WHERE IS THE $16,728?

Tax Rate Hits The Ceiling

TWENTY-EIGHT POINT JUMP IS LOOKED FOR BY TOWN FATHERS MUST RAISE $99,034.02 MORE THAN LAST YEAR BY DIRECT TAXATION

Despite the general talk of paring budgets, Belleville included, the fact remains that this year taxpayers will be called upon to raise by taxation $99,034.02 more here than last year. It appears the tax rate may jump twenty-eight points.

One of the main increases is due to inclusion this year of $82,600 assessment debt interest due in 1932, for the sanitary sewer muddle. This is the item over which the board hemmed and hawed last year when Commissioner William H. Williams said it should be included according to law.

Off-setting this figure in anticipated revenue, however, is another item of interest on assessments amounting to $26,500, allowed also by law.

Including items that had previously been left out of budgets causes the increase despite other cuts here and there in personnel and what not. Included in the budget is a water department operating loss of $27,188.60 for 1930 and $16,728.40 additional for the same department but—

Lutheran Pastor Will Be Installed Sunday

Belleville Will Have Its First Minister In That Church

The installation of the Rev. Harry Pfunke as pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church on next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Masonic Temple, brings to Belleville the first minister of the Lutheran Church. Pastor Pfunke has had several years' experience in home mission work. While a student at Wagner College, he organized the Calvary Lutheran Church in Cranford, N. J., and had the greater share in organizing Redeemer Lutheran Church in Dumont, N. J. Both congregations are flourishing today, each having its own pastor.

After graduating from the Seminary, Pastor Pfunke assumed charge of Holy Trinity Church in Leonia, N. J., where he is now temporarily stationed. Mr. Pfunke first studied engineering at the Drexel Institute in Philadelphia, graduating from that institution in 1925. The same year he began his studies for the ministry pursuing work at Wagner College and Temple University. For three years he studied at the Lutheran Seminary in Philadelphia graduating from that institution in 1930.

The service of installation will take place next Sunday afternoon in Masonic Temple.

Dr. Trexler, president of United Synod of New York, will officiate and deliver the charge to the congregation. Dr. Adolph Holthusen, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church of New Brunswick, will deliver the charge to the pastor, Rev. Henry Berkobin, pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Nutley, will conduct the service.

The choir of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Teaneck, will lead in the rendition of the the service.

Reporter Snoop Speaks Again

He Had To Use Cotton
To Stop The Flow

This week was an awful one for Reporter Snoop. It was so tough he had to stuff cotton in his ears. If he hadn't the News budget would have jumped to the extent of about twenty points. You see, if he heard everything he'd have to write everything. And so much was said this past week the amount of paper used and the added time of the composing room would have brought about the increase in the budget.

So Snoop was forced to use cotton in order to limit the remarks and to let only the hottest ones pierce the camouflage. Here they are: "We never did credit garbage with having a pleasing odor but right now it smells even more putrid."

"I came across a local paper printed in 1898 and it had a picture of a park that had been proposed for the banks of the Passaic."

"A stack of bills that had accumulated with the past month were read at the meeting Tuesday night and not a single person stayed to hear them—no wonder the taxpayers are being gypped."

"The town has policemen to watch us—we have the News to watch the town."

"The commissioners will keep putting off the legal ad question until they're forced to act."

"Accidents will happen but the present board is the biggest ever."

"The commissioners believe in that age old adage—'Charity begins at home.'"

"The News was a long time getting under way but now that they have started I don't think they'll stop."

"News advertisers are THE advertisers."

"Hello, is this the Belleville News?"

ALL THE TOWN HALL ACTORS FORGOT WERE CRYING TOWELS

Tear Gas Bombs And High Tax Rate Brings Tears To The Eyes Of The Regular
"Guys"

"It was a good show."
"And there was weeping, wailing, and gnashing of teeth."
This about sums up the commission meeting Tuesday night, with the famous players again packing 'em in.

The budget came up in a blaze of glory and so did the fumes of a tear gas bomb from the ground floor of the great town hall stadium. Everybody wailed. The budget increase was responsible for some loud wails, but the tear gas had the audience crying out loud. It was a grand party and everybody had a good cry.

We don't know what makes a tear gas bomb go off, or rather we don't know what made this one go off. Anyway the darn thing went off.

Scores of citizens wept when the budget for 1932 was presented for action. More than 250 crowded into the chamber where the meeting was held and an additional 75 milled around outside the open door.

Verbal fireworks marked the discussion as the budget called for a tax jump of about 28 points.

As the fumes crept upstairs, handkerchiefs fluttered and loud sobs from the corridor interrupted the meeting as those in the hall stamped for the door. John Sullivan, custodian, quickly locked the door, shutting out the fumes from the chamber, and threw open the windows while Commissioners Carragher and Waters continued their argument about the water department as tears streamed down faces and individuals in the audience, near the door, sobbed audibly in sympathy.

The first intimation of a verbal display came when George Stewart, a taxpayer, presented a petition signed by 800 property owners, requesting that the services of Mary Anderson, a clerk in the finance office, be retained.

Miss Anderson faces dismissal because she is not an American citizen. Stewart pointed out that, while she was born in England, she was seeking her final papers as a citizen and that her two brothers fought in

CLARK ADMITS AT MEETING THAT GARBAGE CONTRACT IS A MESS

Commissioner Williams Says That It Looks To Him "Like There Is Something That Is Not Nice About It"

No matter how thin you slice it the garbage collection proposition in town is a mess.

At least we will take Commissioner William D. Clark's word for it. He said so Tuesday night at the commission meeting.

"It's regrettable," he said. "It's a mess all right."

All of which was said after Commissioner William H. Williams up and cracks the matter as "the poorest business proposition I ever had a hand in."

tion was that the town "reserves the right to reject any and all bids."

The idea is that the town has a generous feeling not to tie up the money of the various contractors pending the litigation. Be that as it may, Mr. Clark suggested all but the checks of the three low bidders be returned, to eliminate the possibility of the town having the high bidders leave their checks and get the award if Viola loses. Mr. Williams brought up the point of a possible high contract and hence his remarks. Commissioner Patrick A. Waters agreed with him, it developed later in the discussion.

But we must get back to Mr. Williams' remarks which were uncannily to the point. He said:

"We ought to be ashamed of how this thing was handled. I just don't know what it is all about. I just don't want to talk to anyone about it. I don't know what is back of it."

BIG SHOT DISCOVERS ONE MAN WHO CAN PRODUCE 200 VOTES

Uncerths A Real Story As An Outgrowth Of His Yarn On The Tree Planters' Club—How Mayor And Burde Met

Big Shot No. 1 has gone and done it again.

The Tree Planters' Club — the Shade Tree Commission — has declared war after his expose last week of the internal strife in that group.

Nick Burde, the president, who kicks in over $1,000 a year in taxes to the town and will add some more next year when he completes a house which he has under construction, has spilled his side of the story to this newspaper, said story finding its way to Big Shot, who after careful snooping has completed a yarn that will whet the reading appetite of all who cast their gaze on this story.

To start at the beginning of this narrative, which is the proper place to begin, Big Shot must go back to a meeting of a fraternal order in a local lodge way back in 1926.

In those halcyon days Sammy, as some were wont to call him, before he became dubbed King Samuel by another so-called sheet, needed all the backing he could get to tumble into office over the powerful Vermeule-Nearby combine which was publicly and otherwise after his well-known political scalp.

Well, to make a long story short, Sammy needed some votes, and if reports around the News office are bonafide he needed more than the couple thousand the News presented him on a silver platter, for no reason at all, except that Sammy looked like Big Time.

And so Big Shot gets to the meat of the kernel.

Sammy, it is alleged, sidled up to friend Nick and says Sammy he's glad to make Nick's acquaintance because Sammy does not know many Italian people, especially over in the Italian which, if some of our readers don't know it, is the stronghold to which all politicians make a play.

Oh yes, there are a lot of votes over there.

Well, Nick knows where and how, he says, to get in touch with about 200 of his fellow countrymen who respect Nick's ability to size up who is or who is not a good candidate for the commission. Nick knows where to dig up votes in other parts of town, too, he says.

At any rate Nick adds he tucked a few figures on the Mayor's list and he also did so last election, almost two years ago.

Now, dear reader, we pray, do not get us wrong. Nick is a first class barber. He is an honest man and whatever votes he gets are bonafide. And please bear in mind Nick pays a large tax.

He is entitled to some kind of a job because he is civic-spirited enough to want to handle such a job as he has been handling for the town. So we will leave Sammy for a while, except to say Sammy placed Nick on the job in the Tree Planters' organization.

Now we go back to the flock and the birdies about which we wrote last week. We said Milton Donnelly, who is now secretary of the three-man board, replacing Samuel Yeatman, who is also a member and the former secretary, fessed Burde recently as regards re-appointing William Wells, forester, at $1,500 a year with $500 additional for use of his implements, making a total of $2,000 gone already out of the $3,300 appropriation, which is mandatory.

It seems Mr. Burde wants Wells to relinquish his job. Your friend B. S. need go no further to tell you as he did last week about this and a telephone being disconnected at Mr. Burde's home. Here is Mr. Burde's letter to the town commission Tuesday night:

"At a meeting held Tuesday night, January 12, by the Belleville Shade Tree Commission, I complimented our Mayor and Commissioners for the united stand taken in slashing the 1932 budget. The abolishing of the Building Inspector and the dismissing of two engineers because of no construction is proof of your efforts to keep taxes down.

"As president of the Belleville Shade Tree Commission, I tried to follow in your foot-steps, I recommended that we abolish the position of forester, as there would be no planting this year, but my fellow commissioners defeated me two to one. Salary for Mr. Wells was fixed at $1,500 and to furnish equipment for $500 for the total of $2,000 per year, appointment considered part time, leaving a balance of $1,300 to our appropriation, which will only carry a little over four months.

"Then the Commission will be required to demand money on emergency notes, so as to be able to carry one.

"Last year we had a very bad year with insects, our trees being infected with all kinds of vermin, lice, caterpillars and the Aphis epidemic.

"On my program for the year, we could have operated for fifty weeks, on our appropriation of $3,300 which would have taken care of all complaints, and replaced at least fifty trees and employed three men three days a week. I am having my telephone discontinued because I am tired of giving promises and alibis to our taxpayers for tree replacements, spraying and trimming. No false promises by me for 1932, nor will I have to put up and stand for any abuse for the fault of others. At least I have tried to do justice for the town and tax payers. I would have given one dollar's worth for every dollar spent. It is folly to neglect trees, as decay is sure to follow causing additional expense to our taxpayers."

