Mayor Urges That Bond Issue Be Passed

Says Average Municipality Will Benefit by Over Twelve Point Reduction In Tax Rate

Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy who helped sponsor the $100,000,000 bond issue which will be submitted to the voters Tuesday, says:

On next Tuesday, November 4, the voters of the State of New Jersey are called upon to approve or disapprove of the One Hundred Million Dollar Bond Issue. As chairman of the Special Committee on Tax Relief, representing the New Jersey State League of Municipalities I have been close to this subject for some time over a year. It was this committee that induced the legislature to consider the necessity of tax relief for the local taxpayers.

I am personally satisfied that the approval of the three referendums representing one hundred million dollars in bonds will mean genuine tax relief to the citizens of the town of Belleville. The accompanying chart represents a local tax bill for the year 1930. The figures in comparison represent the relief that would have been secured by local taxpayers had we been able to take advantage of such a referendum in 1929. It clearly shows reduction of 12.65 points in our total tax rate.

The one hundred million dollar bond issue has been endorsed by both of the major parties, both houses of the State Legislature, the Governor, the two members of the United States Senate and has recently been endorsed by Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, who is recognized as one of the outstanding men of the nation in matters pertaining to finances.

Practically the sole object of the passage of the Bond Issue is Senator Emerson L. Richards of Atlantic County. It should be kept in mind that the Senator is an announced candidate for Governor and much of his opposition can be traced to a desire to keep himself before the public during the next few months.

True, with the adoption of the Bond Issue, an increase of one cent in the cost of gasoline will be made. This amount will result in an added expense to the average owner of a passenger car of about $4 per year. Figuring on a $10,000 assessed valuation, the local property owner would immediately receive a reduction in 1931 of $12.65. If this were offset by $4, the average increase in the gasoline tax, there would be a net saving to the taxpayers of $8.65.

It must be borne in mind that 93 million dollars of this huge sum has already been authorized by the State Legislature and in the event of the failure of the Bond Issue to meet with the approval of the voters of the State, this sum must be raised in some manner. It seems logical that the cost of acquiring rights of ways, eliminating of grade crossings and the building of bridges should be spread over a period of years, on the theory that the next generation should pay their proportionate share toward the cost of these permanent projects.

The cost of the construction of Municipal and School Buildings spread over a period of many years and the State Legislature has come to the realization that this is a logical method of financing their permanent improvements.

The voters of the Town of Belleville after weighing the facts should unhesitatingly vote "YES" on the one hundred million dollar bond issue.

THIS DRIVE MUST GO OVER

The Campaign is on! During the next ten days Belleville will have an opportunity to provide for her destitute; secure aid for the sick; protect her disabled veterans; and to insure a continuance of the activities of those agencies without which no community the size of Belleville can hope to survive.

This is the time for straight talk and clear thinking. The chronic fault finders, the insidious whisperers, the complainers and the squawkers must be silenced. THIS DRIVE MUST GO OVER.

It is about time that we give all those constantly against every thing good that is started to understand that they do not represent Belleville. This town is as good as any town in this state; better than most. The people are just as fine and just as human and just as public spirited as those of any other town. It is Belleville that the youngsters get home-sick for when they go away; this is their home. We owe it to them to try to do those things that will make them proud of their town. We owe it to them to see that they are provided for by making conditions as good as they can be.

There are people in this town today that have no coal; and no food except that which is provided by these agencies in the chest. It is not the part of charity to advertise and we don't propose to do so, but they must be taken care of until things improve. This winter is going to be tough sledding for a lot of them. Unless we alleviate conditions to the best of our ability we are due for trouble.

Do every thing that you can possibly do to help in this chest drive. Give of your time, if you possibly can. Give as much money as you can and thank God you can give. Hundreds would gladly give if they were able. Next year the shoe may be on the other foot. THIS chest must go over!

Club Will Give Receipts To $10,000 Organ Fund

Henpecked husbands have existed since the institution of marriage was invented. They are a perpetual source of amusement to everyone but themselves, and Martin Flavin, author of the "Criminal Code," one of the hits of last season, uses one as a hero, a very timid one, in his play, "Broken Dishes," which will be presented at the High School auditorium, Friday evening, November 7, by the WEMEC Dramatic Club.

The WEMEC Dramatic Club will present "Broken Dishes," their fifth big production, as part of their campaign to raise the pledge which they have made towards the purchase of the new $10,000 organ which is being installed in Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church. The club will also present "Broken Dishes" at Gladstone, at a later date, at the request of the Woman's Club of that town.

Brief Biographies By SCHOTTY

LADY GODIVA Born 1040

There is where I take issue in History, which says that the very beautiful woman rode bare, through the streets of Coventry, as a condition of the removal of taxes. My own opinion is, she had just heard of our price on brake relining, and was so anxious to find out more about it, she simply forgot her clothes.

I have drawn as much of her as I think discreet.

Ford Digs Two Mile Tunnel for A Billion Gallons of Water a Day

NEARLY a billion gallons of water a day—more than is used by the cities of Detroit, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Washington combined—will be the capacity of a huge tunnel now nearing completion at the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Michigan.

The tunnel will replace the present water intake system which supplies the Ford plants with 500,000,000 gallons a day. At the same time the company is remodeling its power house to greatly increase the power output. Both improvements, costing several million dollars, are being made to enlarge the production facilities of the Ford plant.

Sixty Feet Under Ground

In constructing the waterway, the largest of its kind ever undertaken by a single business concern, the engineers are burrowing sixty feet under ground for a distance of two and a fifth miles. They have gone under main highways, railroads, street car tracks, bridges, a cemetery and a creek.

One of the most difficult tasks was that of tunneling under Baby Creek at a point which is crossed by a railroad bridge and where also a large sewer is under construction by the city of Detroit. The piles that provide the foundation for the bridge and those driven by the company constructing the sewer formed a network on each side of the creek. It was the task of the Ford engineers to burrow under the creek, sewer and bridge, going between the piles without striking or weakening them.

Boring of the tunnel is accomplished by means of a shield—a large steel cylinder fourteen feet long and twenty-choice of a coach for the play. The club has been very fortunate in once more securing the services of Miss Elizabeth Tempest, whose ability is well known to the theatre patrons of Belleville.

With the above background, it would be no rash statement to say that "Broken Dishes" will be patronized next Friday night by those who appreciate sincere efforts to present a stellar play for a worthy cause.

one foot in outside diameter with a solid steel shell or skin two and a fourth inches thick. This shield has a bulkhead which is made fast near the front end. There are four openings through which the mud streams, like toothpaste from a tube, as the shield is shoved forward by twenty powerful hydraulic jacks.

When the shield has been pushed forward sufficiently concrete blocks two and a half feet wide and five feet long, each weighing 3,420 pounds, are placed to form a ring around the circumference of the tunnel. One of them acts as a keystone so that the lining of concrete, which is eighteen inches thick, withstands the pressure of the earth. After this steel forms are set up and filled with concrete to form a solid inner lining which is also eighteen inches thick.

The present intake system of the Ford plant has a capacity of 500,000,000 gallons a day. The new tunnel will be able to carry 913,600,000 gallons.

Eddie Patterson K.O.'s Silvers In Fourth At Fort Erie Club

Two Battlers Put Up A Slam Bang Ring Affair

Eddie Patterson, Belleville's hard-two fisted bantam-weight, scored his ninth sensational straight knockout Victory over Milton Silvers in the fourth round at Fort Erie Club, New York, Monday night.

Patterson took a bad beating in the first and second rounds, but the third round Patterson rushed across the ring and caught Silvers with a terrific left hook that cut Silvers over the eye and started it bleeding.

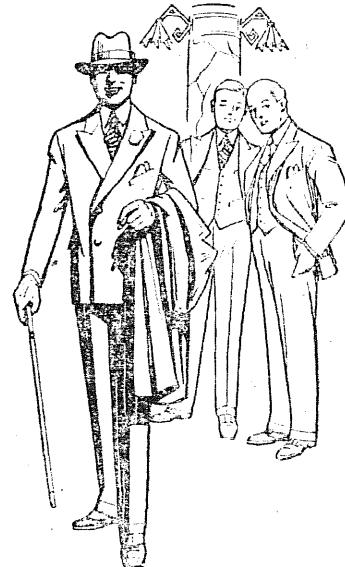

Patterson sent lefts and rights to Silvers' jaw and a terrific upper cut to Silvers' chin that didn't do Silvers any good. Then Silvers sent a hard left and right to Patterson's jaw that turned Patterson half way around. Quick as a flash, Patterson sent a hard stiff jab to Silvers' face and a hard right cross to the nose.

The fourth round found Silvers fighting like a lion but it didn't mean anything to Patterson. Silvers rushed in with rights and lefts to Patterson's jaw that started Patterson's nose bleeding. Patterson came back with lefts and rights to the jaw and stepped back to send a hard right to Silvers' nose. Silvers was in a bad fix. His face was covered with blood. Silvers tried to keep Patterson off with his long jab but it didn't do Silvers any good. Patterson only came tearing in with lefts and rights to Silvers' jaw.

Patterson sent a left hook that dazed Silvers and dropped him in the middle of the ring for the count of ten. Silvers was worked over for three minutes. Patterson weighed 119; Silvers, 123.

Gets The Women

Twelve young girls bought ring side seats to see Patterson fight. Patterson is one of the best little fellows you can meet out side of the roped square. His manager turned down $175 to fight Oscar Goldman an eight round bout in Rochester. Patterson is due to fight Maxie Goldberg, November 3. Patterson has a better record than some boys who have had long experience in the ring. He is only eighteen years old. Last Sunday was his birthday. He is managed by Sammy Wanner, also of Belleville.

