CLARK STAGES POLICE BANQUET WHILE DRUG STORE IS ROBBED

Call For Police Assistance Goes Awry And Winds Up In Fire Headquarters—
Big Shot Discovers

That doggone police recall system gets Big Shot's agate.

By the way Mr. William D. Clark, director of Public Safety, will you please help out Big Shot? Come on now be a good fellow.

Will you tell Big Shot, on your word of honor, that that recall system has been operated correctly over three times in the last three months.

Now if the answer to the use of the recall in the last three months is more than three times, were they for police or fire calls, or errors?

Big Shot heard it work once. Remember the night the police were holding their banquet at the Elks' in honor of their twenty-fifth anniversary? Weren't you there, Mr. Clark?

Well the thing fired all right or backfired, Big Shot just can't figure out which.

He was on his way to the Elks', too, to snoop around a little bit. He passed Washington avenue fire headquarters on the way. There was an awful racket going on inside. The telephone had sounded, strange as that may seem.

Like the average citizen Big Shot stopped and, more in particular, did he stop to see that new fire engine. Nothing happened.

School Board Budget Adopted 30 to 4

Matter Of Pay Cut For Janitors To Be Aired
Monday

Taxpayers voting on the 1932-33 school budget Tuesday night numbered thirty in favor and four opposed. The amount to be raised by taxation is $449,941.51, compared to $483,051.76 for 1931-32. Total requirements are $644,432.51, against $662,543.60 for 1931-32, and the anticipated state apportionment is $176,491 against $179,491.84.

The $33,110.25 reduction in district tax was obtained by cutting salaries of non-teaching employees ten per cent, eliminating special classes for backward children and foregoing repairs and maintenance.

The twenty-four school janitors have registered opposition to salary cuts. It is expected, the matter will be taken up again at the School Board meeting Monday night.

The school janitors' organization, formed several weeks ago to protest the ten per cent cut in their salaries under the Board of Education budget, gave out word that there was no plan on foot to vote down the budget at the district election held Tuesday night. Rumor had it the janitors proposed rounding up sufficient voters to defeat approval of the budget.

Joseph Armour, president of the organization, stated the janitors opposed the cut, believing they are protected against it by statute, but denied that his organization was leading a concerted attack on the budget.

The salary reduction applies to all non-teaching employees of the school system.

Wrong again. Something did happen.

A fireman rubbing his hands together and showing a look of disgust shouts "no fire."

Big Shot already has stated his gumshoe proclivities forced him to laugh about the stick-up in a drug store at Union avenue and Joralemon street. William Rivola, the proprietor of that store, phoned police headquarters for help. A relay from there over this recall system clicked to fire headquarters, instead of for police help, it is said.

AND HOW THE BANQUET WAS ADVERTISED FOR WEEKS BEFORE THE STICK-UP. EVERY TOM DICK AND HARRY IN THE STICK-UP RACKET KNEW WHERE THE POLICE WERE AT THE TIME THE STICK-UP IN THE DRUG STORE

County holdings of tax-exempt real estate in Belleville are out of all proportion to similar holdings in other municipalities, and impose a severe hardship on taxpayers, according to John F. Coogan Jr., tax assessor, in a report made to Commissioner William H. Williams, director of finance.

Essex County holdings for parks in Belleville total 250 acres, one tenth of the town's acreage. Of this the report said, 23,500 feet are street front property. If assessed comparable to adjacent properties, this footage would add $580,000 in

Dr. Julius Levy Speaks At Home and School

Association Meeting

Head Of State Hygiene
Group Attends Meeting
At School No. 1

Dr. Julius Levy, head of the State Child Hygiene Department, addressed the Home and School Association of School No. 1, Tuesday night at the building.

Speaking on "The Continuous Child Hygiene Program," he stressed the importance of the Schick test for preschool children. Pointing out that three-fourths of the deaths from diphtheria occur before the age of five, he advised immunization during the first year. Essex County has the lowest infant mortality rate of all counties in the state and Belleville's death rate is among the lowest in the county, he said.

He commented upon the cooperation of the Board of Education and its Board of Health, and commended the work of the five town child hygiene nurses. He also expressed the hope the town, in cutting expenses, would not reduce the nursing force. Economy might be best effected in some other items, he said. A round table on child health problems followed.

James DeRosset, president of the Board of Education, lauded the spirit of the association and pledged the cooperation of the board. Mrs. Porter Sheldon of that body and Miss Ellen Smith, superintendent of child hygiene nurses in Essex County, were present. Mrs. George Holden presided and Principal Robert N. Hayes gave greetings.

Pupils of the school presented "William Tell," under direction of Miss Cecelia Priester, a teacher at the building. Matthew Smith appeared in the title, while Paul Gottert represented the wife. Other principal parts were taken by Martin Burns and Doris Barmore. About 150 were present.

Zande Conviction Reversed By Court

Corporation Counsel Brown
Loses In Appeal
Case

Jacob Zande, owner of the premises at 115 Carpenter street, was tried in violation of a local zoning ordinance, to operate a garage, before Judge Fitzsimmons on March 13, 1931. He was found guilty and fined $25 and $25 for every day he continued to do business after the date of conviction.

Yesterday before Common Pleas Judge Hartshorne in Newark, the appeal came up for hearing. John B. Brown, town attorney, moved to dismiss the appeal on the ground that it was not taken in time.

Zande's attorney, Judge Edwin Adams, showed that the appeal was governed by a different statute which allows 20 days instead of that cited by Brown which allows 10 days. The court sustained Judge Adams, who then moved that the conviction be set aside because Judge Fitzsimmons had no jurisdiction owing to the fact that there was no proper complaint. The court set aside the conviction on those grounds.

BUDGET PUSHED THROUGH BY COMMISSIONERS AT MEETING

Request Of Hillcrest Taxpayers' Association
For Reductions Not Noted In Any Particulars

In less than one hour the 1932 budget passed second and third readings at the meeting of the Town Commissioners, Tuesday night.

The budget with four amendments, was put through by a four to one vote. Commissioner Frank J. Carragher casting the dissenting vote.

The four amendments to the budget were introduced by Commissioners Clark and Williams. They are as follows:

Williams' insertion of $7,500 in anticipated revenue from a five year lease of sewer rights, to the town of Lodi, and the insertion of the sum of $4,000 as anticipated revenue in the water department for 1932.

Clark's insertion for $750, which is a mandatory health item, covering venereal diseases, and the reduction of the street light appropriation by $1,500. The original light appropriation was $40,000, it is now $38,500.

Commissioner Carragher asked Town Counsel Brown, if this Lodi lease was a good thing for the town. Mr. Brown answered in the affirmative.

Previous to the vote on the issue, Mrs. Petrie inquired as to what the tax rate for the coming year would be if the budget passed in its existing form. She received no answer.

School Boy Job

Some controversy took place when W. H. Davey, appearing in behalf of a group of taxpayers, sought further reductions in the budget. Mr. Davey thought that the building department appropriation could be cut. He called the work "a scandalous waste of money," and maintained that "a school boy could do the work of the building inspector, as far as the issuing of permits was concerned." He also suggested the position of Inspector of Combustibles be abolished and the work turned over to the fire department, as another means of economizing. Several other suggestions made by Mr. Davey are: That the position of Plumbing Inspector be abolished and that work, handled by another department; and that the town forester be disposed of.

By MORRIS UDANSKY

After reading my column last week lots of wise guys said I didn't know anything about Lincoln—so I'm going to prove that they're wrong—here's the essay that might win the award at the high school—

With the faithfulness and courage of a God Lincoln overcame all difficulties—due to this sincere belief he lived to become a prophet and seer—he joined the Salvation Army—he preached the gospel as it has never been preached again—

He was a leader—at one period of his life he led a horse to water—and he made the horse drink the water—he was indeed a great leader—he climbed the ladder of life rank by rank—he came to a broken rank—he stepped over the broken rank—that's the kind of a man Lincoln was—he has also been known to say that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush—but he has never been known to specify whose hand or what bush—

Lincoln freed the slaves—he freed 2,235 slaves—at the next election he received 2,234 additional votes—one of the freed slaves died—Lincoln lived in Belleville—they named a street after him—

Lincoln was killed—he was killed by a bullet fired from the gun of a rebel actor—he died from the shot—the actor died from the shock—

Lincoln is a great man because he was born on a holiday—so was George Washington born on a holiday—George Washington is also a great man—so am I a great man—my birthday falls on Good Friday—I am a good man, too—when were you born?—perhaps you are also a great man—if female perhaps you are a great woman—are you a female?—

Lincoln worked in a grocery store—a lady bought some groceries—he short-changed her—he was sorry he short-changed her—he walked three miles to give her her just dues—she was out playing bridge when he got to her home—he had to leave the money with her husband—the husband lost the money in a poker game—he didn't say anything to his wife about it—she thought she got gypped—she never bought another thing in that store—Lincoln got fired for losing trade—

But in his heart he knew he was right—what more mattered?—he went his way with a clear conscience—he didn't go far—he was stopped—he was stopped by a pan handler—he gave the pan handler his last nickel—now Lincoln was broke—he had to do something—he did do something—he ran for president—

He was also a great statesman—he had a debate—I forget who he had the debate with—he won the debate—the debate was on who should be president—since Lincoln won the debate he was made president—

After he was president he started a war—no foreign country would fight—so he signed up the North to fight the South—the North won—the South lost—the slaves were free—the southerners had to pay union wages to get any work done—Lincoln was made president of that union, too—now he was two presidents—he was president of two unions—he bought a union suit—he was now boss of three unions—

He was content—he went to the movies—he got shot in the movies—I mean he got shot in the heart in the movies—he died—we all remember him—I'll take the set of books—

Mrs. Hanorah Powers

Born in County Tipperary, Ireland, she had lived in Belleville sixty-two years. A son, William, two daughters, the Misses Margaret and Kathryn and one grandchild, all of Belleville, survive.