So we come on down the line.

Mr. Burde gives us a letter from Mr. Yeatman, complaining about no place being set for the now famous meeting of January 12. Mr. Burde points out that Mr. Yeatman's letter is dated January 5, 1931, a year behind time, a mistake even the best of us might make. Here is the letter:

Mr. Nicholas Burde,
Dear Sir:

Your card under date of January 2 addressed to me 400 Cortlandt street, Belleville, received this A. M.

No place of meeting is designated; but we naturally conclude it is somewhere between Heaven and Earth (maybe your barber shop). I am not running around looking for it. I am sending you the Forester's report for year 1931, also the minute book and rubber stamps which are all I received from Mr. Neibbe, the former secretary.

There is stationery and letters belonging to or to be handed over to the incoming secretary. Same are wrapped up and will be delivered when called for.

S. YEATMAN,
440 Cortlandt street.

So by this time our readers may readily appreciate what Big Shot has tumbled into. But he was not satisfied. He went further. An emissary was sent to the office to ask him to soft-pedal for Sammy Sampson the story of the votes.

Big Shot heard of the request made to the editor and he says, says he, "not on your life. What would my public think? I get this yarn and the soft pedal is asked. Don't annoy me with such trivial things."

Your scrivener is a hard boiled egg, and if he don't get this story in print he quits, Sammy says there's no circulation anyway, so why should he worry.

But Nick needs a better break than this, because Big Shot overhears a whisper that Sammy is hands off Nick from now on, because he spilled the story of the votes to the News.

When Nick's letter reached the commission Tuesday they burst right out in loud laughter which should make Nick feel good.

Nick declares that the forester is not necessary this year; no trees will be planted. And if $2,000 is used up of the $3,300 what will happen if a blight occurs. Okay Nick, but Big Shot understands that the balance will last only four months. Right? Sure! Well, in that case an emergency note will have to be added onto the town's expenditure's. Right? Right!

"With my plan," says Nick "the town could operate a whole year for what it will cost for four months."

Nick handed in some more inside information on the birdies' nest, about an accident to one of the employees in 1931 and bigger bills being paid than he wanted to pay, trees bought out of Belleville, why he fought to have Yeatman ousted as secretary. Oh, and a lot of good stuff.

But Big Shot is dizzy right now. This is all he can negotiate among the swallows so he will bid his public adieu 'till next week.

TAX RATE

ied in an item of $28,322.41 for 1931 anticipated revenue deficiency.

This is the $16,000 Commissioner Carragher wants to learn about, in last year's budget it was listed as a surplus and it is said no surplus existed.

The 1932 budget passed on first reading by a 4 to 1 vote Tuesday for public hearing February 9. Total requirements are $909,385.86, compared to $830,406.78 in 1931. Anticipated revenue is $177,485.86, as against $197,539.80.

As not more than a $500,000 increase over the town's $33,000,000 ratables of last year is expected, it appears that the town tax rate will be about twenty-eight points above the $1.90 rate of 1931. The school rate will drop about ten points from $1.46 and the state and county rates are expected to be about four points higher than the $0.98 rate last year, making the gross tax rate, unless further cuts are effected, about $4.56, compared to $4.34 last year.

Huge Unemployment Figure

The increase holds despite $50,975 cut in departmental operating costs. Reduction in anticipated revenue and inclusion in the non-departmental items of an increased amount for bond retirement, unemployment relief of a huge sum, Water Department loss for 1930 and cancellation of taxes deemed uncollectable accounts for the raise.

Commissioner Frank J. Carragher refused to approve the budget until he knows where $16,000, charged against the Water Department last year was spent. Director William H. Williams of the Department of Revenue and Finance said he was endeavoring to trace the expenditure for explanation at the budget hearing.

Items Reduced

Reductions in departmental appropriations were as follows: Public Affairs (Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy); $37,670, compared to $47,100 last year; Public Works (Director Patrick A. Waters), $52,703, against $69,225; Public Safety (Director William D. Clark), $226,982, against $242,500; Public Property (Director Carragher), $17,000, against $21,160; Revenue and Finance (Director Williams), $30,297, against $35,700.

The decrease in anticipated revenue is due principally to the elimination of $15,000 set up last year as Engineering Department earnings for the reason there will be no new construction this year and to the elimination of $16,728.40 set up last year as Water Department surplus.

Under non-departmental appropriations the bond retirement item is increased from $13,000 to $53,000; $82,600 is set up as a new item to take care of assessment debt interest due in 1932; $27,188.60 takes care of the 1930 Water Department operating loss, when, instead of floating emergency notes, funds from this account were used to afford unemployment relief; $9,825 to pay off part of further unemployment relief, and $16,934.36 for cancellation of uncollectable taxes from 1920 to 1925.

CLARK ADMITS

all. I am sick and tired of having people call me up to try to influence me. I hesitate. I'm just afraid there is something that is not nice about it."

Commissioner Frank J. Carragher added something when he said the contract had included a clause to remove glass, and so forth.

"So far it has cost about $400 to advertise, readvertise and what have you as regards the bid," said the fighting commissioner, and if he has his way there will be no further cost to the town before it gets to a contractor.

Mr. Clark added that he was disgusted with rumors that are going around "statements and gossip that it was held in the bag." He wants to see things clarified.

Mr. Carragher asked Mr. Brown on what grounds the contract had been questioned. The attorney started off by explaining what a writ of certiorari is and wound up with an outline of the "grounds" as told exclusively by this paper last week.

As regards going into court Mr. Brown said the contractor was dragged there, he didn't go there.

Which started something. "Dragged there, huh," said Mr. Carragher. "Dragged there, or what. I want to know on what grounds he was dragged there—coffee grounds or what kind?"

One of the objections to the contract was that the Clifton Board of Health had not given proper consent to Viola to dump there.

"You can't go anywhere and get such consent," said Mr. Carragher.

And so it went until a long squabble ended with the decision to check up further for another week. The resolution was tabled and Belleville is operating still on a per diem basis with Viola cleaning up the mess along the curbs.

No. 1. of the Knights of Columbus which will be held Monday night, February 8, at the 113th Regiment Armory, Newark.

The games have unusual interest because with the Olympic games scheduled for Los Angeles next summer, Jersey track fans will be afforded an opportunity of seeing many of these Olympic stars in action. It is expected many new stars will flash upon the track horizon in this meet.

In addition to the 600 yard special there will be an A. Harry Moore 5,000 meter run, (3 miles, 188 yards) which will feature the German star and Olympic Marathon Champion, Paul Von Brun; a one mile invitation run; a one mile college relay; seven handicap events including a 440 yard relay for girls; a one mile prep school relay, and a one mile interscholastic relay.

The games are under the direction of the famous Owens brothers, well known to all track fans, assisted by Richard F. Hudson, secretary of the games.

It is hoped that Belleville's High School would enter a relay team and they have until January 30, to file an entry with Mr. Hudson at 167 North Fourteenth street, East Orange.

Tickets for the games may be secured locally from Harry Sullivan, 283 William street or application may be made at the Knights of Columbus Home, 43 Rossmore place.

Miss Anna O'Connor of 67 Prospect street, died at her home early Tuesday after an illness of a month. Born in Newark, she had lived in Belleville fourteen years. She was a member of Brennan Branch 321, L. C. B. A., of Sacred Heart Church of Newark.

Surviving are a brother, Thomas of Jersey City, and a sister, Mrs. Catherine Carragher of town.

Statement Issued By Sheriff's Ass'n. Of N. J.

No one disagrees with the desire on the part of anyone to bring about the compilation of fair and impartial jury lists. In fact, it is so important that good government cannot continue unless this is done. It is one of the bulwarks for the preservation of liberty and free institutions, and before any change is made in the system of selecting jurors, it should be considered very carefully, so that if a change is made it will improve conditions.

The duly elected Sheriffs of the State of New Jersey are mindful of some criticism that has been leveled at the present system, and they are in perfect accord that if some other method can be arranged to insure the selection of jurors which will be surrounded by safeguards that may not exist at the present time, they are more than willing this should be done. They do feel, however, that the change which is to be brought about by Senator Wolber's bill recently introduced in the Senate instead of improving the situation is a step backward. Lest the public misunderstand the reasons urged against this change, it must be weighed carefully and in full deliberative spirit, and not be taken as a desire for the retention of the power by the Sheriff which today is far more burdensome than beneficial.

The public is aware that at the present time, jury lists are prepared by a bi-partisan commission, consisting of the duly elected Sheriff in each County, and a jury commissioner appointed by the Governor.

The proposed change contemplates that the jury list be compiled by one individual appointed by the Supreme Court Justice in each County. The first and most obvious fault that can be found with this, is that it concentrates this tremendous power in the hands of one man. There is no guarantee that the man selected by the Supreme Court Justice will be more fair or able in the compilation of jurors' lists than the Sheriff and the jury commissioner of any County. In fact, the jury commissioner at the present time is appointed by the Governor, and receives his seal of office in the same way and manner as the Supreme Court Justice himself. What would really happen if such an individual wanted to use his office for the purpose of furthering his own ends or helping the political party with which he was affiliated? He would be unrestrained in a sense.

since it would take a lot of courage on the part of the Supreme Court Justice to either remove him or have the jury lists stricken. On the other hand, at the present time, the Supreme Court Justice or a body may petition the Supreme Court Justice and with good cause have the entire panel of Grand and Petit Juries eliminated. We think that we know character enough to say that the Supreme Court Justice is only human, and he would be reluctant to have his appointee held up to public criticism in the event he was not performing the duties of his office properly.

Has it ever occurred to the people who are agitating for a change that many Supreme Court Justices are not familiar with many of the counties over which they preside and would have to look to someone in the county to suggest the name of this individual who would make up the jury lists? Thus making it possible for somebody else to put over the name of a person whose qualifications and character are more or less unknown to the Justice. Should that individual misuse his office in any manner whatsoever, then we would have the time worn excuse that the appointment was not made because of direct knowledge but came from someone else's suggestion.

The Sheriff, after all is said and done, is responsible to the people of the county who elected him, and he would be, and is more responsive to them than an individual who owed his appointment to just one other person. We are practically of the unanimous opinion that shifting the preparation of the jury lists from the Sheriff and the jury commissioner to just one person, appointed by the Supreme Court Justice, will not help the things that have to be corrected. The present system, while not infallible, we believe to be the best, in so far as the jury commission as now constituted is bipartisan. No one individual is vested with the sole power of selection, it can easily be seen.

