Carragher Objects To Payment Of Bill

Commissioner Not Satisfied With Job Passed By Expert

Because of objection by Commissioner Frank J. Carragher, the Town Commission Tuesday night held up payment to Philip Jannarone of Nutley for work done by the contractor in 1925, amounting to $1,700.

The commissioner was not satisfied the work was properly done despite the report made to the board by Colonel J. W. Howard consulting engineer and testing expert of Newark. The latter said he had found in 259 measurements of sidewalks and curbs in the fourteen streets concerned that the work was 90 to 100 per cent properly performed.

While the other members of the board favored clearing the matter up "once and for all," since the work was long since assessed and paid for by citizens, Mr. Carragher declared he intended to show by his records either the expert or the Belleville Engineering Department was in error.

The commissioner also objected to a resolution, passed by the other members, authorizing issuance of an emergency note to cover $1,550 in unforeseen expense of the primaries. Commissioner William H. Williams, director of revenue and finance, voted in the affirmative, saying he would abide by the opinions of Corporation Counsel John B. Brown in regard to the $9,000 similar note passed several weeks ago for payment of the Belleville municipal election expenses.

The objection of the commissioner were carried into discussion of the Erie Railroad's proposal, already approved by the rest of the board, to open a paved street, land parallel to the railroad from Little street to Joramelon street, on provision a central freight depot can be established at the point. The matter was up again because the counsel had inserted a clause calling for return of the stub end of Terry street to the town if the project were abandoned by the railroad. Commissioner Carragher believed fuel tanks on railroad property in front of his home should be ordered removed before permission was granted. The rest of the board considered the freight project a separate and needed improvement.

An ordinance was passed on first reading raising the salary of Fire Chief William T. Hirdes from $1,600 to $2,250, effective July 1. Commissioner William D. Clark explained the intent was to place the position on a full-time basis. Commissioner Carragher withheld his vote.

Emerson Busch was appointed a third-grade patrolman, to take the place of Frederick Gillman, resigned.

A conference of the Town Commission and the Board of Zoning Adjustment was held Wednesday night to discuss the report of the Citizens' Zoning Committee and proposed changes in the zoning ordinance.

MANY WELL WISHERS ATTEND FATHER E. J. FIELD'S JUBILEE

Three Day Celebration Started With Mass On Monday And Concluded With Reception, Wednesday

The ceremonies reflecting the solemnity of the Mass of Thanksgiving pertinent to the Silver Jubilee of the Rev. E. J. Field of St. Peter's Church were inspiring and instructive, and will long remain a memory pregnant with ideals culled from things seen and felt in the review of religion and educational culture making for the sense of satisfaction enjoyed by all present at the Mass which was offered by the Jubilarian on Monday morning at ten o'clock.

The effectiveness of the impression was primarily realized as the procession of altar boys, priests and prelates preceding the officers of the Mass, the Rev. E. J. Field, celebrant, Rev. William B. Masterson and Rev. Thomas J. Callery, deacons, made its way through the parish park in review of the Memorial erected to the Military and Naval forces of the several wars of the Union. The strain of the processional were inviting as the procession entered the church ablaze with color and lights on the altar, prettily blending with the color scheme of the artists, all arranged with the thought born from the idea of the Silver Jubilee.

The Monsignori in purple vestments stood in strong but pleasing relief against the sombre black of the priests. The white and gold vestments of the officers of the Mass supplied the harmonizing tone of satisfaction of color to the silent applause of those who appreciated the harmony of distribution. The intonation of the "Gloria in Excelsis" pealed in response the beauty, numbers of execution and the tonals long to be remembered. The choir demonstrated its ability to render in masterful style the Mass difficult in range and shadings. Professor Reginald Ball presided at the organ and Professor J. Thomas Annis directed the supporting orchestra.

The solists were well aided by the ensemble. The choir was the recipient of unmeasured but fully deserved compliments.

The "Credo" was the opportunity for the singing of "The Incarnatus Est" by the quartette, and was the outstanding musical feature of the Mass.

The Right Rev. John J. Tierney, D. D., of Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Maryland, was the speaker at the Mass, and his presentation of the Priesthood with its divine commission and the attending demands for its preparation in long years of intense study, embracing all the secular and theological branches, demanded attention.

The ringing of the gong, the flashing of the reserve lights, the intense hush, were the notices of the approaching consecration. The intonation of the Pater Noster was the invitation of interest in the heart of the church for the soul of mankind. The Ita Missa Est was the signal of dismissal and again the beauty of the choir and the orchestra were revealed in the recessional which was one with a spirit of joy and assurance.

Subsequent to the Mass the visiting clergy were the guests of the Jubilarian at a banquet which was served in the school auditorium. The Rev. John S. Nelligan served as toastmaster and introduced as the speaker the Rt. Rev. E. P. Carroll of Hoboken who treated a pertinent and intimate topic with grace and interest. The Lincoln Sextette of Orange were the instrumentalists at the banquet. The visiting laity were the guests of Father Field in the Rectory and the visiting Sisters were the guests of the Sisters of Charity in St. Peter's Convent.

The church was filled to its capacity and seen in the audience were many prominent men and women, local and visiting.

Stag Outing Held By Masonic Groups

Nutley And Belleville Hold Successful Affair In Paterson

The Stag outing of the Belleville Craftsmen's Club and Nutley Masonic Club was held at Idlewild Park, West Paterson Saturday, in ideal weather.

The baseball game, a very exciting feature of the afternoon, was won by Belleville by a score of 6 to 3. The line-up for Belleville was as follows: Settler, pitcher; Dow, second base; Metz, first base; Pentor, short stop; Lampman, third base; Graud, catcher; Sutherland, right field; Brey, left field; Hyde, center field; Hokanson, right field, substitute; Goodrich, left field, substitute.

Nutley: Leep, pitcher; Engle, second base; Charles Haring, first base; Elmer Haring, catcher; Wittek, left field; Shepp, center field; Novotny, third base; Wright, short stop; Calahan, right field.

The sack race winner was Pentor of Belleville; three legged race, winners, Sheard and Pentor of Belleville; shoe race, winner, C. Haring, of Nutley; barrow race, winner, Schepp of Nutley; quoits, winner, Dow and Rainey of Belleville.

The Barrow race caused considerable fun; to be blindfolded and push a barrow to a tap marker after having been spun around three times by the starter, was quite an accomplishment, only one racer getting within inches of the mark. All others who tried were yards off. Commissioner Williams tried this stunt, but he got marks in the election, but this game proved his undoing, being a good traveler he made off for the gate but as the barrow was only loaned to the club, it was necessary to get him turned in the right direction.

The commissioners gave the prize for quoits between Belleville and Nutley, and this game proved a walk-away for Dow and Rainey by the score of 21 to 7.

Seventy-three hungry men sat down to supper of roast beef and the usual embellishments, under the trees. This was followed by ice cream, cake and coffee. The chef was Dave Wells, and committee J. R. Lampman, Robert Gentile, William Hayes, Paul Green, Chris Peterson and L. V. Rau.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

INDISPENSABLE furnishings in a well-regulated kitchen are accurate scales and measuring utensils; a pair of shears to be used only in the preparation of foods; and, since the success of so many dishes depends upon correct timing, a reliable clock such as one of the new electric kind that plug into the wall and can't go a second off without showing a warning signal.

The use of a small amount of sugar, much as we use salt and pepper, mitigates the harsh taste of many foods without sweetening them. Used in the preparation of meat sauces and gravies, it accentuates the various flavors, binds them into a harmonious whole, and improves the color.

Mrs. Frank Bangert of Cedar Hill avenue had as guest last week her girlhood friend Mrs. Stewart Salter also her daughter Virginia Salter of Ringoes.

Last week-end Mr. and Mrs. Bangert, son Bobby, and Mrs. Bangert's sister Miss Viola Wise were at Bradley Beach where Mr. and Mrs. Bangert have a new summer home. Mr. and Mrs. Bangert and son will also spend the coming week-end there.

Freeholder Joseph King of Belleville will take his family today to Budd Lake, where they will spend the summer. Mr. King is busy with the county's building program and will spend much of his time in Essex.

Mrs. George P. Oslin and daughter Louise have returned from a visit in the south. Her mother Mrs. M. F. Love and cousin Horace Neeson of Atlanta, Ga., motored up with them.

Gibbons-McCoy

The marriage of Miss Winifred Cecelia McCoy, daughter of Mrs. Cecelia McCoy of 103 Union avenue, and Richard Francis Gibbons, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gibbons of Clinton, Mass., took place Monday afternoon, at 4:30 at St. Peter's Church.

The ceremony was performed by the assistant pastor, Rev. J. S. Nelson. Mrs. Zita Longfellow was organist, and Mrs. George Ward sang. Miss Dolly Ryder was the bride's only attendant. Thomas P. Costello of Jersey City was best man.

The bride wore a princess gown of pale pink satin with picture hat and matching slippers. She carried pink roses. For traveling, the bride had a chartreuse crepe ensemble.

Miss Ryder wore a peach colored frock with picture hat and slippers to match, and carried tea roses. A reception at the bride's home after the ceremony was attended by about 100 guests from Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New York, Belleville and Newark. After motoring two weeks in the New England states, the couple will live at the Union avenue address.

Mrs. Gibbons is a graduate of St. Peter's school. She is the daughter of the late John J. McCoy, a captain of the Belleville Fire Department. The bride's grandfather was the late Patrick McCoy, chief of the old volunteer fire department.

Junior World Wide Guild Entertains Grace Senior World Wide Guild

Monday night the Junior World Wide Guild entertained the Senior World Wide Guild of Grace Church as a good-bye until fall when both Guilds are planning many colorful events. A vacant house, 400 Washington avenue, belonging to Elmer Hyde, was the scene of the jollification. The Juniors were dressed up in their brothers clothes, and the Seniors drew numbers for the partners of the evening. Tiny Helen Hagemann of the Juniors impersonated a typical Englishman, spats, monocle, high hat and all the other fixins. She carried off the honors of the night.

Later the Seniors gravely informed the Juniors that this particular house was haunted, and a ghost was soon to walk, no sooner said than down the winding staircase came the ghost with many weird knockings, and supernatural lights. Ghosts appeared just as the group had finished playing "Mrs. McCarthy Died of This," and were informed that it was Mrs. McCarthy's ghost, but all sensations have a commonplace ending and it was soon discovered that Charles Thomson was the guilty one. Other laughable games were played and as a radio had been installed for the occasion dancing was one of the pleasures. Ice cream, cake and fruit punch were served by the busy Juniors. Miss Ethel Bryan is president of the Juniors and Mrs. Edith Thomson of the Seniors.

EINSTEIN AGAIN

Professor Einstein is said to be working on a group of equations which are nearly perfected that will give a complete picture of all physical phenomena. The whole scientific world is described as awaiting the production with keen interest. We have no doubt of it. Any new theory that the distinguished scientist can advance is certain to fill the minds of other scientists with awe, not to say envy.

We confess, however, to a certain slight mistiness about what Einstein is driving at. When he says that the "idea of a unified cosmos" is near completion, he has us guessing. That must mean that the cosmos is not now unified. But if anything can describe our whole physical system, we are for it, whether it is discovered by Einstein or anybody else.

This bids fair to rival "relativity" in toughness. But we suppose it is all correct and in good order. And there is no doubt that some people are interested in it.

NIGHT HIGHWAY MARKERS

The plan to mark state highways with an improved type of the so-called "button" devices which are illuminated at night by the rays from automobile headlights will meet with general approval among motorists. The old type has proved its value as a danger signal countless times at unseen intersections and sharp curves. The new one, larger and more efficient, should be of still greater aid in safe driving.

Adaptation of the device to the purpose of making route numbers visible at night, which is also planned, may seem to be of no importance as a means of securing safety, but actually the contrary is likely to prove to be the case. Anything which serves to keep the motorist certain of his whereabouts makes for concentration on the effort of driving, particularly during the hours of darkness. At present route numbers are painted black against a yellow background, usually on poles where they are not revealed by the headlights. As a consequence the wayfaring stranger is frequently at a loss for his direction and may produce an accident by stopping abruptly to inquire or turn back.

PREVENTING COLDS

Sufferers from common colds (and who is immune?) may take hope. Dr. J. A. Pfeiffer, noted pathologist of the Maryland Medical School, announces that he has discovered the cause of that prevalent ailment, and what is more important, developed a cure and a preventative. He believes that a vaccine which he has devised will positively cure a cold and at the same time guarantee freedom from a recurrence for from one to three years.

If the doctor's hopes are confirmed and the vaccine is not prohibitive in price, he will be a great benefactor. American workers lose about $2,000,000 a year, according to his figures, in wages, owing to lay-offs, because of colds. This does not include another tremendous loss to industry through the lack of top efficiency on the part of those who manage to keep working, but are necessarily greatly slowed up. Also, there is another boon to be considered. Colds, which seem so harmless, too often lead to serious and fatal illnesses.

It is to be hoped that the doctor's labors will realize his hopes.