A solemn high mass of requiem was offered at St. Peter's Church yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed
in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

Local Young Men Go To Cumberland Univ.

Bernard S. Close, son of Rev. Dr. O. Bell Close, pastor of Fawcett Memorial Presbyterian Church, left Friday for Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn. Graduated in June from Friends Seminary, New York, where he won a scholarship to the University of Geneva, he had planned to go abroad this month. A later ruling made necessary two years' attendance at an American college. The young man hopes to enter the diplomatic service. He will major in international law.

Close has been speaking for the Young People's Branch of the W. C. T. U. He addressed its international conference at Philadelphia.

Two other Belleville young men left with him. They are John Albera of 155 DeWitt avenue, son of Mrs. Ruth Albera, and Shing Nan Wu, son of Gim Hing Wu of Washington avenue. Albera was graduated from Belleville High School last June. Wu is a graduate of the Canton Christian College Preparatory School. He came here in September to finish his education. He will specialize in municipal government. The Chinese government has promised him a position upon graduation. His work will be modernization of old forms of government in small towns. He is twenty-two.

Dr. and Mrs. Close entertained for the three young men at the manse Thursday night. Guests included Dr. and Mrs. B. E. Failing of Newark;

Alexander Gould of Sterling, Scotland; Mitchell Warwa of Belleville and Mrs. Albera.

SAYS SALLY—

Times like these, our neighbors may be extraordinarily concerned about our tax bills, rent, bills, insurance premiums, and bills in general. It is our duty to pay these as soon as possible and hang receipts for same in the front window. This would show a willingness on our part to bear some of their burden by relieving them of their anxiety.

Each week comes our insurance collector, with heavy tread: And kindly warns us, when we are dead:

If four weeks' premiums and more are due:
The company will not give a boo.
Our premium receipt book fails the test:

E'en of your grace you'll be disappointed.

We are admonished to "Worship The Lord in Spirit and in Truth." In truth, if we don't find some way of digging out of this landslide of "prosperity" there will be nothing left but spirit, to do anything in, or with. We are so uncomfortably covered with gold.

May be, it is better to be a Contented Spirit just sniffing flowers, than to be a hungry elephant, for hours, and hours. Who knows?

You waste time and words telling me the things God is going to do to punish me. You mistake me when you think I give ear to your idea that He will do to me that which I would not do to my child or any other. The ignorance that I would show to believe you, is magnified in you, by the estimate you place on His loving nature toward all His Creatures.

I trust my God at all times and places. I ask Him for nothing, yet thank him for all. I do not array my judgment as to my need in opposition to His knowledge. I pray without ceasing; but my prayer, is not asking for favors I think I should have, but thanks for things He knows I should have, and has already given or will give me. I require no roof to shelter; no altar at which to kneel; and no uplifted voice. Running or walking; sitting or standing, posture of body makes no difference: it is the attitude within. For all that comes to me I thank Him. Whether I think it good or bad I accept it as for a purpose that I may finish the task allotted me.

"Where do we go, from here, boys? where do we go from here?" We do not know, yet, we are not afraid. Some one (I think Dr. Samuel Johnson) exclaimed: "Ah, Christ; if we could but one short hour spend with those we love departed: that they might tell us what and where they be." Yet we are not afraid.

CLARK

OCCURRED. It was in the papers for weeks, Mr. Clark.

Now about the deputy, William F. Entrekia.

After last week's story the News received the following letter on Mr. Entrekia's stationery:

February 8, 1932.

Mr. W. H. Masten, Editor,
Belleville News,
Belleville, N. J.

My dear Wally:

Your treatment as news, of an alleged condition in the Police Department, in which you involve me personally, is indeed unfortunate. You, probably better than anyone else in Belleville, know of the friendship which has existed between "W. D." and myself, and articles such as that appearing last week do far more damage than what the appetites of those who thrive on this particular kind of news. They jeopardize friendships, particularly when you mention little intimate things such as the possibility of "W. D." becoming mayor. That is something which has been discussed among his friends and you (and there could be no finer mayor) but so far as I know, nothing has been discussed with him.

It is true, of course, that I have not been active for the past twelve or fifteen weeks but this inactivity has been because of my personal business and had nothing whatever to do with the Town's business. I have never been divested, so far as I know, of a single bit of authority, and consequently your letter seems to me to be doubly unfortunate in that it infers that there has been some misunderstanding and difference of opinion between the Commissioner and myself. As a matter of fact, I have not seen the Commissioner for many weeks and, therefore, such inferences are palpably untrue. The Police and Fire Departments, Wally, are too valuable as protective agencies to be tampered with or brought into political squabbles.

If you have any facts I would suggest that you give them to the Commissioner and myself and I will promise you some action. Until then all this talk of friction, lack of authority, etc., is the "bunk," disseminated undoubtedly by those who attempt to create that condition in order that they can work it out to their own advantages.

What I am particularly interested in is your source of information. It seems to me that there are just enough half truths in your article to indicate a more or less official source of information. If there has been any loose, garrulous gossip on the part of those within the Department, I would like to know it and I feel the Commissioner would also.

In the meantime, why keep it up?

Cordially yours,
BILL E.

Which brings Big Shot to the point of his article last week. He hasn't changed his mind at all after reading the letter.

Poor Bill Entrekia is still taking it on the chin.

BUDGET

In conclusion Mr. Davey said: "We feel also that wherever possible, duties be combined to reduce operating costs. Any increase at this time is a crime against the taxpayers and the county, therefore we respectfully urge you to take advantage of every possible means of reducing the budget."

An Interpreter

In answer to Mr. Davey's recommendations, Mayor Kenworthy said: "We have reduced salaries by 40 per cent and the reduction in personnel, amounts to 33 1-3 per cent. The Inspector of Combustibles does far more than his own work. He is a well known man in Silver Lake and as he speaks Italian fluently, is of great aid as an interpreter in both the Poor and Health Departments.

Commissioner Clark stated that he was not in a position to spare a man from the fire department to undertake the duties of the Inspector of Combustibles. He also praised the plumbing inspector for his usefulness to the health department. In reference to the plumbing inspector, Mr. Clark said: "It would only cripple the health department if the position of plumbing inspector were to be abolished."

"I still feel we can economize," was Mr. Davey's persistent answer to the explanations of the Mayor and Commissioner Clark.

A group of recommendations submitted to the board in conference Tuesday afternoon by the Hillcrest Taxpayers Association, Inc., received similar answers from the board.

The suggested reduction and answers are as follows:

Health Department

1.—Plumbing Inspector: We recommend that this work be done by the Engineering or Water Department with its present force. This would abolish the position of an extra man, saving taxpayers $2,500.

2.—Nurses: We recommend elimination of two nurses, saving $3,000.

Library Department

1.—Non-salary expenses: We understand the mandatory appropriation is $14,000, the salaries being $8,340, what is the balance of $5,660 used for?

Shade Tree Department

1.—Town Forester: We recommend abolishing this position, saving $1,500. Additional saving of $500 now paid for use of tools and truck can be made, but has not been determined.

2.—Maintenance: We recommend that the entire appropriation of $3,300 be spent for material and labor on maintenance of trees, by competent workmen, under the supervision of the Shade Tree Commission, as is done by neighboring municipalities larger than our own.

Bureau of Combustibles

1.—Inspector: We recommend that this position be abolished and the duties transferred to the Fire Department and the work supervised by the Fire Chief. Any necessary permits to be issued by the Engineering or Building Departments upon recommendation of the Fire Chief. Saving $2,700.

Building Department

1.—Clerk: We recommend transferring the duties of the Building Department Clerk to the Engineering or Building Departments without engaging additional help in this department. Saving, $2,184.00.

Department of Revenue and Finance

1.—Tax Collector: We recommend that the salary of the tax collector hereafter be $3,000 per year. Saving, $600.

2.—Map Adjuster: That this position be abolished and the work done in the Engineering Department with regular staff. Saving, $300.

3.—Chief Clerk Water Department: That the duties of chief clerk of the Water Department be transferred from the Town Treasurer, to the Chief Clerk of the Water Department, and become part of his regular duties, under the supervision of the Director of Revenue and Finance. Saving, $1,000.

Non-Departmental

1.—Recorder: We recommend that the salary of the Recorder shall hereafter be $1,500 per year. This is a part-time job. Saving, $400.00

2.—Dogs: $900 was appropriated in 1931, and again in this budget for stray dog collection. We respectfully ask for the following information:

(a) How many stray dogs did the Humane Society collect in the town of Belleville in 1931?

(b) How much money was collected for dog license fees here in 1931?

(c) What efforts are made here to enforce dog license ordinance?

Department of Public Safety

1.—Street Lighting: Will saving made by installation of smaller lights on Washington avenue estimated at $1,600 be deducted from 1932 budget?

2.—Lower Rates: Will recently announced lower rates by Public Service effect a material saving in lighting bill? If so, will this be deducted from the 1932 budget?

General Recommendations

The Hillcrest Taxpayers' Association respectfully submits for your consideration, the following general recommendations, which we believe are in the interest of all taxpayers.

1.—We recommend that Mayor Kenworthy, as Director of Welfare and Unemployment Relief, appoint a director of the Hillcrest Taxpayers' Association to the above body, to assist in administering the funds to be allotted to the town by the state.

2.—That the Board of Commissioners before incurring any debt for improvements or other purpose, submit a report to the citizens on what it will mean in their future tax bills.

3.—That the Board of Commissioners curtail the issuance of Emergency Notes. But where the issuance of such notes is absolutely necessary, the Mayor appoint a committee of citizens from an organized group of taxpayers to discuss the matter.

4.—That a radical change be made in the period over which arrears of taxes may be carried in Tax Arrears Notes.

