
Diamonds — K, 8, 4, 3
Spades — K, 7, 6, 2

No score, rubber game. If Z dealt, bid three hearts and all passed, what is A's proper opening lead?
In this hand, A has four suits, each of which contains a king, so in this hand, at least, the rule "never lead from a king" must be broken. The question then arises, which of the four suits should A lead? That fact should be determined by the bid of three hearts. If Z has a sound three-heart bid, the chances are that he doesn't hold spades. If he had strength in spades, he should have bid one heart so that if overbid by his partner in spades, he would be in a position to help that bid. For these very good reasons, the proper lead with the foregoing hand is the deuce of spades.

Hand No. 2
Hearts — A, Q, 6, 2
Clubs — K, 9, 4
Diamonds — K, 7, 5, 3
Spades — 7, 6

Diamonds are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win all of the tricks against any defense?
Solution: Trick one: Z should lead the five of clubs. A's discard is immaterial. Y should discard the five of diamonds, but what can B discard? If he discards a heart Y's hearts are both good. If he discards the king of diamonds, Y's ten of diamonds is good. If he discards the king of spades, Z's ten of spades is good. Therefore, no matter what card B discards at the first trick, Y Z must win the remaining four tricks. This problem is the simplest kind of end play in which the solution depends entirely on forcing of discards.

Answer to Problem No. 25

Spades — A, 6, 3

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win all of the tricks against any defense?
Solution: Trick one: Z should lead the ten of diamonds, forcing Y in the lead. Trick two: Y should now lead the ten of hearts. B can safely discard the king of hearts. Z, the seven of queen and A the ten of clubs. Trick three: Y should now lead the nine of hearts. What can B discard? He cannot discard the king of diamonds or Z's nine of diamonds will be good; therefore he is forced to discard the nine of spades. Z should now lead the nine of diamonds, but what can A discard? He cannot discard the jack of clubs or Z's nine of clubs will be good; therefore he must discard the five of spades.

This forcing of both opponents to discard to their disadvantage is the so-called "double squeeze" and a favorite play by the experts. Note carefully that at trick four, Y should lead the ten of spades which Z should win with the king. Trick five: Z should lead the deuce of spades and Y should play the ace.
At trick six, Y's six of spades wins the trick because at trick three both A and B were forced to discard spades to protect their other suits. This end play is as fine as any example of the "double squeeze" as can be found because it is simple and forces the discards of both opponents on the same trick. Study it carefully.

National Boys' Week To Be Observed By Vocational School

National Boys' Week starting April 27 and ending May 4, will be observed by the Essex County Vocational School, Montclair. The particular day that is of special interest to the students is Boys' Day in Industry which will be held on Tuesday, April 29. On that day boys will be transported to visit the different industries that through their school training they will eventually enter. All visits will be supervised and the boys will write compositions on the activities that they have observed. For the best essay the Civic Clubs Council of Newark will award prizes and furnish transportation.

The boys will be guests of the Newark Air Port, the Kearny Plant of the Ford Motor Company, Weyerhaeuser Timber Company, Kearny Power Plant of Public Service, Western Electric Company, American Can Company and the Essex Foundry.

The management of the Kresge's Department Store will be turned over to ten boys selected from the vocational schools. They will also write essays on their activities and prizes will be given for those selected.

Throughout the county over twelve hundred pupils of the county vocational schools will make similar trips on that day.

In conjunction with boys week the school will hold a Visitors' Day, on Thursday, May 1, in order to give the community an opportunity to observe the type of training that the school offers to fit boys into industry.

The Automobiles boys will be working on all phases of auto repair, such as axle, rear housing, transmission, engine work, starter, generator and battery building.

In the Carpentry Shop two small houses containing a kitchen, living room, dining room and library are finished. These rooms also have electric lights and outlets installed by the boys of the Electrical Department. The kitchen has a boiler and gas heater and a sink which were installed by the boys of the Plumbing Department. All connections are made so these fixtures operate.

Breakfast nooks, colonades, tables and book cases will also be displayed.

Boys of the Electrical Department will be found working on signal, telephone, and house wiring work. The more advanced boys will be winding armatures, repairing and testing direct and alternating current motors and generators, while a small group of this year's graduation class will be synchronizing, making phase and speed changes on induction motors and plotting characteristic curves of direct current generators.

In the Mechanical Drafting Department, boys will be found to be working on simple drawings, elementary design, gear and cam work, detail and assembly drawings, thread and other projects necessary for a thorough training in this field. A hand driven bench grinder, and an automobile hydraulic jack is being designed by advanced pupils.

Installation of sinks, bathtubs and other sanitary fixtures by the Plumbing Department may be observed. The boys of this department also do roughing in, wiping, draining and venting work. This department does all the plumbing in the houses constructed by the Carpentry Department.

