Commissioners Hear Another Fight Over Williams' Charges

Epithets Are Hurlled At Stormy Session Which Many Attended

Here were the developments Tuesday night at the commission meeting.

Commissioner William H. Williams was called a "quitter," "cur" and "a louse" by James Gibson, former director of the Department of Revenue and Finance, which Mr. Williams now heads.

Mr. Williams' answer was that "I have been called by Mr. Gibson the vilest name a man could be in public meeting. I want it recorded that like a thorough going American sport I took the jolt on the chin. I respect Mr. Gibson as a citizen, yet I turn the other cheek. I know when tomorrow comes and Jim Gibson gets back his good God-given reason he will say, 'let's forget it' and shake hands. I feel glad I have got the stuff in me to try to be big enough to take the blow from whence it came. He has good intentions, but they are misguided."

"Mr. Gibson didn't forget himself," retorted the former director when Mr. Williams asked the reporters to delete the vituperation from their notes. He added when the Mayor struck his gavel that he did not "care whether you have order or not."

The storm was brewing all evening. Mr. Gibson and former Tax Assessor James L. Davidson led an attack on Mr. Williams that had all the earmarks of a real battle even from a week before the meeting.

The climax was reached when Mr. Gibson asked Mr. Williams his "view-point on assessments." He queried: "Would you assess Rossmore place and DeWitt avenue at 100 per cent," adding, that he (Mr. Gibson) had asked, when in office "an emergency note for $5,000 to appraise the town" but "I was refused for some good reason I know nothing about."

"My answer to the question of the two streets would be that the assessor will be given a full hand in all assessing and he is going to be held

Wins At Billiards

Patsy Fratella, youthful cue wizard and protégé of Andrew Caruso, defeated James Leone in two straight games of pocket billiards last Wednesday at the Royal Billiard Parlor. It was Leone's first defeat of the season and he holds victories over Sal Taylor and "Baldy" McCormick.

Fratella, in recording his victory, won by margins of 50-22, and 50-43.

Local Man's Brother Unhurt In Santo Domingo Hurricane

Richard Ridgway Learns About Charles Through News Article

Richard L. Ridgway of Little street who with Mrs. Ridgway, was in Washington, D. C. Sunday, learned through the following clipping from the Washington Post that his brother Charles D. Ridgway, came through the Santo Domingo hurricane safely:

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Sept. 6.—The first word from the interior of San Domingo was received today (Saturday, September 6). Approximately 100 Americans at Santiago, interior city of San Domingo, are safe, a cable received by Mrs. Charles B. Ridgway, wife of the manager of the Corn Products Refining Company plantations, indicated.

The cable from Ridgway, whose headquarters is in Santo Domingo City, said that the storm leveled the corn on the Yuca plantation, but that the "factory and bridge" were intact.

Although no budget has been established, it is understood it probably will approximate that of last year, $16,000. In the opinion of John Ray, campaign manager last year and member of the committee, about 200 workers will be required to insure the success of the campaign, which will last ten days.

Recommendations will include division of the town into ten or more districts, each under charge of a major. Under the major will be a captain with a corps of workers. All will be under the direction of William W. Stewart, member of the Board of Education. The making of subscription lists is under way and an appeal is being made to all who are willing to help in the drive.

At a meeting of the committee last week, at the home of the chairman, Watson Current, those present were Mr. Ray, Philip Dettelbach, Supervising Principal of Schools George R. Gorard, Mr. Stewart, Harry Wortman and Federation President Charles G. Jones. The committee met with Mr. Jones Wednesday night.

Mayor, Williams And Sargeant To Confer On Assessments

Printing Of Book Will Be Studied By Them Soon

The Town Commission Tuesday night agreed that Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy, Commissioner William H. Williams and Town Treasurer T. Russell Sargeant should study the proposed book containing all assessable property.

The News regrets that last week it printed an article that the Mayor did not favor the book to include all property. The Mayor does favor all assessments being included. What he said was that he would not vote blindly on the matter.

Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy stated that he did not quite agree that all assessments should be included in such a booklet if it were printed, and that he would not vote blindly on the proposition without knowing the estimated cost of printing. The matter was then deferred a week.

The latter part of this article last week was in error.

The Masonic Temple has been secured and hereafter this prominent Men's Class will meet at 9:30 Sunday mornings in the Assembly Room of the Temple, located on Joralemon street.

Two Newark Men Get 45 Day Terms For False Alarms

Turned In Three Fire Calls As Climax To Whoopee Party Saturday

Two Newark men learned Monday night that Belleville fire alarms are not playthings. And they're both going to have 45 days in the Essex county jail to think it over.

The two men, who were sentenced by Recorder Frazzsimmons that night, are: Joseph Walker, 29, of 118 Fleming avenue, and John Duffy, 24, of 45 Providence avenue, both Newark.

Walker and Duffy turned in three alarms after a "whoopie" party in Belleville Saturday night.

Freeholders Study Joralemon Street Improvement Need

Whether Joralemon street, will be made a county road, or the existing county thoroughfare, Belleville avenue, will be further improved, will be the subject of several conferences of the Board of Freeholders.

Monday afternoon at a meeting of the road committee of the board, Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy and Town Engineer Albert S. Blank appeared and asked the freeholders to take a stand in the matter. The conference will be attended by the local officials, Chairman Zenas G. Crane and County Engineer William A. Stieckel.

Read signals were approved for Joralemon street and Union avenue, Belleville, and Watchung avenue and Broad street, Bloomfield.

Hillcrest Association Elects Its Officers

Arrangements Being Made For Card Party To Be Held Soon

A regular meeting of the Hill-Top Improvement Association, Thursday, at the Recreation House proved lively when members considered needs of the community and activities for the coming months.

Requests will be sent to the town commissioners for better traffic safety regulations on two thoroughfares, Perry street and Garden avenue. Perry street is in need of a "Dead End" street marker to instruct motorists not to continue to the end of this street, and Garden avenue has a dangerous intersection at Dawson street.

Members also complimented Commissioner Williams and said they favor publishing a list of all property assessments levied by the board of assessors, such lists to be sent to property owners with their tax bills. The entertainment committee reports that arrangements are being made for a card party to be held soon at the Recreation House.

All Grads Who Chose Teaching Profession Pass Entrance Exams

Montclair And Newark Are To Get Thirteen So Inclined

Belleville Schools have just been notified that all of the thirteen graduates of the High School in June, who desired to enter the teaching profession have been accepted for entrance either at Montclair State Teachers' College or Newark State Normal School and that none were rejected.

It should be understood that all of these candidates had to pass entrance examinations and that an effort is being made nowadays to reduce the number of entrants among all those who apply. To have everyone of such a considerable number accepted is a very creditable showing for our local schools.

NEAR RIOT CAUSED BY TRIO OF SLOW MINIATURE GOLFERS

Belleville "Better Look Out" Says Correspondent Who Tells Us It All Happened In Washington

Mrs. Richard L. Ridgway, News correspondent, who is on a vacation, writes us from "staid old Washington" that Belleville "better look out" and to prove it sends the following clipping:

In answer to a "riot" call the manager of the miniature golf course at Eighteenth and H streets sent in to the Third Precinct station about 9 o'clock last night, Private R. A. Raiford found would-be golfers lined up almost for blocks waiting for a chance to get to the fifth hole.

The reason, he said, that the hole was inaccessible, was that three men were having difficulties in surmounting obstacles at that point in the course. Their balls refused to roll into the appointed receptacle, and they sweated and stormed, but of no avail.

And the would-be golfers stood by and groaned—as the balls failed to hit the mark.

Private Raiford believed that he

If Your Saturday Ice Is Low Fill Up For The Week-End

If You Don't You Will Not Be Able To Get Any In Town

If your ice man fails on Saturday and your supply of ice is low don't expect to get it replenished in Belleville on Sunday. No sire!

The commissioners favored Tuesday night a petition from the ice dealers of town that an ordinance be passed to prohibit the sale of ice on Sundays except when ordered by a physician or the Board of Health. They agreed to introduce the measure for first reading at next Tuesday's meeting.

A similar measure was passed last year in which hardware stores were ordered closed on Sundays. Vigorous protest was made against that ordinance by Anthony S. Micone, hardware dealer of Washington avenue, but no objections are expected to be made by ice dealers or town.

"An ordinance against selling hardware?" queried Commissioner Caragher. "Ha! Ha!"

Orcutt Called Away; Golf Match Is Off

Due to a business call to Canada, Maureen Orcutt was unable to play a match last Tuesday as scheduled with Runyon at the Jackie Coogan Model Miniature Golf Course in Union avenue near William street.

Board Admits That Conditions Are Bad But—Expensive

Parents Fear For Safety Of Children Because Of Alleged Stills

A threatened strike of the 200 pupils of School No. 2 in the "No section, in protest against refusal of the Board of Education to establish seventh and eighth grade classes in the school, failed to materialize Tuesday.

That such action might be taken by the pupils was suggested at a meeting of the board Monday night at which a delegation of twenty-five citizens presented a petition requesting a change in the present system under which children in the two upper grades are compelled to walk to School No. 4 in Magnolia street, River Lake, more than a mile distant.

Miss Helen Just, principal of School No. 2, announced that only five pupils were absent from classes. Although the board Monday night took the matter under advisement, the attitude of the members was considered equivalent to a refusal.

"The Mill Street School has six rooms, which are occupied by six classes," explained Superintendent George R. Gerard. "It is not sufficient demand for upper grades, as the school has only 150 pupils and the enrollment has varied but slightly in the last twenty years."

"The State would not allow us to convert the assembly room into classroom, as suggested, and an addition would be impracticable for this is the second oldest school building in town," added Commissioner Watson Current.

J. Gordon Gant, secretary of the School Civic Improvement Association, said the situation was one which will "undoubtedly have to be remedied." He pointed to an "urgent need" for the classes and considered the request "very reasonable."

Town Clerk John J. Daly asked why Soho children were depicted this year of bus service to the Silver Lake School and criticized the board for failing to appoint Thomas Connelly janitor of No. 2 upon the death of his cousin, Mrs. Mary Devoe, who held the post more than three decades. Connelly assisted her without pay for seventeen years.

"How would you like to send your children to Silver Lake School—where everyone knows is surrounded by stills—not knowing at that moment one of them is going to blow up?" one mother asked the board members.

It seems as though the board feels it's not worthwhile to educate our children beyond the sixth grade committed a man in the group. Although greatly surprised by the wrathful descent of the Soho citizens, the board retained its dignified composure, listened patiently to the complaints, and said nothing. A committee will investigate.

Well, Yes and—No When it was all over, the Board admitted that seventh and eighth grade classes "could" be started in the Soho school under present conditions, but, then again, it could be an expensive proposition.

The only guardians they have during the long walk, the delegation pointed out, is that given by members of the Junior Boys' Patrol.

Board Takes No Stand Even then the Board refused to take any stand in the matter.

The parents insisted that the long walk to Silver Lake discouraged continuance in school after the sixth grade among many Soho pupils. At the close of the meeting, John Maher, president of the board, said his organization will investigate the matter.

George E. Stewart Jr. was given permission to plan a course of free Sunday afternoon concerts to be conducted in various school auditoriums. Arthur Ackerman will assist him in obtaining Belleville talent, and the object of the series will be to foster community appreciation of classical music.

It was a monkey addressing Nutley police who tried to lasso Jocko in a tree in Hancock avenue. At least Frank Stefanelli of Hancock avenue, Belleville, who avers he has learned monkey talk, is reported to have accused the monkey of such language to the guardians of the law.

This is a good tale and it was the monkey's tail that fooled the cops. Each time they tried to use the lasso, Jocko used his tail and swung to a branch higher up.

For a week this went on, with Frank casually observing. He says he learned to chatter like Jocko and down he came one day toward the strictly responsible. I still say this excess oratory does not confuse nor cloud the issue. The fact remains, as I have said all evening, 1,284 tax bills representing $87,000 of the people's money were found in a box downstairs."

Then Mr. Gibson hurled the epithets.

The meeting was nothing more than this all evening, except on a milder degree, Messrs. Davidson and Gibson went after Mr. Williams' scalp, the latter charging personalities and beclouding of the issue.

Mr. Gibson fired the opening gun when he read a Sunday Call clipping and another telling of the tax bills and so forth. He said the town is under no legal responsibility to send out bills.

"The town won't be out $84,000, $4 cents or 7 cents," he said, by the bills not being sent out. I at least expected Mr. Williams to make a public statement on this, but to date I haven't heard anything. The town borrows money on unpaid taxes at 4 1/2 per cent and charges the tax payer 7 per cent. Show me where the town lost. I'd like to see."

Mr. Gibson followed with the assessment of Riviera Park tract which has been debated, telling how former Assessor W. G. Hunt and deputies Floyd Bragg and James DeRosset had arrived at 1929 assessment of that parcel. A photostatic copy of the letter the trio sent to the owner, Otto Volkenning found its way to the meeting and it was read by Town Clerk John J. Daly.

"Is it in order for me—" started Mr. Williams, who was informed by the Mayor it was the citizens' turn to speak.

"Sit down, take it easy. You've got lots of time," said Commissioner Frank J. Carragher to Mr. Williams. Then spoke Mr. DeRosset about Riviera Park, which discussion was sidetracked by what was to follow.

Mr. Gibson arose again and said, "I have no grudge. I am here to see the town function and function right. I am willing to go over and shake hands."

Mr. Williams then said: "I appreciate indeed, the opportunity offered to confer with Mr. Gibson. On the other hand he accepts all manner of printed matter as statements I have made. I believe he is sincere. He wants to aid the citizens. But that doesn't avoid any legal responsibilities. I didn't make any statements that the town would lose any money."

"You stand up and tell the truth, that's what we want," interrupted Mr. Gibson.

"Again I pass over that comment," continued Mr. Williams. I insist on objecting to such statements."

Mr. Williams told how the minutes of two weeks ago had been corrected. He said the report of the Belleville Times (not stenographic notes, but notations about which a story had later been built), were inserted in the minutes.

"I won't be led into personal controversy," he added, "by a man I think an exceptional type of citizen, Mr. Gibson. But aren't you (turning to Mr. Gibson) the same gentleman who sat in this chair I occupy now and referred to your colleagues that they 'act like a lot of drunken sailors' on financial matters?"

"Commissioner be fair," was Mr. Gibson's remark.

"Are you the same gentleman—" pursued Mr. Williams.

"But there is only one question open. There was a substantial number of bills not sent out in 1927—a substantial number in 1928—a substantial number in 1929 and 1930 and that Mr. Gibson wants to be gracious enough to say they were rightfully held up then I think he is not aiding in the proper management of town affairs. I found 1,284 bills, citizens getting bills three years late. I do not intend to be confused by a lot of extraneous matters that tend to cover up or in anywise confuse the one specific item."

"How would you propose to send out the bills?" asked Mr. Gibson.