If the selection of a single jury commissioner by the Supreme Court Justice is to bring about the millennium in getting up jury lists why wouldn't this same Supreme Court Justice use the power that now resides in him to eliminate any jury lists that are unworthy and should be stricken. Change if you will the present system but let us not fall into the error of going back to a procedure which puts the power into the hand of one person which experience has shown to be an evil and which the late illustrious Woodrow Wilson scented and used his efforts to correct. If the feeling is general that Supreme Court Justices have the ability and desire to help the situation, let them name the Jury Commissioner instead of the Governor.

Governments are only as strong as the individuals that compose them and the Sheriffs of the State of New Jersey feel that if they have been amiss in the performance of certain of their duties, especially in the duty of assisting in the preparation of jury lists, that public opinion will force a remedy, and that the glaring light of publicity will not permit them to pervert this important function. The temper of the people at the present time is strained, but a hasty disruption of venerated institutions is not the remedy.

Seas Vets Dance At White Eagle Hall Tomorrow Night

Miles A. Suarez Post, No. 711, V. F. W. of Bloomfield, has completed arrangements to act as host at the White Eagle Hall, Saturday night, January 30. The committee reports that the attendance should be about 800. Come out to the frolic and dance if you desire a good time.

Our members are thankful and appreciative to the Belleville folks who assisted us with purchase of tickets to the performance at the Royal Theatre this week. We obtained such better results than was anticipated," says the committee.

The post meets at the Community House on Broad street, Bloomfield, Monday, February 1. We invite overseas foreign service vets to join with us. Report at the Community House on this date or communicate with our Post Adjutant, Roger E. Potts, 70 Girard avenue, East Orange, N. J. These meetings are good for you. Red And Blue Army Contest Gets Hotter

The increase in attendance of the Everyman's Bible Class and the interest manifested in the contest between the Red and Blue Armies is attracting new members to the class and bringing out some of the old timers.

The Red Army is gradually creeping upon the Blue and General A. Kunze of the Reds stated that he expected a full and complete rout of the Blue Army by the end of the contest.

We again invite all men to join the class and get in the contest. We meet at the Masonic Temple, Jorammon street, at 9:30 A. M.

per cent certificates on the installment plan.

"Perhaps the most impressive feature of the several million dollars to persons completing their investment program with the Investors Syndicate," says Mr. Jacobs, "has been the most unanimous statement to the effect that if they had never been compelled to save, it is doubtful whether they would have accumulated such a sum."

S O S (SECRET ORDER SAMMY)

"Will the members of the press please leave the room? The board will go into executive session."

Thus spoke Mayor Samuel Sampson Kenworthy Tuesday at the Commission conference.

And all the boys, who earn their living by exposing things political or shading them according to pocketbooks affected, left the room.

All of which leads us to the question:

"When is the public's business not the public's business?"

Evidently it is not the public concern when the Mayor wants to talk over public matters that vitally concern the public purse strings. When the Mayor realizes that the best way to deal with the public is out in the open he will go further in establishing public confidence.

If this was a town matter that was discussed in secret, and thanks to one other member of the commission we have learned it was, it would behoove our Mayor to let the public in on the secret. That's what we pay him for. Or does he think he's doing us a favor by being Mayor?

er they would have accumulated such a sum."

The Investors Syndicate has been fortunate in securing the services of a man with such outstanding ability, his many friends predict a most successful future.

Mr. Jacobs is vice president of the Progress Club, member of the F. & A. M. Shrine, Elks and Rotary clubs and well known in Building and Loan circles in Belleville, being the treasurer of two. He has been in the real estate and insurance business here for fifteen years, carrying all kinds of insurance.

best Wednesday night. Newark and Orange lodges competed.

More than two hundred Elks gathered at Nutley Lodge, 561 Franklin avenue, last night for the official visit of District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Nicholas Albano and his large caravan of Elks from Newark and other lodges of the northwest district. A special initiation was put on by Exalted Ruler Philip R. Guinan of Nutley Lodge and his staff of officers. Following the ceremonies there was a banquet and special entertainment features.

Arrangements for the evening were in the hands of the entertainment committee, comprising Thomas B. Regan, chairman; Exalted Ruler Guinan, Albert Weischedel, Carmie Blum, Albert E. Horst, Clarence Hliffe, Charles De Bow, Elmer Lawrence, W. J. Jernick, publicity; Eleazer Barth, Frank McCrea and Walter J. Zimmerer.

Newark Lodge of Elks will hold a large amateur boxing show, sanctioned by the A. A. U., the night of February 5 in the lodgeroom. There will be five four-man classes, namely for 112, 118, 128, 147 and 160-pound men. Altogether there will be forty-five rounds. The athletic committee is in charge of arrangements. Following the show there will be entertainment and dancing.

The lodge sent large delegations with District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Nicholas Albano on his visit to East Orange Tuesday night and to Nutley Wednesday night. There was a lodge session Tuesday night and a ritualistic contest Wednesday night at Belleville between Newark and Orange lodges.

Where Is $16,728?

proper account, neither is there any transfer record, it is said, to show that it was used in any other department, such transfer being called for by resolution.

In an Alphonse-Gaston act Tuesday night Commissioners Carragher and Waters started to operate on the proposition. Commissioner Carragher said he didn't intend to start things and so did Mr. Waters. They both decided to start and stop and finally Mr. Waters said, "all right, let's have it, I had intended to wait until the hearing."

Mr. Carragher popped the question.

"Where is the $16,728? Can anybody answer me?"

Mr. Waters said an emergency arose just before last election and he needed money to help the unemployed, calling attention of the board to the fact that he needed more than the $20,000 allotted him for work to keep the men going. He said he might be accused of politics, but he didn't care whether it was just prior to election or not, he would try to help the men, 200 or 300 of whom attended the meeting.

"WHAT HAPPENED TO THE $16,728? WHO KNOWS THE ANSWER?"

Let us put this in figures. In 1927, you MR. TAXPAYER, were very nicely asked to furnish $35,000 to set the Water Department on its feet. Why a water department should have run at a loss is beyond our ken—yes, we know that it was explained—

Getting back to the $35,000, however, we know that all but $16,000 of this was spent. The remainder should have gone back into the town account—BUT IT WAS RETAINED IN THE WATER DEPARTMENT ACCOUNT as a reserve. Although this wasn't in actual cash, it was placed in the budget for each ensuing year. This made the tax SEEM 5½ points lower. This, friends, is exceedingly good politics, if you want to accept it as such.

You want to know how such a thing is possible? Here it is: The Water Department is not handled in the same manner as the rest of the budget. Instead, it is under the supervision of the Public Utilities Commission.

Mr. Waters, WE WOULD LIKE TO ASK YOU SOME QUESTIONS:

1—If such an emergency as unemployment existed why wasn't the matter handled in the usual manner (i. e., by an emergency note) rather than this method which is causing the tax payer so much trouble in locating his $16,000?

2—This particular relief was granted from the period dating eight weeks or so before MUNICIPAL ELECTION UNTIL THE PRIMARY. MR. WATERS, DID THIS PROBLEM CEASE TO BE A PROBLEM RIGHT AFTER ELECTION?

3—WHERE IS THE $16,000?

All right, Commissioner, that's all. Now, Mr. Taxpayer, let us show you what this means to you!

Suppose you have a house which was assessed at $5,000. Each increase of one point means fifty cents more that you pay. Thus, the $27,000 loss plus the famous $16,000 make $43,000 or 13 points. YOU PAID $6.50. FOR WHAT? Three years before you paid $35,000 or about 10 points. This was $5 of yours, Taxpayer—WHERE DID IT GO?

It would seem that the budget requires more close supervision. How on the face of the earth can they place $16,000 of UNEXISTING MONEY in the budget? We don't know, but, it was done.

Our issue of next week will explain many things which are not clear to the taxpayer. LOOK FOR THIS COLUMN AND SEE WHAT HAPPENS TO YOUR MONEY.

Elsie Cartwright

Funeral services for Elsie Cartwright, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cartwright of 28 Ralph street, were conducted Saturday morning by the Rev. Peter R. Deckenbach of Christ Church at the Irvine Home for Services. Elsie was born on March 10, 1919. She was a member of the graduating class of School No. 1. In addition to her parents she is survived by two sisters and a brother.

the American army in France during the World War.

Mr. Stewart said Miss Anderson's loyalty is unquestioned, and she does not work by the clock. Such loyalty and interest in town employees should be encouraged, he added. She had two brothers in service and when it came to a matter of shedding blood the citizenship angle was not questioned, he declared.

"If Belleville is a part of the United States it owes an obligation to this family and to the aged father whom Miss Anderson is supporting. Who are those in opposition? There are rumors and gossip of an ulterior motive."

Mr. Williams rose to point out that his stand on Miss Anderson is well known as reported previously.

Mr. Stewart declared he did not intend to cast reflection on Mr. Williams as the latter had drawn an inference. "I thought I was complimenting you," he stated.

He continued that "a so-called political strategist had deemed that Miss Anderson should go to make room for another person." In conclusion he presented Mr. Williams with the list of names and entered his personal plea for her retention.

New Building Discussed

A proposition of Gimbel Brothers of New York to locate a distributing station in town was submitted by Louis Planes of the Federal Leather Company, owner of property where the station would be built. Since permission would necessitate a change from residential to industrial zone the board decided to ask the opinion of residents in the section.

The station would employ sixty to 100 Belleville residents. The estimated cost of the building is $60,000. It would be built of brick veneer and stucco and would extend from Main street through to Davidson street, 100 feet south of Little street.

Celebrate Scout Week

Local boy scout troops will celebrate Scout Week, February 7 to 13, in a novel manner this year.

Plans have been completed by them for the erection of a model camp on the empty lots adjacent to the high school. The camp will be set up in regular Indian fashion with teepees and other Indian paraphernalia.

The equipment will be furnished by Mr. Maden, assistant executive from boy scout headquarters and the local troops.

The troops in charge of the camp for the different days are:

February 8, Troop 4 and 8.
February 9, Troop 90 and 92.
February 10, Troop 86.
February 11, Troop 50.
February 12, Troop 75.
February 13, Troop 4 and 50.

TROOP 92

The boys met at the Recreation House for their weekly meeting on Friday, January 22.

Andrew W. Bray gave a very interesting talk on the bees and their work.

T. M. Thornton instructed the scouts in first aid, which is an essential part of scout knowledge.

The boys were taken for scout pace by A. Jocher and the senior patrol leader passed scouts on the tenderfoot test.

