Elks Tender Dinner To Ladies' Social Club

Joseph R. Reilly Acted As Toastmaster For The Lodge

The Belleville Elks last night tendered a dinner to the Ladies' Social Club at the club house.

Joseph R. Reilly acted as toastmaster on behalf of the club. The Elks' organization reciprocated in this gesture to the ladies since it was the Ladies' Club who placed the new draperies in the auditorium.

Exalted Ruler Joseph P. Reilly was presented with a monogrammed bill fold and a key case as a token of friendship which exists between him and the ladies' organization.

It was through the efforts of Mr. Reilly that this organization was instituted.

Junior Dramatic Club Prepares "Boomer"

Show Will Be Presented At Public School No. 8 On April 22

The Junior Dramatic Club will present "The Boomer," on April 22, in the auditorium of School No. 8. Ian Munroe, who coached successfully the club's last play "The Hidden Guest," is also coaching this three-act comedy.

Probably most of the many laughs in the play will be due to the unusual acting of John Appgar. Matilda Stewart also promises much enjoyment because of her clever impersonation of "Paulina Hicks." Charles Mudd and Mildred Drentlau have the leading parts.

Those who have charge of the different committees are: Helen MacNair, properties; Charles Mudd, furniture; Archie MacInnes, programs; Miss Helen Knight, production; and Doris MacGregor and Mildred Drentlau, publicity.

Tickets may be obtained from any of the Junior Dramatic Club members, some of whom are: Beverly Heilman, Agnes Stewart, William Brogan, Audrey Heilman, Virginia Brown, Louis Herpich, Betty Shurts, Norma Craig and the cast which includes John Appgar, Dorothy Van Esselstine, Helen MacNair, Stanley Davidson, Archie MacInnes, Matilda Stewart, Charles Mudd, Kingston Appgar, Riva Squier, Mildred Drentlau, Doris MacGregor and Mark Cochran.

"Laugh That Off" Set For St. Peter's Hall

Knights Of Columbus To Present Shower On April 18

Belleville Council Knights of Columbus, are planning to present "Laugh That Off," at St. Peter's Hall, Monday, April 18.

An experienced cast will be seen in this delightful comedy. The cast is as follows: Miss Agnes Jordan, Miss Greta Kinneally, Miss Margaret Donhauser, Mrs. James McCabe, William McGonigle, Phil O'Toole, James A. Leonard, Joseph Kearney and William Friel.

J. Emile Chartrand, is the coach. James Kinneally is the chairman of the patrons committee.

If you have moving, hauling or days work of any kind call J. A. Gregory, 101 Ralph Street, Belleville 2-1956.

J. M. Davis, window shades and awnings, 348-50 Passaic Ave., Nutley 2-0491.

Sunday No Bar To Recreational Activities

Athletic Fields And Playgrounds May Be Open To Public

There will be Sunday recreational activities on the athletic fields and playgrounds, the Board of Education decided Monday night at its meeting. Questioning of the ministers by the Board of Education revealed that they were not opposed to Sunday athletic activities.

Robert Nebbrig, appearing for the Recreation Commission obtained permission from the Board of Education to use the various fields. He explained that the Recreation Commission was organizing the youth into athletic teams. The American Legion obtained permission to use Clearman Field three times a week for baseball games.

Wemecs Present Show Tonight At School

"Who Killed Cock Robin?" A Peek At The Show Will Tell You

"Who Killed Cock Robin?" will be decided once and for all by the Wemecs Dramatic Club this evening at the High School. There have been in the past many convincing solutions, some at variance with the old poem, but when Cock Robin is shown to our local theatregoers all doubts as to the real solution of this weighty mystery will be swept away by the deadly logic of Elmer Rice and Philip Barry, who wrote this mystifying and amusing play.

You will suspect first one, then the other, until your brain will be caught up in a whirl of suspicion—when suddenly the identity of the real murderer is revealed.

Everyone will want to see this mystery melodrama, which is heavily seasoned with comedy. Thrills of excitement pervade the drama, judiciously interspersed with gales of laughter. The setting of Cock Robin is unique and picturesque and the play affords abundant opportunity for the Wemec Dramatic Club to exhibit their talents, which have already won them a high place in the public esteem.

In the cast are the following: John Carrough, H. Vail Ryan, Horace Baldwin, Harry Hosking, Elmer Hosking, Dorothy Wadsworth, Nancy Campbell, Ernest Barker, Walter Groner, Allan Crisp, Alma Hosking and Mildred Lorenz.

There will be dancing after the performance in the High School Gymnasium.

Mrs. Cosgrove and Mrs. Winship are well known Belleville women.

Death Rate Lowest In Existence Of Health Department

Officer Eugene T. Berry's Fifth Report So Discloses

Based on an estimated population of 27,359, the 1931 death rate was 7.64 per 1,000, lowest in the existence of the Health Department it is shown in the fifth annual report completed by Health Officer Eugene T. Berry. The rate in 1930 was 8.63. The birth rate increased from 16.7 in 1930 to 17.3 and the infant mortality rate of 38.7 was one of the lowest, if not the lowest, in Essex County, the health officer states.

Deaths numbered 209, a decrease of twenty-six from 1930. In addition 129 non-residents died in the town, mostly at the Essex County Isolation Hospital. Births totaled 474, an increase of nineteen over 1930. Death of infants was sixteen, a decrease of six from 1930.

Communicable diseases numbered 591, compared with 871 in 1930. Such diseases as typhoid fever, measles, influenza and mumps were negligible in number, but whooping cough reached 165 cases during the last five months of the year and scarlet fever 133 during the first five months, in keeping with the state-wide prevalence of the diseases. The scarlet fever occurred as a slight epidemic in St. Peter's Parochial School, resulting in one death.

Diphtheria cases numbered fifty-six, compared with twenty-nine in 1930. Three non-immunized cases were fatal.

Mrs. Lorena Clark Is Honored By Baptist Churches Hereabouts

Mrs. Lorena Clark of Arlington, former Belleville resident, was given a position of honor in World Wide Guild work in the Baptist churches of the East Association, including roughly as far south as South Amboy, thence to Plainfield, Arlington and Bloomfield, the Oranges, with the many suburban towns included. Mrs. Clark is chairman of the World Wide Guild extension work, starting guilds in churches heretofore not interested, taking charge of the beautiful initiation work, generally held in the church's proper at Sunday evening service, but sometimes a banquet is given and the initiation follows.

Mrs. Violet Hoemer is president of the East Association. Sunday night Mrs. Clark will attend an initiation at the East Orange, Bloomfield Baptist Church, and tonight she goes to May Market.

May 8 Mrs. Clark has an initiation to attend and address a group for initiation at Elizabeth. The girls have invited their mothers and there will be an banquet at 6 P. M. Mrs. Clark has been active in guild work for about twelve years, holding many positions of honor.

Mrs. Edith Thomson of Overlook Avenue, president of the Senior World Wide Guild of Grace Baptist Church is chairman of visitation of the East Association.

Woman's Club Plans Annual Meeting For Next Monday

Installation Of Officers Will Occur At That Time

Next Monday afternoon at 2:30, the Belleville Woman's Club, Mrs. Charles S. Smith, president, will hold the annual meeting and installation of officers. The new officers include Mrs. Willard Y. Strange, second vice president; Mrs. George L. Fralley, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James G. Shawger, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Edward Eska, chairman of nominations; Mrs. John Huizer, chairman of civics; Mrs. Harry N. Abbott, chairman of by-laws, and Mrs. R. C. Whitfield, Mrs. Dudley Drake and Mrs. J. J. Schaffer, club house trustees. Annual reports will be read at this meeting. Mrs. Drake will be in charge of the club tea with several members of her committee assisting.

Mrs. Le Roy Bunnell, music chairman, has announced that the chorus of the club, under the direction of Lucille Bethel-Dowell, received second prize in class A in the contest held at Trenton last Saturday, under the auspices of the New Jersey State Federation of Woman's Clubs. This is a distinct honor and one that the club is justly proud of.

The Chorus will hold their Second Annual Concert at the local high school, April 29, at 8:30 P. M. The assisting ticket is to be Edward Grobe, tenor. Artists may be had from any member of the music committee. The committee includes Mrs. A. S. Blank, Mrs. Frank Brohal, Mrs. J. B. Brown, Mrs. E. M. Compton, Mrs. Dudley Drake, Mrs. Frank Dorman, Mrs. C. S. Smith, Mrs. W. Y. Strange, Mrs. W. H. Stone and Mrs. J. V. Thetford.

The chorus meets every Tuesday morning at ten, in the club house and new members are always welcome.

The regular card party was held at the club house last Monday afternoon with Mrs. Ira Cornell acting as chairman. High score in bridge was made by Mrs. Harry Abbott with Mrs. Robert Skinner winning at pinocle. There is only one more game to be played in the tournament before the semi-finals, and is open to all.

Mrs. Leonard Pickard will continue with the class in contract bridge every Thursday afternoon at two until further notice. Members and their friends are cordially invited.

The official board will hold a meeting at the club house Friday afternoon at 2:30 with Mrs. Smith in charge.

Mrs. William Entekin, whose term as chairman of civics expires Monday held the last meeting at her home, 263 New Street. Mrs. Entekin entertained the committee at luncheon preceding the meeting. Those present were Mrs. A. S. Blank, Mrs. Charles S. Smith, Mrs. Floyd F. Bragg, Mrs. O. T. Breunich, Mrs. George Fralley, Mrs. J. W. Haworth, Mrs. John Ray, Mrs. R. C. Whitfield and Mrs. Homer Zink. Mrs. Fralley has been secretary of the committee for the past two years.

Many Attended Irish-Scotch Night

Minstrels Of Erin Were Well Received By Over 150 Persons

Approximately one hundred and fifty persons attended the "Irish-Scotch Night" given by the Knights of Columbus at their home, 43 Rossmore place, last Saturday night.

Irish and Scotch dances, jigs, modern fox-trots, and waltzes, were enjoyed immensely by the group.

The Minstrels of Erin, well known radio artists of WHOM and masters of Irish melodies, supplied the music for all dancing. This talented trio composed of James Burke, James Gallagher and William Walsh, are popular in Hudson and Bergen counties.

In addition to being fine musicians, "Jimmie" Burke and "Bill" Walsh proved their wit as vocalists, by singing humorous Irish selections.

The members of the younger generation who were present, had a merry old time trying to master reels, clogs, etc. Several of the "old timers" put them to shame by getting out on the floor time and time again and going through the vigorous steps of these old country dances.

Refreshments were served under the capable management of "Bun" Derbyshire and his assistants.

BROWN'S REPORT READ BY BOARD BUT WAS HELD UP FOR A WEEK

"Any Amateur Knows Bonds Could Be Issued For Engine," Says Director "But Can They Be Funded With Others?"

Controversy as to the legality of the contract for the purchase of a new fire engine by the Town has not yet been concluded. Town Attorney John B. Brown notified the board at its meeting Tuesday night, that the contract for the purchase was legal and that bonds could be legally issued for a period of ten years.

Commissioner Clark's motion that the letter be received and placed on file, was recalled upon the request of Acting Mayor Williams. He asked that the letter be referred to next Tuesday's conference for further consideration.

The attorney's view on the question is as follows:

"Inquiry has been made as to the legality of the contract for the purchase by the Town of Belleville of a Seagraves 600 Gallon Pumper, pursuant to an ordinance adopted on October 13, 1931.

"Reference is made in said ordinance to Chapter 67 of the Laws of 1917. This reference is limited strictly to the issuance of bonds to meet the appropriation for said fire apparatus and does not comprehend the manner or method of procedure authorized for the purchase of said fire apparatus.

"The authorization for the procedure for the purchase of said fire apparatus therefore falls within the scope of Article 17, Section 2, Chapter 162 of Laws of 1917, known as the Home Rule Act, which has superseded Chapter 67 of the Laws of 1917, insofar as the actual authorization for the purchase of fire apparatus is concerned.

"The Home Rule Act contains a provision that municipal contracts for over $1,000.00 shall be awarded to the lowest bidder. The Courts of this State, however, in construing this provision of the statute have uniformly held that the purchase of fire apparatus does not come within the purview thereof, stating that no municipality can draft specifications which would apply to all fire apparatus of the kind desired and that there can be no standard specifications, stating further that a municipality in purchasing fire apparatus has some discretion within proper limits as to the apparatus which it will purchase.

"It is my opinion that the said Seagraves 600 gallon pumper so authorized to be purchased on October 13, 1931 has been legally purchased and bonds may be legally issued therefor for a period of Ten years."

Williams contends the contract should go to the lowest bidder. He was vexed because Brown failed to state whether the bonds for the machine could be funded with other bonds.

Commissioner Carragher joined Williams in his stand, saying he would not vote for acceptance of the apparatus because it had failed to work at a fire and since being repaired had not been put through an underwriter's test.