5.—That, inasmuch as about one-quarter of the total ratables of Essex County are exempt from taxation the Board of Commissioners make a careful study of all exempt property, in an effort to reclaim some of this property for taxation purposes.

6.—That copies of proposed ordinances involving estimated expenditures in excess of $1,000 be submitted to the Hillcrest Taxpayers' Association for consideration, prior to first reading of such proposed ordinance.

Answers to Hillcrest Taxpayers Association, Inc., questions follow:

Health Department

1.—Plumbing Inspector. "No, it would cripple the health department. He is a valuable asset to the health department."

2.—Nurses. "No. These women are necessary. They save the town thousands of dollars."

Library Department

1.—Mayor Kenworthy referred the association's representatives to the library board as the appropriation is mandatory and beyond the power of the board to reduce it.

Shade Tree Department

1 and 2.—Referred to Board of Shade Tree Commissioners.

Bureau of Combustibles

1.—Inspector. "No, the Fire Department cannot spare a man for the work. The inspector is useful as an interpreter and gives other valuable aid."

2.—Clark. "No."

Department of Revenue and Finance

1.—Tax Collector. "No. He is an honest, hard worker; puts in extra hours, arrives on job earlier than he is supposed to and he should receive some fair return for his excellent work."

2 and 3.—"The department of Revenue and Finance has reduced 15 per cent. It is a long way. Too far."

Non-Departmental

1.—Recorder. No definite answer.

2.—Dogs. "Can't be cut. Service well worth paying for. They even remove dead horses for us."

Department of Public Safety

1 and 2.—Street Lighting. "Maybe." $1,500 was cut from budget at the evening meeting.

General Recommendations

1 to 5.—"Nothing definite."

6.—"You will always have two weeks in which to object to any ordinances, as they are printed in the 'Times.' If you read the 'Times' you can read all the legal advertisements," said Mayor Kenworthy.

"We would also like to read them in the News," said Mr. Kunze of the Hillcrest Taxpayers' Association, Inc. Whether Miss Mary Anderson was or was not discharged from the Revenue and Finance Department, was the cause of a heated debate between Commissioner William H. Williams and former Commissioner Edward Nelson, at the commission meeting, Tuesday night.

Former Commissioner Nelson started hostilities, by stating to Commissioner Williams: "You stated you had accepted Miss Anderson's resignation. No resignation had been submitted. If you do not desire her services, why don't you close the matter by discharging her and give her a recommendation, so that she may secure employment elsewhere."

"You're wrong from first to last," was the Commissioner's answer.

Continuing he said: "Only the other night you were at my home and you told me it wasn't worth talking about and now you get up and ask me this question. I gave her a good American sporting chance. I tried to get her back her job, but the law would not permit me to do so. If the job is ever vacant, I'll hold it open for a citizen." At this point Commissioner Williams paused for breath. He continued, saying, "She took advantage of her sex, when she and her father came to my office and abused me."

"I don't see why you should get sore about it, Commissioner. Either discharge her or hire her," was the answer given by Mr. Nelson.

"She's discharged and she knows it," retorted Commissioner Williams. "If I had a daughter employed by the English government and upon her discharge I acted as she did, I'd be thrown into jail."

A brother of Miss Anderson interrupted the controversy at this point. He said: "I fought for my country during the war. Where were you?"

Commissioner Williams retaliated with "Where was I? Due to physical disability, I was turned down by the government seven times, but, that didn't keep me from working twenty-two hours daily here in America."

At this point Miss Anderson asked: "Mr. Williams says he's for me. Why is he discharging me? I gave my utmost services to this town and this is what I get."

Mrs. Petrie, a Belleville citizen, took occasion to compliment Commissioner Williams on his stand that Belleville town positions are for citizens. Her remarks were prompted by Williams' decision to dispense with the services of Miss Anderson, a clerk who has not received her final citizenship papers, and who has circulated a petition requesting that she be retained.

Commissioner Williams concluded the matter by stating "Miss Anderson is through."

The Hill-Top Improvement Association of Belleville, wrote the following letter to the Board of Commissioners, on February 9:

"We, a group of citizen and taxpayers, realize that an urgent demand exists for the relief of the unemployed. We are mindful of our obligations to these unfortunate men and their families and are willing to extend all possible aid, moral and financial, within our power.

"The limited town finances, the limited jurisdiction prescribed by the state law and the uncertain existing economic conditions, however, curtail the amount of aid, making it insufficient. The number of delinquent taxpayers conclusively proves that the burden is already too great. To continue this additional burden is unfair to both the unemployed and the taxpayers.

"The coordination of organized charities and local aid has failed to accomplish the purpose of its mission. The number of appeals are growing in intensity in their demand for Federal aid. This shows that organized charity and local aid are failures.

"The needs must be met. The responsibility must be placed where it belongs. Therefore, we wish to go on record as opposed to the continuance of this inadequate relief, and as it is a national condition we place the burden for relief on the Federal authorities.

"We also wish to go on record as appealing to you, that you as a body, appeal to the two Senators from New Jersey, Congressman Hartley, Governor Moore and the State Legislature by resolution or otherwise, giving the facts as to the inadequacy of the town's limited means and pointing out that it calls for Federal relief.

"Your action will be your record. If you continue as at present, without the facts known or not appealing for the necessary aid, we assume that you as a body are willing to shoulder the responsibilities placed upon you by the Hoover policy."

COUNTY PARK

ratables. If developed according to present buildings averages, the property would yield an additional $1,000,000 in ratables. This would mean twenty-five tax points, Coogan said.

County holdings, including all real estate and county buildings have been valued at $3,280,000 by Coogan. The assessed valuation of all other ratables in the town is $30,540,750. Coogan's report provided no general increase in valuations.

County holdings in other Essex municipalities include: Irvington, $1,115,925; East Orange, $303,600; Orange, $2,245,200; South Orange, $3,600; Montclair, $128,400; Maplewood, none; Bloomfield, $134,900; and Nutley, $77,300.

Commissioner Williams said he would advocate reclaiming tax-exempt property now held by the county, especially front footage along main arteries.

Mr. Coogan's letter to Mr. Williams reads in full as follows:

"The task of securing taxing ratables for 1932 has been particularly difficult, naturally, due to existing conditions which severely entail building operations.

"In my term as assessor, taxing values of large acreages and unimproved lands have been increased substantially.

"Building conditions, as they are, promise nothing in the way of increased ratables.

"I do not propose to generally raise valuations in an effort to show greater ratables.

"Measures of economy have been affected in an attempt to check our tax rate in its soaring.

"Some action must be taken to bring the rate down.

"My search for ratables has brought forcibly to my attention, what I consider an amazing condition which has in the past placed a severe burden on Belleville taxpayers and will continue and increase this burden in the near future unless a real effort is made to correct it.

"I call your attention to the vast amounts of our property, which has been acquired by Essex County for park, golf courses, and hospital grounds. Such properties are tax exempt.

"Belleville area is 2,050 acres or one-tenth of our total town acres is used as county property.

"The table of comparisons of county holdings in the surrounding towns will show clearly the economic disadvantage Belleville is placed in.

"Of the 250 acres held by Essex County in our town, 23,500 front feet on our main arteries are exempted and Belleville is deprived of income from taxes on this land and the buildings it would have, or might produce.

"The 23,500 feet of street front property, if assessed comparably to adjacent properties would add $580,000 in ratables. Such frontages on Belleville avenue, Union avenue, Garden avenue, Franklin avenue, Jordan street, Mill street and Main street are very desirable and valuable properties and represent approximately 4 1/2 miles of street frontages.

"If developed at the same ratio as our land values compare to our building values, said street frontages would yield $1,000,000 in ratables or a total of land and buildings of $1,580,000.

"At present day basis this would mean 20 points in our tax rate.

"It is not my thought that we should be without parks but it is possible to reclaim our street frontages we would still have left 180 acres as park property which is more than adequate for such purpose and more than Belleville can afford to exempt.

"Reclamation of these street frontages would further aid our treasury by allowing us to assess for a proportionate share of our water and sewer system, while installed the

DEAN OF WOMEN

Two Sides to Every Question

By FANNIE HURST

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) (WNU Service)

MOST people in summing up the subject of the Studdiford sisters were inclined to agree that of the two, Marion had the better mind. Luella had simply used hers to better advantage.

As a matter of fact, compared with the erudition of her twin, Marion was sorely lacking. Life had turned out that way for her. In the beginning, the two sisters, hand in hand, neck to neck, so to speak, had begun what was to be their four years' course at the state university for which they had both qualified with honors.

Of the two, it is probably true that during the first year, Marion's college standing was a peg ahead of her sister's. Not that it was scarcely worth recording. Marion would have been the last to encourage that. For all practical purposes, the two sisters ranked about on a level. Super intelligent girls, carrying on the fine intellectual traditions of their father, whose geographical textbooks were in use throughout the country.

It was at the beginning of her sophomore year that Marion, suddenly, and like a bolt out of the blue, threw over her academic career without so much as an ounce of apparent compunction, and returned one evening to the modest flat she shared with her sister, married to a young automobile salesman she had met at a charity function.

For the first, the incongruity of this marriage seemed apparent to every one but the young pair most concerned. Pale, thoughtful, studious, and even precious Marion Studdiford, married to the ruddy young man Tom Ford, whose shoes were so glossy, whose hair was so glossy, whose linen shirt with even a separate splendor and whose use of English in a man with whom she was not in love, would have caused the erstwhile Marion Studdiford's ears to shudder.

It was a matter, however, of a full three years, before the veil of illusion began to tear themselves from the eyes of Marion, and she began to awake gradually, terrifyingly, to the strange truth that in marriage, this vigorous, boyish, refreshing young man of her ideals, had become no more than the too corpulent, slightly vulgar, blatant young salesman whose horizon was bounded by rubber tires.