Growing House Plants

By A. C. McLEAN

N. J. Agricultural Extension Service

Many persons experience difficulty in growing house plants because room conditions are too dry or because the plants fail to obtain sufficient sunlight during the short winter days.

Practically all plants, excepting those from the desert, require a fairly humid atmosphere for good growth. Such an atmosphere is seldom provided in our modern steam or hot-water heated homes. To provide the desired humidity, moisture pans should be put on each radiator and kept well filled with water.

Plants grown in the window receive only about 50 per cent of normal sunlight during the days of winter. For this reason, it seems advisable to grow those plants which have low sunlight requirements. Ferns and foliage plants fall within this class.

Further information on this and garden, flower or agricultural plants may be obtained from the County Extension Office, R. E. Harman, County Agricultural Agent, Caldwell, (phone Caldwell 6-0572).

Control Hollyhock Rust Now

By R. P. WHITE

Agricultural Experiment Station

Rust of hollyhocks is a disease that is carried over the winter on leaves, at the crown of the plant, which are infected in the fall; on stems and diseased leaves; and on leaves of the weed malva rotunda, or common mallow.

It is a desirable season to begin control measures for hollyhock rust by burning all old stalks and leaves of the hollyhock.

Also, common mallow plants near the garden should be uprooted and destroyed. These measures will assist materially in preventing a serious outbreak next spring.

In spring, the rust can easily be controlled on the young leaves at the crown of the plant. It takes the orange-brown, hemispherical masses which are largely on the lower surfaces of the leaves during the growing season.

For information on this and garden, flower or agricultural plants may be obtained from the County Extension Office, R. E. Harman, County Agricultural Agent, Caldwell, (phone Caldwell 6-0572).

Water Blooming Bulbs

By A. C. McLEAN

Agricultural Extension Service

Coming of cooler weather remind gardeners that now is the time to plan for winter bloom. Bulbs are the most sure plants for this purpose, among them the hyacinths and tulips are particularly effective. These plants should now be put away in a cool, dark root. Thorough rooting is to the successful growing bulbs in winter.

It is best to expose the bulbs to sunlight and warm temperatures until they are in which they are grown. The amount of growth can be determined by the hole in the pot or by gently knocking out of the pot.

These bulbs are not suitable inside storage. These bulbs, bury them out in soil to a depth of one foot to protect from frost with a foot of straw and leaves.

IN VOGUE TODAY

Style Notes Prepared for the Essex County Extension Service By CATHERINE GRIEBEL, Clothing Specialist

One of the large metropolitan stores has just opened a "debut shop" and I was fortunate enough to be invited to the showing of fashions for girls who soon will make their bows to society.

This shop plans to offer help in the selection of girls' costumes, and its advisory committee of recent debutantes is on hand the entire day to welcome and assist them in choosing clothes. Many mothers will be delighted with such help.

The clothes were lovely—street, afternoon, and evening dresses, coats, suits, and evening wraps. As in Paris, I noted much black, white, black and white, brown, green, and wine color.

I have already called your attention to the use of turquoise with black. This combination was carried out in an evening dress of black tulle with which was worn a turquoise necklace. A turquoise ornament was worn at the tip of the deep V-neckline at the center back.

An afternoon dress of black velvet had elbow length puffed sleeves gathered into narrow bands on which were single turquoise buttons. Four of these buttons fastened the bodice at one side. A flat crepe dress which might be worn on many informal occasions had for its only decoration a bias scarf of turquoise velvet, which passed through black straps at either side of the neck opening and fell free below. This last was an especially charming frock and the velvet scarf suggested a way of freshening up an old dress.

All dresses were long. The evening gowns intended for dancing cleared the floor, and the ones intended for more formal affairs had trains. There were two blue velvet evening dresses of dancing length. One had its off-the-shoulder bertha edge with narrow white fur; the other decorated its square-cut neck line with large creamy flowers. So many of the evening dresses had the off-the-shoulder line that this appears to be a generally accepted fashion. It certainly is a charming line for young girls. One gown of black velvet had this line accentuated by a bertha of real lace.

Lace is smart this year, yet it need not be expensive. Lace does not muss easily, and, for the girl who must count her pennies, I can suggest nothing better. I saw attractive all-over lace in a shop recently for $2.50 a yard in a 36-inch width.

Several tunic blouses were shown. These came well down toward the knees and were of crepe or satin. One, of the shade called "rust," this season, was worn with a black skirt and a three-quarter-length coat.

The hats were small and close, setting well up to show the hair on the left side and dipping lower at the right. All-white hats are smart with black costumes. If the white is repeated in neckline and gloves, so much the better. There were many berets and tricornes.

Serve Sherbets with Meats

By JOSEPH BOGGIA, Chef
The Plaza Hotel, New York City

A SHERBET with the meat course is a most welcome addition to the hot-weather luncheon or dinner. Adding to the diet the healthful fruit juices, and through its sugar content, one of the most important energy elements, the sherbet's cooling qualities and delicate flavor help to make the repast a noteworthy occasion whether dining en famille or entertaining honored guests.

Another point not to be overlooked by the wise hostess is the aesthetic factor. Served in footed glasses in pastel shades of rose, amber, azure, green or topaz, the iced cup strikes a note of color that does more than its share in assuring the colorful charm demanded for the perfectly arranged summer table.

Mint Sherbet—Mash one cup of fresh mint leaves with one cup of sugar. Add two cups boiling water. Let stand ten minutes. Strain out the mint leaves. Add one-half cup lemon juice and few drops of green coloring. Freeze to a mush and serve in glasses garnished with mint leaves.

Grape Sherbet—Boil together for seven minutes, two cups of water and one cup sugar. Add two cups grape juice, one-fourth cup lemon juice, and one-fourth cup orange juice. Freeze to a mush and when partially frozen stir in the stiffly beaten white of one egg.

Orange Sherbet—Boil two cups sugar and one-half cup water for five minutes. Add grated rind of one orange and one teaspoon gelatin which has been soaked in two tablespoons cold water. Dissolve thoroughly and cool. Add one and a half cups orange juice and one-fourth cup lemon juice. Freeze to a mush.

Orange Milk Sherbet—Dissolve one and a half cups sugar in two and a half cups orange juice. Add one-fourth teaspoon salt and one teaspoon grated orange rind. Stir gradually into three cups milk. Freeze to a mush.

Eagle, life and star awards and ten merit badges were presented to eight Belleville Boy Scouts Friday night.

Alfred Cocks, already an Eagle scout, was presented his first bronze Eagle palm by Warren Brundage, Newark scout executive. Cocks also received merit badges for gardening and painting.

Thomas Paterson was presented a life badge by Edward D. Kelly, Troop 90 committee chairman, and received a merit badge for life-saving. Edwin Woods was presented a star badge by Rev. Peter R. Deckenbach and received merit badges for first aid to animals and swimming.

The other merit badge awards made by Patrolman Robert Anderson were: Robert Dusler and Charles Mudd, marksmanship; Irving Butler, wood carving; Edwin Settle, masonry; James Crawford, firemanship.

Charles Perry of Troop 50 won the competitive knot tying event.

Troop contest awards were as follows: Largest attendance, Troop 90; troop having most adults present, Troop 89; best drill, Troop 50. Harry Brumbach, deputy Belleville scout commissioner, directed the contests.

The main floor of the High School Auditorium was crowded to capacity and the various Troops were lined up at the north and south walls during the evening.

Charles L. Steele, principal of the High School presided and among others participating in official capacities were A. A. Buckley, chairman of the Council; Assistant Scout Executive Roy Jacobus, H. Maden, W. W. Brundage, Chief Scout Executive and Harvey Brumbach, deputy commissioner.

The meeting started with a song service, followed by the Reception of Colors, the Pledge to the Flag and repeating of the Scout Oath and Laws led by Mr. Brumbach. Rev. Peter Deckenbach presented the Life Award to Scout Thomas Patterson of Troop 50. Following this Troop 50, which seemed to be quite prominent during the evening, gave their stunt which later captured the prize, rating sixty-five per cent. W. W. Brundage then presented the Bronze Eagle Palm to Scout Alfred Cocks of Troop 50. Troop 92, which meets at the Recreation House then put on their stunt which consisted of a Harmonica Band and later garnered third prize. Assistant Scoutmaster Archie MacInnes of Troop 50 was next the recipient of a Service Medal from E. D. Kelly, chairman of the Troop Committee of Troop 88. Troop 89 next gave a fashion parade which was very interesting and won for them the second prize for the competitive stunt. The basis for comparison and scoring was the total percentage obtained for originality, scout value, number participating and Boy Leadership. Bob Anderson presented merit badges to several deserving members. Homer Zink next presented Scout Edwin Wood of Troop 89 with the Star Award. The knot-tying contest then proved to be one of the more exciting events of the evening. Chuck Perry of Troop 50 finally emerged victorious with the fine time of 60 and 1-5 seconds. A spirited contest was waged between Arthur Jocker of Troop 92 and Edwin Wood of Troop 89, the latter nosing out a victory by 4 seconds.

Mr. Steele then presented the prizes won during the evening as follows: 3 flag kits to Troop 90 for having the best Troop attendance; 120 feet of rope to Charles Perry of Troop 50 as winner of the knot-tying contest; First Class Flag pole emblem to Troop 89 for being responsible for the largest adult attendance and a pup tent to Troop 50 for the best Troop stunt.

Among those present at this affair were Mrs. Adams, member of the District Council; A. Edward Locher, William Watters, Harvey B. Thompson, Mr. Boutilllette, F. W. James, Hal Earl, Mr. McAvoy.