At the afternoon conference, Commissioner Williams stated, "Any amateur knows that bonds may be issued for the engine. My question was whether the bonds could be funded with other bonds."

Carragher protests Parleys.

Carragher urged citizens to protest the afternoon conferences of the board Tuesdays before the night session. By approving at a conference, but without inclusion in the minutes, his proposal for an addition to the rear of the Town Hall, the board "put him in a jam," he said. He had gone ahead by employing Paul West as architect, he said, but when it came to paying West $750 for preparing plans the others left him "holding the bag" without budget appropriation to cover the item and with little likelihood of making the addition.

The Belleville Taxpayers' Association acknowledged Mayor Ken-

worthy's explanation of his appointment of an assistant town physician, but stated "in spite of the explanation, we still believe the present day condition is no time to create new positions and still feel it is necessary that your chairman meet our committee." In the absence of the Mayor the communication was referred to conference next Tuesday.

Williams advised the board he was preparing to hold a public sale of $70,000 worth of tax title liens, from two to nineteen years old. Few affect the sale of homes, he said.

Girl Scouts Honor Mrs. Lorena Clark

Troop No. 7 Pays Tribute As Five Years Are Completed As Leader

On March 31, Mrs. Lorena Clark, Captain of Girl Scout Troop No. 7, was invited to attend a dish towel supper in the social hall of Grace Baptist Church, and right here for outsiders who are interested "a dish towel supper" consists of each scout bringing a covered dish of something good to eat wrapped in a dish towel, with knife, fork and spoon. After the "eats" are all over she washes her dishes, dries them on the towel and takes them home again. Very clever, we will say. Mrs. Clark expected only a few of the Troop to be present, but when she walked in, she saw thirty-four members of the troop seated at tables beautifully decorated and holding all kinds of nicely cooked food, everyone snatched "surprises," and then announced it was an honor given Mrs. Clark on the completion of her fifth year as captain of the troop. The dinner was cooked under the general chairmanship of Miss Dolores Sauvan, with Alice Nordeck, Bernice Ehrlich, Doris Colehamer in charge of cooking, and the dining room, Dolores Sauvan and Mary Scanlon.

The scouts all wore green uniforms and decorations were in yellow and white. After serving the dinner a birthday cake with five candles, and a beautiful bouquet was presented to Mrs. Clark. She responded with a graceful speech of thanks. Bernice Ehrlich had the honor of presenting the two gifts. Mrs. Clark then called upon two of the oldest members of the troop, Virginia Brown and Clara Mae Brodhead for speeches, and also the youngest member, Janet Smith.

A program followed including a violin solo by Adrienne Adler, piano solos by Bernice Ehrlich, a group sketch, with clever interpretations of various radio artists. The crowning event of the program was when a group announced they would "show" the different moods and tenses of the beloved captain, Mrs. Clark. It was certainly funny and very enjoyable for Mrs. Clark.

Meeting Planned By Community Service Bureau Trustees

The regular meeting of the Trustees of the Belleville Community Service Bureau will be held Wednesday evening, April 13, at 8:15 in the office, 228 Washington Avenue.

LIBRARY NEWS

Will you come into my garden? Now that spring seems to have really come, and old man sun is sending his warm beams down to make all the green things wake up and raise their heads above the ground, our thoughts most naturally turn towards gardens and gardening. What shall we have first? A flower garden? Certainly, and I am sure you will find many helpful ideas in the books on gardening at the library.

Some of the books on various flowers are: Book of perennials, Hostes; Garden bluebook of annuals and biennials, Orloff; Colour schemes for the flower garden, Jekyll; Garden Flowers as they grow, Thomas; Home flower growing, Voltz.

Then if you want to specialize in certain flowers there are such books as: Roses and how to grow them—Roses for all American climates, Thomas; Roses in the little gardens, Stevens; Book of bulbs, Rockwell; Bulbs for American gardens, Wister; Bulbs that bloom in the spring, Weston; Book of the tulip, Hall; Dutch bulbs and gardens, Nixon; Irises, Rockwell; Dahlias, Garden; Sweet peas, Unwin; Chrysanthemums and how to grow them, Powell; Daffodils, Kirby; Azaleas and camellias, Hume.

For you who are interested in the rock garden there are: Rock gardens, Rockwell and Rock garden primer, Thornton.

Did someone say, but what about the vegetable? Never fear, he is of too great importance to be forgotten. Some good books on vegetable gardening are: Vegetable garden, Bennett; Productive vegetable gardening, Lloyd A. B. C. of vegetable gardening, Rexford; Audel's gardeners and growers, Vicks; Flower and kitchen gardens, Cosgrove.

For you who are so fortunate as to have a garden pool, or are planning to make one, we have: Garden pools, Ramsey and Lawrence; Water lilies, Conrad and Hus.

Then for you who do not care to brave the sun's hot glare for the sake of an outdoor garden, we have: Adventures in dish gardening, Beard.

Mrs. Marcus Wertz of Overlook avenue was hostess to her bridge club Wednesday afternoon, members playing were Mrs. Floyd Stager, Mrs. Charles Ludolph, Mrs. Milton Colbath, Mrs. DeWitt Gruman, Mrs. Peter Goldschmidt, Mrs. Harold Peterson, Mrs. Earl Briggs and Mrs. Joseph Snyder all Belleville women.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stager of Joralemon street were host and hostess at contract bridge Saturday night. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Archer Ludlow, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stranahan and Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Richenbacher of Newark. Honors went to Mrs. Ludlow and Mr. Stranahan.

Mr. and Mrs. Casper Ebert of 162 Tappan avenue together with their two children Alberta and Ralph have rented their home to Mr. and Mrs. James Hand, and their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Oswald for May 1. Mr. and Mrs. Ebert and family have in turn rented from Mrs. Laura Eveland her apartment at 274 Hornblower avenue.

Pardonable Pride

News Feature Section
Wins National Reputation From W.N.U.

When the Belleville News replaced its colored comics with a feature section, many expressed the feeling that the introduction of materials so attractive to young and old would be indeed an upward step.

The Children have come to know and anticipate Finney of the Force, and Mickey, the Printer's Devil. Teachers have urged their attention to Fader's Historical Sketches. Readers have welcomed those top-notchers, Fannie Hurst and Irving Bacheller. Beauty Talks and many other items find in the ladies many interested followers. The pictures keep us all in touch with the doings of the world, and what well-informed man or woman doesn't enjoy Arthur Brisbane's This Week?

As we have said, local comment has complimented us on this fine feature. It has not, however stopped at that. The Western Newspaper Union, one of the largest syndicates in the world has been so pleased with this section, inaugurated by the publisher of the Belleville News, that they are introducing it to papers throughout the United States and Canada. A copy of our front page has been sent to every one of these.

This action on the part of the Western Newspaper Union has filled us with pardonable pride: A pride in what we have been told is an excellent feature—the best that any paper can give.

Troop 92, Boy Scouts of America, held its regular meeting at the Recreation House on Friday evening.

Tests were passed and first class pins awarded to Bennett Barnett and Richard Lukowial.

The Troop was visited by Mr. Brumbach, local Scout Commissioner, and Scoutmaster Barnes of Troop 90.

Puzzle Winners

The winners of the Belleville News-Capitol Theatre Puzzle Contest are: Russell Stewart, Walter Smith, Gladys Perry, Harry Estelle, Jr., Robert Joiner, Jr., R. E. Pierce, Richard Gaske, Kenneth Boyd, Rena Anderson and Mrs. L. Thatcher.

The above may obtain their Capitol Theatre tickets at the News office.

SCHOOLS

By WILLIAM GRAY

The annual sight-seeing tour of the national capital, which is taken each year by the Senior Class of Belleville High School during the Easter vacation, was made this year on March 28, 29, and 30.

The class of 1932, together with their chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. Steel, Miss Joseph and Mr. Kittle, assembled at the New Jersey Central Railroad Station in Newark at 8 o'clock Monday morning, March 28. Buses transported the party to Elizabeth, where special cars were provided by the Baltimore and Ohio for the trip down to Washington.

Upon arriving in Washington, the party boarded buses for a general tour of the city. Among the points of interest visited were the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument, impressive manifestations of American admiration of two of her most renowned servants.

Monday evening the class visited the Library of Congress and became especially interested in the original manuscripts of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States.

The second day of the tour included trips to the Zoological Gardens, the Arlington National Cemetery, and Mt. Vernon. Every one experienced a certain awe at seeing the Custis Lee mansion at Arlington and Washington's home at Mt. Vernon, two beautiful old homes which have stood since our country's infancy and have seen it grow to its present position as leader among nations.

On Wednesday morning an inspection tour was made of several buildings in Washington. Included in the group visited were the Department of Printing and Engraving; the Pan-American building; the White House; Smithsonian Institute; and, as a fitting conclusion to the tour, the Capitol. Here many of the group were fortunate in visiting the Senate in session.

The Seniors returned home Wednesday evening, all agreed that the trip had been one of the most eventful vacations they have ever spent.

Belleville High's Dramatic Club, of which Mrs. A. Vander Veer is the leader, presented several short and very amusing skits in assembly, Tuesday-morning. One of the funniest, was "On A Park Bench," by Louis Westra, Harry Stratton and John "Fuzzy" Ryder. This bit of tomfoolery nearly upset the dignity of the faculty; as both students and teachers nearly split their sides with laughter.

The finals in the oratorical contest being held at the high school, will meet in the near future to decide the winners. This new and interesting activity at the school, is under the supervision of Mr. Hughes, a member of the faculty.

Miss McDonald, supervisor of debating activities at high school, matched her charges against the East Orange team yesterday at East Orange. They met again this morning at Belleville. "Resolved That The State or Federal Governments, or Individuals Should Control The Water Power," was the question discussed. As yet, we have been unable to find out who won.

Prices on dances have gone up, since an additional hour has been allowed. Previous to the new time allotment, the hours for afternoon dances at the high school were from three to five, at fifteen cents. It is now three to six, at two bits. Somebody needs money. Don't we all?

It is with open arms and grateful hearts that we receive word of the newly established study room and reference library in our "Alma Mater." This move on the part of our Parent Teacher Association, is one of the most intelligent actions that can be taken by any group of educational officials.

Sent To Jail

Recorder Fitzsimmons Monday sentenced Addie Scott, Negress, of 381 North Tenth street, to a year in the penitentiary on a charge of atrocious assault and battery. Police said jealousy caused her to stab Raymond Sorie, Negro, of 382 North Tenth street at his home early Sunday. Sorie, treated at Orange Memorial Hospital for cuts on the left arm, was given a six months suspended sentence and ordered out of town on a drunk and disorderly charge.

Lowest Death Rate

tal. There were no cases in the Third Ward, the most densely populated, which, in the opinion of the health officer, was because of the high percentage of immunization of children. Schick tests for immunization totaled 772, with thirty-eight positive reactions. The number of school children starting the treatment was 357 and pre-school seventy-seven. Three culture stations were maintained at a cost of $166.25.

Three cases of infantile paralysis, all from the Fourth Ward, resulted in one death and complete recovery of the others. There were fifty-one cases of pneumonia and twenty-one of tuberculosis. Tuberculosis examinations numbered 127, the work being carried on jointly with the Essex Mountain Sanitarium.

Vaccinations numbered 1,113, of which 1,050 took effect. School children vaccinated numbered 933, pre-school 171 and adults nine.

Expenditures were $18,603.13, of which $14,899.68 was for salaries.

The health officer recommends continuance of diphtheria and smallpox preventive measures, the starting of periodic clinical examination of food handlers, elimination of street hawkers selling foodstuffs and additional funds for periodic bacteriological analysis of milk and oysters. He said the present system of inspection at the source might result in the introduction of "bootleg" oysters in the stores.

The officer's complete report follows:

"Belleville's death rate for 1931 was 7.64 per 1,000 based on an estimated population of 27,350, in comparison with 8.63 for 1930. The reduction in Belleville's death rate for 1931, is eminently satisfactory. This was accomplished in a year of great distress and unemployment and where family budgets had to be reduced as a result of diminished incomes. Deaths for 1931 totaled 209, a decrease of 26 over 1930.

"The total number of births in 1931 was 474, an increase of 19 over 1930 when there were 455, establishing a birth rate of 17.3 per 1,000 population in comparison with 16.7 for 1930.

"Our infant mortality rate, i. e.: deaths under one year 1,000 living births for 1931, was 33.7, in comparison with 48.3 for 1931. Total deaths under one year for 1930, 22. Our rate of 33.7 for 1931 is, I believe, one of the lowest, if not the lowest, in Essex County.