It was not the kind of realization that came over night. Slowly, like a reluctant tide, it crept upon her, washing misery into her soul, drenching her waking, and even her sleeping hours, in a jumble of regrets. Regrets for what might have been. Regrets for a freedom that was gone. Regrets for the birthright which she had forfeited so blindly, and into which Luella had meanwhile come in full prime.

Not that she would have exchanged with Luella. After all, to be dean of women in a large college, portentous as it might seem, was scarcely the destiny that even Luella, at thirty, must have planned for herself.

Marion wanted more than that. And yet—had it been in her power to choose, over and over again she would have selected for herself the destiny that was Luella's, rather than her own as the stagnating wife of her ruddy vulgarian.

At least to Luella's life there was a dignity of achievement and congeniality of environment.

From her own kind, almost overnight, as it were, Marion, after her marriage became outcast. The friends who had known her, university colleagues, the members of her social group, simply did not speak Tom's idiom.

Fool! Fool! Nature had trapped Marion. At twenty-three, the entire course of her life had shifted away from the fine true course of her sister's. At thirty, Luella, all on her own, mind you, and with a mind no better than Marion's had achieved position.

Not, as she told herself again and again, that she would yearn for the rather rigid dignity that went with Luella's position as dean of women, but just the same, life could be no more barren for Luella, unmarried, than it was for Marion, married to Tom.

On the contrary, for the freedom that was Luella's it seemed to Marion that she would be willing to sacrifice actual years of her life. And the whole part of it was Tom's innocence of all this dismay. He was like a small boy, content with his lot; content with his wife; content with his playthings of cheap automobile and expensive radio. Life was good; Marion was good; automobile tires were lucrative. All was well in his world.

He was killed outright while demonstrating, to a customer, the performance of a set of his own tires. To Marion, who had repeatedly, throughout the years of her life with him, contemplated the hour when she must destroy his house of cards, by revealing her state of mind, his death came as release, and yet, at the same time filled her with a sense of rectitude that took away stings of conscience.

Tom had died without knowing. Tom had died believing her to be as uncomplex and happy in their marriage as he had been.

Marion was grateful for that. It made everything subsequent come easier.

What actually happened, as her friends put it, was the return of the fish to its water. Two months after Tom's death, Marion matriculated in the university from which she had married as a sophomore and took her first degree two years later, cum laude.

They were to her the happiest years of her life. It was as if her mind, dehydrated by the long period of inactivity and intellectual sunlessness, had suddenly found capacity of expansion again. Sometimes it actually seemed to her that under the congeniality of the old environment that she could actually feel her mentality reviving, lifting itself, warming itself in stimulating contacts.

It was considered remarkable that at the conclusion of her college course she had gone beyond that point, and was halfway qualified for a second degree.

The return of the native, said Luella, smiling upon her with a large indulgence.

The indulgence of Luella meant more to Marion than she would admit, even to herself. It was not that she craved a position similar to that of Luella's, but—well—it had to be faced at last, more than anything she could think of, Marion wanted to prove to herself, and to the world, that her mind, if not better, was at least as good as her erudite sister's.

The eye of Marion was fixed resolutely upon a difficult goal, similar to sister's.

Marion wanted to be invited to hold the position of dean of women in one of the country's large universities. The opportunity came sooner than she dreamed.

Within a month after her second degree had been conferred upon her, Marion was called to accept the position of dean of women in the place vacated by Miss Luella Studdiford, who had eloped suddenly with a chauffeur in a neighboring town.

High Praise Coming to Mothers of Invention

Whitney, Howe, Morse, McCormick, Bell, Edison—run down the list. There is not a woman inventor from the cotton gin to the talking movie, if we are to believe the school histories. That such a one-sided version could be the whole story we have always doubted, but now a display of women's inventions in New York supports our contention. Not only do feminine inventions go back to 1843, when Nancy Johnson devised the first ice cream freezer, and before that, according to government records, no less than 15,000 patents have been issued to women. At the recent exhibition, Beulah Louise Henry, known as "Lady Edison" and credited with 42 inventions, showed her latest, a typewriting ribbon which makes five copies without use of carbon paper. Her other benefits to mankind include a collapsible umbrella and an electric fan shield. That not all inventions of women are of the detachable collar kind was pointed out by the exhibition chairman, who attributed the Coston pyrotechnic signal light to a member of her sex. Adopted by the United States coast guard more than a half-century ago, its variously colored flares are now used by mariners all over the world. It is a pleasure to correct the record. A belated hats-off to these mothers of invention.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

First American Astronomer

David Rittenhouse was an expert clockmaker in Philadelphia and became a maker of astronomical instruments and because of his work and observations, he was famed in the New world and the Old. In 1770 he built a brick octagonal observatory which was the first and for a long time the only observatory in this country.

Rittenhouse is probably most famous for his construction of several planetariums or orreries, which were so made that they could determine the time, duration and path of eclipses, extending over a period of 5,000 years before and after 1767. Even the great Zeiss planetarium does not attempt to do this.

Mammals That Lay Eggs

The echidna, pronounced e-kid-na, accented on the second syllable, is found in Australia, Tasmania and New Guinea, is sometimes called a porcupine anteater. It resembles the hedgehog, though it is somewhat larger. The hair of the skin is mingled with spines on the upper part of the body. Its egg is about three-fourths of an inch in diameter, with a leathery shell, and is placed, as soon as laid, in the mammary pouch of the mother.

The echidna and the duck-billed platypus of Australia are the only warm-blooded animals that lay eggs and also suckle their young.

Explaining Gulf Stream

The Gulf stream owes its origin to the northeast trade winds, which blow constantly toward the American shore from the direction of the Canary and Cape Verde islands. The wind sets in motion a broad, shallow film of water upon the surface of the ocean and this, when it encounters the sloping northeast coast of South America, trends northward, passes by the Lesser Antilles into the Caribbean sea. Being constantly driven on from the east and gaining in depth as its area becomes restricted, it is driven through the Yucatan channel to the gulf of Mexico.

Superintendent Of Elections Issues Statement On Two Assembly Bills

The introduction in the present Legislature of Assembly Bills No. 4 and No. 6 providing for the elimination of the office of Superintendent of Elections prompts me to call your attention to a few of the numerous reasons, I could present why these measures should enlist your opposition. As a part of an economy program this proposed legislation is a mere subterfuge for it is utterly impossible for any agency properly to discharge the duties prescribed by law for the protection of the ballot box in counties of the first class at any saving under existing costs. This is not a personal issue with me but it is directly a matter of vital concern to the voters of Hudson and Essex Counties and indirectly of no less concern to the electorate of the entire State of New Jersey.

The following statement of facts as they obtain in Essex County should carry conviction as to the important part the office now plays in the service of good government and clean elections:

1.—The office was created by an act of the Legislature in 1923 as an independent agency with centralized authority and responsibility to purge the registration lists and police the polls.

2.—The set-up was designed to supplant the authority and displace the activities at the polls of both the prosecutor's deputies and the Municipal police.

3.—To discontinue the office would automatically restore a publicly repudiated system for the prevention and detection of fraudulent registration and balloting with all the evils of colonization and such corrupt practices as that system fostered. 4.—With the advent of permanent registration the office assumed added potency in the protection of the ballot box since it then became possible to check the registration lists throughout the year with the result that advance preparation of the challenge and strike-out list could be made with definite exactness. In 1927, before permanent registration became operative, the challenge list numbered 7,921 names. At the General Election in 1931 it numbered 71,125 names.

5.—Although permanent registration resulted in doubling the number of registered voters and thereby doubling the routine work of the office it served to promote the efficacy of the system that had been evolved by the office to discourage attempted fraudulence at the polls. Out of a total of 333,250 registrations at the last general election only 120 disqualified voters attempted to cast a ballot.

6.—Representative government can be attained only through representative suffrage. Permanent registration has served to accomplish that purpose but the electorate will fail to remain representative coincident with the impairment of the precaution and surveillance now exercised at the polls under the present system. The estimated expenditures for this system for the current fiscal year are $75,000. This figure represents the cost of guaranteeing the integrity of the ballot box to a population of approximately 800,000—a per capita levy of less than ten cents.

7.—In the report filed by Senator Joseph G. Wolber, as Chairman of the Election Law Revision Commission, in 1929, the superintendent's office was referred to as "the right arm of the election law," and "the constituted police force and detective bureau" on which "is imposed the onus for honest elections." The report further states:

"We found that although the office were consolidated with that of Commissioner (of registration), there would still have to be an officer and a whole force vested with the powers and charged with the duties now residing or placed upon the Superintendent; that the saving in expense, if any, would be negligible; that by whatever name called, the officer and the force would be necessary. We therefore kept the offices distinct, deeming that responsibility for this most important work should be definitely fixed and sharply focused upon the one person responsible. The duplication of work has been removed; the overlapping eliminated."

The above summation was made by a bi-partisan legislative commission six years after the creation of the office. I merely quote it in confirmation of my contention and it is in view of the facts I have presented and of the findings of the Commission that I seek to enlist your good offices in the defeat of such pernicious legislation as the Bills in question represent.

Very respectfully yours,
A. H. RACHLIN,
Superintendent of Elections, of Essex County.

Insurance

We cannot call ourselves Insurance Specialists because it covers too much ground, but we assure you that we have made an intensive and honest study of the various branches of insurance, exclusive of Life Insurance, and we feel that we are qualified to advise you as to whether you are properly covered or not, at a minimum cost, and with the proper companies. We would consider it a privilege and a pleasure for you to permit us an opportunity to assist you with your insurance needs. It is just as important to protect your possessions by insurance as it is to protect your legal rights by consulting an attorney, or your physical well being by consulting a physician, and as insurance is our job, we trust that you will consider us when you are placing any new insurance, and in the meantime, if you so desire, allow us the opportunity to analyze your existing coverage.