EYESIGHT AND ACCIDENTS

There is no doubt that defective eyesight is responsible for a good many automobile accidents, although drivers may not realize that fact. Myopia, astigmatism and kindred troubles are the prolific causes of collision, which may be very disastrous. According to Dr. Edwin H. Silver, of Washington, an expert optometrist, one-quarter of all motorists have optical trouble of some sort, and are a menace to themselves and others on the road.

Of course, the doctor cannot know that without a personal examination of the army of motorists in America—a manifest impossibility—but he is pretty nearly right, as the experiences of States that have eye tests for applicants for automobile licenses clearly prove. There are at present only Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Vermont and Maryland. The District of Columbia also requires an examination. And the interesting fact is that big cities in States where the test is required have, as a rule, the lowest accident rate.

Every state in the Union will probably be urged to put standard tests into practice. This may help the optometrists, but it will help the cause of safe automobilism far more.

WELCOME STRANGER

Young Mr. Lindbergh (will he be Charles Augustus, Junior, or Dwight Morrow?) is, although he does not know it, a most highly acclaimed addition to the population of the United States. America's love and admiration for his gallant father has diminished not one bit in three eventful years, and his gracious little mother has also won for herself a place beside that of her distinguished husband. There will be real rejoicing today over the fact that Lindy and Anne have a son.

We may expect fine things of the new arrival. With his splendid heritage it will be strange indeed if he does not carve out a notable career for himself. But before all that, everybody hopes that he will be a lusty boy, that his childhood will be one of health and happiness and that he will be a continued great joy to his happy parents. That is enough to wish him just now.

Welcome, little stranger.

Old Lady — "Yes, What about it?"

Guide — "The man that lives there buried seven wives!"

A young woman who wished to engage Calvin Coolidge in conversation when he was president, told Mr. Coolidge that her father had laid a wager that she couldn't get him to utter three words. She expected that this would start him talking. But he said quietly: "Dad wus!"

When Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes was leaving a certain hotel he was asked to write something as a souvenir, in the hotel register. "With pleasure," said the Doctor, as he wrote: "I was told to come to this hotel for change and rest. The waiter got the change and the landlord got the rest."

ALL STATES NEWS

IMPORTING OUR STATESMEN

Every American boy wants to be President, but the foreign-born child in this country knows that it is an impossible dream for him. Disqualified by our laws for the highest office in the land, he can hope, nevertheless, for other high places. Right now, sixteen one-time "aliens" sit in the United States Congress. One is in the Cabinet and two are on the Federal Bench.

"Puddler Jim" Davis, now Secretary of Labor and Republican senatorial nominee from Pennsylvania, came from Wales when he was eight years old. Charles P. McClelland, arriving here from Scotland at the age of seventeen, now serves as a judge in the United States Customs Court. Justice George Sutherland of the United States Supreme Court, who looked out from his cradle on English surroundings, served in the House of Representatives and in the Senate before President Harding appointed him to his present judgeship.

Four Senators are Americans by process of naturalization. They are: Robert Wagner of New York (originally from Germany); Felix Herbert of Rhode Island (Canada); James Couzens of Michigan (Canada); and Patrick Sullivan of Wyoming (Ireland). The House boasts an even dozen Representatives born in other countries. The two Congressmen Eaton of New Jersey and Colorado, Representative Sprout of Illinois and Sinclair of North Dakota are all originally from Canada. England sent us Crowther of New York and Cooper of Ohio. Ireland contributed Mr. Carley of New York, while Russia donated his colleague, Mr. Dickstein. The others are: Representative Michaelson of Illinois (Norway); Representative Palmisano of Maryland (Italy); Representative Sabath of Illinois (Bohemia); and Representative Cresser of Ohio (Caledonia). Four of the foreign-born Congressmen could speak no English when they came here.

FOREST RANGERS ON THE SEA

A forest ranger without spurs? Without a Stetson Hat? Without even a horse? Strange as it may seem to movie fans and Western novel readers, such rangers do exist. They are the sea-going rangers who help to look after Uncle Sam's two national forests in the rainy island-dotted coast regions of Alaska. One is the Chugach Forest, covering about 7,500 square miles, and the other the Tongass, covering almost 26,000 square miles.

The ranger, with one assistant, makes his rounds in a power boat that navigates the numerous bays and fjords of that region. It is no easy job. His territory has not been fully chartered, yet he must know the district's every turn and crook. For enemies, he has the fog, tide changes, storms and even an occasional iceberg. Some of the ranger's tasks include the inspection of a timber sale, the survey of a homestead, the appraisal of a fox farm, or the measurement of water power. He possesses a valuable knowledge regarding inaccessible regions, Indian affairs, and the personnel of various camps and settlements, so he often renders important aid in solving problems of that remote region. The ranger carries with him besides the tools of a woodsman, navigator, and mechanic, the clerical equipment of a file case, typewriter, and adding machine, for he must do office work on his job.

A GOOD BOOK IS A JOY FOREVER

A good book, like a real person, will always rise to its proper level. There are some books that must live and sell at any price in any year, and publishers search for these books. Always there are writers who yearn to put immortal words on paper, asking no money in return. Axel Munthe, author of "The Story of San Michele," has informed Duttons that the royalties from the book are to go for the protection of animals and migratory birds.

Originally published in July, 1929, "The Story of San Michele" has since that time gradually climbed to its place of best selling non-fiction, as reported by the leading book stores.

Here is an autobiography like no other; a good story that brings together laughter, shudders and tears, with dashes of travel narrative, confessions, dramatic intrigue, psychology and nature study. Axel Munthe,

Swedish doctor, has practiced in Paris and Rome and has rebuilt a villa of Tiberius on the Island of Capri. He once rushed from Lapidary to Naples to serve humanity in a cholera epidemic. He knew such men as Pasteur, William and Henry James, but can devote a sympathetic chapter to Jack, a gorilla in the zoo, of whom he writes: "He had cast off his animal disguise and become a dying human being. . . . I recognized him well by the slow grip of his hand."

Dr. Munthe has lived his code of pity. The story of his war on the Island of Capri against the century old business of netting birds has an exciting plot with a famous specialist in blinding birds, for its villain. Even more dramatic are the doctor's true stories of human friends and patients of royalty and the slums. All the chapters of his life are threaded on a mystical, but thoroughly practicable philosophy.

Every youth who dreams of becoming a doctor, every man or woman who is one, every person who is the patient of one, and everyone who is interested in human beings and animals, will surely feel that each of the 530 pages is worth the seven-tenths of a cent it costs. If there is one who doesn't come within these classifications, he should read "The Story of San Michele" just for the thrills in it.

POLITICS AND PERSONALITIES

"The new flexible provision," President Hoover said in his statement regarding the 1930 tariff bill, "established the responsibility for revision upon a reorganized Tariff Commission . . . acting through semi-judicial methods of open hearings and investigations by which items be taken up . . . upon application of aggrieved parties."

This is a standing invitation to American industrialists to come to the Tariff Commission with their woes and ask that body to recommend higher duties for their benefit. The Commission is supposedly a fact-finding body with the strictly non-partisan duty of investigating differences in costs of production here and abroad and reporting its findings to the President who may then alter duties in accordance with the facts. Yet, recently the Commission has been functioning as a publicity bureau for the new tariff bill, actually sending out material to the newspapers terming the measure "a great benefit to agriculture." Its chairman, Edgar Brossard, of Utah, not long ago delivered an address to a woman's club in which he relinquished all claims to non-partisanship by waving the banners of protectionism.

It isn't likely that agriculturists will gain much from the flexible plan. For one thing, they aren't as practiced as industrialists in seeking and obtaining favors. However, the domestic sugar manufacturers riding on their old slogan of "farm relief" have already expressed their dissatisfaction. That they sustain their "American agricultural industry" by importing their seed from Germany and their labor from Mexico are well known facts.

The domestic sugar group is favorably situated in regard to the Tariff Commission. Dr. Brossard is from Utah, a state devoted to the sugar beet. Between him and Senator Reed Smoot there exists a bond so strong that one senator has described the two as "the gold-dust twins from Utah."

JOURNALISM YELLOW WITH AGE

How to prolong the physical life of our newspaper is a problem that occupies ingenious minds in the Federal Bureau of Standards. As an authentic source of historical information the newspaper of today will be invaluable tomorrow. However, it is printed on paper designed for the present, and time has demonstrated the perishable quality of its makeup. Newspaper records covering the period from 1870 to 1927, for instance, are now in danger of total extinction.

During the early history of journalism in this country, newspapers were printed on expensive paper of chemically refined cotton or linen fibers. To meet popular demand for cheap dailies and weeklies, the wood fibers were adopted around 1870 and proved ideal for the purpose.

Their impermanence didn't matter then as it does now. The papers printed before 1870 are still in existence.

A movement was started, some time ago among editors and publishers to issue special editions of newspapers printed on permanent paper. This takes care of our records up to 1870 and after 1927, but filling the 57-year gap is a tougher problem. The Bureau of Standards is cooperating with librarians in an endeavor to preserve what we have of these precious records. Possibly the most effective treatment found so far is to paste strong Japanese tissue paper on the sheets with starch.

MILES OF LIGHT

To light 3,000 more miles of airways and furnish hourly radio broadcasts of weather information to pilots is the ambitious air program of the Department of Commerce for 1930. If the program is completed, as is confidently expected, beacon searchlights will brighten about 17,500 miles of Federal airways altogether by the end of this year, while sixty-five radio weather broadcasting stations will be in operation. In addition, the system will be extended to 8,500 miles of collecting weather reports with automatic telegraph typewriters.

These important aids to aviation will be open to all flyers without reservation. The hourly radio information regarding weather conditions will be available to every pilot in almost every square mile of area given to regular flying. Beacon lights are generally located at ten mile intervals. The Department of Commerce leases and conditions intermediate landing fields placed from 20 to 30 miles apart.

PROTECTION FOR NEW IDEAS

The woman who pays heavily for the original model of a dress only to see it blossom on countless other women a week later should sympathize with the purpose of the Vestal Copyright Bill, pending in Congress. This measure, sponsored by Representative Albert Vestal of Indiana, is a boon to the designer and a blow to the copyist. It applies to numberless articles besides dresses, however. Character dolls, lemon squeezers, jewelry, chairs and almost everything of original design can be copyrighted under the act.

The necessity for copyright protection is in part a result of the spread of education. The masses have had their discrimination raised to a point where ordinary wares will not satisfy any longer. Hence the feverish scramble for "something new." But when something new is found, it becomes the property of every salesman in short time, and the original creator gets small reward for his inspiration and trouble. Besides, the copied articles usually sell for a smaller price than the originals, so the designer is left "holding the sack" financially.

Warm Baths Rest Tired Nerves And Bring Relaxation

THE other day I took a short train trip, and as it was a two-hour ride, I said to my companion, "I think I will take a nap. It will do me good."

The girl smiled enviously. "Oh, Miss Hale," she said, "if only I could sleep during the day time—how happy I would be! Do you mean to say you actually can sleep here in the chair car?"

I nodded, and she sighed, "You are a lucky person."

I put my head back, and soon fell asleep. When I woke up refreshed my companion looked tired, and there were deep lines under her eyes. Again she said, "You are lucky! I tried to take a nap, but it was no use."

All of you who have trouble sleeping in the day time have my sincere sympathy. But I wonder if the difficulty is not more mental than physical. Probably you try so hard to sleep that you defeat your purpose. Try this method, the next time you have a chance to take a nap. Drop down on a couch and close your eyes, but do not try to go to sleep. Just relax, and let your hands and feet go limp. Think of pleasant things, but do not try to plan anything definite. Even if you do not go to sleep, at least you will feel rested because you relaxed.

Many women find a warm bath is an excellent way to rest tired nerves and bring a complete sense of relaxation. Simply fill your bath tub with water that is neither hot nor cold—just warm and soothing. Then throw a handful of granulated bath salts into the water. They will dissolve very quickly, softening the water and making your bathroom smell like a garden of flowers.

After your bath, gently rub your skin with toilet water, and apply dusting powder with a big, fluffy powder puff. You will be surprised how easily your clothes slip on afterward.

If you plan to go out, I recommend a little nap after this "luxury" bath. Five or ten minutes' rest will make your eyes brighter and your mind seem much more alert. If your eyes feel especially tired and drawn, try this simple remedy: Saturate two small pads of cotton with a good eye lotion. Let a few drops of the lotion run into your eyes, and then place one of the dampened pads of cotton over each eye. Let these pads remain on your eyes while you take a nap, or rest for a few minutes. The antiseptic eye wash will soothe your lids, and your eyes will be bright and clear when you get up.

Did you ever stop to think?

I am spending a few days at the Hotel Alexandria at Los Angeles, Southern California's most famous hotel.

People here tell me that there is but one Los Angeles; that in all this wide world there is no other spot that is so favored by nature, no other place so wonderful and so beautiful; that this is the garden spot where first came the primitive man and chased the striped cats with long fangs into the sea, then took possession so that the following generations could come here and live in peace and plenty and die in happiness.

Senator Charles B. Hamilton, vice president and general manager of the Alexandria Hotel, took me around the city and told me much of its history. Los Angeles is one of the most interesting cities in the country; a person coming here is vividly impressed with its individuality—a type all its own—its blending of old and modern architecture that is as pleasing as it is novel.