"Communicable diseases numbered 591, compared with 871 in 1930. The following diseases showed an increase during the year:

	1930	1931
Diphtheria	29	56
Scarlet Fever	62	133
Chicken Pox	78	95
Whooping Cough	95	165
Typhoid Fever	—	2
Infantile Paralysis	—	3

"Those showing a decrease over 1930 were:

	1930	1931
Measles	395	14
German Measles	101	10
Tuberculosis	32	21

"Diphtheria cases numbered 56 compared with 29 in 1930. Three non-immunized cases were fatal. There were no cases reported from the third ward, the most densely populated, which in the opinion of the Health officer is partly due to the high percentage of children immunized from this ward. Three cases of infantile paralysis, all from the fourth ward, resulted in one death and complete recovery of the others.

"Tuberculosis clinics numbered 14, at which 127 persons were examined, 18 admitted to sanatoria. X-rays taken, 35; examinations of sputums, 58; and skin tests numbered 18.

"There were 1,113 persons vaccinated against smallpox, 171 pre-school age; 933 school age, and 9 adults. Of the total 1,113, 1050 were taken, 62 negative.

"During 1931, 36 persons were continually under treatment for social diseases, the following treatments were given at the clinic: 25 Wassermanns; 80 treatments of neo-salvasan; 416 treatments of Bismuth; 26 treatments of Sod. Theo. and 3 treatments of Heg. Rub.

"During the year the heads of five dogs were examined for possible rabies. Two negatives, three positive, five persons bitten received the Pasteur treatment.

"Reports sent to State Department of Health numbered 2,834. To various County Boards of Health, 2,268, coming into town.

Homes quarantined numbered 213 and cases of suspicious communicable diseases isolated, 410.

"Associated Humane Society removed from the streets of Belleville, 690 stray unlicensed dogs, and 380 dead dogs, also 255 dead cats.

"The department maintains three culture stations in Town, one new station being opened this year. A total of 665 nose and throat cultures were taken; 65 positive, 600 negative.

"357 health violations were reported and abated during the year, and six persons summoned to court and fined for violation of Sanitary Code. 284 inspections were made during the year, including dairies, stores, restaurants, boarding homes, and so on.

"During the year the Child Hygiene Nurses made the following visits and inspections: 64,047 examinations and inspections of school children, also 10,109 home visits were made as abated during the year, and 1,052; babies under one year, 4,118; preschool children, 3,003; and school children, 1,936.

"A total of 3,433 visits were made to Child Hygiene Clinics as follows: Babies under one year, 2,482; preschool children, 951; 231 mothers attended prenatal clinic. During the year 3,811 defects were detected and 2,720 were corrected among children. 772 school children were Schick Tested, 38 negative, 739 positive, and 357 started treatments receiving three injections of T. A. At the preschool clinic conducted for the first time this year 77 children were Schick Tested, 70 negative, and 6 positive and 187 children started treatments receiving three injections of Toxin-anti-toxin, for a total of 3,330 injections.

The Health Officer recommends continuance of diphtheria and smallpox measures, starting of periodic examinations of food handlers, elimination of street hawkers, selling food stuffs and additional funds for periodic bacteriological analysis of milk and oysters coming into town.

LET'S HAVE A PAY-YOUR-BILLS WEEK

HOW would Pay-Your-Bills Week fit into the drive against hoarding?

Ask the creditors. Possibly some of the debtors could say that the dollar with which they could pay is yet in circulation. What about accelerating it?

If those, who can pay promptly would do so, that would afford creditors an opportunity to trust others and help to keep the ball rolling.

Along with this is the rumor that among the delinquents are those who give the impression that they are amply able to pay promptly. If so, they are the worst kind of hoarders.

Never mind whether there are enough weeks in the year to be used without over-lapping, let's have a Pay-Your-Bills Week.

SCHOOL LIBRARY

RECENTLY, the Board of Education provided for the establishing of a combined study room and reference library at the high school.

This new feature is located in a room in the basement of the south wing of the building. Such a room, is of great importance to a school. The mere fact that in previous years Belleville High, with an enrollment of almost one thousand, and at present, over one thousand; has not had such a library, has hindered it from being considered an accredited high school in the United States.

The library is in its infancy. Present economic conditions prohibit the purchasing of the necessary volumes of reference books that are needed so badly by the modern student. But with the aid of the Parent-Teacher Association and the state allowance we see no earthly reason why this worthy venture should fail.

THE BIGGEST OF BARGAINS

THE automobile manufacturers are entitled to a great deal of credit for their efforts to stem the depression tide. While nearly all other lines of business are curtailing, the automobile makers, with truly admirable courage, are risking tremendous fortunes in speeding up their business and cutting profits to the bone.

President Hoover's plea to the public, last week, was sound and well advised. The automobile makers deserved the tribute he paid them.

If they are successful in awakening a desire on the part of the buying public for new cars, they can hardly hope for any great financial reward, so drastic are the price cuts. And, if the public fails to respond, the makers will lose a very great amount of money.

That they are ready and willing to take the great risk involved is something that should long be remembered to their credit.

It seems impossible that the automobile trade could offer greater bargains than are announced this Spring. The prices offer the absolute limit in economy, and no finer cars have ever been put out than are offered now to the public. A few years ago, today's prices would have seemed ridiculous.

The automobile industry is the real gauge to America's financial well-being. A prosperous automobile industry means a prosperous country. No other industry has the power to bring to so many varied industries the hope of good times.

It is not too much to say that, if every person financially able to buy a new car this year should do so, the depression would soon be over. This depression can only be broken by a desire on the part of the public to purchase according to needs. At present, unfortunately, cash is being widely hoarded.

Plenty of persons can afford to buy new cars. By purchasing now they not only get the benefit of prices much lower than could be reached in normal times, but they will also aid tremendously in starting the idle wheels in very many industries. In this case it is not a question at all of aiding the manufacturers to make money (they can't make much money at these prices), but of helping our greatest industry to keep men at work.

If the public will not respond to these bargains, then the outlook is, indeed, cloudy for all business.

"HEROIC MEASURES"

THE steamship lines of the North Atlantic service have undertaken what they regard as "heroic measures" against the diminishing passenger traffic to Europe—going and coming. They have agreed to cut rates approximately 20 per cent, and that reduction will affect all classes: first, second and third class and tourist and cabin. If that big slicing of the cost of crossing the ocean does not produce more revenue by inducing more people to take the trip, the companies allow that they do not know what will.

European tours are, for the most part, to be classed as luxuries. They fall into the list of things that can be done without. But so drastic a cut in rates is certain to attract many who find in them educational advantages that can be obtained in no other way. Expenses on the other side can be made as high or as low as the traveller chooses. No such opportunity to see the "old countries" has been offered for years, if ever.

Eleventh Birthday

Party Is Planned By Miles Suarez Post

Drum Corps To Act As Escort For V. President Curtis

Members and friends of Miles A. Suarez Post 711, V. F. W. are to enjoy the eleventh birthday party, on Saturday night, at Robin Hood Inn, Upper Montclair. All members of the post are expecting this party to surpass all other social activities of this year. Arrangements have been made to have an evening that members will long remember. The biggest night of the year is the prediction of the entertainment committee. Wm. Vough, chairman, of the entertainment committee advises us not to miss it.

At the meeting Monday night, the post acted upon communications from National Headquarters and State Headquarters, and various Essex County V. F. W. Posts, inviting the vets to attend their activities. The post decided to support all these to the best of its ability.

News Cleans Up

A week has been set aside by the board of commissioners as clean-up week in Belleville. Not to be out-done by the rest of the town the Belleville News has also decided to clean up.

With that idea in mind the News comes to you this week all dressed up and printed with new fonts of type that will make the reading of items in this paper a greater pleasure for all.

Gone is the type that had seen service for the past six years. Thrown in the discard, never to be used again. This antiquated metal has made room for brighter and clearer characters. Characters that will make the lines loom up before your eyes as a baseball appears before the eyes of Babe Ruth.

So all of you that have heretofore read artificially are urged to take off your "specs" and give them a good spring cleaning. Throw them away if you will. You will never need them again when you sit down in your favorite easy chair and pick up your favorite paper for a newsy evening at home.

Welfare Council

The Colored Welfare Council has met at their headquarters, 7 Academy street for over a year. We invite the public to attend a ham hunt at Edison Salter's home, 32 Prospect street, on Tuesday evening, April 12.

We wish to thank the public for their cooperation in the Pew Rally last Sunday at 11:00 a. m.

The Heritage American Room

No. 1—The Old Room

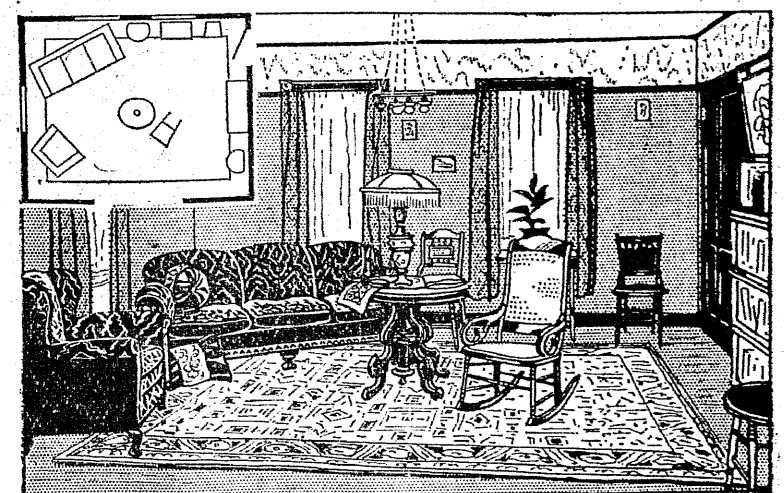

By CARL HECK

Consulting Art Director, Bigelow Weavers

FEW women have a home so beautiful that they wouldn't welcome an opportunity to improve its appearance. And none has a home so poor that it couldn't be made more comfortable and attractive by a few inexpensive touches here and there. Accordingly every woman will be interested in the new "Heritage American" philosophy of decoration which means utilizing the furnishings she articles to follow. I shall trace, step by step, the changes that were made in converting this typical old room into the charming Heritage American room you shall see illustrated in the final article.

The room that we shall work on is shown in the accompanying drawing. Two features about this old room immediately stand out. There is a poor color harmony and the furniture has in interiors of charm and good taste by refinishing the old pieces at a modest cost. Then they go with new items of home furnishings which she might want to purchase.

The plan is best applied to the thousands and thousands of typical homes in this country containing furnishings manufactured between the last recognized period, the Victorian, and the present era. A great deal of this furniture has come to us from our parents and relatives—a heritage from the previous generation.

Hence the name "Heritage American." These furnishings were gradually acquired, one by one, each without any particular thought or relation to the other pieces.

Typical Room Constructed

I visited many, of these typical homes on a recent tour through the Middle Atlantic and Middle Western states and made sketches of typical pieces of furniture I saw there which are representative of the furnishings in the majority of American homes. To show just what can be accomplished under this new philosophy of decoration, the Bigelow Weavers set up a typical room and then refurnished it. In the is badly arranged. Both of these factors have a disturbing effect on individual pieces of furniture, regardless of any merit they may possess.

The walls are plain, yellowish tan. The over-drapes are blue, self figured damask reaching within a foot of the floor. The wood trim of the windows, base board and door is mahogany varnish stain. An overstuffed sofa in taupe cut velvet is placed across the corner of the room and a chair to match is nearby. In the center of the room, a marble top table, of good lines but doubtful ancestry, supports a lamp under the hanging chandelier. Close at hand is a comfortable, low-armed rocker, too often revarnished, and against the right hand wall, a sectional book case. Add three small chairs, haphazardly placed, then set it all on a rug of too active a pattern on an oak floor too light in color and there you have a picture of a room that we shall transform into a charming Heritage American room that justifies the name of living room.

In attacking the problem offered by this and thousands of other typical rooms, the first consideration is the treatment of the walls. Our next article will describe this in detail.

About Books by Cyrus Wood

Out from the old Savoy Theatre in London that memorable evening in 1881 went an audience whose chuckles did not cease with the final curtain, and were not to cease for many days to come. Months before they had become fed up with hearing about the preciousness of art and beauty, and now they had heard a musical play which let the sawdust out of the pretty doll of artyness.

"You must cultivate a passion of a vegetable fashion.

To excite your languid pleen,
An attachment a la Plate for a bashful young potato,

Or a not too french, french bean."

Thus did the "ethereal" artistic posing of his time receive its death-blow from the pen of W. S. Gilbert in his immortal "Patience," and again had the sharpened quill of satire pricked the bubble of self-delusion.

The tradition of satire is a great tradition, and the company a noble company, to which any author might with dignity aspire. Wyndham Lewis, whose novel, "The Apes of God" has just been published in this country by McBride, is a no-longer-young Englishman whose voice has often, since the war, been raised sharply and vigorously in protest against the stupidities of his fellow-men. His magazine, "The Enemy," was the chief intellectual opposition to the philosophical pessimism of Spengler and the literary stammerings of Gertrude Stein and her disciples. In its pages first appeared the savage ironies now bound between covers as "The Apes of God."