Troop 92 Notes

This Troop was well represented at the Court of Honor. Their Troop stunt was in the form of music. This consisted of three harmonica numbers ably played by James Mariana, Walter Eckhart, Stephen and Richard Lukowiak and Americo Turturullo with Charles Cee, brother of Scoutmaster Joseph Cee, playing the banjo mandolin.

Troop 50 There was a Halloween party at Fewsmith Church Monday evening. The Troop appeared at the church on Sunday in a body.

KNOW YOUR CHILD

By EDITH D. DIXON

EXTENSION SERVICE
NEW JERSEY COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

The Radio And The Home

By EDITH D. DIXON

Extension Service,
N. J. College of Agriculture

Helen was in the fifth grade. The moderate amount of home work she had to do should not have required more than 30 minutes of her time to complete. Yet she was going to school unprepared, and telling the teacher that she spent two hours on her home work. Her "studying," however, was done while the radio was in operation. "My child turns on the radio on the minute she comes into the house," Helen's mother said, "and she simply cannot study without it."

It is important to realize the effect of this practice on the mental habits of a child. No individual can attend equally well to two things at the same time. When certain habits such as washing and dressing, become automatic we can carry them on while thinking of other things. But the young child's habits are in the process of formation and it is important that he learn to center his attention on only one thing at a time.

Some children will tell you that they can study better when the radio is on, but they cannot. Their attention is divided, as a result, poor habits of study are being formed. High school teachers complain that such children cannot apply themselves; that as soon as a thing is a bit hard they give up, and their minds become occupied in "wool gathering." This is the result of poor work habits formed at an earlier age. Often the home work of a child is in a subject in which he is slow and consequently it may be distasteful to him. This makes it all the more necessary that distraction be eliminated to help him to put his mind on his lesson and shut out the temptation to think of pleasanter things.

The child should be given a quiet room where he can be alone while doing his home work. It is advisable to put a time limit on the work to be done. If the teacher thinks that 30 minutes is long enough for the assignment, the child should be required to stop at the end of that time whether he has completed the lesson or not. If he thinks that the job can be done in the second hour he may be tempted to dawdle through the first.

Note: These weekly articles on child training are furnished to the News by the Essex County Extension Service which, with Miss Dixon's cooperation, is prepared to answer letters of inquiry on child training problems. Address such letters to Mrs. M. C. Shepard, Home Demonstration Agent, Park Theatre Building, Caldwell, N. J.

THE STATE BOND ISSUE

If the voters of New Jersey will keep in mind the fact that the proposed $100,000,000 State bond issue, upon which they will be called upon to express their approval or disapproval at the general election on November 4, is purely a business proposition and not a political one, there is little doubt that they will give the proposal their endorsement.

First, it is important for them to understand that of the total issue, $93,000 will be spent whether the voters approve the issue or not. This sum is required to meet payments for public improvements to which the State is already committed. The question is whether the work should be expedited or should be spread over a period of ten or twelve years at a greater cost.

Under the bond issue, the required funds can be raised at a rate of four per cent and the improvements completed in three to five years instead of ten or twelve years. On the other hand, the State can go on collecting the money annually by taxes, as it is doing now, which will result in a greater expense to the taxpayers by reason of the handling of the smaller sums and of the payment of those sums in advance.

The pay-as-you-go policy has a fascinating sound, but how many homes would be owned by wage-earners if they had to pay for them in cash, or how many of the smaller farms would be owned if the purchasers had to settle up in full before taking possession?

The only new item of expenditure provided for in the proposed bond issue is that of $7,000,000 to be used by the State in acquiring watershed properties against the future requirements of municipalities for potable water supplies. This is good business. The water problem is getting to be a more serious one day by day and it is a wise policy for the State to purchase watershed lands now, at their present comparatively low values, rather than blindly to put the matter off until a crisis is reached.

Of the other items in the bond issue plan, $10,000,000 is for institutional construction, and $83,000,000 for highway purposes. Of the latter item, $65,000,000 is purely for highway construction and $18,000,000 for the removal of hazardous grade crossings, the railroads to pay a similar amount in this removal.

The main object of the bonding plan is to obtain money for the immediate completion of the State's program of public improvements and at the same time to lift some of the burden of taxation from the local taxpayer. Just now, there is a property tax of one-half mill for institutional construction. Under the bonding plan, this will be abolished. There is also a one-mill tax, the revenues of which are devoted to highway purposes. This cannot be replaced inasmuch as it stands as a surety for an earlier bond issue. But it will be offset, under the bonding plan, by the return of $5,000,000 a year to the municipalities out of revenues collected from a one cent increase in the gasoline tax, which is a vital provision of the plan. Taking together the repeal of the half-mill tax and the refund to the municipalities, a 12.65 points reduction in the local tax rate is indicated.

Essex County's share of the gas tax refund will be $2,051,179; Hudson's, $1,604,479; Bergen's, $602,593; Passaic's, $541,428; Union's, $616,141, and the other counties, like these, in proportion to their tabulates.

As said in the beginning, it is a business proposition upon which the voters will be called upon express themselves. The proposal is a non-partisan one and the fact that it has been endorsed by the leading civic and business organizations of the State, as well as by the Hon. Dwight W. Morrow, one of the leading financiers of the country, indicates that it has been laid out on a sound business basis. The issue, is known as the Kenworth Measure—Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy of Belleville first suggesting through the League of Municipalities.

PROSPERITY VERSUS DEPRESSION

PROSPERITY is up for election, running to overthrow DEPRESSION.

It's for the people to decide which will be chosen. Every man and every woman is privileged to ballot—every day.

DEPRESSION has no rightful place with a hundred and twenty million people, exchanging goods and services—capable—accustomed and willing to work—more highly skilled than other people—leaders in efficiency and progressiveness—backed by the vast natural resources of the United States. When we make it possible for the man who works to have a job, make it possible for him to buy food for his family and so help all business including that of the farmer.

The rest of the world is of small importance compared with that of the market of 120,000,000 people—homogenous—of like tastes, habits and aspirations—living under the same laws—free of trade barriers. Foreign trade may be troubled by tariffs and revolutions, but at their peak our exports represented only five and a half billions of dollars of gross business in a year out of a total American income of ninety billions.

Stagnation of circulation is what's the matter with agriculture and with business. Everyone can help to get that circulation moving again.

Government can't make Prosperity—alone. Bankers and other business leaders can't make Prosperity—alone. It's the people, united in opinion and purpose and courage, who determine Prosperity. They can elect it none other.

Ballots that will be validly counted for PROSPERITY are of many kinds. Some one of them every man and woman can cast. For example:

Help a deserving man or a woman to get a little paying work—or, better, a regular job.

Spend wisely and not too timidly, and anticipate scheduled expenditures so far as is practicable.

Turn the deaf ear to false, mischievous rumors; and don't repeat them, if you do hear them.

Be willing to pay a fair price. Don't take advantage of the other man's necessity. Recognize that he has as good claim to a fair profit as you.

When a vampire that fattens on the miseries of others shows up, help to make him unpopular.

Discourage calamity howlers.

Keep business moving evenly, and remember that, to the average man, his job is his particular business. When possible, reassure him against his fear of losing it.

Save, but save wisely, not in fright. Invest for the profit that sound enterprise pays and for the added profit that will come after the hysteria of pessimism has passed.

POLITICS AND PERSONALITIES

In spite of the confusion of whooping and cheering which grows more intense on both sides as election day draws near, one can venture a few predictions concerning the final score in the "big game" of the season. The most interesting is that, unless all indications prove misleading, the Democrats stand a fair chance to capture a majority in the House and to increase their number in the Senate.

Of course, every estimate of this sort bristles with "ifs." Nevertheless, the Republican floor leader, Representative John Tilson is sufficiently alarmed at the prospect to warn voters that the situation has terrible possibilities. And Secretary of Labor James Davis, Republican senatorial candidate from Pennsylvania, paints lurid pictures of what will happen to the workingman under a Democratic congressional regime. The intention of the Democrats to start a downward revision of tariffs if given a chance, especially frightens these gentlemen. They feel that the country will not be able to stand the "business uncertainty" that would result from such a procedure. To which the Democrats might well respond with, "Who started this tariff tinkering, anyway?"

It is unnecessary at this stage of the campaign season to go into the reasons for the G. O. P. setback. The tariff act, the economic depression, the Federal Farm Board's actions, and the administration's unpopularity have made good talking points for the minority party. Prohibition, although not a party issue, will be the determining factor in many elections. Candidates are at last learning from the electorate that some like them wet and some like them dry, but practically nobody loves a straddler. We may know more about the future of Volsteadism after November 4, 1930.

HIGH LANDS AND LOW LANDS

The highest and lowest points of dry land in the nation are only 86 miles apart, according to the United States Geological Survey. Both places are in California. Mount Whitney, the highest, has an elevation of 14,496 feet, while Death Valley, the lowest, contains an area which is 276 feet below sea level.

Mount Whitney has never had a rival for its lofty position. Up until 25 years ago, the Salton Basin near the Mexican boundary held the reputation of being the lowest point in the country, but in 1905 the Colorado River poured through an irrigation canal and turned the basin into an incipient sea. The Salton Sea region, as it is now known, covers about 10,000 miles of south eastern California.

Death Valley has the further distinction of being called the hottest and driest locality in the United States. Isolated and desolate, the place has a strange fascination for desert travelers. A tourist resort is practically the only permanent habitation in the valley. Geologists also find the unusual scenic features of the area of great interest, so the region is much visited.