Besides the shop training, the work of the Technical Departments, where students learn the necessary science, mathematics and drawing for their respective trade through individual instruction methods, will prove to be very interesting.

Groups of pupils will be found in the Academic Department studying Hygiene and Safety, English, Industrial History, and Social Sciences. Pupils who attend this school come from sixteen municipalities in Essex County, and also from Bergen and Morris Counties.

Hoffman Begins Study Of Costs In Department

Seeking the greatest measure of economy consistent with efficient administration, Harold G. Hoffman, New Jersey's new Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, has begun a searching study of the costs of administering his department.

Mr. Hoffman is going into the question to determine whether the 6.4 per cent of administration as compared with the gross receipts from the issuance of licenses, collection of fines and other sources of revenue is excessive. He is approaching the subject with an open mind, keeping clearly before him the objective of efficient service without curtailing it or arbitrarily cutting expenses without a thorough survey.

The new commissioner views his department as a vast business enterprise, touching every section of the State in a vital manner. Under its jurisdiction are licensed approximately 838,633 motor vehicles and 965,242 drivers. The issuance of licenses and permits, and the various other functions involved in the enforcement of the motor vehicle laws, Commissioner Hoffman believes, should be done with the greatest possibility for service to the people but without the slightest unnecessary expenditure.

In making his preliminary survey of department finances, Mr. Hoffman has been making a comparative study of the collections made by this

New Safety Plan Inaugurated Among Electric Workers' Groups

If a group had a perfect safety record for 1930, its plaque would be exactly like the one above. Each of the bars indicates a perfect safety record for a quarter of the year and the star a perfect record for the entire year. Space is provided for four years, so that the plaque will show a record for that period.

FURTHERING its efforts to promote safety among its many employees, the Electric Distribution Department of Public Service Electric and Gas Company has devised a "Safety Plaque" which it is hoped will be a stimulus among employee groups to keep their records clear of accidents.

The plaque is made of the finest hand-fired enamel and is so constructed that it can be fastened to the emergency kit container on any Public Service line truck or on a sub-station bulletin board.

Each of the various groups of Electric Distribution Department employees who work together from day to day will be given one of these "Safety Plaque." At the end of the first three months of the year every group which has completed the quarter without any accidents will be awarded a red bar which will be fastened to the plaque. Similar bars will be awarded at the end of the second, and at the end of the third, quarter of the year, to those groups which have completed the three month periods without accidents. At the end of the fourth quarter, every group which has completed the full year without any accidents will be awarded a star bearing the year's numerals. This star will be fastened to the plaque as a permanent record of the group's achievement in the cause of safety.

State and those of other States with the cost of administration. Reducing this to a percentage basis, it has been revealed that the collections made by departments of other States approximating or exceeding the gross receipts of the New Jersey Department of Motor Vehicles have been made at a lower proportionate expenditure for administrative purposes. Mr. Hoffman is endeavoring to find out why this disproportion exists.

The gross receipts of the New Jersey department, exclusive of the gasoline tax, were $14,803,016 last year. The cost of administration amounted to $948,071, or 6.4 per cent of the sum collected. The number of motor vehicles registered totaled 838,633.

With these figures as a basis of comparison, Mr. Hoffman has taken the statistics compiled by the U. S. Bureau of Public Records for other States and has found that on their face several other commonwealths as large in area and having in each instance more motor vehicles registered show an appreciably lower percentage cost of administration.

The most striking contrast was found in New York, where there are 1,922,068 vehicles registered, more than twice the number in New Jersey. The gross receipts were $38,293,313, while the cost of administration was $1,415,965, or 3.7 per cent of the amount collected. This is 2.9 per cent less than the expense of administering the motor vehicle laws of New Jersey.

Texas, a state of tremendous area, with more than half again as many cars registered, collected last year $20,418,696. The expenditure for administering the department in that State was $796,572, or 3.9 per cent of the gross receipts.

The comparative figures for four other States revealed the following: Michigan collected $23,212,316 at a cost of $891,104, or 3.8 per cent of the receipts.

Ohio's gross receipts were $12,860,453, collected with an expenditure of $390,000 which, stated on a percentage basis, was 3 per cent. This State has 1,560,182 vehicles registered.

The receipts of Iowa were $11,919,350. It cost the department $417,177, or 3.5 per cent of its income.

Wisconsin collected $11,780,703, while its department cost $650,000 which, expressed in percentage, is 5.5 per cent.

Why there is this apparent disproportionate expenditure for departmental overhead expenses is the question Mr. Hoffman is endeavoring to have answered. He is determined, however, to find out first the reason for the higher cost of the department to the New Jersey taxpayers and then to set in action the machinery to reduce this cost as rapidly as possible.