Real Estate

There are so many important details in determining the value of a parcel of Real Estate that it requires a very careful analysis, which is the result of very extensive experience, to set an actual value upon same—the location—the size—the type of the land—the public improvements upon the street or road that the land is located on—the materials—the workmanship—the accessories in the house itself—and with so many things to be taken into consideration, it is most unwise for the average person to trust their own judgment as to what or what is not good value for the money they are spending when they are in the market to purchase real estate. We therefore, would be glad to offer our services to anyone who is in the market now or who is contemplating a purchase in the near future. We have listed very exceptional buys even for these times, in all classes of real estate—in homes—in apartments—in business properties—and in vacant land. Our services are at your command. We also have for rent, at very reasonable prices, apartments, houses, stores, etc.

WHAT PRICE PARKS?

TAX Assessor John F. Coogan, Jr., has placed before his Commissioner, Director William H. Williams of the Department of Revenue and Finance, a report on county properties, exempt from taxes in Belleville.

Showing that one-tenth of Belleville area is devoted to county uses and that Belleville is carrying an unreasonable amount of tax exempt county holdings as compared to neighboring municipalities, Coogan urges action in an effort to reclaim street frontages for taxing purposes or to effect an adequate return of revenue to compensate Belleville for the amount of revenue we lose because of our loss of ratables.

When one stops to consider that county parks, golf course, and Isolation Hospital located in Belleville are for the benefit of all Essex County, it would seem that the loss of revenue should be more equally distributed.

David I. Kelly, Secretary of the Essex County Park Commission, commenting on the Newark papers' story of Coogan's report, contends that Belleville is benefited by way of increased valuations of property in the vicinity of the county parks.

We do not attempt to disagree with Mr. Kelly's statement as to the increased valuations park property has made in other sections of the county because we are not familiar with those conditions, but we do say that park property in Belleville has not been a great factor in raising values in such vicinities.

As a matter of fact such residential sections as Clearman place, Rossmore place, Greylock parkway and others most remote from park influence are among our most valuable residential properties.

Belleville avenue does not reflect this increased valuation despite the fact that the south side of this main artery from Parkside drive to Franklin avenue is devoted entirely to park purposes.

Union avenue, north of Belleville avenue, without this park influence, is considered just as valuable as Belleville avenue with the advantage to Belleville of being able to tax both sides of Union avenue.

Park properties are not the only means of increasing values—fine highways, building of fine homes and apartment buildings, make for values; also adding to the town's income.

Belleville avenue with its heavy traffic does not now make a most desirable residential location and yet were it turned into a business zone, it would be handicapped as business property, not having residences in the area south of Belleville avenue, while residences north of Belleville avenue are limited as the County Golf Course occupies the territory from Garden avenue to Franklin avenue about 600 feet north of Belleville avenue.

It can hardly be claimed that the Isolation Hospital increases values of property adjacent to it.

Efforts to relieve Belleville in its economic crisis have all been internal in nature, such as cutting salaries and reducing expenses. Coogan's plan offers a way where we can help ourselves without sacrifice or hardship to any of our citizens.

Already we have heard some say "It can't be done." If all officials took this attitude and merely filled there positions in a routine manner following the course of least resistance, Belleville might just as well take a lack seat and be satisfied with it.

We believe the project to be logical. If Belleville cannot afford this loss of taxable property, surely some relief would be within reason.

It is purely a taxpayers' problem, perhaps too difficult for any one man to accomplish but, a united, intelligent battle for relief might prove well worth the fight.

Those who have been most interested in reducing budgets such as bankers who finance Belleville and industrial groups, and taxpayers' associations, should certainly join forces with our officials to place Belleville in a better financial position by increasing its income.

SURPLUS GOVERNMENTS

IN a recent address at Camden, Dr. Harley L. Lutz, director of the Tax Survey Commission, put his finger on one major cause of high government costs. There are too many municipalities, he said, and few will dispute the dictum. We are suffering from an overdose of home rule. It may be gratifying to local pride to boast of its independence, but it is no boon to the taxpayers' pocketbook. New Jersey has more counties than are really necessary for governmental purposes, and every county has a superfluity of townships and other municipalities. There was some excuse for numerous subdivisions in days when means of intercommunication were few and slow, but in these times of good roads and motor cars distance means nothing. Every county and every one of the countless subdivisions has its own government and its own taxing authority. A dozen sets of costly governments prey upon the taxpayers where one would amply suffice, multiplying costs beyond all reason.

Bergen county is the outstanding horrible example. Bergen is not such a large county so far as area is concerned, but it has within its borders no fewer than seventy individual municipalities, each with a separate set of officials and each empowered to use the taxing authority to pay for whatever extravagant and needless projects its officials may agree upon. The county is fairly compact and thickly populated. At the outside a dozen municipalities would answer every need and save the taxpayers millions of dollars. Essex has twenty-two municipalities and could easily get along with less than half that many. Monmouth has fifty, Morris thirty-eight and Union twenty. The people are taxed heavily to support scores of local governments that have no justification for their existence beyond a desire for prestige and a misguided local pride.

In the present revolt of taxpayers little attention has been given to this source of their woes, but it is by no means a minor one. A movement for consolidations would be a sensible one.

SCHOOL DAYS

By DWIG

FEWER DAYS AND SHORTER HOURS

DEPRESSIONS cannot last forever," we are told. During their period, however, they are the cause of much loss, financial and otherwise. It is to our interest, therefore, to find, and prevent where possible, the causes.

The most unfortunate feature of an era of poor business is the influence which it has on employment. Millions of men who are willing and able to work are deprived of their means of subsistence. This is a rank injustice. What causes it?

A certain new machine is invented. This can do the work of many men, requiring the care of but two or three. What is the result? Several hundred men are forced out—to look in vain for new positions. In vain, because all the other large employers are adopting the new methods.

What does the manufacturer gain by all this? He has cut down on his overhead, but still finds himself in a position where large profits are not possible. Why? Because there are countless people, who, because of unemployment, are unable to buy. The selling price of the product is then cut—but even then, the number of buyers is comparatively small—and the percentage of profit is still smaller.

The income of the establishment is then so reduced that dividends are insignificant, and a partial, or perhaps complete shut-down, with failure looming ahead, is the order of the day.

What is the remedy for this economic ill? It is a suggestion against which level headed business men will not fight—FEWER DAYS AND SHORTER HOURS AT A LIVING WAGE, at least. This will result in a more general employment, thereby increasing the number of buyers. This larger demand will cause the company to prosper.

The new leisure thus afforded will also benefit many industries. Employed people seek amusement during their off-hours. Motion pictures, automobiles, gasoline, cigarettes and countless others become near-necessities. The producers of these prosper, and give business to many others. The prosperity cycle is completed.

It is only by serious consideration of these proposals that an almost fool-proof employment and business situation may be found.

PUZZLE CORNER

Puzzle solvers: For the past few weeks you have been offered puzzles that have been child's play. But not so this week. Don your thinking caps, grab some paper, sharpen your Dixon No. 1 and go to it.

Here 'tis: There were three railroad men, brakeman, conductor and engineer; their names were Robinson, Jones and Smith. There were three passengers too. They were, MR. Robinson, MR. Jones and MR. Smith. Remember those names and then read these seven statements:

1. Mr. Robinson lives in Buffalo.
2. The conductor lives half way between Buffalo and Chicago.
3. Mr. Jones earns $500 a year.
4. The conductor's nearest neighbor who is a passenger earns three times as much as the conductor.
5. The conductor's namesake lives in Chicago.
6. Smith beats the brakeman in a billiard game.
7. What is the engineer's name?

Now then puzzle solvers, get the old brain working and see what you can do.

Be sure to give your deductions when giving your answer and don't be discouraged. Here's luck!

Solution to last week's puzzle: Fifty-six.

PUZZLE WINNERS

The solvers of last week's puzzle were:

Louis Zuckerman, Randolph Ruff, Jr., Fred Thron, Jay Hacker, Robert Joiner, Jr., Paul Thompson, Burman Silt, Marian Kantor, Carolyn Wittman, James Tracey.

The above will call at the News Office for their tickets for the Capitol Theatre.

HIGHLIGHTS and HEADLINES

By LILLIAN THOMAS

ABRAHAM LINCOLN No Gabriel heralded his birth. His mother's first words no doubt were, "Let me see my baby."

Was named after his grandfather who was killed and scalped by the Indians.

His father sold farm and homestead for ten barrels of whiskey and twenty dollars in cash. A customary transaction and regarded as perfectly proper in those days.

His first school teacher was incompetent and lazy and permitted pupils to do as they pleased.

Engaged in all out-door sports and usually was acknowledged judge of the games. The other boys never questioned his integrity.

In matters of dress was by no means precise. Clean, but never fashionable; careless, but not slovenly. Didn't shine in "polite" society and often experienced true humility.

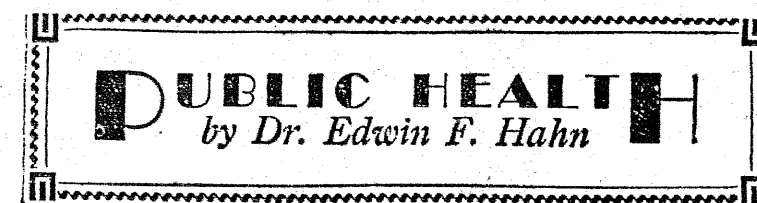

Used to make people laugh by shrugging his shoulders, elevating his eyebrows and depressing his lips in a comically awkward way.

As President of the United States he has been hated, despised, maligned, above all other men living. But when he visited Richmond the shouts of the colored people rang through the air.