The highest place in the world is Mt. Everest in Indo-China with an elevation of 29,141 feet, and the lowest large European countries before they selected the Harvard school as the desired model. The curriculum is similar to that at Harvard. Although the school is built to accommodate 100 students, only 35 will be admitted the first year.

Sponsors of the school are eager to see produced a group of economic experts who will contribute to the nation's business stability. Mr. Lemy during his visit to this country, was much impressed by the administration of our Department of Commerce, which he described as "an institution essentially dynamic, directed by business men in a business spirit."

W. B. Donham, Dean of the Harvard school, was a guest of honor and speaker at the formal opening of the French school, and the American Ambassador, Walter Edge, was also present.

SHADES OF FRANCIS SCOTT KEY

Unless patriotism and sentiment win out against practicability, Fort McHenry at Baltimore, birthplace of "The Star Spangled Banner," may house a federal prison for liquor law violators. The Department of Justice in Washington is proposing this transformation of the national shrine into a Volsteadian hoosegow over the vigorous protests of patriotic societies.

A building at the fort is now occupied by various branches of the government, including an office for federal prohibition agents. It is planned to build a number of cells there to detain offenders against the law. However, the project may never be carried through because of opposition from the American Legion and other organizations.

Former Congressman John Philip Hill, of Maryland, candidate for reelection, asserted in a letter to the Attorney General that the scheme was as inappropriate as a proposal to place a federal prison in the middle of Arlington Cemetery or in the home of Washington at Mount Vernon. Mr. Hill, who was in Congress when the fort was made a national shrine, also questioned the legality of the Department of Justice's plan.

IMMIGRATION EBBS IN AUGUST

If we may judge the trend of immigration by figures for August as recently announced by Commissioner General Harry E. Hull, America seems to be losing her title, "The Promised Land." Only 34,540 aliens were admitted into the United States during August, 1930, as compared with 41,785 during the same month last year. The number of departures from this country increased from 29,294 to 34,441.

About 43 percent of the foreigners admitted were classed as immigrants, over one-half of whom came from European countries. Great Britain contributed most to the melting pot, with Germany second and Italy third. More women than men sought our shores, and the number of unmarried persons exceeded the combined number of those married, widowed or divorced. It is interesting to note that about one out of every three of the new arrivals was a skilled worker, while the ranks of the departing contained a preponder-

Did you ever stop to think ?

by Edson Waite

That some cities are at a standstill; they have stopped growing. There seems to be something lacking—some stumbling block retarding their growth.

Some of them seem to be living in hopes that outside help will come, and they slumber on—waiting for it. Help never comes to a city that will not help itself.

Cities must not expect outsiders to do those things that they will not do for themselves.

Cities that are up and doing, realizing that men—not natural resources—build cities, realizing that they must hustle in order to get anything in this world today, are the cities that are far ahead in the march of progress.

Many cities are taking on new life, they are pepping up, they are beginning to realize that one successful industry for a city means that more will come if properly invited.

More industries mean more payrolls. More payrolls mean better business. Better business means prosperity for all.

Although the Martin-Dennis bowlers went further into the lead in the Belleville Manufacturers' League race at Ferrara's, Friday night, the championship Tiffany's outfit provided all the thrills of the night.

To start with the Jewellers moved up to a tie for second place in the league standings, by virtue of a clean sweep of their three games with the Federal Leather quintet. Every one of the trio of wins was accounted for by at least a 100 pin margin.

But here comes the stand-out feature of the Tiffany match. In the second game Willie Klemz, a Tiffany veteran, bowled over the pins for ten consecutive strikes. He was able to keep over but eight pins in the eleventh, however, to leave his final mark at 287. This 287 score is the highest ever rolled in seven years of Manufacturers' League competition.

Another feature of the hectic night of bowling was the performance of Wendling of Thomson's. Wendling, in leading his mates to a three straight win over Jeffery-Mayer, went through the entire three games without a miss. This is a record as far as old timers can remember. In addition Wendling averaged over 190 for the evening with marks of 194 and 225.

Official Presentation Of Bowling Awards Made At Ferrara's

John DeGraw Attended Affair Which Was Held Friday

The official presentation of prizes of last season's local Manufacturer's Bowling League campaign took place at Ferrara's alleys, Friday night. The awarding of these prizes was attended to by John DeGraw, our well-known former Mayor, prominent Newark lawyer, and a bowling fan to boot.

The first awards on the program were silver loving cups given to the first three teams in the final standing last year. Tiffany's, the present "champs," Hanlon & Goodman, the runners-up, and Thomson's, the third place five, received the cups in that order.

The two Bills, Brickman of International Ticket and Weyland of Wallace & Tiernan tied for the high individual prize, each with high water marks of 267. Mr. DeGraw presented Brickman with an initialed bowling ball.

It was further announced, however, that Mr. Weyland has secured two other bowling balls as a personal gift from the manufacturer. Weyland, who is vice-chairman of the industrial division of the Community Chest drive, requested that the price of his prize be added to the value of these two balls, and the $30 totalled thusly be donated to the worthy Community Chest cause. This presentation was further requested by Mr. Weyland to be made in the name of the Belleville Manufacturer's Athletic Association.

In conclusion the team and individual prizes for the present league season were announced. There will be four silver cups given to the first four teams in the final standing of the circuit, and also a silver cup to that team compiling the highest score for any of the first four teams to win this prize as well as the remaining eight.

The two pin-knights to hold the high individual averages at the campaign's close will each get a bowling ball, with the provision that they must roll in at least two-thirds of the total games and they must roll the last fifteen games.

The two individuals with the highest scores during the season will also be awarded bowling balls. They must roll in at least two thirds of the games to be eligible for the prizes.

BLUE AND GOLD POUNDS OUT SECOND WIN AGAINST WEST N. Y. (MEM.) HIGH SCHOOL

Despite playing conditions that were far from the best, the Belleville High gridders pounded out their second straight win, Saturday afternoon, at West New York, defeating Memorial High of that city, 13-2.

The Bell-boys, inspired by the peerless "Mac" Lamb, ball-carrier and defensive performer extraordinary, were far and away the superior team, showing nine first downs against the losers two. It is possible, even probable, that under more suitable playing conditions than those offered at the up-state field, they would have rolled up a much more impressive score.

The locals did no beating around the bush in opening their scoring attack. The game was but a few minutes old when Casale plunged over from the one yard stripe for the first six-point.

Here's the dope: Memorial, on the opening kick-off, got off a poor kick to Bade, who ran it back squarely in mid-field before being squared. Two plays, one a line thrust, another a forward pass failed, so it was up to Lamb. He responded with a brilliant twenty-three yard sprint around left end for his first of many such gains. At this juncture, the West New York forward wall suddenly bolstered and four plays garnered but seven yards for the locals. This three yard deficit gave the homesters the ball on their twenty yard mark.

Now in possession of the ball for the first time the West New Yorkers elected to try to carry it somewhere, but they were doomed to miserable failure. That impenetrable Belleville line, led by Bade and Bonavita wasn't satisfied with merely stopping them but threw them back seven yards to boot. A poor kick against the wind from their thirteen yarder gave Belleville the ball on the losers' twenty yard stripe on the next play.

"Mac" Lamb personally accounted for the Bell-boys' next first down with a plunge off tackle, good for four yards and a run around left end for seven. With the ball on the eight yard line, Fritz Plenge got one through center and then Casale, who started the game at quarter-back took the oval. On two plays, the last a mass formation, he got the needed seven yards for the touchdown. Lou Galluba's place-kick for the extra point was blocked.

The Memorial gridders again elected to kick and Leadbeater returned the ball to his own thirty-five yard stripe. On the very first play Lamb drew back and heaved a perfect twenty yard spiral into the waiting arms of Jerry Bonavita. The pass netted fifteen yards and brought the ball to the fifty yard mark.

Two more line thrusts failed and Lamb was called on and again responded, this time ripping off tackle for nineteen yards. But here the Belleville attack struck a snag and her own thirty-one yard mark.

After gaining but a yard on an off-guard smash, a Memorial back fumbled and Bade recovered the pigskin for Belleville on the thirty-five yard stripe. Belleville was penalized five yards for off-side just as the quarter ended.

Despite a five yard penalty for off-side inflicted upon the homesters the Bell-boys were one yard shy of first down after four plays and relinquished the oval to Memorial at the start of the second quarter on their own twenty-six yard mark.

Again West New York was threatened for telling losses and again was forced to kick. On the second play the home boys tried to engulf Mac Lamb broke through and the back for a six yard loss and a beautiful flying tackle. C. Zito, the losers' full-back then punted a ball one from his own twenty-one yard stripe to Casale on Belleville's twenty-four yard stripe. The fleet Belleville quarter-back ran it back to the thirty-five yard ribbon before being downed.

The Bell-boys got right down to the business at hand, Fritz Plenge making a splendid nine yard plunge through center on the opening play. A five yard penalty on the West New Yorkers for off-side gave the locals a first down on their own forty-nine yard mark. Two end runs by Lamb and a center plunge by Plenge netted a grand total of six yards, so Jerry Bonavita got way back and punted to Memorial on their own twenty-yard mark.

The same Bonavita person diagnosed the Memorial quarter-back correctly and on the first play thru the ball-carrier for a five yard loss with a nice tackle. Despite an ensuing nine yard run around left end they again got off a beauty. Santamasemo, now playing quarter, grabbed the pig-skin on the thirty yard stripe and ran it to the Memorial forty yarder before he was forced to terra firma.

Four plays, the last an unsuccessful forward pass, accounted for but seven yards for Belleville, giving the homesters the ball on their own thirty-three yard line.