The topic for next Sunday's talk at Everyman's Bible Class will be "The Silent Intruder." Prof. P. H. Carmichael of the New York University is the leader of this class which is interdenominational and meets in Wesley M. E. Church at 9:29 A. M.

W. H. Bradshaw, president of the class urges the members to make a good showing in attendance, and reminds them that they should set their clocks ahead one hour before retiring on Saturday night.

The Belleville class has again won fame in the bowling fraternity by its team capturing the silver loving cup offered by the West Essex Everyman's Bowling League.

HARMONY IS ATTAINED IN THIS MODEL ROOM

NOT the home of a movie actress but a model bedroom in the Hale Store, New York. The curtains and bed coverings are of silk to harmonize with the upholstery of the chair and lounge. The pictures are old French prints and the furniture was created by Berkey & Gay.

What is said to be the most advanced merchandising plan adopted by the furniture industry in the last 100 years is the present scheme of the Berkey and Gay Division of the Simmons Company to market bed room, dining room and living room suites as "open stock."

This method, as every housewife knows, is already widely in vogue among makers of china and silverware, and compares to the "ensemble" idea in clothing. Silver and china can be bought in sets or piece by piece at the buyer's convenience and lost or broken pieces can be replaced. In the case of silver it is frequently the custom to give a few pieces at Christmas time and on birthdays to a friend or relative and eventually the accumulated gifts amount to a complete set.

Formerly in furniture the custom was to make one style, sell it to a dealer as a suite, and after a while, discontinue making that particular design. The result was that a person who bought a bed, dresser, chair, bookcase or other article and later wanted another piece of furniture to match it was unable to get it except made to order at a price which usually was prohibitive. This system was especially hard on young married persons, with limited means who had to buy whole suites or run the risk of having their homes cluttered up later with mis-matched odds and ends of furniture. The system also helped to disrupt the business of the furniture merchant who, when he found himself with broken suites of furniture on his hands, resorted to close-outs and markdown sales which ate into his profit margin.

After its acquisition by Simmons, Berkey and Gay set out to correct this condition. Stabilization of lines which would be in style to-day and in good style ten years from now was the aim. This was accomplished by a nationwide survey of styles.

The first group built as open stock is the Old Colony and consists of the Waverly, a Colonial bedroom group; the Whitton, an early American dining room group; the Standish, an early American living room group, and the Henniker, an early American bedroom group.

Other "open stock" suites are the Uppland, a Swedish Peasant living room group, and the Du Barry, a bedroom group after French furniture of the period of Louis XVI, and finished in various colors.

CHECK AND DOUBLE CHECK

April 19, 1930.

Editor News,

Clipping from your paper, April 1, 1930 issue reveals to us that there must be some mistake. Either you boys have not been travelling very much lately or—what else might it be, can't seem to understand such carelessness.

Your clipping shows that France is to have Radio Head Phones installed in their French trains, and you compliment them and make this remark: "Have our radio folk been sound asleep, that France should have beaten them to the newest in radio services?"

Regret that is must be the editors who are "sound asleep." Don't you know that we have over one hundred installations on about twenty railroads at this time and have been so busy making installations on other railroads that we hardly have time to stop for meals. For your information I will list below the railroads that have Majestic Radios installed in them and most of these installations were made over a year ago:

The Chicago & Alton Railroad, The Chicago Burlington & Quincy Railroad, The Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul & Pacific R. R., The Chicago & North Western R. R., Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific R. R., Erie R. R., Illinois Central Railroad, Great Northern R. R., Lehigh Valley Railroad, Minneapolis & St. Louis R. R., Monon (Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville R. R.), Chesapeake & Ohio R. R. and Union Pacific R. R.

Then too, we have made temporary installations on the New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, well, why go on; our records show where we made temporary installations on practically every railroad in the country that has crack trains.

Believe you should advise your reader audience of these up-to-the-minute facts, and not have them criticize you for your negligence in keeping up with the times.

You know and we all know an up to the minute newspaper doesn't let a thing like this go over his head, boosting France for getting ahead of us and here these installations were made long before France ever gave it a thought, then too, remember they are to have the old-fashioned head phones, and our sets give the best there is in Radio reception at all times.

Thanking you for taking this suggestion in the manner in which it is offered and assuring you you won't

"Well, I guess you two are sitting pretty," Sam Bloom poked his head around the corner and beamed on Kitty and Jimmy. "Sorry we had all this trouble tonight, but everything's over now." He wandered on to the corner where Jerry stood talking to Nita French.

"Well, Jerry," Bloom began, clapping the manager heartily on the back. "You've got a great little piece here, and I'm all for it. I knew you'd come out on top; I was never worried for a minute."