"I'd do it as today; and we are finding the addresses and bills are going out," returned the director. "With proper supervision of the department the condition would not exist, chapter 236 places direct responsibility on the tax collector and further on the Director of the Department. The collector told me that he would hunt for addresses and if found the bills would go out, if not no further search would be made and they'd go in a box."

"Oh, humbug," said Mr. Gibson. "The town hasn't lost anything."

The question put by Mr. Gibson, after Mr. Davidson, former tax assessor had taken item by item Mr. Williams' "discrimination" citations of three weeks ago, was:

"What is the commissioner's idea of valuations? Does he want to raise assessments to 100 per cent?" Davidson has given a clear statement. In 1927, I asked the commissioners to secure an appraisal of the town. It was refused, but we did the next best thing, got Davidson. Now Williams complains."

"You mean to say none of that $87,000 has been received in this town hall?"

"Is that a question for an answer?" asked Williams. Told it was he said: "Well, all you've said does not mean anything. Do you say all the bills were sent out?"

"Wherever the address could be found," Gibson insisted.

"Oh! And if you found no address the property goes free of taxes. That's the same explanation the tax collector gave me," Williams said. "It is a good thing we have the never-ending pocketbook of the taxpayers to be delving in."

"What do you mean?" Gibson shouted. "Stop trying to deceive the people. The town doesn't lose a nickel. That's what I mean by the impression you give the people."

"It is well high time they come down here and see the incompetence," Williams retorted. "How in the world are we going to hold tax sales if we discard that part of the law?"

He referred to Gibson's saying he advised against a sale last year due to the market crash.

Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy asked Gibson, and later Davidson, if they had ever been interfered with by town officials as charged by Williams. Both emphatically denied they had. Gibson said the charges were based on "supposition, not fact."

Williams referred to having seen a citizen in the Mayor's office, and said the citizen ultimately received a reduced assessment. The Mayor said the party had come to him and was naturally referred to the assessor.

"That's what I want clear," said Williams.

"And that's just what I want to make clear," said the Mayor. "I sent the taxpayer to the assessor as I always do in such cases."

Davidson said Williams or any one could inspect the property to see if a reduction was warranted. He explained he had reappraised the town on sight valuations which were followed when occasion arose by individual inspections of properties.

"You went out on sight appraisals?" Williams asked Davidson. "Then, later, when you were a candidate for commissioner, you made remissions? When were you right or wrong, when you made the appraisals or the remissions?"

"A man is not always right," replied Davidson pointedly, "unless, perhaps, he be an efficiency expert. Irrespective of the election, by which you are insinuating I tried to get votes, I appraised the town properties openly."

"Mr. Mayor," interrupted Williams, "I object to the insulting remarks about my private work."

"I really don't know what your private work is, whether you do anything," said Davidson.

"But don't you think," Williams asked, "the fine lines of ethics may have been trampled on when you note the difference in the sight appraisals and assessments as remitted?"

Davidson reminded the board the total remissions this year were but $160,000, compared to nearly $1,700,000 last year, before he revealed the town. He took exception to Williams' previous statements that properties in numerous streets, including Washington avenue, were greatly underassessed. This prompted Gibson's question on Williams' idea of valuations.

After the meeting a group of taxpayers announced it was their intention to organize and appear at a later date to ask Williams "how he has fared" on the delivering of tax bills. Speaking of the Rutgers street apartment, which Williams previously had said was valued at $350,000 and assessed for only $50,000, the former assessor explained that the assessment had been made October 1, 1929, when the building was only half completed. He said, too, that the $350,000 was the owner's valuation, and that the appraisal made by the mortgage company was $250,000, completed.

At one point Commissioner Frank J. Carragher said: "Just a minute, do we have to fight the whole town? I can tell a whole lot some people don't want to know."

"Some time ago when a change was made—when Mr. Hunt was dismissed, an ideal tax assessor was sought. The board brought forth the name of Theodore Sanford, an able, good man. For some reason he did not get the job," further stated Williams.

Davidson, whose single year's work as assessor has been praised by Mayor Kenworthy and Gibson, remarked he "felt like a criminal for the last two weeks—tried at the bar of public opinion. The position came to me unsought," he said, "for I was not a political appointee. Now I know what it means to accept a public office and be kicked around by everybody."

"It was not a political appointment. I don't spend any money to elect anyone. I am not ashamed of that today, either. No one interfered with any valuation I made. I'll stand for all I made. I'm not perfect by any reason."

Then followed a detailed series of technical questions back and forth between William and Davidson. Commissioner Frank J. Carragher said to Gibson: "It's an outrage for you to abuse people like this." "I don't think this is any good for the town. I can ask Mr. Gibson a few questions on where the money went to if I want to."

Mr. Williams refused to reveal Sunday night, upon his return after a several days' absence, whether he intends to bring up for trial Tax Collector Roy W. Brooks, who he suspended last week for failing to hold "periodic tax sales as prescribed by law."

If Brooks is to be dismissed he must be given a trial within ten days of his suspension, which took place last Tuesday. His term of office expires in December. Questioned concerning statements made by his predecessor, James Gibson, that he was unfamiliar with the affairs of his department, Commissioner Williams declared:

"I have no knowledge of any statements made by Mr. Gibson, and before commenting I prefer to confer with the former director."

"Within the past month Mr. Gibson and I have had pleasant discussions on questions of municipal management and it is still my belief will continue."

Williams recently made charges of "tax tinkering" against members, but subsequently failed to amplify them.

Former Commissioner Gibson last week declared that "most of the questions raised by Williams are old problems which have been thrashed out by other administrations and result from the fact that he is unfamiliar with the department's affairs."

"He has not consulted me about anything since his election last May," Defense of Tax Collector Roy W. Brooks in his suspension by Commissioner William H. Williams has been taken up by James L. Davidson, former tax assessor and opponent of Williams in the May commission election race. Davidson condemned the action against Brooks, as well as that previously taken against Edward J. Seelye, former personal property tax collector, as "politics—nothing but."

Meanwhile, since he was served Thursday with the notice of his suspension, Brooks is reporting at his office each morning, ready to work. His case is in the hands of a lawyer.

This type of woman grows easily emotional—is constantly in search of new excitement and new pleasures. It is only at forty that she will become more settled (and rotund) retaining however, a certain jollity of disposition. The Western old man and the chorus girl never make a life-long match.

OLIVE SKIN—DARK HAIR
With this type, and the freckled, red hair, are very much alike. Both have a low forehead, hair is plentiful all over the body and is thick and coarse. Their canines are long and sharp.

THEY ARE FIGHTERS
Men and women of this type are good fighters, more easily angered than scared; they are generally successful, with a tendency to slave-driving. In the face of great difficulties, of painful disappointment, however, they are prone to turn embittered and cranky.

People of this type who show large birth marks are likely to be unbalanced and irritable. They may at times give the impression of being weak and lazy—although their minds may be extremely active.

This type with a high forehead, scanty eyebrows, deep set, narrow eyes, irregular teeth that decay early, with poor circulation, cold blue hands and feet—is rather "animal" and lacks self control.

THE SLENDER TYPE
The slender type with narrow waist line, rotund limbs, long, flat chest, very white and hairless skin, delicate features, silky hair, childish teeth, flat feet, knock-knees, may at times be very brilliant, but is generally queer, eccentric, irresponsible and inclined dishonest. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Substance" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 14, 1930.

The Golden Text is: "If we hope for what we see not, then do we with patience wait for it," (Romans 8:25).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Hebrews 11:1).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When we come to have more faith in the truth of being than we have in error, more faith in Spirit than in matter, more faith in living than in dying, more faith in God than in man, then no material suppositions can prevent us from healing the sick and destroying error," (p. 368).

The opening services at Grace Church last Sunday were beyond expectations in attendance. Grace people are loyal to their church and great things are expected to be accomplished this coming year. Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the pastor will preach, the subject being "Things Left Undone." The usual song service will precede the evening service at 7:45 P. M. and Mr. McCombe will have as his subject "Open Windows." Come out next Sunday and meet old friends at Grace Church.

The Colleges of Columbia University this year will offer 150 courses in religion in regular course. We are not so much concerned about the number of courses offered by the colleges, as we are that the average Christian lives a part of his religion each day.

Fellowship Night will be resumed Tuesday evening, at Grace Church. After the service the Trustees will meet to take care of matters that have accumulated during the vacation, and while the services were discontinued.

Thursday evening the officers and teachers of the Sunday School met for conference and completed plans for advance work of the year. Superintendent Russell hopes that all former scholars will be in their classes next Sunday at 10 A. M. in order that the plans for the coming school year may be put into execution. Any parent who is looking for a place where their children may obtain a religious education, would do well to look over the plant of Grace Church. A fine new building built especially for Sunday School work is at the disposal of the people of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ryer of Tappan avenue have returned from a two weeks' vacation touring New Hampshire, visiting places of interest and renewing old friendships.

Have you men, who love the art of bowling seen the Grace alleys? They shine like polished glass and a look at them will warm the heart of the bowler. Mr. Struble has done a great job this vacation, and everybody that has seen them, even the women, have expressed admiration at the appearance of the alleys. The league games will soon be here and the Grace alleys offer to any man a fine opportunity to get into the pink of condition, for the big games. The alleys from now on will be open every evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hyde and family have returned from their summer home in Spring Lake. During the summer Mr. Hyde was in conference with Governor Larson and United States Senator Hamilton F. Keen.

Friday evening, September 19, the Ladies' Auxiliary of Grace Church are planning to begin their social season with a Peach Festival, at the church. Better get your ticket now, so you can enjoy the evening, for the ladies of Grace Church have the reputation of doing things just right.

Get the church-going habit. We shall look for you next Sunday at the services. Meet your old friends here. They will be glad to see you.

RADICAL CHANGES TRANSFORM BANKING

National Commission Sees Changing Opinion on Branch Banking Issue—Studies Group and Chain Banks.

NEW YORK.—Modification of the attitude of bankers on the long disputed branch banking question is forecast in a review and report covering rapid changes going on in banking issued here by the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. The report, however, after referring to recent proposals that national banks be given branch banking powers within the business territory surrounding their location, declares that "we do not believe that so-called 'trade-area' branch banking is likely to gain the support of any large percentage of the banking fraternity."

The commission says that the "most important development that has affected American banking in recent years involves the rapid growth of multiple banking organizations in the form of group, chain and branch banking systems," and adds that "we present this report as an unprejudiced economic study and have no theories or policies to urge at this time." The statement says that the commission's information indicates there are now 269 group or chain bank systems, which control 1922 banks and $15,235,000,000 in aggregate resources, and that there are only six states and the District of Columbia where it does not find any group organizations.

The Commission's Investigation
"We have been in touch with the managers of many important bank groups," the report says. "Aside from the obvious economies of centralized operation and control a number of these organization heads very frankly tell us that they do not feel that the system has been in operation and tested long enough to justify them in making positive or sweeping statements as to its advantages or disadvantages compared to unit banking."

"The Banking and Currency Committee of the House, which is conducting an investigation into banking developments, has called a number of operating heads of some of the great group systems. These men declared that they found, under certain conditions, definite operating and economic advantage in both group and branch banking over independent unit banking. Some thought group banking was only a transitional stage, that branch banking was preferable and if it were permitted on an extensive enough scale they would change their groups over to branch systems. Others held that group banking was preferable."

"Some held that the ideal plan was a combination of the two with group bank units for localities strong enough to support complete banking institutions and with branch offices extending further into the smaller places requiring banking services but not large enough to support complete banks. Several of these who advocated multiple banking declared that nevertheless they believed there would always be room for vigorous independent unit bank competitors."

Government Officials Express Views
"The Comptroller of the Currency recommended that national banks be given branch banking powers within 'trade-areas.' The Governor of the Federal Reserve Board appeared to be in general agreement with the Comptroller. He said there were 24,645 banks and 3,547 branches, a total of 28,192 banking offices; that in this total, 6,353 offices were either branches or bank members of groups, or both, leaving 21,839 banking institutions that might be definitely termed independent unit banks, having no branches and in no way connected with group affiliations. He said all the banks had total loans and investments of $55,500,000,000, of which the group and branch systems held $30,000,000,000, or more than half."

"He opposed nation-wide branch banking at present but said that ultimately if bankers became trained and experienced in the larger technique of 'trade-area' banking he thought it would in time evolve nation-wide branch banking under control of relatively few banks, but he did not believe this would mean monopoly or lack of competition. He favored branch over group banking which, however, he said represented an economic development along 'trade-area' lines and would spread unless something else were substituted and thought 'trade-area' branch banking would serve this purpose."

"It is the intention of the Commission to develop its own studies in these questions, watch carefully every move that is made and every bit of information that may develop in this connection and keep itself prepared to give an unbiased and accurate statement of the facts of the case whenever that is desired," the report concludes.

Federal Reserve Pays Government
In the fifteen years since its establishment in 1914, aggregate net earnings of the Federal Reserve System's twelve regional banks have amounted to $515,216,000, of which $30,672,000 has been paid to the member banks as dividends, representing 6 per cent annually on their contributions of capital to the reserve banks, while $377,434,000 has been added to the surplus of the reserve banks and $147,110,000 has been paid over to the Federal Government as a franchise tax.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Patton and daughter, Miss Margaret Patton have ended a visit of two months in Quakertown. Miss Patton, who was graduated from the Newark State Normal School in June, is teaching in School 2 in the Soho section.

Following the greatest adventure of their lives twenty Boy Scouts of America who live on the Island of Maui, Hawaii, will return to their homes this week from a goodwill and educational tour of Japan which lasted through the summer vacation months. The trip, made under the leadership of Scout Executive William H. Hutton was planned to further the friendly spirit already existing between boys in Japan and in the United States and to give the Hawaiian Scouts, some of whom are of Japanese extraction, an opportunity to learn about Japan and her people.

Have Physician Along
The Scouts under their own leaders and with a physician accompanying them bearing credentials from the Governor of Hawaii, the Japanese Consul and other prominent Hawaiians sailed on the "Empress of Canada" early in June and arrived in Japan after a pleasant ocean voyage. Aboard the ship the Scouts were guests of the Captain and on several occasions entertained all passengers. One of the first places visited in Japan was the Scout Headquarters at Tokio. Mr. Hutton reports. There the American Scouts were received by Viscount Midkimsa and Count Futara representatives of the Japanese Boy Scout Association, and after presenting to the Boy Scouts of Japan a large plaque containing Scout emblems and insignia and a totem pole made by the Hawaiian Boy Scouts, the delegation received in return a plaque and statuette of a Japanese Boy Scout and Sea Scout to bring to America with them.

Gave Exhibitions
The Scouts gave exhibitions of American Scoutcraft and calisthenics in schools and public places and were received by the city officials in most of the places visited. In speaking of the Japanese people, after giving an account of the banquets, and other affairs which had been staged in their honor, Mr. Hutton said: "The Japanese people are the most courteous I have ever met. They continually stress friendship for America, pray for our safe passage through Japan and for our continual good health. It will take a number of trunks to carry home the many beautiful gifts we have received."