West New York was even more helpless at the task of advancing the ball and persuaded more or less by another fine tackle by Lamb, this time for a three yard loss, elected to kick out of danger. Belleville received the ball on Memorial's forty-three yard mark and rushed it back five yards on two succeeding plays. The first half ended immediately after with Belleville in possession of the ball on Memorial's thirty-eight yard mark.

When a "break" gave the West New Yorkers a new life, Galluba kicked off and Memorial, being unable to do anything with the ball returned the compliment. The ball eluded Santamasemo, the Belleville safety man, and as he rushed frantically back of the line to recover it, he was tackled and thrown for a safety, making the score 6-2.

On the free kick that followed, Memorial received the ball on the forty-five yard stripe, only to fumble, Jerry Bonavita recovering for the Yellow Jackets. Three smashes at the line by the Bell-boys availed little, four yards to be exact, so as a last resort, "Mac" Lamb brought up his arm and tossed another to Jerry Bonavita, good for twenty-eight yards and first down on the twelve yard stripe.

One the next play Fritz Plenge ploughed through center for ten yards and Nick Bonavita sent the good-sized Belleville delegation present into a frenzy with a plunge for two yards and the second six-point. A short forward pass, Plenge to Jerry Bonavita, and the extra point had been added also, giving the score its final 13-2 appearance.

Following Galluba's next kick-off history repeated itself and the West New York ball-carriers were again thrown for losses, Bade especially turning in some nice plays. A kick was inevitable, the ball bounding over the goal line. This gave Belleville the ball on her own twenty yard mark.

Belleville couldn't gain either necessitating the use of Jerry Bonavita's right toe and right here West New York accounted for her initial first down of the game and came to the Memorial forty yarder before he was forced to terra firma.

Memorial received Bonavita's punt on the forty yard line and on a nicely varied series of cross-bucks and end runs carried the oval to the Belleville twenty-three yard line as the third quarter ended.

This was enough for the Blue and Gold, however, and on the first play of the final quarter they took the ball on downs on their own twenty-one yards. Belleville elected to kick, but the punt was poor, going out of bounds on their own thirty yard line.

Jerry Bonavita, taken back by his poor kick, personally took charge of the situation and after three downs had failed for the homesters, broke through and threw the Memorial back for a six yard loss, to give Belleville the ball on her own thirty-seven yard stripe.

On the next play "Mac" Lamb again got off one of his fine heaves a thirty-five yard one this time, good for a net gain of twenty-five yards. Two plunges followed, gaining seven yards and again Lamb drew back, but this time, C. Zito intercepted the forward on his own thirty-yard ribbon, and was promptly brought to earth.

Memorial then brought the oval to mid-field before losing it again on a fumble recovered by Bade. The game ended a few seconds later with the ball in the center of the gridiron. The line-up:

Belleville Elks Make Clean Sweep With Westwood Bills

The Belleville Elks' bowlers opened their Bergen County League campaign, Tuesday night, at the local alleys with a clean sweep of their three game series with the Westwood Hello Bills.

The local Antlers were nearly extended in getting off on the right foot. They took all three games with plenty to spare, averaging one hundred pins margins on each of the trio.

Featured by Charlie Waldie's 225, the Elks rolled their best in the second game, accumulating a team tally of 519 to top that one by nearly two hundred pins. Waldie also achieved a 190 and 179 in his other two games to lead the locals.

Tom MacNair, cracker-jack anchor man for Belleville, was one of the steadiest bowlers of the night with scores of 189, 195 and 181. Cliff Faust and "Butch" Kastner finished strong with 196 and 197 respectively in the last game.

Grande's 225 in the final was the lone bright spot in the showing of the visitors.

Charlie Waldie Drops A Little Ground In Elks' Championship

Charlie Waldie lost some ground to the title "Tom" MacNair in the local Elks' championships, Thursday night, at the Elks' alleys. Waldie took two out of three from Tommie Dunn to bring his standing up to eighteen wins and nine losses. MacNair's present record to lead the pack is seventeen wins and seven losses.

Waldie opened up in brilliant fashion in his tilt with Dunn, rolling 226 to Tommie's 194. He fell down somewhat in the second game, however, to drop a heart-breaking game by a mere five pin margin. The final scores in that one were 164 to 159 in Dunn's favor.

The league-leading Moose bowling club, continued showing championship form, at Ferrara's, Monday night, in the local Legion bowling circuit, to easily cop three from the lowly Parks. This three-pley triumph kept the Moose boys at the top of the league ladder, their record of eight wins in nine starts showing the way to the remaining eleven teams.

The powerful Republican Club pinners started up again after their temporary halt by the Elks last week and swept their trio of games with the Hoopies, in what was to be a "crucial" match. The G. O. P. were at the peak of their form and team tallies of 850, 977 and 1003 were entirely too much for the Hoopies to cope with. The latter were somewhat off their game anyhow to make the match more or less of a runaway affair.

The Belleville A. A. and the El Club continued "dogging" the Republicans, registering clean sweeps of their series with the Bachelors and St. Peter's respectively. The three teams are now in a triple tie for the runner-up position.

In the remaining two matches of the evening the fast-stepping Junior Order five surprised with a two out of three win over the championship Elks, while the Knights of Columbus could take but a pair from the last place Veterans of Foreign Wars. The latter team won their first league game in the final of the three, to prevent the Knights from making a clean sweep.

Phil Taylor of the league-leading Moose outfit came through with a 244 in the second game of the Park match to cop individual high score honors of the night. Bill Reed, Moose anchor-man, and Mike De Carlo also stepped high, wide and handsome with respective marks of 234 and 226. De Carlo's 226 in the second game aided greatly in giving the Moose their best score of the night a 949 tally. The Parks, led by Doran's 209, threatened to take the final game, but the Moose came along with a rush to make it three in a row.

Of all the teams the Republicans showed probably the best form, clinching their three straight win over the Hoopies with a 1003 tally in the final game. McGinnis and Coburn each contributed 202's to the G. O. P.'s high team scores of the evening. Knowles and Hammacher went them one better, each complying with a pair of double century counts, the former's 222 in the final being especially scintillating. Higgins was the only Hoopie bowler in form, coming through with successive tallies of 225 and 215 in the final two games.

Johnny Lawlor led his team, the El Club, to their clean sweep over St. Peter's in real approval fashion, with a sparkling 232 in the last tilt. Buttons was the steadiest bowler of the match, though McLoughlin of the Saints gave him a close race for the distinction.

Holmes' 214 in the second stood out for "Bill" William's Belleville A. A. quintet, as they trounced the Bachelors in a tiro. Dave Connelly did his bit to hold up the losers' end. He was by far their best bowler.

After dropping the first two the Veterans of Foreign Wars finally broke into the win column in the last one with a steady 831 tally. Bill Byrnes, Sr., bowled over the maples for a brisk 226 in the second game, but could do little to stave off defeat in the last one.

Too much Beam and Lamb proved costly to the slipping Elks, who dropped the odd game to the fast-stepping Junior Order team. Beam's 234 in the second game, added to his 183 and 184 in the first and third provided the Juniors with more than enough margin for their win. Russ Lamb, the anchor man of the winners, rolled his usual consistent game.

AGAINST BIG BOND ISSUE

To the Editor of the NEWS:

Sir—Ten years or more ago, when the plan for constructing a system of state highways was put forth, the people were told that 690 miles of state highways would be sufficient, and that the cost on the average would be $15,000 per mile, or $10,350,000 in all. A year or so later it was discovered that the estimate did not include the cost of bridges, and upon revising the figures it appeared that the average cost per mile would be $60,000.

The state has already taken over and laid out much more than 690 miles of highways because members of the Legislature from every section of the state demanded that their localities should "get something, too." It would help on the discussion of the proposed bond issue if some one would find out how many miles of roads are now included in the state highway system—probably as much as 2,000—and publish the truth.

It now turns out that the cost of the state highways already constructed, outside of cities, is $80,000 per mile on the average, and within the limits of cities the cost runs as high as $7,000,000 a mile. There is a state highway now under construction in Essex and Hudson counties 15,000 feet long (a little less than three miles), and the estimated cost is $21,000,000, or more than $7,000,000 a mile. What the actual cost will be in excess of that sum, no one on earth can tell.

It, therefore, becomes pertinent to inquire, before voting to spend $65,000,000 more on state highways, when this riot of issuing bonds and expending public money by tens of millions will cease—perhaps not until the state becomes financially embarrassed as Chicago is, and as many municipalities in this state are by imitating Chicago; that is by the reckless issuing of bonds and expenditure of public money.

If any one will spend half an hour examining the statistics of public debts, he will discover that by any method of calculation the portion of the national debt that is pressing on the people of this state exceeds $400,000,000. Further inquiry will disclose the fact that the amount of bonds issued by this state in recent years, and by municipalities in this state, exceed $500,000,000—the exact figures showing the amount of municipal debts have not been published since 1927—making a total burden of public debts of nearly not quite $1,000,000,000 which is about twenty per cent. of the assessed value of all the property in the state. That debt the people of this state must pay if they are not driven by desperation to repudiate it, as other states in years gone by have been compelled to do. Even a man so honest as Lincoln, when he was a member of the Legislature of Illinois in the thirties, was misled by thoughtless talk, such as we hear today, and voted to issue bonds of that state which forced it into insolvency. By continuing the examination so far as they are available, it will be found that the per capita taxation in this state is the highest in the country—perhaps the highest in the world. How, then, can genuine prosperity be revived while immense additions are being made constantly to this crushing burden of debt and taxation? And what right have we by means of long-term bonds to inebriate our fingers into the pockets of posterity and rob unborn generations of their birthright to freedom from debt?