This internationally known Hotel Alexandria is unique on account of the organization Senator Hamilton has gathered around him; they seem to be completely satisfying their guests, who come from all over America and from all over the world. Service is their motto and the way the members of the hotel organization come in personal contact with their guests is something new and brings much satisfaction to guests. They are also given personal attention in the way of tours and are furnished complete information about the state, its business and its needs.

It's a tremendous thing they have done in Los Angeles and Southern California, I reflected. Out of a barren desert they have in two generations developed a flourishing empire, and with undiminished vision they realize that they have just begun.

OPEN MONDAYS
8:30 A. M. to 5 P. M.

That grand old man of American Scouting, Daniel Carter Beard, celebrated his eightieth birthday last Saturday and in all parts of the country, men and boys who have learned from "Uncle Dan" much of the lure of the fields and forests and of things to make and do, joined together on congratulating him and wishing him many more years of happiness ahead.

Boys everywhere know Mr. Beard best as the National Scout Commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America and as chairman of the National Court of Honor and Honorary Vice-President of the Movement. In that capacity he has awarded to thousands of Scouts the Awards of the National Court of Honor and the Gold Honor or Medals which go only to those who risk their own lives to save the lives of others. They know him, too, as a writer of handcraft books and articles for boys and as an artist and illustrator who is a cheerful friend of youth.

Civil War Days
But Dan Beard's history of accomplishment dates much farther back than that. He spent his boyhood in Ohio in the days of the Civil War and after his schooling worked for a map publishing company. In that capacity he mapped most of the cities east of the Mississippi River and had an opportunity of doing what he most likes to do—study people. His hobby in those days was drawing and when a magazine editor happened to come across one and bought it, the young artist decided that being an artist would be much more fun than being a surveyor, and so adopted art as his life work. Since then he has launched out into other lines of endeavor.

Fathers and mothers of present day Scouts and other boys and girls will remember back to the days when "Uncle Dan" was best known as the illustrator of Mark Twain's Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court, as founder of the first class of animal drawing in the world and as the author of the "Boy's Own Handy Book," the first of a long series of books on how to make and do things that has made Mr. Beard world famous.

Many Honors
The National Scout Commissioner has been honored on many occasions and at eighty he is one of the few men in the world to hold the Roosevelt Medal, the Silver Buffalo Award of the Boy Scouts of America and the Silver Wolf of the British Boy Scouts Association for Distinguished Service to Boyhood. A mountain peak, one of the tallest in America, Mt. Beard, next to Mt. McKinley, which was discovered by the Brown and Parker Expedition, has been named in his honor.

The citation which accompanied the Award of the Silver Buffalo follows: "Daniel Carter Beard, author, artist, out-of-doors-man, pioneer of outdoor movements for boys as founder of Boy Pioneers and Sons of Daniel Boone, Honorary Vice-President, National Scout Commissioner, Chairman, National Court of Honor and charter member of Executive Board of the Boy Scouts of America, whose prestige, wisdom and experience have been pillars in the structure of the organization."

His Studio
Dan Beard lives in Suffern, N. Y., in a great house surrounded by tall trees. Most times, though, he can be found in his studio which is located in the back of what "Uncle Dan" terms his yard. The yard comprises many acres of land and there are tall trees on it, a trout stream and birds and flowers. Until a short time ago he was a resident of Plushing, L. I., but things got too crowded there.

It was in his studio that "Uncle Dan" celebrated his birthday this year because that is his most loved place. And to those Scouts who sent messages of greeting, and to the thousands of others of his friends, the hero of a thousand camp fires sends a cheery greeting.

"Stay with me for another eighty years and I'll show you all a jim dandy time."

NEW SCOUT CAMP
A camp-site of more than 26 acres situated in the Durango Valley, 15 miles from Dubuque, Ia., was recently dedicated to the Boy Scouts of the Dubuque Council by the Wallis Estate through Mr. John Rider Wallis. The property consists of heavily wooded virgin timber of every known species.

Through the efforts of the local Carpenters' Union of Dubuque and the four retail lumber yards in that city, a cabin 46 by 76 feet was erected with double floor, slab, running hot and cold water. This plumbing was installed by the Plumbers' Union. The cabin contains a large kitchen, an extensive headquarters room and a cook's room. At one end there is a huge fireplace which was donated by a contractor.

Through the efforts of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs who each year hold a sports tournament and then turn the gained receipts over to the Boy Scouts, two 12 by 18 huts have been built. They are used as staff headquarters and museum.

SCOUTS CONDUCT POLL
When the Chamber of Commerce of the city of Danville, Ill., wanted to determine if the majority of the residents favored the adoption of Daylight Saving Time this year, they got the Boy Scouts of the city to make a poll of all residents. It was estimated that the work of the Scouts saved the city $16,000.00 which would have been the cost of a special election.

The city was divided into 90 districts for the purpose of the poll and the Scouts did their work efficiently and well.

AID AT FIRE
When fire broke out at the Cardiac Home for Children at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., recently and the inmates were forced out of the building without ample clothing, Boy Scouts of the community provided sweaters and coats for the children.

CARRIER PIGEONS
Boy Scouts of Cincinnati, Ohio, have recently acquired and are training two pairs of carrier pigeons. The birds were presented by Howard Zeiglerhardt, Cincinnati fancier, and will be housed at Camp Edgar Friedlander, the Council camp.

Nutley Scouts will conduct a Court of Honor Friday evening in the Town Hall. A large number of merit badges are to be awarded, the outstanding award of the night being a bronze Eagle Palm to be awarded to Arvid Micleson. Following is the list of badges to be awarded:

Troop 3—Jack Hoedemaker, for printing; Harold Hoskins, athletics and life scout; John Lowe, civics; Stanley Newark, life scout and athletics.

Troop 4—Thomas Palkow, auto-mobiling and masonry.

Troop 6—Harold Peterson, star scout.

Troop 7—Edward Dufourd, marksmanship; William Fritze, swimming; Frank Scamell, canoeing; Arvid Micleson, bronze Eagle Palm; Russell Wester, leathercraft and interpreting; Floyd Wolfarth, cycling and star scout.

Troop 8—George Bickell, wood-work and star scout; Stanley Brewster, handicraft; Richard Garrait, woodwork, carpentry, and personal health; Harold Schoenfeldt, metal work; Clarence E. Turton (scout-master), handicraft; Fred N. Young, leathercraft.

Troop 11—George Birmingham, carpentry and handicraft; L. Blankenbury, leathercraft and weather; F. McMahon, first aid to animals; Fred Sachs, plumbing and signaling; John Sherwood, civics.

Jacob Hoedemaker will be the only scout to be advanced in rank. He will be awarded his first class badge at the Court of Honor. Anyone interested in scouting is invited to attend this meeting. The court of honor consists of Emil Diebitsch, chairman, Charles N. Caldwell, secretary, R. J. Dufourd and James Garrait.

Human Relations Urgent Problem Of Day, Rotary Hears
Chicago, June 24.—Human relations have become the most urgent problem of the day, President M. Eugene Newsom told the twenty thousand delegates to the Rotary International convention today who are here to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the founding of Rotary. The greatest usefulness for the strength and influence which Rotary has achieved, he said, lies in choosing the means by which friendship can be interpreted and applied, in teaching that distances no longer exist and human relations must be founded upon friendship.

"It has been my pleasure," said President Newsom, "to visit many meetings deliberately planned for the purpose of reaching vast numbers, which further demonstrate that Rotary's great purpose in the world, its mission or friendliness, its utilization of voluntary effort, its program and its conception of direct application, hold the same interest in almost every section of the universe that existed in the early days of the Rotary Club of Chicago, twenty-five years ago."

"Such a convention as this demonstrates what friendship can mean to men of all nations. Rotary's increasing purpose demands a program of simplicity, built around an ideal that can be woven into the fabric of every nation and interpreted in words that have no double meaning. Both the purpose of Rotary and the plan through which it works are products of the past, tested and found to contain those elements of permanency which should challenge the faith and confidence of all. To the future we must look for the perfection of organization which which can make practical both the purpose and program of Rotary."

"Science and human ingenuity have combined in making possible the development of an organization plan which bids fair to set a pace for the faith, courage and spirit of youth in the progress of years to come. Paul Harris and his little band found it more difficult to promote fellowship twenty-five years ago in this city of our host club than you and I should find today in making friendship the basis of world relations."

"What great changes come about in community progress when friendship is the law governing social relations and the ideal prompting your activity in its behalf! What marvelous changes can be wrought in the world structures if friendship is applied to the solution of all world problems! It cannot be done in a day, for hatred, jealousy, selfishness and envy have been the opponents of friendship for centuries past. It is the work for future years."

"Friendship is that motive which must guide us in the year ahead. Languages hold no difficulty in seeking its meaning. Customs and traditions fade away when friendship enters. Ideals may be difficult to define, but friendship ultimately provides its own interpretation. It can find a place among all nations and its laws never can be questioned. May we not, therefore, seek during coming generations, to give friendship its rightful place in the world."

The formal business sessions of the 25th anniversary convention began today, when the first session was called to order by Crawford C. McCullough, of Fort William, Ontario, the chairman of the convention committee. He called upon President Floyd L. Bateman of the Rotary Club of Chicago to extend a formal welcome to the visiting Rotarians. Dr. Otto Bohler, president of the Manufacturers Association of Austria, and one of Central Europe's leading steel manufacturers, responded in the name of the visitors. He is first vice president of Rotary International.

The afternoon program of the convention today consists of a series of assemblies which divide the delegates into groups according to their occupations, for the discussion of business problems from Rotary viewpoint. State and district dinners occupy the evening. Illinois and Ohio Rotarians will have as guests the governors of their states. The Spanish-Portuguese speaking dinner will have as toastmaster Vizconde de Casa Aguilera, personal physician to King Alfonso, and one of the Directors of Rotary International.

Teams of two representing a great many of the Rotary clubs, were in competition today for the two Rotary convention golf trophies, one for players with handicaps of 14 strokes or less, and one for players with handicaps of 15 strokes or more.

While the men were in their craft business conferences, the ladies were taken on a tour of the boulevards and parks of Chicago, followed by a tea and musicale at the Edgewater Beach Hotel.

Chicago, June 24.—The business of making friends from some of the 62 countries represented at the Silver Anniversary convention of Rotarians, was combined today by the Rotarians with the discussion of the business of making a living, in one hundred assemblies organized by occupations, into which the thousands of visiting Rotarians were divided. In these groups of doctors, lawyers, educators, merchants of many kinds, engineers and on through all the scores of crafts represented, there was an informal discussion of the current practices in business, and ways and means to make business better.

In one of these assemblies, all the various groups interested in the woolen business were gathered to report, from the sheep raiser to the clothing retailer, the difficulties of the trade which might be overcome by friendly conference. If this experimental conference on the woolen industry bears the expected fruit, plans will be made to extend the program to other major industries.

The vocational assemblies were explained and introduced in the general convention session today by Raymond M. Havens of Kansas City, past president of Rotary, who has had conspicuous success with the introduction of improved vocational methods in his own printing plant. The general topics of the sessions included undesirable business practices, the field of craft associations, the adoption of codes of standards of correct practice, and the relation between industry and international peace.

A few rotarians spent the afternoon competing for two convention golf trophies at the Countryside Golf Club. Teams of two from each club were eligible, in the classes, having handicaps below and above fifteen strokes.

The annual reunion of Rotarians from Latin-America, at the Spanish-Portuguese speaking dinner in the Stevens Hotel Tower was one of the most brilliant events of the convention. Vizconde de Casa Aguilera, of Madrid, Spain, one of the directors of Rotary International, presided as toastmaster. President Luis Machado of the Rotary Club of Havana, Cuba, led a large delegation of Cuban Rotarians to the convention. Other Central and South American countries were well represented.

Governor Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois was the guest of honor at the banquet of more than a thousand Illinois Rotarians. Governor Meyers Y. Cooper of Ohio was likewise the guest of honor at the Ohio Rotary banquet. Many other states and sections also celebrated a convention reunion tonight. This was the only night of the week for which no general entertainment program had been arranged.

Official reports today by President M. Eugene Newsom, of Durham, North Carolina, and Secretary Chesley R. Perry, of Chicago, disclosed that nearly two hundred new Rotary clubs had been organized in the past year. For the first time, more than half of them were formed outside the United States. Clubs have been organized in thirty-four different countries in the past year, and in three of these, it was the first Rotary club in an additional country, the Federated Malay States, Algeria and Morocco.

President Newsom also reported the raising of nearly a hundred thousand dollars for the Rotary Foundation Fund, under the active leadership of Arch Klumph, Cleveland lumberman, banker and civic leader. This fund is designed for a sort of endowment fund for Rotary. It has been accumulated through small gifts, insurance policies taken out by clubs, and bequests.

Chairman Crawford C. McCullough of the convention committee, from Fort William, Ontario, opened the formal business sessions of the convention this morning, with the introduction of President Floyd L. Bateman who extended the official welcome. Dr. Otto Bohler of Vienna, responded in the name of the visiting Rotarians.