The Scoutmaster, P. F. Kane, and the high officers of the troop are in charge of the window show, which is to be held during "Scout Week." The scouts may hand in suggestions.

Card Party

A card party will be held by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Redeemer Lutheran Church, at the parish house, 100 Grafton avenue, Newark, Saturday evening, January 30. Play will start at 8. Tickets are fifty cents including refreshments, and may be had from Mrs. Huemer, 679 Cedar Hill avenue, chairlady, or at the door.

Boys Injured

Thomas Canfield, five, of 25 Linden avenue, Belleville, suffered a broken left leg and head injuries Friday afternoon when struck by an automobile driven by Clifford Koersch, nineteen, of 29 Beech street at Linden avenue and Essex street. Koersch took the child to Dr. James Irwin and Patrolmen Flynn and Anderson removed him to St. Barnabas's.

THE RECKONING

APPARENTLY we are engaging in a general and healthy revolution in public finances, hastened by bankers who have become alarmed over delays of various municipalities in meeting their obligations. The bankers have asked these municipalities to put their business in decent shape before giving them the money they want to borrow. The squawk of a political wastrel like Mayor Walker of New York is the natural product. New York owes $1,877,000,000, nearly two billions, and has to pay $160,000,000 interest each year, nearly a quarter of its whole budget.

It is clear what has happened and it tells a big part of the story of depression. The profligate extravagance of public government, has been disclosed. Years of reckless spending on projects of questionable value, of increasing public debt, of multiplication of useless public positions for political purposes, and of a fatuous belief that the public had money to pay for all this forever have reached a climax of disillusion.

The insistence of bankers that these wrongs be corrected, so far as the results of decades of official folly and mismanagement can be corrected, is the beginning of checking these ills that have done so much to create popular distress for every person. The banker has finally discovered the taxpayer. The public official is suspecting his existence.

LET'S CONSERVE LIFE

WAR! The black headlines shout it out. The President has issued his proclamation. Troops are marching, ships are departing. Men are leaving peaceful homes to enlist as cannon fodder—but why?

Some secret seething bomb of hate between nations, set off by a comparatively minor diplomatic misunderstanding—loud talk—propaganda—and then—WAR!

Respect is not great for two men who cannot settle their difference except by fighting. There are many other means of settling a dispute which are, if not as rapid, as sure in their results.

Peaceful settlement would be well-nigh impossible were all men to carry arms. This, too, holds true for nations. Armament conferences are held, and questions of forces, ship types and tonnage, air strength, and so forth, are discussed, but how serious a consideration is made of complete disarmament with the possible exception of a small number of light ships to police possessions or dependents? Millions of dollars might then be saved—or devoted to purposes far finer than the destruction of a disagreeable neighbor, your disputes with whom could be settled by means far more amicable.

Life is sweet; therefore let us conserve it—rather than lose it, or despoil it in unnecessary combat. Let all nations cut armaments equally.

"THE WINDOW THROUGH WHICH YOU LOOK AT THE WORLD"

THAT is what our contemporary, the New York Herald Tribune, in a current advertisement, calls the newspaper you read. It is a thought worth more than a moment's consideration in choosing not only your metropolitan newspaper but your local newspaper.

What do you really know about what is going on in the world? Outside of your own immediate family and business, your knowledge of events and your opinions concerning them are necessarily derived mainly from the newspapers you read. Most men form their own judgments, but whether it is the war in Manchuria or the situation in Congress or the new tax levy for paving or the extension of a sewer, the newspapers you read furnish a major part of the basis on which your judgments are formed.

In these days of business stress, when all opinions are likely to be colored a bit too darkly by the pessimist or too brightly by the habitual optimist, it is more important than ever that facts be known and recognized for what they are really worth. It is the newspaper editor who, cuts out the important news of the day, local, national, international, and sees that it reaches the reader in the proper perspective. Editors or reputable newspapers, local and metropolitan, recognize this responsibility.

The New York Herald Tribune has done a service to all conscientious newspaper editors and publishers in calling this vital fact to public attention at this time.

DENTISTS AND ADVERTISING

THE dentists of New Jersey who are banded together in a State Association for mutual benefit seemingly have suddenly come to the realization that they have a code of ethics which makes advertising anathema. They have gone so far as to draft a bill which they hope to jam through the present Legislature to abolish all forms of advertising, newspaper, radio, electric signs, billboards, direct by mail, and so forth.

Such a measure, if passed, unquestionably would be attacked as unconstitutional and a violation of free speech. While some members of the profession possibly may be considered as overstepping "ethical" bounds in advertising, it is the form that such advertising takes, rather than advertising itself, that should be given consideration.

The dentists should take a lesson from the medical profession of Hudson County, which has only recently decided that it has been pushing "ethics" too far and has found a way for employing newspaper advertising, at least, for the protection of the public.

DID YOU KNOW IT?

DID you know that last year the business of making motor cars and motorized machinery consumed: 15.5 per cent of all steel produced; 53 per cent of all malleable iron; 18 per cent of all hardwood lumber; 67.7 per cent of all plate glass; 17.4 per cent of all aluminum; 14.8 per cent of all copper; 9.3 per cent of all cotton; 82.6 per cent of all rubber; 26 per cent of all lead; 30 per cent of all nickel; 51.4 per cent of all upholstery leather; 35,000,000 yards of upholstery cloth and 85 per cent of all gasoline?

Those are statistical facts, not guesses or theories. Also in 1930 the automobile industry, itself a transportation agency, paid the railroads of the country $500,000,000 for carrying more than $3,350,000 carloads of freight.

THE FORUM

TAX COMMENT

Editor Belleville News:

It was evident at the town hall, Tuesday evening that the sleeping giant "Taxpayer" is stirring in an effort at self preservation.

The universal comment on the pending raise of 12 to 20 points in the tax rate for 1932, in face of economic conditions as bad or worse than in 1931, was discouraging.

This seems to be as inevitable as was the collapse of our period of inflation.

The effort of the commissioners in trying to meet an impasse in finance only succeeded in keeping down a tax rate which would practically have meant confiscation for many home owners and which must be well nigh intolerable to the real estate interests in our town.

Private business could not face such a financial out-look and remain solvent, a grave crisis being before us. Judging from the enormous amount of uncollected taxes for the past two years, which is sure to result in adding to the burden to be assumed by the taxpayers for years to come.

The phrase "cut to the bone" is overworked in municipal budget preparation compared to private business which not only has been cut to the bone but has had much bone itself removed.

The proposed 10 per cent cut of salaries of certain employees, I am convinced, is not a method which will do more than add to the general distress and do little to relieve the condition it is intended to alleviate.

Perhaps a part time schedule would be more effective to include ALL employees of the town including the school teachers and the Board of Education, notwithstanding the so-called mandatory laws referring to salaries.

The solution of the dilemma surely does not lay in reducing the buying power of the citizen, however, if this is the remedy to be applied it should at least be equally distributed among ALL THE TOWN EMPLOYEES.

Sincerely,

F. FISCHER.

Did you ever stopto think?

BY EDSON R. WAITE,
Shawnee, Oklahoma
W. Cleveland Bowie, editor of the Point Pleasant (W. Va.) Register, says:

That advertising helps a city become civic conscious and brings to its citizens a desire to feel about their town as they do about their newly purchased automobile or radio, a deeply rooted pride.

Unless each citizen feels within himself that "this is my city and I am going to strive always to help make it a better city," that citizen contributes little to his home.

There are thousands of smaller communities scattered throughout the nation. Many of them are struggling like the small town merchant who is living the past decade, without a full appreciation of the value of advertising.

There are few chambers of commerce or merchants cooperatives in smaller communities. Without such a central agency interested in the town's welfare, it is impossible to progress. Individual citizens seldom take it upon themselves to assume the responsibilities of the entire community.

But when several leading citizens interested in the growth of their city join themselves together in one common cause, that city is bound to grow, become civic conscious and "get things done."

Case No. 4

Can some kind person help little Margaret? Margaret is in the sixth grade of one of the local schools. She has not been absent a single day for three years but now her father is out of work and cannot afford to buy a pair of shoes for her. For the past week she has attended school wearing shoes that cannot even be called threadbare. She has a bad cold and will be forced to break her attendance record if some charitable person does not give her a pair of shoes.

Case No. 5

A young man stopped in the office Saturday. He asked if we could possibly supply him with a pair of shoes. He applied for work at the town hall but was turned away. This young man is the sole support of an aged mother. Will someone please donate a pair of size seven shoes for him?

THINKS SANDWICHES ARE HIGH-PRICED

Editor the News:

I think the author of the letter on pie profiteering was quite justified in all that was said. Notwithstanding the present exceedingly low costs of all pie ingredients, obviously the proprietors of eating-houses have no intention of reducing pie prices until the public demands it. And I think it would be in order to go a step farther and ask what excuse there is for us not having a five-cent sandwich once more. Certainly the price of flour is at the lowest notch, and I have bought even cooked corned beef this week for 15 cents a pound. That looks as though the corned beef sandwiches selling at 10 cents each are about as profitable as the pies sold at 10 cents each price. When the price of flour, and other things rose, the sandwich price was promptly doubled, but it seems to be "a horse of another color" now that prices have dropped way below the former figures. It is supposed to be a poor rule that doesn't work both ways, so apparently this is a very poor rule indeed.

Johnny, 10 year old, applied for a job as grocery boy for the summer. The grocer wanted a serious-minded youth, so he put Johnny to a little test.

"Well, my boy, what would you do with a million dollars?" he asked. "Oh, gee, I don't know! I wasn't expecting so much at the start."

Pearl—We have been married a year and we never quarrel. If a difference of opinions arises and I am right, Henry always gives in immediately.

Merle—And if he is right?

Pearl—Oh, that hasn't happened so far!

"Lady, could you give me a quarter to get me where my family is?" "Certainly, my good man, here's a quarter. Where is your family," "At de movies."

"You sometimes find a pearl in an oyster stew," remarked the waiter, pleasantly.

But the customer only grunted: "I'm looking for oysters."

Sunday School Teacher—What happens to a person who thinks only of his body and not of his soul? Little Johnny Jumpup—He gets fat.

Relax—Who is your wife's favorite author?

Reflex—The gink who writes the ads for the bargain sales in the papers!

Buzz—When did the shortest day of the year come?

Bob—With me it was the day I had to pay my rent, my taxes, my auto installment, my grocery bill, my coal bill and my wife's store bill—and buy a birthday present for my mother-in-law.