"That's all right, Sam," Jerry interrupted hastily. "I'm glad you're with us. Gee, if it hadn't been for you, goodness only knows what might have happened. You certainly got me out of a jam. I'd probably have been down in jail trying to talk myself out if it hadn't been for you. I'll have some money for you as soon as we count up tonight. By the way, what did

"I won't forget my lines," Kitty assured him. "It's the song. If I can only put it over."

Out on the stage Harold, the juvenile, his fiancée, her parents, and all the chorus stood.

"I can't marry Cynthia," Harold was explaining, as the orchestra took up the aria for the final song. "I can't marry her, because I married this lady a few hours ago."

"There's your cue!" Jimmy's voice was hoarse. He kissed Kitty quickly and pushed her out on the stage. "Good luck, honey," he called after her.

Behind the footlights Kitty's young voice rose high and clear. Now she was in Harold's arms, her head close to his, singing as she had never sung before. The pure resonance of her tones carried to the furthest rows of the balcony. She heard nothing, saw nothing. She only knew that she was singing—singing, as she would sing on the opening night on Broadway.

Her hands were no longer cold. She felt warm and full of life. The audience sat still and silent, but to her the house might have been empty. She wasn't singing to them—she wasn't singing to anyone; she was singing for the very happiness that surged within her. She was Kitty Malone, the musical comedy star, the pet of Broadway.

Blackness came with the descending curtain, and a thunderous burst of applause rudely interrupted her. Like a person awakened from a trance, she allowed Harold to drag her out in front of the audience. A quick smile lighted her face. Her tongue was silent, but her heart was still singing. She had put it over! She was a success!

"My goodness, they're still at it!" Harold grabbed the girl and pulled her along with him, hurrying up before the applause died. He pushed Kitty out into the stage to take another bow.

"That's right, kid, take your encores," Nita, clutching her bottle of Scotch, met the girl as she came off the stage. "Take 'em while you can get 'em. Before long you'll be for 'em. Then you'll sob your heart out when they're hard to get, and then—and then there won't be any encores." Nita swayed slightly and turned away.

Kitty smiled. Perhaps Nita was right. But that didn't matter now. She was young—on her way to success. There would be encores and encores for her for many years to come. The world was at her feet, around her, before her, revealing every lamp of high promise. She would always get her encores.

Plying forms brushed past the retreating figure of Nita, unseeing, unheeding—rushed to Kitty to shake hands, to shower her with kisses, to congratulate her. Beside her stood Jimmy, his arm about her waist. Behind her was Dad Malone, the light of paternal pride gleaming in his eyes. Before her stood Jerry, shaking her wildly in his outburst of enthusiasm.

Without a backward glance, Nita went to the door of her dressing room, threw it open and stepped inside. She walked over in front of the mirror and stood staring at the figure reflected there. Slowly she poured a drink of Scotch into a glass and raised the tumbler unsteadily.

"Well, baby," she spoke to her own reflection. Her voice was hoarse. "Here's to the beautiful Mrs. Willie Durant, formerly the beautiful Nita French, musical comedy star!"

Lions' Club Plans Baseball Season

Game Has Been Arranged With Junior Police Outfit

An interesting diamond tussle has been arranged between the Lions' Club and the Junior Police nines for Belleville Park, on Wednesday, May 7.

This game has all the earmarks of a fine early season diamond duel and should provide the fans with plenty of action as well as good baseball.

Captain "Lefty" Dailey of the Lions' Club squad already has a tentative line-up in mind to place on the field, but is dubious on one position. He has four outstanding candidates for the center field berth and is as yet undecided as to whom he will select for this ground-covering job.

As announced by Dailey the line-up follows: Charrier, catcher; Kavanaugh, pitcher; Dailey, first base; Locher, second base; Carrough, short stop; Noll, third base; Mayer, first base; Kenworthy, right field; with the center field position to be fought out between Kaiser, Gormley, Jeffery and MacNair.

Most of the members of this group are hold-overs from last year, when the Lions enjoyed their most successful season. At this writing the outfield especially looks strong with Mayer at left, the ever reliable May or Kenworthy guarding right and four likely looking candidates for the center garden.

Kavanaugh and Charrier also form a battery that should cause any team trouble, while the infield, led by "Lefty" Dailey, seems to fit right into the scheme of things.

Bob Anderson, who is coaching the Junior Police boys, is rather in the dark at present as to who he will select for his starting team as he has such a large number of splendid-looking candidates. His only certainty is on the mound, where he will have Jerry Bonavita showing his wares. He promises a good team, however, and one that will cause the Lions plenty of trouble.

Elks' Duck Pinners Practising Daily

The duck-pin bowlers of the local Elks are practising daily at the local alleys for the rapidly approaching duck-pin tournament for the championship of the Hello Bills.

The tournament last year was won by "Tom" MacNair and "Tom" is a hot favorite to repeat again this year although he will be stacked up against a larger and more formidable field this year, one that should make him hustle all the way for the honors.