Like Gilbert in "Patience," Lewis has taken for his target the "advanced" artistic crowd in London; their painful self-satisfaction, their utter lack of intellectual or emotional discipline, their childish preoccupation with novelty. Fundamentally, perhaps, a paternal concern underlies the colossal spanking which Mr. Lewis administers to the artistic pygmies and fakes who people his gallery. But undoubtedly their reaction will hardly be that of children to sound admonition. Rather we must assume, their chief concern will be to spring immediately to their own defence, for adult hypocrisy is the most viciously self-perpetuating disease known to psychology.

Mr. Lewis' stature as a satirist is difficult to estimate at the close range at which a man is always seen by his contemporaries, but the wind of honesty and intellectual strength blows unflinchingly through his book. Whether he belongs with Swift, Anatole France, Voltaire, Lawrence Sterne and the other giants, is a question which only time can answer. Meanwhile a considerable number of distinguished critics in his own country are inclined to rank him at the top of the tree.

Apart from its tonic effect as satire, Mr. Lewis' book attains reality as a novel. If it were confined to lampooning, it need not be so ample and solid a book as it is. It is because Mr. Lewis understands his responsibilities as a story-teller that he has undertaken the broad-scale and successful creation of a real world in which to have his characters move.

Whatever else may be said, it is unquestionable that Mr. Lewis is possessed of a keen mind, a powerful prose style, and most important of all a restlessly inquiring mind which has spent its energy in a serious attempt to help our age understand itself. We may disagree with his promises or his conclusions, but only intellectual indifference or fear will prevent us from looking to see whether he has contributed to the handwriting on the wall.

"The Apes of God" is reviewed for this column by Winchell Taylor.

HIGHLIGHTS and HEADLINES

By LILLIAN THOMAS

What Washington D. C. needs is a Peace Treaty composed especially for our Congressmen.

Democratic Party seems to be as disorganized as the red flannel underwear club.

When all New York City's officials have been investigated, Samuel Seabury might try investigating Samuel Seabury.

As we understand it Mr. Hoover may, after all, sleep in the same bed till 1937.

And Congressman La Guardia, it seems, turned out to be the best Santa Claus the Republicans ever had.

Too bad for the Democrats, though. By broadcasting through La Guardia they created a lot of static for themselves.

Judge Thompson says more women than men ask for divorces. A man realizes that nowadays it's cheaper for him to stay married.

Psychologists report that slow driving is the major cause of motor accidents. That's what we tried to tell an officer the other night, but it didn't work.

Average student forgets forty-five per cent of what he learned in college. And that reminds us of the bride who forgot forty-five per cent of what her mother told her.

In response to Joe Hartley: Yes, I have over three hundred snapshots of folks who read this column. They stand for fond memories of a literary career. Thank you.

Next Thursday at 2:30 P. M. (April 14) the Woman's Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Clifford Whitfield, 85 Rossmore place.

That same evening at 8 P. M. the members of the Official Board of the Church will meet with Clifford Whitfield at his home 85 Rossmore place.

On Wednesday evening, April 13, preceding the mid-week prayer and Praise Services, the members of the Congregation are requested to meet for the purpose of electing three Friendly Society held a business meeting, followed by a "Baby Photograph" guessing contest, and an "Advertising" guessing contest, under the direction of Mrs. Harvey W. Mumford, her group of High School Juniors and her deputy, Miss Bertha R. Mumford. This group, comprising the Misses Muriel Bailey, Martha Carswell, Pearl Hemingway, Rayna Maryott, Gladys Reyle, Dolores Sauvan and Allene Schenck will be in charge of all the April meetings.

On next Wednesday evening reports on the progress of ticket sales, and final arrangements for the progressive and pivot party to be held on the evening of the twentieth, will be in order, also some group singing, and perhaps another contest. April 20, the public card party, to raise funds for the annual pledge to the Holiday House and on April 27 a stereopticon lecture on Japan by Mrs. Willis G. Dowden, of Maplewood.

Mrs. Dowden has made several trips to Japan, and her talk is more a recital of personal experiences than a stereotyped lecture. She is a sister of Mrs. Mumford and Mrs. F. R. Smith, and until recently they had relatives living in Yokohama. This will also be open to the congregation, at a charge of twenty-five cents for adults, and ten cents for children and G. F. S. members. The Candidates are having a Colonial Tea, at the parish house, on Saturday at 2:30, under the charge of Miss F. M. Williams.

Award winners at the Salmagundi party last week were: Mrs. Herbert Ainsworth in bridge, and June Ellison, Helen Kelsall and Betty Schaeffer, highest scores at each table in the other games.

Under the auspices of the Men's Club, there will be an evening of talking pictures and music, followed by a pancake and sausage supper at the parish house, on Tuesday, April 12. The pictures are shown by M. Hoag of the Chrysler Motor Car Co., and are of the manufacture and testing of Plymouth cars; and there will also be some comedy reels shown. The pancake supper is by the Wheatworth Flour Co. This is a complimentary affair, but tickets must be procured from a member of the Men's Club, so kindly apply for the desired number.

Regular monthly meeting of the vestry will be held at the parish house on Friday evening of next week April 15.

BELLEVILLE REFORMED Main and Rutgers Streets Rev. John A. Struyk

Yesterday afternoon the Ladies' Aid Society held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Wadsworth of 74 Rossmore place.

Tonight, 8:15 o'clock, the monthly session of the consistory of the church will meet at the chapel. Election of officers for the coming year.

There will be a food sale given by the Missionary Society Saturday, April 16, from one-thirty to five, and a splendid selection of food cakes and pies will be on sale. The chairman will be Mrs. T. C. Stewart. It is hoped that this sale will be well patronized. The Fewsmith Memorial will hold their regular meeting Thursday, April 14, at 2:30 P. M. in the Church School Room. The speaker for the afternoon will be Mrs. O. B. Close. Hostesses will be Mrs. W. E. Caldwell, Mrs. J. Cameron, Mrs. Geo. Cox and Mrs. G. L. Brown.

A most unusual event is taking place this week at the Fewsmith Church. The members of the congregation and their friends are conducting what is known as a crucible campaign to which households of the community are contributing their old jewelry, trinkets and other articles containing precious metals. When the crucible is filled the articles will be melted down and the reclaimed gold will be used as a fund for Church work. In organizing this campaign, said the pastor, Rev. O. B. Close, we had in mind several facts. The first is that there is in every household a source of revenue which is of little value to the individual but which to us collectively means much. I refer to

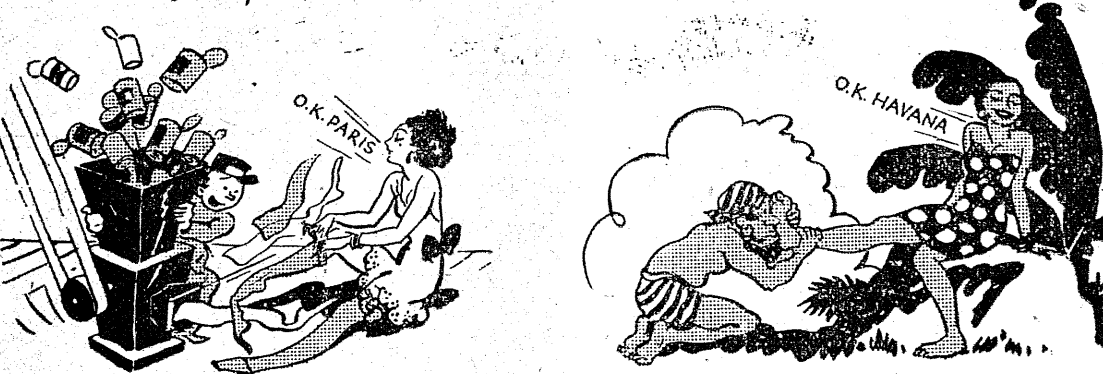

SOMETHING Walter Winchell NEVER KNEW 'TIL NOW

THAT—IT IS REALLY TRUE THAT THE ELEPHANT THE LARGEST OF THE ANIMALS, IS AFRAID OF AN ORDINARY HOUSE MOUSE

THAT—WHEN BYRON TRAVELLED, HE ALWAYS TOOK TWO COACHES; ONE FOR HIMSELF AND HIS SERVANTS, AND ONE FOR HIS PETS, WHICH USUALLY INCLUDED SEVERAL DOGS, MONKEYS, BIRDS, AND A GOOSE OR TWO

THAT—TIN CANS ARE USEFUL IN THE MAKING OF SILK STOCKINGS

THAT—NATIVES ON SEVERAL ISLANDS NEAR THE PHILIPPINES USE THE ABOVE METHOD OF GREETING THEIR FRIENDS

old collections of jewelry, trinkets, and other articles containing gold and silver deposits. These articles have outlined their usefulness. Reposing in idleness and disuse they contribute nothing to anyone's happiness. Our aim is to bring them into circulation in behalf of Christian service.

Moreover we believe this campaign to be particularly timely just now. The calls upon us all have greatly increased. Our means to, give, in money, have in many cases decreased. But by collecting and melting down these articles we have opened up a way to meet the present stress without a drain upon the private purse.

Incidentally, we will in this way, so to speak, mine gold out of what is now useless dross and by putting it into circulation add just that much to the community's prosperity and happiness.

Attend church regularly. The choir meets every Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. S. Whetstone, 32 Oak street.

On Sunday evening, April 17, there will be a special service with students from Caney Creek, Kentucky, a school which has been helped by the Mission Circle.

On Sunday last the children of the Sunday School held their Easter Services in the church. A program of recitations and hymns by the children was arranged. Each child received a plant which were donated by the Sunday School of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Teaneck, N. J.

"My Religion" will be the general theme of the pastor's sermons for the coming weeks. The aim will be to analyse the things we believe to the further strengthening of our faith. The series begins next Sunday, the topic being, "Why Believe, Anyway."

Life gains in power from the quiet hour.

Next Wednesday evening the third illustrated lecture on Biblical history will be given by Mr. Nicholas Klaus representing the Holyland Bible Knowledge Society, Inc., of Los Angeles, Cal. His lecture will deal with the period covering Joshua, the Judges and Kings of Israel to Hezekiah.

"THAT LITTLE GAME" --- Two Wild Jokers

Belleville-Nutley Rotary Clubs Hold First Joint Meeting In Two Years

Newton W. Gilbert, Former Governor-General Of The Philippine Islands, Was Guest Speaker Thursday Afternoon

Thursday afternoon marked the first time in two years that the Belleville and Nutley Rotary Clubs gathered together for a joint meeting. The meeting was held at the Yantacaw Country Club. James P. Whitman of the Belleville Club was the chairman of the combined gathering.

Mr. Whitmore introduced Newton W. Gilbert, F. R. G. S., as the guest speaker. Mr. Gilbert, a prominent New York attorney, had for his topic the life and politics of the Philippine Islands. He is a man that was well qualified to speak on such a subject due to the many years he spent in office on the islands.

From 1906 to 1908 Mr. Gilbert was Judge in the Court of Instance in the Philippines. From 1908 to 1909 he served as a member of the Philippine Commission. He was vice governor of the islands from 1909 to 1912. In 1912 he was appointed governor general and served in that capacity for a year.

Mr. Gilbert was also a captain in the American army in the Spanish American war. The speaker is now president of the Philippine American Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Gilbert was secured to speak due to the efforts of Roscoe Symonds, Nutley commission candidate and president of the Belleville-Nutley Buick Company. Mr. Symonds was on friendly terms with the speaker from 1910 to 1917 when the former was an engineer in the Philippine Islands.

FASHION NEWS—Spring, 1932

THE simple daytime frock of this season oftentimes chooses cotton for its fabric. The diagonal line dress... always a favorite with chic women... works up extremely well in one of the new meshes. (McCall 6328). A vivid leather belt is ensembled with the design, while cuffs of contrasting color are chosen. Buttons are used to outline the seaming and are smartest when they match the belt. Mesh cottons, woven-tuck cottons and ribbed textures are among the new popular types. Wide revers are another fashion point which must be featured in new wardrobes for they add to the shoulder width... an important trend this season. (McCall 6306). And sleeves, worn just above the elbow, add still another tailored note. (By courtesy of The McCall Company).

Leg Broken

Ralph DeLea, forty-two, believed to live in Watchung avenue, suffered fracture of the right leg Wednesday when struck at Washington avenue and Holmes street, by an automobile driven by Leo Donohue of 43 Linden avenue.

There is a Ralph DeLeo registered from 64 Watchung avenue on the town's unemployed list, but a police check reveals no such number. The man speaks Italian only. Beth Israel Hospital authorities are awaiting the arrival of relatives to determine his address.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. ©1931, C. M. Co.