Servant Girl—"Madam, master lies unconscious in the hall with a piece of paper in his hand and a large box alongside."

Mme. X (joyously): "Oh, my new hat has arrived."

PUBLIC HEALTH by Dr. Edwin F. Hahn

HEART DISEASE
Many deaths are caused by heart disease than any other calamity which can happen to the human body and the importance of this affliction has been much appreciated by the great insurance companies and causes considerable concern amongst those interested in vital statistics. Unfortunately, heart disease is on the increase and it becomes a serious problem as regards the future of the human race.

The term heart disease is a very comprehensive one, for there are a great many varieties of the complaint. There are two outstanding types of which all others may be classified, viz. Functional and Organic Heart Disease. The former includes those varieties brought on by nervous strain, such as mental worry, disordered thyroid gland, disorders of digestion, over-exertion and the excessive use of tobacco. This is by far the commonest variety and is as a rule responsive to the removal of its cause. The other group, the organic type is far more serious as it involves structural changes either in the heart muscle itself or in the valves which regulate the flow of blood. Organic heart disease, aside from the type which is congenital or existent from birth is always of infectious origin or, in other words, is due to some poison in the blood-stream, that is carried to the heart and lodges therein causing definite organic changes in the organ or its affiliated structures. The commonest poison of so-called Organic heart disease is a frequent example of this variety. These poisons which affect the heart excluding those due to venereal diseases, are invariably found within the body and the food or areas from which they arise, as the sinuses, teeth, tonsils, gall bladder and other parts of the intestinal tract are often difficult of detection.

Now the question arises—Why is Heart Disease? The answer to this heart trouble is often a heart ailment is very simple and short—absence of living. The heart is the strongest organ in the body and will stand more abuse without complaining than any other. But when we keep on overworking that organ, it will in due time rebel. Our bodies are so constituted that they require a certain amount of rest in order to keep up with the wear and tear of life. Regulate our life so that the heart gets its share. Be examined at intervals by your doctor and have local infections taken care of, and remember, that in order to keep happy, nothing is to be gained by excessive labor and worry. Change your viewpoint at intervals and give yourself a new outlook upon life and what it all about. If there is any question as to your heart condition have your doctor check you up. Always remember that heart disease is one of the most amenable to treatment and the person with an organic heart trouble is often a better risk than the one who thinks he has a bad heart. Moderation is the passport to Good Health.

For Special Appetite Appeal

By Jane Rogers

THE most commonplace foods can be given a special appetite appeal by a little added thought and care in the preparation. Sometimes no more is required than a wise use of seasonings. A small amount of sugar, for instance, will help to restore the garden freshness of all the green vegetables. Again, a particularly tempting dish may often be achieved by the combination of two or more familiar ingredients.

In the secret of achieving such escapes from the ordinary routine lies many a famous cook's reputation for supreme excellence in the culinary art. The housewife who recognizes the value of this secret and gives it practical application in her kitchen, is well on the road to establishing a similar reputation in her own circle.

Carrots Gervais

Cut twelve medium-size carrots into two-inch lengths. Cook until tender in salted water to which a teaspoon of sugar has been added. In the meantime, cook two chopped onions in melted butter until light brown. Mix with the carrots and dust with flour. Salt and pepper to taste. When the flour is thoroughly browned add a cup of soup stock. Cook gently for about ten minutes, and serve very hot.

But don't eat up all the money you save. Stick to your weekly "dollar dinner for four" habit. And now that a dollar goes much farther than it did last year, you'll find that for the small sum of twenty-five cents per person, you can plan other dinners quite as tempting as this one. A dietitian has put her seal of approval on the menu and tested the recipes for you.

Mrs. Clifton Smith of Overlook avenue was hostess Sunday night when she gave a surprise miscellaneous shower for her cousin Miss Mildred Wolf of Montclair. Miss Wolf and her fiancé, William Trost of Woodcliff, drifted in Sunday night to call, as they often do, and Mr. Smith simply said: "Well, the wife is in the kitchen," so Miss Wolf turned in that direction, immediately up went the lights and everyone called out at once—a complete surprise for Miss Wolf, when she discovered the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Trost of Hackensack; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Goetz, of Woodcliff; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Geisler of Plainfield; Miss Agnes Christie of Jersey City Heights and Miss Cely Weber of West Orange. At the time Miss Wolf thought it was a birthday surprise, but was speechless when the guests were called to the dining room to see the beautiful gifts piled on her chair and the decorations in pink and yellow with the color scheme carried out in the parasol as a table center piece, and she realized it was a shower with many beautiful gifts.

WOMAN'S CLUB NOTES

The annual membership tea given by the Woman's Club on Monday afternoon had an attendance of about one hundred and fifty.

Mrs. Charles S. Smith, president of the club, turned the entertainment program over to Mrs. L. H. Bunnell, music chairman. In keeping with the one hundredth anniversary of the writing of "America," Mrs. Bunnell led the club members in singing that composition.

Splendid training and much talent was shown in the fine renditions by various members of the club chorus. As an observance of McDowell Week, a trio composed of Mrs. Andrew Sal-keld, Mrs. George Taggart and Mrs. William Davis, sang "To A Wild Rose," and "Thy Beaming Eyes."

Mrs. Frank Dorman, soloist, sang "Would God I Were a Tender Apple Blossom" and "Awake, Beloved." Miss Edna Lind, coloratura soprano, offered "The Wren" and "Will You Come Into My Garden."

Lawrence Service Sta. Has Steadily Grown

Merited Auto Tire And Accessories Shop Has Electric Greasing.

While philosophers concern themselves with futile definitions of progress, and sages argue about the ultimate destiny of man, the practical common-sense business man of today concentrates all his energies upon making his business better, improving his methods, extending his services, and making himself more useful to his fellow citizens.

That is notably the case with the Lawrence Service Station, of 248 Franklin avenue, Nutley, N. J. Word has come to this department that this tire and accessories store is now in its sixth year of remarkably fair and worthwhile service to Nutley, and typifying the progressive spirit to which we have referred, is the only service station in all Nutley which has an electric greasing system.

The Lawrence Service Station also offers to its customers a remarkably complete line of accessories, and handles the world famous Firestone tires and tubes, which renders the services of this station to Nutley motorists even more indispensable.

Belleville Pharmacy Is Well Stocked

William E. Rivola, Owner, Takes Pride In His Establishment.

Drug stores often are criticized facetiously in the press and elsewhere because of the wide variety of commodities which they purvey in addition to drugs. But their critics forget that every single item now being sold in the modern drug store was placed there in response to a popular demand—in fact there is no other kind of retail shop which is more responsive to the wishes of the public than the drug store.

To the credit of Belleville, as a progressive community, and to its proprietor, William E. Rivola, the Belleville Pharmacy on Union avenue, since its inception five years ago has stood at the very forefront of modern pharmacies in this responsiveness to the public demand—not only in modern, bright, attractive equipment, and in a fine fountain, and an exceptionally wide variety of standard advertised articles and specialties, but in the basic elements of business service, courtesy and consideration for the customer.

Mr. Rivola, who graduated from the New Jersey College of Pharmacy in 1910, continues, however, to pay particular attention to his prescription department, maintaining a fresh and wide variety of standard drugs of the best quality, which has won him wide approval not only among the public, but among members of the medical profession.

M. GOTTSCHALK A Merchant Tailor Whose Experience Is Appreciated By The Public.

As a thoroughly artistic cutter and designer, no one in Belleville is better known in high-class merchant tailoring than Mr. Gottschalk and his efforts have long been highly appreciated by the best class of citizens and business men in the community, who can afford and appreciate the luxury of the best fabrics fashioned and tailored by master hands.

Corner Drugs, Inc.

Pharmacy Of Abramson & Kaufer Has Won Confidence Of Doctors And The Public.

There is perhaps no profession which requires of its members more fidelity, honesty, and painstaking care, than that of pharmacy.

It is only just, therefore, that we should make place in these columns for mention of the fine reputation not only among the general public, but among members of the medical profession, which the two youthful and enterprising proprietors of Corner Drugs, Inc., have built up for themselves and for their business in the year and a half that they have been located at 104 Washington avenue.

These two young men, who were graduated from the New Jersey College of Pharmacy in the same class, in 1926, are Mr. S. Kaufer and Mr. W. Abramson. Mr. Kaufer is widely noted among druggists for his knowledge of pharmaceutical science, having been an instructor in the laboratory of his alma mater for four years, while Mr. Abramson's courtesy and tact have won many friends for Corner Drugs, Inc. A significant fact is that while both esteem their profession too highly to handle any but the best and most complete line of drugs, they are youthful enough to keep step with the modern trend in maintaining ample supplies of every worthwhile commodity which it is the legitimate province of the drug store to purvey.

JOHN BURKE

Union Avenue Meat Man Patronized By Discriminating Clientele.

Nothing can satisfy one's hunger during these winter days quite as well as fine meats, such as have been the specialty of our well known food merchant, John Burke, ever since he started at his present location, 384 Union avenue, four years ago.

Then, too, with the vagaries of the weather, snow, rain, ice, and cold, beginning to play havoc with the housewife's shopping schedules, it is profitable to notice that all of the up-to-date, first class quality merchandise which Mr. Burke handles, not only meats, but also fruits, vegetables and groceries, can be ordered over the telephone, with the assurance of prompt and efficient delivery without charge.

By these means, as well as by maintaining close supervision over the sanitation and attractiveness of his shop, Mr. Burke has built up a clientele of marked discrimination, and is coming to be regarded as a merchant which Belleville would not care to do without.

E. M. Gavey Known Here A Long Time Active In Real Estate And Insurance Field For Over Thirty-four Years.

One of the most unfortunate circumstances that can befall us is to have an accident, fire or theft and not have the property insured before the time of the mishap or larceny. Millions of dollars are lost each year by unsuspecting Americans who think they are immune to misfortune. Providing insurance of various types, including accident, liability, fire and theft, has been the life work of Mr. E. M. Gavey, located at 162 Washington avenue, Belleville, for eighteen years.

In conjunction with this exceptional service Mr. Gavey has been engaged in the real estate business and during the recent boom, was a foremost figure in the developments which were instrumental in placing Belleville in the picture.

That Mr. Gavey is one of the best known residents and business men of Belleville is a mild way of saying that he has become a widely known figure in the fields in which he has so firmly established himself.

GEORGE BATTY, Jr.

Outstanding Record Built Up Over 27 Years Brings Hardware Success.