The entrants received to date include J. Jordan, R. Whitten, W. Whitten, C. Waldie, E. Weber, J. Ryerson, J. Dunn, C. Faust, W. Hays, T. MacNair, E. Delaney, W. Bechtoldt and A. Mayer.

It is expected that MacNair's stiffest opposition will come from the members of the Elks' bowling squad included in the above list. They are Bob Whitten, Charley Waldie, Cliff Faust, and Billy Bechtoldt. The others on the list, however, can certainly not be counted out and it would not be exactly a surprise if one of their number came through. Jimmie Dunn, W. Whitten and Delaney appear especially strong at the duck-pin pastime at this time.

"Spivots" Noonan Adds Two Players To A. A. Roster

Manager "Spivots" Noonan of the well-known Belleville A. A. baseball nine, recently announced the acquisition of two new players, who are expected to bolster up his already fine looking squad considerably.

The pair of new-comers are Jimmie Murray, former twirler for Holy Cross college and Cliff Radcliffe, ace shortstop at Missouri University for several seasons.

These two stars are expected to just about round out an ever dangerous squad that is bound to cause trouble for any other team in the Legion League.

As announced last week, the A. A.'s line-up for their opening game with the Belleville Colored Giants when they pry off the lid of the coming Legion League season, will be composed for the most part of seasoned players, with more youthful stars taking their places in the vacancies alongside the more established stars.

The tentative line-up as announced places "Ame" Poffisch, Kitchell, Woods and Williams on the mound with Freddy Poffisch, and Bill Byrnes to receive the slants of this quartet. The infielders include McGormack at first, Bobby draws at

Cosmopolitans Out To Win Two More

The Cosmopolitan Pleasure Club will try to make it four in a row this week-end. On Saturday afternoon they will meet the Vailsburgh Field Club at Capitol Field and on Sunday they will engage the Newark Tarzans at Boys' Park at 3 o'clock.

The team has booked some of the strongest teams in the state and will meet such teams as the Newark Red Sox, Columbia White Sox, Lackawanna P. C., Hollywood A. A., Irvington Independents, Newark Rangers and many other well known teams. Coach Clark will probably call on Block or Morsell to toe the mound, with Weitzman receiving the slants. Any team wishing a good attraction write to Manager L. Weitzman, 712 Summer avenue, Newark.

second, "Mac" Lamb at short and Jerry Hahn at the hot corner with Polaschek in reserve. Teddy Skidmore, Harry Donohue, "Bucky" Buchanan, Stout and Grossman will fight it out for outfield berths.

Add to this star-laden list the above-mentioned Murray and Radcliffe and the result is one of the classiest arrays of talent the loop can boast of. At any rate the Belleville A. A. promises a brainy, fighting aggregation of seasoned warriors and one that will be right up there at the finish.

Panthers To Open Season Sunday

Will Play Newark Grays At The Latter's Grounds

The Belleville Panthers, a leading local junior nine, will inaugurate its season, Sunday afternoon, against the Newark Grays at the latter's grounds.

Bill Schenck, veteran of last year, or Joe Phelps, ace right-hander, will serve them up for the Panthers. In their season debut, while Dave Connelly will be on the receiving end.

The remainder of the local line-up will be taken care of by old hands, who saw service with the squad last year.

A tentative line-up places Jay Suderley on first; Hughie Laird or Herb Otto on second; Art Bloemeke at short-stop and Bus McCarthy, captain-elect, at the hot corner.

The outfield assignments will be taken care of by Bill Murphy, Dave Lamb and Bob Crowning. Harry Metz, Lennon and Perry are also sure to see service during the course of the struggle.

The Panthers have entered a team in the Newark Davega League, as well as the local American Legion Junior League, and would like to get in as many games as possible before the start of the league seasons. They are willing to play any junior nine in the state and will travel if necessary. For games communicate with Bill Schenck, 392 Cortland street.

Legion Will Sponsor Junior Baseball League Once Again

The local Post of the American Legion will again sponsor a junior baseball team this year, to enter the nation-wide competition, sponsored by the National American Legion and the major leagues, in order to stimulate baseball interest in America's youth.

The procedure of picking this team will be about the same as last year, with junior teams, made up of players sixteen years of age and under, invited to enter.

These teams will then engage in a local tournament and the winner will represent Belleville in the national competition. This rule, however, may be deviated from slightly, if some real good player is unfortunately enough to be on a losing side. In that case, he may be drafted for the representative team.

"Joe" Williams, athletic director of the Legion, will again be in charge and all prospective entrants should get in touch with him at his home, 84 Columbus avenue, or in care of this paper.

Mr. Williams especially desires the teams that entered the local tournament last year to again file their entrance and also urges all new nines not to hesitate to enter.