Doings in the Field of Sports

..This Whirl Of Sport..

BY ARTHUR BLOEMKE

BASEBALL!

THE first rumbles on the local baseball front were heard, last week. The American Legion, dominating force in the ranks of ball-players in town for the past three years, made definite plans for the current season.

Joe Williams, key-figure in Legion athletic activities, will return to the baseball wars as president of the league. The matchless ingenuity of this organizer of the loop will stand the league in good stead for what promises to be a turbulent campaign.

A drastic step in re-organization was taken with the announcement that but six teams will be permitted in the circuit this season. Last year there were eight.

This revolutionary move, anticipated by many, will provide a somewhat ticklish situation. The entire octet of last season are known to be anxious to re-enter.

Just who the pair to be dropped are is a matter of some conjecture.

A league race, with the Elks, Moose, St. Peter's, Belleville A. A., Bachelors and St. Anthony's as contenders, should have balance and class galore. But the Parks and Giants have their supporters and must be considered. Quite a problem, to say the least.

FOUR OUTSIDERS

IN the several years of the ball loop's existence, one rule has caused more excitement and comment than any other.

Just how many out-of-towners should be permitted to play with teams in the league? What proportion of a team's make-up should be composed of outsiders, in order to both set a high standard of play and give local boys all the opportunity in the world to take part?

It is a question that has supporters for a minimum number of non-residents and also for the maximum.

This season the Legion decided to allow each team four outsiders, if so desired. In giving the managers of the various nines this advantage of added scope in the choice of their players, the league officials feel they are keeping step with the natural progress of the league.

The games, both from a spectator's and player's stand-point, are bound to be improved, without necessarily curtailing the chances for local performers to play.

This rule will undoubtedly meet with some adverse comment, but, in the main, should work for the betterment of the league.

"SUGAR" FLYNN STEPS DOWN

IN line with the hustle and bustle, attendant with the league's re-organization for 1932, comes the fairly authentic rumor that "Sugar" Flynn has decided to give up his managerial post with the championship St. Peter's nine. After three years of "master-minding" the Saints, during which time his teams came home first twice, "Sugar" has decided to relinquish his position as manager and devote his entire time and efforts in a player's capacity.

We are far from being alone in hoping that he reconsiders this decision. Capable team leaders are the back-bone of any successful baseball league. Fan and player alike are of one mind in the matter of his ability as a leader.

Acknowledged by all as the brainiest manager in this vicinity, "Sugar's" absence would be felt not only by St. Peter's, but by the league.

American Legion Twilight Baseball League To Be A Six Team Affair

Definite Plans For The Coming Season Of The League Have Been Completed By Legion Heads At Meeting

The local post, American Legion, made definite plans for the coming baseball campaign, last week, at a special session of the athletic committee.

The Legion loop, which will begin its fourth straight season of twilight ball, Monday, May 16, will embrace but six teams this year, in place of last year's eight. All team managers desirous of entering clubs in the loop this season, should communicate with Edward Lister, secretary, 93 Union avenue. A $10 entrance fee must accompany every application which is accepted.

A meeting of all team managers will be held at the Town Hall, Wednesday night. This important session will get under way at 8 P. M.

The three nights that have been selected by the American Legion, as regular playing nights during the season, are Monday, Wednesday and Friday, all games being played at Clearman Field. In case of postponement, due to rain or any other cause, Tuesdays and Thursdays will be utilized.

An important rule to be revised at the meeting was the one pertaining to the limiting of non-resident players. Four "outsiders" will be permitted each team this season with no restrictions as to counties.

Joe Williams, organizer of the circuit, will be back at the helm, as president this summer, while John Lawlor will again act in the capacity of treasurer.

Other members of the American Legion Athletic Committee, the executive body of the loop, are: Joseph Delaporte, Oscar Lawson, Francis J. Carragher, Charles L. Steel, Jr., Her-

Hello Bills Cop Final Home

Morris And Essex

Match

The Elks' bowlers took advantage of the farewell appearance on their home alleys, Thursday night, to turn back the Commonwealth Club of Montclair in a Morris and Essex League match. After the two quintets had split the initial pair of games, the Hello Bills came back in the final to win that one and the match.

Tom MacNair, veteran anchor man, figured prominently in the winning efforts for the Bellevillites, accounting for a pair of double century marks.

Moose Ball Players Prepare For Big Season

Mike De Carlo Named As New Manager Of Ball Club

The Belleville Moose baseball nine will hold its opening practice of the 1932 campaign, Sunday morning, at Capitol Field. This initial drill will be conducted by Mike DeCarlo, newly appointed manager of the Moose ball club.

In line with their last season's policy of entering the local American Legion Twilight League and playing week-end ball, the Moose expect to have their busiest and best season in recent years. A Saturday and Sunday afternoon schedule, including some of the best semi-pro outfits in the state, is rapidly nearing completion.

Many of the players of last season's successful team will be in Moose baseball regalia for another year.

"Champ" Juliano, "Rosy" Ryan, Jerry Lilore, Kelly Taylor, Fred Astley, "Red" Veasey, "Fat" Allen, Bill Domenick, and Russ Stout will all return.

Ferdie Smith of Irvington, rated as one of the best backstops in this area's semi-pro ranks, has been secured to do the bulk of the catching.

The Moose are angling for several other well-known players to round out a highly promising squad.

Fifty-five Aspirants For Local High Nine

Six Letter-Men Form The Nucleus Of Fine Looking Squad

Coach Frank Spotts' first call for Belleville High baseball candidates was answered by fifty-five boys, Monday afternoon, at the Recreation field. Clearman Field, the home grounds of the Blue and Gold ball-players, is being revamped, and will not be available for the balance of the week, making the use of Recreation Field for the time being a necessity.

Next week, the squad will resume extensive drill at Clearman Field, to prepare for the opening game of the season, scheduled for Tuesday, the 19th, against Dickinson at Jersey City.

Just six of the present squad are letter men, while twenty were unsuccessful candidates last year.

"Mac" Lamb, all-state pitcher, and Eddie O'Neil, four year veteran, who will play first base, will co-captain the nine. The other four letter men are Charley Christell, crackjack third baseman; Nick Bonavita, outfielder and catcher; Johnnie Daly, a converted infelder, out for catcher on this season's team; and Reynolds Golden, second baseman.

Lamb, for four years a regular on Bell-boy nines, will carry the main pitching burden. His fast ball and sharp-breaking curve earned him a niche last spring in all-state ranks, as the hero of a pair of one-hit games. Frank Catalano, second-string twirler, last year, John Gracie, Seymour Wiesen and Alfred Stango are others in line for mound duty.

Warren Knight, an ex-Barringer High regular and recipient of all-state honors, and John Schwab of West Side are the best looking of the new-comers. Knight is a short stop and Schwab is rated as a heavy-hitting outfielder. John Planson, formerly a member of the Upper Darby, (Pa.) High School nine, is another aspirant of note.

This week's practice drill has been confined mainly to the weeding out process and the training of the candidates in the fundamentals. Next week, the final before the start of the hard fifteen-game schedule, will be devoted to the choosing of a regular nine and the perfecting of it in the finer points of the game.

Following is the complete list of candidates:

Malcolm Lamb, Ed O'Neil, Charles Christell, Nick Bonavita, Reynolds Golden, John Daly, John Gracie, Frank Catalano, Seymour Wiesen, Alfred Stango, Albert Caruso, Joe Pillar, Maurice Sasso, Bill Griffin, Fred McQuilkin, Eddie Jenkins, Alvin Keeshan, Howard Wolff, Carl Wittish, Lou Westra, Ned Dunn, Howard Gorman, William Chicowicz, Robert Cocks, Daniel Bride, Richard Lee, John Ryder, John Planson, Warren Knight, John Schwab, Bert Bade, Rocco Freda, Jerry Wengel, Julio Rinaldo, James Rock, LeMar Richardson, James Caruso, William Loepsinger, Wallace Terry, Jack Kieferdorf, Robert Joiner, Edward Pudney, Charles Kraemer, Edward Smith, Markland O'Connell, Joe Cerami, Joe Gross, Ernest Gardi, Herbert Bush, Mike Perry, Tony Pico, Armando Vitiello and Joseph Shanahan.

Attention Boys: American Legion Jr. Baseball Planned

Junior baseball players, desirous of trying-out for the team which will represent the local post American Legion, in the nation-wide tournament to be conducted this spring, are advised to get in touch with Edward Lister, secretary, 93 Union avenue.

Boys, between the ages of 13 and 17, are invited to take part. Players who become seventeen before June 30 are ineligible to compete.

Brightons Annex One From Cameo Pals

Game Was Played Sunday At Belwood Park

The Brightons took the measure of the Cameo Pals, 6-5, in a game played Sunday afternoon at Belwood Park. It was a practice tilt as the Empire A. C. failed to make an appearance, and the Pals were booked on short notice.

A Caruso twirled a 'good game, while Welch and Gonnello divided the catching burden.

Welch poked out a double and Gonnello a triple, Gonnello's hit breaking a 5-5 tie in the last frame and winning the game. H. Caruso, Gonnello and C. Deleagro starred with the stick, each garnering two safeties apiece.

This Sunday afternoon, the Brightons will face the Newark Blue Jacks. The game will start at 3:15 at Belwood Park, with either H. Foster or A. Caruso pitching and Welch or Gonnello on the receiving end.

Bachelors Defeat Caseys To Win 3-Man Bowling Tournament

Belleville A. A. Loses To Caseys In Second Place Roll-Off In Legion

The sensational Bachelors copped the local American Legion 3-Man Bowling Tournament, by defeating their closest rivals, the Knights of Columbus, by thirteen pins, in the all-important finals, Monday night, at Ferrara's. The Caseys later salvaged second place for themselves by downing the Belleville A. A. in a roll-off.

The Oldhams won out in a play-off of a triple tie for fourth place with the Moose and the Parks.

The local post, American Legion, made definite plans for the coming baseball campaign, last week, at a special session of the athletic committee.

The Legion loop, which will begin its fourth straight season of twilight ball, Monday, May 16, will embrace but six teams this year, in place of last year's eight. All team managers desirous of entering clubs in the loop this season, should communicate with Edward Lister, secretary, 93 Union avenue. A $10 entrance fee must accompany every application which is accepted.

A meeting of all team managers will be held at the Town Hall, Wednesday night. This important session will get under way at 8 P. M.

The three nights that have been selected by the American Legion, as regular playing nights during the season, are Monday, Wednesday and Friday, all games being played at Clearman Field. In case of postponement, due to rain or any other cause, Tuesdays and Thursdays will be utilized.

An important rule to be revised at the meeting was the one pertaining to the limiting of non-resident players. Four "outsiders" will be permitted each team this season with no restrictions as to counties.

Joe Williams, organizer of the circuit, will be back at the helm, as president this summer, while John Lawlor will again act in the capacity of treasurer.

Other members of the American Legion Athletic Committee, the executive body of the loop, are: Joseph Delaporte, Oscar Lawson, Francis J. Carragher, Charles L. Steel, Jr., Her-

Brightons Annex One From Cameo Pals

Game Was Played Sunday At Belwood Park

The Brightons took the measure of the Cameo Pals, 6-5, in a game played Sunday afternoon at Belwood Park. It was a practice tilt as the Empire A. C. failed to make an appearance, and the Pals were booked on short notice.

A. Caruso twirled a 'good game, while Welsh and Gonnello divided the catching burden.

Welch poked out a double and Gonnello a triple, Gonnello's hit breaking a 5-5 tie in the last frame and winning the game. H. Caruso, Gonnello and C. Deleagro starred with the stick, each garnering two safeties apiece.

This Sunday afternoon, the Brightons will face the Newark Blue Jacks. The game will start at 3:15 at Belwood Park, with either H. Foster or A. Caruso pitching and Welch or Gonnello on the receiving end.

The sensational Bachelors copped the local American Legion 3-Man Bowling Tournament, by defeating their closest rivals, the Knights of Columbus, by thirteen pins, in the all-important finals, Monday night, at Ferrara's. The Casesys later salvaged second place for themselves by downing the Belleville A. A. in a roll-off.

The Oldhams won out in a play-off of a triple tie for fourth place with the Moose and the Parks.

MEAT RATIONS FOUND IN ARCTIC
HINT AT OLD POLAR TRAGEDYFoods Packed Quarter Century Prove Pure in Chemical Tests

BACK from Franz Josef Land, that frigid, ice-clad grave-yard of many a dauntless polar explorer,
there came recently to Armour and Company, Chicago meat packer, three cans of emergency rations packed
more than a quarter century ago.
For at least thirty years those three cans—one of condensed soup, one of soup and bouilli, and one of beef,
wheat and chocolate—have laid hidden in a cache in that vast Arctic region. Who placed them there and when they were stored are questions
Armour and Company has been unable to answer. Old records have been consulted in vain. Oldest employees have racked their brains fruitlessly.