The first business before the convention Wednesday morning will be the nomination of candidates for president and directors of Rotary. Two who have been actively in the field for the nomination for the presidency are Raymond J. Kneppel of New York City, and Almon E. Roth of Palo Alto, California. Mr. Kneppel is an attorney, was twice president of the New York Rotary club, and has been active in Rotary work since 1914. Mr. Roth is business manager of Stanford University, his alma mater. He joined the Palo Alto Rotary club in 1922, and was president of that club in 1925-26. Both candidates have served a term as director of Rotary International.

Business Bureau Warns About Fraud In Stock Sales

Detroit, June 24.—A warning against fraudulent brokers and promoters who are offering stock in foreign Ford motor companies was issued today by the Better Business Bureau of Detroit, in conjunction with the National Better Business Bureau and affiliated offices throughout the United States and Canada.

Relying on the goodwill and integrity of the Ford name, thousands of persons throughout the country have purchased stocks which either turned out to be spurious or were not delivered at all, the warning said. There is no way of estimating the financial loss involved.

"There are a number of fraudulent concerns in various part of the country that represent themselves as brokerage houses and that offer stocks in various foreign Ford companies," the statement from the Better Business Bureau said.

"Several of these companies sell in the partial payment plan. They offer stock for stipulated down payment and a fixed sum per month. Before the final payment becomes due and the stock is delivered to the purchaser, the company goes out of business and its officers disappear only to begin operations at another location and under another name."

"Stocks of the Ford Motor Company of England, Ltd., and the Ford Motor Company of France are listed on the New York Curb market and the prices at which they are currently selling are printed in the financial pages of the newspaper. Nevertheless many persons are being led by unscrupulous brokers to pay far in excess of the market prices.

"The majority of stock brokers, of course, are honest. Our warning is directed solely against the fraudulent concerns that carry on their fleecing of the public under the guise of reputable concerns. Anyone contemplating the purchase of stocks should first consult his local Better Business Bureau."

$99.75 cash
$105.75 on terms

YOU need not wait to purchase the Thor outright. You can buy it on terms by paying $5 down and the balance in small payments over a period of eighteen months.

When you buy you make a lifetime investment because the Thor is sturdily built. It is of compact size, designed to hold a large washing but to occupy as little room as possible in kitchen or laundry.

You'll like the Thor washing method. It will not tear materials yet it removes all the dirt from each article. The wringer is adjustable and has rollers of soft rubber. Buttons and fasteners are not even loosened as the garment goes through the wringer.

THE De Luxe Sedan, recently added to the Ford line, is designed for those who desire distinctiveness and unusual comfort in an automobile. The interior is inviting and roomy with wide doors to both compart-

a striking individuality and affords privacy to the occupants.

Interior trimmings and appointments are luxurious.
Upholstery is either in brown mohair or a deep tan Bedford cord patterned after that used in high-priced cars.

Other refinements include arm rests for the rear seat, mahogany finished garnish mouldings on the windows and beneath the windshield, flexible robe rail and handware in an attractive pattern.

The front seat is adjustable within a range of four inches to suit the convenience and comfort of the driver.
It is moved quickly and easily by a small, inconspicuous

ICHABOD CRANE HAD A FLASHLIGHT

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers
Association

WE ALL remember the story of Ichabod Crane and the headless horseman. There was the dark form by the side of the road—thundering hoofs on the Sleepy Hollow highway—and Ichabod fleeing in confusion before this terrible monster. If Ichabod had only known that his hobgoblin was an inventive rival disguised with a pumpkin head, he would have had a good laugh and gone on with the business of vanquishing his competitor.

What Ichabod really needed was a modern flashlight. Then he would have discovered the trickery at once. Many business men need the flashlight of analysis to uncover the hobgoblins in their business and then they might sit back and laugh at their rivals who hesitate to investigate and learn the truth.

RESERVE SYSTEM'S DIVIDENDS ANALYZED

Bankers Find Increased Payments to Member Banks Would Be Small Inducement.

Various proposals that member banks in the Federal Reserve System should participate more largely in its net earnings through an increase in the dividend rate above the present fixed 6 per cent "would be a very small financial inducement" to them, it is declared in a recent study of this subject by the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. This is shown, the commission says, by a theoretical forecast, on the basis of the past six years, of additional earnings that would be distributed to member banks during the next six years under two plans introduced in bills before the United States Senate.

"The Fletcher bill provides that Federal Reserve Bank earnings, after present 6 per cent dividends to members and completion of a 100 per cent surplus, should all be distributed as extra dividends to the stockholder banks," the report says. "If the earnings of each Federal Reserve Bank were distributed among its own members there would be no extra dividends in the Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco districts during the next six years, but the other six Federal Reserve Banks would pay annual extras at the following rates: Richmond, 6.08 per cent; Atlanta, 4.09 per cent; St. Louis, 3.50 per cent; Minneapolis, 9.51 per cent; Kansas City, 5.43 per cent; Dallas, 4.33 per cent.

"If the earnings were pooled and paid out to all members in all districts each member would receive an average annual extra dividend of .78 per cent. Under this plan no franchise tax as now would be paid by the Federal Reserve Banks to the Federal Government.

Another Plan Analyzed
"The Glass bill would provide that, after present 6 per cent dividends, one-half the remainder should be paid to member banks as an extra dividend with the residue going to surplus and Federal Government as franchise tax. The average annual extras to members would be as follows: Boston District, 2.51 per cent; New York, .48 per cent; Philadelphia, 2.05 per cent; Cleveland, 2.09 per cent; Richmond, 3.26 per cent; Atlanta, 4.67 per cent; Chicago, 3.20 per cent; St. Louis, 2.02 per cent; Minneapolis, 4.75 per cent; Kansas City, 2.74 per cent; Dallas, 3.31 per cent; San Francisco, 1.87 per cent.

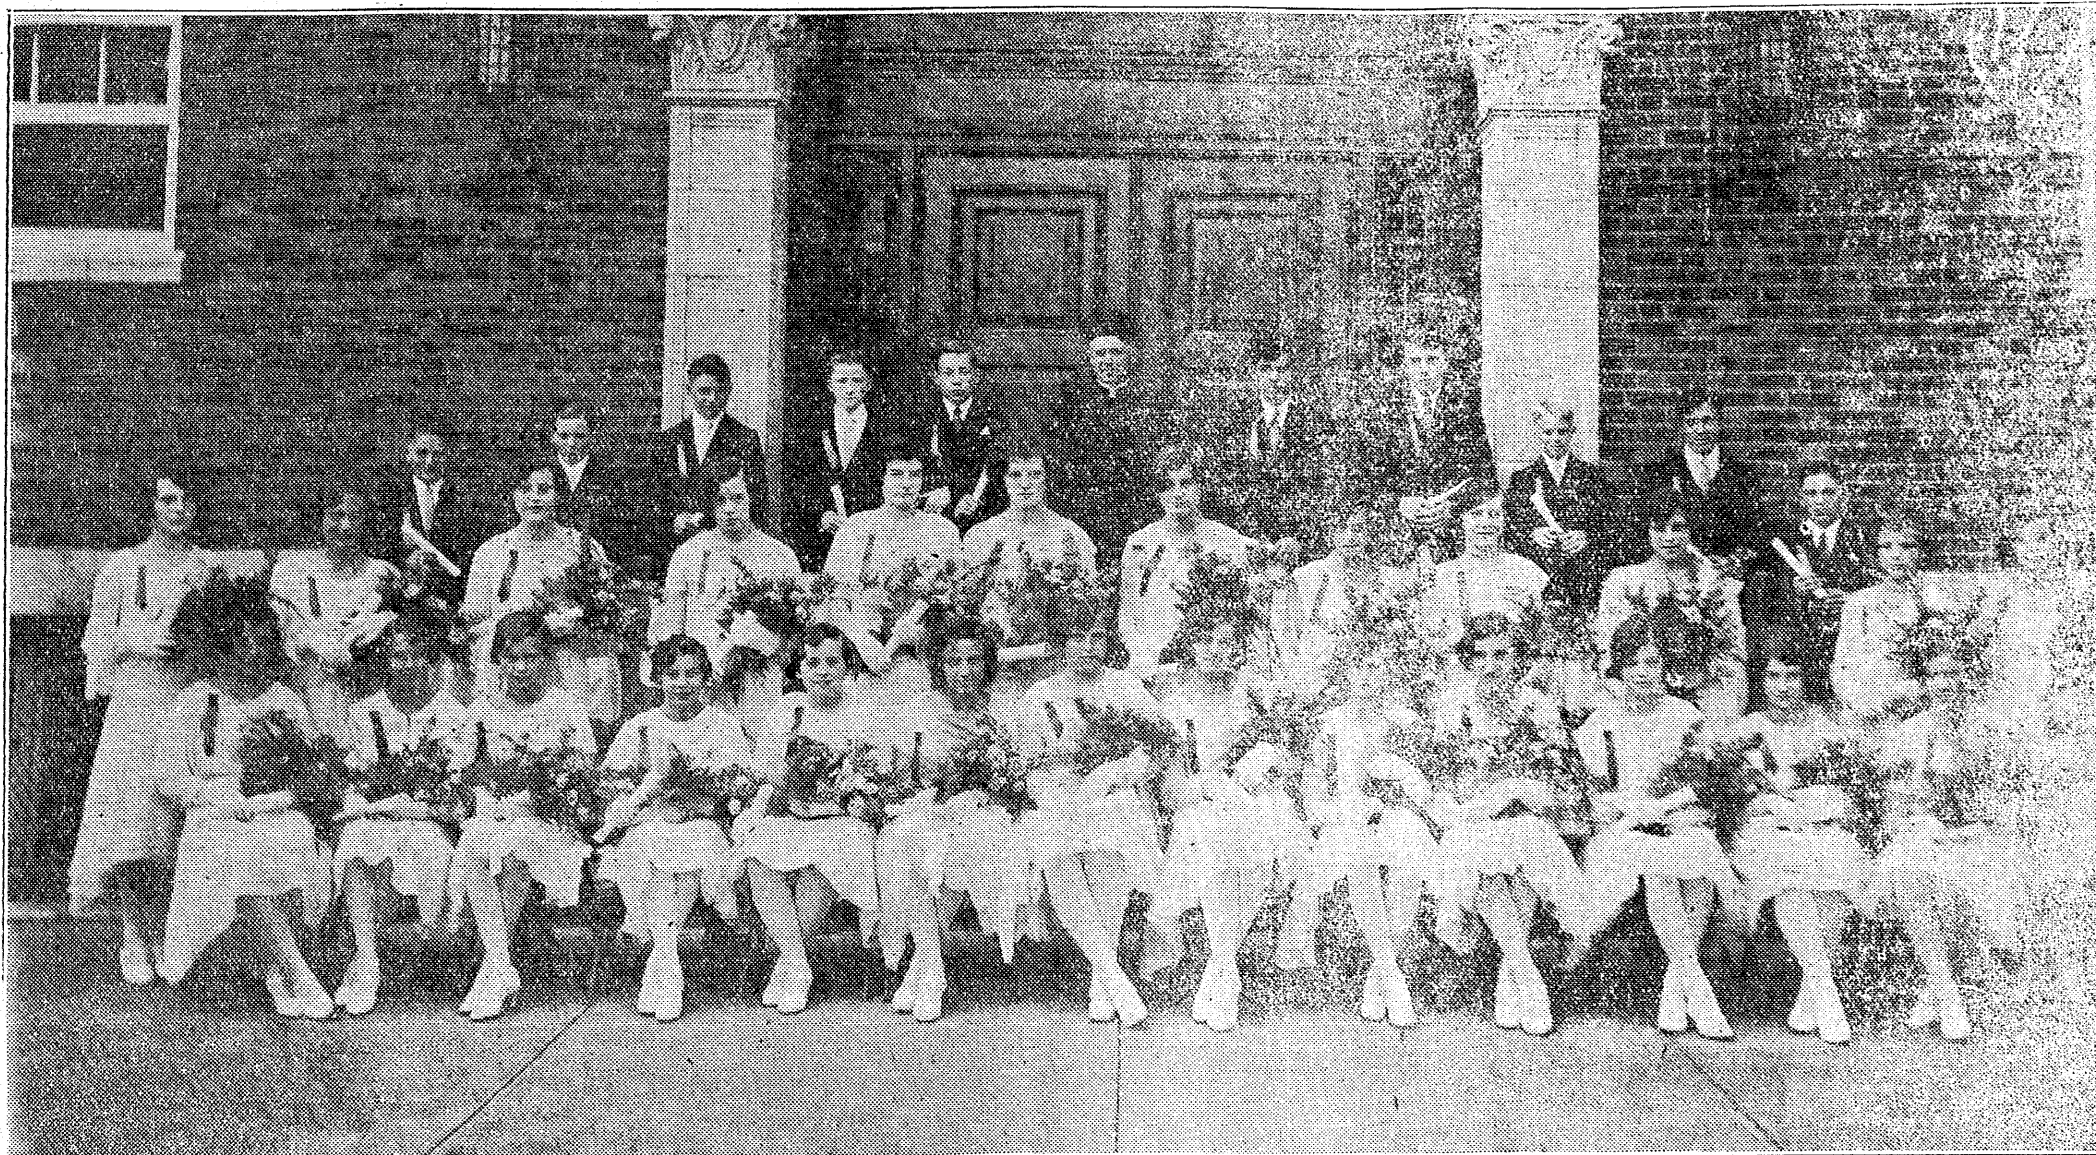

"If these extra funds were pooled the result would be an extra average annual dividend of 1.73 per cent for each member. Under this plan the system would still pay as now an annual franchise tax, amounting to $1,941,996 on the average."