The concept of a business as merely another form of public service, in which there is a mutual inter-dependence between the community and the owner, has long since been clearly recognized and acted upon by big hotels, restaurants, department stores, and manufacturing establishments.

But many business men who start out in a small way never really grasp the significance of this idea, with the result that usually they stay small, and are more of a burden on the community, than a benefit.

Such, however, we are glad to say, is not the case with George Batty, Jr., hardware merchant, located for the past ten years at 101 Washington avenue. By virtue of his remarkable full line of hardware stocks, his fine selection of standard quality Lucas and Valspar paints, and the promptness and efficiency which has always characterized his unique free delivery service, Mr. Batty, from the very first day he began in this community, has always been regarded as a valuable, in fact almost indispensable community asset, an impression which has been aided by the special service which Mr. Batty's 27 years of experience has enabled him to render.

J. DeVITA

Grocer At 94 Franklin St. For Eight Years Serves Belleville Needs.

No field of commodity merchandising requires more thorough training and experience than the grocery business. The chain stores, realizing this, train their managers for years before they permit them to assume direction of a store, not only in this ordinary routine of handling the stock and keeping the store attractive, but also in courteous, tactful methods of dealing with the customer.

But chain store managers never really become part of the community, and here is where a local merchant who sticks to principles of conscientious service, such as J. DeVita, whose store has been a focal point for shoppers at 94 Franklin street for eight years, has an advantage.

Mr. DeVita not only has had all of the experience of the chain store manager, and more—having been in the grocery line for twenty years, but also knows and serves his customers as friends and neighbors, besides offering many items that the chain stores cannot handle due to the necessity for a quick turn over. In addition, Mr. DeVita maintains a free delivery.

Such merchants are indeed an asset to Belleville, and are worthy of whole-hearted community support.

RECIPES WITH A COLLEGE EDUCATION

Famous Schools Tell Of Their Favorite Recipes

No longer can the college wise-ones compose songs about the dietaries of their respective alma maters. Gone are the days when a pallid pudding or a languid custard formed the regulation dessert; when salads were unknown as X and menus never changed. Now the college dining rooms are supervised by dietitians, the menus for schools planned by nutritionists, even the school cafeterias managed by home economists. Mothers and fathers whose apples-of-the-eye are away at school must not sigh to think their youngsters are indulging in all manner of indigestibles; collegians' diets are watched over with as much—perhaps more—care than at home.

Out of the haunts of the home economics school, out of the kitchens of the college dormitories, straight from the menu lists of school cafeterias have come the tested recipes for the favorite dishes on their bills of fare. Since dietitians planned them, college budgets permitted them and the critical generation "O.K." them, you can draw your own conclusions about their merits.

In Vogue Today

Prepared for the Essex County Extension Service, By MISS AFTON ODELL, Clothing Specialist.

The staple furs familiar in years past have been so completely transformed that it is difficult for one to recognize them in their new guise and the varied terminology by which they are designated.

Improved methods of treating inferior and cheap furs to make them resemble more expensive ones have greatly reduced fur prices and increased general use of fur both for trimming and for entire garments.

Because of the difficulties involved in identifying furs and judging their quality it is important to patronize only those shops which guarantee the furs they sell.

The real value of furs is determined largely by their durability. Among the more sturdy furs now popular are beaver, mink, caracul, badger, baum martens, fisher and racoon. Short-haired furs are favored for scarf trimmings and for the jackets so prominent this season. Many of them being fashioned of such varieties of the lamb family as Persian lamb, astrakhan and caracul. Persian lamb is of very fine quality; the felt of the astrakhan lamb has a coarse, loose curl, and caracul is from the young astrakhan lamb.

Since rabbit is an inexpensive fur easily made to imitate costlier varieties, great quantities of rabbit pelts are used each year. Lapin, which is a rose-beige rabbit fur, has been generously used during the past few years both for winter and summer wear.

In order to get the maximum amount of wear from furs and to maintain their new appearance, it is necessary to care for them properly. Washing fur in water is unsatisfactory since it shrinks the pelts and impairs the fur. There are various methods of cleaning furs successfully, however, a very simple one being that of sprinkling their surface with fuller's earth. The articles so treated are then folded with the fur inside and left to remain for twenty-four hours. At the end of that time the powder is shaken out and the fur glazed with water.

Tragic—But True

There would have been great indignation among Jerseymen if, three years ago, any responsible official had predicted that within so short a time there would be intense suffering from poverty within the very borders of the Commonwealth.

Investigators for the State of New Jersey Emergency Relief Administration have learned of communities, some well populated, where no funds are available to pay school teachers or police and where seventy-five per cent of the population is without jobs, while the other twenty-five per cent average only $10.50 weekly in wages. Children are without milk in many instances.

The time has arrived for summary action and Chester I. Barnard, State Director of the $10,000,000 fund authorized by the Legislature, has not hesitated to make plain his determination that "red tape" be forgotten in order that tangible relief be expedited. It is unthinkable that women and children of New Jersey should suffer through lack of bare necessities of life. All citizens of New Jersey should cooperate to make certain they do not.

Glorify Your Cereals

If Florenz Ziegfeld has been able to "glorify the American girl" in his latest Follies, it is no folly to believe that you can do something of the sort for your breakfast cereals. It is merely a matter of getting the best combination, and that is what this producer has done both as to taste and to looks.

Breakfast cereals are mighty good just with sugar and cream, but most people have a way of selecting only one or two of them, and their constant recurrence in the same form finally becomes monotonous.

Why not combine them with fruit? You should always eat fruit for breakfast. And there is one fruit available the whole year round where acid content turns alkaline in the body, which is just what you want it to do, if you are wise. That fruit is Hawaiian pineapple, and it has the additional merit that it is less expensive than most fruits. For an amount equal in volume to say, an orange, it costs only two cents per person to serve. A No. 2 can containing eight slices can be bought for fifteen or sixteen cents nowadays, and there is more substance in one of these slices than in the average orange. So here are some recipes for combining Hawaiian pineapple with cereals at your morning meals.

Wheat, Rice and Corn

Fruit Wheatena: Have four cups of water, to which one-half teaspoon salt has been added, boiling rapidly. Add three-fourths cup wheatena slowly, and cook two or three minutes, or until thick. Add the drained contents of an 8-ounce can of crushed pineapple, cook a few minutes longer, and serve hot with cream and sugar. Serves eight.

Rice and Pineapple Mush: Bring three cups of water and the contents of an 8-ounce can of crushed pineapple to boiling, add one teaspoon salt, and slowly drop in one cup rice. Cook about three minutes over the flame, place over boiling water and steam until tender, from about forty-five minutes to an hour. Serve hot with cream and sugar. This serves eight.

Cornmeal and Pineapple Slices: Bring to boiling four cups of water to which one teaspoon salt has been added, add one cup cornmeal slowly, and cook a few minutes, until thick. Place over boiling water, and cook ten minutes. Add the drained contents of an 8-ounce can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple, cook five minutes longer, and then pack into a buttered mold, loaf shape or round (a baking powder can makes a good receptacle for this) and let chill overnight. In the morning slice and mold and pan fry in hot fat. Serve with butter and maple syrup. This will serve eight people liberally.

With Other Fruits

You needn't limit your breakfast fruit to pineapple, however, for it combines most pleasantly with other popular fruits. Here, for instance, is a recipe for pineapple and orange juice which has been named

Sunrise Pineapple: Chill the contents of a No. 2 1/2 can of sliced Hawaiian pineapple and one and one-half cups orange juice separately overnight. In the morning, drain the pineapple, place the slices in serving dishes, and pour over orange juice. Decorate with a sprig of mint, or a nasturtium leaf and flower, or serve plain. Pineapple tidbits can be used equally well in this combination. Save the syrup for use in sauces or fruit drinks. The amounts given in this recipe will serve eight.

Compote of Prunes and Pineapple: Soak one cup of prunes in one cup of water for several hours or overnight. Add the syrup from a No. 2 can of pineapple and one-half a lemon, sliced, and simmer gently until tender. Add two tablespoons sugar, and cook five minutes longer. Cool. At breakfast serve two or three prunes and a little of the juice over each slice of pineapple, having all very cold. This, too, serves eight.

A Different Toast

And here is a toast with a new tang that makes it different from the ordinary breakfast toast:

Hawaiian French Toast: Beat two eggs slightly, and add one-fourth teaspoon salt and three-fourths cup milk. Dip eight slices of bread in this, and pan fry a golden brown on both sides in hot fat. Remove to a hot platter. Pan fry in the same skillet the slices from a No. 2 or 2 1/2 can of Hawaiian pineapple, and lay one on top of each piece of French toast. Top with curls of bacon. If desired, a little of the pineapple syrup may be heated in the skillet and served with the toast. This serves eight.*

Care And Carelessness

Sometimes by anticipating a situation we can save ourselves more than a little trouble and help to develop in a child a good habit rather than a poor one. If we wish children to keep the home tidy we must start early to create in them a desire for orderliness.

Children often receive sets of toys for Christmas, the containers of which are fragile and easily broken. Made of thin pasteboard covered with brightly colored paper, they look attractive in the store at the time of purchase. By the time the child has handled such a container for a few weeks, however, and it has been dropped upon the floor many times and kicked about or stepped upon by an older person, it is a sad sight.

To expect a child to keep his possessions in order in shabby boxes broken at the corners is to expect the impossible.

Franklin's uncle saw the seriousness of this situation from his young nephew's point of view and made a light-weight, wooden box with a cover that hooked down. In the top he made a slit into which Franklin could slip his hand when he wished to carry his blocks about the house.

This box was 9 by 12 inches and painted a bright red. It looked attractive on the toy shelf and Franklin enjoyed putting his blocks away in it. Particularly did he enjoy manipulating the hook. It proved an excellent device for practicing hand control.

Fiber toy suit cases and hat cases are excellent containers for doll clothes and furnish further opportunity for practice in manipulative fastenings.

Another attractive type of container was made after the fashion of a carpenter's tool box by one father. It was about 12 inches wide and 18 inches long divided in the middle by a partition in which was cut an opening for a handle. It provided for two sets of small building blocks but could be used for crayons, paints and some other toys.

Ingenuous fathers interested in teaching their small children habits of orderliness should devise containers of various sorts to suit the type of toy owned by the child. When the older children are permitted to paint such containers, the activity becomes a cooperative affair. In ways such as this the family group not only assumes responsibility but comes to share in a desire to keep the home orderly and attractive.