Few Clues Found

Only a few clues have been found.
For one there is an old account book which indicates that emergency rations were supplied in 1900 to E.
Baldwin, a noted polar explorer of his day, and, in 1901 to one of the expeditions sent out by W. Zeigler, a wealthy American.

For another, the wording of the government inspection label on one of the cans clearly proves that it was packed after March 3, 1901, and prior to 1906. The labels otherwise afford little help. Only the word "Armour" is decipherable on the condensed soup. The emergency ration of beef, wheat and chocolate, reads "Armour Packing Co., Kansas City," and the soup and bouilli reads "Armour Canning Co., Chicago."

History records that Baldwin in 1900 and Zeigler's expedition in 1901 "added little to our knowledge of polar geography, but some useful meteorological, magnetic and tidal observations were made."

Whether it was on either of these exploration ventures that the emergency rations were cached or whether some other gallant souls placed the cans in the ice cairn and then disappeared forever into the Arctic wastes are conjectures which probably never will be answered.

Tests Prove Purity

Curiosity prompted a chemical analysis of the contents of these worn and battered cans which had for so many years reposed in the natural refrigeration of solid ice. Man's victim in bacteriological tests—the condensed soup. This was the only objectionable feature found and
this objection would prove no deterrent to starving men.

These cans found in Arctic may have been emergency rations of some intrepid explorer.

were fed to guinea pigs with no ill effect," to quote the report of the cashedarden chemist who made the tests.

From appearance and odor all three products were exceptionally well preserved. In the soup and bouilli, the beef had a good color and still retained its original cubic shape. Pieces of carrots present had retained their original color to a remarkable degree.
There was, however, fat separation
in both the soup and bouilli and in the condensed soup. This was the only objectionable feature found and
this objection would prove no deter-
rent to starving men.

Buick-Olds-Pontiac
Personnel Appointments AnnouncedNewly Formed Company Is All Ready To Function

Detroit, Mich., April 7—Personnel appointments necessitated by the formation of the newly organized Buick-Olds-Pontiac Sales Company were announced here by Richard H. Grant, vice president of General Motors in charge of sales.

Mr. Grant announced that J. T. Collins, formerly general sales manager
of the Oldsmobile Motor Works, would be attached to Mr. Grant's staff on special assignments, and will be director of company-owned retail stores.

Other personnel appointments to the Buick-Olds-Pontiac Sales Company are:

D. P. Brother, director of the advertising section of General Motors, will also direct the advertising of the new company. J. E. Grimm, Jr., long identified with General Motors sales and advertising activities, will be advertising manager of Buick. R. M. W.
Shaw, advertising manager of Olds,
continues in that capacity as does R.
H. White for Pontiac. L. K. Austin, formerly with Chevrolet, will serve in a production capacity for the advertising department.

The sales department executives
are as previously announced—Mr.
Grant as vice president in charge of sales; W. A. Blees, general sales manager, and R. K. White and George H.
Wallace, assistant general sales manager.

E. J. Peag, former advertising manager of Buick, becomes sales promotion manager for that product; W. C.
Herring, formerly general sales manager for General Motors of Canada, Ltd., becomes sales promotion manager for Olds; while W. R. Huber, continues as sales promotion manager for Pontiac. Staff members include A.
L. Jordan for Buick; B. E. Greene
for Olds; G. D. Burns for Pontiac and D. H. Odell, formerly with Frigidaire in Dayton, Ohio.

In the service department, A. H.
Bartsch, formerly with General Motors Sales Section, becomes parts and service manager. Staff members include C. W. Jacobs, T. O. Moss, A. R.
Boscow, H. P. Stewart, H. V. Sweet,
W. L. Barth and L. K. Marshall.

Dealer business management comes under the management of W. T. Whalen, formerly assistant general sales manager of Olds, with a staff consisting of A. C. Olson on Pontiac, George Stableford on Olds, and R. W.
Miller on Buick.

Manager of schedules and car distribution is W. I. Gibson, formerly with Chevrolet and Pontiac, assisted by O. V. Klemm.

R. F. Schreitmueller, formerly with the Sales Section of General Motors, becomes manager of the organization and analysis department, with a staff consisting of A. S. Wood, C. T.
Anderson, A. G. Fritz and J. L. Johnson.

In the general office, S. D. Hopkins, formerly with the sales section of General Motors, becomes office manager, with a staff made up of E. S.
Grumbach, and W. H. Louden.

All departments are now installed and operating in the centralized headquarters of the new sales company in the General Motors building, in Detroit.

Price Reductions On Chevrolet Announced
Cut Up To $45 Shown In Report Of President
And Manager

Detroit, Mich., April 7—Chevrolet
price reductions ranging up to forty-five dollars were announced here by W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

At the same time Mr. Knudsen stated that the Chevrolet Six would continue to be built exclusively by the company for an indefinite period,
and that at no time has there been thought of changing the present six cylinder car which has led the industry in sales during the past fifteen months and brought the company its highest percentage of total business
Chevrolet has ever enjoyed.

The price reductions affect fourteen passenger car models. Base price for the passenger car line is now $445 for the roadster, lowest priced model.

Mr. Knudsen pointed out that the announcement, which came on the eve of the opening of the National Exhibit of General Motors products, at 55 leading cities beginning April 2, served to arouse renewed interest in motor cars, and that the cumulative effect of developments now under way
in the industry should be a major factor in stimulating the automobile, which admittedly is the key to American business recovery.

The Chevrolet announcement was enthusiastically received in automotive circles in this city inasmuch as it places the company which led the industry in three of the past five years
in an outstanding sales position.

Reduced prices on individual models, all f. o. b. Flint, Mich., as announced by Mr. Knudsen, are as follows:

Roadster, $445; Sport Roadster,
$485; Phaeton, $495; 5-window coupe,
$490; 3-window Coupe, $490; Sport
Coupe, $535; De Luxe Coupe, $510;
Coach, $495; De Luxe Coach, $515;
Standard Sedan, $590; Special Sedan, $615; 5-Passenger Coupe, $575; Cab-riolet, $595 and Landau Phaeton, $625.

The reduction took effect April 1.
Mr. Knudsen said, and all dealers have been advised to make immediate delivery of all models at the new low reduced price scale.

Generous French Loans.
A Clown Balancing.
Annoying Taxes.
Read, and Shudder.

A Paris newspaper, under the heading "Politique et Finance," prints a list of loans made by France to foreign countries since the war ended. They total thirteen billion, two hundred and seventy-seven million francs, not including a loan to Czechoslovakia of six hundred million francs, made January 20 last, a three hundred million franc loan to Finland, or a loan made to Polish railroads of four hundred million francs.

The French editor's heading, "Politics and Finance," is well chosen. France has lent Rumania two billions and ninety million francs. Rumania, lying in the shadow of the Russian Bear, is important.

France has lent two thousand million francs to Poland, plus four hundred millions lent to Polish railways. Poland, adjoining Russia and enjoying property including the famous corridor taken from Germany, is important to France.

France has lent to neighbors near and far—seven hundred and seventy million francs to Turkey, twenty-three million francs to poor old China. This list of generous French loans to the various foreign governments helps you to understand why France feels unable to repay money borrowed from us since the war.

You know that this country has forgiven all sums lent to France during the war. We wiped that out and requested only repayment of debts that France has incurred since the war ended.

President Hoover made a public statement to that effect and was surprised that it was never published in any newspaper in France except a couple of unimportant Paris papers published in the English language.

Have you seen a Japanese balancing act in the circus? Japanese on their backs balance barrels, lamps and candlesticks and numerous balls, never dropping one. Perfect balance.

And you have seen the clown come out, throw various things into the air as though he were going to balance them and have them fall down on his head, a complete balancing failure?

That clown represents our distinguished Government and Congress trying to balance the budget. Every time it makes an effort the budget falls around its ears, refusing to be balanced.

Why must we balance the budget?

We didn't try to balance it during the war. We started the printing presses turning out Liberty bonds by the thousands of millions and we pumped ten thousand million American dollars into the pockets of European nations that they might continue their pleasant pastime of cutting each other's throats.

And now all of a sudden something has started us on a budget-balancing mania. Why?

Why can't a Government that so easily found billions for other nations find some money for itself? Why must it borrow from bankers that don't want to lend, paying them interest for the money, when all it gets is money that it prints itself, money that can be printed in quantities as great as necessity and wisdom may dictate.

Any kind of dollar that will be accepted for taxes and customs dues will be a good dollar. Unless we become absolutely foolish, there would be no difficulty about the budget, under ordinary conditions.

But when you have to supply billions of dollars every year to bootleggers, gangsters and other criminals, "balancing" is not so easy.

Congress with its spade is busy trying to "dig up" new sources of income. Taxes on automobiles, radios, gasoline, theatres, are all advocated. Every one of them would be a distinctly annoying tax, penalizing a certain class of citizens to avoid a general tax that, like conscription in war, is the only remedy when it becomes necessary.

Later when the "digging up" process proves a failure, it will be necessary to substitute an axe for the spade and begin chopping government expenses.

The first step in a Congress so generous in disposing of the income of others would be to reduce the pay of Congressmen by one-half. This would help them to "realize" conditions as nothing else could do. And such a reduction in congressional pay would be along the lines of sound business, which forbids paying for a thing more than twice what it is worth.

Milwaukee puzzles you. It is the best governed city in the United States, best in financial condition, with a police force that can't be bribed, and makes criminals so uncomfortable that they never come.

That is a tribute to the regime under which Milwaukee has kept solvent, accumulated money, discouraged crime and maintained honest government. How in the world do you explain that?

And now, for a good shudder.

Milwaukee proposes to establish a municipal bank, one that will pay regular banking interest, let you take out your money whenever you choose, and not blow up.

Perched on its side, besides the Benedictine monastery, is a chapel erected in honor of the Virgin of Monserrat, to which shrine thousands of Catalans make a pilgrimage every year.

Oil Variations

Coal oil is the same as petroleum, but the term is generally a synonym for kerosene, which is a hydrocarbon oil used in lamps. The term is usually restricted to the distillate of crude petroleum having a specific gravity of about .807, a flashing point of upward of 110 degrees Fahrenheit and a burning point of upward of 125 degrees Fahrenheit.

May Figure in $100,000,000 Fight

A half-hundred Pittsburgh claimants to a portion of the $100,000,000 estate of the spinster sisters, Ella and Rebecca Wendel, bequeathed to charity, believe the half-obliterated inscription on the headstone of the grave of Mrs. Mary Wendel Hickey in Henderson cemetery, near Pittsburgh, will play an important part in establishing their kinship to the New York sisters. Fred Wide, sixty-eight, a farmer near Cheswick, is pictured above pointing to the gravestone. His mother was a grandchild of Mrs. Hickey, who died in 1810. Mrs. Hickey was a great aunt to Ella and Rebecca Wendel, according to scores of Mrs. Hickey's descendants.

The Hunt Goes for a Sail

Yerckel Married His Cook

By FANNIE HURST

WHEN Yerckel married his housekeeper and cook, the usual hullabaloo took place.
Ought to be ashamed. Wonder Virgie doesn't turn in her grave.
Has he no shame? At least if she were young and good-looking, but a great big rangy dishwasher like Simmons!

Certainly Simmons was no beauty.
Forty, rawboned, with an angular face
and an angular body, she was a surprising successor to the first Mrs.
Yerckel, who had been a mildly pre-possessing matron, endowed with qualities which fitted her even over and above her husband, for the position of her wealth established.

Yerckel, a builder who had grown rich in a booming city, hesitated not at all over this second alliance. Within twenty months after the death of a first wife, whom he mourned, he turned gratefully to marriage with the woman who had come in to take charge of his household after the disintegration following the death of his helpmate had set in on the domestic affairs.

For ten years previous to this, Simmons had been housekeeper at one of the larger local hotels. She had efficiency, speed, handled her servants
well, was not above taking a hand at the cooking and immediately established herself as overlord in the servants' quarters where discipline had been thrown to the winds since the death of Mrs. Yerckel.

She was a sociable soul, garrulous,
fond of sitting a long hour over an afternoon cup of tea and after her arrival the evening meal among the servants came to be something almost as much of a ritual as the meal previously served in the long paneled dining room upstairs.

That was part of the success of Simmons with her staff. She made life below stairs attractive, granted long hours of respite from duty in return for exceptional service during working hours, and presided at the servants'
dining table as if she were mistress of a household. Good, homey, salty conversation flowed when Simmons
presided at her table of eight servants,
including a fine fellow of a chauffeur, named Shad. It was said among the domestics, that Yerckel himself, coming accidentally to the servants' pantry one evening, happened to overhear
one of these congenial occasions and thereupon fell in love with his housekeeper.