By way of concrete instance, the report says, a member bank having capital and surplus of $200,000, therefore holding Federal Reserve Bank stock amounting to $6,000 on which it is receiving $360 under the present 6 per cent dividend arrangement, would with the addition of each 1 per cent to the dividend rate receive an additional income of $60 a year.

"If each member bank will figure out for itself the dollar-and-cents gain it would enjoy we are confident it will be agreed that the gains are small as against the economic disadvantages which can be pointed out," it concludes.

Charles Sheppard of 8 Bell street, suffered a broken leg when he fell from a cherry tree at his home Thursday night. He was taken to St. Barnabas' Hospital in the police ambulance by Patrolmen Gross and Booth.

When John Plays His Harmonica There Is Music In The Air

When John MacCarrick of 129 Mt. Prospect avenue starts playing his harmonica there is music in the air.

He was the winner of a silver loving cup and a wrist watch in the final event of a city wide harmonica contest held at the Savoy Theatre, Newark, last Saturday. The much advertised contest extended over a period of six weeks, in the course of which thirty-five contestants were eliminated, the Belleville entrant coming out on top in the final. Presentation of the cup was made by William J. Egan, director of public safety, Newark, while Newark police held up traffic on Springfield avenue in order that a news reel photographer might photograph the high lights of the proceedings.

John, 24, is not a novice on the world's humblest instrument. Seventeen years of practice and technical research are responsible for his title of Newark's champion. This research took a scientific form three years ago when he was appointed instructor of the Belleville Recreation Commission Harmonica Band. Already having a good knowledge of the principles of music, he took up the study of harmony, and was soon writing four-part arrangements for the chromatic harmonica. This unique instrument, explains the instructor, plays sharps and flats, thus making the harmonica a musical instrument capable of rendering the most intricate classical composition.

The Belleville band gave a number of concerts about the town which clearly demonstrated the value of the harmonica in building character and musical appreciation in the lads who composed it. John taught the boys by note and conducted the rehearsals in a manner which was a real credit to the recreation commission.

The commissions' cooperation, however, was merely moral, and so John did not take up the baton with this band the following season. Instead he organized the Just For Boys Harmonica Band, with the aid of the "Newark Evening News," which scored highly over the radio and on the stage in that city. This band now boasts of more than seventy players.

In addition to this undertaking, which required considerable time and study, the youthful virtuoso acted as instructor to thirty girls in the Y. W. C. A. Harmonica Classes, and to a group of boys in the Ironbound School of Music. The latter class is expected to show some real progress this fall and winter when it will be operated on a large scale by the Ironbound Community House.

John says that the value of the harmonica in the modern education of boys and girls is recognized far more in Philadelphia than it is here. One of his hands recently visited that city in connection with the Interstate Harmonica Contest in which more than 250 harmonica bands were represented. The City of Newark, however, is now waking up, he adds, inasmuch as they have made harmonica instruction a regular part of the school curricula.

Mayor Kenworthy Secretary Of New Essex G.O.P. Group

Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy has been elected executive secretary of the new Suburban Essex Republican Association, which includes in its membership all Mayors of the county outside of Newark. Mayor Charles H. Demarest of Bloomfield is president; Chairman John S. DeHart, Jr., of the Maplewood Township Committee, vice president, and Mayor Alfred Hurrell of Glen Ridge, treasurer.

The association will further the movement for good government and encourage outstanding men of the various communities to run for office with its support. County Counsel Arthur T. Vanderbilt, who with Senator Joseph G. Wolber sponsored the organization has been striving for twelve years to conciliate the Republicans of Essex and is confident the new group will accomplish important results in this connection.

Recognition has already been accorded the association by state leaders and the members will have chief say in state appointments and those of the county. The organization is destined to become one of the strongest in the state. Preparations for the November election will be made immediately after Labor Day, by which time the constitution and by-laws will be ready for presentation. Comprising the executive committee are: William F. O'Brien, president of the East Orange Fire Commission; Commissioner Harry E. Stanley of Irvington, Commissioner Frederick C. Erwin of West Orange, Edgar Bostock of Nutley and Mayor Douglas Herr of Essex Fells.

Marine Flyer Wins Curtiss Air Race

Setting a new mark for seaplanes, Captain Arthur H. Page, of the U. S. Marines, dashed over a 100-mile course at a 168.3 mile rate and won the Curtiss Marine trophy, awarded annually to the speediest flier of naval planes. The race was held recently at Anacostia, near Washington, and the Marine Corps pilot was the only representative of his branch of the service among the 24 fliers who competed. He used a Curtiss-Hawk to set the new mark which formerly stood at 162 miles an hour.

Miss May Winchell, Made A Captain, Goes To Red Bank

Commissioned a captain by the Salvation Army Training College, New York, last week, Miss May Winchell of 233 Little street, went to Red Bank Sunday to become assistant commanding officer of the corps there under Captain Madeline Hartrie.

A graduate of Belleville High School and state normal school, Miss Winchell taught two years in Belleville before entering the army college last fall.

At a public sneaking contest of winners of a similar contest in each college of the army in this country, Miss Winchell was the winner.

Miss Winchell was one of five chosen captains out of a class of more than 100. While teaching school she spent much of her spare time working for the army. Her father, Colonel Wallace Winchell of the Salvation Army, has been an officer more than forty years. Now a New York district executive, his duties include superintendence of the Memorial Hotel, Bowers, New York City.

During the World War he was commissioned by General Brannwell Booth to represent the army in the distribution of relief funds in Belgium.

Still Discovered

A ten-gallon still, six gallons of alcohol, a revolver and bullets and a razor were discovered by Patrolman Thomas Gallagher at 26 Watchung avenue, Sunday night.

SEES HEAVY CLAIMS ON FUTURE BANKERS

American Bankers Association Official Declares That Banking Changes Creating Large Bank Systems Will Call for Broader Social Viewpoints.

Larger scale group or branch banking will inevitably bring a new era of banking organization and operations to the United States and bankers will have to develop "new conceptions, new administrative methods and new economic views," Rudolf S. Hecht, Chairman of the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association, recently told the members of the American Institute of Banking.

The institute is the educational section of the association and he emphasized the point that the new era in banking demanded "that we must step up our education so that banking shall be fortified for new responsibilities."

What the Future Calls For

"We must broaden our social conception of banking," Mr. Hecht said. "Not only for the technical operations of the new banking must we fit ourselves, but both as individuals and an organized profession we must charge ourselves with serious consideration of the social problems that are involved. Already we hear murmurings and fears and doubts as to whether the changes that are coming about in banking in the extension of group and branch systems do not constitute the looming of a new financial menace, a monopolistic threat not only to the individual unit banker, but to the financial liberty of society in general. I am stating these things merely as facts that must be taken into consideration in our studies."

"Public opinion cannot be ignored by any business, least of all by banking, which is admittedly semi-public in character and is, therefore, subject to special supervision by the constituted authorities. If banking develops tendencies that give rise to public fears, we must so conduct ourselves as to reassure all doubts."

"For this is true—that business succeeds only by serving society—that no business can permanently prosper which does not both render service to the public and at the same time convince the public that it is rendering that service. Banking, therefore, must take cognizance of what the public is saying of this new era in its development."

"It must be part of the technique of modern banking administration, whatever form our enlarged institutions take, to avoid the creation of monopolies, or even the appearance of such a centralization of financial power as to be able to exercise an undue influence over public or private finance or other lines of business. The public's right to the safeguards of fair competition must be observed."

Must Preserve Individual Initiative

"It must also be an item of management that individual initiative and opportunity shall be maintained. If America has outstripped other nations in the distribution of the benefits of its progress, it is due to the fact that there are no barriers of social caste or business tradition against advancement for character, ability, and initiative. American business has learned that it serves itself best by encouraging by every practical means individual ambition and initiative, and hurls itself most by repressing or neglecting them. Competition for efficiency, both within an organization and between organizations, will prevent any institution from long enduring in which maintenance of opportunity and recognition of initiative are not controlling principles of management. As heads of the greatest of our financial and industrial institutions stand men who started from the humblest of beginnings. Through all the grades of executive authority and reward stand men in positions in keeping, generally speaking, with their individual merits. I, personally, see no reason for fearing that the enlarged banking organizations which the future may hold would necessarily supply future bank employees with any less opportunity for achievement than unit banking."

"Again, a major consideration of administration in any multiple form of banking organization must be its public relations in every community it touches. Its foremost consideration must be actually and visibly to serve the economic upbuilding of that community. No system will be long tolerated whose local members work, or are suspected as working, to draw economic strength from one place to enlarge the financial power of another. The local unit bank has always been part and parcel of the communities where it lives—and no system can last which does not make it a major principle of operating technique to serve, and not exploit, the communities into whose business lives it enters."

Growth of Banking Education
DENVER, Colo.—At the American Institute of Banking convention held here last month the growth in the effort among bank employees to provide themselves with banking education was shown by the fact, as reported by one speaker, that 12 years ago the institute had 80 study chapters, today 208, and that its enrollment in the study courses had grown from 11,000 to 45,000, or an increase of over 300 per cent. The graduates number nearly 14,000. The institute is the educational section of the American Bankers Association through which bank workers are given instruction in theoretical and practical subjects relating to their business.

The Idle Stomach—Our Most Serious Unemployment Problem

By E. V. McCollum, Ph.D., Sc.D.

Author of "The Newer Knowledge of Nutrition," "Food, Nutrition and Health," etc., Professor of Bio-Chemistry, School of Hygiene and Public Health, Johns Hopkins University.

LIVING as we do nowadays on a diet consisting largely of concentrated and highly refined foods, many persons too often overlook the absolute need for a certain quantity of "indigestibles"—food that keeps the digestive tract healthfully at work and provides the excess bulk so necessary to promote well being.

It is a recognized law of Nature that the digestive tract of any creature is adapted to suit the kind of diet to which the species long has been accustomed. And in order to obtain a clear picture of the importance of roughage in the human dietary, it might be well for us to review briefly the three types of creatures—including man—that compose the animal kingdom.

First, there is the species known as herbivora, who subsist entirely upon food of vegetable origin. These have stomachs of enormous capacity, and intestines which are large enough to contain the great residues of indigestible matter which result from a diet of coarse herbage. The lining membranes of the stomach and intestines of herbivorous animals, too, are highly resistant to mechanical injury and tolerate without damage the friction of the coarse residues as they pass along the digestive tract.

Flesh-Eating Animals

Next in the scale of animal species we find the carnivora, who restrict their food solely to the flesh of other animals. In this group we find that the digestive tract is of much smaller capacity, as a result, no doubt, of long adherence to food of exclusively animal origin. Meat, glandular organs and fat, we know, are highly concentrated foods; and even a small bulk suffices to provide ample nutrients for growth and the maintenance of weight, even when much of the food consumed is burned for the performance of work or the production of heat.

While the digestive tract in these flesh-eating animals functions satisfactorily without much indigestible material on which to work, it must be remembered that the carnivore, under natural conditions, takes a great deal of exercise and that the residue from their food is quite smooth in texture. Even so, many of these animals—as the dog, cat, lion and tiger—eat much bone substance, which is changed by the strong acidity of the stomach to form insoluble and fairly bulky material of a mass favorable to the mechanical functioning of the intestine, and thus makes elimination possible at a rate which is consistent with health.

Coming now to man—the third type of species in the animal kingdom—we find that he is omnivorous. Except in the far North, where no vegetable food is available, human beings draw their nutrition from both plant and animal life. Nevertheless, man cannot eat very bulky vegetable food in any considerable quantity, because his digestive tract is of small capacity. Neither can he safely eat of the coarser vegetables, because the lining membranes of his stomach and intestines are too delicate to withstand the scraping of the coarser particles of indigestible matter without injury.

What Cooking Does

One way in which man has attempted, and with success, to eat safely the coarser root and leafy vegetables, is through softening and disintegrating the cellulose of those foods by cooking them. The cooking process not only decomposes some of their substances, classed as cellulose, but makes the remainder of the food more digestible and thus averts the after distress of eating. When some of the smaller and fugitive tribes of American Indians were forced into localities in which game was scarce and food plants not abundant, they were compelled by circumstance to eat grass seed, acorns and other vegetable foods which are coarser than humans are accustomed to eat. They suffered greatly from indigestion, and doubtless injured their digestive tracts by taking cellulose which was too coarse and irritating. They had not less than a score of "grandmother" remedies for indigestion to attest these experiences.

Common knowledge tells us that indigestible things are dangerous if eaten freely; yet it is equally clear that our intestines do not function properly unless there is a certain amount of indigestible matter to distend them to the right degree, and to form a mass which is favorable for the muscular contractions of the intestine to move along with the peristaltic waves.