The Hawaiian Scouts had an opportunity of visiting, besides the places where tourists usually go, a great many shrines and places of interest. They slept on mats in Japanese hotels, climbed to the top of Mount Fuji, saw the great Buddha and the Asama Shrine at Yoshida. Later the Scouts visited the Inner and Outer Shrine of Ise sacred to the Emperor of Japan, and were feted at a big reception and Scout-demonstrations given in their honor by the Boy Scouts and city officials of Magoya.

The friendly feeling of the Japanese people for America is shown on every possible occasion, Mr. Hutton states. "America-Japan and the friendship of the two great nations is the theme of every talk we hear."

SEA SCOUT LEADER IN CANADA CUP RACES

A new page of adventure and romance was added to the history of Sea Scouting in America when the American yacht "Thisbe" of Rochester, N. Y., skippered by William P. Barrows, President of the Rochester Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America and a member of the Regional Sea Scout Committee for the states of New York and New Jersey, won the close contest for the Canada's Cup from the eight meter sloop "Quest" of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto. The race was run on Lake Ontario and the American boat won three out of five races.

The Canada's Cup Races, regarded as the third most important of the sailing races in which American ships participate, were started in 1896. In 1907 when the Rochester built ship "Seneca" designed and built by Herreshoff of Bristol and skippered by Addison G. Hanan, won the series in three straight starts, it nearly ended the friendly competitions. The American boat was built to beat the new measurement rules then effective, and did. Toronto challenged again for the cup in 1908 and 1909 but insisted that the "Seneca" be ineligible and as a result this racing classic was discontinued until this year.

This year three boats took part in the trials at each of the competing clubs. Members of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club formed a large syndicate and ordered three boats of which "Quest," designed by William Fife, was selected after the trials to carry the Canadian colors. The Rochester Yacht Club built two new boats, the "Cayuga" and the "Conewago," but they were defeated in the trials by "Thisbe" brought to Rochester following a very successful season of sailing on Long Island Sound last year. In the final races the "Thisbe" proved her right to the honors.

Aboard the winning sloop was a crew of five men. And in addition to the skipper, the Boy Scouts of America where honored with another prominent Scouter aboard J. Taylor Howard, for ten years a member of the Rochester Area Council handled the light canvas on the "Thisbe." Mr. Barrows' first act after winning the race was to phone the Boy Scout Camp and tell the Scouts who were anxiously waiting the news, that the "Thisbe" had won the races.

SCOUTS FIGHT FIRE

Six members of Troop No. 10, Elmont, Fla., while spending the night on the fishing dock at Anna Maria on the Gulf, discovered a small hotel at the end of the dock on fire.

It was after midnight when the fire was discovered and taking charge of the situation at once, Scoutmaster

Leroy Richards ordered his Scouts to the burning buildings. Noting that the flames had too much of a start to be easily extinguished and hampered by the lack of fire-fighting equipment, the Scouts removed as much of the furniture as possible, posted guards and did their best to extinguish the blaze.

Scout Executive Charles N. Wilson of Bradenton, Florida, reports that one of the occupants of the building assured him that lives undoubtedly would have been lost but for the prompt action of the Scouts, and that the boys acted like veteran firemen.

CARRIER PIGEONS

Julius Wernicke, Star Scout of Troop No. 5, Pensacola, Fla., attended Camp Harrison of the Boy Scout Council and went prepared to send messages home to his mother twice weekly. Realizing that it would take at least 36 hours to get word home by mail, he arrived in camp with four Carrier Pigeons in a small cage.

By printing his messages on both sides of a small piece of paper and noting the time of departure before attaching it on the leg of one of the Carrier Pigeons, he found that his messages were arriving at his home 25 miles away in less than 2 hours from the time of mailing. The incident was reported by H. E. Whitehead, Scout Executive.

The Gas Refrigerator Has Earned Its Popularity

THE Electrolux gas refrigerator gives the same fine refrigeration that every good automatic refrigerator gives—namely, dry cold evenly maintained throughout, ample ice cube supply, quickly frozen—in addition the gas refrigerator has advantages that are unique, important among these, noiselessness.

The silent operation of the gas refrigerator makes it the favorite of many home-makers. The Electrolux is safe, odorless, and servicing, if required, is done without charge.

Attractive porcelain-lined gas refrigerator, $195 upward. A little higher in price if purchased on the easy payment plan—a small sum down and twenty-four months to pay balance.

The Vitalizer, a covered pan specially designed for holding fruits, vegetables, or other foods in the automatic refrigerator, is given with every Electrolux sold for use in a private home.

Still The Stills Ease Tense Time At Board Meeting

Carragher Says Inspection
Should Be Made
Of Cellars

"I see by the papers," said Commissioner Frank J. Carragher Tuesday night, "that kids are scared to go to school because of stills. I would suggest we look into all the cellars in town to . . ."

And thereby he eased off a particularly tense moment in the commission chamber, right after the Williams-Gibson fracas.

Of course this will be some job. One plumber, it is said, had a hard job to make both ends meet until residents of a certain section found sewer connections clogged with mash. Now the plumber is reported to have five men on the job.

Anyway 400 odd citizens at the town hall Tuesday got a laugh and some conjectured.

"Stay away from my three bottles of wine," one told Mr. Carragher. "I've got two dogs and a shot gun handy."

TAKING THE GUESS OUT OF BUSINESS

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers
Association

BANKERS and business men err in not adopting more universally the tactics of the scientist. When the scientist wishes to fathom the mysteries of the universe or resolve things into their component parts he calls to his assistance the magnifying power of the microscope. There before him, like an open book, lie the secrets of nature which unaided eyes cannot observe.

The uncanny power of the microscope's all-seeing eye has revealed countless secrets for the material and intellectual progress of humanity. It has enabled us to study the processes of growing cells in plant and animal life, trace the causes of disease and successfully combat the ills of mankind; it has aided the engineer in his search for stronger and more serviceable materials, giving us taller, lighter and more sanitary structures, and better highways; it has disclosed the defects in steel rails and brought us an era of safer railway travel; it has added to the food supply of the nation; in fact, it has affected favorably nearly every activity of the human race, whether it apply to production, distribution or consumption, in time of peace or in time of war.

In the business and banking world, economic research and analysis serve as the microscope through which we are enabled to see basic factors more clearly and thus determine the causes of success and failure. Only recently have we begun to realize the full value of research and analysis and apply them in such a way as to eliminate the guesswork that was characteristic of industry a few years ago. "Eliminate the guess and reach success," might well be a motto for all of us.

Banking Conducting Continual Research

The American Bankers Association is daily submitting every phase and every department of banking to searching scrutiny and study, says John G. Lonsdale, president of this the world's greatest financial association. The findings of these investigations are made available to the 20,000 members of the organization for their guidance.

"It is a fine tribute to the spirit of cooperation among bankers that it is able to carry on this work," he says. "Bankers from one end of the country to the other are constantly giving freely and unselfishly of their skill and experience so that the association may produce the truly great results that are being accomplished."

Statistical information on national and state banks, savings institutions, trust companies and trust departments, clearing house groups and general banking is prepared after exhaustive inquiry and distributed for the use of all bankers. The organization's investigations have resulted in the passage of beneficial legislation, revision of banking practices and innumerable changes for a stronger and more efficient banking structure. It has set up an educational system through its affiliated American Institute of Banking, where 45,000 ambitious young bank men and women are now availing themselves of the opportunity to advance in the banking field.

"It has been well said that the American Bankers Association, exclusive of the Federal Reserve System, has been the greatest single nationwide source of stability and improved conditions for banking in the United States," Mr. Lonsdale says.

Banking Grows More Complicated

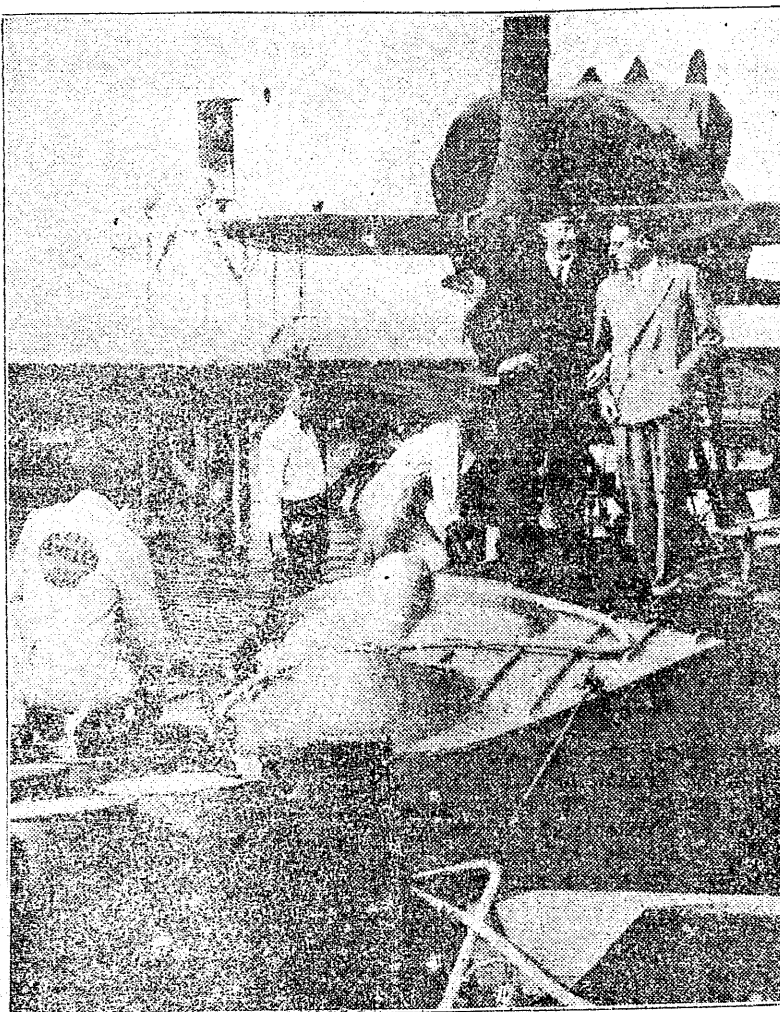

DENVER, Colo.—The increase in the technicalities of the banking business in the past dozen years was shown by a speaker before the American Institute of Banking which held its annual convention here recently when he pointed out that in 1918, when the institute last met in this city, it gave only three courses, while today it gives 10, with more subjects in preparation. At the earlier date, he said, the curriculum of the institute consisted of elementary banking, commercial and banking law, and money and banking, whereas today it consists of banking fundamentals, commercial law, negotiable instruments, standard economics, standard banking, credits, investments, trust functions, analyzing financial statements, and public speaking, while the two new subjects of bank operation and organization, and bank management are to be added.

The New Pace of Business Change
Business evolution used to move slowly—it measured off its gradual changes almost invisibly, like the hour hand on the clock. But today its tempo is that of the second hand. The movement of evolution that is quickening business with rapid changes is alarmingly visible and makes it difficult to keep up with them.—R. S. Hecht.

Among the first to greet Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau (standing left) after his triumphant surprise flight from Germany to New York was Captain Frank Courtney, British Aviator, who attempted the trans-Atlantic flight from England to America in 1928 in the same plane, the Dornier Wal D-1422, but was forced down in mid-ocean. The two are shown chatting while the plane is refueled for a hop from New York to Buffalo enroute to Air Meet at Chicago.

Lombard—Kirwan

St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding Wednesday, September 3, when Miss Helene Alice Lombard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Lombard of Smith street, became the bride of John Francis Kirwan, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Kirwan of Newark. The ceremony was performed at 5:30 P. M. by the Rev. John Nelligan. Palms and white gladioli in tall marble urns at either side of the steps to the main altar formed the decorations, and white satin ribbon formed an aisle for the wedding group. The lights, including the electricol with its many beautiful prisms, cast a mellow glow throughout the edifice.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Lombard as maid of honor; Miss Jean Kirwan, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Florence Holland of Newark and Miss Zita McCoy of Belleville as bridesmaids.

Mr. Robert Burns of Newark was best man. Thomas Page of Newark, Edward Carragher of Belleville and Joseph Lombard, brother of the bride, were ushers.

R. Francis Ball, church organist, rendered the wedding march from Lohengrin, and Matthew Ryan, radio tenor, sang during the ceremony "Because" and "Ave Maria."

The bride's gown of eggshell satin was made with a long skirt, puff sleeves and a yoke of bridal lace. Her veil of imported Italian lace was four yards long and caught to her head with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. She wore the bridegroom's gift, a diamond and emerald bracelet.

The maid of honor was gowned in orchid chiffon, with a long full skirt and puff sleeves. She wore a transparent velvet hat and satin slippers of the same shade and carried yellow roses. The bridesmaids were dressed alike in yellow chiffon, transparent velvet hats and satin slippers to match their gowns. They carried autumn roses, tied with orchid tulle and wore crystal necklaces, the gift of the bride.

The bride's mother wore blue chiffon with a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Kirwan, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in black chiffon and wore a corsage of yellow roses.

For traveling the bride wore a blue ensemble with eggshell hat, shoes and bag.

After a two weeks' trip through New York state Mr. and Mrs. Kirwan will reside in Newark.

A reception for 100 guests followed at the Mountain View Inn. The couple were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts, as well as several large checks. The bridegroom is a graduate of Barringer High School and Mrs. Kirwan of St. Peter's Commercial.

Corncob Pipe In Battle With Bat

At Least That Is The Story
Told Police In Lake Argument

A corncob pipe and a baseball bat were opposing weapons in a fracas over rubbish cans and a parked automobile in the Silver Lake section of Belleville Friday night. The corncob pipe, in the hands of a feminine combatant, according to the police, drew blood from the alleged aggressor and wielder of the bat, into whose neck it was jabbed still hot and smoking. The feminine wielder had grabbed the pipe, the police averred, from the teeth of the aggressor.

The bat scored a nose-bleed for the mate of the feminine combatant. It was all because of construction of the storm water sewer enclosure on Honiss street.

Mr. and Mrs. Arsenio Mangiro of 50 Honiss street had been setting out their rubbish and parking their automobile around the corner in Heckel street, due to the torn-up condition in front of their own house.

Mariano Carfagno, a shoemaker, of 56 Honiss street became irked because the cans and car were at the side of his Heckel street property. With his sons, Samuel, nineteen, of 56 Honiss street, and Michael, thirty, of 170 Heckel street, he started to change conditions.

When the Mangiros parked at 6 o'clock Friday night, as usual, according to Patrolman Demgard, the shoemaker rushed out with the baseball bat, thumping it over the head of the male Mangiro. Mrs. Mangiro grabbed the shoemaker's pipe from his mouth and sailed in.