Whatever the case, within a six-
month following, they were married,
and at forty, with only the history of long years of domestic labor behind her, Adelaide Simmons found herself head of a twenty-room home, wife of one of the wealthiest men in the community and heiress to a social position that automatically descended upon her shoulders as the wife of her husband.

The expected happened. Everything pertaining to the new social life Simmons abhorred. The long solemn dinners in the paneled dining room,
which she had hitherto only viewed from the kitchen side of the door, became anathema to her. Functions were something to dread weeks before they took place, and for every snub
she received from "the set," wounds
bled in the secret places of her heart.

It must be said for Simmons that she succeeded in keeping practically all of this from her husband. She presided, coldly it is true, at his table,
but with sufficient dignity to carry off
the occasions. She had no small talk,
no artifices, no beauty, but somehow,
there was about this graceless woman,
a stability, a firm, earthy quality of the homely things of life, that made her rather magnificent.

Her care of Yerckel was superb. Her concern for his well-being, her occupation with creature and Godly things.
She was a religious woman; reverent towards the spirituality of the great figures of her Bible, and vigorous in her condemnations of those who, in her opinion, violated the ideals of right living.

The pompous, ambitious, worldly men, with pompous, ambitious, worldly wives, who came to dine at the
mated and in rigid, although secret disapproval of their aspirations and ideas.
What was there to discuss with these women who were self-conscious of their God; to whom the homely chores
of life were forbidden subjects, and who talked along the lines of frivolities and shallow pastimes that were not only alien, but almost unintelligible to Simmons.

Your never dared, with these women,
as in the sanctum of the dining room
where she had presided as housekeeper, discuss the goodly, Godly aspects of every day living. God. Cookery.
Toil. The women who came to dine at the table of Yerckel took pride in the facts that their interests had not to do with such. Country club, styles, bridge, motor cars, servant problems were topics that skidded lightly around.

Sometimes it seemed to Simmons, presiding there in a world which was remote and alien to her, that her heart was a pool for the tears she was inwardly shedding for the old days.
The old days of service, rather than
these fabled ones of being served.

Fortunately, to the hour of his death,
Yerckel, whose affection for her was deep and his admiration great, was to know little, if anything, of this.

So far as he was concerned, five years after their marriage he found himself on his deathbed with a sense of pain at being obliged to pass from mortal relationship with this woman who had served him so well and beautifully as wife.

It was after his death came the shock concerning his complicated state of mind where she was concerned. He bequeathed her his fortune, amounting to close onto a million, with but one proviso. In the event of her remarriage, within a period of five years, Simmons was to forfeit the fortune
meanwhile to be held in trust for her.
Apparently, it was an expression of the vagary of a mind that was snagged
with jealousy, the restriction of a man who had it in him to impose a drastic influence from his grave.

After all, where a million dollars
was concerned, it would not conceivably be hard for any woman to abide by such limitations.

But Simmons did nothing of the sort. Within two years, she became the wife of the one-time chauffeur of the Yerckel's household, over whose needs she had so often presided in those days when she ruled the destinies of the servants' dining room.

The community, the press of the entire country, made a great hullabaloo over this decision on the part of the Yerckel widow, and the chauffeur she was marrying was also held up as a paragon of a man, who, for the sake of a few years, would deliberately permit his bride-to-be to sacrifice a fortune of a million dollars.

Apparently, in the minds of Simmons and her husband Shad, there were never any doubts. They let the tempest in the teacup over their marriage die down; they removed to an other city; they set up their household in the gardener's cottage of a vast estate upon which he was the head chauffeur.

There are two adopted children now,
and Simmons, while not the active housekeeper, has charge of the marketing, linens and silver of the large establishment on the hill.

There is something vast, wise and quiet about life as it flows on in the gardener's cottage.

New Englanders Balked at Idea of "Servants"

One of the characteristics of New England speech which have almost disappeared is the suppression by the early inhabitants of the verb "to serve." When those old Argonauts of democracy, the people of the Mayflower and the Arbella, came to New England, they were tired of serving, "The Nomad" writes, in the Boston Transcript. To them, the word "servant"
was infinitely distasteful. Conscientiously they abolished it, except as it might sometimes be applied to the negroes that were imported spasmodically,
or to the Indians whom they wickedly—or revengefully—enslaved. (A considerable element, whose blood at last affected theirs along the lowest lines of contact.) If the circumstances of the Puritans sometimes appeared to necessitate helpers, that is what they called them: "help." Those who had been servants in England they called "hired men" or "hired girls."
The usage became universal, and it prevailed well into the Nineteenth century. Old people who still live knew not the words "serve" or "servant."
All workers for wages were "hired help." Not even the most elaborate meal was "served"—it was "dished."
"Mary" said the housewife to her hired help, "you may dish the dinner
now." And Mary was a member of the family. So was Hiram, the hired man. After the process of sending here "bound persons" from England and Ireland ceased, there was not a "servant" in New England.

This trick of nomenclature was really a great triumph of democratic principles. It proved that the idea of social equality went "all the way through the souls of the New England people."
It was only through the accumulation of wealth and the decay of real democracy, incident to a wide difference of daily habit, that the "servant" came back to us. Even then he—and she—had to be imported. But gradually, at least in certain spots, the capability of housework was redeveloped in the New England race. That institution did not flourish freely. There was a time when the nabobs of the North shore, or some of them at least, had Yankee funkeys. They are scarce
now. Not even now does the New England race take kindly to "service."

St. Fillan's Bells

The crude quadrangular bells of iron and bronze found in Scotland and invariably associated with the name of a saint, date back in some cases to the Seventh century. They may have been used as church bells or for exorcising evil spirits. They vary in size, some of them standing nearly a foot high. One of St. Fillan's bells lay on a tombstone in Stratfarrin kirk-yard for the cure of lunacy and other disorders until stolen by an English tourist in 1798. It was returned to Scotland and in 1899 was deposited in the Queen Street museum, Edinburgh.

Odd Bird Homes

Communities of social weavers of South Africa construct an umbrella-shaped roof in a tree, beneath which may be 200 bird homes. An acacia tree, with a straight, smooth stem,
that predaceous animals cannot climb,
is often selected. Bower birds are also characterized by a remarkable habit of constructing bowers or runs,
which have nothing to do with nesting, but are apparently built for sport
and esthetic satisfaction.

What to Do About It

PERSPIRING hands are often associated with nervousness and impaired health generally. See your physician to make sure you are in good health. If the condition is merely temporary and not the result of any organic difficulty the application of a skin tonic, witch hazel, or the following solution should help. Have your druggist make up an anti-perspiration lotion of one ounce tincture of bella-donna to two ounces of alcohol. Put on the hands a few times a day and allow to dry. The skin tonic or witch hazel should be used the same way.

A corn is nature's way of saying your shoes are too tight. Your toes are sensitive, you know, and your shoe is pressing down too hard on your toes. By and by nature puts the callus to protect the delicate tissues from further abuse. The first thing to do is to get a better fitting pair of shoes.
Then use a good corn cure. There are many on the market. A very difficult hand can remove the callous with a sharp instrument after the feet have remained in very hot water for about fifteen minutes.

But far better than either the corn cure, corn plaster or cutting is a visit to a reputable chiropodist.

It is very important to treat your skin while reducing, as it needs special care in order to avoid flabbiness or a drawn, haggard look. Quite some time ago I had a group of women experiment with a treatment which proved highly successful. First the skin was thoroughly cleansed. Then a nourishing cream applied—a rich, oily emollient—and without removing this cream a quite strong astringent patted over face and neck. The astring-ent penetrated and tightened while the emollient nourished and softened, thus avoiding any drying effect. Such a treatment will keep the skin smooth,
the muscles taut and the contour firm.
While on the subject of reducing, let me warn you not to reduce too fast lest it takes its toll from the skin—to say nothing of its detrimental effect
on general health.

Freckles cannot be removed "very quickly," for anything strong enough to remove them would very likely be injurious to the surrounding skin. Try the peroxide and lemon bleach (equal parts). Pat on, allow to dry, and follow by a massage with nourishing
cream, allowing the cream to remain for five or ten minutes. A stronger bleach can be made with pumice powder and peroxide stirred to a creamy paste. Apply over the freckles, allow to dry, remove with a cloth moistened with cool water and follow with the nourishing cream.

Three Sides to Your Face

THERE may be two sides to every other vital issue, but there are three sides to your face. No doubt you are familiar with the full-face reflection you usually see in your mirror.
But do you intimately know the right profile—and the left? If you do, then you know also that each differs rather radically from the other.

Precious few faces are perfectly balanced. And no matter, for slight asymmetry is said to indicate interest and versatility. But, pronounced lack of balance can be careful study, adjustment of make-up and coiffure be minimized.

An elaborate study of the "three sides of your face" will tell you why the triple mirror is so necessary and so valuable to every beauty-loving woman. The full-face view, which is the one we ourselves are most familiar with, is usually the kindest of the three. But others see the two other sides. So let us study ourselves and see ourselves as others see us and strive to make each of the three pictures a very perfect one.

Buying a new hat—and a new, thrilling experience each should be—should mean a very careful study in front of a triple mirror. Your own experience can teach you more than any beauti-cian, for every face is a law unto itself. You can suddenly discover that a little asymmetrical turn or twist on one side and a different treatment on the other will serve to enhance each profile view, without in the least detracting from the full-face picture.
That is precisely why the tri-cornered hats with the third corner placed here, there and everywhere were becoming to so many women. Don't choose a hat because it gives the wax mannequin an intriguing air. How does it fit your face? And how does it enhance every one of the three views?

That subtle art—the application of makeup—should also provide food for study, with the triple mirror as your constant helpmate. Vanity? Indeed not. Precision and perfection to an exacting degree is what you are striving for. Scrutinize your makeup from all three views. The profile usually tells the truth. And often rouge placed a wee bit differently on one cheek—
almost imperceptibly so, of course, a bit higher or lower or extending outward a little more—will give the face more balance and more beauty.

This applies, of course, to your coif-ure, too. And this is the reason for the introduction of so much swirling and undulation and the unbalanced
hair arrangements.

INTESTINAL AILMENTS BREAK DOWN PHYSICAL ENDURANCE

NEW COMBINATION
CORRECTS INTESTINAL
DISORDERS PROMPTLY

Draggy, headachy days; lost vigor;
lost vitality mean a condition of broken down physical endurance. If you are listless, nervous and too tired at night to join in simple healthy fun you may be one of the thousands of victims of intestinal ailments. Doctors declare that ninety per cent of all cases of loss
of energy come from that almost universal physical evil—constipation.

The human system must throw off
its accumulated waste matter every day.
Ordinary pills, powders, salts and cathartic waters often do more harm than good, but the new combination Alagar which is an emulsion of pure mineral oil, agar agar and phosphatide—
corrects intestinal disorders promptly and completely.

It works, not only on the colon, or lower bowel, alone, but it loosens stagnating material in the entire intestinal tract and "tones up" the intestinal muscles, thus helping them to remove waste matter regularly and completely every day. Alagar helps you sleep more soundly at night and those dull, draggy headaches become things of the past. For prompt relief from lost vigor and vitality be sure to get the new pleasant-tasting Alagar.

SYNOPSIS

Exhausted, ragged, and starving, a boy of about sixteen is found in the woods by a camping party. He has fled from his brutal father, Bat Morrison, and, in clean clothes, the boy, who gives his name as Shad (Sheridan), is sent on his way to Canton, with a letter to Colonel Blake. The colonel, his wife, and their young daughter Ruth, are impressed by the boy's manner. He secures a situation in the village of Amity Dam, and becomes friendly with a youth of his age, "Bony," and Bumpy Brown, tinker, considered by the straitlaced as a drunkard because of his periodic lapses from strict sobriety. Bat Morrison comes to Amity Dam, determined to take his son back to his own dissolute life. He is overawed by Colonel Blake, who is the district attorney, and his father passes out of Shad's life. With Bony, he pays a visit to Bumpy Brown.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

One day Mr. Smithers sent Shad down to Cyrus Doolittle's with a package of medicine which had come up on the stage for old Oscar Perry, the father-in-law of Cyrus. Here was the ill-fated house which Shad was never to forget. The old gentleman was sitting in a wheel-chair. He had the worried, sorrowful look of the strong man who has had his warning. He had been partly paralyzed by a stroke. His daughter, Mrs. Doolittle, opened the door for Shad. She was an erect handsome woman with a face somewhat careworn but still comely.

The house had a gloomy and depressing atmosphere. There was a solemn note in the ticking of the old family clock. After all, houses have a kind of character. Cyrus Doolittle and his son Moses, a boy of Shad's age, were cleaning a pair of colts tethered on the barn floor. His errand accomplished, Shad went out for a look at the colts. The boy turned from his work to speak to Shad. His father rebuked him, saying:

"Come, boy, I'm in a hurry to get away. Bring the harness."