Between the extremes of having in the intestine too much and too coarse cellulose on the one hand, and too little indigestible bulky matter on the other, lies the happy medium which is favorable both to comfort and health. There are many kinds of cellulose in different vegetable products. It forms the framework and fibers of plants, the walls of vegetable cells and the coverings of seeds. In most of its forms, cellulose is insoluble in boiling water; and it is not acted upon by any of the digestive juices, though certain kinds of bacteria are capable of fermenting and digesting the cellulose of certain plants.

Bran is probably the form of cellulose which has been most discussed in connection with the improvement of intestinal hygiene through facilitating elimination. There is good reason for believing, however, that when bran is eaten exclusively for promoting intestinal hygiene, it generally is eaten too freely. If properly softened through cooking, and taken in amounts no greater than are afforded by eating the whole cereal as a breakfast food, it is undoubtedly an excellent source of cellulose.

What has been said of wheat bran and its benefits is even more particularly true of the cellulose of the rice kernel. Rice is the principal cereal grain in the dietary of more than half the human race. Those who have been brought up on a diet constantly containing rice like it better than any other cereal. We have, in America, long been accustomed to eating small amounts of rice occasionally, but we generally never have eaten it as freely as we have either wheat or corn.

Cellulose of Rice Softest
The cellulose of the corn kernel is considerably more difficult to digest and more irritating than the cellulose of either wheat or rice. Of the three, the cellulose of rice is the softest and smoothest; and for regulating the elimination of children, or of adults with delicate digestive systems, it is almost ideal as a source of bulky matter.

A few faddists doubtless eat too much of cellulose-rich foods, particularly green leafy vegetables. While we never should become extremists about any feature of the diet, it is a fact that the modern food regimen often is lacking in sufficient cellulose, and this matter of an idle stomach and digestive tract is one of the most serious unemployment problems that confronts the human race today.

Intertowns Outslug Middletowns, 23-7

The Ints defeated the Middletown Juniors, 23-7, at Sonnenborn Field, Sunday morning for the Ints' eleventh straight win of the season. This victory over the Juniors gives the Intertowns undisputed claim of the Belleville and Nutley championships. No team in Belleville and Nutley has been able to defeat the Ints. F. Tuozzolo, who started for the Ints in the box held the Juniors hitless and allowed four runs on walks and two errors. Cappy, who relieved F. Tuozzolo also proved strong allowing but eight hits and three runs for the remainder of the game. F. Tuozzolo received seven strikeouts and Cappy seven.

The Intertown batters were ferocious during the game, batting out thirteen hits and scoring twenty-three runs. Intindola and Perch shared the burden for the Juniors. The Ints are preparing for a double-header on Sunday. At No. 7 School the Ints will meet the semi-professional Maroons of Newark and the Colonial A. C. of Irvington will be met when the Ints will travel to Irvington. The Ints are out for their twelfth and thirteenth victories.

Unions Drop Before St. Anthony Tossers

With Jerry Bonavita and Gallagher collaborating in twirling two hit ball, the fast stepping St. Anthony Jrs., had little trouble trouncing the Unions, 9-0 Thursday night, at Belleville Park in a Legion Junior League contest.

Bonavita didn't allow a hit or a run in the three innings he pitched, while Gallagher was almost as effective, shutting out the Unions with two scattered bingles. The latter, a new comer to league ranks, showed a world of stuff and should prove a god-send to the St. Anthony pitching staff in their battle for championship honors.

The Saints combed the offerings of Andy Colaninno, and Bartucci for twelve safe wallops. Nick Bonavita led 12 safe wallops. Nick Bonavita led 12 safe wallops, while Riccio, Dmenick and Cuozzo came through with two apiece.

This Whirl Of Sport

By Arthur Bloemke

It has been noted more than once by local baseball fans that the Belleville Legion League has been running much more efficiently this year than last; that there has been less confusion and that arguments pro and con on various decisions on plays have been markedly less and less.

Most of the fans attribute this better handling of matters to the fact that the league is now out of its infancy; that mistakes that were made in its first season, that is, last year, have not been made again this year and that the Legion officers in charge of athletics have profited thereby. That statement to a large degree is the absolute truth, but despite all that, the Legion officers cannot actually see to the administration of the games efficiently.

That problem has been left in the hands of the umpire. It is his duty to settle all disputes speed up play and generally keep the games running smoothly.

With half of the season gone "Bun" Derbyshire, who has officiated in this capacity both this year and last has done remarkably well and all that one could ask. Of course, the inevitable disputes from team members and managers about decision he has made have arisen here and there, but in the main, his work has been satisfactory to the nth degree. So far this season there have been quite a few tight games, heated games where disputes would arise with the slightest provocation, as, for instance, the memorable 3-3 tie between the Elks and the Belleville A. A. In these cases it requires both act and good sense on the part of the official and "Bun" has answered these requirements well.

The fan is the umpire's severest critic. An umpire is only human and naturally he misses some plays, which are promptly brought to his attention. Therefore, when you hear remarks around the circuit by the fans concerning the umpire's work out there on the diamond, cannot wish for a better recommendation.

And that is exactly what we have heard from more than one League fan.

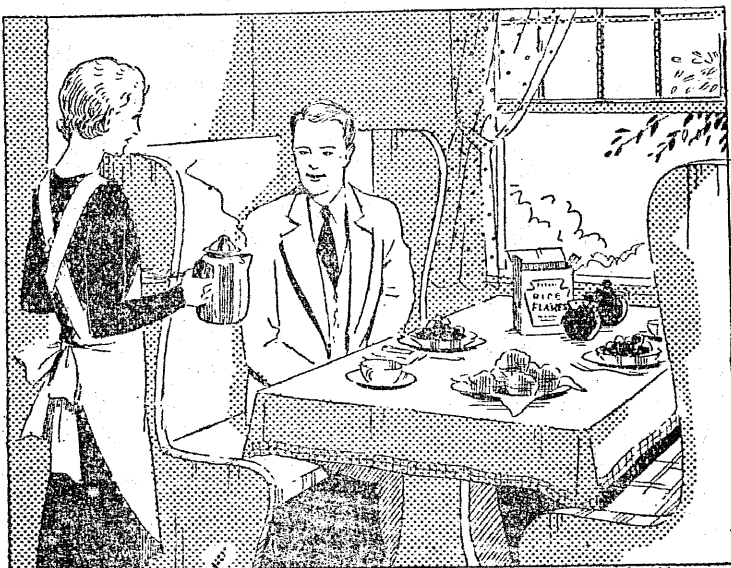

In a Legion League meeting held at the Town Hall Tuesday, it was formally decided that St. Anthony's claim of a forfeit win over the Bell-Nuts on Wednesday, June 18, would be disallowed, owing to misunderstanding in regard to the rules. St. Anthony's claimed the victory on the grounds there was a rule in the league stating that games postponed on either Monday or Tuesday would be played off the following Wednesday. They, therefore, showed up on the field Wednesday, while the Bell-Nuts didn't and claimed a forfeit victory thereby. The supposed rule was not uncovered, however, thus giving the Bell-Nuts the right to play off the scheduled game at some future date.

Another important topic brought up at the meeting was the protested game between St. Peter's and St. Anthony's, which the latter won 3-1. Mgr. Sugar Flynn of the losers protested the game on the grounds that the Silver Lake nine used five out-of-town players in violation of a league ruling. The team managers decided to leave the protest in the hands of the executive committee for investigation.

The final matter brought up was the question of postponed games, which should be played off in rotation every Wednesday for the remainder of the season. The dates follow:

Bell-Nuts vs. Bachelors, July 9.
Bachelors vs. St. Anthony's, July 16.
Bell-Nuts vs. Parks, July 23.
Elks vs. St. Peter's, July 30.
Belleville A. A. vs. Elks, August 6.
St. Anthony's vs. Parks, August 13.
Elks vs. Giants, August 18.

Start Every Day Right By Awakening Appetite

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company.

OCCASIONALLY we hear someone say, "My breakfast this year around is always the same." Certainly this does not sound very appetizing, and most of us would dread breakfast time if we knew we must eat exactly the same sort of meal day after day.

Of course we all know how easy it is to drift into the habit of serving familiar dishes over and over again when we are busy and do not plan our meals ahead of time. And since only certain foods seem suited for breakfast, we sometimes feel it is even harder to vary the menu for that meal than for any other.

However, there are many delicious fruits, cereals, hot dishes and breads that can be used to help make this important first meal of the day much more interesting. During the spring and summer there is a wide variety of fresh fruit that will be very welcome for breakfast, and the following menus will help provide a number of nourishing, well-balanced meals to start the day right.

Surprise Muffins:—4 tablespoons butter, ¼ to ½ cup Pure

Apple Butter, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 2 cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, and 3 teaspoons baking powder. Cream butter, add sugar, then egg, and beat well. Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add to first mixture, alternating with milk. Put spoonfuls of batter in a greased muffin pan. On each place a teaspoon of Apple Butter, and cover with a spoonful of batter. Bake in oven 400 degrees F. for 20-25 minutes. This makes 10 large muffins.

Rice Flake Waffles:—Use 1½ cups flour, 2 cups Rice Flakes, 1½ cups milk, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon melted butter, and 1 egg. Mix and sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Beat egg yolk thoroughly, add milk, then add to dry ingredients, and beat thoroughly. Add melted butter and fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Add Rice Flakes, and bake in a hot waffle iron.

Breakfast Betty:—Heat Rice Flakes in the oven. Have ready hot applesauce, mashed prunes or apricots, or any other thick fruit sauce. Place a layer of Rice Flakes in a serving dish, then a layer of cooked fruit until there are three layers of Rice Flakes and two of fruit. Serve warm with cream or fruit juice.

Spanish Omelet:—Fry 1 chopped green pepper and 1 tablespoon chopped onion for five minutes. Add 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, ¼ cup chopped olives, 2 tablespoons Chili Sauce, and 4 beaten eggs seasoned with salt and pepper. Cook until eggs are done, stirring occasionally.

Creole Beef on Toasted Muffins:—¼ lb. sliced dried beef, 2 cups milk, 3 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour and ¼ cup Chili Sauce. Sauté beef in 1 tablespoon butter. Melt two tablespoons butter, stir in flour. Add milk gradually and stir constantly until thickened. Then add dried beef and Chili Sauce. Serve on toast points or toasted muffins. This serves six.

Fluffy Omelet and Rice Flakes:—For six people use 6 eggs, 6 cups Rice Flakes, 1½ cups milk, 2 cups Rice Flakes, and 1 teaspoon salt. Add hot water to the beaten egg yolks, then salt. Fold this mixture into the stiffly beaten egg whites, and then, add the Rice Flakes. Turn into a frying pan, and cook over a slow fire until light brown underneath, and then place in an oven until top is dry. Fold over and serve at once.

Elaborate Plans Made For American Legion Convention

Affair Will Be Held At Wildwood On September
4, 5 and 6

Wildwood, N. J., June 27—Elaborate plans are being made here for the entertainment of the twelfth annual convention of the Department of New Jersey, American Legion, which will be held here on September 4, 5, and 6.

One of the things the Legionaires will find when they arrive here will be one of the best parks in which they have ever held the colorful band and bugle and drum corps contests which always are a highlight of Legion gathering.

Elmer J. Sinnamon and Alfred Winterburn, past commander of the Byron Pennington Croker Post, of Wildwood, are in charge of the work of fitting the Municipal Athletic Field for the activities of the visiting Legionaires.

Seating accommodations will be provided for twelve thousand spectators to witness and hear the drill and music of the competing organizations. A new athletic house is being built which the bands and corps will use as headquarters. The entire field has been resodded and is being well cared for to provide the best possible footing for the drills.

Sinnamon heads the Convention Committee of the local post, the other members of which are Michael Sheehan, William Esenwein and Otto Fisher. The City of Wildwood officials and the Chamber of Commerce are co-operating with the committee.

Richard Harshorne, State Commander, and Roland F. Cowan, department adjutant, have made several trips to Wildwood to confer with the local committee and complete the arrangements for what is expected to be the biggest convention ever held by the New Jersey World War Veterans.

The Hotel Sheldon has been selected as headquarters for the convention, and the main sessions of the gathering will be held in the huge Municipal Convention Hall on the Boardwalk which has a seating capacity of more than four thousand persons.

The Convention Hall is equipped with an amplifying system which carries the voice of speakers to all sections of the big amphitheatre. In addition the system is used to distribute music along the entire beachfront of the City and for the announcement of news events and other interesting data. Some of the speeches at the Convention will be broadcast along the Boardwalk and Beach through this system.

In addition to the main Legion Convention, the Forty and Eight and the Woman's Auxiliary of the Legion will convene in Wildwood on September 4, 5 and 6.

Six New Super Buses Added By P. S. On Route 108

Six new Super Service buses of the most modern and comfortable type yet perfected have been put into operation on the Newark-Jersey City line, Route 108, by Public Service Interstate Transportation Company. Others will be added as rapidly as they are received from the Company's shops until the Newark-New York line is completely equipped with this new type of bus.