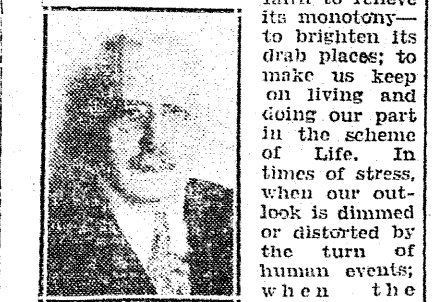

"Hurrah, Hurrah! President Lincoln has come!"

Bon Voyage Party

Miss Pearl Simon of 222 Ralph street, this town, was guest of honor at a bon voyage party at the home of Miss Esther Kaltman of South Orange Tuesday night. Miss Simon sailed yesterday on the S. S. California for a cruise through the West Indies.

FAITH "Faith rules the world" and what a dreary uninteresting world it would be without the attribute of faith to relieve its monotony—to brighten its drab places; to make us keep on living and going our part in the scheme of Life. In times of stress, when our outlook is dimmed or distorted by the turn of human events; when the clouds of life are so heavy that we are sure there is no "silver lining" behind them, and when life's roadway seems increasingly difficult; what clarifies our vision and permits us to penetrate the gloom to see the bright sun shining beyond; gives us that thrill which comes with the joy of living; why, naught but our faith.

These are days when our faith is often sorely tried but also the time when faith in our Creator, our Country and our fellow man was never more imperative; and the strength of that faith will surely be vindicated.

As a physician of more than thirty years active practice, we have seen innumerable instances of the value of faith and also many cases whose faith has been misapplied, causing much suffering and keen disappointment. In the problem of sickness, a certain amount of faith is very necessary. Faith that the doctor is going to cure us and faith in ourselves so that we can co-operate with him. We must not leave everything to faith, however, for "faith without works is dead," and we must keep on doing as well as trusting. This is the great fault with our so-called Faith-cures; the individual believes blindly and takes no heed of scientific developments to aid him in the treatment of his disease. We must have our "works" along with our faith and then the combination is ideal. Don't depend too much on faith but when you are sick, go to the doctor and have faith in him and he'll do everything that your case requires and work with you and co-operate with you.

About Books by Cyrus Wood

"We are closer to the first cause, and the purpose back of creation than we have ever been. The door is ajar. It will swing back when all of us, philosophers, scientists, and religionists, submerge our prejudices in a universal desire to know the truth." So says Dr. Edward H. Cotton in the conclusion to his symposium in which sixteen scientists discuss the question, "Has Science Discovered God?" (Thomas Y. Crowell).

Of course, those who have been religiously reading their scientific literature know that the day of the cock-sure materialist has passed. But many of us have had other things to do. I have in mind certain churchmen who have been busy answering so-called scientific arguments for materialism. They may be delighted to discover sixteen famous scientists who will help uphold their counter-arguments. There is also the old-fashioned atheist who has been so busy upholding "science" that he will be terribly shocked to discover how far the scientists have run away from him.

The writers in this symposium include Einstein, Millikan, Huxley, Jeans, and Eddington. They do not agree with each other, but that could hardly be expected. It is enough for Doctor Cotton's purpose that they unite in giving an affirmative answer to his question.

There are some who believe that the "battle" between science and religion must have its victor and its vanquished, but Doctor Cotton expresses the not-too-fantastic hope of a reconciliation in which each side will profit by the splendid achievements of the other.

Production For The Masses

Simon & Schuster have recently published an unusually provocative book called "Successful Living In This Machine Age," by the very successful Edward A. Filene of Boston. This book, however, is not about Mr. Filene. It is about you and me; What mass production is doing to us and what we can do with it.

In Mr. Filene's language, mass production becomes "production for the masses," and only when we become aware that these terms necessarily imply each other, will we realize the potentialities of the machine. "The purpose of business," he says, "is to get wealth to people—to produce and to distribute to all humanity the things which humanity, with its new-found power can now be organized to make only if it can be organized to buy and use them." But if everybody must buy and use things, everybody must be creatively employed in profitable production. High wages and low prices become imperative if mass production is to succeed. Himself an employer of thousands, Mr. Filene makes this point neatly when he says, "If workers would work for next to nothing they would certainly be able to buy next to nothing, and their employers, being able to sell next to nothing, would very soon cease to be employers."

The book abounds in paragraphs which should be quoted, but I shall have to be content with the prosaic enumeration of chapter heads: Politics, world peace, religion, advertising, and education are only a few of the subjects treated, and it is pertinent to add, that in Mr. Filene's hands, economics is far from a 'dismal' science.

Be-rr-r-r!

Those interested in novel methods of doing away with their friends will find a few new ideas in "The Capital City Mystery." Its author, J. H. Wallis, is a former newspaper man who has spent considerable time in Washington, D. C., the locale of his story. He introduces us to a group of diplomats, artists, publishers and society women, who have been invited to Sunday night supper by the wife of a wealthy congressman. As the guests are arriving the congressman mysteriously disappears and when he fails to return, Inspector Jacks, a detective, is called from New York to investigate. An assortment of murders follow and Jacks, true to detective story technique, finally apprehends the ingenious culprits. The book is one of the Dutton Clue Mysteries, which means that at a point when all of the clues have been presented, the publishers insert a "Stop" page. The reader is then invited to formulate his own solution before going on with the story. In this instance I feel that the page might well have been introduced in an earlier chapter.

Uncasy Lies The Head

Realizing that the sales of their book, "Hitlerism" might be greatly affected should Hitler be killed before its publication, The Mohawk Press have insured the German leader for $5,000.

No American insurance company would issue a policy, as two attempts have already been made on the gentleman's life. But Lloyds, of London, agreed to issue a policy which would cover one month, for which they charged a premium of $50.

Better Late Than Never

"Perhaps my own existence, as the fifth of eight children," writes Clarence Darrow in his autobiography, "The Story of My Life," "is one reason why I have never been especially enthusiastic about keeping others from being born; whenever I hear people discussing birth-control I always remember that I was the fifth." The Scribners published Darrow's autobiography February 5.

Wallace W. Winchell Was In Charge

Of A Fifteen Day Mission In Jersey City

Lieutenant-Colonel Wallace W. Winchell, retired from active service in the Salvation Army, has been in charge of the Fifteen Day Mission at the Westminster Presbyterian Church and the Summit Avenue Baptist Church in Jersey City.

The mission opened January 24 and ended February 7.

Lieutenant-Colonel Winchell who lives at 283 Little street, is well known in Belleville.

On January 9, "The War Cry," said "What manner of man is this?" It spoke of Winchell, who in Salvation Army circles is termed "The Grand Old Man of the Bowery."

The comment follows: A low-pitched voice, a deliberate tread, broad shoulders, capable hands and slightly graying hair, with these Wallace Winchell is now endowed. Yet if these words convey the impression only of the strong, silent man, watch Winchell's eyes. His eyes betray him. Soft golden brown in repose, they are capable of holding fires which kindle into flame when his soul is stirred. In their hidden depths lurks a world of understanding and love, for all the weaknesses of the human race.

You have met Wallace Winchell, Lt.-Colonel in the Salvation Army, but equally as well as the "Bishop of the Bowery."

Years ago—perhaps fifty—the little town of Charlotte, Mich., smiled indulgently when one of its more adventurous sons tried yet another prank, and joined the Salvation Army.

Amusement changed to amazement, however, when, in a loud voice and with much fervor, he prayed in the open air, "Lord, put me as near the gates of Hell as You possible can, so that I may put sinners back before they are lost eternally." That longing for souls has typified the career of Wallace Winchell ever since. His prayer was answered, and for forty-five years he has been seeking and winning the worst and most sinful of men.

His exploits extraordinary are numbered by the score.

Here he is on his knees in a subway train, praying a man into the Kingdom, heedless of the crowds surging close around. There he is out at midnight, carrying a drunken man for blocks on a stretcher, for his great compassion will not leave him in the gutter. Praying in prisons, preaching in saloons, winning the confidence and respect of the worst men in town until the dwellers of the most wicked street in the world love him and call him, the Bishop of the Bowery.

He lived the Founder's injunction, "Go for souls, and go for the worst." What was his inspiration? When asked, he replies definitely, if paradoxically, "The Cross is the attraction."

Conversion meant joining the Salvation Army for young Winchell. It also meant leaving home, for his parents were furious that such a disgrace should fall on the family. Brickbats and rotten eggs were the usual treatment accorded the Salvation Army, but nothing daunted, he donned his uniform and continued to attend the local high school.

It was the freedom from convention and disregard for public opinion that first attracted him to the Salvation Army. He must have caught the spirit of aggressive Christianity, for daring exploits and extraordinary methods have characterized him ever since.

Who has not heard of the Army Colonel, who walked the length and breadth of the Great White Way, open Bible in hand, calling out Gospel truths to the swirling crowds on Broadway? It was the same Winchell who, one night, emphasized eternal truths by preaching them from an open coffin.

Thousands of New York business people have been amazed to see a uniformed Salvationist on his knees on the sidewalk, eyes closed, fervently praying.

As a young Field Officer, his halls were crowded to capacity to see such startling events as "The burning of the devil," and "The prize fight of life."

The citizens of Chicago turned out in thousands to witness a parade of Salvationists, clad in huge wooden barrels, each bearing a flamboyant and arresting announcement of a forthcoming meeting, and excitement ran high when some of the men fell on the icy pavement and were unable to rise, because of their bulky attire. Needless to say there was a full hall that night.

Old soldiers of such famous corps as New York 1, Chicago 1, then the Princess Rink, Milwaukee 1, and a dozen towns in Michigan, recall with a sigh and a tear the "good old days," when Wallace Winchell was in command, and carried on the war with such singularly successful, if unusual, methods.

From corps work to several appointments on Headquarters he carried over his fiery enthusiasm, and after a period of intensive training in London, under the Founder, took up the work in which we like most of all to think of him, for it seems a part of his very being—the Men's Social.