INTESTINAL AILMENTS BREAK DOWN PHYSICAL ENDURANCE

NEW COMBINATION CORRECTS INTESTINAL DISORDERS PROMPTLY

Draggy, headachy days; lost vigor; lost vitality mean a condition of broken down physical endurance. If you are listless, nervous and too tired at night to join in simple healthy fun you may be one of the thousands of victims of intestinal ailments. Doctors declare that ninety per cent of all cases of loss of energy come from that almost universal physical evil—constipation.

The human system must throw off its accumulated waste matter every day. Ordinary pills, powders, salts and cathartic waters often do more harm than good, but the new combination Alagar which is an emulsion of pure mineral oil, agar agar and phenolphthalein—corrects intestinal disorders promptly and completely.

It works, not only on the colon, or lower bowel, alone, but it loosens stagnating material in the entire intestinal tract and "tones up" the intestinal muscles, thus helping them to remove waste matter regularly and completely every day. Alagar helps you sleep more soundly at night and those dull, draggy headaches become things of the past. For prompt relief from lost vigor and vitality be sure to get the new pleasant-tasting Alagar.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

A LAST MINUTE DRIVE

THE local American Legion Bowling League race, which has produced and is producing some of the best and closest bowling in these parts this winter, is getting more and more complicated day by day, with the end of the season, a little over a month off.

This week's matches found a new face showing the way to the rest of the teams for the first time in quite a while. Johnnie Baney's Oldham Association, composed of a Hodge-Podge of the cream of last season's bowling crop, finally succeeded in attaining the top rung on the ladder, after plugging along steadily for weeks.

Taking the reins of the withdrawing St. Peter Club, after the first couple of weeks of the Legion campaign, the Oldhams have been going along in steady, unrelenting fashion since then.

They topped it all, Monday, by trimming Johnny Lawlor's El Club three times in a row, and switching places with this same El Club, who went into second place, after showing the way for much of the season.

But this race is hardly limited to these two clubs. The El Club hasn't even a secure claim on second place, as the Moose, favored by many to cop, have worked themselves into a tie with the El Club for runner-up honors. The Belleville A. A. and the Democratic Club are two other teams, who are far from being out of the running. The pair are tied for fourth place, but two games back of the Oldhams.

It is still any team's race, as they enter the home stretch.

A REAL STAR

PROBABLY the big season for the huge success of the local Moose basketball team these days is the playing of their flashy forward, "Jitty" Wishnevsky.

Fans, who have witnessed this sharp-shooting ace in action, are all for him. He is hard-working to the nth degree, and always a threat on the attack.

He must possess some sort of a record, locally at least, in his scoring antics of the last four games. Over that stretch he has tallied seventy-six points.

This wholesale point-gathering has been the feature of the string of four consecutive triumphs hung up by the Moose netsters.

Belleville High Loses 25-18 To Orange

Lamb Stars As Bell-boys Falter On Home Stretch

Belleville High's court five lost to Orange, 25-18, Tuesday afternoon, at the high school gym, after leading for the first three quarters.

A closing rally that was too much for the Bell-boys proved the turning point in Orange's favor.

At half time the Blue and Gold held a 10-5 edge, and seemed on the road to victory. Captain "Mac" Lamb of the locals combined with Hen Bohrer to put the Bell-boys in the lead in this half, with several sensational baskets.

Orange came back to outscore Belleville, 8-4, in the third quarter, but the locals still held a 14-13 lead, only to lose it as Orange came on with a flurry of baskets in the closing stanza.

Mericle and Lanfrank were the big offensive threats of the visitors.

The Belleville High Jayvees, recorded their fifth win in six games, downing the Orange Seconds, 24-20, in a thrillingly close preliminary battle. The Bell-boys broke an 18-18 deadlock in the third quarter, with a closing rally that gave them the deciding four-point margin. Knight, diminutive forward, and Eddie O'Neill did most of the Blue and Gold scoring with nine and seven points respectively.

Bell-boy Courtsters

Valiant In Defeat

Lamb Is Great, As Clifton Wins by 35-23 Score

Friday

Led by their valiant captain, "Mac" Lamb, great even in defeat, Belleville High's varsity courtsters went down fighting before the superior play of an undefeated Clifton High five, 35-23, Friday night, at the high school gym, before the usual packed house.

As soon as Clifton's fine team had netted the very first two baskets they tried in the opening quarter, the Bell-boys trailed. The visitors' dazzling pass-work and sharp-shooting kept them always in the van, as they added gradually to their lead, and they had brought it up to 30-13 at the end of the third quarter.

Belleville never lost heart, however, and in the face of these overwhelming odds, came back in the fourth quarter with a spirit that enabled them to double Clifton's last period score. This 10-5 out-scoring of the Passaic County lads, though futile in itself as a means of deciding the game, made the score infinitely closer.

Acting as the pivotal point of most of Belleville's plays and scoring on almost impossible "shots," Captain Lamb was every inch the leader of his men. He was here, there, and everywhere in his desperate efforts to pull the game out of the fire. Ray Smith and Joe Robert each did some effective point-tallying for the locals.

Captain Donahue of Clifton hung up fourteen points, to just about solve the reason for the Bell-boy deficit at the game's close.

Gene Dacey and Al Clifton loomed large in the Belleville Jayvees' 21-13 win over Clifton's second-stringers, in a preliminary battle. This marked the fourth win in five starts for the corking Blue and Gold second team.

Win State Moose League

Match At Irvington

The local Moose bowlers travelled to Irvington, Sunday, and handed the Irvington Moose pinners, leaders in the State Moose Bowling League, a two out of three pasting. The Bellevillites now rest in fourth place in this strong circuit, but one game out of third position, and seven away from the league-leading Camptown-ers.

Mike DeCarlo, Jerry Sawyer, and Gelb were all at the top of their stride for the locals, in defeating the Irvingtonites, twice, with successive team scores of 964, 910 and 1001. All of this fine pin-topping was needed to turn back the leaders, who registered a trio of 900 marks, themselves.

Special Bowling Match

Tiffany and Company bowlers held sway on the alleys of the Belleville Elks last Saturday afternoon. The match was the result of some taunting by some of the old timers and some of the boys who hold sway on the wooden lanes today. While no sensational scores were registered some very interesting pinning was done.

Tiffany's rising young star, Dave Lyman, captained one team, while the other was led by Tom "Flash" O'Brien. O'Brien's team being the winner two games to one, but the margin of pins being only a difference of 17 and thereby insuring another match in the near future.

Tom Mac Nair was the ace of the O'Brien team, while Wild Bill Dacey led the attack of the Lyman contingent. Harry Donohue, noted throughout local bowling circles for his hook ball, performed in fine fashion as did Phil "Rock" Jordan. Bun Derbyshire, local baseball umpire, also did his best to assist the O'Briens.

Third Pole Hit

A third traffic light pole in Washington avenue, to be knocked over within a week, was hit Friday by a truck. The pole, at Belleville avenue, was repaired by firemen under direction of Fire Captain Dunleavy.

The truck was driven by Frederick W. Noback of 56 Elmwood road, Verona. He told police the light changed as he was halfway down the Belleville avenue hill and application of the brakes caused his vehicle to skid into the pole.

"No More Monkey Business" Declares Carragher On Van Esselstine Matter

"It Was A Shame She Wasn't Paid Before," Fighting Commissioner Tells His Colleagues On Board

"There is going to be no more monkey business about this case." Thus speaks Commissioner Frank J. Carragher as regards payment of a $175 medical bill to Mrs. Henrietta Van Esselstine, who broke her arm in four places, when she fell on the stairs in the Town Hall, on a visit to the Child Hygiene Clinic there. She fortunately managed to save from injury a child she was carrying.

Reporter Snoop has snooped into the case and finds the "monkey business," according to Mr. Carragher is some more "pussyfooting around." Mr. Carragher declares that originally the town could have gotten off by paying the woman about $100, the first claim. Complications have developed from the accident, necessitating more medical attention and consequently the higher bill.

Defies Legal Action
"If you monkey around any longer," the fighting commissioner informs his colleagues, "and the case goes to court, you will have to pay $500. That's what a judgment would be against you, and I'll help the lady get it!"

"Just imagine this. You say to this lady and others who visit the clinic, come on in. And after you coax them into the building (the town hall) and they get hurt, the attorney (John B. Brown) says we are not liable."

A Shame
"It's a shame. The Health Officer, Eugene Berry, picked up the woman when she fell. I told the town clerk, John J. Daly to get a doctor. He called two local doctors and both were out. Finally he got a doctor. This doctor sent the lady to the Homeopathic Hospital in East Orange. He treated her for eight months."

"You fight over paying this bill. The lady saved the baby's life. The health officer and Daly did a great thing."

"You make a fool out of the clerk for doing his duty. I am over public property. This happened in my department and I'd like to see you hold up the bill. You could save money lots of ways to pay this bill. You are spending the town's money right now out of town for various things."

"If you can't pay it I'll let my wages go for the bill."

Two weeks ago Mr. Brown and Mr. Carragher had a fracas over the bill. When Brown ruled the town was not liable, Carragher shouted:

Why Pay $50 A Day?
"Where do you get off, Brown? You want an argument? I'll give it to you. How many jobs have you been paid for since you've been here that have not been authorized by the board? 'Not bind the town.' Pooh! I know I am no lawyer, but I use common sense and know as much as some lawyers. Why should we pay $50 a day to fight a $200 bill in court?"

As the battle waxed warmer, Carragher discussed opinion as regards the town's liability if a fireman should be hurt and said Brown gave a different opinion in that matter. Brown said the opinion was not a parallel one.

Carragher then attacked spending $750 to appraise land, adding that if the board adhered to Brown's view as not being liable, "I'll beat you in court."

"I'm very sorry our town clerk was called down for being a real man. See what I do if you don't pay this bill."

The Mayor, Samuel Sampson Kenworthy, declared: "Personally, I think it wise to pay the bill," after all was said and done.

Mr. Carragher then added, "We

THE MACHINE AGE SPOILS A PROPHECY

By H. L. RUSSELL

Advisory Council, Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association.

A NOTED British scientist forecast thirty years ago that by 1931 all available wheat land in the world would be under cultivation, and if the yields per acre could not be increased beyond that which then prevailed there would be a world shortage. The average yield then was 12.7 bushels per acre. During the past seven years, the world over, it has been 14.1. On the 320,000,000 acres in cultivation this increase would amount to almost a half billion bushels more production than the world standards of thirty years ago. In place of dire distress due to shortage, we have had dire distress due to surplus.