The new buses contain many new features which add greatly to passengers' comfort. Among them is the elimination of the so-called "wheel house seats" making every seat in the bus equally comfortable. Seats have also been made wider and are covered with an attractively colored "clour" instead of leather. Above the passengers' seats are spacious baggage racks for packages and large parcels as well as hand baggage, with additional storage space for heavier luggage on the outside of the bus. At each seat is an individual electric light, while windows can be opened or shut by turning a small crank similar to the arrangement in private motor cars. Another im-

Two False Alarms

A man whom police believe they will be able to trace turned in two false fire alarms in Belleville early Saturday morning. The first was from Harrison and Wallace streets at 1:30 A. M. and the second from Mill and Bridge street at 2:15 A. M. According to descriptions furnished Police Chief Flynn, Sergeant Leighton and Patrolmen Scott and Christiano, who searched for the offender, it was the same person in both cases.

Elks Just About Win From Bachelor Club

Excellent 2-1 Fracas Staged Friday At Clearman Field

Adding weight to the argument that the Elks are not unbeatable, the up-and-coming Bachelors almost breezed through to a win over the champs, losing out finally by the narrowest of margins, 2-1, at Clearman Field, Friday night. The game was fast and well-played throughout, taking little over an hour to complete the seven innings of play.

"Lefty" Kintzing for the Elks and Lou Beliski, a newly acquired Bachelor, engaged in a fine mound duel and but for "Butch" Kastner, Beliski, who twirled splendidly throughout might have copped the hair-line verdict. Kintzing, however, who opposed him, has his sizzling overhand delivery working to perfection and deserved the victory. He hung up what is believed to be a new record by retiring thirteen of the Bachelors on strikes, while limiting them to six hits scattered over as many innings. In no less than two innings, the fifth and the seventh, he struck out the three men to face him.

After Beliski had performed the rare feat of striking out Artie Lamb, John Mallack and Jim Mallack in succession in the opening canto, the Elks began their scoring in the second when "Butch" Kastner, the first batter, drilled the ball to deep center for a long homer. The winners made it two-up in the fourth when this same Kastner person led off with a single to right, reached second on a wild pitch and scored on Gelschen's single to left.

The Bachelors escaped the white-washbrush in the fifth, after being held powerless before Kintzing's slants in the first hour. With Jim Kinneally on second by virtue of a walk and a stolen base, Beliski took matters into his own hands and drove in the lone run with a sharp single to right center.

Parks Drop To Tail End Of Competition

Belleville Giants Manage To Stay Out Of Cellar By Win

In a battle for the cellar position in the American Legion League the Belleville Giants easily copped a 12-2 decision to the slipping Parks at Clearman Field, Thursday night.

Hub Crawford, scintillating star of the colored combination, was, as usual, just about the whole works for the winners. In a remarkable display of versatility, Crawford, a regular short stop, turned pitcher for the day and let the Parks down with but four hits and one earned run. His war-club was also a feature, a homer, triple and single, caroming off it.

The lone earned run of the losers was really earned and it was a pip-pip. In the fifth inning, Bill Murphy slugging center-fielder of the Parks, took a toe-hold and slammed the pill far over the center-fielder's head for an easy tour of the bases. Their other run resulted from some eerie fielding on the part of Gould of the winners, after Cavallo's single had started things.

Bergman and Seibert, who divided the hurling burden for the Parks were the victims of some weird support, which enabled the Giants to convert but eight hits into an even dozen runs. A good example of the erring ways of the Park infield was the first inning when the Giants dented the rubber four times with the aid of a solitary hit and four errors.

Crawford's homer in the fourth, Steppes' single in the fifth and Crawford's triple in the seventh enabled the Giants to pile 'em up in the late innings.

P. S. Transport Gets School Bus Job

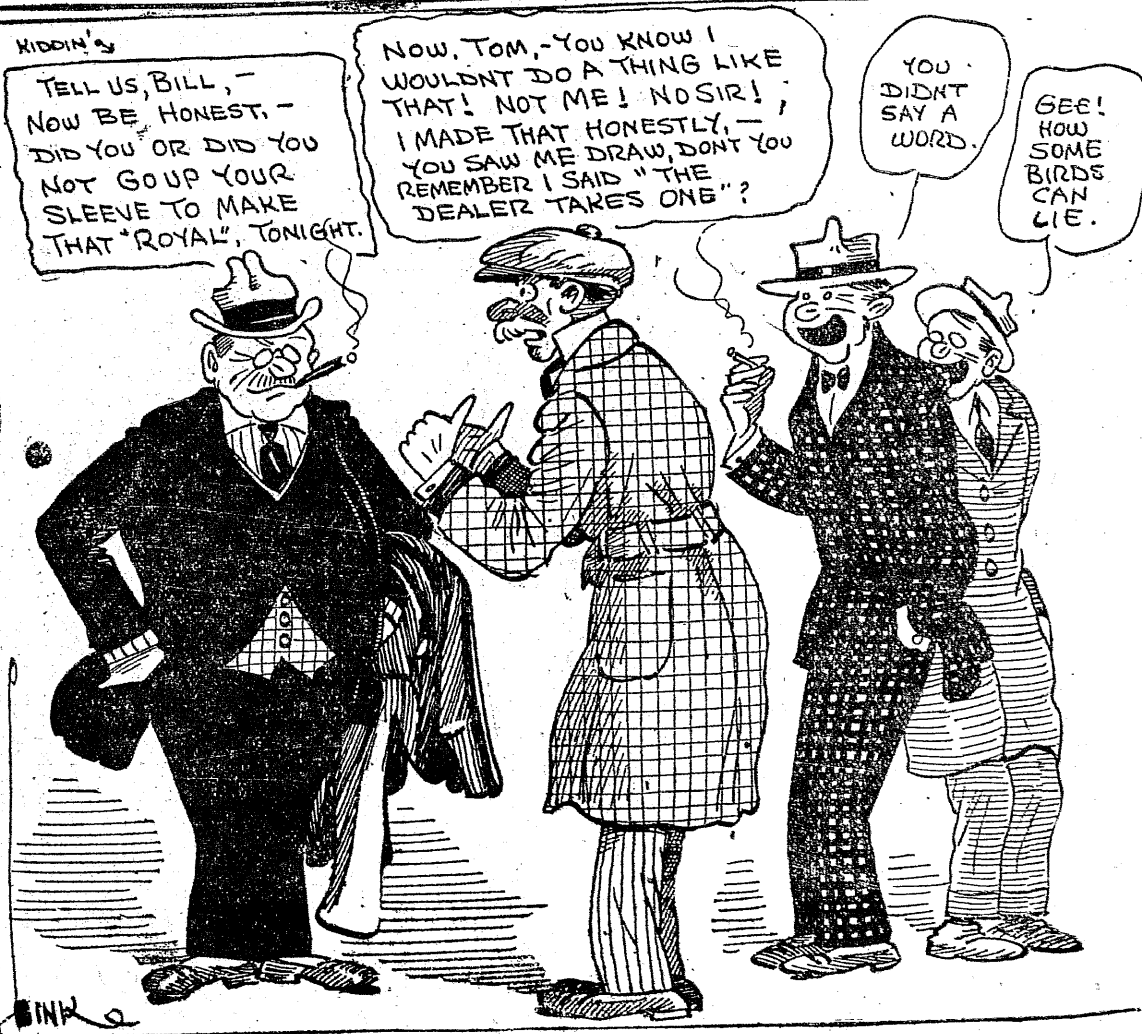

The Board of Education at a special meeting Monday night decided to contract with Public Service Coordinated Transport for three buses to carry pupils to schools from distant points. Action will probably be taken at the next meeting July 7.

At the last board meeting Supervising Principal George R. Gerard reported additional facilities would be needed next term. In the past, one privately owned bus made two trips each morning and afternoon. This has resulted in overcrowding of pupils, the board decided.

A contract for milk supply awarded the Alderney Dairy Company on a bid of three and three-quarter cents per half pint. Award of a contract for construction of tennis courts in Clearman Field will be made next meeting.

Tommie Byrnes Wins Over Union Players

With Tommie Byrnes in splendid form in the mound the Clintons continued their winning ways at the expense of the Unions, Monday night, at Belleville Park, taking a 3-0 verdict.

Byrnes allowed the Unions but one scratch in shutting them out and also had his fast ball working to perfection, striking out fifteen of the Park batsmen. Joe Costa, Union short-fielder, got the only hit for his team and spoiled Byrnes' chances of hurling a no-hit, no-run game.

Billie Wertz, Park hurler, was also in rare form and while not as effective as Byrnes, pitched well enough to win any ordinary ball game. He struck out eight, while allowing but two scattered hits. Errors at critical times on the part of his teammates, however, spelled his doom.

Al Schwartz and Drowski divided the Clintons' two hits while the latter was the fielding star.

Comet Twirlers Easy For Clinton Swatters

Legion Junior League Game Ends With Score At 19 to 1

Murdering the offerings of four Comet twirlers with vim and gusto, the league-leading Clintons romped away with a 19-1 win in an American Legion Junior League tilt at Clearman Field, Saturday afternoon. The game was of but five innings' duration by agreement.

Included among the grand total of twenty-one hits were ten doubles, three of which went to the credit of Tommie Byrnes, who started on the mound.

The whole side batted around in each of the first two innings as the winners got away to a ten run margin on as many hits. After being blanked in the third, the Clintons reached their high-water mark in the fourth, when no less than eight platters dented the rubber, on seven safe swats. Three singles gave them their final run in the fifth and last canto.

After retiring the Comets in order in the first round, Tommie Byrnes, who started for the Clintons, was relieved by Johnnie Breen, who proceeded to hold the Comets in the palm of his hand for the remaining four innings. He was particularly effective in the pinches, especially in the second when the Comets could not score on three successive singles with but one out.

Byrnes led the array of Clinton hit manufacturers, collecting five hits in five trips to the platter, three of them being of the two base variety. Jim Manning and Al Schwartz came next in line with three apiece. Goldene was the losers' best bet, with three singles out of three times up.

Legion Nine Annexes Its Second Game

National Turners Are Victims This Time By Score Of 6-3

The Belleville American Legion nine rode to its second successive victory, Saturday afternoon, at Clearman Field, on the large bat of Artie Lamb, star center-fielder of the local combine. The National Turners were the victims this time, suffering one of their few defeats of the season, when Lamb broke up a 3-3 deadlock in the seventh with a smashing home run drive far and away to deep right center with one on. The Legion added another later to make their final margin of victory, 6-3.

Jim Mallack again toed the slab for the locals and turned in his second win in two starts for the Legion. With the exception of the fifth frame when a cluster of four hits gave the losers their three runs, Mallack was master of all he surveyed, his powerful side-arm and submarine delivery turning back the Turners scoreless for the remaining eight stanza. He also numbered eight strike-out victims among his opponents.

Condret, the opposing hurler, was matching Mallack inning by inning up to the fatal seventh, when Lamb got in his timely drive.

Red MacDonald Leads Bachelors To Victory

Steers Mates To 4-0 Victory Over The Belleville Colored Giants

"Red" McDonald, a new Bachelor pitching ace, led his mates to a 4-0 shut-out win over the Belleville Giants, Tuesday night at Clearman Field in a local Legion League contest.

McDonald allowed but four stray bingles, while striking out eight of the Giant basemen. He was in danger but once during the entire game, in the fourth inning when "Hub" Crawford's mammoth double over the fence with one on put men on second and third, with but one out. He escaped unscathed, however, as the next two batters were easy outs.

Harry Jacques, making his first appearance in a Bachelor uniform, was a leading light in his side's eight-hit attack, slamming out a pair of timely safeties. Mike Bartley also garnered two safe wallops, while Johnston got the only extra base hit for the winners, a long double over the left field fence in the fifth.

Hub Crawford was his usual scintillating self for the Giants, accounting for half of his team's four hit attack, while playing his usual steady game at short-stop. His double in the fourth was a real clout and went over the fence dangerously close to the home run dividing line.

One big inning was enough for the Bachelors, the fifth, when they scored three runs on five hits. They scored the really deciding run in the third, though, on a comedy of Giant miscues without the aid of a hit.

PLAN TO OUST JESSE SALMON IS ABANDONED

Faction Leaders Will Not Seek G. O. P. Head's
Post
Mayor Kenworthy, Sec'y.

A definite decision to abandon the fight to displace Jesse R. Salmon as chairman of the Essex County Republican committee has been reached by leaders of the faction that were after his scalp.

The announcement came with the formation of the Suburban Essex Republican Association at a meeting in the Down Town Club Thursday night. Practically all the mayors and municipal officials of the various towns and villages of the county were present. Mayor Congleton of Newark and Mayor Murray of Orange were absentees.

The purpose of the new association was announced to be of interest to young men in active politics and to urge their participation in national, state and local affairs. The slogan is to be "Good Government." Credit for the formation of the new association is being given to County Counsel Arthur T. Vanderbilt, who was regarded as the leader of the movement to oust Salmon.

The decision to give up the fight against Salmon's re-election as chairman at the organization meeting on Monday night was not reached until the leaders had checked up on the membership of the new committee. They discovered they lacked the strength to put in a choice of their own. Scores of committeemen and women who worked in behalf of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow's candidacy for United States senator, were found to be loyal to the county chairman.