The Belleville American Legion Bowling League, after a hard winter of campaigning, will hold its first annual banquet, tomorrow night, at the Elks' Hall.

Due to the limited seating capacity of the hall, the banquet will be almost exclusively a league affair. Over a hundred bowlers, members of the teams, which rolled in the league, will be on hand, making it necessary for the Banquet Committee to restrict ticket sales to outsiders considerably.

Presentation of prizes will be made at the banquet, with the winning Burke's Colts quintet coming in for the lion's share of the trophies.

Among the prizes awarded there will be five individual prizes, to be given to the five leading bowlers. Three of these will be awarded to members of the Burke's Colts, Charley Schlecker, Gene Gelschen and Tommie Dunn. The remaining two places were won by Bill Byrnes of the Knights of Columbus and Bill Buttons, captain of St. Peter's.

The Burke's, Hoople and Belleville A. A., who finished in that order, will receive the team trophies. One of the remaining trio of awards is an individual prize. Willie Klemz, of the Burke's will be given it for the high individual score, a brilliant 275 tally he recorded in the midst of the league season. The other two awards will also fall to the lot of the Burke's for rolling high team score in the league and high team average.

An entertaining and well-known speaker has also been procured for the dinner to give it the necessary spice. All in all it should be a fitting climax to a really successful bowling season.

Peter Jannarone of 225 Passaic avenue, has obtained a patent on a new and improved concrete joint form.

This Whirl Of Sport

By Arthur Bloemeke

At this baseball-mad period it seems almost out of the question to mention anything but the diamond pastime.

However, the bowlers, who have reigned supreme throughout the wintry months, have not quite had their day. In fact the big climax of their season is still in the offing.

After four long months of battling it out for titular honors on the American Legion Bowling circuit, the even dozen teams that make up this thriving loop will join together at the Elks' Hall, tomorrow night, in making their first annual banquet a howling success.

Then immediately after the festivities, bowling will leave the entire local sports stage to King Baseball to rule for another summer. But until then Belleville pin-knights must be reckoned with.

From all indications that phrase King Baseball used in connection with local sporting circles is bound to be more than an idle opinion.

It seems that everywhere one goes, the coming baseball season provides one of the main topics of conversation.

At various places you hear the strength of this team and that team analyzed and just why they should give the league-leaders a real battle in the fast approaching American Legion League. Sandlot teams are springing up thicker and faster than weeds, spurred on by the announcement that there will be a junior league sponsored by the American Legion. The high school squad is coming in for its share of enthusiastic comment. The town has gone plumb baseball crazy.

Whether this enthusiasm will continue at its present high pitch is a matter for speculation, but, regardless, the coming ball season seems to be on the verge of eclipsing all previous records both in attendance and interest.

A good example of local interest in the coming baseball campaign may be evinced from the case of likable "Jim" Mallack, the most feared pitcher and batsman in the league last season, while playing for the Capitols.

Following his splendid efforts in the Legion circuit Jim was watched closely by scouts and finally landed a try-out with the Scranton club of the strong N. Y.-Pa. League.

Jim accepted with alacrity at the time and was ordered to report recently. After weighing the matter, in his mind however, he thought it would be to his best interests to remain here.

This decision on his part was far from a pleasant surprise to seven of the eight clubs in the league although it fits into the Elks' plans perfectly. We have heard from player after player that they would much rather face any twirler in the circuit other than Mallack. Better recommendation would be superfluous.

At present Jim, next to the irreplaceable Elks' leader, Tommie Dunn, is the hardest worker in the league leaders' camp. He expects this season to be his best and is doing all in his power to realize this ambition.

More of this 'n' that heard around the Legion circuit: Harry McCarthy, a real student of the game game, will manage and coach the promising Bachelor squad. His many supporters hope his efforts will eclipse those of his more famous namesake, Joe McCarthy of the Cubs. Johnny Lawlor will perform only in the role of player for the Bachelors this year in order to give "Mac" full control. Lawlor's playing will be even more scintillating than that of last year.

Jimmie Dunleavy, leading batsman and home run hitter in the loop, was asked by the Belleville A. A. to join his former Forest Hill teammates on that squad. Tommie Dunn pilot of the Elks, and Jimmie, himself, quickly squelched that idea. The big problem in the league is: just who will Bill Kearney play with this year?—Almost all the teams in the league are after his services.

The return of Jim Mallack will give the Elks three of the ranking twirlers in the loop. Mallack, Kastner and Kintzing.—Manager Dunn's problem at present with his extraordinary supply of talent is "Just who will I bench."—"Mac" Lamb may look strange among his much older teammates in the Belleville A. A.—His playing, however, will form a complete demonstration of that old proverb: "Youth must be served." The Bachelors will have difficulty pruning down their over-large squad to the requisite eighteen.—The managers in the stands will again be deaf ears.—Every team in the league is strengthening up to give the Elks that battle of their lives.—But more of this next week.