A crowd of 300 spectators gathered. Demgard called headquarters. Captain Flynn and Patrolmen Rowe and Bride responded.

The shoemaker was held in $1,000 bail and his sons $500 each for a hearing before Recorder George A. Fitzsimmons Monday night on charges of assault and battery. The shoemaker preferred a counter-charge and the Mangiros were paroled for the hearing.

Gives Rules For Making Conserves, Marmalades

Inexpensive conserves and marmalades can be made with the apples, pears, peaches, quinces, and grapes that are now being marketed, advises Miss Marie Doermann, New Jersey extension service specialist in nutrition. She suggests the use of fruit that is irregular in size and shape or is slightly bruised because of its lower cost. Such fruit is suitable for conserves or marmalades, she explains, since it has to be cut into small pieces.

In listing directions for the making of conserves and marmalades, Miss Doermann comments as follows: "Apple and pear conserve is made by taking two cupsful of peeled and diced pears and tart apples, the juice and grated rind of one lemon, and three and one-half cupsful of sugar. Mix well, cook over a low fire until the sugar is dissolved, and then boil quickly. When mixture is thick and clear, add one-half cupful of chopped English walnuts, cook ten minutes longer, and then pour into hot jelly glasses. Cover with paraffin and store in a cool place."

"A mixed fruit or tutti-frutti conserve is made by first weighing one pound each of quinces, sweet apples, pears and peaches. Then peel, core, and slice the fruit. Cook the apples and quinces separately in a small amount of water until they are tender. If the pears are hard they also should be cooked. Measure six cupsful of sugar into a large kettle; drain the juice from the fruit, add it to the sugar, and then boil the mixture for three minutes. Add the fruit, the juice of two lemons, and the grated rind of one lemon. Cook until thick, and pour into hot jars and seal. This conserve does not contain as much sugar as some, and therefore it should be placed in a jar from which the air can be excluded by a tight fitting cover and rubber."

"Grape conserve is a good accompaniment for meat. Take three pounds of seeded grapes, six cupsful of sugar, the juice of one orange, and the peel of half an orange, and cut in small pieces. Cook together until thick, then add two-thirds of a cupful of English walnuts that have been broken into small pieces. Seal in hot jars with airtight covers."

HELPFUL HINTS

Shade trees often suffer permanent injury as the result of improper pruning. Specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture recommend that scars made in pruning be painted immediately with shellac to prevent drying out.

Shellac should be prepared by dissolving gum lac in alcohol. No other solvent should be used. A shellac brush can be cleaned easily by working it around for a few minutes in a cup of water with a half tea spoon of ordinary borax. Shellac can be removed from the hands with the same mixture.

HOW WISE ARE YOU?

How would you save yourself if a poisonous snake bites you? If you get a bite from a snake, don't put faith in false cure. Symptoms of the bite of a poisonous snake are profuse bleeding, swelling and increase pain in the vicinity of the injury, as the poison proceeds through the body. Of course a patient should remain as quiet as possible. All authorities say the first thing to do is placing a tourniquet above the bite (between it and the heart). It should be made tight enough to check the flow of blood and should be loosened every ten minutes to keep from mortifying the portion of the body from which the blood has been shut off. Apply this first aid treatment and get a doctor as soon as possible. To be doubly sure notify the State Police; they have snake bite serum on hand.

Surprise Shower Is A Real Surprise

At a surprise linen shower given Monday night by Miss Violet E. Van Riper of 361 Main street, for Miss Charlotte Perry of 238 Cortlandt street, the guest of honor turned the surprise on her friends and announced her marriage August 18 to Kenneth Branch, 95 Forest street, Kearny.

The wedding was expected to take place in the near future and plans were being made by the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Perry.

Wishing to avoid a public wedding the couple, accompanied by the bride's sister, Miss Evelyn Perry, went to the parsonage of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, where they were married by the pastor, Rev. Edgar M. Compton.

Upon returning Sunday from a honeymoon at Bushkill Falls, Pa., the bride announced the marriage to her parents, who had supposed her to be on her summer vacation. The couple are residing at 194 Davis avenue, Kearny.

Mrs. Branch was educated in Newark. Her husband, who is the son of Councilman and Mrs. Thomas H. Branch of Kearny, was educated in that town and attended the high school.

The shower was attended by about forty from Springfield, Glen Ridge, East Orange, Passaic, Kearny, Belleville and nearby.

Of Interest to Motorists

Vol. Your CAR and the Motor Laws

Harold G. Hoffman,
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

Editor's Note: This is the twelfth of a series of articles by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, presented by the News as its part in the campaign of education to familiarize motorists with the laws which regulate their conduct on the road.

By HAROLD G. HOFFMAN,
State Comm'r. of Motor Vehicles.

XII.—TURNS.

Motorists would save a lot of inconvenience for themselves and others on the roads if they developed the habit of making right and left turns in accordance with the method outlined by the State traffic law.

The Woodbridge clover-leaf grade separation and the roundabouts, or traffic circles being constructed at various important intersections throughout the state, with their emphasis on keeping to the right, undoubtedly are developing a turning technique which many motorists have lacked. But here are thousands of drivers who do not have occasion to travel over these roads and they continue to make unnecessary trouble for themselves and for others by their clumsiness in making right and left turns.

A right turn is simple, if the driver prepares for it by working his way into the extreme right traffic lane before he approaches an intersection. Some motorists may ridicule this suggestion as too elementary. They may insist that the practice is so obviously necessary that it does not warrant re-statement. Let such critics stand at any busy intersection and note the actions of even experienced drivers. An unbelievably large number will approach an intersection on the extreme left of traffic and then, recklessly swerve or cautiously nose across traffic on their right to make a turn.

And this notwithstanding the express provision of the State traffic law that "the driver of a vehicle intending to turn to the right at an intersection shall approach such intersection in the lane for traffic nearest to the right-hand curb or side of the highway, and in turning shall keep as closely as practicable to the right-hand curb or side of the highway until the turn is completed." When intending to turn to the left the law says the driver "shall approach such intersection in the lane for traffic to the right of and nearest to the center line of the highway, and in turning left shall pass immediately to the left of the center of the intersection, passing as closely as shall be practical to the left of the center of the intersection."

Here it may be appropriate to voice a word of warning against the all too prevalent practice of cutting corners, which means turning sharply along the left curb. Especially is this hazardous at blind corners where the approach of another car on the intersecting street may cause a serious collision. By obeying the law and turning from the left of the center of the intersection, and precisely at that point, clear vision down the intersecting street is obtainable.

It should be understood that the law gives local authorities, in their respective jurisdiction, authority to modify these methods of turning, or forbidding turns altogether, by clearly indicating by buttons, markers or other direction signs, within an intersection, the course to be followed by vehicles. But in the absence of such special directions, the motorist is bound by the provisions of the state traffic act.

Before we end this discussion of turns, it may not be amiss to repeat the gist of an earlier article in this series. Never make a turn without giving drivers behind adequate warning of your intention. An adequate warning can be only given by the hand and arm, extended well out from the car. For a left turn point with the index finger to the left. For a right turn make a sweeping motion from the rear to the front to indicate to drivers behind that they may pass to the left.

TWO NUTLEY MEN DIE IN CRASH

Third Faces Manslaughter Charge-After Car Hits Tree In Belleville

The death of a Nutley man in the crash of a roadster automobile against a tree in Franklin avenue, near the Essex County Hospital Wednesday afternoon was followed by the death at 4:45 at Mountsides Hospital of another occupant of the car.

Hobart Stager, thirty-four, of 12 Mt. Vernon street, married and the father of two children, was killed outright when his head struck the tree and his body was crushed in the tangled wreckage of the car. W. Richard Chambers, twenty-one, of 10 Mt. Vernon street died of a skull fracture and internal hemorrhages.

Eugene Kucinski, twenty-four, of 120 Franklin avenue, Nutley, driver of the car, suffered a laceration of the left wrist and a slighter wound under the right arm. The right side of the car struck the tree, demolishing the rear of the machine.

The driver was hurled free. His statement to Police Chief Michael Flynn of Belleville was that Stager had told him to "step on it" and pressed his foot on the accelerator. He had been driving twenty-five to thirty miles an hour, Kucinski said, and the car leaped to forty-five or fifty, left the road at the sharp curve, and that was the "last he knew."

Arraigned before Recorder George A. Fitzsimmons on a charge of manslaughter Kucinski was paroled in custody of Police Chief William Brown of Nutley for appearance at the prosecutor's office.

The body of Stager was removed to Hueselbeck's morgue by order of Chief Medical Examiner Martland.

Soho Interns Aid
Soho Hospital interns and ambulance drivers Mackay and Hines took Chambers to Mountsides Hospital. The examination was by Assistant County Medical Examiner Brien.

Nutley police, first notified of the accident, relayed the report to Belleville headquarters. Chief Flynn and Patrolmen Fleischer, Flynn, Hilton and Nourse kept traffic moving past the scene, though nearly 100 automobiles were parked by persons attracted by the tragedy.

The car wreckage was scattered along the margin beside the road for twenty feet. The front of the car stopped within inches of plunging through the wire fence enclosing the Essex County public golf course.

The car was owned by Kucinski, police said.

Those killed were both natives of Nutley. Stager leaves his widow, Mrs. Mary Stager; two children, Henry, thirteen and Evelyn, ten; two brothers and three sisters. Funeral services will be arranged at the funeral parlors of Joseph McKenny, Franklin avenue, Nutley.

Chambers was a chauffeur. He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Watson Chambers, two brothers, George and Watson Jr., and two sisters, Ruth and Elizabeth. He had played football with several Nutley teams.

THE MERCANTILE AND INDUSTRIAL INTEREST OF BELLEVILLE AND NUTLEY

First National Bank Of Belleville Has Wide Clientele And Service

Resources And Application Of The Best Policies Have Been The Most Dominant Factors In Its Career.

Institutions have varying degrees of influence on the business, civic and social life of communities, but there is none that has such an important task as the bank.

Recognizing the place that it would be called upon to fill and realizing that it would be necessary to install the most modern banking facilities and methods so that it could exist successfully, the First National Bank of Belleville has rendered a service since 1906 that is comparable to that of any financial institution in the East.

Belleville has benefited by having this reliable organization so closely affiliated with it. Due to the manner in which it has dealt with its clientele the First National Bank of Belleville has progressed to the position in the minds of the residents as being indispensable to the general welfare and prosperity here.

Mr. Peter Igoe the president, and Mr. John P. Condon the vice president, have been connected with the bank since its inception, while Mr. Edmund A. Rung, vice president, has been seven years in the bank.

Mr. John P. Dalley, the bank's able cashier has been in the banking business in Belleville for the past nine years.

Herman M. Miller and Francis J. McFadden, assistant cashiers, complete the list of officers and their competence is coupled with an honest, conscientious desire to serve the patrons of the institution with the best possible advantages and measures.

The Board of Directors and the personnel which deals directly with all clients are noted for interest in the activities of the bank.

Belleville is justly proud of its National Bank—proud that it has such a strong financial institution and proud to say that many cities cannot state—that it has a bank that can be relied upon for aid in times of stress!

He has been in the business for 25 years.

Essex Engine And Machine Corporation

It is a known and widely accepted fact that the field in which we find this organization is a most crowded one and the success of this firm is all the more remarkable when we consider its competition.

There is a most appreciable reason for the success of this firm aside from the fact that it has all equipment of the day and manufactures the best products. Its executive personnel is composed of John Hozack, president, and Dudley Drake, vice president, while the duties of secretary and treasurer are entrusted to James Hozack. These men are well versed in the intricacies of the endeavor and have contributed to a major extent to the building of prestige of the Essex Engine and Machine Corporation.

That a firm should combine such services and continue along lines with the interests of the clientele at all times enjoying paramount consideration is due to the fact that the executives of the firm, Messrs. R. R. Clark, president, and F. H. Bridge, secretary and treasurer, have always made it a point to promulgate the best policies.

Greetings:

THIS News Special Edition, devoted to the business interests of our community, divulges many interesting facts that probably have never come to light heretofore regarding the true aspects of many of the foremost business establishments in this vicinity.

A reading of the characteristics and operations of many of the organizations discussed in this edition will bring to the attention of residents of Belleville, Nutley and Newark facts of wide interest.

Being one of the foremost trade centers of North Jersey in the past, it is apparent that the local district will enjoy even greater forward strides in the future. This assertion is based on the findings of the recent census, which divulges an increase of 72.3 percent increase in population. Nutley with even more startling figures, shows an addition to residential population of 118.3 percent.

That these communities should advance so rapidly proves conclusively that they are among the foremost of the ultra-modern localities in the section. Such increases likewise demonstrate that the movement towards the towns from larger cities, has met with the approval of the new residents who claim the merits of suburban homes.

With these added hundreds the business life of Nutley and Belleville has been kept advancing at a rate that was commensurate with the movement towards the towns. The trek is not yet ended. Widely voiced statements have induced more metropolitan residents to enter Belleville and Nutley and seek the free breathing space and courteous attention of business houses.

The stores, industrial organizations and, in fact, every business man and woman who has been selected to make up this Special Edition has offered services of the type that would promote, rather than retard, this movement. The population of Nutley and Belleville has increased due to the fact that new neighbors were welcomed with open arms by residents and business enterprises.

The Belleville and Nutley Special Editions have been perpetrated to aid this step taken voluntarily by residents of the larger cities. It has been employed as a medium of making plain the merits of the leading business establishments, the banks and financial organizations of the progressive area that has nearly doubled its population in a decade.

The state of New Jersey has advanced to ninth position in total population. This has been made possible by the advancement of the North Jersey district in particular. We present the Special Edition as a record of business achievement to be retained and handed down to posterity to show the impetus gained in a decade through the medium of superior business policies and may it stand as a testimonial to efforts rightly directed and as a criterion of the business men and women who contributed so much.

It is noteworthy that such a firm as that of Belleville Motors, of 73 Washington avenue, Belleville, exists in the area. Mr. Charles Klausman, the directing head, has made every effort to insure his clients the best possible services and has become one of the foremost leaders in the activity.

With the coming of the new edition of the Ford product, Mr. Klausman realized its value and immediately took steps to handle the increased trade which would result from the car being placed on the market.

Fords which have been sold through the agency of Mr. Klausman are seen on the roads throughout the section in which Belleville is located. The immense popularity of these cars has been heightened by the manner in which Mr. Klausman has served each one purchased.

Chief William Hirdes

Has Become Known For Many Attributes. — Has Served 34 Years.

The clang of the fire gong brings the throngs to the street and the roar of the engine stirs something within us all that causes a realization of just what the men on the engines are doing. These brave fellows protect live and property and their valiant efforts are the instruments of saving millions of dollars each year.

As one of the foremost New Jersey towns, Belleville has received the services of a competent chief; as a result the effects of a truly devastating conflagration are virtually unknown here.