There is something in Wallace Winchell's sympathetic approach, some special quality of understanding in his manner that makes him beloved and trusted by the sinful and destitute. Unafraid he can enter the darkest haunts of sin, denounce the proprietor as a sinner, fall upon his knees and pray for his conversion. Murderer, cut-throat, felon and forger own him as their one friend, the only man who cares what happens to them, the only person who has ever prayed for them or tried to help them.

The citizens of the Bowery were one day startled to see the Army man wielding the brushes of a little boot-black. On his knees he rubbed and scrubbed at the soiled shoes of that great throng of men, proving conclusively that his one aim was to do good in a simple and humble spirit.

But it is not necessary to demonstrate the spirit in which he works, for although he ministers with human hands it is patent that his words and actions are inspired by a greater and higher power. His gentleness, kindness and patience have won him the love and loyalty of thousands in the slums of Jersey City and the New York Bowery district.

Imprisonment for preaching the Gospel on the streets, pursuit by angry mobs, even attempts on his life have not deterred him from his one increasing purpose—to turn men and women to God, to reclaim the lost, and to further the work of The Salvation Army.

With the voice of an orator, the mind of a deep thinker, a personality instantaneous in its appeal, what might the world not have offered Wallace Winchell? He might have become a successful politician, swaying crowds with his ready eloquence, or the preacher of a large, fashionable church and a comfortable living; newspaper man or perhaps an advertising wizard—a dozen careers are suggested. Any one of these he could have filled with success.

But rather he chose the lowly life of a Salvation Army officer and who will doubt that the eternal records will prove that, because he did his duty to God and man, the Bishop of the Bowery has attained the higher heights?

Pastor Albert Menkens of St. John's

Lutheran Church, Harrison, gave an illustrated lecture on "Digging for Treasure" in which he showed Christ as the supreme treasure. After the lecture games were played and refreshments were served.

This Saturday afternoon Redeemer Men's Club will be the guests of Elizabeth Lutheran Men's Club at a bowling match which is to be held in their city.

Telephone Co. Delves Into Surplus To Meet Dividend Needs While Earnings Were Not Satisfactory Service Was Best Ever

For the second successive year the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company in 1931 delved into its surplus to meet dividend requirements. Chester I. Barnard, president of the company, states in the annual report to stockholders made public the other day.

Net telephone earnings of $10,608,512 amount to a return of 5.63 per cent on the average plant in service, as compared with 51.71% in 1930, and were insufficient by $367,453 to meet dividends.

While earnings for the year were unsatisfactory, telephone service was the best the company has ever furnished, Barnard reports, being brought to new high levels in speed and accuracy and freedom from interruption. Handling 92.2% of all local calls without error; completion of 90% of all Long Distance calls while customers held the line; reducing the time for completing a Long Distance connection to 1.7 minutes, average; increasing the average time a telephone line is free from trouble to twenty-two months, a three months improvement; and a 20% reduction in reports of interference on calls, are a few of the new service records chalked up during the year.

The number of telephones in service showed a decrease of 2,291. At the close of the year the company served 685,214 telephones. During the year to maintain this figure it connected 172,542 telephones and disconnected 174,873. Telephone traffic increased slightly during the year, averaging 2,660,000 calls a day.

Construction of new plant to improve service and provide facilities at new locations was less than in the two preceding years, but adequate to assure keeping the system ready for any requirement, Barnard states, and contributed to the maintenance and creation of employment both in and outside the company's organization. The expenditure for gross construction amounted to $21,571,483.

Principal items in the development program completed during the year include ten new building units, located in Summit, Keyport, Newark, East Orange, South Orange, Rumson, Netcong, Hopatcong, Mendham and Peapack, replacement with new equipment of the Keyport-Matuxan, Woodbury, Mendham, Egg Harbor, Hightstown, Peapack; Summit 6, CHatham 4, ELizabeth 3 and ESsex 2 central offices; opening of a new toll center in Jersey City, and more efficient centralized information desks in Jersey City and Asbury Park. About 139,000 miles of wire were added to the statewide network during the year.

Teletypewriter use increased greatly during the year, including at the close 311 machines for transmitting the written word. Of these, 257 were in private line networks of the statewide police alarm system, at airports, and in business houses, and fifty-four others were connected to the new national teletypewriter exchange service. The latter service consists of the operation of central exchanges for teletypewriters similar to central office exchanges for telephones, making it possible to connect any teletypewriter subscriber to the service to any other in the country.

Reporting on the personnel, Barnard says: "It is of interest to note that employees at the close of the year were contributing to their own welfare and thereby indirectly to the well-being of New Jersey materially in the following ways: 1,783 employees were insured for a total of $5,202,457 through the company's payroll deduction plan; 4,500 were depositing at the rate of $790,446 annually in savings bank accounts under the payroll deduction plan; 8,848 were subscribing to a total of 40,147 shares of stock of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company under the plan of authorized salary deductions; and by careful driving, employees reduced accidents to company motor vehicles approximately 10% below the results for 1930, which until 1931 were outstandingly the best results. The record showed an average of one accident per 65,000 miles of driving."

Benefits amounting to $385,115 were paid during the year under the company's plan for employees' pensions, disability benefits and death benefits.

Nine new members were admitted to the Young Peoples Fellowship, Sunday night, at the Christ Episcopal Church.

Rev. Peter R. Deckenbach officiated at the admission services, during which the following young men and women were accepted as members: Jean Patrick, Lois Elliot, Doris Watt, Jeanette Crockett, John Freer, Wellesley Earl, Lawton Cox, Arthur Bloemke, and Robert Gilchrist.

Next Sunday night, at the regular weekly meeting of the Y. P. F., Gordon Crisp, well-known local speaker, will address the group on "Facing Realities." Mr. Crisp is a graduate of Belleville High School.

elementary calculations and their applications to yacht design, methods of preparing new designs, and construction details.

In addition there will be a course in applied naval architecture for those who desire to acquire, as nearly as possible, a non-technical explanation of the science of ship design.

These facts and figures have been secured and compiled by Town Clerk John J. Daly, under the supervision of the Board of Commissioners of Belleville, with the idea of informing the citizens of Belleville as to the official family of the Town Government and some of the past history of the Town.

To those outside of Belleville whom this may reach, Belleville is located outside of Newark, between it and Paterson, ten miles from New York City, surrounded by other beautiful towns such as Bloomfield and Nutley, and is bounded on its eastern side by the Passaic River. It is partly industrial and residential, being fortunate in having many sites still left for desirable industry to locate. The residential sections are of high type and are protected by a zone ordinance.

These men have served Belleville as Mayors since that office was instituted, as follows:
C. LYMAN DEXTERSON, 1912-1914.
JOHN C. LA PACHE, 1914-1915, January, 1914 to November, 1914.
JOHN H. WATERS, November, 1914, to January, 1923, died in office.
JOHN DE GRAW, January 1925, to May, 1926.

INTESTINAL AILMENTS BREAK DOWN PHYSICAL ENDURANCE

NEW COMBINATION CORRECTS INTESTINAL DISORDERS PROMPTLY

Draggy, headachy days; lost vigor; lost vitality mean a condition of broken down physical endurance. If you are listless, nervous and too tired at night to join in simple healthy fun you may be one of the thousands of victims of intestinal ailments. Doctors declare that ninety per cent of all cases of loss of energy come from that almost universal physical evil—constipation.

The human system must throw off its accumulated waste matter every day. Ordinary pills, powders, salts and cathartic waters often do more harm than good, but the new combination Alagar which is an emulsion of pure mineral oil, agar agar and phenolphthalein—corrects intestinal disorders promptly and completely.

It works, not only on the colon, or lower bowel, alone, but it loosens stagnating material in the entire intestinal tract and "tones up" the intestinal muscles, thus helping them to remove waste matter regularly and completely every day. Alagar helps you sleep more soundly at night and those dull, draggy headaches become things of the past. For prompt relief from lost vigor and vitality be sure to get the new pleasant-tasting Alagar.

..This Whirl Of Sport..

BY ARTHUR BLOEMEKE

THE APPEAL OF THE SIMON-PURE

BOXING fans, the country over, are familiar with the decline of professional pugilism in recent years, especially in heavyweight ranks. The many fiascos that have immediately followed the Dempsey and Tunney era of a few years ago have soured many of boxing's most ardent supporters.

What has become of these fans? Have they stayed away from bouts, entirely? Are other sports claiming their attention?

Many and varied are the answers to these questions. One of the most feasible, however, is that they have turned their attention to the amateur fights and fighters. The constantly increasing numbers interesting themselves in amateur bouts lends added support to this argument.

Just what is the appeal of the simon-pure? Why do these amateurs attract? The answer is found in just one word, ACTION.

Fighting, with simply a watch or some other trinket as a reward for the winner, these amateurs are willing and eager to mix with anyone. The scientific side of their armor often needs polishing, but few of them know the art of back-pedaling, as they stand toe to toe and fight.

For the past several years, the local Elks' have sponsored these amateur boxing programs and on each and every occasion the fans went away well satisfied.

The latest edition of these fights, the second of the season, which are to be staged Monday night, promise to top 'em all. The Elks' have been fortunate in securing many of the head-line attraction of the Newark Elks' show of last week and many other well-known figures among the amateurs.

Need more be said?

THE GREATEST RACE IN YEARS

WITH but three weeks of the American Legion Bowling League season remaining, the race for the pennant is still far from being decided.

At present there are five clubs distinctly in the running, with but four games separating the quintet. The Oldhams and Moose are now holding the upper hand. They are tied for first place, three games ahead of the El Club and Democratic Club, who jointly hold the third position. The Belleville A. A., in turn, trails the latter pair by a game.

The veriest old-timer in Belleville would have to go back far in his memory to unearth as close a pennant dash, of the caliber of the Legion's.