Hoople Club Wins From Good Council

The strong Hoople bowling quintet experienced little difficulty in disposing of the Good Council five at Woodside, Thursday night, at Ferrara's alleys. They will meet again in a return match in the very near future at the Good Council alleys.

Individual honors for the winning Hooplers belong to Bert Mooney, lead-off man, and "Red" Kant, captain and anchor man of the local squad. Mooney after compiling 149 in the opener, finished up with a pair of double century marks in the last two. His tallies of 215 and an even 200 made him the only man of the night to register more than one 200 game. Kant proved the personification of steadiness, rolling three fine games of 188, 199, and 195 in succession.

Higgins also contributed two fine games of 196 and 211 in the first two, while Hannan rolled the remaining 200 tally, a 206 in the final. James bowled in his usual steady form, coming through when needed.

The losing team's high water mark individually was Joyce's 198 in the second game. Joyce and Cubellis were the individual stand-outs for the losers with three good games each.

Elks' Baseball Squad Is All Decked Out

Squad Has The Suits And What Goes In 'Em, It Is Said

The Belleville Elks' baseball nine, present champs, as Capitols, of the American Legion Circuit, were measured for their new uniforms, Monday evening, and from all indications they will be the real Beau Brummel outfit in that respect.

The new suits embody the Elks' color scheme of white and purple. The suit itself is white with purple trimmings and the combination produces a really snappy looking outfit.

The players measured for the new uniforms included Manager Tommy Dunn, Jim Mallack, Johnnie Mallack, Willie Klemz, Jimmie Dunleavy, Jimmie Dunn, "Butch" Kastner, "Lefty" Kintzing, Joe Flynn, Charley Schlecker, Gene Gelschen and Artie Lamb.

The Elks' will certainly make an impressive appearance when they open up with St. Anthony's especially in view of the fact that their suits will follow big league dictate in that each player will have an identification number on his back.

This innovation was started by the New York Yankees last year and has since been copied by many of the big league nines, as well as some minor league aggregations such as the Newark Bears. The numbers will be on about the same style as the big leagues, a big black numeral on the player's back corresponding to his position in the batting order.

To put it in the words of one ardent local baseball fan: "The Elks' will be the best equipped team in the league, both as to uniforms and what goes in 'em."

Park A. C. Outlines Social Activities

The last meeting of the Park Athletic and Social Club, Inc., of Belleville, disclosed that its membership consists of fifteen active and serious-minded young men.

A great deal of discussion took place as to what the Park boys should do this spring and summer and this resulted:

A well organized senior baseball team will represent the club in the Belleville American Legion baseball league. A number of noted stars of Belleville will appear for the Parks on the diamond. A heavy junior team consisting of club members will carry on a Sunday baseball schedule.

On July 13, a de luxe bus ride will be conducted to Asbury Park, a two-day auto ride has been arranged to start July 26 for members only. The second yearly bus ride will take place on Sunday, August 17.

Cardinals Will Play Belleville Panthers

The Belleville Cardinals, junior champs of the town, will play their closest rivals, the Belleville Panthers on Sunday morning, at Capitol Field in a pre-season practice tilt.

"Lefty" McCabe is Manager Dunn's probable selection for the hurling assignment for the Cards with Bill Byrnes receiving his slants.

McCabe will in all probability be opposed on the rubber by Bill Schenck, Panther ace, who will serve them up to Dave Connelly, in the role of back-stop.

The remainder of the Cardinal line-up consists of Eddie O'Neil, Johnny Leonard and "Mac" Lamb, taking care of the infield assignments with Danny Dunn, "Sully" Sullivan and Nick Comiskey eying in the outer gardens.

The Panthers will start play with Jay Suderley on first, Hughie Laird or Herb Otto on second, Art Bloemeke, short-stop, and Captain Bus McCarthy guarding third.

Dave Lamb, Bill Murphy, Bob Crowning and Harry Metz are all expected to see service in the outfield. While Perry and Lennon are capable infield reserves.

The tilt promises to be a repetition of the two interesting duels these two squads engaged in late last season and should provide much in the way of good baseball competition.

Notes
Sunday, 11 A. M. The pastor of the Grace Church will have for his subject "A Welcome Visitor." Sometimes even the most distinguished men of the time find scant welcome in certain quarters. Of course much depends upon the person and the time. This distinguished personage of our thought was hailed with delight on his arrival.

Sunday, 7:45 P. M. There will be the usual song service after which Mr. McCombe will speak from the thought of "A True Patriot." It is sad to think that in our day the word patriot has to have a definition. Today there are all kinds of patriots; and it takes a man in every sense of the word to be a true patriot.