Lead by Chief Hirdes the fire department has proven itself equal to many baffling and discouraging situations where a stout heart, strong hand and commanding leadership alone were factors in overcoming the consuming flames and blinding smoke.

Chief Hirdes has given such an enviable account of himself on numerous occasions that his feats and ability as a leader have been the topic of conversation in residence and store. He has created a feeling among the residents of Belleville that as long as he is fire chief, their property and lives are safe.

EUGENE T. BERRY

The conservation and preservation and protection of the public health, being one of the most important branches of municipal administration the "News" in its survey of the activities of Belleville's official family, deems it fitting to pay well merited tribute to the accomplishments of Eugene T. Berry, as Health Officer of the town.

Preventing ravages by diseases, promulgating and enforcing sanitation and health regulations and checking the spread of contagious diseases are but some of the duties with which Mr. Berry is charged, and which he is discharging in a capable and efficient manner.

Mr. Berry is a man of broad ability and knowledge, whose constructive work in the interest of the public health in Belleville is one of the most useful activities in our town. His work and achievements, being of the effective rather than the spectacular type, the results obtained by Mr. Berry are not heralded to the general public, due chiefly to the disposition of Mr. Berry to cloak his activities with the veil of professional conservatism.

The "News" however, feels no intrusion in bringing to the attention of its readers and residents of this section, the personality of one of the most efficient and capable members of the municipal government of Belleville, who is well known and highly respected.

requirements in the home and improvements in the home and proper plumbing fixtures or piping will endanger the health of an entire household.

Plumbing firms are rather numerous in and about Belleville, but the services extended by Mr. William MacNair, Jr., situated at 11 Overlook avenue, have retained a clientele for nine years in the face of competition and the many other obstacles which beset firms in this field.

Probably one of the most interesting and important features of this business has been the emergency service which the organization has made a point to extend. At any hour, when a break appears in a pipe or something else goes amiss with the plumbing, instant attention is given the task by the establishment of Mr. MacNair.

Mr. MacNair is thoroughly versed in the field and has had years of practical experience that sets him above the average.

Mrs. Andrew J. Steelman of Montclair, chairman of the efficiency in government committee of the New Jersey League of Women Voters, will speak at the first meeting of the Nutley League September 25 at the home of Mrs. Frederic H. Sanford, Nutley avenue.

Mrs. Steelman's subject will be "Reorganization of State Government."

Photographic portraits are rather dull and lifeless in appearance unless they are of an appreciable size and are colored to make the image appear more life-like. In creating a service for Belleville residents that has been most noteworthy and appreciated and received with open arms in the district the Columbia Art Institute, of 234 Water street, Syracuse, New York, has won a place for itself in the hearts of the residents.

The establishment enlarges and refinishes photographic portraits.

The institute has a corps of artists who are thoroughly familiar with the needs of the individual clientele and complete satisfaction is guaranteed. The fact that this organization has been received with such acclaim and has left a large satisfied clientele in its wake in every city in which it has operated proves conclusively that it is truly a most unique organization.

In Belleville and vicinity the Columbia Art Institute has established itself as an enterprising and progressive member of the business and professional fraternity although its headquarters are in another state.

Other cities in North Jersey are soon to receive the services of the Columbia Art Institute.

LEARNING FROM BOOKS

Biography, which has for several years ranked next to fiction in popularity, gets another boost with the inquiry into the reading habits of 43 well-known American business men. As opposed to the popular belief that the reading habit is declining, these men reported that they devoted about two hours a day to reading books, while a few read from four to five hours a day.

No less than two-thirds of those who replied to the questions said that they read biography more than anything else and no less than 20 added that their lives had been greatly influenced by this class of reading. That is testimony to the value of good biography that is worth having.

WHITE HUCKLEBERRIES

A great discovery has been made at Beaver Dams, New York, and one that appears to be making that remote township famous. It is the finding of huckleberry bushes bearing white fruit. People say the berries on those particular bushes are really ripe and taste exactly like the others. They have been put on exhibition at Corning.

We predict a flat failure for these palefaces of the huckleberry tribe. Man eats with his eyes to about 50 per cent of his rations. Think of missing the deep, dark-red color of genuine berries in luscious sauce or delectable pies, or muffins, or steamed puddings. Without the tempting lure the eater might as well be a blind man. White huckleberries, indeed!

A ROSEATE PROPHECY

Dire poverty will be banished from the United States in thirty years. That is the prediction which August Heckscher, philanthropist, has sent out to the world as a birthday message. Mr. Heckscher has lived for 82 years, so he has experience to back up his belief. And during most of that period, he has undoubtedly seen a steady diminution of poverty in this country.

But it requires a good deal of faith to believe that we are going to rid ourselves of unfavorable poverty within so few years. Last year, it would not have seemed so optimistic a forecast as it does today. Thirty years seems a short time in which to banish an evil that has existed throughout history. But what a triumph for civilization that would be.

MEETING PAY ROLLS BY CHECKS

Those who have been studying crime have recommended the meeting of pay rolls by payments by checks instead of cash. This method greatly embarrasses the pay roll robbers. They are unable to hold up paymasters and take thousands of dollars away from them if in place of cash there are only bank checks made payable to individuals to be obtained.

Many employees object to being paid in this way because they have long been accustomed to receiving cash. But when the system has been in operation for a few months, few employees would desire to go back to the old cash basis. With their pay checks in their pockets they cannot be held up or robbed and the banks are glad to have employees go to them for payment because so many take advantage of the opportunity to open accounts. The number of saving deposits has greatly increased wherever the payment of pay rolls by checks has been adopted.

Anything which tends to acquaint more people with banking methods is a good thing for any community. Saving is a habit and one that is easily acquired. Employees bearing checks go to the banks, cash their checks, deposit part of the money in savings departments and go away with the balance of their earnings. Week by week the saving account grows until it becomes a sizeable amount. Then the employee begins taking an interest in investments of some kind and either buys bonds or makes first payments on real estate. The bank officials give advice and aid in encouraging the habit of thrift. Not only are the pay roll robbers foiled by this system but the entire community is benefited in many ways.

DRIVING MANNERS

A good many are coming to believe that a silly rivalry or sense of personal pride is one of the chief causes of automobile accidents. A new car these days is usually bought under such keen competition that its choice becomes a matter of personal judgment to be supported at all costs. Having bought it because he thought personally it was better than some other car or all others perhaps, the owner seems to feel duty bound to prove this on all occasions. So he will not yield the road, drive with reckless speed and take chances generally just to prove his car is all he thought it was.

Then there is much pride in driving skill. Many like the thrill of getting out of a tight place by superior teaming and prefer this to being safe and sure or to being considered timid drivers. They want to do any thing any driver can when often they are not at all capable of this.

Somehow control of a car gives a good many a superior complex instead of the inferior with which they contend in other occupations. Possessed by this, they want to lead all the time, never are willing to be the last car in the line or to give an inch more of the road than necessary.

Hence there is much fighting for the road which is worth nothing practical after it has been obtained, or for one position that is no better than another, simply for the sake of getting something someone else wants apparently.

A more friendly feeling and less useless rivalry of this sort might make conditions far more comfortable for everyone. If there was more give and take among drivers there might be less accidents. Taking more for granted without insisting on a demonstration would cut down reckless driving immensely. In short, what drivers need more than anything else is better manners in their relations with each other.

POLITICS AND PERSONALITIES

Congress in full blast never furnished the entertainment that its members are giving through their statements issued by the two national party committees. Official debate had its peppery qualities, but it was a model of politeness compared with the warfare now being waged. Accusation and recrimination crackle in the air like lightning. "Malevolent," "false," "malicious," "infamous," and "outrageous," cries Republican to Democrat and Democrat to Republican. The minority party hurls an epithet at the administration, and the party in power comes back with, "You're another!"

It may be undignified, but it's lots of fun. The sharp shooting serves a purpose, too. Events that were once allowed to die out of memory before election day are being kept constantly before the public. It is interesting to note that the tariff is still holding its own against all other subjects as a major issue. Almost daily there is issued a barrage of words that deplore or defend the Grundy Act. A statesman returning from Europe is seized upon and asked to tell the country how other nations like us, tariffs or no tariffs. Fast on his heels comes another statesman who paints a vivid picture of foreign ill will caused by our super-protectionist policies. And so it goes.

In the midst of this wordy praise and denunciation, President Hoover's appointment of Thomas Walker Page to the Tariff Commission is a pleasantly realistic touch. The public was apathetic over the appointment of the new chairman, Henry P. Fletcher. But not so over Dr. Page. A teacher and writer in the field of economics, Dr. Page was first appointed to the old tariff board under President Taft. Later he was appointed to the Tariff Commission under President Wilson, and was chairman of that body for two years. He is an outspoken opponent of the flexible tariff provision.

Since Dr. Page holds the opinion that even the Pordney-McCumber rates were too high, his appointment is the first concrete indication that maybe the tariff will be made to "flex" after all.

"WE POINT WITH PRIDE"

If the number of letters written by its citizens are any indication of a country's greatness, then America has another reason for its well-known custom of "pointing with pride." We handle one-third of the world's mail, an amount equal to that handled by Great Britain, Germany, France and Russia combined, according to the Post Office Department. And that we handle it more cheaply, more safely and more speedily than any other nation is made plain by the Department's statement.

For instance, we can mail larger and heavier packages by parcel post than the citizens of any other country. Our rural delivery service embraces more free routes than are covered in other countries, and the thinly populated districts of America receive as much attention from mail carriers as do the rich farming districts.

The United States is practically the only nation in the world that maintains pre-war postage rates. A two cent stamp will see a one-cent letter safely from America to Great Britain whereas it requires three cents to send the return epistle over here. We can communicate with any place on the globe for not more than five cents, although a letter sent to Australia a half-century ago cost two dollars and four cents.

Preparations for Christmas are already being made by the Department. A small poster, bearing the slogan, "Say Merry Christmas with a Postal Money Order" will be sent to each money-order office in the country. Special Christmas posters are available and may be obtained by postmasters after application to the Department in Washington.

A MENAGERIE FOR THE PRESIDENT

An usher a raccoon and her six baby raccoons have established a new precedent in White House entertainments. "Ike" Hoover, the usher, borrowed the animals from the National Zoo to enliven a lawn party for visiting foreign lawyers, and so successful was the enterprise that a repetition, with possible variations is expected in the future. If so, the President will have a choice of 3,800 animals from which to select performers at high executive parties. Practically every variety is represented in the zoo, ranging from white mice to the administration's party mascot, the elephant.

Once the White House could easily have furnished its own animals for such occasions. A virtual menagerie was maintained at the executive home for some years, but under the present regime the stock of canines, felines and other pets has fallen off materially. However, the White House has contributed so many animals to the zoo that it is only fair for the President to borrow a few in return. Among the zoo occupants that were presidential gifts are an ostrich from President Roosevelt, a pigny hippopotamus given by President Coolidge, and a lion and lioness that had been presented to Mr. Coolidge by a South African mayor.

CLOUDS OVER THE AMERICAS

It is an axiom that where prosperity reigns so does political contentment. Correspondingly, economic depression can cause more revolutions than all the fiery words of the world's soap-box orators put together. That is why students of world affairs are probing beneath the surface of romantic political tales to find the real cause of unrest in various Latin American countries. Almost without exception, they have discovered shaky finances, sluggish trade, or other earmarks of poverty in the restive nations.

Peru has suffered badly from the low prices of her leading commodities. Bolivia which underwent a revolution a short time ago, is feeling the effects of a slump in the prices of tin, silver and copper. Argentina, also, has been hard hit by depression of the wool, wheat and meat markets. Only Latin American countries, Chile and Venezuela, are in good financial condition, according to the Department of Commerce.

In Cuba, the depression is particularly acute because of the sugar situation, which is always an index to the welfare of the entire island. Successive increases in our tariff against raw sugar from Cuba have helped to reduce the industry to a dangerously low financial level; consequently, the whole Republic is undergoing an economic slump.

Under such conditions, we have little right to expect "the peace that flows from plenty" in our neighboring American states.

A BILLION DOLLARS IN GIFTS

Philanthropy in the United States is rapidly donning the trappings and methods of big business. One hundred and eight foundations for giving control almost a billion dollars, a sum as large as that possessed by four of America's leading industries; shoes, baking, clothing and rubber. Through these mediums more than $60,000,000 is poured yearly into education, art, science and similar fields of endeavor.

Education is most favored by Lady Bountiful, who distributes almost half her gifts in the cause of pedagogy. There are foundations for the support of colleges for financing educational fellowships, for agricultural instruction, vocational training, the improvement of the little red schoolhouse, and for education in ethics. Research is next in popularity with the benefactors. About thirty-three organizations contribute funds for scientific investigations in the fields of economics, medicine, biology, child welfare and health, education and sociology.

Aid to individuals is given by forty-eight organizations, although the total amount of money expended for this purpose is relatively small. Artists and musicians receive the lion's share of such benefits. Leaders in radical movements are given especial aid by the American Fund for Public Service. One organization exists to help the blind, while another is concerned exclusively with the welfare of young girls.

JAZZING UP ALGERIA

French cooperation with Yankee salesmanship has made the American record and phonograph business a booming one in Algeria, according to a statement issued by the Department of Commerce summarizing a report by the Consul General in Touchet, Algeria. Although the European residents in this French possession are the main purchasers practically all of the trade is transacted through France.

The taste of the natives of Algeria runs to Arabic songs, French classical music and American jazz. Classical music is preferred by the wealthier classes, but American dance and jazz records are in constant demand. In fact, American records manufactured in France are most popular in the Algerian market although four or five other makes of records of foreign origin are sold. A good business is done by American manufacturers having agencies or branches in Paris. They often sell their phonographs on the American payment basis—the installment plan. Even in Algeria, ten or twelve months is often allowed for settlement on purchases.

One way to understand people is through its music. And mutual understanding through commercial intercourse is the surest guaranty of world peace.

JUSTICE FOR JOHN DOE

Citizens who have writhed helplessly under attacks made upon their integrity by Congressmen will watch with interest the outcome of an appeal now being taken to the Supreme Court which is asked to rule on a senator's constitutional privilege of saying with impunity anything he wishes. The suit was brought against a United States senator by a tax consultant who charges that the legislator falsely termed him "corrupt, dishonest and unethical."

Congressmen are prohibited from making remarks on the floor which reflect on the character of their fellow congressmen, but they are unrestrained in their comments on everybody else. Individuals, races and creeds have felt the lash of the legislative tongue. Attacks of this kind which were particularly prevalent during the lobby investigations, have recently drawn much adverse comment from editorial writers.

Usually the victim of congressional vituperation grins and bears it. He may sometimes issue a statement in defense. A few belligerent spirits have been known to retort, "Let him say the same thing off the floor and see what happens!" Occasionally another member of Congress will rebuke his outspoken colleague or take up the cudgels in defense of the attacked. However, the Congressman has an edge over the private citizen in that the former's words are given more publicity than the latter's.