CIVIS.

Newark, October 17.

Would Amend Tax Law

EDITOR NEWS:

The voters of New Jersey are called upon to vote next month to authorize bond issues for water supply, institutional buildings and highways. The principal and interest of the bonds are to be paid by an increased tax on gasoline. This tax would divert $17,000,000 which properly belongs in the highway fund to water supply and institutional buildings, which have no relation whatsoever to highways.

When it is said that users of the roads are paying for the roads through the gasoline and license tax—that is farther from the truth every day. Larger and larger amounts of freight and goods are transported over roads by trucks, and the tax on gasoline is added in to cost of producing and handling of goods. This adds to the cost of living of people who never sat in an auto and of people in the cities who never see a state road.

Why not let the new roads pay for themselves? They will do so if the state legislature will enact that the Highway Commission shall take the increased site-value of land which the roads are creating. Every mile of road built has increased the value of tributary sites in both city and country several times the cost of the roads.

This is the place to get funds to build roads. Why do not members of the legislature become wise enough to see this, and amend the tax law accordingly?

NORMAN OHR.

LIKED CONCERT

May I take this opportunity to express the appreciation of Sunday's musicale held at the high school? It was a very successful one and it was well worth listening to and certainly should be encouraged and supported by all music lovers in Belleville.

The artists are to be heartily congratulated for their splendid performance and spirit in this movement. Although the crowd was not what should be expected, the keen appreciation shown by their vociferous applause made up for the lack of more people.

This should be well advertised as it will mean a good deal to people who enjoy good music.

Once more may I express the hope that people will realize and appreciate the opportunity afforded them through the kindness of the Board of Education.

The artists deserve all the support possible.

Very truly yours,

R. HILL.

A "POOM"

When you have plenty of money, you're good news to all your friends. You can be the hero of any affair, as long as you will lend.

We sell ourselves, then buy ourselves back.

To our friends we rate sky high. But when you're broke, you're an artichoke.

So cloud up—break down and cry. Bill is a prince, a regular guy. What a man and what a pal.

He'd do the right thing by anyone even his old gal Sal.

Loan you five or handout ten. And pour out the drinks till you said "when?"

But now he's broke—he's an artichoke.

Like a fish without a fin. Open house all through the week. And Bill met you with a smile.

Bring in the gang; let's have some laughs.

Make it a night worth-while. Bill lost his job.

That's tough old man—sorry to hear you're broke.

You were a great guy once Bill—But now you're an artichoke.

It makes no difference who you are—

Broker, butcher or bum—

The leeches are bound to get you—

If you show that tidy sum, there's not much to do about it.

It's life's racket to go or come.

And to be broke as bad as an artichoke.

Is "tum-tiddy tum-tum-tum."

Strike up the band—bring on the girls.

Speed that roadster down the road.

And if you're twenty dollar Stetson blows off.

Then laugh like an old hop-toad.

Crash, boom, boom into a tree we go.

Then fadeout as the camera clicks.

Something broke, the bottle of artichokes.

Ain't it an awful fix?

We think the fellow who writes poetry—must have a nut loose unless he is an Edgar Guest or of that ilk.

Every once in a while some shallow minded flat foot, takes it upon himself to write poetry for some organization, about flowers, little white lies, Jack the soldier, or Mary was an old fashioned girl. Not to forget that fighting heart stuff about the consumptive in Alaska.

How he came back, and made good.

There is nothing astounding about being able to write anything. Just write as you would talk. But when we read a flat tire masterpiece, written by Lady Worthington McPump-handle O'Handdown, mentioned as one of her greatest literature contributions and a picture, and story of her girlhood—it's just "Larry turn the crank!"

Most of the garbage written today needs the able assistance of every health officer.

As for my stuff it is at least worth a nickel, for a very good friend of mine, told me he used my column for shaving. And you can't expect much for a nickel anyway. There is lots of stuff written in magazines about "That Cool Shave." That is why I keep the stuff luke warm, as it may conflict with that "Cool Shave." Oh! one must look at the matter from all points to be a good writer.

Stew is always good on a cold day, and how I do wish you were here. Love and kisses to you both and remember me to Aunt Maggie.

TRUST POLICIES HAVE BIG GROWTH

Life Insurance Totaling
$79,454,762 Truited With
New Jersey Banks
Since 1920

In a recent questionnaire, dated August 20, 1930, sent out to all the banks in the State by the New Jersey Bankers Association, it was established that there are life insurance policies totaling $79,454,762 trusted with the New Jersey banks that reported.

Leslie G. McDouall, Chairman of the Committee on Trust Matters of the New Jersey Bankers Association and Associate Trust Officer of the Fidelity Union Trust Company, Newark, in commenting on the results obtained from the questionnaire, said that in his opinion the remarkable thing about about this survey was not the total of life insurance trust business that has been obtained, but the fact that it has all been developed since 1920, the year the first life insurance trust was established in New Jersey. Since that date there has been a steady increase in new business of this type.

Mr. McDouall pointed out in his summary that this large sum of "truited" life insurance represents the utmost in estate creation and protection. Several hundred New Jersey families will be the beneficiaries of the estates thus created. This means that protection is being provided for dependent members of many New Jersey business and professional men who might otherwise leave their families either dependent on others or else forced to manage estates that they were unqualified, through lack of business experience, to handle. The life insurance trust is the modern way of creating an estate immediately through the purchase of life insurance, and when the purchaser of the insurance is gone, being assured of its proper distribution and protection. It thus combines two features that are essential to modern economy: first, a definite systematic means of building an estate, and second, a sure means of distributing it in the way the donor wishes.

With the exception of a very few banks there has been little or no effort, either through advertising or personal solicitation, to obtain this type of business and wherever an effort has been made the results have been surprisingly good.

The development of the life insurance trust movement in New Jersey has been, since its start, one of complete cooperation between the life underwriters and the trust men. Throughout there has always been shown a spirit of understanding between these two proponents of estate creation and conservation, and it has been largely due to this mutual interest that the insurance trust development has made such rapid strides. It is the feeling among many of the leading trust men of the State that the next ten years will see even greater strides made and that many of the banks that are just beginning to push this branch of their business will realize its possibilities and make greater efforts to produce even better results.

The Committee on Trust Matters of the New Jersey Bankers Association reports that it already has plans well under way for the November convention to be held in Trenton. This Committee is composed of the following New Jersey bankers:—Chairman, Leslie G. McDouall, Associate Trust Officer, Fidelity Union Trust Company, Newark; H. Douglas Davis, Treasurer and Trust Officer, Plainfield Trust Company, Plainfield; Earl S. Johnson, Vice-President and Trust Officer, Savings Investment and Trust Company, East Orange; Herman M. Syherd, Vice-President and Trust Officer, Guarantee Trust Company, Atlantic City; George Letterhouse, Trust Officer, Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, Jersey City; Harvey S. Hopkins, Trust Officer, Newton Trust Company, Newton; W. H. Bloor, Assistant Vice-President and Trust Officer, Trenton Trust Company, Trenton; Jay Knox, Assistant Trust Officer, First Camden National Bank and Trust Company, Camden; William E. Hocker, Vice-President and Trust Officer, National Newark and Essex Banking Company, Newark; Armit H. Coate, Trust Officer, Burlington County Trust Company, Moorestown.

Morrow's Election Held Certain By An Impressive Majority

Courage, Intellectual Honesty An Evident Capacity Of The Man Found To Have Won All Classes

With the election a few days off the Republican outlook through the country generally might be considered somewhat austere. Here, there and almost everywhere Republican leaders are studying figures that are almost as cheerful as the daily stock market table. In State after State Republican candidates, in spite of their best efforts, and often in spite of all reason and logic, are like swimmers struggling against an unseen but irresistible tide. The times are too much for them, says the New York Sun.

That is the political picture as a whole. That is the general outlook. But there is an exception so striking, so remarkable in all of its aspects, as to constitute news of the first order. The exception is the Senatorial contest in New Jersey. The sole and single cause of the exception is a man. The name of the man is Dwight Whitney Morrow, the Republican candidate. Whatever may occur elsewhere in the nation, there is no question in the world about what is going to occur in New Jersey. Morrow is going to be elected by a majority which may astound the country. The times are not going to be too much for the most interesting personality in American politics.

Mr. Morrow will be entirely satisfied with 150,000 to 200,000. He would call that handsome enough in a year when so many stones are being thrown at the party. When he was asked if he had heard about the 500,000 and 400,000 predictions he said he had heard them but that he was inclined to attribute them to the zeal and enthusiasm of his friends. Like every sensible man running for office he was dubious of over-confidence; unwilling for the impression

Woman Stabbed At Dance By Suitor

Stabbed by a nineteen-year-old jealous suitor when she danced with others at a party in Belleville Thursday night, Bertha Hall, colored, twenty-six, of 77 Passaic avenue, Nutley, is in a serious condition in St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic. William Turner, colored, of 144 Whitford avenue, Nutley, was charged Friday with atrocious assault and battery with intent to kill, by Recorder Fitzsimmons. He was held without bail for grand jury.

The police reported the stabbing occurred at a party the Thursday Night Club held at the home of Mose McGill, 111 Newark avenue, Belleville, for the benefit of Mt. Zion Church, Harrison street, Nutley. Miss Estella Hicks, clerk of the church and a member of the club, said the party was a benefit for the club only.

to get around that "Morrow could win without my vote"—that sort of thing. He hoped everybody who believed in him and what he stood for would be sure to go to the polls to add one more.