THEY'VE FOUND THEMSELVES

AFTER traveling along the first part of the Belleville High Court season in hit-and-miss fashion, more or less, Hank Bohrer and Ray Smith seem to have found their bearings and then some.

Both Bohrer and Smith have been coping the lion's share of the spotlight in the winning efforts of the past few weeks. Smith has been taking over Goodrich's job last year of following-up shots, and how that boy can fill that assignment. Bohrer's specialties have been long heaves on the offense and picking the ball off the back-board on the defense.

ONE OMISSION

"I asked your father and he said you were old enough to know your own mind."
"He didn't tell you how old I was, did he?"

TIME TO SELL

"The thermometer was a hundred at noon yesterday. Today it is down to 85."
"My! Isn't that a bargain?"

HIS EXPERIENCE

City Girl—Did you ever see any highway robbers?
Farmer—Nope, I ain't exactly seen any. But I've had experience with some fellows that undertook to handle the three dollars I once contributed for good roads.

AND DON'T HESITATE

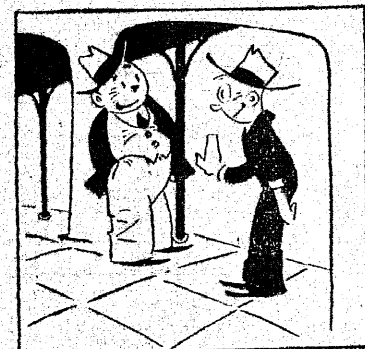

"Sometimes you have to hit a man to make him keep quiet, so that you can save him from drowning."
"Yes, and the time to do it is when he first begins to rock the boat."

TRUTHFUL

Dot—Do you think only of me, Dan—I'll be frank with you. Now and then I think of baseball.

DIVIDING IT

"Well, so long, Cook, where are you going to spend your vacation?" "Going to spend my vacation money at the seashore, and the rest of my vacation at home."

GIRL SCOUT BETTY—The Day Nursery—By Montfort Amory

Betty and Mary, each with a package, arrive at the Day Nursery where they have promised to help care for a small group of children for the afternoon.

Having given the youngsters their luncheon, the two girls tucked them into their cribs for an afternoon nap, promising them a surprise if they will rest quietly.

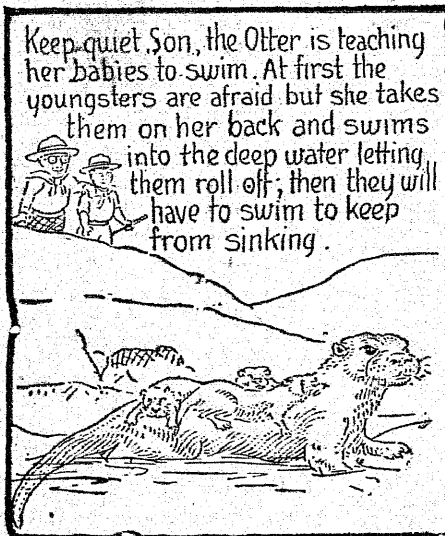

Quietly, Betty and Mary opened their packages and started to work, making rag dolls and clowns of the scraps of cloth, ribbon and lace which they brought with them.

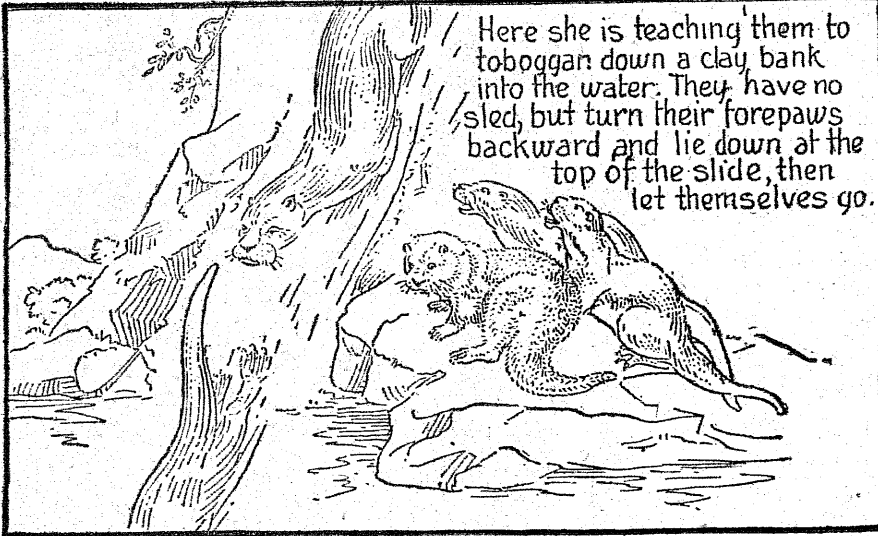

When the time came for the children to be awakened, the dolls were all ready for them. They smiled and clapped their hands in happy appreciation of the amusing dolls, riding astride the foot of each crib.

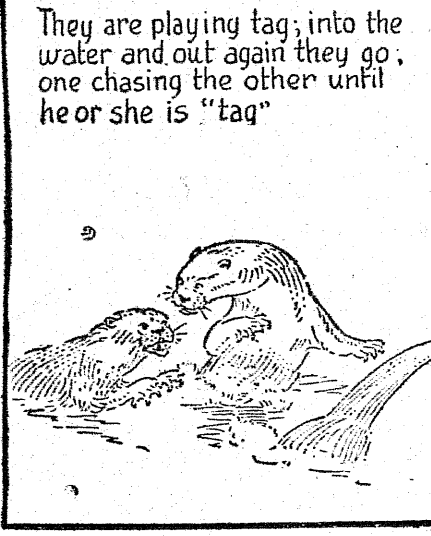

DAD AND I

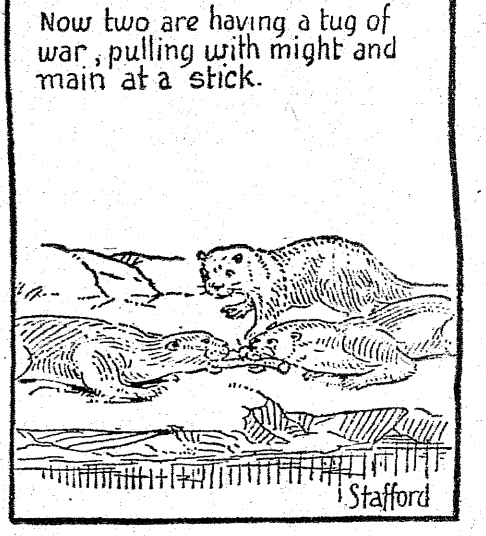

Keep quiet, Son, the Otter is teaching her babies to swim. At first the youngsters are afraid, but she takes them on her back and swims into the deep water letting them roll off, then they will have to swim to keep from sinking.

Here she is teaching them to toboggan down a clay bank into the water. They have no sled, but turn their forepaws backward and lie down at the top of the slide, then let themselves go.

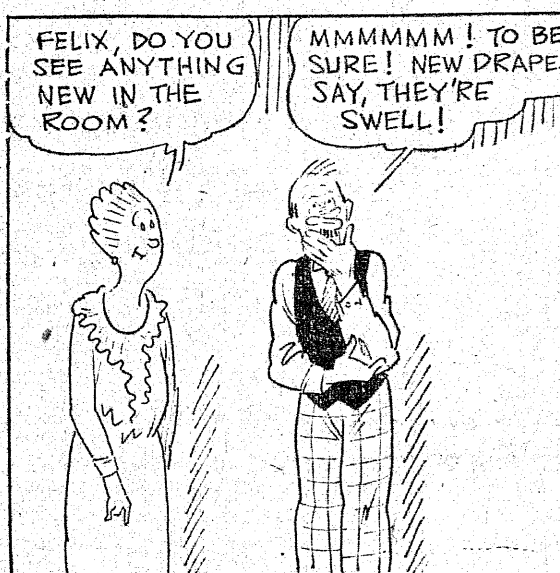

They are playing tag; into the water and out again they go; one chasing the other until he or she is "tag"

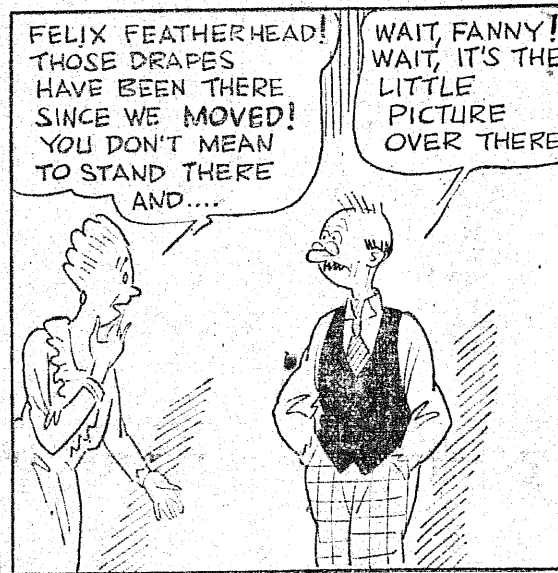

Now two are having a tug of war, pulling with might and main at a stick.

Wise Birds Take Note

Strings of cranberries and lumps of suet make a good larder when the earth refuses to yield a worm for any bird, no matter how early. That is why wise birds at this season nest near Girl Scout houses and camps, where they have friends who realize that winter may mean hunger.

Thrift Becomes Attractive
If Tried As Girl Scout Game

Practicing thrift, which is the ninth of the Girl Scout laws, can be a fascinating game, when one knows the rules and sticks to them. Thousands of Girl Scouts, as their contribution to the celebration of National Thrift Week, January 17-23, will call on their local banks for help in drawing up a thrift program for the ensuing year.