Did you ever stop to think?

by Edson Waite

U. G. Baker, publisher of the Susquehanna (Pa.) Evening Transcript, says:

That when you neglect to pay that "little account" over at the store, you are doing just that much toward slowing down business in America.

When you get along with two shirts, two suits of under-clothes, one pair of shoes, and one suit when you know positively that you need more, and you know that in the bank in your name is sufficient money to pay for them, you are slowing down business by not purchasing and paying for the goods you actually need.

When you refuse to buy that which you actually need and can pay for in cash, you are one of the sprags in the wheels of American industry and business.

When you refuse to buy and pay, when you decide to wait until "things pick up," you are materially interfering with legitimate business.

When you do not buy the merchant does not sell, and when the merchant does not sell he does not buy, and when the merchant does not buy goods the factory does not run, and this in the aggregate makes for unemployment and "business depression."

It is for the people who are working and earning, and they are in the majority, to do the plain duty of the moment, and that is to pay bills and purchase goods actually needed, paying cash for such goods, to bring back "good old times."

Merchants can aid in this "reconstruction work" by advertising consistently and intelligently in the home town paper.

JAKE'S IDEA

—By KATHERINE WILLIAMS

"Boss wants to see you," announced the office boy to the under-editor of the "Farmton News."

"All right," Jake rose from his desk and went to see the "Boss," otherwise Henry Stiles, owner and head editor of the "Farmton News."

"Sit down, Jake, got an important matter to talk over with you. I've just been lookin' over the sales of the paper, and the sales is fallin' off. 'You mean the outside sales is fallin' off,' corrected Jake. 'Well, I guess you're right,' admitted Henry.

"Anyway we're not sellin' as many copies as we used to." The room was quiet for a while, then, "I've got it! We'll make a big number, make everybody sit up and take notice." This was Henry's idea.

For some reason or other, Henry's idea didn't work, and the day before he went on his two weeks' vacation, found him again and again repeating cautions to Jake to whose care the paper was being left. "Gee! I wish I could build up the sales while you are away," said Jake. "Boy, I'd give you most anything if you did. Well, good-bye, old fellow, take care of the paper." "Good-bye, Henry."

For a long time Jake sat in the head editor's chair, enjoying the importance of his position. Soon he began to think of the sales falling off, however, and finally thought of a plan. He remembered about that South Carolinian editor, he certainly had publicity! Why he even had his picture in the paper!

"Why can't I do that too," suddenly thought Jake. It was just eight o'clock when Jake donned his pajamas and got in his car, prepared to drive to New York and on the morrow receive all the publicity needed to set up the paper. Jake put his overcoat in the back of the car, for after all, the nights were rather cool.

It was after eleven o'clock. Jake was just entering New York. He was shivering with the cold so he reached in back for his overcoat, guiding the car with one hand.

Crash, bang! and Jake found himself sitting upside down with the car climbing a telegraph pole. He was charged with being a drunkard, reckless driving, and trying to run down a policeman. He got publicity all right. Pictures of the car, himself, and so forth, were pictured in the papers. Jake immediately sent a telegram to Henry, peacefully spending his vacation in Asbury Park to, bail him out.

All together it cost poor Henry fifty dollars, but as Jake cheerfully reminded him, the outside sales had increased wonderfully and the Farmton News bloomed, or rather printed happily ever after.

Golf Drivers Ready For Philly Contest

On Wednesday evening, September 24, the First Annual National Open Driving Championship will be held under flood lights at the Philadelphia Municipal Stadium, scene of the first Dempsey-Tunney fight.

This event will be the first of its kind ever attempted. Golf has now reached a stage where public interest in the driving ability of the country's stars is second only to knowing their respective playing ability, and intense interest is already being evidenced in the event.

The Driving Championship is being staged under the promotion of the Arena Corporation, owners and operators of Philadelphia's largest indoor sports emporium, whose name has been credibly associated with the promotion of boxing, wrestling and hockey, in this city, for many years. The event will be supervised and directed by the Valley Forge Golf Club, sponsors of the amateur driving championship of Philadelphia, recently won by W. B. (Duff) McCullough, of Huntington Valley.

Every ranking professional in the United States and Canada has been invited to compete. In view of the size of the field, amateur entries are being limited to those eligible to enter the National Amateur Championship, which will be in progress at the Merion Cricket Club, during the week of September 20.

It has long been a moot question as to just who is the longest and most accurate driver in America. Here, for the first time, will assemble a galaxy of the country's star players, both amateur and professional, with the sole purpose of ascertaining who is to be crowned and acknowledged Driving Champion.

Philadelphia's mammoth Municipal Stadium will be especially remodeled to accommodate the championship. Tees are being built at a forty feet elevation, in the center of the extreme south stand. From this point, a sweeping expanse of 422 yards is at the mercy of the contestants.

The conditions under which the contest will be conducted are as follows:

Each contestant will drive four balls. The average yardage of the best two will determine his qualification ranking.

St. Anthony's Display Class In Win From Cardinal Jr. Outfit

Win Puts Saints In Line To Battle Clintons For Lead

The heavy-hitting St. Anthony junior nine convincingly won the right to fight it out with the Clintons for first place in the American Legion junior league, Saturday afternoon, by recording a 10-2 win over their erstwhile contenders, the Cardinals.

Mike Gallagher and Lordi, a newcomer to Legion league ranks, evenly divided the hurling honors for the Saints, with neither showing any particularity in the allotment of their hits and runs. Each permitted three hits and one run towards the rather small Cardinal hit and run output. Gallagher was the leader in the strike-out column, however, by a 6-3 margin.

The Cards led off as if they meant business by getting off to a 1-0 lead right off the bat. With two out in the first, "Mac" Lamb, scintillating young infielder of the losers, banged out a triple to right and put on the finishing touches by catching Lordi flat-footed and stealing home.

The Silver Lakers evened the count in the second, however, on Blaise's single, followed by a sacrifice, a stolen base and a Cardinal misplay. This was only a "taster," as it were, as the Saints, taking advantage of a general let-down in the Cardinal inner defense, pushed across five runs in the third to forge far to the front and sew up the pastime. Joe Comiskey, who started the tilt on the mound for the Cards, certainly deserved to fare better than he did in this particular canto, but his mates just wouldn't let him.

George Ashworth, who succeeded Comiskey on the hillock for the Cards, was also treated rather roughly by the rampaging Saints, four more runs trickling across the plate during the four innings of his stay.

Convincing evidence of the rather languid support accorded both Comiskey and Ashworth by their Cardinal cohorts may be found from the observance that the entire St. Anthony run total of ten resulted from just seven hits. Non-support, de luxe.

Freddy Riccio, stellar young receiver of the winners, took two of their seven bingles, while Billie Byrnes did the honors for the Cards with a second pair.

Legion Junior Teams To Battle Tomorrow At Belleville Park For Championship

Tomorrow afternoon, at Belleville Park the Clintons and St. Anthony Jr.s. will battle it out for the championship of the local Legion junior league.

A brilliant mound duel seems in the offing in this important game, the last of the season. Tommie is sure to receive the call for mound duty from Manager Welsh, while Mike Gallagher, the ace of the Silver Lake tossers, will probably oppose him on the hill. Manning will receive Byrnes' slants, while the receiving assignment for the Saints will take the field in support of the remainder of the Clinton cast, including Howie Irving, "Mac" McGuire, "Shorty" Dbrowski, Johnny Travers, Al Schwartz, Hughie Welsh, Brady, Sullivan and "Jake" Schwartz will take the field in support of Byrnes.

St. Anthony's will in all probability line-up with Jerry Bonavita, Carter, Cieri, Fabio, Carchio, Pastore, Nick Bonavita and Domenici, in addition to the aforementioned Gallagher and Riccio as the battery.

It promises to be a real lively tussle and well worth anyone's while to watch, as the expected large crowd would serve to indicate.

Junior Legion Nine Loses Close 3-2 Game To Montclairites

Hal Boschman Turns In Good Game For Locals

The local Legion post's junior nine in the Essex County League lost a close 3-2 pitchers battle to the boys from Montclair Wednesday afternoon at Belleville Park.

Hal Boschman, local mainstay in the box, pitched brilliant ball in permitting the Montclairites but four hits and their three run total. Pomeroy of the visitors, however, went him one better in the matter of both hits and runs, giving out only three bingles and one less run. Boschman got six of the winners on strikes.

After a scoreless first canto each side got the scoring range in the second canto to the amount of one run apiece. Herman Paul's single featured the locals' output. Then with two out in the third the visiting delegation went into the lead never to be headed with a final pair of markers on the same number of hits.

The Bell-boys made a futile one-run gesture in the fourth on Dave Shelley's one-ply blow, but it only served to narrow the final margin.

Belleville Players Help The Turners Defeat Conger A. C.

Sunday afternoon at Watessing Park, Bloomfield, the National Turners defeated the Conger A. C. 5 to 1. John Mallack and Jimmie McCabe, two local boys, appeared in the Turner line-up and each did his share to bring home the spoils. Mallack nailed three runners sliding into third, while McCabe made a perfect throw to Mallack to catch one of the runners. In addition, each connected for a bingle and scored a run. McCabe's run tied the score and Mallack's broke the deadlock. A wild throw permitted the Congers to score a run in the fourth. The Turners scored four in the sixth on a walk, two singles, a double, an error and a sacrifice fly. Three successive singles pushed over another run in the eighth. Next Sunday at Watessing Park, on the Glenwood avenue side, the Turners will play the St. Benedict's Catholic Club of Newark.

Louis "Kid" Perez, the pride of Belleville clubbed Bobbie Anderson, former junior welterweight of Boston, to sleep in the third round of a scheduled ten-round star bout at North Hampton open air arena, Saturday night, 5,000 attended.

The fight was sensational from the sound of the first gong when Lou led off with a series of uppercuts and left hooks. He had Bobbie groggy at the start and almost in at the end of the round. In the second round a lucky swing floored Louis but he got up before the referee started to count. He was bleeding from the mouth and nose which spurred him on. He got to Bobbie and by the end of the round had him holding on. A right hand to the stomach and a left hook to the chin ended Bobbie after two minutes of milling in the third. Louis was wildly acclaimed for his masterful fight. Anderson weighed 139½ and Louis 136.

As a consequence he was booked for a fight last Wednesday at Michell Field, L. I., where he tested his skill against Joie Abraham, lightweight from Detroit. Results did not reach us in time for publication of this paper.

In the semi-final ten-round bout at North Hampton, Matty Mario, Staten Island middleweight, kayoed Mickey White in four rounds.

Louis by his recent fights in Florida, Chicago and this last set to be climbing toward the championship of the lightweight division. There is some talk about Louis fighting Jackie "Kid" Berg, junior welterweight champion of the world, at Jersey City. Louis is now under the wing of Eddie Kane, former manager of Sam Mandell.

Last Minute Homer By Calabrese Not Enough To Win

Junior Leaguers Just Nosed Out By Team Of Montclairites

In spite of a last minute homer by Calabrese, the Belleville Legion junior leaguers dropped a heart-breaking 6-5 tussle to the Montclair Post warriors at Montclair, Saturday afternoon. The defeat relegated the locals to a tie for second place with their conquerors and the play-off for this coveted position in the Essex County Junior League will take place Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at Belleville Park.

For five innings the localites battled on even terms with their Montclair rivals and for five innings they played air-tight ball behind Frank Catalano, their mound ace. But the sixth frame was a different story. With two out and Ferrara and Hartuyk resting on base, following singles, the Bell-boy inner defense cracked wide open, allowing the Montclairites to tally twice and cinch the game.

"Cheechy" Calabrese, hard-hitting outer-gardener of the local nine, played a lone hand in a vain effort to retrieve victory in the ninth. His long homer to right went for naught as the next three batters went down without a struggle, making the final count 6-5.

All four of these counters were nullified by similar Montclair outbursts in the first and third. Four hits gave the homesters their first three in the first, while two more bingles added another in the third.

Valley Aces Trounce Watchung A. A., 5-3 Behind Jack McHugh

Three Hits Were All Losers Could Find Idling Around

Playing bang-up ball behind the three-hit chugging of Jack McHugh, the newly organized Valley Aces experienced little trouble in disposing of the strong Watchung A. A., 5-3, Sunday morning, at Bloomfield. McHugh baffled the Watchungs completely with a fine assortment of curves, getting no less than fifteen of their number on strikes for one of the best strike-out records of the season.

For six innings, Schindler, Watchung mound ace, kept pace with McHugh, but in the seventh the Valley's heavy artillery began functioning properly with a 2-0 lead resulting. The Bloomfieldites evened the count at 1-1 in their half of the same canto.

The Valleys then turned about and sewed up the game in the eighth with three markers, more than enough to win.

McHugh personally drove a pair of these runs with a double with two on, while Bob Crowning took care of the third with another two-bagger.

This double by McHugh, incidentally was his third hit of the game to give him the batting honors. Shaull, Byrnes and DeMark each contributed two.

The Valleys are finding it rather difficult to book games for the next few Sundays and any manager of a senior team hereabouts is requested to get in touch with the manager, Jack Baldwin. His phone number is Belleville 2-1786.

RUTH BACHER, H. P. HEINOLD ARE WEDDED

Reception In Newark Elks' Club Follows Church Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Ruth Lilian Bacher, daughter of Mrs. Pauline P. Bacher, of 588 Washington avenue, and Herman Philip Heinold of 67 Franklin terrace, Irvington, took place at 5 P. M. Saturday, in Trinity Lutheran Church, Newark. The pastor, Rev. M. F. Walz, performed the ceremony and a reception followed in the Newark Elks' Club. Palms and gladioli were used in decorating the church.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother. She was attended by Miss Clara Strombach of Irvington, as maid of honor, and by Miss Lilian Van Winkle of Bloomfield, as bridesmaid. The bridegroom's brother, Charles Heinold of Irvington, was best man, and Charles Daly of Irvington served as usher.

The bride wore a gown of white duchess lace and tulle and a veil of princess lace arranged in cap effect and caught with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a shower of white roses and lilies of the valley. For travel she wore a brown dress trimmed with shell pink, brown hat, shoes and stockings, and snakeskin purse. Miss Strombach's gown was of Nile green chiffon, her flowers being Ophelia roses. The bridesmaid was gowned in shell pink chiffon, carrying premier roses. A gown of gray chiffon and corsage bouquet of pink roses were worn by Mrs. Bacher, mother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Heinold have left for a trip through the New England States and a stay in Maine. After October 1 they will be at home at 230 Madison avenue, Irvington.

Nutley Turns Back Local Legion Nine Getting 7-5 Victory

Jim Mallack, Local Ace, Is Knocked From Mound By Nutleyites

Though rallying desperately in the closing innings, the Belleville Legion nine fell down before the last turn-out of the season, Saturday afternoon, dropping a 7-5 verdict to their "rival of rivals," the Nutley A. C., at Clearman Field. The entire grand stand was packed with rooters for both sides, each team battling to take the odd game of the three game series.