Ernest Teklovitz Dies In Fall Down Stairs At His Home

Accident Occurred Shortly Before Midnight Friday

Ernest Teklovitz, forty-eight, a Hoboken cooper, of 412 Cortlandt street, died at St. Michael's Hospital Friday midnight of a skull fracture suffered an hour and a half earlier when he fell down stairs in his home.

His wife heard him fall and called neighbors. Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Litsch carried the unconscious man into the dining room and Mrs. Litsch summoned Town Physician Herbert B. Vail.

Two children, Ernest, Jr., and Miss Pauline Teklovitz, a High School student, were at a motion picture theatre. Another daughter, Mrs. Julia Fieh of New York; a sister, Mrs. Julia Lux of New York, and a brother in Hungary, where Teklovitz was born, also survive him. He lived in this country twenty-eight years and in Belleville six years.

North Star Chapter, O. E. S. Luncheon At The Food Craft Shop

Friday, members of North Star Chapter, O. E. S. journeyed to the Food Craft Shop, Newark, where they enjoyed a savory luncheon of six courses. There were seventeen tables with four jolly women at a table, not forgetting one solitary man, but he seemed not at all embarrassed.

The Worthy Matron, Mrs. Caroline Fisher of Oak street started out with six women in her car for the luncheon, but while waiting for traffic to start in front of an apartment house a kindly soul said: "Lady, you have a flat." While looking around for assistance a good samaritan came out from the apartment, changed the tire and would accept no compensation. A little late but all to the good the Worthy Matron and her friends arrived just in time for "eats."

Nutley women who attended the luncheon were Mrs. Florence Kallidin, Mrs. Grace Schmidt and Mrs. Barbara Chapin. Women from Belleville were Worthy Matron Mrs. Fischer, her daughter-in-law Mrs. Edgar Fischer, Mrs. Marcus Wertz, Mrs. William Terry, Mrs. Richard L. Ridgway, Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. William Alerstok.

A Real Contest Expected Between the Blue And Reds Of Everyman's Bible Class

A challenge issued last Sunday by the "Blues" of Everyman's Bible Class for a three months' attendance contest with the Red Army was immediately accepted by Chris Peterson, general of the "Reds." Frank Siegler who is general of the Blue Army expects to sail for Europe soon and Walter Arnold will direct the activities of this group.

The prize to be competed for is expected to create considerable rivalry and will be announced at next Sunday's meeting. Last Sunday's attendance proved to be a tie between the two armies and some healthy competition may be looked for from now on.

Dr. Alexander Cairns who is addressing the Class for a few weeks will speak at the next meeting on "Be a Good Sport." Sunday, November 9, will be observed as "Ladies' Day," when the men's wives and sweethearts will be guests.

Members of the Class are engaging in quizzies, chess and checker contests during this week. W. J. Roche, Jr., and John Boston are acting as captains of quizzies; pitching teams on Saturday afternoons. H. Lonic had seven checker fans at his home last week, warming up for some real work and John B. Brown, Alfred Ely, Archie Boston and George Kerr are scheduled for the chess moves tomorrow night.

Considerable interest will no doubt center on these social activities and we shall learn later of the skill of the participants.

Come, now, good folks; overhaul that attic and find the many useless articles (to you) that may aid those who have no employment. Babies' clothes are also badly needed.

Sunday, 7:45 P. M.—"The Unknown Quantity."

Sunday morning at the Grace Church the pastor will speak from the subject—"True to The Cause." In all ages there have always been some who have been intensely loyal, engaged, and true to the cause in which they have engaged. Loyal hearts that even the thought of death could not keep them from their duty. At the morning service the ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed.

Sunday evening there will be the usual song service after which Mr. McCombe will speak from the subject of "The Unknown Quantity." That something that baffles at times the keenest minds. At this service the new song books will be used. Have you seen them?

Last Sunday morning before a capacity audience, the Girl Scouts conducted their annual service. All the parts were taken by the Scouts. Mrs. W. D. Clark, Jr., had planned the service in advance, so that each girl knew in advance what would be expected of her.

The pastor of Grace Church gave the address having as his subject Words and Deeds. In a heart to heart talk with the girls, Mr. McCombe brought to their attention the need of seriously thinking about the things pertaining to their organization. The speaker showed that the wearing of the uniform meant much or little, according to the motive of the wearer. That a promise no matter how sacred, may be treated as a mere collection of words. The service was inspiring throughout and the large audience was well repaid for their attendance.

This coming Tuesday will reveal how strong Ambassador Morrow is with the rank and file of the voters. His opponent Mr. Simpson is making a great deal out of Mr. Morrow's statement that he did not desire to be considered wet. This statement may cost the Ambassador a large number of votes. Politics is a queer game; but an enlightened public is slowly but surely demanding that trickery and deceit be banished from the plans of the powers that would be. If a party or organization would live and maintain its influence, it must play the game fair and square. The day of voting for a party man, because one may belong as did his father to that party is gone. The politician today has to contend with the strong independent vote, which is growing rapidly in the ranks of the major parties.

The Fellowship Service this coming Tuesday evening will be omitted on account of it being Election night.

The Bible School is rapidly being reorganized under the able leadership of Superintendent Irving H. Russell. The teaching staff is being strengthened and a spirit of loyalty for the school is being created. New faces are seen each Sabbath morning, with an energetic superintendent and a devoted staff of teachers, the future looks promising.

The approach of election works a marvelous change in the thoughts and plans of the average politician. When will the average citizen realize that some men seek office—not for what they would have to be Heve was disinterested service for the public good; but rather a desire for the advancement of their own personal welfare. As the election approaches it would be well if every voter would forget personal friendships and examine carefully the record of every man seeking public office. Many a man has sought to establish a home in a community, where he could do the fair thing by his family, only to be driven from the community by high taxes, which made it impossible for him to have a place that he might call home. Unfortunately the politician once he gets into office forgets that he is the servant of the people. Forgets that he has a sacred trust. Forgets the many promises that he made during the campaign before election. Before election loudly he proclaims that he is the servant of the people. The votes counted, he becomes the master. What if he has betrayed the confidence of the people he figures in a couple of years the people will have forgotten the pledges unredeemed.

He is right. The public seems either indifferent or else it forgets. Let our local papers publish the record of every office seeker just before the election, that we may go to the polls and vote with some degree of intelligence.

The Tax Payer should give earnest study to the bill which the gentlemen at Trenton have condescended to allow the voter to express his opinion at this coming election. The voter is asked to give his consent to the bonding of the resources of the state for the small sum of $100,000,000. The sum of one hundred million dollars is no small sum for any commission to handle; and it might be well to remember that the interest charges, according to one authority will amount to $90,000,000 before the bond issue matures. That would look as if the voter would do well to consider before he marks his or her ballot. It is proposed to raise the tax on gasoline from two cents on the gallon to three cents a gallon. Is this necessary? The present tax on gasoline is ample to take care of necessary road building. We are told that if we do not vote the Bond issue that it will delay the road building program about three years. What is three years compared to the large sum in interest charges that the tax payers will have to pay? The present policy of paying as you build has worked. Why not let well enough alone?

Ralph Ebert Has A Genuine Halloween Surprise Party

Ralph Ebert, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Ebert of Tappan avenue, had one of those old fashioned Halloween surprise parties Tuesday night. Ralph is usually in bed at 7 promptly, and that is what he did this night and went fast asleep. Well, at 7:30 a group of children came quietly to his home, not ringing the bell, and in funny faces and funnier costumes paraded up the stairs to his room, circled the bed, on went the light, and the fun started. Games were played, all to do with Halloween, and those present who regrettably went home fairly early were Billy Englemann, Charles Steel, 3d Joe Miller, William Schilling, Richard Keenan, Anna Schilling, Joan Toote, Dorothy Milan, Josephine Herpich, Doris Knapp and Doris Nathan.

YOUR CAR and the MOTOR LAWS

Harold G. Hoffman,
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

Editor's Note: This is the seventh of a series of articles by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, presented by the News as its part in the campaign of education to familiarize motorists with the laws which regulate their conduct on the road.

By HAROLD G. HOFFMAN,
State Comm'r. of Motor Vehicles.

XVII.—THE LICENSE LAW. (Conclusion)

It is readily apparent that the safe movement of traffic under present conditions, both in the cities and in the country depends very largely on instantaneous understanding, as well as strict observance of traffic signs and markings and word signals.

For this reason it is required that every person, even those otherwise illiterate, be able to answer satisfactorily oral questions regarding the motor vehicle and traffic laws and explain the meaning of warning and directional signs.

Frequently efforts are made to obtain licenses through fraud, the most common being misrepresentation by having a person who has passed the examination and obtained a license take the examination for a person who has not. Another frequently attempted fraud is by persons under the legal age of seventeen presenting an altered birth certificate. Because the department's inspectors are alert and observing and keen students of human nature, such efforts at fraud are seldom successful.

The penalty provided by law for a misstatement of fact in an application for license is a fine of $200 and in addition persons who are parties to such a fraud may have their licenses revoked, or be placed on the prohibitory list.

During 1929, 161,309 persons took the examination. Of these 129,164 passed and 32,145 were rejected; 19,416 were unable to pass the written test; 12,729 the driving test; 5,294 the eye test, and 5,060 were rejected as illiterates. This high number of rejections of illiterates illustrates my statement in a recent article in this series that it is well nigh impossible for an illiterate to obtain a license, so rigid are the examination requirements in such cases.

A large percentage of literate applicants who failed once subsequently passed, after diligent work to learn the regulations and the principles of safe driving.

The written examination is probably the most satisfactory method of impressing upon prospective drivers the fundamental points in the law, the study of which should emphasize the State's deep concern in the matter of safe driving. Unfortunately we are unable to detect by the examination, as at present conducted, persons who, after demonstrating their physical ability to operate a motor vehicle, obtain a license and then proceed to disregard the rights of other users of the highways.