Wheat farmers have shown no great inclination to curtail materially their output; perhaps a 10% decline compared with 70% reduction in steel. This unwillingness, or perhaps inability, to adjust production to current needs makes the problem all the harder to solve.

Not only are we now growing more wheat per unit of land, but acreage has been very greatly extended. In twenty years Canada has increased acreage 250%, Australia almost as much. Another significant fact is the materially lessened use of wheat. A much more diversified diet has developed. More vegetables and fruits are used than formerly. The reduction of 1.2 bushels consumed per person per annum since the last generation necessitates nearly 150,000,000 bushels less wheat than was formerly required.

Machines Increase Supply

The factor that has exerted the most potent influence in this rising world flood of grain has been the rapid development of the machine. The old days of the cradle required from thirty to forty hours of hand labor to harvest an acre of grain. Then came the binder, which reduced the process to four or five hours per acre. Now the combine does the work in forty-five minutes per acre.

Where it used to cost ten cents a bushel merely to thresh the grain, the modern combine cuts and threshes at a cost ranging from 3 to 5 cents a bushel. With this reduced cost of production, the possibility of acreage expansion is tremendous. Lands heretofore regarded as worthless except for grazing have recently come into competition with the older wheat belts.

The Russian Effort

Within the past two or three years another disturbing element has come into the picture. Soviet Russia is attempting a comeback fraught with possibility that cannot yet be fully evaluated. Russia is eagerly utilizing the very latest of scientific knowledge to enlarge her agricultural possibilities. With feverish anxiety she is literally pouring millions into the expansion of her university research institutes, experimental stations and breeding farms. Her scientists are combing the earth for new crops and new methods. No country in Europe is manifesting more interest and activity in laying hold of the best science, wherever it may be found.

It is of more than passing interest that the wheat yields reported on the huge trust farm known as the "Giant" ran last year as much as 15 bushels to the acre. On this single farm the crop harvested is reported to have been 3,865,000 bushels. A single farm of 427,000 acres under government control and mechanized as fast as human energy can be applied is a new factor in the world's picture.

There can be but little doubt that the Russian situation may yet assume quite a different attitude from what obtained even in pre-war days.

Bankers Hold Farm Conference

A "feeders' conference" was held in a state bank at Fresno, South Dakota, attended by fifty farmers. The conference stressed the feeding of low price wheat and barley, and marketing it through livestock. Later, booklets on the feeding of wheat were distributed among the farmers, and a feeders column was carried in the local paper each week.

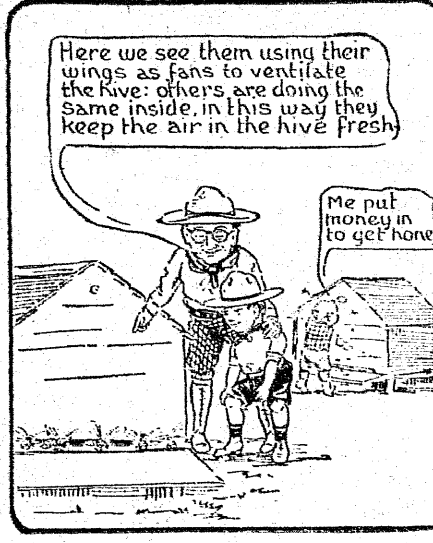

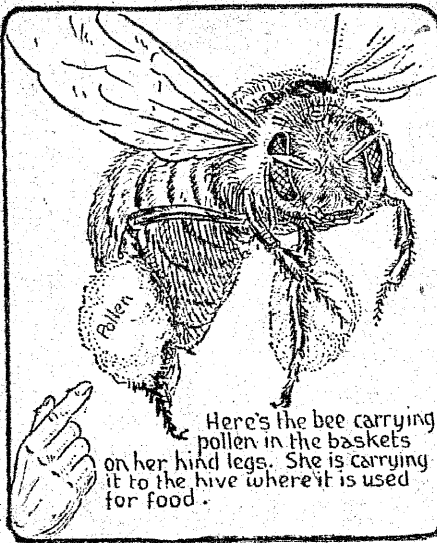

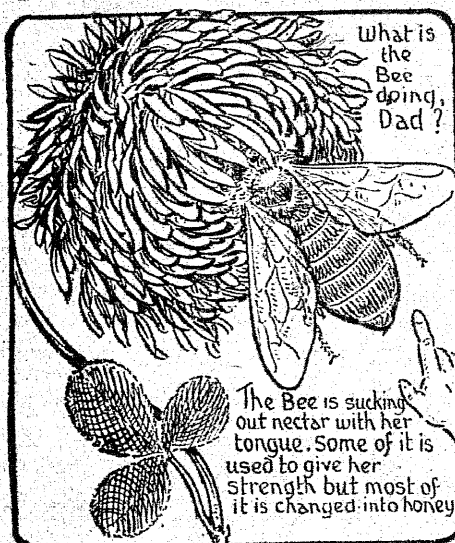

"We have had more success with the conference and with the feeders column in the local paper, than with any other undertaking we have tried," the bankers said. "As a result there is about three times as much livestock being fed out in our territory than ever before. We plan to hold other similar conferences the coming year."

The benefits of civilization exist because of the capital accumulated by those who have gone before. Through accumulation of capital our great railroads have been constructed, our public utilities have been built and our mills, office buildings and homes have arisen.

THE EVOLUTION OF A WATCH

About 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon I came down to the office to go to work—I was only four hours late but what of it—I was busy sayin' good morning to everybody when Frankie DeBons, the printer's devil, sidled up to me and asked me if I wanted to buy a good watch—and as I needed an alarm clock I said, "Sure, let's see it." Well, Frank hauled out an Ingersoll that must of been of pre-war stock and said I could have it for a buck—and I told him that he was crazy and it wasn't worth more than two bits to me—then we started bargaining and after a couple hours my racial instincts won out and I got the vest pocket edition of the Model T Ford for the quarter I had offered.

Then the fun started—I was patting myself on the back for my ability as a bargainer and was tellin' Pop Masten all about it—in the middle of my gloatin' Pop asked to see the watch—I showed it to him—he took one look at it and started to laff and laff and laff—after he got over the laffin' fit he asked me if I knew where Frank got the watch—I didn't know and told him I didn't care—not carin' whether I cared or didn't care Pop told me—it seems that a guy had come in the office in the mornin' and started to take a watch out of his pocket to see the time—he had gotten the watch half out when he had dropped it—he picked it up, saw that it wasn't goin'—and havin' no use for a watch that didn't go he gave it to Pop—Pop didn't want it either because he can't tell time, anyhow, so he gave it to Frank—Frank sat down, took out a pen-knife and proceeded to make the watch run again—then he saw me and decided to play me for a sucker—well, he did—to the tune of two bits—I couldn't do anything about it so I didn't do anything about it.

I'd forgotten all about the darned watch—in fact, I didn't want to remember anything about it—around 5 o'clock I went around back and the painter—yea, we're havin' some paintin' done—well, anyhow, the painter asked me what time it was—I hauled out the time-piece and after tellin' him the time I asked where his watch was because I knew he usually always had a watch with him—and then the fun started—he informed me that he had dropped the darned thing and it had stopped goin' so he gave it to Pop.

That was good news—I saw my chance to come out ahead of this game after all—and let me tell you I took advantage of it—so I said to him, "Gosh, Mr. Welsh, this name is Welsh—so I said, "Gosh, Mr. Welsh, you can't be without a watch—do you wanna have mine?" I showed him the cluck (that means something that's no good) and he said: "Gee, that's some watch, I'd like to have it"—and as I'm a big hearted guy, I told him he could keep it—he thanked me for it and then insisted that I would be foolish to give it away for nothing—I stalled around by tellin' him that that was alright, he could have it—but he couldn't see it—he refused to keep it if I didn't take something for it—so, very casually, I remarked: "Well, if that's the way you feel about it Mr. Welsh (I told you before his name was Welsh) suppose you give me fifty cents and we'll call it square?"—Well, friend Welsh thought that was fair enough so he gave me the half buck and we let it go at that.

Now, dear reader, figure it out for yourself, who got stuck?

SAYS SALLY—

Many, who in life we would prick with thorns, when they lie in death, we LIE with flowers—

DECEIT, is the father of disappointment, which in turn, moth-eats the clothing of expectation. Trust, and confidence, denuded of these, even the cloak of charity cannot restore the loss—

If my child disobeys me, he may not have understood me, and I am responsible. But if he tries to deceive me concerning his disobedience there is no doubt of his intention to please himself rather than me. I get angry; I get busy. And "The Old Folks" disobeyed only, and not added DECEP-

TION, we might be in the garden yet, and happy; instead of being outside digging and sweating and trying to deceive EVERYBODY. We cannot deceive God; but we can often deceive our fellow creatures and that is what most displeases; for, we are told, "Lying lips are an abomination unto the Lord," and mighty troublesome to us—

The hen lays the egg, hatches the chicken and does the most of the scratching; but the rooster does all the crowing. Many men we know should have a cockcomb and feathers.

Adversity makes child-like faith in God. We realize our dependence upon Him to show us a way to provide. In His own way we know He will. My little children in their helplessness look to me in like manner. I exert every effort not to fail them so in due time they will appreciate my love for them, and strive to be the men and women I have tried to teach them to be. I want to be as a little child to my Infinite Father, as my child is to me. It is beyond my comprehension that Christ should die for me, or any one else; and the mystery of such a doctrine has overclouded things He did to show me my duty to my fellow man. My heart swells in admiration for him and I feel and understand His great nature when told he took little children in his arms and loved or blessed them. I have a clearer idea of what pleases my Creator when he says we must become as little children in attitude to abide with Him. Adversity! Let it come, if it changes Pharaoh to Little Children—

SCHOOLS

By WILLIAM GRAY

With the close of mid-year examinations at the high school Wednesday, the new plan of giving students a holiday on the days they had no "exam," proved to be a good one. Both the teachers and pupils were afforded a chance to rest during these "free periods."

Previous to "exams" a notice was circulated in the high school, to the effect that every student is responsible for an essay on some phase of Lincoln's life. The essays are due on or before February 5. Awards will be made for the best submitted in each class. The major award will go to the student writing the best essay in the group and consists of fifteen volumes of the "Life of Lincoln."

The Varsity Club of the high school will sponsor a Valentine dance in the school gym on February 13. The club is composed of all letter-men at the school.

A special assembly was held Wednesday morning. Mr. Steel gave the student body instruction for making out their schedules for the coming semester.