Due mainly to some boisterous clubbing on the part of Hub Crawford and Savino, the Nutleyites piled up a huge margin right from the start, holding a 7-1 lead in the sixth. During the course of this free-hitting series of innings, Jim Mallack, local ace, was knocked out of the box and "Butch" Kastner came to his rescue.

And Kastner did just that. After relieving Mallack in the sixth, "Butch" shut out the winners for the remaining four innings, holding them in the hollow of his hand with his southpaw cunning.

While all this Nutley bombardment was taking place, Carl Gordonier, with his slow, deliberate pitching motion was whitewashing the locals with four more bingles.

It just couldn't last any longer, though, and in the seventh the Legion landed on him on all nine cylinders. After the whole side had batted around, and five bingles had been strewn all over the greensward, that 7-0 margin had been cut down to 7-4, and the once silent Belleville fans were crying for more. Singles by Tommie Dunn and Jim Mallack were the most damaging of the five local blows in this canto with other bingles by Joe Curran, "Butch" Kastner and Artie Lamb all aiding in the common cause.

Gordonier regained his bearings in the eighth, retiring our boys in order, but again in the ninth, they struck. They waited until two were out and then hopped on his offerings for a fifth and final run. Jim Mallack doubled and Tommie Dunn batted out a sharp single for this tally.

The whole story of the Nutley victory and the Belleville defeat may be told in a nut-shell with the mention of two war clubs, those of Savino and Crawford. Each played prominent parts in their team's victory with resounding smacks in the first and third innings to individually account for the first five Nutley markers. From then on it was easy.

Despite all this, the real individual star of the Nutley fifteen hit attack was Kappeler, who amassed two singles, a double and a triple out of five journeys to the pentagon. Outside of that he did nothing with his bat. Harry Jacques also looked good with three singles.

Jim Mallack was the Bambino of the local base-hitting with two singles and a double. Tommie Dunn, Jack Lawlor, and Joe Curran were right on his heels with two each.

One Way To Spend Vacation Is Told By F. A. Heisley

EDITOR NEWS:

On Wednesday morning, August 27, 1930, the writer, with some other passengers, had a first hand experience with the skip-stop of an unscheduled sort. We sighted afar an open Broad-Nutley car. It proved to be No. 4041. We stood along Franklin avenue near Vreeland. It was noticed that the car behaved rather queerly at the High street stop, where several passengers boarded the car. On the way down to Vreeland avenue the car made slow time. The car was stopped with difficulty the south side of Vreeland avenue. We trotted over there alongside the car. It appeared that the brake apparatus was sick sore, lame and disordered. One rather choleric lady passenger declared that the company should not let a car go out in such condition. This is equivalent to regulating how accidents could occur, which if done, would remove such an occurrence from the category of chance assuming the inspection had been made, yet the accident occurred in spite of the inspection. A regulated chance is no chance.

At Chestnut street the stop was negotiated with such difficulty that the boarding passengers had to run alongside the car farther than was necessary at Vreeland. Then the operator made one of those bold but happy decisions that will ever justify singleness of command. The sooner that car were in a haven of rest the better. Accordingly we skipped the stop at Center street, rounding the curve at a slightly diminished rate of speed, so that the car reminded disappointed bettors of Gallant Fox and Whicome (not Wishbone) trailing Jim Dandy at Saratoga on August 15. Past the three intervening stops we lagged our way, until we were at the crossing of Passaic avenue. The tardy pace of the car nurtured the expectation of a stop on the part of several waiting would-be passengers and then disappointed them. Someone yelled "The brake is out of order," when faces heavy with chagrin lightened somewhat. Meanwhile that complaining lady continued to censure the Public Service for sending out a car which afterwards (and after three miles' run) became disordered. Thus we slowly rumbled past Union avenue Myrtle avenue and St. Mary's place. Really we weren't losing much time as a tardy sort of "Express," as what we lost in speed was nearly regained on the skip-stop plan, meanwhile noting the numbers on the houses, and the sort of flowers and shrubbery the residents favored. Thus some notes on town planning resembling the town doctoring articles that appear in "our local newspaper" were taken.

It was, however, on the hill down Center street to Washington avenue that the real thrills were gained. That bold young operator let her slide a few feet and then threw in the reverse, repeating the process several brace of times, until we rounded that short curve into Washington avenue, laughing the meanwhile to the great aggravation of that censorious lady, who renewed her preachments on the inspection of cars and the elimination of all chance from this mortal life. Talk of the beneficial effects of Lithia water and other chasers of a bad egg at one's breakfast, or the old fashioned bumping of a cab on the one time cobble-paved streets of New York City, why this was better than all of them put together. Brighter outlooks and new viewpoints were gained on the rather knock-kneed lops of the lame car to the car house, so that when we arrived at our haven of change, with the exception of our talkative lady friend, we had received some compensation for our lost vacations. ERGO, frequently give us a broken brake, or any other car malady, that insures a bumpety-bump, hoop-e-dump down Center street hill.

Now can you beat a token for the number and variety of its benefits? This price, is not to be construed as an admission that the price of the token should be increased. No, my dear friends, the token at a nickel is just as good a bumper and dumper, while at four for a quarter it is a duper, as yet more it confirms the doctrine that every fare-payer is but a guarantor of the P. S.'s prosperity and solvency. But we had arrived and were called upon to leave No. 4041 and take 4070, "the car ahead." Speaking of the lost vacation, did we say that it was all made up to us for the time, as we have just returned from Labor Day sea bathing, skee ball strivings, pop corn eatings and root beer drinkings at beloved Asbury Park. Certainly a few bumps on Center street hill cannot kill that noble desire for the booming surf the spitting spray, with the condiments of pop corn and root beer, that inspires the heart of every seashore nurtured son of New Jersey. We just went and had a real vacation while business went to thunder.

This Whirl Of Sport

By Arthur Bloemeko

"Surprise! Surprise!" is all we have to offer with the mention of the new batting king of the local Legion circuit, Mike Bartley of the Bachelors. But surprise or no surprise Mike earned the diadem with his fine .444 season average, topping second-place Jim Dunleavy by eight percentage points.

You know, there was a touch of drama in the awarding of this crown of which only a handful of the Legion league fans were aware. The averages were officially compiled and issued two weeks ago, Monday, and Jim Dunleavy, last year's winner, was pronounced a repeater with the stick, his fine .436 mark leading the league at that time with Bartley sixth with .416. Dunleavy's mark looked so good that little thought was given the possibility of Bartley overhauling him in the final game of the season, the Bachelor-Bell-Nut tilt, which was to take place the following Tuesday. Bartley did just that, however, getting two out of two that night to nose out the veteran Dunleavy. One of these bingles was of the scratchy variety also, but Jimmie took it like a man, though it meant much to him.

At the start of this season Dunleavy didn't hit up to the extremely high standards he set up for himself last year. In fact he took a decided "slump," so much so that even fans began to "ride" him. But then Jim came on with a rush and in the final five games of the season struck in two and three bingles a game to pull up his mediocre .250 mark to its final .436. The winning of the title would have meant complete vindication for Dunleavy, but as it is, his record of being champion and runner-up for batting honors in two years is certainly a brilliant one and he reserves all the credit in the world.

But enough of this baseball talk. Didn't we just hear the familiar and welcome thud of the pig-skin, as an educated toe sent it skimming through the crisp, September air?

Football is once more upon us, in all its autumnal glory. The official harbinger of this news came with the first work-out of Belleville High's new set of eleven gridiron representatives.

No less than eighty stalwart youths answered the first call to fill these eleven jobs, and though that over-large total will be pruned down considerably before the season gets under way, on the twenty-seventh, it shows that the spirit is there. And that's half the battle.

Besides, these youngsters have a record to uphold. Last year's eleven went through the season with the fine record of winning eight, tying one and losing one. This year's machine wants to improve on that record if humanly possible, despite the fact that they are faced with a stiffer schedule than that of last year.

Coach Erickson is left this year with an entirely veteran line, which is bound to be one of the best in the state, and a new backfield, almost entirely in the development stage. His work is cut out for him for the next two or three weeks to get a workable backfield combination, but we are all sure he is equal to the task. His material, though mostly first-year men, is plentiful and when he gets his "four horsemen" picked out and working, behind that brilliant line, that record of last year will look less and less secure.

But, baseball has not yet had its final fling. Though both the Legion league and the all-star Saturday nine have finished up their schedules, there still remains that final "quaff of victory," the banquet at the Elks' home, September 27.

President Joe Williams and Secretary Larry Keenan, in tones reminiscent of P. T. Barnum, prophesied that the affair will be "bigger and better than ever." Both of these men have been working like Trojans in their efforts to successfully climax the season and they seem well on the road to success.

An innovation, necessitated by the formation of the junior Legion league, will take place at the banquet this year. All the members of the junior teams will have the opportunity of joining in with their "big brothers" at the banquet and receiving prizes, both individual and team, like the senior teams.

Tomorrow afternoon, at Belleville Park, the American Legion junior league will close its first season of play with the playing-off of the Clinton-St. Anthony tie for first place honors.

The league season actually closed last week but a tie resulted in the final league standing necessitating the play-off.

The game itself should be an interesting one with "Tommy" Byrnes the best pitcher in the loop, serving 'em up to the best hitting aggregation the league can boast of.

Manager "Mickey" Welsh of the Clintons has lots of confidence in the capabilities of the good left arm of "Tommy" Byrnes and well he might. Byrnes has been averaging more than ten strike-outs per game in the league and has been winning consistently.

He undoubtedly will be a hard man to stop, but Manager Eddie Grante of the Saints thinks it can be done and says that his heavy-hitting proteges are just the ones to turn the trick.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Summerfield of Little street entertained at bridge recently. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Counihan of East Orange and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Maplewood.

Belleville Man Issues Souvenir Postal From "Trade Wind" Plane

New York, Sept. 9 — A souvenir pictorial post card is being sent by Wayne Vredenburg who lives at 612 Washington avenue, Belleville, aboard the seaplane "Trade Wind" which will hop off here in October, bound for Europe and return on the first trans-ocean flight ever undertaken with a heavier-than-air machine carrying a pay cargo.

Hundreds of requests for permission to send post cards on the "Trade Wind" are being received from all over the United States, according to the Flight Committee, whose spokesman is Victor J. Pere, president of the Washington Bank of New York.

The requests have come in various numbers from twenty-two states. New Jersey leads, thus far; with New York a close second, and California third. Following their trip across the Atlantic (the cards will be mailed to the addresses indicated, which so far represent virtually every foreign country, including even India and South Africa.

A considerable proportion of the requests for post cards apparently are coming from stamp collectors and souvenir hunters, for many of them are addressed to the senders in America.

Curio seekers often say they are frankly influenced by the monetary value of "first flight" mail. Stamp dealers in New York are quoting envelopes, or "covers" as they are called professionally, that were carried by Admiral Byrd on his first flight to Paris as being worth more than $150 each.

Graf Zeppelin "covers," brought over on the first trip of the German dirigible to America, bring $8 each, and the postcards $4 each. "Covers" carried on the first return trip of the Graf Zeppelin to Germany are quoted at $5 each, and postcards at $3 each.

Stamp dealers do not quote prices on the small packet of letters which Chamberlin carried in his pocket during his famous trans-Atlantic hop with Levine. They say these letters are all in private hands, and are held priceless.

"Covers" of Lindbergh's first Carabean flight, made in the interest of opening a mail route between the United States and Latin America, are quoted at $2.50 each.

Just how much of this kind of cargo the "Trade Wind" will be able to carry has not yet been determined, but it already appears to the Flight Committee that more than a full load

Redeemer Ladies' Aid Holds First Meeting

The first meeting of the Ladies' Aid of Redeemer Lutheran Church, North Newark, was held at the Parish House Monday evening. The pastor Rev. Paul Arndt gave a short address, welcoming the ladies back after the vacation days and spoke of the work for the coming year. Plans were made to visit Castles Ice Cream plant October 2, in the morning, and October 3, in the afternoon. The trip will be made by bus and the tickets are fifty cents. At the next meeting October 6 there will be a Rally and Social for all members and their friends.

will be on hand long before the seaplane is ready to take off. A quantity of bank correspondence, for conveyance from New York to Paris, has already been scheduled for the trip, and a portion of the cargo space has of course been reserved for gasoline, oil, and the pilots' food and baggage.

The "Trade Wind" is now under construction at the Bellanca plant in New Castle, Del. She is expected to be ready for test flights late in September and will weigh, when fully loaded about 6,000 pounds. En route to and from across the Atlantic two re-fuel landings will be made—at Bermuda and The Azores—so that the big ship will require only about 400 gallons of fuel and oil on the first lap.

Lieut. William S. MacLaren, former navy flier, will be in command of the flight. His co-pilot will be Mrs. Beryl Hart, 23, who regularly carries passengers from the Newark Airport in her 3-place bi-plane and is one of the twenty-four American women who hold a Department of Commerce transport pilot's license.

Eighty aspiring youths answered Coach Erickson's first official call for football practice, Monday afternoon, at Clearman Field, and from this mass of combined "green" and veteran material will emanate the football machine that will represent Belleville High this year.

Erickson, now in his third year at the helm of the Blue and Gold's grid destinies, will have welcome and able assistance this year from two former college grid stars, now members of the Belleville High faculty. Albert K. McBride, former three-sport star of Ohio Wesleyan, and Brennan, a new member of the faculty, form the duo. McBride, a star end in his day, will take personal charge of the wing men in an effort to impart to them some of his ability. Brennan will devote most of his time with the backfield.

Among the veterans to answer this first call to practice were eight line men and but one backfield ace.

Led by Captain Louis Galluba at one of the tackle positions, Belleville is faced with the far from gloomy prospect of having one of the best lines in history this fall. The entire first line of defense from end to end will be taken care of by "vets" of last year. An idea of the strength of this line may be noted from the fact that players of the caliber of Bode, Udansky and McMaster must battle it out for two guard positions with one of the trio certain to act in the "sub" capacity.

Harold Brand, regular center for several seasons, will be back at his old post as pivot-man, with little opposition thrown his way. Captain Galluba and Hemer Estelle, each two-year men, ought to develop into two of the best tackles in the state this year. They also seem sure of their positions. The aforementioned veteran trio of Harold Bade, Morris Udansky and Howard McMaster must battle it out for the guard posts, with the Blue and Gold sure of that part of the line well taken care of. Jerry Bonavita and Ralph Casale, both hold-overs of last year, will complete the line, each filling in at one of the wing positions.

While there seems small chance of any of the new members of the squad breaking into such a fine looking combination, the veterans will have to step all the way to keep ahead of the fine crop of first-year men already brought to light during the first week of practice. "Chuck" Plenge, Eddie Mutch, Eddie O'Neil, Stanley Goodrich, Schmidt, Welhofer, and Vuono stand out as the best of this latter group.