Last Sunday was a glorious day. Standing room only, at all the services. The Sun was glorious overhead and all the world was glad. The flocking of the people to the churches shows a manifest love for religion; and gives the lie, to the claim made by some, that the church has lost its power and influence in the community. During the past year from all sources reports come that there is a decided trend of back to the church movement, and it is beginning to look as if the church was once more being recognized as the leader in the thought and life of the community.

Doctor Benjamin F. Battin, vice president of the National Surety Company, of New York says, "The crime wave in the United States of America is the most important domestic problem in the country." Each year crime is costing the country billions of dollars. This great sum lost to the people is on account of embezzlement, banditry, check forgeries, fraudulent real estate, fire insurance and unfair merchandising. All the commissions in the world will fail in their efforts to stop this large loss to the people of the U. S. until the people recognize the golden rule in their lives. Only as the church becomes strong will crime become less. This is worth thinking about when we feel ourselves becoming indifferent to the call of the church.

Social Hall, last Sunday evening, was crowded to its capacity with an audience that appreciated the efforts of the young people of Grace Church, as they depicted the stirring scenes in the life of the Master, during Passion week. Each one took their part well and many of the audience expressed themselves in grateful terms, in regard to the work of the young people taking part. There is much talent among the young people of Grace Church, and it is finding an outlet in the presentation of drama and pageant, that is given from time to time at the Grace Church. The following made up the cast of the pageant entitled: "He Is Risen," Mary, Miss Helen Hagsman; Martha, Mrs. George Karrier; Rebecca, Mrs. William D. Blair; Judith, Mrs. Charles Thomson; Helen, Mrs. Jessie Hyde; Daphne, Mrs. Howard Ryer; Peter, Mr. Herbert Wells; Philip, Mr. Charles Thomson; Roman Soldiers, William Blair, William Thatcher, William Gluck; Miriam, Mrs. Jeannette B. Russell; Es-ther, Miss Nomi Cooper; Chorus, Annadell Sherwood; Emma, Theford; Irene, Eller, Grace Eller, Zeda Chaffee; Florence Outwater.

A good thing is a thing which will accomplish the purpose for which it was produced. A good gun is one that will shoot and shoot straight. A good knife is one that will cut and will stay sharp. What is a good life? It depends upon what you think the purpose of life is. If you think the purpose of life is the production of character, you will easily recognize the good life.

The Men's Club of Grace Church is planning big things for the future. The bowling alleys are open each evening for the pleasure of the men of the community. Any man who is a follower of this popular pastime will receive a hearty welcome from the men of Grace club, any time he may care to spend the evening with them. The membership of the club is open to all men of good character, irrespective of creed. If you are a stranger and new to the city, make yourself known to Mr. Struble, who is in charge of the alleys and you will soon find yourself among friends. Mr. Struble believes in being a stranger but once, at the Grace Church Alleys. The entrance is on Bremond street.

Henry Ward Beecher once said, "God's men are better than the devil's men, and they ought to act as though they thought they were." Meet your old friend at Grace Church next Sunday.

FEWSMITH CHURCH

Rev. O. Bell Close

Sunday morning, 11 A. M.—"The Importance of Jesus for our own Time."

Sunday evening, 8 o'clock—"The First Sunday Night Service After the Resurrection."

Christian Endeavor, 7 o'clock—"What is the Use for Life?"

Easter Sunday morning service brought most of the membership and many visitors to church. The altar was beautifully decorated with palms and Easter lilies. A choir of twenty voices sang a special Easter anthem with Mrs. Frank Vanderhoof as soloist. Robert Louer played a trumpet solo accompanied on the organ by Mrs. James Moore.

Sunday evening was devoted to new members of the church including the reception of one member, making a total of 76 members received over the Easter period. After a message addressed to the new members by Dr. Close, members of the congregation adjourned to the Church School room for a fellowship hour. Refreshments were served by members of the Session. W. Stewart, as clerk of the Session, introduced his fellow board members and welcomed the new members.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "It is only when the so-called pleasures and pains of sense pass away in our lives, that we find unquestionable signs of the burial of error and the resurrection to spiritual life." QUERIES CANDIDATES

Editor News:

Your editorial two weeks ago concerning the possibility of present Commissioner "Pat" Waters becoming high man in the coming election brings a question to mind, "Would Mr. Waters, if high man, accept the office of Mayor, or would he decline this position in favor of say, our present Mayor, presuming each are elected?"

And while on the subject of the election, it would also tend to clarify a point somewhat, if Mr. Davidson would specifically state his stand in regard to Apartment permits effecting purely residential sections.

We await with interest the statements of Mr. Waters and Mr. Davidson in regard to the two above questions, and which we trust will be answered definitely before the election is upon us, as it is certain that there are more than a few who would appreciate some enlightenment on the subjects as mentioned.

Yours very truly,

INTERESTED.