For this reason it is necessary for the department to unceasingly preach the gospel of cooperation, courtesy and law observance.

A driver's license is not a right. It is a privilege, a privilege which the state has the power to grant or withhold or having granted, to withdraw. We believe that as much pleasure is derived from the use of the automobile as from any other mechanical device known to mankind. In return for granting the privilege of operating a motor vehicle the State, and the State is nothing more than the aggregation of all its citizens, asks of every person to whom a license is issued his fullest cooperation. The State asks him to

Urges Adults To Have Health Examinations

Commenting on the fact that most school children have probably undergone physical examinations by health authorities within the last few weeks, Miss Marie Doermann, New Jersey extension service specialist in nutrition, asks: "how many other members of the family have had a thorough physical examination during the last year?"

Adults as well as children should have these examinations at least once a year, and now, with cold weather approaching, is a good time to have them. She warns against waiting until winter arrives, when poorly ventilated and frequently overheated rooms predispose a person to diseases.

A physician may detect minor ailments and defects now, and correct them before a dangerous and costly illness results.

Regularity in hours for meals, work, recreation, and sleep are just as necessary for adults as for children, especially in winter months, when strong resistance is so essential to combat colds and other diseases then prevalent.

Hupp Plans $1,000,000 Aerial-Auto Driveaway

Detroit, Mich.—Their engines and propellers roaring a challenge to slack business, more than a dozen tri-motored planes and nearly as many smaller escort ships will glide to a landing on the Ford Airport here late this month in the greatest concerted movement of commercial airplanes in the history of aviation.

Not content with breaking all aviation records of this kind, this second Sky-Road Parade being staged by the Hupmobile distributing and dealer organizations is expected to not only exceed last year's driveaway, but to emphatically prove that business is generally on the upgrade. Last year's Sky-Road Parade, the first of its kind in the United States, utilized eleven large Ford planes and a half dozen smaller ships. It was confined to dealers and new car owners in the Chicago territory only, whereas this year's event is more national in scope.

Plans for this second Sky-Road Parade include driving away a record number of new Hupmobile straight eights, thus establishing another mark for driveaways again this year in cars of Hupmobile's price class. While not all of the distributors participating will come direct to Detroit by plane, those from Chicago, Indianapolis, Akron, Scranton, St. Louis, Denver, Syracuse, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Milwaukee and several other eastern and mid-western points have indicated that they will participate. Those from joints adjacent to Chicago will go by rail to the Illinois city and join the main cavalcade of airplanes from that city to Detroit. These include Denver, Kansas City, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, New Orleans and other points. Other distributors will engage one or two ships and fly direct to Detroit, arriving at the Ford airport to converge with the main flight from Chicago. Still other distributors' parties will arrive in Detroit by train earlier in the day and journey to the airport to meet the combined flights.

One of the outstanding features of the combined Sky-Road Parade and Million Dollar Driveaway is that it will include not only distributors and dealers, but also a majority of purchasers of the new eight cylinder models who will drive their own cars on the return journey from Detroit. Still another feature is that this year's driveaway, like that of last year, will be confined to straight eight Hupmobiles. With Hupmobile building a Century Eight of 90 horsepower, 100 horsepower eight series and two models on the 133 horsepower chassis, there will be a representative group of owners participating in this Million Dollar Driveaway.

Coming at this time, on what appears to be the tail-end of prolonged depression Hupmobile believes that this Million Dollar Driveaway will prove to be a marked stimulus for improved business. In fact, the origin in Chicago of the second Sky-Road Parade was intended for just that purpose. It was felt that, by setting an example, business generally would feel that what was needed for a return to normal times was initiative and go-getter methods. When the subject of an aerial flight of owners and participating dealers was suggested to the Chicago dealer organization several weeks ago, there was an immediate response. The consensus was that such an air trek would arouse business generally to the possibilities of increased hard work. Since the conception of plans for the Million Dollar Driveaway, other industries and contributing companies have voiced their cooperation by the score.

Cooperating with Hupmobile in staging this Million Dollar Driveaway is an impressive list of manufacturing, wholesaling and retailing companies that reads like a Blue Book of modern American business. Among those companies who will furnish planes for the Sky-Road Parade or in other ways cooperate in staging the event are included the National Air Transport, the Ford Motor Company, Goodyear, Standard Oil, Firestone, Gabriel Snubbers, Pines Winterfront, Vacuum Oil, Curtis Publishing Company, Timken Roller Bearing and other concerns. "This company believes," says a statement from Hupmobile headquarters here, "that the time is ripe for a program of greatly intensified merchandising as an aid toward improved conditions. In staging this second Sky-Road Parade and Million Dollar Driveaway, Hupmobile is not only setting an example for all business to follow, but is concretely taking the lead by utilizing transportation methods, assisted by organizations representing many other lines of endeavor. With this initial impetus on a national scale, we believe we have started a long way on the grade uphill."

Engine Should Be Reconditioned For Winter Motoring

Detroit, Mich.—The tremendous increase of speed at which cars are being driven daily and the increasing tendency to permit motor vehicles to stand outside all day or night makes its toll in unusually quick depreciation of finish and inefficient operation. Particularly destructive is this weather wear on mechanical parts.

Hupmobile's Service Bureau, cognizant of this negligence and its serious results, believes that, irrespective of car treatment in winter months, the entire car should be thoroughly conditioned for the rigors of cold weather driving. The Bureau gives these suggestions toward preparing the engine and its parts for cold weather operation.

"Winter driving, has an especially severe effect on the motor car engine not reconditioned or fitted to stand this abuse. Undoubtedly the first step in conditioning the engine for the winter months is to clean the carbon and grind the valves. The use of varying grades and kinds of fuel and oils, plus the natural carbonization of the cylinders and the pitting of ignition points makes this step of utmost importance.

"In conjunction with a carbon and valve job, tappets should be properly adjusted, care being taken to set them with sufficient clearance to allow for excessive expansion and contraction during winter operation.

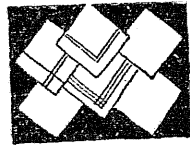

"In those cars equipped with oil filtering devices, the cartridges should be inspected and changed if needed. Cold weather means stiffened oil and there should be no obstruction to its circulation. The engine pan should be taken off and the oil screens cleaned. The pan should be thoroughly flushed with kerosene and then wiped dry with a clean, lintless cloth. Waste should never be used for this purpose as its lint will clog the screens.

"While the pan is off, the main and connecting rod bearings should be checked for proper clearance.

"Naturally, new cylinder head, tappet cover, oil pan and other gaskets should be used when the engine is reassembled. Particularly should the intake and exhaust manifold gaskets be checked for breaks and leaks. Air leaks at the intake manifold mean inefficient operation, while escaping exhaust gas is a dangerous menace to safety.

"The crankcase should be filled to the proper level with the specified grade of zero cold test oil. Likewise, the transmission and differential should be drained, flushed and the correct grade of zero test lubricant filled to the proper level with cans.

"In every instance, all engine repairs and adjustments should be made by a competent mechanic, preferably in a service station authorized to represent the make of car being driven. Remember that authentic service is the owner's best guarantee of satisfactory service."

Firemen And Police Crash On Way To Blaze In The Lake

Fire Chief's Roadster Over- turned At Belleville And Washington Avenues

Fire Chief William T. Hirdes was badly shaken up. Fire Captain William Dunleavy suffered shoulder injuries and Callman Thomas Bean sustained a laceration of the left hand when the chief's roadster overturned after collision with the Police department ambulance at Belleville and Washington avenue Sunday morning. Both vehicles were responding to a fire alarm in the Silver lake section.

Dunleavy, who was driving the Chief's car, underwent X-ray examination at St. Vincent's Hospital, Montclair, Monday, to determine the extent of injuries. Both he and the chief stuck to their seats in the roadster when it rolled completely over, flattening the top down on them. Bean was riding on the rear of the ambulance and leaped when the chief's car swerved to the left, sideswiping the right fender, body and steps of the police car.

The cause of alarm was at the home of Carmine DiPaola, 117 Heckel street, a waterback of a coal range had burst due to steam pressure, firemen said. There was no blaze; A chair was blown through a window but no one was hurt.

The ambulance was under repairs Monday. Chief Michael A. Flynn was told by Police Chief William Brown of Nutley the ambulance of the latter town could be used at call.

SCHOOLS

A call was made for pianists by Miss Walters, supervisor of music in Belleville schools. The meeting took place after session in the music room. The purpose, as Miss Walters outlined it, was to have more competent accompanists and soloists. More than half showed themselves capable of passing a sight reading test which was given.

More than one visitor who has come to the high school has come from a distant state or perhaps another country but the visitor of last week came to the high school from the state of Liberia which is about the size of Ohio. This state is located on the coast of Africa and is composed mostly of natives. Miss Glock, the visitor, has taught school there for the past two years. The school is known as the Eby Day School and is a mission school as are most of those which are in the state of Liberia. According to the speaker transportation in this country is in its first stages. There are about 200 miles of roadway for trucks and but 500 trucks in this country. The population is made up of natives and those who have been educated or civilized. Many experiences were her lot, she says, but none which she could not cope with. Miss Glock brought many curios and displayed them. The most important being a native costume which was composed of a bag like suiting and a red fez. Ralph Casale came to the stage and for the benefit of the others allowed himself to be draped in this outfit. He did get the biggest laugh of any person ever to come to the high school. Others were a leopard skin, gourds, spinning sticks, and so forth. The talk was very interesting and educational as well.