With such a sterling line to rely on, Erickson and his assistants probably will have to devote much of their time to the backfield, which is still in the infant stage. With Short, Schwieker, Anderten and Byrnes all gone, Fred Plenge alone remains as the one veteran in the backfield.

Despite this absence of seasoned material, the back-field prospects have already shown a turn for the better. Nick Bonavita, Bill Brumbach, Bill Griffin, "Fuzzy" Ryder, Joe Roberti, Tony Biase, Romondt Budd and Len Hodgkinson, all members of the second-string or "pony" backfield of last year, are fine prospects, and with a few of the rough spots ironed out ought to capably fill the shoes of the departing Short, Schwieker, Anderten and Byrnes combination.

This "pony" backfield, if one remembers correctly, was the feature of a second team, which last year won the big majority of its games. Even at this extremely early stage of the campaign, prospects of a repetition of last year's many successes look good, to say the least. And the hardest schedule in history seems to wilt in comparison.

GODD WILL COUNCIL

Good Will Council, Loyal Ladies of the Royal Arcanum will hold its first meeting of the season at Arcanum Hall, 137 Broadway, Newark. Business and plans for future activities will be featured.

AT THE CAPITOL

Betty Compson stars on Friday night in a wonderful racketeering drama, "The Czar of Broadway," with John Wray playing a powerful part opposite her. Joe Frisco, in a short feature, "The Song Plugger," surpasses his last picture, "The Benefit."

On Saturday, Helen Kane, of Boop-a-doop fame, makes a hilarious hit in "Dangerous Nan McGrew." Stuart Erwin, partner of Skeets Gallagher, does his share to add to the comedy. With this picture, "Hell's Island," starring Jack Holt and Ralph Graves, is a co-feature. The Tarzan episode is shown at the matinee.

Dorothy Mackaill, in "Bright Lights," plays on Monday and Tuesday in the best role and best plot she has starred in for many months. A Laurel and Hardy comedy, "Hog Wild," is also on the bill, together with a Looney Tune and the Pathe News.

Wednesday and Thursday, Louis Mann and Robert Montgomery will be seen in "Sins of the Children." Rin-Tin-Tin in "On the Border" is the co-feature. The matinee will start at 2:45, with a complete show going on at 3:30, so the kiddies won't miss anything.

FASHION SUGGESTIONS—TIMELY FEATURES FOR HOME

"Lazy-Daisy" Luncheons for Informal Affairs

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

DURING the summer months most of us have more leisure for entertaining than at other times of the year. Informal parties, however, are much more enjoyable than elaborate affairs. And they will mean surprisingly little extra work, if they are carefully planned.

On these occasions, two-course luncheons are becoming increasingly popular. These consist of but one substantial dish with a relish, accompanied by hot rolls and a simple dessert. Such meals are easily prepared; cause no hurry and flurry at serving time; and can be enjoyed by the hostess, too.

The following menus are sure to be helpful when you entertain at luncheon this summer:

Lobster, Spanish Style
Head Lettuce or Mixed Fruit Salad
With Mayonnaise
Hot Rolls
Grape Jelly
Rounds of Sponge Cake With Red Raspberries and Whipped Cream
Iced Tea

Cold Lamb Quick Mint Jelly
Stuffed Tomato Salad
(Use a filling of chopped nuts, celery and Mayonnaise Salad Dressing)
Whole Wheat Sandwiches
Berry Pie, or Ice Cream With Fruit Sauce
Iced Tea

Fresh Corn and Kidney Beans
Baked Tomatoes Grilled Bacon
Pineapple and Strawberry Salad
With Drop Cookies
Tea

Grilled Sandwiches of Ham, Cheese and Tomato With Pickle Fan Garnish
Mixed Fruit Salad
Cookies or Cake and Iced Tea

Lobster, Spanish Style: Two cans of 2 cups fresh cooked lobster meat, cut in 1/2 inch pieces. Fry with 3 tablespoons butter, 1 small onion and 1 green pepper, sliced. When slightly brown add 1 small can of Cream of Tomato Soup, a small can of mushrooms, a few drops Worcestershire Sauce, and salt to taste. Place in a casserole in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes.

Quick Mint Jelly: Soak 1 tablespoon gelatin in 1/4 cup cold water for five minutes and dissolve in 1/2 cup boiling water. Add 1/2 cup Pure Vinegar and 1/2 cup water heated together and mixed with 1 cup sugar and a few grains salt. Stir until dissolved. Then cool, and add 1 teaspoon mint extract and a few drops green vegetable coloring. Pour into individual molds and chill. Unmold beside the meat.

Fresh Corn and Kidney Beans: Mix 2 cups fresh corn, cut from the cob, 1 medium can Oven Baked Beans, 1 minced green pepper, 1/2 teaspoon salt, and 1 well beaten egg. Put in a greased baking dish, and top with a layer of grated cheese and a layer of fine buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven for about 45 minutes. Serve with Chili Sauce.

Grilled Ham, Tomato and Cheese Sandwich: Toast slices of bread on one side only, and place a slice of ham on the toasted side. Spread the ham with Prepared Mustard, place a slice of American Cheese over the ham and Mustard, and then add a thick slice of tomato. Grill under a broiler or place in a hot oven until the cheese is melted and the tomato slightly browned. Garnish with pickle fans, made by cutting thin parallel slices almost the length of Sweet Gherkins and spreading sections to form a fan.

Disappearance Of Car Mystifies Local Police

An abandoned automobile, found by Nutley police in Bloomfield avenue near Cedar street, early Sunday morning, has mystified police and the owner of the car. Shortly after midnight, Sergeants Emil Werner and Wilford Stager noticed the car in an unfrequented stretch on Bloomfield avenue.

They found the upholstery in the car was smoldering. A cigarette lighter was found on one of the seats. The cap of the gasoline tank was several feet away. Paper in the neck of the tank was found to be substituted for the cap.

The car was taken to police headquarters and it was found the owner of the car was Mrs. Mae Schwartz of 43 Cedar street.

Mrs. Schwartz did not notify Nutley police her car had been stolen until Monday morning, believing it had been taken by her husband on a trip to Wilkes-Barre. She said her husband told her he, Joseph Cafone of Belleville and Frank Handel of 25 Cathedral avenue, would leave Saturday night for Pennsylvania. Shortly after 10 Saturday night, Mrs. Schwartz told police, she heard a noise in the garage, but believed it to be her husband taking the car.

The garage doors were always left open, Mrs. Schwartz added. It was three hours after the car disappeared it was found by police.

Returning Monday morning, Mr. Schwartz said he had no knowledge of the mysterious disappearance of the car Saturday.

Triple Auto Crash Hero Dies Of Hurts In Hospital

Crossing Watchman Prevented Tragedies; Man, Woman Drivers Charged

The crossing watchman who threw himself into a tangle of autos at the Belleville turnpike railroad crossing, Friday morning, to prevent a triple tragedy which seemed imminent, as a fast passenger train swept past the gates, died Sunday night in Jersey City hospital.

He was Howard VanDyne, 65, of 600 Devon street, Arlington, the only victim of the triple crash of autos.

As a result of his death, Mrs. Ruth Ross, of 66 Mountain View avenue, Nutley, whose car struck Van Dyne, and Morris E. Brown, of 43 Hawthorne place, Montclair, whose allegedly reckless driving is said to have contributed to the accident, were arraigned in the Kearny police court on technical manslaughter charges Monday.

The third car, that of Lieutenant Peter Devine, of the Hudson county prosecutor's office, was struck by Brown's auto and knocked over the crossing an instant before the train flashed through.

Here's to Beauty!

DOES your skin seem oily soon after it has been cleansed? Do you have trouble keeping your nose from becoming shiny? Does your skin disclose greasy patches when you use a necessary foundation cream or lotion under your powder?

A good complexion is the birthright of every woman. Regular, thorough cleansing of the skin is necessary, of course; but with a background of good health, plus a few minutes daily use of the right beauty care, there is no reason why you should suffer from any skin fault.

It has been my experience as adviser to thousands of women that a simple, effective treatment can be found for virtually every complexion fault. In most cases just some little thing that has been overlooked has been responsible for bringing about the most astonishing changes. The first step in achieving a lovely complexion is to have a competent adviser analyze your skin problems and find just the proper treatment for your individual needs.

If you are troubled with blackheads—if your skin feels drawn after it has been washed with soap and water—if your lips dry out and chap easily—all these are indications that you are neglecting your skin or are following the wrong type of treatment. Won't you simply write me and state the trouble you are having? I know I can help you find the right road to the beauty that every woman craves.

ARE YOU GUILTY—

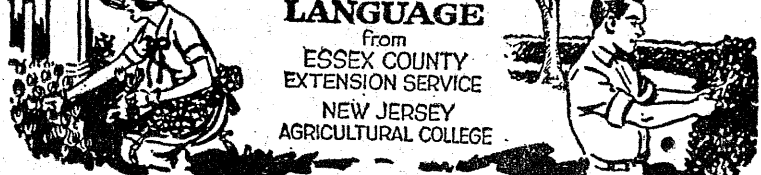

OF neglecting your Starting, Lighting and Ignition on your car by thinking and guessing everything is O. K.? Those days are over. We have all the modern testing devices for inspecting all ignition systems right up to the latest types.

OF having low priced jobs done on your car? In every town there will be found shops having some Jack of All Trades and Master of None, who are noted for low priced jobs. If you dig deeper into this you will find that the low priced jobs turn out to be rather expensive. The men in these shops invariably are the type who tinker or patch up an old part to extend its usefulness.

Pruning Ever-Blooming Roses

By A. C. McLEAN,
N. J. Agricultural Extension Service

"Should I cut back my ever-blooming roses?" is the question frequently raised by many a home gardener at this season.

A moderate cutting back now is not likely to do any harm, especially if the foliage has been injured either by insects or disease. Moderate pruning now will stimulate vigorous growth of rose wood that has been ripened by the recent extremely hot weather. This new growth should flower well the latter part of September and early October. The pruning should not be delayed because soft growth made late in the fall may be winter-killed.

Ever-blooming roses do not thrive in New Jersey's hot, dry mid-summer weather; in fact, they frequently become dormant at that season. Roses of this type bloom best in spring or fall.

In preparing roses for winter, the plants should be well killed with soil around their bases. This hilling practice, which should not be done until late November, will protect the best of the blooming wood from severe winter injury. It is of no great consequence if the older wood, or the wood above ground, kills back to the top of the mound. There will still remain sufficient wood to start a healthy growth next spring. Most authorities in fact, recommend that roses be pruned heavily each spring.

Additional information on this subject is contained in a free bulletin of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station entitled, "Roses in The Garden." Copies of this publication may be obtained by writing to county agricultural agents.

Further information on this and other garden, flower or agricultural questions may be obtained from the County Extension Office, R. E. Harman, County Agricultural Agent, Caldwell. (Phone Caldwell 6-0572).

Leaf Blotch Of Peony

By R. P. WHITE,
Research Specialist, Diseases of Ornamentals

After peonies have completed their bloom and are becoming mature, the foliage is subject to infection with several fungi, the most common and disfiguring being that which causes purplish-red blotches on the upper surface of the leaves. On the lower surface, infected areas are a dull brown. During periods of rain, these areas may become covered with an alive-brown powdery substance, the spores or reproductive bodies of the fungus.

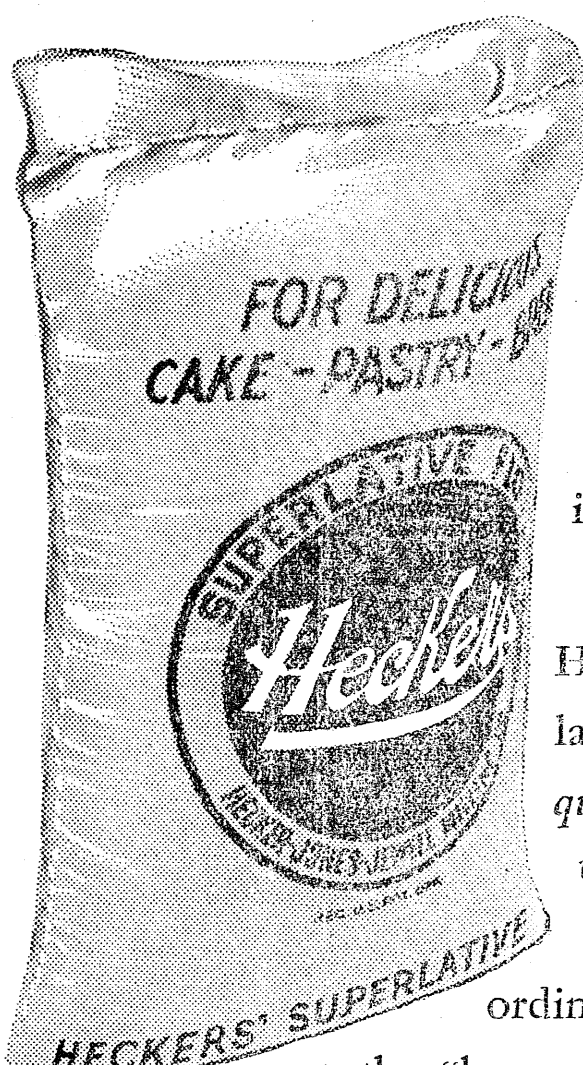

Continued heavy attacks of leaf blotch in successive years may weaken the plant so that it will eventually die. The thorough cleaning up and burning of the matured tops in the fall, before heavy frosts, will in most cases effectively prevent serious infections the following year. Since the spores are wind carried infections may continue to be serious in spite of the annual destruction of diseased tops if spores are blown in to the garden from neighboring plantings. In such cases, the foliage should be sprayed with bordeaux mixture after the blooming period. Two or three sprayings at two week intervals should afford adequate protection.

Further information on this and other garden, flower or agricultural questions may be obtained from the County Extension Office, R. E. Harman, County Agricultural Agent, Caldwell. (Phone Caldwell 6-0572).

Many of the boys fishing along the shore last week got some and some got none.

Fresh water fishing last week was nothing to brag about except the one little freckle face lad from Bloomfield who pulled out a 24-inch pickerel at Smith's dock last Saturday afternoon just as the writer landed there.

All the world respects A GOOD COOK

• Cookery . . . one of the greatest civilized crafts.
• A good cook . . . one of mankind's solidest blessings. • Flour . . . a basic food which varies widely in quality.

Heckers' Flour (that superlative flour) does not vary in quality. • In the grocery trade there is a word which means "out of the ordinary run" or "extra good" or the "best obtainable". The grocery word for special excellence is "fancy". Heckers' Flour is "fancy". • It is milled from the world's very best wheats. It is fine, dry and satin-y in texture, lending itself to the nimble artistry of the expert cook.

Heckers' Flour has been on the market ninety years. A supreme testimonial!