Mayor Kenworthy, Secretary Mayor Charles H. Demarest of Bloomfield was elected president, John S. DeHart, Jr., of Maplewood, vice president; Mayor Samuel Kenworthy, executive secretary and Mayor Alfred Hurrell of Glen Ridge, treasurer.

Members of the executive committee are Samuel Simms, State Senator Joseph G. Wolber, County Counsel Arthur T. Vanderbilt, Clyde Evans, Mayor Charles H. Martens, East Orange; James H. Owens, chairman of the East Orange Council; Mayor Charles Phillips, Montclair, and Dr. John F. Lowell, newly-elected mayor of Irvington.

Time For Summer Rooting

By A. C. McLEAN,
N. J. Agricultural Extension Service

Now is the time to start the summer rooting of cuttings, especially of hard-wooded shrubs. The amateur who likes to propagate his own plants should plan to do this soon, for most of the wood is, or soon will be, in good condition for summer rooting.

The secret of the successful rooting of green food cuttings, such as are now made, is to have conditions right and keep them so. The first requisite is a frame that preferably is half-shaded by cheese-cloth curtains. For this purpose a coldframe will do.

The best rooting medium probably is sharp sand, or half sand and half peat moss. Most cuttings seem to root better in a slightly acid medium, which the peat moss provides. Another essential is to keep the cuttings moist, but not too wet. Syringe the leaves 3 or 4 times a day to prevent them from wilting. Once the leaves wilt there remains only a slight chance that the plants will root.

The rootings of the early bloomers may be done now, and climbing roses will be ready as soon as they bloom. Most plants are in the best condition for rooting of the green wood directly after blooming.

Time for summer rooting — Especially to be feared is a very hot spell which will evaporate the water from cuttings too rapidly, and necessitate constant watering. The cuttings must be kept in growing condition until they root.

Plant Dahlias Now

N. J. Agricultural Extension Service
By A. C. McLEAN,

Now is the time for planting the dahlia, one of the most beautiful of all flowers. It is well for gardeners to remember that the dahlia is essentially a fall flower, and therefore does better in rather cool weather. This plant will stand liberal feeding, which is best done in late August as a means of obtaining maximum growth and perfection of bloom in September and early October.

When planting dahlias, however, a liberal application of a fertilizer rather rich in minerals is advisable. A fertilizer containing 5 per cent ammonia, 10 per cent phosphoric acid, and 5 per cent potash is suggested. Broadcast this fertilizer at the rate of about 3 1-2 ounces for each 10 square feet. This fertilizer, well-mixed with the soil at planting time or directly after, helps to develop strong, healthy plants.

Dahlias need plenty of room, preferably 4 by 4 feet, but they may be grown closer with heavy feeding and constant pinching out of side shoots. The chief essential of success with this flower is to keep the plants pinched back and growing sturdily during the hot weather of June and July. Instead of pruning heavily, pinch back, which means nipping out the young shoots as they are starting.

When the dahlias start to bloom in the latter part of August, disbud by removing all the side shoots and buds, except one at the top, to within about a foot of the ground on each branch. Do not leave over four branches to a plant if first-class blooms are desired. When cutting blooms, cut down to where disbudded, and new shoots, starting just below the cut, will produce bloom again in about four to five weeks.

Further information on this and other garden, flower or agricultural questions may be obtained from the County Extension Office, R. E. Harman, County Agricultural Agent, Caldwell (phone 572).

LAWYER F. HEISLEY RECALLS YESTERYEAR'S DIFFICULTIES

And We Are Forced To Agree To A Great Extent With Our Eminent Friend That:
"Them Days Are Gone Forever"

Editor The News:

Commencement time is now about over. It comes as a grateful surcease to endeavor, in the month of roses and of Tom Moore. Amidst halcyon days of sunshine and nature's truest green graduations are celebrated. The writer has not kept track of the quality of present day commencements; does not know whether the splendid modern school equipment allows any room for that contrast that the old days afforded, with the school rooms ordinarily ill-ventilated, sweetened and beautified by an abundance of roses, with the old desks, so deeply initialed by the jackknife, covered plentifully with crepe paper; the walls smartly mottoed with Latin aphorisms such as "Faber suam fortunam facit" (The smith makes his own fortune) and "Respecte ad Finem" (Look to the end).

We certainly got a great kick out of commencements, although it was not so common in those days to treat grammar school graduates as though facing the world, or High School grads as about to enter upon a race whose stadium gave the Halls of Congress of the Presidency of the United States of America at the end of its ultimate circumambulation with the result that there was left hardly anything unsaid for the University graduates, and who perforce swallowed a recocked High School Commencement address.

In the days of yore, education rather centered upon hard sums in arithmetic and spelling bees—not so much upon the symmetry of subjects most inductive to culture. It often happened that some grimy blacksmith could corner the Dominion on a hard sum, but a reputable sign painter never made the bulls on well known words that often are nowadays perpetrated. We sometimes wish that some gauge of estimate could be had whereby the primeness of the quality of the seed sown could be determined in the light of the harvest, whether thirty, or sixty or a hundred fold.

With all the taxpayers' money that education nowadays costs why is it that there is so great a misconception of the pronunciation of certain words? If we were not spending all that money the answer would be upon every tongue that the public educational budgets were too inadequate. What is the answer now since the budget is oppressively adequate, even wasteful?

Why do such errors persist as arch-i-tek where ark-i-tek is required? Truly arch-bishop and arch-duke are correct enough for the "arch" is not followed by a vowel, but by a consonant. Housebuilding has been very extensive within the last twelve years, but with much recourse to his professional services, the majority of persons never call this eminent person the ark-i-tek. Easy methods of instruction are not as valuable as they may seem. While the old days of exactitude may have discouraged some persons already lacking in stamina and the will to persevere in learning, really educated persons were seldom subjected to ridicule by reason of mispronunciation. By much consulting of the dictionary habits of intellectual exactitude and industry were formed. If the talent for such perseverance has been lost to this generation it should be recovered for the next. The scholar of English should expend much labor upon that large element of our language that is derivative of the Latin and Greek languages. While not undervaluing the Teutonic which is the basic element of the English language, he should understand that he cannot speak in any terms of directness without employing these derivatives to some extent. And he must pronounce them correctly.

We are indebted to lazy verbalists for such words as dependable where reliable should be used. One depends upon his labor for his support, whilst he relies upon the well known honesty of another for the truth of his statements or the quality of the goods he sells; and still another disagreeable word—contacted—where he should say, "I came into contact with," instead of, "I contacted philosophy." Lazy verbalists always shun the dictionary. Then let them cultivate good memories.

The advertising of recent years has been contributory to much bad spelling. The short cuts of sign boards and newspaper headlines are really an educational scandal. "Kure that Koff," may have amused us at the first. But as an example it misled the young, who were bound still more to be misled as this immoral treatment of orthography progressed in the interest of some men of no educational ideals. There is a call for public action—I don't mean any law—against willful corruption of spelling in advertisements, such as a league whose members would boycott the goods of anyone who has resorted to such a pernicious practice in the advertising and labelling of his commodities.

Yours respectfully,
FREDERICK HEISLEY.

Chicago Man Named As Warner Executive

Succeeds D. E. Weshner,
Who Will Supervise 800
Warner Theatres

Louis L. Marks, long prominent in Chicago theatrical circles, it was announced yesterday by Warner Brothers, has been appointed General Manager of the Warner circuit in Northern New Jersey, succeeding D. E. Weshner, who has been made Director of Advertising and Publicity of all Warner Bros. Theatres in America. Mr. Weshner will remain in Newark several weeks more before he leaves for New York where he will have under his supervision more than 800 theatres.

The new general manager of Warner Bros. theatres in New Jersey operated two of Chicago's largest and best motion picture houses in partnership with his brother, Meyer S. Marks. Like Weshner, he is numbered among the industry's younger executives.

Beginning as shoe salesmen in Chicago a little more than twenty years ago, the Marks brothers sold their Chicago holdings five months ago at a price believed to be in the seven figures. Publix Theatres Corporation bought them out as the climax of one of the many theatre wars notable in the nation's fourth and fastest growing industry. The purchase price conceded by Publix for their holding was a tribute to the showmanship of the Marks brothers. The same ideas, it is stated by Louis L. Marks, that brought his theatres to the fore in Chicago, will be applied to the association of Warner Bros. in this State. It had been the intention of himself and his brother to re-owning the Public deal, but continued fascination of the show business combined with an offer from Warner Bros., brings him to New Jersey to administer the affairs of some of the Warner Bros. Theatres in Northern New Jersey.

A Dollar Dinner for Four

WHO said money isn't elastic? Anyone who tries to take the joy out of life and tells you people can't live as cheaply as one, isn't figuring on the fact that two people can stretch a dollar bill. It takes ingenuity, of course, and careful stocking up with canned foods and staples when the prices are low. Here are recipes for the dinner which the Newly-weds can serve to two friends and be sure it is correct both as to dietetics and taste.

Roast Beef with Spanish Sauce: Heat one 12-ounce can of roast beef in boiling water, open, slide out the meat and slice thin. Make a sauce by cooking one and one-half tablespoons of chopped onion and one and one-half tablespoons chopped green pepper in one and one-half tablespoons of butter for a few minutes. Add one 10-ounce can of tomatoes, one 8-ounce can of diced carrots, two teaspoons capers and one-half teaspoon prepared mustard. Stew till thick and pour over the beef.

Baked Pears: From a No. 2 can of pears, drain four halves and arrange them in a baking dish. Mix one-fourth cup brown sugar, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-eighth teaspoon cloves and three-eighths cup pear syrup (half the can), and pour over. Dot with one-half tablespoon of butter on top and bake in a moderate—375°—oven for about 30 minutes.

Escarole Salad: Chill the escarole, arrange in salad bowl or individual salad plates and pour over a French dressing. The following recipe makes a delicious French dressing: put one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, two tablespoons vinegar, four tablespoons olive oil in a glass jar; cover and shake thoroughly. Add a little onion juice if desired.

Of Interest TO MOTORISTS

You, Your Car and the Motor Laws

Harold G. Hoffman,
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

Editor's Note: This series of articles by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles is being presented by the Belleville News as its part in the campaign of education to familiarize motorists with the laws which regulate their conduct on the road.

1.—Equipment

In my brief experience as Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, I have been deeply impressed by the astonishing lack of knowledge on the part of many motorists of the laws which the State has framed for their regulation. It seems to me that such widespread violations of the most elementary provisions of the motor vehicle laws would be impossible if the motorists realized their acts constituted violations.

This has led me to the conclusion that upon me rests the obligation of starting a campaign of education on the laws of New Jersey motoring. I believe it is better policy to prevent a driver from breaking the law than to be compelled to punish him after the violation. Finding the newspaper of the State eager to cooperate in the campaign, I have undertaken a series of statements, of which this is the first. I like to pay tribute to the public spirit of the newspapers which suggested this series as their contribution to the cause of high safety and law enforcement. Every motor vehicle must be equipped with brakes adequate to control its movements. What is most important is that the brakes be strong enough and tight enough to operate effectively in emergencies. Brakes must be capable of stopping the car in the shortest possible distance consistent with the speed of the vehicle and the condition of the pavement. The law provides that brakes shall be maintained in good working order. If your brakes are defective, you are violating the law.

Every automobile must be equipped with at least two braking systems, with separate means of application. One must be so constructed that it can be set to hold the vehicle. This was once known as the emergency brake. In these days of the four-wheel brake, the auxiliary system is seldom used in emergencies, but continues to serve a highly useful purpose as a parking brake.

Second in importance only to adequate brakes is an adequate signaling device. The law provides every car must be equipped with a horn or other signal. Motorists often overlook the fact that the same section of the law makes it mandatory that the operator give reasonable warning of his approach whenever necessary to insure the safety of other users of the highway. While the law forbids unnecessary use of the horn, it demands that it be sounded before passing an overtaken vehicle, at curves and at intersections where the view of approaching vehicles is obscured.

We come next to lights. A sore subject and one that will demand drastic action by the Department of Motor Vehicles unless motorists driving "one-eyed" cars realize the gravity of their offense and reform themselves. The law is clear as crystal. Every car must carry at least two forward lights, showing white or yellow-tinted, and one red light visible from the rear. The front lights must be visible 250 feet ahead and the tail-light, which must also illuminate the numerals of the license plate, must be visible 50 feet.

These lights must be turned on from thirty minutes after sunset to thirty minutes before sunrise. "Spot-lights" may be used only for reading intersecting highway signs and house numbers. They must not be used when driving. The law specifically forbids glaring headlights capable of projecting direct rays at a greater height than parallel of three and one-half feet from the ground. Every car must show at least one white or yellow-tinted light on the side nearest the road and at least one red light to the rear when standing.

Devices commonly known as mufflers to prevent excessive noise, annoying smoke and the escape of gases, falling embers or residue from the fuel, are mandatory on all vehicles in New Jersey. Muffler cut-outs are forbidden. Similarly, all cars must carry a mirror or some device that will show the driver the road to the rear and to the side. Chains may be used when the road surface is slippery because of rain, snow, ice, oil or manner of construction, but they must not be used on improved highways when the roads are dry.