Turning to the young clerk, he asked: "Young man, are you loafing today?"

"No, sir."

"Well, you don't seem to be very busy."

The tall, brown-bearded, gray-eyed man had spoken in his hustling manner without stopping his work.

Late in the afternoon of the memorable tenth of November Shad had gone down the road some two miles to collect a bill. Darkness overtook him on his way back. He was hungry and hurrying with a bicycle lantern in his hand, so as not to be too late for his supper. When about a quarter of a mile from the store he dimly saw a man approaching him at a rapid pace. He could hear his footsteps on the rough frozen road. Shad stopped. The man had turned suddenly, some sixty paces from where Shad was standing, got over the fence and hurried away in the darkness. As Shad came near the store he saw a crowd of people in the street. Men were shouting. Hysterical women were crying. Shad ran toward the crowd in front of the store. Bony was there.

"What's the matter?" Shad asked.

"What's the matter? Why, some man just bust into Cy Doolittle's house—not ten minutes ago—an' shot up the hull family, murdered 'em right an' left. The ol' man is killed. Miss Doolittle an' the teacher is over to Silas Meriwether's mos' dead an' bleedin' awful. It was like a battle in the war."

A singular paralysis of fear and distress had fallen upon the good people of that village. A few men had rushed out in the roads and fields in a vain quest for the criminal.

"Come on! I saw him," Shad said to Bony, and the two ran at top speed down the road toward the fence where Shad had seen the man climb over the fence and vanish in the darkness. It was near the Doty place. The man must have gone around the barns and then whither, it was impossible to say. The boys were in deadly fear of finding the criminal but saw nobody.

"We're darn' fools," said Bony as they were wearily walking back. "What would we have done with him an' what would he have done to us? They say ol' Bumpy Brown is the murderer."

"Lord, no!" Shad exclaimed. "It can't be."

"Less he's gone crazy. Two men have run down the river to see if he's to home."

So began the wildest night in the history of Amity Dam.

Divested of all the excitement and wild rumor of that night, this is the problem—one of the most remarkable in the criminal records of our country.

Mrs. Doolittle, her invalid father, her son Moses, a boy of twelve, and Henry Pierson, a handsome well-dressed young man of nineteen from Ashfield who was teaching in the school at Amity Dam, were sitting around the evening lamp, about seven o'clock, the work of the day being finished. Cyrus Doolittle had gone to Griggsby, some fifteen miles away.

Suddenly this family group heard a rap at the front door. The boy Moses ran and opened it. A man, masked in a peculiar way, stood before him. He wore a small, light-colored slouch hat, tan overalls and a coat of the same material. His face was covered with a red and white handkerchief. The man advanced into the room holding a revolver in his right hand. The boy fled before him through a door at the back of the house. The intruder walked with the limp of Bumpy Brown. Henry Pierson bravely took a step toward him. The first bullet was fired at the young man, breaking his left arm at the elbow. Shocked and frightened, the latter partly fell on a lounge, then ran out of the open door calling for help.

The masked man fired at Mrs. Doolittle, who had risen from her chair. The ball struck her breast above her heart and glanced, penetrating the flesh of her shoulder. She did not fall. She stood appalled. The man approached her. Then came a curious factor in the problem. He stood for a second, close to her, the revolver pointed at her face. He did not fire. This gave color to the theory that she was not the one that he had come to kill. He dealt her something between a blow and a vigorous push with his left hand. It appeared that he was trying to get her out of the scene.

She fell, quickly recovered her feet and ran through the open door from which her son and young Pierson had fled into the darkness beyond. As she fell old Oscar Perry, her invalid father, threw himself forward from his chair and seized the skirts of the intruder's coat and clung to them with his strong hands. The masked man clubbed him with his revolver but still he clung. Two shots with the muzzle of the weapon close to the invalid's neck loosened his hold. The old man slumped to the floor.

The murderer ran out into the darkness and away, firing a shot as he went. All this had been accomplished in less than a minute. Mrs. Doolittle, her son and the teacher had fled to a neighbor's house, and help had been sent to Oscar Perry.

News of the crime sped through the village like a wind-driven fire in dead grass. Within five minutes the wires were flashing it through the county. Doctors, the district attorney, the sheriff, the county judge were presently speeding toward the little village of Amity Dam.

The lights were burning most of the night in Ephraim Smithers' store. For a time it was filled with excited residents. Most of them agreed that Bumpy Brown was the guilty man. With these Shad and Bony openly took issue.

"He wouldn't have done it even if he was drunk," they said. "He's the most harmless critter in the world when he's drunk."

"What was he always knockin' the Doolittles for?" the doubters asked. The boys had to acknowledge that they did not know, that it was probably some crazy notion he had got in his head.

About nine o'clock a man entered the store with important news. Cy Doolittle had just got home with lathered horses. He had arrived at Ashfield and heard of the crime about eight-thirty and driven like mad to his house. He was over to Meriwether's where his wife lay dying. He had said that Bumpy Brown was the only man he knew who had a grudge against him. He had put Brown off his place one day and the old man had sworn that he would get even.

Moreover, the newcomer announced that the doctors had come and were then working over Mrs. Doolittle, young Pierson and the old man Perry, who was nearly dead. The sheriff, the district attorney and the county judge were at the Doolittle house looking over the ground.

Soon these ministers of justice came to the store. Colonel Blake gave Shad a hearty greeting. The colonel was calm and dignified. He said to the boy:

"My wife and I have done a lot of talking about you. We have enjoyed your letters."

Shad told of the man who approached him in the road and took to the fields when he saw the boy and his bicycle lantern.

"That is curious," said the colonel. "We may hear more about him. First, we'll have some crackers and cheese and ginger ale."

While the officials were eating, the two men who had gone down the river arrived with old Bumpy Brown. A silence fell as they entered. The tinker, who preceded the men, looked pale and serious. A voice from a huddled group near the door, clearly audible to all in the room, said:

"He's a d—n murderer!"

Colonel Blake turned quickly and said: "Look here, my friends, it is for me to say who is the murderer, not you. I request you all to go to your homes and beware of hasty judgments. In the excitement of this hour it is easy to be wrong."

He turned to Mr. Smithers and said: "If you will ask these good people to go home, and lock your door, I shall perhaps be able to arrive at some conclusion of my own."

The villagers slowly filed out of the store. The door was locked. Bumpy Brown, the two men who had found him, the officials, Mr. Smithers and Shad were now present. Colonel Blake turned to the tinker, asking:

"Is this Mr. Brown?"

"Yes, sir."

"I am the district attorney of this county, and here is Sheriff Colewell and this is Judge Swift. You know, I presume, that a crime was committed about seven o'clock this evening at the home of Cyrus Doolittle."

"These men has told me," Bumpy answered.

"You perhaps do not know that Mr. Doolittle and others suspect you of being the criminal."

"They didn't tell me what Cy Doolittle said, but they told me what other folks was sayin'." They said the murderer had a limp like mine. Well, mister, I can't help it if he did, I ain't hurt nobody. When I come in here every one had a knife in his eye fer ol' Bumpy Brown. I'm all 'lone in the world. I ain't got no friends, but I tell ye I ain't hurt nobody since I was a so'ger an' it was my business to hurt folks."

There was a touch of pathos in the voice of the man as he spoke these words.

Shad was tempted to say, "I am your friend," but he held his peace in the presence of these great men.

The district attorney directed Sheriff Colewell to search the man for weapons. This was done. Only a key and a jackknife were found in his clothing.

Colonel Blake took out his pencil and writing pad as he said: "Mr. Brown, I am going to ask you some questions and take down what you say in reply. First it is my duty to inform you that it is your privilege to refuse to answer any question I may ask. My advice is that you ought not to answer any question which would tend to prove your guilt. Where were you at seven o'clock this evening?"

"Out on the river fishin' fer bull pout."

"Was anyone with you?"

"No."

"Did anyone see you fishing?"

"Guess not. 'Twas mos' dark when I started."

"Did no boat pass you?"

"None."

"Did you get any fish?"

"No."

"What did you do today?"

"The old man told of going to Pierson to fix a leaky roof. He had returned to his shack about five; had lain down for a nap, and gone out to fish an hour or so later."

"Do you own a revolver?"

"No. I have never owned a revolver."

"What was your opinion of Cyrus Doolittle?"

"I have never liked him."

"Why?"

"Why does a man hate skunks?"

"Was there bad blood between you? Did you have any quarrel with him?"

"Oh, he shoved me off his place one day."

"Did you threaten him?"

"I wouldn't wonder. I dunno what I said. Nobody does when he's as mad as a hornet."

"Why did he shove you off his place?"

The Coat That Resembles a Dress

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

HERE you have it, dear followers of fashion, who are ever seeking the latest. It's just out—the coat which takes on a dual personality. It looks like a dress but in reality is a bona fide coat.

Who cares if appearances are deceitful, if a coat which looks like a dress can "make good" as a spring wrap which is just the very thing to wear over one's gay print silk frock or which does duty on week-end trips as an admirable traveling costume.

It's because they are unlined and have the dressmaker touch that they are of the coveted wearable type which looks well and appropriate where a coatlike coat would seem too heavy for a balmy spring day.

It's no secret on the part of the designer that the deliberate aim is to simulate a dress in every detail, so far as is possible, of these new and mysterious coats. Which is to say that the material in the first place must have a dressy look and be lightweight. This coat must be soft-pleated, unlined, button trimmed most likely, and it is almost sure to take on the new wrap-around "lines." For that matter the smart looking wrap-around dresses which are the rage at the present moment and the coat which is a coat but looks like a dress, are that much alike in appearance they might easily be taken for twins.

It is also part of the plan that these coats continue their camouflage in that they maintain flat dresslike necklines. Many of them are collarless while others adopt a scarf drape such as might grace any of the new springtime frocks.

The coats pictured (yes, they are really and truly coats and not coat-resses as one might surmise) choose the soft-draped necklines rather than to go collarless. If, however, you have your heart set on a collarless wrap, the beauty about the model shown to the right in the picture is that its flat fur capelet-scarf is detachable and it can be adjusted to suit the caprice of its wearer. The skirt of this dresslike coat buttons all the way up the side-front. The diagonal slant of its blouse top is also a style feature of note. The coat is made of thin woolen crepe and the capelet is black galyak.

As to the other coat pictured, its bracelet sleeve may be adjusted in length to tune to the occasion. Wide bands of black galyak enhance the sleeves, while the capelet which serves as a collar is of self-fabric. The metal slide and buttons on the belt answer to fashion's call.

The adjustable or bracelet sleeve as above mentioned is a very interesting innovation which has come into play this season. Many a frock is made to do double duty because of its sleeves which, having a rubber drawstring in its hemline, can be pushed up or down to a short puff top or elbow length or to the wrist, thus tuning it to more or less formal or informal wear.

Speaking of the coat which aspires to look like a dress, in some instances it neither is belted or buttoned but fastens with a soft-tied bow of self-fabric. Just now it is the coat made of lightweight woolen, preferably a crepe which is holding the center of the stage, but with milder days coming the prospect is that modes of this genre will be fashioned of handsome coating silks, preferably black navy or beige.

SPORTS COSTUMES REMAIN PRACTICAL

Once again the scarf ties up with the mode and becomes much more than a mere decorative accessory. Almost every sports costume has a scarf neckline, a very good note, since it gives the softness that tempers a rather more severe or tailored silhouette.

The practical note continues to be held for sports clothes, that is, for sports things that are to see active duty. Country clothes are a trifle more dressy, with more decorative details, yet managing, too, to look the part properly.

We think that the new things for sports and country wear will meet with your approval since they show that careless, casual look that really is the result of much calculated effort. Jersey is the favored material, used of course, in various fancy weaves.

But whatever the type of sports frock or suit, the scarf is omnipresent, lending its color and softness to the scheme.

Chic Afternoon Frock Leader in Popularity

The little afternoon frock is growing up. It is becoming sophisticated, veiling its simplicity in a most subtle manner. There's no doubt that the "little" frock has become an essential part of our wardrobe.

Many women all but live in the little frock of black satin or crepe de chine, as they find it fits into almost every scheme and confers a charming, youthful look on the wearer.

Overdone clothes are definitely on the way out, for we have realized that nothing adds years and heaviness to the figure as does the overtrimmed, elaborately made frock of rich material. And so the frock that used to be the Cinderella of the wardrobe has now become the most popular frock of all.

BUTTONS TO NECK

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Here is a very pleasing version of an intriguing material combining zephyr and dune yarns in a waffle-like construction that has depth and sheerness at the same time. The empire waist line, which incidentally is creeping higher and higher even in daytime clothes, is subtly treated here. The flannel cuffs which match the vestee are removable. The seaming of the gored skirt is a feature. The vestee buttons right up to the neck—because higher necklines are very fashionable. Of course, one or two buttons may be left unfastened if the high neckline is not flattering.
